The first step in the sales analysis involves the viewing of the subject sale in the context of all other sales transactions within the same property class. Still further comparison with nonusable sales within the same class is the next phase of analysis. Finally, comparisons are then made with usable and nonusable sales in other property classes. If further analysis is warranted, the same procedure is used for sales transactions in prior years but should not extend beyond the last revaluation. This practice is followed equally in all cases of nonrepresentative sales, whether the assessment-to-sales ratios are either very high or very low. Sales from five years ago carry less import than sales occurring in current years. Similarly, usable sales have greater weight than nonusable sales.

The exclusion of transactions with grossly distorted ratios from the Sales Ratio Study as not representative of the Assessment Practice is based upon a comparison of the range of sales in the municipality with the sale considered in this capacity. If there are sales with assessment-to-sales ratios near or above or below the sale being considered for exclusion, the ratio will be considered as a reasonable reflection of the assessment practices in the taxing district. Where there are few or no sales in the property class being reviewed, an analysis of all classes of property for multiple tax years will become necessary. A limited review of

nonusable sales can provide additional insight into whether a particular sales ratio is grossly distorted as compared to the norm within the taxing district. Of course, not all nonusable sales are helpful. Nonusable categories 6, 7, 10, and 26 are most likely to provide useful data. Whenever there are multiple transactions in the current year as well as the prior years, a review of the high/low ranges will identify a pattern of ratios. If the subject sale is in the range, whether it is at the low end or high end for the purposes of determination under this category, it is a usable sale. If all other sales cluster around the common level in the municipality, but one transaction has a grossly distorted assessment-to-sales ratio, and sales from prior years have reflected only clustered sales, the Division has made a credible case for excluding that sale from the Table as not reflective of the assessing practices of the taxing district. □

Criminal Enforcement

Criminal Enforcement over the past several months included:

- On January 6, 2000, Governor Whitman signed the Grey Market Legislation into law. This law forbids the stamping, possession, sale and transportation of "export" cigarettes brought into the United States after January 1, 2000. As a result of enforcement actions and the impact of this legislation, Stogies Distributors, Inc. of Ridgefield, New Jersey has surrendered its distributor license and returned all unused stamps for a refund. Stogies had plead guilty in Ridgefield Municipal Court for violations related to shipping New Jersey tax indicia to an out-of-State location to stamp Grey Market cigarettes. This action is the final chapter in the Office of Criminal Investigation's efforts to control the Grey Market cigarette activity by Stogies.

- Sixty-five (65) complaints alleging tax evasion were evaluated from January to March 2000.
- From January to March 2000, 52 charges were filed in municipal court on 16 cases for violating the cigarette tax law including possession of 133.3 cartons of contraband cigarettes, valued at $4,700 and resulting in 12 arrests. Also during this period, 9 cases were heard in various courts throughout the State resulting in a 100% conviction rate and in the award of 3,623.1 cartons of cigarettes valued at $129,000 to the State of New Jersey. □

Tax Briefs

Corporation Business Tax

IRC 1031 — N.J.A.C. 18:7-5.4(a)1 provides that “No adjustment to Federal taxable income is permitted under this rule for: [g]ains or losses not recognized for Federal income tax purposes under Section 351 or similar sections of the Internal Revenue Code...” Line 28 of the CBT-100, Schedule A, is prima facie equal to Line 28 of Federal Form 1120. In general, the State of New Jersey will follow the Federal principle of deferral contained in IRC 1031. However, it should be noted that the Director does have authority to modify a taxpayer’s accounting method in a particular case to determine the year or period in which any item of income or deduction shall be included. N.J.S.A. 54:10A-4(k)(3).

Corporation Business Tax/

Gross Income Tax

Nonrecognition of Conversion of Common Trust Fund; CBT, TGI; IRC 584(h) — The Division responded to an inquiry about the New Jersey tax treatment of common trust fund conversions under the New Jersey Gross Income Tax Act and the New Jersey Corporation Business Tax Act in the following circumstances:

Taxpayer is a bank that manages trust assets through fiduciary account assets. For business reasons, taxpayer intends to convert its common trust fund assets (as defined in Internal Revenue Code Section 584(a)) into new or currently existing regulated investment companies (mutual funds) as defined in Internal Revenue Code Section 851(a). Each transaction, which will be structured to qualify as a tax-free conversion for Federal income tax purposes under section 584(h), will encompass the following steps:

- 1. Transfer of substantially all common trust fund assets into one or more regulated investment companies solely in exchange for shares of the regulated investment company(s);*
- 2. Distribution of regulated investment company shares to common trust fund participants solely in exchange for their interests in such common trust fund.*

The inquirer was advised that for calculating entire net income for

New Jersey corporation business tax purposes, subsection N.J.S.A. 54:10A-4(k) provides that “entire net income shall be deemed prima facie to be equal in amount to the taxable income, before net operating loss deduction and special deductions, which the taxpayer is required to report to the United States Treasury Department for the purpose of computing its federal income tax.” N.J.A.C. 18:7-5.2. Thus, if taxpayer has no Federal income as the result of this conversion, it would also have no income for State purposes attributable to the conversion. Schedule A, Line 28 of the New Jersey CBT-100 should, in general, conform to Line 28 of the Federal 1120.

Similarly, for New Jersey gross income tax purposes N.J.S.A. 54A:5-1c provides that “the term ‘net gains or income’ shall not include gains or income from transactions to the extent to which nonrecognition is allowed for federal income tax purposes.” Thus, where no gain or loss is recognized for Federal purposes with respect to such transactions, no gain or loss would be recognized for New Jersey gross income tax purposes relative to the transactions.

Accordingly, in conclusion, where a conversion of a common trust fund follows the nonrecognition provisions of IRC 584(h) for Federal purposes, no gain or loss shall be recognized by such common trust fund by reason of such transfer or distribution, and no gain or loss shall be recognized by any participant in such common trust fund by reason of such exchange under either the New Jersey Corporation Business Tax Act or the New Jersey Gross Income Tax Act.

Gross Income Tax

Withholding — Under the New Jersey Gross Income Tax Act, the taxpayer may request the payor of pension and annuity income to withhold State income tax from disability or retirement benefits. N.J.S.A. 54A:7-1.1. This provision applies to all payers of pensions and annuities, both private and public, and to all payments, including lump-sum distributions.

The recipient of a pension or annuity must make a request in writing to the payor for the amount to be withheld on Form NJ-W-4P, Certificate of Voluntary Withholding of New Jersey Gross Income Tax from Pension and Annuity Payments. Form NJ-W-4P is contained in the employers' instruction booklet, Form NJ-WT.

The amount of State income tax withheld from pension or annuity payments must be a minimum of $10.00 per payment period or an even dollar amount greater than the minimum as specified by the recipient of the pension or annuity. The amount withheld may be changed or terminated upon request by the recipient. The withheld amount must be reported on and remitted with Forms NJ-500, NJ-927 or NJ-927-W. The total annual amount of tax withheld from pension and annuity payments (as reported on Form 1099-R) should be included on Form NJ-W-3, Reconciliation of New Jersey Gross Income Tax Withheld. Copies of all pertinent 1099-R forms must be included with the reconciliation package.

NJ Form 1099 Reporting Questions

— N.J.S.A. 54A:8-6 states that all persons paying interest, dividends, rents, salaries, wages, premiums, annuities, compensation, remuneration, etc. must file a copy of the Federal information return Form 1099 with New Jersey. The New Jersey requirements for filing Form 1099 information returns are stated pursuant to N.J.A.C. 18:35-8.1(c). This regulation requires that copies of all Forms 1099 submitted to the Internal Revenue Service for the full calendar year must be provided to New Jersey for amounts credited to recipients of $1,000 or more. These information returns, in the order of preference, may be filed by submitting a copy of the magnetic tape provided to the IRS edited to delete any recipients earning less than $1,000, a copy of the magnetic tape provided to the IRS without deleting recipients earning less than $1,000, all copies of Forms 1099 of recipients earning $1,000 or more as either additional carbons or photocopies, or copies of all Forms 1099 submitted to the IRS.

For New Jersey purposes, employers and other withholders of New Jersey income tax must also file a Gross Income Tax Reconciliation of Tax Withheld, Form NJ-W-3. However, payers of pensions and annuities should only enclose copies of Form 1099-R with Form NJ-W-3 if New Jersey income tax was withheld from such payments.

Taxpayers, as clarified in the New Jersey State Tax News, Winter 1998 issue, only need to furnish 1099s along with their NJ-1040 return if New Jersey gross income tax withholdings are reported to ensure proper credit of those withholdings. Other 1099s should be retained with the copy of their return and provided to the Division if and when questions arise about the information reported on the return. It should be noted, however, that when backup material is furnished with the NJ-1040 return, especially when Federal and State income amounts differ, a review of information supplied with the return is often enough to explain the variance without requiring an audit of the return. Thus, it is also recommended that taxpayers submit copies of all Forms 1099 submitted to the IRS.

Sales & Use Tax

Barter Transactions — The Division responded to an inquiry regarding the sales and use tax treatment of barter transactions conducted by members of a barter club or association.

The facts indicated that the club management acts as a broker for member businesses by matching up members who have goods or services to barter. It charges a 10% fee to the party that it deems to be the "buyer." This fee is for the club's administrative service and is not subject to sales or use tax. The goods and services bought and sold in the barter transactions include both nontaxable items, e.g., airline tickets, professional dental services, carpet cleaning services, and taxable items, e.g., flowers, copy machines, automobile repair services, restaurant meals.

A transaction in which one party provides its goods or services in exchange for the goods or services that it wants to receive clearly constitutes a “purchase” and a “sale” within the meaning of the Sales and Use Tax Act. These terms are defined in the act as:

Any transfer of title or possession or both, exchange or barter, rental, lease or license to use or consume, conditional or otherwise, in any manner or by any means whatsoever for a consideration, or any agreement therefor, including the rendering of any service, taxable under this act, for a consideration or any agreement therefor. N.J.S.A. 54:32B-2(f).

“Sale” or “purchase” as defined in this provision explicitly includes “barter,” and the goods or services given in exchange for the goods or services received constitute the requisite “consideration.” The two parties to a barter transaction function as both “buyer” and “seller”; the goods and services exchanged serve, in turn, as both the items sold and the consideration paid.

When the “seller” of taxable goods or services sold in a barter transaction is a New Jersey vendor (i.e. a vendor who has sales tax nexus with New Jersey, or a vendor without nexus who has voluntarily chosen to register as a vendor in this State), then the seller should collect and remit sales tax calculated on the normal retail value of the item sold, assuming that the purchaser cannot claim a valid statutory exemption (e.g., resale, exempt organization, production equipment, farm production use). The normal retail value is the price, in dollars, at which merchandise or services of the same kind are offered for sale by him to retail customers paying by traditional means (money). For example, a lighting store and a plumber may enter into a barter transaction in which the store provides the plumber with a lighting fixture in exchange for the plumber’s repair services. The plumber, who normally charges $50 per hour for this work, provides an hour and a half of labor in exchange for the lighting fixture, which is retail priced at $75. Both the plumber and the lighting store will owe $4.50 tax on their respective purchases. The plumber must report the $75 sale of services in his gross receipts on the ST-50 and remit $4.50 on the sale; the lighting store must report the sale of the $75 fixture in its gross receipts on the ST-50 and remit the $4.50 collected from its customer (the plumber). The same lighting store may decide to barter with a barber. In exchange for a lamp sold for a retail price of $30, the three co-owners of the lighting store are given haircuts, which the barber normally gives for $10 each. The barber should be charged $1.80 tax for the lamp. However, the lighting store will not be liable for sales or use tax, because the haircuts are a nontaxable service.

If the seller is an out-of-State vendor, not registered in New Jersey, who delivers taxable merchandise to a New Jersey customer in a barter transaction, then the New Jersey customer will be liable for compensating use tax. The New Jersey customer will owe the tax on the value of the consideration that it paid. This consideration will consist of the goods or services that it gave to the seller, in lieu of money. For example, an accountant in New Jersey may want a Pennsylvania carpenter to make him a bookcase. The accountant prepares the carpenter’s income tax return, while the carpenter delivers a bookcase to the accountant, as payment for the accounting services. The accountant would normally charge $300 for the tax return. He is deemed to have paid $300 for the bookcase, and will therefore owe $18 use tax on this piece of furniture, payable with his ST-18B after the close of the year.

New Version of ST-5 Certificate

— When a nonprofit organization applies and qualifies for exemption from New Jersey Sales and Use Tax, the qualified exempt organization is sent an ST-5 Exempt Organization Certificate that has the organization’s name, address and exempt organization number preprinted on it. In early March, the Division of Taxation instituted an ST-5 certificate that is a one-sided form with the instructions printed on the bottom half of the front of the certificate. (The back is blank.)

The new ST-5 Exempt Organization Certificate also has wording in a box at the bottom that states:

“ST-5A PERMIT – This Exempt Organization Certificate (ST-5) also serves as an Exempt Organization Permit (ST-5A) for the organization to which the certificate is issued.” That language was added to the certificate because the Division has stopped issuing the ST-5A permit to exempt organizations. Organizations approved for exempt organization status will now receive only the ST-5 Exempt Organization Certificate as proof of exemption, instead of both a certificate and a permit.

These ST-5 changes were necessitated because of a project to enable computer printing of the ST-5 certificate, which will allow the Division to send organizations their certificates much more quickly than previously.

The former two-sided version of the ST-5 is still valid for those organizations that were issued an ST-5 certificate by the Division of Taxation prior to April 2000. Exempt organizations having a valid prior version of the ST-5 do not need to obtain a new one as long as the ST-5 has the signature of a Director of the Division of Taxation.

Pretzel Sales — A taxpayer recently inquired concerning the taxability of freshly baked pretzels sold “hot” for either on or off-premises consumption.

N.J.S.A. 54:32B-3(c) of the Sales and Use Tax Act states that sales of food in an unheated state of a type commonly sold in the same form and condition in food stores, other than those principally engaged in selling prepared foods, are granted the sales tax exemption in this State.

This exemption is limited to food sold in an unheated state and it is the vendor’s method of merchandising that determines whether food and drink is sold either in a heated or unheated state. Food that is served to the customer or maintained at a temperature which is warmer than the surrounding air temperature by using heat lamps, warming trays, ovens or similar devices, or is cooked to order, is deemed heated and sales are taxable for both on and off-premises consumption. See N.J.A.C. 18:24-12.1 et seq.

Sales of Lip Coatings — Chap Stick and similar lip coatings, with or without coloring, are deemed to be “cosmetics,” and are therefore taxable tangible personal property under N.J.S.A. 54:32B-3(a). These products are commonly used by healthy persons who have no ailments affecting their lips. It is our understanding that they are used to maintain the softness of healthy lips, similar to the way hand and face lotions are used to soften and protect the skin.

However, lip care preparations containing a significant quantity of medication, which are generally used primarily to heal or relieve the symptoms of infections, burns, cuts, or other pathological conditions of the lips, are treated as “drugs.” N.J.S.A. 54:32B-8.1 provides an exemption from sales tax for prescription drugs for human use and for over-the-counter drugs and medicines “recommended and generally sold for the relief of pain, ailments, distresses or disorders of the human body.” Therefore, lip preparations that are generally sold for medicinal use are exempt from sales tax.

Travel Agency Purchases — Travel agency sales fall into the tax-exempt professional or personal service category insofar as their travel services are concerned. N.J.S.A. 54:32B-2(e)(4)(A). Thus, the amount charged by a travel agent for a trip or vacation is neither subject to sales nor luxury tax in New Jersey, whether or not the customer is separately charged for all the various items that comprise the invoice such as hotels, meals, transportation, amusements, etc.

However, each vendor of taxable services or property in this State who sells such services or property to the travel agent is required to impose and collect sales tax and/or luxury tax on the receipts from that sale. In effect, the travel agent is considered the retail purchaser of such services or property. Metpath, Inc. v. Taxation Division Director, 4 N.J. Tax 277 (1982). Thus, a travel agent is not considered a reseller in New Jersey and a New Jersey vendor must collect and remit sales and/or luxury tax on the sale of hotel rooms, meals, and other taxable goods and services to a travel agent.

Debris Removal Incidental to Towing — The State of New Jersey requires that “any towing service under contract to a public or private entity to tow disabled motor vehicles which, after being called upon to remove a disabled motor vehicle, fails to remove from public roads or highways debris or material in the area surrounding that vehicle shall be subject to a fine if the debris or material is likely to cause injury to a person operating a motor vehicle.” N.J.S.A. 39:4-56.8.

The invoices that many tow companies issue are itemized for every charge related to a particular tow job. Insurance companies and most municipalities that incur towing charges require the invoices for towing and recovery services to be fully itemized. This means that a tow company must separately list charges for towing and recovery services from storage fees, sales tax, tolls, administrative charges, and the cleanup of debris at the accident scene.

Separately stated towing charges are exempt from sales tax. N.J.A.C. 18:24-7.12(f). Since the debris removal is an expense incurred directly in connection with the towing service, it can properly be treated as part of the towing receipt, which is exempt from tax. □

In Our Courts

Administration

Refund Claims – Amplicon, Inc. v. Director, Division of Taxation, decided September 18, 1998; Tax Court No. 000413-98; Motion for Reconsideration denied March 11, 1999, No. M3031-98, aff’d; Appellate Division, No. A-1295-98T5 (March 10, 2000).

The Appellate Division affirmed the Tax Court’s ruling that the statutory provision permitting the filing of a refund claim within four years of payment does not apply to the situation where the payment was made pursuant to an assessment and the taxpayer either had an administrative hearing or failed to timely file for a hearing or appeal. (See N.J.S.A. 54:32B-20(b)). The Tax Court noted that audits would never close if extended statute of limitations were permitted as there could be repeated and endless attempts to seek refunds.

Subject Matter Jurisdiction – Frank Scallo v. Director, Division of Taxation, decided July 10, 1998, clarified August 26, 1998; Tax Court No. 000387-1998; aff’d; Appellate Division, No. A-7216-97T1 (March 20, 2000).

On June 28, 1996, the Division sent plaintiff a Notice of Finding of Responsible Person Status which granted the right to an administrative hearing if the plaintiff applied for a hearing within 90 days of the notice. On January 16, 1997, the Division filed a certificate of debt against plaintiff. On April 23, 1997, plaintiff requested an administrative hearing challenging his status as a responsible person. Plaintiff’s request was denied due to its untimeliness. Thereafter, plaintiff filed a complaint with the Tax Court.

The Tax Court dismissed the complaint for failure to state a claim upon which it could grant relief as plaintiff did not file a timely appeal to Tax Court. Essentially, plaintiff’s request for an administrative hearing was untimely as the April 23, 1997, request for a hearing was more than 90 days after the Division’s June 28, 1996, mailing of the Notice of Responsible Person Status. Therefore, the Tax Court complaint was also untimely. The Appellate Division affirmed and noted the following:

1. Taxpayers must comply with all statutory requirements to appeal a tax assessment, including time limits for appealing to the Division of Taxation or the Tax Court;
2. If the time limit for an appeal is not met, there is “no inequity in ignoring the substantive claims” of a taxpayer and the complaint must be dismissed;
3. Certificate of Debt instruments are not judgments subject to review;
4. Taxpayers have a duty to know the law because the governing tax statutes “lay out the rights and duties of taxpayers” and their rights and duties can easily be discovered;
5. The 90-day appeal period is a reasonable time to “attack the validity of any assessments” and “it is the responsibility of taxpayers to determine whether the tax assessment is correct” or incorrect, within that time; and
6. The Division of Taxation is encouraged to file dispositive Motions to Dismiss in lieu of answers, where appropriate, which preserves judicial resources and economy.

Gross Income Tax

Statute of Limitations and Death Benefits – Joyce H. Eiszner v. Director, Division of Taxation, decided January 21, 2000; Tax Court No. 005058-98.

Plaintiff relocated her residence to Illinois in July 1991, approximately ten months after the death of her husband. At the time of his death, the husband was a New Jersey resident who was employed in New Jersey by CPC International, Inc. ("CPC"). CPC provided performance plans consisting of stock and stock options that are contingently granted to current employees. However, if an ex-employee died, retired, became disabled, or left by reason of voluntary separation, the board of directors had discretion as to whether a payment would be made. Immediately after plaintiff's husband's death, the board of directors authorized payment to her husband's estate. The payment was distributed in 1992 and transferred to the husband's revocable trust, a New Jersey Resident Trust. The trust distributed these monies to plaintiff.

Both the husband's estate and trust each filed a 1992 Gross Income Tax Fiduciary Return in 1993. The estate return included the CPC amount received under the performance plan and described it as shares and performance award. The return for the estate identified that the total amount was distributed to the beneficiary trust and listed plaintiff's address, social security number, and her status as a New Jersey nonresident. The trust return reported the entire income from the estate and noted the distribution of that amount to the plaintiff as beneficiary.

The plaintiff filed a 1992 New Jersey Gross Income Tax Nonresident Return on August 10, 1993 seeking a refund of first quarter estimated tax payments inadvertently paid to New Jersey. Attached to the New Jersey return was her 1992 Illinois Individual Tax Return with the "Supplement to Illinois" 1992 Federal Form 1040 U.S. Individual Income Tax Return. Although the New Jersey return reported the net amount of CPC's payment to her husband under "Amount of Gross Income Everywhere," it did not explain the nature and source of the income, it reported no income from New Jersey sources as well as no New Jersey tax due, and the New Jersey Estate and Trust Fiduciary Returns were not attached.

Approximately four years after plaintiff's filing of her 1992 New Jersey nonresident return, the Director sent a Notice of Deficiency for the amount of tax owing on the CPC performance plan payment from which plaintiff timely protested. Thereafter, plaintiff timely appealed the Director's Final Determination upholding the tax assessment on grounds that the Final Determination was issued beyond the three-year statute of limitations and, alternatively, that the CPC payment constituted a death benefit which is excluded from New Jersey gross income.

The Director conceded that the assessment was made beyond the three-year statute of limitations, however, it claimed that the assessment was subject to the six-year statute of limitations under N.J.S.A. 54A:9-4(d). This statute essentially provides that tax assessments may be made within six years after the return was filed where an individual omits more than 25% of the amount of New Jersey income stated in the return without disclosing the nature and amount of the income either "in the return, or in a statement attached to the return, in a manner adequate to apprise the Director of the nature and amount of such item." As there was no doubt that more than 25% of

New Jersey income was omitted, the Court focused on whether the statutory disclosure requirement as stated on the return was met.

There was no previous authority interpreting N.J.S.A. 54A:9-4(d). Therefore, plaintiff urged the Court to interpret the disclosure requirement in accordance with rulings concerning the virtually identical section 6501 of the Internal Revenue Code ("Code"). Although the Code and New Jersey statute both require adequate disclosure of both the nature and amount, the Court found that the cited Federal cases focused on the amount component because the state source of the income, the nature component, is irrelevant in the Federal taxing model. Therefore, the Court adopted a common sense approach to determine whether the return's disclosure provided a 'clue' as to the nature of the income omission.

The Court held that the Director's assessment was not time-barred by the three-year statute of limitations because plaintiff's nonresident New Jersey and the attached Illinois and Federal returns disclosure of the source or nature of the income was inadequate to apprise the Director that the income was New Jersey sourced. The Court noted that the required Schedule E was not submitted to the Division along with the Federal return and that the Schedule E would have identified the source of the funds. Furthermore, the Court ruled that the Director has no duty to cross reference different returns filed by different entities not attached to plaintiff's individual return.

Turning to the issue of whether the plan payment constituted an employee death benefit paid by or on behalf of CPC by reason of the plaintiff's husband's death, which is excludable from gross income under N.J.S.A. 54A:6-4b, the Court held that it was not a death benefit because death did not trigger the payment. The Court found that the CPC plan made payments as a result of participation in the plan and not necessarily because of death as other employment-terminating factors, disability, retirement, and voluntary separation, also might result in a plan payment. Therefore, the Court ruled that the plan payment constituted deferred compensation under an incentive compensation plan that is includable in plaintiff's gross income.

Employee Status – Charles & Kathleen Santilli v. Director, Division of Taxation, decided July 26, 1999; Tax Court No. 5532-98.

The Division determined that plaintiff was an employee based upon the following facts. Plaintiff received two 1994 W-2 statements from Prudential Insurance Company. Both showed Federal wages and FIT withholding, social security wages and withholding, medicare wages and withholding, excess group life insurance costs, employee's 401(k) retirement plan, pension plan, and deferred compensation. The other also showed withholding for NJ HCF and NJ WDF. However, neither W-2 checked the box for statutory employee. On plaintiff's 1994 income tax returns, plaintiff deducted $100 for a Keogh retirement plan and self-employment (SEP) deduction and nothing under the half of self-employment tax, line 25, of the return. Furthermore, plaintiff did not report anything on the self-employment schedule under self-employment tax on the 1994 Federal return except for an entry of zero on line 12 where a handwritten note states refer to the W-2.

Plaintiff claimed that the W-2 was issued because plaintiff was a full-time insurance salesman who was subject to FICA and an employee as defined by Internal Revenue Code section 312(d), but otherwise not considered an employee and was labeled self-employed pursuant to Revenue Ruling 90-93.

The Court ruled that although a W-2 customarily indicates an employer/employee relationship where taxes are withheld, it is not definitive. In making its determination, the Court applied the fourteen-factor test of N.J.A.C. 18:35-7.1(b) and compared the case of Pope v. Director, Division of Taxation, 4 N.J. Tax 268 (Tax Ct. 1982). After weighing all the relevant factors, the Court held that during the 1994 tax year plaintiff was not an employee of Prudential. The Court based its decision upon its finding that (1) the contract classified plaintiff as an independent contractor, (2) plaintiff sold insurance for approximately 26 other companies, (3) Prudential did not restrict plaintiff's geographical territory or control who he could hire, (4) plaintiff did not report to a Prudential employee, (5) there was no advertising that indicated plaintiff was a Prudential agent, (6) plaintiff incurred all expenses for his office, supplies, advertising, and entertainment expenses related to selling insurance, (7) Prudential paid plaintiff only a commission for new policies and renewals, (8) Prudential did not cover plaintiff under workmen's compensation insurance, and (9) although Prudential provided plaintiff with benefits, family medical, prescription, and dental, a pension, covered him under a disability plan and a 401(k) where Prudential matched his contribution, that these benefits were an entitlement based upon the amount of sales an agent produced for Prudential.

Local Property Tax

Assessment Affirmed – Hillcrest Health Service System, Inc. v. Hackensack City, N.J. Tax Court, November 20, 1998, 18 N.J. Tax 38 (1998).

Hillcrest Health Service System, Inc. is the Title 15A nonprofit parent corporation of a nonprofit subsidiary which operates Hackensack Medical Center, a property tax exempt hospital under N.J.S.A. 54:4-3.6. At issue before the New Jersey Tax Court was the taxable/ exempt status for 1992-1993 of an aggregated lot and four-story, 60,000 sq. ft. building being constructed on it, owned by Hillcrest but leased to the Medical Center. For tax year 1992 the assessor calculated a partial assessed value of $2,442,700 and upon completion of the structure applied a six month prorated added assessment of $1,310,400; for 1993 (a revaluation year) the assessed value imposed was $4,557,100.

With respect to the 1992 partial assessment, Hillcrest contended that because the aggregated lot had, as separate lots, been used as parking space for the Medical Center, those lots and by extension the remaining land and incomplete structures should be property tax exempt based on their use for hospital purposes. As concerned the 1992 added assessment, Hillcrest maintained that hospital use existed as of completion of the improvements thereby voiding the added assessment. Finally regarding the 1993 regular assessment, Hillcrest asserted that the completed improvements were in actual use for hospital purposes on the assessment date and therefore qualified for tax exemption.

The City's main argument against exemption was that Hillcrest, the property owner, as distinguished from the Medical Center, the property user, was not organized exclusively for hospital purposes but rather a wide-ranging variety of health care activities and that certain activities, such as home care services, were distinct from hospital operations.

Per Hillcrest's Certificate of Incorporation, Hillcrest was "...at all times exclusively operated for the benefit of, to perform the functions of, or to carry out the purpose of, Hackensack Medical Center, Hackensack Health and Hospital Foundation, and other affiliated or related organizations, all of which are publicly supported health care organizations organized for the purpose of establishing, maintaining, sponsoring and promoting activities relating to the improvement of continuous human health and well-being...." Besides the Medical Center, Hillcrest's subsidiaries included Hackensack Medical Center Foundation, Inc., fundraising coordinator; Essex Parking Co., hospital parking garage operator; Bergen Home Health Services, personal in-home care provider; Bergen Health Management System, Inc., day-care center operator for hospital employees' children; Hillcrest Properties, Inc., real estate holding company; and Bergen Health Systems, hospital energy consumption efficiency analyst.

Except for that portion of the building utilized as an open-to-the-public fitness center, Hackensack City did not dispute that the building was used for hospital purposes once occupied, nor did it dispute that use on the completion date was a determinant of a valid added assessment. However, in addition to exclusive organization, the City argued that the previous exempt hospital parking use was independent from the later use and did not continue during the construction period.

Paraphrasing the Tax Court's reasoning, when the previously separate parking lots ceased to support the main medical facility its exempt use was interrupted. Even if the new building were exempt, it was a different building on a different site from which parking was formerly provided and as land can be nontaxable only in connection with an exempt building, the lot in question could be exempt only upon completion of the new building. Since a continuing exempt use for the former parking area could not be established, an exempt claim by extension for other property being constructed failed. Further, even where the character of a building in progress and its adaptation to exempt use are evident, it is only actual use which permits exemption. (Holy Cross Precious Zion Glorious Church of God v. Trenton City, 2 N.J. Tax 352 (1981)). The Court decided as well that the fitness center, available to the general public for a fee, was used more than incidentally for other than hospital purposes and was not eligible for exemption.

Also contested was qualifying ownership. The building of the new facility was financed by Hillcrest and leased to the Medical Center to save the hospital from incurring debt so that ownership and use were clearly divided between the parent corporation and its subsidiary.

Guided by Claremont Health Systems, Inc. v. Point Pleasant Bor., 16 N.J. Tax 604 (1997), this Tax Court held "Where the user of the property has only a leasehold interest, a hospital purposes exemption is unavailable." And the Tax Court in Mega Care, Inc. v. Union Twp., 15 N.J. Tax 566 (1996) concluded that the requirement the property owner be organized for hospital purposes and the requirement the exemption claimant be the property owner could not be satisfied unless the affiliate owning the property was restricted by its own incorporation certificate to activities supporting and integrated with those of the hospital. In this case, Hillcrest's operations were not, by its own certificate of incorporation, restricted to support Hackensack Medical Center. Therefore, property owned by Hillcrest was not exempt although it was used by the hospital. Both the 1992 partial and added assessment and the 1993 full year assessment were affirmed.

Sales and Use Tax

Adequacy of Books and Records

– Seventeen Thirty Corp. v. Director, Division of Taxation, decided October 4, 1999; Tax Court No. 3648-97.

In a prior hearing, April 16, 1999, the Court held that the three-dollar minimum purchase requirement to enter plaintiff's video booth area constituted an admission charge subject to sales tax. This opinion concerns the total amount of plaintiff's sales tax liability. Previously, the Court ruled that the burden of proving that the total token sales were not subject to sales tax was upon plaintiff, the person required to collect tax.

The Division assessed sales tax on all of plaintiff's token sales. Plaintiff argued that the Division's methodology was incorrect because (1) tokens were used to purchase merchandise where sales tax was collected, (2) the $3 minimum token purchase requirement was only in effect for ten months of 1993, and (3) only three or four people paid the minimum purchase requirement as good customers or regular patrons were not required to buy a minimum token purchase. Plaintiff produced only verbal testimony regarding the aforementioned allegations. The Court found that the testimony was nothing more than "bare assertions" and cited the Ridolfi v. Director, Division of Taxation, 1 N.J. Tax 198, 202-203 (Tax Ct. 1980) ruling that naked assertions are insufficient to rebut the Director's presumption of correctness. The Court quoted N.J.S.A. 54:32B-19, which sets forth the consequences of failing to maintain adequate books and records. Essentially, the statute permits the Director to determine the amount of tax due from any available information. Therefore, the Court upheld the Director's sales and use tax assessment on all plaintiff's token sales.

Sale for Resale/Closing Agreements

– Adamar of New Jersey t/a Tropicana Casino and Resort v. Director, Division of Taxation, 17 N.J. Tax 327 (Tax 1998), aff'd in part and rev'd in part; Appellate Division; No. A-3974-97T3 (February 25, 2000).

Plaintiff is a casino that applied for and was judicially denied a sales tax refund concerning tax paid on purchases of both alcoholic and nonalcoholic beverages provided to patrons on a complimentary basis. As to the complimentary alcoholic beverages, the Appellate Division cited its decision in GNOC Corp. (see below) as controlling. With respect to the complimentary non-alcoholic carbonated beverages, this Court cited its opinion in Boardwalk Regency (see below) as controlling.

– Boardwalk Regency Corporation t/a Caesars Atlantic City Hotel & Casino v. Director, Division of Taxation, 17 N.J. Tax 331 (Tax 1998), rev'd 18 N.J. Tax 328 (App. Div. 1999).

The Division assessed use tax on plaintiff's purchases of nonalcoholic carbonated beverages purchased with an ST-3 sales tax resale certificate that were provided as complimentary drinks to its patrons and provided to its own employees during working hours for the period January 1, 1991 to September 30, 1994.

During the periods at issue, non-alcoholic beverages were subject to sales and use tax. In 1981, the Director entered into a closing agreement in accordance with N.J.S.A. 54:53-1 with the casino industry that was subsequently amended in 1986 and 1988. The 1981 agreement provided, inter alia, as follows:

No sales tax will be imposed in the provision of complimentary meals. However, a use tax pursuant to N.J.S.A. 54:32B-6 will be imposed upon the "cost" of a meal. For these purposes, the cost of the meal would be deemed to be 25% of the amount these meals are sold to the public by the casino. However, no sales and/or use tax will be imposed upon the provision of complimentary liquor.

The 1986 agreement provided, inter alia, that there would be no imposition of sales or use tax on complimentary meals and defined complimentary meal to mean non-

cash payments for food or beverage. The Appellate Division found that “[t]he 1986 and 1988 agreements abandoned an effort to collect taxes for fully complimentary meals in exchange for an agreement by the plaintiff to collect and pay the sales tax for partially ‘comped’ meals and beverages.”

Addressing the issue of whether the purchase of nonalcoholic beverages constituted a nontaxable sale for resale, the Appellate Division upheld the Tax Court’s ruling that there was no resale of nonalcoholic beverages that were furnished to casino patrons and employees on a complimentary basis because there was “legally insufficient consideration.”

On the issue of whether the agreement bars the Director from taxing the purchase of the nonalcoholic carbonated beverages at issue, the Tax Court held that the provision was invalid as the Director cannot compromise tax liabilities under N.J.S.A. 54:53-1 where they are not limited in time and are disadvantageous to the State. On appeal, the Appellate Division reversed and ruled that the Director’s agreements must be deemed presumptively valid as he has broad discretion to settle tax disputes. The Court remanded the case for a factual finding of the scope of the settlement agreements as to whether the agreements addressed and included nonalcoholic beverages served complimentary with a meal and/or without a meal to plaintiff’s customers and served complimentary to plaintiff’s employees.

Grand v. Director, Division of Taxation, 17 N.J. Tax 327 (Tax 1998), aff’d. (App. Div. 2000); No. A-4045-97T3.

In 1980, alcoholic beverages were statutorily exempted from sales and use tax under N.J.S.A. 54:32B-8.34. In 1981, the Director entered into a closing agreement, in accordance with N.J.S.A. 54:53-1, with the casino industry that was subsequently amended in 1986 and 1988. The 1981 agreement provided, inter alia, as follows:

No sales tax will be imposed in the provision of complimentary meals. However, a use tax pursuant to N.J.S.A. 54:32B-6 will be imposed upon the “cost” of a meal. For these purposes, the cost of the meal would be deemed to be 25% of the amount these meals are sold to the public by the casino. However, no sales and/or use tax will be imposed upon the provision of complimentary liquor.

The Court quoted the Appellate Division’s interpretation of the amendments to the original agreement as follows: “[T]he 1986 and 1988 agreements abandoned an effort to collect taxes for fully complimentary meals in exchange for an agreement by the plaintiff to collect and pay the sales tax for partially ‘comped’ meals and [nonalcoholic] beverages.” Boardwalk Regency Corporation t/a Caesars Atlantic City Hotel & Casino v. Director, Division of Taxation, 17 N.J. Tax 331 (Tax 1998), rev’d 18 N.J. Tax 328, 333 (App. Div. 1999). All the agreements contained a statutorily required clause stating that specific subsequent legislation would supersede the agreement and that the Division and the casinos would no longer be bound.

Effective July 1, 1990, the legislature repealed the N.J.S.A. 54:32B-8.34 sales and use tax exemption for retail sales of alcoholic beverages. Thereafter, the Division assessed use tax on plaintiff’s tax-exempt, sale for resale purchases of alcoholic beverages that were provided as complimentary drinks to its patrons for the period January 1, 1991 to September 30, 1994.

Addressing the issue of whether the purchase of alcoholic beverages constituted a nontaxable sale for resale, the Appellate Division upheld the Tax Court’s ruling that there was no resale of alcoholic beverages furnished to casino patrons on a complimentary basis because there was “legally insufficient consideration.”

Concerning the issue of whether the agreement bars the Director from taxing the complimentary alcoholic beverages, the Tax Court ruled that purchases of alcoholic beverages provided as complimentary drinks were subject to sales and use tax because the agreement only reiterated the then current law that alcoholic beverages were exempt from sales and use tax. The Appellate Division affirmed but disagreed with the Tax Court’s reasoning. The Appellate Division held that subsequent legislation repealing the alcohol exemption superseded the agreement.

Plaintiff’s claim that specific legislation taxing “complimentary alcoholic beverages” was required to supersede the agreement was rejected by the Court. The Appellate Division ruled that the provision “[h]owever, no sales or use tax will be imposed upon the provision of complimentary liquor,” was only inserted into the 1981 agreement to clarify the preceding sentence that alcoholic beverages would not be included in computing the 25% cost of a meal that was subject to sales/use tax. The Appellate Division reasoned that a meal could be interpreted to include a beverage and as alcoholic beverages were not then subject to sales/use tax they should be excluded from the tax computation on complimentary meals. Therefore, the Appellate Division ruled that specific legislation relating to “complimentary alcoholic beverages” was not required.

Plaintiff was in the business of pumping waste oil, sludge, and anti-freeze from storage tanks, ranging in size from 276 to 1,000,000 gallons, located on both commercial and residential properties into its trucks. The waste materials were then transported to its facility where the waste was either purified or processed for resale. Plaintiff’s invoices usually charged a lump sum price for pumping and removal without charging sales tax. It should be noted that a few invoices included a separate transportation fee and a few charged sales tax. At issue in this case was whether or not plaintiff’s services constituted maintenance or servicing which is subject to sales tax.

The Court held that plaintiff’s waste removal services constituted maintenance or servicing because Summer 2000 the removal allowed the tanks to be used again for their intended purpose of collecting waste. Therefore, the Court ruled that its customer’s payments were taxable under the Sales and Use Tax Act.

The Court rejected plaintiff’s alternative theories of nontaxability. First, the Court ruled that fees charged for removal did not constitute the acquisition of raw materials for an integrated waste removal, processing and resale operation because customers paid plaintiff only for the services of pumping and removal. Second, the Court ruled that simply because plaintiff did not have a license from the Department of Environmental Protection to perform maintenance or repair involving hazardous waste contained in storage tanks, even if such license was required, that did not make the services nontaxable because the DEP Tank Statutes and the Sales and Use Tax Act are not in pari materia. Third, the Court rejected plaintiff’s argument that the services were exempt because they involved the removal and transportation of wastes and would be exempt under the transportation exemption. Fourth, the Court ruled that plaintiff’s services did not constitute a capital improvement because there was no evidence that the value of the real property increased as a result of its services and plaintiff’s own expert testified that the services did not improve the storage tank’s condition. Finally, the Court refused to waive interest on the basis that plaintiff relied on erroneous advice from the Division. The Court found that none of plaintiff’s inquiry letters fully and accurately described the nature of plaintiff’s operations and neither the Division’s correspondence nor the New Jersey State Tax News even suggested that plaintiff’s actual maintenance and service operations were exempt from sales tax. □

Corporation Business Tax Insolvent HMO Assistance — P.L. 2000, c.12 (signed into law on April 6, 2000) establishes the “New Jersey Insolvent Health Maintenance Organization Assistance Fund Act of 2000” which provides for payment of certain individual and provider claims against HIP Health Plan of New Jersey, Inc. and American Preferred Provider Plan, Inc.

The law also provides that a member organization may offset against its corporation business tax liability an amount of not more than 10% of any assessment for each of the five privilege periods beginning on or after the third calendar year commencing after the assessment was paid, except that no member organization may offset more than 20% of its corporation business tax liability in any one year. This legislation became effective upon enactment and applies only to the insolvency of HIP Health Plan of New Jersey, Inc. and American Preferred Provider Plan, Inc.

NJ SAVER Rebate Applications

Applications for the 1999 NJ SAVER rebate will be mailed to homeowners over a two week period in early May. This is the second year of a five-year phase-in of the program that provides direct property tax relief to qualified New Jersey homeowners. Applications must be filed by June 30, 2000, and NJ SAVER rebate checks are scheduled to be mailed on or before September 15, 2000.

Applications which contain information from last year's filing will be mailed to individuals who applied for and received a 1998 NJ

SAVER rebate, or who would have received one had their homestead rebate not provided a greater benefit. Applications will also be mailed to individuals who constructed or purchased a home between October 2, 1998 and October 1, 1999 and other individuals who have been identified as possibly eligible homeowners. Homeowners may expect to receive their applications between May 1 and May 15.

Most homeowners will be able to file their NJ SAVER application by calling the automated NJ SAVER Rebate Filing System at 1-877-658-2972 or 609-826-4288. This system is available 24 hours a day, 7 days a week. The average call length will range from less than 1 minute for second-time filers whose information remains unchanged to 3½ minutes for first-time filers. Applications can also be filed on the Division's Web site at:

www.state.nj.us/treasury/taxation/

By staggering the mailing of the 1999 NJ SAVER rebate applications the Division expects to make it easier for homeowners who have questions about the program to get through to the Call Center. In addition, the NJ SAVER rebate filing system will be expanded this year to 720 lines.

New Jersey residents who own, occupy and pay property taxes on a home in New Jersey that was their principal residence on October 1, 1999 are eligible to receive a NJ SAVER rebate for that year. Rebates will average $240 for tax year 1999. This amount will increase each year until the program is fully phased in with an average rebate of $600 for tax year 2002.

Homeowners are entitled to receive either a NJ SAVER rebate or a homestead rebate, whichever provides a greater benefit. For many senior citizens, the homestead rebate will be greater. This may change as the NJ SAVER rebate program is phased in and the amount of the NJ SAVER rebate increases. Eligible applicants should continue to file for both the homestead and NJ SAVER rebates.

For further information about the NJ SAVER rebate program call the NJ SAVER Rebate Hotline at 609-826-4282. Division representatives are available from 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m., Monday through Friday (except holidays). □

1998 NJ SAVER Update

The 1998 NJ SAVER filing season was extraordinarily successful with nearly 1.5 million applications filed by the initial June 15, 1999 deadline and a total of nearly 1.7 million applications filed to date.

New Taxation Kiosk

A kiosk employing computer touch-screen technology to dispense tax forms and information was recently installed in the lobby of the Taxation Building, the Division's Trenton regional office, at 50 Barrack Street in Trenton. The kiosk provides both New Jersey and Federal tax forms as well as information about a variety of taxes administered by the Division. Users are able to view or print information or forms simply by touching a screen.

The new kiosk is a prime example of the Division of Taxation's continued effort to make tax information and forms more accessible to the public. □

NJ Ranks 2nd in Survey

New Jersey tied for second place in a recent survey designed to measure how well states are using technology to streamline government operations and improve services. New Jersey's high ranking in the first installment of "The Digital State" survey came in the taxation/revenue category.

The survey looked at five factors in assessing states' progress in electronic taxation and revenue activities:

- Availability of downloadable tax forms;
- Ability of taxpayers to file tax returns online;

- Ability of taxpayers to contact staff through a general electronic mailbox;
- Ability of taxpayers to contact specific staff members via e-mail; and
- The percentage of tax records stored digitally.

The survey also rated participants' Web sites on their completeness and user-friendliness.

The results of the survey, which was conducted by The Center for Digital Government and the Progress & Freedom Foundation, appear in the January 2000 issue of Government Technology magazine in an article entitled "The Dawn of Electronic States." A copy of the article is also available on the Division's Web site at:

Donations to Charity Increase

The figures are in on the recently completed State Employees' Charitable Campaign. "Over 72% of all Division of Taxation employees participated in this most worthwhile program," reported Director Robert K. Thompson. A total of $89,850 was given in cash, checks and pledges. This represents an increase of 16.7% over last year's contributions. Thanking Division employees for their continued generosity, Director Thompson noted that donations to the campaign benefit numerous charitable agencies and organizations. □

GROSS INCOME TAX Federal Offset Program

On October 11, 1999 the Division mailed Notices of Intended Federal Offset letters to 14,000 taxpayers who had either received 90 day letters or COD letters for TGI deficiencies.

This endeavor is part of a new program developed by the IRS. We are one of the States participating in this new project.

If the taxpayer's debt to New Jersey is not satisfied, the taxpayer's name will be submitted for the set-off program. The IRS will then reduce or withhold any eligible Federal tax refunds by the amount of the debt.

As a result of this program the Division has collected $499,248.56. There have been 165 payment plans set up and 239 taxpayers have paid in full. Approximately 162 responses were forwarded to caseworkers in various Division locations such as field offices or the Attorney General's referral unit. A number of taxpayers have submitted documentation of bankruptcy, which may also eliminate them from the setoff list.

The deadline for submitting payment or documentation was December 10, 1999. It appears that this new program will be a very successful addition to our collection projects. Next year we hope to target all taxpayers with TGI deficiencies. □

CORPORATION TAX Tax Benefit

Transfer Program

The New Jersey Economic Development Authority (NJEDA) and the Division of Taxation have completed their review of applications for sale of unused Corporation Business Tax Benefits for New Jersey Technology and Biotechnology companies.

Of the 88 applications received, 61 companies were approved to sell their unused Net Operating Losses and Research and Development Tax Credits. These companies had over $169 million in unused tax value, of which $116 million will be available for sale over the next few years. In fiscal year 2000 there is a $50 million overall program

cap. In future years this cap will be $40 million.

After the initial $250,000 sale authorization approved sellers were allowed to sell approximately 35% of their remaining sellable benefits. The unused sellable benefits will be part of fiscal year 2001 pool.

New Technology and Biotechnology companies who wish to apply for the program for 2001 need to submit their applications to the NJEDA by June 30, 2000. □

GROSS INCOME TAX
New York City UBT/
Philadelphia BPT

Reversing its previous policy as stated in the New Jersey State Tax News July/August 1990 issue, the Division of Taxation has determined that tax paid to New York City as Unincorporated Business Tax (UBT) is a tax on an individual's income and can be included in New Jersey's calculation of credit for taxes paid to other jurisdictions.

From the provisions of the New York City Unincorporated Business Tax and the New Jersey Gross Income Tax Act, the Division has determined as follows:

1. The UBT is an income tax because it is imposed on, as well as based on and measured by the business income of the unincorporated business;
2. The UBT is imposed on income similar to the income taxed under the Gross Income Tax Act, in that they are both imposed on the individual proprietor's business income or the individual partner's distributive share of the partnership's business income; and

3. The UBT, therefore, may be credited against the gross income tax of the New Jersey resident taxpayer, using a separate calculation from the New York State or New York City credit computation.

Similar to the New York City Unincorporated Business Tax is the net income portion of the Philadelphia Business Privilege Tax. This is a tax levied on the net income of an unincorporated business from activities conducted within the City of Philadelphia. As such, the net income portion of the Philadelphia Business Privilege Tax qualifies as an income tax and is therefore allowable in determining a taxpayer's credit for taxes paid to other jurisdictions under N.J.S.A. 54A:4-1.

This change in policy will be effective immediately and the credit for other jurisdictions will be granted to all New Jersey resident taxpayers who earn income subject to the New York City Unincorporated Business Tax or the net income portion of the Philadelphia Business Privilege Tax provided that the credit is calculated in the manner required by N.J.S.A. 54A:4-1 and the current regulations. The Division of Taxation will accept amended returns if they are received within the statutory period in accordance with N.J.S.A. 54A:9-8. The credit will also be allowed for all cases pending before the New Jersey

SALES AND USE TAX Accepting Exemption Certificates

Exemption certificates are the primary method for a vendor to document the non-taxability of a sales transaction. Properly completed certificates are usually accepted in “good faith” (N.J.A.C. 18:24-10.1 et seq.). The auditor, however, has the right to question the reasonableness of the vendor’s judgment in accepting an exemption certificate. The vendor is presumed not only to be familiar with the tax laws and regulations that apply to the business, but also to the products sold, their common usage, and, to some extent, who their customers are and what they do with the product.

Auditors should question exemption certificates that appear to be contrary to the tax laws and regulations. Auditors should also question those exemption certificates where the common usage of the product seems unreasonable to the declared activity of the customer.

Whenever an exemption certificate is questioned, further investigations can be made to ascertain the validity of the exemption claim. The first step in this process should be for the auditor to explain the reason the certificate was questioned. If the certificate is not fully completed the vendor may be asked to contact the customer to obtain a completed certificate or a detailed explanation of the missing or incomplete parts. If the item requested for exemption appears to be in conflict with the exemption being claimed, the vendor may again be asked to contact the customer to obtain a more detailed explanation. The auditor may also independently research the circumstances of the customer. Before any audit result is finalized however, the auditor will always meet with the vendor and discuss the findings. At this point, the vendor may also present relevant information concerning the transaction or the customer. Only then should a final determination be made.

Exemption certificates are accepted in paper form and if the seller and customer are electronic trading partners an electronic certificate will be acceptable.

The following are examples of questioned exemption certificates and some possible results of the subsequent investigations:

A gas station issues an ST-3 to a concrete block distributor.

- Taxable: blocks were for use at the business.
- Exempt: gas station has an area where blocks are sold to the public.

An auto parts store issues an ST-3 to a firearm manufacturer.

- Taxable: guns were purchased for the owner’s use.
- Exempt: auto parts store also sells hunting and fishing equipment.

A carpenter issues an ST-3 to a lumberyard.

- Taxable: wood was used for a residential construction project.
- Exempt: wood was used for a repair at a church, properly completed ST-13 was issued by carpenter.

Other problem areas with exemption certificates:

- A manufacturing company issues an ST-4 to a hardware store for machine parts, but also purchases hand tools. The tools are a taxable purchase despite the certificate.
- A soft drink distributor accepts ST-3s from a coat manufacturer, a bank and a law office. The soft drinks are taxable if none of the entities sell soda at retail.

Examples of exemption certificates that should not be questioned:

- A pharmaceutical company issues an ST-4 to a shelving supplier claiming R&D usage.
- A manufacturing company issues an ST-3 to another manufacturer for heat-treating 350,000 cotter pins.

As a general guideline, if the vendor had no good reason to question a properly completed certificate, the auditor will also have no reason to question it. Vendors should never accept exemption certificates solely for the purpose of creating a tax advantage, or to avoid confrontations. Only fully completed exemption certificates should be accepted and vendors should feel free to question the merchandise’s use if good faith issuance by a customer is in doubt. □

Inheritance Tax Waivers

Upon the death of a resident of this State, R.S. 54:35-5 imposes a lien on his or her property to secure the payment of any Inheritance Tax which may be payable. The statute also provides that a bank may not release any funds held on deposit which belong to or stand in the name of a resident decedent or in the joint names of a resident decedent and one or more other persons without first notifying the Director of the Division of Taxation and withholding sufficient funds to pay the tax and interest which may be assessed on the funds released. The written consent issued by the Director permitting a banking institution to transfer a bank account and releasing the statutory lien is commonly known as a waiver. In the normal course, waivers are issued by the Division after an Inheritance Tax return has been filed and any tax and interest assessed has been paid. However, the statute and regulations provide procedures whereby a beneficiary or an estate representative may obtain funds from a banking institution without first filing an Inheritance Tax return and paying any tax and interest which may be assessed. There are two commonly used procedures which permit a beneficiary or an estate representative to obtain funds held on deposit in a banking institution without first contacting the Division.

Form L-8 (Affidavit and Self-Executing Waiver) may be used when a bank account passes to a parent, grandparent, child, stepchild, legally adopted child, issue of any child or legally adopted child (does not include a stepgrandchild or a great-stepgrandchild) or to a surviving spouse. The bank account must pass to a qualified beneficiary by contract (e.g., survivorship), it must be specifically bequeathed to a qualified beneficiary, or if the bank account does not pass by contract and it was not specifically bequeathed, all heirs by intestacy or all beneficiaries under the will must be qualified beneficiaries. The Form L-8 is completed by the appropriate beneficiary or estate representative and presented directly to the banking institution. Most banking institutions have this form on hand. It may also be obtained by contacting the Division at 609-292-5033.

The regulation (N.J.A.C. 18:26-11.16), commonly known as the Blanket Waiver, provides that the proper estate representative may withdraw up to 50% of the funds on deposit in an account without first obtaining a waiver from the Division. The blanket waiver provisions apply to each institution and to each account within that institution. The amount which may be withdrawn is limited to no more than 50% of the funds in an account regardless of whether the account was held in the decedent's name alone or jointly in the name of the decedent and one or more other persons. In addition to the 50% which may be released to the proper estate representative, a banking institution may release any additional amount without a waiver provided the check is made payable to the New Jersey Inheritance Tax and is for the payment of Inheritance Tax and/or interest. □

SALES AND USE TAX Spring Planting

As the ground thaws, our attention turns to the landscaping needs of our lawns and gardens. Lawns may need to be reseeded, flowerbeds planted and trimmed, new mulch laid, and trees that did not weather the cold of winter may need to be removed or replaced.

Whether plants and materials are sold to either landscapers or homeowners, the transaction is a retail sale and sales tax must be collected. Landscapers are considered contractors. A contractor always pays sales tax on the materials and supplies purchased. Purchases of seeds, dirt, trees, plants, stakes, stones, shovels, rakes, etc. are all subject to sales tax.

If the contractor's bill to the property owner separately states the cost of materials and labor, sales tax may be charged on the labor portion of the bill only. If the landscaping work completed on a customer's property results in a capital improvement, the property owner is not charged sales tax on the labor portion of the bill provided that the owner gives a Certificate of Capital Improvement (Form ST-8) to the landscaper. Examples of capital improvements are:

- Laying new sod or seeding a new lawn
- Planting trees, shrubs, plants, etc.
- Filling, terracing or clearing land
- Building permanent structures such as fences, walls, trellises or patios

Repairs and maintenance that a landscaper may perform are always subject to sales tax. Some examples of taxable services are:

- Pruning trees
- Aerating soil
- Reseeding, fertilizing and mowing lawns
- Treating with insecticides or herbicides

The homeowner will pay sales tax on the labor portion of the bill for landscape maintenance or repairs. □

Tax Practitioners' Hotline

609-633-6905 Business Taxes

The Tax Practitioners' Hotline is a special service provided by the Taxpayer Accounting Branch of the New Jersey Division of Taxation for practitioners only. The purpose of the Hotline is to assist practitioners by resolving specific tax problems over the telephone when the practitioner has not been able to resolve the problem through normal channels. Practitioner Hotline Technicians are authorized to perform updates to monetary account information as well as non-monetary taxpayer profile information. During Fiscal Year 1999, the Tax Practitioners Hotline handled about 5,300 business tax and 8,000 personal income tax calls. To be successful and to provide the best possible service, the Tax Practitioners' Hotline must operate within certain guidelines, and we ask that all practitioners wishing to take advantage of the service adhere to them.

GUIDELINES:

- Types of calls handled by the Tax Practitioners' Hotline. Account maintenance activities, adjustments, transfers, updates, and refunds.
- Types of calls NOT handled by the Tax Practitioners' Hotline. Tax information inquiries and form requests will not be handled by the Tax Practitioners' Hotline. These calls are handled by our Taxpayer Services Call Center at 609-292-6400. Cases being handled elsewhere in the Division or by a contracted vendor, will not be addressed by the Tax Practitioners' Hotline. Practitioners must contact the individual already handling the matter.

- This service is for tax practitioners only. The telephone numbers should not be given to clients under any circumstances.
- Power of Attorney. The Division has a statutory obligation to protect the confidentiality of taxpayer information. Division personnel staffing this Hotline will discuss a client's account in general terms, and verify information provided by practitioners who have a Power of Attorney for their clients. New Jersey Division of Taxation Power of Attorney, Form M-5008, must be completed and submitted by practitioners requesting an adjustment to a taxpayer's account. This form must accompany every document submitted unless the taxpayer has specifically authorized his representative with complete jurisdiction until further notice. If this is the case, the authorization Form M-5008 must clearly note the tax and periods covered. Form M-5008 is included in the New Jersey Package NJX for practitioners' convenience. Power of Attorney Forms M-5008 filed with the Tax Practitioners' Hotline are not valid for any other matters being handled by any other area of the Division, or by a contracted vendor. Likewise, Forms M-5008 filed with any other area will not apply to matters being handled by the Tax Practitioners' Hotline.

- Waiting Time. Practitioners should wait a reasonable amount of time from the date a return is filed to allow for processing before calling the Tax Practitioners' Hotline for assistance, and then only if the matter has not been able to be resolved through the Taxpayer Services Call Center. Practitioners should allow a minimum of 30 days from the date the supporting documentation has been sent before making a second call to the Tax Practitioners' Hotline on the same matter. □

LOCAL PROPERTY TAX Tax Assessor Recertification

Chapter 278, Laws of 1999 provides that all tax assessor certificates issued prior to its effective date of seven months after December 8, 1999 or July 2000, shall expire five years following that effective date. All tax assessor certificates issued on or after the effective date of July 2000 shall expire five years after each certificate's issuance. Both shall require application for renewal and payment of a renewal fee of not less than $50 provided that continuing education requirements of fifty continuing education credit hours over five years are met. Beyond the initial five year renewal period, renewal shall be required every three years provided that continuing education requirements of thirty credit hours over three years are met. One continuing education credit hour means 50 minutes of classroom or lecture time. An additional late renewal fee of $50 is required if application for renewal is made within six months of the expiration of a certificate.

Chapter 278's enactment amends N.J.S.A. 54:1-35.31 adding as a prerequisite for tenure, "...compliance with requirements for continuing education pursuant to Section 1 of P.L. 1999, c.278..." As amended, removal for "good cause" shall include the failure of a tax assessor to meet continuing education requirements. N.J.S.A. 54:1-35.29 is also amended so that a tax assessor certificate can now be revoked or suspended for "Failure to comply with requirements for continuing education pursuant to Section 1 of P.L. 1999, c.278 (C.54:1-35.25b) and cause the automatic revocation, without a hearing, of the tax assessor certificate."

Chapter 278 also establishes within the Division of Taxation, Department of the Treasury, the Tax Assessor Continuing Education Eligibility Board consisting of six members: the Director of the Division of Taxation or his designee, the President of the Association of Municipal Assessors, and the President of the New Jersey Association of County Tax Board Commissioners and County Tax Administrators as permanent members; and two additional members serving a term of two years, appointed one each by the Director and the President of the Association of Municipal Assessors. The Director of Government Services at Rutgers University shall serve ex officio. The Board shall establish curriculum areas and number of hours in each curriculum area that an assessor shall complete to renew certification. The Board shall meet annually, with the first meeting of the Board held at the call of the Director of the Division of Taxation. The Director, by regulation, may grant an extension of time to complete the requirements for continuing education. □

LOCAL PROPERTY TAX Tax Assessor Certificates

The tax assessor examination is held in accordance with the Assessor Certification and Tenure Act, which requires that anyone taking office as a tax assessor after July 1, 1971 must hold a tax assessor certificate.

Seven persons passed the examination for the tax assessor certificate held on September 18, 1999. Six persons became certified tax assessors on November 8, 1999.

Bergen County: Thomas J. Gawlik, Closter Borough; Janet K. Ridenhour, Westwood Borough.

Burlington County: William John Kennedy, Medford Township.

Mercer County: Judy P. Miller, Ewing Township; Kenneth A. Pacera, Lawrence Township.

Middlesex County: Tricia A. Mercado, Monroe Township.

The next exam will be held sometime in September 2000 and applications need to be filed thirty days prior to the examination date with the Division of Taxation, PO Box 251, Trenton NJ 08695-0251. If you have any questions on the date or location of this exam contact Mary Ann Miller at 609-292-7975. □

Criminal Enforcement

Criminal Enforcement over the past several months included:

- On October 1, 1999, as a result of a joint investigation with the US Customs Service at Newark International Airport, the Office of Criminal Investigation's Special Agents arrested Awad Bashir for possession of 626.1 cartons of contraband cigarettes. Mr. Bashir was transported to Essex County Jail by Special Agents and bail was set at $20,000. The subject had been previously arrested by OCI in 1997 and subsequently convicted of Possession of Contraband Cigarettes in the Elizabeth Municipal Court.
- On October 21, 1999, Ki Filip, of West Bloomfield, Michigan, was indicted by a Monmouth County Grand Jury on charges of conspiracy and promoting prostitution, failure to file personal gross income tax returns on income earned in 1996, 1997 and 1998, and failure to pay personal gross income tax for 1996, 1997 and 1998, in connection with the operation of Tokyo Therapy, a purported massage parlor in Howell, New Jersey. This case was investigated jointly by the New Jersey State Police Organized Crime Unit and the Division of Taxation, Office of Criminal Investigation and was presented to the grand jury by the Monmouth County Prosecutor's Office. On December 6, 1999, Ki Filip failed to appear in Monmouth County Superior Court for arraignment on the indicted charges. A bench warrant was issued for the defendant's arrest.

- On November 23, 1999, the Monmouth County Prosecutor's Office announced that on November 15, 1999, Stanley W. Hudson of Monmouth Beach, New Jersey, entered a plea of guilty to one count of failure to pay taxes with intent to evade in the amount of $25,144.43 for the years 1993 through 1996 on income earned as a jewelry salesman and on illegal income in the form of proceeds from the theft of jewelry consigned to him for sale. This case was investigated jointly by the Monmouth County Prosecutor's Office and Taxation's Office of Criminal Investigation, and prosecuted by the Monmouth County Prosecutor's Office.

- On December 1, 1999, Stogies Distributors, Inc. of Ridgefield, New Jersey, was found guilty in Ridgefield Municipal Court for violations of the Administrative Code for Failure to Stamp unstamped cigarettes within 24 hours of receipt, and for stamping cigarettes in a manner that places only half of a tax stamp on each pack of cigarettes, thus underpaying the tax due by half. The defendant also plead guilty to failing to provide security of New Jersey tax stamps. Fines, costs and fees totaling $1,620 were imposed by the Court.
- On December 8, 1999, both Tri-State Wholesale Distributors and Dok Ryu, the president and owner, were indicted by the State Grand Jury for one count of N.J.S.A. 2C:27-2, Bribery in Official and Political Matters. This is a crime of the second degree. This case involves the attempted bribery of a Special Agent of the Office of Criminal Investigation to ignore criminal violations uncovered during an investigation.
- On December 17, 1999, Meyer Shevrin, a resident of Manalapan, New Jersey, was sentenced to a 12 month term of probation based on his guilty plea in August 1999 to one count of Failure to Make Required Disposition of Property Received. Mr. Shevrin had operated the now defunct computer sales business known as World Sales, Inc. in Freehold, New Jersey, and failed to remit sales tax monies that he had collected from customers. Prior to his sentencing, Mr. Shevrin made full restitution to the State of New Jersey in the amount of $43,861.99.

- On December 18, 1999, Aldo's Wholesale Distributors of Camden, New Jersey, and HF Wholesale, a.k.a. FA Wholesale of Irvington, New Jersey, will begin a ten day suspension of their wholesale cigarette licenses. These suspensions are based upon violations of the Unfair Cigarette Sales Act. The violations were brought to the attention of the Division of Taxation as a result of civil suits brought by the New Jersey Wholesale Marketers Association (NJWMA).
- Sixty-five charges were filed in municipal court on 18 cases for violating the cigarette tax law including possession of 4,372.2 cartons of contraband cigarettes, valued at $139,910.40. □

All accounting and administrative functions are performed by an out-of-State affiliate for the LLC, but are managed from New Jersey, and D takes part in the management. LLC owns a discount buying club and is in the business of selling annual club memberships. LLC has no office or place of business anywhere.

Company B is a single member LLC whose sole purpose is to provide service to the club including membership cards, preparing membership fulfillment kits, and promotional packages and compliance services. It does this through its subcontractors Companies C and E. C makes available a toll-free number and E is responsible for taking membership cancellations and complaints.

Buying club members pay $60 per annum membership fee to the LLC for the right to purchase products at discounts from Company C's participating vendors. Club members receive two free airline tickets as an incentive to join and may cancel their membership at any time for a full refund.

Based upon these facts, the LLC is a conduit with no independent economic substance. Compare C.I.T. Financial Services v. Taxation Div. Dir., 4 N.J. Tax 568, 576 (1982) regarding "corporate alter ego." As such, the places of business of its members are the places of business of the LLC. (Under the New Jersey limited liability company law, a foreign limited liability company is required to maintain a registered office and agent in this State. N.J.S.A. 42:2B-6a).

Accordingly, since Company A, a member of LLC, has nexus in New Jersey, its nexus is attributed to the LLC, and the LLC is deemed to have nexus in New Jersey. The LLC itself, which is treated as a partnership, is not subject to tax, though its corporate members are subject to tax in this State, in this particular instance.

Gross Income Tax

BIG GAME Lottery Winnings —

On May 26, 1999, the New Jersey State Lottery Commission, pursuant to the authorization contained in N.J.S.A. 5:9-7, adopted the powerball or BIG GAME lottery game with the first drawing taking place on May 28, 1999. The BIG GAME is a multistate lottery that offers a minimum jackpot of $5 million, nine ways to win and overall odds of 1 in 31. The other member states include Georgia, Illinois, Maryland, Massachusetts and Virginia. All prize awards are subject to claim procedures, validation tests, and other applicable requirements of the New Jersey Lottery.

New Jersey Lottery is established in accordance with N.J.S.A. 5:9-1, et seq. The New Jersey State Lottery Commission has the authority under N.J.S.A. 5:9-7 to promulgate rules and regulations governing the establishment and operation of a State lottery as it deems necessary. These rules and regulations may include, but are not limited to, the types of lotteries to be conducted, the price of tickets, the manner of payment of prizes, the method to be used in selling tickets, etc.

The New Jersey Gross Income Tax Act in accordance with N.J.S.A. 54A:6-11 specifically provides for the exclusion of New Jersey lottery winnings from gross income. This applies to both residents and nonresidents. This exemption serves as an incentive to participate in the lottery by limiting the tax consequences of collecting lottery winnings. The term “lottery winnings” is not defined in the New Jersey Gross Income Tax Act, N.J.S.A. 54A:1-1, et seq., nor in the statutes governing the New Jersey Lottery. The commonly understood meaning of the term “lottery winnings” as used for New Jersey gross income tax purposes is prize money awarded on account of a winning New Jersey lottery ticket. In order to claim a prize in the New Jersey State lottery, the regulations of the State Lottery Commission covering procedures and safeguards must be followed. Karafa v. N.J. State Lottery Commission, 129 N.J. Super. 499 (1974).

Thus, since all winners, tickets and transactions of the BIG GAME are subject to New Jersey State Lottery rules, regulations and New Jersey State law, BIG GAME lottery winnings should be exempt from New Jersey gross income tax.

Investment Partnerships —

Effective for taxable years ending after September 14, 1998, a non-resident shall not be deemed as having New Jersey source income solely as a result of the purchase, holding and sale of intangible personal property by a trade, profession, occupation, business, enterprise or undertaking, to the extent that:

1. The activities related to the intangible personal property are for the account of the trade, profession, occupation, business, enterprise or undertaking; and
2. The trade, profession, occupation, business, enterprise or undertaking does not hold the intangible personal property for sale to customers. See P.L. 1998, c.106.

If the investment activities do not meet the criteria and generate New Jersey source income, the nonresident must file a New Jersey gross income tax return, regardless of losses that reduce the income. N.J.A.C. 18:35-1.3(f)3. Losses can only be used against income within the same category and within the same tax year. N.J.S.A. 54A:5-2.

Litter Control Tax

Sales of Cleaning Agents — The litter control tax only applies to sales of the products that are listed as litter-generating products in the Clean Communities and Recycling Act. N.J.S.A. 13:1E-92 et seq. Cleaning agents and toiletries are listed as litter-generating products. If chemicals are sold for the purpose of making them into litter-generating products like cleaning agents and toiletries, the sales of the chemicals are not subject to the litter control tax. Only sales of the end product, such as the cleaning agent or toiletry, are subject to the tax. However, if a supplier sells chemicals as a cleaning agent (and not as a component part of an end product), the sales of the cleaning agent are subject to the litter control tax.

Broadcasting and Film Production Exemptions

Exemptions — The recently enacted exemptions for the film and video industry contained in P.L. 1999, c.221, apply to purchases of certain tangible personal property and services used or consumed directly and primarily in the production of film or video for sale. When items of tangible personal property are used to produce programming to be broadcast by a television station, they are not deemed to be used primarily to produce film or video tape to be sold to others. Therefore P.L. 1999, c.221 does not apply.

If equipment such as tapes, cameras, filming equipment, video transmission equipment, and tape recording equipment is used directly and primarily in the process of producing or transmitting television programming, a broadcast station's purchases of these items may instead be exempt under N.J.S.A. 54:32B-8.13e, sometimes referred to as the broadcast exemption.

Motor vehicles used to carry broadcast and transmission equipment are not deemed to be used directly in production of the programming and therefore are not exempt under N.J.S.A. 54:32B-8.13e. In addition, 54:32B-8.13 expressly excludes motor vehicles from the exemption. However, note that trucks used to carry broadcast and transmission equipment may be exempt under N.J.S.A. 54:32B-8.43 if the statutory criteria for exemption are satisfied. Since these trucks are neither farm vehicles nor used exclusively for transporting interstate freight, they will be exempt only if they are registered for road use and have a manufacturer's assigned gross vehicle weight rating of more than 26,000 pounds.

Sales of Headstones — Sales of vaults and headstones to family members and to funeral directors are subject to sales tax. Funeral directors are not exempt from sales tax on such purchases. N.J.S.A. 54:32B-8.17 provides that funeral directors may not claim a resale exemption when purchasing tangible personal property that they use in rendering funeral services. Thus if a funeral director purchases a headstone for a client, the funeral director must pay the sales tax on the purchase. The headstone, and other merchandise that the funeral director may transfer to a client, is deemed to be merely incidental to the nontaxable professional services sold by the funeral director. However, if a family member simply purchases the headstone directly from a business that produces headstones, instead of obtaining it from the funeral director as part of a funeral service, the family member, as the retail purchaser, is liable for the sales tax. See N.J.S.A. 54:32B-3(a).

A Form ST-8 cannot be used in order to make an exempt purchase of headstones sold as tangible personal property. The ST-8 is a Certificate of Capital Improvement. It applies only to services that are exempt under N.J.S.A. 54:32B-3(b)(2)(v): "services rendered in installing property which, when installed, will constitute an addition or capital improvement to real property or land." Customers who hire a business to dig graves or to install headstones and vaults are entitled to exemption from sales tax on the charge for this service. They should use a completed ST-8 to support their exemption.

Imaging of Exemption Certificates — Electronic storage of the images of a customer's paper sales tax exemption certificates is acceptable, provided that all of the content of the certificate is stored and capable of being reproduced, including the customer's signature. These stored images are deemed "true copies" of the certificates within the meaning of N.J.S.A. 18:24-2.3(a), and certificates stored in electronic form and reproducible in paper form on demand are deemed to be in the vendor's "physical possession" and "available for appropriate inspection" within the meaning of N.J.S.A. 18:24-10.6(b).

Use of ST-3NR — A Form ST-3NR (Resale Certificate for Non-New Jersey Vendors) may be used by a business purchasing taxable items in New Jersey for resale if the purchase qualifies for the resale exemption under New Jersey law and if the purchaser satisfies the following requirements: (1) it is not registered with the New Jersey Division of Taxation, (2) it does not have tax nexus with the State of New Jersey and therefore is not required to be registered with the New Jersey Division of Taxation, and (3) it is registered as a vendor with some other state.

A non-United States company not registered in New Jersey may use the ST-3NR if it is registered as a vendor in some other state in the U.S.A. The state where it is registered does not have to be its "home" state or the jurisdiction where the business is based. Note that, even if it is not required to be registered with New Jersey because it does not have sales tax nexus with this State, it may register voluntarily. In that case, it would become eligible to use the regular ST-3, the resale certificate used by vendors registered with New Jersey. However, if the purchaser is registered only in a foreign country, it may not use either the ST-3NR or the ST-3.

Exempt Organization Shop or Store Sales — If a nonprofit organization has applied for and received a permit to be exempt from sales and use tax under N.J.S.A. 54:32B-9 of the Sales and Use Tax Act, the organization is exempt from collecting sales tax on occasional fundraising sales. See N.J.A.C. 18:24-9.11. However, when a qualified exempt organization operates a store or a regular mail order business, the organization is required to collect sales tax unless the store meets the criteria in a newly-enacted exemption for “thrift” stores.

As provided in P.L. 1998, c. 118, effective February 1, 1999, a store operated by an exempt organization is not required to collect sales tax if “the tangible personal property was received by the organization as a gift or contribution and the shop or store is one in which substantially all the work in carrying on the business of the shop or store is performed for the organization without compensation and substantially all of the shop’s or store’s merchandise has been received by the organization as gifts or contributions....”

The Division of Taxation interprets “substantially all” as meaning 75%. Thus, an exempt organization store is exempt from collecting sales tax on taxable donated items if the store meets the following criteria:

1. At least 75% of all the merchandise being sold is received as gifts or contributions; and
2. At least 75% of the work in carrying on the store business is performed without compensation, e.g., volunteers.

If an exempt organization store meets the standards of 1 and 2 above, and if all the merchandise is either donated or exempt from sales tax by law (such as clothing), the store qualifies to be put on a non-reporting basis. To be put on a non-reporting basis for sales tax collection purposes, the qualified exempt organization must complete and mail (to the address on the form), the Form C-6205-ST, Request To Be Placed On A Non-Reporting Basis. The form is available by calling the Division’s Automated Tax Information System at 1-800-323-4400 and selecting the Forms Request System.

Motor Vehicle Rental Charges — The Division replied to an inquiry concerning various charges that relate to motor vehicle rentals in New Jersey in view of the following regulation:

The charge to the customer which is subject to the sales tax is the total charge to the customer except where nontaxable charges such as registration fees, license fees, insurance and gasoline are separately stated then such charges are not subject to the tax. N.J.A.C. 18:24-7.15(b).

The taxability of separately stated charges is as follows:

1. Collision Damage Waiver (CDW) – When a CDW is purchased by a renter, the rental car company agrees not to pursue the renter for reimbursement of the costs of physical damage to the rental vehicle. There is no insurance carrier involved. Taxable as a charge directly related to the rental.
2. Personal Accident Insurance (PAI) – PAI provides the renter and any passengers with accidental death and accidental medical expense benefits. The renter is an insured under an insurance policy with a licensed insurance carrier. Exempt because the coverage is provided by a licensed insurance carrier as evidenced by contract.
3. Personal Effect Coverage (PEC) – When offered, it is sold in combination with PAI. It provides protection against risk of loss or damage to the personal effects of the renter and the renter’s immediate family traveling with the renter. The renter is an insured under an insurance policy with a licensed insurance carrier. See #2.

4. Supplemental Liability Protection – SLP provides the renter with up to $1,000,000 of liability protection against claims by a third party as a result of bodily injury and property damage arising out of the use of the rental vehicle. The renter is an insured under an insurance policy with a licensed insurance carrier. Exempt because the coverage is provided by a licensed insurance carrier as evidenced by contract.

5. Fuel Charge – If the rental vehicle is returned with less gas than it had when it left, the renter is charged $3.00 for each estimated χ of tank capacity which appears used, regardless of tank size. There is no fuel charge if the rental vehicle is returned with the same amount or more gas. Exempt under N.J.A.C. 18:24-7.15(b) if it is a separately stated charge for the sale of gasoline (i.e., per gallon or per tank or part thereof) and does not include any additional services or costs related to the rental receipt. If this is a service charge for the vendor's expense of refueling the vehicle, the exemption for the sale of fuel does not apply. □

Time Period to File Appeal with Tax Court – Alex M. Ponzi-Montalto v. Director, Division of Taxation, decided November 16, 1999; Tax Court; No. 005577-1998.

In 1992, the Division sent plaintiff a “Notice and Demand for Payment of Tax” (hereinafter Notice) stating that plaintiff had ten days to show cause why the State should not file a Certificate of Debt against her in her capacity as a responsible officer of her corporation. The Notice also stated: “A personal visit to the Division of Taxation is not necessary to discuss this matter. However, if you desire a conference, you must call or write in advance to arrange an appointment.” Fourteen days later, plaintiff’s attorney corresponded with the Division concluding as follows: “Accordingly, I wish you would review the enclosed orders and contact me at your earliest convenience so that we may discuss this matter further. Thank you.” Thereafter, the Division filed a Certificate of Debt (hereinafter COD) against plaintiff. In the same year, plaintiff twice communicated with the Division via telephone and was advised that she would be held responsible.

In 1994, the Division issued a Warrant of Execution to satisfy the indebtedness set forth in the 1992 COD. In December 1994, the Division issued a second COD to plaintiff in her capacity as a responsible person of the same corporation for an additional amount of assessed taxes against her corporation. Notification of the docketing of the 1994 COD was sent to plaintiff in 1995.

In 1997, plaintiff’s attorney corresponded with the Department of Law and Public Safety requesting a conference to dispute plaintiff’s status as a responsible officer. On May 20, 1998, a representative of New Jersey’s Attorney General wrote plaintiff’s attorney advising that the Division would not release the client from responsibility and that the only alternative was Tax Court. On September 9, 1998, plaintiff filed a valid complaint with the Tax Court alleging that she was not a responsible officer for certain time periods and that her May 20, 1998 letter constituted an act of the Director from which she could appeal. In its September 10, 1999 bench opinion, the Court rejected plaintiff’s argument concerning the May 20, 1998 letter without reiterating the analysis and reasoning in this opinion.

In its inquiry, the Court focused on the adequacy and validity of the Division’s notifications with respect to the determinations of liability stated in the two CODs. The Court ruled that the notifications were adequate as they were not assessments and complied with the statutes in effect at that time. The Court found that the plaintiff did not request a hearing or formally protest any Division notification until 1997 and that her failure to appeal for more than four years was unexcusable where as here she received notification of the liability being imposed. Therefore, the Court granted the Division’s motion to dismiss the complaint on grounds of untimely filing.

Bankruptcy Choateness – In the Matter of Johns, Klear, and the State of New Jersey v. the USA, decided October 7, 1999; District Court; No. 99-2521 and 99-1880.

The District Court reversed, in part, the Bankruptcy Court’s determination of when the State’s lien arising under the New Jersey Gross Income Tax Act became choate.

The District Court ruled that a State lien becomes established and enforceable on the assessment date (Citing Monica Fuel Inc., 56 F.3d 508, 512 (3rd Cir. 1995)).

Under the New Jersey Gross Income Tax Act, the amount of tax that a return states is due is deemed assessed on the filing date (See N.J.S.A. 54:9-3(a)). Therefore, the Court held that the liens to the extent of the tax shown on the return were choate on the date plaintiffs filed their returns.

On the other hand, the Court ruled that penalty and interest were not deemed assessed on the filing date because taxpayers did not include penalty and interest on their returns. The Court reasoned that the assessment of penalty and interest under the Gross Income Tax Act must be made through the deficiency assessment process, which process was not performed in either of the aforementioned cases. Therefore the Court held that the liens for interest and penalties were inchoate, were not perfected.

Division's Inherent Power of Recoupment – Playmate Toys Inc., v. Director, Division of Taxation, decided December 21, 1999; New Jersey Supreme Court; No. A-70.

The Division granted a refund claim to plaintiff on time periods that were barred by the statute of limitations. Thereafter, the Division issued a final determination directing plaintiff to return the erroneous refund.

In a unanimous decision, the New Jersey Supreme Court affirmed the Appellate Division's holding that although the Division has no statutory power to recoup mistaken disbursements, it does have an inherent power to do so. However, the Court added that this inherent power is not unlimited as the "powers of the Division are not boundless." The Court differentiated this case concerning the correction of a clerical error from a case concerning the correction of an error in judgment.

Corporation Business Tax Standing to Appeal – Richard Pobuta v. Director, Division of Taxation, decided October 8, 1999; Tax Court; No. 002054-99.

Plaintiff filed the complaint challenging the interest due on Corporation Business Tax and Sales and Use Tax owed by Campin Corporation as well as the Gross Income Tax owed by plaintiff and his wife.

The Court held that Richard Pobuta lacked standing to appeal the corporate tax liabilities even though he was the sole officer, shareholder, and director of the corporation. Citing Rule 1:21-1 of the New Jersey Court Rules, the Court ruled that only an attorney may file an appeal concerning corporate tax liabilities.

The Court held that it lacked jurisdiction to reduce interest below statutory minimum absent plaintiff's reasonable reliance on the Division's written advice furnished to the plaintiff. After establishing that interest was imposed at statutory minimum and there was no allegation of reliance on erroneous advice, the Court dismissed plaintiff's complaint.

Gross Income Tax Interest Deduction for Loan for Capital Contribution – John W. Dantzer, Jr. and Kathleen M. Dantzer. v. Director, Division of Taxation, decided June 1, 1999; Tax Court; Motion for Reconsid-eration, denied, October 22, 1999; No. 006040-96.

On defendant's motion for reconsideration, the Court declined to change its determination that interest on plaintiff's loan used to make his partnership capital contribution is a deductible business expense under the Gross Income Tax Act.

In essence, plaintiff borrowed money from the partnership for his capital contribution. Thereafter, plaintiff borrowed money from Citibank and repaid the loan to the partnership. At issue is the Citibank loan interest that was paid by the partnership to Citibank and withheld from amounts that would otherwise have been distributed to plaintiff.

Taxability of Foreign S Corporation's Income to NJ Resident – Vincent Mancini v. Director, Division of Taxation, decided March 19, 1999; Tax Court; No. 2892-98.

Plaintiff is a New Jersey resident that owns a 25% interest in a corporation located in Pennsylvania that elected S corporate status for both Federal and Pennsylvania income tax purposes. Plaintiff's New Jersey gross income tax return did not report his pro rata share of income from this foreign S corporation. However, plaintiff's pro rata share of S corporation income was reported on his personal Federal income tax and Pennsylvania non-resident income tax returns.

The Court noted case precedent holding that a state has nexus to tax its residents or domiciliaries on all their income regardless of the source of that income. (Citing Cohen v. Graves, 300 U.S. 308, 312-314 (1937); and Hoe v. Division of Taxation, 2 N.J. Tax 67, 72 (1980 Tax), aff'd, 4 N.J. Tax 528

(1981 App. Div.), cert. denied, 87 N.J. 418 (1981)).

After examining the New Jersey Gross Income Tax Act, the Court found that the legislative intent was to tax a resident taxpayer's share of S corporation income as allocated to the resident pursuant to N.J.S.A. 54A:5-86 regardless of either the location of the S corporation or whether the corporation elected New Jersey S status. Therefore, the Court held that plaintiff was taxable on his pro rata share of the Pennsylvania S corporation income as calculated under the New Jersey Gross Income Tax Act.

Local Property Tax
Failure to File Timely Complaint
– Regent Care Center, Inc. v. Hackensack City, decided November 16, 1999; Tax Court of New Jersey, No. 005835-97.

Plaintiff (Regent Care) moved to compel defendant (Hackensack City) to produce certain documents in a local property tax appeal after which the municipality cross moved for dismissal of the taxpayer's complaint. Cross motion is based upon defendant/municipality's contention that taxpayer failed to timely file its complaint to the Tax Court by April 1, 1997 as required by N.J.S.A. 54:3-21.

The subject property in Hackensack is utilized as a nursing home. The assessor submitted a timely 1997 tax list to the County Board of Taxation that indicated a total assessment for the subject property of $8,090,300. In 1996, the assessment was $4,390,200. Taxpayer acknowledged receipt of a February 1 notification card that indicated the assessment to be $4,390,200. However, a second Chapter 75 notification card was mailed to the taxpayer correcting the previous erroneous notice and informing the taxpayer that the accurate assessment for 1997 would be $8,090,300. The taxpayer denied that it ever received this second notification. There is evidence that the company engaged to prepare and forward the notices of assessment for the municipality had performed a special mailing of Chapter 75 notices on February 28, 1997. No specific proof was submitted to show that the plaintiff received the corrected notice. Thus, the Tax Court determined that the municipality failed to produce sufficient evidence that the corrective notice was mailed to or received by the taxpayer. The taxpayer claimed that it became aware of the assessment increase when the tax bill for the third and fourth quarter of 1997 was received. The municipality demonstrated the mailing of said tax bills on July 11, 1997. Upon receipt of the tax bill toward the end of July 1997, plaintiff contacted the assessor's office and inquired about the increased assessment. In response, the assessor's office confirmed the increase in writing by letter dated July 29, 1997. Thus, the Court stated irrefutably that the tax bill was received between July 11 and July 29.

On September 15, 1997 taxpayer filed a verified complaint seeking temporary restraints to prevent the municipality from collecting and imposing interest on unpaid taxes as well as a proposed order for expedited discovery. On September 16, 1997 the parties presented oral argument before another Tax Court judge on the issue of restraints, which request was denied on the record. Taxpayer was advised by that judge to resubmit its litigation by means of a standard complaint for relief to the Tax Court that was accomplished on September 19, 1997.

The Tax Court found that fairness requires that this taxpayer should receive a reasonable time within which to appeal. The Court thoroughly analyzed N.J.S.A. 54:3-21 in this matter, and deemed forty-five days from the taxpayer's receipt of the third and fourth quarter tax bill as appropriate. However, the taxpayer did not file its appeal within forty-five days of the receipt of the tax bill. Its first attempt at filing a complaint with the Tax Court was an in lieu of prerogative writ action seeking temporary restraints filed on September 15, 1997, after the forty-five day filing period. Neither N.J.S.A. 54:3-21 nor any other legislation or case law addresses the unusual circumstance where the purported notice fails to indicate a correct assessment. N.J.S.A. 54:3-21 addresses the issue of a change in assessment. There was no notification of a change in assessment in this case as defined by N.J.S.A. 54:3-21. The taxpayer herein failed to file a tax appeal within the extended forty-five day period. The Tax Court thus granted the municipality's cross motion dismissing the taxpayer's complaint and denied the taxpayer's motion for discovery.

Property Tax Assessment Reduced – Theodore Cohn v. Livingston Township, decided July 6, 1999; Tax Court of New Jersey, No. 004778-98.

Local property tax appeal involves the one-family ranch home in Livingston Township. Plaintiff

(Cohn) appealed the property's 1998 assessment ($103,000) to the Essex County Board of Taxation which reduced the assessed value to $83,100. Plaintiff appealed from that determination.

Taxpayer appeared pro se. He was not an appraisal expert, and thus could not testify as an expert witness. He submitted four comparable sales in a timely manner ranging in price from $210,000 to $285,000, but he arrived at his estimate of value by averaging the four sales prices ($260,000) without making adjustments between the comparable sales and the subject property. He provided no appraisal report.

His primary argument involved the subject's proximity to high tension wires in the rear of the property. Review of tax maps and photographs of the subject property showed that a child residing at the taxpayer's property would easily be able to have contact with the stanchion that holds the high tension wires. He also pointed to his rear yard slope and a drainage ditch on the rear edge of the property that causes flooding of his rear yard.

The municipality's real estate appraiser qualified to testify as an expert witness. He also used four comparable sales ranging in price from $233,000 to $310,000. Three of the four sales were located on different streets, distant from the subject property and, thus, clearly further from the high tension wires. He provided an adjustment grid demonstrating usual adjustments for size, age, location and amenities. The appraisal expert's opinion of value of the subject property based upon the market sales approach was $320,000. This expert witness did not make adjustments for the existence of the slope and drainage ditch on the subject property or for the proximity to the high tension wires, however.

The Tax Court is authorized by statute to consider reliable evidence from a pro se litigant, even if such evidence is not derived from expert opinion. It stated that the taxpayer's comparable sales provided reliable evidence from which the Court can glean value. The Court is not bound to accept any or all of the expert's testimony.

The Court examined the comparable sales provided and determined that the residential properties most approximate to high tension wires had a lower market value. The expert witness had not considered proximity to the wires an important factor. The plaintiff had thought that this negative factor was very relevant.

The Court found that, as of October 1, 1997, the relevant assessment date, the appraised value of the subject property was $275,000. It then determined whether or not the taxpayer is entitled to discrimination relief on the basis of Chapter 123, or N.J.S.A. 54:51A-6. Livingston Township's average ratio, as promulgated by the Director of the Division of Taxation for 1998, was 26.80%, with an upper limit of the common level range of 30.82% and a lower limit of 22.78%. The Court calculated the ratio of the original assessment ($103,900) to true value as found by the Tax Court ($275,000) at 37.78%, clearly above the upper level (30.82%) of the common level range. This entitled the taxpayer to Chapter 123 relief. When the Chapter 123 ratio of 26.80% was applied to the Court's finding of true value ($275,000), the resulting assessment for the subject property is $73,700. Judgment for 1998 was entered for an assessment as follows:

Improvement	44,800
Total	$73,700

Added Assessment on Improvements – Michael Otelsberg v. Bloomfield Township, decided June 25, 1999; Tax Court of New Jersey, No. 000128-97.

Decision addressed the validity of a 1997 added assessment imposed on taxpayer's property for alleged improvements after October 1, 1996. Plaintiff purchased the three bedroom, single family home on December 10, 1996 for $135,000. He contended that the house contained several negative features: unpleasant odors, an outmoded kitchen, and other neglect and physical deterioration. Taxpayer himself completed renovations in January 1997 including replacement of the carpet in the living room, dining room, hallway, and three bedrooms; renovation of the kitchen with new cabinets, and new interior painting. He did not file permits for any of the work performed. After he had received his 1997 notice of assessment for $162,300, he filed a petition of appeal to the Essex County Board of Taxation.

At the May 1, 1997 hearing, both the taxpayer (appearing pro se) and the assessor agreed that the 1997 assessment would be reduced to $135,000 (the purchase price). Taxpayer testified that the assessor did not indicate during the settlement conference that the municipality would later impose an added assessment on the subject property. On May 16, 1997, the County Board entered judgment reducing the assessment in accordance with the agreement.

After the execution of this judgment, the municipality levied an added assessment of $36,700 for the improvements to the property for 1997, and prorated it for six months at $18,350. On appeal by taxpayer, the County Board upheld the added assessment, which determination was subsequently appealed to the Tax Court.

The Tax Court found that the added assessment on the taxpayer's property for the 1997 tax year is valid. N.J.S.A. 54:4-63.3 grants the authority to a municipality to impose an added assessment on a property, when the building or structure has been "erected, added to or improved after October 1, and completed between January 1 and October 1." The Tax Court referred to its decision in Harrison Realty Corp. v. Town of Harrison, 15 N.J. Tax at 385, defining the term "improved" as:

The mere retrofitting, up-grading or remediation of deferred maintenance does not constitute an addition to the property; nor does it constitute an improvement. The term "improved," as used in the statute must, under the doctrine of ejusdem generis, be read in the context of the word "added" as used in this statute. That is to say, an improvement is in the nature of an addition.

There is no other case law other than the Harrison decision to provide guidance to the meaning of "improved" as found in the statute. Black's Law Dictionary defines improved as "to meliorate, make better, to increase the value or good qualities of, mend, repair..." It is a settled principle of statutory construction that "the language of a statute should be given its ordinary meaning and construed in a common sense manner to accomplish the legislative purpose."

The Tax Court also cited its decision rendered in Snyder v. South Plainfield Borough: "Without the added assessments, an improved property would escape taxation for a period of several months until the next regular assessment date." The taxpayer contends that the May 16, 1997 judgment reflects the true value of the subject property and binds the municipality to that assessment. The Tax Court found that, consistent with the United States Postal Serv. v. Town of Kearney decision, the executed stipulation of settlement in this litigation related only to the assessment under review at the time the settlement was made. The added assessment was not yet levied on May 1, 1997, nor was it before the County Board when they entered judgment based upon the stipulation of settlement.

Taxpayer has the burden of proof to establish by a preponderance of the evidence that the assessment appealed from is invalid. The Tax Court ruled that Otelsberg did not present any competent method of valuation. He did not present expert testimony or an appraisal report during trial. He relied solely upon his experience as the manager of a local real estate office to testify about his general knowledge of real estate values in the Township. He did not testify as to value nor did he produce sales of comparable properties from which to draw a conclusion of value.

The municipality presented its assessor as an expert witness. He had an appraisal report, using comparable sales as an approach to valuation. He made adjustments to the subject property, concluding that the value of the subject property is $171,700. Although he acknowledged his inability to gain access to the interior of some of his comparable sales, the evidence submitted by the municipality was more reliable than any evidence that the taxpayer submitted, the Tax Court concluded.

A municipality is empowered by the added assessment statute to levy additional taxes to a property where there has been an increase in the value to the property. The Court stated that all the improvements that the taxpayer made created a significant increase in the value to the property. The taxpayer cannot rely solely on the notion that the improvements made on the subject property were not additions; this was not a significant issue. The added assessment was valid, and a judgment was entered for 1997 for $36,700 (prorated for six months).

Sales and Use Tax Fees for Exterminator's Reinspection – Williams Termite & Pest Control, Inc. v. Director, Division of Taxation, decided October 8, 1999; Tax Court; No. 003650-1997.

Plaintiff is in the business of exterminating termites and other pests. Plaintiff provided both inspection and treatment services during the period at issue. The initial contract provided for an inspection, treatment and a future annual reinspection and treatment fee. After performing the initial services, plaintiff sent annual renewal notices to its customers offering reinspection and further treatment services, if necessary, for a $109 fee. Sales tax was charged on the initial contract price but not on the $109 renewal. At issue was whether the renewal was subject to tax where the initial service included treatment.

The Court cited articles published in the January/February 1976, March/April 1979, and July/August 1981 New Jersey State Tax News that made it clear that the Division had pronounced that “when there is an obligation to retreat, and there has been a previous contract requiring treatment, the new charge, the warranty charge, the reinspection charge, the annual charge, whatever it is called, is subject to tax.” The Court found the Director’s interpretation logical acknowledging that there was no question of taxability where all the annual reinspection fees were charged with the initial contract.

The Court ruled that a “reinspection fee, which includes the right to a treatment, if necessary, which follows a treatment under the contract terms in this case, is subject to sales tax.” The Court did not rule on the taxability of a reinspection fee following only an inspection as those facts were not before the Court. □

Cigarette Tax

Sales of Reimported Cigarettes — P.L. 1999, c.328 (signed into law on January 6, 2000) forbids the stamping and sale of reimported cigarettes originally produced for export.

Under the legislation, distributors cannot stamp packages that:

- Do not comply with the Federal Cigarette Labeling and Advertising Act.
- Are labeled “For Export Only,” “U.S. Tax Exempt,” “For Use Outside U.S.,” or other wording indicating that the manufacturer did not intend that the product be sold in the United States.
- Have been altered adding or deleting words, labels or warnings described above.
- Were imported into the United States after January 1, 2000.
- Violate Federal trademark or copyright laws.

The law also makes it illegal to possess and/or sell cigarettes that fall into any of the above categories, and such cigarettes are subject to confiscation. This legislation became effective upon enactment.

Corporation Business Tax Certain Hedge Fund Income of Alien Corporations Excluded —

P.L. 1999, c.369 (signed into law on January 14, 2000) excludes certain investment income generated in New Jersey by corporations from foreign nations involved in investing and trading for their own accounts. If a corporation has some activities that go beyond trading for its own accounts, the trading income may remain exempt in some cases. This act applies to privilege periods ending on or after July 1, 2000.

Gross Income Tax

Checkoff for Organ and Tissue Donor Awareness Education Fund — P.L. 1999, c.386 (signed into law on January 14, 2000) allows taxpayers to make voluntary contributions on their gross income tax returns for organ donor education programs. This act applies to tax years beginning on or after January 1, 2001.

Qualified Conservation Contribution — P.L. 1999, c.372 (signed into law on January 14, 2000) provides a gross income tax deduction for qualified contributions of certain interests in real property located in this State for conservation purposes as defined under the Federal IRC section 170(h). The amount of the deduction will be equal to the amount allowed as a deduction for Federal income tax purposes. This act applies to tax years beginning on or after January 1, 2000.

Checkoff for Vietnam Veterans’ Memorial Fund — P.L. 1999, c.355 (signed into law on January 14, 2000) makes the Vietnam Veterans’ Memorial Fund checkoff on the gross income tax return permanent. This act applies to tax years beginning on or after January 1, 2000.

Realty Transfer Fee — P.L. 1999, c.357 (signed into law on January 14, 2000) clarifies that the conversion from a cooperative to a condominium is not subject to the realty transfer fee. This legislation became effective upon enactment.

Recreational Vehicles — P.L. 1999, c.284 (signed into law on December 20, 1999) provides that a recreational vehicle installed in a campsite is not subject to tax as real property.

The legislation defines a recreational vehicle as a unit consisting of one or more transportable sections primarily constructed off-site, built on a permanent chassis, and designed to be used as a temporary dwelling. The unit is on a nonpermanent foundation and is not used as a dwelling on a perma-ment basis. This legislation became effective upon enactment.

Continuing Education Program for Tax Assessors — P.L. 1999, c.278 (signed into law on December 8, 1999) requires tax assessors to complete a specified number of continuing education credits for renewal of tax assessor certificates and establishes the Tax Assessor Continuing Education Eligibility Board to set curriculum requirements.

To renew a certificate, applicants must pay the required fee of at least $50 and provide verification that the continuing education requirements were met. The requirement for the first renewal is 50 continuing education credit hours during the preceding 5-year period. The requirement for subsequent renewals is 30 continuing education credit hours during the preceding 3-year period. This act takes effect on July 1, 2000.

Miscellaneous

Authorization to Impose Municipal Taxes Extended — P.L. 1999, c.375 (signed into law on January 14, 2000) extends the municipal payroll and parking tax authorization for Jersey City, Elizabeth and Hudson County municipalities to December 31, 2004. The authorization for Newark is extended to September 30, 2000 and can be extended further under the terms of P.L. 1999, c.216.

The law also clarifies that instrumentalities of the State, such as New Jersey Transit Corporation, are not exempt from local parking taxes. This legislation became effective upon enactment.

Sales and Use Tax

Exempt Organization Status — P.L. 1999, c.416 (signed into law on January 18, 2000) grants exempt organization status under the Sales and Use Tax Act to a National Guard organization, the Marine Corps League, war veterans' posts or associations and the auxiliary units of these organizations.

The law clarifies an existing requirement that the exemption from sales tax of a sale to an exempt organization shall apply only if no part of the net earnings of the organization benefit any private shareholder or individual and the organization does not engage in lobbying or political campaign activity.

The law also creates a Sales and Use Tax Review Commission to review any bills that would expand or reduce the base of the sales and use tax. This legislation took effect March 1, 2000.

Exemptions for Hurricane Floyd Victims — P.L. 1999, c.365 (signed into law on January 14, 2000) provides an exemption from sales tax paid by victims of Hurricane Floyd to replace motor vehicles, household goods, home repair materials, heating and cooling systems and appliances, as well as services to install, replace or repair property that was damaged or lost in flooding attributable to Hurricane Floyd in counties federally designated as disaster areas.

Documentation of the flood loss and proof of sales tax paid must accompany any claim for a refund. This legislation became effective upon enactment and applies retroactively to purchases made during the recovery period, September 17, 1999 through September 30, 2000. Refunds must be requested on or before March 31, 2001.

Farmer's Exemption — P.L. 1999, c.314 (signed into law on January 6, 2000) expands the sales tax exemption for certain purchases made for farm use.

The law provides that the sales tax exemption for wrapping supplies will now include containers for use in a "farming enterprise."

The farm use exemption is expanded to include the sale to a farmer of production and conservation services, in addition to the sale of tangible personal property. These sales must be directly and primarily used in the production, handling and preservation for sale of an agricultural or horticultural commodity at the farming enterprise of the farmer. The exemption does not apply to sales of automobiles, energy or materials used to construct a building or structure other than a silo, greenhouse, grain bin, or manure handling equipment. This act applies to sales made on or after January 1, 2000.

Commuter Ferryboat Exemption — P.L. 1999, c.273 (signed into law on November 24, 1999) provides for an exemption from sales tax on the sales, repairs, alterations or conversion of ferryboats that are used primarily to transport passengers during peak commuting hours. This legislation became effective upon enactment.

Spill Compensation Tax

Extension of Cap Benefit — P.L. 1999, c.342 (signed into law on January 10, 2000), provides an extension of the cap benefit under the Spill Compensation and Control Tax.

This law amends the Spill Compensation and Control Act to allow

a Spill tax capped corporation's successor in interest pursuant to an IRC §368(a)(1)(D) reorganization on or before October 1, 1997 to be eligible for such cap, which is an annual tax limit of no more than 125% of the tax liability in the 1986 base year of the predecessor corporation. It would also allow the successor corporation a refund of any Spill taxes paid in excess of the capped limitation since January 1, 1996.

The law also clarifies that for a capped corporation or its qualified successor in interest, the taxes not included in the 1986 base would only be for those major facilities that prior to January 1, 1996 were entirely closed and decommissioned.

This legislation became effective upon enactment. □

Higher Filing Threshold

Filing Category	Previous Threshold (1998)	New Threshold
		1999	2000	2001
Married filing jointly, Head of household & Qualifying widow(er)	$7,500	$10,000	$15,000	$20,000
Married filing separately	$3,750	$5,000	$7,500	$10,000
Single; estates & trusts	$7,500	$10,000	$10,000	$10,000

For tax year 1999, the income level at which taxpayers become subject to New Jersey gross income tax and obligated to file a New Jersey gross income tax return has been increased from $7,500 ($3,750 if married, filing a separate return) to $10,000 ($5,000 if married, filing a separate return). Further increases will occur in tax years 2000 and 2001 as shown in the table above.

The higher filing threshold removes from the tax rolls many lower income people who formerly were subject to the State's income tax and required to file a New Jersey return. Taxpayers with incomes below the new threshold must still file a return to request a refund of any tax that was paid through withholding, estimated payments, etc. New Jersey residents whose income is below the threshold, and who are eligible for a homestead rebate, must file a homestead rebate application (Form HR-1040). □

Nonresident Return Error

The 1999 New Jersey nonresident gross income tax return form (NJ-1040NR) contains an error on page two, Line 39 (Net Gambling Winnings). Column B of that line is incorrectly blacked out making it impossible to enter an amount in that space. The correct location for the blacked out area is Column B, Line 40 (Pensions, Annuities and IRA Withdrawals).

Nonresident taxpayers with gambling winnings from New Jersey sources to report for 1999 should enter the appropriate amount on Line 40, Column B and write GW in the margin next to this amount. If the taxpayer does not have gambling winnings from New Jersey sources, no amount should be entered on Line 40, Column B since pension, annuity and IRA withdrawal income from New Jersey sources is not taxable to nonresidents.

Taxpayers who were mailed a preprinted label inside their NJ-1040NR booklet were sent a postcard explaining the error. □

Treasurer Sworn In

On December 8, 1999, Roland M. Machold was sworn in as New Jersey's 48th Treasurer by Governor Christine Todd Whitman. Mr. Machold, who spent his early career as an investment banker with Morgan Stanley & Co., served as Director of the New Jersey Division of Investment for 22 years, where, at the time of his retirement in 1998, he was responsible for 152 State funds aggregating $76 billion. □

"Paperless" Returns

New Jersey offers residents a variety of options for filing their individual State income tax without having to submit a paper return.

NJ PC FILE

Most New Jersey residents with access to a Windows 95/98 based personal computer equipped with a modem can prepare and file their New Jersey gross income tax returns electronically with the aid of NJ PC File, a free software package available from the Division's Web site. For tax year 1999, NJ PC File users who are not required to file a New Jersey income tax return can now file just their Homestead Rebate application.

Taxpayers using NJ PC File will receive their refunds within two weeks of filing. Up-to-date information on NJ PC File is available on the Division's home page:

<http://www.state.nj.us/treasury/taxation/>

NJ TELEFILE

New Jersey residents with gross income of $150,000 or less may be eligible to TeleFile their State income tax returns/homestead rebate applications using a Touchtone telephone. The income must have been derived entirely from wages, interest and dividends and neither the interest nor the dividend portion of the income may exceed $1,000. The taxpayer must use the same filing status used on the previous year's return and may not be claiming an exemption for age 65 or older, or for being blind or disabled. Additional restrictions may apply.

For tax year 1999, taxpayers and their spouses (in cases where a joint return is filed) must "sign" the return electronically by entering their 4-digit TeleFile PIN number to attest to the truthfulness of the information on the return. Previously, TeleFilers provided a “voice” signature as verification.

Refunds claimed on TeleFiled returns are mailed to taxpayers within two weeks of TeleFiling. To TeleFile, call 1-888-235-FILE (3453) from a Touch-tone telephone within New Jersey, or 609-826-4448 from a Touch-tone telephone anywhere.

ELECTRONIC FILING (ELF)

Taxpayers who have access to a personal computer equipped with an appropriate tax preparation software package can use ELF to prepare and file their own State income tax returns. Alternatively, taxpayers may have a tax professional prepare and/or transmit their return in electronic format for them. Taxpayers who file their State returns using ELF must also file their Federal returns via this method. Certain ELF filers may have to complete an Individual Income Tax Declaration for Electronic Filing (Form NJ-8453) when their return is accepted.

Transmitters and Electronic Return Originators (EROs) who wish to participate in the New Jersey ELF program must register with the Division of Revenue each year. Returns submitted by Transmitters or EROs who have failed to register with New Jersey will be rejected. Since this program includes both the Federal and State returns, practitioners participating for the first time should contact the electronic filing coordinator at the IRS Newark District Office. The phone number is 973-645-6690. Registering with the IRS does not automatically allow transmitters and EROs to participate in New Jersey’s ELF program.

Property Tax Reimbursement

Applications for the Property Tax Reimbursement program were mailed in early 2000. This is the second year of the program that reimburses senior citizens and disabled persons for property tax increases. Eligible applicants should be sure to file their applications on or before March 15, 2000. Reimbursement checks are scheduled to be mailed to qualified applicants on July 15, 2000.

Personalized applications were mailed to individuals who applied for and received a 1998 Property Tax Reimbursement.

Each applicant’s form was pre-printed with information that was provided on their 1998 application. These individuals need only provide information for 1999 along with copies of property tax bills and proof of the amount of property taxes paid for 1999. Individuals who received a 1998 Property Tax Reimbursement but have not received a personalized application, Form PTR-2, should call the Property Tax Reimbursement Hotline at 1-800-882-6597 to have one mailed to them.

Form PTR-1 will again be available to the general public and must be used by applicants who did not receive a 1998 Property Tax Reimbursement. This form was automatically mailed to individuals who applied for but did not receive a 1998 Property Tax Reimbursement. Individuals filing Form PTR-1 will be required to provide information for both 1998 and 1999 along with copies of property tax bills and proof of the amount of property taxes paid for both years.

Applicants who cannot locate property tax bills, or proof of the amount of taxes paid, may use a verification form provided in the Property Tax Reimbursement booklet. The form must be completed and certified by the local tax collector and submitted with the application. A verification form is also provided for mobile home owners and must be completed and certified by the owner or manager of the mobile home park in which the applicant resides.

Applicants must meet residency and income requirements to be eligible for the program. The income limits for 1998 and 1999 are:

1998 — less than $17,918 if you are single, or $21,970 (combined income) if married, and 1999 — less than $18,151 if you are single, or $22,256 (combined income) if married.

Applicants who are also entitled to homestead rebates must file a separate Homestead Rebate Application (Form HR-1040) to receive a homestead rebate.

To order forms or ask questions related to the program call the Property Tax Reimbursement Hotline at 1-800-882-6597. Division representatives are available from 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m., Monday through Friday (except holidays). □

Tax Preparer ID Numbers

As a result of a 1998 amendment to the Federal Internal Revenue Code, the IRS now allows tax preparers to apply for a Federal “preparer tax identification number.” As a result of the recent changes, a tax preparer may use either his or her social security number or Federal preparer tax identification number on clients’ Federal returns and refund claims. For purposes of filing New Jersey State returns or refund claims, tax preparers may use either their social security or Federal preparer tax identification number, as long as the preparer uses the same number for the State filings as used for the Federal filings. □

GROSS INCOME TAX NJ-1040 Filing Tips

Where’s my refund? Why did you send me this bill? Where’s my Homestead Rebate? These are the questions most frequently asked by anxious taxpayers who call or write to the Division of Taxation.

The following are some important tips for taxpayers and practitioners for filing 1999 New Jersey gross income tax returns. Of course, the best way to ensure an accurate return and a quick refund is to use one of New Jersey’s “paperless” filing methods: NJ PC File, NJ TeleFile or NJ E-File.

Whichever filing method you choose, here are some reminders that will prevent delays in receiving refunds and homestead rebates, and eliminate the issuance of erroneous bills, all of which cause otherwise unnecessary calls and letters to the Division.

- Be sure to use a 1999 return; there are certain changes on the form that apply specifically to the 1999 return year.

- Read the instruction booklet before completing the return.
- Be sure to use the State Wages figure from W-2s and not the Federal wages. In many cases they will be different.
- When calculating your Property Tax Deduction, be sure to use only 18% of the annual amount of rent you paid if you are a tenant. Property owners can claim the actual amount of property tax paid or $10,000, whichever is less. If you claim the Property Tax Credit, the amount will be $50 ($25 if married filing a separate return).
- Check your math.
- Make sure all required lines are completed on the return.

- If you use the Tax Tables to compute your tax due, be sure to use the correct column based upon your filing status.
- If your taxable income is $100,000 or more and you use the Tax Rate Schedules to compute the tax due, remember to complete Step 3 on either Table A or Table B in the schedule.
- Be sure to use the correct label on the return if there are multiple filers in the same household.
- Be sure to complete page 3 of the return if you are requesting a refund or credit forward.
- Check to see that your return is signed and dated.
- Be sure that W-2s are legible.
- Review all of your payment records before preparing your return, so that you may properly take credit for all estimated payments, payments made with requests for extension, and credits forward from the prior year.
- When taking credit for taxes paid to other jurisdictions, be sure to include a copy of the tax return that you filed with the other state or taxing jurisdiction.
- When reporting business income, be sure to include a copy of the Federal Schedule C, C-EZ, or F.
- Be sure to include Schedule NJ-K-1, Form NJ-1065 (or a copy of Federal Schedule K-1, Form 1065) when reporting partnership income.
- When reporting S Corporation income, be sure to include Schedule NJ-K-1, Form CBT-100S (or a copy of Federal Schedule K-1, Form 1120S).

- Be sure to attach Schedule NJ-2450 when claiming excess UI/HC/WD and disability contributions.
- When preparing your payment voucher, be sure to write your social security number on your check. On joint returns, write the primary social security number of the return on the check.
- Remember to complete the Homestead Rebate Application if you are eligible for a rebate.
- Since New Jersey estimated payments are due on the same dates as Federal estimated payments, be sure to mail your New Jersey payment and NJ-1040-ES to New Jersey, and your Federal payment and 1040-ES to the IRS.

Following these guidelines will help to ensure that your return is processed timely and accurately, your payments, withholdings and credits properly applied, your refund and/or rebate received timely, and the chances of you receiving an unexpected bill, significantly reduced. □

GROSS INCOME TAX NJ Information on Form W-2

Employers must furnish a Wage and Tax Statement (Form W-2) to each employee showing the amount of wages paid, the amount of state income tax withheld, the name of the state where the tax was remitted and certain other information. New Jersey does not have a separate form for reporting these wage and tax figures. They are reported on Federal Form W-2 in the boxes provided for state tax information. Report information on the W-2 for employees working in New Jersey as follows:

- ◆ Box 14 — Report amounts withheld as employee contributions to New Jersey Unemployment Insurance/Health Care Subsidy Fund/Workforce Development Partnership Fund (UI/HC/WD) and Disability Insurance (DI). These amounts must be reported separately. Employers with approved private disability plans must also include their assigned private plan number in this box. New Jersey employers no longer have a separate identification number issued by the Department of Labor, except for those employers with private disability plans.
- ◆ Box 16 — In most cases, New Jersey income tax is withheld from the salaries of employees working in this State. CORPORATION TAX

Child Care Credit

On May 6, 1999 Assembly Bill No. 1669 (3R) was signed into law as Chapter 102, P.L. 1999 by Governor Whitman. The law provides a new corporation business tax credit under the Neighborhood and Business Child Care Tax Incentive Program.

A corporation that is a member of a small/medium business child care consortium for the three year demonstration program would be allowed a credit equal to 15% of the corporation's expenditures for child care center physical plant or facilities owned or operated by the consortium or by a contracted sponsoring organization during the demonstration period.

A corporation is also allowed a credit equal to 10% of its contributions during a privilege period, whether in cash or in kind, to a sponsor of a neighborhood-based child care center that was awarded a program grant.

In order to take advantage of the credit, corporations must request Form 309 from the Division's Taxpayer Forms Services and file it with the corporation business tax return filed.

The allowable total Neighborhood and Business Child Care Tax Credit in addition to the amount of all other credits taken is limited to 50% of the taxpayer's total tax liability and can not reduce the total tax liability below the statutory minimum. The credit does not

GROSS INCOME TAX Undistributed Trust Income

The fiduciary of every resident trust is required to file a New Jersey Gross Income Tax Fiduciary Return (Form NJ-1041) if gross income is more than $10,000 during the taxable year. For tax years 1994 through 1998 the filing threshold amount was $7,500; for tax years 1993 and before, $3,000.

The fiduciary of every nonresident trust which derives income from New Jersey sources must file an NJ-1041 if the gross income received from all sources (both inside and outside New Jersey) during the taxable year is more than $10,000.

Recently, a trust administrator inquired about the filing requirements of a trust when the trust, created in New Jersey by the will of a New Jersey domiciliary, is not administered in New Jersey. The trustees, the trust assets and the beneficiaries are not located in New Jersey.

In two 1983 New Jersey Tax Court cases the facts are consistent with those in the inquiry and both times the Court decided that there was insufficient tax nexus for the trust to be taxed on its undistributed income.

In Robert M. Pennoyer v. Director, Division of Taxation it was held that undistributed income of a testamentary trust created by the will of a New Jersey domiciliary did not have sufficient nexus for taxation in New Jersey where the trustee, beneficiaries and assets of the trust are all located outside New Jersey.

In Robert S. Potter v. Director, Division of Taxation it was held that undistributed income of an irrevocable inter vivos trust created by a New Jersey domiciliary was not subject to the New Jersey tax where the trustee, beneficiaries and assets were all located outside New Jersey.

The Tax Court in Potter did state that even though New Jersey resident beneficiaries were subject to tax on trust income distributed to them or on undistributed income over which they had control, that fact was not a sufficient reason to tax the trust on undistributed trust income.

The Division has interpreted the Tax Court decisions to mean that if all trust assets and all trustees are located outside New Jersey the trust is not subject to tax on its undistributed income.

Trustees unsure of their responsibilities for filing New Jersey gross income tax fiduciary returns should write to the Division of Taxation at the following address, giving detailed information about the trust:

Volunteers Provide Assistance

The Division of Taxation is proud to be continuing its long association with the Volunteer Income Tax Assistance (VITA) and Tax Counseling for the Elderly (TCE) programs. These programs train hundreds of volunteer tax preparers who fill out tax forms at no charge for tens of thousands of individuals at hundreds of sites throughout the State.

The Division familiarizes volunteers in both programs with the important aspects of the New Jersey Gross Income Tax/Homestead Rebate and the new Property Tax Reimbursement program so they may assist senior and low-income New Jersey taxpayers complete their returns. □

Domestic Employer Tax Reporting

Effective January 1, 2000, employers of household workers may report and remit gross income tax withholding and unemployment and disability insurance on an annual basis. Form NJ-927H (Employer Annual Report) will be mailed to all domestic employers the last week of December to be completed and returned by the due date of January 31, 2001.

This change in reporting pertains only to gross income tax withholding and unemployment and disability insurance. All employers are still required to file the Employer Report of Wages Paid (Form WR-30) on a quarterly basis.

One-Stop Business Registration Service

New Jersey Department of the Treasury is now offering a unique one-stop service for businesses that wish to form New Jersey corporations. The new service will streamline the business formation process and enable corporations to begin operations on a more timely basis without the need to contact and file papers with multiple State and Federal offices.

Administered by the Division of Revenue's Business Services Branch, the new service will enable businesses to obtain all of the following after a single visit to the service center located at 225 West State Street, Trenton, New Jersey:

- Certificate of Incorporation – This is the legal document needed to establish new corporations.
- Federal Employer Identification Number (FEIN) – This tax identification number will be assigned through an innovative pilot project offered under the auspices of the Internal Revenue Service and New Jersey Division of Revenue.
- New Jersey Tax/Employer Registration – In addition to obtaining FEINs directly from the State, service center customers will be able to register on-site for all applicable taxes and employer contributions (for unemployment and disability).

For more information about the one-stop service center and the Division of Revenue's commercial recording and business service programs, call 609-292-9292 or visit the Division's business gateway Web site at:

Warrants Filed Electronically

As a result of the continued support of the Office of Information Technology and with the cooperation of the technical support group for the Clerk of the Superior Court, in October 1999, the Division of Taxation began processing its Warrants for Satisfaction of Judgments electronically with the Superior Court of New Jersey. This process involves the Division's passing certain electronic information to the Office of the Courts which will update the Court's records before returning electronic information to the Division confirming that this update took place. This process is being run on a weekly basis. This new process significantly decreases delays in the satisfaction of these judgments and allows the Division to provide better customer service to the affected taxpayers.

Previously, the Division of Taxation would timely produce hard copies of the Warrant for Satisfaction and forward same to the Clerk for recording. Once recorded, the Court would in turn furnish the Division with a confirmed copy for its files and/or for the dissemination to the taxpayer and/or his representatives. It was not unusual for a period of four to six weeks to go by before the confirmed copy was returned to the Division, resulting in delays for taxpayers who were awaiting the completion of certain financial transactions. These taxpayers would in turn contact Division personnel complaining about these long delays although the Division had no control over this process.

In the past, the Division as a courtesy to the taxpayer, would, upon request, provide them with a confirmed copy of the Satisfaction for their records. Since the Division of Taxation is no longer receiving confirmed copies of any Satisfactions, the taxpayer will have to contact the Office of the Clerk of the Superior Court of New Jersey, in Trenton, at 609-292-4804, for a true copy of the Satisfaction. The Division will continue to produce a facsimile of the Satisfaction for any taxpayer requesting one, however, those taxpayers requiring a certified copy must contact the Court. □

SALES AND USE TAX Motor Vehicle Leases

Under New Jersey law, the lessor of tangible personal property is considered to be the end user of the property and is required to pay use tax directly to the Division of Taxation. In addition, a lessor having leased tangible personal property present in New Jersey is deemed to have a place of business in this State and is thereby required to register with the State of New Jersey and remit any required taxes.

The New Jersey Sales and Use Tax Act makes a distinction between rentals and leases. Although both are agreements for the temporary possession and/or use of tangible personal property, a rental is a short-term transaction lasting 28 days or less. A lease has a term of more than 28 days.

Leases are treated differently than rentals for sales tax purposes. Under the law, the renting entity is required to collect the sales tax from the renter and remit it to the State. For leases, the lessor is required to pay the use tax but may recoup this tax from the lessee as a cost of the lease. These monies must be paid in their entirety with the next month's remittance after the lease is signed. The tax may be calculated in one of the following ways:

- 1) On the original purchase price — the purchase price of the vehicle less a separately stated charge for transportation to the dealer's place of business; or
- 2) On the total lease payments — the total of the lease payments attributable to the property, less the total interest service charge of the financial institution and/or the amount of the customer's trade deficit paid off through the lease.

The motor vehicle dealer is considered the lessor when he has the title to the motor vehicle and executes a lease agreement. The dealer is still the lessor required to remit the use tax if he executes the lease agreement and only the name of the finance company appears on the lease agreement and the finance company has the right to approve or deny the lease.

The early cancellation of the lease or the transferring of the vehicle out of State prior to the expiration of the lease is not a basis for the refunding of any portion of the tax. As to the tax imposed on the balance of the lease, the laws of that state will apply. In addition, if a vehicle is brought into the State the lessor must be registered with the State as any other lessor and would owe use tax on the remainder of the lease.

Any leased vehicle requiring title work by the Department of Motor Vehicles, other than renewals, must have, among other things, the back of the title or Manufacturer's Certificate of Origin stamped with a NJ Sales Tax Satisfied stamp correctly completed. This stamp certifies to D.M.V. that the taxes are being remitted correctly. Leased vehicles without this stamp completed correctly will not be able to be registered or titled. □

SALES AND USE TAX Computer Systems

Everyone has heard about the potential computer problems involving the year 2000 (Y2K). In addition, the beginning of any new year can be a trying time for many businesses and tax professionals since it is also the beginning of "tax season."

If a new computer system is purchased, it is taxable. Many people buy computers through catalogues from an out-of-State vendor who is not registered with the Division of Taxation in New Jersey. In such cases sales tax may not be charged on the purchase price. When this occurs, the purchaser must report and remit the amount of tax due as use tax using one of the following forms:

1. Businesses – If the purchaser is a business, the amount of use tax due must be included on Line 5 of the quarterly sales and use tax return, Form ST-50.
2. Individuals – Individual taxpayers report use tax due on either a Use Tax Return, Form ST-18, or on the use tax line of the New Jersey gross income tax return, Form NJ-1040.

Upgrading an existing computer system is also taxable. Purchasing hardware for additional memory, drivers or boards is considered purchasing tangible personal property. The fee for installing and repairing this hardware is also taxable since the technician is servicing or repairing personal property.

Software purchased for your computer is taxable. However, if the software has been specifically adapted to fulfill a customer's needs, it is exempt from sales tax. If a word processing program is purchased "off the shelf" it is taxable. If a software package is purchased that has been developed for one customer to meet specific needs, it is exempt from sales tax.

Computer-related services such as consulting services, technical instruction or programming are considered professional services and are not subject to sales tax. A taxable service is the sale of addressed labels or additional copies of records and reports which are prepared by rerunning the original program. □

LOCAL PROPERTY TAX F.E.A.C. Values

The Farmland Assessment Act of 1964 (Chapter 48, Laws of 1964) created a State Farmland Evaluation Advisory Committee and designated as the members thereof the Director of the Division of Taxation, the Dean of Cook College and the Secretary of Agriculture. The Act prescribed the functions and responsibilities of the Committee as follows:

"...The Committee shall meet from time to time on the call of the Secretary of Agriculture and annually determine and publish a range of values for each of the several classifications of land in agricultural or horticultural use in the various areas of the State. The primary objective of the Committee shall be the determination of the ranges in fair value of such land based upon its productive capabilities when devoted to agricultural or horticultural uses. In making these annual determinations of values, the Committee shall consider available evidence of agricultural or horticultural capability derived from the soil survey at Rutgers–The State University, the National Cooperative Soil Survey, and such other evidence of value of land devoted exclusively to agricultural or horticultural uses as it may in its judgment deem pertinent. On or before October 1 of each year, the Committee shall make these ranges of fair value available to the assessing authority in each of the taxing districts in which land in agricultural or horticultural use is located."

The methodology of capitalizing net farm income per acre in determining the ranges in fair value of the several classifications of qualified land has been continued in this report. However, the Committee decided to readopt the ranges of value of the prior year after considering the drought of 1999. Net farm income for 1999 (an important component in estimating farmland values) is not available until a year following production and sales. Knowing the drought will negatively affect net farm income in 1999, but not the extent, the Committee was reluctant to change values in a year of one of the most severe droughts on record. Accordingly, the Committee decided that holding values stable in its adoption this year would be an appropriate policy until more complete information becomes available in the ensuing year. □

LOCAL PROPERTY TAX Farmland Acreage

A report summarizing data from farmland assessment applications (FA-1) has recently been completed. The study shows that total acreage devoted to agricultural or horticultural use in 1999 was 1,164,951 acres for the entire state.

The data for tax year 1999 reflects a continued decline in the amount of qualified farmland since enactment of Chapter 48, Laws of 1964 (the "Farmland Assessment Act"). Since 1983, the year in which the highest acreage, 1,271,882 acres, qualified for farmland assessment, the amount of qualified acreage has declined 8.4% or a total of 106,932 acres.

24.2% of New Jersey's land mass is approved under the Farmland Assessment Act. Hudson County remains the only county without farmland. Essex and Union each report less than 500 acres devoted to agricultural or horticultural use. Conversely, Salem with 55.6% has the greatest proportion of its land qualified under the Act. Other counties with large percentages of qualified farmland are: Warren 50.5%; Hunterdon 50.2%; Gloucester 38%; Sussex 33.7% and Mercer 29%.

Copies of the 1999 report have been distributed to the County Tax Board Administrators. Anyone seeking specific information on qualified farmland acreage or wishing to obtain a copy of the report may do so by calling 609-292-7974. □

LOCAL PROPERTY TAX Tax Deductions Certified

The 1999 State Revenue Sharing Act Distribution for senior and disabled citizens, surviving spouses and veterans was delivered to the State Treasurer on September 15, 1999.

Under the provisions of R.S. 54A:10-1 et seq., as amended, the Director of the Division of Taxation certified to the State Treasurer in this report the amount of revenue sharing funds due each municipality on November 1, 1999.

The total amount of property tax deductions for senior and disabled citizens and surviving spouses for 1999 was $31,638,337. That amount represents a decrease of 6% from 1998.

The total number of property tax deductions for senior and disabled citizens and surviving spouses for 1999 was 121,168. When compared to tax year 1998 the number of deductions decreased 6.8%.

The amount of veterans' deductions for 1999 was $17,043,098. That amount represents a decrease of 2.8% from 1998.

The total number of veterans' deductions for 1999 was 334,193. When compared to tax year 1998 the number of deductions decreased 2.8%.

The total amount of property tax deductions and veterans' deductions includes the additional 2% each municipality is reimbursed for administrative costs as a result of c.30, P.L. 1997. □

Criminal Enforcement

Criminal Enforcement over the past several months included:

- On June 23, 1999, Richard A. Spair, a former investigator for the Mercer County Prosecutor's Office, plead guilty to stealing and selling computer equipment belonging to the county, defrauding customers by taking deposit monies and not delivering the ordered computer equipment and filing a false and fraudulent 1995 New Jersey gross income tax return. Under the terms of the plea agreement, Mr. Spair faces 180 days in jail, five years of probation, restitution of $79,232.15, payment of $6,600 of New Jersey gross income tax and forfeiture of all public employment in New Jersey for life. Sentencing was set for September 10, 1999.
- On July 9, 1999, the State grand jury returned an eight (8) count indictment against Natasha, Inc. for the nonpayment of collected motor fuels seller-user tax in the amount of $126,413. Charges identified in the indictment included theft of entrusted funds; misconduct by corporate official(s); and failure to file State tax returns.
- On July 14, 1999, Jeffrey A. Tyson, a former resident of Plainsboro, New Jersey, was entered into a Pre-Trial Intervention (PTI) Program for first time offenders. Mr. Tyson had been indicted for failure to file New Jersey gross income tax returns for the years 1993 through 1996, and failure to pay in excess of $4,000 in New Jersey gross income tax for those years. Mr. Tyson had cited constitutional issues relating to his requirement to file tax returns. Mr. Tyson stated that the offenses arose because of his "gullibility" in believing the rhetoric espoused by others. He agreed to make restitution of an amount in excess of $8,500 in taxes, penalties and interest on a monthly basis during his three year period of supervision.

- During the July 1999 session of the Middlesex County grand jury, all three subjects arrested by Special Agents of the Office of Criminal Investigation in March 1999, during the execution of a search warrant in Perth Amboy, New Jersey, were indicted. The subjects, Antonio Oviedo, Norberto Espinal from Brooklyn, New York, and Carlos Lopez from Perth Amboy, New Jersey, were indicted on possession of counterfeit tax stamps and possession of cigarettes bearing counterfeit stamps, both crimes of the 3rd degree. Both Espinal and Oviedo have prior arrests for the same activity in New York State.
- On August 2, 1999, Meyer Shevrin, a resident of Manalapan, New Jersey entered a guilty plea to one count of theft by failure to make required disposition of property received. Mr. Shevrin had operated the now defunct computer sales business known as World Sales, Inc. in Freehold, New Jersey, and failed to file sales tax returns and remit the sales tax monies that he had collected from customers on behalf of the State of New Jersey. As a term of the plea, Mr. Shevrin will make restitution of approximately $44,000 before he is sentenced on October 29, 1999.

- On August 13, 1999, Peter Anagnostis of Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, was sentenced to four years in State prison for failing to remit collected sales tax in the amount of $262,537. The sentence was handed down by Camden County Superior Court Judge John McNeill, who ordered full restitution. This joint investigation with the New Jersey State Police ABC Enforcement Unit and the Office of Criminal Investigation had determined that the theft of the entrusted sales tax monies had occurred between July 1, 1990 and June 30, 1994 from a liquor store in Cherry Hill, New Jersey, Anagnostis Inc., trading as Holiday Spirits. Mr. Anagnostis was originally indicted by a State grand jury on August 7, 1998. He was arrested on October 20, 1998 by members of the Philadelphia Police Department in response to an arrest warrant that was issued due to his failing to respond to official notices of his indictment by the grand jury. Mr. Anagnostis was extradited to New Jersey on January 13, 1999 in response to a Governor's arrest warrant. Judge McNeill ordered that Mr. Anagnostis be given credit for time served while incarcerated in the Philadelphia and Camden County jails, which was October 20, 1998 through August 12, 1999.

- On August 24, 1999, Ahmad Chikha, trading as 7-11 Grocery Store, Paterson, New Jersey, was found guilty in Paterson Municipal Court for possession of contraband cigarettes and failure to obtain a current retail over-the-counter cigarette license. The Court imposed a total of $810 in court costs, fees, and fines.
- On September 15, 1999, S&B Retailer Inc. of Hi-Nella, New Jersey, was charged with Possession of 55.4 cartons of contraband cigarettes both Pennsylvania and Delaware State stamped. Additional charges relative to no consumer license, no invoices, and failure to register for the wholesale tobacco products sales and use tax have been filed as well. A number of cigars were also retained as evidence of possession of untaxed goods. This case is the result of a cooperative investigation between New Jersey State Police ABCEB-Bellmawr station and the Office of Criminal Investigation.

- On September 17, 1999, Jaroslaw Biegaj of Brick Township, New Jersey, was found guilty in the Lakewood Municipal Court of transportation of contraband cigarettes. The Judge imposed a total of $1,155 in court costs, fees and fines.
- Sixty-seven charges were filed in municipal court on eight cases for violating the cigarette tax law including possession of 854.5 cartons of contraband cigarettes, valued at $28,071.58. □

Tax Briefs

Corporation Business Tax
Manufacturing Equipment and Employment Investment Credit - Form 305 — The following examples supply guidance about the operation of this tax credit.

Example 1

A single corporation owns plants in several states. When equipment is needed in one location, for example, the company may transfer an item from an out-of-State facility for use in the New Jersey plant.

The definition of “Qualified Equipment” refers to placing the equipment in service in this State. N.J.S.A. 54:10A-5.17. The Administrative Code, N.J.A.C. 18:7-3.21, provides in part that equipment is placed in service when the property is “placed in a condition or state of readiness and availability for a specifically assigned function.”

Accordingly, if a corporation moves equipment that otherwise would qualify for the credit from a location outside the State to a location within the State, such equipment would be eligible for the credit. Depreciation, having started when the property was originally placed in service outside the State, would continue. The equipment is not disqualified from the credit by depreciation not starting in New Jersey.

To distinguish between seasonal and more established part-time employees, the statute defines the term part-time employee to mean “an employee working for the taxpayer for at least 20 hours per week for at least six months during the tax year.” N.J.S.A. 54:10A-5.17.

In determining the number of employees in an environment where there is a great deal of turnover, the following method should be used. A full-time employee works 140 hours per month and is on permanent status. Since a part-time employee is required to work six months, the Division audit staff is not able to give credit for full-time employment that is less than the part-time standard. Therefore, to be considered as a full-time employee, credit cannot be given if “full-time” employees are working for less than six months, the part-time requirement.

Thus, to determine the number of full-time employees, add the hours worked by full-time employees that have been employed for six months or more, then divide the total by 1680, the number of hours a full-time worker would work in a year. The intention of the law is to give a credit for increases in the number of employees that are brought on and are kept employed.

Gross Income Tax

Treatment of Theft of Trust Fund Taxes — New Jersey gross income includes “Income, gain or profit derived from acts or omissions defined as crimes or offenses under the laws of...[New Jersey] or any other jurisdiction.” N.J.S.A. 54A:5-1.o. A vendor who collects sales tax but who keeps the tax, knowing that it should be paid over to the Division, may be in violation of N.J.S.A. 2C:21-15, which establishes sanctions for improperly disposing of entrusted property or property belonging to the State of New Jersey. Keeping the tax in those circumstances could constitute an “act []or omission [],” defined as a violation of law in New Jersey law. Accordingly, the amount of the sales tax kept by the vendor can be considered income for purposes of the New Jersey Gross Income Tax Act.

Severance Payments — New Jersey gross income includes “Salaries, wages,...and other remuneration received for services...” N.J.S.A. 54A:5-1.a. However, “damages received, whether by suit or agreement, on account of personal injuries or sickness” are excluded from gross income. N.J.S.A. 54A:6-6.b. An employee, laid-off as part of downsizing of the employer, who receives payments based upon years of service and salary is deemed to have received a salary, wage or other remuneration. That principle applies, even if, in exchange for the payment, the employee signs a General Release and Covenant Not to Sue in favor of the employer that does not arise out of a specific injury suffered by the employee. The release, and generalized employer concern about potential litigation does not make the payment “damages received...on account of personal injuries or sickness.”

Petitions for Refund — No petition for refund is permitted after a petition for redetermination of a deficiency is made pursuant to N.J.S.A. 54A:9-9(b).

N.J.S.A. 54A:9-9(c) establishes that a petition for refund of Gross Income Tax can be made if:

1. The claim is timely;
2. The taxpayer has not previously filed a petition with the Director under subsection (b) for the same claim;

3. Six months have expired since the claim was filed or a whole or partial denial was mailed to the taxpayer.

Recently, the Conference and Appeals Branch has been receiving refund claims relative to previously decided and paid protests for the same claim. The taxpayers did not appeal the previous redetermination to the Tax Court of New Jersey as provided for under N.J.S.A. 54A:9-10(a). Therefore, amended returns seeking refunds under these circumstances will be denied based on §9(c)(2) above.

Sale of Debtor's Residence by Bankruptcy Trustee —

The Division of Taxation will follow the decision of the United States Bankruptcy Court in In re Didario, 232 B.R. 311 (Bankr. N.J. 1999), which held that the gain from a sale of an individual Chapter 7 debtor's principal residence by the bankruptcy trustee may be excluded from the estate's Federal gross income pursuant to 26 U.S.C.A. Sec. 121. The Court noted that pursuant to 26 U.S.C.A. Sec. 1398(g), the estate succeeded to the debtor's tax attributes, and reasoned that the Sec. 121 exclusion was a tax attribute.

For New Jersey Gross Income Tax purposes a taxpayer may elect to exclude from gross income the gain realized on the sale of a qualifying principal residence. N.J.S.A. 54A:6-9.1. The Federal Bankruptcy Code provides that the bankruptcy estate of an individual Chapter 7 debtor succeeds to the debtor's state tax attributes. 11 U.S.C.A. Sec. 346(g)(2) and (i)(1). As the New Jersey statute was intended to correlate with the Federal law, the two provisions should be interpreted consistently. Accordingly, the trustee of the estate of an individual Chapter 7 debtor may utilize N.J.S.A. 54A:6-9, to the extent its requirements are met.

Sales & Use Tax

Internet Nexus — A corporation whose physical presence or economic activities are sufficient to give it nexus with New Jersey for sales and use tax purposes is required to collect New Jersey sales and use tax on sales of taxable items delivered to a New Jersey address unless the purchaser claims a valid statutory exemption.

The Internet Tax Freedom Act was intended to prevent states from imposing new taxes that are specifically aimed at Internet-related activities. The Federal government deemed the moratorium necessary in order to minimize the possibility of multiple and inconsistent taxation by more than one state or local jurisdiction and to prevent the imposition of discriminatory taxes that would burden Internet-related transactions more than non-Internet transactions. The Act does not prevent states from enforcing existing taxes. It would, however, prevent the imposition of a new tax on charges for access to the Internet. The Act was clearly not intended to turn Internet commerce into a tax-free zone, where otherwise taxable transactions, e.g., the purchase of books, toys or cameras delivered to New Jersey, would become exempt simply because they were ordered and paid for over the Internet instead of by mail or phone or in-person shopping.

Parent-Teacher Association Purchases and Sales —

The Division of Taxation received an inquiry regarding the Division's position on the sales tax consequences of purchases and sales by parent-teacher associations in New Jersey.

Generally, an organization holding a valid New Jersey sales and use tax exempt organization permit may make tax exempt purchases in New Jersey by issuing to the vendor a copy of its ST-5 Exempt Organization Certificate and making payment from the funds of the organization.

A New Jersey public school PTA (or any other exempt organization) holding a valid exempt organization permit may issue an ST-5 to its vendor when making purchases for occasional fundraising sales, whether the articles are purchased for resale or taken on consignment.

The purchase must be made with a PTA check.

When conducting occasional fundraiser sales, the PTA or any of its agents, whether they are members, students, parents, etc., may sell the items on behalf of the PTA or public school without collecting tax if payment is by cash or checks payable to the PTA.

If a PTA operates a school store on a daily, weekly or continuous basis, it must collect sales tax on taxable sales. In this case, the PTA must request that the Division of Revenue put them on a reporting basis so they can receive sales tax returns and properly remit sales tax. The PTA would issue an ST-3 Resale Certificate to its supplier to exempt store inventory purchases. There is no threshold amount of sales below which sales tax would not apply.

Scan Card Discount Program — The Division received an inquiry regarding the sales and use tax treatment of certain discounts offered to customers by a vendor who participates in various “vendor allowance” programs. In these situations, a vendor has contractual arrangements with some merchandise suppliers whereby the vendor agrees to provide the suppliers with certain promotional and advertising services in exchange for various vendor allowances, e.g., reduced prices charged on a product for a limited time, partial refunds for products already delivered and billed, permanent price reductions on an item, payments to the vendor for featuring the supplier’s products in the vendor’s promotional material, and payments to the vendor based on the volume of the supplier’s merchandise sold. By the terms of these contracts, the vendor is not obligated to pass these monetary benefits on to its customers; it is free to retain the allowances as additional profit.

The vendor in this case decided to offer product discounts to customers who participate in a promotional program that involves the use of scan cards. Customers who present the card receive a discount on certain products chosen by the vendor. Some or all of the discounted products may be supplied by companies that have given the “vendor allowance” in exchange for its promotional services.

Based on the above facts, the discount connected with customer’s use of the scan card will be treated as a vendor discount from the regular sale price to a consumer. The vendor allowance will not be deemed to be part of the vendor’s “receipt” for the retail sale of a specific item to a specific customer. See N.J.S.A. 54:32B-2(d); N.J.A.C. 18:24-1.4(h). Sales tax should therefore be charged on the price charged after deducting the vendor’s discount provided through use of the scan card. □

Subject Matter Jurisdiction – Delta Data Net, Inc., v. Director Division of Taxation, decided July 23, 1999; Tax Court; No. 00661-1999.

The Division sent the notice of assessment related to final audit determination for sales and use tax and corporation business tax (hereinafter “notice”) dated September 3, 1998 by certified mail and addressed to plaintiff’s address on September 2, 1998. The certified mail receipt indicates that plaintiff received the notice on September 4, 1998 as evidenced by the signature of plaintiff’s employee. By letter dated January 15, 1999, plaintiff protested and requested a conference that was denied by the Division’s February 5, 1999 letter for failure to file a protest within the 90-day period for the September 3, 1998 notice.

Pursuant to the Division’s motion to dismiss the complaint, plaintiff claimed that the complaint should be heard because (1) the letter was dated September 3 and mailed on September 2 which indicates it is not the same letter, (2) the certified receipt number was not put on the September 3 letter and that casts doubt as to whether it is the same letter, (3) the letter was not addressed to someone like the company’s CFO who had attended meetings with the Division concerning the audit at issue, (4) their June meeting with the Division was in the nature of a protest as they told the Division there were documents they needed to locate that would demonstrate that the tax was not owed, and (5) plaintiff is a zealous taxpayer that never would have ignored the notice.

The Court dismissed plaintiff's complaint due to lack of subject matter jurisdiction. The Court found that the September 3, 1998 notice of assessment was properly addressed, sent by certified mail to plaintiff, and received by plaintiff's employee. N.J.S.A. 54:49-19 provides that challenges to the notice of assessment must be filed within 90 days of the date of the notice. Therefore, the Court ruled that plaintiff did not timely file its protest with the Division because plaintiff did not file a written protest within this 90-day period. Furthermore, the Court stated that:

"It is not the problem of the director, and again, even putting the strongest responsibility on the director to turn square corners, it is not the problem or obligation of the director to hand deliver that letter, to have knocked on the door and said, Mr. Devito, here we are with something, it's really important and you need to look at it."

Subject Matter Jurisdiction – Dundee Automotive, Inc., v. Director Division of Taxation, decided July 30, 1999; Tax Court; No. 002143-99.

Plaintiff's complaint was timely received by the Tax Court Management Office (hereinafter "office") on the 89th day after the date of the Division's Final Determination; however, the filing fee was not included. The office stamped the complaint "Received but not Filed" and permitted plaintiff ten days to remit the filing fee in order for the complaint to be considered filed timely. On the 17th day, the office received plaintiff's filing fee.

The Court granted the Division's motion to dismiss the complaint. The Court held that it lacked jurisdiction to hear the case because plaintiff failed to perfect his appeal with the Tax Court within 90 days of the date of the Final Determination.

Subject Matter Jurisdiction – James Construction Company, Inc., v. Director Division of Taxation and Commissioner, Department of Labor, decided

June 22, 1999; Tax Court; No. 005268-98.

The Court ruled that the Tax Court does not have jurisdiction to hear unemployment compensation contribution cases. The Court found that neither the statutes, regulations, nor the Tax Court jurisdiction statutes grant judicial review by the Tax Court.

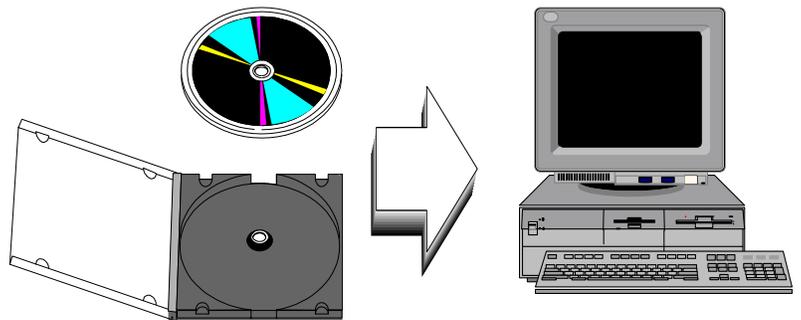

Corporation Business Tax Receipts Includable in Numerator of Allocation Factor – Stryker Corporation, v. Director Division of Taxation, decided August 16, 1999; Tax Court; No. 004852-96.

At issue is whether the Division properly included in the numerator of the receipts fraction all receipts generated by drop shipment transactions occurring in New Jersey destined for out-of-State customers.

Osteonics Corporation, a New Jersey corporation, is the wholly-owned subsidiary of plaintiff, a Michigan corporation. Both plaintiff and Osteonics are located in the same building in Allendale, New Jersey. Plaintiff paid all the real estate related costs.

Osteonics sole function was to receive and process customer orders for plaintiff's products manufactured at the New Jersey plant. Osteonics then placed its order with plaintiff. Plaintiff packed and shipped the products to Osteonics' customers via common carrier, F.O.B. Allendale, throughout the United States. Thereafter, Osteonics would bill its customers.

Although plaintiff did not invoice Osteonics for each order, company representatives reviewed Osteonics' sales receipts in order to determine price and profit allocations. Essentially, Osteonics retained a gross margin of approximately twenty percent.

As regards to sales to Osteonics, plaintiff allocated sales by the shipment's destination state. Accordingly, for tax purposes, plaintiff included sales of only New Jersey destination shipments in the numerator of the receipts fraction on its New Jersey corporate business tax return. Pursuant to an audit, the Division determined that all sales to Osteonics should be included in the numerator of the receipts fraction regardless of destination.

The Court held that plaintiff's sales receipts from its direct shipments to Osteonics' out-of-State customers to Osteonics are includable in the numerator under N.J.S.A. 54:10A-6(B)(6). The Court found that this statute required inclusion in the numerator of all receipts earned by the taxpayer in New Jersey including the intrastate transactions between plaintiff and Osteonics.

Local Property Tax

Added Assessment Law – Seventy Five P-B Corporation v. Town of Phillipsburg, decided February 19, 1999; Tax Court; No. 000205-98.

Plaintiff appealed an added assessment imposed for nine months of 1997 on a commercial building located in Phillipsburg. Construction on the improvement was completed on March 21, 1997. The added assessment was in the full amount of $488,800, and an allocated amount of $366,600 for the nine-month period. Plaintiff did not dispute the amount of the assessment, but considered it improper because the improvement qualified for exemption, commencing April 1, 1997 under the Five-Year Exemption and Abatement Law, N.J.S.A. 40A:21-1 to 21, and under the municipal ordinance adopted pursuant to the Five-Year Law. Defendant acknowledged that the improvement qualified for exemption under the Five-Year Law, but contended that such exemption could not commence until January 1, 1998. Defendant sought a summary judgment to dismiss the appeal; plaintiff cross-moved for summary judgment based on its interpretation of the commencement date of the five-year exemption.

On October 1, 1996, Phillipsburg adopted an ordinance declaring the Town an Urban Enterprise Zone, an "area in need of rehabilitation" as defined in N.J.S.A. 40A:21-3(b). The ordinance declared that "improvements to existing structures shall be exempt from assessment for a period of five years following completion of the improvement."

Phillipsburg denied plaintiff's application for exemption for tax year 1997, granting the exemption effective January 1, 1998 for a five-year period beginning on that date. The Assessor imposed the added assessment in dispute. Plaintiff filed a timely appeal with the Warren County Board of Taxation, which affirmed the added assessment. This Tax Court appeal followed.

Defendant asserted that the Five-Year Law neither provides for nor contemplates the granting of an exemption other than for full tax years and, therefore, contended that imposition of an added assessment for nine months of 1997 was entirely consistent with, and permitted by, the Law. It asserted that the five full years to which the Five-Year Law expressly refers commenced on January 1, 1998 and that, in the absence of a statutory provision requiring or authorizing exemption or abatement between the date of completion of the improvement and the commencement of the first full year after the date of completion, the exemption or abatement is inapplicable during that time period, and the improvement is fully taxable.

Defendant's motion for summary judgment was granted and plaintiff's cross-motion for summary judgment was denied. Defendant's interpretation of the Five-Year

Law was consistent with the principle that qualification for tax exemption or abatement during a tax year does not result in a change of assessment for that tax year. The Court cited City of Asbury Park v. Castagno Tires, 13 N.J. Tax 488 (Tax Court 1993) which states: “As a general rule, absent an appeal, the taxable status of property is fixed as of October 1 of the pre-tax year; subsequent conversion to an exempt use does not render the property exempt for that year.” The Court noted that interpreting the Five-Year Law to prohibit “interim” added assessments would be an “inappropriate expansion of the holding” in City of Newark v. Essex County Bd. of Taxation, 309 N.J. Super. 476 (App. Div. 1998). The Legislature did not authorize extension of the Five-Year Law exemption to the interval between completion of an improvement and the next January 1. The Court rejected plaintiff’s contention that the exemption period commences with the first day of the month next following completion of the improvement. It noted that N.J.S.A. 40A:21-11(a) provides that “All tax agreements entered into by municipalities pursuant to Sections 9 through 12 of P.L. 1991, c.441 shall be in effect for no more than the five full years next following the date of completion of the project.” The nine month added assessment was deemed proper. N.J.S.A. 1:1-2 defines the term “year” as used in any statute as “a calendar year.” The Five-Year Law defines that period as five full (calendar) years. The improvement was subject to taxation in accordance with the normal local property tax procedure otherwise applicable to property. These procedures include the imposition of an added assessment, a conclusion mandated by the New Jersey stitution and the Five-Year Law.

Exemption for Greenhouse Affirmed – Van Wingerden v. Lafayette Twp., decided April 16, 1999; N.J. Tax Court, on remand from N.J. Superior Court, Appellate Division.

The Farmland Assessment Act at N.J.S.A. 54:4-23.12(a) taxes structures on agricultural or horticultural land in the same way as taxable nonfarm structures, but exempts single-use agricultural or horticultural facilities, that is, property employed in farming operations, used for growing or storage which is readily disassembled and separately marketable from the farmland and buildings, such as readily dismantled silos, greenhouses, grain bins, manure handling equipment and impoundments, except structures enclosing space within their walls for housing, shelter, or working, office or sales space are not to be exempted.

The issue on remand was whether a greenhouse was disqualified from property tax exemption because it enclosed a space within its walls used for working, office or sales space.

The disputed building was divided into two sections — the main greenhouse and the shipping house; but the sections were structurally and functionally integrated. The main greenhouse was utilized for growing flowers with an area for storing equipment used in horticultural operations. The shipping house held the boilers; heat pumps; water tanks; heat shield, ventilation, and watering controls servicing the main greenhouse. The shipping house also had a refrigerated cool box for flower storage, tables for grading and sorting flowers, a workbench, a tool storage area, a desk, chair, and phone. For purposes of deciding tax status, the Court treated the greenhouse and shipping house which shared a common wall and entryway as one structure which was to be either exempt or taxable in its entirety.

In that the meaning of the phrase “working, office or sales space” was unclear and had not been clarified by prior case law, the Tax Court sought to interpret it consistent with the Legislature’s intent by resorting to the legislative history of the statute. The Court reviewed the N.J. State Board of Agriculture’s Report on “Agricultural Economic Recovery & Development Initiative” and the resulting Senate Bill that led to the enacting of P.L.1993, c.251 which exempted single-use agricultural or horticultural facilities. The Court also reviewed the basic terminology of the amended Farmland Assessment Act and, although not specifically defined, equated “farming operations” with agricultural/horticultural use of land and buildings. It went on to note that agricultural/horticultural use included animals, plants, fruits, nursery, floral, greenhouse products, etc. “produced for sale” and “grown for market, either retail or wholesale” and encompassed within those meanings “making crops ready for sale, including storage pending sale.” However, making a crop ready for sale did not permit altering the crop’s raw state by processing it into an end product as, for example, turning cranberries into juice. From the Legislature's exempting of specific structures such as silos, used only for agricultural purposes, and its designation of disqualifying space, it was concluded that property tax relief was not meant for structures having purposes ancillary to agricultural or horticultural uses. The Court then determined that sales of agricultural/horticultural crops in or from an exempt structure did not prohibit exemption, but a structure having enclosed sales space would be prohibited.

As explained by the Court, an area in the greenhouse used for purposes not essential to the growing or storage of flowers, such as space used for the sale of flowers, floral displays, flower pots, vases or other merchandise or services would constitute disqualifying "sales space." Van Wingerden sold primarily to florists and florist distributors and did not encourage retail business. No sales staff was employed at the greenhouse. It was not visible from the road and there were no signs, advertising, or floral displays. Retail sales amounted to less than one percent of the total business. The Court found that the greenhouse contained no sales space. The Court also held that a single desk was not an office and the space it occupied was not "office space." Van Wingerden's business, tax and billing records, computer, copier etc. were maintained at his residence. Disqualifying "working space" again meant space used for purposes inessential for growing or storing crops such as preparing floral displays. The Court ruled that grading, sorting and treating flowers with preservative were essential activities in making the flowers ready for sale. The work performed on the greenhouse walkways consisted of planting, maintaining and harvesting flowers. The storage area held equipment used in growing and harvesting flowers. The "single-use" of the structure, the growing of flowers, was not violated. Exemption was affirmed. □

Constitutional Amendment

Veterans' Property Tax Deduction — On November 2, 1999 the electorate approved an amendment to Article VIII, Section I, paragraph 3 of the New Jersey Constitution increasing the property tax deduction for veterans from the current $50 level to $100 in tax year 2000, $150 in tax year 2001, $200 in tax year 2002 and $250 in each subsequent tax year.

Gross Income Tax

Higher Tax Filing Thresholds — P.L. 1999, c.260 (signed into law on October 18, 1999) increases the minimum income level at which taxpayers become subject to the New Jersey gross income tax and are obligated to file a New Jersey gross income tax return. The income filing threshold will increase over a three year period beginning with tax year 1999.

Health Insurance Costs for Self-employed Taxpayers — P.L. 1999, c.222 (signed into law on September 22, 1999) amends the Gross Income Tax Act to allow the self-employed and those who are 2% or more shareholders in an S corporation to deduct 100% of the cost of health insurance for themselves, their spouses and their dependents. The act took effect immediately and applies to tax years beginning on or after January 1, 2000.

Simplified Wage Tax Reporting for Employers of Domestic Workers

— P.L. 1999, c.94 (signed into law on May 3, 1999) simplifies employer reporting and payment requirements for household workers and permits gross income tax withholding and wage taxes for household workers to be reported and paid over to the Division of Revenue on an annual basis rather than on a quarterly (or more frequent) basis as formerly required.

Withholding returns and tax payments are due from employers of domestic workers on or before January 31 following the close of the calendar year. The new annual filing provisions do not apply to employers with employees other than domestic service workers.

This act took effect immediately and applies to all wages paid on and after January 1, 2000.

Homestead Rebates — P.L. 1999, c.259 (signed into law on October 15, 1999) modifies one provision of the recently enacted New Jersey School Assessment Valuation Exemption Relief and Homestead Property Tax Rebate Act (NJ SAVER and Homestead Rebate Act) P.L. 1999, c.63. The technical change incorporated in this bill ensures that benefits provided to tenants who are 65 years of age or older, or who are eligible to claim a deduction as a blind or disabled taxpayer, shall not be less than the minimum benefit provided to other eligible tenants (i.e., $40 for tax year 1999; $60 for tax year 2000;

$80 for tax year 2001; and $100 for tax years 2002 and thereafter). The act took effect immediately.

Revaluation Relief Act of 1999 — P.L. 1999, c.216 (signed into law on September 21, 1999) amends the Revaluation Relief Act of 1993 by adding a provision permitting municipalities the option to grant revaluation relief abatements to eligible properties through the use of a property tax rebate mechanism rather than through the current property tax credit mechanism. In addition, the bill allows the revaluation relief to be phased in over five years rather than the three years allowed under current law.

The act took effect immediately and affects real property revaluation in the City of Newark.

Miscellaneous

Tax Court Proceedings — P.L. 1999, c.208 (signed into law on September 17, 1999) implements a series of recommendations promulgated by the Supreme Court's Committee on the Tax Court and adopts amendments dealing with county tax board appeals and certain Tax Court proceedings. The act took effect immediately. However, certain provisions apply to tax assessments for years commencing on or after January 1, 2000.

Sales and Use Tax

Secure Firearm Storage Act — P.L. 1999, c.254 (signed into law on October 15, 1999) provides an exemption from New Jersey sales and use tax for sales of vaults that provide safe and secure storage for firearms. The act took effect December 1, 1999.

Firearm Accident Prevention Act — P.L. 1999, c.253 (signed into law on October 15, 1999) provides an exemption from New Jersey sales and use tax for sales of firearm trigger locks and other devices which enable a firearm to be made inoperable by anyone other than an authorized person. The act took effect December 1, 1999.

Exemption for Certain Vending Machine Sales — P.L. 1999, c.249 (signed into law on October 15, 1999) increases the allowable exemption from sales and use tax from $0.10 to $0.25 on sales of tangible personal property made through coin-operated vending machines. The exemption applies to sales of merchandise other than food and drink products. The act took effect immediately.

Prepaid Telephone Calling Arrangements — P.L. 1999, c.248 (signed into law on October 15, 1999) clarifies the imposition of New Jersey sales and use tax on the retail sale of prepaid telephone calling arrangements. The statute shifts the incidence of the tax from the point of use to the point at which the arrangement is sold to the consumer. Requiring vendors to charge tax on the retail selling price simplifies the tax collection and payment process. The act took effect January 1, 2000.

Exemption for Certain Aircraft Repairs, Equipment — P.L. 1999, c.246 (signed into law on October 15, 1999) provides an exemption from New Jersey sales and use tax for repairs on aircraft having a maximum takeoff weight of 6,000 pounds or more, as certified by the FAA.

The exemption also applies to machinery or equipment to be installed on such aircraft and to replacement parts therefor. However, the exemption does not apply to the sale of aircraft of this class. The act took effect January 1, 2000.

Expanded Exemption for Film and Video Industry — P.L. 1999, c.221 (signed into law on September 22, 1999) expands the sales and use tax exemption for the film and video industry to include purchases of tangible personal property for use directly and primarily in the production of film or video for sale, including parts, motor vehicles, tools and supplies. The act also exempts the services of installing, maintaining, servicing or repairing tangible personal property that is entitled to the exemption.

The act took effect December 1, 1999 and applies to property sold and services rendered after that date. □

Message to Tax Practitioners

The income tax filing season for 1999 brings a number of changes, both administrative and legislative. Look for the “New for '99” symbols throughout the 1999 return instruction booklets. Here is a summary of those changes:

Administrative Changes

- Tax preparers may use either their social security or Federal preparer tax identification number for purposes of filing New Jersey returns or refund claims, provided they use the same number for both State and Federal filings.
- If a payment is due, the check or money order and payment voucher may be enclosed in the same envelope with the return.
- Extra supplies of the envelope for mailing Forms NJ-1040 and HR-1040, and payment vouchers for the resident income tax return (Form NJ-1040-V) may be ordered from the Division of Taxation. A large-size (9" x 12") envelope designed to permit return(s) to be mailed flat (not folded) is also available.

To request envelopes or vouchers, call the Automated Tax Information System from a Touch-tone phone at 1-800-323-4400 (within NJ) or 609-826-4400 (anywhere), or write to Taxpayer Forms Services, PO Box 269, Trenton NJ 08695-0269. Supplies are limited, so order early.

Legislative Changes

- New Filing Threshold. The income levels at which taxpayers are required to file a New Jersey income tax return and pay tax will increase over a three-year period. For 1999 the minimum amount is $10,000 or less ($5,000 or less for married persons filing separately).
- Homestead Rebate. Tenants who are under age 65 and not blind or disabled and whose income is between $40,000 and $100,000 are eligible for a Homestead Rebate of $40 for 1999. This amount will increase to $60 for tax year 2000, $80 for tax year 2001 and $100 for tax year 2002.

New State Treasurer Named

Former Director of the New Jersey Division of Investment Roland M. Machold was named as the new State Treasurer by Governor Christine Todd Whitman effective August 16, 1999. Mr. Machold succeeds James DiEleuterio as top executive of this key State agency. He will serve in an acting capacity until confirmed by the State Senate.

A graduate of Yale and the Harvard Business School, Mr. Machold spent his early career as an investment banker with Morgan Stanley & Co. before beginning State service in 1975 as Deputy Director of the Division of Investment. In 1977 he was elevated to Director of that Division where he spent the next 22 years guiding the State's pension funds through a period of remarkable growth. A 1997 recipient of the Stoddard award, presented by the National Association of State Investment Officers for outstanding public service, Mr. Machold retired in 1998 as head of a Division that was responsible for 152 State funds aggregating $76 billion.

In addition to government service, Mr. Machold has served as trustee and on the boards of many community organizations and educational institutions, including Columbia University Teachers College, Bryn Mawr College, the Mercer Street Friends Center and

He has also served in the capacity of Independent Director for a global cluster of mutual funds, as Founding Trustee of the National Association of State Investment Officers and the Council of Institutional Investors and as a consultant to the Alabama Retirement Systems.

Mr. Machold has made numerous appearances before the SEC and various congressional Committees, providing testimony on issues as diverse as corporate governance, taxation of pension funds, American competitiveness and the one-share-one-vote issue. He has often been interviewed on network television for his insights on markets, governance and divestment and has served as commentator on the 1997 public television series Beyond Wall Street.

Mr. Machold lives in Princeton with his wife Pamela. He is the father of three children. □

NJ SAVER Checks Mailed

As the Governor promised in January when she proposed the NJ SAVER Rebate program for homeowners, the first rebate checks were in the mail to homeowners over the Labor Day weekend. Beginning September 3, the State mailed out an average of 200,000 rebate checks each day over a 5-day period. In total, more than 1 million NJ SAVER rebate checks were mailed representing almost $170 million in property tax relief.

The NJ SAVER rebate program refunds to homeowners the amount of local school tax paid on the first $45,000 of their home's equalized value. Homeowners within each municipality receive the same amount, but variations in local tax rates mean that rebate amounts will differ from municipality to municipality.

The chart above illustrates how a typical homeowner who qualifies for the maximum homestead rebate ($500) will receive a greater benefit from the NJ SAVER program by the fourth year of its phase-in ($551). The home is in Hamilton township and has an equalized value in excess of $45,000.

applied for both a homestead rebate and a NJ SAVER rebate received whichever rebate provides the greater benefit. As NJ SAVER rebates grow to their maximum amount over the program's five year phase-in period, many homeowners, particularly those who are senior citizens or disabled, will find that they receive a greater benefit from the NJ SAVER program. (See chart on page 2)

Homeowners who received less than the maximum NJ SAVER rebate for their municipality or who did not receive a check for some reason, got detailed notices of explanation from the Division explaining how their rebate was calculated or why they had not received a check.

To prepare for the expected barrage of inquiries about the new NJ SAVER rebate checks, the Division of Taxation hired additional staff and kept phone lines at its Call Center open evenings and weekends for several weeks after the rebate checks were mailed to assist homeowners who had questions about notices or the amount of their rebates.

The Division has tried to make it as easy as possible for homeowners to check on the status of their rebate claims. Those calling the NJ SAVER Rebate Hotline (1-877-658-2972) — the same number used to file claims — can access an automated inquiry system to find out if their rebate checks have been issued without having to speak to a Taxation agent.

Homeowners can also visit the Division of Taxation's Web site (www.state.nj.us/treasury/taxation) and inquire online about the status of their NJ SAVER rebates.

Eligible New Jersey residents can file for the 1998 NJ SAVER rebate until November 15, 1999. □

CORPORATION TAX Technology Benefit Transfer Program

On June 28, 1999 Senate Bill No. 1709 was signed into law by Governor Whitman. This legislation clarifies provisions of the Corporation Business Tax Technology Benefit Transfer Program.

Summary

This program allows new or expanding emerging technology and biotechnology businesses to "sell" their unused net operating loss (NOL) carryover and unused research and development (R & D) tax credit carryover to any corporate taxpayer for at least 75% of the value of the tax benefits. The "selling" technology or biotechnology business surrenders those tax benefits in the form of a certificate which identifies the value of the tax benefits. The certificate is "sold" to the "buying" corporate taxpayer and the proceeds of the sale are used by the selling business for fixed assets, working capital and other expenses determined by the New Jersey Economic Development Authority (NJEDA) to be in conformance with the New Jersey Emerging Technology and Biotechnology Financial Assistance Act. The "selling" business must qualify as a technology or biotechnology company and the "buying" business must do business or a portion of its business in New Jersey.

During State Fiscal Year 2000 (July 1, 1999 through June 30, 2000) this program will have a cap of $50 million. Each State Fiscal Year thereafter, the cap will be $40 million. The value of this cap is defined as the loss of tax revenues to the State of New Jersey resulting from the sale of tax benefits. Each applicant company additionally has a lifetime cap of $10 million.

Eligibility

In order to qualify, a selling business must meet the threshold criteria listed below. In addition to these requirements, the NJEDA will determine eligibility of the selling businesses according to criteria reflected in questions asked in section 8.A through D of the Selling Business Application.

1. Meet the definition of a technology business or a biotechnology business located at the back of the Selling Business Application;
2. Employ fewer than 225 people of which 75% work in New Jersey;
3. Show negative or no operating net income in either of the two most recent, full-year financial statements for the individual company and consolidated affiliates;
4. Show an excess of revenues over expenses of less than 110% in either of the two most recent, full-year financial statements for the company.

Fees

Each year that a selling company applies to the NJEDA for authorization to sell tax benefits, the company must pay a non-refundable $500 fee. Applications must be received by the NJEDA by June 30 of each year.

Valuation

In addition to issuing the transfer certificate, the Division of Taxation is also responsible for valuing the unused benefit. R & D credits are valued at face value. NOLs, since they represent a deduction, must be multiplied by the anticipated allocation factor of the seller and the appropriate tax rate. Provided the nature of business remains comparable, the anticipated allocation factor will generally be computed using an average of past filings.

This valuation will be used both to ensure that the unused benefits are sold for at least 75% of their value as well as to determine how much benefit can be sold subject to the program caps.

Allocation of Benefits

Once all eligibility determinations are made and appropriate tax records confirmed, the NJEDA and the Division will determine the amount of tax benefit each taxpayer will be authorized to sell subject to the program limitation. In the event more benefits are requested to be sold than allowed by the annual $50/$40 million cap, the benefits will be apportioned. First, authorized benefits up to $250,000 per company will be approved. The remaining unauthorized benefits will go into a pool and be apportioned based upon a percentage derived by subtracting the amounts already authorized from the annual cap ($50/$40 million) divided by the total remaining benefits being requested to be sold.

Benefit Transfer Certificate

The Division will issue a Benefit Transfer Certificate to the "selling" business and furnish a copy to the NJEDA. The certificate is then sold to the buying corporation. The buying business will attach a copy of the certificate to its next corporation business tax return filed. The certificate will enable the buying business to deduct the proper amount of NOL deduction and/or take credit for the proper R & D credit.

Miscellaneous Provisions

Buyers will be deemed to have accrued the purchase themselves. Therefore, unless the buyer qualifies in the future to be a seller under this program, the acquired benefits will not be transferable.

The NOLs and R & D credits will retain the same "vintage" in the hands of the purchaser as they had with the seller. A 1993 NOL carry-forward would expire after tax year 2000.

In the event a subsequent event or an audit discloses an additional liability owed by the seller, the Division will not take action to rescind the Transfer Certificate. Purchasers, upon receipt of the certificate, are guaranteed the validity of the benefits. □

Interactive CBT Returns on Web

Starting this fall, the Division of Taxation's Web site will offer corporation business tax forms and accompanying schedules that can be downloaded and completed on your computer. The finished returns will then be printed and mailed to the State for processing.

Currently, corporation business tax returns downloaded from the Division's Web site must be printed out blank and completed by hand. The new format allows users to complete forms CBT-100 and CBT-100S and related schedules on their computer, using the Adobe Acrobat Reader software available free over the Internet at: www.adobe.com.

After completing the forms by typing in the appropriate information, the taxpayer prints out hard copies of the return, one to be sent to the State, and another retained for the taxpayer's files. Unfortunately, the free Acrobat Reader does not allow the user to save an electronic version of the return. However, taxpayers that purchase the full version of Adobe Acrobat will be able to save an electronic copy of the return. Information about obtaining the full version of Acrobat is also found at the Adobe Web site.

The Division is researching the feasibility of filing corporate business tax returns online. However, in the meantime, several tax practitioners voiced their preference to complete corporate returns on the computer since that is where much of the information is stored. The Division is glad to respond to their request with this interim step.

GROSS INCOME TAX Federal Refunds for State Tax Debts

Federal legislation was enacted in July 1998 which authorizes the Federal government to offset Federal tax refunds for state tax deficiencies. This program, known as the Federal Reciprocal Refund Offset Program, will be run by Financial Management Services (FMS), a branch of the U.S. Treasury.

It is anticipated that by participating in this program, over 13,000 New Jersey income tax debts which taxpayers are unable to satisfy, either through payments, DPC plans or New Jersey's SOIL program, may be able to be resolved through the set-off of Federal refunds. Taxpayers who have an income tax debt to New Jersey can contact the Division of Taxation and make arrangements to satisfy their debt before their information is submitted to the program.

New Jersey expects to be able to submit claims to FMS by the end of 1999 in order to claim eligible 1999 Federal refunds. Questions regarding this program should be directed to the Division of Taxation's Call Center at 609-292-6400.

DIVISION OPERATIONS Sale of Certificates of Debt

For the first time, and in accordance with the provisions of P.L. 1998, c.39, codified as N.J.S.A. 54:50-29 et seq., the State Treasurer, on June 28, 1999, entered into a purchase and sale agreement to sell certain Certificates of Debt which had been filed by the Division of Taxation.

The Certificates of Debt in Bound Lot #1999-1, which were identified for sale by the Director, had an original face value of $25.4 million and a current face value of $25.1 million. The Certificates of Debt, which have the same force and effect as a docketed judgment adjudicated in a court of law, represented 250 primary taxpayers and their respective officers or spouses. The taxes due on the said liens ranged from 1967 through 1993 and consisted primarily of sales and use tax, gross income tax (employer), corporation business tax, and gross income tax (individual). Prior to the sale of these liens, the taxpayers had more than ample opportunity to extinguish their indebtedness to the Division, but failed to do so.

These Certificates of Debt have been assigned to an entity known as Tax Enforcement Bureau, LLC. As the new owner of these liens, Tax Enforcement Bureau, LLC will have the same rights as to collection of this debt as would the Division of Taxation, had the sale not taken place. All payments associated with the liens which were sold, and any inquiries and/or requests for satisfaction of the said liens, should be directed to the new owner at the following address:

SALES AND USE TAX Taxability of Items for the Holidays

The fall season includes several special holidays and special seasonal purchases. The following will clarify whether or not some of the major seasonal items are subject to New Jersey sales tax.

Halloween Purchases

Costumes - Children's costumes are exempt from sales tax. Adult costumes are always taxable, whether purchased or rented.

Makeup - Makeup for face painting is taxable.

Interest 10.75% for Third Quarter

The interest rate assessed on amounts due for the third quarter of 1999 is 10.75%.

The assessed interest rate history for the last eight quarters is listed below.

4/1/99	10.75%

Pumpkins - Pumpkins that are painted or carved are taxable. Plastic pumpkins or other Halloween decorations are also taxable. If a pumpkin is purchased for consumption it is exempt, i.e., to make a pie or bread, or to roast the seeds.

Thanksgiving Items

Decorative gourds, corn and hay are subject to sales tax.

To save time and effort, many families have their Thanksgiving dinner catered or prepared outside of the home. Just as in a restaurant, a catered meal is always taxable.

Prepared food, such as precooked turkey, ham, or side dishes that can be purchased heated at a supermarket deli counter or salad bar are taxable. Party platters such as cold cuts, vegetables or other arranged food are considered “ready to eat” and are taxable.

Food that is not heated and is intended to be eaten off-premises may be exempt from sales tax because of the way it is packaged or sold. These items are generally sold in a food or grocery store by bulk, weight, by the dozen or by volume (gallon, quart, etc.).

If three pounds of cold cuts are purchased at a supermarket and the purchaser brings it home to arrange on a platter, the cold cuts are exempt from sales tax. If that same supermarket sells the same three pounds of deli meats already arranged on a tray, it is “ready to eat” and is subject to sales tax.

Christmas Trees

The sale of any type of tree, whether it is cut or with its roots in a “ball” is taxable.

Fur Articles

Garments or articles such as coats, stoles, jackets, capes, collars, cuffs and hats made essentially of fur are subject to sales tax. Any article of clothing or footwear made from fur and other materials is subject to tax if more than one-half of the value of the article is attributable to the fur part. Fur does not include felt, woolens or other fabrics made from animal hair or leather or suede. Sheepskin with wool or hair attached (shearling) is considered fur; however, woven or knit materials made of animal hair or wool are not fur. “Fake” fur such as leopard print is not fur. However, rabbit fur dyed to look like mink is considered fur.

Income Tax Liability

Vendors engaging in businesses that sell seasonal items should become familiar with the taxability status of their products and services.

Vendors are reminded that any New Jersey gross income tax liability accruing on income derived from a seasonal business must be remitted with the estimated tax installment due next following the end of the quarter in which the income was earned. Remitting appropriate estimated tax payments ensures installment interest will not be charged for failure to make timely estimated payments. The fourth quarter 1999 estimated payment is due January 17, 2000. Happy holidays! □

GROSS INCOME TAX Hedge Funds

A taxpayer recently inquired whether a nonresident individual is subject to New Jersey gross income tax on income derived from commodities or securities trading conducted in New Jersey for their own account.

Under N.J.S.A. 54A:5-8, effective for taxable years ending after September 14, 1998, a nonresident is not deemed to be carrying on a trade, profession, occupation, or business or rendering personal services in New Jersey solely as a result of purchasing, holding and selling intangible personal property through an unincorporated business entity.

To qualify under this provision all of the entity’s activity must be the sale of intangible property exclusively for the entity’s own account and the entity cannot hold any intangible personal property for sale to customers.

For any year in which the entity has income that does not meet these criteria (i.e. income from the sale of tangible property) all of the entity’s income for that year would be deemed to be derived from New Jersey sources and taxable to a nonresident for gross income tax purposes.

A related article can be found on page 24 of the Winter 1998 issue of the New Jersey State Tax News. Taxpayers and tax practitioners requiring additional information should contact the Division’s Taxpayer Services Branch or the Individual Tax Audit Branch. □

Web Site Tour

The spring and summer issues of this year's New Jersey State Tax News examined several significant features of our recently renovated Web site. We now conclude our tour with a summary of the remaining unexplored paths and side bar menu items.

Kid's Path

Utilizing puzzles, games and other instructive materials, the Kid's Path makes learning about taxes — what they are, how they are applied and how the revenue they produce is used — fun and exciting for youngsters. Offerings aimed at all grade levels are available, but parents and educators are urged to encourage kids to try puzzles from other levels.

Everyone Else's Path

As the name suggests, Everyone Else's Path is for the average taxpayer. In addition to offering visitors access to the latest details on New Jersey taxes, tax programs and legislation, this path provides links to timely information on such varying topics as refunds, ordering forms and obtaining income tax assistance. There's even an interactive area, Advice on Billing Notifications, where taxpayers can get help understanding a bill, notice or statement they received. A standard side bar and e-mail link for navigational flexibility, plus links to the New Jersey State Home Page, the Division of Revenue and Our User Survey complete the list of options available on this page.

Publications

Clicking the Publications side bar item gives visitors the opportunity to view and print New Jersey tax publications, including:

- News Releases
- Important Tax Notices
- Cigarette Tax Act Notices & Publications
- NJ Income Tax – instructions & Tax Topic Bulletins
- Sales & Use Tax Bulletins

Taxation Topics

The Taxation Topics side bar item offers links to material on those topics most frequently requested by practitioners, businesses and individuals. Information on matters as diverse as inheritance/estate tax, sales & use tax, unclaimed property and senior citizens is accessible from this page.

Taxation Tour

Selecting the Taxation Tour whisks you away on a tour of the Division's organizational structure and introduces you to the programs designed to make tax filing easier. Your itinerary and tour guide await you — enjoy the ride!

Unclaimed Property Search

The Unclaimed Property side bar option allows visitors to search a listing of apparent owners of property which has met the statutory criteria to be classified as "unclaimed property." The abandoned funds originate from such sources as wage checks, bank accounts, certificates of deposit, bonds or stocks, etc. Why not drop by and search for your name. You might be pleasantly surprised.

Info For Seniors

From the latest on pension income, retirement exclusions and property tax benefit programs to listings of important telephone numbers or locations where free income tax preparation is available, the Info for Seniors side bar selection makes finding information on matters of concern to New Jersey's seniors a snap.

Please help us help you by sending us an e-mail with your comments, suggestions and general feedback about our new Web site.

Now that you are familiar with our Web site, we encourage you to stay abreast of any additions, changes and other developments by following a regular new feature on the subject that will appear in upcoming issues of the New Jersey State Tax News. □

Small Business Workshops

The New Jersey Division of Taxation and the IRS periodically conduct workshops designed to help small businesses better understand their tax obligations. These free seminars, which run from 9:00

DIVISION OPERATIONS

Taxpayer Accounting Branch

In its most simple terms, the Mission Statement of the Taxpayer Accounting Branch is to review bills and refunds and answer taxpayer correspondence, so that taxpayers can pay what they owe, receive what is due to them, and have any errors in their accounts corrected.

Bills and refunds are automatically computer-generated. Some are flagged for manual review based on predetermined criteria designed to screen out errors. The Taxpayer Accounting Branch reviews the flagged transactions and attempts to correct them before they are sent to the taxpayer.

Occasionally insufficient refunds or improper bills are sent to taxpayers. When taxpayers dispute a billing or discover a discrepancy with the amount of refund received, their correspondence is sent to the Taxpayer Accounting Branch. All letters received from taxpayers in response to any notices are reviewed. When the information necessary to correct an account is received, Taxpayer Accounting staff will adjust the account and notify the taxpayer that the problem has been resolved.

When a taxpayer responds to a notice or corresponds with the Division for any other reason, it is very important to provide as much information as possible, both as to the identity of the taxpayer and the nature of the problem. In order for the Taxpayer Accounting Branch to adequately respond to or request additional information from a taxpayer, all correspondence should include:

1. The full name and identification number of the taxpayer as it appears on the Division notice;
2. The tax type and period in question;
3. The nature of the problem;
4. The taxpayer's phone number; and
5. The taxpayer's current address.

When a taxpayer or his representative responds to a notice, the correspondence should be sent to the Post Office Box shown on the notice. This insures that it gets to the office that initiated the notice and is best suited to resolve the problem.

In Fiscal Year 1999, Taxpayer Accounting personnel:

- Responded to over 105,000 pieces of correspondence;
- Reviewed more than 51,000 bills and 66,000 refunds;
- Collected more than $8 million; and
- Made almost 245,000 adjustments or corrections to accounts.

Additionally, Taxpayer Accounting is, and will continue to be, very heavily involved in the Property Tax Reimbursement, NJ SAVER Rebate, and Homestead Rebate programs, and staffs Tax Practitioner Hotlines for tax practitioners who are unable to resolve client problems through normal channels. □

Criminal Enforcement

Criminal Enforcement over the past several months included:

- On April 1, 1999, in Union County Superior Court, Luis A. Chavez, 49, of Elizabeth, New Jersey, the owner of Elizabeth Ave. Wines & Liquors, Inc., pursuant to his guilty plea on December 15, 1998 to one count of misapplication of $69,000 in sales tax collected from July 1990 to June 1994, was sentenced to 2 years probation and ordered to pay fines and penalties of $755. Mr. Chavez made restitution to the State of $98,000 in tax, penalty and interest prior to sentencing. This case was investigated by the Office of Criminal Investigation and prosecuted by the State Attorney General's Office.

- On April 5, 1999, in Long Branch Municipal Court, Anthony Amorino, 58, of Eatontown, New Jersey, being the responsible person of Absolute Clubs, Inc., was charged with filing a false 1997 corporation business tax return, failing to charge and pay $17,974.62 in sales tax between April 1994 and June 1998, and failure to file sales tax returns for the same period. Absolute Clubs, Inc., a now closed business in Long Branch, New Jersey, was purported to be a health club by Mr. Amorino. The maximum penalty, if convicted of all charges, is a fine of $39,000 and imprisonment of two years. This case was investigated jointly by the Monmouth County Prosecutor's Office, Long Branch Police Department, and the Office of Criminal Investigation.

- On April 7, 1999, a State grand jury indicted Naum Raichel, 51, and Bernard Mondry, 64, both of Brooklyn, New York, in connection with conspiracy and theft of $85,085.49 in motor fuels tax collected from January 1997 to September 1998 at Gas R Us, Inc., a truckstop in Elizabeth, New Jersey, that Mr. Raichel owned and Mr. Mondry supplied with over 680,000 gallons of “off-the-books” diesel fuel and kerosene. Mr. Raichel faces a maximum of over 50 years in prison and $500,000 in fines if convicted on all charges; Mr. Mondry faces a maximum of 25 years in prison and $122,500 in fines. This investigation was conducted jointly by the New Jersey State Police Organized Crime Unit and the Office of Criminal Investigation, and was presented to the grand jury by the State Attorney General's Office.

- On April 9, 1999, Eyad Bader and Osama M. Jamhour, both of Paterson, New Jersey, were detained at the Holland Tunnel by Port Authority of New York and New Jersey Police Officers after a commercial vehicle inspection found 90 full master cases (domestic) of unstamped cigarettes (5,400 cartons) in a U-Haul rental vehicle. The subjects could not provide any documents relative to the cigarettes. The Office of Criminal Investigation's Special Agents responded to the scene and arrested both subjects. They were processed, arraigned and required to post $10,000 bail before being released from the Hudson County Jail.

- On April 15, 1999, the Passaic County grand jury indicted Abdalla A. Dabbas of Paterson, New Jersey, for possession of over 100 cartons of contraband cigarettes, (a crime of the fourth degree), transportation of contraband cigarettes, no invoices and no consumer license.
- On April 16, 1999, Joseph Gentile, principal of Jogen, Inc., was named in a six-count indictment by a Middlesex County grand jury. Mr. Gentile was charged with theft by deception (second degree); misapplication of entrusted property (second degree); and four counts of issuing a bad check (each third degree). All counts evolved from the collection and non-remittance of State motor fuels taxes in the amount of $123,112.71.
- On May 7, 1999, in Camden County Superior Court, Steven H. Willans, 34, of Barrington, New Jersey, was sentenced to five years imprisonment and ordered to make restitution to the State of $16,312 in tax, penalty and interest, as a result of Mr. Willans' plea of guilty on March 15, 1999 to having failed to file sales tax returns from 1992 to 1995 in connection with Entertainment Emporium, a computer sales and service business owned by Mr. Willans. Mr. Willans' prison term is to be served concurrently with a sentence of five years imprisonment for the theft of $77,000 from the Barrington volunteer ambulance squad, of which Mr. Willans was the treasurer. This case was investigated jointly by the Barrington Police Department, the Camden County Prosecutor's Office, and the Office of Criminal Investigation, and was prosecuted by the Camden County Prosecutor's Office.

- On May 13, 1999, Spyridon Gizas of Dover (Morris County), New Jersey, was arrested during a New Jersey State Police investigation, for promoting gambling and maintaining an illegal gambling resort at the Greek Orthodox Club in the same city. Mr. Gizas was found in possession of 141.5 cartons of contraband cigarettes. The Office of Criminal Investigation has charged Mr. Gizas with possession of over 100 cartons of contraband cigarettes (fourth degree crime, indictable), no consumer license, no retail license, failure to register for sales tax, and no invoices, all of which are disorderly persons offenses. The seized cigarettes were unstamped, Pennsylvania stamped and US Tax-Exempt Export cigarettes.
- Toomey Vending of Egg Harbor City, New Jersey, pleaded guilty in Atlantic City Municipal Court to operating 18 unlicensed cigarette vending machines. The court imposed fines, fees, and costs totaling $2,114. Subject is now currently licensed.

- On May 24, 1999, Allan B. Shalleck, formerly of Pennington, New Jersey, entered a guilty plea to three counts of an indictment that had been presented to a grand jury by the Mercer County Prosecutor's Office in 1997. Mr. Shalleck plead guilty to one count of theft by deception, one count of forgery, and one count of failure to file a 1994 New Jersey gross income tax return. Mr. Shalleck is exposed to a fifteen year period of incarceration and $45,000 in fines as a result of this plea. Sentencing is pending.
- On May 26, 1999, Daniel Provenzano, 36, of Upper Saddle River, New Jersey, was indicted by a State grand jury on charges of racketeering conspiracy, acting as a leader of organized crime, money laundering, various violent offenses in furtherance of his illegal activities, failing to file a 1996 New Jersey personal income tax return, and filing false and fraudulent 1994, 1995, and 1997 New Jersey personal income tax returns. The indictment alleges that most of the crimes were committed to enhance the financial operations of Advice, Inc., an actual printing business that was owned and run by Mr. Provenzano in Fort Lee, New Jersey, until 1997. This case was investigated jointly by the New Jersey Division of Criminal Justice and the Office of Criminal Investigation, and was presented to the grand jury by the State Attorney General's Office.

- On June 18, 1999, Special Agents of the Office of Criminal Investigation were conducting a follow-up investigation concerning counterfeit stamped cigarettes in the city of Camden, New Jersey. As part of that investigation, a New Jersey cigarette distributor was visited and a number of violations of the Cigarette Tax Act were found. It was during that time that the licensed distributor offered a bribe to a Special Agent in violation of N.J.S.A. 2C:27-2, Bribery in Official and Political Matters, a crime of the second degree. Subsequently, a joint investigation by the Office of Criminal Investigation, Taxation's Internal Security Unit and the New Jersey State Police Official Corruption Unit, led to the arrest of the subject after he delivered the $2,000 bribe. Bail was set at $10,000 after arraignment before the Camden County Superior Court. The matter is now pending action of the State-wide grand jury.
- Eighty-nine charges were filed in municipal court on thirty-four cases for violating the cigarette tax law including possession of 6,027.37 cartons of contraband cigarettes, valued at $196,431.82.

Tax Briefs

Correction

Punitive Damage Awards — The Division is withdrawing the Tax Brief published on page 15 of the Spring 1998 issue of New Jersey State Tax News (Vol. 27, No. 1). The article incorrectly characterized punitive damage awards as interest income within the meaning of N.J.S.A. 54A:5-1e and inappropriately relied on the reasoning of a United States Supreme Court case construing Federal income tax law.

Corporation Business Tax

Manufacturing Equipment and Employment Investment Tax Credit — Where a corporation moves its equipment that otherwise would qualify for the Manufacturing Equipment and Employment Investment Tax Credit from a location outside the State to a location within the State, such equipment would be eligible for the Manufacturing Equipment and Employment Investment Tax Credit.

Depreciation, having started when the property was originally placed in service outside the State, would continue. The equipment is not disqualified from the Manufacturing Equipment and Employment Investment Tax Credit by depreciation not starting in New Jersey.

Gross Income Tax

Form DD-2058-1 — Military taxpayers who meet the conditions for nonresident status in New Jersey must file a Form DD-2058-1, State Income Tax Exemption Test Certificate. This form must be filed with the service person's payroll or finance officer in order to stop New Jersey income tax from being withheld from military pay. Form DD-2058-1 is a U.S. Government form that is used as a basis for not withholding New Jersey income tax from military pay. This certificate should not be filed with the New Jersey Division of Taxation.

Military Pension Exclusion — P.L. 1997, c.409, effective beginning with tax year 1998, provides a gross income tax exclusion for "military pension payments or military survivor's benefit payments paid to individuals by the United States with respect to service in the Armed Forces of the United States by a person who is 62 years of age or older, or who, by virtue of a disability, is or would be eligible to receive payments under the Federal Social Security Act..." See N.J.S.A. 54A:6-26.

After retiring from military service, many military retirees work for the civilian sector of the Federal government. When these people later retire from Federal civil service, they may either receive both a military pension and a civil service annuity, or they may elect to waive the military pension and receive a civil annuity that includes military service for computation purposes. See 5 CFR §831.301(c). A military pension is received through the U.S. Defense Finance and Accounting Service, while a civil service annuity is received through the U.S. Office of Personnel Management.

The military pension exclusion was drafted with language specific enough to exempt "military survivor's benefit payments". In contrast, however, the statutory language makes no mention of civil service annuity payments. Thus, the exemption language does not provide a basis for the exclusion of any portion of a civil service annuity, including any part attributable to prior military service.

Any change in the treatment of civil service annuities would require a legislative amendment to the law.

Coast Guard Pension — P.L. 1997, c.409, effective beginning with tax year 1998, provides a gross income tax exclusion for military pension payments (or military survivor's benefit payments) paid to individuals with respect to services in the Armed Forces of the United States to a person who is 62 years of age or older, or disabled. We believe that military pension payments from the Coast Guard are included within the meaning of P.L. 1997, c.409. In this regard, we note that 10 U.S.C.A. sec. 101 defines the Armed Forces to mean the Army, Navy, Air Force, Marine Corps, and Coast Guard. The Coast Guard is instituted under title 14 U.S.C.A., which establishes the Coast Guard as a military service and branch of the Armed Forces of the United States. A 1976 amendment transferred the Coast Guard from a service in the Treasury Department to a service in the Department of Transportation. However, the amendment provides that the Coast Guard will operate as part of the Navy in time of war or when the President directs. 14 U.S.C.A. sec. 3.1.

For Federal tax purposes under IRC sec. 7701(a)(15), the Coast Guard is included under the definition of military, naval, and Armed Forces of the United States. N.J.S.A. 38A:1-1(h) defines military as meaning any part of or all of the armed forces. This enables the Coast Guard to receive the same treatment as the other branches of the Armed Forces under the laws of New Jersey.

S Corporation Losses — Taxpayers cannot use a loss from a prior year to offset a current year's income or carry an unused loss into a subsequent tax year. Any S corporation losses that are not used in the current year will be an adjustment to the basis of the S corporation when sold.

At the time an S corporation is liquidated, the taxpayer will determine the gain for New Jersey purposes by using New Jersey adjusted basis in the S corporation. The New Jersey adjusted basis is generally the amount of initial contribution added to the balance of the New Jersey Accumulated Adjustments Account (AAA) as of the date of the disposition of the stock, less any unused losses from previous years. In addition, any indebtedness of the S corporation that is satisfied at the time of the disposition of stock must also be used to adjust basis.

Sales & Use Tax

New Federal SmartPay Credit Cards — The State of New Jersey will continue to extend sales and use tax exemption to all purchases by Federal employees that are paid directly from a Federal government account. Purchases made by Federal employees using funds from their own account, even though they may be subsequently reimbursed by the government, are subject to New Jersey sales and use tax.

According to the Federal General Services Administration's new SmartPay program there are four types of SmartPay credit cards with specialized uses:

1. Purchase Cards

- Printed on Front: "United States of America – SmartPay for Official Government Purchases Only U.S. Government Tax Exempt"
- Only used to purchase tangible personal property
- Visa or MasterCard
- Billed directly to and paid by U.S. Government
- Transactions Exempt from New Jersey sales and use tax

2. Fleet Cards

- Printed on Front: "United States of America – SmartPay for Official Government Fleet Use Only"
- Only used to purchase fuel, repair services and other items related to vehicles, airplanes, boats and equipment
- Voyager or MasterCard
- Billed directly to and paid by U. S. Government
- Transactions Exempt from New Jersey sales and use tax

3. Travel Cards

- Printed on Front: "United States of America – SmartPay for Official Government Travel Only"
- Only used to purchase lodging, meals, airfare, car rentals, etc.
- Visa or MasterCard
- May or may not be billed directly to and paid by U.S. Government
- Exempt Transactions – Transactions billed directly to and paid by the U.S. Government are exempt from New Jersey sales and use tax. SmartPay travel cards having a 0, 6, 7, 8 or 9 as the sixth digit of the card account number are government directly billed and paid and result in tax exempt transactions
- Taxable Transactions – Transactions billed to and paid by Federal employees from their own accounts (even though subsequently reimbursed by the government) are subject to New Jersey sales and use tax. SmartPay travel cards having a 1, 2, 3 or 4 as the sixth digit of the card account number are Federal employee billed and paid and result in taxable transactions.

4. Integrated Cards

- Printed on Front: "United States of America – SmartPay for Official Government Use Only"
- Used for any combination of purchase, travel or fleet services
- Visa or MasterCard
- May or may not be billed directly to and paid by U.S. Government
- Exempt Transactions – Transactions billed directly to and paid by the U.S. Government are exempt from New Jersey sales and use tax. SmartPay Integrated cards, when used for tangible personal property purchases or fleet purchases, are always directly billed to and paid by the government and result in exempt transactions. SmartPay Integrated cards used for travel purchases having a 0, 6, 7, 8 or 9 as the sixth digit of the card account number are also government directly billed and paid and result in exempt transactions

- Taxable Transactions – Transactions billed to and paid by Federal employees from their own accounts (even though subsequently reimbursed by the government) are subject to New Jersey sales and use tax. SmartPay Integrated cards used for travel purposes having a 1, 2, 3, or 4 as the sixth digit of the card account number are Federal employee billed and paid and result in taxable transactions.

In order to document a sales tax exempt transaction when a SmartPay card is used, New Jersey will require that the vendor retain in his records the merchant copy of the SmartPay credit card transaction record showing the credit card number. We will not require a special exemption certificate, letter or form as additional documentation; however, a copy of the applicable contract, purchase order or travel authorization, on official letterhead, signed by a qualified officer should be provided to the vendor.

Advertising Services — The Division has received several telephone inquiries from taxpayers who mistakenly believed that recent legislation created a blanket exemption for all purchases and sales by advertising agencies. This is not true.

P.L. 1998, c.99, repealed the portion of a sales and use tax provision (N.J.S.A. 54:32B-3(b)(5)) which imposed tax on “advertising services,” in general. Under the repealed provision, services that were not otherwise taxable under some other category of taxable service were subject to tax if they were for advertising. For example, while writing is not a taxable service, writing an advertisement was; while web site design is not a taxable service, designing a web site for advertising was. Now that this section of the provision has been repealed, these creative services are no longer taxable.

Because an advertising agency will no longer charge tax on its professional services, it is deemed to be the retail purchaser of tangible personal property (e.g., photographs, illustrations) that it uses in rendering its professional services; it can not claim a resale exemption.

The repeal of the tax on “advertising services” in general did not affect the taxability of direct mail advertising processing services. These services are still taxable if the advertising material will be distributed to recipients within New Jersey.

In addition, advertising-related services that are already taxable under some other category of taxable service continue to be taxable. For example, imprinting logos on promotional items supplied by the customer is a taxable imprinting service, N.J.S.A. 54:32B-3(b)(1); installing an electrical advertising display is a taxable installation service, N.J.S.A. 54:32B-3(b)(2); repairing a damaged advertising mural on a concrete wall is a taxable repair, N.J.S.A. 54:32B-3(b)(4). These services, however, were never considered “advertising services” under the prior law. The repeal of the tax on “advertising services” therefore has no effect on the taxability of related services under other subsections of N.J.S.A. 54:32B-3(b).

The repeal of the tax on advertising services, in general, of course did not affect the taxability of advertising material. Purchases of advertising posters, printed advertising brochures, promotional video cassettes and other advertising materials are still taxable as tangible personal property, N.J.S.A. 54:32B-3(a), subject to the exemption for such materials which are ultimately delivered out of State, N.J.S.A. 54:32B-8.39.

Sales and Installation of Venetian Blinds — Venetian blind installers are generally functioning as “contractors” within the meaning of the Sales and Use Tax Act. See N.J.A.C. 18:24-2.2. Contractors are deemed to be the retail purchasers of the materials and equipment that they use or install when working on their customer’s real property. N.J.S.A. 54:32B-2(e)(2). Therefore contractors must pay sales tax or use tax on property that is purchased for installation onto the real property of their customers. Their customers are liable for tax only on the installation service charges, unless the installation results in a capital improvement, in which case the installation labor is exempt as well. N.J.S.A. 54:32B-

3(b)(2). The installation of venetian blinds is generally deemed to result in a capital improvement. (The tax brief published in the November/December issue of the 1980 New Jersey State Tax News may be disregarded.) When a vendor both sells blinds from a retail location and installs venetian blinds, sales and use tax payment and collection obligations will depend upon how the sales are structured by the venetian blind retailer. The following guidelines can be applied to these sales.

Sales of blinds only: In any case where a vendor sells blinds to the customer without installation, regardless of whether the customer is a homeowner, contractor, builder or developer, sales tax must be collected on the sale price if the property is either picked up or delivered to a location in New Jersey. The vendor may claim a resale exemption from sales tax on its purchase of blinds that it sells as a retailer without installation.

Sale of blinds, separate installation agreement: In any case where a vendor sells blinds to a customer as a retailer and agrees to install the item under a separate installation agreement (other than when acting as subcontractor for a prime contractor), sales tax must be collected on the sale price of the blinds if they will be installed at a location in New Jersey. The vendor is deemed to be making both a retail sale of the blinds, and a separate sale of the service of installation. The charge for installation is not subject to sales tax because the installation is deemed to result in a capital improvement. N.J.S.A. 54:32B-3(b)(2). The customers should issue a Certificate of Capital Improvement (Form ST-8) to the retailer/contractor.

In cases where the separate installation agreement provides that the installation work will be done as a subcontractor for a general contractor, there is no need to obtain an ST-8 from the prime contractor. Instead, the prime contractor, who will be responsible for billing the customer, will need to obtain a completed ST-8 from the customer.

Sale of blinds installed: In any case where a vendor agrees to sell venetian blinds installed (single agreement), the person is acting as a contractor under the Sales and Use Tax Act. Thus, the contractor is liable for the remittance of use tax based on his cost of purchasing the blinds, if he purchased them with a resale exemption. Persons who act only as contractors cannot issue Resale Certificates (Form ST-3) for the purposes of the New Jersey Sales and Use Tax Act. The sale agreement, now considered one for the services of installing property which is incorporated into real property, is not subject to the collection of sales tax from the customer. The customer in this circumstance should issue a Certificate of Capital Improvement (Form ST-8) to the contractor. However, if a person is acting as subcontractor, he should not require an ST-8 from the general contractor; no tax should be charged to the general contractor. N.J.A.C. 18:24-5.12(c). Instead, the general contractor will be responsible for collecting sales tax from the property owner on any taxable services and for obtaining a completed ST-8 from him to support the capital improvement exemption applicable to venetian blind installation.

Medical Equipment to Healthcare Professionals

— Pursuant to N.J.S.A. 54:32B-8.1 of the New Jersey Sales and Use Tax Act, (See P.L. 1987, c. 383) sales of durable medical equipment are exempt from sales and use tax in this State. Durable medical equipment is defined in the law to mean equipment that can withstand repeated use, is primarily and customarily used to serve a medical purpose, is generally not useful to a person in the absence of illness or injury, and is appropriate for use in the home.

The law expressly eliminates from the exemption any durable medical equipment or other medical devices, prosthetic aids and medical supplies (other than drugs or medicines) purchased by a person who provides medical services for compensation and which are not transferred to the patient in conjunction with the performance of medical services. “Transferred to the patient” implies that the patient leaves the office, hospital etc. with the property.

Urban Enterprise Zone Program: Delivery Requirements for the 3% Sales Tax Rate — The Urban Enterprise Zone Program offers a partial sales tax exemption for certain retail sales made by certified vendors. N.J.S.A. 52:27H-80. In order for a vendor to offer the 3% sales tax rate to a purchaser who makes an in-person purchase at the vendor’s place of business in a zone, the purchaser must accept delivery at the vendor’s place of business in the zone or the vendor must deliver the goods to the purchaser from the vendor’s business location in the zone. N.J.A.C. 18:24-31.4(e) provides as follows:

All sales made by a qualified and

certified vendor must be made from his place of business within an enterprise zone, that is, either the purchaser must accept delivery at the vendor's place of business within an enterprise zone, or the vendor must deliver the tangible personal property from its place of business within an enterprise zone. Only receipts from sales which originate and are completed by the purchaser in person at the vendor's place of business within an enterprise zone qualify for the reduced rate of sales tax; provided, however, that after a sale has been completed within an enterprise zone, the vendor may deliver the tangible personal property to the purchaser at a location outside an enterprise zone.

Receipts from mail order, telephone, telex and similar sale transactions are subject to sales tax at the regular rate where delivery is made to a location within the state.

Example 1

A consumer goes to a UEZ certified retail building supply business to make a purchase of materials. The retailer does not have all the materials in stock and agrees to order from another source or obtain the materials from another location operated by the retailer.

In order for the transaction to be taxed at the reduced rate, the materials must come to rest and be handled by the employees at the vendor's location in the zone. Either the purchaser must come to the vendor and pick up the materials or the vendor must deliver the materials from the zone location.

Example 2

A vendor has two certified retail stores in different UEZ zones. A purchaser makes an in-person order for goods at one location but the vendor does not have the goods at the location. The goods, however, are in stock at the second location.

Each reduced rate transaction must be originated and completed at the same UEZ location that is certified under the program. Thus, the goods that are offered at the reduced rate must be ordered and delivered from the same location.

In Our Courts

Corporation Business Tax Compensation – Seventeen Thirty Corp. v. Director, Division of Taxation, decided April 16, 1999; Tax Court; No. 003648-97.

The president of plaintiff was the sole shareholder and served as store manager for fiscal years commencing October 1, 1988 through October 31, 1992. Not only was the president compensated through regular salary, but he also supplemented it by writing checks to himself for varying amounts at varying times during each year based upon the availability of cash in plaintiff's business. Plaintiff neither withheld New Jersey gross income tax or Federal income tax nor did it issue W-2 Forms or other reporting forms reflecting these supplemental payments. However, the corporation business tax returns reported the supplemental payments as officer compensation deductions and the president reported the supplemental payments as other income on his New Jersey gross income tax returns. The Division of Taxation disallowed the supplemental payments as deductions because there was no objective evidence to characterize the nature of the payments as compensation rather than the distribution of earnings and profits, dividends.

The Tax Court ruled that New Jersey's Corporation Business Tax Act's references to the Federal income tax principles permitted the decisional law under the Internal Revenue Code to be relevant in determining whether the payments at issue were compensation under the Corporation Business Tax Act. The Tax Court then adopted the two-pronged test for deductibility espoused in Elliot's, Inc. v. Commissioner, 716 F.2d 1241 (9th Cir. 1983). The test's first prong requires an inquiry into whether the amount of compensation is reasonable. The second prong requires that the payments must be entirely for services. The Elliot's court noted that this second prong may be difficult to establish due to its subjective nature and, in that case, the answer may be inferred from the outcome of the first prong's reasonableness test.

Applying the Elliot's test, the Tax Court held that the payments at issue were reasonable and constituted deductible compensation rather than dividends. The Court found the following facts to be significant in arriving at its determination: (1) The president had no sophisticated understanding of the Internal Revenue Code, New Jersey Gross Income Tax Act, or the Corporation Business Tax Act; (2) the president believed he earned the corporation's additional cash from his long work hours; (3) the defendant did not dispute that the total payments to the president constituted reasonable compensation; and (4) the plaintiff paid minimal dividends for four of the five years at issue. Additionally, the Court noted the Elliot's court's finding that a corporation is not required to pay dividends.

Various Deductions – John W. Dantzer, Jr. and Kathleen M. Dantzer v. Director, Division of Taxation, decided June 1, 1999; Tax Court; No. 006040-96.

This case concerned eight separate issues involving partnership deductions, deductions for personal transactions, and the credit for taxes paid to other jurisdictions on plaintiff's gross income tax (GIT) return.

Partnership Deductions

The query is whether the following items, which are not ordinarily deductible on a New Jersey gross income tax return, are deductible by a partnership in calculating its distributive share of partnership income where they are considered ordinary business expenses.

- Political Contributions – The Tax Court ruled that under the Gross Income Tax Act, a partnership's political contribution may be deductible by the partners where there is demonstrated some specific nexus between the political contribution and the partnership's business. As plaintiff could not provide adequate proof linking the contribution to conduct of the partnership's business, the Court disallowed the claimed deductions.
- Miscellaneous Expenses – The Court disallowed the claimed deductions because plaintiff could not prove what the expenses were and why they were deductible.

- Medical Expense Deductions – The partnership allocated $2,534 of medical insurance expense to the plaintiff that was consistent with the allocations to all but 11 of the 75 partners who the Court found were either qualified or did not elect to participate. It was not known whether or to what extent the allocation represented either the partnership's actual expenditures or was related to the plaintiff.

The Court ruled that the medical insurance premium deductions are allowed to the extent that they are for all partners and employees and to the extent that the specific premiums or contributions for plaintiff exceed the Gross Income Tax Act's two percent requirement, but that they are not deductible in calculating plaintiff's distributive share of partnership income.

- Pension Expense Deductions – Plaintiff's partnership maintained a defined contribution plan for its eligible partners and staff. Although the plan had a 401(k) portion and a non-401(k) portion (Keogh), only the non-401(k) is at issue. Participation in the non-401(k) portion was not voluntary and was required of all eligible personnel. Only the partnership made contributions to the non-401(k) based upon a specified percentage of the person's allowable compensation.

The Court held that the pension contributions are allowed to the extent they are for all personnel. However, those contributions specific to plaintiff are not deductible on his gross income tax return.

Personal Expenditures

- FICA Taxes – Plaintiff deducted Federal self-employment tax (FICA) attributable to being a partner. The Court held that FICA taxes are not deductible under the Gross Income Tax Act because they are paid by the individual and not the partnership. The Court noted that a selfemployed individual was not permitted to deduct FICA because it is a tax on income.

- Interest on Loan – The partnership agreement required plaintiff to provide capital to the partnership. Prior to approximately May 1992, plaintiff borrowed the amount from the partnership and paid interest on such loan. After approximately April 1992, plaintiff borrowed from Citibank who paid the funds directly to the partnership to satisfy plaintiff's loan from the partnership. The partnership guaranteed repayment of the Citibank loan and paid the interest on behalf of plaintiff. The Court noted that the interest amounts on the aforementioned loans would otherwise have been distributed to plaintiff by either a cash payment or added to his capital account.

The Court held that although the interest was not considered a deductible expense connected to net profits from business, as it was not a partnership obligation, it may be deductible. The Court found that this interest was plaintiff's personal expense connected to his partnership capital contribution requirements and the situation was analogous to investment interest that is deductible to a stocks and bonds investor whose business is to invest in stocks and bonds. Therefore, the Court permitted plaintiff to deduct the interest from plaintiff's distributive share of partnership income. The Court reasoned that a partner should be allowed to deduct partnership expenditures required for participation in the partnership from his partnership income.

- Loss on the Sale of a Home – Plaintiff realized a gain on the sale of a personal residence and from the sale of securities attributable to his share of partnership gains. From this gain, plaintiff deducted a realized loss from the sale of another personal residence.

Following the law of Baldwin v. Director, Division of Taxation, 10 N.J. Tax 273 (Tax 1988), aff'd ob. per curiam, 237 N.J. Super. 327 (App. Div. 1990) that personal losses are not deductible from personal gains under the Gross Income Tax Act, the Court disallowed the deduction for the loss.

Credit for Taxes Paid to Other Jurisdictions Calculation

– On their California income tax return, plaintiff claimed deductions for the FICA tax, the medical insurance expense, and the pension payment that constituted their California allocable amount. On their New Jersey gross income tax return, plaintiff claimed the credit for taxes paid to California, but did not deduct the aforementioned expenses from the numerator of the credit fraction.

In calculating the credit for taxes paid to California, the Court held that the numerator (California share) of the credit fraction must be reduced by expenses not subject to tax in California and should not be deducted in the denominator (income taxed in New Jersey).

Local Property Tax Municipalities Lack Standing to Lower Assessments

– A.G. Opinion 99-0050, March 23, 1999. N.J.S.A. 54:3-21 provides, in part, “A taxpayer...or a taxing district which may feel discriminated against by the assessed valuation of property in the taxing district, or by the assessed valuation of property in another taxing district in the county, may on or before April 1 appeal to the county board of taxation...taxpayer or taxing district may on or before April 1 file a complaint directly with the tax court,....”

In reviewing the appeal statute, the A.G.'s Office explained, “Where a statute creates a cause of action, and identifies the requirements for bringing the action, as was done by N.J.S.A. 54:3-21, those requirements must be met.” Citing several court decisions, the A.G. opinion reiterated that the right to appeal is statutory and the appellant is required to comply with all applicable statutory requirements.

Concluding that municipalities lacked standing to reduce assessments, the opinion relied on the Tax Court's reasoning in Appeal of Monroe Twp., 16 N.J. Tax 261 (1996). A taxing district is not discriminated against by an assessment in the municipality that is too high, only by an assessment that is too low. Again citing prior case law, the opinion concurred that a municipality's appeal standing was limited to correcting under-assessments.

However, administrative remedy is available to assessors in that they can informally ask the County Board of Taxation to lower assessments. The County Tax Board can also, upon their own initiative, revise and correct assessments prior to their certification of the tax list. Finally, if administrative reduction is not possible for reason of timeliness, etc., taxpayers have the right to request a lesser assessment via the statutory appeal process.

Applicability of the Freeze Act – Rockstone Group v. Lakewood Township, decided March 24, 1999; Tax Court of New Jersey; No. 004614-97.

Appeal involves the Freeze Act (N.J.S.A. 54:51A-8) and whether it applies following entry of a stipulation of settlement between plaintiff and defendant upon the 1997 assessed values for two vacant land parcels assessed at $327,000 and $372,000 respectively. A Tax Court Judgment was entered on October 19, 1998 for tax year 1997 to reduce the assessments to

$230,000 per lot. The stipulation was silent as to Freeze Act application, since the parties were unable to settle that issue and had agreed to litigate it in a later proceeding.

Plaintiff's attorney then filed an application for judgment to "freeze" the assessments for tax years 1998 and 1999. Lakewood Township sought to avoid the freeze for 1998. It claimed that the subject property's value had substantially increased because it originally had a municipal site plan approval for a 54,800 square foot retail center. The land was granted conditional municipal preliminary and final site plan approval for construction of a 132-unit apartment complex on July 15, 1997, as memorialized by a Lakewood Township resolution. Approval was given subject to "posting a performance bond for any improvement in connection with this application, complying with all conditions as required by Federal, State or local law and obtaining all other approvals as required by law." Plaintiff submitted that, since the resolution required several governmental regulatory approvals not granted until after the valuation date of October 1, 1997 for the 1998 freeze year, the property essentially had no approvals at that time, and thus the Freeze Act should apply. Approvals included DOT and CAFRA permits, Municipal MUA approval, and County Soil Conservation District certification. Plaintiff asserts that the standard for "increase in value" should be final approval as defined in the Municipal Land Use Act (N.J.S.A. 40:55D-4). In opposition, the municipality's appraiser concurred with the assessor's conclusion that obtaining final municipal planning board approval for development, even with additional permits and approvals pending, "in and of itself causes a substantial and meaningful increase in the value of vacant land."

The property rights that the legislature conferred on the developer automatically upon final approval of a site plan are a significant factor. During the approval period the developer is protected against re-zoning and retains all rights encompassed in the preliminary site plan approval. The economic reality is not whether every condition of final site plan approval is satisfied, but the perception in the real estate market that a protected right has been conferred on the property which has value. Defendant's experts observed that "most real estate appraisers recognize and reflect the increase in value of unimproved land created by obtaining municipal approvals" by means of adjustments. The assessor concluded that a significant increase in value resulted from the grant of approvals for the apartment complex, based on the taxpayer's appraisal report for the 1997 tax year, in which he had adjusted two comparable sales downwards by 25% due to their lack of approvals.

The municipality bears the burden of showing that the Freeze Act should not apply. In order to have defeated the freeze and thus been entitled to a plenary hearing, the municipality must have demonstrated a change in value from an internal or external change that materialized after the assessment date of the base year. The change must substantially and meaningfully increase the value of the property.

The Court found that the planning board approvals of July 15, 1997 constituted an external change subsequent to the assessment date of the base year. The municipality had submitted evidence to create a prima facie demonstration of a change in value. The Court ruled that the municipality was entitled to the plenary hearing to determine whether the change in value was sufficient to deflect the freeze that the plaintiff sought. The Court's decision was not a determination on the merits of the taxpayer's Freeze Act application, but only that the municipality had presented a prima facie allegation and provided sufficient evidence to proceed with the plenary hearing. The plenary hearing is a full evidential trial that will only address the increased valuation, if any, attributable to the site plan approval.

Admission Charges – Seventeen Thirty Corp. v. Director, Division of Taxation, decided April 16, 1999; Tax Court; No. 003648-97.

Plaintiff operates a retail store that sells adult-oriented books, periodicals, novelties, and videotapes. The store also contains a segregated area that contains 27 video booths where adult videotapes are viewed. Each booth contains a viewing device that displays ten to sixteen different videotapes with running times of approximately two hours. Entrance to the booth area generally required that each person purchase a minimum of twelve $0.25 tokens (three dollars worth) which transactions were not subject to sales tax. Additional tokens could also be purchased.

Exceptions to the minimum purchase requirement were made for individuals known to plaintiff's employees and persons who displayed previously purchased tokens. To operate the viewing device, a patron deposited a token that provided approximately one minute of playing time. At the end of the minute, the viewing device stopped. At this point, the patron could then insert another token to view another minute. It should be noted that no more than one token could be deposited at a time. The Division determined that the token sales were taxable under N.J.S.A. 54:32B-3(e)(1), which imposes sales tax on admission charges in excess of $0.75 to or for the use of a place of amusement.

The Court ruled that the three-dollar minimum purchase requirement to enter the video booth area is taxable as an admission charge and that the video booth area is a place of amusement because the viewing devices provided entertainment to the patrons. Additionally, the Court ruled that a $0.25 token deposited in the viewing device is not an admission charge because it is required only for the purpose of operating the device, not to enter the booth, and that the viewing device providing the amusement is a mechanical device, not a "place of amusement."

Sweeping Services & Garbage Removal – Exterior Power Sweeping v. Director, Division of Taxation, decided December 17, 1997; Tax Court; No. 011656-93, rev'd; Appellate Division; No. A-3346-97T5 (April 30, 1999).

Exterior Power Sweeping (EPS) was engaged in the business of power sweeping parking lots.

Essentially, on a daily to monthly basis, EPS trucks vacuumed paper products and other debris from customers' parking lots into its truck's hopper. When the hopper was full, it would either be emptied into the customer's dumpster or taken back to EPS's facility.

The Division found that EPS's services were subject to sales tax except where EPS additionally removed the debris to its own facility for disposal. Although EPS could not provide documentation showing a breakdown of the dollar amount of sales where the debris was removed to its facility, the Division estimated that it was sixty percent based upon a similar case and therefore taxed forty percent of the sales.

In an oral opinion, the Tax Court held that the power sweeping parking lot services were exempt from sales tax under the exemption for garbage removal. Furthermore, the judge voided the entire tax assessment finding that there was no factual basis for taxing forty percent of EPS's sales.

The Appellate Division reversed the Tax Court on the issue of whether sweeping services were taxable. Relying upon D.P.S. Acquisition Corp. v. Director, Div. Of Taxation, 16 N.J. Tax 292 (Tax 1997), aff'd, 17 N.J. Tax 592 (App. Div. 1998), initially, the Appellate Division held that the sweeping services performed by EPS are essentially the same as those sweeping services performed by D.P.S. and are taxable. However, there was one difference between D.P.S. and EPS and that was that D.P.S. did not remove any of the collected debris from the customers' premises to its facility while EPS did. The Appellate Division ruled that those services were not taxable under the exemption for garbage removal.

As to the Division taxing forty percent of sales, the Appellate Division upheld the assessment. The Appellate Division ruled that the burden is not on the Division to justify its calculation but rather that the taxpayer carries the burden of showing that transactions are exempt from taxation. In this case, EPS did not provide any documentation that broke down the dollar amount of transactions or the number of jobs where it removed the collected debris to its premises. Therefore, the accuracy of the figure could not be tested. □

Corporation Business Tax Tax Benefit Certificate Transfer Program — P.L. 1999, c.140 (signed into law on June 28, 1999) clarifies the Corporation Business Tax Surrendered Tax Benefit Certificate Transfer Program, established pursuant to P.L. 1997, c.334, which allows corporations to purchase the research and development credits and net operating loss deductions of new or expanding emerging technology and biotechnology companies in this State.

The bill imposes a cap limiting the total amount of tax benefits that may be transferred under the program to $50 million in fiscal year 2000 and $40 million in each subsequent fiscal year. Individual companies applying to "sell" tax benefits under the program are limited to a lifetime maximum of $10 million. In addition, the measure: (a) defines eligibility requirements for businesses wishing to surrender tax benefits; (b) provides criteria for approving applications for transfers; and (c) establishes a method for allocating transfers among qualified prospective participants in cases where the total amount of tax benefits requested to be surrendered by approved applicants in a particular fiscal year exceeds the ceiling on total allowable transfers for that year. This act applies to tax years beginning on and after January 1, 1999.

Gross Income Tax

Pension Exclusion, Other Retirement Income Exclusion Increased — P.L. 1999, c.177 (signed into law on August 3, 1999), increases the maximum amount of certain retirement income that may be excluded from taxable income under the New Jersey Gross Income Tax Act as follows:

- For taxpayers filing joint returns from $10,000 to $20,000

- For Married, filing separate filers from $5,000 to $10,000

- For Single filers from $7,500 to $15,000

Taxpayers eligible for the pension exclusion can exclude from reportable income either their actual pension income or the maximum exclusion amount for their filing status, whichever is less.

The higher exclusion limits extend as well to the Other Retirement Income Exclusion, the exclusion which allows taxpayers age 62 or older with earned income of $3,000 or less to deduct the unused portion (if any) of their pension exclusion from their reportable gross income. The total amount of pension income plus other retirement income that may be excluded cannot exceed the new exclusion limits.

The new limits are to be phased in, in equal increments, over a four-year period commencing with taxable years beginning on or after January 1, 2000.

Garden

State

Preservation Trust Act — P.L. 1999, c.152 (signed into law on June 30, 1999), establishes statutory authority for efforts in pursuit of certain conservation objectives mandated by a recent amendment to Article VII, Section II of the State Constitution and provides a stable, dedicated source of funding for such efforts out of revenue from the sales and use tax.

The statute exempts property and income of the Trust from all taxes and special assessments of the State (except transfer inheritance and estate taxes) and provides for compensation to municipalities for tax revenues lost by reason of acquisition and ownership by the State of lands certified exempt from property taxes due to their use for conservation and recreation purposes. □

New Zip Code

The US Postal Service recently assigned the Division of Taxation a new zip code to ensure that all mail reaches its proper destination. Items destined for the Processing Center, such as income tax returns (individual and corporate), sales and use tax returns/remittances, employer's quarterly reports, etc., should continue to use the 08646 designation. Effective immediately, mail addressed to other Division of Taxation locations in the Trenton area should bear the zip code 08695. Division stationery will be updated with the new zip code gradually as current supplies are depleted.

NJ SAVER Rebate Program Kicks Off

Taxpayer Service Representatives Marilyn Kelly and Joanne Monte discuss the new NJ SAVER rebate application while Technical Assistant Gale Parish-Davis (background) reviews the instructions for the new form.

The NJ SAVER and Homestead Rebate Act (P.L. 1999, c.63, signed into law April 15, 1999) provides direct property tax relief in the form of annual rebate checks for an estimated 1.9 million New Jersey resident homeowners.

Eligibility Requirements – New Jersey residents, regardless of age or income, who own, occupy and pay property taxes on a home in this State that was their principal residence on October 1 of any year are eligible to receive a rebate for that year. Residents of condominiums, co-ops and continuing care facilities may also qualify for the rebate.

Phase-in – NJ SAVER rebates will be phased in over a five-year period. The rebate for tax year 1998 will average $120 and will increase each year until reaching a maximum of about $600 for tax year 2002 when the program will be fully phased in.

Calculating the Rebate Amount – The State will calculate the rebate on each applicant's home using a formula that effectively exempts the first $45,000 of the home's equalized value from school tax. Rebate amounts will vary from municipality to municipality due to differences in school tax rates, however, all homeowners within a given municipality will be eligible to receive the same rebate amount. NJ SAVER rebate amounts for 1998 are available through the Division of Taxation.

Filing the NJ SAVER Rebate Claim

Most homeowners can file their NJ SAVER claims by telephone by calling our automated NJ SAVER Rebate Claim System at 1-877-NJTAX72 (toll-free within NJ) or 609-826-4288 (anywhere). The system accommodates both Touch-tone and rotary phones. As of June 30, 1999, more than 1.6 million applications have been filed in this manner. Rebate claims can also be filed online from the Division's Web site.

Homestead Rebate Recipients – Homeowners are entitled to either a homestead rebate or the NJ SAVER rebate, whichever provides the greater benefit. For most senior citizens the homestead rebate will be higher than the NJ SAVER rebate during the first years of the NJ SAVER phase-in period. As NJ SAVER rebates approach their maximum value ($600 for tax year 2002) they will often provide the greater benefit.

Property Tax Reimbursement – Recipients of benefits under the Property Tax Reimbursement Program may also receive NJ SAVER rebates, if they qualify.

Property Tax Deduction/Credit – The NJ SAVER program does not affect the property tax deduction/credit claimed on Form NJ-1040.

Tenants' Benefits – While tenants are not eligible for NJ SAVER rebates, the NJ SAVER and Homestead Rebate Act extends eligibility for the homestead rebate to a category of tenants formerly ineligible for this rebate: those under age 65, not blind or disabled, with incomes between $40,000 and $100,000. Tenants in this category will be eligible for homestead rebates of up to $30 for tax year 1998. The amount will increase each year, reaching $100 for tax years 2002 and thereafter. Homestead rebates for tenants age 65 or older, blind or disabled remain unchanged. Every applicant for a homestead rebate must file Form HR-1040. □

CORPORATION TAX Annual Report

As part of the Governor's plan to simplify business filings, the Annual Report filing will become part of the corporation business tax return. This change is effective with the 1999 corporation business tax return.

The Annual Report, which was previously filed separately with the Secretary of State, will now be on the reverse side of the corporation business tax payment voucher, Form CAR-100. Additionally, a line item will be added to Forms CBT-100 and CBT-100S to allow the inclusion of the Annual Report fees with the corporation tax liability. Taxpayers will be able to write one check to cover both of these corporate obligations.

The Annual Report will carry the same due date or extended due date as the corporation business tax return. However, like the corporation business tax, any extension is for filing purposes only; there is no extension of time for payment. □

GROSS INCOME TAX Estimated Tax Changes

Public Law 1998, c.106, amended the gross income tax provisions on estimated tax, effective for tax years beginning on or after January 1, 1999. The amendments require a taxpayer to make estimated tax payments if the estimated tax liability for the year, in excess of withholdings and other credits, is more than $400. Prior to this change, the threshold was $100.

In addition, the amendments impose two new requirements. One is a requirement that estates and trusts pay estimated tax (other than estates or trusts meeting the two-year and other limitations in I.R.C. §6654(1)(2)). The other new requirement concerns a change to the "last year's tax" safe harbor for taxpayers with taxable gross income for the preceding tax year which exceeds $150,000. "Safe harbor" refers to a minimum amount of estimated tax required to be paid to avoid underpayment penalties and interest.

Effective for tax year 1999, if a taxpayer's income after deductions for the preceding year exceeds $150,000 ($75,000 for married persons, filing separately), the "last year's tax" safe harbor exception to estimated tax penalties is stated as 110% of last year's tax, instead of 100%. See N.J.S.A. 54A:9-6(d)(3) as amended by P.L. 1998, c.106.

P.L. 1998, c.106, also made a technical amendment to the statutory provisions on calculating estimated tax penalties and interest. Prior to the amendment, for purposes of assessing penalties and interest, the estimated tax underpayment was based on the difference between what was actually paid and 80% of the tax shown on the current year's return. The recent amendment states that the amount of the underpayment is based on the difference between what was actually paid and either 100% of last year's tax or 80% of the current year's tax, whichever is smaller. See N.J.S.A. 54A:9-6(c), as amended by P.L. 1998, c.106.

The amendments to N.J.S.A. 54A:9-6(d) concerning the "last year's tax" safe harbor of 110% for higher income taxpayers are not reflected in the amendments concerning the calculation of estimated tax penalties and interest.

The Division of Taxation will impose estimated tax penalties and interest only as expressly authorized under N.J.S.A. 54A:9-6(c), as amended by P.L. 1998, c.106. □

CORPORATION TAX Deferred Gain on Installment Sales

Under the Federal tax code, a corporation may elect to sell property and report the gain using the installment method. The gain on an installment sale is prorated and recognized over the years in which payments are received.

Liquidating corporations that distribute installment obligations to shareholders in exchange for their stock are required to recognize gain from the distribution. However, in a complete liquidation of a subsidiary under code sections 332-334, a gain or loss is not recognized by either the subsidiary or the parent corporation.

New Jersey follows the Federal rules for the deferred gain except upon distribution of the installment obligations at the time of liquidation and dissolution. Under N.J.A.C. 18:7-14.17(h) & (i), corporations must report the untaxed balance of deferred gain on an installment sale in Entire Net Income on the final return filed by the taxpayer.

A subchapter S corporation is treated as a C corporation for New Jersey corporation business tax purposes unless a timely New Jersey S corporation election is filed. The deferred gain of a New Jersey S corporation is still required to be included in adjusted Entire Net Income but it is taxed at New Jersey S corporation rates.

Foreign corporations withdrawing their certificate of authority from New Jersey are required to include the balance of deferred gain in adjusted Entire Net Income in the year of withdrawal consistent with the provisions of the above regulation. □

New Business/

Partnership Rules

New rules addressing the treatment of net profits from business under N.J.S.A. 54A:5-1(b) and partners and partnerships under N.J.S.A. 54A:5-1(k) have been adopted by the Division of Taxation. The new regulations delete and replace the old rules under N.J.A.C. 18:35-1.1, Net Profits from Business, and 1.3, Partnerships and Partners. The new rules are intended to simplify income reporting. They address controversies surrounding the proper interpretation of these sections and resolve those controversies in a manner that will benefit most taxpayers. The new rules are consistent with the ruling of the New Jersey Supreme Court in Smith v. Director, Division of Taxation, 108 N.J. 19, 527 A. 2d 843 (1987), and the Appellate Division decision in Sabino v. Director, Division of Taxation, 296 N.J. Super. 269 (A.D. 1996), reversing and remanding 14 N.J. Tax 501 (Tax Ct. 1995), on remand 17 N.J. Tax 29 (1997).

The Division, in these new regulations, has promoted three of the Legislature's original goals when it enacted the Gross Income Tax Act. First, symmetry: business income is taxed similarly, whether earned by a partner or by a sole proprietor. Second, conformity: characterization of the business entity earning the income for gross income tax purposes conforms to the characterization for Federal income tax purposes. Third, simplicity: business income or loss is no longer reported in different categories.

A partner, for example, will immediately notice the changes on the 1999 NJ-K-1. Items of partnership income or loss, such as taxable interest, dividends and net gain (loss) from disposition of property, which had been reported separately on NJ-K-1 for 1998 and prior years and then reported in designated categories on the NJ-1040, will now be netted with the partner's share of ordinary income and guaranteed payments to become the amount of income reported as Distributive Share of Partnership Income. Detailed examples furnished in the two new regulations illustrate the reporting changes for sole proprietors and partners.

The regulations also define deductible ordinary business costs or expenses. Business costs and expenses are deductible as long as they meet all four of the following:

1. Incurred primarily and directly in the pursuit of business income; and

2. Occurred as common and accepted practice in that field of business; and
3. Required for and appropriate to the intended business purpose; and
4. Reasonable in amount in relation to the intended business purpose.

The new regulations were adopted on February 18, 1999 with an effective date of March 15, 1999.

The Division will apply these new rules for tax years beginning on or after January 1, 1999.

A complete printing of the new regulations appears in the March 15, 1999 edition of the New Jersey Register. □

Koch Decision

On January 14, 1999 the New Jersey Supreme Court in Sidney & Dorothy Koch v. Director reversed a long-standing judicial doctrine that when a New Jersey resident disposes or sells their partnership interest they must use their Federal adjusted basis in the partnership in determining gain or loss for New Jersey gross income tax purposes.

In its finding, the Supreme Court stated that the intent of the gross income tax statute was to tax "economic gain," not a return of capital. The Court further stated that a taxpayer must use their Federal method of accounting in determining gain or loss as directed by N.J.S.A. 54A:5-1c. As reflected in the facts in the Koch case, applying one's Federal method does not always result in the use of the Federal adjusted basis, but may require the use of a New Jersey adjusted basis to reflect the economic gain realized.

Although the Supreme Court's decision in Koch dealt solely with the sale of a partnership interest, the Division of Taxation is not taking such a narrow view. The Division is of the opinion that this decision may also be applied to the sale or liquidation of a sole proprietorship or to the sale of rental property, not held by a business entity, whose income or loss was reported as net gains or income from rents, royalties, patents and copyrights. N.J.S.A. 54A:5-1d. The Division does not believe this opinion extends to transactions by a partnership or sole proprietorship in the day-to-day operation of its business.

As the Division of Taxation develops new information and/or opinions on this complex issue, additional updates will be released. □

Garden State Savings Bonds

The Garden State Savings Act of 1991 is implemented under N.J.S.A. 18A:71-87, et seq., and provides a program to assist persons trying to save for a college education by offering State and Federal tax-free bonds for sale to the public, and to offer these bonds in low denominations to enable a large number of New Jersey families to participate.

Garden State Savings Bonds are available through participating brokerage firms and banks throughout New Jersey. They are issued as zero coupon capital appreciation bonds and unlike most tax-exempt bonds which pay interest every six months, Garden State Savings Bonds will pay interest only at maturity. All interest on Garden State Savings Bonds is compounded semi-annually at a fixed rate. Most of the bonds were available in maturities ranging from 8–20 years, redeemable in 1999 to 2011. The bonds were offered originally in $5,000 or less denominations and the money received at maturity can be used for any purpose, not just for education.

Additionally, principal and interest paid at maturity on Garden State Savings Bonds (up to at least $25,000) will not be considered when evaluating eligibility for college financial aid from the State of New Jersey. Furthermore, the Garden State Savings Act provides that if the original buyers of Garden State Savings Bonds use the maturity amount of the bond to pay for a member of their immediate family to attend a public college or a participating private college in New Jersey, then they will receive a 6% bonus on the maturity amount. Two percent of the incentive amount is paid by the State, and four percent by the participating institution. This bonus is provided in tuition reduction, which is not considered income for New Jersey purposes.

Under the New Jersey gross income tax, the interest earned on Garden State Savings Bonds will not be included in gross income in accordance with N.J.S.A. 54A:6-14. The bond interest is also tax-exempt for Federal purposes.

Taxpayers may contact their broker or financial advisor for additional information regarding Garden State Savings Bonds. □

List of Judgmed Taxpayers on Web

For the first time, via our Web site, the New Jersey Division of Taxation is providing interested individuals with limited information about the largest uncollected tax liabilities owed to New Jersey. We have been unable to collect these debts through conventional tax collection methods. The detail provided on the Web site is public information previously available in less convenient formats to anyone who had the inclination to pursue such information.

There are two (2) listings available for review, one containing businesses and responsible persons for trust fund taxes and another for individual taxpayers and persons with joint liability, if any.

We regret that these taxpayers have ignored our numerous attempts to bring them into compliance. They have put themselves in a position where they are included on these lists.

Each name appearing on these lists was contacted by certified mail, return receipt requested, and provided with one last chance to enter into a compliance agreement or have their name and other public information listed. The actual amount due may differ from the reflected Certificate of Debt amount, as a result of payments made and/or the accrual of interest.

Any taxpayer contained in these listings may contact the Division to make arrangements for payment by phoning 609-292-8839 or may contact the Division by e-mail. In the event that a taxpayer comes into compliance after being listed, we will happily advertise that fact just as prominently, if they request that we take that action. SALES AND USE TAX Urban Enterprise Zone Recertification

A vendor may not collect sales tax at the reduced UEZ rate unless the vendor has a currently effective UZ-2, Certificate of Authority. The UZ-2 is valid only for the duration of the qualified business certificate year.

Before the certificate year expires, the vendor must reapply for UEZ eligibility by contacting the local zone coordinator. Upon designation as a qualified business by the local coordinator, the vendor then must reapply to the Division of Taxation on Form UZ-1. If the application is approved, an updated UZ-2, Certificate of Authority, will be issued to the vendor.

If a vendor fails to apply for recertification, upon expiration of the current UZ-2, the vendor must begin collecting sales tax at the 6% rate, starting with the first month following expiration of the UZ-2. The vendor must then file regular sales tax returns (Form ST-51 for monthly remittances, if appropriate, and the ST-50 quarterly return).

If a vendor fails to apply for recertification, continues to collect sales tax at the reduced rate, and continues to remit taxes collected with the UZ-50 return, the tax due will be recalculated at the 6% rate, and the vendor will be billed for the difference along with applicable penalty and interest.

When a vendor receives a notice of underpayment where the tax due has been recalculated at the 6% rate, this indicates that Division of Taxation records reflect that the vendor is no longer authorized to collect sales tax at the reduced UEZ rate.

If such a vendor had been a "qualified" UEZ business for the periods billed but had failed to apply, or was late in applying for recertification, there may still be some relief available. In order to prove nonliability for the full 6% sales tax, the vendor must provide the Division of Taxation with either:

1. A copy of a current UZ-2 reflecting certification dates that cover the billed tax periods, or

2. Written confirmation from the local UEZ coordinator that the vendor was in fact certified during the tax periods that were billed. □

Exempt Use Certificates

The Exempt Use Certificate (Form ST-4) is available for certain purchases in which the property is granted a specific exemption under New Jersey law. The following are the more common general uses which qualify for sales tax exemption:

- Advertising material intended to be delivered free of charge to recipients outside of New Jersey (N.J.S.A. 54:32B-8.39)
- Packaging materials and non-returnable wrapping supplies used incidental to the delivery of property (N.J.S.A. 54:32B-8.15)
- Commercial motor vehicles with a gross vehicle weight rating of over 26,000 lbs. or used exclusively in the carriage of interstate freight (N.J.S.A. 54:32B-8.43)
- Manufacturing equipment (N.J.S.A. 54:32B-8.13(a))
- Recycling equipment (N.J.S.A. 54:32B-8.36)
- Commercial printing equipment (N.J.S.A. 54:32B-8.29)
- Broadcasting equipment (N.J.S.A. 54:32B-8.13(e))
- Research and development equipment (N.J.S.A. 54:32B-8.14)

In order to properly complete the Exempt Use Certificate, a New Jersey registered vendor must fill in his New Jersey Certificate of Authority number in the box in the upper right corner of the ST-4.

If the purchaser is not a registered vendor in the State of New Jersey and is not required to be registered by virtue of activity in this State, the exemption may still be claimed as long as the property will be used in the exempt manner as specified in the law. Out-of-State purchasers should complete the box marked “Eligible Nonregistered Purchaser” in the upper left corner of the ST-4, which requires the entry of either the Federal Identification Number of the business, an I.C.C. permit number or the social security number.

The exemptions granted under the Sales and Use Tax Act are only applicable under certain circumstances. Please refer to the law itself or request Tax Topic Bulletin S&U-6, Sales Tax Exemption Certificates, for additional information. The publication is available on the Division’s Web site at:

The Delinquency Process

The Compliance Services Branch of the Division of Taxation has delinquency programs in place for 18 different taxes including the personal gross income tax. The Division periodically scans filing records to determine the number of delinquent taxpayers for any given tax. Delinquent taxpayers are mailed a delinquency notice.

Following are some important tips to help taxpayers and practitioners respond to a delinquency notice and, in some cases, prevent the generation of unnecessary notices.

A delinquency notice is not a bill. It does not necessarily mean there is any outstanding tax liability due. A delinquency notice is sent to a taxpayer when the Division’s records reflect that a tax return for a specific period is missing. The actual tax liability is determined by the information submitted on the completed tax return.

Make sure the tax registration number or social security number on the notice is correct. If you have been filing under a different number or recently received a new Federal Employer Identification Number (FEIN), your response should include documentation from the Federal government confirming the correct number. You should also indicate which number you have been using to file tax returns, especially the return covered by the delinquency notice.

Check your records to determine if you have already filed the tax return covering the tax type and taxable period reflected in the notice. If your records indicate you already filed the return, submit a brief note along with a copy of the return. If payments were made covering the period of delinquency, enclose copies of both sides of your canceled checks.

Are you still in business?

Business taxpayers that retire or otherwise go out of business sometimes fail to notify the Division of their business termination date. The Division continues to carry these taxpayers as active with the result that unnecessary delinquency notices are generated. Complete the form REG-C that accompanies the delinquency notice, indicating the termination date of the business. Be sure to include this form with your response. If a copy of form REG-C does not accompany the delinquency notice, use one of the equivalent forms, Form NJ-C, located in your tax return coupon booklets, or Form REG-C-L, located in the New Jersey Complete Business Registration Package and in Package NJX. Forms can also be obtained by calling 1-800-323-4400, by fax via NJ TaxFax at 609-826-4500, or from the Division’s Web site at:

Remember, if you terminate your business during a taxable period, a tax return covering the entire period is usually required. For example, let’s assume your business is liable for sales and use tax. If you went out of business in November of 1998, you would be required to file a fourth quarter ST-50 sales and use tax return covering October, November and December 1998. A return should be filed even if you conducted no business or did not have a tax liability.

Having a bad year?

Natural catastrophes, fires, poor economic conditions, a death or serious illness are factors which may cause a business to suspend operations for a prolonged period. If you plan to maintain your business you should continue to file any tax returns that are due during a suspension of activity.

For most taxes a “zeroed out” return will prevent a delinquency notice from being generated. Please note, however, that zero returns are not permissible when filing Corporation Business Tax returns (Forms CBT-100 and CBT-100S).

On the road again?

Traveling vendors who conduct business at flea markets or craft shows in New Jersey are required to collect and remit New Jersey sales and use tax on the sale of taxable goods or services. Many of these events are held during the warmer months or on a seasonal basis. Businesses that follow the same seasonal schedule every year should file form REG-C to request to be placed on a seasonal reporting basis. If your show schedule is sporadic, your business should remain on a regular reporting basis and you should continue to file returns covering idle periods. Businesses based outside of New Jersey should also try to determine if their visits to New Jersey are on a regular schedule that would qualify them for seasonal reporting. If a schedule can not be determined, an out-of-State business is still required to file quarterly returns for all periods, even those in which no visits were made to New Jersey. If you plan to end your visits to New Jersey shows, you must file a final quarterly return (Form ST-50) covering the period in which the visit to your final show took place. (Please note that an ST-51 monthly remittance cannot be used as a final tax return). Form REG-C should also be filed in order to terminate your business record. The out-of-business date should coincide with the date of your final show and fall within the period covered by your final tax return. The above actions must be taken even if you attended only one show in New Jersey and plan on never returning.

Are you an EFT filer?

Depending upon the type of tax, EFT filers are required to file certain returns. The tax returns are necessary to reconcile the periodic payments remitted through your electronic funds transfer option. Check your EFT instruction booklet to determine which returns you are required to file. The receipt of a delinquency notice does not mean that your EFT payments were not credited to your account. If your records reflect that a tax return covering the delinquent period was filed timely, a copy of the return is usually sufficient to resolve the delinquency. Beginning in October 1998, EFT filers were afforded the option of filing quarterly sales and use tax returns via the Internet. This method of filing is quick and easy for any EFT filer having access to the Internet. Using the Internet to file ST-50 returns requires a Personal Identification Number (PIN). Please also note that the confidentiality of this sensitive information is, as always, a priority for the Division of Taxation; therefore the information is encrypted while being transmitted via EFT.

Are you in transition?

Your tax eligibility may change as the result of new legislation, moving your business to a new location or filing an application. Finding yourself liable for a new tax that replaces a former tax usually means you will be required to file a final return to cover the transitional period between the old and new tax. Failing to file the transitional tax return will almost certainly guarantee the receipt of a delinquency notice. Taxes that are subject to transitional filing provisions include UEZ, Salem County Sales Tax, Cape May County Tourism Sales Tax and Combined Atlantic City Luxury Tax/State Sales Tax (alcoholic beverage vendors subject to ACLUX are required to continue to file both ST-50/51 and ST-250 even after the transition). □

Regional Offices

The New Jersey Division of Taxation maintains seven Taxpayer Service offices throughout the State. Each regional office is equipped and anxious to assist taxpayers and tax professionals:

1. Obtain New Jersey tax and registration forms
2. Obtain Taxation publications
3. Register a business
4. With questions about New Jersey taxes, including:
 - Personal income tax
 - Sales and use tax
 - Employer withholdings
 - Litter tax
 - Motor fuels tax
5. With questions about which income or property is subject to tax and which is not taxable
6. File business and personal tax returns
7. Notices of Adjustment
8. Make tax payments
9. Find out the status of refunds
10. Complete applications for the Homestead Rebate, Property Tax Reimbursement and NJ SAVER rebate.

Web Site Provides Paths to Future

Home Page

The Home Page, in addition to providing links to the four main paths, interactive online filing facilities and other important areas of the new site, contains Hot News articles and timely notices on current developments in New Jersey tax programs and procedures.

This page provides a friendly way to get to know more about the Division of Taxation, its mission, organization and functions, and about the taxes administered by this vital arm of the State Treasury. The page also offers a biography of the Division's Director, a Division organizational chart and a list of useful phone numbers.

Business Information Path

The Business Information Path allows visitors to quickly locate and access information of particular use to those who operate (or would like to start) a business in this State. Specifically, this path offers links to information about:

- The correct way to start and end a business in New Jersey
- Types of business entities

- How to register a business
- Sales and use tax
- Employer income tax and withholding responsibilities
- Billing notifications
- Filing returns electronically
- Online filing
- Online access to New Jersey forms, publications and Statutes
- Small Business Workshops
- Businesses that operate in both New Jersey and New York
- The Division's Tax Cheats Program (CATCH)

This path also provides visitors with the opportunity to browse a list of the largest judgemented taxpayers in New Jersey, access the full text archive of New Jersey court opinions, search for unclaimed property and link to other tax Web sites.

Tax Forms Now

All the information needed to access New Jersey tax forms resides at this location. Visitors can view, print and download forms with just a click of their mouse or learn how to order forms by mail, fax or phone.

NOTE: Visitors may e-mail the Division from almost any location on the new site.

In the next issue of the New Jersey State Tax News we will guide you down the Kid's Path, describe the features of the Taxation Topics and Publications menu bars and let you know what to expect when you Take the Taxation Tour. □

Compliance Award Program

On March 26, 1999, Director Robert K. Thompson, Deputy Director Harold Fox and Assistant Director David Gavin handed out 21 Awards recognizing Compliance Activity employees that made outstanding contributions to the Division of Taxation. Twenty employees were honored with Compliance Achievement Awards and one employee received the Compliance Exemplary Employee Award.

Compliance Achievement Awards were given to employees in recognition of specific contributions to the Division such as serving on special projects or committees, accomplishments, suggestions, dedication/loyalty, leadership, or general work ethics. The Achievement Award recipients were: Frances Zsolnay, Robert Kelliher, Gary Dallett, Carol Telford, Joe Marty, Mirabelle Schweck, Rocco Marotti, Thomas Stevens, Thomas Kilvington, Joseph Stack, Cheryl Akpu, Sarah Booker, Alyson Orbann, Cy Nelson, Robert Giannascoli, Richard Coleman, Peter Rapetti, Audrey Vervuurt, Barbara Odell-Naim, and Rebecca Chianese.

The Compliance Exemplary Employee Award was given to Sea Girt Technical Assistant Lillian Beebe to recognize her individual initiative, excellence, and most significant overall contribution to her work unit, and the Division of Taxation.

The annual Awards program is another avenue for senior Division management to recognize positive accomplishments of employees within the Compliance Activity. Nominations for either of these awards are submitted on a Compliance Award Program Nomination Sheet to the Assistant Director, Compliance and an informal award ceremony is held on an annual basis. □

Their assistance is greatly appreciated and helped make a tough task a little less daunting. □

Criminal Enforcement

Criminal Enforcement over the past several months included:

- On December 21, 1998, World Sales, Inc., a defunct computer sales company formerly located in Freehold, and its Corporate President, Meyer Shevrin, were indicted by a State Grand Jury. The five count indictment included charges of theft by failure to make required disposition of property received, misapplication of entrusted property and property of the government, failure to file tax returns, failure to pay or turn over taxes and misconduct by a corporate official. The charges stemmed from the failure of the corporation and Mr. Shevrin to remit New Jersey sales tax that was collected from customers during the years 1988 through 1994.

- On December 21, 1998, Harold W. Coleman, a former official of Hamilton Township, Mercer County Board of Fire Commissioners, and former treasurer of Hamilton Township Fire District 4, plead guilty to stealing more than $700,000 of the district's money and failure to pay in excess of $55,000 in New Jersey gross income tax.

- On December 23, 1998, as a result of a cigarette tax investigation in Hudson County, three individuals were charged with numerous counts of possession of contraband cigarettes, no consumers license, transporting contraband cigarettes, no invoices and failure to file sales tax returns. 130.0 cartons of Virginia stamped and unstamped cigarettes were seized in this case. In March 1999, the defendants plead guilty to the charges and have been fined.

- In December 1998, the Division of Taxation's Office of Criminal Investigation and the Cumberland County Narcotics Task Force executed search warrants which led to numerous arrests for selling and trafficking in contraband cigarettes. 40.7 cartons of contraband cigarettes

were seized in the investigation, some of which bore counterfeit NJ cigarette tax stamps. Each subject arrested faces numerous charges including theft, possession/receiving stolen property, promoting gambling, possession of an unlawful weapon (firearm) and converting food stamps to other property.

- On January 15, 1999, Anita Karbett, a Camden County resident, entered a guilty plea to three counts of an indictment charging her with conspiracy, theft by deception and failure to pay New Jersey gross income tax. The charges arose from Ms. Karbett's actions while serving as an office manager for a chiropractic office and involved numerous instances of insurance fraud. Sentencing in this matter is pending.
- On February 8, 1999, in Superior Court in Camden County, Samuel F. Daley, 40, of Audubon, entered a guilty plea to one count of failing to file State tax returns in connection with his business, Emergency Support Services, which sold and serviced ambulances and emergency vehicles in Audubon from 1993 to 1997. On March 19, 1999, Mr. Daley was sentenced to two years probation and ordered to pay restitution in the amount of $6,125 in sales tax and $1,139 in income tax withheld in connection with his defunct business. This case was investigated jointly by the Division of Taxation's Office of Criminal Investigation and the Camden County Prosecutor's Office, and was prosecuted by the Camden County Prosecutor's Office.
- Amin Jarhoud of Bronx, NY, plead guilty on February 16, 1999, in Carneys Point Twp. Municipal Court to one count of possession of contraband cigarettes. Mr. Jarhoud was transporting 633 cartons of contraband cigarettes from Virginia to New Jersey. The Court imposed fines and fees of $3,654.
- On February 22, 1999, a Monmouth County Grand Jury indicted Stanley W. Hudson, 52, of Monmouth Beach, on four counts of failure to file State income tax returns for 1993 through 1996, and one count of failure to pay income tax in the amount of $24,928.48 on $635,985.15 in gross income. Each of these counts is punishable by a fine of up to $7,500 and three to five years in prison. In the same indictment, Mr. Hudson, who was in the business of selling jewelry on consignment, was charged with theft of approximately $102,800 in jewelry from a client, a second degree crime punishable by a fine of up to twice the amount stolen and five to ten years in prison. This case was investigated jointly by the Monmouth County Prosecutor's Office and by the Division of Taxation's Office of Criminal Investigation, and was presented to the Grand Jury by the Monmouth County Prosecutor's Office.
- On March 12, 1999, Manuel D. Grilo, a resident of Nutley, was sentenced to seven years in state prison after having plead guilty to misapplication of entrusted property relating to the collection of, and failure to remit, New Jersey sales tax. Mr. Grilo was the President of Autobanc of New Jersey, Inc., a used car dealership located on Route 22 in Branchburg Township, NJ. During the years 1995 and 1996, the auto dealership and Mr. Grilo collected in excess of $110,000 in New Jersey sales tax from customers and failed to remit the moneys as required by law. Upon being sentenced, Mr. Grilo was taken into custody to begin serving the seven year term of incarceration.
- On March 12, 1999, the Division of Taxation's Office of Criminal Investigation, along with the Middlesex County Prosecutor's Office and Perth Amboy Police Department executed a search warrant in Perth Amboy, NJ. As a result of this action the following items were seized: 57,962 counterfeit NJ cigarette tax stamps valued at $46,369.60, 3,722.7 cartons of contraband cigarettes, 943 New York State/City legitimate stamps, 8,250 cigars of various brands and paraphernalia involved in attaching the counterfeit indicia. Special Agents arrested three subjects. Numerous criminal violations of the Cigarette Tax Act have been filed.
- On March 19, 1999, in Camden County Superior Court, Steven H. Willans, 33, of Barrington, NJ, plead guilty to one count of failing to file personal income tax returns for 1994 through 1997, and failing to file sales tax returns for the years 1992 through 1995 with the intent to avoid payment of $7,609 in connection with Entertainment Emporium, a retail computer store Mr. Willans operated in Haddon Heights, NJ. Mr. Willans also plead guilty to one count of embezzling $77,000 from the Barrington Ambulance Association, a volunteer organization of which he was the treasurer. Under the terms of his plea agreement, Mr. Willans will be ordered to make restitution to the Division of Taxation and will be sentenced to five years in prison. This case was investigated jointly by the Barrington Police Department, the Camden County Prosecutor's Office, and the Division of Taxation's Office of Criminal Investigation, and was prosecuted by the Camden County Prosecutor's Office. In a related matter, Mr. Willans' wife, Katrina Willans, 31, also of Barrington, was ac

- cepted into the Camden County Pre-Trial Intervention (PTI) Program on the condition that she file delinquent 1993 through 1997 New Jersey personal income tax returns within one year.
- Fifty-seven charges were filed in municipal court on nine cases for violating the cigarette tax law including possession of 4,211.5 cartons of contraband cigarettes, valued at $126,345. □

Tax Briefs

Corporation Business Tax Dissolution Without Assets —

The Division responded to an inquiry as to the treatment of corporations that are dissolved without assets pursuant to N.J.S.A. 14A:12-4.1 and whether they are absolved of liability for any back taxes incurred prior to dissolution.

The taxpayer was informed that dissolution without assets may be made by a corporation that has ceased doing business and does not intend to recommence doing business provided that no assets were distributed during the past 24 months and that there are no assets left to be distributed.

This procedure does not require the filing of a tax clearance certificate with the Office of Commercial Recording (formerly in the Secretary of State's Office), but it also does not exempt the taxpayer from filing New Jersey corporation business tax returns and paying tax up to the date of dissolution.

The minimum tax is due even though the corporation is inactive. N.J.S.A 14A:12-4.1 will not permit corporations to evade any State tax liabilities that would otherwise be paid.

Sales & Use Tax

Resale Certificates — For New Jersey sales tax purposes, liability for the tax accrues when the merchandise is delivered to the customer. Delivery includes being picked up by the customer or his agents or being delivered to a location specified by the customer. Therefore, unless a specific exemption applies, the vendor must collect and remit sales tax if the customer picks up the merchandise in New Jersey or if the vendor (or a common carrier) delivers the merchandise to the customer or his designated recipient in New Jersey.

If the customer is an individual or entity in the business of reselling the merchandise it buys from the New Jersey vendor, it will be entitled to a resale exemption, provided that it gives the vendor appropriate documentation to support the claimed exemption. (Note: A contractor who purchases materials for installation onto his customers' realty is deemed to be the retail purchaser of the materials and may not claim a resale exemption.) If the customer is a New Jersey vendor, who will pick up the merchandise in New Jersey or have it delivered to a New Jersey location, the customer should use a properly completed Resale Certificate (Form ST-3) to support the exemption. If the customer picks up the merchandise in his own vehicle, the property is deemed to be “delivered in New Jersey,” even though it may be taken to a location outside the State.

If the customer is an out-of-State vendor who has no offices, warehouses, stores, employees, repair or service activities in this State, and who has not voluntarily chosen to register with the New Jersey Division of Taxation, the Resale Certificate for Non-New Jersey Vendors (Form ST-3NR) must be used if the customer is picking up the merchandise from the vendor in New Jersey. If the customer is a vendor who asks the seller to ship the merchandise directly to his (the purchaser's) customer in New Jersey, his purchase will be treated as one for “resale.” The customer should use an ST-3 if he is a New Jersey vendor. If he is a non-New Jersey vendor, he may use any of the following: (1) New Jersey Form ST-3NR, (2) his home state's resale certificate, or (3) the Multi-jurisdiction Uniform Sales and Use Tax Certificate published by the Multistate Tax Commission.

tising services in New Jersey (except direct mail processing services) is exempt from sales tax on and after November 1, 1998. Graphic design is no longer taxable as an advertising service; however, if the object of the transaction is the transfer of tangible personal property to the customer, the transaction is for the sale of tangible property which is still subject to tax under N.J.S.A. 54:32B-3(a). For example, the transfer of a disk that contains graphic design for use by a printer in the production of printed material for sale is a situation where the object of the transaction is deemed to be tangible personal property rather than an advertising service.

There are several exemptions that may apply to the sale of tangible property depending on the circumstances. For instance, the sale of property to a purchaser for resale as such, the sale of property to a commercial printer (or the printer's customer) for use in printing property for sale, and the delivery of property by the vendor to the purchaser outside of New Jersey, are transactions that are entitled to exemption.

Leasing; Excess Mileage Charge — N.J.S.A. 54:32B-2(bb)(2) of the Sales and Use Tax Act imposes the lease tax on the “amount of the total of the lease payments attributable to the lease of such property.” The tax is due from the lessor at the time an extra payment, such as an excess mileage charge, is received from the lessee and must be remitted to the State by the lessor. The lessor may, at the lessor's option, ask the lessee for reimbursement of the tax expense. The charge to the lessee is usually based on the terms of the lease contract between the parties.

Tour Operators — The Division received an inquiry regarding the sales and use treatment of travel arrangements made by tour operators. The tour operator explained that it makes arrangements for hotel stays, restaurant meals, transportation, and admissions to attractions for various groups of affiliated persons (e.g., clubs). The tour operator is not paid by the hotels, restaurants, etc. to act as their agent.

The fact that a tour operator makes travel arrangements only for preformed groups and not for individuals does not affect the sales and use tax treatment of its purchases and sales. The travel service is deemed to be a nontaxable service. Therefore the amounts that the tour operator charges its clients for trips are not subject to sales tax, even if the New Jersey meals, New Jersey hotel charges and New Jersey admissions are separately stated on invoices to customers.

The tour operator company, as the professional service provider, is treated as the “retail purchaser” of the meals, hotel reservations and admission tickets that it obtains for its group clients. Therefore the company must pay tax on the hotel reservations, meals and admissions in New Jersey, and may not claim a resale exemption. In addition, the tour operator cannot use a customer's Exempt Organization Certificate in order to claim exemption from the tax that hotels, restaurants and entertainment facilities are required to charge the tour company on its retail purchases. □

In Our Courts

Local Property Tax
Non-profit Corporation Not Exempt from Property Tax as an Historic Site – *Black United Fund of N.J., Inc., v. City of East
Orange*, decided July 20, 1998,
Tax Court of N.J.

Black United Fund of N.J., a non-profit 501(c)(3) Federal income tax exempt corporation, was not property tax exempt as an historic site under N.J.S.A. 54:4-3.52, as Green Acres per 54:4-3.64, or as a charitable organization according to 54:4-3.6 on or before the statutory October 1, 1995 pretax year assessment/exemption date for tax year 1996.

In reviewing the claim of historic site, the New Jersey Tax Court recalled the 1991 State Supreme Court's finding in Town of Morristown v. Woman's Club of Morristown, that, unlike other exemptions, historic exemption had no actual and exclusive use criteria but required only ownership by a nonprofit corporation and DEP certification as an historic site. Although organized under New Jersey law as a Title 15 nonprofit corporation in August 1980 and despite a Deed of Historic Preservation Restriction recorded on May 29, 1996 by the DEP, historic site designation was not actually issued by DEP until July 8, 1997. The Tax Court referred to Ironbound Educational and Cultural Center, Inc. v. City of Newark, in which the 1987 State Superior Court denied exemption to an historic site determined as such subsequent to its respective October 1 pretax year assessment date. The Tax Court also held that the listing in 1980 of the United Fund's mansion on the National Register of Historic Places and receipt of State Historic Preservation Officer Certification were Federal designations and so did not fulfill the exemption requirements of N.J.S.A. 54:4-3.52.

Considering the Green Acres claim, again, as above, the prerequisite DEP certification of public, recreational, conservational use was not obtained until after October 1, 1995 and, therefore, was not applicable to tax year 1996. In rejecting the claim for Green Acres, the Court reminded us that DEP is not empowered to grant Green Acres exemption, rather its authority is to certify qualifying public purpose.

Finally, the Tax Court looked at the claim for charitable purpose exemption. It noted the eligibility conditions of 54:4-3.6, as previously summarized by the State Supreme Court, included being organized exclusively for exempt purpose; used actually and exclusively for exempt purpose; and operated and used in a nonprofit capacity. The Tax Court utilized Planned Parenthood of Bergen County, Inc. v. Hackensack City, 12 N.J. Tax 598, 610 n.6 (Tax Court 1992), aff'd, 14 N.J. Tax 171 (App. Div. 1993) where "organized" was ruled to pertain only to the "entity's organizational documents, its corporate charter" as the guide in deciding if the Black United Fund was structured exclusively for exempt purpose. In drawing its conclusion, the Court also reviewed 1711 Third Ave., Inc. v. City of Asbury Park, 16 N.J. Tax 174, 182 (Tax Court 1996). It found that United Fund's certificate of incorporation and bylaws, both of which stated purposes were to create a fund to distribute grants to other Federal tax exempt organizations supporting the African American community, while commendable, were not organized exclusively for exempt purposes under 3.6. Though the Fund additionally indicated it operated exclusively for charitable, religious, educational purposes within the meaning of 501(c)(3) of the Internal Revenue Code. This Court reiterated earlier courts in that “Federal income tax exemption standards have no relation to state law governing property tax exemption.” That qualification alone is not sufficient to meet the standards of the New Jersey statute. See Paper Mill Playhouse v. Millburn Twp., 95 N.J. 503, 529 n. 2, 472 A.2d 517 (1984) & City of Trenton v. State, 65 N.J. Super. 1, 11, 166 A.2d 777 (App. Div. 1960).

Sales and Use Tax

Hotel’s Resale of Amenities – Adamar of New Jersey t/a Tropicworld Casino & Entertainment Resort v. Director, Division of Taxation, 17 N.J. Tax 80, (Tax Ct., 1997) affirmed, Appellate Division No. A-2250-97T2 (February 5, 1999).

In consolidated cases, plaintiff hotels sought sales tax refunds, under the sale-for-resale exemption, on purchases of various hotel amenities it provided to its guests including writing pads, stationery, postcards, pens, matches, sewing kits, shoeshine cloths or pads, soap, shampoo, conditioner, shower caps, lotion, shower gel and mouthwash.

On appeal, the Appellate Division affirmed the Tax Court’s holding that the amenities were not sold to guests and therefore did not qualify for the resale exemption. The Tax Court found that (1) the amenities are not sold “as such” because they are “inseparably connected” to the services provided by the hotel, (2) the amenities are not sold as “a component part of a product produced for sale” because the amenities are not incorporated into the room and the room is not a product produced for sale, and (3) the sales tax imposed on the rental of a hotel room is a tax on the rental of the room, not the resale of amenities. The reasoning underlying this decision is that the “true object” concerning a room rental is the use of the room, not the acquisition of amenities. □

In Our Legislature

Corporation Business Tax/ Gross Income Tax

Neighborhood and Business Child Care Tax Incentive Program — P.L. 1999, c.102 (signed into law on May 6, 1999) provides new tax credits to certain corporations based on their expenditures for child care facilities and also allows certain unincorporated businesses to fully deduct such expenditures for gross income tax purposes.

A corporation that is a member of a small/medium business child care consortium will be allowed a credit equal to 15% of its expenditures on child care center physical plant or facilities and a credit of 10% of its contributions, in cash or in kind, to a sponsor of a neighborhood-based child care center. The credit will apply to privilege periods ending on or after July 31, 1999 and before July 1, 2002.

An unincorporated business that is a member of a small/medium business child care consortium will be allowed to deduct, for gross income tax purposes, the amount of their expenditures on child care center physical plant or facilities, as well as the amount of their contributions, in cash or in kind, to a sponsor of a neighborhood-based child care center. These deductions are extended to members of partnerships or associations in proportion to the partner’s share of the partnership expenditure or contribution. The deduction will apply to taxable years beginning on or after January 1, 1999 and before January 1, 2002.

Gross Income Tax

State Tuition Program Accounts, Education IRAs — P.L. 1999, c.116 (signed into law on May 21, 1999) allows earnings of qualified state tuition program accounts (e.g., NJBEST accounts) and educational individual retirement accounts to be deferred from New Jersey gross income until the earnings are distributed and excludes from income qualified distributions from qualified state tuition program accounts that are used for qualified higher education expenses.

This act applies to taxable years beginning on or after January 1, 1998.

Checkoff for Korean Veterans’ Memorial Fund — P.L. 1999, c.92 (signed into law on May 3, 1999) allows gross income tax filers to contribute to the Korean Veterans’ Memorial Fund by designating a portion of their refund or by making a donation with their gross income tax return. This act applies to tax years beginning on or after January 1, 2000.

Local Property Tax

Extension of Time for Filing Property Tax Reimbursement Applications — P.L. 1999, c.67 (signed into law on April 16, 1999) extends the deadline for filing property tax reimbursement applications to April 15, 1999. The extension applies only to tax year 1998.

NJ SAVER and Homestead Rebate Act — P.L. 1999, c.63 (signed into law on April 15, 1999) establishes a new direct property tax relief program for New Jersey homeowners and expands the existing homestead property tax rebate for certain tenants.

The NJ SAVER component of the statute provides for an annual rebate to be issued to qualified New Jersey residents who own, occupy and pay property taxes on a home in this State which was their principal residence as of October 1 of the previous year. Residents of condominiums, co-ops and continuing care facilities may also be eligible for a NJ SAVER rebate.

The program will be phased in over five years, and will provide maximum rebates averaging about $600 when fully implemented. Rebates will be phased in at the rate of 20% of the maximum for 1998, 40% for 1999, 60% for 2000, etc. Because the amount of the NJ SAVER rebate is derived by multiplying the first $45,000 of the qualified property's equalized value by the equalized school tax rate for the municipality in which the home is located, actual rebate amounts will differ for each municipality.

Homeowners who qualify for both the homestead rebate and the NJ SAVER rebate will receive whichever rebate provides the greater benefit.

Tenants are not eligible for NJ SAVER rebates. However, this legislation extends homestead rebate eligibility to tenants under 65 who are not blind or disabled provided that their income does not exceed $100,000. Formerly such tenants qualified for a $30 homestead rebate only if income was $40,000 or less. Under the new law, homestead rebates for these tenants will be $30 for tax year 1998, $40 for tax year 1999, $60 for tax year 2000, $80 for tax year 2001 and $100 for tax year 2002.

Miscellaneous

Nonofficial Examination of State Tax Records — P.L. 1999, c.42 (signed into law on March 12, 1999) provides that any person violating the confidentiality provisions of R.S. 54:50-8 of the State Tax Uniform Procedure Law by examining records or files for any reason other than one necessitated by the performance of official duties shall be guilty of a disorderly persons offense. Persons who divulge, disclose or use confidential tax information will be guilty of a crime of the fourth degree.

Whenever records and files are used in the prosecution of a person for violating the provisions of R.S. 54:50-8, the defendant shall be given access to said records and files. The court shall review such records and files in camera and that portion of the court record containing the records and files shall be sealed by the court. Chapter 42 became effective upon enactment.

Shore Protection Fund — P.L. 1999, c.71 (signed into law on April 28, 1999) increases the amount annually credited to the Shore Protection Fund to $25 million. This act took effect immediately and applies only to fiscal years beginning after enactment.

Aid for Challengers of the NYC Personal Income Tax — P.L. 1999, c.118 (signed into law on May 27, 1999) authorizes the New Jersey Attorney General to represent, or to file an action on behalf of, affected New Jersey citizens who wish to challenge the repeal of the New York City personal income tax for residents of New York State who reside in places other than New York City, but not for New Jersey residents who earn income in New York City. Appropriates $95 million for expenses incurred in providing such assistance. □

New Call Center

In keeping with the Division's overall goal of providing the best possible taxpayer services to both the tax practitioner community and the public at large, the Tax Hotline, now called the New Jersey Taxation Call Center, recently completed the first phase of a major technology upgrade project. This first phase consisted of the acquisition and implementation of a new, state-of-the-art, telephone system. The new system both enhances the Call Center's functionality and increases its capacity to handle telephone inquiries.

The Call Center telephone system now provides callers with a menu of possible choices. The new menu allows the Call Center to connect a caller with a representative who is the most capable of answering their inquiry. Also, the new system prompts a caller with an account-related inquiry to enter their Social Security Number. This feature allows a representative to access a caller's account as soon as the call is connected. The benefit of this feature is to reduce the amount of time that a caller will have to wait while their account is accessed. Another system feature allows a caller to receive Corporate Public Records general information, a new function of the Division of Taxation. Finally, the new system offers a Spanish speaking caller the opportunity to speak with a representative who can converse fluently in the Spanish language.

The new telephone system increases the number of Call Center representatives by almost 50 percent. This increase will allow the Call Center to answer a larger volume of calls during peak periods. Also, the increased capacity will result in shorter hold times for the majority of callers.

The Call Center technology upgrade is a prime example of the Division of Taxation's commitment to providing top quality taxpayer services to the public. By employing cutting edge technology, the Division continually strives to make compliance with the tax laws of the State of New Jersey as easy and as painless as possible.

You can reach the Call Center by calling its main telephone number, 609-292-6400. □

PTR-1 Extension

The filing deadline for the 1998 Property Tax Reimbursement Application, Form PTR-1, has been extended to April 15, 1999. By extending the deadline, every eligible applicant will be given the opportunity to file an application to effectively freeze property taxes at their 1997 level. However, those who file their applications after March 15, 1999 may not receive their checks with the first mailing due to be mailed by July 15, 1999.

For further information, or to obtain an application, call the Property Tax Reimbursement Hotline at 1-800-882-6597. □

New Jersey Offers PC Filing

The New Jersey Division of Taxation is proud to announce the introduction of NJ PC File. This newest method to file paperless income tax returns is available free of charge from the Division of Taxation, and allows taxpayers to prepare and file their New Jersey returns from a personal computer. "We anticipate that a majority of resident taxpayers will be able to file their 1998 New Jersey income tax returns with NJ PC File," said State Treasurer James A. DiEleuterio, Jr.

The NJ PC File software is available for downloading from the Division's web site at:

<http://www.state.nj.us/treasury/taxation/>

To use NJ PC File, taxpayers simply download NJ PC File software from the Division of Taxation's web site and then use their Windows 95/98 based PCs to complete their returns and transmit the information to the Division by modem. Taxpayers can PC File their New Jersey returns 24 hours a day, 7 days a week.

Robert K. Thompson, Division of Taxation Director added, "NJ PC File offers taxpayers another fast, easy and secure "paperless" method for filing their State tax returns. We estimate that as many as three million taxpayers will be able to file online and in most cases, receive their refunds within two weeks."

NJ PC File requires taxpayers to enter their individual PIN number during return preparation. Taxpayers who received a 1998 Form NJ-1040 booklet with their name and address preprinted on the face of the fold-out insert will find their NJ PC File PIN number on the same panel as their preprinted label. Those taxpayers who do not have a preprinted label will still be able to use NJ PC File by entering last year's refund or balance due amount as their PIN number. NJ PC File may only be used to file original 1998 New Jersey Resident Income Tax Returns. Amended returns may not be filed with NJ PC File.

Those who owe tax to New Jersey can still use NJ PC File to prepare and transmit their returns, and then mail their payment to the Division.

Certain taxpayers will not be able to use NJ PC File: part-year residents, nonresidents, those who did not file a 1997 NJ-1040 resident return, those who are claiming a credit for taxes paid to other jurisdictions, those who have business income, or those who have income, losses, deductions or exclusions which require them to include attachments are not eligible. In addition, taxpayers who file a Federal application for automatic extension may not use NJ PC File unless they also file Form NJ-630.

Taxpayers who have questions about NJ PC File can contact the Division's Call Center at 609-292-6400. Information on NJ PC File also appears on the Division of Taxation's home page at:

<http://www.state.nj.us/treasury/taxation/>

Pay by Credit Card

New Jersey income tax payments can now be made by credit card announced State Treasurer James A. DiEleuterio, Jr. Taxpayers can call 1-888-2PAYTAX, toll free, and use an American Express, MasterCard or Discover/Novus credit card to pay the tax due with a 1998 personal income tax return, or to make a payment of estimated tax for 1999. Payments cannot be made with a Visa card.

"People are using credit cards for most of their financial transactions today, from buying groceries at their local supermarket to making purchases over the Internet," said the Treasurer. "We want to make it possible for them to pay their New Jersey income tax this way too," he explained.

Taxpayers can make payments of 1998 New Jersey income tax, or estimated payments for 1999, whether they file a resident return, Form NJ-1040, nonresident return, Form NJ-1040NR, or fiduciary return, Form NJ-1041. Taxpayers who make their income tax payments by credit card on or before the April 15 due date, but who request an extension of time to file their New Jersey income tax

The credit card payment system can only process tax payments that are under $100,000. Payments of $100,000 or more must be made by check or money order. Taxpayers will be charged a convenience fee, based on the amount of the tax payment, when paying by credit card. The convenience fee ranges from a minimum of $3.00 for any payment under $100, up to $2,200 for tax payments that are $95,000 or over, but less than $100,000.

Taxpayers can pay by credit card no matter how the 1998 return was filed — whether in traditional paper form or using one of New Jersey's "paperless" filing methods. Those taxpayers who have New Jersey tax due and who Tele-File their returns, or those who use either the new NJ PC File software or a commercial software package to prepare and transmit their New Jersey returns, can pay by credit card and eliminate the need to mail anything to the Division of Taxation.

For more information on New Jersey's credit card payment program, taxpayers may contact the Call Center at 609-292-6400. □

Year 2000 Update

Y2K is nearly here and while preparations for readiness are underway, managers throughout State Government, are concerned enough to ask "Are we really ready?" This issue is of such magnitude that the Governor's office is overseeing the Year 2000 compliance readiness efforts. Toward that end, the Division has been gathering information to identify which systems or services are at risk and taking the steps necessary to make them compliant.

To meet the challenge of the Y2K problem for the Division's mainframe systems, the Office of Information Technology (OIT), in conjunction with the Division's Office of Technical Support, has been working to make these systems Y2K compliant. Renovations have been made to both our case tracking system, TULIPS, and our Generic Tax System (GENTS).

Testing has also been performed on various Division PCs to determine if the hardware is Y2K compliant. Two tests were done: a real time test to check the transition from 1999 to 2000, and a test to insure that the new date was retained after rebooting. PCs with a 386 processor or below did not pass the transition test, however, all machines passed the reboot test. Through recent PC acquisitions and upgrades to existing PCs, it is anticipated that all PCs within the Division will be Y2K compliant before the end of the year.

Emphasis for now has been placed on the applications designed on standalone PCs or PC-based networks. Each area prepared Assessment Worksheets for applications in their respective areas. These forms supplied information on the operating system, language or database and interfaces specific to an application.

Based upon the scope of work required, systems are being retired, replaced with new software and/or hardware or renovated to achieve Y2K compliance. Applications are being converted or revised by in-house staff responsible for the maintenance of those programs.

There are estimates that suggest 20% of businesses in America will cease to operate because they were not prepared for Y2K. The Division of Taxation is placing a high priority on ensuring that our tax systems will be fully operational come the year 2000 and beyond. □

CORPORATION TAX Investment Tax Credit

P.L. 1997, c.445, which was signed into law on January 15, 1998, provides a credit against the corporation business tax for certain investments made in small, New Jersey-based, high-technology businesses, and supplements P.L. 1945, c.162 (N.J.S.A. 54:10A-1 et seq.).

A taxpayer shall be allowed a credit against the tax in the amount equal to 10% of the qualified investment made by the taxpayer during each of the three years beginning on or after January 1, 1999, in a small, New Jersey-based, high-technology business, up to a maximum investment made by the taxpayer.

- This credit is taken after all other corporation business tax credits are taken and shall not exceed 50% of the tax liability otherwise due and shall not reduce the tax liability to an amount less than the statutory minimum.
- The credit allowable pursuant to this section shall be applied in the order of the credits' tax years.
- A credit shall not be allowed pursuant to Section 1 of P.L.

1993, c.175 (N.J.S.A. 54:10A-5.24), for expenses paid from funds for which a credit is allowed, or which are includible in the calculation of a credit allowed under this section.

- Any unused credit may be carried over for fifteen years up to a maximum of $500,000. However, a taxpayer may not carry over any amount of unused credit to a tax year during which a corporate acquisition, with respect to which a taxpayer was a target corporation, occurred or during which the taxpayer was a party to a merger or consolidation.

DEFINITIONS:

Advanced computing means a technology used in the designing and developing of computing hardware and software, including innovations in designing the full spectrum of hardware from hand-held calculators to super computers, and peripheral equipment.

Advanced materials means materials with engineered properties created through the development of specialized processing and synthesis technology, including ceramics, high value-added metals, electronic materials, composites, polymers, and biomaterials.

Biotechnology means the continually expanding body of fundamental knowledge about the functioning of biological systems from the macro level to the molecular and subatomic levels, as well as novel products, services, technologies and subtechnologies developed as a result of insights gained from research advances which add to that body of fundamental knowledge.

Electronic device technology means a technology involving microelectronics, semiconductors, electronic equipment and instrumentation, radio frequency, microwave and millimeter electronics, and optical and optic-electrical devices, or data and digital communications and imaging devices.

Environmental technology means assessment and prevention of threats or damage to human health or the environment, environmental cleanup, or the development of alternative energy sources.

Qualified investment means the non-refundable investment, at risk in a small, New Jersey-based, high-technology business, or cash that is transferred to the small, New Jersey-based, high-technology business by a taxpayer that is not a related person of the small, New Jersey-based, high-technology business, the transfer of which is in connection with a transaction in exchange for stock, interests in partnerships or joint ventures, licenses (exclusive or non-exclusive), rights to use technology, marketing rights, warrants, options or any items similar to those included herein, including but not limited to options or rights to acquire any of the items included herein.

Qualified research expenses means qualified research expenses as defined in section 41 of the Federal Internal Revenue Code of 1986, 26 U.S.C. 41, as in effect on June 30, 1992, in the fields of advanced computing, advanced materials, biotechnology, electronic device technology, environmental technology, or medical device technology.

A taxpayer claiming this credit will need to request and file Form 308 with its Corporation Business Tax Return. □

GROSS INCOME TAX 1998 Roth IRA Conversion Election

Taxpayers who converted an existing IRA to a Roth IRA before December 31, 1998 and elected to recognize all the income in 1998 rather than over a four-year period for Federal tax purposes, are not required to make the same election for New Jersey gross income tax purposes. Taxpayers may make a separate election for New Jersey tax purposes and report the income over a four-year period, even though they elect to report all the income in 1998 for Federal tax purposes.

Taxpayers who elect to report the income over a four-year period for Federal tax purposes, however, must also report the income over a four-year period for New Jersey tax purposes.

Federal Form 8606 must be attached to the 1998 New Jersey gross income tax return as verification of the Federal election.

If taxpayers qualify under the Federal rules to convert an existing IRA to a Roth IRA, they also qualify for New Jersey income tax purposes. The income limitations imposed at the Federal level are applicable for New Jersey gross income tax purposes.

Example: A taxpayer, in calculating his conversion eligibility, has the following income for 1998, not including the Roth IRA conversion:

Federal AGI (before Conversion)

Wages	$ 80,000
Interest	10,000
Capital Gains	12,000
Partnership Loss	(17,000)
Total	$ 85,000

New Jersey Income

Wages	$ 80,000
Interest	10,000
Capital Gains	12,000
Partnership Loss	-0- *
Total	$ 102,000

* A loss in one category of income cannot offset income in another category for New Jersey gross income tax purposes.

The taxpayer in this example qualifies to convert his existing IRA to a Roth IRA since, for Federal income tax purposes, he does not exceed the income limitation of $100,000. The amount of income realized upon conversion is not considered. As the example demonstrates, conversion eligibility for New Jersey gross income tax purposes is based solely upon Federal eligibility, even if 1998 taxable New Jersey income exceeds $100,000. □

DIVISION OPERATIONS

New Web Look, Same Location

On February 5, 1999, the New Jersey Division of Taxation unveiled its newly renovated website. The Site has been redesigned to encompass all aspects of the Division, while being web-friendly and enjoyable to use. Changes include the addition of various links within the website. Taxpayers may now view a variety of information, from New Jersey's Statutes and the opinions of New Jersey's courts, to advice on common billing questions and errors with a click of their mouse.

Additionally, the Site now has improved e-mail and an "interactive" organizational chart. In addition to the ability to activate a specific branch or activity for a summary of functions and responsibilities, the improved organizational chart now includes various telephone numbers for Division branches and sections. Also new to the Site is Hot News. Hot News houses the most current new topics to hit the Division. Currently, Hot News is focusing on

- Filing methods (including NJ TeleFile, the new NJ PC File and online filing of Form ST-50); and
- Information on billing notices commonly received by taxpayers.

The most exciting of the Site's new features is a four-path system that guides individuals to the area which best addresses their informational needs. This feature will eliminate the need to scroll through information that might not be of interest to the individual. There is a path for practitioners, one for businesses, one for children and one for everyone else. This issue will explore the Practitioners' Path and give a general overview of the menu bar located on the left-hand side of the Web Page. Subsequent issues of the New Jersey State Tax News will explore the remaining three paths and offer a more in-depth look at the menu bar.

Practitioners' Path

The Practitioners' Path (or page) is comprised of two menus, Current Updates and Other Information.

Current Updates — This offers updates on filing methods, new tax information, and current Division programs and notifications. As in Hot News, Current Updates features information on PC filing, TeleFiling, and filing certain Division forms online, as well as electronic filing. In an effort to help ascertain the most effective and efficient method of filing, various methods and their qualifications are defined. This menu also contains What's New in Taxes. Information here is available in table format (sorted by date) for easy reference. Specific columns may be activated for additional information and publications. Package NJX and sample bills may be viewed in this menu of the Practitioners' Path. Individuals have the ability to activate an area of the sample bill to receive specific information relating to their selection. Included is the New Jersey Income Tax Resident Notice, Sales and Use Tax Notice, Corporation Business Tax Notice and notices for Gross Income Tax Employer Weekly Remitters.

Other Information — Practitioners may access everything from the Division's Technical Bulletins and publications to a complete listing of regional offices and their telephone numbers. Additionally, links have been provided for easy access to other tax websites, such as the Internal Revenue Service, the Division of Revenue and the Federation of Tax Administrators, which contains direct links to forms for other states.

If you can't find what you need through the Practitioners' Path, simply use the menu bar located on the left-side of the Web Page for easy access to another area of the Division's site.

Selecting the New Jersey icon brings you back to the Division's home page. You may also select the Director's welcome from this menu bar. Tax Forms Now and Publications are shortcuts for ordering and viewing forms and publications. You may also view Taxation Topics or Take the Taxation Tour. Unclaimed Property may be accessed from this menu, as can Information for Seniors. Lastly, if you can't locate what you are looking for, Search Our Site! Look for the Business Path, the Home Page, the Director's Welcome and tax form information in the next issue. □

GROSS INCOME TAX
K-1 Attachment with Returns

Taxpayers with investments in partnerships and S Corporations or with income derived from estates or trusts receive New Jersey K-1s and/or Federal K-1s, reporting amounts of income or loss at year end. In N.J.A.C. 18:35-1.3(g), Partner filing requirements, the regulation specifies that copies of K-1s shall be included with the New Jersey individual tax returns.

Following the publication of an article in the fall 1998 issue of the New Jersey State Tax News listing K-1s as necessary items to be enclosed when returns are filed, inquiries were received by the Division of Taxation seeking exemption from that requirement. Written permission will not be issued exempting taxpayers from furnishing information required by regulation. If however a taxpayer does not include their K-1s when the return is filed, the return will not be rejected and will be processed.

All supporting information used in the calculation of items of reportable income or used in the substantiation of deductions or exemptions must be kept by the taxpayer should the Division of Taxation subsequently require it during review or audit. The lack of K-1 copies with a submitted return will not be a criteria for the selection of that return for audit. □

State Tax News —
Mailing List Update

All current recipients of the New Jersey State Tax News are asked to submit a subscription renewal request to the Division of Taxation so that the mailing list for this publication can be purged of erroneous or obsolete subscriber information. Submitting the renewal request form on page 19 of this issue will aid the Division considerably in its effort to maintain an accurate, up-to-date list.

The Division of Taxation plans to distribute future issues of the New Jersey State Tax News by e-mail as well as in print form. If you wish to receive your copy electronically, please enter your e-mail address on the subscription form. Current subscribers who do not return the subscription form by June 1, 1999 will be removed from the mailing list. □

Consolidated Filing of GIT-ER and UI/DI

The tax registration files developed for the consolidated filing and remittance of Gross Income Tax Employer Withholdings and Unemployment and Disability Insurance are a combination of existing Department of Labor and Division of Taxation registration files.

An analysis of the Third Quarter of 1998 filings of the consolidated quarterly form NJ-927 (the first reporting period subject to consolidated filing) has revealed that some employers are registered and are filing and remitting under more than one identification number.

This is more than likely the result of slight differences in the employer name on the Taxation and Labor registration files, or the use of a suffix on the Federal identification number with Taxation, while Labor does not use suffixes.

The inadvertent filing and remitting under more than one number can result in the receipt by employers of delinquency or deficiency notices for one or the other of the identification numbers, even though the employer has paid what is actually owed.

If an employer has received two NJ-927 coupon books, the Division of Taxation should be advised as soon as possible as to which identification number is correct. This will insure that subsequent returns and payments will be properly credited.

If an employer receives a delinquency or deficiency notice that he suspects may be the result of having more than one identification number, the employer should send a copy of both front and back of any canceled check for which he has not been given proper credit. If the employer is an EFT remitter, he should send the wire number and the date of the wire transfer for any payment for which credit was not properly given. This information should be sent to the address indicated on the notice.

Once all of the employers with multiple registration numbers are identified and the database corrected, this problem should be eliminated. The assistance and cooperation of affected employers and practitioners will not only aid in this process, but speed it up as well. □

S.O.I.L.

The acronym SOIL stands for Set Off of Individual Liability. The SOIL statute permits the New Jersey Division of Taxation to use State income tax refunds and homestead rebates to pay down debts owed by citizens to various governmental agencies. Persons who may have their refunds or rebates "set off" are notified by mail in the spring of the year. They have a 35 day period in which to protest the debt with the agency to which it is owed. The notification contains instructions on what procedure to follow and includes the name and the telephone number for the agency. Persons receiving SOIL notices should not call the Division of Taxation about a debt owed to another agency; only the agency certifying the indebtedness can correct any errors or omissions. □

Release of Lien

In most real estate transactions, lien searches are performed by title companies and/or the lending institutions themselves, prior to the authorization for the conveyance of title. At times, there are not sufficient funds available from the sale to satisfy all liens, creditors and applicable transfer fees. Normally at that point the taxpayer and/or his authorized representatives begin the arduous task of contacting lien holders for possible settlement for a lesser amount or requesting the lien be released from that parcel of land being transferred only, but remain a lien on the debtor and any other property that they may own.

When there are liens filed by the Division of Taxation and contact is made, all too often the submitted request lacks the required information utilized in considering the request for a Release of Lien, thereby resulting in unnecessary delays in making a determination.

Before a determination can be made the following information and supporting documentation is needed:

1. A copy of the Agreement of Sale.
2. A metes and bounds description of the property to be sold and the complete address; namely the street name and number, city, state and county.
3. A copy of the proposed Closing Statement and/or an itemization of the disbursement of the total sales price.
4. A list of all encumbrances on the property. For each encumbrance, indicate:
 - a. Name and address of the secured parties
 - b. Description of the encumbrance
 - c. Date of the agreement
 - d. Date and place recorded, if any
 - e. Original amount borrowed and rate of interest
 - f. Itemization of current balance due
 - g. Family relationship and/or affiliation between the seller and secured parties, if any
5. A certified appraisal of the property being sold and certified appraisals of any remaining property owned by the seller. These appraisals must be made by a person licensed to make such appraisals in New Jersey (if available).
6. All tax returns which are presently delinquent and all returns which become due between the date of inquiry and anticipated date of closing, whether paid or not, must be submitted.
7. The proposed consideration to be rendered the Division for a Release of Lien.
8. A written proposal, explaining in detail, the seller's plan to liquidate the balance of the outstanding tax liabilities which are due and owing.
9. Any other information that is deemed relevant to the request for Release of Lien.
10. Name, address and phone number of seller's attorney or authorized representative.

It should be noted that this is the minimum required information and based on the facts presented, additional data may be requested before a decision can be rendered. □

CORPORATION TAX

Warehouse Project

The Corporation Business Tax Act imposes a franchise tax on corporations for the privilege of having or exercising a corporate charter, doing business, employing or owning capital or property, or maintaining an office in New Jersey.

The Special Projects Unit of Field Investigations is collaborating with the Division's Nexus group on a warehouse project. Many out-of-State corporations own property stored in New Jersey warehouses. Since these businesses own tangible personal property in New Jersey, they are subject to New Jersey Corporation Business Tax. The Special Projects Investigators are seeking proof of registration from warehouse tenants. Those that are not properly registered with the Division of Revenue are being assessed for Corporation Business Tax for each year they have stored property in this State.

Any corporation seeking voluntary compliance should write to:

Small Business Workshops

The New Jersey Division of Taxation, in conjunction with the Internal Revenue Service, conducts free workshops several times each year at various locations around the State. The objective of these seminars is to help small businesses learn about their tax obligations.

Spring 1999

Tentative Workshop Schedule

April 30	Newark
May 7	Camden
May 21	New Brunswick
June 4	Atlantic City
June 11	Trenton
June 25	Paterson

Topics covered in the workshops include: a discussion of the different types of business ownership and the tax obligations of each; procedures for registering a business with the State of New Jersey; employer responsibilities; reporting business income; and collecting and remitting sales and use tax.

Workshops run from 9:00 a.m. to 4:00 p.m. The Division of Taxation's presentation is given in the afternoon. To learn more about Small Business Workshops, or to sign up for one of the spring sessions, call the Internal Revenue Service at: 1-800-829-1040 or the Division of Taxation's Call Center at: 609-292-6400. □

Cigarettes/Tobacco Purchased Outside New Jersey

With the increase of New Jersey cigarette tax more consumers are turning to out-of-State or to mail order for their purchases. The New Jersey Cigarette Tax Act, N.J.S.A. 54:40A-20, imposes a tax on the sale, possession for sale, use, consumption or storage for use of all cigarettes within the State of New Jersey. The New Jersey cigarette tax rate effective January 1, 1998 is $0.04 per cigarette or $0.80 per pack.

When a consumer purchases cigarettes out-of-State or through mail order, the cigarette tax along with the 6% New Jersey sales tax becomes due. The New Jersey Cigarette Tax Act does not allow credit for taxes paid to another state. In addition to cigarettes, cigars and bulk tobacco are also taxable under the Tobacco Products Wholesale Sales and Use Tax Act. The rate of tax on tobacco products is 48% of the invoiced price.

The Federal Government requires any entity or persons shipping cigarettes in interstate commerce to file a monthly report of all cigarette shipments with the receiving state's tax administrator. This requirement is known as the Jenkins Act. When this information is received, the New Jersey Division of Taxation will assess the consumer the cigarette tax, the New Jersey use tax and/or interest or penalty. □

Correction

An error appears on the sample W-2 Form in the article entitled "NJ Information on Form W-2" which appeared on page 9 of the winter 1998 issue of the New Jersey State Tax News. The employee contribution amounts shown for New Jersey Unemployment Insurance/Health Care Subsidy Fund/Workforce Development Partnership Fund (UI/HC/WD) and Disability Insurance (DI) shown in Box 14 were listed in reverse order. The correct maximum employee contribution to UI/HC/WD for 1998 is $82.03 and the correct maximum employee contribution to DI for 1998 is $96.50. These figures represent the maximum employee contributions to these funds for 1998. Not all employees will have contributed the maximum amount. This same error appears in the sample W-2 Form printed in the 1998 New Jersey Resident Return instruction booklet (Form NJ-1040-P) and 1998 Nonresident Return instruction booklet (Form NJ-1040NR-P).

CH.	DATE	SYNOPSIS	TAX*	BILL
3	3/20/98	Sale of a Principal Residence — Conforms New Jersey law to Federal law with respect to the treatment of gains derived from the sale of a principal residence occurring after May 6, 1997. Qualified taxpayers, regardless of age, can now exclude up to $250,000 of such gains ($500,000 on certain joint returns). The taxpayer must have owned and used the residence as his (and/or her) principal residence for periods totaling two or more years during the five-year period ending on the date of the sale.	GIT	A-1296 (1R)
33	6/30/98	Business Employment Incentive Program (Amendment) — Enhances the availability of program grants for certain partnerships and limited liability companies by permitting grants authorized under the program to be determined based upon the withholding or estimated tax payments of partners and members of limited liability companies as well as upon the withholdings of employees.	MIS	S-1002 (2R)
39	6/30/98	Sale of State Tax Indebtedness — Authorizes the New Jersey State Treasurer to sell all rights, title and interest in any State tax indebtedness and lien represented by a certificate of debt, except in such instances where the taxpayer can provide clear and convincing evidence that the underlying indebtedness is not fixed, has not been finally determined by the Division of Taxation or is subject to protest or appeal.	ALL	A-1996 (1R)
40	6/30/98	ICF-MR Assessment — Provides for an annual assessment at the rate of 5.8% on the gross revenue of every intermediate care facility for the mentally retarded (ICF-MR) in New Jersey. Proceeds will be used to reduce the number of disabled persons awaiting placement in a community residence or program.	MIS	A-2141
49	7/4/98	Veteran's Tax Deduction — Extends certain benefits, including the annual $50 veteran's deduction, to certain participants in Operation "Restore Hope" (Somalia) or Operations "Joint Endeavor" and "Joint Guard" (Bosnia and Herzegovina). This legislation became effective upon enactment.	LPT	S-1155 (1R)
57	7/24/98	Roth IRAs — Amends and supplements N.J.S.A. 54A:5-1 to provide an exclusion from New Jersey gross income tax for certain qualified distributions from Roth IRAs and to allow four-year reporting of certain taxable distributions. The act brings New Jersey's tax treatment of Roth IRAs into conformity with the Federal tax treatment received by such accounts.	GIT	S-840 (Corrected Copy)
79	8/14/98	Single Member Limited Liability Companies — Provides for single member limited liability companies and allows such companies to be treated as sole proprietorships for State income tax purposes provided the company is not classified otherwise for Federal income tax purposes. Allows certain taxpayers who have paid assessed deficiencies to file refund claims. 2. Hedge Funds. Nonresidents are no longer required to include in income from New Jersey sources gains or losses resulting from the trading activities of certain private investment partnerships (“hedge funds”). 3. Penalty Rules. For return periods beginning on or after January 1, 1999: (a) the penalty for failure to file a tax return is based on the amount of tax underpaid rather than on the entire tax liability; and (b) the corporation business tax underpayment penalty is capped at 25% of the amount underpaid. 4. Gross Income Tax Estimated Payments. For return periods beginning on or after January 1, 1999: (a) raises from $100 to $400 the tax threshold above which quarterly estimated tax payments are required; (b) requires certain estates and trusts to make estimated tax payments; and (c) modifies the method by which the penalty for underpayment of estimated tax is determined. 5. Criminal Enforcement

Criminal Enforcement over the past several months included:

- As part of the continuing Motor Fuels Compliance Project, on October 14, 1998 OCI, in conjunction with State Police, executed a search warrant at the business location of Naum Raichel, owner of Gas R Us Inc., t/a Delta Gas, a truckstop in Elizabeth, New Jersey. This search warrant resulted in the seizure of evidence which then resulted in the arrest of Raichel by the State Police. He was charged with misapplication of $75,600 in motor fuel (diesel) tax for 1997 and 1998, and related charges, and was released on $20,000 bail.
- On October 22, 1998 Mario Rivellini of Clifton, NJ entered a guilty plea in Kearny Municipal Court to violating the municipal general ordinance for failing to file sales and use tax returns for January through May 1998. This was in connection with the operation of M & R Cleaning Services Inc., a commercial cleaning company. Rivellini was fined $330 and will be assessed civil penalty and interest. This case was investigated jointly by OCI and the Police Division of the Waterfront Commission of New York Harbor.

- On November 6, 1998 Warren Kaye, a Pennsylvania resident and former officer of a defunct New Jersey corporation, was sentenced before the Honorable Ronald B. Sokalski, J.S.C. in Passaic County. Mr. Kaye was sentenced to five years probation and $60,000 in restitution as a result of guilty pleas to one count of theft by failure to make required disposition of property and one count of failure to withhold taxes. The offenses stemmed from Mr. Kaye's conduct while an officer of General Machine & Instrument Co. Inc. in Wayne, NJ and involved the failure to remit New Jersey gross income tax withholdings and unemployment insurance withholdings as required by law. Richard L. Pessolano was sentenced on December 15, 1998 also before the Honorable Ronald B. Sokalski, J.S.C. Mr. Pessolano, of Sparta, another former officer of this defunct New Jersey corporation, was sentenced to eight years of incarceration and restitution in the amount of $140,268.89 for failure to remit New Jersey gross income tax withholdings and New Jersey unemployment and disability insurance monies that had been withheld from the employees of General Machine and Instrument Co., Inc.

- Allenex Inc. t/a Allenwood Exxon pleaded guilty to four counts of receiving rebates relative to the purchase of cigarettes from a NJ licensed distributor, F. A. Davis & Sons of Baltimore, MD. The fines and costs imposed were $5,080. Other charges relative to failure to register for the Tobacco Products Tax and failure to file Motor Fuels returns resulted in guilty pleas as well.
- F. A. Davis & Sons pled guilty to a total of 11 counts of providing rebates in violation of the Unfair Cigarette Sales Act. Maximum fines for each count were imposed by the courts totaling $12,705. This case was the result of OCI's investigation wherein F. A. Davis & Sons Inc. was found to be giving their retail customers an illegal rebate of 60 cents per carton by way of checks delivered by their salespersons.

- On November 28, 1998 Inspectors of the U.S. Customs Service at the Mexico/Laredo Texas Border Station found a female Mexican national crossing into the United States in possession of 86,100 counterfeit NJ cigarette tax stamps. The stamps were seized and the woman was detained and identified. The averted loss of revenue was $68,880. This investigation is continuing.
- On December 4, 1998 Marijit Singh M.D., of Mahwah, was sentenced to five years probation in Bergen County Superior Court for failure to pay New Jersey income tax for 1995. Dr. Singh's probation is to run concurrently with five years probation for theft of $900,000 from his patients and associates in an investment fraud scheme. Singh was ordered to make restitution of $140,536 to the State in income tax, penalty and interest for tax years 1992 through 1995.
- On December 9, 1998 Hamdan A. Awawdeh of Bronx, NY was arrested by the Jackson Twp.

Police for transporting 502 cartons of contraband cigarettes. Additional charges filed by OCI included possession of contraband cigarettes and two other disorderly persons offenses. Based on information gathered by OCI Special Agents during the debriefing of Mr. Awawdeh, the special agents proceeded to an address in North Bergen, NJ. That investigation resulted in the arrest of Muhammad Abughannam by OCI Special Agents for possession of contraband cigarettes which included over 10 cartons of counterfeit stamped cigarettes (a 3rd degree crime). The subject is the owner of Halal Meat Market on Bergenline Avenue North Bergen, NJ. Judge Falcone, J.M.C. set bail at $10,000. Three indictable charges and two disorderly persons offenses have been filed by OCI. Abughannam was arraigned in the Hudson County Central Judicial Procession Court. This matter is awaiting grand jury proceedings.

- On December 11, 1998 Jeffrey A. Tyson of Plainsboro was indicted by a State grand jury on four counts of failure to file New Jersey gross income tax returns for the years of 1993, 1994, 1995 and 1996.
- On December 15, 1998 Luis Chavez of Elizabeth, NJ entered a guilty plea in Union County Superior Court to one count of misapplication of $69,000 in sales tax he had collected at his liquor store, Elizabeth Ave. Wines & Liquors Inc., from 1990 to 1994. Chavez faces a maximum sentence of five years in prison, a fine of $15,000 and restitution of $98,000 in tax, penalty and interest when sentenced on April 1, 1999. This case was investigated by OCI and prosecuted by the Attorney General's Office.

- OCI Special Agents arrested Abdalla A. Dabbas of Paterson for transporting and possession of 148.0 cartons of contraband cigarettes purchased in North Carolina. This arrest was made possible based on information developed by OCI's utilization of a confidential informant as well as the surveillance of Dabbas's Paterson home. Mr. Dabbas was arraigned in the Passaic County Superior Court.
- On January 13, 1999, Anagnostis Inc. corporate principal Pete Anagnostis was arrested by the Philadelphia Police Department in response to a Governor's Arrest warrant issued to the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania by the State of New Jersey. Anagnostis was then transported to the Camden County Jail and bail of $100,000 was set with no 10% factor. In lieu of the bail amount, it appears that Anagnostis will remain incarcerated at least until the February 8 arraignment. Anagnostis was indicted by a State grand jury on or about August 8, 1998 on charges of failing to remit sales taxes collected in the amount of $262,537 for the period of July 1990 through June 1994. This case was investigated jointly by OCI and the Division of Criminal Justice.

- Ninety-seven charges were filed in municipal court on 25 cases for violating the cigarette tax law including possession of 2,981.9 cartons of contraband cigarettes, valued at $74,547.50. □

Tax Briefs

Corporation Business Tax

S Corporation Extension of Time to File — New Jersey corporation business tax law does not provide for the granting of administrative extensions for filing returns. Accordingly, the taxpayer may obtain a normal six-month extension by filing Form NJ-200T and paying the applicable tax on or before the 15th day of the fourth month after the close of the period. At the end of the period Form CBT-100S would be due. If additional data is needed to modify that return, the changes can be made after that by means of filing an amended return. The revenue stream of the State must be predictable, and therefore the State filing requirements are independent of any discretion that may be exercised at the Federal level.

Litter Control Tax

Sales Within the State are Subject to Tax — The litter tax is imposed on "sales within the State" which are "in the case of manufacturers, wholesalers and distributors, all sales of products for use and consumption within the State. It shall be presumed that all sales of manufacturers, wholesalers and distributors sold within the State are for use and consumption within the State unless the taxpayer shows that the products are shipped out-of-state for out-of-State use."

N.J.S.A. 13:1E-94j. Based on this statute, taxpayers can exclude from the tax all of their sales of litter-generating products shipped out-of-State. However, the Division does not allow a taxpayer to exclude sales of its litter-generating products in the State to a New Jersey manufacturer who subsequently sells his products outside the State. The Division does not attempt to collect a tax on taxpayer sales out-of-State that ultimately are sold by subsequent sellers back into New Jersey.

Sales and Use Tax

Purchase of Game Birds for Hunting — For sales tax purposes, a hunting preserve is not considered a reseller of the birds that it stocks for hunters; rather the preserve is the retail purchaser of the birds and must pay tax on those used for hunting purposes. If some birds are instead sold to another bulk purchaser, the hunting preserve must collect tax unless a valid exemption can be claimed by the purchaser, such as sale for resale supported by the issuance of a Resale Certificate (Form ST-3), or unless the birds are delivered to the purchaser out-of-State. The hunting preserve may apply for a refund of the tax paid on birds that were purchased for use on the preserve but subsequently sold as such or delivered to a purchaser outside the State.

Sales of Prewritten Software — The sale of canned software or updates in some tangible, corporeal form (e.g., disc) is subject to sales tax as the sale of tangible personal property. N.J.S.A. 54:32B-3(a). However, the sale of software or updates is not taxable if it is transmitted electronically or downloaded by the customer. If a customer who purchases software in intangible form is provided with a manual at no extra charge, the customer is not liable for tax if a reasonable, objective observer would view the purchase of the downloaded software as the true object of the transaction. However, the software seller who provides the manual will be obligated to pay sales or use tax on the manual. N.J.S.A. 54:32B-6. If instead the customer is specifically charged for the manual, then that portion of the transaction is deemed to be the retail sale of a manual, which is taxable. N.J.S.A. 54:32B-3(a).

Commercial Heating and Air Conditioning System Adjustments — N.J.S.A. 54:32B-3(b)(4) of the Sales and Use Tax Act imposes sales tax on receipts from services related to maintaining, repairing or servicing real property. (N.J.S.A.

54:32B-3(b)(2) applies tax on the same basis to services rendered with respect to personal property.) The Division is of the opinion that testing and balancing by adjustment of commercial heating and air conditioning systems falls within the meaning of maintaining or servicing property. Thus, receipts from such services are subject to sales tax when the service is performed in New Jersey.

Repair and Testing Services — The service of installing and repairing equipment is subject to sales tax pursuant to N.J.S.A. 54:32B-3(b)(2) if the repaired item is picked up or delivered at a New Jersey location. It is not taxable if delivered outside the State. Testing alone, without performing a repair, is deemed to be an exempt professional or personal service. N.J.S.A. 54:32B-2(e)(4)(A). The repair business is liable for sales or use tax on its purchase of tools and shop supplies used in performing repairs, installation, and testing.

Long Term Lease of Temporary Fencing — A taxpayer questioned the Division's assessment in a case where the taxpayer is in the business of renting/providing temporary fencing erected around construction sites in this State.

The facts are that the taxpayer quotes his customers a single charge. This charge is based on the height and the number of feet of fence required. This charge is for a period up to one year. This single charge includes both the erecting and dismantling of the fence by the taxpayer. After the one year period, the customer is charged a monthly amount.

The true object of the transaction under these facts is the use of a temporary fence on a long term lease basis. Since the initial term of the rental is for a period more than 28 days, the transaction is defined as a lease in accordance with N.J.S.A. 54:32B-2(aa). "Lease" means the possession or control of tangible personal property by an agreement, not transferring sole title, as may be evidenced by a contract, contracts, or by implication from other circumstances including course of dealing or usage of trade or course of performance, for a period of more than 28 days.

Accordingly, the tax is due from the lessor, on either (1) the amount of the lessor's purchase price of the property used as a temporary fence or (2) the amount of the total lease payments attributable to the lease of such property. N.J.S.A. 54:32B-2(bb).

Further, since the taxpayer does not lease fences without erection and dismantling of the fence, these functions are considered incidental to the lease of the fence (Modern Handling Equipment of New Jersey, Inc. v. Director, Division of Taxation, decided April 6, 1998; Tax Court No. 000151-97).

Additional charges invoiced by the lessor to the lessee for the repair of damaged fence would be subject to tax under N.J.S.A. 54:32B-2(b)(2) of the law. □

In Our Courts

Gross Income Tax

Basis for Sale of Partnership Interest — Koch, v. Director, Division of Taxation, decided January 14, 1999; Supreme Court of New Jersey; No. A-135 September Term 1997.

The appeal involved the tax treatment under the New Jersey Gross Income Tax Act (the Act) of the taxpayer's gain realized from the sale of his partnership interest. The question was whether the cost basis of that interest should be the purchase price or the Federal adjusted basis (purchase price less losses deducted on Federal income tax returns). The deducted losses provided the taxpayer with a Federal income tax benefit. However, because the losses were not deductible on the taxpayer's New Jersey gross income tax returns, they provided no tax benefit under the Act.

Koch filed a complaint with the Tax Court, asserting that the Act does not require a taxpayer to reduce the basis of his partnership interest by losses that are not deductible under the Act. The Tax Court disagreed and concluded that, in determining gain or loss under the Act, adjusted basis for Federal income tax purposes must be used and no exception is permitted even where the taxpayer was unable to deduct partnership losses. Koch v. Director, Div. Of Taxation, 15 N.J. Tax 387, 395 (Tax Ct. 1995). The Appellate Division affirmed in an unpublished, per curiam opinion substantially for the reasons stated by the Tax Court.

The Supreme Court granted certification. The Supreme Court held that in calculating taxable income from the disposition of property under the Act, the basis cannot be the Federal adjusted basis where that basis has been reduced by losses that are not deductible under the Act. Any income tax imposed on an amount greater than the taxpayer's economic gain (in this instance, sale price less purchase price) represents a tax on a return of capital, a result not intended by the Legislature.

The Supreme Court stated that the Division's position ignores the Federal accounting and nonrecognition provisions of section 5-1c of the Gross Income Tax Act. By including reference to Federal methods of accounting or nonrecognition provisions of the Internal Revenue Code, the Legislature explicitly intended to incorporate Federal income tax concepts. Further, Koch's calculation of gain conforms to section 5-1c's directive to use methods of accounting allowed for Federal income tax purposes to determine gain or loss for New Jersey gross income tax purposes. Under the Federal method of accounting, losses not passed through to a partner would not reduce the partner's basis, and gain would be determined simply by computing the difference between a partner's cost basis (unreduced by partnership losses) and proceeds received from the sale. Accordingly, the accounting method allowed for Federal income tax purposes does not require the use of Koch's Federal adjusted basis to compute his gain.

Miscellaneous

Private Debt Collection Agencies

— Lonky v. Municipal Tax Collection Bureau Inc. and New Jersey State Department of Treasury, Division of Taxation, decided October 16, 1998; Appellate Division; No. A-0512-97T3.

In 1992, the State enacted legislation enabling the Division to hire private agents to discover tax obligations and collect payments from taxpayers. (See N.J.S.A. 54:49-12.1 to .5) Thereafter, the Division contracted with the Municipal Tax Collection Bureau Inc. (MTB) where MTB would identify and collect taxes from non-reporting taxpayers and be remunerated pursuant to a contingent fee arrangement.

MTB identified plaintiff, who was neither registered for New Jersey taxes nor filed New Jersey tax returns, as a person with potential tax liability after it discovered information that plaintiff owned and sold commercial property in New Jersey. Subsequently, plaintiff filed a complaint claiming the Division's contract with MTB was unconstitutional and invalid. The trial court's decision granted summary judgement in favor of MTB and the Division. Plaintiff appealed.

The Appellate Court affirmed the trial court's decision. Furthermore, the Court noted that (1) statutory authority exists for MTB's debt collection practices, (2) MTB has no authority to and does not assess taxes, and (3) the legislature did not expressly prohibit the Division from entering into contingent fee arrangements with private tax collectors. The Court concluded that there was "no overriding public policy or legislative prescriptions that would render the contract with MTB invalid, particularly given the express statutory authority therefor and the substantive and procedural controls imposed by the Division."

Reclaiming Mistaken Refunds —

Playmates Toys, Inc., v. Director, Division of Taxation, decided December 8, 1998; Appellate Division; No. A-170-97T5.

Plaintiff filed a refund claim for time periods that were barred by the statute of limitations. However, the Division mistakenly granted the refund. Realizing its mistake, the Division issued a final determination directing plaintiff to return the erroneous refund from which plaintiff appealed. The Tax Court ruled that plaintiff must return the money because the issuance of the refund was not tantamount to the Division's waiver of its ability to recoup the overpayment. Plaintiff appealed.

The Appellate Court held that although the Division has no express statutory power, it does have a common law inherent power to recoup mistaken disbursements. In support of its holding, the Court cited non-tax cases where courts had upheld the government agency's inherent power to correct its mistakes.

Sales and Use Tax

Bulk Sale Provision — M.S. Appliance Service, Inc. v. Director, Division of Taxation, decided September 25, 1998; Tax Court; No. 3646-97.

On or about July 1, 1994, plaintiff purchased from Mr. Service, Inc. (hereinafter Mr. Service) its appliance repair business for $193,000. The purchase consisted of the trade name, customer lists, and fixed assets, but not the inventory. At the time of the sale, Mr. Service owed the Division sales tax in excess of $240,000 plus interest and penalty. Neither party notified the Division of this sale.

While the Division was investigating whether Mr. Service's assets would satisfy its outstanding sales tax liability, it discovered that the business was sold to plaintiff. Thereafter, the Division notified plaintiff that it was liable for $193,000 of Mr. Service's sales tax liabilities pursuant to N.J.S.A. 54:32B-22(c). This provision requires a purchaser to notify the Division, at least ten days prior to taking possession, of the purchase of all or any part of the business assets, other than in the ordinary course of business, from a person required to collect tax. Where the purchaser fails to comply with this notice requirement, the purchaser is held personally liable for the seller's sales tax liabilities.

Plaintiff challenged the applicability of N.J.S.A. 54:32B-22(c) on the grounds that it did not purchase the merchandise or inventory. The Court ruled that the statute requires a sale of either part or all of a business or a substantial portion of assets. Therefore, the sale was held to clearly fall within the statute because plaintiff purchased the business.

Refund Claims — Amplicon, Inc., v. Director Division of Taxation, decided September 18, 1998; Tax Court; No. 000413-98.

Pursuant to an audit, the Division issued a notice of assessment informing plaintiff that it owed sales and use tax. Plaintiff protested the assessment and presented documentation requesting an $87,646 reduction in tax. Per its June 28, 1995 notice, the Division granted the entire requested reduction and recomputed the remaining sales and use tax liability. Plaintiff paid the assessment by check dated July 18, 1995. Subsequently, in a letter dated May 30, 1997, plaintiff filed a refund claim for a portion of the sales and use tax paid by the July 18, 1995 check. The Director denied the refund claim on the grounds that it was untimely filed.

The sole issue in front of the Court was whether plaintiff may seek a refund of assessed taxes more than ninety days after the taxes were assessed and paid without protesting the assessment. The Court's analysis of the statutes revealed an apparent conflict between N.J.S.A. 54:32B-20(a), which permits a taxpayer to file a refund claim within four years from the payment of tax, and N.J.S.A. 54:32B-19 and 54:3B-21, which grants the taxpayer ninety days from the date of the Division's assessment to request a hearing or file an appeal to

Tax Court. The Court found that N.J.S.A. 54:32B-20(b) resolved this apparent conflict by stating that the four year refund claim period does not apply to the situation where payments were made pursuant to an assessment and the taxpayer had a hearing or failed to file for a hearing or appeal. Therefore, the Court held that the four year period for filing a refund claim is inapplicable in the instant case and upheld the Director's decision that plaintiff's claim for refund was out-of-time. The Court noted that audits would never close if extended statute of limitations were permitted in cases like this as there could be repeated and endless attempts to seek refunds. □

In Our Legislature

Gross Income Tax

Contribution Checkoff Amounts — P.L. 1999, c.153 (signed into law on January 12, 1999) increases the amounts specified for contribution to special funds made through checkoffs on New Jersey individual gross income tax returns from "$5, $10 or other" to "$10, $20 or other." The statute also changes the name of the "Battleship New Jersey Memorial Fund" to the "U.S.S. New Jersey Educational Museum Fund." The new law applies to tax years beginning on or after January 1, 2000.

Checkoff for Drug Abuse Education Fund

— P.L. 1999, c.12 (signed into law on January 25, 1999) establishes the Drug Abuse Education Fund into which each taxpayer shall have the opportunity to contribute by indicating on his or her New Jersey gross income tax return that a portion of the taxpayer's tax refund or an enclosed contribution shall be deposited in this special fund.

All contributions to this fund will be appropriated to the Department of Education for distribution to non-governmental entities operating in the public interest that, utilizing law enforcement personnel, provide drug abuse education programs on a State-wide basis, such as, but not limited to, Project DARE (Drug Abuse Resistance Education).

This act took effect immediately, but remained inoperative until enactment of P.L. 1999, c.21. The legislation applies to tax years beginning on or after January 1, 2000.

Coded Designations for Contribution Checkoffs — P.L. 1999, c.21 (signed into law on February 8, 1999) allows for the use of coded designations on the gross income tax return form to indicate to taxpayers their statutorily authorized options for making contributions to charitable funds. The legislation applies to tax years beginning on or after January 1, 2000. □

Director Thompson Confirmed

On December 10, 1998, the Senate confirmed Robert K. Thompson as Director of the Division of Taxation. Bob has worked for the Division of Taxation for over 28 years. His experience includes two years in the Field Audit Branch, 12 years in the Conference and Appeals Branch, and six years on former Director John Baldwin's staff. In February 1990, he was named the Assistant Director of Audit Activity and in 1994, Deputy Director with the responsibility for Audit and Technical Services. He served as Acting Director of the New Jersey Division of Taxation from February to June of 1994 and, effective November 6, 1997, once again assumed that position. On September 17, 1998, Bob was nominated by Governor Whitman to serve as Director of the Division of Taxation.

On hearing of his confirmation, Bob said "I have looked forward to this for some time now. This is a great organization with talented managers and a dedicated workforce. I have seen them respond beyond expectation to one challenge after another. I am confident that with all we have to do we will springboard into the new millennium ready to face the formidable challenges that lie ahead."

Bob was part of the team which negotiated the NY/NJ Cooperative Interstate Tax Administration Agreement; he was the Division liaison to the State and Local Expenditure and Revenue Policy Commission; Amnesty Administrator for New Jersey's First Tax Amnesty Program; and served on the Multistate Tax Commission's national Nexus Working Group.

Bob has an accounting degree from Rider College and a Masters in Government Administration from the University of Pennsylvania. □

NJ PC File

Beginning in mid-February 1999, taxpayers will be able to go to the Division's Web site to download NJ PC File which will allow them to use their Windows 95/98 based PCs to prepare and file their New Jersey gross income tax returns. Once the returns are completed, taxpayers will transmit the information to the Division by modem. In most cases, taxpayers should receive their refunds within 2 weeks of filing.

The Division anticipates that the majority of resident taxpayers will be able to use NJ PC File to file their 1998 returns. Among those taxpayers who will not be able to use NJ PC File are those who have business income (i.e., net profits from business, distributive share of partnership income or net pro rata share of S corporation income) and those who are claiming a credit for taxes paid to other jurisdictions. It is estimated that as many as 3 million taxpayers will be able to use NJ PC File.

For more information regarding who can use NJ PC File and when the program will be available for downloading, visit our Web site at: <http://www.state.nj.us/treasury/taxation/>

Property Tax Reimbursement

The Division of Taxation will be mailing the 1998 Property Tax Reimbursement application, Form PTR-1, to targeted individuals in early 1999. The application has a filing due date of March 15, 1999 and the first reimbursement checks are scheduled to be mailed to qualified applicants on July 15, 1999.

A reimbursement will be paid annually to every eligible applicant, thereby freezing their property taxes at the 1997 level. The reimbursement will be the difference between the amount of property taxes that were due and paid by the applicant in 1997 (or the year in which the applicant becomes eligible) and the amount of property taxes due and paid in subsequent years.

Tax Reimbursement application each year for which they are filing a claim. They must also meet the eligibility requirements each year for both their base year and the year for which they are filing the application.

To ensure that their 1998 applications are processed without delays, applicants are reminded to:

1. Complete the entire application, providing information for both 1997 and 1998.
2. Enclose copies of their 1997 and 1998 property tax bills (mobile home owners enclose copies of the contract(s) or agreement(s) for both 1997 and 1998 from the mobile home park showing the amount of their site fees).
3. Enclose proof of the amount of property taxes paid for both 1997 and 1998. Homeowners may submit either copies of cancelled checks or receipts showing the amount of property taxes paid, or copies of Form 1098 which is provided annually by their bank or mortgage company. Mobile home owners may submit either copies of cancelled checks or receipts showing the amount of site fees paid.

Applicants who cannot locate property tax bills, or proof of the amount of taxes or site fees paid, may use one of the verification forms (Forms PTR-1A or PTR-1B) provided in the Property Tax Reimbursement booklet. These forms must be certified and completed by either the local tax collector or the owner/manager of the mobile home park and submitted with the Form PTR-1 application.

4. File Form PTR-1 on or before March 15, 1999.

Applicants who are receiving homestead rebates and/or property tax credits or deductions are also eligible for the Property Tax Reimbursement if they meet the eligibility requirements.

The Division cautions applicants that they must file a separate Homestead Property Tax Rebate Application (Form HR-1040) to receive a homestead rebate.

Volunteers in the VITA (Volunteer Income Tax Assistance) and TCE (Tax Counseling for the Elderly) Programs are available to help prepare Property Tax Reimbursement applications at some locations throughout New Jersey.

The Division has staffed a Property Tax Reimbursement Hotline to answer questions related to the program. Representatives are available at 1-800-882-6597 from 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m., Monday through Friday (except holidays).

New Call Center Opens

On December 7, 1998, the Division's Tax Hotline was relocated from Hamilton Township to the Taxation Building in Trenton.

The Hotline and its associated automated information systems will now be known as the Division of Taxation Call Center. Some of the Call Center's phone numbers have changed as a result of the move, while others remain the same. New numbers are marked with an asterisk (*) below.

SALES AND USE TAX Most Advertising Services Exempt

On and after November 1, 1998, sales tax is no longer imposed on most advertising services.

Governor Whitman recently signed into law amendments to the Sales and Use Tax Act which repeal the tax on receipts from sales of advertising services performed in New Jersey. Receipts from the sale of direct mail processing services for advertising material sent to addresses in New Jersey remain subject to sales tax. P.L. 1998, c. 99 also makes it plain that the distribution of advertising material in New Jersey is a taxable use and imposes a compensating use tax on direct mail processing services performed outside New Jersey for in-State customers in every case where advertising material is delivered to addresses in New Jersey as a result of such services.

The sales and use tax exemptions previously provided in the law for sales of advertising or promotional material delivered to addresses outside New Jersey and for sales of direct mail processing services rendered in respect of such material delivered to addresses outside New Jersey are unaffected and still apply to all qualified transactions.

See N.J.S.A. 54:32B-3(b)(5) and N.J.S.A. 54:32B-8.39. Questions on the impact of the repeal legislation on advertising sale transactions may be addressed to:

New Legislation Affects Taxes

Public Law 1998, chapter 106, was signed into law on September 14, 1998. This law amended the Gross Income Tax Act to clarify the exclusion of income from sources within New Jersey for nonresidents under N.J.S.A. 54A:5-8. Under the amendment, nonresident partners of commodities and hedge fund partnerships will not be deemed to have income from New Jersey sources solely by reason of their membership in such partnerships.

The law also made several changes to procedures and penalty provisions. An underpayment of Corporation Business Tax was redefined to be the excess of the lesser of the amount of the installment payment which would be required to be paid if all installment payments were equal to 90% of the tax shown on the return for the fiscal or calendar accounting year, or if no return was filed, 90% of the tax for that year, or 100% of the tax shown on the tax return of the taxpayer for the preceding taxable year. The penalty for failure to pay Corporation Business Tax during an extension shall not exceed 25% of the underpayment, under the new law.

The law permits taxpayers to file a claim for refund of an assessment paid without filing a protest or appeal from an additional assessment of tax. This provision overturns the case of Peoples Express Co., Inc. v. Director, Div. of Taxation, 10 N.J. Tax 417 (1989). However, the taxpayer must pay the assessment in full within one year after the expiration of the period allowed for filing a protest of the assessment, the claim for refund must be filed within 450 days of the expiration of the period allowed for filing the protest, and the amount of the refund claimed must not exceed the amount of the assessment paid. The refund claim must be filed. Refund claims are now required to be filed under oath, stating the grounds for the claim and must be limited to the issues raised by the deficiency assessment. If a protest has been filed, a refund claim is not permitted until the protest has been resolved.

N.J.S.A. 54:49-4 in the Uniform Procedure Law was amended to require that if no return has been filed within 30 days of the date on which the first notice of delinquency in filing the return was sent to the taxpayer, the penalty shall accrue at 5% per month or fraction thereof of the total tax liability not to exceed 25% of such tax liability.

Finally, the law raised the threshold for the declaration of estimated gross income tax from $100 to $400, and modifies the calculation for the amount of underpayment of estimated tax on which the penalty for failure to file estimated tax is based.

The provision on income of nonresidents is effective for taxable years ending after enactment, and all other provisions in the law become effective for return periods

NJ TeleFile Continued Success

The NJ TeleFile program, now in its fourth year, continues to be very successful. Last year, over 181,000 taxpayers used NJ TeleFile to file their 1997 resident income tax returns and homestead property tax rebate applications.

NJ TeleFile is part of the Division of Taxation's ongoing commitment to streamline the tax filing process. This year taxpayers who claim an additional exemption for dependent children attending accredited postsecondary institutions will be able to use NJ TeleFile.

The 1998 TeleFile season begins on Friday, January 15, 1999 and continues through midnight, Thursday, April 15, 1999. NJ TeleFile will accept returns 24 hours a day throughout the filing season. Taxpayers can access NJ TeleFile by calling 1-888-235-FILE (3453) from Touch-tone phones within New Jersey or 609-826-4448 from Touch-tone phones anywhere.

Calls to 609-588-FILE (3453), the telephone number listed in the NJ TeleFile instruction booklet, will be forwarded.

A reminder to tax practitioners – you can TeleFile for your clients provided you have a signed Power of Attorney form on record. TeleFile is fast, easy and convenient. Help us save even more tax dollars this year and TeleFile your eligible clients' returns. Refunds are mailed in just two weeks!

SALES AND USE TAX Filing ST-50s Online

Some vendors are now able to file their quarterly sales tax returns (Forms ST-50) online. The Division of Taxation recently sent notices to those vendors who are registered for the Electronic Funds Transfer (EFT) program informing them of their ability to file Form ST-50 via the Internet. The notice contains a Personal Identification Number (PIN) which the EFT taxpayer must use when filing the online Form ST-50 located at the Division of Taxation's Web site:

<http://www.state.nj.us/treasury/taxation/>

Once the Taxpayer Identification Number and PIN are entered, the business will have access to the ST-50 template. The sales and use tax information is then entered in the appropriate fields. Once all of the necessary information has been entered, the taxpayer can transmit the information to the Division. Over 255 EFT Taxpayers have filed for the third quarter using the online Form ST-50.

Taxpayers must use a Web browser which supports Secure Sockets Layer (SSL). Netscape Navigator version 3.0 and Internet Explorer version 3.0, as well as more recent versions of these programs, support SSL. The form and the information are encrypted while being transmitted. This protects the confidentiality of taxpayer information which is sent to the Division.

Taxpayers must be registered with the Division of Taxation and authorized to make payments through the EFT method in order to utilize this site. Those taxpayers who would like to apply for EFT authorization can contact the Electronic Funds Transfer section by phone at 609-984-9830 or fax at 609-292-1777. GROSS INCOME TAX Withholding Income Tax of Other States

Under rule N.J.A.C. 12:55-2.5 (adopted July 13, 1998 by the New Jersey Department of Labor) New Jersey employers of nonresident individuals whose earnings are subject to the income or wage tax of a "foreign" jurisdiction may now withhold the foreign jurisdiction's tax from the salary or wages paid to the employee. (A foreign jurisdiction means a sister state or a political subdivision thereof.) The new rule became effective on August 3, 1998; it expires on November 6, 2001.

Regulation 12:55-2.5 requires New Jersey employers to (a) obtain the express written authorization of each employee from whose wages or salary the income or wage tax of a foreign jurisdiction will be withheld before withholding such tax and (b) to hold the amounts withheld in a trust fund for payment to the foreign jurisdiction on behalf of the individual taxpayer.

This regulation does not relieve employers from their New Jersey wage reporting, record keeping and gross income tax withholding obligations as required under existing law and regulations. ☐

Division Web Page to Undergo Facelift

On February 29, 1996 the New Jersey Division of Taxation launched its home page on the World Wide Web. The Division's initial presence on the Internet contained information explaining New Jersey taxes, certain forms and some publications.

The information contained on the Division's Web site has expanded since its inception to include all our forms and publications, as well as current Division news, information on public auctions, and the recently introduced Unclaimed Property Search.

To further expand the information available to the public via the Internet, a Web Site Steering Committee was formed within the Division. In addition to providing more information, the committee recommended a redesign of the page to make it as user friendly as possible.

How will the new page be different? There will be three "paths" available to visitors: a practitioner path for professionals, a path for non-professionals, and a children's section. In addition, the page will have a whole new look accented with updated graphics and information.

Watch for the new page to arrive early in 1999! ☐

TECHNICAL SERVICES E-Mail Update

In June 1996, the Division began receiving and replying to correspondence from taxpayers by e-mail. We continue to receive an ever increasing amount of correspondence by this medium. The Taxpayer Services Branch replied to 2,900 e-mail inquiries in the 1998 fiscal year (July 1, 1997 – June 30, 1998). Projecting the average monthly increase in e-mail traffic forward, the number should reach 6,000 by the end of the 1999 fiscal year.

Currently, the Division is not using nencryption technology for its email correspondence, but work is under way to develop a secure connection via a Web browser. As our technology develops we will be incorporating features that will provide some internal efficiencies that should improve e-mail response times even more. One immediate change we have made is to establish a NEW e-mail address! nj.taxation@treas.state.nj.us

Writers should send all e-mail correspondence to the Division's new address effective immediately. E-mail sent to the old address (NJTaxation@aol.com) will be forwarded to our new address for the next few months. The old address will be terminated for Division e-mail after this transition period.

Volunteers Provide Assistance

In a continuing commitment to seniors and low-income taxpayers, the Division of Taxation will once again participate in the Volunteer Income Tax Assistance (VITA) and Tax Counseling for the Elderly (TCE) programs.

These programs provide for the training of hundreds of volunteer tax preparers who fill out tax forms at no charge for literally tens of thousands of individuals throughout the State.

The Internal Revenue Service coordinates the VITA program and the American Association of Retired Persons (AARP) coordinates the TCE program. The Division works closely with principals in both programs to familiarize them with the New Jersey Gross Income Tax/Homestead Rebate and the new Property Tax Reimbursement.

Hundreds of sites open each February, staffed by friendly, caring volunteers who serve our senior and needy populations. Many of those served would be unable to afford professional tax preparation and do not feel comfortable preparing their own taxes. For those individuals, the VITA/TCE volunteer is providing a critical and welcome service.

The Division is proud of its long history of partnering with these worthwhile programs and will continue to support the efforts of those willing to help senior and low-income New Jersey taxpayers. □

ELF Program Expands

Beginning in January 1999, New Jersey will expand its Electronic Filing (ELF) program to allow most full-year resident individual taxpayers to file their own State income tax returns. To participate in electronic filing, taxpayers will need the use of a personal computer and a tax preparation software package. Taxpayers who file their State returns electronically must also file their Federal returns electronically. Electronic filers must also complete an Individual Income Tax Declaration for Electronic Filing (Form NJ-8453) when their return is accepted. As in prior years, taxpayers may opt to have their returns filed electronically by tax professionals.

Transmitters and Electronic Return Originators (EROs) who wish to participate in the New Jersey ELF program must register with the Division of Revenue each year. Failure to register with New Jersey will cause returns submitted by the transmitter or ERO to be rejected. Since this program includes both the Federal and State returns, those practitioners participating for the

NJ-1040 Filing Tips

Where's my refund? Why did you send me this bill? Where's my Homestead Rebate? These are the most frequently asked questions by anxious taxpayers who call or write to the Division of Taxation.

The following are some important tips for taxpayers and practitioners for filing 1998 New Jersey Gross Income Tax returns. If followed, these tips should prevent erroneous bills and delays in receiving refunds and homestead rebates, which all cause otherwise unnecessary calls and letters to the Division.

- Be sure to use a 1998 return. Do not use a prior year return since there are certain changes that are specific to the 1998 return year.
- Read the instruction booklet before completing the return.
- Be sure to use the State Wages figure from W-2s and not the Federal wages. In many cases they will be different.

- When calculating your Property Tax Deduction, if you are a tenant be sure to use only 18% of your rent paid. If you are a property owner, you can claim the actual property tax paid or $10,000, whichever is less. The Property Tax Credit will be $50.
- Check your math.
- Make sure all of the required lines are completed on the return.
- If you use the Tax Tables to compute your tax due, be sure to use the correct column based upon your filing status.
- If your taxable income is $100,000 or more and you use the Tax Rate Schedule to compute the tax due, remember to complete Step 3 on either Table A or Table B in the schedule.
- Be sure to use the correct label on the return if there are multiple filers in the same household.
- Be sure to complete page 3 of the return if you are requesting a refund or credit forward.
- Check to see that your return is signed and dated.
- Be sure that W-2s are legible.
- Review all of your payment records prior to preparing your return, so that you may properly take credit for all estimated payments, payments made with requests for extension, and credits forwarded from the prior year.
- When taking credit for taxes paid to other jurisdictions, be sure to include a copy of the tax return that you filed with the other state or taxing jurisdiction.

- When reporting business income, be sure to include a copy of the Federal Schedule C, C-EZ, or F.
- Be sure to include Schedule NJK-1, Form NJ-1065 (or a copy of Federal Schedule K-1, Form 1065) when reporting partnership income.
- When reporting S corporation income, be sure to include Schedule NJ-K-1, Form CBT-100S (or a copy of Federal Schedule K-1, Form 1120S).
- Be sure to enclose Schedule NJ-2450 when claiming excess UI/HC/WD and disability contributions.
- When preparing your payment voucher, be sure to write your social security number on your check. On joint returns, be sure to write the primary social security number of the return on the check.
- Remember to complete the Homestead Rebate Application if you are anticipating a rebate.
- Since New Jersey estimated payments are due on the same dates as Federal estimated payments, be sure to mail your New Jersey payment and NJ-1040-ES to New Jersey, and your Federal payment and 1040-ES to the IRS.

GROSS INCOME TAX
NJ Information on Form W-2

Employers must furnish a Wage and Tax Statement (Form W-2) to each employee showing the amount of wages paid, the amount of state income tax withheld, the name of the state where the tax was remitted and certain other information. New Jersey does not have a separate form for reporting these wage and tax figures. They are reported on the Federal Form W-2 in the boxes provided for state tax information. Report information on the W-2 for employees working in New Jersey as follows:

◆ Box 14 — Report amounts withheld as employee contributions to New Jersey Unemployment Insurance/Health Care Subsidy Fund/Workforce Development Partnership Fund (UI/HC/WD) and Disability Insurance (DI). These amounts

must be reported separately. Employers with approved private disability plans must also include their assigned private plan number in this box. New Jersey employers no longer have a separate identification number issued by the Department of Labor, except for those employers with private disability plans.

◆ Box 16 — In most cases, New Jersey income tax is withheld from the salaries of employees working in this State. When taxes have been withheld and remitted to New Jersey, indicate “NJ” in the area of Box 16 designated as “State.” List your New Jersey Taxpayer Identification Number in the area of Box 16 designated as “Employer’s state ID no.” This number is based on your Federal Employer Identification Number (FEIN) and is located on your New Jersey Employer’s

Quarterly Report (Form NJ-927 or NJ-927-W), above your pre-printed name and address. If you are unsure of your New Jersey registration number, call the Division of Taxation Hotline at 609-292-6400 or the Division of Employer Accounts Hotline at 609-633-6400.

◆ Box 17 — Report all salaries, wages, tips, fees, commissions, bonuses, and other remuneration subject to New Jersey Gross Income Tax.

◆ Box 18 — Report the amount of New Jersey income tax withheld.

For more information on completing Form W-2, request a New Jersey Gross Income Tax Instructions for Employers booklet (Form NJ-WT), or Tax Topic Bulletin MISC-1, Employer Responsibilities.

the necessity of furnishing all copies of 1099s with the New Jersey tax return.

Any 1099 with New Jersey gross income tax withholdings reported must be furnished with the return to ensure proper credit of those withholdings.

Other 1099s should be retained with the taxpayer's copy of their return and furnished to the Division if and when questions arise about the information reported on the return.

It should be noted, however, that when backup material is furnished with the return, especially when Federal and State income amounts differ, a review of information supplied with the return is often enough to explain the variance without requiring an audit of the return.

In the prior article the forms issued for gambling winnings were incorrectly reported as 1099-Gs. They are W-2Gs. ☐

Survey Says...!

The Division of Taxation offered tax practitioners the opportunity to let us honestly know how we're doing. A Survey of Tax Professionals appeared in the summer 1998 issue of the New Jersey State Tax News (see page 13 of that issue). Our questionnaire contained 25 questions regarding the various information services provided by this Division. Although we did not receive an overwhelming number of replies, we do wish to sincerely thank the tax professionals who were so kind to take time out of their busy schedules to share their opinions. If any tax professional was unable to respond to the survey and wants to do so now, it's not too late. Your comments and suggestions are extremely important to us.

Are you as curious about the replies as we were? Survey says...

- Of those who responded to the survey, 83% rated our overall service to be that of average or better and 56% found our services to be above average to excellent. Thank you for your vote of confidence!
- 48% of those surveyed called our Tax Hotline more than 5 times during the past year to speak with Division representatives. An additional 27.5% called at least once. 42% found the services provided by the Tax Hotline to be above average to excellent.
- 45% have used our Tax Practitioners' Hotline to resolve taxpayer notices. 59% found that services rendered on this hotline are above average to excellent. Many commented on the fact that they were able to resolve client notices quickly and efficiently.
- Many practitioners utilized our automated systems. 57% of the respondents ordered tax forms and publications through our Forms Request Service. Of those who did so, 92% considered it average or better (53% rated it above average or excellent).

GROSS INCOME TAX Accounting Methods

A taxpayer recently inquired when they should recognize and report for Gross Income Tax purposes the value of stock received as part of compensation for services rendered. The taxpayer's interest in the stock was subject to substantial risk of forfeiture under the terms of his employment agreement and therefore qualifies as "restricted property" under Internal Revenue Code section 83. For Federal income tax purposes the taxpayer elected to defer recognition of the income until his interest in the stock was no longer at risk.

The Gross Income Tax Act at 54A:8-3(c), Accounting Methods, states in part that, "A taxpayer's accounting method under this act shall be the same as his accounting method for Federal income tax purposes."

A taxpayer's method of accounting for Federal income tax purposes determines not only the method to be used to compute income but also determines when income is to be recognized for Gross Income Tax purposes, unless otherwise provided for in the Act or under Regulations. Thus, in most instances, a taxpayer will recognize and report income for Gross Income Tax purposes in the same period as he does for Federal income tax purposes.

The taxpayer in question would report the income from receipt of the restricted stock to New Jersey in the same year as it is reported for Federal income tax purposes. Since an election was made Federally to defer recognition of the income, the taxpayer would also defer recognition for New Jersey tax purposes.

Another example of when New Jersey income should be recognized and reported in the same year as Federal income is proceeds from sales reported under the installment method. See Dubois v. Director, 4 N.J. Tax 11 (1985), affd. 6 N.J. Tax 249, affd. 95 N.J. Tax 234, 470 A.2d 446, and Guzzardi v. Director 15 N.J. Tax 395 (1995), affd. 16 N.J. Tax 374 (App. Div. 1996). Still other examples would be the treatment of undistributed capital gains from Regulated Investment Companies and Real Estate Investment Trusts and Passive Foreign Investment Company income.

Taxpayers and tax practitioners requiring additional information on when and how income should be reported for Gross Income Tax purposes should contact the Division's Taxpayer Services Branch or the Gross Income Tax Audit Branch. □

CORPORATION TAX Regular Place of Business

In order for a domestic or foreign corporation to allocate (apportion) business activity away from New Jersey taxation, it must maintain "a regular place of business" outside New Jersey. This does not apply to corporations entitled and electing to file as an investment company, regulated investment company or real estate investment trust. These entities enjoy a reduced rate of taxation.

A regular place of business is defined as any bona fide office (other than a statutory office), factory, warehouse, or other space of the taxpayer which is regularly maintained, occupied and used by the taxpayer in carrying on its business and in which one or more regular employees are in attendance.

In order to satisfy the maintenance requirement, the taxpayer must be directly responsible for the expenses incurred for the regular place of business. The location must either be owned or rented in its own name and not through a related person or entity.

A regular employee is one who is in attendance during normal business hours, performing duties on behalf of the taxpayer that are of a significant nature. The employee must be under the direction and control of the taxpayer.

In situations where a corporation does not meet the requirements to allocate activity away from New Jersey, but nevertheless has nexus and is paying corporate taxes to another taxing jurisdiction(s), there is relief from double taxation by way of a credit for taxes paid pursuant to N.J.A.C. 18:7-8.3. □

Division Targets Non-Filers

Through a cooperative effort with the Federal Internal Revenue Service, the Compliance Services Branch has accelerated the New Jersey Personal Gross Income Tax Delinquency Program. Over 14,000 taxpayers were sent delinquency notices covering taxable years 1993, 1994 and 1995. Working from a PC-based program developed specifically for the project, investigators provided the selected taxpayers with three basic options to resolve the delinquencies:

1. Provide documentation verifying timely filing and payment;
2. Provide an adequate explanation of exemption from filing; or
3. File the delinquent return(s).

The program enabled the Division of Taxation to resolve 8,400 delinquent items and produced $273,000 in Gross Income Tax collections. The responses received also provided an opportunity to identify and correct main-frame data input problems associated with the three years selected for the program.

Further enforcement actions, including arbitrary assessments, judgments filed in Superior Court and seizure of assets, are slated for those individuals who did not respond.

Continuation of the program will include the 1996 taxable year. Tentative identification of potential 1996 delinquents began in October 1998 and the notices may have already been mailed by the time this issue of New Jersey State Tax News goes to press.

Anyone receiving a delinquency notice should carefully review their 1996 tax records and verify that the social security number on the delinquency notice matches the social security number on their 1996 NJ-1040. Taxpayers whose records indicate the return was already filed should respond by providing copies of all pages of the return, W-2 withholding statements and any other documents which were required to be filed with the original return. Taxpayers claiming credit on Schedule A for taxes paid to another jurisdiction must provide a copy of the tax return filed with the other state.

Taxpayers whose records reflect that a refund was claimed should search their financial records to verify that the refund was actually received. The State of New Jersey issues a 1099-G to refund recipients as part of Federal tax requirements. Form 1099-Gs are issued to reflect income which may be taxable for Federal purposes and are usually issued in the year subsequent to the year the tax return was filed. For instance, a 1996 refund for a timely filed 1996 return would be issued in 1997 and the 1099-G would reflect the refund as 1997 income. The 1099-G would be issued in early 1998 prior to the Federal filing deadline for the 1997 tax return.

Taxpayers who receive a 1996 delinquency notice should verify that the social security number on the 1099-G issued for the 1996 New Jersey refund matches their correct social security number. If possible a copy of the 1099-G should be included with any delinquency response if the taxpayer claims a refund was received for the delinquent year.

Individuals who have not filed the 1996 return may request a blank return by calling the Division's automated Forms Request System from a Touch-tone phone at 1-800-323-4400 (in NJ only) or 609-826-4400 (from anywhere) or call the Tax Hotline at 609-292-6400. □

Transient Vendors Investigated

The New Jersey Division of Taxation has established a Special Compliance Unit to investigate noncompliant transient vendors who set up temporary sales locations, many out of trucks or vans. Some of these vendors are out-of-State vendors. These transient businesses may try to lure customers from compliant New Jersey businesses by promising "tax free" purchases. Some examples of merchandise include furniture, oriental rugs, toys and artwork/paintings. Other businesses that may promise "tax free" services are lawn maintenance, construction companies and janitorial/maid services.

In many instances time is of the essence in finding these transient vendors. The Special Compliance Unit is asking for assistance from the public in locating these tax-evading businesses. Anyone wishing to report one of these non-compliant vendors/businesses can call 1-888-705-5554 toll free and leave a message with:

- Name of the vendor
- Type of business in operation
- Business location
- Time the vendor was seen
- Caller's name and telephone number (optional)

All calls will remain confidential.

The Unit can also be contacted by writing to:

In gaining greater compliance, the Division of Taxation hopes to level the playing field for all businesses in New Jersey so that tax evaders do not have an unfair advantage over law-abiding vendors. □

Electronic Notices in Bankruptcy Cases

The Director of the Division of Taxation has entered into a Trading Partner Agreement for the Electronic Noticing Program with the U.S. Bankruptcy Court for the District of New Jersey. The effective date of the agreement was July 14, 1998. This agreement allows the Court to notify the Division of Taxation "electronically" of the commencement of proceedings under Chapter 7 (Asset & No Asset), Chapter 11, Chapter 12 and Chapter 13.

This electronic noticing program will allow the Division of Taxation to receive and process this information in a more efficient manner while reducing the mountains of paper normally being received containing the required information. The Division recently began receiving its first electronic files. For a short duration the Division will be receiving dual notifications, both electronic and hard copy, to ensure that all electronic notices are being correctly provided to the Division. Future enhancements may allow the Division to download this information to the State's registration files and the possibility of filing its Proofs of Claims electronically also exists.

As part of the Trading Partner Agreement, the Division of Taxation had to include all known addresses to which such notices were being sent. The success of this venture relies on those within the Bankruptcy "Arena" to list the Division of Taxation's address properly when listed as a creditor by the debtor.

The proper address is as follows:

NJ DIVISION OF TAXATION
BANKRUPTCY SECTION
TRENTON NJ 08646-0245

This address should be used when listing the Division of Taxation as a creditor at the commencement of insolvency proceedings for any tax which is administered by the Division. This address should be utilized regardless of the current location of the Division of Taxation's file at the commencement of the case. It is not pertinent to include in the mailing address the Tax Type, Section Name or Person's Name with whom you and/or the debtor may have been dealing with prior to, or at the time of commencement.

NOTE: This address is to be used for initial notification of commencement of proceeding. This does not relate to Process Service in Bankruptcy Cases which was addressed in the 1998 summer issue of the New Jersey State Tax News. □

INHERITANCE/ESTATE TAX Enforcement Increases Revenue

The Fiscal Year 1998 New Jersey Estate Tax revenue, in the amount of $97,867,457, reflects a 28 percent share of total revenue in the amount of $355,050,719. Transfer Inheritance Tax has the larger share in the amount $257,183,258.

Legislation granting broad exemptions from the Inheritance Tax and separate legislation accelerating the due date for reporting and paying New Jersey Estate Tax together with renewed and determined enforcement policies of the

Division are given credit for the significant Estate Tax revenue.

The New Jersey Estate Tax is triggered whenever there is a Federal estate tax liability. The Estate Tax is applicable only to estates of resident decedents. The tax is designed to fully absorb any portion of the State Death Tax credit allowable under Federal estate tax laws. The New Jersey Estate Tax is the difference, if any, between the inheritance and other death taxes paid to this State and elsewhere from the allowable credit. Emphasis is on the word "allowable" as opposed to "allowed" or "taken."

The New Jersey Estate Tax obligation is not discretionary on the part of the taxpayer. It may not be satisfied by payment of the appropriate amount to the Federal Government in lieu of claiming the credit allowable for Federal estate tax purposes.

Amended Estate Tax statutes provide that for estates of decedents dying on or after March 1, 1992, which are subject to the New Jersey Estate Tax, an estate tax return (Form IT-Estate) must be filed together with payment of the tax within 9 months after the decedent's death.

Interest accrues at the rate of 10 percent per annum on any estate tax not paid within the nine month period. Upon receipt of a copy of a Federal extension to file the Federal Form 706, interest may be reduced to 6 percent per annum until expiration of the extension period.

Statute requires that a copy of the Federal Estate Tax Form 706 be filed with the Transfer Inheritance and Estate Tax Branch within 30 days after filing of the original with the Federal Government. A copy of any communication from the Federal Government making any final changes, or confirming, increasing, or diminishing the tax shown to be due must also be filed with the Branch within 30 days of receipt. □

LOCAL PROPERTY TAX Disabled Vets Reimbursed

New Jersey's Constitution and statutes at N.J.S.A. 54:4-3.30 provide that certain totally and permanently disabled war veterans or their surviving spouses be exempt from property taxes on their principal residences and the lots on which those residences are situated.

To qualify for property tax exemption, the veteran must be honorably discharged from active wartime service in the U.S. Armed Forces and be VA certified as having service-connected total or 100% permanent disability. The veteran must fully own and permanently reside in the dwelling for which exemption is claimed and be a legal or domiciliary resident of New Jersey. Application, Form D.V.S.S.E., must be filed with the municipal assessor of the taxing district where the dwelling is located. As the surviving spouse of a disabled veteran who met all of the above eligibility requirements, the widow or widower must not have remarried, must also be a New Jersey resident and owner-occupant of the claimed dwelling.

Generally, the State does not reimburse the municipality for the tax revenues lost by the granting of these exemptions. However, $5,037,244.87 in a one-time State funded retroactive property tax reimbursement (D.V.R.R. program) was issued in August 1998 to 397 totally and permanently disabled war veterans or their surviving spouses who paid taxes when their properties should have been exempt. Over 500 D.V.R.R. applications for reimbursement were received and processed by Local Property's Policy and Planning Section. The filing period for State reimbursement ran from January 1, 1998 through March 31, 1998. The reasons for the retroactive claims varied. Some veterans were unaware that the tax exemption was available to them. Other vets received the required VA certification of their service-connected 100% permanent and total disability retroactively, years after property tax payments had been made.

Procedures outlined in N.J.S.A. 54:4-3.30 for determining exemption entitlement and discretionary granting of retroactive refunds by the municipal governing body pursuant to N.J.S.A. 54:4-3.32 have not been changed by the one-time State reimbursement. □

Director of the Division of Taxation certified to the State Treasurer in this report the amount of revenue sharing funds due each municipality on November 1, 1998.

The total amount of property tax deductions for senior and disabled citizens and surviving spouses for 1998 was $33,650,613. That amount represents a decrease of 5.4% from 1997.

The total number of property tax deductions for senior and disabled citizens and surviving spouses for 1998 was 129,959. When compared to tax year 1997 the number of deductions decreased 4.5%.

The amount of veterans' deductions for 1998 was $17,538,791. That amount represents a decrease of 2.7% from 1997.

The total number of veterans' deductions for 1998 was 343,975. When compared to tax year 1997 the number of deductions decreased 2.6%.

The total amount of property tax deductions and veterans' deductions include the additional 2% each municipality is reimbursed for administrative costs as a result of c.30, P.L. 1997. □

The Farmland Evaluation Advisory Committee (F.E.A.C.) met on August 26, 1998 at the Philip Alampi Laboratory in West Trenton to adopt productivity assessment values and imputed grazing values for land receiving farmland assessment for 1999. The thirty-fifth Report of the Committee

(showing the value ranges adopted) is mailed to municipal tax assessors and county boards of taxation by October 1 of each pre-tax year. Land qualifying for farmland assessment must be assessed in accordance with its agricultural or horticultural use rather than its true or market value.

The farmland productivity values adopted by the Committee for the 1999 tax year increased in 14 of the 20 counties where qualified farmland is located. Increases in cropland having a B soil group rating averaged from $20 to $60 per acre when compared to 1998 values. Overall net farm income of land in agricultural and horticultural use in New Jersey is estimated to have increased approximately 5.7% over the prior year. □

*Farmland Acreage

A report summarizing data from farmland assessment applications (FA-1) has recently been completed. The study shows that total acreage devoted to agricultural or horticultural use in 1998 was 1,178,121 acres for the entire State.

The data for tax year 1998 reflects a continued decline in the amount of qualified farmland since enactment of Chapter 48, Laws of 1964 (the "Farmland Assessment Act"). Since 1983, the year in which the highest acreage, 1,271,882 acres, qualified for farmland assessment, the amount of qualified acreage has declined 7.4% or a total of 93,761 acres.

24.5% of New Jersey's land mass is approved under the Farmland

Assessment Act. Hudson County remains the only county without farmland. Essex and Union each report less than 500 acres devoted to agricultural or horticultural use. Conversely, Salem with 57.1% has the greatest proportion of its land qualified under the Act. Other counties with large percentages of qualified farmland are: Hunterdon 51.2%; Warren 51.0%; Gloucester 38.5%; Sussex 33.8%; and Mercer 30.9%.

Copies of the 1998 report have been distributed to the County Tax Board Administrators. Anyone seeking specific information on qualified farmland acreage or wishing to obtain a copy of the report may do so by calling 609-292-7974. □

Criminal Enforcement over the past several months included:

- On June 19, 1998, Mr. Harold W. Coleman, a former official of Hamilton Township, Mercer County, Board of Fire Commissioners, was indicted by a State Grand Jury for allegedly embezzling in excess of $700,000 while acting as Treasurer of the organization. The indictment included charges of theft, official misconduct, misapplication of entrusted property, filing false and fraudulent New Jersey gross income tax returns, failure to file a New Jersey gross income tax return and three counts of failure to pay New Jersey gross income taxes. The subject was arraigned in Mercer County Superior Court. Bail was set at $100,000 and the subject was then incarcerated. Mr. Coleman, if convicted, could face 10 years in jail and a fine of $330,000.
- On June 19, 1998, a Federal jury in Camden convicted four of the six defendants in the latest trial relating to the "Red Daisy" motor fuels tax investigation. Those convicted at this trial included Daniel Enright, the former president of Petro Plus Petroleum, who agreed, on June 23, 1998, to forfeit more than $2 million in cash to the Federal government which had been located in a Swiss bank account and subsequently frozen. This action clears the way for the participating agencies to receive an equitable share of these funds. Enright was convicted on conspiracy, 10 counts of money laundering, 11 counts of wire fraud and 14 counts of tax evasion. Also convicted of charges of tax evasion and money laundering were Richard Pedroni, the former president of Pedroni Fuel Company in Vineland, Mary Ingram, the former president of American Minority Petroleum located in Woodbridge and Demetrius Karamanos, a former officer of Kings Motor Oils Co. Inc. located in Edison. This undercover investigation was worked jointly by the FBI, IRS-CID, Pennsylvania Department of Revenue and Division of Taxation's Office of Criminal Investigation.

- On June 24, 1998, Himanshu K. Desai, an Ocean County Corrections Officer, of South Toms River, was indicted by a State Grand Jury for filing fraudulent sales tax returns from 1990 through 1997 in connection with a convenience store he owns in South Toms River. The amount of tax underreported is estimated to be more than $60,000. If convicted on all counts, Desai faces up to five years in prison and fines of up to $7,500. This case was investigated by the Office of Criminal Investigation with present-

- ment to the grand jury by the Division of Criminal Justice.
- On July 22, 1998, Fausto Diaz of Perth Amboy entered a guilty plea to an accusation of one count of money laundering and one count of filing a fraudulent New Jersey gross income tax return. Mr. Diaz faces up to 10 years in prison. This case is the first prosecution from the enhanced money laundering statutes enacted last year and was investigated jointly by the Division of Taxation's Office of Criminal Investigation and the Division of Criminal Justice.
- On August 7, 1998, Anagnostis Inc., t/a Holiday Spirit Shop, and Peter B. Anagnostis were indicted by a State Grand Jury. The indictment was five counts: theft by failure to make required disposition, misapplication of entrusted property, failure to file returns, failure to turn over taxes, and purposeful failure to turn over taxes. The total amount of sales tax collected but not remitted was $262,537 for the period September 30, 1990 to June 30, 1994.

- On August 26, 1998, a Camden County Grand Jury indicted Steven H. Willans, of Barrington Borough, on charges of failing to file personal State income tax returns for the years 1994, 1996 and 1997, collecting and failing to remit $7,609.07 in sales tax, failing to file returns regarding same and misapplication of said entrusted property from 1992 through 1995. Willans was also indicted on charges of embezzling more than $75,000 from the Barrington Ambulance Association, the local first aid squad of which he was treasurer.
- In other related indictments, Katrina Willans, Steven Willans' wife, was indicted on charges of failing to file State income tax returns for the years 1993 through 1997, and Samuel F. Daley of Audobon Borough was indicted on charges of failing to remit $6,125.88 in sales tax he had collected, failing to file and remit $1,139.55 State gross income tax he had withheld from employees' wages, and misapplication of entrusted funds, from 1995 through 1997. These cases were jointly investigated by the Division of Taxation's Office of Criminal Investigation, the Barrington Police Department and the Camden County Prosecutor's Office.

- Forty-five charges were filed in municipal court on nine cases for violating the cigarette tax law including possession of 1,008.9 cartons of contraband cigarettes, valued at $25,222.50. Two cases involved the arrest of three individuals from out-of-State, who were transporting unstamped cigarettes. □ rate existence continues, the corporation files a New Jersey S Corporation return (CBT-100S) for the short period ending on the day before the disqualifying event and a C corporation short period return (CBT-100) for the remainder of the year.

The due date for the return for the short period is the 15th day of the fourth month after the close of the period. An automatic six-month extension of time to file the CBT-100S is available by making a tentative return and paying the tentative tax on Form CBT-200T on or before the due date of the return.

Single Member LLCs — If a foreign corporation is the member of a single member LLC that is doing business in New Jersey, the corporate member is subject to the Corporation Business Tax, N.J.S.A. 54:10A-1 et seq., in New Jersey, assuming that the LLC is disregarded as an entity for Federal purposes. N.J.S.A. 42:2B-69.

If the LLC itself is treated as a corporation for Federal tax purposes, and is not disregarded, the LLC would be required to file a CBT-100 and pay tax in its own right. N.J.S.A. 54:10A-4(c).

P.L. 1998, chapter 79, approved August 14, 1998, provides for single member LLCs to be organized in New Jersey. The amendment applies to all existing limited liability companies whether or not formed before August 14, 1998.

Gross Income Tax

Dependent Care Accounts — The Division received an inquiry concerning whether a dependent care account to which an employee contributes is taxable by New Jersey.

Employees are subject to State gross income tax on all income actually or constructively received. The New Jersey Gross Income Tax Act imposes the tax upon salaries, wages, tips, fees, commissions, bonuses and other remuneration received for services rendered. N.J.S.A. 54A:5-1a. There is no provision in the New Jersey law similar to the Internal Revenue Code excluding from employee income amounts paid into a dependent care account.

Payment to Widow of Fireman

Killed in Action — A taxpayer inquired whether a pension benefit paid to the widow of a fireman killed in action is exempt from gross income tax. The pension benefit is paid under N.J.S.A. 43:16A-10, which provides an accidental death benefit “upon the death of a member in active service as a result of an accident met in the actual performance of duty....” For a widow or widower, the benefit is a pension of 70% of the compensation paid in the last year of service. Unlike typical pensions, the benefit is not based on the deceased’s age and length of service.

Under section 6-6.a. of the Gross Income Tax Act, amounts received under workmen’s compensation acts as compensation for personal injuries or sickness are exempt from gross income tax. The New Jersey exemption is based on a similarly-worded Federal tax exemption found in section 104(a)(1) of the Internal Revenue Code.

Based on the wording in N.J.S.A. 54A:6-6.a. and IRS regulations and rulings, the Division of Taxation has determined that the pension benefit paid under N.J.S.A. 43:16A-10(1) and (2) to a widow or widower of a police or fire member killed in action is exempt from the gross income tax. Taxpayers claiming the exemption must attach to their return a letter from the Division of Pensions stating that the taxpayer is eligible for the section 43:16A-10 benefits and documentation of the annual amount of the benefit.

Sales & Use Tax

Boats Subject to Registration and Sales to Nonresidents — The Form ST-10V (Vessel Dealer Sales and Use Tax Exemption Report) is used by vendors to document sales subject to the sales tax exemption allowed under N.J.S.A. 54:32B-10. This provision exempts sales of motor vehicles, aircraft and boats to nonresidents of New Jersey if the nonresident purchaser also meets four additional criteria for exemption: (1) has no permanent place of abode in New Jersey, (2) is not engaged in any employment, trade, business or profession in the State in which the motor vehicle, aircraft or vessel is used within New Jersey, (3) will not base the aircraft or boat in New Jersey within the 12 months following purchase, except on a transient basis, and (4) provides the vendor with necessary documentation to support the exemption. N.J.S.A. 54:32B-10(a) (2), (3), (5) and (4), respectively.

Although the provision does not explicitly limit the exemption to particular kinds of boats, in light of the additional criteria for the nonresident exemption, the Division believes that the boat exemption is limited to those boats that are subject to regulation by the

Division of Motor Vehicle Services under the New Jersey Boat Act. The governing statute, N.J.S.A. 54:32B-10, in subsection (5), says that in order for the boat to be exempt, the purchaser "will not house, moor, base or otherwise place the...boat or other vessel in this State for use on other than a transient basis or for repairs at any time within 12 months from the date of purchase." This criterion for exemption parallels one of the conditions for exemption from the requirement of registration with the Division of Motor Vehicles under the New Jersey Boat Act. N.J.S.A. 12:7-34.38(b). Therefore, it is reasonable to conclude that the boats subject to exemption under N.J.S.A. 54:32B-10 are the types of boats subject to regulation by Motor Vehicle Services. (This is why the form requires information regarding state of registration of any trade-in vessel, the serial number of the boat sold, and the purchaser's driver's license.) Boats subject to registration with Motor Vehicle Services would include power vessels and sailboats larger than 12 feet long, but would not include such things as canoes, kayaks, nonmotorized rowboats or nonmotorized dinghies. See N.J.S.A. 12:7-34.38.

A business that sells only canoes, kayaks and rowboats is not deemed to be a "vessel dealer" for sales tax purposes. Unlike purchasers of motor vehicles, power vessels, and large sail boats, who may be exempt from sales tax if they satisfy the criteria for nonresidency in N.J.S.A. 54:32B-10, nonresident purchasers of canoes who take possession of the canoes in New Jersey are not exempt from paying sales tax. The explanation of the nonresident exemption in N.J.A.C. 18:24-7.8(b), which applies to motor vehicle sales, can also be used as a guide in determining whether a purchaser of a boat qualifies for the nonresident exemption.

Limited Dividend Housing Corporation — A Limited Dividend Housing corporation wrote the Division requesting information on the proper sales and use tax refund procedures for such corporations. Limited Dividend Housing corporations and associations, organized under the Limited Dividend and Nonprofit Housing Corporations and Associations Law, are providers of low and moderate income rental housing projects in blighted areas that were developed prior to 1992.

They were advised that prior to any refund claim their application for Limited Dividend Housing sales tax exemption status must be reviewed and approved by the Division.

Limited Dividend Housing corporations (or associations) are exempt from sales tax under N.J.S.A. 55:16-19 for the purposes described in N.J.S.A. 55:16-4, i.e., "to acquire, construct, alter, maintain and operate a housing project." The tax exemption is for the purchase of materials, supplies and services for constructing the project and also for maintaining and operating the housing project after it has been constructed. The exemption is approved to the housing corporation or association only for use on the specific housing project stated in the application. The exemption extends to all purchases used to operate the housing project, including not only structural materials and supplies, but also operating expense supplies, office supplies, and business supplies for that project. The exemption does not include tenant purchases, restaurant meal purchases by owners/management or tenants, hotel occupancies or any other purchase not directly related to the housing project. Contractors doing work for a Limited Dividend Housing corporation cannot buy materials or supplies from their supplier tax free with an ST-13 but the Limited Dividend Housing corporation can buy the materials and supplies directly with payment out of their account tax free with the use of an ST-4 together with their sales and use tax exemption letter provided by the Division.

The Limited Dividend and Nonprofit Housing Corporations and Associations Law was repealed effective April 17, 1992. The repealer contained a provision to allow Limited Dividend Housing corporations and associations (renamed "urban renewal entities") with projects in existence prior to April 17, 1992 to continue with all previously granted sales tax exemptions. N.J.S.A. 40A:20-1, et seq.

Once their exemption status has been approved, the Limited Dividend Housing corporation may file a Claim for Refund form for any sales and use taxes paid, for the purposes described in N.J.S.A. 55:16-4, for a four year period prior to the date of their claim.

The claim for refund must be supported by invoices and canceled checks showing the Limited Dividend Housing corporation as the purchaser and payer of record. Purchases must be shown for use on the housing project stated on the application.

Sales or Installation of Certain Home Appliances — Under the Sales and Use Tax Act, a contractor is any person who improves or repairs the real property of another person. Built-in appliances are treated as capital improvements to real property and therefore any person who installs such an item for a customer is a contractor with respect to that transaction.

The Sales and Use Tax Act places responsibility with the contractor for sales and use tax on purchases of materials and supplies necessary for the installation. The contractor's customer is liable for tax only with respect to the installation labor charge, unless the installation results in a capital improvement to real property. Again, note that built-in appliances, including replacements, are usually treated as capital items.

Given the statutory framework, the following guidelines can be used by appliance retailers to ascertain the correct sales and use tax application:

- In any case where the retailer sells a built-in appliance to a customer, regardless of whether the customer is a homeowner, contractor, builder or developer, sales tax must be collected on the sales price if the property is either picked up or delivered to a location in New Jersey. (This assumes no exemption is available under law.)
- In any case where the retailer sells a built-in appliance to a customer and agrees to install the item under a separate installation agreement, sales tax must be collected on the sales price of the appliance if the property will be installed in a location in New Jersey. The charge for installation is not subject to sales tax because the installation is deemed to result in a capital improvement. The customer should issue a Certificate of Capital Improvement (ST-8) to the retailer/contractor.

- In any case where the retailer agrees to sell a built-in appliance installed (single agreement), the retailer is acting as a contractor under the Sales and Use Tax Act. Thus, the retailer/contractor is liable for the remittance of use tax based on the cost of the built-in appliance, since the appliance was presumably purchased without the payment of sales tax. The sale agreement, now considered an agreement for the service of installing property which is incorporated into real property, is not subject to the collection of sales tax from the customer. The customer in this circumstance should issue a Certificate of Capital Improvement (Form ST-8) to the retailer/contractor. Note that the retailer/contractor's use tax expense may be incorporated into the price charged in the receipt.

Universal Service Assessment — Effective January 1, 1998, the Federal Communications Commission imposed an assessment on telecommunications carriers in order to fund the government's Universal Service Program, which subsidizes telecommunication services to low income and rural communities as well as schools, libraries and health care facilities. The telecommunications company may pass this cost on to its customers as part of the monthly bill for service.

The Sales and Use Tax rule provides that excise taxes which are imposed on vendors, such as the Universal Service Assessment, are included in the receipt on which sales tax is computed. Since telecommunications services, including cellular, are subject to New Jersey sales tax, the Universal Service Assessment is also subject to sales tax.

Uniform Procedure

Interest on Refunds — Taxpayers are entitled to interest on certain refunds pursuant to State Tax Uniform Procedure Law section N.J.S.A. 54:49-15.1 and Gross Income Tax Law section N.J.S.A. 54A:9-7(f). The interest will be equal to the prime rate, determined for each month or fractional month compounded annually at the end of each year, from the date the interest begins to accrue to the date of refund. The interest will begin to accrue from the later of the date of the filing of a completed claim for refund under N.J.A.C. 18:2-5.8, the date of the payment of tax, or the due date of the return.

However, the State Tax Uniform Procedure Law provides that "no interest shall be allowed or paid on an overpayment of less than $1.00, nor upon any overpayment refunded within six months after the last date prescribed, or permitted by extension of time, for filing the return or within six months after the return is filed whichever is later." N.J.S.A. 54:49-15.1. The same provision appears in the Gross Income Tax Law. N.J.S.A. 54A:9-7(f). Thus, the Division will not pay interest on refunds that are paid within six months of the later of the date the return is filed or the due date or extended due date of the returns.

N.J.S.A. 54:49-15.1, which authorized interest on refunds, was contained in Public Law 1992, c.175, the "Taxpayers' Bill of Rights," enacted December 10, 1992. N.J.S.A. 54:A:9-7(f) was enacted in 1976. These provisions balance the goal of providing timely refunds with the need to allow time for the Division and taxpayers to discover overpayments, and for the Division to receive and process completed refund claims from taxpayers. □

In Our Courts

Insurance Retaliatory Tax Treatment of Surtax as a Special Purpose Assessment — Liberty Mutual Insurance Co., Liberty Mutual Fire Insurance Co. v. Director Division of Taxation, decided July 21, 1998; Tax Court Nos. 006043-96 and 000258-97.

These cases involve the issue of whether the FAIR Act Private Passenger Automobile Surtax collected in 1990, 1991 and 1992 is a special purpose assessment excludible from the taxpayers' New Jersey retaliatory tax base under N.J.S.A. 17:32-15. By opinion and judgment dated July 21, 1998, the Tax Court granted the plaintiffs' summary judgment motion and denied the State's cross motion on this issue (the State prevailed on the estoppel issue raised by the plaintiffs).

Local Property Tax Former Parish Properties Eligible for Partial Exemption — Roman Catholic Archdiocese of Newark v. City of East Orange, decided May 27, 1998; Tax Court of New Jersey.

A decades old real estate tax exemption of two church parishes under N.J.S.A. 54:4-3.6, as properties actually and exclusively used for religious purposes or worship, was challenged when, due to declining attendance and deteriorating facilities, the parishes were dissolved and ownership reverted to the Archdiocese. During the disputed years 1994-1996 the properties were used for storing church records and artifacts, deanery meetings, a gymnasium for Catholic youth teams, a rectory for a retired clergyman, daily and weekly Mass, and classrooms rented to the city's Board of Education. Usually no more than two persons, the pastor and church security guard, attended Mass, and the meetings and sporting events were occasional. The municipality revoked the exemption contending the quantum of religious use to be insufficient. The Archdiocese countered that court examination would violate the church's U.S. and State Constitutional protections of religious freedom.

The N.J. Tax Court addressed the following religious use issues in deciding exemption status:

1. May a court inquire into the nature of religious use of otherwise qualified property;
2. Must a religious use be of a certain amount or level to attain exemption;

3. Is storage of church property and religious artifacts a religious use;
4. Is the required exclusivity of religious use invalidated by leasing a portion of the property to the Board of Education.

In its review of U.S. and N.J. law, the State Tax Court found that Constitutional protections are not absolute; inquiries into the purposes and activities of religious organizations have been approved by the Federal Courts and mandated by N.J.S.A. 54:4-3.6's actual and exclusive use condition for property tax exemption.

However, New York, Colorado and Utah Supreme Courts have examined minimum religious use criteria and rejected them, while the Michigan Court of Appeals in 1968 adopted and then in 1977 reversed a quantum of use test. The lone exception was the Vermont Supreme Court which by split decision upheld a quantum use test for an educational organization. Vermont has not applied the test to a religious entity. N.J. courts have ruled that a tax exempt religious organization's complete nonuse of a property will not sustain exemption, even where future exempt use is anticipated. Although our courts have indirectly dealt with use issues in relation to parsonages, they have not suggested a quantum, regularity or consistency of religious activity as prerequisite for exemption of religious purpose entities. N.J.S.A. 54:4-3.6 only requires actual and exclusive use and does not impose a de minimis test on entitlement to religious purpose or worship exemptions. Once occupied and utilized for appropriate exempt use, even if minimal, exemption is not denied.

Concerning storage, both New York and Alaska have exempted religious entities where part of the property was used for storage. Warehousing has been affirmed as an exempt use with respect to historic sites by our State Supreme Court. But until this Tax Court's review of storage as a qualifying religious use it had only been alluded to in prior case law by way of property description. As determined by this Court, if documents and artifacts warehoused at church facilities are of a religious nature or relate to church operations, use is consistent with exemption.

Finally, regarding the Archdiocese's rented classrooms — by itself, property owned and used by the Board of Education for classrooms is exempt from taxation. N.J.S.A. 54:4-3.6 also permits partial exemption for educational, hospital, and moral and improvement purpose properties where a portion of the property is used by a taxable entity for taxable purposes. Further, the courts have decided that the leasing of an exempt educational property by an exempt educational organization to another exempt educational organization for an educational use does not defeat exemption. Nevertheless, under 54:4-3.6 properties of religious and charitable organizations, if not exclusively used for those purposes, lose their entire exemption. This position reflects the two different exemption provisions of the statute. In the 1977 case Boys' Club of Clifton v. Jefferson Twp., the N.J. Supreme Court declared that "occupancy [of a property owned by a charitable or religious organization] by an organization other than a charitable or religious one, such as an educational institution, would destroy the tax exempt status." Thus, if a religious organization leases property to an otherwise exempt organization which is not religious or charitable it loses exempt standing. For religious and charitable entities the exclusive use test has not been modified and the stricter requirement still applies. Accordingly, the former parish properties were exempt from taxation as actually and exclusively used for religious purposes except for that parcel and for that period it was leased to the Board of Education.

Miscellaneous
Division's Duty to Provide Notice of Changes to Tax Statutes — Schirmer-National Co. v. Director, Division of Taxation, decided August 17, 1998; Tax Court No. A00348-96.

The Tax Court followed its decision in Aetna Burglar & Fire Alarm Co. v. Director, Div. of Taxation, 16 N.J. Tax 584 (1997), that alarm monitoring services carried through telephone telecommunications are subject to sales tax. Plaintiff also argued that these services should not be subject to tax until the time the Division provided proper notice of the tax law changes. The court ruled that taxpayers are "put on notice of legislative enactments on the date the legislation becomes effective." Consequently, the Division of Taxation was not obligated to provide taxpayers with notice of changes in the tax law.

Timely Protests — Frank Scallo v. Director, Division of Taxation, decided July 10, 1998, clarified August 26, 1998; Tax Court No. 000387-1998.

Plaintiff was a shareholder and employee of Shore Auto Service, Inc. In 1992, the Division assessed sales and use tax against the corporation for the period October 1986 to December 1989. The corporation did not challenge the assessment. On June 28, 1996, the Division sent plaintiff a Notice of Finding of Responsible Person Status which granted the right to an administrative hearing if the plaintiff applied for a hearing within 90 days of the notice. On January 16, 1997, the Division filed a certificate of debt against the plaintiff and a Warrant of Execution was issued on February 1, 1997. On April 23, 1997, plaintiff requested an administrative hearing challenging his status as a responsible person for the period October 1986 to December 1989. Plaintiff's request was denied due to its untimeliness on November 14, 1997. Thereafter, plaintiff filed a timely complaint with the Tax Court on February 10, 1998 claiming that the request for an administrative hearing was timely and that the 1996 assessment was void ab initio.

The Tax Court held that plaintiff's request for an administrative hearing was untimely because the April 23, 1997 request for a hearing was more than 90 days after the Division's June 28, 1996 mailing of the Notice of Responsible Person Status and that the filing of the certificate of debt does not extend plaintiff's time to request an administrative hearing pertaining to the underlying tax liability. The court added that the certificate of debt may not be challenged under Rule 4:50-1 because this rule deals with the correction of liability determinations which are the result of litigation, not Division methods involving the collection of tax liabilities. Finally, the court ruled that the 1996 assessment was not void ab initio even if made beyond the four (4) year statute of limitations because plaintiff's failure to file a timely request for an administrative hearing barred him from raising this defense.

Guard Dog Security Services – Aportela Command Dogs Inc. v. Director, Division of Taxation, decided April 24, 1998; Tax Court No. 0003489-1997.

Plaintiff is engaged in the business of providing guard dog security services per written monthly rental agreements to various clients for the protection of their property. Typically, dogs were brought to the customer site at the end of the business day on a daily basis by their handlers and were removed before the commencement of business on the next day. On weekends and holidays, the dogs were left and the handlers visited them for purposes of feeding and cleaning up. In other situations, the dogs were kenneled on the clients' property and were released at the end of and caged at the beginning of the business day.

In a motion for summary judgment, the court held that monthly receipts attributable to these guard dogs services were not subject to sales tax because the real object of the agreement was the security of the customers' premises. In reaching its decision, the court reasoned that the purchase price of the dogs was minor when compared to the contract receipts and that the corporation incurred greater expenses in preparing the dogs for guard duty via their training, maintenance, and the handlers who dealt with the dogs.

Sales or Repairs, Alterations or Conversion of Ships – Maher Terminals Inc., v. Director, Division of Taxation, decided September 3, 1998; Tax Court No. 0003495-1997.

Plaintiff operated a stevedoring/port terminal business for commercial ships, barges, and other vessels at its marine terminal facility in Port Elizabeth, NJ. Plaintiff's computer equipment is located at a building which is 14 miles away from the marine terminal facilities. The computer equipment is connected by fiber optic cable to computer terminals at the marine terminal facilities and is used to process data such as the containers' number, weight, contents, destination, name of the shipping vessel and date of sailing and anticipated arrival, special handling requirements, compliance with export requirements, etc. These computers plan where outgoing containers will be placed on the ships, track the storage location of the containers, and instruct plaintiff's employees as to where the containers will be stored and the order in which they will be loaded. Additionally, computer terminals are located on straddle carriers, equipment which straddles a cargo container, so that it can be lifted and moved efficiently, in order to maximize their efficiency and to coordinate container movement (pick up and drop off) after considering priority of the move.

At issue is whether plaintiff's computer equipment qualifies for the N.J.S.A. 54:32B-8.12 sales tax exemption. This exemption applies, inter alia, to "...machinery, apparatus and equipment for use at a marine terminal facility in loading, unloading and handling cargo carried by those commercial ships, barges and other vessels, and storage and other services rendered with respect to such loading, unloading and handling cargo at a marine terminal facility..."

The court ruled that the computer equipment did not qualify for the exemption because it was not directly used in the loading, unloading, and handling of cargo. The court found that the computer's use, information processing, was too remote from the actual movement of the cargo, i.e., activities of the straddle carriers, forklifts, cranes, and other movement equipment. The court reasoned that it was not the Legislature's intention to exempt such computer equipment. □

In Our Legislature

Constitutional Amendment

Open Space, Farmland, and Historic Preservation

— An amendment to Article VIII, Section II, of the State Constitution was approved by the electorate on November 3, 1998. Commencing July 1, 1999, the amendment dedicates $98 million in each fiscal year for the next 10 years (1999 to 2009) from the State sales and use tax revenues for the acquisition and development of lands for recreation and conservation purposes, for the preservation of farmland for agricultural or horticultural use and production, and for historic preservation, and to satisfy payments relating to bonds and other obligations issued for those purposes.

The amendment also dedicates up to $98 million each fiscal year, for up to 20 years thereafter (2009 to 2029), of sales and use tax revenues to satisfy any payments relating to bonds and other obligations issued for those same purposes.

Gross Income Tax

Holocaust Restitution — P.L. 1998, c.113 (signed into law on October 20, 1998) excludes from income amounts received by victims of the Nazi Holocaust as reparations or restitution for the loss of liberty or damage to health. Such compensation, whether recovered in the form of tangible or intangible property or as cash value in replacement of such property, payment of insurance policies purchased by Nazi Holocaust victims, and any accrued interest on such amounts, shall not be counted as income for New Jersey gross income tax purposes or for the purpose of determining eligibility for the Pharmaceutical Assistance to the Aged Program (PAAD). This act took effect immediately and applies to all property received after enactment.

Single Member Limited Liability Companies

— P.L. 1998, c.79 (signed into law on August 14, 1998) amends various sections of the New Jersey Limited Liability Company Act to provide for single member limited liability companies and to treat such companies as sole proprietorships for State income tax purposes unless the company is classified otherwise for Federal income tax purposes. The act became effective immediately and applies to all existing limited liability companies regardless of their formation date.

Miscellaneous

Exemptions for Municipal Electric Utilities

— P.L. 1998, c.114 (signed into law on October 28, 1998) exempts certain sales by municipal electric utilities from sales tax and from the corporation business tax. The act, targeted specifically to apply to the Butler Borough Municipal Corporation, took effect immediately and is retroactive to January 1, 1998.

ICF-MR Assessment

— P.L. 1998, c.40 (signed into law on June 30, 1998) provides for an annual assessment of 5.8% of the gross revenue of every intermediate care facility for the mentally retarded (ICF-MR) in the State. The assessment must be paid to the Director of the New Jersey Division of Revenue on a quarterly basis. Proceeds will be used by the Division of Developmental Disabilities in the Department of Human Services to reduce the number of disabled persons awaiting placement in a community residence or program. The act took effect July 1, 1998.

Special Improvement Districts

— P.L. 1998, c.115 (signed into law on October 28, 1998) authorizes municipalities to establish “special improvement districts” for the purpose of revitalizing the State’s downtown areas; provides $5 million to establish a downtown business improvement loan fund for worthwhile municipal revitalization projects; and provides technical assistance for such projects from the Department of Community Affairs. This act took effect December 27, 1998.

Multiple Taxes

P.L. 1998, c.106 (signed into law on September 14, 1998) implements various recommendations of the Tax Advisory Group established by the State Treasurer in 1994 to study State tax issues.

1. Deficiency Assessments

Allows taxpayers who have paid an assessed deficiency within one year after the expiration of the period allowed for filing a protest, but who have not protested or appealed that assessment, to file a claim for refund. Applies to return periods which begin on or after January 1, 1999.

2. Hedge Funds

Provides that income or losses which a nonresident taxpayer receives from a business entity located in New Jersey are not deemed to be derived from New Jersey sources if the business entity’s only activity is the purchase, holding or sale of intangible personal property, such as commodities or securities and such intangible property is not held for sale to customers. Applies to taxable years ending after enactment.

3. Penalty Rules

For return periods which begin on or after January 1, 1999:

- Amends the State Tax Uniform Procedure Law so that the penalty for failure to file a tax return is based on the amount of the underpayment of tax rather than on the entire tax liability; and
- Caps the corporation business tax underpayment penalty at 25% of the underpayment in conformity with the State Tax Uniform Procedure Law.

4. Gross Income Tax Estimated Payments

For return periods beginning on or after January 1, 1999:

- Raises from $100 to $400 the tax threshold above which quarterly estimated tax payments are required; and
- Requires certain estates and trusts to make estimated tax payments; and
- Modifies the method by which the penalty for underpayment of estimated tax is determined.

5. Corporation Business Tax Estimated Payments

For return periods beginning on or after January 1, 1999, modifies the method by which the penalty for underpayment of estimated tax is calculated.

Sales and Use Tax

Direct Mail Advertising Services

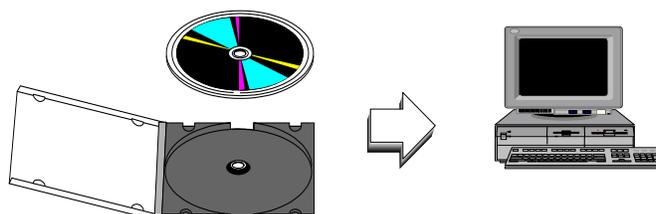

— P.L. 1998, c.99 (signed into law on September 4, 1998) amends the New Jersey Sales and Use Tax Act to more accurately describe the kinds of direct-mail advertising services that are subject to sales and use tax. The amendment replaces the general and indistinct term “advertising services” with the more precise phrase “direct-mail advertising processing services in connection with distribution of advertising or promotional material” to recipients in New Jersey. This act took effect on November 1, 1998.

Charity Shops — P.L. 1998, c.118 (signed into law on November 9, 1998) allows certain charitable and public safety organizations to make tax exempt sales of donated property at shops where substantially all of the work is done by volunteers and where substantially all of the merchandise being sold has been received by the exempt organization as gifts or contributions. This act takes effect on February 1, 1999. □

Special Message to Tax Practitioners

This year brings many important changes, both administrative and legislative. Be sure to look for the “New for '98” symbols throughout the 1998 return instruction booklets. Here is a summary of those changes:

New for Tax Preparers

- Taxpayers may authorize a Division of Taxation representative to discuss their return with their paid tax preparer by filling in the “preparer authorization” oval above the preparer’s signature line.
- Extra supplies of both the envelope for mailing Forms NJ-1040 and HR-1040, and the small window envelope for mailing Form NJ-1040-V may be ordered from the Division of Taxation.
- New, large-size (9" x 12") envelope designed to permit return(s) to be mailed flat (not folded) is also available.

To request envelopes or vouchers, call the Automated Tax Information System at 1-800-323-4400 (Touch-tone phones within New Jersey), or write to Taxpayer Forms Services, PO Box 269, Trenton NJ 08646-0269. Supplies are limited, so order early.

Legislative Changes

- Final phase-in of the property tax deduction/credit.
- Alignment with Federal treatment of Roth IRAs.
- Exemption of United States military pension or survivor’s benefit payments received from the Defense Finance and Accounting Service by taxpayers 62 years of age or older or disabled under the Federal Social Security Act.
- Deduction of medical savings account contributions.
- Alignment with Federal treatment of sale of principal residence.
- Increase in estimated tax payment threshold from $100 to $400 for 1999.
- Exemption of NJBEST Account earnings.
- Exclusion from New Jersey gross income of reparations and restitution paid to Nazi Holocaust victims.

Division Receives FTA Award

The Federation of Tax Administrators presented its 1998 Compliance Award to the New Jersey Division of Taxation and the Iowa Department of Revenue at the FTA Annual Meeting in New Orleans in June. The Award recognizes programs in tax compliance showing excellence, creativity, and effectiveness.

New Jersey's award-winning tax recovery project focused on cash businesses and in particular the retail alcoholic beverage industry. Replacement of the wholesale liquor tax by sales taxes at the retail level helped spur a comprehensive review program and a combined audit/compliance effort involving registration, compliance checks, audit and criminal investigation. Division of Taxation Acting Director Robert K. Thompson said, "This was a true joint effort. Investigators and auditors worked side by side to support or refute audit findings."

Obtaining third-party alcoholic beverage wholesale purchase information electronically helped in the selection of audit candidates. The Division enlisted the assistance and cooperation of both the Division of Alcoholic Beverage Control (ABC) which provided access to its database of liquor license holders, and the alcoholic beverage wholesale industry, which provided data on their sales to retail liquor licensees.

Legislation enacted in 1995, requiring all current or prospective retail liquor licensees to obtain a tax clearance certificate from the Division of Taxation before a license can be renewed or transferred, helped support the Division's efforts to ensure that all retail liquor licensees in New Jersey are properly registered and brought into compliance with State tax laws.

The Division hired additional personnel for its enforcement efforts and also formed a special group of auditors and investigators to focus on cash businesses. Working with the assigned auditor, cash team investigators visit retail businesses that make retail sales of alcoholic beverages to develop "real world" information on the number of customers and employees the business has, the type of food and beverages served, etc. The information gathered is then used to support the auditor's findings or the taxpayer's concerns.

With the assistance of the Internal Revenue Service, Division employees were given "economic reality" training, which is an indirect audit technique that involves gathering information about a taxpayer's financial status to help determine whether reported income is sufficient to support an individual's lifestyle or standard of living.

Over the three-year period since the inception of the program, the Division of Taxation has collected, $133,424,452 as of July 11, 1998 as a result of audit assessments against liquor license holders, and expects to collect over $150 million. □

GROSS INCOME TAX Roth IRAs

Governor Whitman has approved legislation (P.L. 1998, c.57, signed into law July 24, 1998) which conforms the New Jersey gross income tax treatment of Roth IRAs to the Federal treatment.

Like any other IRA, contributions to a Roth IRA are not excludable for New Jersey income tax purposes. However, unlike other IRAs, "qualified distributions" from a Roth IRA are excludable. That is, qualified distributions do not have to be included in New Jersey gross income in the year received.

A “qualified distribution” is one that is made after the five-tax-year period beginning with the first taxable year in which a contribution was made to an individual’s IRA, and which is:

1. Made on or after the date on which the individual reaches age 59½; or
2. Made to a beneficiary (or the individual’s estate) after the individual’s death; or
3. Made because the individual becomes disabled; or
4. Made as a qualified first-time home buyer distribution as defined by the Internal Revenue Code.

A payment or distribution will not be treated as a qualified distribution if it is made within the five-tax-year period which begins with the year the first contribution was made to the Roth IRA. Likewise, a payment or distribution of an allowable rollover contribution (or income earned on the amount rolled over) from an IRA other than a Roth IRA, is not a qualified distribution if it is made within the five-tax-year period which begins with the year in which the rollover contribution was made.

In the case of a nonqualified distribution from a Roth IRA, the distributed earnings are reportable as income for New Jersey purposes.

For information on New Jersey’s treatment of converting an existing IRA to a rollover Roth IRA, see New Jersey State Tax News, Vol. 27, Number 1, Spring 1998.

The Division of Taxation has prepared a Technical Bulletin, TB-44, Roth IRAs, which discusses the topic in greater detail. 1998 Package NJX

Order forms for the 1998 edition of Package NJX were mailed in August to those who subscribed in 1997. Designed primarily for tax preparers, Package NJX contains those reproducible New Jersey tax forms most widely used by tax professionals.

The CD-ROM version of this year’s edition (called NJX PLUS) has been expanded to include a variety of tax information literature published by the Division of Taxation: several years of the Division’s quarterly newsletter, the New Jersey State Tax News, as well as the Annual Report and many other tax information bulletins issued by the Division. The NJX PLUS CD-ROM is priced at $15.00 per disk.

The printed version of Package NJX, consisting of approximately 450 three-hole punched loose-leaf pages, continues to be available at $7.00 per copy. Specially designed Package NJX 3-ring binders, large enough to accommodate the printed version, may be ordered separately at $7.00 apiece. (Binders do not include the Package NJX loose leaf content pages.) Prices include shipping and handling.

If you haven’t yet ordered the 1998 Package NJX (printed version), NJX binder or NJX PLUS CD-ROM and wish to do so, complete the order blank on page 27 of this issue and send it with your payment to:

Small Business Workshops

New Jersey entrepreneurs can receive free assistance from the Division of Taxation. The Division sponsors workshops explaining tax obligations geared for new businesses. The workshops will cover the following topics:

- Registering with the State of New Jersey
- Meeting Employer Responsibilities
- Reporting Business Income
- Filing Sales and Use Tax Returns

Division personnel will explain the proper procedure for collecting and remitting tax. Division personnel will also discuss the various types of business ownership and the tax consequences of each one. The session concludes with a discussion of the Sales and Use Tax describing what is taxable and what is exempt from the tax.

Taxation Representatives at New Jersey State Fair

Annie Sanfilippo (Compliance) and Patricia Douglas (Unclaimed Property) are just two of the many Division employees who assisted taxpayers at the New Jersey State Fair, which was recently held at the Garden State Park in Cherry Hill. For ten days Division employees distributed publications, answered tax questions, and made online adjustments to taxpayer accounts when necessary. In addition to having access to the Division's Home Page, Division employees helped taxpayers determine whether they held claim to any of the unclaimed property held by the State by performing look ups on their database.

Participants receive appropriate forms and brochures for their own use. Additionally, each attendee receives a Small Business Workshop resource manual that reviews each topic and provides easy to follow examples.

Workshops are held throughout the State in conjunction with the Internal Revenue Service. Sessions run from 9:00 a.m. to 4:00 p.m., with the Division of Taxation presentation in the afternoon. If you wish to find out more about the Small Business Workshops, or would like to sign up for the fall sessions, call the Internal Revenue Service at: 1-800-829-1040 or the Division of Taxation's Taxpayer Hotline at: 609-588-2200. Dates and locations for the six Small Business Workshops scheduled for the 1998 fall season are listed below.

Division's E-Mail Volume Grows

In recognition of the popularity of the Internet and the ever-increasing use by the public of e-mail, the Division's Technical Services Activity established an e-mail address in 1996. The e-mail address provides a fast and convenient way for the public to request information and correspond with the Division. The substantial use of e-mail by the public at large had an immediate impact on the mix of taxpayer correspondence received by the Division. The Taxpayer Services Branch responded to more than 2,900 e-mail inquiries in the 1998 fiscal year. This was up 500% from the slightly more than 600 e-mail responses sent in 1997. While not all tax matters or requests can be resolved by e-mail, this option can be used in the majority of cases.

The Branch receives e-mail of a varied and technical nature which sometimes requires in-depth research and/or rerouting to other Division branches or specialists. This, along with the volume of e-mail received, does not always allow an immediate reply. Even so, the convenience and cost savings plus the advantage of a shorter response time continues to make e-mail a popular option.

HOMESTEAD REBATE
Rebate Checks
Issued July 31

Approximately 1.2 million New Jersey residents received homestead rebates totaling $304 million soon after the July 31 mailing.

“These checks are important sources of much-needed income for eligible citizens of New Jersey,” said Governor Christie Whitman.

Eligible recipients include senior citizens who are 65 years of age or older, residents who are blind or disabled, and those under age 65 who earned $40,000 or less for the 1997 tax year.

Senior citizens over age 65 and those who are blind or disabled with gross incomes of $70,000 or less are eligible for rebates up to $500 if they are homeowners or tenants. Residents in this category making between $70,000 and $100,000 would receive $100 if they are homeowners and $35 if they are tenants. Residents making more than $100,000 are not eligible for rebates.

Nondisabled taxpayers who are under age 65 with gross incomes up to $40,000 are eligible for rebates of $90 if they are homeowners and $30 if they are tenants.

One of the qualifications for the homestead rebate is that property taxes be paid on the applicant’s principal residence, either directly or through rent. Thus, New Jersey residents living in dwellings which are not subject to local property tax are not eligible for the rebate.

The 1997 tax year marked the second phase of the property tax deduction/credit program. Claimants who were 65 years of age or older or blind or disabled, and who did not have to file a 1997 New Jersey income tax return (Form NJ-1040) because their gross income was below the income filing threshold will have a property tax credit of $37.50 ($18.75 for married persons filing separately with the same residence) added to their homestead rebate check.

New Jersey taxpayers who are eligible to receive homestead rebates, and have not received them, can call the State’s automated Homestead Rebate InfoLine from a Touch-tone telephone at 1-800-323-4400 (within New Jersey only) or 609-588-2525 (anywhere) to check on the status of their rebate applications. Callers must provide information from their rebate applications when using the InfoLine. □

Enforcing Use Tax

Since the State cannot compel the collection of sales taxes by most nonresident vendors, it must rely on compensating use taxes to protect home-State vendors from unfair competition and protect the tax base. Therefore, the Sales and Use Tax Act also requires a purchaser residing in New Jersey to pay a use tax whenever he or she purchases taxable goods or services for use in New Jersey where the vendor does not legally collect the sales tax. This generally occurs in mail-order situations and in cases when the purchaser visits an out-of-State vendor to place an order that is subsequently mailed or shipped into New Jersey. Each of the 47 states that has a sales tax also has a use tax.

Under New Jersey law, “Use” is defined as the exercise of any right or power over property by the purchaser. This includes receiving or storing property for any length of time. The use tax is due and payable within 20 days of the date that the consumer takes possession of the items in New Jersey. The Use Tax remittance form (Form ST-18) is available upon request from the New Jersey Division of Taxation at 609-588-2200.

Interstate vendors sometimes state to their nonresident customers that “the purchase price is the bottom line” when a delivery is made out-of-State. While these vendors may follow the letter of the law as far as not collecting sales tax for a neighbor state in which they are not authorized to do so, the zeal with which they pursue a sale can result in their customers incurring a use tax liability without being aware of it. Customers often assume that any tax due is paid to the vendor at the time of purchase. A vendor whose interest is in closing a sale may not take it upon himself to educate a potential customer on the topic of use tax.

The interest rate assessed on amounts due for the third quarter of 1998 is 11.50%.

The assessed interest rate history for the last eight quarters is listed below.

The Division's Field Investigations Branch occasionally intercepts delivery trucks entering New Jersey. Investigators review copies of the delivery invoices to determine the name and location of the purchaser and also to determine if the appropriate sales tax has been paid. New Jersey residents who have purchased items but failed to pay the sales tax are subsequently contacted by the Division's Compliance Services Branch. The residents are given the opportunity to pay the use tax without penalty and interest. Those consumers who fail to respond may be subject to an arbitrary assessment of the use tax plus penalties and interest as mandated by law.

New Jersey residents who purchase furniture from out-of-State vendors are urged to retain receipts and any other documentation related to the purchase in the event they are contacted by the Division.

New Jersey residents who purchase taxable goods or services from out-of-State vendors should voluntarily remit the use tax on an ST-18 or the line provided on the New Jersey Income Tax Resident Return, Form NJ-1040. □

New Registration Process

New Jersey is about to introduce a new business registration form. The New Jersey Business Registration Package (NJ-REG-P) allows businesses to complete their initial tax and employer registrations through the use of a single registration form. The new form also allows a business that desires corporation or limited partnership status to submit their tax/ employer registration along with their original certificate of incorporation or formation.

In addition to providing a streamlined "One-Stop" approach to business registration, the new NJ-REG will enable the State to automatically distribute data to all concerned agencies. Specifically, once data is entered into the State's registration system, all related databases in the Departments of Treasury and Labor will be updated.

An important feature of the new NJ-REG package is the Request for Change of Registration Information, Form REG-C-L. Like the consolidated registration, the REG-C-L will enable businesses to notify the State of any changes in business identification, ownership, status, and activity with a single form.

The new NJ-REG package is scheduled to be implemented during the fall of 1998. For updated information, visit the Division of Revenue's home page at: <http://www.state.nj.us/treasury/revenue>

New Registration Process

Single point of information collection. Multiple service options for business entities. Extensive data base sharing and integration.

Change in Payroll Tax Reporting

Employers and professionals who handle payroll activities for businesses will notice some changes in New Jersey's reporting form. The Division of Taxation's "Quarterly Return of Gross Income Tax Withheld" (NJ-941/NJ-941-W) forms and the Department of Labor/Division of Employer Accounts' "Quarterly Contribution Report" (UC-27) form will be consolidated into one new form, "Employer's Quarterly Report" (Form NJ-927/NJ-927-W). Employers will submit one report and one check to the Division of Revenue in the Department of the Treasury to satisfy their reporting requirements with both agencies. Employers will receive their first NJ-927 reports by early October for the third quarter filing which will be due October 30, 1998.

The new forms will contain a new taxpayer identification number which will consist of the 9-digit Federal Employer Identification Number (FEIN) and a 3-digit suffix for State use. The Department of Labor will no longer require a separate New Jersey registration number for unemployment and disability purposes. Employers need only provide their new State taxpayer identification number on W-2 forms issued to employees for 1998. Employers must, however, continue to report amounts withheld from employees' wages for workforce development fund/unemployment insurance/health care subsidy fund (WD/UI/HC) and disability insurance (DI) on the W-2. □

CORPORATION TAX New Jersey QSSS Apportionment

The Division has received several inquiries recently concerning the method of apportioning income for the parent company of a New Jersey Qualified Subchapter S Subsidiary (QSSS). As indicated in the Division's Winter 1997 State Tax News article, QSSSs became recognized for New Jersey purposes beginning with the 1997 return year.

It is the Division's position that, as with the case of the assets, liabilities, income and deductions of the QSSS flowing through to the parent corporation, so too will the respective factor attributes of the QSSS flow through to the parent's property, receipts and payroll factors. This treatment will provide the degree of factor representation necessary to accord each QSSS with an equivalency similar to that of a division. □

CORPORATION TAX Interest Charges Between Related Parties

Section N.J.S.A. 54:10A-10 of the Corporation Business Tax Act permits the Director of the Division of Taxation to make redeterminations and adjustments when taxpayer's accounting principles or business conduct result in a distortion of entire net income or allocation.

Regulation N.J.A.C. 18:7-5.10 explains the basic standard that the Division employs. It is that a fair and reasonable tax is the tax that would have been paid by a taxpayer reporting the same transactions on a separate entity basis where the parties to the transaction(s) had independent economic interests.

One area where the Division is discovering problems on audit is loans and advances between related parties, including stockholders. Pursuant to N.J.S.A. 54:10A-10(b) and N.J.A.C. 18:7-5.10(a)5 interest should be charged on loans or advances made by one related party to another from the day after the debt arises until it is satisfied. Interest free loans and advances will not be permitted. Interest on intercompany trade receivables need not be charged before the first day of the third calendar month.

If the creditor is regularly engaged in the business of making loans or advances, that same unrelated interest rate as charged independent parties should be charged to related entities. Where the creditor is not in the business of loaning money or making advances, either an arm's length rate based on the facts and circumstances or a safe haven rate is acceptable. However, the safe haven rule does not apply to any loan or advance in which the interest or principal amount is expressed in a currency other than U.S. dollars.

For interest paid or accrued on a loan or advance, a safe haven rate is one that is between 100% and 130% of the Applicable Federal Rate (AFR) as determined under Internal Revenue Code Section 1274(d) in effect on the date that the loan or advance is made. Adjustments for inadequate interest would be made at 100% of the

AFR and adjustments for excessive interest would be made at 130% of the AFR. In the case of a sale-leaseback transaction, the lower limit would be 110% of the AFR. In determining the rate of interest actually charged on a written loan or advance, any original issue discount included in income by the lender or any bond premium deducted by the lender is to be taken into account.

If the Division, upon audit, discovers a distortion because interest was improperly charged between related parties, it will make a redetermination creating or shifting interest income and interest expenses to effect a fair and reasonable tax. □

SALES AND USE TAX Motor Vehicle Casual Sales

The Casual Sales Unit, in conjunction with the Division of Motor Vehicles, insures the correct sales tax is paid on the transfers of motor vehicles and vessels. Sales of aircraft are also examined for the correct payment of sales tax.

The term casual sales refers to those transactions that are isolated or occasional sales of property which originally had been obtained for the use by the person or entity who is not regularly engaged in making retail sales of vehicles or vessels. Tax on these transactions is paid when the purchaser registers the motor vehicle at the Division of Motor Vehicles. When the vehicle is registered a "Report of Sales Tax on Motor Vehicle/Vessel" (LS-240) is submitted by the purchaser to DMV from which sales tax is calculated. The information is reviewed to certify whether sales tax appears to have been paid on the actual purchase price. When an exemption from tax is claimed or a purchase price far below fair market value for the vehicle as published in the N.A.D.A. Official Used Car Guide is indicated, the Casual Sales Section will question this transaction and send the purchaser a Notice of Inquiry. The purchaser must complete the questionnaire on the back of the notice and submit documentation verifying the claim for exemption or the lower purchase price. These responses are due within 30 days of the date of the inquiry notice.

As of the close of Fiscal Year 1998 over $1.6 million has been collected in underpaid sales tax. □

Sale or Transfer of Business

It appears that there exists some confusion regarding notification to the Division of Taxation where a business enters into an agreement to sell any part or the whole of the business assets other than in the ordinary course of business.

Although the Bulk Transfers Section of the Uniform Commercial Code, Chapter 6 of Title 12A of the New Jersey Statutes N.J.S.A. 12A:6 and N.J.S.A. 12A:9-111 were repealed on January 10, 1995, purchasers of such business assets/businesses are required to notify the Division of the impending transfer (including liquor license transfers).

N.J.S.A. 54:32B-22(c) provides that: "Whenever a person required to collect tax shall make a sale, transfer, or assignment in bulk of any part or the whole of his business assets, otherwise than in the ordinary course of business, the purchaser, transferee, or assignee shall at least 10 days before taking possession of the subject of said sale, transfer, or assignment, or paying therefor, notify the Director by Registered Mail of the proposed sale and of the price, terms, and conditions thereof...."

Whenever the purchaser shall fail to give notice to the Director or whenever the Director shall inform the purchaser that a possible claim for such tax or taxes exists, any sums of money, property or other consideration which the purchaser is required to transfer over to the seller shall be subject to a first priority right and lien for any such taxes theretofore or thereafter determined to be due from the seller to the State.

The purchaser is forbidden to transfer to the seller any such sums of money or property to the extent of the amount of the State's claim. For failure to comply with the provisions of this section the purchaser shall be personally liable for the payment to the State of any such taxes theretofore or thereafter determined to be due to the State from the seller and such liability may be assessed and enforced in the same manner as the liability for tax under this act.

Notification of the impending Sale, Transfer or Assignment in Bulk should be made utilizing Form C-9600, with a copy of the contract of sale attached thereto. Requests for Form C-9600 can be made as follows:

GROSS INCOME TAX

Enclosures With Returns

A taxpayer with the responsibility to file as a New Jersey resident for the first time on a 1997 NJ-1040 return inquired about the enclosures required to be supplied with the return.

The following items are to be enclosed when the return is filed to explain the calculation of the amount of income shown on the return:

1. All W-2s, wage and tax statements.
2. All Federal Schedule Cs, C-EZs, or Fs.
3. All Schedule NJK-1s, Form NJ-1065, or if no Schedule NJK-1s were issued, Federal Schedule K-1s.
4. New Jersey Schedule B, Net Gains or Income from Disposition of Property.
5. New Jersey Schedule C, Net Gain or Income from Rents, Royalties, Patents and Copyrights.
6. All Schedule NJ-K-1s, Form CBT 100S, or if no Schedule NJ-K-1s were issued, Federal Schedule K-1s, Form 1120S.
7. All 1099-G forms for gambling winnings.
8. All Federal Schedule K-1 forms from estates and/or trusts.
9. All other Form 1099s received from pensions, annuities, prizes, real estate sales, or other income sources.
10. Copies of all tax returns filed with other states or jurisdictions for which a credit for income or wage taxes paid has been claimed.
11. Copies of any other Federal schedule which supports New Jersey income amounts.

Also, should the amount of any item of income reported on the

New Jersey return differ considerably from the amount reported on the Federal return, a schedule showing the reconciliation of the two amounts must be furnished. For example, since tax exempt interest and dividend income amounts vary on the State and Federal returns, copies of the year-end statement and State percentage breakdown analysis will support the reconciliation schedule.

INHERITANCE/ESTATE TAX Inheritance Tax Waivers

Upon the death of a New Jersey resident, a statutory lien of the State of New Jersey over much of the decedent's property is activated. These liens are automatically imposed by provisions of the statutes and must be released by a written "Consent to Transfer" signed by the Director of the Division of Taxation. These releases are more commonly known as "Waivers."

A waiver is required for any New Jersey real estate in which the decedent held an interest, except real estate held by the decedent and a surviving spouse as "Tenants by the Entirety." Property held in this manner is not subject to tax and need not be reported.

A waiver is also required for the release of funds on deposit in banking institutions in the State of New Jersey which are in the name of decedent alone or in the name of decedent with others. However, in order to permit partial administration of an estate as early as possible, the proper estate representative may withdraw, without a

waiver, as much as 50 percent of any funds on deposit for immediate estate use and up to 100 percent of the remaining funds on deposit by check made payable to "N.J. Transfer Inheritance Tax."

During the past 13 years there have been many changes in the administration of the transfer inheritance tax in this State. Spouses, children, grandchildren, parents, grandparents, and other Class "A" beneficiaries have become completely exempt from the transfer inheritance tax. Brothers, sisters, sons-in-law and daughters-in-law have been granted an exemption in the amount of $25,000 each. New forms, policies, and procedures have been adopted in order to facilitate compliance with transfer inheritance tax requirements and many additional administrative changes have been made. However, contrary to some misconception, any waiver requirements that existed prior to these changes continue to be valid statutory requirements subsequent to changes.

The Transfer Inheritance Tax Branch continues to observe delinquent tax plus interest being paid by attorneys, CPAs, title companies, banking institutions, etc. who were negligent in failing to obtain a proper waiver for the transfer of decedent's assets. A significant portion of this type violation does not surface until real estate is sold many years after the date of the decedent's death. The additional avoidable interest penalty of 10 percent per annum from eight months after date of death becomes an added financial burden.

The Division of Taxation advises preparers of transfer inheritance tax returns and estate representatives to be extremely conscious of waiver requirements and to exercise due care. There are no acceptable excuses for non-compliance.

Further information and guidance may be obtained by calling the taxpayer information section of the Transfer Inheritance Tax Branch at 609-292-5033, 292-5035, 292-7147 or 777-4559. □

DIVISION OPERATIONS

Taxpayer Acct'g

In its most simple terms, the Mission Statement of the Taxpayer Accounting Branch is to review bills and refunds and answer taxpayer correspondence, so that taxpayers can pay what they owe, receive what is due to them, and correct any errors in their accounts.

Most bills and refunds are automatically computer-generated. Some may be flagged for manual review based on certain predetermined criteria, which is in place to filter out erroneous bills and refunds before they are sent out to taxpayers. These flagged bills and refunds are what the Taxpayer Accounting Branch reviews and attempts to correct.

Occasionally insufficient refunds or improper bills are sent to taxpayers. When a taxpayer disputes a billing or discovers a discrepancy with the amount of refund received, their correspondence is sent to the Taxpayer Accounting Branch. All letters sent by taxpayers in response to any notices are reviewed. When the information necessary to correct the account is received from the taxpayer, Taxpayer Accounting staff adjusts the account and notifies the taxpayer that the problem has been resolved.

When a taxpayer responds to a notice or corresponds with the Division, it is very important that they provide as much information as possible both as to the identity of the taxpayer and the nature of the problem. In order for the Taxpayer Accounting Branch to adequately respond to or request additional information from the taxpayer all correspondence should include:

1. The full name and identification number of the taxpayer as it appears on the Division's notice;
2. The tax type and period in question;
3. The nature of the problem;
4. The taxpayer's phone number; and
5. Current address.

When a taxpayer or his representative responds to a notice, the correspondence should be sent to the Post Office Box shown on the notice. This insures that the office that sent the notice and is best suited to respond to the taxpayer's letter receives the correspondence.

In Fiscal Year 1998 Taxpayer Accounting personnel:

- Responded to more than 135,000 pieces of correspondence;
- Reviewed nearly 57,000 bills and almost 52,000 refunds;
- Collected more than $4.9 million; and

- Made just under 227,000 adjustments or corrections to accounts. □

Unclaimed Property

Any holder who is in possession of unclaimed property, which is reportable to the State of New Jersey, should comply with the unclaimed property laws. Holders consist of all types of businesses, such as: banks, financial institutions, insurance companies, retail and manufacturing companies, service companies, public institutions, including courts, municipalities, governmental subdivisions and agencies, public corporations or authorities. Non-profit entities, as well as hospitals, utilities, estates, trusts, and any other legal or commercial entity are also required to annually report unclaimed property.

Unclaimed Property consists of any financial asset, tangible or intangible, that has been unclaimed by its rightful owner for a specific period of time. The property is due to the state of the last known address; if the address is unknown, the property is due to the state of incorporation.

Unclaimed property is not a tax or an additional liability to business. Unclaimed property is the result of a loss of communication with the rightful owner.

Each state and the District of Columbia has an unclaimed or abandoned property law. It is each state's responsibility to administer its law accordingly. The goal of the unclaimed property offices is to collect, record, and safeguard unclaimed property and to reunite the property with the rightful owner and/or heirs.

Holders are required to report and submit the property before November 1. Insurance companies are required to report and submit the property before May 1.

Holders have an opportunity to turn over unclaimed property which is past due to the State of New Jersey without incurring any interest and penalties, if the property is reported and remitted before November 1, 1998.

In order to obtain forms and more information about unclaimed property the holder can contact Massi Calcagno at 609-984-5214 and Steven Harris at 609-777-4655 or write to:

LOCAL PROPERTY TAX Income Limits for Tax Deduction

When calculating the annual $10,000 income limitation allowable in preapproving 1999 and affirming 1998 Property Tax

Deductions, the maximum Social Security amount excludable has been established at $16,132. This maximum is to govern the amount of pension, disability or retirement income to be excluded pursuant to Chapter 129, P.L. 1976 and was compiled from information received from the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services, Social Security Administration.

Further information on this subject, along with examples showing the correct computation for determining the income limitation, was mailed to all assessors, collectors, and county tax board commissioners and administrators in early July. □

LOCAL PROPERTY TAX Disabled Veterans' Exemption

State funding of the Disabled Veteran Retroactive Refund Program (filing deadline March 31, 1998), was a one-time appropriation for fiscal year 1998. The State is not, at present, reimbursing municipalities for the cost of granting such exemptions on an ongoing basis. Procedures outlined by N.J.S.A. 54:4-3.30 for determining eligibility, granting the exemption, and considering prior year refunds have not been changed by the D.V.R.R. initiative. □

DIVISION OPERATIONS New Region for Field Investigations

The Field Investigations Branch recently created a fifth region. Previously there were four geographic regions: Newark (Region A), Fair Lawn/Somerville (Region B), Mercerville/Camden (Region C) and Sea Girt/Northfield (Region D). In July 1998, a "functional region" for Field Investigations was formed. This new region is comprised of investigators from the existing field offices. One of its primary focuses will be the enforcement of Nexus issues.

"Nexus" is the business connection an out-of-State business has with New Jersey. Nexus creates the requirement of the foreign business to collect and remit New Jersey taxes. An out-of-State business delivering goods into New Jersey in its own vehicle constitutes nexus with New Jersey. These businesses are required to collect and remit New Jersey sales tax. Out-of-State contractors must withhold New Jersey income tax from their employees working in this State.

The new regional unit will investigate non-registered contractors, furniture companies, lawn maintenance businesses and the like crossing the New Jersey border and engaging in taxable sales. The enforcement of nexus issues helps to level the playing field between businesses competing for jobs and contracts in New Jersey. Another area of concentration is cash-based businesses. The enforcement unit observes businesses first-hand and gathers available third-party information from wholesalers. This surveillance allows for more accurate audit assessments by gathering data that may not be readily available to an auditor by examining a company's books.

A third concentration is "special projects" such as the collection of use tax. Use tax is imposed and paid on goods and services on which sales tax was not collected or collected at a rate less than New Jersey's sales tax rate (currently 6%). Some examples of use tax issues to be investigated are:

- Contractors who purchase materials out-of-State without paying sales tax owe use tax to New Jersey once the materials are used in construction in this State;
- An item purchased with a resale certificate which is taken out of inventory for personal use;
- Goods and services purchased out-of-State for use in New Jersey and no sales tax was collected;
- Boats or other watercraft bought outside of New Jersey with no sales tax paid.

The primary goal of the new region's teams is to increase compliance with New Jersey's tax laws by businesses based outside of this State but who come into New Jersey and compete with New Jersey-based retailers, contractors and other businesses. Gaining uniform compliance benefits all of New Jersey's taxpayers. □

Criminal Enforcement

Criminal Enforcement over the past several months included:

- On April 13, 1998, Lawrence Rada, formerly of Howell, NJ, entered a guilty plea to one count of attempted theft by deception. Mr. Rada's plea before Superior Court Judge Hull, Jr. in Monmouth County was based on the filing of a fraudulent 1993 New Jersey Gross Income Tax return wherein a refund in the amount of $13,552.00 was claimed. The investigation revealed that Mr. Rada had submitted a false W-2 form with the tax return. Mr. Rada faces a maximum jail sentence of 5 years and fines of $7,500. He is currently under house arrest for 10 months and is serving a 3 year probationary period for similar crimes prosecuted by Federal authorities.
- On April 16, 1998, in Municipal Court, Jersey City, Lasarev Kirkorian, of Englewood Cliffs, NJ, pleaded guilty to failing to file tax returns and failing to remit $7,331.61 in Motor Fuel Tax for the period March 1996 through September 1997 at Sunny's Mobil Service, Jersey City. He was fined $810 and restitution of the total amount of tax was paid subsequent to April 16, 1998. This case was part of the Division of Taxation's Motor Fuel Delinquency/ Deficiency Project.
- On April 27, 1998, in Superior Court, Mercer County, Russell Cerminara of Cherry Hill, NJ, pleaded guilty to theft of $155,308 in NJ Petroleum Gross Receipts Tax that was collected by a group of ten conspirators on the sale of diesel fuel between October 1992 and June 1993. Cerminara is the fourth of ten defendants to plead guilty in this case, which was known as Operation Boilermaker. Cerminara acted as a salesman, lining up gas stations and truckstops as customers for the group, and he was aware that the tax was being collected from the customers and not remitted. This case was investigated jointly by OCI and the New Jersey Division of Criminal Justice, and was prosecuted by the Division of Criminal Justice.

- On June 3, 1998, members of OCI participated with New York City Department of Finance, Office of Tax Enforcement in a search warrant, executed at the residence of a suspected cigarette tax indicia counterfeiter in Queens, NY. That search warrant resulted in the discovery of a significant number of NJ counterfeit cigarette tax stamps. NYC/OTE personnel arrested the subject and have filed charges in Queens County, NY. A subsequent sweep in the City of Newark and parts of Hudson County was conducted to see if the counterfeit indicia found in the NYC/OTE search warrant had made its way to NJ; no evidence of those stamps was found.

- The Division's Motor Fuel Delinquency/Deficiency Project was completed in June. This project started by identifying eighty (80) taxpayer locations, using criteria relating to non-filing of Special Fuel Returns. The eighty (80) locations were visited and resulted in the identification of one hundred and thirty-nine (139) taxpayers who operated retail diesel stations at these sites during the past two (2) year period. Eighty-one (81) of these taxpayers had violations concerning filing, payments, and/or licenses. Over $1,661,000 in unreported taxes was identified and assessed. Thirteen (13) taxpayers with liabilities totaling over $1,555,000 will be criminally prosecuted. The success of the project was due to the cooperative efforts of numerous units within the Division, including Investigations, the Excise Group, Audit and OCI.
- Sixteen guilty pleas for thirteen cases were entered in municipal courts throughout the State by individuals and businesses for noncompliance with the cigarette tax and motor fuels laws. These thirteen cases resulted in the imposition of fines and penalties totaling $13,063 and the forfeiture of 766 cartons of contraband cigarettes to the State of New Jersey.
- Seventy-eight charges were filed in municipal court on thirty cases for violating the cigarette tax law including possession of 5,140.7 cartons of contraband cigarettes, valued at $128,517.50. Three cases involved the arrest of three individuals from out of State, who were transporting Virginia stamped cigarettes. The arrest took place on the NJ Turnpike by New Jersey State Police. The individuals were remanded to Salem County Jail in lieu of $25,000 bail, each. In another case, Samuel R. Garcia and Jose Danilo Ramos Quintero, both of New York City, were arrested by the New Jersey State Police for transporting 2,082 cartons of untaxed contraband cigarettes. In addition to the charges of possession, transportation of contraband cigarettes, failure to have the required licenses, failure to have invoices in their possession, the vehicle used by the pair in the transportation was seized by our office pending a forfeiture hearing. □

Enforcement Summary

Civil Collection Actions Quarter Ending - June 30, 1998

Following is a summary of enforcement actions for the quarter ending June 30, 1998.

Certificates of Debt

During the quarter ended June 30, 1998, the Division filed 4,004 Certificates of Debt in New Jersey Superior Court. These CODs, which have the same force and effect as docketed judgments, totaled $44.3 million.

Levies

$124,451.60 was collected by levying against payments made under State contracts to satisfy debts owed by State vendors.

Jeopardy Assessments

When a vendor is found to have failed to register his or her business or failed to collect and remit sales taxes or file tax returns, the Division of Taxation has the authority to make an immediate, on-site assessment of tax due (referred to as a "jeopardy assessment") and may seize all available assets to satisfy the on-site tax assessment.

The Division makes jeopardy assessments when there is a danger that a non-compliant vendor will discontinue operations, remove his or her business property and flee the State. This remedy is often necessary in cases involving transient vendors, out-of-State businesses operating in New Jersey, or vendors operating from non-fixed locations, such as roadside sales, flea markets or trade shows.

If the liability is not resolved, the seized property can be sold at public auction and the proceeds used to satisfy the tax debt.

For the quarter ending June 30, 1998, $119,431 was collected from jeopardy assessments.

Seizures

For the quarter ending June 30, 1998, property of 65 businesses was seized. Some businesses were able to reopen, others remain closed. A listing of these seizures appears on pages 15-19.

Auctions

If the liability of a business seized by the Division is not satisfied or resolved, the business will remain closed. To satisfy the debt, the Division can sell the business assets at a public auction.

During the quarter ending June 30, 1998 twenty-two (22) auctions were held by the Division. A listing appears on page 19.

In the event an auction does not net enough monies to resolve the debt, the Division will execute against the personal assets of any of the business's responsible officers. Responsible officers are held personally liable for the trust fund portion of the debt which includes, but is not limited to, sales tax, withholding tax and motor fuels tax.

Referrals to Attorney General

In cases where the Division has exhausted its administrative remedies without success, referrals are made to the Office of the Attorney General. During the quarter ending June 30, 1998, 408 such cases were referred to the Attorney General's office for additional collection.

Together, the Division's Referral Group and the Attorney General's Collection Unit have collected over $4.8 million during Fiscal Year 1998.

Liquor License Program

Under State law, applicants for renewal or transfer of a liquor license must receive a certificate of tax clearance from the Division. This program began in 1996 with seven counties. Seven new counties were added to the program in 1997. Currently all twenty-one counties are reviewed.

During the quarter ending June 30, 1998, 257 notifications of liquor license transfer were received by the Division's Bulk Sales section. Twelve (12) audits relating to this project and previously requested were completed; assessments from these audits totaled $609,190. □

Corporation Business Tax

IRC 332 Liquidation — The Division received a request for confirmation that for Corporation Business Tax purposes New Jersey recognizes a tax-free liquidation pursuant to IRC 332 - Complete Liquidation of Subsidiaries; generally no gain or loss shall be recognized on the receipt by a corporation of property distributed in complete liquidation of another corporation. In the particular inquiry both the parent company and its wholly-owned subsidiary are incorporated under the laws of New Jersey and each files a Form CBT-100.

N.J.A.C. 18:7-5.4 provides: "(a) No adjustment to Federal taxable income is permitted under this rule for: 1. Gains or losses not recognized for Federal income tax purposes under Section 351 or similar sections of the Internal Revenue Code but only to the extent that recapture of other provisions of the code are not paramount to these sections."

This regulatory section supports the position that New Jersey is following the Federal rule recognizing tax-free liquidations under IRC 332. When a parent corporation completely liquidates an 80% owned subsidiary, the parent shareholder does not recognize gain or loss on the liquidating distributions when certain requirements are met.

A short period return will be required for the liquidating subsidiary, and it will be required to obtain a Tax Clearance Certificate.

Gross Income Tax

Alimony Paid to Nonresident — The Division responded to an inquiry as to whether alimony paid by a New Jersey resident to a non-New Jersey resident is taxed by New Jersey.

The Division replied that a nonresident is subject to tax only on New Jersey source income under N.J.S.A. 54A:5-8. Alimony is not one of the categories of income that is sourced to New Jersey under that statute. Accordingly, alimony payments made by a New Jersey resident to a nonresident are not taxable by New Jersey.

Sales & Use Tax

Bad Debt Refund — The Division responded to an inquiry regarding the procedure for claiming a refund of sales tax remitted on bad debt accounts.

A vendor's refund claim is governed by the "bad debts" rules, N.J.A.C. 18:24-23.1 et seq., which implement N.J.S.A. 54:32B-12(c) and N.J.S.A. 54:32B-20 of the Sales and Use Tax Act. When a vendor has already remitted the tax due on a sale, but the account receivable proves to be worthless and uncollectible, the vendor may apply for a refund. N.J.A.C. 18:24-23.2. If the vendor collected no payment at all from the customer, the vendor will be allowed a full refund of the sales tax remitted. N.J.A.C. 18:24-23.2(a)1. However, if the vendor collected only part of what the customer owed, but that partial collection amounted to at least the amount of sales tax due and remitted, the vendor will not be entitled to a refund. N.J.A.C. 18:24-23.2(a)2. The regulation makes it clear that any partial payments received by the vendor must first be applied toward the sales tax liability, before it is applied toward the vendor's charges for the merchandise itself. The vendor is not allowed a refund for a portion of the sales tax remitted when the customer's payments were sufficient to cover the sales tax, but fell short of covering the total charges for the merchandise plus tax. The refund claim must be within four years of the date the tax was paid. N.J.S.A. 54:32B-20.

Energy Sales to Exempt Organizations — The Energy Tax Reform Act, P.L. 1997, c.162, imposes New Jersey Sales and Use Tax on the retail sale of natural gas and electricity. The sales and use tax on energy replaces the Gross Receipts and Franchise Tax, which was repealed as of December 31, 1997.

There is no exemption available for purchases of gas and electricity by qualified exempt organizations such as non-profit nursing homes, schools, and churches. N.J.S.A. 54:32B-9(c)(2). However, there is a provision whereby certain consumers are granted a partial sales tax exemption. In order to be eligible for this exemption, the consumer must have purchased natural gas from a non-utility vendor (gas marketer) prior to December 31, 1995. The partial exemption rules require the claimant to file a certification with the New Jersey Division of Taxation.

For additional information, see the Notice to Industrial and Commercial Purchasers of Natural Gas, which is available on the Division's home page.

GAP Insurance — The sale of GAP insurance by the insurance company to an automobile lessor or to a creditor financial institution is viewed as an exempt insurance service transaction. Therefore the premiums paid by the insured to the insurer are not subject to sales and use tax. See N.J.S.A. 54:32B-2(e)(4)(A).

If the insured automobile dealer or financial institution then contracts with a particular customer for an extra amount of money in exchange for either waiving a GAP deficiency or assigning rights under the policy to the lessee, this additional billing is not deemed to be the sale of an "insurance service." It is simply an increase in the taxable lease receipt and is therefore includible in the tax base for purposes of computing the lessor's use tax liability under the lease-payment method. See N.J.S.A. 54:32B-2(d).

Sales by a New Jersey Public Authority — The Division responded to an inquiry regarding the applicability of New Jersey sales and use tax on sales of fertilizer by a New Jersey public utilities authority.

The public utilities authority, which operates regional sewer treatment facilities, converted sludge into organic fertilizer and will be marketing this fertilizer to garden centers, landscapers and other end users.

The New Jersey public utilities authority is a public authority of a political subdivision of the State of New Jersey and its sales are exempt from sales and use taxes "...where it is a vendor...of property of a kind not ordinarily sold by private persons." N.J.S.A. 54:32B-9(a)(1). When the public utilities authority sells fertilizer on a regular, ongoing basis to garden centers, landscapers and other end users, such sales would be subject to tax as this is not property of a kind not ordinarily sold by private persons. Their sales to garden centers (resellers) would be exempt when they receive an ST-3 Resale Certificate to document the exemption. Their sales to end users, including landscapers who as contractors are considered end users, would be taxable. N.J.S.A. 54:32B-2(e).

Taxability of Garage Bay Leases Clarified

— In a recent conference, the imposition of sales tax on the “lease” of garage bays was upheld because the transaction was not considered to be a lease of real property. To be considered an exempt lease of real property for storage purposes the following conditions must be met:

1. The lessee contracts for the possession of real property or an identified, lock-secured compartment in which the lessee holds an exclusive right of use and possession;
2. The lessee has unlimited control of access; and
3. The lessor does not perform any duties involving the storage of tangible personal property by the lessee.

(See New Jersey State Tax News, Vol. 12, No. 6.)

e transactions under review differed from the self-storage warehouse lease transaction in that the lessor maintained direct control over access to the facility and the vintage automobiles stored therein by the lessee. The storage facility is comprised of 10 bays which are not separated by walls. The owner of the facility and/or their employees had to be physically present to unlock the bay to allow the lessee access to their vehicle. The lessor was responsible for damage done to other vehicles during the removal and return of the vehicle.

The lessor maintained a set of keys for all vehicles housed in the facility, and quite often the lessee would request that the lessor remove and wash, change the oil and/or tune up the vehicle being stored. Sales tax was charged and collected on these additional taxable services.

The Sales and Use Tax Act at N.J.S.A. 54:32B-3(b)(3) provides for sales and use tax on the storing of tangible personal property, therefore, based upon the facts in this case, the receipts were not from the exempt “lease” of garage bays but rather were taxable receipts for the storing of tangible personal property under the circumstances of this case. □

In Our Courts

Corporation Business Tax Offset of Overpayment Against Deficiencies of Merged Corporation

— Sea Land Service Inc., v. Director, Division of Taxation, decided May 20, 1998; Supreme Court of New Jersey; No. C-1066 September Term 1997.

The Supreme Court denied petitioner’s, Sea Land Service Incorporated, petition for certification. Previously, the Appellate Division had affirmed the Tax Court’s holding that the surviving corporation’s wholly owned subsidiary’s and parent’s pre-merger Corporation Business Tax (CBT) deficiencies could not be offset against the surviving corporation’s pre-merger CBT overpayments.

Gross Income Tax Credit for Taxes Paid to Other Jurisdiction – Taxes Paid by Non-New Jersey S Corporation – Sutkowski v. Director, Division of Taxation, decided June 15, 1998; Superior Court, Appellate Division; No. A-3725-96T3.

The NJ Gross Income Tax Act provides New Jersey (NJ) residents with a credit for income taxes paid to other states. The formula for calculating the credit is expressed as a fraction:

$$\text{Tax Credit} = \frac{\text{NJ Income Subject to Tax by Another State}}{\text{Entire NJ Income}}$$

The NJ resident taxpayer owned a New York (NY) S corporation which made actual cash distributions to taxpayer in 1991. In 1991, NJ did not recognize S corporation status. Therefore, only the actual distributions of S corporations were considered dividend income to NJ taxpayers for GIT purposes. The taxpayer did not contest that the entire dividend income was included in the denominator “Entire NJ income.” At dispute was whether the NJ taxpayer could claim any of these dividends in the numerator as “NJ income subject to tax by another state” which would result in a tax credit.

The Tax Court held that the taxpayer’s NJ dividend income did not qualify as income taxed by NY because the corporation’s income and the taxpayer’s dividend did not result from the same taxable event. Therefore, the Tax Court ruled that the NJ taxpayer was not entitled to any credit. However, on appeal, the Appellate Division reversed. The Appellate Division held that where the same money is taxed by another state and in NJ for the same tax year, the Legislature intended that the NJ taxpayer receive a credit for taxes paid to the other state.

First, the Appellate Division ruled that NJ dividend income was the same income taxed by NY. The court found that the legislative history enacting the resident credit was concerned only with whether tax was paid on the income and was not focused on either the taxable event or the label placed on the income. Therefore, although the taxpayer's income was labeled dividends, it was derived from the S corporation's income which was taxed in NY and that event thereby entitled the taxpayer to include the dividend in the numerator as "NJ income subject to tax by another state." The court noted that this problem will not recur for tax years commencing after July 7, 1993 because NJ legislation was enacted which recognized the S corporate entity.

Next, the Appellate Division needed to decide how much of the 1991 dividend income was the same 1991 income taxed in NY because the NJ resident credit is only applicable to out-of-State taxes paid in the same tax year. The court found that there was no statute or regulation governing this issue. Therefore, the court ruled that the proper way to determine the source year of the 1991 dividend distribution is to first look to current earnings and profits and then any excess dividends would be attributed to accumulated earnings and profits. The court reasoned that this method most clearly resembles the legislative intent behind the resident credit of avoiding double taxation.

Sales and Use Tax

Lease Receipts – Repair and Maintenance Costs Included Therein – Modern Handling Equipment of New Jersey, Inc. v. Director, Division of Taxation, decided April 6, 1998; Tax Court; No. 000151-97.

Modern Handling Equipment (MHE) is engaged in the business of leasing equipment for commercial purposes. In accordance with the 1989 amendments to the Sales and Use Tax Act, N.J.S.A. 54:32B-2(bb), MHE elected to remit sales tax based on the equipment's purchase price rather than the lessee's lease payments. MHE's leases required the lessee to pay a lump sum monthly fee for the equipment including "all replacement parts, additional repairs and accessories" over a term of years. Sales tax was not charged on any portion of the monthly payment.

In calculating the monthly lease payment, MHE based its charge upon the equipment's purchase price, freight, interest, profit element, and the projected repair and maintenance costs. Two sample leases revealed that the repair and maintenance cost component constituted between 35% and 48% of the total monthly fee. Furthermore, MHE neither assessed additional charges where it underestimated actual repair and maintenance costs nor did it refund over-estimated costs.

Although the Division determined that MHE properly paid sales tax on its equipment purchases, the Division assessed sales tax on the projected repair and maintenance portion of MHE's monthly lease receipts. MHE appealed. The Tax Court ruled that the equipment lease component and the repair and maintenance service component of the transaction are not divisible in this lease situation and therefore the repair and maintenance portion is not subject to sales tax. The Court's analysis focused on the 1989 amendments which designated the lessor (MHE) as the sole statutory user as well as the fact there was no separate agreement for the repair and maintenance portion. Therefore, the Court reasoned that MHE was entitled to protect its investment by maintaining its equipment without additional sales tax liability.

It should be noted that the court stated that its decision might be different if (1) the lessor offered unmaintained equipment, (2) repair and maintenance contracts were separate from the lease agreement, (3) MHE billed its customers for service calls, or (4) MHE had the right to charge customers for the excess of actual repair and maintenance expenses over the projected expenses. □

In Our Legislature

Gross Income Tax

Roth IRAs — P.L. 1998, c.57 (signed into law on July 24, 1998) Amends and supplements N.J.S.A. 54A:5-1 to conform the New Jersey gross income tax treatment of Roth IRAs to the tax treatment such accounts receive for Federal purposes. The Act provides exclusions from New Jersey gross income tax for certain qualified distributions from Roth IRAs and allows four-year reporting of certain taxable distributions. This legislation applies to tax years beginning after December 31, 1997.

Sale of State Tax Indebtedness — P.L. 1998, c.39 (signed into law on June 30, 1998) authorizes the New Jersey State Treasurer to sell all rights, title and interest in any State tax indebtedness and lien represented by a certificate of debt, provided that the underlying indebtedness is fixed, has been finally determined by the Division of Taxation, and is no longer subject to protest or appeal, unless the taxpayer can demonstrate by clear and convincing evidence that the contrary is true. This legislation became effective upon enactment.

Business Employment Incentive Program (Amendment) — P.L. 1998, c.33 (signed into law on June 30, 1998) enhances the availability of program grants for certain partnerships and limited liability companies by permitting grants authorized under the program to be determined based upon the withholding or estimated tax payments (or any combination thereof) of partners and members of limited liability companies as well as upon the withholdings of employees. This legislation became effective upon enactment.

Veteran's Tax Deduction — P.L. 1998, c.49 (signed into law on July 4, 1998) extends certain benefits, including the annual $50 veteran's deduction, to certain participants in Operation "Restore Hope" (Somalia) or Operations "Joint Endeavor" and "Joint Guard" (Bosnia and Herzegovina). This legislation became effective upon enactment. □

Successful FY98

As this newsletter goes to print, we are compiling preliminary end of the year statistics. FY98 was a good year for us with our revenue collections increasing once again. Auditors from our Audit Activity assessed over $264 million during FY98. Investigators from our Compliance Activity collected over $166 million during FY98 (compared to the FY97 total of approximately $121 million). Information currently available shows that the total revenue collected during FY98 was more than $17 billion, an increase of $2 billion over FY97 collections. In addition, the Division provided information to 1.4 million persons who requested assistance by phone or letter. Congratulations to all Division employees for another successful year!

Issuing Exemption Certificates

New Jersey sales tax exemption certificates issued to purchase taxable items without payment of sales tax must be given to the vendors who sold the items. The vendors are required to retain the exemption certificates in their files for a period of at least four years in the event of an audit by the Division of Taxation. Sometimes purchasers, usually new business owners, mistakenly send the exemption certificates to the Division of Taxation rather than to the vendor from whom the purchase was made. A friendly reminder to purchasers: you do not need to send sales tax exemption certificates to this Division. If you do, they will be returned to you with a request to forward them to your supplier.

Paperless Filing Grows

This year over 385,000 New Jersey taxpayers filed paperless State returns. Of these, more than 181,000 were filed via the Division's TeleFile system, an increase of 24% over last year. Taxpayers who used NJ TeleFile received the added bonus of having their refund check mailed within two weeks of their TeleFile call.

For the 1997 tax season, New Jersey was among 19 states that offered TeleFile programs. New Jersey ranked fifth among states in the number of returns TeleFiled.

In keeping with the national trend, more and more New Jersey taxpayers are turning to electronic alternatives when filing their State tax returns. In addition to NJ TeleFile, New Jersey's Electronic Filing (ELF) Program was very successful. As of April 15, over 204,000 taxpayers used Electronic Filing to file both their Federal and State tax returns. This represents an increase of almost 87% from last year. Electronic filing continues to be available to file 1997 returns until October 15.

General Information about New Jersey's TeleFile program is available on the Division's home page:

One Stop Shopping for NJ Businesses

In the State's FY 1999 Budget, Governor Whitman proposed a "One Stop Shopping" initiative to simplify reporting requirements for New Jersey businesses.

The Division of Revenue in the Department of the Treasury will be a single point of entry for registration and for filing and paying gross income tax withheld and other payroll taxes previously sent to the Department of Labor (unemployment, disability, workforce development and health care contributions).

Employers will need to file only one form with the Division of Revenue to register with the Commercial Recording Bureau, the Division of Taxation and the Division of Employer Accounts (formerly UI/DI Financing) in the Department of Labor.

The Division of Employer Accounts and the Division of Taxation will use the same Employer Identification Number. This will mean that New Jersey businesses will need only one number when corresponding with either agency.

The Department of Labor will no longer require a separate NJ registration number for unemployment and disability purposes. The Federal Employer Identification Number will become the basic identifier. The Department already carries this number on its records for over 95% of active employers. The Division of Employer Accounts is in the process of contacting employers without an FEIN in order to obtain this information prior to the changeover.

The Division of Taxation's "Quarterly Return of Gross Income Tax Withheld" (NJ-941 and NJ-941-W) forms and the Division of Employer Accounts' "Quarterly Contribution Report" (UC-27) form will be consolidated into one new form, "Employer's Quarterly Report" (NJ-927). Employers can submit one report and one check to satisfy their reporting requirements with both agencies. Forms UC-27 and NJ-941 will be used only for prior period reporting.

The Division of Employer Accounts' "Employer Report of Wages Paid" (WR-30) will remain a separate form and the data to be reported will remain the same. The form itself is being redesigned in order to make the most efficient use of the Division of Revenue's scanning and imaging equipment.

At the present time, the redesigned WR-30 and the new NJ-927 forms are scheduled to be implemented as of the third quarter of 1998. The new forms will be sent to all employers in advance of implementation.

GROSS INCOME TAX Sale of a Principal Residence

On March 20, 1998, Governor Whitman signed Assembly Bill A-1296, sponsored by Assembly members Michael Carroll (R-Morris) and Scott Garrett (R-Sussex/Hunterdon/Morris) and Senators Bernard Kenny (D-Hudson) and John Adler (D-Camden), which conforms State law to recent changes in Federal laws governing the treatment of capital gains. The legislation updates New Jersey's treatment of capital gains derived from the sale of a principal residence for the purpose of calculating a taxpayer's New Jersey income tax liability.

The legislation provides tax relief by increasing the allowable gross income tax exclusion and enabling additional eligible taxpayers to sell their homes without reporting gains of up to $500,000. The bill increases the allowable gross income tax exclusion to $250,000 for single filers and $500,000 for joint filers. Additionally, the bill broadens the exclusion by making it available to all filers regardless of age, as long as the filer has lived in the residence for two out of the five years prior to the sale. Previous law allowed taxpayers to "roll forward" their capital gains and defer reporting of income, allowing for investment. Previous law had only allowed persons over the age of 55 to exclude $125,000 in capital gains from reportable income.

The bill is based upon an identical Federal law enacted last year. Sales of homes occurring after May 6, 1997 are eligible for the tax relief provided for in this bill. Individuals who have filed their 1997 New Jersey income tax returns and did not take advantage of this change in the law, though eligible to do so, can file an amended return (Form NJ-1040X). □

Reimbursement
Update

The Division of Taxation is continuing to work on the new Property Tax Reimbursement Program. The 1998 applications, which will be mailed to targeted individuals at the end of 1998, will have a filing due date of March 15, 1999. The first reimbursement checks will be mailed to qualified applicants on July 15, 1999. Look for more information in upcoming issues of this publication.

See the related article in the spring 1998 issue of the New Jersey State Tax News for more information on who is eligible to apply for the property tax reimbursement. □

Attention TurboTax Software Users

If you used TurboTax to complete your 1997 New Jersey Income Tax Return/Homestead Rebate Application, the software may not have prompted you to complete a Homestead Rebate Application even if you were eligible to apply for a rebate.

If this is the case, you need to complete an amended Homestead Rebate Application (HR-1040-X) and mail it to us as soon as possible. This form is available on your TurboTax package.

We believe this problem does not exist in the professional preparers' version of this software.

For more information, check TurboTax's Website at:

www.intuit.com/turbotax/

Please be aware that although we will make every attempt to process amended homestead rebate applications as quickly as possible, we cannot guarantee that amended rebate application filers will receive their rebates in the general mailing scheduled for July 31, 1998. □

CORPORATION TAX
Add Back of Taxes

Effective for taxable periods beginning after July 7, 1993, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 18:7-5.2(a)1 the New Jersey tax add back requirement was changed to require all taxes paid or accrued to a possession or territory of the United States, a state, a political subdivision thereof, or the District of Columbia, on or measured by profits or income, or business presence or business activity, including, without limitation, the Michigan Single Business Tax and taxes measured in whole or in part by net taxable capital to be added back to the extent such taxes were deducted in computing Federal taxable income.

Examples of the taxes which now are required to be added back include all other state corporate franchise or income taxes, net worth taxes and gross receipts taxes, local and city income taxes and business occupancy taxes.

Specifically, the New Jersey Litter Tax should also be added back. □

CORPORATION TAX Amended Returns

Form CBT-100-X can be used to amend CBT-100 returns for tax periods ending on or before June 30, 1994. To amend CBT-100 returns for subsequent tax periods, as well as any CBT-100S returns, complete a new return of the same type and tax year that was used to file the initial return and write "AMENDED RETURN" on the front page of the form. □

GROSS INCOME TAX Guaranteed Payments

A New Jersey resident who is a former partner of a large, national accounting firm inquired about the New Jersey Gross Income Tax treatment of the income he receives from the partnership. He also asked whether a credit for taxes paid to other jurisdictions would be allowed.

As part of a contractual agreement with the partnership the taxpayer has received payments since his retirement. The Federal K-1 the taxpayer received from the partnership shows the amounts as guaranteed payments. The retirement guaranteed payments are the only income he receives from the partnership.

Guaranteed payments to a retired partner pursuant to a retirement agreement or pension plan and resulting from a period of service to the partnership are pension or annuity income for New Jersey Gross Income Tax purposes. Pension or annuity income may be reduced by the New Jersey pension exclusion if the taxpayer meets the age requirements.

In the past, New Jersey allowed a credit for taxes paid to another jurisdiction by a New Jersey resident if the other jurisdiction taxed the income as pension or annuity income. For tax years before 1996, states could tax the pension and annuity income of nonresidents. A Federal statute enacted in January 1996 (Title 4, Section 114 U.S.C.) prohibits state taxation of retirement income of nonresidents received after December 31, 1995. Since this Federal provision allows only the state of residence to tax pension or annuity income for tax years 1996 and thereafter, no credit for taxes paid to another jurisdiction is allowed for this income. Even if the other jurisdiction classifies and taxes the guaranteed payments as "partnership income," the taxpayer is not entitled to the credit for taxes paid to other jurisdictions. □

GROSS INCOME TAX Out-of-State Composite Returns

If a New Jersey resident has consented to be included in a composite return in another state, what must be filed with the New Jersey return to be able to claim a refund for credit for taxes paid to another jurisdiction?

Some states allow composite returns to be filed on behalf of nonresident taxpayers by business entities such as partnerships. Participating in a composite return may relieve the nonresident taxpayer from filing an individual nonresident return.

A New Jersey resident participating in a composite return for another state must include with his or her New Jersey return a statement from the entity filing the composite return. The statement, on the letterhead of the entity, must include the taxpayer's share of:

- Gross income allocated to the other jurisdiction.
- The income taxed by the other jurisdiction.
- Tax paid to the other jurisdiction.

If audited, the New Jersey resident may be required to obtain a copy of the canceled check used to pay the liability as reflected on the composite return filed with the other jurisdiction. □

GROSS INCOME TAX Caution to Tax Practitioners

Tax practitioners sometimes neglect to thoroughly review tax returns that have been prepared with the aid of commercial tax preparation software. This usually occurs when the practitioner mistakenly assumes the software package is virtually infallible, making close scrutiny of the finished form unnecessary. Suppositions of this kind can, and often do, result in returns which contain overt errors and/or errors of omission.

The Division reminds tax practitioners that a careful check of all New Jersey tax returns for accuracy before they are submitted to the State, including returns prepared with the aid of commercial tax preparation software packages, will help to reduce the number of filing errors and, in the process, save time, money and inconvenience for everyone involved. □

DIVISION HOME PAGE Online Extensions

During the recent tax season, over 2,600 taxpayers used the Division's home page to request an extension of time to file their 1997 New Jersey personal income tax returns. Last minute taxpayers were able to actually complete a new, interactive version of Form NJ-630 online rather than having to download a hard copy of the extension application from the home page, fill it out and mail it in to the Division. With this enhancement, New Jersey became one of only a handful of states to allow online filing.

Only those taxpayers who were not paying additional tax were eligible to file the NJ-630 extension request via the home page. The Division is currently exploring the possibility of allowing taxpayers who owe taxes to file the NJ-630 extension request online next year.

More and more taxpayers are taking advantage of the Division's home page. This tax season twice as many taxpayers visited our home page compared with the same period last year. Our two millionth "hit" since coming online on February 29, 1996 was recorded in April of 1998. □

INHERITANCE/ESTATE TAX New Life Estate Tables

Pursuant to the Tax Court's decision in La Greca v. Director, 15 N.J. Tax 22 (1995), revised Transfer Inheritance Tax Tables have been published by the Division for valuation of life estates, remainders, and terms for years of transfer inheritance tax purposes. The Tax Court held that these types of valuations should be based on a 6% interest rate and the "most recently available" mortality data rather than on the tables previously used which were based on 1959-61 mortality data.

Transfer Inheritance Tax Tables based upon the mortality data set forth in the U.S. Decennial Life Tables for 1989-91 (Life Tables for Males: United States and Life Tables for Females: United States), have been published by the Division. The 1989-91 U.S. Decennial Life Tables were printed in October 1997 and reflect data based upon the 1990 census.

INHERITANCE/ESTATE TAX Self-Executing Waiver (Form L-8)

Telephone inquiries and other forms of correspondence received by the Transfer Inheritance and Estate Tax Branch indicate that there continues to be some confusion regarding proper use of the self-executing waiver, Form L-8. This is a short synopsis of various conditions regarding the implementation, purpose, and use of Form L-8.

Effective in estates of decedents dying on or after July 1, 1988, all Class "A" transferees became exempt from New Jersey Transfer Inheritance Tax. In order to facilitate the transfer of intangible assets passing to this class transferee, an affidavit of waiver, Form L-8, was designed and adopted by the Division of Taxation.

Class "A" transferees, consisting of a surviving spouse, parent, grandparent, child, grandchild, stepchild, legally adopted child, or a child or children of a decedent's child or legally adopted child may execute Form L-8 where decedent's date of death is on or after July 1, 1988 and, under the terms of the account instrument and applicable State law, the transferee has the right of survivorship or is the named beneficiary. Form L-8 is authorized for use by a surviving spouse in estates of decedents dying on or after January 1, 1985.

Where assets in the name of decedent alone are passing to Class "A" transferees under the terms of a will or laws of interstate distribution, the executor or administrator may execute Form L-8, provided letters testamentary or of administration are attached and made part of the affidavit.

When Form L-8 is executed by the executor of the estate, a copy of decedent's last will and testament must accompany the form. Contrary to the misconception of many, the banking institution is not required to read or interpret the terms of the will. The institution is simply to confirm that the form is complete and is being executed by a qualified individual in compliance with the provisions set forth on the form.

A separate affidavit is required for each institution and for each transferee.

Care should be exercised in the use of Form L-8 to the extent that assets are released only when the form is executed by a qualified individual as defined above.

A brother or sister, son-in-law or daughter-in-law, is not a Class "A" transferee and is not eligible to use Form L-8.

A step-child is the only step-relative who qualifies as a Class "A" transferee and who is eligible to use the form. A step-parent, step-grandparent or step-grandchild is not a Class "A" transferee and cannot use the form.

Form L-8 may not be used to transfer decedent's interest in real property. Form L-9, which is a request for a waiver, has been designed for that purpose.

Form L-8 is available from banks, transfer agents, and from Division of Taxation offices throughout the State.

To the extent that the Division may clarify uncertainties that exist

Construction Industry Review

The Investigations Branch has been reviewing various aspects of the construction industry during the past fiscal year. This includes both new construction and renovations as well as the various property maintenance trades. Some of our initiatives have included the following:

Atlantic City Project Team – A group of investigators working out of the Northfield Office have been involved in a review of various construction projects in the Greater Atlantic City area. Much of this work focuses around casino related construction as well as the corresponding hotel, retail and residential development.

Taxation investigators are primarily looking at building materials and furnishings that are being brought in from out-of-State on which use tax may be due. Assessments and collections have been made on such items as specialty doors and windows, bathroom fixtures, air conditioning systems, office and hotel furnishings and structural steel.

Another focus is the withholding of gross income tax from the various contractors and subcontractors from around the country who are involved in construction work in this area.

Border Project – A group of investigators working out of the Somerville Office have been uncovering contractors from Pennsylvania and New York who do work in New Jersey but are unregistered in this State. Project investigators position themselves to observe these contractors primarily in Hunterdon, Warren and Sussex Counties. Assessments and collections have been secured from landscapers, painting, roofing, air conditioning and paving contractors.

Painting Contractors – Another project targeting unregistered painting contractors is being run out of the Quakerbridge Office. Over 100 painting contractors have been identified and registered through information secured from paint suppliers and various business advertisements.

Joint IRS Projects – Several projects are underway in cooperation with the Internal Revenue Service and Taxation's Audit Branch. These have included research of contractor lists provided by the Division of Consumer Affairs and lists of subcontractors working on various construction sites. A pilot project to capture contractor information from local building permits is also in process in cooperation with the Department of Community Affairs and a Bergen County municipality.

All of these projects have been implemented to verify and enforce compliance by the construction industry with the New Jersey tax laws and to eliminate unfair competition for contractors who properly comply with State tax requirements. □

Set-Off Program (S.O.I.L.)

S.O.I.L. is an acronym for Set-Off of Individual Liability. During the early 1980s a State law was enacted which allowed the use of this procedure as a collection tool for debts.

Through the S.O.I.L. system, agencies or institutions are permitted to file claims against debtors. Thousands of individuals are placed into S.O.I.L. by claimant agencies such as the State of New Jersey, the Internal Revenue Service, hospitals and county probation departments (child support).

Taxpayers filing for a New Jersey gross income tax refund or a homestead rebate, who have been identified as debtors, may have their refund or rebate withheld and sent to the claimant agency.

Since the beginning of fiscal year 1998, the Division of Taxation has placed 8,890 taxpayers who owe State taxes into the program. Of those, 93%, or 8,251 taxpayers, have had $1,300,803.00 in State tax refunds and homestead rebates set off. Not all of those taxpayers' debts were immediately satisfied; therefore, set-off of any future State refunds or rebates will continue until the debt is paid in full.

Professional tax preparers should advise their clients of the S.O.I.L. program and the consequent potential for loss of a State tax refund or homestead rebate if the client is indebted to a qualified agency. Taxpayers who find themselves in this situation should consider making full payment now, or requesting an installment payment plan with the agency to which they are indebted.

Taxpayers who receive a S.O.I.L. notice in the mail and are unaware of the existence or nature of an overdue debt should answer the notice in writing or contact the phone number appearing on the notice. □

Warrants of Execution

Pursuant to N.J.S.A. 54:49-12, the Division of Taxation routinely files Certificates of Debt in the Superior Court of New Jersey at Trenton against taxpayers who fail to voluntarily settle their debts with the Division. These Certificates of Debt have the same force and effect as a docketed judgement and remain as a valid lien against the taxpayer for a period of 20 years.

If after the filing of the Certificate of Debt the taxpayer has still not satisfied his indebtedness, the Division, in accordance with N.J.S.A. 54:49-13a, as an alternate remedy, will file a Warrant of Execution in any County Court where assets of the debtor have been located. After recording the warrant in the county(s) the Division will levy and/or seize any known assets of the debtor to satisfy their indebtedness. These Warrants of Execution expire sixty (60) calendar days after recording. Often, due to the quick expiration of these Warrants, more than one such Warrant may be filed in order to effect collections of the debt.

Many judgement searches erroneously reflect these Warrants of Execution as tax liens valid for 20 years when in fact they expire after 60 calendar days, as is provided for by statute. This erroneous reporting often results in inordinate delays in finalizing various financial transactions subsequently entered into by the taxpayer. With the aid of the twenty-one (21) County Clerks, the Division is attempting to "educate" the title industry regarding the treatment of these documents.

The Warrant of Execution itself has been modified to include a statement indicating that the document expires 60 calendar days after recording; which should be relied upon as sufficient evidence that the document does expire. In addition, the Division has provided each county with a listing of all expired Warrants of Execution for the period July 1, 1991 through March 31, 1998. Effective April 1, 1998, any Warrant of Execution being filed in any county must contain a statement regarding expiration. It is believed that this process will aid taxpayers in their ability to enter into financial transactions without undue delays, subsequent to the extinguishing of their debt with the Division. □

Process Service in Bankruptcy Cases

When litigating a bankruptcy case against an agency of the State of New Jersey, many attorneys have questions about how to properly serve a motion or adversary proceeding on the State of New Jersey. This article will establish that the proper method of serving motions and adversary complaints on the State of New Jersey is to serve the Attorney General's Office and not the State agency itself. To reach this conclusion, we will review two Federal rules of bankruptcy procedure ("Bankruptcy Rules") and one New Jersey Court rule.

Initially, we must turn to Bankruptcy Rule 9014. This Bankruptcy Rule provides that motions in contested proceedings shall be served in the "manner provided for service of summons and complaint under Bankruptcy Rule 7004."

Specifically, Bankruptcy Rule 7004(b)(6) explains how to serve the State of New Jersey. This rule sets forth that service upon a state is made by "mailing a copy of the summons and complaint to the person or office upon whom process is prescribed to be served by the law of the state in which service is made when an action is brought against such defendant in the courts of general jurisdiction of that state, or in the absence of the designation of any such person or office by state law, then to the chief executive officer thereof." Under this Bankruptcy Rule the chief executive officer is served only if state law does not prescribe a method of service on the state.

Pressler, 1988 N.J. Court Rules, (Gann), R.4:4-4(a)(7) sets forth how a party should serve the State of New Jersey. This rule requires that service upon the State of New Jersey be made by "registered, certified or ordinary mail of a copy of the summons and complaint or by personal delivery of a copy of the summons and complaint to the Attorney General or the *Attorney General's designee named in a writing filed with the Clerk of the Superior Court." This court rule further provides that "[n]o default shall be entered for failure to appear unless personal service has been made under this paragraph." Since N.J. Court R.4:4-4(a)(7) designates the Attorney General as the party to serve, the chief executive officer is not the proper party.

The Attorney General administers the Department of Law and Public Safety ("Department"). N.J.S.A. 52:17A-3. Since this Department is comprised of several Divisions, the next question is which Division within the Department represents State agencies. The Division of Law, a part of the Department, represents "state agencies in all proceedings or actions of any kind which may be brought against them in any court of this State." N.J.S.A. 52:17A-4. Since the Division of Law represents State agencies, if a party is filing an action against a State agency, the Division of Law is the proper entity to serve within the Attorney General's Office.

The correct mailing address for the Division of Law is:

OFFICE OF THE ATTORNEY GENERAL
DIVISION OF LAW
RICHARD J. HUGHES JUSTICE COMPLEX
25 MARKET STREET
TRENTON NJ 08625-0112

If a party is filing a motion and knows the name of the Deputy Attorney General who has been assigned to the case, but does not know the address, he or she should mail the motion to the attention of the attorney at the above cited address. Additionally, if the party knows the attorney's address, he or she could send it to the attorney and to the above cited address. Needless to say, as a courtesy, an attorney may also serve a State agency, but this service does not meet the requirements of service set forth in Bankruptcy Rules 9014 and 7004(b)(6).

Proper service benefits all parties to a bankruptcy proceeding because proper service ensures that a bankruptcy cases - from page 8

Deputy Attorney General in the Attorney General's Office, Division of Law, will timely receive the motion or complaint. Proper service ensures that the bankruptcy case will proceed in an orderly manner.

Although the road to the answer on how the properly serve the State of New Jersey is not simple, the answer is clear. A party must serve the Attorney General for service to be valid on the State of New Jersey. Since the Division of Law represents State agencies, it is the proper party to serve within the New Jersey Attorney General's Office.

* The Attorney General designates certain persons within the Division of Law to accept service. Periodically, the New Jersey Law Journal publishes the Attorney General's designees. □

Common EFT Errors

Many taxpayers who are required to remit electronically for gross income tax employer withholdings and/or sales and use tax are under the misconception that they no longer have to file tax returns, especially the employer quarterly reconciliation, Form NJ-941-W and the sales tax quarterly return, Form ST-50. As a result, these taxpayers are receiving delinquency notices for not filing the appropriate forms, and are assessed late filing penalty when they ultimately do file the missing returns. Since the sales and use and gross income withholding taxes are self-assessed, the required returns must be filed in order to establish a taxpayer's liability for an applicable tax period. Remitting payments electronically does not relieve a taxpayer from filing the required tax returns.

The frequency of an employer's payroll does not determine whether or not he should be a weekly remitter, but rather, the amount of total withholdings for the prior year. An employer who had gross income tax withholdings greater than $20,000 in the previous year must remit weekly and must remit electronically, even if that employer does not have a weekly payroll. If an employer has been determined to be a weekly remitter, withholdings are due the Wednesday following the period in which the payroll is paid. In establishing the applicable Wednesday due date, the withholding period runs from Sunday through Saturday. The employers in all of the following examples are consider weekly remitters.

Example 1: An employer with prior year withholdings of $30,000 has a semi-monthly payroll. During April of 1998, employees were paid on Wednesday, April 15 and Wednesday, April 29. The April 15 withholdings were due on Wednesday, April 22, and the April 29 withholdings were due on Wednesday, May 6.

Example 2: An employer with prior year withholdings of $25,000 has a monthly payroll. During April of 1998, employees were paid on Thursday, April 30. The withholdings were due on Wednesday, May 6.

Example 3: An employer with prior year withholdings of $75,000 has a quarterly payroll.

The withholdings for the quarterly payroll paid on Tuesday, March 31, 1998, were due on Wednesday, April 8.

Many payroll services and banks are incorrectly remitting their clients' electronic payments by either failing to complete the name control field, or by using the Federal format of last name first when the client is registered differently with the Division.

Example: Dr. James Q. Citizen has registered with the Division as Dr. James Q. Citizen, P.A., and as such the name control for New Jersey filing should be "DRJA" and not "CITI."

Because of incomplete or erroneous name controls, payments will reject and not post to taxpayers' accounts. When the return is filed, which is preprinted by the Division with the correct name control, it will post to the taxpayers' account. Since the payment did not, an underpayment will apparently exist and a bill will be generated, creating additional work and frustration for both the Division and taxpayers alike. □

On January 20, 1998 Acting Director Robert K. Thompson, Deputy Director Harold Fox, and Assistant Director David Gavin handed out eleven awards recognizing Compliance Activity employees that made outstanding contributions to the Division of Taxation. Ten employees were honored with Compliance Achievement Awards and one employee received the Compliance Exemplary Employee Awards.

achievement awards - from pg. 9

Compliance Achievement Awards were given to employees in recognition of specific contributions to the Division such as serving on special projects or committees, accomplishments, suggestions, dedication/loyalty, leadership, or general work ethics. The Achievement Award recipients were: Betty Bossert and Ivan Gehman from Special Procedures, Jeff Kerman from Compliance Services Branch, and Albert Katowitz, David Leone, Dennis Cavanaugh, Bill Bay, Robert White and Robert Winter from the Investigations Branch.

The Compliance Exemplary Employee Award was given to Sea Girt Investigator Don Smith to recognize his individual initiative, excellence, and most significant overall contribution to his work unit and the Division of Taxation.

The newly created annual awards program is another way for senior Division management to recognize positive accomplishments of employees within Compliance Activity. Nominations for either of these awards are submitted on a Compliance Award Program Nomination Sheet to the Assistant Director, Compliance and an informal award ceremony is held on an annual basis. □

Criminal Enforcement over the past months included:

- On January 16, 1998, in Superior Court – Camden County, Moshe Levkowitz, of Vineland, was sentenced to five years probation and ordered to pay restitution to the State of $125,000 tax, penalty and interest as a result of Levkowitz's guilty pleas to charges that he filed 32 fraudulent sales tax returns from 1989 to 1996 that underreported sales tax collected at Levkowitz's used car business, Roey's Auto, Vineland, by $82,821. This case was investigated jointly by the Division of Taxation's Office of Criminal Investigation and the Camden County Prosecutor's Office.

- Eugene Slusker of Brooklyn, NY was sentenced by Judge Elaine L. Davis in the Hudson County Superior Court to seven years of imprisonment, giving him credit of 417 days previously served and suspended the remaining term. Slusker was placed on probation for three years and was ordered to make restitution to the State of New Jersey in the amount of $355,467. Mr. Slusker was previously indicted on January 30, 1995 by a State Grand Jury for evading $355,467 of motor fuel diesel taxes between the period of April 10, 1990 and August 6, 1990. Mr. Slusker, who was operating a business called Pentagon Management Co., Inc., had been indicted of five counts: theft, misapplication of entrusted property, misconduct by a corporate official, failure to file returns and failure to pay taxes.
- On January 21, 1998, in Municipal Court of Palisades Park Borough, Satnam Singh, of Palisades Park, entered a plea of guilty to one count of failure to maintain records relating to the disposition of 1,429,118 gallons of diesel fuel sold by Singh's company, Cheema Oil Corp., a truck stop in Palisades Park, between November 1994 and May 1997. The amount of tax exemption claimed was $192,930. Singh was fined $625 as a result of the guilty plea, and faces civil collection of the tax on the sales alleged to be tax exempt but unsupported by the required records.
- On February 10, 1998, in Jersey City Municipal Court, Luis E. Alvarez of Union, NJ, pleaded guilty to failing to file tax returns and failing to remit $4,414 in motor fuels tax for the period January through August 1997. He was sentenced to 60 days in jail (suspended) and fined $810.

- On February 10, 1998, in Jersey City Municipal Court, a bench warrant was issued for Lasarev Kirkorian, of Englewood Cliffs, NJ. Kirkorian failed to appear on charges of failing to file returns, failing to remit $7,331.61 in motor fuels tax, selling gasoline without a license, and selling diesel fuel without a license at his business, Sunny's Mobil, Jersey City, NJ.
- On March 19, 1998, Bergen County Prosecutor Schmidt announced that an eight-count indictment for tax evasion was handed up by a Bergen County Grand Jury, on Manjit Singh, a medical doctor in Mahwah. Dr. Singh is alleged to have bilked the State on New Jersey out of over $165,000 by failing to report income derived from his alleged criminal conduct. The alleged criminal conduct is the subject matter of an eighty-two count indictment that is currently pending. Singh failed to report income from 1992, 1993, 1994 and 1995. Singh, if convicted, faces 40 years in New Jersey State Prison and $120,000 in fines. This case resulted from a joint investigation between the Bergen County Prosecutor's Office and OCI.
- A Hudson County Grand Jury indicted Mario Rivellini, of Clifton, on charges for failing to file tax returns, failing to turn over taxes collected, misapplication of entrusted property, and providing false information to the Division between January 1, 1997, and December 31, 1997. Rivellini is the owner and responsible person of M & R Cleaning Services Inc., of Kearny, which is a commercial cleaning firm operating in Jersey City. Each charge is punishable by up to five years imprisonment and a fine of up to $7,500 or twice the amount of tax evaded. This case was investigated jointly by the Police Division of the Waterfront Commission of New York Harbor and the New Jersey Division of Taxation.

- Eight guilty pleas for eight cases were entered in municipal courts throughout the State by individuals and businesses for noncompliance with the cigarette tax law. These eight cases resulted in the imposition of fines and penalties totaling $3,985.
- Twenty-four charges were filed in municipal court on eight cases for violating the cigarette tax law including possession of 800.1 cartons of contraband cigarettes, valued at $20,002.50. In one of the cases, Abdulkareem K. Ali of Brooklyn, NY was arrested and charged with possession of 766 cartons of contraband cigarettes, transportation of contraband cigarettes, no invoices and no consumer licenses. The arrest was based upon a joint investigation with Northern Virginia Tax Board Investigators, OCI and the NJ State Police. □

Civil Collection Actions Quarter Ending - March 31, 1998

Following is a summary of enforcement actions for the quarter ending March 31, 1998.

Certificates of Debt

During the quarter ended March 31, 1998, the Division filed 3,786 Certificates of Debt in New Jersey Superior Court. These CODs, which have the same force and effect as docketed judgments, totaled $45.8 million.

Levies

$50,827 was collected by levying against payments made under State contracts to satisfy debts owed by State vendors.

Jeopardy Assessments

When a vendor is found to have failed to register his or her business or failed to collect and remit sales taxes or file tax returns, the Division of Taxation has the authority to make an immediate, on-site assessment of tax due (referred to as a “jeopardy assessment”) and may seize all available assets to satisfy the on-site tax assessment.

The Division makes jeopardy assessments when there is a danger that a non-compliant vendor will discontinue operations, remove his or her business property and flee the State. This remedy is often necessary in cases involving transient vendors, out-of-State businesses operating in New Jersey, or vendors operating from non-fixed locations, such as roadside sales, flea markets or trade shows.

If the liability is not resolved, the seized property can be sold at public auction and the proceeds used to satisfy the tax debt.

For the quarter ending March 31, 1998, $57,013 was collected from jeopardy assessments. Two jeopardy seizures were conducted.

Seizures

When a liability, for which the Division of Taxation has secured judgments, cannot or will not be satisfied by a taxpayer and all other means of collection of the debt have been exhausted, seizure of the business and personal assets will take place. Field Investigators will close a business, seizing any tangible assets including licenses, inventory, machinery, furniture, vehicles, etc., until arrangements are made for payment of the debt.

For the quarter ending March 31, 1998, property of 34 businesses was seized. Some businesses were able to reopen, others remain closed. A listing of these seizures appears on pages 15–17.

Auctions

If the liability of a business seized by the Division is not satisfied or resolved, the business will remain closed. To satisfy the debt, the Division can sell the business assets at a public auction.

During the quarter ending March 31, 1998 eleven (11) auctions were held by the Division. A listing follows on page 17.

In the event an auction does not net enough monies to resolve the debt, the Division will execute against the personal assets of any

NEW JERSEY DIVISION OF TAXATION

1998 SURVEY OF TAX PROFESSIONALS

Dear Tax Preparer:

The New Jersey Division of Taxation continually strives to make information easily available to both the general public and tax practitioners. Advanced technology has made it possible for us to provide forms, information and assistance not only in person or through the mail but also by fax and through the Internet. NJ TeleFile and electronic filing programs enable taxpayers and tax preparers to file paperless returns.

In order to improve our taxpayer services, we would like your opinion of the services we currently provide as well as any suggestions you may have. Please take the time to complete this survey and return it to us. Your comments will help us serve the taxpayers of New Jersey better.

Robert K. Thompson
Acting Director

of the business's responsible officers. Responsible officers are held personally liable for the trust fund portion of the debt which includes, but is not limited to, sales tax, withholding tax and motor fuels tax.

Referrals to Attorney General

In cases where the Division has exhausted its administrative remedies without success, referrals are made to the Office of the Attorney General. During the quarter ending March 31, 1998, 623 such cases were referred to the Attorney General's office for additional collection.

Together, the Division's Referral Group and the Attorney General's Collection Unit have collected $3.9 million in revenue during the first quarter of 1998.

Liquor License Program

Under a recently enacted State law, applicants for renewal or transfer of a liquor license must receive a certificate of tax clearance from the Division. This program was in effect in seven New Jersey counties in 1996 and added seven additional counties in 1997. The program will be in effect in all 21 New Jersey Counties in 1998.

During the quarter ending March 31, 1998, 183 notifications of liquor license transfer were received by the Division's Bulk Sales section. Seventeen (17) audits relating to this project and previously requested were completed; assessments from these audits totaled $496,248. □

Tax Briefs

Gross Income Tax

Mutual Fund Distributions After Colonial Trust III — The following is a clarification of the treatment of mutual funds after the decision by the Tax Court of New Jersey Colonial Trust III v. Director, Division of Taxation, 16 NJ Tax 385 (1997). The Tax Court held that Federal law providing that stocks and obligations of the United States are exempt from state taxes (31 U.S.C.A. §3124) requires that distributions paid by a mutual fund must be immune from New Jersey gross income tax to the extent that they are attributable to interest earned on Federal obligations. Therefore the imposition of tax on Federal obligation income distributed by "non-qualified" investment funds pursuant to N.J.S.A. 54A:6-14.1 is barred by Federal law.

The practical effect of this decision is to remove from State taxation all Federal obligation income distributed by mutual funds. The decision does not change the calculation of New Jersey qualified investment funds under N.J.S.A. 54A:6-14.1, whereby a qualified investment fund must have at least 80% of the aggregate principal amount of all its investments in obligations which are issued by or on behalf of New Jersey or a political subdivision of New Jersey, or "which are statutorily free from State or local taxation under any other act of this State or under the laws of the United States." N.J.S.A. 54A:6-14. Federal obligations are still used to determine whether a mutual fund meets the requirements of a qualified investment fund. Regardless of whether the fund is a qualified investment fund, however, all distributions attributable to interest earned on Federal obligations will be exempt from State tax.

Dependent Care Assistance —

The Division responded to an inquiry concerning whether amounts provided by an employer to an employee for dependant care assistance are taxed. Gross income is defined at N.J.S.A. 54A:5-1(a) to include "salaries, wages, tips, fees, commissions, bonuses, and other remuneration received for services rendered whether in cash or property." There is no specific gross income tax exemption for IRC Section 129 payments. The employee is deemed to have "constructive receipt" of the funds if the employee has the option to receive cash in lieu of benefits. If the employee has constructive receipt, the amount is included in the employee's taxable income for gross income tax purposes.

Family Investment Business —

The New Jersey gross income tax is imposed on the gross amount of the taxpayer's income. It is only where a taxpayer is engaged in a business or profession that provision is made for the deduction of costs and expenses. If a taxpayer is not engaged in the operation of a business, then dividends are taxable in the dividend category of income (N.J.S.A. 54A:5-1(f)) and interest is taxable in the interest category (N.J.S.A. 54A:5-1(e)) rather than as net profits from a business. Since dividends and interest are taxed as gross, rather than net income, any expenses attributable to such income could not offset that income.

In order to be able to deduct interest and other investment expenses, a taxpayer must prove to the satisfaction of the Division that he is engaged in a business rather than managing his own investments. The specific facts that will support a finding that an individual trading for his own account is in "business" have been identified in two tax court cases in New Jersey.

A business activity was found in Marrinan v. Taxation Div. Director, 10 N.J. Tax 542 (Tax Ct. 1989). In that case the taxpayer was engaged full time in trading securities on a short-term basis. He maintained a separate office outside his home and had one full-time and one part-time employee. At the end of each day, he tried to get out of positions taken during the day; 90% of his trades were on a day-to-day basis. He kept a separate bank account, payroll records and ledger book for his securities activities. He made an average of 15 to 20 trades a day, and in the year in issue his total trading volume was $97,000,000.

Taxpayer's trading activities were found not to constitute business activity in Gilligan v. Taxation Div. Director, 11 N.J. Tax 414 (Tax Ct., 1991). In that case, a taxpayer working full time on stock activities traded approximately twelve million dollars in gross volume of securities bought and sold in 1987. The taxpayer maintained a home office, computer hardware, software and modem, and maintained a separate telephone line for his securities activity. He subscribed to Dow Phone and Dow Jones news retrieval services, and a cable television service in order to monitor financial news and the stock market. He had no employees, offered no goods and services to the general public and had no clients. He maintained no separate business bank account. He had no separate office outside his home, dealt through a single stock broker and had an average of three to four broker contacts a day, but fewer trades. His research consisted primarily of reviewing secondary sources. His purchases were held, on average, more than eight months, and his stated purpose was to enhance the return on his personal estate by investing in higher risk securities. The court held that "if the transactions tend to be on a day-to-day basis so that the activities are those of a day trader, and if the location of the activities and the books and records of the operation have the characteristics of the operation of a business rather than the management of a personal estate, a business activity is indicated." In Gilligan, the court held that this standard had not been met.

Whether or not investment activity constitutes a business activity for purposes of the gross income tax will depend on the specific facts of the situation.

IRC Section 125 Noncash Benefits—The Division was asked whether noncash benefits under I.R.C. Section 125 are excludable from gross income for purposes of the State income tax. The value of an employee's qualified option under an I.R.C. Section 125 cafeteria plan may be excluded under very limited circumstances, as provided in N.J.S.A. 54A:6-24. If the plan is a "salary reduction plan," that is, the employee may choose the benefits in lieu of salary, the plan will not qualify for the exclusion. (Examples of salary reduction plans include flexible spending accounts and premium conversion options.) If the plan includes an option to receive cash in lieu of a qualified employer-provided benefit, to be excluded from gross income the option may only be exercised if the employee derives a similar benefit from a source other than the employer (e.g., through the insurance of the employee's spouse). Most Section 125 plans are salary reduction plans and do not qualify for the 54A:6-24 exclusion.

Litter Control Tax

Beverage Syrup—A manufacturer of a beverage syrup product sold in glass containers with sales in New Jersey inquired as to its subjectivity under the litter control tax.

The Clean Communities and Recycling Act levies a litter control tax on all manufacturers, wholesalers, distributors and retailers engaged in business in New Jersey on the gross receipts from sales of litter-generating products within and into the State. N.J.S.A. 13:1E-99.1a.

Litter-generating products are defined in the Act, at N.J.S.A. 13:1E-94e, to include the following fifteen categories of products:

1. Beer and other malt beverages
2. Cigarettes and tobacco products
3. Cleaning agents and toiletries

 - 7. Groceries
 - 8. Metal containers sold as such
 - 9. Motor vehicle tires
 - 10. Newsprint and magazine paper stock
 - 11. Nondrug drugstore sundry products
 - 12. Paper products and household paper
 - 13. Plastic or fiber containers made of synthetic material sold as such
 - 14. Soft drinks and carbonated waters
 - 15. Wine
- The sale of beverage or beverage syrup would be the sale of a litter-generating product — food for human consumption — for litter control tax purposes.
- The fact that the glass containers used in the sale of the syrup product may be ultimately recyclable is irrelevant. There is no exclusion in the Act for sales of litter-generating products in recyclable containers. Sales of the beverage syrup product in New Jersey are subject to the tax. Sales of such product shipped out-of-State for out-of-State use are not subject to the tax.

Sales of Beverages — Under N.J.A.C. 18:38-3.1(b)5.i, receipts from sales of restaurant meals and other prepared food or beverages for on-premises consumption are not subject to the litter control tax, under certain conditions. This exemption from tax only includes beverages which are not expressly subject to the litter control tax.

The Act clearly specifies that all sales of items in the following categories result in taxable receipts, whether or not any are sold by the vendor for on-premises consumption:

1. Beer and other malt beverages;
2. Distilled spirits;
3. Wine; and
4. Soft drinks and carbonated waters. (See N.J.S.A. 13:1E-94.)

Thus, it is clear that receipts from sales of the above-categorized beverages, for on-premises consumption, are subject to litter control tax.

The Act requires that a product be produced, distributed or purchased in disposable containers or have some other litter-generating characteristic. See N.J.S.A. 13:1E-94(e). The Act contains no requirement that the litter-generating product be purchased, by the ultimate consumer, in disposable containers, packages or wrappings. Similarly, the Act provides no tax exemption for sales for which the retailer, rather than the consumer, disposes of the container, package or wrapping associated with the litter-generating product.

On the other hand, if the restaurant or bar purchases some of the bar beverages in returnable (not just recyclable) containers and sells those beverages without any disposable packaging or wrapping, the sales of those beverages would not be subject to the litter tax. Examples are: beer or wine in reusable kegs or beer in reusable bot-les purchased in reusable (non-disposable) cartons.

Sales and Use Tax
Titling and Registration Guidelines for Motor Vehicle Dealers in Lease Transactions —

Situation One

Vehicle is sold to a leasing company by a New Jersey dealership that has no interest in the ultimate lease of the vehicle (the lessee is not the dealership's customer)—

When the dealership sells a vehicle to a registered leasing company which will lease the vehicle to a lessee, exemption code 9 (sale for resale) can be used when the dealer affixes its Sales Tax Satisfied Stamp when assigning the Manufacturer's Certificate of Origin or other title document to the leasing company that purchases the vehicle. The leasing company is responsible for remitting the lessor's use tax on the lease transaction. The leasing company must also stamp the title document with their own Sales Tax Satisfied Stamp and enter the purchase price, tax amount, etc. If the leasing company is not registered as a vendor/dealer in this State, see situation three below.

Situation Two

New Jersey dealership enters into a motor vehicle lease and assigns the lease to a lease funding source, with title to be issued in the name of the lease funding source—

When the dealership initiates a lease and assigns the lease and ownership of the vehicle to a lease funding source, the dealership is the lessor and should affix its Sales Tax Satisfied Stamp to the title document and indicate the lessor's tax that will be remitted. The dealer should complete the Lessor's Certification (ST-40) and provide a copy to the lessee and the lease funding source. The dealership must remit the lessor's tax to the Division.

Situation Three

Vehicle is sold by an out-of-State dealership to an unregistered, out-of-State leasing company with delivery to be made to a New Jersey lessee through the New Jersey dealership (a "courtesy delivery"). The New Jersey dealership does not have any ownership interest in the vehicle and has not entered into the lease with the New Jersey resident. As a courtesy, the New Jersey dealership delivers the vehicle and assists in processing the title and registration documents on behalf of the out-of-State dealership—

Under these circumstances, the transaction may be processed by completing a Report of Sales Tax Paid (LS-240) which will reflect the amount of tax that is being remitted at that time. The New Jersey dealer will make payment directly to the New Jersey Division of Motor Vehicles, whether by their check or by check from the out-of-State leasing company.

Situation Four

Vehicle is sold by an out-of-State, unregistered dealership to an unregistered lease funding source in New Jersey, which is the lessor. The lessee is a New Jersey resident—

The presence of leased property in this State is deemed to be a place of business. N.J.S.A. 54:32B-2(i)(F). Having property out on lease in this State is sufficient contact for the State to require the company (whether a financial institution or a dealership) to register as a vendor and in the case of a motor vehicle, to obtain a Sales Tax Satisfied Stamp. Dealers/lessors should call 609-292-7330 for information on obtaining the stamp.

Situation Five

Vehicle is leased by an out-of-State, unregistered dealership to a New Jersey resident. The dealership, which is the lessor, then assigns the lease to an unregistered lease funding source in New Jersey—

The presence of leased property in this State is deemed to be a place of business in this State. N.J.S.A. 54:32B-2(i)(F). Thus, having leased property in this State is sufficient contact for the State to require the company (whether a financial institution or a dealership) to register as a vendor and in the case of a motor vehicle, to obtain a Sales Tax Satisfied Stamp. Dealers/lessors should call 609-292-7330 for information on obtaining the stamp.

Sales of Player-worn Game Jerseys — The Division replied to an inquiry concerning the sale of player-worn game jerseys when sold mounted in a frame.

Items that are otherwise entitled to an exemption from sales tax (e.g., clothing, magazines, comic books) are no longer exempt if they are sold as collectibles, that is to say, the price reflects the condition, rarity, age or other factors.

A game jersey sold in a frame or in an otherwise preserved state is subject to sales and use tax. A game jersey personally worn by a player, which fact is reflected in its price, is subject to tax. The fact that there is a fee for registering the jersey and a letter of authenticity is further support for the position that the item's value goes beyond use as daily clothing and is indeed a collectible item.

Charge for Boarding Horses — Charges for boarding horses are generally subject to sales tax. However, if the owner of the horses is in the business of selling them, the boarding of those horses that the owner holds for sale is treated as a purchase for resale, and is therefore exempt. The customer should use a Resale Certificate (Form ST-3) to support this exemption. It must be noted that property is not deemed to be held for resale if it is used by the owner before it is sold. For example, a horse used for racing is not held for resale even though it will eventually be sold by its owners.

If the horses or other animals being boarded are "productive animals" used on a farm, the boarding fees charged to the farmer will be exempt. See N.J.A.C. 18:24-19.6 (Schedule "A"). "Productive animals" are defined as animals raised for their meat (e.g., beef cattle), for edible products they produce (e.g., dairy cows), for their fur or skin (e.g., sheep raised for wool), for breeding purposes (e.g., brood mares on a horse farm), or for farm work (e.g., the herding dog used by a shepherd). See N.J.A.C. 18:24-19.2. The farmer should use a Farmer's Exemption Certificate (Form ST-7) to support this exemption.

Dogs Used in Business — The Division answered an inquiry regarding the incidence of tax on receipts from a "geese-chasing" service.

The facts indicate that the taxpayer has a group of border collies trained to respond to voice and hand commands. The dogs are used to move flocks of Canada geese and chase them away from corporate parks. When businesses request this service, the dogs are taken to the site to do the job under the direction of an employee of the service provider. The dogs are never rented to customers for the customers to handle themselves.

The Division views this geese-chasing work as a personal or professional service which is not subject to sales tax. N.J.S.A. 54:32B-2(e)(4)(A). Since the dogs are not sent to customers without a handler, the dogs are not being rented; therefore no "sale" of tangible personal property is taking place within the meaning of N.J.S.A. 54:32B-2(f). Because the service provider is not in the business of selling or renting the dogs, a resale exemption does not apply when he purchases them. The purchase of a dog used in this business is a taxable purchase of tangible personal property. N.J.S.A. 54:32B-3(a).

Sales of Pumpkins and Other Decorative Items — Sales of pumpkins that are neither carved nor decorated when sold are considered food items which are exempt from sales tax. Decorated or carved pumpkins, gourds, Indian corn and other decorative items not intended for human consumption are taxable. Free hayrides which are given with the purchase of a pumpkin do not affect the taxability of the sale.

Sales of Christmas trees, wreaths and other decorative property are subject to sales tax. These are ordinary sales of tangible personal property.

Sales of Baked Goods — The Division responded to an inquiry concerning the sale of baked goods. Baked goods sold in an unheated state, in the same form and condition as commonly used by food stores, are not subject to tax unless sold for on-premises consumption. N.J.A.C. 18:24-12.3(a). If the vendor maintains the food in a heated state (heat lamps, warming trays, etc.), the sale of the baked goods is subject to tax, regardless of where consumption takes place. □

In Our Courts
Corporation Business Tax Offset of Overpayment Against Deficiencies of Merged Corporation — Sea Land Service Inc., v. Director, Division of Taxation, decided March 3, 1998; Superior Court, Appellate Division; No. A1565-96T3.

The Appellate Division affirmed the Tax Court's summary judgment ruling in favor of the Director, Division of Taxation. Essentially, the Tax Court held that the surviving corporation's wholly owned subsidiary's and parent's pre-merger corporate business tax (CBT) deficiencies could not be offset against the surviving corporation's pre-merger CBT overpayments. The Tax Court case was originally reported in New Jersey State Tax News, Volume 26, Number 2, at Page 19.

Local Property Tax Real Estate Exemption Denied — City of Newark v. Block 322, Lots 38 & 40, etc. Apostolic Church of Deliverance, N.J. Tax Court, on remand from N.J. Superior Court, Appellate Division; decided December 1, 1997.

At the time of this Tax Court hearing, the Apostolic Church of Deliverance had been foreclosed for deficient tax payments and was challenging its taxable status under N.J.S.A. 54:4-3.6, which provides a real estate tax exemption for qualified nonprofit religious, charitable and educational entities.

Tax Court testimony indicated that the Church's activities between 1987-1993 were appropriate exempt uses in accordance with statute, i.e., prayer meetings and daily services, Bible classes, Sunday school, day-care, occasional church dinners, etc.

In a previous hearing in the Superior Court, it was determined that the Church was ineligible for property tax exempt standing because it had never obtained a necessary Certificate of Occupancy. But on appeal the Appellate Division held, "[t]he lack of a certificate of occupancy is not a bright line rule requiring denial of a tax exemption...." Although in violation of the city housing code, tax exemption might prevail, where otherwise qualified, if the city did not order the use to desist. (See also Corbacho v. Mayor and Council of Newark, 16 N.J. Tax 240 (App. Div. 1997).)

While the Tax Court concurred that the Church's failure to timely apply for exemption in accordance with N.J.S.A. 54:4-4.4 did not defeat exempt status, it rejected the Church's contention that Newark City Council had agreed, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 54:4-3.6c, to refund three years of taxes paid and was, therefore, bound as if by contract to make reimbursement. The Court ruled that a retroactive refund where timely application was not filed was not mandatory.

However, the Church's failure to appeal the pre-1993 assessments or further appeal the County Tax Board's upholding of the 1993 assessment to the Tax Court in a timely manner was fatal to the claim of exemption, even though its ownership, use and organization conformed with 54:4-3.6 exemption prerequisites. The Tax Court also stated that to void the assessments would create an unlimited statute of limitations, violate the concept that tax appeal deadlines are strictly enforced and allow a "collateral attack" in foreclosure proceedings already resolved in bankruptcy court.

In affirming the assessments, the Court reiterated the importance of meeting statutory appeal deadlines in tax matters. It noted if the taxpayer had timely appealed, it would have enjoyed tax exemption, would not have been tax delinquent and would have been invulnerable to tax foreclosure.

Taxability of Sweeping Service — D.P.S. Acquisitions Corp., v. Director, Division of Taxation, decided March 3, 1998; Superior Court, Appellate Division; No. A004429-96T1.

The Appellate Division affirmed the Tax Court's holding that the operation of sweeper-type vehicles suctioning parking lot debris into the vehicle, which is later emptied into dumpsters located on the parking lot, is not exempt from sales and use tax under the garbage removal exemption. The Tax Court case was originally reported in New Jersey State Tax News, Volume 26, Number 3, at Page 24. □

Sale of Principal Residence — P.L. 1998, c.3 (signed into law on March 20, 1998) conforms New Jersey law to Federal law with respect to the treatment of gains derived from the sale of a principal residence. Qualified taxpayers, regardless of age, can exclude gains of up to $500,000 on joint returns and up to $250,000 on single returns. The residence sold or exchanged must be owned and used by the taxpayer as his (and/or her) principal residence for periods totaling two or more years during the five-year period ending on the date of the sale or exchange. The Act applies to sales or exchanges of homes occurring after May 6, 1997. □

New Property Tax Reimbursement

Gov. Christie Whitman strengthened her commitment to helping control local property taxes when she enacted a property tax freeze for approximately 300,000 New Jersey residents. The new law (P.L. 1997, c.348, approved January 14, 1998) freezes property taxes at their 1997 level for eligible seniors and citizens with disabilities.

“Throughout this administration, I have been committed to easing the property tax burden on the taxpayers of this State. And we must continue working to ease that burden,” said Gov. Whitman. “We have taken the next step by providing real property tax relief to a group of New Jerseyans who need it very much – our State’s low income seniors and citizens with disabilities.

“Together, along with the legislative sponsors of this bill, we are helping to preserve the independence of New Jersey seniors and ensuring that seniors on a fixed income will be able to make ends meet.”

The legislation signed by Gov. Whitman freezes property taxes at 1997 levels for those who meet the following criteria:

- Age 65 or older or receiving Federal Social Security disability benefits;
- Owner of a homestead or lessee of a site in a mobile home park on which a manufactured or mobile home owned by the lessee is placed;

- Have lived in New Jersey and paid property taxes either directly or through rent for at least ten consecutive years;
- Have owned and lived in their home for at least three years; and
- Have annual income less than $17,918, if single, or combined income of $21,970, if married.

In order to receive benefits, eligible seniors and citizens with disabilities will have to apply by filling out forms provided by the Division of Taxation.

A reimbursement will be paid annually to every eligible claimant, thereby freezing their property taxes at the 1997 level. The amount of this Homestead Property Tax Reimbursement will be the difference between the amount of property taxes that were due and paid by the claimant in 1997 (or the year in which the claimant becomes eligible) and the amount of property taxes due and paid in subsequent years.

The Division of Taxation has established a hotline to assist taxpayers by answering questions related to this new legislation. Representatives will be available at 1-800-882-6597 from 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m., Monday through Friday.

Look for more information on the Homestead Property Tax Reimbursement in future issues of the State Tax News and on the Division's Home Page. □

TeleFile a Success

The 1997 TeleFile season is just about ready to end another successful filing season. Early statistics indicate that nearly 30% more New Jersey residents took advantage of NJ TeleFile this year over last year. The Division is encouraging taxpayers to continue to TeleFile their returns through the end of the tax season. Whether you file early or right before the deadline, refunds are mailed within two weeks.

Purchasing additional computer equipment and increasing the gross income threshold opened up the TeleFile system to a great many more New Jersey residents than in prior years. For tax year 1997, over 1.3 million taxpayers were eligible to TeleFile. Many of those who TeleFiled this year are previous TeleFilers who were eager to receive their refund quickly again this year. TeleFile is fast, easy and convenient.

For those last minute tax filers — TeleFile will be available until midnight, April 15. You may file at any time, day or night and have your refund mailed within two weeks.

Tax preparers — just a reminder — you can TeleFile for your clients. You are eligible to TeleFile a New Jersey income tax return for your client provided that you have a Power of Attorney Form for your client in your file. For more information on how to TeleFile for a client, refer to the Winter 1997 issue of the New Jersey State Tax News.

The 1997 TeleFile season will continue through midnight Wednesday, April 15, 1998. To reach NJ TeleFile call 1-888-235-FILE (toll-free from Touch-tone phones within New Jersey only) or 609-588-FILE (from Touch-tone phones anywhere). □

NEW STATE TAX LEGISLATION

A significant quantity of tax legislation was enacted in December 1997 and January 1998. A synopsis of these new laws has been included both in the legislative summary located in the center pullout section of this issue and in our regular In Our Legislature feature beginning on page 24. A more extensive summary of the legislation is available on the Division's Home Page at: <http://www.state.nj.us/treasury/taxation/>

CORPORATION TAX

NJ QSSS Estimated Payments

A subchapter S corporation that elects to be treated as a Qualified Subchapter S Subsidiary for New Jersey tax purposes and has previously filed the necessary election form (CBT-2553) may request to have the estimated corporation business tax payments transferred to its parent company for the year in which the New Jersey QSSS election was made.

The subsidiary (QSSS) should submit a written request, signed by an officer of the corporation, to the address set forth below together with a completed copy of Federal Form 966 and a copy of the New Jersey S corporation election form (CBT-2553).

NEW JERSEY DIVISION OF TAXATION
OFFICE AUDIT BRANCH
TRENTON NJ 08646-0269

The Division will transfer all of the QSSS's estimated payments except for $300.00 which will be used to satisfy the QSSS's current year minimum tax and the 50% estimated tax payment for the subsequent year. □

GROSS INCOME TAX

Roth IRAs

Editor's Note: At the time this newsletter went to print, the State Assembly was considering legislation that would conform New Jersey's tax treatment of Roth IRAs to the Federal treatment.

One of the provisions in the Taxpayer Relief Act of 1997 was the creation of the Roth IRA. Contributions to a Roth IRA are not excludable for Federal or New Jersey income tax purposes.

Distributions or withdrawals of income from a Roth IRA may be tax exempt for Federal income tax purposes, but are taxable for New Jersey gross income tax purposes in the year received.

Where periodic payments are made from a Roth IRA account, the income earned and accumulated by the Roth IRA is subject to New Jersey gross income tax on the ratio that the income bears to the total amount in the account.

For example:

Principal amount in the account —	$15,000
Income earned —	3,000
Total —	$18,000

Assume that periodic payments totaling $2,000 from the Roth IRA account were received by the individual in his tax year.

The income earned was .167 ($3,000 : $18,000) of the account. The taxable income for New Jersey gross income tax purposes is therefore .167 of the $2,000 amount withdrawn, or $334.00. The $334.00 is reported as pension/annuity on the NJ-1040 form.

The principal amount, or contribution(s) to the Roth IRA, was already taxed when originally earned or received and is not taxable when withdrawn from the account.

There is a Federal requirement to keep the income in the Roth IRA for five years to obtain Federal tax exempt status. Since individuals may experience different taxation treatments of Roth IRA withdrawals by New Jersey and the IRS, taxpayers are reminded to keep detailed records of contributions, income and withdrawals.

Under Federal tax law, during tax year 1998 only, taxpayers may convert an existing IRA to a rollover Roth IRA, spreading the fund balance over a four year period as gross income on the Federal return.

New Jersey has adopted the same four-year rule as under Federal law for reporting income on the conversion with payment of New Jersey gross income tax on the amount not previously taxed. New Jersey gross income tax had been paid on contributions to the existing IRA when the contributions were made; therefore, only the earnings are taxed for New Jersey purposes. Taxpayers must report the income to New Jersey over the four year period if they have made the Federal election.

Interest 11.50% for First Quarter

The interest rate assessed on amounts due for the first quarter of 1998 is 11.50%.

The assessed interest rate history for the last eight quarters is listed below.

Effective Date	Interest Rate
4/1/96	11.75%
7/1/96	11.75%
10/1/96	11.75%
1/1/97	11.25%
4/1/97	11.25%
7/1/97	11.25%
10/1/97	11.25%

By way of example, Mr. Jones contributed $20,000 to an IRA which, at the date of conversion in 1998, had a total value of $80,000. Mr. Jones elects the special Federal rule which allows him to spread the $80,000 over a four year period, paying tax on $20,000 a year.

For New Jersey gross income tax purposes, Mr. Jones would spread $60,000 of earnings over a four year period, reporting $15,000 a year on the pension/annuity line on the NJ-1040 return. The earnings were calculated by reducing the $80,000 IRA value by the $20,000 contributions, which had been previously taxed by New Jersey. □

GROSS INCOME TAX Deductible Business Expenses

Recently a tax practitioner asked what criteria govern when an expenditure by a sole proprietorship or a partnership qualifies as a deductible business expense under the Gross Income Tax Act.

The item of cost or expense must meet the definition of "ordinary" and be incurred in the "ordinary course of business" to qualify as a deduction in the determination of "net profits from business" under N.J.S.A 54A:5-1(b). An expense is not deductible merely because it was incurred by the business.

For an expense to meet this "ordinary" standard and qualify as a deduction, the expense must meet all of the following criteria. The business expense must be:

1. Undertaken primarily and directly in the pursuit of business income;
2. A common and accepted practice in the taxpayer's field of business;
3. Required or appropriate to the intended business purpose; and
4. In an amount that is reasonable in relation to the intended business purpose.

Expenditures that are in violation of the Gross Income Tax Act or public policy will be disallowed. No deduction is permitted for taxes based on income or for fines and penalties.

Taxpayers are reminded that they bear the burden to prove that expenditures incurred by the business and claimed as deductions in the determination of their "net profits from business" meet the criteria above. □

SALES AND USE TAX Cell Phones for Promotions

The Division has changed its opinion regarding sales and use tax responsibilities of cellular carriers and their sales agents with regard to the transfer of cellular telephones in connection with the sale of cellular airtime service. Upon consideration of the relevant statutory provisions and industry practices, the Division agrees with the following tax treatment:

1. A cellular communication carrier's sales tax liability is limited to the amount charged the customer when the cellular carrier itself sells a cellular phone at any amount below cost to a retail customer in conjunction with the sale of an airtime contract subject to tax under N.J.S.A. 54:32B-3(f).
2. A cellular communication carrier is not subject to use tax when the carrier gives a cellular phone at no cost to a retail customer in conjunction with the customer's purchase of an airtime contract subject to tax under N.J.S.A 54:32B-3(f).
3. The sales tax liability of a communication carrier's agent is limited to the amount charged the customer when the agent provides a cellular phone at a price below the agent's cost to a customer who is also purchasing a cellular airtime contract subject to tax under N.J.S.A. 54:32B-3(f).

- The cellular communication carrier's agents are not subject to sales and use tax when the agent provides a cellular phone at a price below the agent's cost and at no cost to a customer who is also purchasing a cellular airtime contract subject to tax under N.J.S.A. 54:32B-3(f).

This position supersedes that expressed in the article on this topic in the Winter 1995 issue of the New Jersey State Tax News (Vol. 24, No. 4). □

SALES AND USE TAX Internet Services

The Division responded as follows to an Internet Service Provider's (ISP) inquiry about the taxability of the services it provides:

- Charges billed to a customer for Internet access, on either a lump-sum monthly basis (e.g., $199.99/month for unlimited access) or on an hourly basis (e.g., $3.75/hour) are treated as charges for the sale or use of information and are not subject to sales tax.
- If the Internet Service Provider is charging the customer for transmission-related services, such as dedicated phone numbers and telephone connect time, such charges are taxable telecommunications services for New Jersey services addresses (customers).
- Web Site Design – advertising services are subject to tax in New Jersey, except for use in newspapers and magazines

TOBACCO TAXES Rate Increases

Recent legislation (P.L. 1997, c.264, signed into law on December 19, 1997) increased the rate of both the Cigarette Tax and Tobacco Products Wholesale Sales and Use Tax as follows:

Cigarette Tax

The Cigarette Tax Act has been amended to provide for the imposition of a $0.04 tax for each cigarette effective January 1, 1998.

Change in the Cost of Cigarette Stamps

Effective January 1, 1998 the cost of New Jersey Cigarette Tax Stamps will be as follows:

Size of Pack	Stamp Cost
10 Cigarettes	$0.40
20 Cigarettes	0.80
25 Cigarettes	1.00

Change in the Cigarette Stamp Discount

Effective January 1, 1998, the discount to distributors for purchases of 1,000 or more New Jersey stamps will be as follows: (Stamps will only be sold in blocks of 100 or more; no discounts will be allowed on a purchase of fewer than 1,000 stamps.)

Size of Pack	Cost of 1,000 Stamps	Discount per 1,000 Stamps	Net Cost per 1,000 Stamps
10 Cigarettes	$ 400.00	$2.43	$397.57
20 Cigarettes	800.00	4.50	795.50
25 Cigarettes	1,000.00	4.50	995.50

In no case will a discount be allowed on any sale of less than 1,000 stamps. Stamps will not be sold in blocks of less than 100 stamps.

Licensed distributors that have a bond or an irrevocable letter of credit issued by a state or a Federally chartered bank for the credit purchase of stamps should review the amount of the bond or letter to insure that they will be able to purchase the quantity of cigarette stamps necessary for their operation at the higher rate.

Cigarette licensees must file a return reporting inventory in their possession in New Jersey at 12:01 A.M. on January 1, 1998. The return was required to be filed on or before March 1, 1998 along with any additional tax due.

Tobacco Products Tax

The Tobacco Products Wholesale Sales and Use Tax Act was amended to provide for the imposition of a tax at the rate of 48% on the receipts from every sale of tobacco products other than cigarettes, by a distributor or wholesaler to a retail dealer or consumer. □ internet services - from pg. 5

N.J.S.A. 54:32B-3(b)(5); charges for creating and designing a web site for advertising or promotional purposes are subject to tax, just as designing a brochure or other form of advertising would be.

4. Web Site Storage – charges for housing a web page are exempt from tax as a charge for advertising space.
5. Consulting Services – separately stated consulting services are generally exempt from tax as professional services under N.J.S.A. 54:32B-2(e)(4)(A).
6. Domain Name Registration – exempt from sales tax.

CORPORATION BUSINESS TAX CBT-100S-P Printing Error

The 1997 New Jersey S Corporation Business Tax Forms booklet, CBT-100S-P, contains a printing error on pages 6 and 7 of the instructions. Corrected instruction pages were mailed to taxpayers and practitioners on the Division's mailing list. Instructions in the 1997 Package NJX and in approved software packages do not contain the error.

The CBT-100S, with complete and correct instructions, can be downloaded from the Division's Home Page at:

Litter Control Tax

The litter control tax is imposed on each person engaged in business in this State as a distributor, manufacturer, wholesaler or retailer. Retail sales and/or wholesale sales of litter-generating products sold within or into New Jersey are subject to the tax.

Litter-generating products are the fifteen categories of products listed below which meet any of the following conditions:

- (a) Products produced, distributed or purchased in disposable containers, packages or wrappings; or
- (b) Products not usually sold in packages, containers or wrappings but are commonly discarded in public places; or
- (c) Products of an unsightly or unsanitary nature commonly thrown, dropped, discarded, placed or deposited by a person on public property, or on private property not owned by him.

It is presumed that all products in the following categories listed satisfy at least one of the above conditions and qualify as a litter-generating product.

1. Groceries
2. Nondrug drugstore sundry products
3. Food for human or pet consumption
4. Soft drinks and carbonated waters
5. Beer and other malt beverages
6. Wine
7. Distilled spirits
8. Cigarettes and tobacco products

9. Cleaning agents and toiletries
10. Paper products and household paper
11. Newsprint and magazine paper stock
12. Motor vehicle tires
13. Glass containers sold as such
14. Metal containers sold as such
15. Plastic or fiber containers made of synthetic materials and sold as such (not including any container which is routinely reused, has a useful life or more than one year and is ordinarily sold empty at retail).

One major area of noncompliance found during recent audits concerns manufacturers not filing returns or overstating deductions under the presumption that their sales qualify for the wholesaler to wholesaler deduction under N.J.A.C. 18:38-5.2. Manufacturers, as defined in the Act, do not qualify for this deduction. Only wholesalers (who do no fabricating or processing of the product other than buying and reselling as is) selling to other wholesalers may take this deduction.

The Out-of-State Audit Branch has recently initiated contact with several manufacturers to increase compliance. These companies have been allowed to perform self-audits to determine their liability with consideration given toward abating penalties and reducing interest to statutory minimums. As of this date, 40 businesses have taken advantage of this opportunity with assessments on these companies totaling $1,678,254.

Tax Practitioners' Hotline

609-633-6905 Business Taxes

The Tax Practitioners' Hotline is a special service provided by the Taxpayer Accounting Branch of the New Jersey Division of Taxation for tax practitioners only. The purpose of the Hotline is to assist practitioners by resolving specific tax problems over the telephone when the practitioner has been unable to resolve the problem through normal channels. Practitioner Hotline technicians are authorized to perform updates to monetary account information as well as non-monetary taxpayer profile information. During calendar year 1997, the Tax Practitioners' Hotline handled about 2,200 business tax and 7,700 personal income tax calls. To be successful and to provide the best possible service, we ask that all practitioners wishing to take advantage of the service adhere to the following guidelines.

GUIDELINES

- Types of calls handled by the Tax Practitioners' Hotline. Account maintenance activities, adjustments, transfers, updates, and refunds.
- Types of calls not handled by the Tax Practitioners' Hotline. Tax information inquiries and form requests will not be handled by the Tax Practitioners' Hotline. These calls are handled by our Taxpayer Services Hotline at 609-588-2200. Cases assigned elsewhere in the Division will not be addressed by the Tax Practitioners' Hotline. Practitioners must contact the tax representative already handling the matter.

- This service is for tax practitioners only. The telephone numbers should not be given to clients under any circumstances.
- Power of Attorney. The Division has a statutory obligation to protect the confidentiality of taxpayer information. Division personnel staffing this Hotline will discuss a client's account in general terms and will verify information provided by practitioners who have a Power of Attorney for their clients. New Jersey Division of Taxation Power of Attorney, Form M-5008, must be completed and submitted by practitioners requesting an adjustment to a taxpayer's account. This form must accompany every document submitted unless the taxpayer has specifically authorized his representative with complete jurisdiction until further notice. If this is the case, the authorization Form M-5008 must clearly note the tax periods covered. Form M-5008 is included in the New Jersey

Package NJX for practitioners' convenience.

Power of Attorney Forms M-5008 filed with the Tax Practitioners' Hotline are not valid for any other matters being handled by any other area of the Division. Likewise, Forms M-5008 filed with other areas of the Division do not apply to matters being handled by the Tax Practitioners' Hotline.

- Supporting Documentation.

All corrections and approvals performed at the request of a practitioner must be supported by documentation that has been signed and properly completed. Corrections and approvals will not be made until proper documentation has been received. All correspondence should be addressed to:

NJ DIVISION OF TAXATION
TAXPAYER ACCOUNTING BRANCH
TAX PRACTITIONERS' HOTLINE
PO BOX 266
TRENTON NJ 08646-0266

Correspondence should be marked to the attention of the agent who handled the practitioner's call.

- Waiting Time. Practitioners should wait a reasonable amount of time from the date a return is filed to allow for processing, before calling the Tax Practitioners' Hotline for assistance, and then only if the matter has not been able to be resolved through the Taxpayer Services Hotline. Practitioners should allow a minimum of 30 days from the date the supporting documentation has been sent before making a second call to the Tax Practitioners' Hotline on the same matter. □

ALCOHOLIC BEVERAGE TAX

Liquor License Transfers

The enactment of P.L. 1995, Chapter 161 (signed into law on June 30, 1995) established a Sales and Use Tax reporting and review system for alcoholic beverage wholesalers and retailers. Effective September 1, 1995 a tax clearance certificate from the Division of Taxation is required in order to transfer a retail liquor license. Unlike the requirements for the renewal of a license, which are to be phased in over a period of time, the requirement for transfers pertains to all 21 counties.

The following procedure was established to allow for the transfer of liquor licenses:

1. Before a clearance certificate can be issued, the prospective purchaser of the license must notify the Division of Taxation in writing at least ten (10) days prior to the proposed date of transfer by completing and submitting Form C-9600, Notification of Sale, Transfer or Assignment in Bulk..
2. Upon receipt of a notification of sale, transfer or assignment of a liquor license, the Bulk Sales Section of the Division of Taxation will send the transferee's attorney or agent an escrow agreement requiring signature. This agreement requires the purchaser's representative to hold the stipulated escrow and to release such funds to the Division should a demand be necessitated.
3. Upon receipt of the signed agreement, the Director will issue an Alcoholic Beverage Retail Licensee Clearance Certificate to the transferee's attorney or agent.

NOTE: If the agreed escrow upon which the Alcoholic Beverage Retail Licensee Clearance Certificate was conditioned is not held and remitted on demand, the transferor and the transferee shall be jointly and severally liable for tax deficiencies and subject to the Division of Taxation's collection procedures.

Requests for Form C-9600, Notification of Sale, Transfer or Assignment in Bulk, can be made as follows:

ALCOHOLIC BEVERAGE TAX ABC Clearance Process

The Division of Taxation is conducting the annual review of tax records for all retail liquor licensees throughout the State's twenty-one counties. Granting of a tax clearance certificate is predicated on taxpayer compliance with the following taxes:

- Sales Tax
- Tourism Improvement and Development District Tax (Cape May County Tourism Tax)
- Atlantic City Luxury Tax

If the Division's records indicate no money or returns are due for the taxes listed above, the Division will grant the licensee a tax clearance. If the Division's records indicate money or returns are due, but are for taxes other than the aforementioned taxes, the Division will still grant the licensee a tax clearance. If it is discovered that money or returns are due for Sales Tax, Tourism Improvement and Development District Tax, or the Atlantic City Luxury Tax, the Division will withhold the tax clearance certificate.

In January, the Division mailed notification to all license holders as to their tax clearance status. Licensees that did not receive a letter indicating their clearance status may contact the Division's ABC Clearance Section to get this information. It is very important that licensees with tax problems resolve them well before their submission deadlines for license renewal with their local municipalities. For licensees that owe money or returns, regardless of whether or not they received a clearance, the Division will pursue full compliance with our tax statutes.

Inquiries may be directed to:

ALCOHOLIC BEVERAGE TAX Results of Non-Compliance

Liquor license holders are prohibited from renewing their licenses if they are not in compliance with the Division of Taxation. Licensees in all twenty-one (21) counties are required to obtain a certificate of tax clearance from the Division's ABC Clearance Unit before renewing their licenses with their municipalities.

Over the next several months Field Investigators will be concentrating much of their attention on those taxpayers seeking to renew their liquor licenses but who are not in full compliance with the Division of Taxation. The ABC Clearance Section has sent notices to all licensees in an effort to resolve their outstanding liabilities; however, some taxpayers cannot or will not pay what they owe. Investigators will visit the establishment and discuss with the owners their tax delinquencies and deficiencies.

Field Investigators may be required to seize a liquor license and possibly the assets of a bar, tavern, liquor store, restaurant or other establishment which is non-compliant. During the 1997 calendar year, in which the liquor license holders in only fourteen New Jersey counties were subject to the clearance program, 95 seizures of liquor licenses occurred.

Investigators seize licenses by physically removing the license from the wall where it should be displayed in an active business location. In addition, a warrant of execution is served on the municipal clerk's office or local ABC office. These actions prevent the non-compliant licensee from transferring or renewing the license and, in specific localities, may prevent any sales of liquor from being conducted.

Licenses that are held by non-operating businesses (pocket licenses) which have an outstanding liability are bound by the same criteria as active licenses and therefore are also subject to levy at the local ABC or clerk's office.

If a taxpayer cannot resolve their debt, the Division can auction the license, as well as any other seized business assets and apply the proceeds against the outstanding liabilities. If a balance due remains after the auction, further collection action may be taken against the business owner or corporate officers, including seizing their personal assets for future auction.

Please direct inquiries regarding liquor license holder to the ABC Clearance Section at 609-292-0168 or 609-292-0140. □

LOCAL PROPERTY TAX Revaluation Study Results Available

The Property Administration Branch has compiled a statistical study, by firm, of the revaluations completed during the last five years. The study compares the general coefficient as well as the average ratio prior to the revaluation with the general coefficient and the average ratio for the first six month sampling period and for the next full year sampling period following implementation of the revaluation. Anyone wishing to obtain a copy of the study may do so by calling 609-292-7974. □

LOCAL PROPERTY TAX Tax Assessor Certificates

The tax assessor examination is held in accordance with the Assessor Certification and Tenure Act, which requires that anyone taking office as a tax assessor after July 1, 1971 must hold a tax assessor certificate.

Six persons passed the examination for the tax assessor certificate held on September 27, 1997 and became certified tax assessors on December 8, 1997.

Atlantic County: Margaret M. Schott, Margate City.

Essex County: Howard L. Schottenfeld, Livingston Township.

Middlesex County: Bert L. Buckler, East Brunswick Township; Arthur M. Haney, Old Bridge Township.

Monmouth County: John L. Guyer, III, Oceanport Borough.

Union County: Liborio Firetto, Elizabeth City. □

Criminal Enforcement

Criminal enforcement over the past several months included:

- On October 6, 1997, a bench warrant was issued in Superior Court – Essex County for James M. Kennedy of Montville, NJ, Morris County, for failure to appear at a hearing concerning Kennedy's violation of probation. Kennedy had pleaded guilty in 1992 for failing to remit sales tax collected from 1987 to 1992, and was ordered to make restitution of tax, penalty and interest as a condition of probation. He has made sporadic payments (last payment in June 1997) and currently owes $355,425 in tax, penalty and interest. On November 10, 1997, Kennedy surrendered on the warrant and a Violation of Probation hearing was ordered. On December 8, 1997, Kennedy claimed he has no assets and is unable to abide by the court-ordered restitution plan. The court then terminated his probation, allowing the Division to pursue its civil and administrative remedies to collect the amount due and owing.
- On October 15, 1997, Chris G. Alevras was sentenced to 87 months in prison by a Federal Judge in Newark. Mr. Alevras had committed various frauds wherein he received over $800,000. It was determined that, of this amount, Mr. Alevras fraudulently received over $108,000 in New Jersey gross income tax refunds by utilizing various taxpayer accounts. Appropriate adjustments have been made to correct the taxpayers' accounts. It is unlikely that restitution will be forthcoming in this matter. The Office of Criminal Investigation participated in this investigation with the U.S. Justice Department.

- On October 20, 1997, Emanuel Leonessa, of Hazlet Township, was indicted by a Monmouth County grand jury on charges of theft by deception, uttering a forged instrument, falsifying records, and defrauding secured creditors. Leonessa forged a letter purportedly from the Division of Taxation granting abatement of $6,213.96 penalty and interest on an outstanding judgment against Leonessa for sales tax he owed to the State. He submitted this forged letter to Champion Mortgage, in order to close on a loan. This case was investigated by the Office of Criminal Investigation as a result of a referral from the Division's Bankruptcy Section, and was prosecuted by the Monmouth County Prosecutor's Office.
- On October 27, 1997, a 19 count indictment, alleging official misconduct, theft by deception, misuse of credit cards, theft of services, conspiracy to possess a controlled dangerous substance, failing to file New Jersey tax returns, filing false and fraudulent New Jersey tax returns and failing to register a business, was handed down by a Hudson County Grand Jury. Those indicted were Michael T. Mulvaney of Hoboken, the Executive Director of the Hoboken Housing Tenants' Association and Vice President of the Hoboken

Housing Authority; Helena Mulvaney, the wife of Michael and an employee of the Hoboken Parking Authority; Enrico and Nancy Addeo of Maywood and Robert Bonovitch of North Bergen. The indictments were the result of an extensive joint investigation by the Hudson County Prosecutor's Office and the Office of Criminal Investigation.

- On November 3, 1997, Moshe Levkowitz, of Vineland, plead guilty in Superior Court – Camden County to one count of filing 32 fraudulent sales tax returns from 1989 to 1996, which underreported sales tax collected by Levkowitz's used car dealership, Roey's Auto in Vineland, by $82,821. Levkowitz has agreed to make restitution to the State of $125,000 in tax, penalty and interest. He will be sentenced January 9, 1998, and can face up to five years imprisonment and a fine of up to $250,000. This case was investigated jointly by the Office of Criminal Investigation and the Camden County Prosecutor's Office.
- On November 12, 1997, Satnam Singh, of Palisades Park, was charged with failure to maintain records relating to the disposition of 1,429,118 gallons of diesel fuel sold by Singh's company, Cheema Oil Corp., between November 1994 and May 1997. Singh claimed the fuel was sold for tax-exempt purposes. The amount of tax exemption claimed was $192,930. If convicted, Singh faces up to six months in jail and a fine of up to $1,000. He also faces civil assessment and collection of the tax on the sales alleged to be tax-exempt but unsupported by the required records.

- On December 1, 1997, the Monmouth County Grand Jury returned a six count indictment against Serguei Tsesarenko of Freehold, NJ, owner of United Gas of Freehold, Inc., Howell Township, NJ, alleging tax evasion of over $142,000 in motor fuel taxes. The indictment arose out of an investigation of United Gas of Freehold, Inc. by the New Jersey Division of Taxation, Office of Criminal Investigation, and the Monmouth County Prosecutor's Office. Evidence uncovered during the investigation revealed that Tsesarenko continued to operate his service station for the sale of diesel fuel after May 1997, when the Division of Taxation denied his application to renew his license and ordered him to cease selling special fuels. In late November, Special Agents and Auditors with the Office of Criminal Investigation, along with County Detectives, executed search warrants at the defendant's home, business and accountant's office, seizing business and financial records. The six counts include misapplication of entrusted property, failure to pay over motor fuel taxes, failure to pay motor fuel taxes with intent to evade, failure to file motor fuel tax returns, issuing bad checks, and sale of motor fuels without a Seller/User license. In addition, members of the Office of Criminal Investigation and the Howell Township Police Department executed an arrest warrant. Tsesarenko was placed in Monmouth County Jail in lieu of $100,000 cash bail. Tsesarenko faces up to ten years in prison and a $100,000 fine.

- On December 17, 1997, a State Grand Jury indicted Samuel H. Brangan of Pineville, PA, on charges of failing to file tax returns, failing to pay over tax, misapplication of entrusted property, theft, and misconduct by a corporate official in connection with the theft of $131,416 in sales tax collected and not turned over to the State by KEI Industrial Services, Inc. between 1989 and 1992. During this time, Brangan was the president of KEI, an industrial sewer-line cleaning company operating in New Jersey. As of the date of the indictment, $381,000 in tax, penalty and interest was owed to the State.
- Bhasin Suhirdbir Singh of Northfield, NJ, who was previously charged in two separate municipalities as a result of violations uncovered during the Division's Deficiency / Delinquency project, was fined a total of $1,522. Singh closed both of the involved service stations subsequent to the filing of the complaints and prior to the court hearings. Singh operated the Bargaintown Citgo Service Station in Bargaintown, NJ, and was charged in Egg Harbor Municipal Court with operating an unregistered business and operating without a Motor Fuel Seller/User and Retail Dealer License. Singh pleaded guilty to the charges and was fined a total of $1,215. Singh was also charged in Northfield Municipal Court for licensing violations discovered at his station (Singh Citgo) in Northfield, NJ. Singh pleaded guilty to two (2) licensing violations and was fined a total of $307.

- As a result of the cigarette tax saturation enforcement operation that took place in the summer of 1997, in Ventnor, Longport and Margate, M.T. Shure Company plead guilty to twenty counts of failure to obtain 85 cigarette vending machine licenses. In a plea agreement involving the Trenton Municipal Prosecutor and defense counsel, the defendant corporation was fined the maximum $1,000 per count and assessed $150 in fees per count, for a total of $23,100. Division of Taxation staff from Field Audit, Investigations and the Office of Criminal Investigation conducted this enforcement operation.
- Forty-six guilty pleas for sixteen cases were entered in municipal courts throughout the State during the month by individuals and businesses for non-compliance with the cigarette tax law and motor fuel tax law. In total, the aforementioned cases resulted in the imposition of fines and penalties of $37,835 and the awarding of 7,562.5 cartons of cigarettes, valued at $151,264 to the State.
- One hundred and eleven charges were filed in municipal court on eighteen cases for violating the cigarette tax law and motor fuel tax law. Seven of the cases resulted in the seizure of 1,113.7 cartons of contraband cigarettes, valued at $22,274 and 50.37 cartons of contraband "beedie" cigarettes, valued at $1,007.40. □

Civil Collection Actions Quarter Ending - December 31, 1997

Following is a summary of enforcement actions for the quarter ending December 31, 1997.

Certificates of Debt

During the quarter ended December 31, 1997, the Division filed 3,320 Certificates of Debt in New Jersey Superior Court. These CODs, which have the same force and effect as docketed judgments, totaled $39.9 million.

Levies

$50,603 was collected by levying against payments made under State contracts to satisfy debts owed by State vendors.

Jeopardy Assessments

When a vendor is found to have failed to register his or her business or failed to collect and remit sales taxes or file tax returns, the Division of Taxation has the authority to make an immediate, on-site assessment of tax due (referred to as a "jeopardy assessment") and may seize all available assets to satisfy the on-site tax assessment.

The Division makes jeopardy assessments when there is a danger that a non-compliant vendor will discontinue operations, remove his or her business property and flee the State. This remedy is often necessary in cases involving transient vendors, out-of-State businesses operating in New Jersey, or vendors operating from non-fixed locations, such as roadside sales, flea markets or trade shows.

If the liability is not resolved, the seized property can be sold at public auction and the proceeds

enforcement summary - from pg. 12

used to satisfy the tax debt.

For the quarter ending December 31, 1997, $189,675 was collected from jeopardy assessments.

Seizures

When a liability, for which the Division of Taxation has secured judgments, cannot or will not be satisfied by a taxpayer and all other means of collection of the debt have been exhausted, seizure of the business and personal assets will take place. Field Investigators will close a business, seizing any tangible assets including licenses, inventory, machinery, furniture, vehicles, etc., until arrangements are made for payment of the debt.

For the quarter ending December 31, 1997, property of 28 businesses was seized. Some businesses were able to reopen, others remain closed. A listing of these seizures appears on pages 19-21.

Auctions

If the liability of a business seized by the Division is not satisfied or resolved, the business will remain closed. To satisfy the debt, the Division can sell the business assets at a public auction.

During the quarter ending December 31, 1997, three auctions were held by the Division. A listing follows on page 21.

In the event an auction does not net enough monies to resolve the debt, the Division will execute against the personal assets of any of the business's responsible officers. Responsible officers are held personally liable for the trust fund portion of the debt which includes, but is not limited to, sales tax, withholding tax and motor fuels tax.

Referrals to Attorney General

In cases where the Division has exhausted its administrative remedies without success, referrals are made to the Office of the Attorney General. During the quarter ending December 31, 1997, 519 such cases were referred to the Attorney General's office for additional collection.

Together, the Division's Referral Group and the Attorney General's Collection Unit have collected $1.2 million in revenue during the fourth quarter of 1997.

Liquor License Program

Under a recently enacted State law, applicants for renewal or transfer of a liquor license must receive a certificate of tax clearance from the Division. This program was in effect in seven New Jersey counties in 1996 and added seven additional counties in 1997. The program will be in effect in all 21 New Jersey Counties in 1998.

In addition, the Division is conducting special investigations and audits of liquor license holders. In the past year, the Division has assessed more than $112 million from holders of the various types of licenses subject to audit and collected $105 million. The Division of Taxation expects to collect a total of $150 million during the three-year program.

During the quarter ending December 31, 1997, 178 notifications of liquor license transfer were received by the Division's Bulk Sales section. Thirteen (13) audits relating to this project and previously requested were completed; assessments from these audits totaled $383,931. □

Tax Briefs

Corporation Business tax

Filing Example for Affiliated Group Having Qualifying S Corporation Subsidiaries, an S Corporation Parent and Trusts as Shareholders — The Division of Taxation recently responded to an inquiry involving the following facts:

In November 1996, Corporation A was incorporated and registered to do business in the State of Delaware. It is wholly owned by two U.S. trusts, domiciled and located outside New Jersey and it is not registered to do business in New Jersey. As the result of a series of transactions, it became the parent of Corporation B.

Before January 1, 1997, Corporation B had been owned by two domestic trusts. Corporation B in turn, was the common parent of a consolidated group of corporations filing a consolidated Federal income tax return. Members of the group filed separate state tax returns in those states in which they conducted business.

Effective January 1, 1997, the trusts that are shareholders of Corporation A elected to file for Federal S corporation status for Corporation A. Concurrently each subsidiary (Corporation B and its subsidiaries) elected to be treated as a Qualified Subchapter S Subsidiary (QSSS) for Federal purposes.

For Federal purposes, the shareholders (the trusts) of the consolidated S corporation group are the ultimate taxpayers. All income of Corporation A and its QSSS subsidiaries will flow through to the shareholders (the trusts) and be taxed at the applicable rate. To ensure this flow through of income, separate state S corporation elections were timely filed where required by Corporation A, Corporation B and every subsidiary.

Specifically, a New Jersey S corporation election was filed by Corporation A, Corporation B and Corporation C, a New Jersey subsidiary of Corporation B. The entities could then meet the definitions contained in N.J.S.A. 54:10A-4(o) and N.J.S.A. 54:10A-4(p) for an "S corporation" and a "New Jersey S corporation," respectively.

Estimated corporation business tax payments were remitted for 1997 by or on behalf of the shareholders of Corporation A, i.e. the trusts. No withholding payments were remitted to New Jersey with respect to the trusts' income for the individual beneficiaries of the trusts who are nonresidents of New Jersey. Where applicable, corporate level taxes were paid by the specific corporate entities.

In light of these facts, the Division advised as follows.

For Federal purposes as the result of Federal legislation, an S corporation may own subsidiaries. In light of this change, Instruction 32 of the 1997 New Jersey S corporation business tax return (CBT-100S) provides as follows:

Schedule Q - Qualified Subchapter S Subsidiaries (QSSS):

For the 1997 Corporation Business Tax return year, all Federal S corporations which are treated federally as a Qualified Subchapter S Subsidiary (QSSS) will be recognized accordingly by New Jersey. However, to qualify as a New Jersey QSSS, a copy of Federal Form 966 and a New Jersey Form CBT-2553 signed by a corporate officer in which the corporate parent shareholder consents to taxation by New Jersey must be submitted. The Corporation Business Tax return of the New Jersey QSSS will reflect a $200 minimum tax liability, and its assets, liabilities, income and expenses will be treated as those of the parent corporation. Failure to file either a Federal Form 966 or a New Jersey Form CBT-2553 with the corporate parent's consent to taxation by New Jersey will result in the denial of New Jersey QSSS status and subject the entity to taxation in New Jersey as a C corporation. A New Jersey QSSS, like an S corporation, is required to file annually a Corporation Business Tax Return and annual report.

The present inquiry goes beyond the information contained in the instruction.

First, if the proper application and election forms have been submitted, New Jersey will recognize the existence of a consolidated S corporation group. In its definition of "entire net income" at N.J.S.A.

54:10A-4(d), the New Jersey Corporation Business Income Tax Act relates the income for New Jersey purposes to amounts required to be reported to the U.S. Treasury Department. Thus, assuming the proper election forms have been filed, Corporation B and Corporation C would file New Jersey CBT-100S returns and pay minimum tax, and Corporation A, the parent, would file a New Jersey CBT-100S return reflecting its income and that of its subsidiaries. Corporation A would pay the corporate level tax on its income. Administrative rule N.J.A.C. 18:7-3.6, supplies the applicable tax rates.

Where trusts are shareholders of an S corporation, New Jersey has taken the position that the trust beneficiaries must join in filing the New Jersey CBT-2553 S Corporation Election in addition to the trusts, as shareholders themselves. As such, the nonresident individuals who are the beneficiaries of the nonresident trusts would file and pay New Jersey gross income tax on their share of income from New Jersey sources. This could be done for convenience on a composite return: N.J.A.C. 18:35-1.30. See Form NJ-1080-E.

Second, in this case the upper tier parent corporations, Corporations A and B, should be authorized to do business in New Jersey with the New Jersey Secretary of State's Office, Division of Commercial Recording and registered with the New Jersey Division of Taxation.

237	9/2/97	Establishes the "New Jersey Better Educational Savings Trust (NJBEST) Program" in the Higher Education Assistance Authority. The program will provide a means for families to save for future college costs by, among other things, excluding earnings and distributions from NJBEST accounts from New Jersey gross income for State income tax purposes.	GIT	S-2012 (2R)
245	9/9/97	Amends the Banking Act of 1948 to allow nonprofit corporations to perform certain functions presently reserved to banks. In particular, the bill allows educational institutions to act as trustee of funds in which the institutions have an interest.	MIS	A-2063 (1R)
264	12/19/97	Increases the cigarette tax from $0.02 to $0.04 per cigarette and the tobacco products wholesale sales and use tax from 24% to 48%.	TPT CIG	A-2157 (1R)
273	12/24/97	Permits State funding for the construction of a convention center facility in the Cape May County Tourism Improvement and Development District under certain conditions, and authorizes the New Jersey Sports and Exposition Authority to undertake certain additional projects.	CMC	S-1683 (4R)
278	1/6/98	Facilitates the remediation of contaminated real property by providing for the reimbursement to certified developers of up to 75% of the cost of remediation and for the establishment of a mechanism to fund such reimbursements. The new law also amends the property tax provisions of the "Environmental Opportunity Zone Act," P.L. 1995, c.413, to require municipalities participating in the program to provide exemptions from real property taxes for environmental opportunity zones and allows such exemptions to be extended to fifteen years at the municipality's option.	MIS	SCS for S-39, A-2250 ACS, S-1815 and 1539 (2R)
293	1/8/98	Exempts receipts from the sale of tangible personal property used directly and primarily on farms (with the exception of automobiles and property which becomes incorporated into a building or structure) from the Sales and Use Tax Act.	S&U	S-1248 (1R)
333	1/12/98	Exempts from the sales tax receipts from imprinting services performed on machinery, apparatus or equipment for use or consumption directly and primarily in the production of tangible personal property for sale by manufacturing, processing, assembling or refining and exempt from taxation pursuant to subsection a. of section 25 of P.L. 1980, c.105 (C.54:32B-8.13). tax briefs - from page 14

Third, estimated corporation taxes should be remitted by Corporations A, B and C for 1998 as was done in 1997, and estimated New Jersey gross income taxes should be remitted by the trusts on behalf of the beneficiaries with regard to income derived from New Jersey sources. (Also see NJ QSSS Estimated Payments on page 3 of this issue.)

Fourth, the Federal treatment of S corporations has been adopted in so far as that is possible under the applicable New Jersey statutes. Corporations A and B are subject to tax in New Jersey by virtue of it being their place of business.

Gross Income Tax

NJ/PA Reciprocal Agreement — The reciprocal agreement between Pennsylvania and New Jersey only applies to wages. A Pennsylvania resident receiving income from any other New Jersey source must report the income to New Jersey. The sources of income subject to New Jersey taxation would include but not be limited to: 1099, partnership K-1, S corporation K-1 or sole proprietor income earned in New Jersey.

A nonresident who is a partner in a partnership or a shareholder in an S corporation that does business in New Jersey is subject to tax on the income reported on the K-1 received from their investment. This income is taxable whether it is received or not. Intangible income—interest and dividends—are not taxable to nonresidents of New Jersey.

A resident who is a partner in a partnership or a shareholder in an S corporation is subject to tax on the income reported on the K-1 received from their investment.

A partner holding an interest in a partnership for others or as part of a group of owners has an obligation to inform the partnership of the nominee arrangement (See Temporary Regulation 1.6031(c)-1T). If this reporting obligation is not met the nominee is to furnish the other person(s) with a written statement containing the distributive share of partnership income, gain, loss, deduction, or credit, etc. that is allocable to such interest in the partnership. The nominee failing to properly notify the other parties to the nominee agreement can be held liable for the K-1 as reported to the nominee.

New York's Commuter Tax — In New York State, the taxpayer's income from all sources is used to determine the tax rate and a base tax. The base tax is then reduced in the proportion that the taxpayer's income earned from New York sources bears to income earned from all sources. This method of calculating the tax increases the tax due to New York because the nonresident taxpayer is placed in a higher income tax rate category than would be the case if only New York source income were used to determine tax rate. However, the amount of income which is actually being taxed by the State of New York is the New York source income.

New York's method of calculating the tax on nonresidents is not within the power of New Jersey to change. A challenge to the constitutionality of New York's personal income tax as it applied to nonresidents was dismissed in Federal court for lack of jurisdiction; the court held that the taxpayers had an adequate remedy in New York courts. Hardwick v. Cuomo, 891 F.2d 1097 (1989).

The issue was subsequently litigated in New York State courts in the case of Brady, et al. v. State of New York et al., 607 N.E.2d 1060 (1992). In Brady, the New York Court of Appeals, New York State's highest court, upheld the ruling of the New York Supreme Court, Appellate Division, that in the case where one spouse works in New York and the other spouse does not, the individual can elect to file as married, filing separately. In this way, the income of the nonresident spouse who does not work in New York will not be used to determine the tax rate and base tax. However, the court also ruled that under New York's method for calculating a nonresident's tax, the income from non-New York sources was not used for anything other than as a measurement of the tax due on New York income. Therefore, the use of all sources of income was used solely to determine the rate of tax to be applied to New York source income.

New Jersey residents receive a credit for taxes they pay to New York State. N.J.S.A. 54A:4-1 of the New Jersey Gross Income Tax Act provides resident taxpayers with a credit against the tax otherwise due under the Act of the amount of any income tax or wage tax imposed for the taxable year by another state or political subdivision thereof with respect to income which is actually taxed in both jurisdictions.

Punitive Damage Awards — New Jersey's Gross Income Tax law

excludes from income "the amount of damages received, whether by suit or agreement, on account of personal injuries or sickness." N.J.S.A. 54A:6-6(b). Compensatory damages from personal injury claims are excluded from gross income under this section. Punitive damages, however, are not excluded from income.

Prior to 1996, the New Jersey Gross Income Tax Act and the Federal Internal Revenue Code used very similar language for income from personal injury claims. Both New Jersey and Federal law excluded income that was damages received "on account of personal injuries or sickness." Prior to amendment in 1996, IRC section 104(a)(2) excluded from income "the amount of any damages received (whether by suit or agreement and whether as lump sums or as periodic payments) on account of personal injuries or sickness." The 1996 amendment inserted the parenthetical clause, "(other than punitive damages)" after the words, "any damages" in the Federal statute.

Even before the Internal Revenue Code section was amended, the Supreme Court held that punitive damages received in a suit in connection with physical injuries or physical sickness are not "on account of" the personal injuries and are therefore not excludable from gross income. O'Gilvie, Kelly v. U.S., (1996, U.S. S. Ct.). A district court in the Tenth Circuit had already concluded that punitive damages in a case involving personal injury were not received "on account of" personal injuries or sickness and were therefore not excludable from income under Code Sec. 104(a)(2). Lane, Kari v.

U.S., (1995, DC OK). In Lane, the Court's rationale was that because the purpose of punitive damages under applicable state law was to punish the tort-feasor rather than to compensate the tort victim, the portion of settlement proceeds allocated to punitive damages was not received "on account of" personal injury.

New Jersey follows the reasoning of the U.S. Supreme Court in its interpretation of the phrase, "damages received on account of personal injuries or sickness." Under New Jersey law, therefore, punitive damages resulting from personal injury claims are included in gross income for tax purposes pursuant to N.J.S.A. 54A:5-1e.

Cafeteria Plans — Although IRC §125 excludes from Federal taxable income benefits received by a taxpayer through a cafeteria plan, the New Jersey Gross Income Tax Act does not contain any provisions similar to IRC Section 125. Consequently, for New Jersey gross income tax purposes, any amounts which an employee may elect to contribute into a cafeteria plan through a salary reduction agreement must be included in gross wages unless such contributions are required as a condition of employment. In addition, employer provided benefit dollars that the employee may use to purchase benefits or may take out in cash must also be included in gross wages. Only benefit dollars that are provided by the employer which must, under the terms of the cafeteria plan, be used to purchase qualified benefits and cannot be "cashed in," may be excluded from gross income.

N.J.S.A. 54A:6-24, which became effective on January 1, 1996, authorizes a limited exclusion from gross income for certain plans. If under the terms of the plan an employee can receive cash in lieu of qualified employer-provided benefits only if the employee derives a substantially similar benefit from a source other than the employer, then the value of the cash option shall not be included in the gross wages of those employees who do not elect to receive cash if the value of the cash option is excludable for Federal income tax purposes. However, this exclusion does not apply to benefits provided under a "salary reduction agreement." A "salary reduction agreement" is defined as:

an agreement between an employer and an employee under which the employee individually chooses to reduce the employee's compensation, or to forgo increases in compensation, and to have the amount provided, as an employer-provided benefit, by the employer to the employee; including but not limited to the agreements commonly known as flexible spending accounts and premium conversion options.

If the terms of a cafeteria plan require that the benefits which an employee receives must be included in New Jersey gross wages then the employer must withhold from the gross amount.

Property Tax Deduction for Principal Residence — The Property Tax Deduction Act, N.J.S.A. 54A:3A-15 et seq., enacted in 1996, provides a deduction or a credit from income taxes for property taxes paid on a homestead. Under the Act, "homestead" is defined as "a dwelling house and the land on which that dwelling house is located which constitutes the place of the taxpayer's domicile and is owned and used by the taxpayer as the taxpayer's principal residence." N.J.S.A. 54A:3A-16 (emphasis added). "Principal residence" is further defined in the statute as "a homestead actually and continually occupied by a taxpayer as the taxpayer's permanent residence, as distinguished from a vacation home, property owned and rented or offered for rent by the taxpayer, and other secondary real property holdings." N.J.S.A. 54A:3A-16. The NJ-1040 instructions regarding the property tax deduction/credit (Lines 35 and 43) state that the deduction is only available for a principal residence which is occupied by the taxpayer. Thus, paying taxes on a residence does not qualify the taxpayer for the deduction/credit unless the dwelling is also the taxpayer's principal residence.

School Board Worker's Compensation — Under the New Jersey Gross Income Tax Act, amounts received by an employee through an accident or health insurance plan for personal injuries or sickness are not subject to tax. N.J.S.A. 54A:6-6(c). In order to qualify for the exclusion, all of the following requirements must be met:

1. The payments must be compensation for wage loss from absence due to injury or sickness; and
2. The payments must be due and payable under an enforceable contractual obligation under the plan; and
3. The payments must not relate to sick leave wage continuation (the taking of which is largely discretionary and the payments are made regardless of the reason for absence from work). N.J.A.C. 18:35-1.15 (b).

New Jersey school boards must make payments to an employee injured on the job under N.J.S.A. 18A:30-2.1. The statute requires that "whenever any employee, entitled to sick leave under this chapter, is absent from his post of duty as a result of a personal injury caused by an accident arising out of and in the course of his employment, his employer shall pay to such employee the full salary or wages for the period of such absence for up to one calendar year without having such absence charged to the annual sick leave or the accumulated sick leave provided in sections 18A:30-2 and 18A:30-3." N.J.S.A. 18A:30-2.1. As long as the employee is disabled and the disability is work-related, the school district is legally obligated to provide the benefit. Such benefits are considered by the Division to be in the nature of worker's compensation payments. Therefore, the school board payments satisfy the requirements for New Jersey income tax exclusion provided by N.J.S.A. 54A:6-6(c).

Interest Accumulated on a Life Insurance Policy — Under the New Jersey Gross Income Tax Act, specific categories of income are taxed. One such taxable category is interest. N.J.S.A. 54A:5-1(e). In addition, N.J.S.A. 54A:8-3(c) requires that a taxpayer's accounting method for gross income tax purposes be the same as his accounting method for Federal income tax purposes. Taxable interest for Federal purposes is also taxable for gross income tax purposes. Accordingly, the interest accumulated on a life insurance policy is taxable in New Jersey to the same extent as under Federal guidelines.

Sales and Use Tax

Dance Hall Admission Charges

— The Division recently determined that the admission or "cover" charge paid for admission to dance halls in New Jersey is taxable as an admission charge to, or for the use of, any place of amusement.

The statutory exception for charges to a patron for admission to, or use of, facilities for sporting activities in which such patron is to be a participant, such as bowling alleys and swimming pools, does not apply since listening to music and dancing are not considered a "sporting activity" within the meaning of the exception. N.J.S.A. 54:32B-3(e)(1).

Cleaning of Newly Constructed Homes

— Cleaning and maintenance services performed on model houses and newly constructed homes prior to the issuance of a Certificate of Occupancy and sale of the homes are subject to sales tax as services performed in maintaining, servicing or repairing real property. N.J.S.A. 54:32B-3(b)(4). The rendering of these services results neither in an increase in the capital value of the real property upon which they are performed nor in a significant increase in its useful life. N.J.A.C. 18:24-5.7. Consequently, such services do not qualify for exemption from tax under N.J.S.A. 54:32B-3(b)(2)(v).

Beauty Consulting — The Division responded to an inquiry regarding the taxability of services and merchandise sold by a beauty consultant under the Sales and Use

Tax Act.

The services of rendering advice, applying cosmetics, styling hair and doing "makeovers" are deemed nontaxable personal services. If small amounts of cosmetics are transferred to the client as an inconsequential element of the service transactions and no separate charges are made for these items, the entire charge is nontaxable. N.J.S.A. 54:32B-2(e)(4)(A).

However, if the beauty consultant also sells "beauty products" to customers, she must collect tax on these sales regardless of whether she personally delivers them to her customers or has her supplier drop ship them directly to her customers in New Jersey.

Hospital Beds — The Division was asked to review the taxability of specialty hospital beds under certain conditions. These beds are used by patients in hospitals, nursing centers, etc., but the cost is directly billed to the patient, referred to as private pay billing.

The New Jersey Sales and Use Tax Act provides that medical equipment which is purchased for use in providing medical services for compensation is subject to sales tax; durable medical equipment purchased by a patient for home use is entitled to exemption. N.J.S.A. 54:32B-8.1. In general, when a hospital or nursing home purchases or rents equipment, including beds, for use in the facility, such charges are taxable unless the facility is a qualified exempt organization under N.J.S.A. 54:32B-9.

Conversely, if the patient is discharged, and purchases or rents a hospital bed for home use, the sale or rental charge is exempt from tax. The situation at issue is a hybrid of these two scenarios because the bed is used at the facility, yet the patient is directly responsible for payment.

In order to give effect to the legislative intent as expressed in N.J.S.A. 54:32B-8.1, the Division will consider the direct rental of the hospital bed to "private pay" patients in medical care facilities to be exempt from New Jersey sales tax as durable medical equipment. Thus, billings to patients for specialty hospital beds in private pay situations are not required to include sales tax.

Sale of Freshly Baked Pretzels —

The Division responded to an inquiry concerning the following facts: "Our client makes fresh, hot pretzels, and sells them in the mall. The client makes these pretzels from scratch using flour, yeast, salt, water, basically the same ingredients as bread, and bakes them on premises. Since the pretzels are made from scratch, we are wondering if sales tax is applicable to these baked goods."

Pursuant to N.J.S.A. 54:32B-3(c) of the Sales and Use Tax Act, sales of food in an unheated state of a type commonly sold in the same form and condition in food stores, other than those principally engaged in selling prepared foods, are granted exemption from sales tax in this State. Thus, for example, sales of various baked foods (cake, bread, cookies, donuts, etc.) by the dozen or part thereof are not taxable whether vended for off-premises consumption in a supermarket or at a stand or storefront in a mall. Freshly baked pretzels are included in the above category of baked goods.

This statutory exemption, however, is limited to food sold in an unheated state. The determination of whether food is sold in a heated state is made according to the vendor's method of merchandising. If food is maintained at a temperature which is warmer than the surrounding air temperature by using heat lamps, warming trays, ovens or similar devices, or is cooked to order, the food is deemed heated and sales are subject to sales tax whether or not intended for off-premises consumption.

School Bus Purchases — The Division responded to an inquiry about the sales tax treatment of a contract carrier's purchase of stop sign arms, radios and air conditioning and the labor for installing them in school buses that the carrier already owns.

N.J.S.A. 54:32B-8.28 exempts from sales and use tax the purchase of the buses themselves and of "repair and replacement parts and labor therefor." The Division views the additional equipment installations as exempt under this provision if they are essential to the operation of the school bus, e.g., the stop sign arm, or if they are standard pieces of equipment of the type that is available from a manufacturer in newly purchased vehicles. Under this standard, the installation of air conditioning and basic (not CB) radio systems in a school bus would be deemed exempt.

To support this exemption, the carrier should present a completed Form ST-4 (Exempt Use Certificate) to each vendor of the parts and installation services. "N.J.S.A. 54:32B-8.28" should be entered in the box on the form to indicate the legal basis for the exemption.

In Our Courts

Gross Income Tax Insurance Proceeds From Involuntary Conversion of Property – Tischler v. Director, Division of Taxation, decided January 20, 1998; Tax Court; No. 000616-97.

In a case of first impression, the Tax Court held that involuntary conversion of property is a disposition of property under N.J.S.A. 54A:5-1(c) and therefore gain is recognized (to the extent that the proceeds exceed the property's adjusted basis) in the tax year the non-reinvested insurance proceeds are received. The Court also ruled that the doctrine of equitable estoppel does not bar the Division from imposing a tax, after the tax was previously paid and erroneously refunded, where Division employees provided incorrect advice as to taxability. Finally, the Court held that taxpayer must receive the Division's erroneous written advice prior to acting on that position in order to be relieved of paying interest on those tax liabilities attributable to that erroneous advice.

Local Property Tax Business Retention Act Found Constitutional – General Motors Corporation v. City of Linden, Supreme Court of New Jersey A-106 September Term 1996, decided July 21, 1997.

The Supreme Court affirmed the Appellate Division decision that the Business Retention Act, Public Law 1992, c.24, was constitutional because it may reasonably be interpreted in a manner that does not create an unconstitutional exemption for real property from taxation that would favor business or industry. See also New Jersey State Tax News, Vol. 25, No. 4.

“Officiating Clergyman” Exemption Denied – Friends of Ahi Ezer Congregation, Inc., Plaintiff v. City of Long Branch, Defendant, decided June 19, 1997, Tax Court of New Jersey, Docket No. 007501-95.

In this local property tax complaint, the key question addressed by the N.J. Tax Court was what was meant by “officiating clergymen” relative to the parsonage exemption available under N.J.S.A. 54:4-3.6. The pertinent statute requires that the buildings, not exceeding two, be occupied as a parsonage by the officiating clergymen of any religious corporation of this State.

St. Matthew’s Lutheran Church for the Deaf v. Division of Tax Appeals, 18 N.J. Super. at 558 (1952), previously defined “officiating clergyman” as “a settled or incumbent pastor or minister, that is, a pastor installed over a parish, church or congregation.” The American Heritage Dictionary, Second College Edition defines “officiating” as “1. to perform the duties and functions of an office or position of authority. 2. to serve as a priest or minister at a religious service.”

In this decision, the Tax Court considered the extent of the clergyman’s activities as the guiding criterion. Three Saturday mornings per month Rabbi Maslaton conducted the Bible (Torah) reading portion of the religious service at Ohel Simha synagogue, requiring about 15 hours preparation time per week. He also taught religious classes at the synagogue and at his home, the disputed property. In addition, every Friday afternoon he held religious services at an affiliated nonexempt nursing home and oversighted the maintenance of their “Kosher kitchen.”

The Court, in its analysis, compared the position and functions of an ordained deacon with the deacon’s administrator and pastor for the congregation in Shrine of Our Lady of Fatima v. Mantua Twp., 12 N.J. Tax 392 (1992). Since the “vast bulk” of the congregation’s religious services were performed by the pastor/administrator, the deacon was not deemed the officiating clergyman and his residence was not exempt. In Goodwill Home and Missions, Inc. v. Garwood Borough, 281 N.J. Super. 596 (1995), an administrative director who “took on the direct supervisory responsibility of pastor rather than having somebody...helping me with it” was ruled an officiating clergyman whose dwelling did qualify as a parsonage.

In summary, the Court concluded that although Rabbi Maslaton contributed to the synagogue on a regular basis and Rabbi Choueka relied heavily on his assistance, he was not an officiating clergyman.

Testimony given by Rabbi Choueka, the synagogue’s rabbi of 15 years, indicated that he, himself, was the only officiating rabbi. Choueka’s duties included conducting services, giving sermons, teaching, counseling, etc. By contrast, many of Rabbi Maslaton’s duties could also be performed by volunteer lay congregants and Bar Mitzvah students. Maslaton had no direct responsibility for religious services—did not preside over the service nor present the sermon; had no decision making role in synagogue nor counseling functions; and did not officiate at funerals or weddings. He was not the pulpit rabbi. Neither could parsonage exemption be derived from Rabbi Maslaton’s duties at the nursing home. The nursing home was not a place of public worship as a church or synagogue, nor was it a nonprofit tax exempt entity. Therefore, Monmouth County Tax Board’s assessing of the residence was sustained. However, the 1995 value at $191,600 having been alternately contested was scheduled for further hearing.

Eligibility for Assessment as Farmland Denied – James I. Wyer, Plaintiff, v. Middletown Township, Defendant. Tax Court of New Jersey, Decided June 19, 1997, Docket Nos. 008699-95 & 006272-96.

At issue before the New Jersey Tax Court was whether a wooded land parcel of 6.33 acres, known as Lot 1, having nectar producing trees and planted with clover was actively devoted to the cultivation of bees and sale of apiary products, a qualifying agricultural use under the Farmland Assessment Act of 1964, N.J.S.A. 54:4-23.1 et seq., and as such, eligible for the reduced assessment for tax years 1995 and 1996.

Although Lot 1 had no beehives the taxpayer contended the trees' existence and planted clover was sufficient farm activity. An adjacent farm-qualified lot had ten hives which were actively devoted since 1993. Taxpayer's professional beekeeper testified as to clover's importance for pollination and the trees for nectar sources. According to the keeper, bees forage at the closest nectar source within one-half mile of the hive and the disputed Lot 1 was only a short distance away. However, Lot 1 was not a primary nectar source; the keeper indicated that other closer adjacent lots had the same nectar sources as Lot 1 and that open meadow was preferable to woodland. The bees were just as likely to forage the other lots and the surrounding countryside.

The Tax Court ruled the taxpayer failed to show proof that he had planted or maintained the trees, that the bees needed Lot 1's quality or quantity of clover, what amount of land was necessary to support honey production of off-site bees, that the amount of honey produced would decrease if Lot 1 had no clover or that there was any bee activity on Lot 1. Because clover was not planted until 1994 and no activity was substantiated for 1993, the two successive years active devotion requirement for 1995 farm assessment was not satisfied. Also planting clover was insufficient for farm qualification for 1996.

The Court also ruled that Lot 1 did not qualify as appurtenant woodland. Taxpayer did not prove that Lot 1 was legally and functionally part of apiary use or reasonably necessary for maintenance of the beehives and honey production. Parcels were separate tax line items with distinct physical characteristics and unintegrated purposes. Lot 1 was not marginal, untillable land area with no independent productive use but rather was capable of its own agricultural productivity. Trees and clover could have been cut and sold for firewood or hay component forage crops respectively. The judgments of the County Tax Board were affirmed.

Sale for Resale – Boardwalk Regency Corp. t/a Caesar's Atlantic City Hotel and Casino v. Director, Division of Taxation, decided January 21, 1998; Tax Court; No. 006294-96.

Providing patrons with complimentary beverages is not legally sufficient consideration that would allow the purchase of the beverages to be exempt under the sale-for-resale exemption. Furthermore, per statute the Director is prohibited from entering into closing agreements that are either disadvantageous to the State or where there is no definite ending period.

The parties stipulated to the following facts: (1) Plaintiff (BRC) purchased nonalcoholic carbonated beverages free of sales tax by issuing ST-3 resale certificates to various suppliers, which certified that BRC was purchasing the products for resale; (2) a portion of these purchases were provided to patrons for no monetary consideration and neither sales nor use tax was paid on these transactions; (3) prior to the assessment the Director entered into three closing agreements with BRC, in accordance with N.J.S.A. 54:53-1, the second of which provided that “[no] sales or use tax will be imposed on the provision of complimentary meals or complimentary liquor effective January 1, 1986;” and (4) that non-alcoholic beverages were included within the term “complimentary meals.”

The Division assessment taxed the purchase price of nonalcoholic carbonated beverages provided to patrons at no charge. BRC contested and advanced two theories for nontaxability. First, it claimed that these purchases qualified as “sales for resale” and that although it received consideration (inducement for patrons to gamble), the consideration is non-monetary and therefore not subject to tax. Secondly, BRC claimed that the closing agreement prohibits the assessment.

The Court found that the resale exemption provision provides that where purchased property is intended to be resold, the initial purchase is exempt from tax and the property's subsequent resale is subject to tax based upon the amount of consideration. However, if the purchaser does not carry through with its intention to resell the items purchased under the sale-for-resale exemption, the exemption disappears and the compensating use tax provision becomes operative to tax the purchase.

In addressing the sale-for-resale issue, the Court first determined that the transfer of beverages to patrons at no charge to induce them to gamble did not constitute consideration. Resorting to consideration's common-law definition, the Court determined that consideration did not exist because if a patron was denied a drink, the patron would have no enforceable rights against BRC. Therefore, the Court held that there was no resale and that BRC owed use tax on the purchase price of beverages that were not resold because it became the end user of the beverages.

Turning to the agreements between BRC and the Director, the Court found that the language of the agreement concerning the issue at hand only applied to transactions between BRC and its patrons not the transactions between BRC and its suppliers. Furthermore, the Court found N.J.S.A. 54:53-1 allows the Director only to enter into closing agreements concerning tax liabilities where there is a definite ending period and where the State will not be disadvantaged. Therefore, the Court ruled that even if the Director intended to release BRC from tax liability on the purchase transaction between it and its suppliers that the Director would have exceeded his powers and the agreement would be void because the agreement does not provide for an ending period and the elimination of this tax liability can not be construed to be advantageous to the State.

Trump Plaza Associates t/a Trump Plaza Hotel and Casino v. Director, Division of Taxation, decided January 21, 1998; Tax Court; No. 007936-96.

The facts are the same as those in the case of Boardwalk Regency Corp. except that these consolidated cases also involve complimentary alcohol drinks. Under the holding and reasoning in Boardwalk Regency Corp., the Court held that purchases of alcohol did not qualify for the sale-for-resale exemption where the casino provided complimentary alcoholic beverages to its customers. Consequently, use tax was due on the purchase price.

Adamar of New Jersey t/a Trop-world Casino & Entertainment Resort v. Director, Division of Taxation, decided October 1, 1997; Tax Court; No. 005059-96.

In consolidated cases, plaintiffs (hotels) sought refunds under the sale-for-resale exemption on sales tax it paid relating to purchases of various hotel amenities it provided to its customers including writing pads, stationery, postcards, pens, matches, sewing kits, shoeshine cloths or pads, soap, shampoo, conditioner, shower caps, lotion, shower gel and mouthwash.

In this case of first impression, the Court held that the amenities were not sold to guests and therefore did not qualify for the resale exemption because (1) the amenities were not sold "as such" as they are "inseparably connected" to the services provided by the hotel; and (2) they were not sold as "a component part of a product produced for sale" as the amenities are not incorporated into the room and the room is not a product produced for sale. Furthermore, the Court found that the tax imposed on the rental of hotel rooms is a tax on the rental of the rooms not the resale of amenities. The reasoning underlying this decision is that the "true object" concerning a room rental is not the acquisition of amenities but the use of the room. □

Funding for Convention Center and Other Projects in Tourism District — P.L. 1997, c.273 (signed into law on December 24, 1997) permits State funding for the construction of a convention center facility in the Cape May County Tourism Improvement and Development District under certain conditions, and authorizes the New Jersey Sports and Exposition Authority to undertake certain additional projects.

Corporation Business Tax Tax Benefit Transfer Program — P.L. 1997, c.334 (signed into law on January 12, 1998) directs the New Jersey Economic Development Authority to establish a corporation business tax benefit certificate transfer program to allow certain emerging technology and biotechnology companies with unused research and development tax credits and unused net operating loss carryovers to surrender those tax benefits for use by other corporate business taxpayers in the State. The measure applies to tax years beginning on or after January 1, 1999.

Small New Jersey-based High-Technology Business Investment Tax Credit Act — P.L. 1997, c.349 (signed into law on January 15, 1998) authorizes a credit under the Corporation Business Tax Act for investments in small, New Jersey-based high-technology businesses that conduct research here. The tax credit would be equal to 10% of the investment up to a maximum allowed credit of $500,000 for the tax year for each qualified investment made by the taxpayer. An unused credit may be carried for-

ward for use in future years, subject to a $500,000 per year limitation. The measure applies to qualified investments made during each of the three tax years beginning on or after January 1, 1999.

Extended Net Operating Loss Deduction Carryforward Period — P.L. 1997, c.350 (signed into law on January 15, 1998) provides for a 15 year net operating loss deduction carryforward under the corporation business tax for certain high-technology companies. The act applies to net operating losses which occur during privilege periods which begin on or after July 1, 1998, but no later than June 30, 2001.

Extended Carryforward of Research and Development Tax Credits — P.L. 1997, c.351 (signed into law on January 15, 1998) provides for a 15 year carryforward of research and development tax credits for certain high-technology companies. The act applies to qualified research expenses incurred and basic research payments made during privilege periods which begin on or after July 1, 1998, but no later than June 30, 2001.

Exemption for Shipping and Aircraft Operation Income — P.L. 1997, c.413 (signed into law on January 19, 1998) exempts from New Jersey corporation business tax the income derived from shipping and aircraft operations of those foreign national corporations whose home countries exempt such income of U.S. corporations. This legislation takes effect immediately.

Military Pension Exclusion — P.L. 1997, c.409 (signed into law on January 19, 1998) excludes from New Jersey gross income tax the United States military pensions and survivor's benefits of persons 62 years of age or older or disabled. This legislation applies to tax years beginning on or after January 1, 1998.

Medical Savings Accounts — P.L. 1997, c.414 (signed into law on January 19, 1998) establishes certain standards and provides certain tax exclusions and deductions for medical savings accounts which qualify under section 220 of the Internal Revenue Code of 1986, 26 U.S.C. § 220. This act is effective for tax years beginning on or after January 1, 1998.

Local Property Tax

Homestead Property Tax Reimbursement for Certain Seniors & Disabled — P.L. 1997, c.348 (signed into law on January 14, 1998) provides for a homestead property tax reimbursement to certain homeowners and certain owners of manufactured or mobile homes. To qualify, the homeowner must be 65 or more years of age or receiving Federal Social Security disability benefits and have an annual income of less than $17,918, if single, or a combined income of less than $21,970 if married. Income eligibility limits will increase annually by the amount of the maximum Social Security benefit cost of living increase for single and married persons, respectively.

Sales and Use Tax

Exemption for Property Used on Farms — P.L. 1997, c.293 (signed into law on January 8, 1998) exempts from sales and use tax receipts from the sale of tangible personal property used directly and primarily in the production for sale of tangible personal property on farms. Automobiles and property incorporated into a building or structure do not qualify for the exemption. This legislation takes effect immediately.

Exemption for Certain Imprinting Services — P.L. 1997, c.333 (signed into law on January 12, 1998) exempts from sales tax receipts from imprinting services performed on machinery, apparatus or equipment for use or consumption directly and primarily in the production of tangible personal property for sale by manufacturing, processing, assembling or refining and exempt from taxation pursuant to subsection a. of section 25 of P.L. 1980, c.105 (C.54:32B-8.13).

Tobacco Taxes

Rate Increases — P.L. 1997, c.264 (signed into law on December 19, 1997) increases the cigarette tax from $0.02 to $0.04 per cigarette and increases the tobacco products wholesale sales and use tax from 24% to 48% effective January 1, 1998.

Cigarette Tax Licensing Requirements for Retail Drugstore Chains — P.L. 1997, c.373 (signed into law on January 19, 1998) exempts officers and employees of drugstores and pharmacies engaged in the retail sale of prescription drugs and patent medicines from the fingerprinting requirements of the cigarette tax licensing provisions. This legislation is effective immediately.

Miscellaneous

Brownfield and Contaminated Site Remediation Act — P.L. 1997, c.278 (signed into law on January 6, 1998) makes various changes in the law in order to facilitate the remediation of contaminated real property. The Act provides for the reimbursement of up to 75% of the cost of remediation to certified developers and stipulates the requirements for certification. A special fund, to be known as the Brownfield Site Reimbursement Fund, will be established and credited with an amount that equals the percent of remediation costs expected to be reimbursed. A special account within the Fund will be created for each qualified developer.

The legislation also amends the property tax provisions in the Environmental Opportunity Zone Act, P.L. 1995, c.413, to require that the governing body of a municipality shall, by ordinance, provide for exemptions of real property taxes for environmental opportunity zones if the municipality participates in the program and allows the property tax exemption to be extended to fifteen years, at the option of the municipality, if the qualified property is to be remediated with a limited restricted use remedial action or an unrestricted use remedial action. The property tax exemption will end if the difference between the real property taxes otherwise due and payments made in lieu of those taxes equals the total remediation cost for the qualified real property. □

Sale of Principal Residence

As this issue of the New Jersey State Tax News goes to press, a bill which would bring New Jersey's treatment of the gain on the sale of a taxpayer's principal residence in line with the Federal treatment is moving through the legislative process. If this bill is signed in its current form, it would be effective for the 1997 tax year and may affect State returns filed earlier in the tax season.

Important Tax Tip

It is very important to accurately report the county/municipality code when completing the New Jersey income tax return. All county/municipality codes are listed on pages 41-42 of the NJ-1040 booklet—carefully transfer the correct code for the county and municipality of the current residence (not necessarily the mailing address) to the appropriate boxes on the top, left-hand corner of Form NJ-1040.

Changing Business Tax Information

Form REG-C, used by businesses in New Jersey to report changes in filing status and business activity, or to change identification information (i.d. number, name, address, etc.) is included in Package NJX, both printed and CD-ROM versions, and is also available for downloading from the Division's home page at: <http://www.state.nj.us/treasury/taxation/> From our home page, click on Print Tax Forms and select the Tax Registration section, where you will find Form REG-C.

Replacing Lost Coupon Booklets

To obtain a replacement for a lost sales and use tax (Form ST-50/51) or employer withholding (Form NJ-500/941) coupon booklet, call our Tax Hotline at (609) 588-2200. If the business is registered and is eligible to collect and remit the tax, the Hotline representative will order the appropriate forms and instruct the caller on how to file informally until the replacement forms are received.

Director Gardiner Retires

Retiring Director Richard D. Gardiner (left) congratulates Robert K. Thompson on his recent appointment as Acting Director of the New Jersey Division of Taxation.

On November 5, 1997, Richard D. Gardiner, Director, Division of Taxation, announced his retirement from State Government effective December 1, 1997. Dick was a career civil servant who in 1991 retired after 32 years of service. He returned as Director in June of 1994. We all wish Dick well in his future endeavors.

Deputy Director Robert K. Thompson has been named Acting Director. Bob actually returns to that position, having served in this same capacity from February 1994 until Dick's appointment. □

State Tax News Celebrates 25th Anniversary

The first edition of the State Tax News made its debut in June 1972. Our title became the New Jersey State Tax News in November 1978. The newsletter was envisioned as an important source of tax information for both tax practitioners and the general public. Considerable effort has been made over the years to develop a publication which would fulfill one of the Division's chief goals — the public's right to know.

Come visit 1972 with us to see how much you remember from 25 years ago and celebrate our 25th anniversary with us on page 12. □

TeleFile Program Expansion

Due to the success of the 1996 TeleFile program, the Division has expanded its TeleFile program for 1997. New Jersey residents can now TeleFile if their gross income for 1997 is $150,000 or less and consists only of wages, interest ($1,000 or less) or dividends ($1,000 or less). Last year the total income threshold for NJ TeleFile was $75,000, and taxpayers were limited to $400 in interest and $400 in dividends. Raising these income thresholds means that more than 1.3 million New Jersey residents may be eligible to TeleFile their State income tax returns this year.

In addition to increasing the gross income threshold, the Division has purchased additional computer hardware and software and installed additional telephone lines. This expansion will allow the Division to increase the eligible TeleFile population by over 300,000 taxpayers while maintaining the goal of providing 24 hour a day service during the 1997 filing season.

Taxpayers who TeleFiled their NJ returns last year will automatically be mailed 1997 NJ TeleFile booklets. In addition, every 1997 New Jersey resident income tax return booklet (Form NJ-1040-P) will contain a TeleFile worksheet and instructions. The Division encourages all eligible residents to take advantage of NJ TeleFile. It offers New Jersey residents the fastest, easiest and most convenient method of filing their State tax returns. Best of all, refunds are mailed within two weeks.

As a reminder to tax practitioners — you are eligible to TeleFile a New Jersey income tax return for your client provided that you maintain a Power of Attorney Form for your client in your file. If you use your power of attorney to TeleFile for a client, enter the information from the TeleFile worksheet as prompted by the system. At the voice signature prompt, speak the taxpayer's name, state that you have power of attorney for the taxpayer, then give your name and Federal ID#. As with any TeleFile return, the TeleFile worksheet (with confirmation number provided by the TeleFile system included) becomes the taxpayer's proof of filing.

The 1997 TeleFile season begins on Thursday, January 15, 1998 and will continue through midnight Wednesday, April 15, 1998. NJ TeleFile will accept returns 24 hours a day during the filing season. To reach NJ TeleFile call

Changes to 1997

Resident Return

Property Tax Deduction/Credit — 1997 marks the second year of the phase in of the property tax deduction/credit benefit available to eligible New Jersey homeowners and tenants. The deduction this year has increased to 75% of property taxes due and paid on the taxpayer's principal residence or $5,625, whichever is less. For tenants, 18% of rent due and paid during the year is considered property tax. The alternative minimum benefit available to eligible residents is a refundable credit of $37.50.

Eligible residents who are not required to file an income tax return because their gross income is $7,500 or less ($3,750 for married persons filing separate returns) are entitled to the refundable credit only if they are at least 65 years of age or are blind or disabled.

The property tax deduction/credit benefit is in addition to the homestead rebate which continues to be available to many New Jersey residents.

Obtaining Mailing Envelopes, Payment Vouchers — Both the large envelope designed to accommodate the New Jersey resident income tax return and homestead rebate application (Forms NJ-1040 and HR-1040) and the small window envelope for mailing the payment voucher (Form NJ-1040-V) may be ordered from the Division of Taxation. Blank payment vouchers are also available. To request any of these items, call the Automated Tax Information System at 1-800-323-4400 (Touch-tone phones within New Jersey) or 609-588-2525 (Touch-tone phones anywhere). Supplies are limited, so order early. □

New Processing Equipment

The Division of Revenue is now using automated equipment to process employer withholding returns, sales tax returns and individual estimated payments (Forms NJ-500/NJ-941, NJ-941-W, ST-50/51 and Form NJ-1040-ES). The new mail processors remove the check and return from the envelope mechanically and read identification and tax information by means of imaging technologies. These automated procedures are expected to reduce operating costs and provide faster, more accurate return processing.

Taxpayers are urged to adhere to the following guidelines to ensure that returns and payments can be processed with as little manual intervention as possible.

- Use preprinted tax returns. These forms contain valuable information meant to ensure that tax payments are credited to the proper account and tax period.

- Do not use a facsimile return printed by a commercial software package. Instead, transcribe the tax information from the facsimile onto the preprinted return.
- Use the correct return form for the tax and tax period.
- Send only the return and payment. Do not include anything else in the envelope. If the payment check has a stub, remove it and save it for your files.
- Use the window envelopes provided. A year's supply of return envelopes is sent with the preprinted forms.
- Do not staple the return and check together.
- Do not fold the check or return.
- Do not tape the return to the inside of the envelope.
- Do not send monthly remittances for gross income tax withholding (Form NJ-500) or sales tax (Form ST-51) if there

SALES AND USE TAX Energy Tax Reform

As reported in the Fall 1997 issue, effective 1/1/98, the recently enacted Energy Tax Reform legislation, P.L. 1997, c.162 repeals the gross receipts and franchise tax on electric, gas and telecommunications utilities and imposes Corporation Business Tax on those utilities and imposes sales tax on natural gas and electricity. The purpose of the legislation is to facilitate the transition to competition among utilities and other energy marketers resulting from the unbundling of energy products and services and a deregulated energy market.

The following are the basic provisions that relate to sales and use tax:

1. Natural Gas and Electricity are defined as tangible property and are subject to tax as such;
2. The service of transporting gas/electricity is a taxable service;
3. Use tax is imposed on both the commodity and the transportation charge;
4. Definition of "vendor" was amended to include energy sellers and transporters;
5. The manufacturing exemption, the farmer's exemption and the research and development exemption do not apply to the purchase of gas and electricity; the exemptions that apply in urban enterprise zones and for exempt entities such as schools, churches, etc. do not apply to the purchase of gas and electricity;
6. The tax is to be included in the price of the gas and electricity, as well as in the transportation charge.

In addition, the following information is from the Public Notice, which was published in the New Jersey Register on November 17, 1997:

"Take notice that pursuant to P.L. 1997, c.162, certain industrial and commercial purchasers of natural gas distributed through a pipeline are granted a partial sales and use tax exemption for natural gas purchased between January 1, 1998 and December 31, 2002, inclusive.

"Any industrial or commercial purchaser whose last purchase of delivered natural gas in calendar year 1995 was from a non-utility (hereinafter referred to as "non-utility gas"), is deemed to be an eligible person for purposes of the statutory exemption. A cogeneration facility which ceased operation in 1996 and subsequently began to purchase non-utility gas is also an eligible person for purposes of the statutory exemption. A non-utility is a company that was not subject to the Public Utility Gross Receipts and Franchise Tax as of December 31, 1997, and is hereinafter referred to as a gas marketer."

For a complete explanation of the partial exemption and the procedure that must be followed to claim the exemption, please refer to the Division of Taxation's Notice in the November 17, 1997 volume of the New Jersey Register, which is also available on the Division's web site at:

SALES AND USE TAX

Uniform Resale Certificate

The Multistate Tax Commission (MTC) has released a revised version of its "Uniform Sales & Use Tax Certificate—Multijurisdiction." The certificate may now be used in a majority of the 46 states with state sales taxes for the purchase — for resale — of tangible personal property and of otherwise taxable services.

The revised certificate now lists New Jersey as one of the states where the certificate is acceptable. The multijurisdiction certificate is valid in New Jersey in the case of a drop shipment (New Jersey registered vendor sells property to out-of-State customer, but delivers to a location in New Jersey, either to the end user or a third party) or when the buyer and seller are both registered with New Jersey for sales tax purposes. Additional information regarding the proper use of resale exemption certificates appeared in the Summer '97 issue of the New Jersey State Tax News.

The certificate is available on the Multistate Tax Commission's World Wide Web site at:

<http://www.mtc.gov/txpyrsvs/s&uexemp.pdf>

and on the Division's web site at:

<http://www.state.nj.us/treasury/taxation/>

The certificate, which may be reproduced, may also be obtained by calling Ms. Ruffin at the MTC at 202-624-8699 or by e-mailing her at mtc@mtc.gov. Questions concerning the form may be directed to Michael Mazerov, MTC Director of Information at 202-624-8699 or mmazerov@mtc.gov. □

CORPORATION TAX

Corporate Partner Regulation

On September 15, 1997 the Division promulgated a new regulation establishing rules for the taxation of corporate partners. N.J.A.C. 18:7-7.6(a)-(1) enumerates subjectivity requirements and apportionment methods for corporate partners. A brief synopsis of the regulation is as follows:

Subjectivity requirements set forth in N.J.S.A. 54:10A-2 will be satisfied if a foreign corporation is a general partner in a limited or general partnership (or deemed to be a general partner in a limited partnership) doing business in New Jersey. A foreign corporate limited partner of a limited partnership doing business in New Jersey will be subject to taxation if the limited partner is also a general partner of the limited partnership, takes an active part in the control of the partnership business or meets the criteria set forth in N.J.A.C. 18:7-1.9. Also, a membership interest in a limited liability company will satisfy the subjectivity requirements of N.J.S.A. 54:10A-2 if certain criteria set forth in the regulation are met.

For apportionment purposes, when the subject corporation and partnership are not part of a unitary business, separate accounting will determine the corporation's apportioned entire net income. An apportionment factor which includes all partnership attributes (property, payroll and receipts) will be applied to the corporation's distributive share of partnership income and an apportionment factor which includes all corporate attributes will be applied to the corporation's entire net income (excluding the partnership income). The sum of the two will represent the corporation's apportioned entire net income.

Flow-through apportionment will determine the corporation's entire net income when the corporation's business and the business of the partnership are unitary in nature. Apportionment will be determined by combining the property, payroll and receipts attributable to both the corporate partner and partnership. This combination of corporate and partnership apportionment factors will be applied to the corporation's entire net income, including the distributive share of partnership income, in determining the corporation's apportioned entire net income.

Several examples of the subjectivity requirements and apportionment methods for corporate partners are included in the regulation and should be referred to for further clarification and guidance. The 1997 CBT-100 and CBT-100S include a new schedule (Schedule P-1) where all partnership interests are required to be shown. □

New Jersey QSSS Requirements

The Small Business Job Protection Act of 1996 changed the Federal tax treatment of S corporations. Under the new law an S corporation will be permitted to own a Qualified Subchapter S Subsidiary (QSSS) and effectively treat the subsidiary as if it were a division. The assets, liabilities, and items of income, deduction and credit would flow through to the parent retaining the same character.

As a result of these changes, Federal QSSS's may be recognized accordingly by New Jersey. To obtain recognition as a New Jersey QSSS the revised Form CBT-2553, along with a copy of Federal Form 966, must be filed before the 16th day of the fourth month of the first tax year the election is to take effect. However, the election date has been extended to April 15, 1998, for corporations who wish to conform with the Federal Statute effective date for tax years beginning after December 31, 1996.

To maintain the separate entity principle, every qualified NJ QSSS must file a CBT-100S and pay the minimum tax of $200. Unless the NJ QSSS formally dissolves or withdraws with the Secretary of State, it will be required to file and pay annually a Corporation Business Tax return and an annual report with the NJ Secretary of State.

The parent corporation must consent to taxation by New Jersey by filing a CBT-100 or CBT-100S which includes the assets, liabilities, income and expenses of the QSSS. The property, receipts, and payroll of the QSSS must be included in the parent's allocation factor. Failure of the parent to either consent or file a CBT-100 or CBT-100S for a period will result in the denial of the NJ QSSS status and the subsidiary will be subject to taxation in New Jersey as a C corporation. □

Objections to Plans of Reorganization

Based on the advice of the Office of the Attorney General, the Division has recently instituted new policies with regard to dealing with Plans for Reorganization in Chapter 11 and Chapter 13 insolvency proceedings.

The Division will recommend that the Attorney General file objections to proposed Chapter 13 Plans of Reorganization where there appears to be one or more delinquent Gross Income Tax Returns. On cases where the Plan has been confirmed, but a claim has not yet been filed (yet still prior to the Bar Date), a motion requesting a modification of the Plan will be made to the Court. This new procedure was necessary as the Bankruptcy Courts have prohibited the Division from filing arbitrary Proofs of Claim for non-filers.

All Chapter 11 proposed Plans of Reorganization will be scrutinized to ensure that the Plan contains specific language regarding when payments will be made and the rate of interest provided for during the course of the Plan. Additionally, any Plan that contains provisions that relieve any corporate officers from personal liability for trust fund taxes will be targeted. Since many Chapter 11 Plans contain non-specific language it is expected that the Attorney General will be busy filing Objections to the proposed plans.

Over the past few months a total of one hundred forty-three (143) Objections have been filed. □

GROSS INCOME TAX Common Employer Withholding Errors

With the advent of the revised New Jersey employer withholding remittance and filing format for 1997, the Division has become aware of several common filing and remittance errors:

- Many employers are completing and forwarding quarterly reconciliation returns, NJ-941 or NJ-941-W, with each weekly or monthly withholding remittance. For the second and subsequent payments forwarded this way, the Division's computer system reads these payments and returns as duplicate filings. This not only delays the processing of the payments to the employer's account, but very often results in the generation of erroneous notices of underpayment.
- Some employers are listing the payroll wage amount, instead of the withholding amount as the weekly or monthly liability.
- A number of employers who are required to remit on a weekly basis are remitting the last withholding payment of the quarter with the quarterly reconciliation. The quarterly reconciliation is due the last day of the month following the end of the calendar quarter. However, the last weekly withholding payment is due the Wednesday following the close of the last payroll period for the quarter.

Example: An employer paid wages on Friday, March 28, 1997. The weekly withholding payment was due on Wednesday, April 2, 1997. If the employer remitted the withholding payment on April 30, with the quarterly reconciliation, the withholding payment would have been 28 days late.

- Employers who are required to remit weekly must use Form NJ-941-W, the weekly filer quarterly reconciliation. The Division is finding that many weekly filers are erroneously using Form NJ-941, the quarterly reconciliation for monthly and quarterly filers. Since this is the wrong form and the weekly liabilities cannot be entered on this form, the system evenly prorates the reported monthly or quarterly liability to a weekly liability based upon the number of weeks in that month or quarter. This usually results in erroneous interest charges.
- For the payroll periods near the beginning or end of a quarter, many employers are reporting the withholding amount in the wrong quarter. Withholdings should be remitted and reported in the quarter the payroll period ends, and not when the withholdings are due.

Example: An employer paid wages on Friday, April 4, 1997, for the pay period from March 31 through April 4. The withholding liability should have been included as part of the second quarter. If the employer paid wages on Monday, March 31, 1997, for the payroll period March 25 through March 31, the withholdings should have been included as part of the first quarter.

Beginning with tax year 1997, a new notice of underpayment has been put into use for employer withholdings. This new notice details all payments received, the due dates for each withholding remittance, the period to which each payment was applied, the amount of tax on which interest was assessed, and a legend explaining payment codes on the return. The Division is hopeful that the new format and additional information will provide a clearer understanding as to the reason for the notice, and expedite the resolution of any underpayment in dispute. □

GROSS INCOME TAX Forgiveness of Debt Income

After the article on forgiveness of debt income appeared in the Summer 1997 issue of the State Tax News several tax practitioners asked for additional information on the subject.

Forgiveness of debt income that passes through to a partner from the discharge or cancellation of partnership indebtedness is taxable as a distributive share item for New Jersey Gross Income Tax purposes. Any distributive share item of income from a partnership represented on the Federal K-1 is taxable to the partner unless the item is specifically exempted by the New Jersey Gross Income Tax law at 54A:6-1 to 6-21.

For Federal tax purposes, under GAAP, if troubled debt restructuring (forgiveness of debt) defined by SFAS 15, para. 2, is settled by an exchange of assets or continued with a modification of terms, an extraordinary gain would be recognized.

The income from forgiveness of debt properly listed as a "1231 gain" or "Other" on the Federal K-1 is classified for New Jersey Gross Income Tax purposes as "Net gains or income from disposition of property" under 54A:5-1c.

Should the forgiveness of debt meet the criteria to be considered as ordinary income for Federal tax purposes, the income is "Distributive share of partnership income" for New Jersey Gross Income Tax purposes. □

GROSS INCOME TAX S Corporation Distributions

The reporting and taxing of S corporation distributions to shareholders is governed by N.J.S.A. 54A:5-1f. and 54A:5-14. These rules are the same as for Federal tax reporting purposes, modified as required for New Jersey AAA, E&P and basis differences. Shareholders who receive corporation distributions in transition years and from New Jersey "hybrid" corporations have additional rules which must be considered.

Corporations in a transition period are those corporations going from being a New Jersey C corporation to an electing New Jersey S corporation or vice versa. Distributions declared by a New Jersey C corporation are taxable to the resident shareholders for Gross Income Tax purposes as Dividends regardless of the year paid, providing the corporation is not a New Jersey "hybrid" corporation.

For example:

- X corporation in 1996 is a New Jersey C corporation and a Federal S corporation.
- X corporation makes a New Jersey S election effective 1/1/97.
- X corporation declares a $1,000 distribution 12/15/96 and pays the distribution on 2/15/97.
- X corporation has $2,000 in earnings in 1996 and $3,000 in 1997.
- X corporation has one shareholder who is a New Jersey resident.
- What does the shareholder report on his NJ-1040 in 1996?

The shareholder reports no income from the X corporation on his 1996 NJ-1040. The shareholder is a cash basis taxpayer and does not report the dividend until received.

- X corporation files a 1996 CBT-100 and pays tax at the 9% rate on $2,000.
- What does the shareholder report on his NJ-1040 in 1997?

The shareholder reports the $1,000 received from the New Jersey C corporation in February as Dividends and their share of the electing New Jersey S corporation's 1997 earnings of $3,000 as Net pro rata share of S Corporation Income.

- X corporation files a 1997 CBT-100S and pays tax at the reduced rate on $3,000.

"Hybrid" New Jersey corporations are Federal S corporations that have not made the New Jersey S election and are conducting business in and out of New Jersey. For Corporation Business Tax purposes the corporation is a C corporation. For Gross Income Tax purposes that portion of the corporation's income or loss from within New Jersey is considered C corporation earnings/losses and those earnings and losses from outside New Jersey are S corporation earnings/losses. The income or loss allocation factor used for New Jersey Corporation Business Tax purposes is also used for Gross Income Tax.

The reporting and taxing of distributions received by resident shareholders of a New Jersey "hybrid" corporation are governed by both C corporation and S corporation rules. The distribution must be allocated between the two distinct parts of the corporation. The allocation factor applied to the distribution is that used by the corporation on its CBT-100 tax return.

For example:

- Z corporation in 1996 is a Federal S corporation that has not made the New Jersey S election.
- Z corporation is conducting business in and out of New Jersey.
- Z corporation in 1996 had earnings of $5,000.
- Z corporation declared and issued distributions of $3,000 in 1996.
- Z corporation has one shareholder who is a New Jersey resident.
- Z corporation files a 1996 CBT-100 and allocates 50% of its earnings to New Jersey paying tax on $2,500 at the 9% rate.
- What does the shareholder report on his 1996 NJ-1040?

The shareholder reports their Net pro rata share of S Corporation Income not allocated to New Jersey for CBT purposes, $2,500.

The distribution of $3,000 is reported and taxed as follows:

1. The distribution is allocated between the C and S portions of the "hybrid" corporation using the allocation factor (50%) used for CBT purposes — $1,500 to the C corporation part and $1,500 to the S corporation part.
2. The $1,500 received from the C corporation part is a dividend and reported and taxed in accordance with N.J.S.A. 54A:5-1f, Dividends. All $1,500 is taxable as Dividends.
3. The $1,500 received from the S corporation part is a distribution and reported and taxed in accordance with N.J.S.A. 54A:5-1f and 54A:5-14.

To the extent 54A:5-14 excludes such distributions from taxation they are not reported on the shareholder's NJ-1040. The $1,500 received from the S corporation part is not taxable in that the shareholder has $2,500 in Net pro rata share of S Corporation Income. □

Inheritance & Estate Tax Forms

New Jersey Transfer Inheritance and New Jersey Estate Tax forms may now be downloaded from the Internet at:

<http://www.state.nj.us/treasury/taxation/>

Booklets of forms and instructions to be used in reporting a decedent's estate for Transfer Inheritance and/or New Jersey Estate forms on internet - from page 8

Tax purposes are included in their entirety – IT-R for estates of resident decedents and IT-NR for estates of nonresident decedents. These two booklets contain all of the forms, schedules, instructions, and rates necessary to prepare New Jersey Transfer Inheritance and New Jersey Estate Tax Returns. However, in addition to the complete booklets, two commonly used forms have been broken out for individual access. These are the self-executing waiver, Form L-8, and Form L-9, which is a request for a waiver. These forms are for use in estates of resident decedents under circumstances more fully described below.

Form L-8 is actually a waiver which is self-executing. It is for Class “A” beneficiaries in the estate of a resident decedent and may be used in the case of a surviving spouse of a decedent dying on or after July 1, 1985 and for any other Class “A” beneficiary of a decedent dying on or after January 1, 1988. More detailed instructions and qualifications are contained in the body of the Form L-8.

Form L-9, unlike the Form L-8, is simply a request for a real property waiver in the estate of a resident decedent. It may be used to transfer real property standing in the name of a decedent alone to a surviving spouse, in the estate of a decedent dying on or after January 1, 1985. Form L-9 may be used for other Class “A” beneficiaries in estates of decedents dying on or after July 1, 1988 and the decedent’s interest in the real estate was in the name of the decedent alone or with any other Class “A” beneficiary. Detailed instructions are included in the body of the Form L-9.

Form L-9 may be used only when all beneficiaries are Class “A,” there is no tax, and the only reason to file a return would be for the purpose of obtaining a waiver for real estate.

A copy of the will, if decedent died testate, and any codicils and/or deeds of trust must be submitted with the form or a waiver will not be issued.

As always, should there be need for further information or assistance, you may call the Taxpayer Information Section of the Inheritance Tax Branch directly at 609-292-5033, 292-5035, 292-7147 and 777-4559. □

Deferred Payments

The Taxpayers’ Bill of Rights, Chapter 175, Public Law 1992, provides the Director of the Division of Taxation the authority to enter into payment agreements with taxpayers. Payment agreements extend the time a taxpayer has to pay a liability and covers the unpaid tax, any penalty owed and interest. Taxpayers need to be aware that interest continues to accrue on the unpaid balance until their liability is paid in full. Requests for payment plans are reviewed on a case by case basis. Taxpayers who are approved for a payment plan sign an agreement that spells out the length of the plan, the monthly payment amount, payment due date, and that all current taxes will be filed and paid as they come due. Additionally, as part of the Payment Plan process, it is the Division’s policy to file a Certificate of Debt in New Jersey Superior Court to protect the interest of the State and to add a five percent Cost of Collections (5% of the payment plan amount) to cover the additional administrative burden of monitoring payment plans. Taxpayers who default on their payment agreements are subject to further collection action. Generally, defaulted taxpayers are referred to one of the Division’s Field Investigation offices for execution on the Certificate of Debt previously filed against the taxpayer’s liability. □

Joint Account Levies

Many questions arise from taxpayers when a joint bank account is levied. Pursuant to N.J.S.A. 17:16I-8 (amended in 1995), all the funds in a joint account are subject to a levy against one of the named holders of the account. Therefore, if only one party is the judgment debtor, the Division may levy upon 100% of the funds in that account. The statute states:

“Financial institutions may enter into multiple-party accounts to the same extent that they may enter into single-party accounts. The following payments from a multiple-party account by the financial institution, including payment of the entire account balance, are deemed authorized by all parties to, and any other person with an interest in, the multiple-party account, without any duty on the part of the financial institution to consider the net contributions of the parties to the account:

- (a) Payments, on request, to any one or more of the parties;
- (b) Payments pursuant to any statutory or common law right of set-off, levy, attachment or other valid legal process or court order, relating to the interest of any one or more of the parties; and
- (c) Payments, on request, to a trustee in bankruptcy, receiver in any state or federal insolvency proceeding, or other duly authorized insolvency representative of any one or more of the parties.

A financial institution shall not be required to inquire as to the source of funds received for deposit to a multiple-party account, or to inquire as to the proposed application of any sum withdrawn from an account, for purposes of establishing net contributions.”

If the judgment debtor has access to all funds in the account, the Division may levy against the entire account. □

SALES AND USE TAX

Alcoholic Beverages & Nonprofits

Effective July 1, 1990 all sales of alcoholic beverages are subject to retail sales tax. Not-for-profit organizations are not exempt from sales and use tax on alcoholic beverages sold or given away. Prior to July 1, 1990 all sales of alcoholic beverages were exempt from the retail sales tax. However, they were subject to the Alcoholic Beverage Wholesale Sales Tax Act. The wholesale tax expired as of July 1, 1992.

Sales tax is imposed on all sales of alcoholic beverages. Use tax is imposed on all alcoholic beverages given away to club members and guests. Use tax is also imposed on alcoholic beverages donated to organizations for fund raising functions.

Sales tax is based on the total receipts received by the club. Sales tax is submitted either monthly or quarterly. Monthly returns (ST-51) are due only if the organization collects sales tax of more than $500. If monthly collections are $500 or less, sales tax can be reported on the quarterly return (ST-50). All returns are due on the 20th of the following month.

Use tax (6%) is based on the purchase price of the alcoholic beverages given away or donated. This is reported on Line 5 of the Quarterly Sales & Use Tax Return. □

LOCAL PROPERTY TAX

Reorganization of Activity

Assistant Director, Stephen M. Sylvester recently wrote “I would like to take this opportunity to advise anyone with an interest in local property administration of the reorganization of the local property activity within the Division of Taxation. This reorganization shifts existing personnel and resources to more effectively accomplish the mission of local property, that is, the uniform and equitable administration of local property tax statutes.

“Local Assessment Compliance Section, under the direction of Jim Coll, has responsibility for railroad valuation, tax maps, and assessment compliance at the local level. Harris Adams will continue to direct the Policy and Planning Section in legislative and regulatory issues, farmland assessment, and general administrative activities. This section will become more proactive in the areas of revaluations/reassessments, and in statute administration at the county tax board level. The Field Assistance Section, directed by George Lorbeck, will continue to ensure the integrity of the Director’s Table. Field personnel have been reassigned to the Division’s regional offices and will be making greater use of technology in the review of sales. Also, a Technical Support Group has been created to be proactive in education and training, as well as providing expertise in MOD IV and local property systems issues.

“This reorganization, together with the assistance of county tax board commissioners, county tax administrators, and assessors, is expected to improve our administration of statutes and regulations so that the local property taxpayer is better served.

“In closing, I would like to thank the county tax boards for their years of cooperation with our field staff, the assessors for their diligence in a difficult field, and the employees of Local Property for their dedication. I look forward to working with all of you in meeting the challenges ahead.” □

Criminal Enforcement

Criminal Enforcement over the past several months included:

- On July 7, 1997, James Zahl of Holmdel entered a plea of not guilty to an accusation charging him with misapplication of entrusted property consisting of $38,206.45 in sales tax collected by Zahl’s corporations, North Wood Outings Ltd. and Hazienda Evergreen, and not remitted to the State from October 1, 1990, to December 31, 1993. Zahl waived his right to have the case presented to a grand jury. He has applied for admittance into the Pre-Trial Intervention Program. This case was investigated by the Office of Criminal Investigation and is being prosecuted by the State Attorney General’s Office.
- New Jersey Division of Taxation agents uncovered 99 tax violations during a two-day sweep of 61 retail establishments selling cigarettes and motor fuels in the cities of Ventnor, Margate and Longport. On Tuesday, July 15, and Wednesday, July 16, 1997, Division staff from the Field Audit Branch, Investigations Branch and the Office of Criminal Investigation conducted the sweep. The purpose of the inspections was to ensure compliance with licensing and registration requirements of New Jersey’s Cigarette Tax, Tobacco Products Wholesale Sales and Use Tax, Motor Fuels Tax and Sales and Use Tax laws. The Division has been conducting organized sweeps of Division Employees Reminisce — A group of Division employees with 25 or more years of service was asked to give us some insight on what they remember about the Division as it was 25 years ago. Here is what they said:

in 1972?

- We were still adjusting to the growing pains from merging Bureaus and still in transition organizationally from a tax bureau alignment to the functional organization that has developed today.
- The Division operations were basically manual (non-computerized) for all tax administration functions.
- Governor Cahill's Tax Policy Commission had just completed a two year study of the tax system and had issued a five volume report for reforming the entire State tax structure. The Division, which assisted the Commission during the study, was called upon to draft sixty-two bills based upon the Commission's recommendations.

- Much more is accomplished today with fewer employees because of advanced technology and the higher level of understanding of what we do and how we do it.
- The need for information and the technology to supply it has transformed the Division into a highly automated and productive agency.
- Efficiency has increased due to combining collection on all taxes through field office collection activities and filing judgments for multiple taxes.
- Change in the locations and management of tax records.

significant event within the Division in the last 25 years?

- Our growth from intrastate tax issues to northeast regional issues and national concerns.
- The introduction of computers back in 1985.
- The implementation of image processing.
- The Gross Income Tax Act was enacted. The impact of the new program upon the Division was dramatic. Substantial resources were needed to administer the income tax law and the new homestead rebate program.
- Reliance on technology and reorganization. We are more accessible now.

downtown business districts, malls, flea markets, expos, and crafts, antique and collectible shows. However, this is the second operation that the Division has conducted that focused on the sale of cigarettes. The first such operation took place in the city of Elizabeth in February 1997.

- On August 13, 1997, Michael Eliasof of Mahwah was sentenced in Superior Court, Passaic County. Eliasof previously pleaded guilty to charges that he withheld from his employees' pay but failed to remit $40,904.38 in gross income tax. Since entering his plea, he has made restitution of $1,700. Eliasof was sentenced to 48 months probation and ordered to make restitution in the amount of $39,204.38 to the State of New Jersey.
- Four of twelve original individuals indicted on March 7, 1996, who were alleged to have affiliations with the Genovese crime family and were indicted at the time for racketeering, conspiracy, criminal usury, promoting gambling, possession of gambling records and tax evasion were sentenced. William Cappiello of Long Branch, who pleaded to one count of racketeering and one count of liability for the conduct of another/complicity, was sentenced to six years in prison and fined $5,000. Andre Domando of Nutley, who pleaded to one count of racketeering, was sentenced to seven years in prison and fined $1,000. Anthony Gulla of West Caldwell, who pleaded to one count of racketeering, was sentenced to seven years in prison and fined $2,500. Allan Pilione of Clifton, who pleaded to one count of racketeering, was sentenced to seven years in prison and fined $2,500.

- On September 12, 1997, in Superior Court, Camden County, Patricia Rouse of Runnemede, was sentenced to 60 months probation and ordered to pay restitution of $2,000 in tax, penalty and interest to the State. Rouse pled guilty in July to filing a fraudulent 1994 New Jersey income tax return, which failed to report $24,425 in illegal income that she embezzled from her employer. She also pleaded guilty to the embezzlement, which totaled $77,000, and was ordered to make full restitution to the victim of the embezzlement. This case was investigated jointly by the New Jersey Division of Taxation, Office of Criminal Investigation, and the Camden County Prosecutor's Office.
- On September 8, 1997, Benjamin Hernandez was sentenced in Essex County Superior Court to three years in prison and ordered to pay any taxes due to the State. Hernandez, a Newark bar owner, paid $2,000 in bribes to a former Division of Taxation Auditor to reduce his liability in a liquor project audit. In September 1996, Hernandez was arrested after an investigation by the Office of Criminal Investigation and Internal Security Unit and the New Jersey State Police/Criminal Justice Corruption Unit. In July 1997, Hernandez pleaded guilty to one count of bribery.

- During the month of September, the Office of Criminal Investigation prevented the mailing of three fraudulent personal income tax refunds in the amount of $3,765.32. Three aliases were used in filing 1996 returns. This investigation is the result of a continuing cooperative effort between the states and the U.S. Postal Authorities.
- Fifteen guilty pleas for twelve cases were entered in municipal courts throughout the State during this reporting period by individuals and businesses for noncompliance with the cigarette tax law. In total, the aforementioned cases resulted in the imposition of fines and penalties of $6,545 and the awarding of 1,812.8 cartons of cigarettes, valued at $36,256 to the State. In addition to the cigarettes being forfeited to the State, a 1991 Dodge van, valued at $11,000 was forfeited to the State.
- A total of twenty-eight charges were filed in municipal court for eleven cases. Twenty-one charges were for violations of the cigarette tax law, which includes transporting, possessing, no invoices and no consumer's license. Five of eleven cases resulted in the seizure of 6,610.5 cartons of contraband cigarettes, valued at $132,210. □

Civil Collection Actions Quarter Ending - September 30, 1997

Following is a summary of enforcement actions for the quarter ending September 30, 1997.

Certificates of Debt

During the quarter ended September 30, 1997, the Division filed 4,079 Certificates of Debt in New Jersey Superior Court. These COD's, which have the same force and effect as docketed judgments, totaled $45.9 million.

Levies

$52,833 was collected by levying against payments made under State contracts to satisfy debts owed by State vendors.

Jeopardy Assessments

When a vendor is found to have failed to register his or her business or failed to collect and remit sales taxes or file tax returns, the Division of Taxation has the authority to make an immediate, on-site assessment of tax due (referred to as a "jeopardy assessment") and may seize all available assets to satisfy the on-site tax assessment.

The Division makes jeopardy assessments when there is a danger that a non-compliant vendor will discontinue operations, remove his or her business property and flee the State. This remedy is often necessary in cases involving transient vendors, out-of-State businesses operating in New Jersey, or vendors operating from non-fixed locations, such as roadside sales, flea markets or trade shows.

If the liability is not resolved, the seized property can be sold at public auction and the proceeds used to satisfy the tax debt.

For the quarter ending September 30, 1997, $293,167 was collected from jeopardy assessments.

Seizures

When a liability, for which the Division of Taxation has secured judgments, cannot or will not be satisfied by a taxpayer and all other means of collection of the debt have been exhausted, seizure of the business and personal assets will take place. Field Investigators will close a business, seizing any tangible assets including licenses, inventory, machinery, furniture, vehicles, etc., until arrangements are made for payment of the debt.

For the quarter ending September 30, 1997, property of 28 businesses was seized. Some businesses were able to reopen, others remain closed. A listing of these seizures appears on pages 18.

Auctions

If the liability of a business seized by the Division is not satisfied or resolved, the business will remain closed. To satisfy the debt, the Division can sell the business assets at a public auction.

During the quarter ending September 30, 1997, seven auctions were held by the Division. A listing follows on page 20.

In the event an auction does not net enough monies to resolve the debt, the Division will execute against the personal assets of any of the business's responsible officers. Responsible officers are held personally liable for the trust fund portion of the debt which includes, but is not limited to, sales tax, withholding tax and motor fuels tax.

Referrals to Attorney General

In cases where the Division has exhausted its administrative remedies without success, referrals are made to the Office of the Attorney General. During the quarter ending September 30, 1997, 974 such cases were referred to the Attorney General's office for additional collection.

Together, the Division's Referral Group and the Attorney General's Collection Unit have collected $3.5 million in revenue during the third quarter of 1997.

Liquor License Program

Under a recently enacted State law, applicants for renewal or transfer of a liquor license must receive a certificate of tax clearance from the Division. This program was in effect in seven New Jersey counties in 1996 and added seven additional counties in 1997. The program will be in effect in all 21 New Jersey counties in 1998.

In addition, the Division is conducting special investigations and audits of liquor license holders. In the past year, the Division has assessed more than $107.5 million from holders of the various types of licenses subject to audit and collected $98.7 million. The Division of Taxation expects to collect a total of $150 million during the three-year program.

During the quarter ending September 30, 1997, 177 notifications of liquor license transfer were received by the Division's Bulk Sales section. Twenty-three (23) audits relating to this project and previously requested were completed; assessments from those audits totaled $1.2 million. □

Tax Briefs

Corporation Business Tax

Deduction of Charitable Contributions — In general, Line 28 of the CBT-100 should reflect the amount of income shown on Federal Form 1120, Line 28, since N.J.S.A. 54:10A-4(k) provides that “the amount of a taxpayer’s entire net income shall be deemed prima facie to be equal in amount to the taxable income, before net operating loss deduction and special deductions, which the taxpayer is required to report to the United States Treasury Department for the purpose of computing its federal income.” There is no provision of New Jersey law that would allow further use of unused charitable deductions below Line 28. Therefore, the corporate taxpayer is not permitted to deduct additional charitable deductions, unused for Federal purposes in the current year, on the New Jersey CBT-100 below Line 28.

Gross Income Tax

Income Tax Liability of a Minor — A taxpayer asked the State tax consequences of establishing an account in a mutual fund for a minor daughter under her name and social security number.

Every individual in New Jersey with income is subject to the gross income tax, regardless of age. The daughter’s account would be subject to the gross income tax. However, if her total income is less than $7,500, she would not be required to file or pay tax under current law. If her income exceeds $7,500, an income tax return must be filed on her behalf by her fiduciary or other person charged with her care. The gross income tax statutes and regulations would apply to her in the same manner as to any other taxpayer.

Litter Control Tax

Advertising Space — The Division received a letter inquiring as to a company’s subjectivity to the litter control tax.

They advised that they are in the business of selling advertising to business people which is to be published in telephone directories. The published directories are distributed, free of charge, to business firms and residents in New Jersey communities. The directories are produced and distributed by outside contracting vendors.

The Clean Communities and Recycling Act levies a litter control tax on all manufacturers, wholesalers, distributors and retailers engaged in business in New Jersey on the gross receipts from sales of litter generating products within or into the State. N.J.S.A. 13:1E-99.1a.

Litter generating products are defined in the law, at N.J.S.A. 13:1E-94e, to include the following 15 categories of products:

1. Beer and other malt beverages;
2. Cigarettes and tobacco products;
3. Cleaning agents and toiletries;
4. Distilled spirits;
5. Food for human or pet consumption;
6. Glass containers sold as such;
7. Groceries;
8. Metal containers sold as such;
9. Motor vehicle tires;

10. Newsprint and magazine paper stock;
11. Nondrug drugstore sundry products;
12. Paper products and household paper;
13. Plastic or fiber containers made of synthetic material and sold as such;
14. Soft drinks and carbonated waters; and
15. Wine.

The tax does not apply to sales of services.

A company solely engaged in making sales of advertising space as described in the letter and not selling any tangible personal property which falls within one of the enumerated categories is not subject to the litter control tax.

Sales and Use Tax

Sales Tax Due on an Accrual Basis — The Division received a request for permission to remit sales tax on a cash, instead of an accrual, basis.

The Division explained that in New Jersey vendors do not have the option of remitting sales tax on a cash basis. Vendors are required to file returns and remit sales tax on an accrual basis. The tax is due for the period when the sale took place, i.e. when the goods were transferred to the customer or the services were rendered, even if the customer has not yet been billed, or failed to pay in full. The accrual method of remitting sales tax is implicit in the definition of “sale” as taking place when goods are transferred to the purchaser or services are rendered, N.J.S.A. 54:32B-2(f), and in the provision

governing the filing of returns by vendors, N.J.S.A. 54:32b-17. It is further clarified in the Division's regulations on bad debts, N.J.A.C. 18:24-23.1 et seq.

Book and Periodical Rentals —

The Division received an inquiry regarding the sales tax collection obligations of a store operating a private library service. The taxpayer explained that the business will provide books, magazines, comics and other reading material to its customers in two ways. Customers may take an item out for several days, for a rental charge. They may also read materials inside the store. In that case, they will be charged based on the quantity and type of materials that they select to read in the store.

Charges for taking out books or for reading them in the store will be taxable as receipts for the "sale" of taxable tangible personal property. N.J.S.A. 54:32B-3(a). For purposes of the Sales and Use Tax Act, a "sale" includes any transfer of title or possession for consideration. N.J.S.A. 54:32B-2(f). It therefore encompasses both the "rental" of books that are taken home for a few days for a rental charge and the "license to use" books that are read in the store, for a charge based on the materials

Newspapers, magazines and periodicals, however, are exempt from sales and use tax. N.J.S.A. 54:32B-8.5. Therefore, charges for taking out or using materials that qualify as newspapers, magazines or periodicals (N.J.A.C. 18:24-1.2 and 1.3) are not subject to tax.

Manufacturer's Rebate — The Division received a request for information regarding the sales tax treatment of a manufacturer's rebate. The taxpayers stated that when they purchased a new motor vehicle, they were charged sales tax on the full price, even though they would be receiving a $1,500 rebate from General Motors. They questioned whether the tax should have been calculated instead on the purchase price minus the expected rebate.

The Division explained that the dealer is correct in collecting sales tax on the full retail price of the car before the rebate. Sales tax must be charged on the total "receipt" from a retail sale, i.e. the actual amount of the sales price payable to the retailer. See N.J.S.A. 54:32B-2(d). If a retailer chose to sell an item at a discounted price, the customer should be charged tax on the discounted price payable to the retailer, not on the original price before reductions. The reduced price is the "receipt" on which the 6% sales tax is calculated.

However, when a customer pays a full price, but is then reimbursed by the manufacturer for part of that price, in the form of a manufacturer's rebate, the tax is due on the full price originally payable to the retailer. This is because the retailer is receiving the full price, and sales tax is calculated on the total "receipt" payable to the retailer. Similarly, if a customer pays the retailer a reduced price by using a manufacturer's coupon or by relying on a rebate that the manufacturer will send to the retailer as part of the customer's payment, the customer will owe tax on the full price. The "receipt" payable to the retailer will be the total of the reduced price payable by the customer plus the amount that the retailer will receive from the manufacturer (measured by the face value of the coupon or rebate). Sales tax is calculated on that total "receipt," not just on the portion of the receipt paid by the customer.

Spill Compensation and Control Tax

Cap Computation Revised — The following Notice was sent to all Spill Compensation and Control Tax registrants:

Cap Revision

An amendment to the Spill Compensation and Control Act was signed into law effective June 27, 1997. P.L. 1997, c.134 affects only Spill Compensation and Control taxpayers who had more than one major facility in 1986 and had a tax liability in 1986. Such taxpayers have qualified for a "Cap" on their spill tax payments in each subsequent tax year of no more than 125% of their 1986 spill tax liability.

P.L. 1997, c.134 provides for a cap computation revision which states, "In computing 125% of the tax due and payable by the taxpayer during the 1986 tax year, for taxes due after January 1, 1996 from an owner or operator of one or more major facilities who has continuously since 1986 filed a combined tax return for more than one major facility but who prior to January 1, 1996 has closed one or more of those major facilities, a taxpayer shall include 1986 taxes arising from major facilities which (1) caused the taxpayer to incur a tax liability in 1986, and (2) continue to cause the taxpayer to incur a tax liability during the current tax year."

This special cap provision is limited only to taxpayers who:

1. Continuously filed spill tax returns since 1986; and
2. Filed a combined return for more than one major facility in 1986; and
3. Have closed one or more of those major facilities prior to January 1, 1996.

Such taxpayers should, for taxes due on and after January 1, 1996, compute their cap in any tax year at 125% of their 1986 taxes only from major facilities they operated in 1986 and currently continue to operate. They should not include in their 1986 tax base taxes attributable to facilities they discontinued operating subsequent to 1986.

Elemental Phosphorus

P.L. 1997, c.134 also amends the tax rate applicable to transfers of substances which are or contain elemental phosphorus. Such transfers are taxed, effective June 27, 1997, at a rate of $0.015 per barrel of the hazardous substance. Also, for transfers which are or contain elemental phosphorus, in computing the 125% of the taxes due and payable by the taxpayer during the 1986 tax year, a capped taxpayer shall calculate the tax at $0.015 per barrel.

Metals and Gas

Spill tax registrants should also take note that, due to amended Department of Environmental Protection rules, effective October 7, 1996, the following substances shall not be considered hazardous substances:

1. Metals in either their pure elemental form or alloyed, in solid pieces with at least one dimensional measurement equal to or exceeding 100 micrometers (0.004 inches) or chemically bonded to an inert substrate.
2. Any flammable or inert gas on the List of Hazardous Substances designated by an asterisk.

Additional Information

Any capped taxpayers seeking a refund for taxes overpaid since January 1, 1996 due to P.L. 1997, c.134 or any taxpayer seeking a refund due to the payment of taxes, since October 7, 1996, on solid metals or designated flammable or inert gas substances must submit a Claim for Refund form. Urban Enterprise Zone

Employee Tax Credit — The definition of "full-time" employee for purposes of the UEZ employee tax credit (Form 300) means an employee who works at least 30 hours per week. Note that the Labor Department Annual Certification and Calculation of Employer Unemployment Tax Rebate describes a full-time employee as a 30 hour per week employee. The Division has agreed to define full-time employee as an employee who works at least 30 hours per week. This allows for consistency with the Labor Department definition. The other elements of the definition of full-time employee at N.J.S.A. 52:27-78 and N.J.A.C. 18:7-15.4(e) and (f) remain applicable. □ complex qualified for abatement and paid in lieu of taxes for municipal services under N.J.S.A. 40A:20-1 et seq., the Long Term Tax Exemption Law and N.J.S.A. 55:14K-37 et seq., the Housing and Mortgage Finance Agency Tax Exemption Law. Both the superintendent's residence and the housing complex were owned by a nonprofit corporation formed as provided by N.J.S.A. title 15A.

The superintendent was a full-time resident responsible for overseeing all custodial, maintenance and grounds workers for the 100 unit complex and for providing emergency access to police and first aid squads when needed. Each apartment's alarm system was also wired to the superintendent's residence.

Under N.J.S.A. 54:4-3.6, residential property owned and used by otherwise exempt charitable, religious or hospital organizations can be exempt only derivatively through those organizations. The two-fold test established in Clinton Twp. v. Camp Brett-Endeavor requires that a residence be predominantly used as an integral part of the exempt organization's operations rather than as a convenience to the occupant and that it be reasonably necessary for the proper and efficient operation of the exempt organization. Despite the fact that the housing complex had not applied for or received the necessary exemption under 3.6, the housing corporation contended that the residence fulfilled a charitable purpose and met both test criteria in Camp Brett-Endeavor.

Denying the exemption, Tax Court conceded that the superintendent's residence was an integral part of the housing complex's operation and reasonably necessary for its efficient operation. However, although the housing corporation's purposes were commendable and the apartment complex filled a significant need for housing, the exclusive charitable organization and use requirements of 3.6 were not met. According to the Court, the corporation's purpose "to plan, sponsor, construct, operate, maintain...housing projects for the senior citizens of Pompton Lakes on a non-profit basis" did not express, contemplate or require charitable purpose. Its non-profit and Federal tax exempt status also did not guarantee charitable purpose. Neither was the housing complex put to charitable use because it did not relieve government of the burden of subsidizing tenants and rents were equal to or slightly higher than fair market rent. In Salt & Light Co., Inc. v. Mount Holly Twp., it was ruled that receipt of government funds did not disqualify a charitable entity from exemption as long as it at least partly relieved a burden on government. This housing corporation subsidized no rents.

Because the housing complex did not qualify for charitable exemption under N.J.S.A. 54:4-3.6, the superintendent's residence cannot qualify on a derivative basis. □

Gross Income Tax

Extension for Armed Forces Personnel in Qualified Hazardous Duty Area — P.L. 1997, c.207 (signed into law on August 14, 1997) provides for an extension of time to file and pay gross income tax and certain other relief provisions for individuals in the Armed Forces who may be serving in an area designated a "qualified hazardous duty area" by Federal statute. This legislation affects New Jersey residents currently serving in Bosnia and Herzegovina, Croatia and Macedonia. The act is effective immediately and applies to taxable years beginning on or after January 1, 1996.

Set-Off of Individual Liability for Debt Owed to Violent Crimes Compensation Board — P.L. 1997, c.226 (signed into law on August 25, 1997) provides for the set-off against and collection from an individual's State gross income tax refund and/or homestead property tax rebate of any debt the individual owes to the Violent Crimes Compensation Board for assessments or restitution ordered to be paid by the individual to the board for compensation of victims of crimes and their families. This act takes effect immediately.

New Jersey Better Educational Savings Trust Program Established — P.L. 1997, c.237 (signed into law on September 2, 1997) establishes a college savings plan known as the New Jersey Better Savings Trust Program in the Higher Education Assistance Authority. The program will provide a mechanism to allow families to plan ahead for the costs associated with college attendance and to save funds to meet those future costs. The program will be administered by the Office of Student Assistance. Earnings on and distributions from New Jersey Better Educational Savings Trust Program accounts are exempt from New Jersey gross income tax. This act takes effect immediately.

Uniform Enforcement of Foreign Judgments Act — P.L. 1997, c.204 (signed into law on August 14, 1997) provides for the filing of foreign judgments with the Clerk of the Superior Court of New Jersey. Under this act, a foreign judgment means any judgment, decree, or order of a court of the United States or of any other court which is entitled to full faith and credit in this State. The clerk shall treat the foreign judgment in the same manner as a judgment of the Superior Court of New Jersey. This legislation takes effect immediately.

Trust Powers of Certain Not-for-Profit Corporations — P.L. 1997, c.245 (signed into law on September 9, 1997) amends a provision of the Banking Act of 1948 administered by the Department of Banking and Insurance. It allows qualified non-profit corporations to perform certain functions presently reserved to banks. In particular, the bill allows educational institutions to act as trustee of funds in which the institutions have an interest. Subsection (d) provides that qualified corporations and qualified educational institutions shall be subject to any regulations adopted by the Commissioner of Banking and Insurance and subject to examination by the Department of Banking and Insurance to ensure compliance with those regulations. This act takes effect immediately but the amendments to subsection (d) shall remain inoperative until 180 days after enactment. □

The Division urges all tax practitioners to continue to follow these procedures for submitting resident returns:

- NEW – Filling in the Ovals. This year ovals have replaced check-boxes on the tax return and homestead rebate application. When completing forms, fill in the applicable ovals completely. This will ensure that the form is scanned successfully.
- Do not staple, tape, paper clip or use any other fastening device to attach enclosures to Form NJ-1040, or to attach the return pages together.
- Mail returns and enclosures (flat, not folded) in 9" x 12" envelopes (whenever possible).
- Send 8½" x 11" copies of W-2s rather than the form itself (whenever possible). You may photocopy multiple W-2s (if space permits) on an 8½" x 11" sheet.
- Use the correct envelope/address. Use the small window envelope to mail the payment voucher with any balance of tax due. Please do not send a payment in the envelope with the return.
- FILE ONLY ORIGINAL FORMS. Do not submit copies of the resident return and rebate application form.
- Use only blue or black ink when completing forms.
- MAKE NO ENTRY on unused lines or any line where the amount to be reported is zero or less. (Exception: If no use tax is due, enter "0.00" on Line 40.)

Thank you for your continued cooperation.

State Treasurer Named

On July 1, 1997, Governor Christine Todd Whitman appointed James A. DiEleuterio to succeed Brian W. Clymer as State Treasurer. This is only the second time in 40 years that a career State employee has been chosen for this position. Mr. DiEleuterio served as Deputy State Treasurer since 1996. But, most of his State career was spent with the Division of Taxation.

His first assignment with the Division was in the Special Procedures Branch. Mr. DiEleuterio later served the Division as Cash Receipts Account System (CRAS) Manager, Budget & Fiscal Manager, Chief of Management Services and Long Range Planning Manager. Mr. DiEleuterio's most recent assignments with the Division were as Chief of Staff and Assistant Director of Processing and Administration. In regard to how his taxation background affects his new role, Treasurer DiEleuterio said, "My tax background has been and will continue to be very helpful in not only seeing the issues but in making decisions. This background allows me to understand the tax issues and their impact on the State budget." Shortly after his swearing in as Treasurer, Mr. DiEleuterio shared some insights on his plans for the future.

"I fully support Governor Whitman's goal of a smaller, smarter State government. I plan to continue to reduce operating costs, improve service to the public and raise revenue," said DiEleuterio.

Treasurer DiEleuterio is firmly committed to the use of new technology in State government. "The application of technology is not only appropriate but necessary," said DiEleuterio. "Technology helps free people from the necessity of doing repetitious work and allows them to do more creative work. Substantial strides have already been made, but we still have a target-rich environment for the use of technology, not only to process returns but also to communicate better and faster within the Treasury Department and with New Jersey's taxpayers and practitioners."

"Communication is so important to what we do," said DiEleuterio. "The average citizen just doesn't have exposure to government policies and procedures. It is our obligation to tell citizens how to comply with our laws," said DiEleuterio, "and to provide multiple ways to comply. Publications like the New Jersey State Tax News are important educational tools."

Treasurer DiEleuterio believes that government must work closely with the tax practitioner community. "About 50% of the returns we process are prepared by paid preparers," said DiEleuterio. "That is why a continuing dialogue with the practitioner community is extremely important to effective and efficient tax administration. I will continue to rely upon the New Jersey practitioner community to point out issues and areas of concern to their clients," concludes DiEleuterio, "just as I rely on Treasury employees to bring their best ideas forward. We're all in this together. We're all taxpayers and we bring different perspectives to tax issues. I look forward to a challenging and productive tenure as State Treasurer." □

Federal Pensioners Can Now Have NJ Tax Withheld

The 55,000 Federal retirees living in New Jersey can now opt to have State income taxes withheld from their pension checks, Taxation Division Director Richard D. Gardiner announced. Until now, retired Federal employees in New Jersey had to file estimated tax payments on a quarterly basis.

"This is going to make things much easier for the retirees and eliminate paperwork for both the individuals and the Division of Taxation," said Gardiner.

The option, which became available July 1, is a new feature of Annuitant Express, a service offered by the Federal Office of Personnel Management (OPM), the agency which oversees Federal pensions.

It was made possible for New Jersey residents through a memorandum of understanding signed by the New Jersey Division of Taxation, the Division of Revenue, and OPM.

Federal retirees received a letter from OPM explaining how they can authorize the State income tax withholding by calling a toll-free number using a Touch-tone telephone and a series of special codes.

Using the same system, the retirees will also be able to change the amount of withholding at any time, change withholding from one state to another, or cancel withholding.

Gardiner noted that in some states, Federal retirees have been able to authorize state income tax withholding under a complex, manual system established by OPM several years ago.

“But the old system required retirees to fill out a number of different forms and deal with both Federal and state agencies. It also required the state taxation authorities to undertake complicated transmission and verification actions in order to receive the income taxes withheld from the checks in a timely manner,” Gardiner said.

“It was cumbersome for individuals and wasn’t cost-effective from the Division’s standpoint, so New Jersey — and about half of the other states with income taxes — decided not to participate until the Federal government could bring its technology up to speed.

“We have been asking the Federal government to improve its process for pension withholdings for some time. Now that they have done so, we’re very pleased to be able to offer this convenience to the Federal retirees living in New Jersey,” Gardiner said. □

Public Utility Tax Repealed

c.162) eliminates the current gross receipts and franchise tax on electric, gas and telecommunications utilities. These utilities will now be subject to the State’s corporation business tax. A transitional energy facility assessment will be applied on electric and gas utilities, which will be phased out over a five year period. The new law requires the Division of Taxation to promulgate rules and regulations necessary to administer this Act and allows the Board of Public Utilities to adopt such rules as it deems necessary to implement the provisions of this law. The State Treasurer and the Board of Public Utilities will jointly develop a statement to be included on energy user’s billings that a portion of the charges in the billing are dedicated to property tax relief.

A companion law, P.L. 1997, c.167, establishes the “Energy Tax Receipts Property Tax Relief Fund” and replaces the method of funding aid to local municipalities guaranteed from the State’s taxation of energy and telecommunications. To replace the funds lost by the repeal of the gross receipts and franchise tax, the guaranteed funds will now be generated by the State’s corporate taxation of electric, gas and telecommunications utilities. □

New Exempt Org. Registration Form

Qualifying nonprofit organizations applying for the ST-5 certificate of exemption from sales tax now have a simpler application to complete — Form REG-1E. The new form, intended only for qualifying organizations, is a combination tax registration form and application for exempt organization permit. Prior to use of the new one-page form, applicants needed to complete both a two-page registration form (REG-1) and a short permit application form (ST-5B). Please note that non-exempt organizations (e.g., social clubs and veteran’s organizations) and businesses should continue using the REG-1 Application for Registration form for their tax registration requirements.

Organizations that qualify for the New Jersey sales and use tax exemption permit — volunteer fire companies, first aid squads, PTAs and organizations having a 501(c)(3) determination from the IRS — may request the REG-1E Application for Exempt Organization Permit by calling the Exempt Organization Unit of the Division of Taxation at 609-292-5994. □

GROSS INCOME TAX Withholding Tax Forms Changed

The coupon booklets sent to employers and other withholders in July 1997 contained new versions of Forms NJ-941, NJ-941-W and NJ-W-3. An amended quarterly return has also been developed.

Employers and other withholders will no longer use Form NJ-W-3, Reconciliation of Tax Withheld, to request a refund or credit of an overpayment of gross income tax withheld. A request for a refund or credit must now be made on the Quarterly Return of Gross Income Tax Withheld (Form NJ-941 or Form NJ-941-W).

To correct errors in tax remitted for the current quarter, a withholder may adjust the amount remitted for the next period within that quarter. When necessary, a refund or credit for the quarter must be requested on the quarterly return (Form NJ-941 or Form NJ-941-W).

To correct an overpayment or underpayment on a previously filed NJ-941 or NJ-941-W, a taxpayer must file an Amended Quarterly Return of Gross Income Tax Withheld (Form NJ-941-X or NJ-941-W-X) for that quarter. Penalty and interest charges are due for underpayments in prior periods.

Employers and other withholders must continue to submit Form NJ-W-3 annually to report the number of employees, the total amount of gross wages, pension/annuity income and gambling winnings, and the total amount of income tax withheld. When completing Form NJ-W-3, taxpayers must compare the amounts to be entered on Form NJ-W-3 with the figures reported on their quarterly returns for the year and also with the amounts reported on the W-2 forms or other forms to be attached to the NJ-W-3. An amended quarterly return (Form NJ-941-X or NJ-941-W-X) must be filed for each quarter that is found to be incorrect.

For further information on the changes to the withholding forms, or to obtain a copy of the Amended Quarterly Return of Gross Income Tax Withheld (Form NJ-941-X or Form NJ-941-W-X), call the Division's Tax Hotline at 609-588-2200. □

State Changes Address System

Effective July 1, 1997, the State of New Jersey eliminated the old Caller Number (CN) system for State of New Jersey addresses, and began using Post Office Box (PO Box) numbers. The new method of addressing all State mail is to simply replace "CN" with "PO Box." The same three-digit number previously used will become the PO Box number, rather than the CN. For example, CN 001 becomes PO Box 001.

This conversion is expected to improve the delivery of mail to State offices. The U.S. Postal Service will continue to handle mail addressed to both CN and PO Box numbers until all State agencies exhaust existing stationery supplies. □

New Jersey entrepreneurs can receive free assistance from the Division of Taxation. The Division sponsors workshops explaining tax obligations geared for new businesses. The workshops will cover the following topics:

- Registering with the State of New Jersey
- Meeting Employer Responsibilities
- Reporting Business Income
- Filing Sales and Use Tax Returns

Division personnel will explain the proper procedure for collecting and remitting tax. Division personnel will also discuss the various types of business ownership and the tax consequences of each one. The session concludes with a discussion of the Sales and Use Tax describing what is taxable and what is exempt from the tax.

Participants receive appropriate forms and brochures for their own use. Additionally, each attendee receives a Small Business Workshop resource manual that reviews each topic and provides easy to follow examples.

Workshops are held throughout the State in conjunction with the Internal Revenue Service. The sessions run from 9:00 a.m. to 4:00 p.m., with the Division of Taxation presentation in the afternoon. Listed below is the fall workshop schedule. To find out more about Small Business Workshops, or to sign up for the fall sessions, call the Internal Revenue Service at 1-800-829-1040, or phone the

CORPORATION TAX
New Schedule

A new schedule, Partnership Investment Analysis (Schedule P-1) will be added to the Corporation Business Tax Returns, forms CBT-100 and CBT-100S, for tax year 1997.

All corporate taxpayers who are partners in a partnership or another type of entity which is treated for Federal tax purposes as a partnership must provide the following information for each partnership: name of partnership, Federal identification number, the corporation's percentage of ownership, whether the corporation is a general or limited partner, the tax accounting method used in reporting the partnership activity on the Corporation Business Tax Return filed, and whether or not the partnership has nexus in New Jersey.

In addition, a copy of Schedule NJK-1 from Form NJ-1065 should be attached to the Corporation Business Tax Return filed if the partnership has nexus with New Jersey. If the partnership does not have nexus, then a copy of Federal Form K-1 should be attached. □

IRP Registered Vehicles

The exemption from sales and use tax for trucks at N.J.S.A. 54:32B-8.43 applies only to qualified commercial motor vehicles which are duly registered in New Jersey. Accordingly, the exemption does not apply to any vehicle registered under the International Registration Plan (IRP) in a home jurisdiction other than New Jersey.

The International Registration Plan simplifies and standardizes the registration process for interstate carriers by providing apportioned registration fees for commercial motor vehicles which travel in two or more IRP jurisdictions. Qualified carriers must register with their base (home) jurisdiction (state) for travel in all jurisdictions. The home jurisdiction collects the required fees which it then distributes to the other IRP jurisdictions as appropriate. States which do not belong to the IRP forfeit the authority to register commercial motor vehicles used in interstate commerce. New Jersey joined the IRP in April 1996.

An IRP registered vehicle is considered duly registered only in the carrier's base jurisdiction—the state which issued the vehicle's license plates and registration document/credential (i.e., cab card). The registration certificate bears the name of the base jurisdiction as well as that of any other IRP jurisdiction in which the carrier is authorized to operate (in which the appropriate apportioned registration fee was paid).

Therefore, although a carrier based in another IRP jurisdiction must have "NJ" listed on its cab card in order to enjoy the privilege of using our roadways (or, alternatively, must possess a valid New Jersey trip permit), such a vehicle is not duly registered in this State for the purposes of the sales tax exemption cited above. □

Homestead Rebate Checks Issued

Homestead rebates were mailed to approximately 1.2 million New Jersey residents on July 31. The rebate checks issued total approximately $288 million.

Qualified homeowners and tenants who are age 65 or older or blind or disabled with gross incomes of $70,000 and under are eligible for rebates of up to $500. Residents in this category with between $70,000 and $100,000 in gross income will receive up to $100 if they are homeowners and up to $35 if they are tenants. Residents with gross incomes of more than $100,000 are not eligible for rebates.

Nondisabled taxpayers who are under age 65 with gross incomes up to $40,000 are eligible for rebates of $90 if they are homeowners and $30 if they are tenants.

1996 marked the first year of a three year phase-in of the property tax deduction/credit program, which allows New Jersey residents either to deduct a portion of their property taxes or rent or to claim a property tax credit on their New Jersey income tax return. Certain homestead rebate recipients will receive a property tax credit of $25 ($12.50 for married persons filing separately with the same principal residence) in their rebate check. The rebate recipients who will receive their property tax credits with homestead rebates are those homeowners and tenants who were not required to file 1996 New Jersey income tax returns because their gross incomes were $7,500 or less ($3,750 for married persons filing separately) and they were 65 years of age or over, blind or disabled during 1996.

An eligible homeowner or tenant who is required to file a New Jersey income tax return because gross income was more than $7,500 ($3,750 for married persons filing separately) claims the property tax deduction or credit on Form NJ-1040. A taxpayer with gross income of $7,500 or less ($3,750 for married persons filing separately) who is under age 65 and not blind or disabled is not eligible for the property tax credit.

New Jersey taxpayers who are eligible to receive homestead rebates, and have not received them, can call the State's automated Homestead Rebate InfoLine from a Touch-tone telephone at 1-800-323-4400 (within New Jersey only) or 609-588-2525 (anywhere) to check on the status of their rebate applications. Callers must provide information from their rebate applications when using the InfoLine. □

ABC Clearance Update

Effective September 1, 1995, P.L. 1995, c.161, provided for an annual review of tax records for all New Jersey retail liquor licensees, and for those licensees in good standing, the issuance of an ABC Clearance Certificate. The ABC Clearance Certificate is required documentation for the annual renewal of retail liquor licenses. On June 30, 1997 the Division of Taxation completed Phase II of its three phase plan for implementation of the tax review requirements of this law. Included in Phase II was the tax review of 7,325 liquor licensees in 14 counties. Prior to the June 30th expiration, a total of 6,806 ABC Clearance Certificates were issued representing 92.9% of the licensees reviewed. The ABC Clearance Section is responsible for the issuance of the clearance certificates; for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1997 they collected $2.4 million dollars. This amount does not include collections made by other Division activities related to the enforcement of this law. Next year's Phase III review will include all 21 New Jersey counties and approximately 10,500 licensees. This will end the implementation process and mark the beginning of the annual review of all New Jersey retail liquor licensees. □

1997 Package NJX

In August 1997, order forms for the 1997 Package NJX were sent to all who subscribed to the 1996 edition of this publication. Package NJX is a compendium of those reproducible New Jersey tax forms most widely used by tax preparers and other tax professionals. The 1997 edition of Package NJX is available in two formats:

1. Printed format—this traditional version, priced at $7.00 per copy, consists of loose-leaf pages, hole punched to fit a standard 3-ring binder; and
2. CD-ROM format—this version, new for 1997, is available for $10.00 per copy.

Attractive Package NJX 3-ring binders, designed to accommodate more than one volume of the printed version, may be ordered separately at $7.00 apiece. (Binders do not include the Package NJX loose leaf content pages.) Prices include shipping and handling. If you haven't yet ordered the 1997 Package NJX and/or NJX binder, and wish to do so, complete the order blank on the last page of this issue, and send it with your payment to:

CONFERENCE & APPEALS Protests and Requests for Conferences

N.J.A.C. 18:1-1.8 defines the items that must be included in a protest and request for a conference as the following:

1. The taxpayer's name, address, telephone number and social security or tax identification number.
2. The name, address and telephone number of the taxpayer's

representative, if any, for the purpose of the protest. In such case, a written power of attorney, (Form M-5008) shall be filed with the notice of protest.

3. The type of tax and period(s) under protest.
4. A copy of the notice at issue.
5. The specific amount of tax, penalty, and/or interest under protest and specific amount of tax, penalty, and/or interest uncontested.
6. A statement of grounds upon which the protest is based.
7. The specific facts supporting each ground asserted and a summary of evidence or documentation to be presented in support of taxpayer's position.
8. The taxpayer shall remit the entire uncontested amount of the tax, penalty, and interest if any, that is due. Failure to submit such payment will not invalidate the protest, but the Division in accordance with the applicable law may proceed to collect outstanding amounts which are due.

A protest submitted without items 5, 6, or 7 will not be considered a valid protest and will not result in a conference. A written protest shall be signed by the taxpayer, the taxpayer's duly authorized officer or duly authorized representative.

A protest and request for a conference must be made pursuant to N.J.S.A. 54:49-18 within 90 days of the giving of the notice or the action of the Director sought to be reviewed. It should be noted that in those cases in which the taxpayer or the authorized representative desires to protest two related notices, such as an assessment for a business and a related personal Gross Income Tax assessment, a separate protest must be submitted for each notice following the above itemized steps. Each protest must refer to the appropriate tax identification number, the proper tax and amounts, include a separate power of attorney and be accompanied by the specific notice being protested. Those notices not properly protested (protested at a later date after the 90 day period has elapsed) will be deemed invalid or out of time. □

GROSS INCOME TAX Netting Income and Losses

Newly established residents of New Jersey and nonresidents having to report income earned in New Jersey need to be aware of a provision in the New Jersey Gross Income Tax Act at 54A:5-2, Losses, when filing their Gross Income Tax returns. The passage states that "a net loss in one category of gross income may not be applied against gross income in another category of gross income."

Individuals who have filed their Federal returns or other states' returns using losses to reduce income/gains by netting line items to obtain a total income amount will not be able to use those losses when filing New Jersey personal income tax returns. Please further note that no carryback or carryover of losses is permitted under the New Jersey law.

CONFERENCE CORNER Debt Forgiveness

The forgiveness of debt continues to be a recurring issue for the Conference and Appeals Branch. The source of the forgiveness of debt income determines whether it would be a taxable transaction for New Jersey. For example, if the mortgage on a taxpayer's residence is foreclosed, there is no forgiveness of debt income to report to New Jersey. The forgiveness of debt in this situation is personal in nature. However, if the taxpayer owns rental real estate which is foreclosed, the forgiveness of debt income is from a business source and therefore is taxable. See related article in Summer 1997 State Tax News.

Relying on Written Information

The Taxpayer's Bill of Rights provides that if a taxpayer relies on written advice from the Division of Taxation regarding an issue and the advice is determined to be incorrect, the tax is still due. Penalties and interest may be waived in such a situation, provided that the erroneous advice was not the result of the taxpayer's failure to provide adequate or accurate information to the Division. □

Since its inception in 1976, the Gross Income Tax Act has included the prohibition against netting income and losses from different categories, shown on the return as separate line items, when determining total income. □

Taxpayer Accounting Branch

In its most simple terms, the Mission of the Taxpayer Accounting Branch is to review bills and refunds and answer taxpayer correspondence, so that taxpayers can pay what they owe, receive what is due to them, and have any errors in their accounts corrected.

Most bills and refunds are automatically computer-generated, but many are also flagged for manual review based on certain predetermined criteria, set up to try to catch erroneous bills and refunds before they are sent out to taxpayers. These flagged bills and refunds are what the Taxpayer Accounting Branch reviews and attempts to fix, if it is determined they are likely to be erroneous.

Since it is impossible to review every single bill and refund, many which are erroneous do get sent out, because they did not meet the criteria for review. Others that are reviewed may also be erroneous because the information available to the reviewer indicates that they are probably correct. This is where the correspondence comes in from taxpayers indicating that there is a problem with the bill or refund that they received. When the information necessary to correct the account is received from the taxpayer, Taxpayer Accounting staff fix the account and notify the taxpayer that the problem has been corrected.

In Fiscal Year 1997, which just closed, Taxpayer Accounting personnel:

- Responded to almost 118,000 pieces of correspondence;
- Answered nearly 31,000 phone calls;
- Reviewed nearly 122,000 bills and almost 55,000 refunds;
- Collected more than $6.3 million; and
- Made slightly under 200,000 adjustments or corrections to accounts. □

Economic Reality Training Class

The Division of Taxation, with the cooperation and assistance of the Internal Revenue Service, has held its first class on "Economic Reality." Initially dubbed Economic Reality, the IRS now refers to it as "Financial Status Auditing."

Financial Status Auditing is an indirect audit technique that involves a process of gathering information reflective of the taxpayer's financial status. The focal point is whether reported income is sufficient to support the individual's financial lifestyle or standard of living. This methodology will be a useful audit tool in those situations where the taxpayer's business activities appear to lack economic reality and/or where accounting records are not adequate for the more traditional approach.

All employees expected to benefit from this training will be given the opportunity to attend over the next fiscal year. With increased emphasis on cash businesses, economic reality awareness should complement current enforcement efforts. □

LOCAL PROPERTY TAX Income Limits for Tax Deduction

In determining the income limitation allowable in granting a $250 local property tax deduction, note that the maximum Social Security amount excludable to be used in the computation has been established at $15,950. This maximum is to govern the amount of pension, disability or retirement income to be excluded pursuant to Chapter 129, P.L. 1976 and was compiled from information received from the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services, Social Security Administration.

Further information on this subject, along with examples showing the correct computation for determining the income limitation was mailed to all assessors, collectors, and county tax board commissioners and administrators in early July. □

Levy Actions

When it becomes evident that an individual or business is non-compliant (unable or unwilling to pay taxes), field investigators may proceed to levy against the assets of the taxpayer. This is one of the last resorts a field investigator uses to obtain funds from an uncooperative taxpayer.

In order for levy action to take place, there must be a Certificate of Debt (COD) filed against the business and/or individual taxpayer. The COD acts as an administrative judgment. A notification that a COD is in place goes out to the concerned parties stating that the Division may execute on the COD without further notice to the taxpayer. The investigator usually gives the taxpayer at least ten days to make contact with the Division before any levy attempt takes place.

The Division may levy on the following:

- Bank accounts
- Brokerage house accounts
- Mutual fund accounts
- Rental income
- Accounts and notes receivable
- Mortgage income
- Insurance proceeds
- Auction proceeds
- Safe deposit box contents
- Business property, inventory, cash in register, motor vehicles
- Any other asset that has been discovered

The Division may not levy on the following:

- Social Security benefits
- Workers compensation
- Disability insurance
- Railroad retirement
- ERISA
- IRAs and other pension plans
- Unemployment insurance

Before the levy is done, the investigator must secure a Warrant of Execution and register it at the county clerk's office. Once registered, it becomes a public document. The Warrant states the name of the debtor (defendant), the type of tax(es) owed with the amount, and the Docket Number of the COD. The Warrant of Execution will also contain Cost of Collection, generally ten percent of the COD amount. Cost of Collection is the amount of expense incurred by the State with respect to the issuance of a COD for, and the collection of, any State tax not paid within the time prescribed by law. These expenses include but are not limited to:

- Cost of postage
- Cost of telephone
- Cost of photocopying
- State payroll hours used, including associated overhead
- Cost of filing and prosecuting suit
- Other expenses deemed by the Director as reasonably related and necessary for the collection of any unpaid tax. □

Judgment Inquiries

The Division of Taxation is contacted daily by taxpayers and/or their authorized representatives regarding the Satisfactions of Judgment filed in the Superior Court of New Jersey, at Trenton. While the Division has filed thousands of Certificates of Debt with the court over the years, many of the judgment inquiries received request information on judgments not filed by the Division.

Whether this is just an oversight by the requester; an erroneous assumption that all State Judgments are filed by Taxation; or due to incomplete information on Judgment Search Abstracts; this necessitates that Taxation personnel contact the Superior Court, either by phone or in person, concerning judgments not identifiable as being one of ours. This process may take a matter of a day or a week just to learn that the inquiry concerns a judgment filed by another State agency. This, along with the ensuing rounds of "phone tag" to convey this information back to the requester, often results in unnecessary delays with regard to an impending financial transaction. Therefore, the requester should be sure of the "Plaintiff" or filing agency before contacting the Division of Taxation. If unsure of the "Plaintiff" contact the New Jersey Superior Court directly at 609-292-4804.

Criminal Enforcement

Criminal Enforcement over the past several months included:

- On April 4, 1997, James Bobowicz of Caldwell was sentenced to five years probation, 120 hours of community service, assessed a $25 per month probation fee and ordered to file an amended 1992 New Jersey Income Tax Return. Bobowicz previously plead guilty to failing to file New Jersey Personal Gross Income Tax Returns (four counts - 1989-1992), failure to pay $1,086 of New Jersey Gross Income Taxes (one count), filing a false and fraudulent tax return (one count - 1993) and theft by deception (one count - 1993) for claiming a fraudulent income tax refund.

This case was the result of a joint investigation between the Office of Criminal Investigation and the Sussex County Prosecutor's Office.

- On April 23, 1997, Ramon L. Morell, a Union City licensed Public Accountant, plead guilty to four counts of knowingly and recklessly preparing returns containing false information. Union City Municipal Court Judge Joseph N. Falbo imposed maximum fines and costs of $4,620. The defendant, Morell, was the preparer in a scheme to obtain 15 Homestead Rebate checks and an additional 15 duplicate Homestead Rebate checks. None of the checks were cashed. In the investigation of the attempted fraud, the duplicate checks were recovered and the cashing of the original checks was thwarted. The scheme, if it had succeeded, would have netted $15,000 in illegally obtained Homestead Rebates.
- On April 25, 1997, Michael Immordino, formerly of Ewing Township, NJ, now living in Hawaii, was sentenced. Immordino, who plead guilty last fall to a variety of charges stemming from his role as developer in failed real estate deals, was sentenced by Superior Court Judge Rosemarie Williams in Mercer County Superior Court to five years probation, 500 hours of community service and was ordered to pay $971,000 in restitution to 19 investors who lost more than $1.6 million in business deals with him. Immordino previously plead guilty to misconduct by a corporate official, six counts of misapplication of entrusted property and 10 tax related counts, including failure to file a 1991 NJ Gross Income Tax Return, four counts of filing false and fraudulent income tax returns from 1987 to 1990 and five counts of failing to pay a total of $95,872.02 in income taxes owed for the period of 1987 to 1991. The additional income taxes owed to the State of New Jersey were not made part of the restitution order; however, the liabilities have been established and the matter will be referred for civil processes. This was a joint investigation between the Mercer County Prosecutor's Office and the Office of Criminal Investigation.
- On May 1, 1997, Edmund Damiano, the former president of the now defunct Auto 2000, Chrysler, Plymouth, Dodge dealership in Newton, NJ, was sentenced in the Superior Court of Sussex County by Judge Gerald Hanifran. Damiano was found guilty in February 1997, of 44 separate charges of fraud, including failure to file personal income tax returns and failure to remit sales taxes in the amount of $90,776.30. The judge sentenced Damiano to 11 years and 9 months in prison, incorporating all 44 charges in the sentence and ordered him to pay restitution to the Division of Taxation in the amount of $196,603.90, which includes taxes, penalty and interest. This was a joint investigation between the Sussex County Prosecutor's Office and the Office of Criminal Investigation.
- On May 1, 1997, Marcellus Cutler of Lakewood, NJ, was indicted by a Grand Jury in Ocean County on one count of failure to file a 1995 NJ-1040 and one count of failure to pay $1,979 in NJ personal income tax for 1995. These counts were part of a 13 count indictment charging Cutler and three co-defendants with possession of narcotics with the intent to distribute, conspiracy and money laundering. The indictment alleges that Cutler failed to file an income tax return reporting the income he had derived illegally from narcotics trafficking.
- Warren Kaye, a former official of General Machine & Instrument Co., Inc., entered a guilty plea to two counts of a nine count indictment that related to the bankrupt company's failure to remit monies withheld from employees for both New Jersey Gross Income Tax and Unemployment/Disability. Specifically, Mr. Kaye's plea involved one count of theft by failure to make the required disposition of funds and one count of failure to turn over taxes. As part of the plea agreement, Mr. Kaye will make restitution of $60,000. Another corporate official named in the original indictment, Richard Pessolano, is awaiting trial.
- Frederic A. Dinonno, who was previously indicted by a State Grand Jury on October 17, 1995, was sentenced in Monmouth County Superior Court. The case involved commercial bribery and theft. Dinonno solicited and received monetary bribes from vendors of his employer (Ebasco Corporation) in exchange for business from Ebasco. The bribes received by

Dinonno were in excess of $200,000 over an eight year period. Under a plea agreement Dinonno plead guilty to misconduct by a corporate official and to filing and preparing a false tax return, two counts of the original twelve count indictment. The judge imposed an eight year prison term on the misconduct offense and a five year term for filing a false tax return. The terms were ordered to run concurrently. The case was a result of a joint investigation between the Division of Taxation and the Division of Criminal Justice.

- Thirty-seven guilty pleas were entered in municipal courts throughout the State during this reporting period by individuals and businesses for noncompliance with the cigarette tax law. Of these 37 guilty pleas, 15 resulted from the two day saturation enforcement operation conducted in the city of Elizabeth during February 1997. In total, the aforementioned cases resulted in the imposition of fines and penalties of $20,555 and the awarding of approximately 5,900 cartons of cigarettes, valued at $118,000, to the State. In addition to the cigarettes being forfeited to the State, a 1992 Ford Crown Victoria, valued at $10,000, was forfeited and $6,240 in monies seized was turned over to the Burlington County Prosecutor's Office for forfeiture proceedings and eventual distribution to involved agencies.
- A total of 34 charges were filed in municipal court for 13 cases. Twenty-seven of the charges were for violations of the cig-rette tax law, which includes transporting, possessing, and selling untaxed cigarettes. Two charges were for selling motor fuels without a license, and five charges were for other licensing violations. Three cases resulted in the seizure of 57 cartons of cigarettes, valued at $1,140. □

Following is a summary of enforcement actions for the quarter ending June 30, 1997.

Certificates of Debt

During the quarter ended June 30, 1997, the Division filed 2,109 Certificates of Debt in New Jersey Superior Court. These CODs, which have the same force and effect as docketed judgments, totaled $32.6 million.

Levies

$9,844 was collected by levying against payments made under State contracts to satisfy debts owed by State vendors.

Jeopardy Assessments

When a vendor is found to have failed to register his or her business or failed to collect and remit sales taxes or file tax returns, the Division of Taxation has the authority to make an immediate, on-site assessment of tax due (referred to as a "jeopardy assessment") and may seize all available assets to satisfy the on-site tax assessment.

The Division makes jeopardy assessments when there is a danger that a non-compliant vendor will discontinue operations, remove his or her business property and flee the State. This remedy is often necessary in cases involving transient vendors, out-of-State businesses operating in New Jersey, or vendors operating from non-fixed locations, such as roadside sales, flea markets or trade shows.

If the liability is not resolved, the seized property can be sold at public auction and the proceeds used to satisfy the tax debt.

For the quarter ending June 30, 1997, $279,756 was collected from jeopardy assessments, and the assets of three businesses were seized.

Seizures

When a liability, for which the Division of Taxation has secured judgments, cannot or will not be satisfied by a taxpayer and all other means of collection of the debt have been exhausted, seizure of the business and personal assets will take place. Field Investigators will close a business, seizing any tangible assets including licenses, inventory, machinery, furniture, vehicles, etc., until arrangements are made for payment of the debt

For the quarter ending June 30, 1997, property of 61 businesses was seized. Some businesses were able to reopen, others remain closed. A listing of these seizures appears on pages 16-20.

Auctions

If the liability of a business seized by the Division is not satisfied or resolved, the business will remain closed. To satisfy the debt, the Division can sell the business assets at a public auction.

During the quarter ending June 30, 1997, nine auctions were held by the Division. A listing follows on page 20.

Referrals to Attorney General

In cases where the Division has exhausted its administrative remedies without success, referrals are made to the Office of the Attorney General. During the quarter ending June 30, 1997, 261 such cases were referred to the Attorney General's office for additional collection.

Together, the Division's Referral Group and the Attorney General's Collection Unit have collected $735,349 in revenue during the second quarter of 1997 and $3,360,179 throughout fiscal year 1997 from cases like these.

Liquor License Program

Under a recently enacted State law, applicants for renewal or transfer of a liquor license must receive a certificate of tax clearance from the Division. This program was in effect in seven New Jersey counties in 1996 and added seven additional counties in 1997. The program will be in effect in all 21 New Jersey counties in 1998.

In addition, the Division is conducting special investigations and audits of liquor license holders. In the past year, the Division has collected more than $77 million from holders of the various types of licenses subject to audit. Richard D. Gardiner, Division of Taxation Director said he expects to collect a total of $150 million during the three-year program.

During the quarter ending June 30, 1997, 290 notifications of liquor license transfer were received by the Division's Bulk Sales section. Nineteen (19) audits relating to this project and previously requested were completed; assessments from these audits totaled $920,431. □

Alcoholic Beverage Tax

Bond Requirements — The Division of Taxation has adopted a new schedule of minimum bond amounts for payers of the alcoholic beverage tax. The new schedule replaces the 1984 schedule.

In determining these bond amounts, the Division has taken into account the amount at levels which should protect the State without being burdensome to the taxpayers.

Gross Income Tax

Savings Incentive Match Plan for Employees — A request for information about New Jersey's treatment of the newly enacted "savings incentive match plan for employees," or SIMPLE plan, established under Internal Revenue Code Section 408(p), was received by the Division of Taxation. SIMPLE Plans provide a simplified federally tax-favored retirement plan for small employers.

Under New Jersey law, pension plan contributions may be excluded from gross income that are "amounts contributed by an employer on behalf of and at the election of an employee to a trust which is part of a qualified cash or deferred arrangement which meets the requirements of Section 401(k).” N.J.S.A. 54A:6-21. The statute defers State income tax on amounts contributed to retirement plans authorized by IRC Section 401(k). It does not defer income tax on plans that have similar features or requirements to 401(k) plans, but are not themselves 401(k) plans.

The inquirer was informed that the SIMPLE plan is not a 401(k) plan, and does not have to meet the requirements for qualified plans. Therefore, employee contributions to SIMPLE plans would not be excluded from gross income under N.J.S.A. 54A:6-21. There is no other relevant legislative authority for a tax deferral.

Amtrak Reauthorization and Improvement Act of 1990 — Compensation paid by an interstate motor carrier to an employee who performs regularly assigned duties in two or more states can only be taxed by the employee’s state of residence. For the purposes of this rule, employee means:

- An operator of a commercial motor vehicle (including an independent contractor while in the course of operating a commercial motor vehicle);
- A mechanic;
- A freight handler; and
- Any individual, other than an employer, who is employed by an employer and who in the course of his or her employment directly affects commercial motor vehicle safety, but such term does not include an employee of the United States, any state, or any political subdivision of a state who is acting within the course of such employment.

The Act also applies to employees of interstate railroads who perform regularly assigned duties in more than one state.

Sales and Use Tax

Applicability of Trade-in Credit in Sales and Lease Transactions —

Since the lessor is considered an ultimate consumer under the lease law, when a customer is entering into a lease transaction, the value of any vehicle that is traded in, whether leased or owned by the customer, cannot be used to reduce the amount upon which the lessor is required to pay the lessor’s use tax.

If a customer is entering into a sale transaction, and is trading in a leased vehicle, whether the sales tax receipt can be reduced depends upon the chain of title of the trade-in. If the customer exercises the lease’s purchase option, and pays New Jersey sales tax on the buyout price, then the customer is entitled to a trade-in credit pursuant to the statute.

Use of ST-3NR by Contractor —

The Division responded to an inquiry concerning the applicability of the Form ST-3NR where the purchaser is an out-of-State contractor picking up paving materials in New Jersey for jobs in New York State.

The ST-3NR is available to non-registered vendors making in-person purchases for resale; it is intended to give an out-of-State vendor who enters this State the same benefits as an in-State vendor with regard to purchasing property for resale. Thus, whether the ST-3NR can be issued depends upon the laws of the State of New Jersey.

In New Jersey, a contractor is treated as the end user of materials purchased for incorporation into real property. N.J.S.A. 54:32B-2(e)(2). A New Jersey contractor would not be able to issue a Resale Certificate for the purchase of construction materials in New Jersey, regardless of whether the materials were to be used on an out-of-State job. See N.J.A.C. 18:24-5.3.

American Indian Sales — In the Winter 1996 issue of New Jersey State Tax News (Volume 25, No. 4, p. 20) the Division published a tax brief regarding the taxability of sales to American Indians. The tax brief included a reference to the Rankokus Reservation in Burlington County. The Division has since learned that this Powhatan Renape Nation community is not on tribal land. Instead, it is located in State-owned park land. Therefore, the sales tax exemption for purchases by enrolled members of a tribe on tribal land does not apply to taxable sales on the “Rankokus Reservation.”

Sales Tax Collection on Indian Trust Lands —

The Division received correspondence regarding H.R. 1168, a Federal bill supplementing the Indian Reorganization Act, 25 U.S.C. §461 et seq. This bill would help protect New Jersey’s tax base in the event that lands in this State are transferred into trust, pursuant to section 5 of that Act (25 U.S.C. §465), for the purpose of providing land for Indians. The legislation would require that before any new lands are transferred into trust, the tribe that will have jurisdiction over the land must enter into a binding agreement with the state in which the land is located, providing that any retail establishment located on the land will pay, collect or remit the state sales and excise taxes applicable to the establishment's transactions.

The Division is aware that absent explicit Congressional authorization, a state may not enforce taxes whose legal incidence falls upon Indian tribes or on members of the tribes, on their own tribal lands. We also know that without Federal enabling legislation, a state may require Indian tribal businesses to collect and remit sales tax from non-Indian customers, provided that the burdens of collection and remittance are not more than minimally burdensome and do not violate the terms of a treaty.

Oklahoma Tax Commission v Chickasaw Nation, ___U.S.____, 115 S.Ct. 2214, 2220-2221 (1995).

H.R. 1168, which was proposed by Representative Ernest Istook of Oklahoma, would require that before receiving new trust lands, a tribe would have to agree that retail businesses located on this trust land will collect sales and excise taxes payable by their non-Indian customers. This amendment would partially protect the State sales tax base, enabling the State to require tribal businesses to collect and remit tax on their taxable sales to customers who are not members of the tribe for which the land is held in trust, without having to debate whether normal sales tax reporting and remittance schedules, applicable to all vendors, are too burdensome to impose on vendors who are members of an Indian tribe. Sales tax collected and remitted by the retailer would be much easier for the State to enforce than the compensatory use tax that nonmembers of the tribe would otherwise be required to pay on their purchases. The amendment would also minimize the competitive disadvantage suffered by non-tribal retailers, who would inevitably lose business if their non-Indian customers sought to evade the sales tax by purchasing only from tribal establishments, where no tax would be charged.

Telephone Answering Service — On July 1, 1990, telecommunication services became subject to New Jersey sales and use tax. Telecommunications is defined in the law as the act or privilege of originating or receiving messages or information through the use of any kind of one-way or two-way communication, including but not limited to: voice, video.... N.J.S.A. 54:32B-2(cc). This definition was included in a Special Notice to registered vendors which was sent in July 1990.

The Division has consistently held that telephone answering services are included within the definition of telecommunications and thus, are subject to tax under N.J.S.A. 54:32B-3(f). See P.L. 1990, c.40. Only telecommunication services rendered with respect to a service address in New Jersey are taxed. For example, sales tax is not imposed on receipts from telephone answering services for a telephone located in another state. □

Cigarette Tax

Surety Obligations Continue Under Altered Payment Agreements — Selective Insurance Company of America v. Director, Division of Taxation, Superior Court of New Jersey, Appellate Division, decided April 16, 1997.

Selective Insurance Company of America ("Selective"), plaintiff-appellant, was surety on a bond issued to the Division of Taxation, defendant-respondent. M&R Tobacco and Candy Company ("M&R"), defendant-respondent, a licensed cigarette distributor, was the principal on the bond. The bond secured M&R's financial obligations to New Jersey arising from credit purchases of cigarette tax stamps beginning in 1982.

In 1990, the Revenue Accounting Branch of the Division of Taxation discovered that M&R missed some of its tax stamp payments for that year. A unique weekly payment program was arranged that included interest and penalties. After several weeks, M&R began missing the weekly payments as well as payments on invoices for additional tax stamps. Finally, on March 22, 1991, after M&R missed payments on a revised payment program, the Division demanded payment of the total amount owed. M&R filed for bankruptcy the same day.

Selective sought to be discharged from their obligations as surety by bringing an action against the Division. Selective argued that their obligation was extinguished when the Division and M&R altered the terms of M&R's obligations. Selective further argued the alterations consisted of the payment extension beyond the thirty-day limit contained in N.J.S.A. 54:40A-13, the charging of interest on the initial default and the additional credit sales to M&R.

The Trial Court stated that the Director of the Division may revoke a distributor's credit privilege, for cause, at his discretion under N.J.A.C. 18:5-3.19. The Court therefore found that delinquent payments do not automatically suspend the distributor's privilege to make further credit purchases.

However, the Trial Court said that the Director lacked the authority to grant M&R an "extension of time to pay" for stamps purchased on credit. The Trial Court found that Selective was in fact discharged but only for the amount by which it was harmed by the extension. Therefore Selective was responsible for M&R's indebtedness, the total purchase price of all the tax stamps, but not for the interest and penalties.

The Appellate Division affirmed the Trial Court's judgment but did not view the payment program as an "extension," but rather, as an attempt to collect an overdue tax. According to the Appellate Division, N.J.S.A. 54:53-10 authorizes the satisfaction of a compromised amount owed to the State through installment payments.

Gross Income Tax

Timely Refund Claims – Charles C. Carella v. The State of New Jersey, Department of Treasury, Superior Court of New Jersey, Chancery Division: Essex County, decided May 20, 1997.

Plaintiff sought to recover $2,259,820 in New Jersey gross income taxes voluntarily paid by Eddie Antar ("Crazy Eddie") to the State of New Jersey for the years 1984 through 1987. Plaintiff also sought to recover $8,652.60 and $62,378.98 for gross income taxes paid for 1984 and 1986, respectively. Antar filed several refund claims prior to plaintiff's action here.

The Court first pointed out that N.J.S.A. 54A:9-8(a) states that written refund claims need to be filed within three years of the filing of tax returns or two years after the actual payment of those taxes. The Court further offered that Vivoca v. Director, Division of Taxation, 116 N.J. Super. 496 (App. Div. 1979), says the filing of a refund claim with respect to interest and penalties assessed by the Director must be filed within ninety days of the assessment. In accordance with those authorities, the Court found that the only amount with respect to which Antar filed a timely refund claim, and thus the only amount the Court could consider in this action, was $11,943.80.

Plaintiff further claimed that no nexus existed between Antar and New Jersey and therefore the assertion of New Jersey's power to tax Antar's income earned elsewhere was a violation of the Due Process Clause under the Fourteenth Amendment to the U.S. Constitution.

The Court disagreed, finding that New Jersey's retention of Antar's tax payments did not constitute a violation of his due process rights. The Court explained that New Jersey did not reach beyond its borders to assess or collect the tax, but rather, the jurisdiction to tax was conferred on New Jersey by Antar's voluntary payments to the State.

Plaintiff also argued that, as a violation of equal protection, New Jersey did not grant Antar, as a supposed nonresident, a credit against their gross income tax obligation for taxes paid to another jurisdiction which it grants to its residents.

Rejecting plaintiff's argument, the Court stated that New Jersey imposes a tax, without credit, on New Jersey source income on both its residents and nonresidents. The credit plaintiff was concerned with is for taxes paid to other jurisdictions by New Jersey residents which New Jersey has the authority to tax without offering a credit

at all. Nonresidents are not offered a credit by New Jersey for taxes paid to other jurisdictions because the State has no jurisdiction to tax nonresidents on non-New Jersey source income in the first place.

Based on the Court's findings, all of plaintiff's claims were dismissed.

Taxability of Distributions from Non-Qualified Investment Funds – Colonial Trust III v. Director, Division of Taxation, decided February 21, 1997; Tax Court of New Jersey; Docket No. 009777-93.

This was a declaratory judgment action to determine whether N.J.S.A. 54A:6-14.1 violates 31 U.S.C.A. §3124(a) and the Supremacy and Borrowing Clauses of the United States Constitution. N.J.S.A. 54A:6-14.1 excludes from gross income certain mutual fund distributions attributable to interest or gain from exempt Federal obligations or exempt obligations of the State of New Jersey or its agencies and subdivisions. However, by the terms of this provision, the exemption applies only when the fund making the distributions is a "qualified investment fund." In order for the State to determine that it is a qualified investment fund, the fund would have to have at least 80% of its investments in exempt obligations. If a fund did not satisfy these criteria, it would not be a qualified fund, and under the terms of the statute, its distributions would not be excludable from gross income.

At issue in this case was whether the State has the power to limit the immunity of Federal obligations from state taxation, or whether instead the scope of Federal obligation immunity is grounded in the Federal constitution and therefore not subject to limitation or definition by a state. The Tax Court determined that the State did not have the power to set conditions for the immunity of Federal obligation income. Consequently the State is barred from using the conditions set forth in N.J.S.A. 54A:6-14.1 in order to impose tax on Federal obligation income paid by non-qualified investment funds. The Court's holding was based on its interpretation of the Federal immunity statute, 31 U.S.C.A. §3124, and its analysis of the nature of mutual funds.

31 U.S.C.A. §3124(a) provides, in relevant part, that "[s]tocks and obligations of the United States Government are exempt from taxation by a State or political subdivision of a State. The exemption applies to each form of taxation that would require the obligation, the interest on the obligation, or both, to be considered in computing a tax..." The Court noted that this statutory immunity is rooted in the Supremacy and Borrowing Clauses of the United States Constitution and a long line of Supreme Court case law construing these clauses. The Supremacy Clause, U.S. Const., Art. VI, cl.2, provides that the Constitution and Federal laws enacted pursuant to it are the "supreme law of the land." The Borrowing Clause, U.S.

Const. Art. I, §8, cl.2, provides that Congress has power to borrow money on the credit of the nation.

The Division argued that while Federal obligation income received by a mutual fund was nontaxable to the fund, in its capacity as a corporation, the character of the Federal obligation income did not flow through to the shareholders who then received income from the fund itself. The Tax Court rejected that argument, finding instead that mutual funds are structured and intended to be investment conduits and that their function as conduits must control the way their shareholders are taxed by the states. The Tax Court cited numerous court decisions of other states using the "conduit" analysis.

The Tax Court held that 31 U.S.C.A. §3124 requires that distributions paid by a mutual fund must be immune from New Jersey gross income tax to the extent that they are attributable to interest earned on Federal obligations. Therefore the imposition of tax on Federal obligation income distributed by "non-qualified" investment funds, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 54A:6-14.1 read in conjunction with N.J.S.A. 54A:5-1(e) or (f), is barred by Federal law. The Court explicitly limited its holding to mutual funds, specifying that it had no effect on the taxation of dividends paid by traditional C corporations not designed as investment conduits.

The Division is not appealing this decision. Taxpayers who might have refunds as a result of this decision should be mindful of the three-year statute of limitations.

Local Property Tax Exemption as Charitable Institution Denied – 1711 Third Avenue, Inc., Plaintiff, v. City of Asbury Park, Defendant, decided October 16, 1996; Tax Court of New Jersey; Docket No. 008030-95.

Taxpayer sought local property tax exemption in the N.J. Tax Court under N.J.S.A. 54:4-3.6 as an “entity organized exclusively for the moral and mental improvement of men, women and children or as an institution that cares for, treats and studies the ‘...mentally retarded...’” after Asbury Park assessor’s $98,000 value determination was affirmed by Monmouth County Tax Board.

The property in question was a residential dwelling funded, in part, by H.U.D. under section 811 of the Cranston Gonzalez National Affordable Housing Act. The H.U.D. program provided housing and various support services to low income adults with mental health problems. H.U.D. required that each residence be organized as a nonprofit corporation having ownership of the property, in this case Third Avenue, Inc. H.U.D. further required that all operational, counseling and other assisted living services such as shopping, cooking, etc. be provided by a nonprofit sponsoring organization, that being Collaborative Support Programs of New Jersey (CSP). CSP then contracted nonprofit corporation Butterfly Property Management to draft leases, collect rents, and handle repairs and utility bills for its sponsored properties, i.e., Third Avenue, for a management fee of 7% of the tenants’ rents. The two H.U.D. tenants paid 30% of their Social Security income, $110 and $115 per month, as rent to Third Avenue Corp.

Tax Court did not dispute the property’s qualification under H.U.D.’s section 811 supportive housing program. The Court did, however, rule against the taxpayer for failing to substantiate conformance to the exemption prerequisites of N.J.S.A. 54:4-3.6.

To qualify for exemption under the “moral and mental improvement” clause of 3.6, Third Avenue Corp. would have to be organized exclusively for “moral and mental improvement” purposes. Citing Planned Parenthood v. Hackensack, the organizational test applied by this Court was whether the owning entity’s purpose on its certificate of incorporation or corporate charter coincided with the purpose on its claim for exemption. The Court emphasized the distinction between an entity’s organization and its operations and disagreed with an opinion in Inter-care Health Systems, Inc. v. Cedar Grove that an entity’s operations should be reviewed to determine if it’s organized for exempt purpose. In contrast to its claimed “moral and mental” purpose, Third Avenue’s incorporation certificate stated its organizational purposes were exclusively charitable and/or educational. Using Schizophrenia Foundation of N.J. v. Montgomery Twp. as a guide, the Court reasoned that while providing housing which met the physical, social and psychological needs of mental health services clients might be construed as moral and mental improvement purposes, the conclusion was not possible here because providing housing was not a stated purpose of Third Avenue

Corp. The educational purpose failed too since there is no exemption in 3.6 for entities organized for general educational purposes; but is rather for buildings used as colleges, schools, academies or seminaries. The Court concluded that although Third Avenue was better organized for charitable purposes, it had “not offered the proper proofs nor made the necessary arguments to bring itself within the exemption for charitable institutions.”

The Court stated that Third Avenue also failed to analyze its certificate of incorporation in relation to N.J.S.A. 54:4-3.6 with respect to property owned and used in connection with “‘curriculum, work, care, treatment and study of ...mentally retarded...’” Third Avenue had no curriculum of its own and carried out no work, care or treatment. Third Avenue only held title to the real estate.

Tax Court also noted that despite oral testimony indicating the organization operated at a deficit, no financial data was provided to confirm its nonprofit status. That an entity may operate at a loss does not establish that it is “‘not conducted for profit.’” Third Avenue was remiss in not providing its and CSP’s financial records over several years time, including an explanation of their mutual financial arrangements, government funds received, use of revenues, salaries paid, rents charged and eviction policies for nonpayment. Again, taxpayer failed to bring itself within exemption statute as a nonprofit organization.

It is not the Court’s function to make appropriate arguments to bring the appellant within exemption requirements. The burden of proving tax exempt status is upon the claimant.

Sales and Use Tax

Alarm System Services and Telecommunications – Aetna Burglar & Fire Alarm Company v. Director, Division of Taxation, Tax Court of New Jersey, decided May 15, 1997.

Aetna Burglar & Fire Alarm Company appealed a sales tax deficiency assessment imposed on its receipts from its services including the installation, servicing and monitoring of fire and burglar alarm systems. Aetna did not collect or remit any sales tax during the assessed period, July 1, 1991 through June 30, 1994.

The issue presented before the Tax Court was whether Aetna's services were "telecommunications" within the meaning of N.J.S.A. 54:32B-2(cc) and, if so, are subject to sales tax pursuant to N.J.S.A. 54:32B-2 & 3.

Aetna's alarm systems are connected to customers' phone lines and transmit electronic messages to a central station for both regular "check-ups" and emergencies. The phones are also used by Aetna employees to check with the customer to see if the incoming signal was caused by a real emergency.

Aetna argues that the monitoring of burglar and fire alarm systems is not within the ambiguous statutory definition of "telecommunications," and is therefore not subject to the sales tax.

The Tax Court found that while N.J.S.A. 54:32B-2(cc) enumerates five exclusions to its definition of telecommunications, the monitoring of burglar and fire alarm systems is not one of them. The Court further added that the phrase "including but not limited to," used in addressing these taxable services, supports a legislative intention to include services such as Aetna's in the definition of telecommunications.

Aetna further argued that since it charges a flat monthly monitoring fee, rather than a charge per call, the use of a telephone is incidental to the service provided and is therefore not subject to taxation.

The Court responded by stating that without the ability to notify the central station of an intruder, fire or any other emergency, Aetna's monitoring service would be useless. The Court concluded that the use of the telephone cannot be considered incidental because Aetna's service heavily relies on it.

Partial summary judgment was granted to the Director, while another trial will be scheduled to see if the amount of tax assessed by the Director was correct.

Taxability of Sweeping Service – D.P.S. Acquisition Corp. v. Director, Division of Taxation, 16 N.J. Tax 292 (1997).

Taxpayer, which was in the business of sweeping parking lots with a vehicle that was capable of sweeping up dirt and collecting it in a container which could then be emptied into customers' dumpsters, appealed from a determination that it was liable for sales tax on its sales of this service. At issue was whether the sweeping should be treated as a taxable service of "maintaining real property" or as a service of "garbage removal" which is exempt if performed on a regular contractual basis for a term of at least 30 days. N.J.S.A. 54:32B-3(b)(4).

The Court determined that, although taxpayer might carry out the dirt collected in the vehicle's container and dump it elsewhere, the garbage removal aspect of its service was only incidental to its primary service of sweeping. It therefore held that the sweeping service was a maintenance service subject to sales tax and that the garbage removal exemption did not apply.

Untimely Refund Claim – Toys R' Us, Inc. v. Director, Division of Taxation, decided April 29, 1997 Superior Court of New Jersey, Appellate Division.

Toys R' Us, plaintiff-appellant, ships goods with labels already affixed to its retail outlets where additional price labels are affixed. In 1990, a field agent of the Division, defendant-respondent, conducted an audit of Toys R' Us' records for the period between April 1, 1985 and September 30, 1988. On April 15, 1991, Toys R' Us paid $463,000 in additional taxes that the Division assessed on February 28, 1991 as a result of the audit.

Toys R' Us sought to recover $99,000 of the additional taxes which was attributable to taxes imposed on the sale and use of labels during the audited period. The Court stated that the field agent relied on an opinion from the Director, appearing in a 1981 edition of the New Jersey State Tax News, interpreting N.J.S.A. 54:32B-8.15. The statute exempts

wrapping supplies, including labels, from the sales and use tax. Based on that opinion, the field agent determined that Toys R' Us' price labels were still in fact taxable.

In the March/April 1991 edition of the newsletter, the Division stated that it had taken the position that price labels were now exempt. Toys R' Us filed a refund claim in July 1991, five months after the Division's assessment against them. Pursuant to N.J.S.A. 54:32B-19, the Division denied the refund because the claim was not filed within thirty days of the Division's determination (extended to 90 days in 1992). The Tax Court agreed with the Division.

Toys R' Us argued that the claim was timely because it was filed within the six-month period in which the Division could have assessed additional taxes. Toys R' Us also argued that the Tax Court judge erred because he considered the date when Toys R' Us learned of, and not when the Division adopted, the corrected exemption policy.

The Appellate Division agreed with the Tax Court finding that the claim was untimely. Although the Division could still have assessed additional taxes, the subsequent six-month period during which the taxpayer may file a claim only applies if the taxes were volunteered by the taxpayer rather than assessed by the Division, N.J.S.A. 54:32B-27(c).

The Appellate Division remanded the case to the Tax Court for further fact finding concerning the effective date of the Division's policy change in 1991. □

In Our Legislature

Alcoholic Beverage Tax

Tax Reduced on Certain Apple Cider — P.L. 1997, c.153 (signed into law on July 1, 1997) reduces from $0.70 per gallon to $0.12 per gallon the tax rate on apple ciders which have an alcohol content by volume of at least three and two tenths percent (3.2%) but not more than seven percent (7%). This statute is effective immediately but will remain inoperative until November 1, 1997.

Miscellaneous

Corporations and Limited Liability Companies, Limited Liability Partnerships — P.L. 1997, c.139 (signed into law on June 27, 1997) amends and supplements various aspects of the law concerning certain domestic and foreign entities authorized to transact business in this State.

Public Utility Taxes

Gross Receipts, Franchise tax Eliminated for Gas, Electric and Telecommunications Utilities — P.L. 1997, c.162 (signed into law on July 14, 1997) revises taxation of gas, electric and telecommunications public utilities and sales of electricity, natural gas and energy transportation service in order to preserve certain revenues under transitions to more competitive markets in energy and telecommunications.

Effective for 1998, the new law eliminates the gross receipts and franchise taxes as collected by electric, gas and telecommunications utilities. Instead, these utilities will be subject to the State's corporation business tax. The State's existing sales and use tax will be applied to most retail sales of electricity and natural gas. A transitional energy facility assessment will be applied on electric and gas utilities. This assessment will be phased out over five years.

Funds guaranteed to Municipalities

— P.L. 1997, c.167 (signed into law on July 22, 1997) establishes the "Energy Tax Receipts Property Tax Relief Fund." It replaces the method of distributing certain funds guaranteed to municipalities from the State's taxation of energy and telecommunications. This new law increases the amount of municipal aid from the current guaranteed amount of $685 million to $740 million in 1998, $745 million in 1999, $750 million in 2000 and 2001, and $755 million in 2002 and each fiscal year thereafter.

Spill Compensation Tax

Cap Altered on Tax on Hazardous Substance Transfers — P.L. 1997, c.134 (signed into law on June 27, 1997) alters the formula by which owners and operators of major facilities for the storage of hazardous substances determine the maximum annual amount of spill compensation tax due on transfers of such substances. This statute is effective immediately. □

Filing ST-50 Online

The Division of Taxation has initiated a pilot project to accept Sales Tax Quarterly Returns (Form ST-50) via the Internet. Taxpayers who file for informational purposes may now use the Division's home page to securely file their Form ST-50.

Taxpayers who have Internet access and use a browser which supports Secure Sockets Layer (SSL) should connect to the following World Wide Web address: <https://www.state.nj.us/treasury/taxation/st50zero.htm>. (Please note, recent versions of Netscape Navigator and Internet Explorer support SSL.) A template appears that replicates the information contained on the ST-50, such as name, address, identification number and gross sales. The taxpayer, or his representative, simply completes the appropriate fields, and then at the end of the form clicks a button to submit the data. Before actual transmittal, the home page checks to detect any errors. If there is an error, a screen pops up notifying the taxpayer of the error and prompting him to return to the original screen to make a correction. If no error is detected, the taxpayer is then prompted to submit the information to the Division. The Division recommends that taxpayers print out a hard copy for their records before information is submitted.

Future plans will allow taxpayers who owe sales tax to file their ST-50 returns via the Internet and the actual payment via electronic funds transfer. Please visit our home page from time to time as we will announce this option as soon as it comes online.

TeleFile Program Huge Success

This year, more than 144,000 New Jersey taxpayers filed their New Jersey income tax returns via the Division of Taxation's toll-free TeleFile number. Of the taxpayers who used this convenient filing method, 25% TeleFiled their returns during the last three weeks of the tax season in April. Those who were due refunds had their checks mailed within two weeks of the date they TeleFiled.

During the 1995 filing season New Jersey became just the third State in the nation to offer taxpayers the option of filing their State income tax return by telephone. Of the 247,000 taxpayers (from specified counties in the State) who were pre-selected to participate in the pilot program that first year, 8.9% successfully filed their returns using NJ TeleFile.

For the 1996 tax season, as eight more states joined the growing ranks of those offering TeleFiling as an acceptable filing method for their state's tax return, New Jersey expanded its program, pre-selecting approximately one million residents, from all counties in the State, as potential TeleFile candidates. Candidates were mailed TeleFile packets if their filing history indicated a strong likelihood that they would meet the eligibility requirements. The impressive 14.4% successful filing rate was instrumental in earning New Jersey fourth place in terms of number of returns TeleFiled.

"The NJ TeleFile program is a good example of how your tax dollars are working for you," said Richard D. Gardiner, Director of the Division of Taxation. "Our theme, 'We're making tax filing less taxing for you,' certainly proved itself."

The program was not only convenient to use and easy to understand, it allowed last-minute filers to receive their refunds significantly faster. The program is expected to be further expanded next year. □

Resale Exemption for Out-of-State Vendors

The Division of Taxation has changed its policy regarding the use of New Jersey's resale exemption certificates by out-of-State vendors. Those vendors who are registered with their home states but are not required to register with New Jersey and have not registered with this State may now use a New Jersey resale certificate.

Qualified out-of-State vendors may now make tax-exempt purchases in New Jersey of goods and services for resale. The Division of Taxation has developed a new exemption certificate, Form ST-3NR, Resale Certificate for Non-New Jersey Vendors, for use by qualified out-of-State vendors picking up merchandise in New Jersey or drop shipping merchandise to a New Jersey address. In April 1997 the Division sent a notice to all registered vendors announcing the change in policy and enclosed a copy of the new exemption certificate, Form ST-3NR.

When making tax-exempt purchases for resale, qualified out-of-State vendors must present the seller with the following evidence of exemption:

- Items picked up in New Jersey: When the purchaser carries the goods away with him from the point of sale, or sends his own vehicle or messenger to pick them up in New Jersey, the only acceptable certificate is Form ST-3NR, Resale Certificate for Non-New Jersey Vendors.
- Items drop shipped to New Jersey: When the purchaser does not take delivery of the goods in New Jersey, but asks the seller to deliver the merchandise to the purchaser's customer in New Jersey, the acceptable resale certificates for the qualified out-of-State vendor to use are:

1. Purchaser's out-of-State resale certificate; or
2. Multijurisdiction Uniform Sales & Use Tax Certificate published by Multi-State Tax Commission; or
3. New Jersey Form ST-3NR

Businesses that are required to be registered in New Jersey, as well as businesses that have chosen to register in this State even though not required to do so, must use a certificate showing their New Jersey tax registration number when making purchases for resale. Vendors registered in New Jersey may use either the New Jersey Resale Certificate (Form ST-3), or the Multijurisdiction Uniform Sales and Use Tax Certificate published by the Multi-State Tax Commission. □

Division of Revenue Formed

The Governor recently announced the creation of a new Division of Revenue under the New Jersey Department of the Treasury. The Processing Activity and the Tele-collection function of the Compliance Activity, formerly under the Division of Taxation, have been transferred to the Division of Revenue. Data Systems and Telecommunications, formerly part of the Processing Activity, has been renamed the Office of Technical Support to more accurately reflect its responsibilities. It will remain under the Division of Taxation. □

Tobacco Tax

Cigars and other tobacco products have lately been enjoying increased popularity among consumers. The Division of Taxation wants to remind both retailers and consumers that tobacco products (other than cigarettes) are subject to New Jersey's Tobacco Products Wholesale Sales and Use Tax.

The following notice, which was recently mailed to distributors, wholesalers and retailers of tobacco products, lists the requirements for collecting and remitting the Tobacco Products Wholesale Sales and Use Tax. The notice also describes the new Tobacco Products Wholesale Sales and Use Tax Resale Certificate, Form TPT-3, which may be used by registered distributors or wholesalers to purchase tobacco products, other than cigarettes, intended for resale.

Notice to Distributors, Wholesalers and Retailers of Tobacco Products

N.J.S.A. 54:40B-1, et seq., imposes a Tobacco Products Wholesale Sales and Use Tax at the rate of 24% on receipts from every sale of tobacco products, other than cigarettes, by a distributor or wholesaler to a retail dealer or consumer. Examples of tobacco products are: cigars, little cigars, cigarillos, chewing tobacco, pipe tobacco, smoking tobacco, tobacco substitutes, and snuff. Cigarettes are exempt from the Tobacco Products Wholesale Sales and Use Tax.

Use Tax

Distributors and wholesalers who also sell tobacco products at retail or otherwise use the tobacco products must pay a compensating use tax of 24% on the wholesale sales price of the products.

If the distributor or wholesaler has not collected the 24% Tobacco Products Wholesale Sales Tax from the retailer or consumer, the retailer or the consumer who purchased from a distributor or wholesaler is responsible for remitting the compensating use tax of 24% of the price paid or charged directly to the Division of Taxation within 20 days of the date the tax was required to be paid.

Collection of Tax

Distributors and wholesalers are required to:

- collect the tax from the retailer or consumer when they collect the receipts for the products, and
- give the retailer or consumer an invoice, receipt, or other statement on which the tax is separately stated.

IMPORTANT NOTE:

The Tobacco Products Wholesale Sales and Use Tax is a trust tax. This means that the distributor or wholesaler who collects the tax is acting as a trustee for and on behalf of the State of New Jersey. These distributors and wholesalers are, by law, personally responsible for the tax imposed, collected or required to be collected under the Tobacco Products Wholesale Sales and Use Tax Act.

Resale Certificate (Form TPT-3)

The Tobacco Products Wholesale Sales and Use Tax Resale Certificate, Form TPT-3, may be used by registered distributors or wholesalers to purchase tobacco products intended for resale. When purchasing tobacco products, a distributor or wholesaler issues Form TPT-3 to the seller. The completed certificate documents the fact that the wholesaler or distributor is not subject to Tobacco Products Wholesale Sales and Use Tax on the purchase. The distributor or wholesaler must collect the tax when the tobacco products are sold to a retailer or consumer. Retail dealers may not use Form TPT-3 to purchase tobacco products without paying the Tobacco Products Wholesale Sales and Use Tax.

Registering to Collect the Tax

Every distributor and wholesaler making sales of tobacco products to retail dealers or consumers must register with the Division of Taxation to collect the Tobacco Products Wholesale Sales and Use Tax. Distributors and wholesalers beginning business or opening new places of business are required to file an Application for Registration (Form REG-1) at least 15 days before beginning business.

Interest 11.25% for Second Quarter

The interest rate assessed on amounts due for the second quarter of 1997 is 11.25%.

The assessed interest rate history for the last eight quarters is listed below.

Effective Date	Interest Rate
7/1/95	11.5%
10/1/95	11.5%
1/1/96	11.75%
4/1/96	11.75%
7/1/96	11.75%
10/1/96	11.75%
1/1/97	11.25%
4/1/97	11.25%

Once the application is processed by the Division, the wholesaler or distributor will receive a Certificate of Authority to collect tax. This certificate must be prominently displayed in the wholesaler or distributor's place of business. Duplicate certificates will be provided for additional places of business.

Remitting the Tax

Distributors and wholesalers are required to file a Tobacco Products Wholesale Sales and Use Tax Return (Form TP-20) and remit the tax on or before the 20th day of the month following the month for which the return is being filed. If any due date falls on a Saturday, Sunday or legal holiday, the return is due on the next business day.

Tobacco Products Wholesale Sales and Use Tax Returns postmarked on or before their due date are considered to be filed on time. Returns postmarked after their due date are considered to be late and are recorded as being filed on the date they were actually received by the Division, not the postmark date. The tax must be paid whether or not the tax has actually been collected from the customer by the time the return is due. Full penalty and interest as provided by the State Tax Uniform Procedure Law, assessed from the due date of the return, will be imposed on a return filed and/or payment made after the due date.

An extension of time to pay the tax due will not be granted under any circumstances.

Record Keeping

Distributors and wholesalers are required to keep records of every charge and of all amounts paid, charged or due and of the tax payable on these amounts. These records include a true copy of each invoice, receipt, statement or memorandum for all sales of tobacco products. These records must be available for inspection by the Division of Taxation for four years from the date of the transaction.

New IFTA Rules Clarified

Some New Jersey motor carriers mistakenly stopped paying a State Division of Taxation motor fuels tax following a change in State motor carrier laws.

The Motor Fuels Use Tax Act of 1963, N.J.S.A. 54:39A-1 et seq., imposes a fuel use tax on certain commercial and omnibus vehicles based on the amount of motor fuels used in their operations within New Jersey. This tax, known as the motor carriers tax, has, from its inception, been administered by the Motor Carriers Unit in the Division of Motor Vehicles.

P.L. 1995, c.347, approved January 5, 1996, provided for New Jersey's entry into the International Fuel Tax Agreement (IFTA) and required that the Motor Fuels Use Tax Act of 1963 conform to that agreement. IFTA is designed to simplify over-the-road motor carrier tax reporting. The statute made no changes in the reporting requirements of the separate Motor Fuels Tax administered by the Division of Taxation.

On July 1, 1996, when the Division of Motor Vehicles began operating under IFTA, motor carriers were directed to abandon their old reporting procedures, close their existing accounts and begin reporting "fuel use" on forms IFTA 100 and IFTA 101. But many carriers, including those licensed with the Division of Taxation as seller-users of special motor fuels, misunderstood the IFTA provisions. They believed that they were no longer required to file the Division of Taxation's Seller-User form MFT-10 since to do so would result in double reporting and taxation. The MFT-10 is used to record diesel fuel pumped into vehicles from bulk storage tanks. Seller-User licensees did not initially realize they were to take credit on the IFTA 101 for taxes required to be paid on the MFT-10.

When, in January 1997, the Division of Taxation noted a decrease in MFT-10 filings, it notified all delinquent seller-users about the IFTA law provisions and collected about $40,000 paid to the Motor Carriers Unit in error.

Motor Carriers that mistakenly paid tax to the Division of Motor Vehicles were instructed to apply for a refund by filing an amended IFTA 100 and 101 form.

Taxpayers classified as Motor Carriers under N.J.S.A. 54:39A and holding IFTA licenses may contact the New Jersey Division of Motor Vehicles, Motor Carriers Unit at 609-633-9400 with questions concerning the IFTA 100 and 101.

Questions concerning the completion of the Motor Fuels Tax Seller-User of Special Fuels Report (Form MFT-10) may be directed to the Division of Taxation, Excise Tax Group at 609-984-7171. □

Instructions for NJ-1040X Corrected

The 1996 Amended Income Tax Resident Return instructions contain several incorrect references to line numbers on the return form itself (Form NJ-1040X). To remedy the error, an addendum, entitled 1996 Form NJ-1040X Supplement, has been prepared which provides the correct line number references. The Division will include the supplement with every future mailing of both the amended return instruction booklet and the 1996 Package NJX.

To order the supplement, call our automated forms request service at 1-800-323-4400 (from Touch-tone phones within New Jersey only).

A complete set of the corrected instructions for Form NJ-1040X is available by:

- Accessing the Division's home page on the World Wide Web at <http://www.state.nj.us/treasury/taxation/>

Interest on Refunds

The Division has received several inquiries concerning the payment of interest on refunds; specifically when such interest begins to accrue.

In accordance with the Taxpayers' Bill of Rights, overpayments for returns due on or after January 1, 1994 are subject to the payment of interest if not made within six months of the later of the date of filing, date of payment of tax or the due date. In most cases claims are filed containing sufficient information to support both the

Responding to Division Notices

The Taxpayer Accounting Branch receives many misdirected phone calls and pieces of correspondence, particularly regarding business taxes, which only serve to delay resolution of taxpayers' problems.

In general, correspondence relative to any notice from the Division should be addressed to the CN number listed on the notice to insure that it goes directly to the section responsible for that notice, and to the people most capable of resolving any issues. Phone calls about a notice should be directed to the Division's Tax Hotline, 609-588-2200, or to whichever other number may be listed on the notice.

Taxpayer Accounting is responsible for billings for the Alcoholic Beverage, Atlantic City Luxury, Business Personal Property, Cape May Tourism, Gross Income (employer withholdings and individual filings), Litter, Motor Fuels, Petroleum Products Gross Receipts, Safewater, Salem, Sales and Use, Tobacco Products, and Urban Enterprise Zone taxes. TPA also handles refund and credit requests for Cigarette (distributor), Gross Income (employer and individual), Litter, and Spill taxes.

Taxpayer Accounting also provides a Tax Practitioner Hotline for use by practitioners only, if client problems cannot be resolved through normal channels. The Hotline numbers are for personal income tax: 609-633-6657; for business taxes: 609-633-6905.

Some other phone numbers for problems that cannot be resolved through normal channels are as follows:

- Delinquency notices for failure to file a return: 609-984-3377
- Corporation Business Tax billings: 609-292-5257
- Corporation Business Tax refund requests: 609-292-2168
- Interstate Sales Tax: 609-984-0120
- Refund requests for Atlantic City Luxury, Business Personal Property, Cape May Tourism, Salem, Sales and Use, Tobacco Products, and Urban Enterprise Zone taxes: 609-588-3767
- Urban Enterprise Zone eligibility requirements or updates: 609-984-6150 grounds of the claim and calculation of the refund. However in some cases incomplete claims are filed which lack adequate detail to allow a determination to be made. In these cases, taxpayers are requested to submit all necessary, pertinent information to enable the Division to ascertain the validity of the refund request.

It is the Division's position that if sufficient information is unavailable at the end of six months, such claims will be denied and taxpayers will be provided their administrative appeal rights. □

Advertising "No Sales Tax" Violates NJ Law

Recently, several businesses in New Jersey have been contacted by the Division of Taxation for violating provisions of the New Jersey Sales and Use Tax Act by advertising "No Sales Tax," "Save the Sales Tax," "No One Likes to Pay Sales Tax" or "Tax Amnesty...we will pay the tax for you!" N.J.S.A. 54:32B-14(d) states: "No person required to collect any tax imposed by this act shall advertise or hold out to any person or to the public in general, in any manner, directly or indirectly, that the tax is not consid-amusement charge or rent payable by customer, or that he will pay the tax, that the tax will not be separately charged and stated to the customer or that the tax will be refunded to the customer...."

Phrases such as "No Sales Tax" suggest to the public that the product or sale is exempt from tax. These phrases cannot be used. Businesses who state or imply taxable items may be purchased tax-free may be subject to prosecution under N.J.S.A. 54:52-6 of the State Tax Uniform Procedure Law. □

COMPLIANCE Chapter XI Debtors in Default

A joint project was launched in March by the Division's Special Procedures Branch and Investigations Branch personnel to identify Chapter XI Bankruptcy Debtors-In-Possession who are in default to the Division of Taxation.

The project will be a two-pronged effort. Debtors who are found to be in default of their Confirmed Plan of Arrangement will be pursued by Special Procedures via remedies available through the Bankruptcy Courts as well as the filing of Certificates of Debt in the Superior Court of New Jersey.

Investigations personnel will focus curring additional liabilities subsequent to the confirmation of its Plan of Arrangement, as well as those debtors who have been found to be dismissed or discharged with regard to their Chapter XI filing. Since these liabilities are outside of the plan and not subject to the automatic stay, Investigations will proceed as usual with the filing of Certificates of Debt and any other collection measures necessary to collect the indebtedness.

In either scenario, the Certificates of Debt will be filed against the debtor(s), and in the case of a corporation, Certificates of Debt will be filed against any and all responsible corporate officers personally, for "Trust Fund" taxes.

Prior to the launching of this project, a random selection process resulted in the issuance of 213 Notices of Demand For Payment for liabilities totaling $16,461,005 and the filing of 91 Certificates of Debt for $13,825,887. □

COMPLIANCE Disorderly Person Charges Filed

The Division is authorized to file disorderly persons charges against people who write bad checks to the Division, or who fail to register or file with Taxation or pay taxes due. Charges are filed in Trenton Municipal Court and when defendants fail to appear, bench warrants are issued for their arrest. One Mendham, New Jersey taxpayer surrendered to Taxation and was placed under arrest in February. Another was arrested in March at his Maplewood home. Both posted bail and were released.

During the quarter ending March 31, 1997, seven people pleaded guilty to disorderly persons charges for bad checks. Three additional persons pled guilty to charges of failure to file returns and pay sales tax. Over $103,500 is being recovered from these taxpayers who collectively paid over $6,200 in court costs and fines. □

SALES AND USE TAX U.S. Government I.M.P.A.C. Visa Cards

Certain employees of the executive branch of the Federal government are authorized to make official government purchases of supplies and services using a special Visa credit card (I.M.P.A.C. card, for International Merchant Purchase Authorization Card). Receipts from sales paid for by means of an I.M.P.A.C. card are exempt from New Jersey sales tax since the U.S. Government, through its employee/agent, is recognized as the direct purchaser of the goods and/or services procured.

These unique cards are valid only when used for official government purchases under $25,000. Each card bears the Great Seal of the United States in the front upper left corner and contains the words "United States of America I.M.P.A.C. for official use only" along with the name of the Federal employee authorized to use the card. The face of the card is embossed to imprint "U.S. Govt. Tax Exempt" on the transaction charge slip which will provide the necessary documentation (in lieu of a purchase order or exemption certificate) that the purchase was exempt from tax.

The Social Security Administration, which utilizes the I.M.P.A.C. card, recently notified the Division of Taxation that it has also embossed the agency's tax identification number on the card to make it easier for merchants to accept the card for tax exempt purchases.

The I.M.P.A.C. Visa credit card has been approved by the Division of Taxation for use in New Jersey since 1989 and remains the only credit card approved for use by Federal employees to make tax-exempt purchases in this State. □

CONFERENCE & APPEALS Stay of Collection During Appeal

Both before and after the Taxpayers' Bill of Rights (July 1, 1993), the Director of the Division of Taxation has had the right to pursue collection or otherwise secure protested tax liabilities while a finding or assessment was being protested to the Director. The Taxpayers' Bill of Rights did however impose certain restrictions on the Director as to when security could be required.

Basically, the Taxpayers' Bill of Rights added the following provision to the statutory provisions dealing with protests against findings or assessments (N.J.S.A. 54:49-18): "b. Except in the case of an arbitrary assessment pursuant to R.S. 54:49-5 or R.S. 54:49-7, no security shall be required for an amount in controversy of less than $10,000. Contested assessments of $10,000 or more shall not require security unless the director determines that there is a substantial risk of the taxpayer's failure or inability to pay a liability, based on the compliance history and financial condition of the taxpayer."

The Conference and Appeals Branch has added to its protest review process a procedure which will identify taxpayers that will be required to provide security in order to stay the collection process. The Director shall immediately stay all collection activity relative to the protested tax liability upon the furnishing of the security required.

Consistent with the relevant statutes and regulations (N.J.A.C. 18:1-1.8), the Conference and Appeals Branch will contact affected taxpayers and/or their representatives in writing advising them that the Director of the Division of Taxation requests:

- (1) That the taxpayer pay to the Division of Taxation the tax, penalty and/or interest assessed; or
- (2) Furnish the Division with a Surety Bond subject to the approval of the Director; or
- (3) Furnish the Division with a Letter of Credit subject to the approval of the Director.

Who Will Be Contacted?

Security shall be required in the case of a protest to the Director of any liability consisting in whole or in part of arbitrary or estimated assessments.

Security may be required in the case of any contested liability of $10,000 or more including penalties and interest (other than an arbitrary or estimated assessment) where the Director determines that there is substantial risk of the taxpayer's failure or inability to pay a liability, based upon the compliance history and financial condition of the taxpayer.

"Compliance History" is deter-

stay of collection - from pg. 7

mined based upon any and all information obtained and/or maintained by the Director with respect to any State tax accounts of the taxpayer, including, but not limited to, information that the taxpayer has under reported or failed to report income.

“Financial Condition” is determined based upon any and all information that has a potential impact on the taxpayer’s ability to pay the assessed taxes.

No security shall be required in the case of any contested liability of less than $10,000 including penalties and interest (other than an arbitrary or estimated assessment).

What Happens If A Taxpayer Fails to Comply?

Absent payment or the requested security, no stay of collection is in effect. Therefore, if a taxpayer has been asked to pay and/or furnish security, and fails to do so within the thirty days provided, a Certificate of Debt will be filed against the taxpayer in the Superior Court of New Jersey pursuant to N.J.S.A. 54:49-12. Concurrently, a “Finding of Responsible Person” will be initiated, as appropriate, in cases involving trust fund taxes.

The same security rules apply to complaints filed with the Tax Court of New Jersey as apply to protests filed with the Conference and Appeals Branch. □

Corporate Services Audit Groups

In an effort to improve taxpayer service, the Corporate Services Audit Group of the Office Audit Branch has recently been realigned to form two groups. The first group, Corporate Services Audit Group A, will be responsible for Dissolutions, Withdrawals and Reauthorizations.

The second group, Corporate Services Audit B, is responsible for the Reinstatement of Corporate Charters voided by the Secretary of State. Jointly, the groups will share responsibility for the issuance of Certificates of Tax Lien Searches.

Correspondence for either group may be addressed to:

GROSS INCOME TAX Self-Charged Interest

Recently, a practitioner posed this question:

A New Jersey resident shareholder in a New Jersey electing S corporation had a $100,000 pro rata share S corporation loss for tax year 1995. The New Jersey resident is a 100% shareholder. The shareholder also had $10,000 of “self-charged interest.” The practitioner wishes to include the “self-charged interest” on the Schedule K of the CBT-100S thus having the effect of netting the interest against the pro rata share S corporation loss of $100,000.

Self-charged interest occurs when the taxpayer makes a loan to the S corporation. The S corporation then generates a 1099 to the shareholder for the interest payable on the loan. The interest for Federal tax purposes is not treated as portfolio interest income as listed on the 1120S K-1, but rather is reported as “taxable interest income” on the taxpayer’s Federal 1040 return. The self-charged interest may be used for Federal tax purposes to offset the passed-through interest expense of the S corporation (reported on Schedule A of the taxpayer’s Federal 1040 return) that is passed through to him.

Self-charged interest is taxable for New Jersey Gross Income Tax purposes to the individual making the loan. It is personal interest income earned from a loan to a corporation by an individual, who incidentally is a shareholder in the corporation. It is reported on the NJ-1040 as “Taxable interest income.”

The self-charged interest is not includible on Schedule K of the CBT-100S. Interest reported on Schedule K, Part 2, line 2 c., represents interest earned by the S corporation as a business entity.

The corporation should report the self-charged interest to the shareholder on Part V of Schedule NJK-1, “Interest paid to share-

self-charged interest - from page 8 holder (per 1099-INT)." □

GROSS INCOME TAX Forgiveness of Debt Income

Forgiveness of debt income that passes through to a partner from the discharge or cancellation of partnership indebtedness is taxable as "Distributive Share of Partnership Income" for New Jersey gross income tax purposes. See Koch v. Director, 15 N.J. Tax 387 (1995).

However, if the taxpayer makes an election under Federal Code Section 108 (b) (5) and 108 (c) and files Federal Form 982, the taxpayer may exclude the forgiveness of debt income from their Federal 1040 return in exchange for reducing their basis in depreciable real property.

Since for New Jersey purposes the basis of the property must be the same as for Federal income tax purposes, the forgiveness of debt income not recognized for Federal income tax would also be excluded from New Jersey gross income tax. Law: R.S. 54A:5-1c. □

INHERITANCE/ESTATE TAX Common Filing Mistakes

"What are the most common mistakes made in filing transfer inheritance tax and New Jersey estate tax returns?"

This question is frequently asked of the Transfer Inheritance and Estate Tax Branch representatives at various functions throughout the State.

Common errors parallel those associated with the preparation of tax returns for other taxes administered by New Jersey, other states and the Federal Government. These include errors such as:

1. Failure to sign the return.
2. Failure to enclose required documents.
3. Failure to include the proper social security or other identifying number on the return.
4. Failure to prepare or include all required schedules.
5. Failure to include proper payment.
6. Mathematical errors.

In addition to these and other frequent errors made in the preparation of tax returns, there are many that are unique to the preparation of the New Jersey transfer inheritance tax and New Jersey estate tax returns.

1. Absence of Notarization. The transfer inheritance tax return is an affidavit and requires that the signature of the individual authorized to represent the estate and file a return must be notarized or acknowledged by an individual who is authorized to make such acknowledgments.
2. Incorrect Social Security Numbers. The social security number of the decedent is required on all returns as opposed to the social security number of the individual beneficiary or representative of the estate.
3. Absence of Required Attachments.
 - a. A copy of decedent's most recent full year Federal Form 1040.
 - b. A plain copy of the decedent's last will and testament.

- c. A copy of any Trust Agreements.
- d. A copy of "Buy-Sell Agreements" and other data required by regulation in regard to "Closely held corporations," partnerships, etc.

In addition to the various proofs and documentation required by statute and/or regulation, supporting evidence and explanation for any item or claim being reported should be enclosed with the return. When sufficient information is submitted with the return, it permits the Division to make necessary determinations in a more timely fashion. This is, of course, beneficial to the Division as well as to the representatives of the estate. When obviously necessary information must be requested by or expanded upon by the Division, it can only result in a processing delay and, consequently, a delay in the finalization and distribution of the estate.

Some common errors that are unique to the preparation of New Jersey estate tax returns include:

1. Failure to submit a copy of the Federal Form 706, as required by statute.
2. Failure to submit copies of the closing letter and other pertinent correspondence received from the Federal authorities.
3. Failure to take the "Credit for State Death Taxes" in the Federal proceeding thereby choosing to pay the Federal government instead of the State. This is a serious error since the New Jersey estate tax is not optional on the part of the taxpayer. It is due to the State of New Jersey regardless of whether or not the estate utilizes the credit. This tax is based upon the amount of the credit "ALLOWABLE" as opposed to the amount taken or paid. □

LOCAL PROPERTY TAX Property Record Card Policy Reminder

Assessors are reminded the Local Property Tax Branch recommends a policy of openness regarding public requests for property data, including the Property Record Card, for those taxpayers seeking information that pertains to their own property. The positive results of providing a copy of the card could be increased accuracy of information in the assessor's files and greater taxpayer confidence in the assessment process. It is also not in the public interest that reasonable access to SR-1A forms in the assessor's office be denied. □

LOCAL PROPERTY TAX Assessor Appointments

Municipalities, when seeking to fill a vacant assessor's position, should seek input from the County Tax Administrator as well as the Division of Taxation. The Tax Administrator and the Division of Taxation can provide information regarding an individual's employment as an assessor in other districts throughout the State. Input from State and County officials who are actively engaged in the administration of the property tax can be a valuable asset to the municipality in making an informed decision. □

Criminal Enforcement

Criminal Enforcement over the past several months included:

- On January 17, 1997, Valji Mori, owner of Ray's Deli, who previously pled guilty to bribery and tax evasion, appeared before a Hudson County Superior Court Judge. Mori was sentenced to four years in prison and assessed fines and penalties totaling $12,600. In addition to the fines and penalties, Mori paid $75,000 in taxes to the State. This case resulted from an investigation worked jointly with OCI/Internal Security and the Division of Criminal Justice, where Mori paid an undercover Internal Security Investigator $2,000 to reduce his $100,000 liability by half.
- On February 7, 1997, Darlene Johnson-Hendryx, of Trenton, pled guilty to a charge of failing to file a 1995 New Jersey Gross Income Tax Return. Trenton Municipal Court Judge Garcia imposed fines and costs totaling $1,155 and five years probation.
- On February 14, 1997, Kenneth Augustine of Holland, Pennsylvania, was indicted by a Mercer County Grand Jury on seven counts of fraud and theft. Six counts involved failing to file New Jersey Nonresident Income Tax Returns for tax years 1992, 1993 and 1994 and failing to pay income tax on income in excess of $190,000 he allegedly stole from Veterinary Learning Systems during the same period of time. This investigation was conducted jointly with the Mercer County Prosecutor's Office.

- On February 18, 1997, Chris Alevras was indicted by a Federal Grand Jury on 38 counts of mail, wire and bank fraud and filing false New Jersey Income Tax Returns. The Federal indictment alleges that Mr. Alevras realized in excess of $800,000 in income from the frauds. Our State investigation has identified New Jersey Income Tax refunds that Mr. Alevras may have fraudulently obtained that totaled in excess of $100,000. The Office of Criminal Investigation has been cooperating with the Federal government with regard to the Federal case. The State investigation is continuing.
- On February 19, 1997, Boris Surgent of Gibbsboro, New Jersey, pled guilty in Superior Court Camden County, to failing to file New Jersey State Income Tax Returns for tax years 1988, 1989, 1990 and 1991, with the intent to evade personal income tax on $240,824 in fees that had been paid by customers to Surgent's commercial loan and brokerage firm, the Adams Group International, Inc. in Voorhees, New Jersey. Surgent also pled guilty to five counts of theft by deception relating to his conversion of the funds to his personal use. The defendant is facing a possible prison sentence of 25 years and $207,500 in fines. This case was investigated jointly with the Camden County Prosecutor's Office.

- On February 21, 1997, Paul McDaniel of West Chester, Pennsylvania, a waste oil dealer, was sentenced to three years probation and a fine of $500 for failing to file a Petroleum Products Gross Receipts Tax Return. McDaniel was indicted on March 9, 1995 along with nine other defendants on 18 counts of conspiracy, racketeering, theft, misapplication of entrusted property, and failing to turn over tax in connection with a conspiracy to commit the theft of $159,000 in New Jersey Petroleum Products Gross Receipts Tax and $798,000 in Federal Motor Fuels Excise Tax, and various environmental offenses involving hazardous waste oil, between September 1992 and June 1993. This case was investigated jointly with the New Jersey Division of Criminal Justice as part of "Operation Boilermaker." Two other defendants have pled guilty in "Operation Boilermaker" and seven others are awaiting trial.
- On February 25 and 26, 1997, the Division of Taxation conducted 200 inspections in the City of Elizabeth to ensure compliance with licensing and registration requirements of New Jersey's Cigarette Tax, Tobacco Products Wholesale Sales and Use Tax, Motor Fuels Tax and Sales and Use Tax laws. Of the 200 stores visited, 13% were not registered for Sales and Use Tax, 2% did not possess a Motor Fuel Tax License and 20% did not possess a Retail Cigarette Tax License. Only one store was found without New Jersey tax stamps on their cigarettes. These cigarettes were seized. This operation was the first of its kind as it focused on businesses selling cigarettes. However, the Division has been conducting organized sweeps of downtown business districts, malls, flea markets, expos, and crafts, antiques and collectibles shows. This particular project was an education and informational effort both for the Division and for the merchants we spoke to. We have a responsibility to the honest taxpayers of New Jersey to ensure that our tax laws are enforced.

- On February 27, 1997, Edmund Damiano of Verona, New Jersey, the former operator of the now defunct Auto 2000 Chrysler, Plymouth, Dodge dealership in Newton, New Jersey, was found guilty on 44 separate charges of fraud relating to the operation of that dealership. The charges included multiple counts of misapplication of entrusted property, theft by deception, misconduct by a corporate official, failure to file tax returns and failure to turn over Sales Tax in the amount of $90,776.
- On March 4, 1997, Howard Levy, of Metuchen, New Jersey, entered into the Pre-Trial Intervention program and was ordered to pay restitution to the Division of Taxation in the amount of $7,500. Levy was indicted by a Monmouth County Grand Jury on July 12, 1995, on five counts relating to the evasion of New Jersey taxes. The indictment included failure to file New Jersey Corporation Business Tax Returns, failure to turn over Sales Tax, filing false and fraudulent Sales Tax Returns and misapplication of entrusted funds.

- Eighteen guilty pleas were entered in municipal courts throughout the State during this reporting period by individuals and businesses for noncompliance with the cigarette tax law. In addition, two cases were admitted to the Pre-Trial Intervention Program. In total, the aforementioned cases resulted in the imposition of fines and penalties of $13,755 and the awarding of 3,216 cartons of cigarettes, valued at nearly $64,338, to the State.
- Charges were filed for violations of transporting, possessing, and selling untaxed cigarettes as well as licensing violations in municipal court for seven cases. A total of 4,784 cartons of cigarettes were seized along with a 1991 Dodge van and a 1992 Ford Crown Victoria. The value of the assets seized for these cases totaled $117,680. □

Enforcement Summary

Civil Collection Actions Quarter Ending - March 31, 1997

Following is a summary of enforcement actions for the quarter ending March 31, 1997.

Certificates of Debt

During the quarter ended

criminal enforcement - from pg. 12

March 31, 1997, the Division filed 3,049 Certificates of Debt in New Jersey Superior Court. These COD's, which have the same force and effect as docketed judgments, totaled $33.5 million.

Levies

$44,329.59 was collected by levying against payments made under State contracts to satisfy debts owed by State vendors.

Jeopardy Assessments

When a vendor is found to have failed to register his or her business or failed to collect and remit sales taxes or file tax returns, the Division of Taxation has the authority to make an immediate, on-site assessment of tax due (referred to as a "jeopardy assessment") and may seize all available assets to satisfy the on-site tax assessment.

The Division makes jeopardy assessments when there is a danger that a non-compliant vendor will discontinue operations, remove his or her business property and flee the State. This remedy is often necessary in cases involving transient vendors, out-of-State businesses operating in New Jersey, or vendors operating from non-fixed locations, such as roadside sales, flea markets or trade shows.

If the liability is not resolved, the seized property can be sold at public auction and the proceeds used to satisfy the tax debt.

For the quarter ending March 31, 1997, $123,404 was collected from jeopardy assessments, and the assets of three businesses were seized.

Seizures

When a liability, for which the Division of Taxation has secured judgments, cannot or will not be satisfied by a taxpayer and all other means of collection of the debt have been exhausted, seizure of the business and personal assets will take place. Field Investigators will close a business, seizing any tangible assets including licenses, inventory, machinery, furniture, vehicles, etc., until arrangements are made for payment of the debt.

For the quarter ending March 31, 1997, property of 40 businesses was seized. Some businesses were able to reopen, others remain closed. A listing of these seizures appears on pages 15-17.

Auctions

If the liability of a business seized by the Division is not satisfied or resolved, the business will remain closed. To satisfy the debt, the Division can sell the business assets at a public auction.

During the quarter ending March 31, 1997, two auctions were held by the Division. A listing follows on page 17.

In the event an auction does not net enough monies to resolve the debt, the Division will execute against the personal assets of any of the business's responsible officers. Responsible officers are held personally liable for the trust fund portion of the debt which includes, but is not limited to, sales tax, withholding tax and motor fuels tax.

Referrals to Attorney General

In cases where the Division has exhausted its administrative remedies without success, referrals are made to the Office of the Attorney General. During the quarter ending March 31, 1997, 705 such cases were referred to the Attorney General's office for additional collection.

Together, the Division's Referral Group and the Attorney General's Collection Unit have collected $493,077 in revenue during the first quarter of 1997 and $2,624,830 throughout the first nine months of this fiscal year from cases like these.

Liquor License Program

Under a recently enacted State law, applicants for renewal or transfer of a liquor license must receive a certificate of tax clearance from the Division. This program was in effect in seven New Jersey counties in 1996 and added seven additional counties in 1997. The program will be in effect in all 21 New Jersey Counties in 1998.

In addition, the Division is conducting special investigations and audits of liquor license holders. In the past year, the Division has collected more than $77 million from holders of the various types of licenses subject to audit. Richard D. Gardiner, Division of Taxation Director said he expects to collect a total of $150 million during the three-year program.

During the quarter ending March 31, 1997, 176 notifications of liquor license transfer were received by the Division's Bulk Sales section. Thirty-one (31) audits relating to this project and previously requested were completed; assessments from these audits totaled $839,384. □

Fair Act Attorney Fee

Termination — An attorney in New Jersey wrote to the Division of Taxation requesting information as to whether the annual Fair Act attorney fee liability of $100.00 expired in 1996 or whether it will be in effect for 1997 and subsequent years.

The Division responded that the 1996 attorney fee payment was the final payment required by law. The Fair Act (P.L. 1990, c.8) authorized seven years of attorney fee imposition beginning in 1990 and terminating in 1996.

All attorneys practicing in New Jersey who have a bona fide office in New Jersey should contact the Division to review whether any delinquencies exist for them for any of the seven years the Fair Act attorney fee was in existence. The attorneys should call the Tax Services Branch of the Division of Taxation at (609) 292-5994 or write to:

Gross Income Tax

Income from Intangibles — The Division responded to an inquiry regarding the taxation of nonresidents or nonresident estates on income from bank accounts, securities, or other intangibles in New Jersey.

Income from intangible personal property maintained within the State of New Jersey is not taxable to nonresidents or nonresident estates under the gross income tax. Income from intangibles is only taxable to nonresidents if such intangible personal property is employed in a trade, profession, occupation or business carried on in New Jersey. N.J.S.A. 54A:5-8. The maintenance of a brokerage account or bank account in New Jersey by a nonresident does not create an income tax liability in New Jersey.

Nonresident Athletes or Performers — Nonresident performers are subject to the gross income tax on all income derived from sources within this State. Income is deemed to be derived from New Jersey sources to the extent that it is earned, received or acquired in connection with a trade, profession, occupation carried on in this State or for the rendition of personal services performed in this State; or from intangible personal property employed in a trade, profession, occupation or business carried on in this State. Where the nonresident has income from services performed partly within and partly outside the State an allocation must be made for those services rendered in New Jersey.

Nonresident performers are subject to tax on all compensation earned for the rendition of personal services performed in this State.

N.J.S.A. 54A:5-8(2). The amount of compensation attributable to services within New Jersey is that proportion of the total compensation which the total number of working days within New Jersey bears to the total number of working days.

If the nonresident performers are incorporated, their personal service corporation is required to file a New Jersey corporate business tax return in any year in which he or she performs in this State as they would be deemed to be doing business in New Jersey. The performance fee paid to the corporation would be a New Jersey allocable receipt to be included in the receipts portion of the allocation factor when determining the corporation's New Jersey income. The performer would then be required to allocate to New Jersey the portion of his or her salary paid as a result of services rendered in this State and pay gross income tax on that amount.

The New Jersey source income of a nonresident professional athlete includes that portion of such individual's total compensation for services rendered as a member of a professional athletic team during the taxable year which the number of duty days spent within New Jersey rendering services for the team in any manner during the taxable year bears to the total number of duty days spent both within and without New Jersey during the taxable year. "Duty days" means all days during the taxable year from the beginning of the team's official pre-season training period through the last game in which the team competes or is scheduled to compete.

Sales and Use Tax

Ice Skating — Charges for admission to a skating rink for purposes of skating, or otherwise engaging in activities on the ice, are not taxable. The admission to sporting facilities for participation sports is specifically exempt under the Sales and Use Tax Act. N.J.S.A. 54:32B-3(e)(1). Therefore, free admissions for the use of the skating rink are also not subject to sales or use tax.

Charges for admission to the rink to watch a show or exhibition are, however, subject to sales tax. N.J.S.A. 54:32B-3(e)(1). However, if the rink gives some audience members free admission to a show, the rink will not owe use tax on the value of those admissions.

Rental of skates is taxable as the retail sale (including rental) of taxable tangible personal property. N.J.S.A. 54:32B-3(a); N.J.S.A. 54:32B-2(f). Ice skates are considered sporting equipment, and are not exempt from sales tax as ordinary footwear. N.J.A.C. 18:24-6.4. Because the rental of skates is taxable, if a rink provides complimentary rental to a customer, the rink will owe use tax on the value of the rental. N.J.S.A. 54:32B-6.

Carnival Ride Purchase — The Division received an inquiry as to whether a business that provides amusement rides for carnivals must pay sales or use tax when it purchases ride apparatus that is permanently mounted to a trailer. Both the ride apparatus and any labor charges for installing it are taxable. N.J.S.A. 54:32B-3(b)(1) and (2). Although the ride experience may be sold, the ride apparatus itself is not resold. Therefore, is not exempt as a purchase for resale. N.J.S.A. 54:32B-2(e)(i)(A). Mariner's Landing v. Director, Division of Taxation, 11 N.J. Tax 215, 229-230 (Tax Ct. 1989).

If the business purchased the ride apparatus and installation services out-of-State and paid sales tax to another jurisdiction, without any right to a refund, it will be given credit for the sales tax paid to another jurisdiction up to 6%. However, if no tax was paid to New Jersey or to another jurisdiction, or if the sales tax paid to another jurisdiction was less than 6%, the purchaser will need to pay compensating use tax to New Jersey when the rides are delivered to or used in New Jersey. N.J.S.A. 54:32B-6; N.J.S.A. 54:32B-2(y).

Clowns, Magicians and Dancers

— In response to a recent inquiry, the Division advised that charges for entertainment made by persons performing as clowns, magicians, dancers and children's characters, where the performers go to the customer's house, are not subject to tax. Charges for admission to a facility where entertainment is provided would be taxable as an admission to or for the use of a place of amusement. N.J.S.A. 54:32B-3(e)(i).

Prepaid Calling Cards — The Division takes the position that the retail sale of prepaid telephone calling cards is not subject to tax; the purchaser is buying the intangible right to X number of minutes of telephone calls, which may or may not be subject to New Jersey tax as a telecommunications service. The tax is imposed once the card is used to make calls that are subject to New Jersey tax. The New Jersey Sales and Use Tax Act imposes tax on intrastate, inter-

the purchase of the ride apparatus state, and international calls charged to a service address in New Jersey. N.J.S.A. 54:32B-3(f).

Since the tax is imposed when the card is used to make a call subject to New Jersey tax, the company that is actually providing the telecommunications service is responsible for collecting or paying any tax that may be due. The sponsor of the calling card or wholesaler is treated as the consumer of all calls that are transmitted through the switch. Thus, the sponsor or wholesaler should pay any applicable tax to the service provider based on their per unit cost, not the retail rate. □

In Our Courts

Corporation Business Tax Offset of Overpayment against Deficiencies of Merged Corporations Denied – Sea-Land Service Inc. v. Director, Division of Taxation, decided September 27, 1996; Tax Court of New Jersey; 16 N.J. Tax 132.

Sea-Land Service, Inc., plaintiff, was the wholly-owned subsidiary of Sea-Land Corporation (Parent), and the parent of its own wholly-owned subsidiary, Reynolds Leasing Corporation (RLC). Sea-Land Corporation and Reynolds Leasing Corporation were each merged into Sea-Land Service, Inc. Sea-Land Service, Inc. became liable for tax deficiencies of Sea-Land Corporation and Reynolds Leasing Corporation as a result of the mergers. The Division also determined that plaintiff had a pre-merger overpayment which exceeded the tax liabilities of the merged corporations which were paid by plaintiff.

Plaintiff and the Director agreed that plaintiff was out of time under N.J.S.A. 54:49-14 for a refund of the overpayment. However, plaintiff argued that the tax liabilities of the merged corporations should have been offset against plaintiff's overpayment pursuant to N.J.S.A. 54:49-16. Under N.J.S.A. 54:49-16, an offset is permitted where an audit finds an erroneous overpayment of a tax, a deficiency was assessed against the taxpayer for the same audit period, and both the deficiency assessment and the overpayment arise under the same State tax.

The sole issue, according to the Court, was whether plaintiff was the same taxpayer involved for the purpose of offsetting the tax deficiencies with plaintiff's overpayment. The Court held that the three corporations, plaintiff, parent, and RLC were separate entities at the time when the deficiencies arose and the overpayment was made. Plaintiff could not now claim that its current status as a single entity was retroactive to that time. Business Corporation Law provision N.J.S.A. 14A:10-6, requiring a successor corporation to possess the rights and privileges of merged corporations, was held to have no bearing on the tax laws. The Court held that the deficiencies of the other two entities could not be offset against the plaintiff's overpayment, and granted summary judgment on behalf of the Director.

Gross Income Tax Determination of New Partnership Income – Sabino v. Director, Division of Taxation, 296 N.J. Super. 269 (App. Div. 1996).

The Appellate Division reversed a Tax Court decision, published at 14 N.J. Tax 501 (Tax Ct. 1995), regarding the kinds of costs and expenses that are deductible for purposes of determining net partnership income. N.J.S.A. 54A:5-1b allows net income of a business to be determined "after provision for all costs and expenses incurred in the conduct thereof...."

The lower court, relying on Smith v. Director, Division of Taxation, 108 N.J. 19 (1987), ruled that deductible expenses included, literally all and any costs and expenses, provided that they were incurred in the conduct of the partnership's business. Concluding that the Tax Court had misconstrued Smith, the Appellate Division determined that, in arriving at a partnership's net income, only costs and expenses incurred in the ordinary course of its business are to be applied against income earned in the ordinary courses of its business.

The Appellate Division remanded the case to the Tax Court for determination of whether deductible "ordinary" business expenses are limited to ordinary and necessary business expenses and whether the amended regulations drafted by the Division are appropriate. Noting that N.J.S.A. 54A:5-1a allows net income to be determined "in accordance with the method of accounting allowed for federal income tax purposes," it declined to rule directly on the complicated questions involving the extent to which the Division can rely on federal taxing principles. It commented that this issue should be resolved by the lower court.

Local Property Tax Training Facility Denied Exemption – N.J. Carpenters Apprenticeship Training and Education

Fund v. Borough of Kenilworth, decided December 17, 1996; N.J. Supreme Court.

The N.J. Supreme Court denied a $2.8 million training facility for apprentice carpenters a real estate tax exemption as a nonprofit school under N.J.S.A. 54:4-3.6. The High Court in reversing the exempt determination of the Appellate Division N.J. Superior Court affirmed the N.J. Tax Court's disallowance and that of Union County Tax Board and Kenilworth Borough assessor.

Owned and operated by the federally tax exempt N.J. Carpenters Apprentice Training and Education Fund, the training center offered no academic courses and was not accredited; its program was, however, overseen by the U.S. Department of Labor. Apprentices who attended the training facility were taken into local unions and graduates were certified as journeymen carpenters. Apprentices who didn't achieve proficiency in a skill were not passed on to the next level of carpentry and were not eligible for pay raises.

The State Supreme Court reasoned that the legislative intent of 54:4-3.6's specific wording "school, academy, college or seminary" was a narrower interpretation of school as a primary or secondary school and the disputed training facility was not within that narrower meaning. A broader definition of school as all learning institutions which would have included the training center would have made the statute's specificity superfluous.

The Court in examining the Fund's board of trustees found that, although they had an independent fiduciary duty to promote the school's educational purposes, they were appointed by the construction industry's employers and unions and served at their will. The trust Fund was formed in 1969 by the N.J. State Council of Carpenters, the Building Contractors Association of N.J., other employers in the construction industry obliged per their collective bargaining agreements to contribute to the Fund, and the Fund trustees.

The Court also reviewed the financing of the Apprentice Training and Education Fund and concluded that the revenues generated were not related to educational costs but were based on a mandatory percentage of union employee wages. Assets totaled $9,684,000 and $5,000,000 in cash and marketable securities. While the assets were not to be distributed to the union or employers neither were they to be used for any purposes other than apprentice training and education.

The Court in its analysis often drew parallels to the case of Textile Research Institute v. Township of Princeton, 35 N.J. 218 (1961), in which a nonprofit research organization for the textile industry providing laboratory instruction to doctoral students many of whom were later employed by that industry was denied property tax exemption.

In ruling against exemption the Court held that the apprentice training facility benefited a particular profit-making sector of the economy, i.e., the construction industry, by providing more skilled workers to building companies and more members to labor unions, rather than benefiting the general public.

Sales Ratio Challenge – Bellemead Development Corp., Plaintiff, v. Roseland Boro., Director, Taxation Division, et al., Defendants, decided March 25, 1997; Tax Court of N.J.; Docket No. 000431-97.

Corporate taxpayer challenged the Director, Division of Taxation's omission of what it felt was a usable sale for the assessment-sales ratio study from which the State school aid ratio and tax year 1997 Chapter 123 ratio for Roseland Borough was developed. The taxpayer did not request a direct review of its 1997 property assessment.

The singular issue was whether the taxpayer could obtain relief via a change in the composition of the ratio in a local property tax plenary proceeding prior to and independent of a tax appeal.

Citing prior case law, the Tax Court noted that Chapter 123 ratios create such a strong presumption of the taxing districts' common levels of assessment as to be conclusive in all but the most egregious circumstances. Absent proof of error, use of other than the Director's ratios violated statute.

The Court further noted, however, that a taxpayer has a constitutional right to timely appeal where erroneous data has "substantially skewed" a Chapter 123 ratio.

In this case, the taxpayer sought to have the Court amend the Chapter 123 ratio for all assessment appeals of the Borough across the board. Rather, when correcting an error the Court does not revise the average ratio but only applies the amended ratio to the taxpayer's assessment to determine his discrimination relief. In this way, other taxpayers may contest other sales and establish their own ratios under which they may obtain value reduction.

The Tax Court held that it had no authority in a plenary proceeding to change either the school aid or Chapter 123 ratio and dismissed the taxpayer's request.

Horse-Farm Amendments — William & Frances Brousseau, Plaintiffs v. Millstone Township, Defendant, decided March 10, 1997; Tax Court of New Jersey; Docket No. 008450-95.

At issue before the N.J. Tax Court was the proper interpretation of the Farmland Assessment Act's (N.J.S.A. 54:4-23.1 et seq.) "horse-farm amendments," L. 1995, c.276. The taxpayers' 12.06 acres had been denied farmland assessment for tax year 1995 by Millstone Township assessor solely by reason of "noncontiguity" based on the recent changes to the Act. Monmouth County Tax Board had affirmed the denial on appeal. The disputed property consisted of 2.06 acres of appurtenant woodland, 8 acres of permanent pasture for grazing horses and 2 acres of training area with a riding rink, dressage area and 6-stall barn.

Prior to the 1995 statutory amendments, grazing livestock without breeding them for sale was not a qualifying agricultural use, nor were boarding, rehabilitating or training livestock considered farming.

The horse-farm revisions expanded the definition of agricultural use to include grazing of livestock alone as an acceptable farm use as well as their training, boarding and rehabilitation.

The amendments also permitted "fees received for boarding, rehabilitating or training any livestock where the land under the boarding, rehabilitating or training facilities is contiguous" to other qualified farmland to be used to fulfill the minimum income requirements.

In denying the farm assessment for noncontiguity, the municipality contended that the taxpayers' entire 12.06 acres had to be contiguous to other qualified farmland in order to obtain the land value reduction provided under the Act as amended.

The taxpayers argued that the legislative intent of the amendments was to provide property tax relief to owners of horse farms, not to require land used in horse farming to be contiguous to additional (5) acres devoted to other agricultural or horticultural uses. They also argued that under the new amendments the 8 acres of grazing land was independently eligible for farmland assessment while the 2 acre training and boarding area qualified as contiguous to it. The 2.06 acres was stipulated to be appurtenant woodland dependent upon the qualification of the other 10 acres.

The Court decided in favor of the taxpayers giving the plain meaning of the statute weight. In doing so the Court reviewed both the legislative history of the statutory amendments in terms of the intent of their several revisions and their grammatical construction. □

In Our Legislature

Corporation Business Tax

Rates Changed for New Jersey S Corporations — P.L. 1997, c.40 (signed into law on March 27, 1997) reduces the tax rate for New Jersey S corporations to 2%, or 0.5% for S corporations with annual net income of $100,000 or less. The change is effective for accounting years ending on or after July 1, 1998.

Insurance Premiums Tax

Procedures for Collecting and Distributing the Tax on Fire Insurance Premiums Revised — P.L. 1997, c.41 (signed into law on March 27, 1997) revises procedures for the collection and distribution of funds by the New Jersey State Firemen's Association. The legislation takes effect July 1, 1997.

Local Property Tax

Administrative Responsibilities for the Veterans'/Senior Citizens' and Disabled Persons' Property Tax Deductions Changed — P.L. 1997, c.30 (signed into law on March 7, 1997) eliminates the provisions of P.L. 1995 c.259 which require the Division of Taxation annually to furnish each municipality with a supply of application forms for the veterans' property tax deduction as well as the senior citizen, disabled person and surviving spouse property tax deduction.

This legislation also removes from the Division of Taxation and restores to the municipal tax collector the responsibility for mailing to each recipient of a property tax deduction the required post-tax year statement of income form

In our legislature – from pg. 21
 accompanied by a return receipt envelope addressed to the municipality.

The legislation also requires the State to reimburse each local taxing district 102% of the amount of the deductions granted under these programs, rather than 100% as currently required. The additional two percent will compensate taxing districts for the costs of administering the programs.

The legislation is effective immediately and is applicable in tax year 1997 and thereafter.

Sales and Use Tax

Admission Charges to Professional Wrestling Events No Longer Exempt from Sales Tax — P.L. 1997, c.36 (signed into law on March 17, 1997) recognizes professional wrestling events as activities in which the primary purpose of the participants is to provide entertainment for spectators rather than to engage in a bona fide athletic contest. The legislation removes professional wrestling from the regulation and control of the State Athletic Control Board, eliminating the taxes imposed by the Board on ticket sales as well as television and cable receipts.

As a result, admission charges to professional wrestling events are no longer exempt from sales tax under N.J.S.A. 54:32B-3(e)(1).

This legislation is effective immediately. □

Tax Season Assistance

During the income tax season from January 1 through April 15, 1997, the Division provided assistance to many taxpayers in New Jersey. This year was marked by the expansion of the NJ TeleFile program, which enables taxpayers to file State income tax returns and homestead rebate applications by telephone.

Division Gets $260,448

Director Richard D. Gardiner shows Supervising Auditor Joseph O'Gorman and Supervising Special Agent Albert Lugg a check for $260,448.59 received as the result of an investigation of the bootleg motor fuels industry. Garey S. Chin, Assistant Special Agent in charge of the FBI in New Jersey looks on. For complete story see page 2.

Not Too Late to TeleFile

One million taxpayers statewide are eligible to file their 1996 State income tax this year by Touch-tone phone. Information packets and worksheets for the new Tele-File program were mailed to eligible taxpayers, offering major benefits, including tax refunds mailed within two weeks of filing.

Richard D. Gardiner, Director, New Jersey Division of Taxation, noted that the TeleFile packet includes a simple worksheet for the taxpayer to prepare before calling the toll-free TeleFile number.

Based on information provided from the worksheet, TeleFile will perform all of the math calculations and advise the taxpayer of the amount of the refund or taxes due, over the phone.

It is estimated that a toll-free TeleFile call will require less than ten minutes to complete, with no forms to mail in or other papers to fill out. Each taxpayer will receive a personal confirmation number during the TeleFile call, which will verify that the return was successfully filed, and tax refunds will be mailed within two weeks.

Taxpayers can access NJ TeleFile by calling 1-888-235-FILE from any Touch-tone phone within New Jersey 24 hours a day, 7 days a week during the tax filing period, which ends April 15. The New Jersey Division of Taxation began accepting TeleFile calls January 15.

“TeleFile is part of our continuing effort to make State income tax filing easier and simpler,” said Richard D. Gardiner, Director of the Division of Taxation. “I strongly encourage all eligible New Jersey taxpayers to TeleFile.”

It is anticipated that up to 15% of taxpayers eligible to use NJ TeleFile may not receive their packets due to change of address or other circumstances. Taxpayers can use the 1-888-235-FILE toll-free number to inquire whether they were included in the group of one million taxpayers selected to use TeleFile. □

Federal “Check the Box” Entity Classification

The Internal Revenue Service has issued final regulations effective January 1, 1997 that permit unincorporated entities that are not required to be treated as a corporation for Federal tax purposes (referred to as “eligible entities”) to choose whether to be taxed as partnerships or corporations. Federally, an eligible entity with at least two members can be classified as either a partnership or an association, and an eligible entity with a single member can be classified as an association and taxed as a corporation or can be disregarded as an entity separate from its owner.

In reporting business income to New Jersey, unincorporated entities having at least two members must file either a CBT-100 if they are corporations as defined at N.J.S.A. 54:10A-4(c) or if the entity has elected for Federal purposes to be taxed as a corporation and will file the Federal 1120 Corporation Tax Return. Or, if the eligible entity has chosen for Federal purposes to be taxed as a partnership and will file the Federal 1065 US Partnership Return of Income, it will also file for New Jersey purposes a New Jersey partnership return, NJ-1065.

Since the New Jersey Gross Income Tax Law requires that taxpayers use the same accounting methods as for Federal income tax purposes, the individual owner(s) in filing their personal gross income tax returns must report the income from those entities which have elected to be taxed as a partnership for Federal purposes in the same manner as on the NJ-1065. Single owner entities authorized to do business in New Jersey which are not taxed as corporations for New Jersey purposes will be treated as sole proprietorships. □

✓Check Your Form NJ-1040

Errors in return preparation account for a large number of the delays that occur in the processing of returns and refunds. To ensure that returns are processed in a timely and efficient manner, we offer the following helpful hints.

Like the 1995 return, the 1996 New Jersey Resident Income Tax Return, Form NJ-1040, is in a scannable format that enables automated processing equipment to electronically capture income tax information directly from the return. By checking the items listed below, you will reduce the chance of error and speed the tax return processing time.

|---|--|
| <ul style="list-style-type: none"> ✓ Use the correct form. Form NJ-1040 should be used by part-year residents as well as full-year residents. Use only a 1996 return for the 1996 tax year. ✓ Read the instruction booklet before completing the return. ✓ File only original forms. The Division is unable to scan photocopies of tax returns. ✓ Use only blue or black ink when completing forms. ✓ Enter all numbers within the red boxes. Do not use dollar signs or dashes. ✓ Make no entry on unused lines or lines where the amount to be reported is zero or less, except for Line 40, Use Tax Due. If no use tax is owed, enter "0.00" on Line 40. ✓ Check name, address, social security number and county/municipality code for accuracy when using the label or writing information on the return. ✓ Enter last name first when writing information on the tax return. This requirement differs from the Federal return. ✓ Check only one filing status box. ✓ Use the "State wages" figure(s) from the W-2(s), not the Federal figure. | <ul style="list-style-type: none"> ✓ Check the instruction booklet to determine eligibility for the new property tax deduction or credit. ✓ Locate the correct column for filing status in the Tax Table when calculating the New Jersey tax liability on Line 37. ✓ Request a refund by completing Line 58. ✓ Check arithmetic. ✓ Return is signed and dated. Both spouses must sign a joint return. ✓ Homestead Property Tax Rebate Application. An incomplete application may delay any rebate. ✓ Enclose all supporting documents and schedules with the return. Do not staple, paper clip or tape anything to the tax return. ✓ Any balance due. Return the payment voucher with the payment. Write the social security number on the check. ✓ Use the small window envelope to mail the payment voucher with any balance of tax due. ✓ Use the large envelope to mail Form NJ-1040 and/or HR-1040 with related enclosures. On the flap of the large envelope you will find three address labels. Choose the label that applies. ✓ Keep a copy of the return together with all supporting documents or schedules. |

Investigation as part of New Jersey's share of Federal forfeiture money stemming from Operation Red Daisy, a joint Federal-State investigation of the bootleg motor fuels industry.

Taxation Director Richard D. Gardiner, who accepted the check on January 28, 1997, noted that in 1991, as part of the investigation, the FBI, the Internal Revenue Service, and personnel from the Division and the Pennsylvania Department of Revenue set up undercover fuel businesses in the two states.

Division investigators operated businesses known as RJR Management, Fuel Services of America and Ruz Fuel in Ewing Township for almost two years.

"We're very proud of the role Division investigators played in this operation and we're very pleased to share in this forfeiture money," Gardiner said.

In 1992, when approximately 150 Operation Red Daisy search and seizure warrants were executed throughout the United States, millions of dollars was seized from bank accounts, safe deposit boxes, residences and businesses.

Some of these assets have been surrendered as part of plea agreements and indictments. Under Federal law, the money is forfeited to a special fund administered by the Department of Justice and shared among state, county and local agencies who participate in joint investigations.

Gardiner said today's check brings the total New Jersey has received in forfeiture funds from Operation Red Daisy to more than $300,000.

Additional checks are expected as the investigation and prosecutions progress.

"By law, the money must be used to enhance our investigative and law enforcement capabilities or to pay the costs associated with other investigations," Gardiner said.

He noted that the Division has already purchased a state-of-the-art radio transmission system for use by investigators and plans to upgrade the Investigations Branch computer system in the near future.

All expenditures of funds under the forfeiture-sharing program must be approved by the State Attorney General, he added. □

Attorney Audit Project Begins

A joint project by the New Jersey Division of Taxation and the Internal Revenue Service was launched in January. Letters were sent from the Directors of IRS and NJ Division of Taxation to approximately 400 New Jersey attorneys who have failed to file and/or pay their Federal and State personal income taxes describing the delinquencies and giving the recipient 30 days to either pay what he or she owes, file delinquent tax returns or resolve any discrepancies in the agencies' records.

"If they didn't respond within 30 days, members of our joint task force followed up with phone calls and personal visits," said the IRS District Director.

Although the 400 lawyers represent only 1.8 percent of the attorneys licensed in New Jersey, the project involves significant amounts of money owed to both the Federal and State governments.

"Attorneys, as officers of the Court, take an oath to uphold the law, not break it. They know full well that they must comply with State and Federal tax laws," the IRS District Director said.

The attorneys project is the most recent initiative resulting from a formal agreement between the IRS and the New Jersey Division of Taxation to promote voluntary compliance with State and Federal tax laws by combining efforts, resources and personnel.

A similar joint project conducted two years ago, which used computer cross-checking to identify delinquent or deficient certified public accountants and public accountants in New Jersey, resulted in the collection of more than $4 million in overdue Federal and State income taxes, interest and penalties.

"An even more positive result of that effort is the fact that when the records of the CPAs and PAs who were identified during the project were rechecked after this past April 15 filing deadline, more than 85% of them were continuing to be taxpayers in good standing," said Richard D. Gardiner, NJ Division of Taxation Director.

The IRS District Director said that the New Jersey accountants and attorneys projects are part of an on-going, cooperative effort by the IRS and many state tax agencies to improve the nation's overall tax compliance level, which is now approximately 83 percent.

The remaining 17 percent represents a “tax gap” of more than $150 billion each year in money not received due to non-compliance and fraud.

“We see this as a matter of fairness to all taxpayers, not as an unfair targeting of any one profession. Non-compliance by any group of taxpayers increases the burden on all taxpayers. The many citizens who do pay their taxes have a right to expect others to pay their fair share,” the IRS District Director said.

All tax liabilities paid as a result of this joint effort will be subject to the normal interest and penalties imposed under Federal and State law.

“New Jersey’s Tax Amnesty program ended on June 1,” said Gardiner. “These attorneys could have come forward during that period and at least addressed their State income tax problems without penalties and interest.

“They didn’t choose to do that for whatever reason, so now they’re going to have to pay the full amount of the back taxes they owe, the normal fines and penalties, and the additional 5% penalty New Jersey has assessed on all State liabilities that were unresolved under Amnesty,” he said.

The two directors stressed that while the initial focus of the attorney project is State and Federal personal income taxes, all items of tax compliance will be addressed, including corporate, business or withholding taxes owed by the individuals’ employers, law firms or partnerships.

Attorneys who fail to respond to the tax agencies face possible sanctions, including temporary or permanent prohibition from practice before the IRS, and/or criminal investigation by the tax agencies. □

Honorable Mary R. “Polly” Hamill, Tax Court Judge

The Division recognizes the recent loss of the Honorable Mary R. “Polly” Hamill, Judge of the Tax Court of New Jersey.

Following is an excerpt of the Honorable Joseph C. Small’s memories of Judge Hamill reprinted from a memorial brochure with Judge Small’s permission.

“In the dozen or so years that Polly Hamill was in the Attorney General’s office she handled the state’s most significant tax cases. I mention just three of them: Salorio v. Glaser, 93 N.J. 447 (1983) in which Polly was able to secure from the Supreme Court of New Jersey a ruling on retroactivity of unconstitutional state taxes.

“In Amerada Hess v. Director, 490 U.S. 66 (1989) Polly won a favorable interpretation with regard to the New Jersey Corporation Business Tax treatment of federal windfall profits taxes.

“Finally, in Allied Signal v. Director, 504 U.S. 768 (1992) Polly failed by the slimmest of margins

(5 to 4) to persuade the Supreme Court of the United States to make fundamental changes in the way states tax the investment income of non-resident corporations.

“A little more than three years ago Polly became a Judge of the Tax Court of New Jersey. In her brief tenure she authored twenty published and many unpublished opinions. Her thinking and writing brought order to the complicated and often incomprehensible body of state and local tax law. Her opinions will be studied and cited as authority on New Jersey tax law for years to come.

“Polly had a true calling to the law, to New Jersey tax law, to the bench. Those of us who were privileged to have called her colleague and friend miss her now, will think of her often, and will treasure our all too brief acquaintance forever.” □

Clarification Estate or Trust Income

The Division in an earlier State Tax News article, Volume 25, Number 4 issued guidelines on how and where to report income received by a beneficiary of an estate or trust. The Division's long-standing position on what income is subject to the gross income tax for either a resident or nonresident beneficiary, has not changed, only the return line on which such income is to be reported has changed.

The intent of the previous article was to inform taxpayers that the income they receive from an estate or trust which is subject to the New Jersey gross income tax is to be netted into the category "Net income derived through estates or trusts" and reported on the "Other income" line on the return. Tax exempt interest or gains received by the estate or trust that flow through to the beneficiary retain their tax exempt character.

Taxpayers must include a copy of the Federal K-1 or a schedule detailing the income received from estates or trusts with their New Jersey tax return. □

Frank Higgins, State Tax News Coordinator

Supervising Auditor Francis J. Higgins passed away on November 30, 1996. Frank served the Division of Taxation in various capacities throughout his 35 years of service, holding positions ranging from Auditor III to Conferee, to Supervising Auditor. Frank also served as Audit's News Coordinator for the New Jersey State Tax News.

Frank was an avid golfer and a member of several service organizations in the Trenton area. He will be missed by his friends and co-workers in the Division and the tax practitioner community. □

GROSS INCOME TAX Extensions to File

The April 15 deadline for filing the New Jersey income tax return is fast approaching. If you need more time to file, there are two ways to request an extension.

A four-month extension of time to file the New Jersey income tax return may be granted if at least 80% of the tax liability computed when filing the return (Form NJ-1040 or Form NJ-1040NR) is paid by the original due date, and

1. A copy of the Federal Application for Automatic Extension is enclosed with the final return and the box at the top of the NJ-1040 or NJ-1040NR is checked;
- or
2. If no Federal extension is filed, an Application for Extension of Time to File New Jersey Gross Income Tax Return (Form NJ-630) is filed by the original due date of the return.

Tax may be paid using any or all of three methods: employer withholdings, estimated payments, or a payment made with Form NJ-630. If a payment by April 15 is necessary to satisfy the 80% requirement, Form NJ-630 must be filed and payment remitted even if a Federal extension was requested. When filing Form NJ-630, 100% of any balance due of the estimated tax (as determined on Form NJ-630) must be paid with the extension request.

Be sure to file the income tax return by the extended due date. If the return is late, or the payment requirements have not been met, the extension will be retroactively denied and penalty and interest charges will be imposed from the original due date of the return.

No matter which method is used to request an extension of time to file the New Jersey income tax return, this request is for an extension of time to file, not an extension of time to pay tax due.

Form NJ-630 is available in all New Jersey resident and nonresident income tax return instruction booklets. This year it is a card size form located in the perforated packet folded inside the front cover of the booklet. Form NJ-630 is also available through the Division's Automated Tax Information System by calling 1-800-323-4400, NJ TaxFax service by calling 609-588-4500 from your fax machine's phone, and on the Division's home page on the World Wide Web, which can be accessed via your computer at:

<http://www.state.nj.us/treasury/taxation/>

Reminder

Taxpayers who file Form NJ-630 and make a payment to the Division of Taxation are reminded to report any payments made with Form NJ-630 on the Estimated Tax Payments Line, i.e.,

Line 44, Form NJ-1040;
Line 24, Form NJ-1040NR;
Line 24, Form NJ-1041; and Line 20, Form NJ-1080-C

GROSS INCOME TAX
Employer Provided Meals

For New Jersey gross income tax purposes, the value of employer provided meals which are furnished to an employee on the employer's premises and for the employer's convenience is not deemed to be salaries, wages or other remuneration received for services rendered and is not includible in the employee's gross income. Nor is the value of employer provided lodging which the employee is required to accept on the employer's business premises as a condition of employment includible. Consequently, the amount shown as New Jersey gross income on Form W-2 should not include the cost of such meals or lodging. □

Educational Assistance Plans

Several taxpayers have questioned what effect, if any, the retroactive reinstatement of the Federal income tax exclusion for employer-provided educational assistance plans will have in New Jersey.

The Division has replied that there is no provision in the Gross Income Tax Act similar to the Federal provision regarding educational assistance plans. Consequently, the reinstatement of the Federal exclusion does not change the treatment of such plans under the Act.

For New Jersey gross income tax purposes, unless the tuition pay ments made by the employer are for courses that are job related the payments are subject to withholding and must be included in the employee's gross income. To be considered job related the course must:

1. Maintain or improve skills required by the employee in the employee's trade, business, or employment;
2. Meet the express requirements of the employer; or
3. Meet the requirements of applicable law or regulations imposed as a condition of the retention of the employee's salary status or employment.

In addition to the above, successful completion of the course must not be required to meet the minimum requirements for employment. □

GROSS INCOME TAX
Gambling Winnings and Losses Update

As a result of the article which appeared in the Fall, 1996 issue of the State Tax News concerning gambling winnings and losses a number of taxpayers have asked for more information concerning the requirements for substantiating gambling losses used to offset winnings reported on their New Jersey Gross Income Tax Return.

As was indicated in the article evidence of losses may take several forms. With respect to winnings or losses resulting from casino gambling the article stated that the Division would not accept letters from casinos which purport to "rate" the gambling activity of an individual or "estimate" losses.

As a clarification of this position the Division will accept as part of the proofs of wins and losses a schedule from the casinos detailing slot play and letters from the casinos rating an individual's wins and losses from table play. The Division will also accept records from the casinos detailing an individual's casino credit history, i.e. markers.

Taxpayers should also maintain other evidential material and/or records of gambling wins and losses as was required in the Division's previous State Tax News pronouncement.

Taxpayers should continue to keep evidential material for a period of six years after the filing of the New Jersey Gross Income Tax Return for that period. □

INHERITANCE/ESTATE TAX
Class "A" Beneficiaries

There is still some confusion regarding provisions for the expeditious transfer of a decedent's assets when the beneficiaries are Class "A."

When Class "A" beneficiaries became fully exempt from Inheritance Tax in 1988, the Division developed Forms L-8 and L-9 to enable these beneficiaries to have quick access to particular assets. The Form L-8 is used with bank accounts, securities, deposits in credit unions, etc. Form L-9 is used in transferring real estate class "a" beneficiaries - from page 8

under specific conditions.

The Form L-8 is a self executing waiver. Class "A" beneficiaries for whom the form may be used include:

1. A surviving spouse in estates having a date of death on or after January 1, 1985.
2. A child, grandchild, adopted child, issue of an adopted child, stepchild, parent or grandparent in estates having a date of death on or after July 1, 1988.

The only step-relative for whom the Form L-8 may be used is a stepchild. A step-parent, step-grandparent or a step-grandchild is not a Class "A" beneficiary and cannot use the form.

The Form L-8 may not be used by a brother, sister, daughter-in-law or son-in-law as they are not Class "A" beneficiaries.

The Form L-8 may not be used by a person claiming to be a "mutually acknowledged child" of the decedent.

A Class "A" beneficiary may execute the Form L-8 where under the terms of an account or instrument and applicable State law the Class "A" beneficiary has the right of survivorship or is the named beneficiary. Where assets were held in the name of the decedent alone and are passing to a Class "A" beneficiary under the terms of the decedent's will or the laws of intestacy, the executor or administrator may execute the Form L-8 provided that letters testamentary or letters of administration are attached and made part of the form. A separate Form L-8 is required for each institution and for each beneficiary.

The Form L-8 may be obtained and completed at the institution having control of the asset. It is filed directly with the bank, transfer agent, credit union, etc.

The Form L-9, unlike the Form L-8, is a request for a waiver and is not actually the instrument which may be used as the basis for releasing control of a decedent's assets. It is an application for a waiver releasing a resident decedent's New Jersey real estate. The Form L-9 is submitted, together with a copy of the decedent's will, to the Inheritance Tax Branch in Trenton. If warranted, the Branch will issue the desired waiver.

The Form L-9 may only be used when all of the following conditions are met:

1. The decedent at death was a resident of the State of New Jersey.
2. The decedent died on or after

July 1, 1988
(January 1, 1985 if the entire estate passes to a surviving spouse).

3. All beneficiaries of the estate are Class "A."
4. The estate is untaxable.
5. The only reason to file an Inheritance Tax return would be to secure a waiver for New Jersey real estate.

Forms L-8 and L-9 may be obtained from the Inheritance Tax Branch in Trenton or from any Division of Taxation office. Division offices are located throughout the State. □

LOCAL PROPERTY TAX Appraiser Licenses Not Required for Assessors

Attorney General's Opinion #97-0003, dated January 7, 1997, addressed the question of whether in order to carry out their assessment duties certified municipal tax assessors must now be licensed as real estate appraisers per L.1995, c.349, (N.J.S.A. 45:14F-21(c) as amended), effective January 4, 1997.

The conclusion of the Attorney General was that the appraiser licensing law is not applicable to assessors.

According to the recent Opinion, local assessors' appraisals do not fall within the meaning of real estate "appraisal assignment" defined in the Real Estate Appraisers Act at N.J.S.A. 45:14F-2 in that they are not contractual but statutory. Further, the office of tax assessor is legislative in nature and is regulated by an existing statutory scheme which provides qualification and education prerequisites, ethical and disciplinary standards, and several levels of supervision where the imposition of a second body of regulatory provisions would be unnecessary and unduly burdensome. The assessor as an appointed official performing the governmental function of assessing property for taxation is also distinguished from the real estate appraiser as an independent professional occupation. Finally, the intent of the Legislature to exclude assessors from the licensing requirement is indicated by their specific exemption in an earlier but similar version of the law and by the fact that dual compliance with the both laws would create conflicts as to jurisdiction and other matters.

However, licensing requirements would apply if appraisals are conducted outside the scope of an assessor's statutory duty. □

LOCAL PROPERTY TAX Assessment Administration

Richard D. Gardiner, Director, Division of Taxation, has directed Local Property Tax resources to focus on improving property tax administration in New Jersey. Some targeted areas will be clarifying responsibilities and obtaining greater accountability among the various State, county and municipal levels of property tax administration.

The Division is supporting a legislative proposal to require continuing education to remain certified as an assessor. Also favored is the establishment of a process where assessors will receive input from the county tax boards for the purpose of enhancing operations and resolving problems.

Staff of the Local Property Tax office will be taking a more active role in monitoring assessment compliance to meet the Director's objectives. Efforts are also ongoing to update the Assessors' Handbook and rules under which county boards of taxation operate.

The cooperation and participation of everyone involved in administering the property tax will be needed to achieve these objectives.

income tax withholdings of nearly $58,000 to the State and for misconduct by a corporate official. Mr. Pessolano was also indicted for the failure to file personal income tax returns for two years and corporate business tax returns for General Machine and for NC Fabritech, Inc., a related corporation.

- Thomas Grossi and Robert Lisa were indicted on December 9, 1996 by a Hudson County Grand Jury on various charges relating to forgery and tampering with public records. These individuals are alleged to have signed another person's name to corporation business and income tax returns.
- Sheryl Terbecki pled guilty on November 18, 1996 in Ocean County Superior Court to one count of failing to file a 1991 NJ income tax return and to one count of theft by deception. Terbecki, who was indicted in February 1996, must make restitution to the State in the amount of $12,172 for tax, penalty and interest resulting from the failure to file income tax returns and report the illegal income obtained from 1991 through 1994. She must also make restitution to the victims of the money stolen during this period. This case was conducted as a joint investigation with the Ocean County Prosecutor's office.
- The principals of two cases who had previously pled guilty were sentenced during the month. William Becker of Camden County had pled guilty to filing a false and fraudulent 1990 NJ income tax return and failing to file a 1994 State income tax return. The unreported income was derived from the sale of cars for which Becker had illegally obtained the title. He will serve four years imprisonment on each count that he had pled guilty and must make restitution to the State in the amount of $3,900 for tax, penalty and interest. He must also make restitution to his former employer in the amount of $106,650. Additional information regarding this case may be found in the Summer 1996 and Winter 1996 issues of the State Tax News.

- Larry Ansell and Michael Gohar of Emerald Hotels had pled guilty to failing to remit sales tax, employee income tax withholdings and corporate business taxes for a chain of hotels they operated. Each was sentenced to five years probation and ordered to make restitution to the State of tax, penalty and interest totaling nearly $2.8 million. To date, they have made restitution payments totaling $650,000.

In addition, they were ordered to complete 800 hours of community service. Gohar was also assessed penalties unrelated to the tax charges totaling $450,000 which are to be paid to the court. Additional information regarding this case may be found in the Summer 1996 issue of the State Tax News.

- The Division received a letter of appreciation from Michael Lynch, Lakewood Township Chief of Police, regarding the assistance provided by Special Agent Ron Wysiekierski in thwarting a multi-state narcotics network. This investigation involved many agencies including the Federal Bureau of Investigation, Ocean and Monmouth county prosecutor's offices, US Postal Service, the California Division of Criminal Justice, and Long Branch, Neptune City and Tinton Falls police. Arrests have been made and the investigation is ongoing.
- Robert Russo was sentenced in the Massachusetts District Court to 14 months incarceration and ordered to pay restitution to New Jersey in the amount of $2,871. In a scheme to obtain tax refunds, Mr. Russo created bogus W-2 forms and used them to file false and fraudulent income tax returns. He victimized numerous states by collecting illegal tax refunds totaling $98,050.
- Patricia A. Rouse and her husband Fred D. Rouse were indicted by a Camden County Grand Jury on October 31, 1996 on one count of filing a fraudulent 1994 New Jersey income tax return. The Rouses failed to report $24,425 of the income that Mrs. Rouse embezzled from her employer. The couple was also indicted on other counts relating to the $77,000 embezzlement, including theft by deception, forgery, and falsifying or tampering with records.

- On November 18, 1996, the appellate court upheld the decision of the lower court in four of the five areas Richard Manthey had appealed. Mr. Manthey had originally been found guilty on six counts relating to his failure to turn over to the State sales tax collected and income tax withheld. As a result of this decision, the original seven year jail sentence which was stayed pending his appeal may begin.
- Afzal M. Sheikh, president of Ehsan Corp., was sentenced on October 4, 1996 in the Hudson County Superior Court on one count of misapplication of entrusted property. The property consisted of $45,000 of unremitted sales tax collected at the liquor store/deli that he operated in Jersey City. Prior to the sentencing, Sheikh paid the full amount of tax outstanding. Collection of the accrued penalty and interest will be subject to civil collection.
- On October 18, 1996, Melvin Shaw was sentenced to five years imprisonment for failure to remit $36,005 in sales tax which he had collected from the sales of luxury automobiles from 1991 to 1994 at his dealership located in Berlin Borough, Camden County, New Jersey. Shaw was also sentenced to serve an additional five years for several counts of failure to deliver motor vehicle titles to customers and for defrauding customers and individuals who believed they were investing in his business. The State has obtained a judgment against Shaw in the amount of $50,301 for tax, penalty and interest due as of the date Shaw was sentenced. Additional interest will accrue until the entire liability is satisfied.

- Seven guilty pleas were entered in municipal courts throughout the State during this period by individuals and businesses for noncompliance with the cigarette tax law. In three additional cases, businesses were found guilty of accepting untaxed cigarettes and selling cigarettes without a license. These ten cases resulted in the imposition of fines and penalties totaling $9,119 and the awarding of nearly $73,000 of seized cigarettes to the State. Two of the defendants also received multi-year supervised probation. In one case, the probation was granted with the conditions of obtaining legitimate employment, submitting to drug testing and remaining arrest free.

In addition, charges were filed for violations of transporting, possessing, and selling untaxed cigarettes as well as licensing violations in municipal court for eleven cases. The value of the assets seized for these cases totaled $25,614. □

Enforcement Summary

Civil Collection Actions Quarter Ending - December 31, 1996

Following is a summary of enforcement actions for the quarter ending December 31, 1996.

Certificates of Debt

During the quarter ended December 31, 1996, the Division filed 3,130 Certificates of Debt in New Jersey Superior Court. These COD's, which have the same force and effect as docketed judgments, totaled $30.7 million.

Levies

$88,301.29 was collected by levying against payments made under State contracts to satisfy debts owed by State vendors.

Jeopardy Assessments

When a vendor is found to have failed to register his or her business or failed to collect and remit sales taxes or file tax returns, the Division of Taxation has the authority to make an immediate, on-site assessment of tax due (referred to as a "jeopardy assessment") and may seize all available assets to satisfy the on-site tax assessment.

The Division makes jeopardy assessments when there is a danger that a non-compliant vendor will discontinue operations, remove his or her business property and flee the State. This remedy is often necessary in cases involving transient vendors, out-of-State businesses operating in New Jersey, or vendors operating from non-fixed locations, such as roadside sales, flea markets or trade shows.

If the liability is not resolved, the seized property can be sold at public auction and the proceeds used to satisfy the tax debt.

For the quarter ending December 31, 1996, $367,086 was collected from jeopardy assessments, and the assets of 11 businesses were seized.

enforcement summary - from pg. 13

Seizures

When a liability, for which the Division of Taxation has secured judgments, cannot or will not be satisfied by a taxpayer and all other means of collection of the debt have been exhausted, seizure of the business and personal assets will take place. Field Investigators will close a business, seizing any tangible assets including licenses, inventory, machinery, furniture, vehicles, etc., until arrangements are made for payment of the debt.

For the quarter ending December 31, 1996, property of 23 businesses was seized. Some businesses were able to reopen, others remain closed. A listing of these seizures appears on pages 17.

Auctions

If the liability of a business seized by the Division is not satisfied or resolved, the business will remain closed. To satisfy the debt, the Division can sell the business assets at a public auction.

During the quarter ending December 31, 1996, three auctions were held by the Division. A listing follows on page 18.

In the event an auction does not net enough monies to resolve the debt, the Division will execute against the personal assets of any of the business's responsible officers. Responsible officers are held personally liable for the trust fund portion of the debt which includes, but is not limited to, sales tax, withholding tax and motor fuels tax.

Referrals to Attorney General

In cases where the Division has exhausted its administrative remedies without success, referrals are made to the Office of the Attorney General. During the quarter ending December 31, 1996, 436 such cases were referred to the Attorney General's office for additional collection.

Together, the Division's Referral Group and the Attorney General's Collection Unit have collected $786,524 in revenue during the fourth quarter of 1996 and $2,131,752 throughout the first six months of this fiscal year from cases like these.

Liquor License Program

Under a recently enacted State law, applicants for renewal or transfer of a liquor license must receive a certificate of tax clearance from the Division. This program was in effect in seven New Jersey counties in 1996 and added seven additional counties in 1997. The program will be in effect in all 21 New Jersey Counties in 1998.

In addition, the Division is conducting special investigations and audits of liquor license holders. In the past year, the Division has assessed more than $56 million from holders of the various types of licenses subject to audit and collected $64.4 million. Richard D. Gardiner, Division of Taxation Director said he expects to collect a total of $150 million during the three-year program.

During the quarter ending December 31, 1996, 148 notifications of liquor license transfer were received by the Division's Bulk Sales section. Forty-one (41) audits relating to this project and previously requested were completed; assessments from these audits totaled $2,045,502. □

Tax Briefs

Gross Income Tax

Health Insurance Premium Paid By Employee — The Division responded to an inquiry regarding the taxability of the portion of health insurance premium contributions paid by employees in the following circumstances:

Employees may choose whether or not to have coverage under the company's health insurance plan. An employee who elects coverage must contribute 20% of the cost of the premium. This 20% contribution is deducted from the employee's pay. No part of the health benefit can be converted to cash, and there are no flexible spending provisions. For Federal tax purposes, the 20% contribution is treated as nontaxable under 26 U.S.C §125.

For New Jersey gross income tax purposes, the amounts contributed by the employees are not excludable from the employee's income. Since the employees participating in the plan have elected coverage, the amounts they contribute toward health coverage are treated as taxable wage income under N.J.S.A. 54A:5-1a. and should be included in the New Jersey wages reported on their W-2 forms. These amounts are deemed to be constructively received by the employees, although not actually included in their paycheck.

Personal Liability of Responsible Persons for Gross Income Tax Withheld by Employer

— A corporate officer, a member of a partnership or an employee may in some circumstances be held personally liable for gross income tax that should have been withheld

from employees and remitted by their business. The determination of personal liability depends on the specific facts.

For purposes of determining liability for unintentional failure to pay tax withheld, willful failure to withhold and remit the tax, or failure to file required returns, the Gross Income Tax Act defines the responsible persons to include:

An individual, corporation or partnership or an officer or employee of any corporation (including a dissolved corporation) or a member or employee of any partnership, who as such officer, employee, or member is under a duty to perform the act in respect of which the violation occurs. [N.J.S.A. 54:A:9-6(1).]

Thus, for gross income tax purposes, the persons who can be held liable for tax that should be withheld from employees and remitted to the State include (in addition to a sole proprietor, partnership or corporation which has employees) an officer or employee or partner who has a duty to perform certain functions in carrying out the employer's responsibilities under the Gross Income Tax Act, but instead, did not carry out this responsibility correctly.

In those instances when the issue of personal liability for gross income withholding taxes has been litigated, the court has made a detailed analysis of the facts, closely examining a corporate officer's actual functions, in order to determine whether the officer was under a duty to withhold and remit gross income tax on behalf of the employer-corporation. For example, in Cooperstein v. State of New Jersey, Division of Taxation, 14 N.J. Tax 192 (App. Div. 1994), certif. den. 140 N.J. 329 (1995), the Appellate Division determined that while the nominal chief executive of the corporation had general authority to supervise business affairs and to sign checks, he did not actually perform these functions. Therefore, he was not deemed to be "under a duty" to withhold and remit gross income tax on behalf of the corporation, and was not personally liable for its unpaid gross income withholding taxes. In Lorenzo v. Director, Division of Taxation, 14 N.J. Tax 577 (Tax Ct. 1995), the president and majority shareholder of a corporation was held not to be personally liable for the company's failure to remit gross income tax withheld from employees. An immigrant illiterate in English, he worked for the company as a laborer and supervisor of laborers. Although he had "paper" authority as president of the corporation, his actual duties had nothing to do with taxes.

Sales and Use Tax

Hostess Credit — The Division received an inquiry concerning the sales tax consequences when a New Jersey "hostess" holds a show in her home on behalf of a direct marketing company representative and receives a hostess credit based on the sales volume, which can only be used to select merchandise from the company's catalog.

The New Jersey Sales and Use Tax Act defines "sale" as any transfer of title or possession or both,... for a consideration...." N.J.S.A. 54:32B2(f). The New Jersey Tax Court has held that although the consideration for the sale does not have to be received in cash or its equivalent, it does have to have a value in the marketplace. Burger King Corp. v. Director, Division of Taxation, 9 N.J. Tax 251 (Tax Ct. 1987), aff'd. 224 N.J. Super. 628 (App. Div. 1988).

The law provides a definition for "receipt," which is "the amount of the sales price of any property...valued in money, whether received in money or otherwise, including any amount for which credit is allowed by the vendor to the purchaser..." In interpreting this definition, the Court held that a coupon, which was used as credit against the sale price of a product so as to render it "free" to the customer, was not subject to tax because it did not have a monetary value in the marketplace. Instead, the value of the coupon was treated as a discount against the purchase price, which was not part of the taxable receipt. This is distinguishable from a manufacturer's coupon, where the manufacturer actually reimburses the retailer with monetary value for the coupon amount.

Since the hostess credit in this case can only be used towards the purchase or in exchange for company products (i.e. it has no monetary value in the marketplace), it is similar to a non-reimbursable store coupon, which is treated as a discount for New Jersey sales tax purposes. Therefore, the hostess does not owe sales tax on the products received in exchange for the hostess credit. To the extent that the purchases exceed the value of the credit, that amount is subject to tax.

Trade-In Credit: Leases v. Sales

— The Sales & Use Tax Act allows a trade-in credit for property of the same kind that is not tangible property purchased for lease, accepted in part payment and intended for resale by the vendor. N.J.S.A. 54:32B-2(d). In addition, the lessor is deemed the retail purchaser of leased property. N.J.S.A. 54:32b-2(e).

Since the lessor is considered an ultimate consumer under the lease law, when a customer is entering into a lease transaction, the value of any vehicle that is traded in, whether leased or owned by the customer, cannot be used to reduce the amount upon which the lessor is required to pay the lessor's use tax. A trade-in deduction in this case could only apply with respect to the transaction in which the lessor acquired the property intended for lease to the customer...but the statute specifically denies a trade-in credit for this transaction.

If a customer is entering into a sale transaction, and is trading in a leased vehicle, whether the sales tax receipt can be reduced depends upon the chain of title of the trade-in. If the customer exercises the lease purchase option, and pays New Jersey sales tax on the buyout, then he is entitled to a trade-in credit pursuant to the statute.

However, if the customer does not take title to the leased vehicle, but rather assigns the right to buy the vehicle to the dealer, who then pays off the lease and takes title, the customer is not entitled to a trade-in credit for sales tax purposes. In this situation, the customer merely sold the dealer the intangible right to acquire property, and did not transfer the property itself in exchange for credit.

The following chart illustrates the availability of a trade-in credit:

Gross Income Tax

Credit for Tax Paid to Other Jurisdiction - Income from Non-New Jersey S Corporation — Sutkowski v. Director, Division of Taxation, decided December 20, 1996; Tax Court; No. 008632-94.

Plaintiff was the sole shareholder of a New York S corporation. New Jersey did not recognize S corporations until 1994. Therefore, for New Jersey gross income tax purposes, a distribution that was made to plaintiff during 1991 was taxable by New Jersey as dividend income for 1991. However, this distribution was not taxable by New York for 1991 because it was not part of plaintiff's pro rata share of the S corporation's income in that year. New York taxed plaintiff on the income realized by the S corporation, which was allocated to plaintiff in 1991, but was not yet distributed to him during that year.

At issue was whether, in calculating credit for taxes paid to New York, plaintiff could include the 1991 S corporation distributions as income taxed by New York State in 1991. The Court concluded that because this distribution was subject to New Jersey tax but not to New York tax in 1991, it was includable in the denominator, but not in the numerator, of the fraction used in determining the maximum credit allowed:

Income subject to tax by other jurisdiction
Entire New Jersey income

Local Property Tax

Lacked Standing To Intervene

In Appeal — Mobil Administrative Service Co., Plaintiff, v. Mansfield Township, Defendant, decided May 20, 1996; Tax Court of New Jersey; Docket No. 005824-95.

In June, 1995, Mobil filed complaint with Tax Court appealing a Judgment of the Warren County Board of Taxation affirming the 1995 assessment on its property. On August 30, 1995, Mobil entered into a contract to sell the property to Zeta Consumer Products Corp. The Contract of Sale made no reference to the pending appeal and provided that local property taxes would be apportioned as of the closing date, September 27, 1995.

Zeta, by letter dated December 22, 1995, advised Mobil's attorneys that it wished to be involved in settlement of the appeal. In January, Zeta requested from Mobil a copy of the appeal complaint and wanted to discuss "joint prosecution of the case." They also contacted Mansfield Township requesting a meeting to discuss the 1995 assessment. On March 5, 1996, Zeta filed its motion to intervene.

Between January 24, 1996 and March 13, 1996, Mobil and Mansfield Township reached a settlement reducing the 1995 assessment. A Stipulation of Settlement was submitted March 29, 1996 but not processed pending decision of Zeta's motion. The motion would be granted only if Zeta had standing to intervene, and such intervention did not violate statute of limitations or filing deadline, and the application satisfied the requirements of R. 4.33.1 which provides "Upon timely application anyone shall be permitted to intervene in an action if the applicant claims an interest relating to the property or transaction which is the subject of the action and is so situated that the disposition of the action may as a practical matter impair or impede the ability to protect that interest, unless the applicant's interest is adequately represented by existing parties."

Tax Court determined that Zeta lacked standing to intervene and the motion was denied. As of the appeal deadlines Zeta was not a taxpayer within the meaning of the appeal statute, had no interest in the subject property and no obligation to pay property taxes assessed to the property. Zeta contended such denial violated its constitutional right to protect and assert its interest in the property. The contention has no merit. When the requirements of due process were satisfied regarding a prior property owner then due process was satisfied as to a successor in title. Zeta's failure to include provisions in the Contract of Sale requiring its consent to the resolution of any tax appeal to protect its interest cannot be remedied by intervening in Mobil's appeal.

Additionally, the Court offered an analysis on other legal issues concerning Zeta's motion, specifically the statute of limitations for property tax appeals and the application's compliance with the four criteria to satisfy R. 4.33.1.

Local Assessor's C.T.A. Suspended – N.J. Division of Taxation, Petitioner v. David M. Gill, Respondent, decided December 9, 1996; Director's Hearing; Richard D. Gardiner, Director, Division of Taxation.

David M. Gill, certified tax assessor in Milford, West Amwell, Belvidere, Frelinghuysen, Hardwick and Pahaquarry, recently had his Tax Assessor's Certificate suspended pursuant to N.J.S.A. 54:1-35.29 for not filing N.J. Gross Income Tax Returns for 1988, 1989, 1990, 1993, 1994 and 1995.

N.J.S.A. 54:1-35.29 authorizes the Director to revoke or suspend any Tax Assessor Certificate for "dishonest practices, or willful or intentional failure, neglect or refusal to comply with the constitution and laws relating to the assessment and collection of taxes, or other good cause."

Failing to file State income tax returns is a disorderly persons offense under N.J.S.A. 54:52-6a if failure was reckless or negligent, or a crime of the third degree under N.J.S.A. 54:52-8 if the intent was to "defraud the State or to evade, avoid or otherwise not make timely payment of any tax...."

Investigation by the Division's Internal Security Unit resulted in Gill's submitting delinquent NJ-1040 returns in September 1996 including $1,270.12 in gross income tax payments. However, after review by the Gross Income Tax Audit Branch, Gill was assessed an additional $2,939.39 in tax, penalty and interest. The Internal Security Unit's review of the records as well as Gill's own testimony evidenced no previous requests for filing extension, mitigating circumstances or attempted compliance. In imposing the suspension, Director Gardiner exhorted that this be a warning to all holders of Tax Assessor Certificates to conduct their professional and personal tax matters so as to promote public confidence in the integrity of the tax system.

Omitted Added & Omitted Assessments Denied – 200 43rd Street, L.L.C., Plaintiff v. Union City, Defendant decided October 18, 1996; Tax Court of New Jersey; Docket Nos. 1021-96, 1019-96.

Taxpayer appealed Hudson County Tax Board's judgments for a 1994 omitted added assessment and a 1995 omitted assessment on a 24-unit residential condominium to the New Jersey Tax Court. The omitted assessment and the added assessment procedures, N.J.S.A. 54:4-63.31 & .12 et seq. and N.J.S.A. 54:4-63.1 et seq., allow for the taxing of property omitted from assessment through oversight and of property newly constructed or which loses exemption after October 1, respectively. Union City's assessor had valued the land at $237,500 for 1992 but had given the improvements zero value because a DEP moratorium on sewer connections for new construction had prevented completion of the living units and issuance of the certificate of occupancy. The '92 land and improvement values remained in place for tax years 1993-1995.

In January 1994, the sewer moratorium ended and in October 1995 the assessor made omitted added assessments for the improvements for 1994 and 1995. A certificate of occupancy was issued in March 1996 indicating that the property was considered substantially ready for its intended use. When the taxing district acknowledged that added assessments were improper as no additions were made to the property in 1994 and 1995 only their standing as omitted assessments was reviewed by the Tax Court.

Canceling the omitted/added assessments for '94 and '95, the Tax Court held that omitted assessment procedures may not be used to correct errors in assessors' value determinations, nor to increase value because the basis of the prior assessment no longer existed. Although Union City's assessor could have partially valued the incomplete improvement and then made an added assessment when substantially completed, he decided to assign zero value to the buildings due to the sewer ban. The assessor's nonassessment of the improvements was not oversight but a deliberate judgment that they had no value.

Sales And Use Tax Nonresident's Exemption on Purchase of Motor Vehicle – Furmato v. Division of Taxation, decided July 24, 1996; Tax Court of New Jersey; Docket No. 7210-94.

At issue was whether the purchaser of a motor vehicle in New Jersey was entitled to an exemption from sales tax as a nonresident of this State.

At the time of the purchase in 1993, Furmato certified that he was a nonresident, and therefore the dealer did not charge him sales tax on the automobile. The Division later assessed sales tax, based on its determination that Furmato was a resident.

Furmato, who had been a resident of New Jersey for many years, had moved to Florida in 1990. However, he and his wife returned to the State each year since then, living for approximately five months every year in a house that had been in the wife's family for many years, which had become hers some time before Mr. Furmato's purchase of the automobile, and which the two of them furnished and maintained jointly. Mr. Furmato had a telephone listing at the New Jersey location and received mail there, and he and his wife had a checking account at a New Jersey financial institution.

The Tax Court strictly construed the sales tax exemption for purchases of motor vehicles by nonresidents provided by N.J.S.A. 54:32B-10(a), and determined that Furmato did not qualify as a "nonresident," as defined by the administrative regulation, N.J.A.C. 18:24-7.8(b)(1), clarifying the scope of the statutory exemption. The regulation makes it clear that the buyer of a motor vehicle is a "resident" if he "maintains a place of abode in New Jersey...other than a temporary or transient basis." The Court found that, because Furmato had been returning to New Jersey to spend several months at the house every year since 1990, his maintenance of the place of abode in this State was more than just temporary or transient.

The Court also pointed out that the fact that Furmato had paid use tax on the car to Florida did not alter his liability for sales tax to New Jersey. Once he paid the sales tax properly due to New Jersey, he would be able to present docu-

Mandatory Employer Trip Reduction Programs Repealed — P.L. 1996, c.121 (signed into law on November 1, 1996) repeals mandatory employer trip reduction programs and authorizes tax benefits for voluntary programs. The tax benefit provisions are set forth in Sections 6 and 7 of the Act.

Section 6 amends C.27:26A-15 which allows employers a credit based upon the cost of "commuter transportation benefits" provided to employees. In general, the credit allowed is equal to 10% of the cost of such benefits, but not in excess of a per employee limit determined by multiplying $100 by the number of employees participating in alternative means of commuting to work.

However, under this legislation, an employer which filed a certified compliance plan with the Department of Transportation required by Section 5 of P.L. 1992, c.32 (C.27:26A-5) on or before May 31, 1996, will be allowed a credit equal to 15% of the commuter transportation cost subject to a per employee limit of $150. This one-time increase applies to accounting periods that end on or after July 31, 1996, but not later than June 30, 1997.

Section 7 amends C.54A:6-23 of the Gross Income Tax Act by increasing the exclusion for employer-provided commuter transportation benefits from $720 to $1,000 for tax years beginning on and after January 1, 1997. (The Director is required to annually adjust the limit based upon the change in the average consumer price index for all urban consumers in the New York, Northeastern New Jersey and the Philadelphia areas.)

The legislation also extends the expiration date of the employer credits from accounting periods ending on December 31, 2004 to accounting periods ending on December 31, 2007. This legislation is effective immediately.

Municipal Landfill Site Closure, Remediation and Redevelopment Act — P.L. 1996, c.124 (signed into law on November 6, 1996) provides for the remediation and redevelopment of municipal solid waste landfill sites under the terms and conditions of a redevelopment agreement negotiated by a developer and the State.

Under a redevelopment agreement, an eligible developer who closes and remediates the municipal solid waste landfill would be eligible for reimbursement of 75 percent of the costs of closure and remediation of the municipal solid waste landfill after the site is redeveloped, from payments derived from one half of the sales tax collected on non-exempt sales generated from any business located on the site.

To receive the reimbursement, a developer must submit an application, in writing, to the Director of the Division of Taxation for review and certification after the project is complete. The Director must review the request for certification on a timely basis. The Director is required to certify a developer to be eligible for the reimbursement if: (1) a place of business is located in the area subject to the redevelopment agreement for the purpose of making retail sales; (2) non-exempt items are regularly exhibited and offered for retail sale at that location; (3) the place of business is not utilized primarily for the purpose of catalog or mail order sales; and (4) the developer has entered into a memorandum of agreement with the Commissioner of Environmental Protection for the sound and proper closure and remediation of the municipal solid waste landfill located on the site of the redevelopment project and is in compliance with the memorandum of agreement.

The Act creates in the Department of Treasury a special fund to be known as the Municipal Landfill Closure and Remediation Fund and provides that upon approval of the certification for reimbursement by the Director, a special account be created for that developer. This legislation is effective immediately.

Resolution to Fund Environmental Remediation Activities — Public Question No. 2 (approved by the voters on November 5, 1996) amends Article VIII, Section II, of the State Constitution to provide that an amount equivalent to 4% of the revenue annually derived from the Corporation Business Tax, or any other State law of similar effect, be deposited in a special account which could be appropriated by the Legislature only for the following purposes and in the following manner:

- (1) a minimum of one-half for funding the costs incurred by the State relating to hazardous discharge remediations;
- (2) a minimum of one-third, dedicated until December 31, 2008, for funding or financing loans and grants for underground storage tank upgrades, replacements, closures and remediations; and

- (3) a minimum of one-sixth, or a minimum of $5 million, whichever is less, for funding costs related to water quality monitoring, watershed planning, and nonpoint source water pollution prevention.

NJ TeleFiling By Practitioners

You can TeleFile a New Jersey income tax return for your client provided you have and maintain a Power of Attorney Form for that taxpayer in your file.

If you use your power of attorney to TeleFile for a client, enter the information from the TeleFile worksheet as prompted by the system. At the voice signature prompt, speak the taxpayer's name, state that you have power of attorney for the taxpayer, then give your name and Federal ID#.

As with any TeleFile return, the TeleFile worksheet (with confirmation number provided by the TeleFile system included) becomes the taxpayer's proof of filing.

TeleFile Program Expands

As part of the Division of Taxation's ongoing efforts to modernize and streamline the tax filing process, the TeleFile program will be expanded Statewide in the 1996 tax season. This expansion will allow more than 1 million residents across the State to file their 1996 New Jersey income tax return by Touch-tone telephone. These residents will be mailed NJ TeleFile packets (in lieu of traditional NJ-1040 packets) in early January 1997.

TeleFile offers New Jersey residents the fastest, easiest and most convenient method of filing their State tax return. The TeleFile process consists of completing a brief worksheet and making a short phone call. The call can be made from any Touch-tone phone within the State, at any time of day. Best of all, the Division of Taxation will mail refund checks for TeleFile returns within two weeks!

Taxpayers will "sign" their return by providing a voice signature (i.e., speak their name and social security number). In addition, the acquisition of new technology will allow NJ TeleFile to accept returns from eligible taxpayers who moved since filing their 1995 New Jersey tax return. These taxpayers will provide their new address during their TeleFile call.

The 1996 TeleFile season will begin on Wednesday, January 15, 1997 and continue through Tuesday, April 15, 1997. NJ TeleFile will accept returns 24 hours a day during the filing season.

Any taxpayer who does not receive an NJ TeleFile packet may call NJ TeleFile at 888-235-FILE (toll-free), beginning on January 15, 1997, and find out if he/ she is eligible to TeleFile. Eligible callers will be mailed an NJ TeleFile packet upon request. For more information about NJ TeleFile, call the Tax Hotline at 609-588-2200. □

Cooperative Agreement on Domicile

Eleven northeastern states and the District of Columbia have ratified a cooperative agreement concerning the determination of an individual's domicile and/or residency and the multiple taxation of income that often results from conflicting determinations by the various states.

The historic agreement was signed by officials of the 12-member North Eastern States Tax Officials Association (NESTOA) at the group's annual meeting in Newport, Rhode Island.

The accord addresses the problem of the multiple taxation of individuals who are deemed to be domiciliaries of more than one state, and of individuals who are determined to be domiciliaries of one state and statutory residents of another state.

"The basic cause of these problems and disputes over the years has been the fact that different states in the region use different methods and criteria to determine where a person lives for the purposes of taxation," said Richard D. Gardiner, the Director of the New Jersey Division of Taxation and the current president of NESTOA.

"It's often a very subjective judgment call on the part of state tax agencies, and because each state involved makes its own determination, people often end up paying taxes on the exact same income to two or three different states, often without receiving any offset credits from any of them.

"With this historic multi-state agreement, that should change here in the northeast, and that will be good news for many taxpayers," Gardiner said.

He said the NESTOA members, recognizing both the unfairness of the current situation to individuals and the tax compliance problems it generates, have joined together to formulate a solution which benefits both the individuals and the states.

The NESTOA agreement promotes uniformity among states in terms of tax policy relating to these individuals, and was predicated on three basic goals:

- That individuals should only be deemed to be a domiciliary of one state for any given period;
- That criteria used by the states in determining an individual's domicile should be as uniform as possible; and
- That uniform sourcing rules should be applied by the states to reduce or eliminate multiple state taxation of the same income.

Under the accord, the tax administrators have agreed to incorporate the following concepts in their tax policy relating to affected individuals:

- Apply uniform primary criteria for determining a taxpayer's domicile or residency.
- Implement an informal appeals process which would be available to taxpayers involved in a domicile dispute with multiple member states.
- Apply uniform rules in the sourcing of income and the calculation of credits for taxes paid to other states.

- Establish a system of intrastate sharing of data and compliance techniques in the area of domicile and statutory residencies.
- Publish an informational pamphlet outlining the agreement and contact persons in each state's tax administration agency.

In states in which tax statutes and regulations do not currently permit the adoption of such methods, the tax administrators have agreed to make every reasonable attempt to encourage the necessary legislative or regulatory changes to permit the implementation of the agreement.

The NESTOA member states believe that this agreement addresses a long-standing problem recognized by both taxpayers and the states, and provides for an equitable solution for both, Gardiner said.

NESTOA includes the states of Maine, New Hampshire, Vermont, Massachusetts, Connecticut, Rhode Island, New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Delaware and Maryland and the District of Columbia. □

Attempt to Bribe Division Auditor

As a result of a criminal investigation undertaken jointly by the Division of Taxation and the Division of Criminal Justice, a Newark tavern owner has been charged with two counts of attempted bribery in connection with a liquor audit of his business.

The tavern owner, Benjamin Hernandez, was arraigned in Superior Court in Essex County on September 24. He was released on his own recognizance, pending action by a State grand jury.

Richard D. Gardiner, Director of the Division of Taxation, explained that on August 29, an auditor assigned to the Division's Field Audit Branch in Elizabeth was conducting an audit at Benji's Place at 439 Central Avenue in Newark as part of the Division's on-going review of liquor licensees throughout the State.

The auditor reported that Hernandez, the owner of the tavern, attempted to give him a $100 bill. The auditor reported that he told Hernandez he would not take the money, left the bar, and reported the incident to his supervisor.

The Division of Taxation's Internal Security Unit and the Division of Criminal Justice's Corruption Bureau were notified and cooperatively began an investigation.

The following week, at the direction of investigators, the auditor met with Hernandez and accepted $1,000 in cash as the first installment of a $2,000 payment to reduce the tax liability. On September 20, the two met again and Hernandez paid the additional $1,000. He was then arrested.

Gardiner commended the two investigative units and the auditor on their efforts. "This incident reinforces the message that the Division takes these matters very seriously. I'm very proud of the auditor, who did exactly what he was trained to do, and of the investigators who did an excellent job," he said. □

GROSS INCOME TAX Property Tax Deduction/Credit Calculation

Beginning with tax year 1996, eligible homeowners and tenants who pay property taxes, either directly or through rent, are entitled to either a deduction or a credit on their State income tax return. For the 1996 tax year, eligible residents may deduct 50% of their first $5,000 of property taxes due and paid or $2,500, whichever is less. For tenants, 18% of rent paid during the year is considered property taxes paid. As a minimum benefit to taxpayers, the law provides for a refundable credit of $25.

To be eligible for the property tax deduction or credit:

1. You must have been domiciled and maintained a principal residence as a homeowner or tenant in New Jersey during 1996; and
2. Your principal residence, whether owned or rented, must be subject to local property

Gardiner Elected NESTOA President

On October 2, 1996, at the 18th Annual Conference of the North Eastern States Tax Officials Association (NESTOA) in Newport, Rhode Island, the Board of Commissioners elected New Jersey Tax Director Richard D. Gardiner as President of the Association for the coming year.

taxes, and property taxes must have been paid on that residence either as actual property taxes or through rent; and

- 3. Your rented dwelling must have its own separate kitchen and bath facilities; and
- 4. Your gross income during 1996 must be more than $7,500 ($3,750 if your filing status is married, filing separate return) or you or your spouse were 65 years of age or older or blind or disabled at the end of the tax year.

To determine the amount of your property tax deduction and whether you will receive a greater tax benefit by claiming the property tax deduction or taking the $25 credit, you should complete Schedule 1 (on Page 3 of Form NJ-1040) unless you claim credit for taxes paid to another jurisdiction. See Example 1 below. If you claim credit for taxes paid to another jurisdiction, complete Schedule A and Worksheet F to make that determination.

Taxpayers who claim a credit for taxes paid to another jurisdiction will complete the newly revised Schedule A to determine the amount of that credit. By utilizing two columns, A and B, the new Schedule A permits taxpayers to calculate a credit for taxes paid to another jurisdiction both with a property tax deduction and also without a property tax deduction. After completing Schedule A, Worksheet F must be completed to determine whether taxpayers will Instructions for completing the new schedules and worksheet are contained in the 1996 New Jersey Resident Income Tax Return Instruction Booklet, Form NJ-1040-P.

Eligible taxpayers or their spouses who are 65 years of age or older or blind or disabled at the end of the tax year, and who are not required to file Form NJ-1040 because gross income is $7,500 or less ($3,750 if your filing status is married, filing separate return), are entitled to a property tax credit in the amount of $25 ($12.50 if your filing status is married, filing separate return). These taxpayers should file a completed Homestead Property Tax Rebate Application, Form HR-1040, and the credit will automatically be sent with their homestead rebate check. □

GROSS INCOME TAX
Nonresident
Composite Return

Proposed regulations eliminate the need for certain nonresidents to file an individual New Jersey nonresident income tax return (Form NJ-1040NR) by offering them the option of filing a Nonresident Composite Return (Form NJ-1080-C). The regulations permit nonresident individual members of professional athletic teams, general partnerships, limited liability partnerships, limited liability companies, New Jersey electing S corporations, and estates and trusts to participate in a composite return.

Under the proposed regulations, beginning with tax year 1996, any of the above entities doing business, conducting activities in New Jersey or having income from or connected with sources within New Jersey may file a composite return on behalf of its qualified nonresident individual members. A nonresident may participate in more than one New Jersey composite return provided they meet the requirements for qualified nonresidents listed below. Nonresidents who are not eligible to participate in the composite return must continue to file a Form NJ-1040NR.

The filing of a composite return will be considered a group of separate returns meeting the individual filing requirements for each qualified electing nonresident participant as required by the New Jersey Gross Income Tax Act. However, the Director reserves the right to require the filing of an NJ-1040NR by any individual who participates in a composite return.

To qualify, a nonresident must elect to participate in the composite return and satisfy all of the following conditions: the participant must be a nonresident for the entire taxable year; maintain a permanent place of abode outside New Jersey for the entire tax year; file on a calendar year basis (January 1 – December 31); not have New Jersey source income other than what is reported on the NJ-1080-C; waive the right to claim any New Jersey personal exemption, credit or deduction and agree to have the tax calculated directly on this income at the highest tax rate in effect for single taxpayers (currently 6.37%); and complete and deliver to the filing entity Form NJ-1080-E (Election to Participate in a Composite Return) prior to the filing of the composite return.

Election to participate in a composite return must be made annually. This election is binding on the participant's heirs, representatives, assigns, successors, executors and administrators, and is an express consent to personal jurisdiction in New Jersey for New Jersey personal income tax purposes. In addition, the electing participant may not revoke an election to be included in the composite return or make an election to be included in the composite return after April 15 following the close of the tax year.

Written permission from the Division of Taxation to file a composite return will no longer be required. The NJ-1080-C is due on April 15 following the close of the tax year unless a valid extension of time to file is requested using Form NJ-630. An extension of time to file will be granted on a composite basis only. Extension requests must be filed under the filing entity's Federal identification number. Any composite return which is filed on behalf of 25 or more participants must be filed on diskette or by using magnetic media.

Each composite return must include each electing participant's name, social security number, address, share of income derived from or connected with New Jersey sources, gross income tax attributable to the participant's share of New Jersey source income, and a copy of the applicable schedule (NJK-1, NJ-K-1, K-1 or W-2). In addition, the return must include the name, address and social security number of all members who are not participating in the composite return. □

CORPORATION TAX S Corporation Reform

On August 20, 1996, the Small Business Job Protection Act of 1996 was signed into law by President Clinton. As a result of this legislation, several changes have been made to the rules which must be followed by S corporations. The majority of these changes apply to tax years beginning after December 31, 1996. Highlights of these changes are stated below.

The maximum number of eligible shareholders of an S corporation has been increased from 35 to 75. Also, a qualified retirement plan trust or 501(c)(3) charitable organization may be an S corporation shareholder.

After 1996, certain financial institutions may elect to become S corporations. An S corporation may now own a controlling interest in a C corporation; however, it may not file a consolidated return with its affiliates. Also, an S corporation may own 100% of the stock of a qualified S subsidiary.

For tax years beginning after December 31, 1996, basis adjustments for distributions during the year are made before applying the loss limitation for the year. Distributions reduce the adjusted basis for determining the allowable loss, but the loss does not reduce the adjusted basis for purposes of fixing the tax status of distributions.

Changes made to the Federal S legislation as a result of the Small Business Job Protection Act will impact New Jersey's tax treatment of S corporations for both Corporation Business Tax and Gross Income Tax purposes. Such changes are currently under review by the Division and as further information is developed, it will be published in subsequent issues of the New Jersey State Tax News. □

GROSS INCOME TAX Head of Household Filing Status

At N.J.S.A. 54A:8-3.1 subsec. b. and c., the law discusses taxpayers filing New Jersey returns with the same filing status as they do for their Federal returns. If no Federal return is filed, the New Jersey taxpayer would use the same filing status they would have used if they had filed a Federal return.

For the "head of household" filing status to be used on the Federal return, the individual must not "be married" at the year end, not be a "surviving spouse" and furnish, by more than 50%, the cost of maintaining his/her home as the principal place of abode for a dependent child, grandchild, or other dependent listed in the Internal Revenue Code, for more than 50% of the year.

In a discussion of "certain married individuals living apart," the Internal Revenue Code indicates that an individual shall be considered as "not married" if the taxpayer's spouse was not a member of the household during the last six months of the tax year.

If a taxpayer:

1. Did not file a joint return with their spouse;
2. Did maintain a home for more than half the year that was the principal residence for the qualifying dependent(s);
3. Did solely support the qualifying dependent(s), thus furnishing more than 50% of their support; and

4. Did not have the spouse living in the home during the last 6 months of the tax year;

the taxpayer qualifies to file the New Jersey return using the "head of household" filing status even though still married. □

GROSS INCOME TAX Estate or Trust Income

Taxpayers have inquired about the proper return line on which to report income from an estate or trust and proper calculation of the amount of income from the estate included on the line.

Some of the specifically enumerated items of taxable income indicated in the statute are not given separate lines on the NJ-1040 return. The "Other" line was provided for the reporting of:

1. Amounts received as Prizes and Awards.
2. Scholarships and Fellowships which are not excluded by statutory provisions.
3. Rental value of a residence paid by an employer to provide a home.
4. Income in Respect of a Decedent.
5. Net gains or income derived through Estates and Trusts.

All of the income amounts from each of the five above are added together and entered on the "Other" line of the return. If any of the five is a loss, the loss can not be used to reduce any other income which will be included in the "Other" line total or any other income line found on the rest of the return.

The taxpayer receiving income from an estate and/or trust will calculate the income to be included on his return by using the information on the Federal K-1 furnished to him as a beneficiary. The income reported from estates and/or trusts is a net figure derived from the items listed on the Federal K-1. Interest, dividends, capital gains, business or partnership income, etc. shown on the K-1 will be netted together before the income is reported as "Other" income.

If any individual had the right to receive income that a deceased person would have received had he lived, and the income was not included on the decedent's final return, the recipient must report the income on his own return as income in respect of a decedent, an inclusion on the "Other" line.

Instructions for the 1994 and 1995 NJ-1040 returns had instructed taxpayers to report the income from estates and/or trusts on multiple return lines. For 1996, the Form NJ-1040 instructions advise taxpayers to include the net income from estates and/or trusts as "Other" income. □

SALES AND USE TAX Agreement with U.S. Customs Service

The New Jersey Division of Taxation working in cooperation with the Federation of Tax Administrators has recently signed an information sharing agreement with the United States Custom Service. The Division receives a quarterly extract from the Custom Service's Automated Commercial System providing information on goods entering the United States where the final destination is New Jersey.

This data will be used to identify unpaid sales, use and excise taxes and to identify individuals and businesses who are doing business in New Jersey and should be on our tax rolls remitting income taxes.

The Division has already tested the validity of the provided information by identifying and assessing the tax due from individuals who have incurred and did not voluntarily remit their use tax liability on property purchased overseas. Currently, the Division's Revenue Project Group is expanding its efforts from testing to full utilization of the exchanged information. □

SALES AND USE TAX

Telephone Answering Service

On July 1, 1990, telecommunication services became subject to New Jersey sales and use tax. Telecommunications is defined in the law as "the act or privilege of originating or receiving messages or information through the use of any kind of one-way or two-way communication, including but not limited to: voice, video..." N.J.S.A. 54:32B(cc). (Emphasis added.) This definition was included in a Special Notice to registered vendors which was sent in July 1990.

The Division has consistently held that telephone answering services are included within the definition of telecommunications and thus, are subject to tax under N.J.S.A. 54:32B-3(f). See P.L. 1990, c.40. Only telecommunication services rendered with respect to a service address in New Jersey are taxed.

For example, sales tax is not imposed on receipts from telephone answering services for a telephone located in another state. □

INHERITANCE/ESTATE TAX
Nonresident Ratio Tax

As noted by the article entitled Nonresident Inheritance Tax in the Winter 1995 issue, if the estate of a nonresident decedent is subject to the nonresident ratio tax, the representatives have the choice of two methods of reporting the estate and computing the tax. An estate is subject to the ratio tax if it contains New Jersey real or tangible personal property passing by will, trust agreement or intestate law, with the exception of property that is specifically devised. The two ratio methods available to the estate are the "flat tax affidavit" ratio method and the "full disclosure" ratio method.

Under either method, the amount of tax due is computed by multiplying the amount of tax that would be assessed, had the decedent been a New Jersey resident and all of his property was located here, by the "ratio" that the New Jersey taxable property bears to the total estate, thus, the State of New Jersey receives a percentage of the tax that a resident return would generate. The difference between the two methods is that under the "flat tax affidavit" method the elements of the equation are based on the gross estate while under the "full disclosure" method they are based on the net estate.

If the "flat tax affidavit" method is elected, the estate is reported by means of an affidavit complemented by the first page (IT-NR Page 1) of the Inheritance Tax Non-Resident Return. Because this method is based upon the decedent's gross estate, there is no necessity to report debts and expenses nor are they allowed. Statutory rates and exemptions are utilized in computing the "Tax on Entire Estate" element of the equation, however. The elements of the "ratio" are the gross New Jersey estate (numerator) and the gross entire estate (denominator). The equation for this method is as follows:

When utilizing the "flat tax affidavit" method only the New Jersey taxable property, net of
liens, need be disclosed in detail. While the total value of the gross estate wherever situate must be disclosed, the advantage to using this method is that the individual nonresident ratio tax - from pg. 9

assets comprising the gross estate need not be itemized and consequently, the cost of preparing this form of return will be less than the alternative "full disclosure" method.

In contrast, the "full disclosure" method requires a detailed disclosure of all of the estate's assets, debts, and expenses. The estate is reported on Form IT-NR, Inheritance Tax Non-Resident Return, and itemized in the applicable schedules. The difference between this method and the "flat tax affidavit" method is that all of the allowable debts and expenses, wherever incurred, are deductible in computing the net estate wherever situate upon which the "Tax on Net Estate" element of the equation is computed. The net estate wherever situate is the denominator element of the "ratio" under the "full disclosure" method.

Some expenses are particularly important in reducing the estate's tax liability under the "full disclosure" method, specifically, counsel fees, executor's or administrator's commissions, and administrative expenses. These expenses are prorated and deducted directly from the New Jersey taxable property. The amount of these directly deductible expenses is determined according to the proportion that the gross New Jersey property bears to the entire gross estate. Subtracting this prorated share results in the net New Jersey element (numerator) of the "ratio." The "full disclosure" method usually results in a lesser tax than the "flat tax affidavit" method. The equation for this method is as follows:

$$\frac{\text{NJ Real and Tangible Personal Property}}{\text{Net Estate}} \times \frac{\text{Tax on Net Estate}}{\text{Estate}} = \text{Tax Due}$$

Certain characteristics of an estate will favor the choice of the "full disclosure" method over the "flat-tax affidavit" method. Generally, for those estates in which the New Jersey taxable property constitutes a relatively large percentage of the total value of the estate, the "full disclosure" method is indicated. The "full disclosure" method is also generally indicated for those estates with relatively large debts and expenses; especially those proratable expenses discussed above. Any tax savings to be realized by using the "full disclosure" method may then be weighed against the additional expense of preparing that form of return as the criterion for selecting either method.

The worksheets provided with the Form IT-NR booklet can be used to compute the tax under both methods. Each worksheet eliminates the need to complete a return prior to figuring the tax for that particular method. The use of said worksheets enables the estate representatives to determine rather quickly which method better suits their situation.

As noted in the first paragraph, there is an exception to the ratio tax method of filing — that exception being New Jersey real and tangible personal property which is specifically devised. The method used in computing the tax under this situation is the "direct tax" method. The tax is computed only on the asset specifically devised, not on the entire or net estates as was done in the other methods. There are no ratios or formulas involved. The tax arrived at for each asset so devised is the amount due the State of New Jersey. For example, the tax on a parcel of real estate, with a fair market value of $100,000 after mortgages and liens, specifically devised to a brother (Class "C" beneficiary) of the decedent, is determined as follows:

$ 100,000	Value of Devise
- 25,000	Class "C" Exemption
75,000	Taxable Amount
x 11%	Tax Rate for Class "C" Beneficiaries
$ 8,250	Tax Due the State of New Jersey

In addition to specifically devised property, New Jersey real or tangible personal property which passes to a surviving joint tenant, transfers made in contemplation of death within three years of decedent's death and transfers intended to take effect at or after death are taxed under the "direct tax" method. □

CONFERENCE AND APPEALS
Samuel Sciarrotta
Retires

Samuel P. Sciarrotta, Chief of the Conference and Appeals Branch, Technical Services, retired on November 30, 1996 with over 31 years of State service. Beginning with his initial assignment with Inheritance Tax in 1965 through his appointment to Chief of the Conference and Appeals Branch in 1991, Sam served the Division in many capacities. He supervised a number of teams including the first Income Tax Hotline. Sam was Assistant Chief of both the Office Audit and Audit Adjustment Branches and Chief of the Office Audit and Field Audit Branches prior to heading the Conferences and Appeals Branch.

Sam has been instrumental in many important initiatives in the Division. Congratulations to Sam and good luck to him and his family. □

Audits Yield Over
$400,000

Municipalities throughout New Jersey were audited by Property Administration field representatives for compliance with the $50 Veterans' Property Tax Deduction (N.J.S.A. 54:4-8.10) and the $250 Senior Citizens, Disabled Persons, and Surviving Spouses Real Property Tax Deduction (N.J.S.A. 54:4-8.40) Programs.

Full reimbursement for these property tax deductions is made to the municipalities every year by the State via revenue sharing. In 1996, a total of $36,036,483 was refunded to the local taxing districts for the senior citizens, disabled, and widows/widowers deductions and $18,076,310 was refunded for the veterans' deductions.

As a result of the recent audits, $408,995 was credited on the certification report submitted to the State Treasurer in September 1996. □

Changes to Mod IV Program

Revised Mod IV Programs were distributed to all State certified data processing centers in early October 1996 to accommodate changes resulting from P.L. 1991, c.441, Five-year Property Tax Exemption and Abatement Law.

Seven additional limited exemption and abatement codes and an audit trail program were created which required new data entry procedures and the deletion and reentry of all limited exemptions and abatements.

Mod IV changes have also been made to accommodate R.S.54:4-3.139, the Urban Enterprise Zone Residential Tax Abatement Law, and R.S. 54:4-3.150, the Environmental Opportunity Zone Act. □

F.E.A.C. Adopts
Values for 1997

The Farmland Evaluation Advisory Committee (F.E.A.C.) met on August 28, 1996 at the Philip Alampi Laboratory in West Trenton to adopt productivity assessment values for land receiving farmland assessment in 1997. The committee also adopted imputed grazing values in compliance with Chapter 276, P.L. 1995. The thirty-third Report of the Committee (showing the value ranges adopted) is mailed to municipal tax assessors and county boards of taxation by October 1 of each pretax year. Land qualifying for farmland assessment must be assessed in accordance with its agricultural or horticultural use rather than its true or market value.

The farmland productivity values adopted by the Committee for the 1997 tax year increased in 16 of the 20 counties where qualified farmland is located. Increases in cropland having a B soil group rating averaged from $20 to $40 per acre when compared to 1996 values. Overall net farm income of land in agricultural and horticultural use in New Jersey is estimated to have increased approximately 8.3% over the prior year. □

Although qualified acres increased by 14,565 acres over 1994, since 1983, (the year in which the highest acreage qualified) the amount of qualified farm acreage has declined 6.3% or a total of 80,002 acres.

24.80% of New Jersey's land mass is approved under the Farmland Assessment Act. Hudson County remains the only county without farmland. Essex and Union each report less than 500 acres devoted to agricultural or horticultural use. Conversely, Salem, with 57.2%, has the greatest proportion of its land qualified under the Act. Other counties with large percentages of qualified farmland are: Hunterdon, 53.3%; Warren, 50.5%; Gloucester, 39.7%; Sussex 35.3% and Mercer, 32.7%. □

LOCAL PROPERTY TAX Ivan Haftkowycz Retires

Congratulations to Ivan Haftkowycz, Chief of Engineering, Tax Maps/Railroad Section, Local Property Branch, Property Administration, who retired October 1, 1996 after more than 36 years of State service.

Ivan has worked extensively as an appraiser of railroad property and in the oversight of municipal tax maps for compliance with regulatory specifications and revaluation standards. Ivan's expertise in the area of mapping is acknowledged and over the years he has served on various tax map panels.

We extend our best wishes to Ivan and his family, for health and happiness now as he retires and for many years to come. □

Criminal Enforcement

Criminal Enforcement over the past several months included:

- William J. Becker of Haddonfield pled guilty in Superior Court on September 16, 1996 to two counts relating to income tax evasion. As a result of his filing a false and fraudulent 1990 NJ income tax return and failing to file a 1994 income tax return, Becker under reported tax in the amount of $3,175. The unreported income was derived from the sale of automobiles whose titles had been illegally obtained from his employer, a used car dealer in Pennsauken, New Jersey. Becker also pled guilty to one count of theft by deception, relating to his fraudulently obtaining the titles to the vehicles he sold. This case was investigated jointly by the Division's Office of Criminal Investigation and the Camden County Prosecutor's Office.
- On September 16, 1996 Christopher Grungo pled guilty in Mercer County Superior Court to one count of racketeering. The theft resulted from the failure to remit $158,843 of Petroleum Products Gross Receipts Tax which had been collected from customers buying diesel fuel between October 1992 through June 1993. Grungo established a business using the name of a fictitious person. He then collected the tax after purchasing the fuel from suppliers tax-free by using fraudulent documents.

On September 20, 1996, Grungo's niece, Brenda Grungo, a co-defendant, also pled guilty to the same charge. Of eight other co-defendants indicted with the Grungos, one has already pled guilty and seven are currently scheduled for trial. This case was investigated jointly by the Division's Office of Criminal Investigation and the Division of Criminal Justice-Environmental Crimes Bureau.

- The investment fraud trial of Michael Immordino began in Mercer County Superior Court on September 18, 1996. Immordino, who was previously indicted on multiple counts, including 10 counts for NJ income tax evasion, has now pled guilty. He operated numerous real estate corporations and used $2 million of investors' funds for his personal use. The case was developed through a joint investigation with the Mercer County Prosecutor's Office.
- A $50,000 partial payment was received from Larry Ansell and Michael Gohar, the president and former co-president of Emerald Hotels Management Co., Inc. for back taxes owed to the State. The pair originally owed approximately $1.14 million in taxes of which $450,000 had previously been paid. As part of the February 7, 1996 guilty plea, an additional $100,000 must be paid by the sentencing date on November 22, 1996. Additional information regarding this case may be found in the Summer and Fall 1996 issues of the New Jersey State Tax News.

- Afzal M. Sheikh, president of Ehsan Corp. which trades as Torelli's Deli & Liquors in Jersey City, New Jersey pled guilty in Hudson County Superior Court to one count of misapplication of entrusted property. Sheikh had collected $45,000 in sales tax between August 1990 and September 1994, on retail sales of alcoholic beverages and other items sold at the deli which he operated with his wife. He failed, however, to remit the tax to the Division.

As part of the plea agreement, Sheikh was to pay $22,500 in tax before his October 4, 1996 sentencing date and make restitution of the remaining tax plus penalty and interest during the period of his probation. A payment of $45,000 has been received and applied to the outstanding liability. Ehsan Corp. is also obligated to pay the State Division of Alcoholic Beverage Control a fine of up to 20% of the tax liability or $9,000. In return for this plea, the NJ Division of Criminal Justice has agreed not to seek incarceration of him nor to prosecute his wife in connection with this case.

- On July 24, 1996, Melvin Shaw pled guilty to failing to remit $36,000 of collected sales tax and to several counts of theft involving investment fraud. Shaw, who was doing business as Shaw Motor Sport, had been indicted on February 23, 1995. As part of the plea agreement, he will be sentenced to 10 years imprisonment, five years of which is for the tax count. The exact amount of the restitution will be determined prior to the October 11, 1996 sentencing date. The case was conducted with the Camden County Prosecutor's Office.

to eight counts of failing to file New Jersey income tax returns and pay tax on unreported income, was sentenced to seven years of imprisonment for embezzlement and four years of imprisonment for each tax count. The sentences on the tax counts are to run concurrent with the embezzlement charge. Szymanski will sign a consent judgment for $21,938, the amount of tax, penalty and interest owed at the time of sentencing. Restitution payments will begin after his release from prison.

- Fourteen guilty pleas were entered in municipal courts throughout the State during this period by individuals and businesses for noncompliance with the cigarette tax law. In four additional cases, businesses who pled not guilty to selling cigarettes without a license and possessing untaxed cigarettes were also found guilty. These 18 cases resulted in the imposition of fines and penalties totaling $20,172. A 1988 Chevrolet van valued at $7,000 and 3,426.1 cartons of seized cigarettes with a value of $61,675 were also awarded to the State.

In addition, charges were filed for violations including transporting untaxed cigarettes, selling cigarettes without a license, and failing to maintain records in municipal court for 14 cases. The value of the assets seized for these cases exceeded $59,750. □

Enforcement Summary

Civil Collection Actions Quarter Ending - September 30, 1996

Following is a summary of enforcement actions for the quarter ending September 30, 1996.

Certificates of Debt

During the quarter ended September 30, 1996, the Division filed 2,165 Certificates of Debt in New Jersey Superior Court. These COD's, which have the same force and effect as docketed judgments, totaled $26.3 million.

Levies

$170,504 was collected by levying against payments made under State contracts to satisfy debts owed by State vendors.

Jeopardy Assessments

When a vendor is found to have failed to register his or her business or failed to collect and remit sales taxes or file tax returns, the Division of Taxation has the authority to make an immediate, on-site assessment of tax due (referred to as a "jeopardy assessment") and may seize all available assets to satisfy the on-site tax assessment.

The Division makes jeopardy assessments when there is a danger that a non-compliant vendor will discontinue operations, remove his or her business property and flee the State. This remedy is often necessary in cases involving transient vendors, out-of-state businesses operating in New Jersey, or vendors operating from non-fixed locations, such as roadside sales, flea markets or trade shows.

If the liability is not resolved, the seized property can be sold at public auction and the proceeds used to satisfy the tax debt.

For the quarter ending September 30, 1996, $258,067 was collected from jeopardy assessments, and the assets of three businesses, including motor vehicles, were seized.

Seizures

When a liability, for which the Division of Taxation has secured judgments, cannot or will not be satisfied by a taxpayer and all other means of collection of the debt have been exhausted, seizure of the business and personal assets will take place. Field Investigators will close a business, seizing any tangible assets including licenses, inventory, machinery, furniture, vehicles, etc., until arrangements are made for payment of the debt.

For the quarter ending September 30, 1996, property of 28 businesses was seized. Some businesses were able to reopen, others remain closed. A listing of these seizures appears on page 17.

Auctions

If the liability of a business seized by the Division is not satisfied or resolved, the business will remain closed. To satisfy the debt, the Division can sell the business assets at a public auction.

During the quarter ending September 30, 1996, six auctions were held by the Division. A listing follows on page 18.

In the event an auction does not net enough monies to resolve the debt, the Division will execute against the personal assets of any of the business's responsible officers. Responsible officers are held personally liable for the trust fund portion of the debt which includes,

but is not limited to, sales tax, withholding tax and motor fuels tax. □

Tax Briefs

Corporation Business Tax

Forgiveness of Debt — The Division received an inquiry regarding the forgiveness of corporation debt of a corporation that is an S corporation for Federal purposes and a regular corporation for New Jersey purposes. Since the Company was insolvent at the time of discharge, the amount of debt which would otherwise have been included in income was excluded for Federal purposes (IRC Section 108). Federal law also requires a reduction in certain tax attributes, in this case specifically the net operating loss. IRC section 108(b)(2)(A).

It is the position of the Division that income from cancellation of debt is excludable from New Jersey corporation business tax to the same extent that it is excludable for Federal purposes.

The New Jersey net operating loss deduction is calculated independently of the Federal tax attributes (N.J.S.A. 54:10A-4(k)(6)), and at the present time there is no provision to reduce tax attributes connected with discharge of indebtedness. Thus, New Jersey would not require the corporation to reduce New Jersey net operating loss with respect to discharge of indebtedness for corporation business tax purposes.

IC-DISC Unable to Elect New Jersey S Corporation Status —

The Division responded to an

inquiry as to whether an Interest Charge Domestic International Sales Corporation (IC-DISC) may make a valid election to become a New Jersey S corporation.

The New Jersey statutes provide that a "New Jersey S corporation" means a corporation that is an S corporation which made a valid election pursuant to N.J.S.A. 54:10A-5.22 and which has been an S corporation continuously since the effective date of the valid election made pursuant to N.J.S.A. 54:10A-5.22. (See N.J.S.A. 54A:5-10). "S corporation" means a corporation included in the definition of an "S corporation" pursuant to section 1361 of the Federal Internal Revenue Code of 1986, 26 U.S.C. §1361.

Under present law, a prerequisite for a taxpayer to be a New Jersey S corporation is that it also be a Federal S corporation at all times since the effective date of its valid election to be a New Jersey S corporation. Accordingly, under the statutory framework adopted in New Jersey an IC-DISC is unable to elect to be a New Jersey S corporation, since it is not a Federal S corporation.

New Jobs Investment Tax Credit

— Assume that a corporation having employees in New York and Philadelphia plans to relocate these employees to an office in New Jersey. Under the applicable statute a taxpayer that is not a small business must create 50 new jobs to get a credit of 0.5% of the amount of its qualified investment as a credit for Corporation Business Tax purposes. Thus, a $1.5 million investment would produce a credit of $7,500 against CBT liability.

Section 54:10A-5.5 of the New Jobs Investment Tax Credit Act provides that the term " 'New Employee' means an individual residing and domiciled in this State, hired by a taxpayer to fill a position or a job in this State which previously did not exist in the taxpayer's business enterprise in this State prior to the date on which the taxpayer's qualified investment is placed in service or use in this State provided that... c. the individual is not an individual who worked for the taxpayer during the six month period ending on the date the taxpayer's qualified investment is placed in service or use and is rehired by the taxpayer during the six month period beginning on the date the taxpayer's qualified investment is placed in service or use in this State;...."

Thus, to qualify, the new employee must be a domiciliary and resident of New Jersey hired to fill a new job in this State which did not exist prior to the qualified investment being made provided that the person was not an old employee who worked for the taxpayer less than six months before the qualified investment was made and was rehired during the six month period after the investment was made.

The question presented under this definition is whether an employee living in New Jersey who worked in Philadelphia for the taxpayer and was relocated to the taxpayer's new facility in New Brunswick would qualify as a "new employee" for purposes of the credit (The fact that the employee pays gross income tax to New Jersey under the Reciprocal Agreement on wages earned in Pennsylvania is not relevant legally or economically since the goal is economic growth rather than State revenue growth).

It is the position of the Division that this employee would not qualify because, although the employee is a resident of New Jersey filling a job in this State which did not previously exist in the taxpayer's business enterprise in this State, the employee was already working for the employer and, therefore, was not "hired" (as the statute requires) to fill a job in this State.

New York State Surcharges —

The State of New Jersey calculates its corporate taxable income on entire net income allocated to the State. Entire net income for New Jersey purposes is defined as "total net income from all sources... deemed prima facie to be equal in amount to the taxable income, before net operating loss deduction and special deductions, which the taxpayer is required to report to the United States Treasury Department for the purpose of computing its Federal income tax...." N.J.S.A. 54:10A-4(k). This is summarized in the New Jersey regulations which state that the starting point for determining New Jersey entire net income is Federal taxable income, which is "taxable income before net operating loss deduction and special deductions...." N.J.A.C. 18:7-5.2(a).

Once Federal taxable income is determined, New Jersey requires that specific modifications be made to arrive at New Jersey entire net income. N.J.A.C. 18:7-5.2(a)(1) and (2).

One specific addition to Federal taxable income in determining New Jersey's taxable income is the addition of any taxes paid to individual states or the United States based on "or measured by profits or income, or business presence or business activity...." N.J.S.A. 54:10A-4(k)(2)(C); N.J.A.C. 18:7-5.2(a)(1)(i and iv). See also Instructions to the 1995 New Jersey Corporation Business Tax Return, Schedule A, Line 31.

The tax surcharge imposed under NY Law Section 209-A and the temporary metropolitan transportation business tax surcharge imposed by NY Law Section 209-B are to be considered taxes "on or measured by business presence or business activity" within the meaning of N.J.S.A. 54:10A-4(k)(2)(C) which was intended to be broadly applicable. Entire net income for New Jersey purposes shall therefore be determined without the exclusion, deduction or credit of such taxes and such taxes should, therefore, be added back if they had been taken in arriving at a deduction in Line 28, Schedule A. These taxes are substantially derivative from, and related to, the State income (or franchise) tax of New York and are considered to be measured by business presence or business activity in New York. It may be noted that such taxes would also be included in the credit calculation pursuant to N.J.A.C. 18:7-8.3 for income duplicated in another state, for example.

Gross Income Tax

Assignment of Lottery Winnings

— Lottery winnings from the New Jersey lottery are exempt from taxation under the Gross Income Tax Act. N.J.S.A. 54A:6-11. However, if a New Jersey lottery winner sells the right to collect the winnings, the money received from the assignee is not "lottery winnings" and is not deemed to be "from the New Jersey lottery." Therefore the proceeds from the assignment of the right to collect lottery winnings are not exempt under N.J.S.A. 54A:6-11.

The right to collect lottery winnings is an intangible asset. When a taxpayer sells this right, the payment is deemed to be income from the sale or disposition of intangible property, which is taxable pursuant to N.J.S.A. 54A:5-1(c).

Spousal Liability For Tax After Divorce

— Under New Jersey and Federal law, a divorce agreement, or any like contract, will not relieve a taxpayer from a tax obligation. According to both state and Federal law, when a husband and wife file a joint tax return, they are each jointly and severally liable for paying taxes due. N.J.S.A. 54A:8-4; 26 U.S.C. 6013(d)(3). This means that each spouse continues to be responsible for remittance of the entire tax until it is paid, regardless of any third party contracts or agreements entered into by either spouse. States cannot sustain the added responsibility of tracking and enforcing third party contracts in order to receive remittance of tax.

Pursuant to state and Federal statutes, case law and policy concerns on the issue, a divorce agreement and a tax obligation represent two distinct contracts or transactions. If called upon to pay a state and/or Federal tax balance due the spouse is liable to pay the tax and subsequently enforce his or her legal rights set forth by the divorce agreement and seek indemnity. In all, a divorce agreement does not discharge the obligation for remittance of either state or Federal taxes.

Local Property Tax

Mobile Home Service Fee

— Municipalities are authorized by N.J.S.A. 54:4-1.6 to impose an annual municipal service fee on manufactured homes installed in mobile home parks within their boundaries. There is an exemption from the fee for "trailers" provided at N.J.S.A. 54:4-1.8. Definitions for "manufactured home" and "trailer" are provided at N.J.S.A. 54:4-1.4d and m. The distinction of whether the home is a trailer or a manufactured home would therefore appear to be relevant to the determination of whether the home is subject to the fee.

There is no exemption from the municipal service fee of N.J.S.A. 54:4-1.6 for veterans. There is an exemption from real property taxation for property owned by veterans associations under N.J.S.A. 54:4-3.25, and veterans receive a deduction from property tax of $50.00 under N.J.S.A. 54:4-8.11.

Sales and Use Tax

American Indian Sales — The Division received an inquiry as to whether American Indians selling

taxable items at a "pow-pow" in New Jersey are exempt from collecting or paying New Jersey sales tax.

There is no automatic sales tax exemption for American Indians under the Sales and Use Tax Act. American Indian vendors from outside New Jersey who sell goods at the pow-pow are treated the same as any other vendors who come into New Jersey to sell at craft shows, seasonal carnivals and other special events. Similarly, shoppers at the pow-pow are subject to New Jersey sales tax on their purchases of taxable items, unless a specific statutory exemption applies (e.g. resale, exempt organization).

Based on Federal case law, however, a state may not enforce taxes whose legal incidence falls upon an Indian tribe itself or on enrolled members of a tribe purchasing items within the tribe's reservation land or other lands held in trust for the tribe. A state may nevertheless require American Indian vendors to collect and remit state sales tax on taxable sales to nonmembers of the tribe on Indian land, provided that the burdens of collection and remittance are not excessive. For example, when a festival and craft sale is held on the Rankokus Reservation in Burlington County, enrolled members of the Powhatan Renape Nation are exempt from sales tax on their purchases. However, outsiders and Indians who are not enrolled members of that tribe are subject to the tax. The State may require vendors at the festival (including tribe members) to collect and remit sales tax on their sales to all purchasers except enrolled members of the Powhatan Renape Nation. If the State does not require the Indian vendors to collect and remit tax, the non-exempt purchasers are nevertheless subject to the compensating use tax imposed by N.J.S.A. 54:32B-6 of the Sales and Use Tax Act.

Beauty Salon Sales — Charges for haircuts, relaxers, perms, texturizers, shampoo/blow dry/curl, coloring and eyebrow arching are exempt from sales tax as personal service transactions. N.J.S.A. 54:32B-2(e)(4)(A). The salon must pay sales or use tax on purchase of products, equipment and supplies used to perform these services. If the salon sells goods at retail, a Resale Certificate (Form ST-3) may be used to purchase such items, and tax must be collected at the retail sale level. All hair care products and supplies are subject to sales tax in New Jersey.

Hair Growth Product — The Division advised a taxpayer that the over-the-counter sale of Rogaine® is subject to sales tax. Rogaine® does not qualify as a drug because it is not sold for the relief of pain, ailments, distresses or disorders of the human body within the meaning of N.J.S.A. 54:32B-8.1. The law does not exempt items that are principally used for cosmetic purposes.

Hospital Cafeteria Sales — The sales and use tax regulations, at N.J.A.C. 18:24-12.6(b), provide as follows: "Sales of food, drink or service to employees through a cafeteria on an employer's premises are subject to the sales tax, except as provided in N.J.A.C. 18:24-14.3(a)6."

The exception provided in N.J.A.C. 18:24-14.3(a)6 is for "Meals sold in a cafeteria used exclusively by hospital employees." If a hospital cafeteria is open to the public, sales of food and drink to both hospital employees and visitors are subject to sales tax.

Military Motor Vehicle Sales — Military personnel who are residents of other states, but who are currently residing in New Jersey during military duty, are treated as residents for sales tax purposes when they purchase or register a motor vehicle here. N.J.A.C. 18:24-7.8(b)5. They are required to pay 6% sales tax when they purchase a vehicle from a dealer in New Jersey, or when they register a vehicle in New Jersey, after purchasing it under circumstances in which no New Jersey use tax was collected. (Note: These soldiers are treated as residents for sales tax purposes, even if they are nonresidents for income tax or other purposes.)

A New Jersey domiciliary living outside this State will be required to pay 6% use tax when he moves back to this State with a vehicle that was purchased elsewhere. The 6% tax must be paid when the vehicle is registered. If the returning resident used the vehicle elsewhere for more than six months, the 6% use tax should be calculated on the current fair market value of the vehicle, rather than on its original purchase price. If the vehicle is new (six months or less since purchase as new), the 6% tax is due on the purchase price. N.J.S.A. 54:32B-7(b)(1). This assumes that no sales or use tax was paid in the state of purchase without the right of credit or refund. New Jersey's credit for sales and use tax paid in another jurisdiction does not extend to foreign nations. N.J.S.A. 54:32B-11.

If a soldier who is not domiciled in New Jersey moves to New Jersey with a vehicle that he has already owned and used elsewhere, no sales tax will be due when he registers the vehicle in New Jersey. N.J.S.A. 54:32B-11. If that nondomiciliary purchased a car in a foreign country, had it titled and took possession of it there, and then has it shipped to his new home in New Jersey, he will not owe New Jersey sales tax on the car. However, if he purchased it in a foreign country, and has it shipped to the United States, where it is transported to a New Jersey dealer, who then has it titled in the soldier's name, then the purchase of the car is treated as a New Jersey transaction. The soldier will owe 6% New Jersey sales tax on the new car, as would any New Jersey resident. If the soldier is not going to be stationed in New Jersey or live here and is merely taking delivery of the vehicle in this State, he may qualify for exemption from tax under N.J.S.A. 54:32B-10 of the Sales and Use Tax Act.

Use Tax Notification — The Division of Taxation supports the efforts of a coalition of state and local government organizations and retail associations that recently filed a petition urging the Federal Trade Commission to use its rule-making authority to require direct marketing companies to disclose to consumers information relating to use tax obligations on interstate consumer purchases.

The practice of not informing consumers of their obligation to pay use taxes on out-of-state purchases creates problems for both consumers and the "main street" businesses located in our State. Under current law, out-of-state direct marketers that are not required to be registered as vendors with the New Jersey Division of Taxation are not collecting use taxes from New Jersey customers. Nevertheless, customers who take delivery of taxable merchandise in New Jersey remain personally obligated to pay use tax directly to the State. The direct marketers' failure to make their customers aware that they may be required to pay use taxes when they make mail-order purchases, or any suggestion by direct marketers that there is no tax required on these purchases, reflects poor business judgment and confuses consumers.

When a consumer fails to pay use tax on mail order purchases, the Division of Taxation will later assess the consumer for these taxes, and will also impose interest and penalty charges. For many consumers, this creates an unanticipated financial burden, as well as personal embarrassment. It also makes them angry that the tax was not collected at the point of sale.

Especially in the case of major purchases, the direct marketer may undermine consumers' "good will."

Some consumers' belief that there is no tax obligation on mail-order purchases creates an unfair competitive advantage for out-of-state retailers. Consumers incorrectly assume that prices charged by out-of-state marketers are lower than those charged by local, "main street" retailers, who are required by law to collect and remit the sales tax. This gives consumers an incentive to favor out-of-state retailers over local retailers when making purchasing decisions. When local retailers lose business to direct marketers because of unfair competition, local retailing suffers and local employment declines. The erosion of this vital business sector and the ensuing job losses undermine economic development in our State.

The New Jersey Division of Taxation is unable to compel firms that do not have "nexus" with New Jersey to collect and remit these legally owed taxes. It is estimated that the avoidance of sales tax collection by out-of-state mail-order companies is costing the State approximately $150,000,000 in lost revenues each year. Our inability to collect these sales taxes deprives our state government of revenues that would otherwise serve public purposes.

Direct marketing companies should be prevented from confusing the public about customers' obligation to pay use tax on their purchases. In order to achieve these results, we agree with the filers of the petition that any company which does not collect taxes on sales to out-of-state customers should be required to provide a written disclosure that such taxes exist and that consumers may be personally required under their state law to pay these taxes to their state governments. □

In Our Courts

Corporation Business Tax

Subsidiary's Gain Subject to Tax
– General Building Products Corporation, Successor by Merger to Dee Wood Industries, Inc. v. Director, Division of Taxation, 15 N.J. Tax 213 (App. Div. 1995).

The Appellate Court affirmed the Tax Court decision that a subsidiary's gain is taxable under the Corporation Business Tax Act. Corporation A sold all of the stock of its New Jersey subsidiary to plaintiff for $16,800,000 and made a Federal IRC §338(h)(10) election to avoid double taxation on the merger. By making the §338(h)(10) election, Company A's sale of the subsidiary stock is treated as if the subsidiary sold the stock directly to the buyer. This effectively allows the subsidiary to recognize the appreciation of its assets and pay taxes on the appreciation, while Company A transfers the stock to the buyer but does not recognize any gain in doing so. Company A and the subsidiary file for a "short year" which ends on the selling date.

New Jersey, however, does not recognize consolidated returns under the Corporation Business Tax Act, and pursuant to N.J.A.C. §18:7-11.15(b), those who file a consolidated return under Federal law are required to file in New Jersey as if their Federal return had been a separate return. The appellant raises on appeal that N.J.A.C. §18:7-11.15(d) and (e) which recognize an I.R.C.

§338(h)(10) election are inconsistent with N.J.S.A. 54:10A-4k.

The Appellate Division affirmed the judgement of the Tax Court substantially for the reason set forth in Judge Rimm's published opinion reported at 14 N.J. Tax 232 (Tax Ct. 1994).

Note: The Division's administrative regulations dealing with non-recognition of gain by a selling parent in an I.R.C. §338(h)(10) transaction have been updated. See adoption notice at 28 N.J.R. 3810 (August 5, 1996) and summary of proposed change at 28 N.J.R. 2515 (May 20, 1996). As noted in the Register, the change has no effect upon the treatment of the tax return of the target in an I.R.C. §338(h)(10) transaction. The regulation applicable to the target was upheld in the General Building opinion.

Inheritance/Estate Tax

Timely Filing of Complaint – Gifford v. Director, Div. of Taxation, 15 N.J. Tax 51 (Tax Court, decided June 7, 1995).

This is the first case that has come before the Tax Court regarding the timely filing of a complaint arguing against an assessment of a transfer inheritance tax. Under N.J.S.A. 54:34-1 (transfers taxable) and N.J.S.A. 54:34-2 (rates of taxation) a transfer inheritance tax was imposed following the receipt of a U.S. Gift Tax Return. The return showed that decedent, plaintiff's father, transferred 10,000 shares of stock to plaintiff and her husband.

On March 5, 1992, the Transfer Inheritance Tax Branch notified plaintiff that, in addition to the tax itself, plaintiff had 90 days to file a protest or request a hearing in accordance with N.J.A.C. 18:26-12.9. Plaintiff didn't file a formal complaint until May 17, 1994, over two years and several correspondences later. The Division moved to have the complaint dismissed.

Before the Tax Court, plaintiff argued that the 90 day period should not have started on March 5, 1992 but on March 14, 1994. Plaintiff contended that the initial letter sent by the Division did not inform plaintiff that the tax assessment was a final decision. The taxpayer was led to believe, the plaintiff reasoned, that the matter would remain open until additional information was obtained by the Division.

Plaintiff also argued that under N.J.S.A. 54:35-10, she had three years from the date of the payment of the tax to file a refund claim.

The Tax Court rejected plaintiff's arguments and dismissed the complaint. Citing N.J.S.A. 54:51A-18, the Court pointed out the express authorization for the Division to calculate the limitation period. By this, the Court determined that the time for appeal expired on June 6, 1992. The Tax Court said that the Director's assessment became a final determination once the 90 day protest period had passed. The Court warned that otherwise, by plaintiff's argument, a taxpayer could control the appeal time, which would then frustrate the legislative purpose of any statute of limitations.

The Court said in response to plaintiff's second argument that N.J.S.A. 54:35-10 is a refund statute which only applies when taxes are miscalculated by the taxpayer. The Court reasoned that a longer time period to request a refund is justified for it would naturally take longer for a taxpayer to realize his or her own miscalculations.

Business Retention Act – General Motors Corporation v. City of Linden, Docket Nos. A-3694-95T3 and A-3695-95T3 (Appellate Division, decided July 26, 1996).

The Appellate Division reversed the Tax Court's decision in favor of General Motors Corporation on its consolidated complaints regarding local property tax assessments and counterclaims by the City of Linden.

The lower court had granted the city's motion for partial summary judgment that N.J.S.A. 54:4-1b is unconstitutional. It declared void on its face the language added by L.1992, c.24, §3 (Business Retention Act), which excludes personal property affixed to real property or appurtenant to real property from the definition of taxable real property when that personal property is machinery, apparatus or equipment "used or held for use in business," which is not a "structure" or equipment whose purpose is to support shelter or enclose persons or property. The Tax Court ruled that this provision violated on its face the "uniformity clause" of the New Jersey Constitution, Art. VIII, sec. 1, par. 1(a), which mandates that all real property must be assessed and taxed locally according to the same standard of value, and that real property must be assessed for taxation under general laws and by uniform rules.

The Appellate Division discussed the history and policy behind legislation designed to remove much of business personal property from local property taxation by narrowly defining "fixtures." As the court noted, this has been done in order to create an economic climate attractive to business.

In an opinion by Pressler, the Appellate Division reversed the decision below, concluding that the Business Retention Act does not violate the state constitution's uniformity clause because the subject of the provision is personal property, not real property. Therefore only the general equal protection test of reasonableness of classification applied.

The judgment below was reversed and the matter was remanded to the Tax Court for reconsideration of the assessments. The Supreme Court granted the City of Linden's petition for a motion of leave to appeal on October 1, 1996.

Denial of Parsonage Exemption – Ehrlich, Richard J. & Devorah H., Plaintiffs, v. Passaic City, Defendant, Decided August 11, 1995; Tax Court of New Jersey; Pizzuto, J.T.C.; Docket Nos. 16-07-0201-91 & 16-07-13129-91.

Rabbi and his spouse, as owners and occupants of their one-family dwelling, appealed Passaic City assessor's denial of their real estate tax exemption claim and contested the 1990 and 1991 assessments, affirmed by Passaic County Tax Board, to the Tax Court of New Jersey. Exemption had been claimed under N.J.S.A. 54:4-3.6 which, in part, excludes from property taxation "buildings, not exceeding two, actually occupied as a parsonage by the officiating clergymen of any religious corporation of this State...."

Taxing district's denial of parsonage exemption was based on the fact that the dwelling was not owned by a religious corporation for which the rabbi officiated, but rather by the rabbi and his wife as individuals. Homeowners argued that corporate ownership was not an absolute prerequisite and that the residence should be exempted as long as all other eligibility criteria were met.

Tax Court affirmed the denial of the exemption and held that N.J.S.A. 54:4-3.6 is limited to and exclusively concerned with institutional uses of property both owned and used by nonprofit organizations.

The Court's decision was predicated upon an analysis of the statute's construction — the historical changes made to textual content and grammatical structure since its origin in 1918, particularly for the following provisions, "...provided, in case of all the foregoing, the buildings, or the lands on which they stand, or the associations, corporations or institutions using and occupying them as aforesaid, are not conducted for profit..." and "The foregoing exemption shall apply only where the association, corporation or institution claiming the exemption owns the property in question and is incorporated or organized under the laws of this State and authorized to carry out the purposes on account of which the exemption is claimed...." For example, that an earlier wording of 3.6 required corporate ownership for each of the eleven categories of exempt property and specifically stated that a parsonage must be owned by a religious corporation helps to confirm the correctness of applying the general condition of corporate ownership in the current statute's second sentence to all the exempt property it addresses. The Court concluded that the deletion of the 1919 specific ownership requirement, the 1937 sentence division and the 1962 plural to singular changes did not prevent "other requirements of the second sentence," from limiting the parsonage exemption.

Prior cases also cited by the Court as helpful in reaching its determination were Jersey City v. New Jersey Baptist Convention, 18 N.J. Misc. 209, 12 A.2d 150 (State Bd. of Tax App. 1940), where exemption was denied because legal ownership vested in a supervisory entity rather than pastor's congregation. And Jabert Operating Corp. v. Newark, 16 N.J. Super. 505 (App. Div. 1952), where exemption required holding of legal title by nonprofit entity using property for specified use.

Improper Bidding Process in Bulk Sale of Tax Sale Certificates – Errico v. City of Jersey City et al., Appellate Division, decided May 30, 1996. The Appellate Division affirmed a Law Division decision on an improper bidding process involving the bulk sale of tax sale certificates.

Jersey City adopted a resolution authorizing the bulk sale of 102 tax sale certificates with a face value at approximately $4,400,000. Some of the properties involved were environmentally contaminated and had a face value less than the amount of the tax lien.

Bidders were required to submit (1) a cash payment of at least 17.5 percent of the total lien amount, (2) a note for the remainder of the bid and (3) a price for the repurchase of the note. The total bid value being the cash payment plus the purchase price.

Plaintiff, Anthony D. Errico, submitted a bid including $88,000 as the note repurchase price. This price fell significantly below the $135,000 minimum (2.5 percent of the total lien amount, plus $25,000) as required by the city ordinance.

The City Council voted to accept a bid from Remediation Financial, Inc., whose bid included a purchase price of $135,000. Contending that he was the highest bidder, plaintiff filed suit seeking an order that Jersey City rescind the sale to Remediation.

The Law Division issued an oral opinion holding that Errico's bid was nonconforming. More importantly, the Court held that the bidding process altogether was an improper attempt to circumvent the requirement of N.J.S.A. 54:5-113.1(b), which states that tax sale certificates may not be sold for less than 70 percent of their face value.

The Law Division also pointed out Jersey City's motivation for circumventing N.J.S.A. 54:5-113.1. The contamination of some of the land in question convinced Jersey City that no bidder would pay either the face value of the liens or even bid the minimum 70 percent requirement. By including the cash payment with the purchase price as the total bid value, the ordinance allowed the bids on their face to exceed the 70 percent requirement thus qualifying under N.J.S.A. 54:5-113.1.

The Appellate Division affirmed the Law Division's decision with added comments. N.J.S.A. 54:5-114.1 and 54:5-114.2, as the Appellate Division pointed out, offer larger discounts to address situations such as this. However, Jersey City did not elect to use N.J.S.A. 54:5-114.1 or 54:5-114.2 because they do not authorize the bulk sale of tax certificates. The Appellate Division said that the inadequacy of N.J.S.A. 54:5-114.1 and 54:5-114.2 did not justify the measures taken that resulted in circumventing N.J.S.A. 54:5-113.1. Such inadequacy, the Appellate Division concluded, should be handled by the Legislature.

Miscellaneous

Taxpayers' Bill of Rights Violation – Ravindra and Suras Vora v. Director, Division of Taxation, decided June 5, 1996.

In this case, the Tax Court considered whether defendant violated plaintiffs' rights under the Taxpayers' Bill of Rights when settling a tax deficiency issue. The deficiency resulted from the defendant's application under N.J.S.A. 54A:5-1(c), which provides that in calculating the gain or loss realized upon the sale of property, the Federal income tax basis shall be used; thus making plaintiffs responsible for tax on the gains realized from the sale of depreciable real property. Plaintiffs and defendant disagree over the use of the statute.

Plaintiffs contended that the statute did not apply. They reasoned that using the depreciation deductions allowable for Federal income tax to reduce the basis for gross income tax is incorrect because by the prohibition under New Jersey law against the netting of inter-category gains and losses (N.J.S.A. 54A:5-2) plaintiffs derived no tax benefit from the depreciation deductions.

Citing Vasudev v. Taxation Div. Director, 13 N.J. Tax 223 (Tax 1993) and Spinella v. Director, Div. of Taxation, 13 N.J. Tax 305 (Tax 1993), the Court stated that it has specifically held that the tax benefit rule does not apply to the New Jersey gross income tax and therefore the statute applies.

Upholding the deficiency determination made by the defendant, the Court moved on to decide if the plaintiffs' rights, under the Taxpayers' Bill of Rights, were violated. The initial deficiency notice for $484 was sent by the Division to plaintiffs on April 13, 1994. After several correspondences, including a check for $25 sent by plaintiffs, a hearing was requested by plaintiffs on June 1, 1994. The hearing was never granted.

The Division then sent plaintiffs a Notice of Adjustment on June 6, stating that they had overpaid their taxes by $25 and that they were due a refund. Then on June 7, the Division sent plaintiffs another letter including Spinella v. Director, to explain the Division's position with regard to plaintiffs' protest.

The Division sent plaintiffs a "Final Determination" on July 15, 1994 reaffirming the deficiency and indicating the amount owed was $531.72. Plaintiffs filed an appeal on September 14, 1994. After another notice from Division sent on September 21 indicated the amount owed had increased to $592.34, plaintiffs sent a check for $551.66 to the Deputy Attorney General assigned to the case with no indication that they were abandoning the appeal. Counsel then sent forms to plaintiffs so they could withdraw their complaint. Plaintiffs did not respond, even after several phone calls and follow up letters by counsel.

Plaintiffs contended that they sent the check in order to stop the accrual of interest; their want for an appeal did not change. Plaintiffs also put forward that they believed counsel's phone calls and sending of the withdrawal forms were attempts to coerce them to withdraw the complaint.

The Court held that the Division's conduct was in violation of plaintiffs' rights under N.J.S.A. 54:49-18, which requires the Director to grant a requested hearing if the taxpayer files a written protest. The Court concluded that the June 6 letter gave erroneous advice and that by not rectifying the error on the June 7 letter, the Division created confusion and gave mixed signals to plaintiffs. The Court affirmed the deficiency and directed the interest between June 6 and July 15 refunded to plaintiffs.

Sales and Use Tax
Refinishing Hardwood Floors Taxable — Joseph Newman v. Director, Division of Taxation, Superior Court of New Jersey, Appellate Division, decided September 21, 1995.

The Appellate Division affirmed an assessment of sales tax on the refinishing of hardwood floors under N.J.S.A. 54:32B-3(b)(4), as "servicing...real property," and rejected the appellant's argument that the service was exempt under N.J.S.A. 54:32B-3(b)(2)(v) as the installation of property which constituted a capital improvement or addition to real property. □

Veterans' Organizations and Tax Exempt Status — P.L. 1996, c.82 (signed into law on July 25, 1996) permits war veterans' organizations to conduct certain income-producing activities and retain property tax exempt status. This bill was designed to preserve the tax exempt status of veterans' organizations, even if these entities use their property for an income-producing purpose on a auxiliary basis, if all net proceeds from such auxiliary activities are utilized in furtherance of the purpose of the organization or for other charitable purposes. This legislation is effective immediately and retroactive to January 1, 1994. □

Special Message to Tax Practitioners

The Division would like to thank all of the tax practitioners who assisted us last season by following our new procedures for submitting resident returns. Division staff saw many examples of notices to clients explaining why their returns, W-2s, etc. were not stapled. You can help us again this year by doing the following:

- Do not staple, tape, paper clip or use any other fastening device to attach enclosures to Form NJ-1040.
- Use only blue or black ink when completing forms.
- Mail returns and enclosures (flat, not folded) in 9" x 12" envelopes (whenever possible).
- Use the correct envelope/address. This year all New Jersey income tax return instruction booklets include a payment voucher and corresponding envelope. Another envelope for mailing returns is also provided. This envelope has perforated labels on its flap. Be sure to use the correct label.
- Send 8½" x 11" copies of W-2s rather than the form itself (whenever possible). You may photocopy multiple W-2s (if space permits) on an 8½" x 11" sheet.
- MAKE NO ENTRY on unused lines or any line where the amount to be reported is zero or less.

We appreciate your continued cooperation.

New Property Tax Deduction/Credit

New legislation, approved July 9, 1996, provides a deduction on the State income tax return for homeowners and tenants who pay property taxes, either directly or through rent, on their principal residence in New Jersey. This benefit is in addition to the existing Homestead Property Tax Rebate which continues to be available to many New Jersey residents. Eligible residents may claim either a deduction from income or a refundable credit.

Benefits will be phased in over a three year period. For the 1996 tax year, eligible residents may deduct 50% of their first $5,000 of property taxes paid or $2,500, whichever is less. For tenants, 18% of the rent paid during the year is considered property taxes paid. As a minimum benefit to taxpayers, the law provides for a refundable credit of $25.

For 1997, the deduction will be the lesser of 75% of the first $7,500 of property taxes paid (for tenants, 18% of rent) or $5,625; the minimum benefit will be $37.50. For 1998 and thereafter, the deduction will be the lesser of total property taxes paid (for tenants, 18% of rent) or $10,000; the minimum benefit will be $50.

For taxpayers not required to file an income tax return, who are 65 years of age or older, or blind/disabled, the law provides a refundable credit of $25 for 1996, $37.50 for 1997 and $50 for 1998 and thereafter.

Further details on calculating the deduction and credit will appear in the next issue of the New Jersey State Tax News. □

Amnesty Generates $359 Million

New Jersey's recently concluded Tax Amnesty program has generated a total of $359 million, an amount that will offset the unexpected shortfall from Corporation Business Tax revenue, State Treasurer Brian W. Clymer announced. Clymer said the program was one of the most effective state tax amnesty efforts of its kind and cited four main reasons for its success:

“We had a good ‘carrot’ in the form of a waiver of interest and penalties, and a good ‘stick’ in the form of an additional, unabatable five percent penalty for people who chose not to participate. Second, I think the Division’s reputation for having one of the best and most comprehensive enforcement programs in the nation forced people to take us seriously when we talked about the consequences of not paying.

“Third, we had an exceptional public awareness program, highlighted by our very memorable advertising campaign and our effective outreach and public relations efforts. And finally, through our simplified filing process, we made it very easy for people to take advantage of the Amnesty opportunity,” he said.

Clymer said the standard method of measuring the success of state Amnesty programs is to take the amount of revenue raised and divide it by the state’s total population. “Before New Jersey’s 1996 Amnesty, the most successful state effort was the one undertaken by the state of New York in 1986 that netted $401.3 million or $22.80 per capita. Our per capita figure is $45.30, far outpacing any other program,” he said.

“Now that Amnesty is over, tens of thousands of people and companies have cleared up their obligations, new taxpayers have come on the rolls and we’ve resolved many of our backlogged cases. We will be able to turn our Division’s attention — and considerable audit and compliance efforts — to catching the truly hard core tax cheats,” said Clymer.

Division of Taxation Director Richard D. Gardiner noted that the Division had maintained its usually stringent enforcement efforts throughout the campaign. Among the cases he cited were: the seizure of two truckloads of furniture from North Carolina that was being sold on the roadside in Ocean County by people who were not registered to do business in New Jersey; a sweep of merchants in Union City’s Urban Enterprise Zone that found that 73 of the 387 merchants were unregistered; and ongoing sweeps of flea markets and auctions that resulted in the registration of more than 2,000 new taxpayers during a three-month period.

“Our revenue agents are out there every day, everywhere. So if you think you can continue to avoid paying taxes, you should know we are — as the slogan said — ‘going to get you’.”

Gardiner said considerable attention will continue to be focused on cash businesses by audit and compliance activities. “Cash businesses are still the major culprits when it comes to failing to remit sales tax to the Division,” he said, adding that the Division expects to add 50 new employees to its audit activities to focus exclusively on businesses, such as restaurants, liquor stores and auto shops, that the Division believes are under-reporting the taxes they collect.

More than 63,000 individuals and 48,000 companies took advantage of Amnesty. The average payment for businesses was about $5,300, and the average payment for individuals was approximately $1,100. Gardiner said the Division received 48 checks for more than $500,000 in back tax payments. He said the smallest check was for 1 cent, “which was clearly from someone with a very active conscience.”

Almost 193,000 people called the Amnesty hotline seeking information on the program. In addition, nearly 7,000 people visited the Division's regional offices on Amnesty-related matters (almost 2,000 of them on June 1, the last day of the program) and more than 8,700 people accessed the Amnesty home page on the Internet. More than $700,000 was collected through credit card transactions which was made available as a payment method during the last month of the program.

Gardiner said that while the Legislature had appropriated $10 million to the Division to run the Amnesty program, the total cost of advertising and administration for the program is not expected to reach that amount. He added that any funds not used for the program will be returned to the State's General Fund.

"Even if you assumed that we would spend the entire $10 million, that would be a 35-1 return for the State," said Gardiner. "Anyone in the collection business will tell you that is a phenomenal ratio."

Treasurer Clymer cited the commitment of Taxation staff and recognized them for their success with the Tax Amnesty Program.

"I'd like to commend the staff of the Division of Taxation for their outstanding efforts on this project," Clymer said. "Designing and implementing a huge program like Tax Amnesty, especially one that generates the public response that this one did, places a tremendous burden on any staff, and everyone at the Division rose to the occasion and performed superbly." □

Rebate Checks Issued July 31

Governor Christie Whitman stressed her commitment to returning more money to the hands of the taxpayers on July 23 when she toured the Division of Taxation facilities where homestead rebate checks were being processed for distribution at the end of July.

"This administration has made a basic commitment not to take more money from taxpayers than necessary, and further not to hold on to money taxpayers are entitled to receive," said Governor Whitman. "Previously homestead rebates were not distributed until October. Now, thanks in part to improved computer technology, we are delivering rebates to the State's taxpayers in the summer. Qualified citizens will now be able to save, spend or invest their checks sooner than ever."

Approximately 1.2 million New Jersey residents received homestead rebates averaging $220 soon after the end of July. State-of-the-art computer imaging and processing systems at the Department of Treasury enabled the State to process the checks much earlier than the traditional October mailing.

Eligible recipients include senior citizens who are 65 years of age or older, residents who are blind or disabled; and those under age 65 who earn less than $40,000. The rebate checks issued total approximately $264 million.

Senior citizens over age 65 and those who are blind or disabled with gross incomes of $70,000 and under are eligible for rebates of up to $500 if they are homeowners or tenants. Residents in this category making between $70,000 and $100,000 would receive up to $100 if they are homeowners and $35 if they are tenants. Residents making more than $100,000 are not eligible for rebates.

Taxpayers who are under 65 with gross income up to $40,000 are eligible for rebates of $90 if they are homeowners; $30 if they are tenants.

New Jersey taxpayers who are eligible to receive homestead rebates, and have not received them, can call the State's automated Homestead Rebate InfoLine at 1-800-323-4400 to check on the status of their rebate applications. Callers must have a copy of their rebate application to use this information line. □

ELF Program to Expand in '96

This tax year, New Jersey's Electronic Filing (ELF) Program was very successful. It allowed for the filing of refund and zero balance returns for full time residents whose returns did not require the attachment of additional forms and schedules. By April 15 the Division had received and accepted over 65,000 electronic returns. In many cases, the Division was able to generate refund checks for these taxpayers in ten days. The Division will continue to participate in Federal/State ELF and for Tax Year 1996 the program will be expanded to allow for many additional categories of returns to be filed. More complex returns, those requiring the attachment of additional forms and schedules, may be filed this coming season.

Tax preparers are reminded that all participants in the New Jersey program must register each year. The Division will be sending 1996 registration forms, for renewal, to those that participated last year. If you have never participated or you do not have a blank copy of last year's form, you may contact the Division at (609) 588-2200 and request a copy or write to the following address:

NEW JERSEY DIVISION OF TAXATION
CN 191 — ELF
TRENTON NJ 08646-0191

While last year's overall rejection rate was only 4%, the majority of these were because either transmitters or EROs had failed to register with New Jersey. It is important to remember that registering with the IRS does not constitute registration with New Jersey. If you have never participated in this program, you should also contact the IRS coordinator at the Newark District Office, as this program includes both the Federal and State returns.

The Division continues to use the IRS Bulletin Board (BBS) to post copies of manuals and to disseminate information regarding the program. Interested parties may call the BBS at (606) 292-0137 for the latest information regarding ELF. In conjunction with New Jersey, the IRS conducts workshops which you may wish to attend. For additional information you may contact the IRS in Newark at (201) 645-6690.

CORPORATION TAX Nexus Schedule

A new Corporation Business Tax schedule, Schedule N, Nexus-Immune Activity Declaration, is now available. Any foreign corporation claiming immunity from tax based upon income pursuant to the Federal Interstate Income Act, Public Law 86-272, 15 U.S.C. 381, should annually complete and file Schedule N along with only page 1 of the Corporation Business Tax Return (Form CBT-100 or 100S) and remit the minimum tax prescribed by N.J.S.A. 54:10-5(e).

Foreign corporations that meet the criteria for immunity from State taxation based on income under Public Law 86-272 would qualify to file Schedule N. If the in-State activities of the foreign corporation go beyond the protected activities under Public Law 86-272, as interpreted by the applicable Federal and State case law and New Jersey Corporation Business Tax regulation N.J.A.C. 18:7-1.9, the foreign corporation must file a complete Corporation Business Tax Return and pay the appropriate tax on the allocated income as prescribed by the three factor business allocation formula.

Schedule N is not part of the Corporation Business Tax Return packet. The schedule may be obtained by calling the Division's Automated Tax Information System at 1-800-323-4400. Any questions regarding Schedule N can be referred to the Division's Nexus Audit Group at (609) 984-5749 or write to:

CORPORATION TAX Section 8 Credit

Where the Business Allocation Factor computed on the basis of property, receipts and payroll under Section 6 of the Act (N.J.S.A. 54:10A-6) is 100% and the taxpayer in fact paid a tax based on or measured by income to a foreign state resulting in a duplication of income being taxed, it may, under Section 8 of the Act (N.J.S.A. 54:10A-8), apply for a reduction in the amount of its tax paid to New Jersey. The reduction is available only where the taxpayer in its own right acquired a taxable status in a foreign state by reference to at least one of the criteria described at N.J.A.C. 18:7-1.6 as if the New Jersey Corporation Business Tax Act were the law of the foreign state. It should be noted that the credit for taxes paid on duplicated income is only on tax based on or measured by income to a foreign state and not to a city or other municipality or the District of Columbia.

An eligible taxpayer computes its reduction on a rider attached to its return. For purposes of calculating the reduction:

1. The reduction may be based upon only so much of adjusted entire net income appearing on its Corporation Business Tax Return as is reported to a foreign state;
2. The apportionment formula used in the foreign state may not exceed the Business Allocation Factor as determined under Section 6 of the Act and rules under N.J.A.C. 18:7-8.3;
3. The reduction must be computed by using the lesser of the tax rates of the foreign state or the tax rate under the New Jersey Corporation Business Tax Act.

For details, see N.J.A.C. 18:7-8.3.

The credit for taxes paid to other states on duplicated income is carried to the face of the return and is subtracted from the amount of tax due to New Jersey.

Below is an example derived from the regulation of how the credit is computed.

Example:

Corporation B does not maintain a regular place of business outside New Jersey other than a statutory office. Its Business Allocation Factor is 100%. It did, however, start and complete a construction job in State Z and paid an income tax to that state at a rate of 10.5%. It may determine the portion of its Corporation Business Tax measured by net income as follows:

	NJ Tax Income Base	Duplicated In State Z
Taxable income before net operating loss deduction & special deductions	$227,500	$227,500
Add ACRS	$15,000
Less NJ Depreciation	12,000	0
Taxes imposed on or measured by income from State Z return	$28,800	22,500
NJ CBT paid or accrued—add back	22,500
Municipal bond interest—add back	+7,000	+0
	$260,000	$250,000
Dividend Exclusion NJ State Z	$10,000 0	- 10,000 0
Entire Net Income	$250,000
Portion of entire net income duplicated		$240,000
Apportionment (computed below)		x .25
Tax @ 9%	$22,500	$60,000
Tax @ 10.5%		$6,300
Reduction 60,000 @ 9%	- 5,400
Reduced Tax	$17,100

Corporation B computed its apportionment on its State Z return as follows:

	State Z	Everywhere	%
Property owned	$140,000	$500,000
Leased property (at 8 annual rentals)	+40,000	+ 100,000
	180,000	÷ 600,000	.30
Receipts (double weighted .20 + .20)	200,000	÷ 1,000,000	.40
Payroll	90,000	÷ 300,000	+.30
Total			1.00
Average 1.00 ÷ 4			.25

If the apportionment formula had been determined in State Z, consistent with the Corporation Business Tax Act, it would have been:

	State Z	Everywhere	%
Property owned	$140,000	÷ $500,000	.28
Receipts	200,000	÷ 1,000,000	.20
Payroll	90,000	÷ 300,000	+.30
			.78
Business Allocation Factor .78 ÷ 3			.26

Since the apportionment formula used in State Z produces a factor (.25) which does not exceed the New Jersey Business Allocation Factor as it would have been determined under the Act and N.J.A.C. 18:7-8.3, the State Z factor is used for purposes of determining the reduction.

The New Jersey courts have considered and upheld the use of this credit mechanism, see Kettler Realty Corporation v. Director, Division of Taxation, 12 N.J. Tax 470 (1992), affirmed 14 N.J. Tax 165 (App. Div. 1993).

As a result of P.L. 1995, c.245, the New Jersey sales fraction will be double weighted for fiscal years beginning on and after July 1, 1996. □

GROSS INCOME TAX Domicile

The Division of Taxation continuously receives inquiries from individuals who are New Jersey residents taking job assignments overseas and who are requesting information about their filing responsibilities to New Jersey while they are working overseas. Many of these individuals will be renting out their New Jersey homes while they are out of the country.

The New Jersey Gross Income Tax Act, N.J.S.A. 54A:1-2(m), defines a "resident taxpayer" as any individual who is domiciled in New Jersey, unless he or she fulfills all three of the following conditions for the entire year:

1. Maintains no permanent place of abode in New Jersey; and
2. Maintains a permanent place of abode elsewhere; and
3. Spends no more than 30 days of the taxable year in New Jersey.

To determine whether a person is a resident or nonresident, it is necessary to know the person's domicile. Domicile is any place an individual regards as their permanent home. Once established, a domicile continues until the person moves to a new location with the intent to establish a fixed and permanent home there and has no intention of returning to his or her previous home. Moving to a new location, even for a long time, does not result in a change of domicile if the intent is to remain only for a limited time.

Thus the New Jersey resident who intends to return to New Jersey after living and working in an overseas location for a period, no matter how long the duration, has not given up his New Jersey domicile and must file as a New Jersey resident for the entire period.

An individual who rents out his New Jersey home, while currently living outside of New Jersey, and has no right of use to the New Jersey home during the term of the lease, can be considered a non-resident as long as he maintains a permanent home elsewhere and spends less than 30 days in this State.

A place of abode, whether in this State or elsewhere, is not deemed to be permanent if it is maintained only during a temporary stay for the accomplishment of a particular purpose. If the dwelling is maintained for more than a temporary stay, then it will be considered permanent.

It should be noted that all the statutory conditions for non-resident taxpayer status must be satisfied by the taxpayer.

The burden of proof would be upon the individual asserting a change of domicile to show that the necessary intention existed to abandon his or her domicile in one location and to establish a fixed and permanent home in another. □

GROSS INCOME TAX Gambling Winnings or Losses

Under the provisions of R.S. 54A:5-1(g), all gambling winnings, with the exception of New Jersey Lottery winnings, are subject to New Jersey Gross Income Tax.

The winnings of residents are subject to tax no matter where these winnings are received. Nonresidents' gambling winnings from New Jersey sources are likewise subject to tax.

All gambling winnings whether they are the result of legalized gambling (casino, race track, etc.) or illegal gambling are subject to the tax. However, this category of income is given treatment similar to the treatment of gambling winnings under the Federal Income Tax code. Gambling losses incurred during the same period as the winnings may be used to offset winnings. In other words, taxpayers may deduct gambling losses from their gambling winnings during the tax period not to exceed the total of the winnings. In the case of nonresidents, gambling winnings from New Jersey sources may only be offset by gambling losses incurred in New Jersey during the same tax period.

Taxpayers may be required to substantiate gambling losses used to offset winnings reported on their New Jersey Gross Income Tax Return. Evidence of losses may take several forms, including losing race track pari-mutuel tickets, a daily log or journal of wins and losses, canceled checks, notes, etc. Such evidential material should be kept by the taxpayer for a period of six years after the filing of the New Jersey Gross Income Tax Return for that period.

With respect to winnings or losses resulting from casino gambling, letters from casinos which purport to "rate" the gambling activity of an individual or "estimate" losses are not acceptable as evidence of gambling losses.

Although no specific rider to the New Jersey Gross Income Tax Return is required, it is requested that a taxpayer who enters gambling winnings net of losses on the New Jersey return indicate the total winnings and total losses on a supporting statement. Although not taxable, the supporting statement should include New Jersey lottery winnings and losses. This supporting statement may eliminate certain questions in the event the return is selected for audit. □

SALES AND USE TAX Carnival Rides & Nonprofits

In reply to an inquiry regarding the treatment for sales tax purposes of sales of admissions by not-for-profit organizations for amusement rides at carnivals or circuses, the Division replied that under N.J.S.A. 54:32B-9(f)(2)(B) of the Sales and Use Tax Act, such admissions are subject to sales tax if "any professional performer or operator participates for compensation." The fact that the not-for-profit is an exempt organization pursuant to N.J.S.A. 54:32B-9 does not matter; nor is the result changed by the method of payment agreed to by the not-for-profit and the amusement ride operator. In this regard, note that N.J.S.A. 54:32B-9(f)(1) provides that under no circumstance can the splitting of proceeds support an exemption claim.

Every recipient of admission charges is a person required to collect tax under the Act. See N.J.S.A. 54:32B-2(p); N.J.S.A. 54:32B-2(w). Whenever the proceeds are split between an amusement ride operator and a not-for-profit organization, the operator is a recipient of admission charges. The operator is required to file returns and remit the tax with respect to admission charges subject to sales tax under N.J.S.A. 54:32B-3(e)(1). See N.J.S.A. 54:32B-17; N.J.S.A. 54:32B-18. □

INHERITANCE/ESTATE TAX CPA Prepared Returns

It has been ten years since Opinion No. 10 of the Committee on the Unauthorized Practice of Law was modified by the Supreme Court of New Jersey to permit preparation of inheritance tax returns by certified public accountants. However, there is still considerable unnecessary and avoidable delay in processing certain returns which is being caused by an apparent ignorance of conditions imposed by the Supreme Court.

Opinion No. 10 of the Committee on the Unauthorized Practice of Law was modified by the Supreme Court of New Jersey, on April 14, 1986, to permit the preparation and filing of New Jersey Inheritance Tax Returns by qualified certified public accountants licensed in New Jersey provided that the accountant notifies the client in writing before work is commenced that review of the return by a qualified attorney may be desirable because of possible application of legal principles to the preparation of the tax return. 102 N.J. 231. For these purposes, public accountants duly licensed in New Jersey have equivalency with certified public accountants.

The Transfer Inheritance Tax Branch, in the absence of receipt of the client's original signed acknowledgment of the required notification, is precluded from accepting or negotiating returns filed by CPAs. Accountants should not expect or request that Division personnel act in a way that is contrary to the provisions of the statute. The following CERTIFICATION may be reproduced. It is suggested that it be photocopied and/or made a permanent "form" in word processors of New Jersey certified public accountants. □

CERTIFICATION

The New Jersey Supreme Court in IMO Application of New Jersey Society of Certified Public Accountants, 102 N.J. 231 (1986) held that the preparation of an inheritance tax return is, in general, so dependent on the correct application of legal principles as to require the Supreme Court to exercise its supervisory jurisdiction over the practice of law. In exercising this supervisory jurisdiction, the Court observed that many certified public accountants are qualified to prepare inheritance tax returns for most estates.

Therefore, the Supreme Court concluded that the public interest is best served by permitting certified public accountants to prepare and file inheritance tax returns without the supervision of any attorney, on the condition that:

- a) before the CPA commences work on the return, he or she has notified client in writing that review of the return by a qualified attorney may be desirable because of the possible application of legal principles to the preparation of the return; and
- b) consistent with the professional obligation of the CPA to perform his or her services subject to a standard of care commensurate with the skill and knowledge normally possessed by members of the CPA profession in good standing, he or she recommends consultation with counsel whenever the complexities of a return indicate that legal advice is desirable.

In accordance with the New Jersey Supreme Court's directive as set forth above, this is to certify that my certified public accountant has given me this writing and that I have read it thoroughly, that I understand that review of this estate's inheritance tax return by a qualified New Jersey attorney may be desirable, that my CPA also may recommend consultation with an attorney because of complexities with this estate and the inheritance tax return, and that it is my decision whether I will seek the services of an attorney unless my CPA determines that he or she must consult with counsel.

New Rules for Tax Maps

Revised tax map regulations were adopted on January 2, 1996 by Richard D. Gardiner, Director, Division of Taxation. These rules became effective on February 5, 1996 and will expire on February 5, 2001. A full text appears in N.J.A.C. 18:23A.

Property Administration, Engineering Section, which administers tax map review and approval procedures, has developed a booklet for the New Jersey Licensed Land Surveyors who are responsible for the preparation, revision and maintenance of tax maps and for Municipal Assessors who are responsible for local assessments. The booklet includes illustrated standards, a formal opinion concerning land surveyors, seals, a check list of items to review and advice about the manner of reflecting riparian interests. □

Deductions for Co-op, Mutual Housing Residents

Property Administration's Local Property Branch recently had several inquiries from cooperative and mutual housing residents who were having difficulty receiving credit for their $250 senior citizen and $50 veteran property tax deductions from their housing management despite their deduction claims having been approved by their municipal tax assessors.

To ensure resident shareholders' proper entitlement to and receipt of both property tax deductions for qualified senior and disabled citizens and war veterans and their respective surviving spouses, assessors are reminded to send Form CMHC-1 to Co-op and Mutual Housing managers on a yearly basis. Unless this form is completed by property managers each year, continuance of and changes to deduction entitlement will not be verifiably documented. CMHC Forms for residential Cooperative and Mutual Housing should be returned to assessors in time to allow the data to be used for the annual October 1 property status review.

Assessors needing a copy of the CMHC Form and the accompanying transmittal letter should contact Property Administration, Policy and Planning Section. □

Criminal Enforcement

Criminal Enforcement over the past several months included:

- James J. Bobowicz of Caldwell, New Jersey, pled guilty on May 28, 1996 to eight counts relating to State income tax violations. In addition to failing to file State income tax returns from 1989 through 1992, Bobowicz filed a false tax return and claimed a fraudulent income tax refund in 1993. This case resulted from a joint investigation effort between the Sussex County Prosecutor's Office and the Office of Criminal Investigation.
- On June 11, 1996, Paul C. McDaniel of West Chester, Pennsylvania, pled guilty to one count of failure to file a petroleum products gross receipts tax return. McDaniel, a waste oil dealer, was indicted in March 1996 with nine other individuals alleging 18 counts of conspiracy, racketeering, and falsifying records. Also included in the indictment was the theft of $159,000 of New Jersey petroleum products gross receipts tax, the theft of $798,000 of Federal motor fuels excise tax and various environmental offenses during the period between September 1992 and June 1993.
- Richard Lugero of Millstone Township, the sole principal of a purported security guard firm, was indicted on June 3, 1996 by a Monmouth County grand jury on four counts of filing fraudulent State income tax returns and failing to pay the tax of $43,885 on the unreported income. The criminal investigation ascertained unreported income from the security firm totaling $608,000 for the 1993 and 1994 tax periods. In addition, there was probable cause to believe that unreported proceeds also existed from the theft of goods and services that totaled $78,951 for the two year period. The case was initiated by the Monmouth County Prosecutor's Office and conducted jointly with the Division's Office of Criminal Investigation.

- Larry Ansell and Michael Gohar, the president and former co-president of Emerald Hotels Management Co. Inc., made a partial payment of $450,000 for back taxes owed to New Jersey. As a condition of their February 7, 1996 guilty plea, an additional $400,000 must be paid prior to the September sentencing date. Under the plea agreement, the balance of the taxes still owed after that payment must be paid no later than one year from the date of entry of the Judgment of Conviction. This case resulted from a criminal investigation that discovered nearly $1.25 million in unpaid New Jersey sales tax, corporation business tax and income tax for the period January 1988 through August 1995. Ten corporations owning hotel and motel franchises throughout the State were identified as being part of the scheme to evade payment of these taxes. Additional information regarding this case may be found in the Summer 1996 issue of the State Tax News.

- On April 30, 1996, Vincent T. Szymanski of Bayonne, New Jersey, pled guilty to embezzling monies from his employer and failing to file New Jersey income tax returns and pay the tax obligation. Szymanski, who was indicted by a Mercer County Grand Jury on March 22, 1996, admitted to embezzling $337,000 from Conair, Inc. in East Windsor by manipulating credit accounts from 1991 through 1994 during the period of his employ. Conair discovered the missing money after Szymanski was laid off. As part of the plea agreement, Szymanski is required to pay back the money he stole, as well as pay the income tax owed which totaled over $18,700 on the unreported income for this period. The case resulted from a joint investigation effort between the Mercer County Prosecutor's Office and the Division's Office of Criminal Investigation.
- James H. Haluszka, the former Chief Financial Officer of Ocean Gate Borough, was sentenced on April 18, 1996 to five years in prison as a result of his guilty plea to one count of official misconduct. Mr. Haluszka had received a seven count indictment in October 1995, for violations involving theft of municipal funds and the failure to perform duties imposed by law. Included in one count for official misconduct was Haluszka's failure to file and remit New Jersey withholding taxes for 1993 and 1994 for borough employees. As part of the guilty plea, however, this count and several other counts for official misconduct were dismissed. The Borough of Ocean Gate as a result of the investigation was made aware of the delinquencies for New Jersey income tax withholdings and is in the process of correcting them.

- Rosalie Randazzo, president of MVP Sports Cafe, Inc., in Aberdeen, New Jersey, was admitted to a Pre-trial Intervention Program on April 15, 1996 as a result of a plea to an accusation of misapplication of entrusted property. Ms. Randazzo was accused of under reporting the sales tax and failing to remit $43,894 of collected tax. Prior to the plea, the taxpayer made full restitution of the sales tax monies involved.
- On March 22, 1996, Clinton Point Associates, Inc., the former operator of a bar/restaurant in Clinton, New Jersey, was sentenced in Essex County Superior Court for failing to remit $46,523.82 of collected sales tax. As a condition of the plea, Joseph Diaz, president of the corporation, executed a Consent Judgment personally to ensure payment of the tax, penalties and interest due.
- On April 4, 1996, Ann Cinquemani, president of Friendly Three, Inc., in Flemington, New Jersey, was admitted to a Pre-trial Intervention Program as a result of an accusation involving the filing of fraudulent sales tax returns and the failing to remit $14,597 of criminal enforcement - from pg. 11

tax collected. As a condition of the program, Ms. Cinquemani is required to make full restitution of the tax and maintain steady employment during her three year term in the program.

- Twenty-one guilty pleas were entered in municipal courts throughout New Jersey between April and June 1996 by individuals and businesses for noncompliance with the cigarette tax law. The charges included counts for failure to register a business, for selling cigarettes without a license, and for transporting untaxed cigarettes. Fines and penalties were imposed in the amount of $18,081 and 4,439 cartons of seized cigarettes with a value of $88,000 were awarded to the State. In addition, charges were filed for violations including transporting untaxed cigarettes and selling cigarettes without a license in municipal court for eight cases. The value of the assets seized for these cases totaled $82,629. □

Enforcement Summary

Civil Collection Actions Quarter Ending - June 30, 1996

Following is a summary of enforcement actions for the quarter ending June 30, 1996.

Certificates of Debt

During the quarter ended June 30, 1996, the Division filed 753 Certificates of Debt in New Jersey Superior Court. These COD's, which have the same force and effect as docketed judgments, totaled $9.3 million.

Levies

$28,355 was collected by levying against payments made under State contracts to satisfy debts owed by State vendors.

Seizures

When a liability, for which the Division of Taxation has secured judgments, cannot or will not be satisfied by a taxpayer and all other means of collection of the debt have been exhausted, seizure of the business and personal assets will take place. Field Investigators will close a business, seizing any tangible assets including licenses, inventory, machinery, furniture, vehicles, etc., until arrangements are made for payment of the debt.

For the quarter ending June 30, 1996, property of 11 businesses was seized. Some businesses were able to reopen, others remain closed. A listing of these seizures appears on page 14.

Auctions

If the liability of a business seized by the Division is not satisfied or resolved, the business will remain closed. To satisfy the debt, the Division can sell the business assets at a public auction.

During the quarter ending June 30, 1996, six auctions were held by the Division. A listing follows on page 14.

In the event an auction does not net enough monies to resolve the debt, the Division will execute against the personal assets of any of the business's responsible officers. Responsible officers are held personally liable for the trust fund portion of the debt which includes, but is not limited to, sales tax, withholding tax and motor fuels tax. □

Federal Modified Accelerated Cost Recovery — The Division received an inquiry as to whether New Jersey allows the use of Federal modified accelerated cost recovery depreciation for assets placed in service in New York, as well as for assets in New Jersey.

New Jersey will allow Federal modified accelerated cost recovery depreciation for assets placed in service in New York as well as in New Jersey. Taxpayers should use the same depreciation method they are using for Federal purposes. For assets placed in service on or after July 7, 1993, New Jersey follows Federal depreciation rules. N.J.S.A. 54:10A-4(k)(2)(F)(i).

Companies Mergers — Partnerships, limited partnerships and limited liability companies are permitted to merge and consolidate into other business entities, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 42:1-49, N.J.S.A. 42:2A-73 and N.J.S.A. 42:2B-20. Public Law 1995, chapter 279 amended the State Tax Uniform Procedure Law, N.J.S.A. 54:50-14, to provide that the Secretary of State shall not accept for filing a certificate of merger or consolidation of any business entity into any other business entity other than a domestic corporation or a foreign corporation authorized to transact business in this State unless the business entity files a tax clearance certificate with the Secretary of State. Partnerships, limited partnerships and limited liability companies are required to obtain a tax clearance certificate, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 54:50-14 before merging or consolidating with any other business entity other than a domestic corporation or a foreign corporation authorized to transact business in this State.

Gross Income Tax

Withholding On Wages Paid To Household Employees — It is not mandatory for an employer to withhold New Jersey gross income tax from wages paid to household workers. If Federal tax is withheld from the household worker's wages, then New Jersey gross income tax must be withheld if otherwise required under New Jersey's employer withholding instructions.

For example, an employer who is withholding Federal income tax is required to furnish the NJ-W4 to all employees, but an employee is not required to complete the NJ-W4. If a household employee has requested that the employer withhold Federal income tax but does not wish to have State income tax withheld, the employee may claim exemption from withholding on the NJ-W4 if one of the following conditions is satisfied:

- Filing status is single, head of household or qualifying widow(er) and the employee's wages plus taxable non-wage income will be $7,500 or less for the current year; or
- Filing status is married joint and the employee's wages combined with his spouse's wages, plus taxable non-wage income will be $7,500 or less for the current year; or
- Filing status is married separate and the employee's wages plus taxable non-wage income will be $3,750 or less for the current year.

Sales and Use Tax

Home Warranty Repairs — The Division responded to an inquiry regarding the taxability of warranty work performed on new houses. The taxpayer does work under contract for builders of new homes, making "adjustments and repairs" on a house whenever the homeowner reports problems with the construction that need to be corrected during the warranty period.

In these circumstances, the builder's purchase of the repair services is a purchase for resale under N.J.S.A. 54:32B-3(b), since the builder is reselling the service to the homeowner through the warranty which was included in the sale of the home.

Thus, the taxpayer may accept a Resale Certificate (ST-3) from the builder for repair services when the builder pays for the warranty work. However, the taxpayer is responsible for paying sales or use tax on any materials and supplies it purchases in order to perform the warranty work; these purchases are not considered purchases for resale. N.J.S.A. 54:32B-2(e).

Leased Hotel Room, Permanent Resident

— The Division received an inquiry concerning the sales tax exemption on the rent for a room or rooms in a hotel paid by a permanent resident. N.J.S.A. 54:32B-3(d). The New Jersey sales tax is imposed on: "The rent for every occupancy of a room or rooms in a hotel in this State, except that the tax shall not be imposed upon (1) a permanent resident, or (2) where the rent is not more than at the rate of $2.00 per day." N.J.S.A. 54:32B-3(d).

The Sales and Use Tax Act defines a permanent resident to be "any occupant of any room or rooms in a hotel for at least 90 consecutive days..." N.J.S.A. 54:32B-2(m). If the occupancy occurs under a lease agreement for a period of 90 or more consecutive days, the rental payments are exempt from sales tax, and the hotel is not required to collect sales tax for any of the days. The agreement serves as proof of the exemption. No exemption certificate is required.

Senior Citizen Clubs — While all nonprofit organizations may make application for exempt organization status for sales and use tax purposes, the vast majority of nonprofit organizations do not qualify for exemption under the provisions of the law.

N.J.S.A. 54:32B-9(b)(1) provides exempt organization status, upon application, to “Any corporation, association, trust or community chest, fund or foundation, organized and operated exclusively for religious, charitable, scientific, testing for public safety, literary or educational purposes....” The language was taken directly from section 501(c)(3) of the Internal Revenue Code. It has been held by ruling that the intent of the New Jersey Legislature in formulating this statute was to grant exempt organization status solely to 501(c)(3) types of organizations. The New Jersey sales and use tax exempt organization application process requires the submission of an Internal Revenue Service determination letter granting the applicant exemption from Federal income tax under section 501(c)(3) of the Internal Revenue Code. N.J.A.C. 18:24-8.4(c)(5).

Senior citizens clubs usually are not designated 501(c)(3) type organizations, as they are neither organized nor operated exclusively for the exempt purposes listed under N.J.S.A. 54:32B-9(b)(1). Therefore, senior citizens clubs are not qualified for exempt organization status under the New Jersey Sales and Use Tax Act.

“Tax-Free” Shopping — The Division received a complaint about tax-free shoppers in Delaware from a New Jersey business located in Cape May County.

The Division replied that while purchases made in Delaware are not subject to any sales tax in Delaware, they are not “tax free” for New Jersey residents. When goods that are not tax-exempt in New Jersey are brought into this State for use here, the user must pay a “compensating use tax” to New Jersey. The requirement of paying use tax has been part of the Sales and Use Tax Act since 1966. See N.J.S.A. 54:32B-6. The purpose of this requirement is to ensure that out-of-State purchases of goods used mainly in the State are subject to the same tax liability as purchases of the identical items within the State. Residents cannot avoid sales tax simply by crossing State lines. Coppa v. Director, Division of Taxation, 8 N.J. Tax 236, 252 (Tax Ct. 1986).

Individuals who owe use tax may file a Form ST-18 and remit payment within 20 days of bringing their purchase into this State. Alternatively, if the individual has not paid the use tax liability during the year, this liability can be reported on the “use tax” line of the NJ-1040 and paid with that return. □

In Our Courts

Corporation Business Tax Entire Controversy Doctrine — Sutton Warehousing, Inc. v. Director, Division of Taxation, Superior Court of New Jersey, Appellate Division, decided May 31, 1996, DDS no. 35-2-9081.

The issue in this case is whether, during discovery for an appeal of taxpayer’s sales and use tax assessment, the Director of Taxation can issue a corporation business tax (CBT) notice for discrepancies found in the taxpayer’s records without violating the entire controversy doctrine. The entire controversy doctrine requires a court to adjudicate all of the equitable and legal issues arising from a single underlying transaction to the extent possible so to exercise fairness and efficiency. The Appellate Court reversed the Tax Court’s determination that the CBT assessment violated the entire controversy doctrine.

Plaintiff, while in the business of storing and distributing clothing products, purchased a storage rack system and sprinkler system. Director audited plaintiff and found that plaintiff owed sales and use tax on the storage rack system. Plaintiff appealed and contended that it was an exempt capital improvement. During discovery for the appeal, Director found that plaintiff also owed CBT for depreciating the sprinkler system over too short of a time period. Director issued plaintiff an additional assessment and plaintiff filed a complaint maintaining that Director’s actions violated the entire controversy doctrine.

The Appellate Court held that the entire controversy doctrine did not apply because the CBT was not a “matter in controversy between parties” when the sales and use tax was assessed. The cause of action for the CBT assessment did not arise in time to have been joined with the sales and use tax assessment as a defense or counterclaim without violating plaintiff’s statutory right to protest the assessment. Further, under N.J.S.A. 54:49-6, Director has four years to examine and audit a return and assess additional taxes, and he was within this statutory limitation. In addition, the sales and use tax assessment and the CBT assessment did not arise from one underlying transaction, and therefore cannot be said to violate the entire controversy doctrine.

The Appellate Court held that plaintiff could be assessed with the CBT and reversed the Tax Court ruling.

REITs May Deduct Dividends Paid to Shareholders – Corporate Property v. Taxation Division, 15 N.J. Tax 205 (Appellate Division, decided June 23, 1995).

The Tax Court decided whether a real estate investment trust (REIT) can deduct the dividends paid to its shareholders in calculating tax under the Corporation Business Tax Act (CBT). The Court held that the Director incorrectly calculated plaintiff’s taxable income by including the deduction in computing plaintiff’s entire net income under N.J.S.A. 54:10A-4(k).

On appeal, the Director contended that plaintiff’s “taxable income” under the Internal Revenue Code (I.R.C.) is not equivalent to its “real estate investment trust taxable income” under the I.R.C.

Both plaintiff and the Director agreed that I.R.C. §63 applies to define “taxable income” to mean “gross income minus the deductions allowed by Chapter One of the I.R.C.” The Tax Court held that §857(b)(2)(B) in Chapter One authorizes a REIT to deduct dividends paid to its investors. The Director challenged the use of this deduction because §857(b)(2) uses the term “real estate investment trust taxable income.”

In rejecting that distinction, the Appellate Division agreed with the Tax Court in that the use of that phrase in the I.R.C. is only meaningful when imposing additional taxes when a REIT fails to distribute the proper amount of income to its shareholders. The Appellate Division said that the basic attraction of a REIT is the pass-through of gains and losses to shareholders to have them pay the appropriate taxes. Also the Court indicated that there is no indication in the CBT that the Legislature intended to discourage REITs from operating in New Jersey.

The Appellate Division also rejected the Director’s contention that the Federal paid deduction is a “special deduction” to be added back to Federal taxable income. The Court pointed out that the term “special deduction” is defined in I.R.C. §§241 through 249, and does not include the dividends paid deduction authorized by I.R.C. in §857(b)(2)(B). Also, as the Court stated, §857(b)(2)(A) denies any deduction from taxable income for “special deductions” for a REIT.

Litter Control Tax

Definition of “Food For Human Consumption” – Royal Food Distributors, Inc. v. Director, Division of Taxation, Tax Court of New Jersey, decided June 16, 1995.

This Litter Control Tax case concerns the scope of the term “food for human consumption” as a “litter generating product” subject to tax under N.J.S.A. 13:1E-94e. Plaintiff requests a refund for Litter Control Tax he paid in 1991 and 1992 for $30,294 and $37,772 respectively. Plaintiff contends that the products he distributed did not meet the statutory definition of “litter generating product” and therefore, plaintiff was entitled to a refund for Litter Control Tax paid on these products. The Tax Court upheld the Director of Taxation’s determination that plaintiff’s products were “litter generating products” subject to tax, and plaintiff would not be entitled to a refund of the taxes paid.

Plaintiff is a wholesale distributor to retail stores. Plaintiff distributes meats, cheeses, fruits and vegetables, and other perishable food

products. Manufacturers ship food

products to plaintiff prewrapped, usually in plastic wrap, plastic containers, or aluminum foil, and packaged in cardboard boxes. Plaintiff ships food products to its customers in the same wrapping as received by plaintiff from the manufacturer.

Plaintiff paid Litter Control Tax in 1991 and 1992, and subsequently filed refund claims for tax paid in the same years, claiming the Legislature did not intend for the tax to be levied upon perishable food products sold by food stores for off-premises consumption such as his products. Plaintiff points out that the Director's regulation N.J.A.C. 18:38-3.1(b)(5), defining "food for human consumption" as "any substance, the chief general use of which is for human nourishment," is too expansive, superfluous and meaningless, and overlaps the definitions of other listed "litter generating products" such as groceries, beer and malt beverages, distilled spirits, soft drinks and carbonated waters and wine. Plaintiff maintains this interpretation of "food for human consumption" contravenes Legislative intent because it creates redundancies within the regulation. Plaintiff contends that the definition should be restricted to "prepared foods sold for off-vending operators, vending machines and other similar establishments."

In deciding for the defendant, the Tax Court held that the Legislature did not intend for the definition of "food for human consumption" to deviate from the generally accepted meaning of the language. The Tax Court determined that the statute was unambiguous and plaintiff's food products met the definition of "food for human consumption." The Tax Court refuted plaintiff's contention that the Director's definition of "litter generating product" made the regulation superfluous and meaningless. The Tax Court noted that any overlap in the regulations serves to clarify those categories of products that are considered to be "litter generating," and that the Legislative intent to promote the economy, public health and safety is conferred by the Director's interpretation of "litter generating products." With respect to the Legislative intent and the plain language of the statute, plaintiff was responsible for paying Litter Control Tax in 1991 and 1992 for his food products and the denial of a refund for this tax is justified.

Local Property Tax

Denial of 100% Veterans' Exemption – Mary E. Jackson, Plaintiff, v. Township of Neptune, Defendant, decided March 27, 1996; Tax Court of New Jersey; Docket No. 010542-94.

Mary E. Jackson, claiming to be the surviving spouse of a 100% permanently disabled veteran, sought exemption from local property taxation for her home under N.J.S.A. 54:4-3.30(b). Plaintiff married James Jackson in 1965. In 1967, they purchased the subject property, as tenants by the entirety, and lived there together. In June 1972, the United States Veterans' Administration declared James Jackson a 100% disabled veteran. The Jacksons' residence was exempted from property taxes beginning in 1973 and was exempt for tax year 1993.

By deed dated January 21, 1993, the property was conveyed to plaintiff, Mary E. Jackson, individually.

On February 16, 1993, plaintiff obtained a divorce from bed and board from James Jackson but they continued to live together some of the time until James Jackson's death in April 1993.

For the 1994 tax year, defendant, Township of Neptune, denied an exemption from local property taxation for plaintiff's property. Plaintiff filed an appeal with the Monmouth County Board of Taxation. On June 28, 1994, plaintiff's exemption request was denied based on the fact that the marital home had been transferred to plaintiff in January 1993.

On September 13, 1994, plaintiff filed a complaint with the Tax Court of New Jersey seeking a determination that subject property was exempt from local taxation under N.J.S.A. 54:4-3.30(b). Plaintiff asserted that only one legal issue was before the Court. She claimed that divorce from bed and board did not affect her legal status as James Jackson's wife, therefore she is his widow and thus qualified for exemption as his surviving spouse.

Defendant contended two legal issues were before the Court. Defendant argued because of the divorce from bed and board plaintiff ceased to be James Jackson's wife and did not qualify as his surviving spouse. Defendant also contended that transfer of the property from ownership of plaintiff and her husband to sole ownership of plaintiff disqualified the property for exemption because it was no longer owned by a permanently disabled veteran. As no exemption was available to James Jackson upon his death, no exemption could be available to his surviving spouse.

The New Jersey Legislature has established both absolute divorce and divorce from bed and board. "Absolute divorce dissolves the marital bond and all dower rights are barred. In divorce from bed and board the marital bond subsists...." Divorce from bed and board is not a true divorce because it does not dissolve the bonds of matrimony but merely decrees a judicial separation. The facts before the Court suggest that the divorce from bed and board was obtained in an attempt to protect plaintiff's rights to certain veteran-related benefits such as medical insurance, commissary rights, and the veteran's dwelling tax exemption at issue.

Historically, New Jersey courts have held that divorce from bed and board does not break the bonds of matrimony, and without specific statutory disqualification, plaintiff was found to be the surviving spouse of James Jackson. Despite that finding, the exemption was still denied because of the deeded transfer of the property in January 1993 from their ownership as tenants by the entirety to sole ownership of the plaintiff. As indicated earlier, because James Jackson no longer had a right to the exemption, there was no exemption for the surviving spouse.

Greenhouse Assessed As Real Property – Leonard Van Wingerden, Plaintiff v. Lafayette Township, Defendant, Tax Court of New Jersey, decided March 22, 1996, Docket Nos. 008311-93 & 007139-94, Dougherty, J.T.C.

Before the New Jersey Tax Court was whether a 66,000 square feet, prefabricated modular 16 unit, Dutch-style, steel columned, glass greenhouse and shipping house with computer automated heat, electrical, ventilation and irrigation systems, anchor bolted to 500 concrete piers 18 inches across, set two and three feet deep and assessed at $582,000 should be classed as real or personal property and taxed or exempted respectively as such. Also requested of the Court by the taxpayer was a reduction in assessed value for depreciation.

In concurring with Sussex County Tax Board's affirmation of Lafayette Township's 1993 and 1994 assessments, the Court held the greenhouse was taxable real property under N.J.S.A. 54:4-1 and the exemption under N.J.S.A. 54:4-23.12, though applicable to the greenhouse, was void as a private, preferential benefit and a nonpermitted classification of real property. The Court affirmed, too, the amount of the township's assessments when the taxpayer failed to support his opinion of depreciated value.

New Jersey law under N.J.S.A. 54:4-1 taxes property classed as either real or personal. At present, taxable personal property is narrowly defined to include only certain property of telephone, telegraph and messenger systems companies and certain petroleum refinery equipment. The taxpayer and the State contended the greenhouse was taxable real property only in that it was affixed to the land and improvements and that it retained its character as personal property. As personal property, they further argued that N.J.S.A. 54:4-23.12 classified it nontaxable (as a single-use agricultural or horticultural facility which by definition includes greenhouses) and that the exemption clause of the State Constitution, Article VIII, S1, par. 2. authorized such classification.

The township, however, challenged N.J.S.A. 54:4-23.12 as an unconstitutional exemption of real property creating a tax preference contrary to the uniformity clause found in Article VIII, S1, par. 1(a).

In its decision, the Court restated the history and purposes of the Constitution's uniformity and exemption clauses saying they were to ensure the ad valorem taxation of all real property; to preserve charitable, religious and educational use exemptions; and to prevent tax exemption of real property by classification. The apparent contradiction in the exemption and uniformity provisions was justified in part by the Court on the basis of public purpose. The Court also noted that real property was not defined in the Constitution or statutes and that its meaning must be examined to reconcile the conflicting clauses. The Court looked to the five principles of statutory construction and the common law for clarification, citing Teaff v. Hewitt, 1 Ohio St. 511 (Sup. Ct. 1853). Teaff set forth the still valid three pronged test for determining when personal property becomes taxable realty based on the manner of its attachment and its intended use with intention being a critical factor.

Regarding the disputed greenhouse, the Court held that although it could be unassembled by removing its connecting bolts and flanges, as well as its concrete piers, there was no evidence the design was meant to permit movement from one location to another and the ordinary intent was that it was to remain permanently affixed. The greenhouse's permanence was also indicated by the loss in value which would occur by the sale, separate from the land, of its structures and parts used at a $1.00 per square foot (with the land $4.00 per square foot) versus a construction cost of $8.94 per square foot where the structural investment would be recouped from sale of its horticultural products over a useful life of 30 years. As real property, taxable under the uniformity clause, the Court then determined the validity of the exemption specifically granted greenhouses under N.J.S.A. 54:4-23.12. While holding the taxpayer's greenhouse was within the definition of excludable structures as per N.J.S.A. 54:4-23.12, the Court, citing Switz v. Kingsley, 37 N.J. 566 (1962) and N.J. St. League of Municipalities v. Kimmelman, 105 N.J. 422 (1987), voided the exemption as preferential and violative of Article VIII, S1, par. 1 of the State Constitution.

Finally, relative to the Court's upholding of the township's assessments, it remarked that in the absence of any true value estimate by the taxpayer, who had the burden of providing definite, positive proofs, the Court was not free to ignore the presumption of correctness attached to the assessor's value determination.

Taxes to be Paid Before Further Appeal – Janice Bernstein, Plaintiff, v. Atlantic City, Defendant, Tax Court of New Jersey, decided May 17, 1996, Docket No. 000158-96

Question: Must a taxpayer, who paid taxes on her original assessment, pay taxes on a county tax board's increase in that assessment to further appeal to the New Jersey Tax Court?

Background: For tax year 1995, taxpayer's property was originally assessed at $78,600; annual property taxes were $2,246.39. With property taxes paid in full, taxpayer appealed to reduce the original assessment. At appeal, Atlantic County Tax Board raised the assessment by $11,400 to $90,000, increasing the taxes $325.82. Taxpayer then appealed that assessment to New Jersey Tax Court. Defending municipality, Atlantic City, next asked that the further appeal be dismissed for nonpayment of the taxes resulting from the Board's revised assessment based on N.J.S.A. 54:51A-1(b). N.J.S.A. 54:51A-1(b) provides, "At the time that a complaint has been filed with the Tax Court seeking review of the judgment of county tax boards, all taxes or any installments thereof then due and payable for the year for which review is sought must have been paid...."

Conclusion: Tax Court decided taxes to be paid before further appeal of a tax board's determination could be heard by said Court were those resulting from the original assessment, not those from a subsequent value increase by a board at appeal.

Analysis: The Court noted that while prior courts have upheld the payment of taxes on an original assessment as a statutory prerequisite to appeal, no case or statute specifically addressed the payment of taxes when a county board had increased the original assessment. In its reasoning, it utilized case law and statute concerning tax refunds rather than payments. Woodcliff Management v. North Bergen Twp., 106 N.J. Super. 292 (App. Div. 1969) ordered refunds of several years taxes for assessments reduced via county tax board appeal where judgments were final, but for the year still under appeal refund was withheld until final adjudication. Statute N.J.S.A. 54:3-27.2, enacted in 1975 subsequent to Woodcliff, provides for property tax refunds within 60 days of the "date of final judgment" where a lesser assessment is granted. Wilshire Selby West v. Ramsey Boro., 6 N.J. Tax

60 (Tax 1983) examined the meaning of the statute's "date of final judgment" and confirmed refund deferral until all appeals were complete as appropriate. From the above, Tax Court concluded that if a refund of taxes cannot be paid on assessments lowered by a tax board but under appeal to the Court, payment of additional taxes from an assessment increased by a tax board cannot be required for appeal to the Court. The Court looked at the treatment of taxes for omitted assessments under appeal as well in Inwood Owners v. Little Falls Twp., 216 N.J. Super. 485 (App. Div.), cert. den., 108 N.J. 184 (1987). Here a request for dismissal for nonpayment of taxes from an omitted assessment was denied by reason that the tax payment necessary to allow appeal applied to conventional appeals only. The Appellate Division explained its denial saying, "[a] municipality does not rely on the collection of omitted taxes unknown during the budget process to operate its government or meet its expenses...."

Using Inwood, the Tax Court drew the same conclusion regarding an original assessment raised by a county board of taxation. Citing also Muscarella v. Saddle Brook Twp., 14 N.J. Tax 453, 457 (Tax 1995), Tax Court indicated, "The rationale behind the requirement that taxes be paid for the Tax Court to have jurisdiction over the contest of a local property tax assessment is to avoid putting the burden of an appealing taxpayer's unpaid property taxes on the other taxpayers in the taxing district...." As such burden was absent in the present circumstances, motion to dismiss for nonpayment of taxes was denied and the amount of the assessment was permitted to be reviewed by the Court.

Sales and Use Tax
Use Tax Applicable to Tangible Personal Property For Employee Programs – Fedway Associates, Inc. v. Director, Division of Taxation, Superior Court of New Jersey, Appellate Division, decided June 23, 1995.

The Appellate Court affirmed the Tax Court's determination that appellant was responsible for paying use tax under the Urban Enterprise Zones Act, N.J.S.A. 52:27H-79, on purchases of tangible personal property not exclusively used or consumed in the Urban Enterprise Zone. Appellant purchased tangible personal property for its employee incentive and marketing programs including napkins, corkscrews, calendars, golf bags and home electronic equipment. Appellate Court rejected appellant's contention that the Legislature intended for these items to be exempt from use tax under N.J.S.A. 52:27H-79, and held that appellant owed use tax on the purchases, plus interest, in the amount of $141,555.26.

Transfer Inheritance Tax
Inter Vivos Transfers – Meyerson v. Director, Div. of Taxation, 15 N.J. Tax 128 (Tax Court, decided September 29, 1995).

The Tax Court decided in this case that inter vivos transfers to decedent's niece and grandnieces were in contemplation of death and therefore subject to transfer inheritance tax.

To determine whether the transfer was a substitute for a testamentary disposition, and thus in contemplation of death, the Court said that it considers (1) the age and general health of the donor at the time of the gift; (2) the time between the inter vivos transfer and the death; (3) whether or not the transfer was part of a testamentary scheme or plan; and (4) whether or not the gift was made to the natural objects of the donor's bounty.

The Court then found that the decedent was almost 91 years old and had a serious heart condition when the trusts were created. The decedent passed away two years after the gifts were made. That the inter vivos dispositions and the testamentary dispositions were identical evidenced that the gifts were part of a testamentary plan. Also, the loving relationship and the terms of the will showed that the gifts were made to the natural object of the decedent's bounty.

Plaintiff, executor of decedent's estate, argued that the trusts for the grandnieces were "life-motivated" as shown through their short duration and use for the grandnieces' education.

The Court disagreed, saying that irrespective of any life associated motives, a gift is made in the contemplation of death "if an impelling motive exists to make a present disposition in lieu of a testamentary disposition." Even though the grandnieces were the income beneficiaries of trusts created for educational assistance, the Court pointed out that upon termination of the trusts the principal thereof was payable to the trust created for the benefit of the decedent's niece. "[A] disposition," the Court continued, "with a palpable post mortem aspect."

Pursuant to N.J.S.A. 54:34-1, the Court found that the transfer inheritance tax was properly imposed on the gifts made in. □

In Our Legislature

Gross Income Tax

Local Payroll Taxes — P.L. 1996, c.33 (signed into law on June 17, 1996) amends P.L. 1970, c.326 to extend the expiration date and limit enactment of certain payroll taxes under the "Local Tax Authorization Act." It preserves Newark's, but removes Jersey City's power to impose a local payroll tax. This legislation is effective immediately and is retroactive to January 1, 1996.

New Property Tax Deduction — P.L. 1996, c.60 (signed into law on July 4, 1996) provides a gross income tax deduction that phases in over three years to reach a maximum of up to $10,000 for property taxes paid by homeowners or the rental equivalent paid by tenants. The deduction applies to a taxpayer's principal residence in this State. For tax years beginning in 1996, 50% of property taxes or the rental equivalent not in excess of $5,000 may be deducted. For tax years beginning in 1997, 75% not in excess of $7,500 may be deducted.

The Act provides for a guaranteed minimum benefit of $25 for tax year 1996, $37.50 for tax year 1997, and $50 in each year thereafter. This legislation is effective immediately and applies to taxable years beginning on or after January 1, 1996.

Local Property Tax

New Jersey Urban Redevelopment Act — P.L. 1996, c.62 (signed into law on July 12, 1996) creates the New Jersey Redevelopment Authority (NJRA) to assist in the revitalization of New Jersey's urban areas. The NJRA is given bonding authority with an annual bonding cap of $100 million.

In addition, the Act creates a framework under which properties declared as abandoned based on their condition may be acquired in an abbreviated manner and redeveloped. The Act also authorizes the use of payments in lieu of taxes as a financing method for redevelopment projects.

The legislation also establishes a neighborhood empowerment program through which certain municipalities may be made eligible for financial assistance from the NJRA. This new statute also sets forth procedures for remediating contaminated properties.

The Act appropriates $9 million from the General Fund to the NJRA and $1 million from the General Fund to the Office of Neighborhood Empowerment. This legislation is effective on the 60th day following enactment except for the section establishing the New Jersey Redevelopment Authority, which is effective immediately.

Miscellaneous

State Mandate Legislation — P.L. 1996, c.24 (signed into law on May 8, 1996) implements the constitutional amendment, approved by the voters at the 1995 general election, prohibiting laws enacted on or after January 17, 1996 and regulations adopted after July 1, 1996 that impose unfunded mandates on counties, municipalities, and school districts. The Act creates a Council on Local Mandates, as required by the constitutional amendment, to resolve disputes as to whether a statute, rule or regulation constitutes an unfunded State mandate.

The Act provides that any such law or rule that is determined to be an unfunded mandate upon boards of education, counties or municipalities shall cease in its effect and shall expire. An unfunded mandate is one that does not authorize resources to offset the additional direct expenditures it requires. An unfunded mandate does not establish a standard of care for the purpose of civil liability. This legislation is effective immediately.

Business Relocation Assistance Grant Program

— P.L. 1996, c.25 (signed into law on May 9, 1996) establishes a Business Relocation Assistance Grant Program within the Department of Commerce and Economic Development to encourage economic development and job creation in this State. To the extent that funding is available from the General Fund, and with certain other restrictions, the program will provide grants for up to fifty percent of the cost of relocation to businesses which relocate to the State and create a minimum of 25 new full-time jobs in the State. However, an individual grant may not exceed 80% of the projected new income tax revenues realized from the new

in our legislature - from pg. 21
jobs created by the grant applicant.

The grants under this bill will not be disbursed in any year until the new income tax revenues equal or exceed the amount of the grant, and grant amounts are further limited by their interaction with other grant programs. This legislation is effective immediately.

Business Employment Incentive Program — P.L. 1996, c.26 (signed into law on May 9, 1996) establishes the Business Employment Incentive Program to be administered by the Economic Development Authority to make direct payments in the form of grants to attract businesses creating new jobs in the State. The amount of an employment incentive grant will equal a percentage, between 10% and 80%, of the total amount of State income taxes withheld by the business during a calendar year for the new employees hired. The employment incentive can be authorized for a fixed number of years, not to exceed 10.

The grants under this bill will not be disbursed in any year until the new income tax revenues received from the business during the year equal or exceed the amount of the grant, and grant amounts are further limited by their interaction with other grant programs.

In addition, the bill grants a sales and use tax exemption for certain property purchased by a provider of cable/satellite television services, whether the provider is licensed by the Federal Communications Commission or not. This legislation is effective immediately. □

Revised Due Dates For NJ-941/NJ-941-W

As reported in the Summer 1996 edition of the State Tax News, effective July 1, 1996 all employers and others required to withhold and remit New Jersey income tax are required to file a new quarterly return (NJ-941 or NJ-941-W). A return must be filed for each quarter regardless of the amount of withholdings. The Division has changed the due dates of these quarterly returns. Both returns are now due on or before the last day of the month following the close of the calendar quarter. This change applies only to Forms NJ-941 and NJ-941-W.

New Rebate InfoLine

With 1995 Homestead Rebate checks being mailed early this year (see related article on page 3), many taxpayers have already used the Division's Homestead Rebate InfoLine. The Homestead Rebate InfoLine is the newest addition to our Automated Tax Information System. Touch-tone phone users within New Jersey who have questions regarding their rebates can call 1-800-323-4400 to obtain information. Taxpayers will need information from their rebate application when calling the InfoLine.

Employer Income Tax Filing Changes

Effective July 1, 1996, employers required to withhold and remit New Jersey income tax from their employees' pay will be filing one of two new quarterly reconciliation forms, Form NJ-941 or Form NJ-941-W. These new forms take the place of the quarterly NJ-500 which the employer was previously required to file. All employers are required to file Form NJ-941 (or Form NJ-941-W) for each calendar quarter, regardless of the level of tax actually due for a particular quarter. Form NJ-941/NJ-941-W is due on the fifteenth day of the month following the close of the calendar quarter. The one exception to this is the return filed for the quarter ending December 31, which is due January 31st. All employers are still required to file the year-end reconciliation, Form NJ-W-3.

As of July 1, 1996, employers will be required to remit tax on a monthly, quarterly or accelerated basis. Employers with a prior year liability of $20,000 or more for employer income tax withholdings will be required to remit State income tax on an accelerated basis. (Note that this $20,000 threshold is also the current threshold for the Electronic Funds Transfer (EFT) program. Vendors/employers with a prior year liability of at least $20,000 in any tax are now required to make all State tax payments via EFT.) Accelerated payors must remit State income tax withheld on or before the Wednesday of the week following the week containing the pay day(s) on which the taxes were withheld. Accelerated State income tax payors will be required to file a quarterly reconciliation, Form NJ-941-W.

Employers not required to remit tax on an accelerated basis will be required to file Form NJ-500 returns and remit tax on a monthly basis for either of the first two months in a calendar quarter when tax due for the month(s) is $500 or more. Tax due for the third month is remitted with the quarterly reconciliation, Form NJ-941. When tax due for either of the first two months of the quarter is less than $500, that tax may be held by the employer and remitted with Form NJ-941.

File as follows:

- Quarterly: Form NJ-941 for every quarter, due on the 15th of the month following the close of the quarter; January 31st, for the fourth quarter.
- Monthly: Form NJ-500 (if required) for either or both of the first two months in quarter when tax due for the month(s) is $500 or more. (Form NJ-941 must be filed for the third month of that quarter and as a reconciliation of the entire quarter.)
- Accelerated: Tax remitted on an accelerated basis via electronic funds transfer; Form NJ-941-W filed as a quarterly reconciliation.

The semi-annual filing and payment for January 1, 1996 through June 30, 1996 remains due on July 15, 1996. Both semi-monthly and semi-annual filings will be eliminated for tax withholding periods from July 1, 1996 forward. □

SALES AND USE TAX Changes in Filing Requirements

The Division of Taxation has adopted a new rule, N.J.A.C. 18:24-11.3, and amended an existing rule, N.J.A.C. 18:24-11.2, to change the procedures for the filing of sales and use tax returns and the payment of use tax effective July 1, 1996. The new regulations increase the filing threshold for the monthly sales and use tax return, and make it possible for some nonvendor businesses to file use tax returns on an annual basis. The new monthly threshold will be reflected on the ST-50/51 booklets being mailed this month.

Monthly Filing Threshold

The threshold for filing the Sales and Use Tax Monthly Return (Form ST-51) has been increased to $500. Previously, taxpayers were required to file Form ST-51 when their tax liability for either of the first two months of the calendar quarter was more than $100.

Businesses that are required to use Forms ST-50 and ST-51 to report their sales and use tax liability must continue to file a Sales and Use Tax Quarterly Return (Form ST-50) every quarter, even for quarters when no tax is due.

Annual Use Tax Return

Under the new regulations, non-vendors whose annual use tax liability for the previous three calendar years averaged $2,000 or less may now file the new Annual Business Use Tax Return (Form ST-18B) to report purchases which are subject to New Jersey Use Tax and pay any tax due. This annual return covers purchases made during the calendar year (Jan. 1 – Dec. 31), and must be filed on or before May 1 of the following year if any use tax is due.

“Nonvendors” are those businesses or other entities registered with the Division of Taxation that do not either (1) sell taxable goods or services or (2) lease taxable property to others.

Nonvendors eligible to file the Annual Business Use Tax Return (Form ST-18B) will no longer report and remit their occasional use tax liabilities on the Use Tax Remittance (Form ST-18). Form ST-18 will be used only by individuals.

Nonvendor businesses that qualify to use Form ST-18B, but are currently filing regular sales and use tax returns (Forms ST-50/51), or are on a nonreporting basis for sales tax, must contact the Division to request a change in their el-

Nonvendors who are now filing Forms ST-50/51, and whose average annual use tax liability for the previous three calendar years was greater than $2,000, must continue to file Forms ST-50 and ST-51.

Nonvendor businesses are not required to file Form ST-18B for any calendar year in which they do not owe use tax. Taxpayers that had already reported and paid their use tax for 1995 with either Forms

ST-50/51 or ST-18 were not required to file the Form ST-18B due May 1, 1996.

Note: Only nonvendor businesses may use the new Annual Business Use Tax Return (Form ST-18B). Businesses that are required to collect and remit sales tax, or that lease taxable property to others, must use Forms ST-50 and ST-51 to report and pay both their sales and use tax liabilities. □

Use Tax Filing by Businesses

The New Jersey Division of Taxation has changed the procedures for the filing of sales and use tax returns and the payment of use tax by businesses. The changes are summarized as follows:

	Prior to July 1, 1996	As of July 1, 1996
Vendors	Those vendors on a reporting basis for sales and use tax filed Form ST-50 (quarterly return) every quarter even when no tax was due. Use tax due for the quarter was reported on Line 5, "Use Tax," of Form ST-50. If the sales and use tax liability exceeded $100 (monthly threshold for the first and/or second month of the quarter), business also had to file a monthly return (Form ST-51) with payment for that month.	Same, except monthly threshold has been increased to $500.
Nonvendors	If use tax was due on a regular basis or as a result of a recent self-audit, business had to submit Form ST-50 every quarter, even when no tax was owed. Use tax liability, if any, was reported on Line 5, Form ST-50.	Nonvendors whose average use tax liability for the previous three years was over $2,000 must continue to file Forms ST-50 and ST-51. Monthly threshold has been increased to $500.
	If use tax was due infrequently, the business was not placed on a reporting basis for sales and use tax. The business used Form ST-18 (same form used by individuals) to report and remit use tax within 20 days of incurring liability.	Nonvendors whose average use tax liability for the previous three years was $2,000 or less file the new Annual Business Use Tax Return (Form ST-18B) by May 1 of the calendar year following a year when a use tax liability was incurred.

P.L. 1995, c.184, approved July 25, 1995, amends the New Jersey Sales and Use Tax Act to eliminate the sales and use tax on receipts from the sale of advertising space in a telecommunications user or provider directory or index distributed in this State.

This change, which became effective April 1, 1996, applies to directories or indexes distributed on or after that date. However, sales of advertising space in directories or indexes distributed prior to April 1, 1996 remain subject to sales tax.

For example, if a client purchases "yellow pages" advertising on March 15, 1996 to appear in a directory or index to be distributed on April 1, 1996, the charge for advertising space would be exempt from sales tax. However, if a client

Corporate Seminars Offered

The Division participates in a series of one day corporate seminars targeted at either newly incorporated businesses or citizens planning to open corporations in New Jersey. The seminars are jointly sponsored by the New Jersey Departments of State, Commerce and Economic Development, Labor as well as Treasury/ Taxation.

Representing the concept of one stop shopping, citizens are presented a wealth of vital information on the incorporation process, tax registration, collecting and remitting sales tax, the Corporation Business Tax, and more. Representatives from each department are on hand to make formal presentations and to answer questions.

Entrepreneurs seeking to form corporations or other business enterprises are encouraged to attend these seminars which provide invaluable information and also present numerous opportunities to network with peers and State officials who serve as advocates for the business community.

The initial 1996 Corporate seminar was held on March 20, 1996 at Mercer County Community College. An enthusiastic overflow audience attended the seminar. The schedule for the remainder of 1996 includes:

June 19 – Bergen Cty. Community College in Paramus

Sept. 18 – Stockton State College near Atlantic City

Nov. 6 – Brookdale Community College in Lincroft

To find out about registration information call the Department of State at (609) 530-6494. □

Filing NJ-1065
Information on Diskette

The New Jersey Division of Taxation accepts NJ-1065 Partnership Directory and NJK-1 information on diskette. The NJ-1065 Partnership Return, Schedule A and Schedule NJ-NR-A must be filed on the paper return. The diskette must be filed with the NJ-1065 Partnership Return.

The diskette filing of Partnership Directory and NJK-1 information is permitted for partnerships with a minimum of twenty-five partners. The diskette filing will reduce the burden on large partnerships of filing voluminous paper documents and enable the Division of Taxation to more efficiently process the information.

3½" or 5¼" MS-DOS compatible diskettes are required. The New Jersey Division of Taxation prefers 3½" diskettes, although 5¼" diskettes are being accepted at this time.

To be accepted, a diskette must meet the specifications established by the Division of Taxation. A copy of the specifications can be obtained by writing to the following address:

CORPORATION TAX Reporting Refunds of State Tax

Inquiries have been received by the Division concerning the proper reporting method of state tax refunds for Corporation Business Tax purposes.

As a result of legislation enacted in July 1993, corporations with return periods beginning after July 3, 1993 are required to add back the amount of taxes paid to the United States, a possession or territory of the United States, a state, a political subdivision thereof or the District of Columbia measured by profits or income, business presence or activity which were deducted in arriving at Federal taxable income before net operating loss and special deductions. In the event a taxpayer deducted an amount greater than its final tax liability and has recently received a refund of the difference, this refund must be reported as other income rather than netting down the current year's expense. This is particularly important for refunds from states, other than New Jersey, for periods prior to July 1993, when no add back was required for New Jersey purposes.

By observing this reporting mechanism, taxpayers are able to accurately report tax refunds and prevent the possibility of overstating prior years' expense. □

SALES AND USE TAX

Corporate Purchasing Cards

A taxpayer wrote to the Division regarding the acceptability under N.J.S.A. 54:32B-16 of the Sales and Use Tax Act of "Corporate Purchasing Card Sales Tax Reporting," a reporting system to be sold in New Jersey by the American Express Travel Related Services Company, Inc.

Briefly stated, the corporate purchasing and tax reporting system is intended to eliminate purchase orders. In addition, vendors would not necessarily issue paper invoices to their corporate customers. Instead, corporate clients would receive a monthly consolidated statement from American Express of all corporate card purchases.

To address the need to provide sales and use tax documentation for paperless transactions, participating vendors will be asked to electronically transmit specific sale-related data to American Express. On a monthly basis, American Express will furnish their corporate clients with either a print-out or a tamper-proof computer disk containing all sales-related data received by American Express from their vendors, respectively. The data will contain a product description; the name, state and zip code of the corporate card user; and the card user's cost center. The sales tax reporting system will also list the total amount billed, the tax amount and the tax rate.

In most instances when goods are shipped by the vendor to the card user, the data can precisely identify the taxing state or other jurisdiction through the state, city and zip code listing. In some cases, however, only the zip code may be entered.

N.J.S.A. 54:32B-16 requires vendors to keep sales and purchase records as the Division may require and make them available for inspection or examination upon demand.

Pursuant to N.J.A.C. 18:24-2.4, New Jersey registered vendors may maintain summary sales records which show, at a minimum, sales location, total receipts and taxable receipts. Summary records are not deemed adequate evidence of the accuracy of an exemption certificate. N.J.A.C. 18:24-2.5(b). In the case of out-of-State sales, the vendor is required to maintain records for each sale which show the nature of item sold, the transaction date, the name and address of the purchaser and the method of delivery to the out-of-State location. N.J.A.C. 18:24-2.6. With respect to purchase records, New Jersey busi-

Electronic Filing

- ◆ Are you filing Federal income tax returns electronically?
- ◆ Would you like to file New Jersey income tax returns electronically?

Beginning in 1996 (1995 tax returns), the New Jersey Division of Taxation will accept electronically filed income tax returns.

For additional information, call the Division's Hotline at (609) 588-2200 or write New Jersey Division of Taxation, ELF, CN 191, Trenton, NJ 08646-0191

nesses must maintain records which disclose the name and addresses of vendors from whom purchases were made, the amounts, the dates of purchase and the nature of the items purchased. N.J.A.C. 18:24-2.8. The records of a vendor may be found insufficient or inadequate under N.J.A.C. 18:24-2.15, in which case, the Division may determine and assess the correct tax due using any information available. N.J.S.A. 54:32B-19.

The description of the Corporate Purchasing Card Sales Tax Reporting System indicates that it will satisfy the stated requirements of N.J.A.C. 18:24-2.4, as recited above if the vendor records and maintains or receives the same information on a transaction as that communicated to American Express. Further, the minimum stated requirements of N.J.A.C. 18:24-2.6, regarding business purchase records, are also satisfied. Accordingly, Division auditors will accept records produced under the Corporate Purchasing Card Sales Tax Reporting System for inspection and examination.

In those transactions where the tax situs of a sale can be determined and the tax due is separately stated on the customer listing, the system is an acceptable substitute for vendor invoices. If the information on the report is incomplete or the tax is not separately stated, the customer may continue to be liable for payment of any applicable sales or use tax.

In those transactions where the tax situs of the sale cannot be determined, the information contained in the system would be acceptable proof of the date and amount of the transaction. Other supporting evidence would be required to establish the correct taxing jurisdiction and tax application.

In all transactions using the Corporate Purchasing Card Sales Tax Reporting System, as with traditional vendor generated invoices, if data about the transaction is incomplete or insufficient, or if tax collected by the vendor is not separately stated, then the vendor may be liable for payment of sales tax on the transaction. Similarly, the purchaser may be liable for payment of use tax in a use tax transaction. In addition, just as with non-Corporate Purchasing Card transactions, the vendor and the purchaser must retain documentation to substantiate an exemption from tax. □

INHERITANCE/ESTATE TAX Changing Domicile

As noted by the article entitled "Domicile" in the Spring 1996 issue of the New Jersey State Tax News, a decedent's domicile will determine the individual state death taxes to which his/her estate will be subject. Commonly encountered state death taxes include: inheritance tax, estate tax, estate tax with Federal credit, gift tax, or some combination of these.

The death tax consequence of domicile varies between states and can be significant. And, in one landmark case on domicile, both New Jersey and Pennsylvania imposed their death taxes on the same estate. See In re Dorrance, 115 N.J. Eq. 268, (Prerog. Ct. 1934), aff'd., 13 N.J. Misc. 168 (Sup. Ct. 1935), aff'd., 116 N.J.L. 362 (E. & A. 1936), cert. den. 298

U.S. 678 (1936), reh. den. 298 U.S. 692 (1936).

More than superficial attention must be given to death tax aspects of domicile. If not, a person may believe that he or she has established domicile for death tax purposes when, in fact, they have not. Consider the example of Inez Duff Bishop who endeavored cosmetically to preserve a New Jersey domicile by maintaining a home here, by voting in New Jersey, and in the filing of her tax returns. Despite her attempts, however, the Court determined that her efforts had failed. Citizens Bank and Trust Company v. Glaser, 70 N.J. 72 (1976).

The New Jersey courts have stated that domicile is very much a matter of the mind — of intention. Accordingly, the concurrent elements relied upon by our courts to evidence a change of domicile include "an actual and physical taking up of an abode in a particular State, accompanied by an intention to make one's home there permanently or at least indefinitely, and to abandon the old domicil." Lyon v. Glaser, 60 N.J. 259 at 264 (1972).

As to a person's motivation for changing his domicile, our courts have stated that "a person has the right to choose his own domicil and his motive in doing so is immaterial. The change may be to avoid taxation, so long as the necessary ingredients for the establishment of a new domicil are present." Id.

A common misconception is that some statutory minimum period of residency is required to establish

domicile. Instead, our courts have noted that “a very short period of residency may be sufficient to show domicil, but mere residency, regardless of its length, is not sufficient.” Id. See also Citizens Bank and Trust Company v. Glaser, supra at 81.

Neither is the individual character or relative pretentiousness of the living quarters, in the case of multiple residences, determinative of domicile. Our courts have ruled in one case that a decedent, who owned a home in New Jersey, had changed her domicile to Florida despite the fact that her stay in Florida was short, in a nursing home, and she had no permanent home in Florida. The Court found that the character of the living quarters is immaterial once there is a residence such as a nursing home, a hotel or a boarding house and an intention to remain in a state permanently. O'Hara v. Glaser, 60 N.J. 239 (1972). See also In re Dorrance, supra at 275.

Nor, our courts have stated, are “declarations as to the place of domicile controlling where they conflict with the fact, or were prompted by a desire to avoid taxation.” In re Michelsohn, 136 N.J. Eq. 387 at 390 (1944). While recitals as to domicile in a will, trust, tax return or other formal document may be evidential, they are not conclusive. See Matter of Unanue, 255 N.J. Super. 362 (1991).

Intent is the acid-test element which determines whether a person who has changed residence has also changed domicile. A person “does not relinquish his domicile by having another residence based on reasons of health, society, business or employment.” Id. at 375.

A basic tenet established by the New Jersey courts, however, is that “a home or residence in another state is commonly regarded as prima facie evidence of domicil and, the longer the period of the new residence the stronger the prima facie case becomes.... When a residence is taken up elsewhere, a presumption arises that the original residence has been abandoned.” Lyon v. Glaser, supra at 277-78.

On rare occasions, investigation by the Transfer Inheritance and Estate Tax Branch has established that a reasonable doubt existed regarding a decedent's domicile. In such cases the Director, Division of Taxation, has entered into a compromise with the other state pursuant to N.J.A.C. 18:26-4.1 fixing the amount of Transfer Inheritance Tax acceptable in satisfaction of this State's claim. Use of this procedure has been successful in avoiding the risks inherent in litigation. □

CONFERENCE & APPEALS Protest Issues

A significant number of protests are received by the Division's Conference and Appeals Branch every month which protest legal issues that have already been addressed and resolved by the Tax Court of New Jersey, and sustained on appeal. A hearing before the Conference and Appeals Branch can take one of three forms: in person, via telephone or “on the papers.” Final Determinations are routinely issued pursuant to a hearing on the papers for taxpayers whose protest relates to legal issues already litigated and ruled on by the courts. In such instances, the determination made is based upon (1) the taxpayer's written protest (N.J.A.C. 18:1-1.8), (2) the Division of Taxation's records and (3) the existing court opinion(s).

Currently, the most common issues that are resolved in this manner are Gross Income Tax cases that involve credit for taxes paid to other jurisdictions, including credit for taxes claimed paid on S corporation distributions, and the applicability of the Federal Tax Benefit Rule.

Some of the published cases for the credit for taxes paid to other jurisdictions include:

Chin v. Director, 14 N.J. Tax 305 – Worldwide Income.

Widder v. Director, 14 N.J. Tax 349 – Return Instructions.

Willett v. Director, 10 N.J. Tax 102 – Numerator Calculation; Separate Calculations for Each Jurisdiction.

Berlin v. Director, 13 N.J. Tax 405 – Loss Reducing Numerator of the Credit Calculation.

Ambrose v. Director, 198 N.J. Super. 546 – Deductions from the Numerator.

Neilson v. Director, 4 N.J. Tax 438 – Deductions from the Numerator.

Sorenson v. Director, 2 N.J. Tax 470, 184 N.J. Super. 393 – Amount Actually Taxed by Both States.

jurisdictions:

Laurite v. Director, 12 N.J. Tax 483 – Method to Use to Determine If There Can Be Any Credit.

Several decisions have been published regarding the inapplicability of the Federal Tax Benefit Rule to the New Jersey Gross Income Tax Act. In Spinella v. Director (13 N.J. Tax 305) and Vasudev v. Director (13 N.J. Tax 223), the Court discussed the applicability of this Federal principle. In an unpublished opinion, Grabis v. Director (Tax Court Docket No. 14-24-1005-88GI), the Court upheld the application of the statute (N.J.S.A. 54A:5-2) requiring each tax year to stand on its own, i.e. losses or deductions not used in the year incurred are lost and cannot be used in another year. □

Tax Amnesty Outreach Program

As part of the Divisionwide Amnesty Outreach program, the Conference and Appeals Branch sent letters to all taxpayers who had conferences pending before the Division and would otherwise be eligible for the Tax Amnesty program or who had recently been issued Final Determinations. This initiative was taken to insure that those taxpayers who had protested an assessment were made aware of the Amnesty program. Under the statute, tax issues that were currently under the Judicial or Administrative appeal process were not automatically eligible for Amnesty. Taxpayers were informed of the Amnesty program and provided with a form they could use to either withdraw their protest and request Amnesty on the outstanding tax liability or indicate that they wished to continue their protest and not apply for Amnesty. Acceptance of Amnesty and full payment of the tax ended the appeal process for that specific issue or period under protest. In addition, as new protests were received by the Branch, the taxpayers were notified of the Tax Amnesty program at the time the protest was acknowledged. □

LOCAL PROPERTY TAX "Effective"

Property Tax Rates

Although the general tax rate is used to calculate the annual taxes within a municipality, it cannot be used to measure the burden of real property taxes among municipalities. To accomplish this an effective tax rate must be applied to the same market value for properties in municipalities where a comparison of tax burdens is desired.

Effective tax rates are "equalized" so that they indicate the rates as they would be if property were assessed at true value, i.e., market value rather than taxable value. For example, the taxes on a property with a market value of $150,000 in the Borough of Roosevelt would be expected to be $6,189 ($150,000 x .04126), whereas in Cape May Point Borough the taxes on a property with the same market value would be expected to be $1,347 ($150,000 x .00898).

Below are two lists of municipalities ranked in the order of the twelve highest and twelve lowest effective tax rates in New Jersey.

Municipality	Highest Effective Tax Rates

Disabled Vet's Exemption Prorated

N.J.S.A. 54:4-3.31 permits, in part, property tax exemptions of New Jersey resident honorably discharged permanently and totally disabled U.S. war veterans or their surviving spouses to be "...prorated by the assessor for the remainder of any taxable year from the date the claimant shall have acquired title to the real property intended to be exempt by this act.”

The Handbook for New Jersey Assessors at section 305.1

(Chapter III, p.45) further clarifies the starting point for exemption, “Certain war veterans...are granted full tax exemption on their dwelling house and the lot or curtilage on which it is located, as of the date the property is acquired by such a veteran, or as of the date the veteran property owner is declared to be totally or 100% permanently disabled by the U.S. Veterans Administration.”

For example, where a qualified disabled claimant makes application on June 1st of the tax year with respect to his dwelling acquired on February 14th of the tax year, and the assessment on the property is $24,000, the pro-rated amount of the assessment to be taxed is $2,893 or 44/365th’s. The remaining 321/365th’s of the assessment, or $21,107 is exempt for the tax year.

The exemption ceases by reason of change in ownership or domiciliary residence in the dwelling as of the first day of the month following the date of the change. (Handbook, Chapter III, p.49) □

Criminal Enforcement

Criminal Enforcement over the past several months included:

- A criminal investigation of Emerald Hotels discovered nearly $1.25 million in unpaid New Jersey taxes for the period January 1988 through August 1995. As the criminal case developed, 10 corporations owning hotel and motel franchises throughout the State were identified as being part of the scheme to evade payment of State taxes. The findings concluded that over a million dollars of sales tax had not been paid. In addition, outstanding income tax and corporation business tax liabilities totaled more than $235,000. These liabilities are all subject to late filing and payment penalty and interest charges mandated by law.

As part of a plea agreement, Moshe (Michael) Gohar and Larry J. Ansell, co-presidents of the operating company, Emerald Hotels Management Company Inc., both pled guilty in the Monmouth County Superior Court on February 7, 1996 to one count of failure to make payment of taxes with the intent to evade. In addition, the corporation pled to a one-count violation of misapplication of entrusted funds, a second degree crime. The total amount of tax, penalty and interest presently owed is approximately $3 million. A minimum payment of $850,000 must be made on or before their date of sentencing with pre-arranged monthly payments to follow until the liability is satisfied.

- On March 5, 1996, Irving Benett, of Hackensack, New Jersey, was named in an eight-count indictment by a State Grand Jury charging misapplication of entrusted property, misconduct by a corporate official, unlawful sale of securities, and four counts of filing false personal income tax returns for the 1990 through 1993 tax periods.

Benett, the former director of Snak-Tech Inc., Snak-Tech Enterprises Corp., Snak-Tech Trading Corp., Snak-Tech Manufacture Corp., Snak-Tech Research Corp., and president of La Casita Mexican Foods Inc., solicited nearly $1 million from approximately 100 investors under the pretense that the money would be used on behalf of these corporations to fund an initial public stock offering or to purchase manufacturing facilities. According to the indictment, Benett spent the money on personal expenses.

The case resulted from a joint investigation effort between the Division of Criminal Justice's Securities/Fraud Unit and Taxation's Office of Criminal Investigation.

- On March 7, 1996, three State Grand Jury indictments were unsealed charging 12 men alleged to have affiliations with the Genovese crime family with operating a sports betting and loan sharking ring in New Jersey since 1983. In addition to the eight counts for tax evasion, the initial 19-count indictment charged racketeering, conspiracy, criminal usury, promoting gambling, and possession of gambling records.

Charged with tax evasion were William Cappiello of Long Branch, Andre Domando of Belleville, Anthony Gulla of West Caldwell, and Allan Pilione of Clinton.

All four were charged with filing fraudulent 1994 State income tax returns and failing to pay tax on income received from illegal gambling activities.

The indictments were the result of a joint investigation by the New Jersey State Police, the Federal Bureau of Investigation, Union and Monmouth County Prosecutors' Offices, New York City Police, the Office of Criminal Investigation of the New Jersey Division of Taxation and the New Jersey Division of Criminal Justice.

- William Becker of Marlton was indicted on February 29, 1996 by a Camden County Grand Jury. The 71-count indictment charges Becker with 35 counts of theft by deception, 34 counts of falsifying records, and one count each of failing to file and filing a fraudulent State income tax return.

- Jamil Satik Harham of Brooklyn, New York, was found guilty of transporting 475 cartons of untaxed cigarettes. The municipal judge imposed fines of $1,465 and awarded the confiscated cigarettes to the State.
- Three businesses pled guilty to noncompliance with the cigarette tax laws in municipal courts throughout the State during March 1996. United Candy and Tobacco Co., Inc. and Porto Fino Distributors sold cigarettes to an unlicensed dealer. Rustic Mill Diner sold cigarettes without a license. In addition, charges were filed against ten other businesses for selling cigarettes without a license or failing to register for New Jersey sales tax.
- On February 1, 1996, Joseph Maisto of Trenton, New Jersey, a former New Jersey Department of Corrections official, was indicted by a State Grand Jury in a bribery scheme involving an $8 million prison construction project. Mr. Maisto is charged with accepting $20,000 from two construction company officials in 1992 while he oversaw a project at the Wagner Youth Correctional Facility in Chesterfield, New Jersey. The nine-count indictment included charges for official misconduct, bribery, accepting unlawful gifts, filing a fraudulent State income tax return, and failing to pay taxes on $20,000 of unreported income. This case resulted from a joint investigation effort between the Division's Office of Criminal Investigation and Division of Criminal Justice's Official Corruption Unit.

- On February 1, 1996 Helen Haniak, the sole proprietor of Nardone's, a go-go bar in Newark, New Jersey, pled not guilty to an accusation involving the non-filing of sales tax returns. The not guilty plea before Judge Falcone in Essex County was accepted conditionally on Ms. Haniak's entry into the pre-trial intervention program for first offenders. Prior to the plea, the business was sold and the Division of Taxation received partial restitution in the amount of $55,000. Additional arrangements were made to satisfy the full restitution requirement of approximately $80,000 of taxes and accruing penalties and interest.
- Sheryl Terbecki was indicted on February 14, 1996 on eight counts of failing to file and timely pay State income tax. This case, involving theft through a phony investment scheme targeting senior citizens, was investigated jointly with the Ocean County Prosecutor's office.
- Roger Turner, t/a Expert Maintenance, was indicted on six counts relating to State tax issues on January 22, 1996 by the Monmouth County Grand Jury. This Asbury Park janitorial contractor was part of the underground economy and failed to collect and remit nearly $8,300 in sales tax and file returns for the period 1991-1995.

- Sussama Abraham, t/a Priya Grocery, Eduard Yelinskiy, and Melvut Gar each pled guilty to noncompliance with the cigarette tax laws in municipal courts throughout the State during the month. Included in the charges were the failure to register for sales tax, selling cigarettes without a license, and the possession of untaxed cigarettes. These three cases resulted in the imposition of fines and penalties totaling $1,925 and the awarding of a seized 1987 Ford van to the Division.
- One cigarette tax case resulted in the arrest of Ruo Long Liu for transporting and possessing 533 cartons of untaxed cigarettes. Both the cigarettes and a Chevrolet van were seized. □

Enforcement Summary

Civil Collection Actions Quarter Ending - March 31, 1996

Following is a summary of enforcement actions for the quarter ending March 31, 1996.

Certificates of Debt

During the quarter ended March 31, 1996, the Division filed 3,423 Certificates of Debt in New Jersey Superior Court. These COD's, which have the same force and effect as docketed judgments, totaled $28.6 million.

Levies

$2.5 million was collected by Field Investigations as a result of executing against 787 noncompliant taxpayers. In addition, $135,846 was collected by levying against payments made under State contracts to satisfy

debts owed by State vendors.

Seizures

When a liability, for which the Division of Taxation has secured judgments, cannot or will not be satisfied by a taxpayer and all other means of collection of the debt have been exhausted, seizure of the business and personal assets will take place. Field Investigators will close a business, seizing any tangible assets including licenses, inventory, machinery, furniture, vehicles, etc., until arrangements are made for payment of the debt.

For the quarter ending March 31, 1996, property of 13 businesses and two individual taxpayers was seized. Some businesses were able to reopen, others remain closed. A listing of these seizures appears on page 15.

Auctions

If the liability of a business seized by the Division is not satisfied or resolved, the business will remain closed. To satisfy the debt, the Division can sell the business assets at a public auction.

During the quarter ending March 31, 1996, four auctions were held by the Division. A listing follows on page 16.

In the event an auction does not net enough monies to resolve the debt, the Division will execute against the personal assets of any of the business's responsible officers. Responsible officers are held personally liable for the trust fund portion of the debt which includes, but is not limited to, sales tax, withholding tax and motor fuels tax. □

Tax Briefs

Corporation Business Tax

Regular Place of Business — A taxpayer inquired whether a New Jersey corporation which is in the business of renting heavy equipment to service customers in Pennsylvania and which has no office in Pennsylvania (or presumably any other state) is permitted to allocate income outside New Jersey.

Where a New Jersey corporation does not have a regular place of business outside the State it is not permitted to allocate. Under N.J.A.C. 18:7-8.3, however, it may be given a credit against tax for income duplicated on the tax return to another state. Further, relief may be requested under Section 8 of the Corporation Business Tax Act, if the credit relief is not sufficient or results in an inequity.

There is no authority to exclude the out-of-State sales receipts from New Jersey Corporation Business Tax gross income or from the denominator of the receipts fraction on the CBT-100 return as filed.

Gross Income Tax

Employer Group-Term Life Insurance Payments — An employer's payments toward the cost of the first $50,000 of group-term life insurance for an employee are excluded from New Jersey gross income only if they are also excluded for Federal income tax purposes. If the exclusion is disallowed for Federal income tax purposes because, for example, the plan is limited to "key employees," then the full amount of the benefit provided by the employer will be included in New Jersey gross income as well.

When the exclusion of the cost of the first $50,000 of coverage is allowed, the employee's New Jersey gross income must include the cost of coverage above $50,000 of group-term life insurance provided by the employer. This cost is determined the same way for New Jersey as for Federal purposes, i.e., according to the uniform premium cost table used by Internal Revenue Service.

The cost of this coverage above $50,000 is part of the employee's compensation. Therefore a New Jersey employer should incorporate.

Sales and Use Tax

Sale of Database — The Division responded to a company which manufactures databases for vendor catalogs, industry and international standards, military/Federal specifications and standards, electronic component data, logistics information and related documents. The data is indexed, cross referenced and provided in various electronic media forms, including CD-ROM, on-line, Internet, magnetic tape, and microfilm.

The sale of a database in tangible form (CD-ROM, magnetic tape, microfilm etc.) is subject to tax as the sale of tangible property. N.J.S.A. 54:32B-3(a). The sale of a database which is delivered electronically or via the Internet is not subject to sales tax because nothing tangible is transferred to the customer. N.J.S.A. 54:32B-2(g).

The majority of customers “subscribe” to the database rather than making an outright purchase. In this case, it appears that the customer is obtaining a license to use the database on a monthly basis. A license to use property is subject to tax in the same manner as an actual sale of the property. N.J.S.A. 54:32B-2(f). Thus, if the database is transferred in the form of CD-ROM, magnetic tape, etc., the license to use is subject to sales tax. If it is transferred electronically, it is not subject to tax.

Distribution of Promotional Materials — The Division responded to an inquiry concerning the use of a mailing house located in New Jersey to distribute catalogs and product samples both in-State and out-of-State.

The New Jersey Sales and Use Tax Act provides an exemption for advertising and promotional materials which are prepared within or outside of New Jersey for distribution by a New Jersey direct mail advertising or promotional firm to out-of-State recipients, and receipts from direct mail advertising processing services in connection with distribution of advertising and promotional materials to out-of-State recipients. N.J.S.A. 54:32B-8.39.

It was stated that the receipts from direct mail advertising material and advertising processing services are subject to tax in full only where the material is sent to addresses in New Jersey. Thus, if a New Jersey direct mail house is used and all of the catalogs and promotional items are delivered to recipients outside of New Jersey, no New Jersey sales or use tax is due on either the materials or the direct mail services.

Exempt Organization Motor Vehicle Raffles — The Division recently replied to an inquiry regarding the sales tax subjectivity of an automobile won in a raffle conducted by a New Jersey sales tax exempt organization.

There are two typical ways such car raffles are conducted:

1. Exempt Organization buys motor vehicle from dealer and takes title in their name — gives ST-5 to dealer — no tax — raffle winner pays no tax when he/she takes title from exempt organization — no consideration given for motor vehicle — fills out LS-240 at motor vehicle agency and checks off vehicle was a “gift” — no consideration — and enters on LS-240 “won in a charity raffle.”

2. Exempt Organization buys motor vehicle from dealer and raffles it off but doesn't take title in exempt organization's name. Title transfers directly from motor vehicle dealer to raffle winner — consideration is given for motor vehicle by exempt organization — ST-5 cannot be given since transfer is not titled in exempt organization's name — motor vehicle transfer is a sale and winner must pay tax to dealer who uses Sales Tax Satisfied Stamp to record tax paid.

According to the inquirer's specific situation, the dealer transferred title to the exempt organization, which gave the dealer an ST-5 exempt organization certificate to document their exempt sale.

Example #1 above would apply to this situation, and therefore, if the dealer has an ST-5 from the exempt organization they would not collect any tax on the second transaction changing title from the exempt organization to the raffle winner. □

Dismissal for Failure to Prosecute – Pipquarryco, Inc. Plaintiff, v. Hamburg Borough, Defendant, decided January 19, 1996; Tax Court of New Jersey; Docket No. 6306-95.

The issue before the N.J. Tax Court in this complaint was whether the plaintiff Pipquarryco's appeal was properly dismissed “with prejudice” by Sussex County Board of Taxation for “failure to prosecute.” If the Tax Board's dismissal was upheld, a further appeal to the Tax Court based on the actual facts or merits of the case could not be heard as per N.J.S.A. 54:51A-1(c)(2).

“Failure to prosecute” indicates that the plaintiff did not appear or did not provide factual evidence on which relief might be granted, e.g., proof of value. “With prejudice” indicates a final disposition barring the right to further appeal on the same claim.

One day prior to its County Tax Board hearing Pipquarryco tele-faxed its appraisal report to the Board, Hamburg Borough's tax assessor and their municipal attorney. The next day Pipquarryco's attorney appeared at the Board hearing with their appraiser and requested a temporary adjournment. The defendant Borough then asked for dismissal “with prejudice” for violation of N.J.A.C. 18:12A-1.9(h) which required evidential appraisal reports one week in advance of a hearing. The County Board rejected the plaintiff's reason for the lateness of the report and granted the Borough's request to dismiss the appeal “with prejudice.”

In ruling against Sussex County Tax Board, the Tax Court cited both Veeder v. Berkeley Twp. and S.A.I.J. Realty, Inc. v. Upper Deerfield Twp. which held that dismissal for “failure to prosecute” is appropriate only where “the conduct of the offending party is deliberate” or “deliberate and contemptuous” respectively. That the plaintiff's appraisal report was late was not “egregious” in the manner of Hudson Motor Lodge v. Jersey City, where an appraisal was provided on the day of a twice rescheduled trial, nor was Pipquarryco's timely appearance before the Board with an appraiser to request adjournment contemptuous etc. The Court noted that although the Board had a 3 month statutory deadline for completing appeal hearings to consider, it had the options of permitting the requested postponement or of dismissing “without prejudice” to allow the Tax Court to hear the facts of the dispute. Finally, in citing VSH Realty, Inc. v. Harding Twp. and Rutherford Realty Assoc. v. Borough of Rutherford, the Court made clear that the County Tax Board's first responsibility is to hear in a “meaningful way” and determine all appeals filed with it and to safeguard the taxpayer's opportunity to be heard. Court calendars and time constraints may not take precedence over the administering of justice and the reasonable accommodation of a taxpayer's rights.

Sales and Use Tax

Bulk Sales – New Jersey Hotel Holdings, Inc. v. Director, Division of Taxation, No. 007836-94 (Tax Ct., decided February 21, 1996).

Plaintiff acquired all of the assets of three hotel properties. It acquired the realty by way of deeds in lieu of foreclosure, and acquired the personalty by way of bills of sale. However, it did not give the Division the requisite notice prior to this bulk transfer. Because plaintiff failed to give the notice required under N.J.S.A. 54:32B-22(c), the Court held that it was liable for the sales and use tax liability of the transferor of the Tax Return Signature Requirement — P.L. 1996, c.10 (signed into law on March 28, 1996) changes the law concerning the written verification of gross income tax returns so that returns may be filed by telephone using a touch-tone telephone keypad. The act permits the Director of the Division of Taxation to promulgate regulations that will allow the use of voice signatures and other technologies to satisfy the signature requirements of the gross income tax. This legislation is effective immediately and applies to returns filed on and after January 1, 1996.

Miscellaneous

Tax Amnesty Program; Credit Card Payment System for State

Taxes — P.L. 1996, c.2 (signed into law on February 29, 1996) provides for a State tax amnesty period and appropriates funds to the Division to administer the program. The act also authorizes the use of credit cards, debit cards, or electronic funds transfer for payments of State taxes. This legislation is effective immediately. ☐

Tax Season Assistance

During the income tax season from January 1 through April 15, 1996, the Division provided assistance to many taxpayers in New Jersey. This year was marked by several service initiatives: the expansion of the electronic filing program; the introduction of TeleFile, a program which enables taxpayers to file income tax returns and homestead rebate applications by telephone; and on-line access to New Jersey tax information through the Division of Taxation's Home Page.

No Penalties. No Interest. No Kidding.

The State of New Jersey recently enacted a law (P.L. 1996, c.2) allowing for the payment of tax liabilities for State taxes administered and collected by the Division of Taxation, with no penalties, no interest, no cost of collection or the imposition of any civil or criminal penalties. The Amnesty Program will begin March 15, 1996 and will end June 1, 1996.

Tax Amnesty is part of an overall effort to increase compliance with State tax laws. The Amnesty program will provide for an increase in the collection process; reduction of backlogs of both deficient and delinquent taxpayers; identify new taxpayers not on our rolls; and provide an opportunity for anyone behind in their taxes to get back on the tax rolls in good shape.

State tax liabilities for tax returns due on and after January 1, 1987 and prior to January 1, 1996 are eligible for Amnesty. The law contains a provision for the imposition of a 5% penalty at the conclusion of the Amnesty period which shall not be subject to waiver or abatement, in addition to all other penalties, interest and cost of collection otherwise authorized by law.

Amnesty covers all State taxes payable to the New Jersey Division of Taxation including the Corporation Business Tax, Sales and Use Tax and Gross Income Tax. Amnesty does not cover taxes not administered and collected by the Division of Taxation such as local property tax, realty transfer fees and Federal liabilities.

The State will mail notices to approximately 600,000 individuals and businesses who currently owe the State back taxes. The State also plans to undertake a full-scale public awareness campaign that includes television, radio and print advertising, general information brochures and posters.

The Division is operating a special toll-free Amnesty hotline, 800-286-6613, that the public can call for information or materials.

The forms needed to file for Amnesty may also be obtained by:

- Calling the Division's TaxFax telephone number, 609-588-4500. You must call from your fax machine and the forms will be faxed to you.

Compliance Efforts Continuing

Part of the mission of the Division of Taxation has always been to monitor the compliance of individuals and businesses with the various taxing statutes.

In the past the Division has conducted compliance audits on individual taxpayers and businesses and has also identified groups of taxpayers for audit. For example, in a joint audit with the IRS, the Division identified and contacted accountants who had not filed returns.

Currently, in one project, field auditors are auditing liquor stores and restaurants for compliance with Sales and Use Tax, Gross Income Tax withholdings and corporation taxes.

Ongoing audits by the Gross Income Tax Audit Branch investigate the filing responsibilities of nonresidents who have New Jersey source income. Individuals who have business contacts with New Jersey through partnership or S corporation ownership are reminded to file nonresident returns indicating the income allocated to New Jersey through those businesses. Likewise, if an individual comes into New Jersey to perform at a New Jersey venue, to sell crafts at a show, to lecture at a seminar, or to do any work for which they receive income, he has a responsibility to file a nonresident return with the Division and pay taxes on the income earned in New Jersey.

With the Division's constant attention to compliance, any taxpayer or business that has not heretofore filed and paid associated taxes to New Jersey would do well to do so before the Division contacts them

Whether the Division contacts groups of taxpayers in specific projects or identifies individual nonfilers, the Division will continue to serve all New Jersey taxpayers by diligently adding new taxpayers to the tax rolls to ensure that all persons pay their correct portion. □

CORPORATION TAX Net Operating Loss After Merger

In Richard's Auto City, Inc. v. Director, Division of Taxation, New Jersey Supreme Court, 140 N.J. 523, decided June 21, 1995, the New Jersey Supreme Court reversed a judgment of the Appellate Division and reinstated the order of the Tax Court in favor of the Division, upholding the validity of N.J.A.C. 18:7-5.13(b).

Richard's Auto City, Inc., a New Jersey corporation, claimed on its 1986 Corporation Business Tax return a deduction for net operating losses (NOL's) incurred by its leasing subsidiary, Catena, Inc., during the years 1984, 1985 and 1986. Catena, Inc. was merged into Richard's Auto City in December 1986. The Director denied the deduction on the basis of N.J.A.C. 18:7-5.13(b). N.J.A.C. 18:7-5.13(b) provides that a net operating loss may only be carried over by the actual corporation that sustained the loss.

The Court stated that the language of N.J.S.A. 54:10A-4(k)(6), which provides for net operating loss carryovers, did not indicate a legislative intent to allow the transfer of tax deductions from an acquired corporation to the surviving corporation after a merger. The Court rejected the argument that the legislature intended to adopt the Federal tax scheme which allows for the carryover of NOL's by the surviving corporation. The Court also found that provisions of the Business Corporation Act, N.J.S.A. 14A:1-1 et seq., requiring the transfer of corporate attributes from an acquired corporation to a surviving corporation in a merger, were not to be read in pari materia with the Corporation Business Tax Act and therefore did not support the argument that a surviving corporation can use the tax deductions of a merged corporation. Finally, the Court ruled that the regulation applied retroactively to the effective date of the Corporation Business Tax Act provisions allowing for deduction of NOL's. □

CORPORATION TAX Corporation Tax Credits

A recent inquiry was made regarding the verification method used to document the net increase in employment required under the Manufacturing Equipment and Employment Investment Tax Credit (MEEITC). The taxpayer further questioned the criteria needed to prove the direct relationship between the manufacturing equipment placed in service and the increase in employment.

The Employment Investment portion of the credit is valid for each of the two tax years next succeeding the tax year for which the Manufacturing Equipment credit is allowed, but is limited to 3% of the investment credit base, not to exceed a maximum allowed amount for each of the two tax years of $1,000 multiplied by the increase in the average number of qualified employees.

The calculations for the credit are based on the increase in the average number of full-time employees and employee equivalents residing and domiciled in New Jersey employed at work locations in New Jersey from the employment base year to the employment measurement year.

Full-time employee means a New Jersey domiciled resident working for the taxpayer for at least 140 hours per month at a wage not less than the State or Federal minimum wage. In calculating the average, part-time employee hours may be aggregated to determine full-time equivalents (140 hours equals one full-time employee equivalent) provided the part-time employee has worked for the taxpayer for at least 20 hours per week for at least six months during the tax year.

To claim the employment portion of the credit, the taxpayer is not required to show any relationship between the purchase of manufacturing equipment and the increase in employment beyond the calculation required to determine the size of the credit. The calculation itself will generally indicate the relationship between the equipment and the increase in employment. The employment credit is limited to 3% of the "investment credit base," which is defined in N.J.S.A. 54:10A-5.17 as the cost of the qualified equipment. "Qualified equipment" is further defined as equipment purchased for manufacturing. The taxpayer should maintain employment records to support the claimed credit.

For additional information on the MEEITC, see "Tax Briefs" on page 12. □

CORPORATION TAX Delivery Services

The Division of Taxation has clarified its position regarding delivery of goods into the State by Non-Transportation and/or Delivery Service Companies for Corporation Business Tax purposes.

Any corporation not in the business of delivery or transport of goods (such as manufacturers, wholesalers, etc.) who delivers "their own" products in their own trucks to customers in New Jersey is deemed to be "doing business" in New Jersey pursuant to N.J.A.C. 18:7-1.9(b).

However, if the activities do not exceed mere delivery, this corporation would be protected under P.L. 86, c.272 and the minimum corporate tax would be due. Some of the activities that are considered to be beyond mere delivery would be pick-up, set-up, installation, removal, pouring, and inserting.

Any questions regarding delivery for Corporation Business Tax purposes should be directed (in writing) to:

CORPORATION TAX Joint Ventures

Inquiries have been received by the Division regarding factor representation of joint venture interests for Corporation Business Tax purposes. Since joint ventures are not separate legal entities for New Jersey tax purposes (see Wittner v. Metzger, 72 N.J. Super. 438, App. Div. 1962), the pro rata share of joint venture real and tangible personal property, receipts and wages both within and without New Jersey must be included in determining the corporate business allocation factor of the venturer. Similarly, the proportionate share of income and expense must be included in the co-venturer's taxable net income. This reflects the Division's historical position which is independent of any unitary/non-unitary analysis in a particular case. A copy of Federal Form 1065 should be included when filing the return. □

CORPORATION TAX LIFO Recapture

In accordance with Section 1363(d) of the Internal Revenue Code, a C corporation using the LIFO inventory method must include in its taxable income the LIFO recapture on its last C return.

The LIFO recapture is the excess of its inventory valued by using the FIFO method over LIFO at the end of its last year as a C corporation. The additional Federal tax resulting therefrom is payable in four equal installments. The Code requires that Federal Schedule J (tax computation) reflect the tax based on income that includes the LIFO recapture with a note indicating the Section 1363(d) deferral. These (three) remaining Federal installments are to be paid with each subsequent S corporation return by inclusion on line 22c with a note indicating "LIFO TAX."

The Code defers the payment of the additional tax but not the reporting of the income resulting from the recapture.

Section 4(k) of the New Jersey Corporation Business Tax Act states that "a taxpayer's entire net income shall be deemed prima facie to be equal in amount to the taxable income, before net operating loss deduction and special deductions, which the taxpayer is required to report to the United States Treasury...." Since N.J.A.C. 18:7-5.10(f) permits the Director to determine the period in which items of income or expense shall be reported, regardless of accounting method utilized for State purposes, the full amount of the recapture must be reported and remitted with the CBT-100 return corresponding with the year when the recapture is reported Federally. No provision exists to allow the deferral at the State level. □

INHERITANCE/ESTATE TAX Domicile

The most basic, and possibly the most important, decision to be made by the representatives of an estate is to determine the domicile of the decedent at his/her death. Admittedly, for most of us the choice is simple. However, in a nation characterized by a high level of immigration, wealth, and mobility, the Transfer Inheritance and Estate Tax Branch is required to resolve the issue of domicile on a daily basis.

A decedent's domicile determines the jurisdiction for original probate, the individual State death taxes to which the estate will be subject, and the nature of the decedent's assets that will be subject to the tax.

The estate of a decedent who was domiciled in the State of New Jersey (resident decedent) is subject to both New Jersey Transfer Inheritance Tax and New Jersey Estate Tax. The estate of a decedent who was not domiciled in New Jersey (nonresident decedent) is subject only to the Nonresident Transfer Inheritance Tax.

In a resident decedent's estate, real and tangible personal property located in New Jersey and intangible personal property wherever situated is subject to tax. In the estate of a nonresident decedent, only real and tangible personal property located in New Jersey is subject to the tax.

In spite of its importance, however, very little guidance exists in the current literature and statute. Consequently, the leading New Jersey court cases must be consulted for a workable definition of domicile and for the rules that determine a person's domicile should that become an issue at the time of death.

Guidelines established by the Court relating to domicile include:

1. No person can be without a domicile.
2. A domicile once established continues until it is superseded by a new one.
3. Domicile may be acquired in one of three ways:
 - (a) Through birth or place of origin;
 - (b) Through choice by a person legally capable of choosing domicile; or
 - (c) Through operation of law in the case of a person who lacks capacity to acquire a new domicile by choice.
4. No person can have more than one domicile at any one time. The New Jersey courts have determined that where there are multiple residences, domicile is that place which the subject regards as his true and permanent home. Home being defined for this purpose as the place where a person dwells and which is the center of his domestic, social and civil life. Restatement, 2nd, Conflict of Laws §12 (1971).

No simple solution for resolving a disputed domicile has been developed by the New Jersey courts. Instead, there is a recognition of the complexities that may be involved and basic tenets established for guidance. The New Jersey Supreme Court has noted that since the concept of domicile involves the concurrence of physical presence in a particular State and an intention to make that State one's home, determination of a disputed issue on the subject requires an evaluation of all of the facts and circumstances of the case. Lyon v. Glaser, 60 N.J. 259 (1972).

The Transfer Inheritance Tax Branch has developed a "Domicile Questionnaire" which is used to gather pertinent information when the domicile of a decedent is in question. This form is available from the Branch in Trenton. □

New Imaging System for Returns

There's a good reason for the new look of the 1995 NJ-1040. This year the New Jersey Division of Taxation will begin processing income tax returns using its new electronic imaging system. This system uses "intelligent character recognition" to read printed and handwritten information from the return. By using electronic imaging, the Division will be able to process returns more efficiently and issue refunds more quickly.

The traditional NJ-1040 form is printed using red ink this year to accommodate the requirements of the scanning equipment. This red ink "drops out" and is invisible to the scanner, which sees only the information entered on the form. The equipment is expected to recognize 85% of all handwritten characters entered on the NJ-1040, which will greatly reduce processing time.

Likewise, the format approved for computer-generated forms is new this year. These returns now include a "scanband" which contains all of the information printed on the lines below. The system will read the data contained within the scanband with an anticipated rate of over 95%.

The Homestead Property Tax Rebate Application has been moved to a separate sheet this year. This change will enable residents whose income is under the filing threshold to complete and file a rebate application without having to submit an NJ-1040.

The Division expects all of these changes to make filing New Jersey income tax returns easier and reduce the waiting time for State refunds. The Division asks filers to help by doing the following:

1. Do not staple, tape, clip, or glue W-2s, payments, schedules or anything else to the NJ-1040.
2. If possible, send 8½" x 11" copies of W-2s rather than the form itself.
3. Mail returns and enclosures (flat, not folded) in 9" x 12" envelopes. □

TeleFile Pilot Program Launched

Many New Jersey residents can now file their tax returns and homestead rebate applications from their own homes through their telephones. This is made possible by a TeleFile pilot program being conducted by the New Jersey Division of Taxation during the current tax season (January 16, 1996 through April 15, 1996). In this initial year, almost 300,000 taxpayers will be able to call the Division's computer and file their returns via a touch-tone telephone. That number is expected to rise significantly in coming years when the program is expanded State-wide.

Governor Christine Todd Whitman said the TeleFile pilot program is another example of the commitment of the Department of the Treasury, through its Division of Taxation, to provide New Jersey taxpayers with the best service possible.

"TeleFile provides New Jersey residents a fast, easy way to file their State taxes," said Governor Whitman. "In fact, TeleFile will make filing a tax return as simple as dialing a touch-tone telephone."

"One substantial benefit of the TeleFile program is its potential to allow the filing of more than one million income tax returns annually. This will save the State money by reducing the Division of Taxation's processing costs."

"The TeleFile project reflects the type of effort the State Department of the Treasury continues to make to ensure New Jersey taxpayers receive the best, most efficient service possible," said Governor

Whitman.

With TeleFile, taxpayers will provide requested information by phone to the Division of Taxation. They will not need to do any calculations — TeleFile will instantly compute their refund, or payment due, and give them the amount. They will not need to mail a return or any paper to the Division. “Best of all, TeleFilers will receive their State refunds within two weeks of their call,” explains State Treasurer Brian W. Clymer.

TeleFile taxpayers have been pre-selected by the State and have received a New Jersey TeleFile return and personal identification number. To qualify for this program, the taxpayer must meet certain conditions including the following:

- use the same filing status as on last year’s return
- have total income of $50,000 or less
- have income from wages and/or interest only
- interest income must be $400 or less
- must live at the same residence since January 1, 1995

Pre-selected taxpayers in the following counties may participate in this year’s pilot program: Burlington, Camden, Cumberland, Gloucester, Mercer, Middlesex, Monmouth, Morris, Ocean, Salem, Somerset and Union.

Taxpayers who have questions about the TeleFile Program can call the Tax Hotline at (609) 588-2200. □

LOCAL PROPERTY TAX Summary of 1995 Court Decisions

- New Jersey Transit Corp. v. Borough of Somerville, Supreme Court; decided April 19, 1995.

Ten year statute of limitations for initiating State actions did not apply to real property assessment appeals; regular assessment appeal procedure applied to State same as other taxpayers.

- Higg-A-Rella, Inc. v. County of Essex et al., Supreme Court; decided July 19, 1995.

Computer taped master municipal tax assessment list was not a public record under Right to Know Law but was a public record under common law, and subject to disclosure where confidentiality versus public information issues were weighed and legitimate interests served. The case has been remanded to the trial court to determine a fair selling price.

- General Motors Corp. v. City of Linden et al., Superior Court, Appellate Division; decided February 3, 1995.

Citing Federal Civil Rights Act, auto assembly plant owner alleged Federal and State constitutional rights were violated by discriminatory, excessive valuation. In reversing this, Court held immunity status of municipality, tax assessor and consulted private appraiser was not absolute in civil rights suit but common law tort action for negligence was not to be imposed on municipal assessors or appraiser-consultants under Tort Claims Act. Case was appealed to the New Jersey Supreme Court and a decision is pending.

- R. C. Maxwell Co. v. Galloway Township, Superior Court, Appellate Division; decided April 25, 1995.

Billboards were subject to real property tax as personal property ordinarily intended to be affixed permanently to real property; outward appearances were relevant in determining ordinary intent. Case has been appealed to the New Jersey Supreme Court and a decision is pending.

- Goodwill Home and Missions, Inc. v. Garwood Borough, Superior Court, Appellate Division; decided June 14, 1995.

Congregation, not municipality, evaluates minister’s duty performance; minister need not attend services where he officiates; Goodwill membership was confirmed as religious congregation though multidominational; its executive director/pastor was officiating clergyman, and residence was exempt as parsonage.

- Borough of Paramus v. Etaner Enterprises, Superior Court, Appellate Division; decided August 1, 1995.

Erroneous real property tax assessment caused by computer error was correctable under Correction of Errors Statute.

- Estell Manor City v. Harry Stern, Tax Court; decided January 5, 1995.

Woodland tracts were denied farmland assessment due to 1995 decisions - from pg. 7

noncompliance with management plan, insufficient forestry activity and product income; woodlands require a two-part qualification for farmland assessment from both DEP and the municipal tax assessor.

- J. L. Muscarelle, Inc. v. Saddle Brook Township, Tax Court; decided February 10, 1995.

Assenting full court opinion that payment of property tax liability was prerequisite to assessment appeal as affirmed in recent consolidated Appellate Court decision relative to the same matter.

- Emmis Broadcasting Corp. of N.Y. v. East Rutherford Borough, Tax Court; decided March 21, 1995.

Radio towers as antennas broadcasting signals were machinery, apparatus or equipment used in business, per Business Retention Act, and exempt from real property tax but supportive concrete tower bases were taxed as real property. Taxpayer has appealed to the Superior Court, Appellate Division.

- East & West Washington Realty v. Washington Borough, Tax Court; decided March 31, 1995.

Under Correction of Errors Statute request for reduced assessment for 1991-1993 due to fire was denied as assessor judgment and uncorrectable under limited scope of statute; assessor's statement regarding failure of appeal for non-payment of taxes did not preclude taxpayers' right to appeal or violate due process.

- Grandal Enterprises, Inc. v. Keansburg Borough, Tax Court; decided June 16, 1995.

1993 and 1994 added assessments on formerly exempt lot could not be voided by Freeze Act based on 1992 court settlement judgment for the entire lot where segment of lot was not part of the appeal. Freeze Act fixed the base year assessed value for two successive years; it did not determine true value for the two successive years.

- Freehold Township v. Javin Partnership, Tax Court; decided June 21, 1995.

Insulated walls and ceilings of refrigeration area in beer distribution warehouse were not exempt as machinery, apparatus and equipment used in business but compressors and blowers were machinery, etc. and were exempt as such. □

Criminal Enforcement

Criminal Enforcement over the past several months included:

- A recommendation for prosecution has been submitted as a result of an investigation of a husband and wife and the various businesses they operated in central New Jersey. The investigation revealed that the taxpayers failed to file New Jersey income tax, corporation business tax, and sales tax returns from January 1990 through March 1995. The total amount of tax misappropriated and/or evaded was $154,186.84.
- A Mercer County jury convicted Michael Keating of 24 counts of bribery, and one count each of conspiracy, official misconduct, theft by deception, misapplication of government property and tampering with public records. The five counts in the indictment charging Keating with State tax violations were dismissed as part of the prosecution trial strategy. The tax counts included failing to report $124,000 of personal income which he had received in kickbacks during the period 1988-1991. The tax owed in the amount of $4,487.23 has been referred for civil billing and collection.

- Ann Cinquemani, the president of Friendly Three, Inc., trading as Circle Diner in Flemington, was indicted on October 27, 1995 by the Hunterdon County Grand Jury on four counts relating to the evasion of New Jersey taxes. The counts included the failure to turn over sales and use taxes, filing false or fraudulent sales tax returns, and the misapplication of entrusted funds. The sales tax collected but not remitted for the indictment period of April 1 through December 31, 1992 was $14,597. The entire investigation covers the period from January 1991 to March 1994 when the diner was destroyed by fire. Additional civil action will also be taken for the remainder of the period not covered by the indictments. This investigation was worked jointly by Taxation's Office of Criminal Investigation and the Hunterdon County Prosecutor's Office.
- On November 16, 1995, a Termination of Pre-Trial Intervention hearing was conducted for Johannas Nydam in Bergen County. Mr. Nydam, whose business is Dumont Wines and Liquors, failed to make restitution as well as failed to file and remit sales tax during the PTI period. As a result of this hearing, Mr. Nydam is required to remit the sales tax collected from the business activity on a daily basis to his parole officer. In addition, he must sell the business by June 30, 1996 and is barred from being associated with the alcoholic beverage industry in the future.

- On October 17, 1995, Frederic A. Dinonno and his company T & L Marketing Services Inc., received a twelve count indictment by a State grand jury for conspiracy, misconduct by a corporate official, filing false and fraudulent corporation tax returns and New Jersey income tax returns, and failing to file both corporation business tax returns and State income tax returns. Mr. Dinonno solicited and received monetary bribes from vendors of his employer, Ebasco Corporation, in exchange for business from Ebasco Corporation. T & L Marketing was created solely to facilitate the bribe monies and to conceal the diversion of money which lawfully belonged to Ebasco Corporation. The bribes received by Dinonno were in excess of $200,000.00 between May 1986 and January 1994. The indictment was a result of a joint investigation between the Division of Taxation and the Division of Criminal Justice.
- Valji Mori, the owner of Ray's Deli, a Jersey City delicatessen/liquor store, was arrested on December 21, 1995 and charged with paying a $2,000 bribe to cut his New Jersey State tax liability, alleged to be about $100,000, in half. Mori allegedly offered a bribe initially to a Division of Taxation auditor working out of the Division's Elizabeth office. The auditor immediately reported the matter to his supervisors and the case then was taken over by the Division's Office of Criminal Investigation. An Internal Security Unit investigator, working in an undercover capacity, received the alleged bribe money.

The investigation was conducted in cooperation with the Division of Criminal Justice/State Police Corruption Bureau. State Police detectives and members of the Hudson County Prosecutor's Office assisted in the arrest. Mr. Mori was charged with bribery, compromising a public servant for private interest, soliciting official misconduct, and conspiracy.

- Variety Candy and Tobacco, Inc. was found guilty and fined in municipal court for accepting unstamped cigarettes and for failing to maintain required records as a result of an investigation that revealed the failure to collect and remit the Tobacco Products Wholesale Sales and Use Tax. The initial investigation disclosed a means to divert taxable tobacco products to manufacturer's representatives in such a manner as to avoid the 24% tax.
- Three cigarette tax cases resulted in the arrest of individuals for transporting and possessing cigarettes not bearing the required New Jersey revenue stamps. Samer Al-Sakaf and Bing Chen, both of Richmond, Virginia, were transporting 450 cartons and 2,360 cartons of unstamped cigarettes, respectively. In the third case, Eric Chu of Long Island City, New York was in possession of 3,000 cartons of the unstamped cigarettes. All 5,810 of the confiscated cartons bore stamps for the State of Virginia.

- Dependable Limousine, Inc., a Lakewood Township limousine service and repair facility, pled guilty to failing to timely remit sales tax. The case was heard in the Mercer County Superior Court on December 22, 1995. Restitution was ordered in the amount of $12,000 and was paid in full upon sentencing.
- A criminal investigation was conducted on an individual living in Lillian, Alabama who failed to file State income tax returns to report installment sale income from New Jersey sources for the 1991 through 1994 tax years. Although this case did not meet the criteria for criminal prosecution, the investigative efforts did result in the collection of the returns and taxes owed in the amount of $1,027.00 on New Jersey income that totaled $45,074.00 for the period.
- Melvut Gar of Ocean, NJ was ordered to pay a $405 fine for failing to obtain a cigarette tax license. The case was heard in the Little Silver Municipal Court on January 18, 1996. In addition, a Teaneck grocer was charged for selling cigarettes without a license and failing to register with the Division of Taxation for sales tax. □

Enforcement Summary

Civil Collection Actions Quarter Ending - December 31, 1995

Following is a summary of enforcement actions for the quarter ending December 31, 1995.

Certificates of Debt

During the quarter ended December 31, 1995, the Division filed 2,901 Certificates of Debt in New Jersey Superior Court. These COD's, which have the same force and effect as docketed judgments, totaled $34.4 million.

Levies

$2.8 million was collected by Field Investigations as a result of executing against 706 non-compliant taxpayers. In addition, $197,435 was collected by levying against payments made under State contracts to satisfy debts owed by State vendors.

Seizures

When a liability, for which the Division of Taxation has secured judgments, cannot or will not be satisfied by a taxpayer and all other means of collection of the debt have been exhausted, seizure of the business and personal assets will take place. Field Investigators will close a business, seizing any tangible assets including licenses, inventory, machinery, furniture, vehicles, etc., until arrangements are made for payment of the debt.

For the quarter ending December 31, 1995, property of 29 businesses and three individual taxpayers was seized. Some businesses were able to reopen, others remain closed. A listing of these seizures appears on pages 13 and 14.

Auctions

If the liability of a business seized by the Division is not satisfied or resolved, the business will remain closed. To satisfy the debt, the Division can sell the business assets at a public auction.

During the quarter ending December 31, 1995, eight auctions were held by the Division. A listing follows on page 15.

In the event an auction does not net enough monies to resolve the debt, the Division will execute against the personal assets of any of the business's responsible officers. Responsible officers are held personally liable for the trust fund portion of the debt which includes, but is not limited to, sales tax, withholding tax and motor fuels tax.

Corporation Business Tax

Allocation — The Division answered an inquiry from a company that files corporate income tax returns in three states, New Jersey, Illinois and California. The corporation has an office in New Jersey and Illinois but not in California. The question was whether the company should file allocating returns in the states where it had an office and take a credit where there was no office.

The State of New Jersey does not use separate geographical accounting. Once a corporation has a bona fide office outside of New Jersey, then the corporation is permitted to allocate. It is immaterial that a corporation does not have an office in every state where it does business. Therefore, the issue of a credit for tax paid to another state does not come into play. If an allocating taxpayer does not believe that the allocation factor produced a fair tax to New Jersey, taxpayer may request Section 8 relief. New Jersey does not have jurisdiction to give advice as to any tax payment or filing requirements that other states may employ.

Limitation on the Deduction of Interest Owed to Certain Related Parties Repealed — P.L. 1995, c.418 repealed N.J.S.A. 54:10A-4(k)(2)(E). N.J.S.A. 54:10A-4(k)(2)(E) required, with certain exceptions, the add-back to taxable income of 90% of interest owing directly or indirectly to holders of 10% or more of the aggregate outstanding shares of the taxpayer's capital stock. The repeal is effective for fiscal or calendar accounting years ending after

Manufacturing Equipment and Employment Investment Tax Credit —

The Manufacturing Equipment and Employment Investment Tax Credit, N.J.S.A. 54:10A-5.16 through 5.21, provides a credit against Corporation Business Tax liability for investments in certain manufacturing equipment and for certain increased employment.

To qualify for the credit, a taxpayer must have invested in qualified manufacturing equipment in tax years beginning on or after January 1, 1994. Qualified equipment is defined under N.J.S.A. 54:10A-5.17 as: "machinery, apparatus or equipment acquired by purchase for use or consumption by the taxpayer directly and primarily in the production of tangible personal property by manufacturing, processing, assembling or refining, as defined pursuant to subsection a. of section 25 of P.L.1980, c.105 (C. 54:32B-8.13), having a useful life of four or more years, placed in service in this State. Qualified equipment does not include tangible personal property which the taxpayer contracts or agrees to lease or rent to another person or licenses another person to use."

N.J.S.A. 54:32B-8.13 grants an exemption from the sales and use tax for receipts from the "sales of machinery, apparatus or equipment for use or consumption directly and primarily in the production of tangible personal property by manufacturing, processing, assembling or refining." The Division has interpreted this provision to allow an exemption for the purchase of equipment used in a food processing plant such as a sausage factory, and for the purchase of equipment used in certain establishments where processed foods are purchased directly by the consumer, such as bakeries and bagel shops. The Division has denied the exemption, however, for the purchase of equipment for the processing of food sold in fast food establishments such as Burger King and in restaurants. Restaurants are deemed to be engaged in the service of serving food for on-premises dining rather than using equipment directly and primarily in the production of food.

The Corporation Business Tax provision N.J.S.A. 54:10A-5.16 makes specific reference to the sales tax provision N.J.S.A. 54:32B-8.13. The Division will therefore refer to its interpretation of N.J.S.A. 54:32B-8.13 in determining whether equipment purchased for the processing of food qualifies for the Corporation Business Tax credit under N.J.S.A. 54:10A-5.16. In general, equipment purchased for the processing of food in food plants and establishments such as bakeries will be eligible for the credit, but equipment purchased for the processing of food served in restaurants will not be eligible.

Gross Income Tax

Severance Pay — Severance pay is considered to be New Jersey source income, under N.J.S.A. 54A:5-8. The portion of the severance pay that is sourced to New Jersey depends on the time that the person worked in New Jersey. The formula for calculating the portion that is "allocated" to New Jersey is as follows:

$$\frac{\text{Days worked in NJ}}{\text{Total days worked for employer (inside and outside NJ)}} \times \text{Severance Pay} = \text{NJ source amount}$$ Severance pay is taxable in New Jersey, even though the amount of the severance pay depends on the total number of years worked for the employer and some of the work was performed prior to the beginning of the gross income tax. See, DuBois v. Director, Division of Taxation, 4 N.J. Tax 11 (1981), affirmed 6 N.J. Tax 249 (1982), affirmed 95 N.J. 234, 470 A.2d 446 (1983).

Sales and Use Tax

Diplomatic Tax Exemption —

The U.S. Office of Foreign Missions (OFM) administers the Diplomatic Tax Exemption Program, which provides sales and use tax exemption to eligible foreign officials on assignment in the U.S. The OFM has issued guidelines on the proper use of sales tax exemption cards issued by the U.S. Department of State.

There are two types of these tax exemption cards: personal cards and mission cards.

Personal sales tax exemption cards are issued for the sole benefit of the individual identified on the card. For a transaction to be eligible for exemption from taxes, the card bearer must initiate the transaction, tender payment, and take possession of the purchase. An individual may not "loan" the card to a family member or friend.

Mission sales tax exemption cards are issued for official purposes only and for the sole benefit of the mission identified on the face of the card. Each mission may designate two employees to make official purchases for the mission. Mission cards may not be used by other mission employees. Additionally, the agent may not use a mission card for personal purchases. All purchases must be in the name of the mission and paid for by mission check or credit card.

Mission exemption from hotel taxes is limited to official mission uses. The mission must make the reservations and pay for the accommodations by mission check or credit card using official funds.

Individuals should use their personal tax exemption cards for exemption from hotel room taxes. Personal exemption from hotel room taxes is valid only for members of the bearer's immediate family.

The Department of State takes seriously the improper use of tax exemption cards. In instances where an individual attempts to gain privileges for which he/she is not entitled or for a private business or other commercially-related purposes, the Department of State will revoke the card and would be required to review the individual's continued acceptance in diplomatic status. Misuse of a mission card will result in that card being withdrawn and the requirement that the mission designate another employee as agent.

Questions concerning the use of the Department of State tax exemption cards should be directed to OFM at (212) 826-4500 or (202) 895-3563.

Transfer of Motor Vehicle Subject to Lien — The Division responded to an inquiry regarding the sales tax treatment of the following situation: A repair facility repaired the motor vehicle of a customer who failed to pay the bill. The facility then billed for storage charges which were also not paid. After repeated attempts to collect from the customer, the facility obtained title to the motor vehicle in order to satisfy its mechanic's lien.

The repair and storage of the customer's motor vehicle were taxable services. N.J.S.A. 54:32B-3(b)(2) & (3). Thus, as the instructions for the Sales and Use Tax Returns state, the repair shop was obligated to pay the sales tax due at the end of the month or quarter in which the taxable services were rendered, even if it had not yet collected the tax from the customer. N.J.S.A. 54:32B-18.

When the repair shop receives title to the customer's motor vehicle to satisfy its mechanic's lien, the motor vehicle, rather than cash, is viewed as the customer's payment for the repair and storage charges. In most cases the value of the motor vehicle will exceed the 6% sales tax liability on the taxable repairs or storage which the mechanic should have paid to the State at the end of each month or quarter during which the taxable services were completed. See generally N.J.S.A. 18:24-23.

Since the transfer of title of the motor vehicle was carried out to satisfy the lien and not in a regular sales transaction, the repair shop's acquisition of title to the motor vehicle is not deemed a taxable transaction.

Motor Vehicle Equipment Purchases by Disabled Veterans From Funds Provided by U.S. Department of Veterans Affairs— A taxpayer wrote to the Division of Taxation inquiring about a refund of a portion of the sales tax paid on the purchase of a new motor vehicle attributable to a payment provided by the U.S. Department of Veterans Affairs pursuant to Federal law.

Federal law at 38 U.S.C.S. 1902 provides for payment by the U.S. Department of Veterans Affairs of authorized amounts for "necessary automotive adaptive equipment" to allow a service-connected veteran with anatomical loss or permanent loss of use of an extremity to safely operate his motor vehicle. The taxpayer had received authorization and payment by check made directly to him for such "necessary automotive adaptive equipment."

The Division advised that exemption from sales tax is provided to the "United States of America and any of its agencies and instrumentalities, insofar as it is immune from taxation where it is the purchaser, user or consumer..." New Jersey Sales and Use Tax Act N.J.S.A. 54:32B-9(a)(2). The Department of Veterans Affairs is an agency of the United States. However, the Federal government is only immune from State taxation when it is the direct payer and purchaser and legal incidence of the tax falls on the government, not merely the economic burden.

With regard to the taxpayer's purchase, the Federal government is not the direct purchaser, user or consumer of the vehicle or its equipment and did not make payment directly to the vehicle dealer, therefore, it is not a tax exempt U.S. Government purchase. Federal payments made to an individual, regardless of whether they are used for a specific Federally authorized purpose, and subsequently applied to a taxable purchase do not result in a tax exempt government purchase but rather a fully taxable purchase made by the nonexempt recipient of the Federal payments.

Due to the above, the Division of Taxation denied taxpayer's request for a sales tax refund on a portion of his vehicle purchase.

Use of Motor Vehicle Parts — The Division received an inquiry concerning the sales and use tax consequences when a motor vehicle dealership performs repairs for a customer free of charge for customer relations purposes. There is no obligation to perform the service under a service contract or warranty agreement.

Under such circumstances, use tax is due from the dealership on the parts since they are withdrawn from the sales inventory. Since the service is provided by the dealership for no consideration, the dealership is not required to self-assess use tax on the value of labor used in the repair. See N.J.S.A. 54:32B-3(b).

Rental Car Repair — The Division replied to an inquiry concerning the taxability of auto body repair work performed on vehicles belonging to a rental agency.

Repairs made to vehicles used exclusively for rental purposes are exempt under the Sales and Use Tax Act. N.J.S.A. 54:32B-2(e)(1). The rental agency must issue a Resale Certificate (Form ST-3) to the repair shop in order to claim the exemption on labor and parts.

Embroidery Services — If an article of clothing is embroidered or monogrammed prior to its sale to the customer, the embroidery or monogram is considered part of the resale of the item. The retail sale of embroidered or monogrammed clothing is exempt from sales tax; the sales of embroidered or monogrammed accessories such as duffel bags, blankets etc. are subject to tax.

If a customer brings in an article of clothing or other property to be embroidered or monogrammed, the charge to embroider/monogram is subject to tax under N.J.S.A. 54:32B-3(b)(1).

The sale of clothing with embroidery/monogram is exempt from tax if the clothing is embroidered/monogrammed prior to the sale to the customer. For example, a shirt costs $10.00 and you can have initials embroidered on the pocket for $2.50; the customer pays $12.50 for the completed article, which is exempt from tax. □

In Our Courts

Gross Income Tax

Sale of Partnership Interest –
Koch v. Director, Div. of Taxation
(No. 003892-94, Tax Ct., 1994).

The Division of Taxation determined that the Kochs had a gross income tax deficiency for tax year 1988. Mr. Koch had received income from the sale of a partnership interest. On their 1988 joint New Jersey return, the Kochs claimed that the income from the sale of the interest was $50,000. The Division of Taxation determined that the gain was $268,161. Mr. Koch's lower figure resulted from three factors: (1) he excluded income "received" through a release of indebtedness; (2) he did not lower his basis in the property for partnership losses that he had taken on his Federal income tax returns but not on his New Jersey returns; and (3) he subtracted the portion of the gain that, for Federal income tax, was characterized as recapture of depreciation.

On the issue of the release of indebtedness, the taxpayer had argued that the release amount was not taxable income because discharge of indebtedness is not a category of income subject to tax under the gross income tax law. The Court rejected this line of reasoning and found that the income was not income from the discharge of indebtedness. The Court emphasized that, in Koch's situation, the debt was released at the time of the sale of the partnership interest and the income was includable as part of the amount received from the sale.

On the issue of whether the basis was to be adjusted down for the losses that were taken Federally, the Court explained that Mr. Koch was arguing for the application of the tax benefit rule. The Court rejected that argument and held that the Federal adjusted basis must be used, as required by the New Jersey income tax statutes.

On the depreciation recapture issue, the Court explained that it is irrelevant that the recapture portion is characterized as recapture depreciation for Federal income tax purposes. The Court held that the recapture portion, like the other income at issue, was includable in the New Jersey income subject to tax. The Division of Taxation assessment was affirmed.

Disposition of Partnership Income –

Schiff v. Director, Division of Taxation, Tax Court No. 000625-94, decided October 31, 1995.

The plaintiffs, the Schiffs, sought review of a Division of Taxation determination of a gross income tax deficiency for tax year 1988 for $178,593.75, plus penalties and interest. The facts were not in issue. The main issue in the case concerned disposition of partnership property and whether the taxpayers were required to use Federal adjusted basis for determining the amount of gain or loss for New Jersey income tax purposes.

Mr. Schiff had two limited partnership interests that held real estate parcels which, in 1988, were transferred to the mortgage holders, in lieu of foreclosure. During 1988, after the transfers, the partnerships ceased operations.

On their 1988 Federal income tax return, the plaintiffs reported capital gains of $3,086,111, composed of their distributive shares of the gains attributable to the "foreclosures" on the partnerships' real estate. The Schiffs, however, reported a gain of zero on their 1988 New Jersey gross income tax return. The Division of Taxation determined that the Schiffs should have reported the same amount of gain for New Jersey income tax as they did for Federal income tax.

The Schiffs challenged the Division's determination on two grounds. The first was that they should not be required to use Federal adjusted basis when, for New Jersey tax purposes, they had been unable to use the partnership losses because of the prohibition against netting of intercategory gains and losses. The other ground was that their gain realized through the transfers of the real estate was offset by capital losses realized on the disposition of Mr. Schiff's partnership interests.

The Tax Court held against the taxpayers on both issues. On the first issue, the Court explained that the inability to deduct losses because of the prohibition of N.J.S.A. 54A:5-2 against intercategory netting, is irrelevant to the application of N.J.S.A. 54A:5-1(c). Section 5-1(c) mandates the use of Federal income tax basis.

On the second issue, the Court explained that there were two taxable events. One was the disposition of the interest in the partnership, which produced no gain or loss. The other taxable event was the capital gain realized upon the transfers in lieu of foreclosure. The taxpayers were required to calculate the gain by using Federal adjusted basis.

The case also involved an issue concerning whether the Division of Taxation's Notice of Deficiency was timely mailed to the taxpayers. The gross income tax law requires that tax must be assessed within three years after the return is filed. The taxpayers' return was filed on Saturday, April 15, 1989. The Division of Taxation's Notice of Deficiency had a private postage meter postmark of April 17, 1992.

The Court held that the notice was timely. The Court stated that, under N.J.S.A. 54A:9-11(c), since the Schiffs' return had been mailed (filed) on a Saturday, it was deemed to have been filed on April 17, 1989. Based on an affidavit by a U.S. Postal Service employee, the Court determined that the private postmark proved that the Division mailed its notice on April 17, 1992, which was within the required three year time limit. The assessment was upheld.

Net Gain from Disposition of Property; Credit for Taxes Paid to Another Jurisdiction – Estate of Guzzardi v. Director, Division of Taxation, No. 007125-94 (Tax Ct., decided December 6, 1995).

Taxpayer sought to offset an installment sale gain with a capital loss carryover from a previous year allowed for Federal purposes. Taxpayer also sought to claim credit on a 1988 resident return for taxes paid to Pennsylvania on a gain that was taxable in New Jersey in 1988 but which was taxed in Pennsylvania in 1981.

The Court held that the gain could not be offset by a loss carried over from a previous year. This is because, while N.J.S.A. 54A:5-1c provides that net gains from disposition of property are to be determined according to the method allowed for Federal purposes, N.J.S.A. 54A:5-2 makes clear that only losses incurred during the taxable year may be deductible from gains in the same category of income, incurred in that same year.

The Court also held that taxpayer could not claim credit on a 1988 return for taxes paid to Pennsylvania in 1981. The resident credit is allowed only when the double taxation by New Jersey and another state occurs in the same tax year.

Local Property Tax Exempt Status of Nonprofit Organization – Salt and Light Company, Inc., Plaintiff v. Mount Holly Township, Defendant, decided November 8, 1995; Tax Court of New Jersey; Docket 000413-95 et al.

Salt and Light Company, a housing and counseling service provider to the homeless, appealed Burlington County Tax Board's affirmation of Mount Holly Township's denial of its property tax exempt status as a nonprofit, charitable organization to the New Jersey Tax Court. Per the municipality, Salt and Light Co. was a lucrative business compensated for their services by various government agencies and by tenant rents and was ineligible for property tax exemption as such. The township's decision was based on the idea that the essential characteristic of a charity is its providing of services the government otherwise would. Since about two-thirds of the homeless clients got government aid which was then passed on to Salt and Light, the government, not the company, was the true charitable provider. Also private motels/hotels similarly compensated for lodging the indigent were not tax exempt. Salt and Light countered that its self-help programs, which included assistance in getting job training, education, child care, and medical services, were not comparable to government subsidized private motel/hotel living arrangements. Also, the fees for Salt and Light's services were less than charged at traditional homeless shelters, rents were below market and their cash balance, atypical that year, was reinvested in the exempt purposes of the organization.

In its analysis, the Tax Court stated there was no definitive authority in New Jersey as to government payments' singular effect on charitable purpose standing. But under N.J.S.A. 54:4-3.6 partial support by fees received from or on behalf of the beneficiaries of a charity and put to charitable use did not invalidate exemption. The Court reasoned that the statute did not limit the fee amount, other than to require it be partial, and therefore Salt and Light's two-thirds government financing was not disqualifying. The Court in its review of case law acknowledged that there was support for denying charitable exemption to government funded organizations and cited Presbyterian Homes v. Division of Tax Appeals and Weymouth Township v. Memorial Park Family Practice Center. However, in reversing the Tax Board's denial of Salt and Light's exempt status for 1995, the Court relied, among others, on Catholic Charities of the Diocese of Camden v. Pleasantville where exemption was granted and which was alike in that the majority of its clients had received government monies. The Court differentiated between operations like the Memorial Park Center's and Salt and Light Company's, noting that the company was not just a conduit for government subsidies — that while not totally relieving the government's responsibility to the homeless, its lower cost extended services lessened it. Noted too was that of Salt and Light's one-third self-supported clients, none was evicted for nonpayment of rents, as distinguished from nonexempt for-profit housing providers who didn't accept or who evicted individuals without funds. Therefore,

Salt and Light's purpose was charitable. The Court reaffirmed as well that nonprofit status did not require operating at a loss, that it was not negated by excess income nor an increased cash balance in a single fiscal year and concluded in favor of exemption. Also addressed by the Court in this case was a procedural error relative to the County Tax Board's application of omitted assessments.

Appeal of Assessments — Township of Monroe v. Local Finance Board, DCA Appellate Division; decided December 19, 1995, Docket #A-2652-94T3.

Held: Avenue of appeal for property tax assessments is through the County Tax Board and the various courts, not the local governing body. Monroe Township's governing body improperly circumvented the statutory assessment appeal procedure provided under N.J.S.A. 54:3-21 by attempting to abate some of a retirement community's condominium owners property taxes for 1994 who failed to pursue their right of appeal based on the alleged unfulfilled promise of the municipal tax assessor to collectively reduce their property values. Taxpayers' right of appeal was lost through their own inaction; therefore, an extension of the appeal deadline was not warranted. N.J.S.A. 54:4-99 and 100, the authority under which the township offered abatement and which was correctly interpreted by the State Divisions of Taxation and of Local Government Services to apply to illegal assessments and past due taxes, was not applicable in this case. Further, taxes which are too high or low, i.e., discriminatory, are not illegal in the context of the abatement statute. The Local Finance Board, Division of Local Finance, Department of Community Affairs, acting in its capacity as financial regulator of local governments, exercised appropriate judgment in upholding the Divisions' joint order for withholding abatement. The Township of Monroe has filed a petition for certiorari with the New Jersey Supreme Court.

Sales and Use Tax Exemption for Commercial Fishing Head Boats — Helper v. Director, Division of Taxation, No. 011584-93 (Tax Court, decided October 17, 1995).

The Court determined that plaintiff's purchase of a boat in Texas was not exempt from New Jersey use tax because it satisfied only one of the requirements for exemption under N.J.S.A. 54:32B-8.12. Because the boat owner's customers were usually groups, and generally he did not charge individuals "by the head," the boat was a "charter boat," not a "head boat." In addition, because the boat was used primarily by divers, sport fishing was not its primary use. □

In Our Legislature

Corporation Business Tax Interest Owed to Stockholders — P.L. 1995, c.418 (signed into law on January 10, 1996) eliminates the Corporation Business Tax limitation on the deduction of interest owed to certain related parties. This legislation is effective immediately and applies to fiscal or calendar accounting years ending after its enactment.

Gross Income Tax

Set-off for Expenses Paid by Medicaid — P.L. 1995, c.290 (signed into law on December 22, 1995) permits income tax refunds and homestead rebates to be set-off for reimbursements due to Medicaid for medical expenses pursuant to a child support order when the taxpayer has received payment from a third party for the cost of the health care services. This legislation is effective immediately and applies to medical payments received by the taxpayer on or after April 1, 1995.

Checkoff for " Battleship New Jersey Memorial Fund " — P.L. 1995, c.299 (signed into law on December 22, 1995) establishes the Battleship New Jersey Memorial Fund and provides taxpayers with an opportunity to contribute to the Fund by designating a portion of their refund or by making a donation at the time of filing their New Jersey income tax returns. This legislation is effective for tax years beginning on and after January 1, 1996.

Litter Control Tax

Tax Extended — P.L. 1995, c.301 (signed into law on January 3, 1996) extends the expiration date of the tax on the sale of litter-generating products to December 30, 2000. This legislation is effective immediately.

Local Property Tax

General Tax Rate — P.L. 1995, c.345 (signed into law January 5, 1996) permits municipalities to require county tax boards to strike general tax rates rounded up to the nearest half-penny. This takes effect January 1 next following enactment.

Deduction Form Distribution — P.L. 1995, c.259 (signed into law November 13, 1995) originally included provisions transferring responsibility for the administration of the senior citizen/disabled property tax deduction and veterans' property tax deduction to the Division of Taxation. Governor Whitman vetoed this provision and recommended that the Division instead assume responsibility for generating, printing and mailing the forms used in the administration of these deductions. The Governor's recommendation, which was adopted, will not become effective until the 1997 tax year. Municipalities will continue to process the applications and administer the programs. For clarification purposes, it should be noted the requirement that property owners be notified annually of their assessment as provided in P.L. 1991, c.75 remains in place. Because of inadvertent bracket omissions in Chapter 259, some people erroneously believe the annual assessment notice is no longer necessary. This law also relaxes certain State imposed mandates and revises and repeals parts of statutory law.

Contaminated Property Tax Exemption — P.L. 1995, c.413 (signed into law January 10, 1996) cited as the "Environmental Opportunity Zone Act" provides for the ten year exemption of property taxes on certain contaminated property. A municipal ordinance must be adopted on the parcel of real property for which exemption is sought. The property must be in need of a remediation due to a discharge or threatened discharge of a contaminant, and listed in the most recent Department of Environmental Protection publication of known hazardous discharge sites.

The approved exemption must be evidenced by a financial agreement which provides that the applicant pay to the municipality an amount in lieu of real property taxes. The in lieu of property tax amount is predicated on a schedule of increasing percentages of the amount of tax otherwise due. The assessed value of the property at the time the exemption is approved by the assessor is to be used in calculating this amount.

Farmland Assessment Act Amended — P.L. 1995, c.276 (signed into law December 15, 1995) supplements and amends the Farmland Assessment Act (P.L. 1964, c.48). Primarily, the definition of land devoted to an agricultural use was amended to include the boarding, rehabilitating or training of livestock. The fees received from these uses may be included to meet income requirements of the Act where the land used for such purposes is contiguous to land otherwise qualifying for farmland assessment. Land under seasonal farm markets selling predominately agricultural products, and land under seasonal agricultural labor housing is also deemed to be devoted to an agricultural use in this law. A provision of the law also exempts the owner of the land from the income requirements where the failure is attributable due to injury, illness or death of the person responsible for producing the income. The owner must request the exemption and provide a physician's statement or death certificate, as the case may warrant.

Miscellaneous

New Jersey Business Corporation Act — P.L. 1995, c.279 (signed into law on December 15, 1995) allows the merger or consolidation of corporations with certain other business entities including partnerships, limited partnerships and limited liability companies. Such mergers will require obtaining tax clearance certificates. This legislation is effective immediately, except that the sections permitting corporations to merge or consolidate with other business entities remain inoperative until 90 days after enactment.

New Capital Sources Partnership

— P.L. 1995, c.293 (signed into law on December 22, 1995) establishes a "New Capital Sources Partnership" to encourage, promote and support small capital business development in this State. This legislation is effective on the 60th day following enactment.

Penalties for Selling Tobacco

Products to Minors — P.L. 1995, c.304 (signed into law on January 5, 1996) increases penalties for the sale and distribution of tobacco to a minor under the age of 18 years and gives the Division the authority to suspend or revoke the license of a retail dealer. This legislation is effective 90 days after enactment.

Sale of Tobacco Products

— P.L. 1995, c.320 (signed into law on January 5, 1996) authorizes the Commissioner of Health to regulate the sale of tobacco products to minors; increases the licensing fee for retail tobacco dealers and vending machines, and dedicates revenues to local enforcement. The legislation also requires the Division to provide the Commissioner of Health with information about retail tobacco licensees necessary to carry out its enforcement responsibilities under the act. This legislation is effective January 1, 1996.

Child Support Enforcement

— P.L. 1995, c.322 (signed into law on January 5, 1996) allows county probation departments and the State IV-D agency to receive information contained in the records of the Division of Taxation concerning reputed fathers and child support obligors. The State Tax Uniform Procedure Law was amended to allow release of information relating to an obligor's sources of income or assets. This legislation is effective immediately.

Unclaimed Property — P.L. 1995, c.361 (signed into law on January 5, 1996) amends the Unclaimed Property Act concerning agreements to recover property for a fee. Agreements entered into before the property is presumed abandoned are valid only if the fee or compensation agreed upon is not more than 35% of the value; the agreement is in writing, signed by the apparent owner, and clearly sets forth the nature and value of the property after the fee or compensation has been deducted. Agreements made within 24 months after the date that property is paid or delivered to the administrator are void and unenforceable. Agreements entered into any time after the 24 month period are valid only if the fee or compensation agreed upon is not more than 20% of the value of the property recovered; the agreement is in writing; and if certain other conditions are met. This legislation is effective immediately.

Foreign Professional Legal Corporations

— P.L. 1995, c.375 (signed into law on January 5, 1996) permits foreign professional legal corporations to transact business within New Jersey. Such a corporation may render legal

This legislation is effective 120 days after enactment.

Sales and Use Tax

Exemption for Radio and Television Broadcast Production

Equipment — P.L. 1995, c.317 (signed into law on January 5, 1996) amends the Sales and Use Tax Act to exempt the sale of machinery, apparatus or equipment, other than that used in constructing or operating towers, to a commercial broadcaster operating under a broadcasting license issued by the Federal Communications Commission for use or consumption directly and primarily in the production or transmission of radio or television broadcasts. This legislation is effective April 1, 1996.

Urban Enterprise Zones

New Zones Designated — P.L. 1995, c.382 (signed into law on January 9, 1996) approved the designation of seven additional urban enterprise zones. The new enterprise zones will be located in East Orange, Guttenberg, Hillside, Irvington, North Bergen, Pemberton Township and West New York. The total number of zones will increase to 27 covering 29 municipalities. This legislation is effective on April 1, 1996. □

New Format for Returns

The New Jersey resident income tax return has a new look in 1995. Every line of the redesigned form provides the preparer with a series of boxes in red "drop out" ink to accommodate each digit of the relevant numeric entry. The information will be scanned electronically, resulting in faster, more accurate processing of returns. Some line numbers on the NJ-1040 resident return have changed from last year because of the new format.

Information from both the NJ-1040 and the HR-1040 will be scanned electronically. When completing these forms, make sure

Separate HR-1040

For tax year 1995, the Homestead Property Tax Rebate Application (Form HR-1040) is now a stand-alone form. This change was designed to simplify the filing of the HR-1040 for those qualified homeowners and tenants who are not required to file a State income tax return.

File the rebate application (Form HR-1040) and the New Jersey Income Tax Resident Return, if required, by the due date of the State income tax return, generally April 15. If an extension of time to file the income tax return is requested, the rebate application must be filed together with the tax return by the extended due date. □

Telefile Program

Beginning January 16, 1996, the Division of Taxation will implement a Telefile pilot program which will allow certain New Jersey residents to file their 1995 income tax returns and homestead rebate applications by telephone. During the pilot program, the number of filers will necessarily be limited to pre-selected taxpayers but the program will be expanded the following year to permit many more taxpayers to take advantage of this new program. Studies show that close to one out of every three New Jersey resident taxpayers could file their tax returns by Telefile.

The advantages of Telefile are many. It is quick; it is easy and it is accessible. The system will be available 24 hours a day, 7 days a week beginning on Tuesday, January 16, 1996. Telefile returns will be accepted up until midnight Monday, April 15, 1996. □

GROSS INCOME TAX

Reporting Business Income

The organization and operation of a particular business enterprise dictates the category(s) that business enterprise's income or loss is reportable in for New Jersey Gross Income Tax purposes. Individuals may derive income from enterprises organized as sole proprietors, partnerships, or S corporations. The individual's income or loss is required to be reported in the appropriate category of income, specifically, "Net Profits from Business," "Net Distributive Share of Partnership Income" plus flow-through items by category, and "Net Pro Rata Share of S Corporation Income," respectively.

The taxpayer may not reclassify and report one form of business income or loss as another, for example, "Net Distributive Share of Partnership Income" as "Net Profits from Business" and vice versa.

All choices affecting the computation and classification of partnership income are made by the partnership. The individual partner must report the items shown on their Schedule NJK-1 (Form NJ-1065) (or as reported on the Federal Form 1065 K-1 if no Schedule NJK-1 is received). The individual partner may not reclassify any item of income, loss or deduction/expense reflected on their K-1 any more than an employee-type taxpayer is permitted to reclassify or alter amounts reported on their W-2.

A new category of income, "Net Pro Rata Share of S Corporation Income," was created with the passage of legislation recognizing S corporations for New Jersey tax purposes. This applies to tax years beginning after July 7, 1993. Unlike the New Jersey and Federally recognized flow-through treatment of income, gain or loss earned by a partnership, S corporation income, gain or loss DOES NOT retain its category character when flowed-through to the individual shareholders. Rather, the income is combined to form the single category, "Net Pro Rata Share of S Corporation Income."

properties. Each property was organized and operated as a separate business enterprise, either as a partnership or an S corporation. The individual taxpayer solicits and secures investors for the various business enterprises. Occasionally the individual taxpayer would not seek additional investors and would hold the property as a sole proprietor.

From operations in 1994 the individual taxpayer filed a Schedule C and Schedule E as part of his Federal return. The Federal filing characterized the income as follows:

One Schedule C business "Properties Mine" Net Income	$10,000
Listed on Schedule E: Partnership A "Olde Shoppe Center"	(200,000)
Partnership B "Apartment Property"	50,000
S Corporation 1 "Low Cost Housing Inc."	150,000
S Corporation 2 "Cheap Digs Corporation"	(25,000)

Also on the Federal return were other items of income derived from the partnership and S corporations. These items were reported to the individual partner/ shareholder by the businesses on the Form 1065 K-1s and Form 1120S K-1s.

	IRC& Interest	1231 Gain
Partnership A	$100
Partnership B	250	$500,000
S Corporation 1	125
S Corporation 2	225

On the New Jersey return, the resident taxpayer reported Schedule C income of $485,700 which represents the net of all items of income from all the real estate businesses.

On audit the Division of Taxation would make the following adjustments reflecting the income in its proper category for New Jersey Gross Income Tax purposes:

	Adjustments
Interest (from Partnerships A & B)	$350
Net profits from business (Schedule C) (Net profits from business will be $10,000)	(475,700)
Net gains or income from disposition of property	500,000
Distributive share of partnership income (Net of Partnerships A & B is a $150,000 loss)	0
Net Pro Rata share of S corporation income (Net of S Corporations 1 & 2)	$125,350
Total Change - Increase to Income	$150,000

In order to properly complete an individual New Jersey Gross Income Tax return, each individual must treat income and loss information consistent with the form in which they receive that information. The individual taxpayer may not reclassify income in a fashion that is inconsistent with the way each business enterprise reported it to them.

To further aid the taxpayer the Division of Taxation has made available Tax Topic Bulletin GIT-9, Income from Partnerships and S Corporations. The 44-page booklet, written for individuals, can be requested from NJ TaxFax at (609) 588-4500 or by dialing (609) 588-2200.

Information for Juror Source List

P.L. 1995, c.44 (signed into law on March 7, 1995) revises the law relating to the selection and impaneling of juries. The legislation provides that the names of persons eligible for jury service will be selected from a single juror source list of county residents whose names and addresses shall be obtained from lists of registered voters, licensed drivers, and filers of gross income tax returns and homestead rebate applications.

Accordingly, the Division of Taxation will provide, annually, a list of the names, addresses and social security numbers of gross income tax and homestead rebate filers to the Administrative Office of the Courts for the purpose of compiling a juror source list. □

William Kingsley, Director

William Kingsley, former Director of the New Jersey Division of Taxation, died on October 9, 1995 at the age of 93.

Mr. Kingsley, who had been with the Division for 35 years, served as Deputy Director from 1958 to 1960, and as Acting Director from 1961 until he retired in 1969.

A 1929 graduate of the New Jersey Law School, Mr. Kingsley was also a member of the National Tax Association.

CORPORATION TAX
Tax Clearance and Dissolution

The Division has received numerous inquiries questioning whether or not a tax clearance certificate is required in all dissolution cases. The following is a summary of the NO FEE dissolution and dissolution WITHOUT ASSETS provisions available to certain taxpayers.

In accordance with Section 14A:12-2 of the statutes, a corporation may dissolve "before commencing business" provided that it:

- (a) has not commenced business;
- (b) has not issued any shares;
- (c) has no debts or other liabilities; and
- (d) has received no payments on subscriptions for its shares or, if it has received such payments, has returned them to those entitled thereto, less any part thereof disbursed for expenses.

Section 14A:12-4.1 provides for a dissolution "Without Assets" if the corporation:

- (a) has no assets;
- (b) has ceased doing business and does not intend to commence doing business; and
- (c) has not made any distributions of cash or property to its shareholders within the last 24 months and does not intend to make any distribution following dissolution.

Corporations wishing to dissolve under the provisions of the above referenced statutes may file a certificate of dissolution with the New Jersey Secretary of State without the necessity of obtaining a tax clearance certificate from the Director, Division of Taxation. However, there is no provision within these statutes which exempts a corporation from filing returns with the Division. All returns must be filed and paid up to the date of filing of the certificate of dissolution. □

INHERITANCE/ESTATE TAX
Nonresident
 Inheritance Tax

The nonresident inheritance tax is a tax on the transfer by a nonresident decedent of real and tangible personal property located in this State. If the property passes by will or intestacy, the tax is computed using the nonresident ratio tax method, unless the transfer is by specific devise. Property passing by specific devise or to a surviving joint tenant, a transfer made in contemplation of death within three years of decedent's death and transfers intended to take effect at or after death are taxed directly to the transferee at the resident rates.

The purpose of the ratio tax is to equalize the rate of tax imposed on resident and nonresident estates. The tax assessed will be a percentage of that which would be assessed against an estate if the decedent had died a resident of this State. That percentage is determined by finding the ratio of the New Jersey real and tangible personal property to the total estate everywhere.

In determining the amount due, a tax is first computed on the decedent's entire estate, wherever situated, as if the decedent was a New Jersey resident and his entire estate was located here. This hypothetical resident tax is then multiplied by the ratio that the New Jersey real and tangible personal property bears to the entire estate, wherever situated. The tax is computed as follows:

$$\frac{\text{NJ Real and Tangible Personal Property}}{\text{Entire Estate}} \times \frac{\text{Tax on Entire Estate}}{\text{Estate}} = \text{Tax Due}$$

Like resident returns, the nonresident inheritance tax return is due within eight months of the decedent's date of death. Form IT-NR is the inheritance tax return utilized for reporting a nonresident's estate. If the transfer of the taxable property is subject to the ratio tax, the estate has the option of two methods of reporting the estate and computing the tax. The "flat tax affidavit" ratio method utilizes the gross estate, both within and outside of New Jersey, while the "full disclosure" ratio method utilizes the net estate. Worksheets are provided for the computation of the tax under either method.

Electronic Filing

- ◆ Are you filing Federal income tax returns electronically?
- ◆ Would you like to file New Jersey income tax returns electronically?

Beginning in 1996 (1995 tax returns), the New Jersey Division of Taxation will accept electronically filed income tax returns.

For additional information, call the Division's Hotline at (609) 588-2200 or write New Jersey Division of Taxation, ELF, CN 191, Trenton, NJ 08646-0191.

Waivers are issued for New Jersey real estate only. They are not required for the release of tangible personal property. The release of any New Jersey intangible personal property is accomplished by affidavit of domicile submitted directly to the bank, transfer agent, etc., each of whom has the authority to release those assets without a waiver if they have determined that the decedent was not a resident of New Jersey. Nonresident estates containing only New Jersey intangible personal property need only to follow this same procedure, there being no filing requirement.

There is no New Jersey Estate Tax assessed on estates of nonresidents.

Electronic Data Interchange

On September 1, 1995, the Division of Taxation, Field Audit Branch, established the Electronic Data Interchange (EDI) Consulting Group. This group is headed by Robert W. Shickora, Supervising Auditor, and is located in Somerville. Mr. Shickora has been involved in computer related activities for Field Audit and the Division of Taxation since 1982. Most recently, he has been the representative for the New Jersey Division of Taxation to the American National Standards Institute's Accredited Standards Committee for X12. This committee has the responsibility of approving all Electronic Data Interchange standards.

One of the main functions of the EDI Consulting Group is to meet with taxpayers and review their EDI systems to offer comments on whether or not proper controls and data retention are in place to satisfy the State's record keeping requirements.

In order to identify EDI users among taxpayers, a questionnaire has been developed and will be mailed to target taxpayers, tax professionals and industry leader groups such as TEI, COST, etc. The offer to take advantage of this free consultation service is being presented to all taxpayers which we believe to be a better alternative than waiting for other contact by the Division, i.e., an investigation, or audit, which could result in the taxpayer being out of compliance with the State's regulations.

Additionally, the EDI group will be responsible for redesigning and enhancement to our current system of computer auditing. This will include moving audit data that is currently processed on the mainframe computer of the Department of the Treasury to a secure PC operation, thus saving expensive mainframe costs and speeding up turnover time. In addition, we will be assisting in the enhancement of PC applications to accommodate the newly developed EDI/Auditing procedures.

Pennsylvania Amnesty Program

On October 13, 1995, Pennsylvania began its first-ever Tax Amnesty Program, which will run until January 10, 1996. The program applies to nonresident as well as resident businesses and individuals.

During the 90-day tax amnesty period, taxpayers owing Pennsylvania taxes can come forward, make full payment of their delinquent state taxes plus interest without paying penalty. Those who take advantage of tax amnesty must also remain current in their reporting for a minimum of two years or risk losing the benefits of tax amnesty plus incurring additional penalties.

Delinquent taxpayers who do not take advantage of the Tax Amnesty program by January 10, 1996, will have an additional 15 percent penalty levied on all past due taxes, interest and penalty.

The Department of Revenue, which is required by law to notify tax delinquents about the amnesty program, has sent notices to over 500,000 known delinquents.

Eighteen different state taxes, such as business, sales and use, personal and motor fuels taxes, are included in tax amnesty. Taxes which are not included are: Federal or local government taxes, Unemployment Compensation Tax, Passenger Car Rental Tax, Public Transportation Tax, the $1 tire tax or local sales taxes.

To qualify for tax amnesty, delinquent taxpayers must: have failed to file a return or pay any tax due and payable on or before December 31, 1993; owe state taxes, interest or penalties for periods due prior to December 31, 1993; or have underreported taxes on any tax return due on or before December 31, 1993. Those under criminal investigation by the PA

Department of Revenue are NOT eligible for tax amnesty. Also, taxes due after December 31, 1993 are not included in tax amnesty; penalty will not be abated for taxes due after December 31, 1993.

After January 10, 1996, the Department will begin an aggressive enforcement effort, including the use of new computer technology in addition to the 15 percent non-participation penalty. The Keystone Integrated Tax System, a new computer technology system, is slated to go on-line in mid-January and will enhance processing and increase the ability to identify delinquent taxpayers.

A first for the Department of Revenue includes the use of the internet. The Department has information available on the World Wide Web. The homepage address is: <http://www.epix.net/homepage/parev>. Information is also available 24 hours a day by calling 1-800-2-AMNESTY (226-6378). □

LOCAL PROPERTY TAX F.E.A.C. Adopts Values for 1996

The Farmland Evaluation Advisory Committee (F.E.A.C.) met on August 30, 1995 at the Philip Alampi Laboratory in West Trenton to adopt productivity assessment values for land receiving farmland assessment in 1996. The thirty-second Report of the Committee (showing the value ranges adopted) is mailed to municipal tax assessors and county boards of taxation by October 1 of each pre-tax year. Land qualifying for farmland assessment must be assessed in accordance with its agricultural or horticultural use rather than its true or market value.

The farmland productivity values adopted by the Committee for the 1996 tax year increased in 16 of the 20 counties where qualified farmland is located. Increases in cropland having a B soil group rating averaged from $20 to $40 per acre when compared to 1995 values. Overall net farm income of land in agricultural and horticultural use in New Jersey is estimated to have increased approximately 3.8% over the prior year. □

LOCAL PROPERTY TAX Farmland Acreage Declines

A report summarizing data from farmland assessment applications (Form FA-1) has recently been completed. The study shows that total acreage devoted to agricultural or horticultural use in 1994 was 1,177,419 acres for the entire State.

The data for tax year 1994 reflect a continued decline in the amount of qualified farmland since enactment of Chapter 48, Laws of 1964 (the "Farmland Assessment Act"). Since 1983, the year in which the highest acreage, 1,271,882 acres, qualified for farmland assessment, the amount of qualified acreage has declined 7.4% or a total of 94,463 acres.

24.50% of New Jersey's land mass is approved under the Farmland Assessment Act. Hudson County remains the only county without farmland. Essex and Union each report less than 500 acres devoted to agricultural or horticultural use. Conversely, Salem, with 58.7%, has the greatest proportion of its land qualified under the Act. Other counties with large percentages of qualified farmland are: Hunterdon, 52.9%; Warren, 50.6%; Gloucester, 38.9%; Sussex, 34.9% and Mercer, 33.6%. □

LOCAL PROPERTY TAX Reimbursements Certified

The 1995 State Revenue Sharing Act Distribution for senior and disabled citizens, surviving spouses and veterans was delivered to the State Treasurer on September 15, 1995.

Under the provisions of R.S. 54A:10-1 et seq., as amended, the Director of the Division of Taxation certified to the State Treasurer in this report the amount of revenue sharing funds due each municipality on November 1, 1995.

The total amount of property tax deductions for senior and disabled citizens and surviving spouses for 1995 was $37,320,559. That amount represents a decrease of 4.2% from 1994.

The total number of property tax deductions for senior and disabled citizens and surviving spouses for 1995 was 148,619. When compared to tax year 1994 the number of deductions decreased 3.2%.

The total amount of veterans deductions for 1995 was $18,438,452. That amount represents a decrease of 2.6% from 1994.

The total number of veterans deductions for 1995 was 369,795. When compared to tax year 1994 the number of deductions decreased 2.3%. □

LOCAL PROPERTY TAX Income Guidelines for $250 Deduction

The Revised 1995 Income Guidelines For Real Property Tax Deduction for Senior Citizens, Disabled Persons and Surviving Spouses have been sent to tax assessors, tax collectors, county tax board commissioners, and county tax board administrators. These guidelines pertain to Property Tax Deduction Claims (Form PTD) for tax year 1995 and Annual Post-Tax Year Statements (Form PD5) filed by March 1, 1996. A statutory definition of income as well as further related information provided in the New Jersey Administrative Code can be found in this distribution. Recent inquiries concerning "rental income" have been referred to this memorandum wherein "N.J.A.C. 18:14-1.1 defines 'business income' as gross income derived from business, trade, profession or the rental of property after deductions of the ordinary and necessary expenses of the business, trade, profession or rental of property as allowed under the Federal Internal Revenue Code and regulations." It is important to remember that although the guidelines were revised two years ago, the statutory and regulatory bases have not changed. The guidelines also contain various income scenarios illustrating the amount of deduction allowed (maximum 1995 Social Security benefit is $14,421) and the eligibility status of the claimant. □

Criminal Enforcement

Criminal Enforcement over the past several months included:

- A Federal grand jury indicted 25 people with taking part in an elaborate "daisy chain" scheme that defrauded New Jersey and the Federal Government out of more than $140 million in tax revenues on approximately half a billion dollars of motor fuel sales. Fifteen of those indicted are émigrés from the former Soviet Union. The charges include conspiracy, fraud, tax evasion and money laundering. This indictment, which is the biggest criminal motor fuel excise tax indictment in US history, is another case resulting from the joint undercover investigation "Operation Red Daisy." If convicted on all counts charged, the defendants face Federal prison terms and millions of dollars in fines, in addition to restitution.

- Howard R. Levy, president of Toy Box, Inc., was indicted on five counts relating to the evasion of New Jersey taxes. The counts included the failure to file or filing false or fraudulent tax returns, and the failure to turn over sales tax as required with the intent to evade. The offenses, which took place between January, 1992 and April, 1994, were uncovered in a joint investigation with the Monmouth County Prosecutor's Office.
- Elliot Mack, President of Acme Liquors, pled guilty in Essex County Superior Court to an accusation charging misapplication of entrusted funds. Between July 1990 and June 30, 1995, Mack collected $78,074.56 in New Jersey sales tax which he subsequently misappropriated. The plea agreement mandates Mr. Mack to pay the sales taxes, penalties and interest on the misappropriated funds by December 31, 1995. He was also ordered by the judge to sell his liquor license.
- Winnie Demkowicz, President of Laurina Enterprises Inc., a bar and restaurant located in Elizabeth, New Jersey, waived Grand Jury Indictment and has requested entrance into the Pre-Trial Intervention Program. Ms. Demkowicz, who pled to a charge of misapplication of entrusted funds, collected $43,591.04 in sales tax between July 1, 1990 and September 30, 1993 which she subsequently misappropriated. Ms. Demkowicz has made restitution to the State of the taxes she stole.
- James H. Haluszka, the former Chief Financial Officer of Ocean Gate Borough and the subject of an investigation of irregularities within the borough offices, received a seven count indictment on October 17, 1995 by the Ocean County Grand Jury. Included in one count for Official Misconduct, was Haluszka's failure to file and remit New Jersey withholding taxes for 1993 and 1994 for borough employees. Brenda Chapman, a member of the Division's Office of Criminal Investigation activity, was cited by the prosecutor's office for her professionalism and expertise in analyzing the financial records.
- Three cigarette tax cases resulted in the arrest of individuals for transporting and possessing cigarettes not bearing NJ revenue stamps. A total of 2,736 cartons were confiscated. □

Civil Collection Actions Quarter Ending - September 30, 1995

Following is a summary of enforcement actions for the quarter ending September 30, 1995.

Certificates of Debt

During the quarter ended September 30, 1995, the Division filed 3,947 Certificates of Debt in New Jersey Superior Court. These COD's, which have the same force and effect as docketed judgments, totaled $33.7 million.

Levies

$2.15 million was collected by Field Investigations as a result of executing against 347 non-compliant taxpayers. In addition, $107,812 was collected by levying against payments made under State contracts to satisfy debts owed by State vendors.

Seizures

When a liability, for which the Division of Taxation has secured judgments, cannot or will not be satisfied by a taxpayer and all other means of collection of the debt have been exhausted, seizure of the business and personal assets will take place. Field Investigators will close a business, seizing any tangible assets including licenses, inventory, machinery, furniture, vehicles, etc., until arrangements are made for payment of the debt.

For the quarter ending September 30, 1995, 33 businesses were seized. Some businesses were able to reopen, others remain closed. A listing of seized businesses appears on pages 13 and 14.

Auctions

If the liability of a business seized by the Division is not satisfied or resolved, the business will remain closed. To satisfy the debt, the Division can sell the business assets at a public auction.

During the quarter ending September 30, 1995, four auctions were held by the Division. A listing follows on page 14.

In the event an auction does not net enough monies to resolve the debt, the Division will execute against the personal assets of any of the business's responsible officers. Responsible officers are held personally liable for the trust fund portion of the debt which includes, but is not limited to, sales tax, withholding tax and motor fuels tax. □

Corporation Business Tax

IRC 368(a)(1)(A) Merger — X Corporation is a New Jersey corporation. X Corporation is the holder of a note and mortgage received in exchange of the sale of real property located in the State of New Jersey. X Corporation reports gain generated from the sale of the property on the installment method for both Federal income and New Jersey Corporation Business Tax purposes. X Corporation plans to merge into a newly formed Florida corporation. There will be no parent-subsidiary relationship after the merger. The Florida corporation will not have net operating loss carryovers. The merger will qualify for tax free treatment for Federal income tax purposes under IRC Section 368 (a)(1)(A). In addition, the merger will not result in the acceleration of the installment gain for Federal income tax purposes. After the transaction, the Florida corporation will allocate income and losses for New Jersey purposes in accordance with N.J.S.A. 54:10A-6. The Florida corporation will obtain a Certificate of Authority and will, therefore, be authorized to do business in New Jersey. The Florida corporation will be involved in an active business located in Florida.

On these facts, the Division advised that, first, for New Jersey Corporation Business Tax purposes the merger will not cause acceleration of gain, provided that the survivor is authorized in New Jersey. Second, the merger will be tax free for New Jersey Corporation Business Tax purposes. Once the survivor receives a Certificate of Authority to do business in New Jersey, taxpayer can bypass the tax clearance process. Merger documents should be submitted directly to the Office of the Secretary of State.

Research Credit — “For in-house research expenses, this trade or business requirement will be met if the principal purpose for conducting the research is to use the results of the research in the active conduct of a future trade or business.”

The inquirer asked whether this language would disqualify expenditures relating to an existing business under the following facts: A corporation conducts in-house research for the purpose of enhancing an existing business. All of the research for which CBT credit is to be claimed was performed in New Jersey and the dollar expenditure in 1994 was sufficient to satisfy the stipulated base period requirements. All of the expenditures for which credit is claimed for New Jersey CBT purposes are eligible for credit under IRC §41 as in effect on June 30, 1992.

The Division responded that the legislative history of P.L. 1993, c.175 which established the research credit, reads in part, “This substitute [bill] is based on the same credit base, rules and restrictions as the federal research and development credit provided under the federal Internal Revenue Code of 1986, provided that the credit under the bill is limited to expenditures made in New Jersey. This use of existing federal laws should simplify the administration of the tax and reduce compliance costs.”

Thus, the regulatory language of N.J.A.C. 18:7-3.23(r) should not be interpreted to disqualify expenditures relating to an existing business because the legislature intended that the New Jersey research credit be based upon the same credit base, rules and restrictions as the Federal credit is based upon. Since the expenditures, in this case, would qualify for the Federal credit, they also qualify for the State credit.

S Corporation IRC 162 — A taxpayer asked whether interest paid to acquire stock in a New Jersey S corporation in which the purchaser actively participates is deductible by the individual shareholder against flow through income of the S corporation per the Federal model as business interest.

The Division advised New Jersey law does not permit a deduction for interest expense used to buy S corporation stock unless the taxpayer is in the business of investing in S corporations. If that were the case such deduction would appear on the taxpayer's Schedule C and not reduce the taxpayer's net pro rata share of S corporation income. See Applestein v. Taxation, Div. Director, 5 N.J. Tax 73 (Tax Ct. 1982). aff'd. 6 N.J. Tax 347 (App. Div. 1984), Marrinan v. Taxation, Div. Director, 10 N.J. Tax 542 (Tax Ct. 1989), Gilligan v. Taxation, Div. Director, 11 N.J. Tax 414 (Tax Ct. 1991).

Gross Income Tax

S Corporation - Gross Income Tax Calculation — The taxpayer stated that it is a New York corporation that only does business in New York. The sole shareholder is a New Jersey resident. It has previously filed "S" elections for both Federal and New York purposes. The taxpayer has taken a Federal jobs credit and a Federal credit for increasing research activities (R & D credit) on its Federal tax return, both of which flow through to the shareholder. Per Federal law, the deductions on which these tax credits are based were reduced in connection with claiming the credits.

On these facts, the following questions were raised. First, in computing the New Jersey S corporation income of the New Jersey resident shareholder, can the reduction in the Federal salaries and wages deduction for the jobs credit be considered a subtraction for New Jersey purposes?

No. A taxpayer would not be able to take deductions on its New Jersey return for amounts that were not deducted for Federal purposes due to an election by the taxpayer to take a Federal credit in lieu of a deduction. See AT&T Co. v. Director, Division of Taxation, 13 N.J. Tax 534 (Tax Ct. 1993).

Second. The taxpayer raised the same issue as in issue one except as it relates to the Research and Development credit. Again the answer is no subtraction for New Jersey purposes for the reason stated in one above.

Third. The taxpayer inquired whether the answers would be the same for issues one and two if the taxpayer did business in New Jersey and filed a New Jersey S corporation tax return.

Yes, the answer would be the same. There is no authority under New Jersey law to decrease New Jersey S corporation income by amounts that are not deducted in calculating Federal taxable income.

Fourth. The taxpayer inquired whether the amounts by which the Federal deduction was reduced would be adjustments to the New Jersey Earnings and Profits, New Jersey Accumulated Adjustments Account, or New Jersey Other Adjustments Account.

Yes, such amounts would appear on line 3, Part IV-B, Schedule K, of CBT-100S as an "other reduction" to the Accumulated Adjustments Account. If this reduction were not made, the effect would be to give a deduction not authorized by statute or inflate the basis.

Nonqualified Deferred Compensation Plan (Clarification) — The Summer 1995 issue of the State Tax News included a Gross Income Tax "Tax Brief" regarding nonqualified deferred compensation plans. The article stated that deferred compensation is not taxable income to an employee until actually received, provided that the plan is nonqualified and unfunded and certain conditions are satisfied.

The article was written specifically about an unfunded, nonqualified deferred compensation plan that was set up for the deferral of bonuses and compensation of highly compensated employees. However, with respect to I.R.C. Section 457 plans, although nonqualified and unfunded, it is the Division's longstanding position that because the employee can control the percentage of income being deferred or can eliminate the deferral entirely, that there is constructive receipt. Consequently, the amounts deferred under an I.R.C. Section 457 plan must be included in gross income.

Sales and Use Tax

Purchase Points For Discount From Price — The Division received an inquiry regarding the sales tax treatment of a program whereby customers of a restaurant can receive and accumulate points based on purchases, which can be redeemed for food at either a reduced price, or for free, depending upon the level of the award. The redemption certificate does not have any independent cash value, and the expense of the award will be incurred solely by the restaurant. There will be no third party rebates or discounts involved.

The Division responded that based on these facts, the purchase point program would be treated as a vendor coupon. Sales tax is due only on the discounted price of the item.

Crop Dusting — A taxpayer inquired as to the taxability of crop dusting and aerial applications of defoliants, fertilizers and herbicides.

Under N.J.S.A. 54:32B-8.16 chemicals used in crop dusting qualify for an exemption under the Sales and Use Tax Act. However, the farm exemption applies to certain purchases of tangible personal property and not to services. Thus, the charge for the service of crop dusting is subject to sales tax under N.J.S.A. 54:32B-3(b)(4) of the Sales and Use Tax Act.

Cellular Telephones Used For Promotional Purposes — The Division received an inquiry concerning the purchase of cellular telephones which are either resold or given away in exchange for an agreement to subscribe to service with a particular cellular company. The following facts were given for review. Retailer A sells cellular telephones at its store. Such telephones are purchased by Retailer A from a vendor for $250 per telephone. Company B provides cellular telecommunications services to subscribers in New Jersey. Company B contracts with Retailer A for Retailer A to promote, solicit and obtain requests for the service provided by Company B. To induce customers to purchase Company B's service, Retailer A offers customers the following options when purchasing a cellular telephone from Retailer A:

Option #1

Purchase only the telephone for $300, or

Option #2

Purchase the telephone for $10 and agree to subscribe to Company B's service for a minimum period of one year.

If Option #2 is chosen, Company B will pay Retailer A a $275 commission per subscriber and $35 per subscriber to be used by Retailer A for advertising its cellular operations.

Since the retailer is selling the phone for a nominal amount in exchange for the purchaser's agreement to use Company B as a cellular service provider, Retailer A is using the telephones for promotional purposes, i.e. - to earn an advertising fee from Company B and to earn commission income from the sale of a service subscription by Company B. Although Retailer A may purchase the cellular telephones with a Resale Certificate, they must collect sales tax on the $10.00 charge to the customer, and remit use tax based on their cost of purchasing the telephone ($250) minus the amount recovered by making a nominal charge to the customer ($10.00). N.J.S.A. 54:32B-24. The activation commission paid to Retailer A is not subject to sales or use tax, nor is the additional payment which is to be used for advertising.

Auto Detailing — The Division replied to an inquiry concerning the taxability of auto detailing services performed for new car dealerships and auto service centers.

The services of installing tangible personal property or printing or imprinting such property including motor vehicles are subject to tax. A new car dealership and auto service center may provide a Resale Certificate (Form ST-3) where such services are purchased for resale by the buyer. Thus, the performance of auto detailing for new car dealerships and auto service centers is exempt from sales tax. □

Uniform Tax Procedure

Timeliness of Tax Complaint — Harris Corporation v. Director, Division of Taxation, No. 005784-93 (Tax Ct., decided August 3, 1995).

At issue was the timeliness of plaintiff's appeal from the denial of its claim for a corporation business tax refund. The Director's letter denying the refund was dated January 22, 1993. Plaintiff's complaint challenging the denial was received by the Tax Court on April 27, 1993, i.e. 95 days after the date on the Director's letter.

The Court determined that under the statutes and regulation in force at the time and the applicable court rules, the 90-day time for an appeal (plus three additional days allowed for mailing) began to run when the Director mailed the letter. The Director, however, took the position that, as a matter of law, the time began to run on the date shown on the letter, and he declined to submit proof of mailing for a hearing. The Court therefore denied the Director's motion to dismiss the complaint for untimely filing.

Local Property Tax
Calculating Rollback Taxes
Under Farmland Assessment Act
– *Calton Homes, Inc., Plaintiff, v.
Township of West Windsor,
Defendant*, Tax Court of New Jersey, Docket No. 011369-93, decided July 24, 1995.

This local property tax case concerned the correct methodology for calculating rollback taxes under the “Farmland Assessment Act of 1964,” N.J.S.A. 54:4-23.1 et seq., as amended. The levying of the tax itself due to a change to nonfarm use was not challenged.

The 143 acres in question were farmland valued at $58,200 from 1983–1992 and at $73,300 for 1993. As a result of the land’s residential development in 1993, rollback taxes of $110,222.21 were assessed that year and for the two previous years, 1992 and 1991, in the amounts of $94,095.83 and $88,179.77* respectively. Mercer County Tax Board utilized the 1993 purchase price of $5,016,000 paid by developer Calton Homes as fair market value for all three tax years and Chapter 123 average ratios of 100%, 41.33% and 42.33%* were applied to obtain the nonfarmland taxable values of $5,016,000, $2,073,100 and $2,123,300*. Because 1993 was a revaluation year where the ratio was 100%, the rollback assessment of $4,942,700 was not contested by the plaintiff and only the 1991 and 1992 rollback assessments of $2,065,100 and $2,014,900 were at issue.

However, the plaintiff’s computations for 1991 and 1992 were based on a fair market value of $1,171,816 as recommended by the appraisal firm at the time of a 1983 revaluation, plus an added 10% for entrepreneurial profit gained through 1987 subdivision approvals and resulted in nonfarmland taxable value of $1,289,000 and rollback assessment of $1,230,800 for both of the disputed years after deducting farmland value of $58,200.

Calton asserted that the actual general assessment level for the taxing district in 1991 and 1992 was established eight years earlier during the 1983 revaluation and that a different standard which employed values determined as of October 1, 1990 and 1991 was applied for his rollback assessment. Plaintiff argued that this was contrary to New Jersey’s constitutional “same standard of value” clause for real property assessment, violated equal protection under both State and Federal Constitutions, and that rollback assessment at “full and fair value” didn’t conform with the statutory provisions of N.J.S.A. 54:4-23.8. It was also contended that discrimination relief provided under P.L. 1973, c.123 was not adequate.

In deciding for the defendant, the Tax Court held that there was no conflict between the “same standard of value” requirement of New Jersey’s Constitution and the “full and fair value” requirement of N.J.S.A. 54:4-23, the statute regarding real property assessment. The Constitutional provision calls for equality of treatment and burden; the statute provides the basis on which equality is to be achieved. The Court affirmed that “full and fair value” is the equivalent of “market or true value” as mandated in N.J.S.A. 54:4-2.25. Further noted by the Court was that statute specifically directs the assessor to establish real property value as of October 1 of the pretax year. The Court revalidated, as well, the formula for rollback assessment cited at N.J.S.A. 54:4-23.8 of the Farmland Assessment Act which provides that rollback assessments are to be based on “full and fair value” using the same standard as other land in the taxing district. The plaintiff’s use of the number of line item adjustments to determine the base year was also rejected by the Court in that it would establish a dual standard of valuation not permitted by the Constitution nor intended by the Legislature. The Court refuted that uniformity of assessment or its maintenance thereafter had been proved for 1983. With respect to Chapter 123 as an acceptable means of discrimination relief, the Court held that while egregious, arbitrary or spot assessments may be outside its scope, the imposition of the rollback assessment was justified.

*Tax Board applied erroneous ratio, values reflected are as corrected by Tax Court. □

In Our Legislature

Corporation Business Tax

Allocation Formula — P.L. 1995, c.245 (signed into law on September 11, 1995) requires the receipts factor in the business allocation formula to be double weighted. This legislation is effective for accounting years beginning on or after July 1, 1996.

Tax Rate Decrease — P.L. 1995, c.246 (signed into law on September 11, 1995) reduces the tax rate from 9% to 7.5% for corporations with annual entire net income of $100,000 or less. This legislation applies to accounting years beginning on or after July 1, 1996.

New Merger Rules

Three statutes affecting business mergers were signed into law on August 15, 1995. Each act takes effect on the 90th day following the date of enactment.

Limited Liability Companies — P.L. 1995, c.222 provides that limited liability companies may merge or consolidate with other business entities if authorized by the laws under which those other business entities are organized.

Partnerships — P.L. 1995, c.223 allows partnerships to merge or consolidate with certain other business entities.

Limited Partnerships — P.L. 1995, c.224 allows limited partnerships to merge or consolidate with certain other business entities. □

Income Tax Rates Reduced

P.L. 1995, c.165, signed into law on July 4, 1995, reduces the New Jersey Gross Income Tax rates for all taxpayers for tax years 1996 and thereafter. When combined with the rate reductions enacted as P.L. 1994, c.2 and P.L. 1994, c.69, this new reduction results in cumulative tax decreases from the 1993 taxable year rates of 30%, 15% and 9%, depending on taxable income level.

Cumulative Rate Reduction

Filing Married, Filing Jointly Status: Head of Household
 Qualifying Widow(er)

Taxable Income	% Rate Change 1993-1996
$0— $80,000	-30%
$80,001—$150,000	-15%
Over $150,000	-9%

Filing Single Status: Married, Filing Separately and
 Estates and Trusts

Taxable Income	% Rate Change 1993-1996
$0— $40,000	-30%
$40,001—$75,000	-15%
Over $75,000	-9%

Withholding Rates

Because of the reduction in tax rates for taxable years beginning on or after January 1, 1996, new withholding tables will be required. Revised withholding tables will be mailed to employers when available.

Estimated Tax Payments

Any individual (resident or non-resident) who expects their New Jersey income tax liability to be more than $100, after subtracting withholdings and credits, must make New Jersey estimated tax payments using Form NJ-1040ES. Taxpayers should take the new income tax rates into account when calculating the amount of their estimated tax payments for 1996. Estates and trusts are not required to make New Jersey estimated tax payments.

Cafeteria Plans

Recent tax legislation (Chapter 111, P.L. 1995) made a significant change in the tax treatment of cafeteria plan benefits under the New Jersey Gross Income Tax Act. This change is effective June 1, 1995 and applies to taxable years beginning after June 1, 1995.

The new legislation allows for the value of employee cash-out options under employer-provided cafeteria benefit plans to be excluded from an employee's New Jersey gross income when the value of the options is also excludable from Federal income tax. An employee cash-out option is an option to receive cash in lieu of a qualified employer-provided benefit only when the employee receives a substantially similar benefit from another source.

To qualify for the exclusion, benefits must meet the following conditions:

1. Benefits must be provided under a cafeteria plan that meets the requirements of Section 125 of the Federal Internal Revenue Code of 1986.

Alfred C. Laubsch, Deputy Director

The Division of Taxation mourns the sudden loss on June 5, 1995 of Deputy Director Alfred C. Laubsch.

Mr. Laubsch, who was appointed Deputy Director of Taxation in June 1994, had been with the Division of Taxation for 28 years. He began his career as a Field Representative specializing in Motor Fuels Tax investigations, and had advanced to the position of Supervisor of Field Investigations before becoming Deputy Director.

He received his Bachelor's degree in Business Administration from the University of Tampa in 1965. He was awarded a Certificate in Supervisory Management and was a member of the Certified Public Manager Society of New Jersey.

Director Gardiner commented, "Al's accomplishments during his years of dedicated service with the Division are numerous. His contributions are evident throughout the Division. Al will be deeply missed by his friends and colleagues."

2. Employer-provided benefits may not be provided under a salary reduction agreement commonly known as a flexible spending account or premium conversion option.
3. Benefits must be elected from the five Federally allowable exempt benefits, which are: group life insurance; group accident and health insurance; medical cost reimbursement; dependent care services; and cash or deferred arrangements.
4. Although a qualified cash-out option allows the employee to receive cash in lieu of benefits, the employee must elect actual coverage rather than receive cash. Benefits received in the form of cash payments are includable in New Jersey gross income. □

Division Hires Collection Firms

The New Jersey Division of Taxation recently hired two private agencies to assist in its efforts to increase collections and to decrease the number of delinquent taxpayers in the State.

Payco General American Credits, Inc. (Payco), which was hired by the Division in 1993, continues to work with the Division to locate and contact businesses and individuals who are registered on the State's tax rolls, but who have failed to file returns and to pay their corporation business, sales and use and/or gross income taxes.

Municipal Tax Collection Bureau, Inc. (MTB) will work with the Division to "discover" businesses and individuals who conducted taxable activities in New Jersey, but who are not registered with the Division of Taxation, and who failed to file returns and pay the applicable taxes.

Both Payco and MTB are bound by the same confidentiality provisions as Division of Taxation employees in their access to and use of data in tax investigations. Taxpayers who are contacted by Payco or MTB and who wish to make payments or file tax returns should send their submission to the appropriate agency. □

Assembly Bill Aids Tax Compliance

Assembly Bill No. 2896, passed June 30, 1995, will help the Division of Taxation in obtaining information from State agencies to provide the Division with such information as social security numbers, business identification numbers, and full names and addresses. The information will be used to identify individuals and businesses who have either not filed the required tax returns or who have not filed complete tax returns. □

Division Plans to CATCH Tax Cheats

The New Jersey Division of Taxation is CATCHing up on those who do not pay their fair share of taxes. The State is asking citizens to call the CATCH (Citizens Against Tax CHEats) Hotline at (609) 588-2200 to report businesses or individuals cheating on their New Jersey taxes. Reports can also be made by writing to the New Jersey Division of Taxation, Office of Compliance, CN 245, Trenton, NJ 08646-0245.

Taxation Director Richard D. Gardiner urges citizens to report anyone who is cheating on their taxes. "Our revenue agents are ready to follow up on every lead," he said. "You do not have to give your name when you call, but we ask that you give as much information as you can about the business or individual."

Director Announces Promotions

State Tax Director Richard D. Gardiner has announced the appointment of a new Deputy Director, Harold E. Fox, and a new Assistant Director for Compliance, David M. Gavin. Their appointments are effective July 24, 1995.

Mr. Fox, who was previously Assistant Director, Compliance, has been with the Division of Taxation for over 25 years. Mr. Gavin, who was previously Senior Chief of the Revenue Opportunity Development Branch, has been with the Division of Taxation for 16 years. □

CORPORATION TAX R&D Tax Credit

An inquiry was made recently concerning New Jersey's position with regard to the Research and Development Tax Credit provided for on Form 306 and claimed on Schedule A-3 of either the CBT-100 or CBT-100S. For New Jersey purposes, a corporation can claim a credit for research activities performed in New Jersey based upon qualified expenditures made in taxable years beginning on and after January 1, 1994. It provides a credit of 10% of the excess qualified research expenses over a base amount, plus 10% of the basic research payments.

For Federal purposes, a corporation may claim a Research and Development Tax Credit based on 20% of the excess qualified research expenses, plus 20% of the basic research payments. For tax years beginning after 1989, any business expenditure for qualified research expenses or basic research payments must be reduced by the full amount of the credit. Taxpayers can avoid reducing the Federal deduction by electing to reduce the research credit. This election must be made for each tax year and is irrevocable.

The question posed was how New Jersey would treat both the New Jersey deduction and credit taken in instances where a taxpayer takes a reduced credit for Federal tax purposes. Under these circumstances, since the New Jersey credit is calculated independently of the Federal credit, the taxpayer would be entitled to a 10% New Jersey Research and Development Credit pursuant to N.J.S.A. 54:10A-5.24. The expense deduction for New Jersey purposes would remain the same as that taken for Federal tax purposes. □

INHERITANCE/ESTATE TAX Audit Enhancements

Effective with estates of decedents dying on or after January 1, 1991, the New Jersey Transfer Inheritance and Estate Tax Branch was propelled into the world of the computer. The Branch's four plus years of experience with the new system has been extremely positive.

Computerization of processing in the Branch, in addition to anticipated administration advantages, has established far-reaching compliance mediums available for use in the administration of these and other taxes. Records of the various taxing agencies within the Division of Taxation are now conveniently at the fingertips of the Transfer

Inheritance and Estate Tax auditor for official reference.

Proper reporting of assets which make up an estate for New Jersey Transfer Inheritance and/or Estate Tax purposes is now more easily verified. Available information enables the Branch to accurately identify assets which belonged to a decedent during his/her lifetime. The Branch is thus able to focus its attention on those estates which may not be in compliance. Such estates are subject to full audit.

The computerized processing system for death tax returns, in addition to exchange of information agreements with the Internal Revenue Service, has greatly enhanced the capabilities of the Transfer Inheritance and Estate Tax auditor. Each of these enhancements has helped to ameliorate the task of the Branch in assuring that New Jersey death taxes are administered in a manner which is equitable to both the State of New Jersey and to the taxpayer.

Benefits are not, however, unilateral. Computerization has enabled the Branch to improve service to the taxpayer in a variety of ways. Processing time has been dramatically shaved. As a result, tax assessments, bills, and waivers are received by the taxpayer within a much shorter time frame. Additionally, many taxpayer inquiries may now be promptly answered. In most instances, it is no longer necessary to retrieve the actual physical file for a decedent before being in a position to answer inquiries.

The Branch is eagerly looking forward to new technological advances. □

GROSS INCOME TAX

Voluntary Disclosure Policy

The Division of Taxation encourages resident and nonresident individuals who have not filed their personal income tax returns to come forward under the provisions of a voluntary disclosure agreement. If the individual contacts the Division before the Division contacts the individual, and the outstanding returns are filed with payment of the tax owing, no late filing or late payment penalties will be charged. Interest will be charged at the minimum rate required by law. Additional information may be obtained from the Gross Income Tax Audit Branch by calling (609) 292-0927. □

GROSS INCOME TAX

Electronic Filing of Individual Returns

The New Jersey Division of Taxation is participating in the Federal/State Electronic Filing Program for tax year 1995. The Division views this as another step forward in facilitating the process of meeting one's tax obligations. This process is designed to save money, time, and errors for the taxpayer, the preparer, and the State.

Last year New Jersey participated in the program in a limited, pilot project capacity. As a consequence, there was limited publicity on our involvement. This year, we will not be limited by the IRS criteria for first year states. For 1995, electronic filing will be available to full time residents anticipating a refund or a zero balance. Part-time and non-residents and taxpayers with a balance due will not be eligible to file electronically.

Tax year 1995 will be open to all software developers that wish to add New Jersey to their product line. Practitioners and Electronic Return Originators (EROs) should check with their software suppliers to see if they intend to offer electronic filing for New Jersey returns for this tax season. Anyone interested in participating in this year's program, whether software developer, transmitter, ERO, or paid preparer, should write to the Division at the following address:

New Jersey Division of Taxation
50 Barrack Street
CN 191 ELF
Trenton, NJ 08646-0191

Attn: Electronic Filing

You will be placed on our mailing list. Dissemination of information from registration forms to manuals and technical bulletins is accomplished using this mailing list. If you have never participated in this program before, you should also contact the IRS coordinator at the Newark District Office, as this program includes both the Federal and State returns. The telephone number in Newark is (201) 645-6690. □

LOCAL PROPERTY TAX Exemption/
Abatement Law Amended

Chapter 113, P.L. 1995, was approved on June 2, 1995. The law amends P.L. 1991, c.441 which provides for exemption and abatement of dwellings, multiple dwellings, and commercial and industrial structures from local property taxation in areas in need of rehabilitation.

Due to the amendment a commercial or industrial structure, used or to be used by a business relocated from another qualifying municipality, may be eligible for a property tax exemption if the following conditions are met:

1. The total square footage of the floor area of the structure or part thereof used or to be used by the business at the new site together with the total square footage of the land used or to be used by the business at the new site exceeds the total square footage of that utilized by the business at its current site of operations by at least 10%.
2. The property that the business is relocating to has been the subject of a remedial action plan costing in excess of $250,000 performed pursuant to an administrative consent order entered into pursuant to authority vested in the Commissioner of Environmental Protection under the "Water Pollution Control Act," the "Solid Waste Management Act," and the "Spill Compensation and Control Act." □

LOCAL PROPERTY TAX
Audits Yield Over
$600,000

Municipalities throughout New Jersey were audited by Property Administration field representatives for compliance with the $50 Veterans' Property Tax Deduction (N.J.S.A. 54:4-8.10) and the $250 Senior Citizens, Disabled Persons, and Surviving Spouses Real Property Tax Deduction (N.J.S.A. 54:4-8.40) Programs.

Full reimbursement for these property tax deductions is made to the municipalities every year by the State via revenue sharing. In 1994, a total of $18,932,660 was refunded to the local taxing districts for the veterans' deductions and $38,951,235 was refunded for the deductions for senior citizens, the disabled, and widows/widowers.

As a result of the recent audits, $621,533 will be credited on the certification report submitted to the State Treasurer in September 1995. □

LOCAL PROPERTY TAX Public Access to Assessment Tapes

Higg-A-Rella, Inc. v. County of Essex, et al. (See related article in State Tax News, Summer 1995, Vol. 24, No. 2.)

The N.J. Supreme Court affirmed on July 19, 1995 the Superior Court decision that plaintiff Higg-A-Rella, Inc. t/a State Information Service, a business corporation selling tax assessment data, had a common law right to Essex County's computer master tape of municipal tax assessment lists but remanded the matter to the Law Division's lower court to decide what and how much constitutes a reasonable fee, exclusive of compilation costs. The high Court also affirmed that the computer-taped assessment lists are not publicly accessible under the Right-to-Know Law, N.J.S.A. 47:1A-1 et seq.

Because counties and municipalities are not required to maintain their assessment lists on computer, computerized copies are not public records under the Right-to-Know Law which narrowly defines public records as documents required by statute to be "made, maintained or kept on file" by a government agency. Also as a result of a recent clarifying amendment by the Legislature, the Right-to-Know Law provides that the right to copy a record maintained by data or image processing refers "to the right to receive printed copies of such records." (L.1995, c.140)

However, computerized assessment lists are available to the public on a case specific basis under the broader common law which defines public records as "almost every document recorded generated or produced by public officials in the exercise of public functions whether or not required by law to be made, maintained..." Before the common law right of access applies, two criteria are necessary: the individual seeking public records must establish a "wholesome public interest or a legitimate private interest in the subject matter of the material" and a balance between the citizens' right to access v. the State's right to nondisclosure must be effected based on the circumstances of each case. In balancing opposing interests, the form in which information is disseminated is a consideration since the release of data on computer tape is more revealing and intrusive than hard copy data because it can be readily retrieved, searched and reassembled.

In deciding for the plaintiffs, the Court stated that their legitimate commercial interest was sufficient absent government's interest in confidentiality given the public nature of the information in another form. It indicated that the amendment of the Right-to-Know Law regarding image processed copies does not shape or limit common law, the essence of which is its adaptability to change. The Court also recognized the State's legitimate interest in preserving the potential commercial value of the databases and the cost of computerization, but cautioned that fees could not be used to discourage access. □

Georgia to Refund Federal Retiree Payments

The Georgia Department of Revenue has announced that any Federal or military retiree who paid taxes on retirement income during the years 1985-1988 may be eligible for a refund.

Recent Legislation

- Provides a payment plan for retirees who timely filed refund claims for the years 1985, 1986, 1987 and 1988.
- Provides a window from November 1, 1995 through December 15, 1995 for those retirees who have not filed amended returns for the years 1985-1988 but now wish to file.
- Provides that claims will be refunded in four yearly installments, with interest calculated at 7%.

Anyone in New Jersey who is affected by this Federal Retiree Refund Program should call the Georgia Department of Revenue at (409) 657-6881 for forms, additional information and assistance. □

Small Business Workshops

New Jersey entrepreneurs can receive free assistance from the Division of Taxation. The Division sponsors workshops explaining tax obligations geared for new businesses. The workshops will cover the following topics:

- Registering with the Division of Taxation
- Meeting Employer Responsibilities
- Reporting Business Income
- Filing Sales and Use Tax Returns

Division personnel will explain the proper procedures for collecting and remitting tax. Division personnel will also discuss the various types of business ownership and the tax consequences of each one. The session concludes with a discussion of the Sales and Use Tax, describing what is taxable and what is exempt from the tax.

Participants receive appropriate forms and brochures for their own use. Additionally, each attendee receives a Small Business Workshop resource manual that reviews each topic and provides easy to follow examples.

Workshops are held throughout the state in conjunction with the Internal Revenue Service. The sessions run from 9:00 AM to 4:00 PM, with the Division of Taxation presentation in the afternoon. Following is the fall workshop schedule. To find out more about the Small Business Workshops, or to sign up for the fall sessions, call the Division's Taxpayer Hotline at (609)

Tax Publications Guide

The Division of Taxation has issued a Publications Guide and Order Form (Form PUB-100) brochure listing all current tax publications (other than tax returns and instructions) which may be ordered from the Division free of charge. The order form will be updated periodically as new publications become available. To order a copy of PUB-100 contact the Tax Hotline at (609) 588-2200, call our automated system toll free at 800-323-4400 (Touch-tone phones within New Jersey only), or write to Division of Taxation, Office of Communication, CN 281, Trenton, NJ 08646-0281. □

1995 Package NJX

The New Jersey Division of Taxation has announced that order forms for the 1995 Package NJX will be mailed in late August or early September.

The cost for this year's edition will be $7.00 per book. Due to printing problems experienced with the 1993 edition, the 1994 edition of Package NJX was sent to users without charge. The Division is now returning to the established practice of charging for each copy.

Some changes are planned for the new edition in an effort to make the book easier to use. □

Criminal Enforcement

Criminal Enforcement over the past several months included:

- James Kennedy pled guilty to a violation of probation for failing to remit restitution payments to the Division for sales tax. The court has ordered monthly payments of $1,250 to be made directly to the Division, and has extended probation for five additional years. A consent judgment was also signed for $346,000, the amount of tax, penalty and interest still owed.
- The first criminal investigation involving the Tobacco Products Wholesale Sales Tax has been completed with assessments for a 37 month period of nearly $14,000 plus penalty and interest. In addition, it was also determined that 50% of the retail cigarette dealers serviced by the taxpayer were unlicensed by the Division. Although mitigating factors resulted in this case being resolved civilly, the investigation did disclose a lack of compliance which the Division is now addressing.

- Three individuals were convicted of charges stemming from their involvement in selling "bootleg" gasoline and fuel oil. This case was developed from a joint undercover investigation with the US Attorney's Office and has identified an estimated $100 million that was defrauded from the Federal government, New Jersey and two other states. Prior to this trial, nine other individuals, including four alleged organized crime associates, had pled guilty in this case.
- Four new criminal cases were initiated as a result of the liaison activities with the county prosecutor's offices. The tax aspects of three of the cases involve the failure to file income tax returns. The fourth case will focus on the filing of false returns.
- Data for the multiple filer project has been received and is being analyzed to identify individuals who filed multiple tax returns to defraud the State. The initial information indicates addresses where 20 or more income tax refunds or homestead rebates were delivered during the 1992 and 1993 tax periods. Additional information will subsequently be incorporated into the project. □

Enforcement Summary

Civil Collection Actions

Quarter Ending - June 30, 1995

Following is a summary of enforcement actions for the quarter ending June 30, 1995.

Certificates of Debt

Field Investigators secured 543 Certificates of Debt in New Jersey Superior Court. These COD's, which have the same force and effect as docketed judgments, totaled $13.9 million.

Levies

$2.4 million was collected by Field Investigations as a result of executing against 441 non-compliant taxpayers.

Seizures

When a liability, for which the Division of Taxation has secured judgments, cannot or will not be satisfied by a taxpayer and all other means of collection of the debt have been exhausted, seizure of the business and personal assets will take place. Field Investigators will close a business, seizing any tangible assets including licenses, inventory, machinery, furniture, vehicles, etc., until arrangements are made for payment of the debt.

For the quarter ending June 30, 1995, 30 businesses were seized. Some businesses were able to re-open, others remain closed. A listing of seized businesses appears on pages 11 and 12.

Auctions

If the liability of a business seized by the Division is not satisfied or resolved, the business will remain closed. A public auction of the business assets will be conducted in about 30 days.

During the quarter ending June 30, 1995, seven auctions were held by the Division. A listing follows on page 12.

In the event an auction does not net enough monies to resolve the debt, the Division will execute against the personal assets of any of the business's responsible officers. Responsible officers are held personally liable for the trust fund portion of the debt which includes, but is not limited to, sales tax, withholding tax and motor fuels tax. □

Tax Briefs

Corporation Business Tax

IRC 368 Reorganization — A taxpayer questioned the tax treatment of a reorganization under IRC 368 by a New Jersey corporation whose only asset was a promissory note secured by a mortgage received upon the sale by the corporation of real property located in New Jersey.

The Division advised that the fact that a reorganization is tax free at the Federal level is not necessarily controlling for State purposes. See N.J.S.A. 54:50-13, N.J.S.A. 54:10A-4(k)(3) and N.J.A.C. 18:7-14.17(h) and (i). It is possible that there would be New Jersey State tax liability upon the withdrawal or merger of a New Jersey corporation with a foreign corporation not authorized to do business in the State under the above circumstances.

S Corporation Distributions — The Division received and replied to correspondence which set forth the following facts about a corporation that elects to be treated by New Jersey as an S corporation. During the first year of being treated by New Jersey as an S corporation, the corporation will earn $100,000, all allocable to New Jersey. At the beginning of the year the company had retained earnings (prior C corporation earnings) of $250,000 and an Accumulated Adjustments Account (AAA) of $500,000. The corporation will distribute $400,000 during the year.

As a result of the new legislation dealing with S corporations, the tax treatment under the facts would be as follows. The $100,000 of current earnings would be taxed currently to the shareholders as pro rata share of S corporation income regardless of when it would be distributed. With regard to distributions to the shareholders of profits of the corporation earned by the corporation while it was a C corporation, the shareholders would be taxable for New Jersey gross income tax purposes on the amount of such distributions, in this case $300,000. N.J.S.A. 54A:5-14a requires that such distributions be treated in the manner set forth in IRC 1368. This treatment is not the same treatment as the treatment had been before P.L. 1993, c.173 was enacted which recognized the S corporation for New Jersey purposes.

Gross Income Tax

Installment Sale of Realty — The Division received an inquiry regarding the New Jersey gross income tax treatment of interest that a nonresident receives from an installment sale of realty located in New Jersey.

The portion of the proceeds treated as interest for Federal income tax purposes will also be treated as interest by New Jersey. However, because the interest income is derived from intangible personal property, it is not subject to New Jersey gross income tax when it is received by a nonresident unless it is derived from intangible personal property employed in a trade, profession, occupation or business in New Jersey. N.J.S.A. 54A:5-8.

S Corporation Resident Shareholder — An inquiry was received regarding the reporting of net pro rata share of S corporation income for resident shareholders.

As a result of the legislation passed in 1993, S corporation shareholders are now subject to the gross income tax on their pro rata share of the S corporation's income, whether or not such income was actually distributed. This income is to be reported on the New Jersey gross income tax return in the category of income called "Net pro rata share of S corporation income."

If a Federal S corporation makes the election to be treated as an S corporation for New Jersey purposes, the pro rata share of a New Jersey resident shareholder will be the pro rata share of the S corporation's income, regardless of where the income is allocated. The pro rata share of a nonresident shareholder will be that share of the S corporation's income that is allocated to New Jersey. Consequently, a resident shareholder in a New Jersey S corporation that had $100,000 of income from all sources must report the full $100,000 as the net pro rata share of S corporation income on the NJ-1040.

If a Federal S corporation does not make the New Jersey election (i.e. non-electing S corporation) then the resident shareholder's pro rata share will only include the pro rata share of the S corporation's income that is not allocated to this State. A nonresident shareholder would not be subject to tax on any portion of the non-electing S corporation's income, even if the income is allocated to New Jersey. Thus, a resident shareholder in a Federal S corporation that allocated 10% of its income to New Jersey must report the remaining 90% as the net pro rata share of S corporation income on the NJ-1040. This is true whether or not the S corporation paid out any dividends during the year.

Household Employees — The Division received an inquiry regarding an employee's filing and withholding obligations in New Jersey with respect to wages paid to domestic employees. For Federal tax purposes, in 1995 an employer of a household worker is required to withhold social security and Medicare from an employee who is paid cash wages of $1,000 or more in a calendar year. There is no requirement to withhold Federal income tax unless the employee asks the employer to do so and the employer agrees.

Inasmuch as withholding is not required for Federal income tax purposes, it is not deemed mandatory for an employer to withhold New Jersey gross income tax from wages paid to household workers. If, however, Federal income tax is withheld, then New Jersey gross income tax must also be withheld if otherwise required under New Jersey's employer withholding instructions.

For example, an employer who is withholding Federal income tax is required to furnish the NJ-W4 to all employees, but an employee is not required to complete the NJ-W4. If a household employee has requested that the employer withhold Federal income tax but does not wish to have State income tax withheld, the employee may claim exemption from withholding on the NJ-W4 if one of the following conditions is satisfied:

Filing status is single, head of household or qualifying widow(er) and the employee's wages plus taxable non-wage income will be $7,500 or less for the current year; or filing status is married joint and the employee's wages combined with his spouse's wages, plus taxable non-wage income will be $7,500 or less for the current year; or filing status is married separate and the employee's wages plus taxable non-wage income will be $3,750 or less for the current year.

Sales and Use Tax

Cemetery Companies — All cemetery companies, whether owned by religious or nonreligious organizations, and whether or not profit making, are relieved of payment of any sales or use tax on any purchase in New Jersey of tangible personal property or services. This tax exemption is provided specifically for cemetery companies under N.J.S.A. 8A:5-10.

An ST-4 Exempt Use Certificate should be used to document the exemption under N.J.S.A. 8A:5-10. The cemetery company must have a sales tax Certificate of Authority number in order to issue an ST-4.

The use of an ST-5 Exempt Organization Certificate and an exempt organization number are restricted to certain qualified non-profit organizations that have applied for and been granted sales tax exempt organization status under section 9(b)(1) of the New Jersey Sales and Use Tax Act. Such exempt organizations must be specifically named in the Act or be of a class described in Section 501(c)(3) of the Internal Revenue Code. Nonreligious cemetery companies generally qualify for Federal income tax exemption under Section 501(c)(13) of the code and therefore would not qualify for New Jersey sales and use tax exempt organization status. This would preclude this type of cemetery company from using an ST-5 exemption certificate.

Hearing Test — The Division responded to an inquiry concerning the tax consequences of hearing testing conducted from a van moved from place to place throughout the State.

The inquirer was instructed that for New Jersey sales tax purposes, testing services are exempt from tax as professional services. N.J.S.A. 54:32B-2(e)(4)(A). The sale of ear plugs for use as part of a work uniform would also be exempt from tax under the clothing exemption, N.J.S.A. 54:32B-8.4; N.J.A.C. 18:24-6.3.

Pizza Delivery Charges — A taxpayer requested advice regarding the incidence of sales tax on a separately stated food delivery charge made by pizza stores.

The Division responded that the New Jersey Sales and Use Tax Act provides an exemption from tax for separately stated charges for the transportation of property. N.J.S.A. 54:32B-2(d); N.J.S.A. 54:32B-8.11. Thus, the delivery charge for pizza and other prepared food is deemed to be exempt from sales tax under the provisions of the Sales and Use Tax Act.

Lease Entered Into Before June 26, 1989 — A leasing company is contemplating purchasing an equipment portfolio from another lessor and in turn will re-lease the same equipment to the same lessee. There will be a new lease contract drawn up. The current lessor's contract was in place prior to 1989. The lessor asked what the sales tax implications were in this case.

The Division responded that as long as the terms of the original lease apply (i.e. — the new contract is merely to reflect the correct parties to the transaction), the lessor can continue to collect sales tax pursuant to the pre-1989 law. However, if a new lease is entered into, the lessor will owe the use tax based on either the original purchase price (not the fair market value) or the total lease payments. However, the lessor may take credit for the sales tax paid by the lessee with respect to the lease of the property in New Jersey under prior law. See P.L. 1989, c.350.

Drop Shipment Sales — When an out-of-State vendor comes into

New Jersey to pick up materials, New Jersey sales tax is due unless a completed New Jersey exemption certificate is obtained from the purchaser, for example, a New Jersey Resale Certificate (Form ST-3). A New Jersey vendor can accept an out-of-State exemption certificate in drop shipment transactions; that is, where a vendor registered in New Jersey delivers goods to a third party customer in New Jersey on behalf of an out-of-State vendor. See N.J.A.C. 18:24-10.6(c).

Library Services — The Division responded to an inquiry concerning the incidence of sales tax on receipts from a library service described thus:

Corporation X is a service provider who sends its employees to various clients to update changes in the client's reference libraries. All of Corporation X's clients are in New Jersey. The materials used to update the reference libraries are not supplied by Corporation X, but are instead provided by the client.

There are no supplies or property transferred to the clients as part of the service provided. Corporation X's clients purchase the updated materials from independent publishers. A sales tax is paid on the property at the time of purchase. The publishers who provided the materials have no relationship with Corporation X. They are strictly independent of each other.

On occasion, Corporation X has managers who provide consulting services, advising the clients about their library or data storage capabilities. This is a minor portion of Corporation X's business. For both services provided by Corporation X, the fees are charged on an hourly basis only, and all invoices are prepared in this manner.

The New Jersey Sales and Use Tax Act provides an exemption for professional or personal service transactions at N.J.S.A. 54:32B-2(e)(4)(A). The filing, updating and consulting services provided by Corporation X under the above facts are deemed exempt services pursuant to this section of the law.

Sealcoating and Striping Parking Areas — The Division responded to a request regarding the sales tax treatment of the service of sealcoating and line-striping of parking areas.

The New Jersey Sales and Use Tax Act imposes tax on maintaining, servicing, or repairing real property. N.J.S.A. 54:32B-3(b)(4). Since sealcoating and line-striping are not considered a capital improvement to real property, the receipts from these services are subject to sales tax. □

In Our Courts

Corporation Business Tax Time Limit For Filing Refund Claim — Don Dan Construction Company v. Director, Division of Taxation, Tax Court, 16-02-00529-92CB, decided April 6, 1995.

This case involved the denial of a corporation business tax claim for refund. The denial was based on the claim having been filed beyond the time limits established by the pertinent tax laws. The parties agreed to argue only on the issue of whether the claim was timely filed. The facts were as follows: (1) the taxpayer filed its 1986 return on March 28, 1988, which was later than the approved extended filing date of March 15, 1988; (2) on October 17, 1988, the Division of Taxation (the Division) assessed late filing and payment penalties through issuing a tax lien; (3) on February 17, 1989, the taxpayer asked that the penalties be satisfied from an overpayment of its 1987 year tax; (4) on September 5, 1990, taxpayer filed an amended 1986 CBT return based on a revision of figures for closing inventory and cost of goods sold.

The taxpayer contended the statutory two year limit should run from the taxpayer's February 1989 payment of the "assessed" penalty and interest. The taxpayer argued that the 1989 payment should not be viewed as a payment of penalties and interest because the Division had not issued a notice of deficiency assessment or final determination with regard to the 1986 penalty and interest.

The Tax Court responded that the taxpayer had the opportunity to contest the penalty and interest charges by appealing to the Tax Court within 90 days of actual notice. The Tax Court noted that the taxpayer had chosen to satisfy, rather than contest, the charges. The Court upheld the refund denial and entered judgment in favor of the Division of Taxation.

Gross Income Tax

Duty to Remit Taxes Withheld from Employee Wages – Lorenzo v. Director, Division of Taxation, Docket No. 009219-93, decided April 7, 1995.

A president of a construction company, who was not fluent in English but signed checks and loan documents and gave personal guarantees as directed by the vice president, was not found to be under a duty to collect and remit New Jersey Gross Income Tax withheld from the wages of employees.

Taxpayer contended that other than a paper position as President, he did not have a duty regarding the collection and remittance of taxes. Therefore, N.J.S.A. 54A:9-6, which provides individual liability for a corporate employee withholding taxes, should not be applied against him.

The Division contended that the taxpayer was a responsible individual and was under a duty to perform the act in respect to which the violation occurred. The taxpayer had a 51% stock interest, the title of President of the corporation and supervised laborers. However, the evidence addressed at trial showed that he did not control the company jobs, secure bonds, supervise bookkeeping, or sign business papers without instruction to do so.

The Court, applying a nine factor test, decided in favor of the taxpayer, stating that the taxpayer lacked the duty to act for the corporation although he had authority to act and thus would not be held liable for the corporation's tax obligation.

The nine factors the Court considered are: (1) contents of the corporate bylaws; (2) role as officer and shareholder; (3) authority to sign checks and actual signing of checks; (4) authority to hire and fire employees; (5) responsibility to prepare and sign tax returns; (6) day-to-day involvement in business management; (7) power to control payments to creditors and payments of taxes; (8) knowledge of failure to remit taxes; and (9) derivation of substantial income and benefits.

The Court in making "a quantitative determination based on the totality of the circumstances" reasoned that taxpayer was not under a duty to act and cannot be held personally responsible for the unremitted withholding taxes of the corporation. The Court concluded that the taxpayer was an unsophisticated individual who could not read or write English and was instructed as to what needed his signature. The taxpayer had no involvement in day-to-day operations of the business except field operations and lacked the requisite knowledge of the outstanding tax obligation.

Relative Priority of IRS and New Jersey Tax Liens – Monica Fuel, Inc. v. Internal Revenue Service, Third Circuit Court of Appeals (No. 91-cv-00748), filed June 2, 1995.

The Third Circuit determined the relative priority of IRS liens and New Jersey motor fuels tax liens against a New Jersey corporation. The priority of competing liens depends upon which lien arose first. For purposes of determining priority, a state lien is deemed to have been perfected and "choate" when the identity of the lienor, the property subject to the lien, and the amount of the lien are established. Noting that, in order for a lien to be choate, it is sufficient that the state have a right to enforce its lien summarily, the appeals court found that the fact that the Division's warrant of execution had expired did not prevent the motor fuels tax liens from being choate. It concluded that the state tax liens had priority because they were choate before the IRS liens arose.

Nonbusiness Bad Debt – Walsh v. Director, Division of Taxation, A-3708-93T3, decided April 19, 1995.

The Appellate Division affirmed the Tax Court's decision that a loss from a worthless nonbusiness bad debt is not a loss from the disposition of property within the meaning of N.J.S.A. 54A:5-1c, and therefore such loss cannot be deducted from gains from the disposition of property.

Local Property Tax

Inapplicability of N.J.S.A. 2A:14-1.2 to Property Tax Appeals – New Jersey Transit Corp. v. Bor. of Somerville, New Jersey Supreme Court, A-71-94, decided April 19, 1995.

New Jersey Transit Corporation, a governmental entity, appealed in 1991 from tax assessments levied against it by Somerville from 1981 to 1990. The Court affirmed the determination that these appeals were untimely. It held that the general ten year limitation period allowed by N.J.S.A. 2A:14-1.2 for actions brought by the State did not apply to challenges to real property tax assessments. These appeals were instead governed by the specific filing time limitations of N.J.S.A. 54:3-21.

Classification of Property – Emmis Broadcasting Corporation of New York v. East Rutherford Borough Ten Fifty Limited Partnership v. East Rutherford Borough Radio Station WEVD v. East Rutherford Borough, Tax Court, Docket Nos. 002282-92, 002284-92, 000946-93, 000681-94, 000680-94, decided March 21, 1995.

The Tax Court determined the proper assessment for a 22.58 acre property which included land on which radio towers were located and some wetlands. It ruled that the concrete bases on which the radio towers sat were assessable as realty, while the towers themselves were personal property (machinery, apparatus, equipment) affixed to realty and not subject to local property tax. While the wetlands could not be developed, since they could “contribute” to the development of the rest of the land, the wetland portions were assessed at the same rate as the non-wetland portions.

Oklahoma Sales Tax

Tax on Interstate Bus Tickets – Oklahoma Tax Commissioner v. Jefferson Lines, Inc., U.S. Supreme Court, Docket No. 93-1677, decided April 3, 1995.

Reversing an Eighth Circuit decision, the United States Supreme Court held that the imposition of Oklahoma sales tax on the full price of bus tickets for interstate travel originating in Oklahoma did not violate the Commerce Clause. It determined that the tax is valid because (1) it is applied to an activity with substantial nexus to the state of Oklahoma; (2) it is fairly apportioned; (3) it does not discriminate against interstate commerce; and (4) it is fairly related to the services provided by the state.

Transfer Inheritance Tax

Specific Legacy – Estate of Baier Lustgarten, 281 N.J. Super. 275 (App. Div. 1995).

Nonresident decedent’s estate included a nursery business and extensive lands located in New Jersey. This asset was part of a residuary estate, devised by means of a trust. The nursery business and lands were to be distributed to decedent’s stepson, subject to the life tenancy of decedent’s surviving spouse.

At issue was whether the gift of this nursery business and land was a “general” legacy, thus causing its value to be included in calculating the value of New Jersey property that must be considered in arriving at the ratio tax. The Court determined that this bequest was a “specific” legacy, and therefore exempt from the ratio tax pursuant to N.J.S.A. 54:34-3. □

In Our Legislature

Gross Income Tax

Cafeteria Plans — P.L. 1995, c.111 (signed into law on June 1, 1995) allows for the value of certain employee “cash-out options” under employer-provided cafeteria benefit plans to be excluded from an employee’s New Jersey gross income. This legislation applies to taxable years beginning after June 1, 1995.

Employer Returns; Electronic Funds Transfer — P.L. 1995, c.160 (signed into law on June 30, 1995) concerns the frequency of returns and payment of gross income tax withholdings by employers, and limits the frequency of electronic funds transfer payments to once a week maximum. This legislation applies to tax liabilities incurred after January 1, 1996.

Tax Rate Decrease — P.L. 1995, c.165 (signed into law on July 4, 1995) reduces the gross income tax rates. Combined with P.L. 1994, c.2, and P.L. 1994, c.69, this bill results in cumulative rate reductions for married persons filing jointly, head of household or surviving spouse of: 30% ($0–$80,000); 15% ($80,000–$150,000); and 9% (over $150,000). Rate reductions for single individuals or married persons filing separately are 30% ($0–$40,000); 15% ($40,000–$75,000); and 9% (over $75,000). This bill is effective for tax years 1996 and thereafter.

Local Property Tax

Tax Incentives for Commercial or Industrial Businesses — P.L. 1995, c.113 (signed into law on June 2, 1995) permits a municipality to offer tax incentives to a business that transfers commercial or industrial operations from one qualifying municipality to another qualifying municipality. Such structures or parts thereof were previously restricted. This provision will be administered by the Division of Local Government Services in the Department of Community Affairs. This legislation takes effect immediately.

Local Property Tax Relief — P.L. 1995, c.148 (signed into law on June 30, 1995) appropriates fiscal year 1995 public utilities gross receipts and franchise taxes in excess of $960,000,000 for distribution to municipalities to reduce the local municipal property tax levy.

Miscellaneous

Transportation Trust Fund — P.L. 1995, c.108 (signed into law on May 30, 1995) revises the New Jersey Transportation Trust Fund Authority Act of 1984 and changes the dedication of monies to the Trust Fund Account. This legislation is effective immediately, except that the section concerning the dedication of monies takes effect July 1, 1995.

Intestate Decedents — P.L. 1995, c.152 (signed into law on June 30, 1995) clarifies procedures for disposition of property of intestate decedents. This legislation takes effect immediately and applies to all estates where a fiduciary has been appointed and has not been discharged.

State Tax Administration — P.L. 1995, c.158 (signed into law on June 30, 1995) requires State agencies to obtain and furnish certain taxpayer identification information to the Division of Taxation to assist in collecting delinquent State taxes. This legislation will take effect January 1,

Set-Off of State Vendor Debt — P.L. 1995, c.159 (signed into law on June 30, 1995) authorizes payments made under State contracts to be set-off for tax debts owed by State vendors. This legislation will take effect January 1, 1996.

Landfill Reclamation Improvement District Fee — P.L. 1995, c.173 (signed into law on July 6, 1995) permits a municipality that has created a Landfill Reclamation Improvement District to impose a franchise assessment fee not to exceed 3% on the sale price of all tangible property sold by a business in the district (exclusive of transportation charges and sales taxes), and upon all rental receipts from the rental of commercial property in the district.

A municipality having a population of more than 12,000 in which there is an area designated as an urban enterprise zone in which the receipts of certain sales are exempt to the extent of 50% of the tax imposed under the sales and use tax can adopt an ordinance creating a landfill reclamation improvement district whenever the municipality determines that the district will promote job creation and economic development. A municipality may create by separate ordinances more than one district.

Health Insurance — P.L. 1995, c.196 (signed into law on August 2, 1995) establishes procedures to convert a health service corporation to a domestic mutual insurer. This legislation takes effect immediately.

Sales and Use Tax

Alcoholic Beverage Wholesalers and Retailers — P.L. 1995, c.161 (signed into law on June 30, 1995) establishes a reporting and review system for alcoholic beverage wholesalers and retailers to verify the correct collection and reporting of sales and use taxes on alcoholic beverages. This law takes effect immediately. However, the provision which allows the Division to require reports from wholesalers of all sales to retailers applies to sales made on and after August 1, 1995.

The compliance procedures require retailers to produce an Alcoholic Beverage Retail Licensee Clearance Certificate for the municipal clerk before they will be able to renew their license. The compliance procedures will be phased in geographically, by counties, over three years, beginning with renewals for July of 1996. The seven counties affected for the first year are Bergen, Burlington, Essex, Gloucester, Middlesex, Ocean and Salem. For more information call (609) 292-0140.

Telephone "Yellow Pages" Advertising — P.L. 1995, c.184 (signed into law on July 25, 1995) eliminates the sales and use tax on advertising space in telecommunications user or provider directories or indexes distributed on or after April 1, 1996. □

Late Charges for Video Rentals

The receipts from the rental of a home video are subject to sales tax. Since a late charge is directly related to the use of the video beyond the original rental period, it is also subject to tax. In effect, the customer is merely being charged for another rental period.

1994 Homestead Rebate Guidelines

The 1995-96 Annual State Budget has set limitations on 1994 homestead rebates scheduled to be mailed on or before October 31, 1995. Homestead rebates for 1994 will be calculated in the same manner as the 1993 homestead rebates which were also affected by the Annual State Budget last year. For taxpayers 65 years of age or older or disabled, with income of $100,000 or less, rebates will be calculated without limitation, allowing rebates up to the maximum amount of $500. Other qualified taxpayers with incomes of $40,000 or less will receive a maximum rebate of $90 for homeowners and $30 for tenants. Taxpayers under age 65 and not disabled, with income over $40,000, will not receive 1994 homestead rebates.

Extension Requests

There has been much confusion among taxpayers as to the requirements for obtaining and keeping a valid extension of time to file a New Jersey gross income tax return. The Division has proposed changes to N.J.A.C. 18:35-1.18 in an effort to clarify and simplify the application and payment requirements a taxpayer must satisfy to obtain an extension of time to file a gross income tax return.

Under the proposed rule, a taxpayer may obtain a four month extension of time to file the New Jersey resident, nonresident or fiduciary income tax return (Form NJ-1040, NJ-1040NR or NJ-1041) provided that at least 80% of the actual tax liability is paid in the form of withholdings, estimated provided that at least 80% of the actual tax liability is paid in the form of withholdings, estimated payments or a payment made with an Application for Extension of Time to File (Form NJ-630), and the taxpayer either (1) obtains a valid four month extension for Federal purposes and attaches a copy of such application to the New Jersey gross income tax return when filed, or (2) completes and submits Form NJ-630 by the original due date if no Federal extension is requested.

If the taxpayer is unable to file the return within the four month extension period, the taxpayer may obtain an additional two month extension, for a total of six months. Extensions beyond six months from the original due date of the return will be granted only in cases where the Director determines that exceptional circumstances exist.

In an attempt to reduce the number of filings required by taxpayers, the proposed new rule eliminates the need for a taxpayer to file Form NJ-630 to obtain an additional two month extension if an additional two month Federal extension is approved and a copy of such approval is attached to the taxpayer's New Jersey gross income tax return when filed.

Taxpayers must still file Form NJ-630 if (1) no extension is obtained for Federal purposes, or (2) a payment must be made to satisfy the requirement that 80% of actual tax liability be paid by the original due date of the return. □

Annual Use Tax Return

In an ongoing effort to simplify filing procedures and assist filers in complying with the law, the Division of Taxation is currently working on regulations that would change the requirements for filing sales and use tax returns and provide an annual use tax return for businesses not operating as vendors. □

CORPORATION TAX Refunds and Assessments

The Division has proposed amendments to N.J.A.C. 18:7-13.1 and 13.8 which make minor modifications to reflect current Division practice and the language of the Uniform Procedure Law at N.J.S.A. 54:48-7 regarding transition provisions for P.L. 1992, c.175, N.J.S.A. 54:49-6(b), the provision on assessments and N.J.S.A. 54:49-14, the provision on refunds.

Assessments

Under N.J.A.C. 18:7-13.1(b), as proposed to be amended, the statute for assessments is five years from the date the return or amended return was filed, for liabilities accruing prior to July 1, 1993, and four years from the date the return or amended return was filed for tax liabilities accruing on and after July 1, 1993. In accordance with N.J.S.A. 54:49-7(b), any unexpired fifth year of the five year period of limitations remaining in effect on July 1, 1993 shall continue to be in full force and effect. Note that the exceptions in 18:7-13.1(b)1-3 remain in place: the Director may assess any time where no return was filed, and if the return is filed before or after the due date, the statute of limitations starts running from the due date or filing date, whichever is later.

Examples:

1. Corporation A's 1992 CBT return is due April 15, 1993 and filed March 1, 1993. The Division has until April 15, 1998 to assess additional tax under 18:7-13.1(b)3, five years from the April 15, 1993 accrual date of the tax liability, because the tax liability accrued prior to July 1, 1993.

2. Corporation B's 1993 CBT return is due April 15, 1994 and filed March 15, 1994. Corporation B files an amended return on August 15, 1994. The Division has until August 15, 1998 to assess additional tax under N.J.A.C.

18:7-13.1(b)3, four years from the filing of the amended return, because the amended return relates to a tax liability accruing on April 15, 1994, after July 1, 1993.

3. Corporation C's 1990 CBT return was due and filed on April 15, 1991. The Division has until April 15, 1996 to assess additional tax, five years from April 15, 1991. Pursuant to N.J.S.A. 54:48-7(b) and N.J.A.C. 18:7-13.1(b) as proposed to be amended, any unexpired fifth year of the five year period of limitations remaining in effect on July 1, 1993 shall continue to be in full force and effect.
4. Corporation D's 1993 CBT return is due on April 15, 1994 and filed March 15, 1994. The Division has until April 15, 1998 to assess additional tax, four years from the April 15, 1994 accrual date of the tax liability. The tax liability accrued on April 15, 1994, after July 1, 1993, and therefore the four year statute of limitations is applicable.
5. Corporation E's 1992 CBT return is due and filed on April 15, 1993. The Internal Revenue Service changes the amount of taxable income and the taxpayer files an amended return August 15, 1994 to reflect the change. The Division has until August 15, 1999 to assess additional tax, five years from the filing of the amended return, because the amended return relates to a liability accruing on April 15, 1993, prior to July 1, 1993. If the liability had accrued on April 15, 1994 and the amended return filed on August 15, 1995, the Division would have until August 15, 1999 to assess additional tax, four years from the filing of the amended return, because the liability would have accrued on April 15, 1994, after July 1, 1993.

6. Corporation F's 1991 CBT return was due and filed April 15, 1992. On February 1, 1997, the corporation consents in writing to a six month extension of the assessment period. The Division has until October 15, 1997 to assess under N.J.A.C. 18:7-13.1(c), five years from April 15, 1992 plus the six month extension to which the corporation consented in writing.

Refunds

The same approach regarding accrual is applied to the statute of limitations on refund claims under N.J.A.C. 18:7-13.8.

Examples:

1. Corporation A files its 1992 CBT return on April 15, 1993. On May 1, 1995 the corporation files an amended return and a claim for refund. The refund claim is barred because the two year statute of limitations for refund claims expired on April 15, 1995. Pursuant to N.J.S.A. 54:48-7(c) and the proposed amendment to 18:7-13.8(a), all claims barred by the two year statute of limitations on July 1, 1993 shall continue to be barred.
2. Corporation B files its 1993 return on April 15, 1994. On August 1, 1995 the corporation files a Report of Changes in Corporate Taxable Net Income by the Internal Revenue Service (Form IRA-100) which results in a diminution of entire net income. The corporation has until August 1, 1999 to file a refund claim under 18:7-13.8(d), four years from the filing of the IRA-100, because the claim accrued after July 1, 1993. □

CORPORATION TAX Activity Required for Nexus

As a result of Pomco Graphics, Inc. v. Director, Division of Taxation, 13 N.J. Tax 578, the Division has revisited the question of the degree of corporate activity in New Jersey which would require a corporation to file a New Jersey Corporation Business Tax return and subject it to paying, at the very least, the minimum tax.

N.J.S.A. 54:10A-2 imposes upon every domestic and foreign corporation, not otherwise exempt, a tax for the privilege of having or exercising its corporate franchise in this State, or for the privilege of doing business, employing or owning capital or property, or maintaining an office, in this State.

As a result of Pomco, foreign corporations who solicit orders for sale of tangible personal property from customers in New Jersey, approve the order outside of New Jersey, and ship from outside of New Jersey and have all the other attributes affording protection under Public Law 86-272, meet the requirements of subjectivity under

N.J.S.A. 54:10A-2 and have sufficient connection with this State for New Jersey to require it to file returns and pay a minimum tax. The presence of an employee who simply solicits orders or engages in activities ancillary to requests for an order is nevertheless exercising its corporate franchise and "doing business" here and we will require the filing of a New Jersey Corporation Business Tax return and the payment of a minimum tax. □

GROSS INCOME TAX Form 1099 Filing Requirements

Pursuant to N.J.S.A. 54A:8-6 and N.J.A.C. 18:35-1.8, all persons having the control, receipt, custody, disposal, or payment of interest, rents, salaries, wages, premiums, annuities, compensation, remuneration, etc. are required to file a copy of the Federal information return (Form 1099) on or before February 15 following the close of each calendar year. The Division will, however, consider such forms timely filed if they are submitted no later than the Federal filing deadline of February 28.

Form 1099 must be filed with the Division of Taxation, CN 248, Trenton, New Jersey 08646-0248. Such requirements may be satisfied by providing a copy of the magnetic tape provided to the IRS or copies of all forms submitted for amounts of $1,000 or more.

A penalty of $2.00 may be imposed on a payor for each statement he fails to file unless it is shown that such failure is due to reasonable cause and not to willful neglect. The total penalty imposed on the delinquent payor shall not exceed $2,000. N.J.S.A. 54A:9-6(h). In addition, any taxpayer failing to file a return may be liable for a late filing penalty of $100 for each month or fraction thereof that the return is delinquent. N.J.S.A. 54:49-4. Finally, any person who recklessly or negligently fails to file any return or report required by any State tax law may be guilty of a disorderly persons offense. N.J.S.A. 54:52-6. □

CORPORATION TAX Meals and Entertainment on CBT-100S

A New Jersey S corporation is permitted to deduct the portion of meals and entertainment expenses that is not deductible for Federal purposes in computing the New Jersey S corporation income that is passed through to its shareholders. An entry should be made on Schedule K, Part II, Line 4 of the 1994 Form CBT-100S to indicate the meals and entertainment expenses not deductible for Federal purposes. A rider explaining the entry should be attached to the return, since Line 4, Part II of Schedule K is normally used for entering Section 179 expense from the Federal Schedule K.

In computing the 2.35% Corporation Business Tax, any meals and entertainment expenses not deductible for Federal purposes would not be deductible in computing the New Jersey Corporation Business Tax, and would be reported on Schedule C as a book expense not deducted on the tax return. □

GROSS INCOME TAX Calculation of Credit For Tax Paid to New York

Numerous tax protests are received based on New York's inclusion of worldwide income to determine the New York tax rate. Taxpayers typically argue that New York is effectively taxing New Jersey source income; therefore, they are entitled to take into account the "effectively" taxed amount when computing their resident credit. N.J.S.A. 54A:4-1.

On audit the claimed credit is reduced to the actual amount factually and legally taxed by New York. The Conference and Appeals Branch has routinely upheld the auditor's findings on this issue. The Director's Final Determination has been challenged by several taxpayers in the Tax Court of New Jersey. Three such cases have been decided, all in favor of the Director. These decisions identify and affirm the Director's standard against which similarly situated taxpayers will be measured.

See Geeming Chin v. Director, 14 N.J. Tax 304 (1994); Charles J. Widder v. Director, 14 N.J. Tax 349 (1994); and Thomas J. Carroll v. Director, decided April 8, 1994, Bench Opinion, Tax Court Docket No. 005786-93; aff'd. March 16, 1995, Superior Court of New Jersey, Appellate Division, Docket No. A-005573-93T2.

In his opinion in Carroll, Judge Lasser stated that what the plaintiff proposed was that "if some other state taxes more severely than we do, ...we have to give up our tax on New Jersey source income on our own residents. And that was never the intent of the legislature.”

Judge Lasser went on to say, “The intent of the legislature was to say that if you have New York source income that New York is taxing we also have the right to tax that because you are a New Jersey resident. But if New York taxes it, then we’ll give you a credit based on the New York source income that New York taxes. But we’re not going to give up our New Jersey tax on New Jersey source income just because New York is taxing you at a higher rate on your New York source income. And that’s what happens, isn’t it? The rate of tax on your New York source income is higher than it used to be because of the manner in which New York calculates it.” □

CORPORATION TAX IRC Section 338(h)(10) Change in Position

The Division has received numerous inquiries concerning its position in light of the change in Federal treatment regarding certain transactions under Section 338(h)(10) of the Internal Revenue Code. Specifically, this change allows a corporation which is a member of a selling affiliated group filing a separate return to make an election under IRC Section 338(h)(10).

As a result of this change, the Division will no longer require the inclusion of the gain or loss arising from the sale of the target corporation’s stock in the net income base of the seller. This change has been made effective for acquisition dates occurring on or after January 14, 1992. □

INHERITANCE/ESTATE TAX No Attorney Needed for Property Transfer

The New Jersey Supreme Court recently ruled that it is no longer necessary for a buyer or seller of real property in New Jersey to be represented by an attorney. The ramifications of this decision are, of course, many and varied.

The Transfer Inheritance and Estate Tax Branch reminds those responsible that, when real property is being transferred from the estate of a deceased person, a Consent To Transfer (Waiver), issued by the Branch, is required in order to transfer clear title to the property. Failure to obtain a proper waiver will result in the State of New Jersey’s having a lien on the property for a minimum of the statutory period of 15 years after date of death.

Depending upon existing circumstances, there are differing ways in which necessary waivers may be appropriately secured.

A waiver may be acquired by filing the appropriate inheritance tax return with payment of the proper tax. Waivers are then automatically issued in the due course of business. The IT-R Form is used for a decedent who was a resident of New Jersey and Form IT-NR for non-resident decedents.

When it is impossible to file a completed inheritance tax return for the estate of a resident decedent, a preliminary return, Form L-4, may be filed and, on the basis of the information contained therein and otherwise available to the Branch, necessary real property waivers may be issued. However, this is a preliminary return and all necessary waivers will not be issued until warranted on the basis of the filing of a completed return.

When the entire estate of a resident decedent is passing to Class “A” beneficiaries, a complete return may not be required and a waiver necessary to properly transfer the decedent’s interest in real property may be obtained by the proper filing of Form L-9. Class “A” beneficiaries consist of a decedent’s spouse, parent, grandparent, child, stepchild or legally adopted child, or a grandchild of the decedent.

It is important to understand that the waiver issued by the Branch covering a decedent’s interest in New Jersey real property is currently the only legitimate way in which the lien of the State may be automatically released.

Further information and/or forms are available by calling the Inheritance Tax Branch at 609-292-5033; 609-292-5035; 609-292-7147; or 609-777-4559. □

LOCAL PROPERTY TAX Proof Needed for Veterans' Property Tax Exemption

Questions are often received by Property Administration (Local Property Branch) concerning documentation needed to confirm total or 100% permanent disability for honorably discharged New Jersey resident war veterans claiming full property tax exemption.

Through contact with the U.S. Veterans' Administration (U.S. Department of Veterans' Affairs) via the New Jersey Department of Military and Veterans' Affairs, it was reestablished that the following conforming language as contained in VA issued statements certifies total or 100% disability for purposes of qualifying for full property tax exemption:

"This is to certify that the records of the U.S. Department of Veterans' Affairs (VA) disclose that your wartime service-connected disability is totally disabling. A 100% permanent and total evaluation was assigned effective (DATE) in accordance with the VA Rating Schedule and not so evaluated because of hospitalization or surgery and recuperation. The records further indicate that you served in the U.S. (BRANCH OF MILITARY SERVICE) from (START DATE) to (END DATE) and received an honorable discharge. The above statement is issued in accordance with N.J.S.A. 54:4-3.30 et seq."

It should be remembered that veterans of the recent peacekeeping missions, Panama, Lebanon, Grenada, and Operation Desert Shield/Desert Storm-Arabian peninsula and Persian Gulf, must have combat zone time either in those nations or regions or on board ship patrolling the territorial waters of those nations or regions for at least 14 days. However, any person receiving a service-incurred injury or disability shall be considered a veteran whether or not 14 days service has been completed. To verify combat zone service Items 13, 18 and 12a-c, f & g of the DD214 or Certificate of Release or Discharge from Active Duty should be reviewed. Key indices for Lebanon, Grenada and Panama veterans are "Overseas Deployment Medal" in Item 13 and the notation "Participation in Lebanon, Grenada and/or Panama peacekeeping mission" and the start-end dates in Item 18. Items numbered 12 also provide dates of service. The Armed Forces Expeditionary Award for Marine Corps or Navy Expeditionary Award are other indicators. For Persian Gulf veterans key indices are "S.W. Asia Service Medal" or "Overseas Service Ribbon" in Item 13 and the notation "Participated in Operation Desert Shield/ Storm under Title 10 U.S.C. 673" and the dates in Item 18. □

Update

Technical Bulletin #TB-16, which contains guidelines for the Spill Compensation and Control Tax, was reissued on March 1, 1995. To obtain a copy of the updated bulletin, contact the Division's Tax Hotline at 609-588-2200.

For more information on the Spill Compensation and Control Tax or to obtain forms, call the Division's Miscellaneous Tax Branch at 609-984-7171 or write to the Division of Taxation, Miscellaneous Tax Branch, CN 265, Trenton, NJ 08646-0265. □

Busy Tax Hotline

Taxpayer Services had a busy and successful tax season recording more than 500,000 calls from taxpayers. Tax Hotline employees answered 226,707 calls from taxpayers calling with questions and requesting help in completing tax returns. In addition, the automated voice response system accepted 297,508 calls. Of these nearly 300,000 calls, form order requests accounted for 17,803 calls; a total of 113,846 taxpayers selected one of the many tax scripts available on Tax Talk; and 165,859 taxpayers called the Automated Refund Inquiry System to inquire about their current year refund.

NJ TaxFax received 16,000 calls from people requesting that forms be instantly faxed to them. NJ TaxFax, available by calling 609-588-4500, continues to grow in popularity as the Division increases the number of tax forms and publications available on the NJ TaxFax menu. □

Criminal Enforcement

Criminal Enforcement over the past several months included:

- On February 1, 1995, Eugene Slusker doing business as Pentagon Management Company was indicted by the State Grand Jury for failing to remit $355,467 in New Jersey motor fuel taxes.
- A prosecution report was submitted for a case involving the filing of fraudulent NJ income tax returns for the 1990 through 1993 tax periods. The taxpayer illegally received refunds in excess of $31,200 for which she was not entitled.
- Amended PGRT returns filed by a taxpayer currently under criminal investigation resulted in an increase of reported taxable gallons of 63,750,596 with a taxable liability of $2,550,024. The returns previously filed for the same periods (October 1, 1991 through December 31, 1992) indicated that the company had no taxable distribution.
- On March 9, 1995, an 18 count indictment was handed down by the State Grand Jury against nine individuals and one corporation for conspiracy to defraud both the Federal and State governments of motor fuel taxes. PGRT taxes identified are in excess of $150,000. This is an ongoing investigation with the NJ Division of Criminal Justice.
- On February 23, 1995, Melvin Shaw doing business as Shaw Motor Sport was indicted by the Camden County Grand Jury for failing to remit $36,004.92 in New Jersey sales taxes, misappropriating money collected on behalf of the State of New Jersey and presenting false documents to the Division.

- The Division of Criminal Justice in a negotiated settlement has arranged for the payment of $250,000 in sales tax and Atlantic City Luxury Tax for admissions to shows staged by a production company. The initial payment of $150,000 has been received. The remainder will be made in monthly installments of $10,000.
- As part of a plea agreement with two officers of JSM Trenton, Inc., each will pay restitution of $12,409.50 representing unpaid sales tax and penalty and interest charges. The consent to admission into Pre-trial Intervention is contingent on these payments. □

Enforcement Summary

Civil Collection Actions

Quarter Ending - Mar. 31, 1995.

Following is a summary of enforcement actions for the quarter ending March 31, 1995.

Certificates of Debt

Field Investigators secured 603 Certificates of Debt in New Jersey Superior Court. These COD's, which have the same force and effect as docketed judgments, totaled $16.3 million.

Levies

$1.8 million was collected by Field Investigations as a result of executing against 337 non-compliant taxpayers.

Seizures

When a liability, for which the Division of Taxation has secured enforcement summary - from page 8

judgments, cannot or will not be satisfied by a taxpayer and all other means of collection of the debt have been exhausted, seizure of the business and personal assets will take place. Field Investigators will close a business, seizing any tangible assets including licenses, inventory, machinery, furniture, vehicles etc., until arrangements are made for payment of the debt.

For the quarter ending March 31, 1995, 26 businesses were seized. Some businesses were able to reopen, others remain closed. A listing of seized businesses appears on pages 11 and 12.

Auctions

If the liability of a business seized by the Division is not satisfied or resolved, the business will remain closed. A public auction of the business assets will be conducted in about 30 days.

During the quarter ending March 31, 1995, nine auctions were held by the Division. A listing follows on page 12.

In the event an auction does not net enough monies to resolve the debt, the Division will execute against the personal assets of any of the business's responsible officers. Responsible officers are held personally liable for the trust fund portion of the debt which includes, but is not limited to, sales tax, withholding tax and motor fuels tax. □

S Corporation Distributions

The Division received a letter concerning a New Jersey corporation that is a Federal S corporation, and has elected to be a New Jersey S corporation effective January 1, 1994. The corporation has accumulated earnings earned as a "C" corporation prior to its New Jersey election. The corporation has both New Jersey resident and nonresident shareholders.

The inquiry asked if the corporation earns profits in its first year as a New Jersey S corporation and makes distributions to its shareholders, are the S corporation's distributions treated as first being made from the New Jersey accumulated adjustments account until it is reduced to zero and then deducted from the accumulated C corporation earnings. The Division replied that this is the case.

In making distributions the Division advised the corporation to follow LIFO principles similar to those under the Internal Revenue Code. Here, in this situation, the Division does not follow the principles as set forth in Laurite v. Taxation Div. Dir., 12 N.J. Tax 483 (1992), aff'd. 14 N.J. Tax 166 (App. Div. 1993), cert. denied 135 N.J. 301 (1994), which predated the 1993 statutory changes. Thus, distributions are considered first to come out from the 1994 period (current year's earnings) then from 1993, for example.

If derived from earnings and profits, the distributions made to the New Jersey resident shareholder are taxable dividends pursuant to N.J.S.A. 54A:5-1 f, as amended by P.L. 1993, c.173. Such dividend distributions would not be taxable to a nonresident as they would be considered intangible income.

Regulated Investment Companies — Under IRC 851(h)(1) each portfolio within a series fund or corporation is generally treated as a separate taxpayer and therefore, files a separate Federal corporate income tax return. For fiscal years beginning after December 31, 1986 each portfolio of a series fund or corporation obtained a Federal Employer Identification Number (FEIN) and filed a separate Federal corporate income tax return. For State purposes separate New Jersey returns have been timely filed indicating the new FEIN but with the same New Jersey corporation number.

The New Jersey Corporation Business Tax Act (1945), N.J.S.A. 54:10A-1 et seq. is a franchise tax. Every domestic and foreign corporation not exempted pays an annual franchise tax for the privilege of having or exercising its corporate franchise in New Jersey, or for the privilege of doing business, employing or owning capital or property, or maintaining an office in the State. N.J.S.A. 54:10A-2. The tax for a regulated investment company is $250.00. N.J.S.A. 54:10A-5(d).

Since this tax is a corporate franchise tax for the privilege of doing business in New Jersey, each corporation is required to file one return, and multiple returns for the same corporation for the same taxable period would not be proper for franchise taxpayers. Accordingly, for New Jersey State purposes each separate portfolio of a series corporation is not required or permitted to file a separate corporation tax return simply because a separate Federal return is required. A single return should be filed for State purposes for each corporate entity. Copies of each Federal return for components of that entity (or fund) should be attached to the New Jersey return as filed.

Gross Income Tax Nonqualified Deferred Compensation Plan — The Division replied to a request for information regarding the gross income tax consequences to employees who defer a portion of their salary and/or bonus into a nonqualified, unfunded deferred compensation plan.

The plan in question allows eligible employees to participate in the plan. Prior to the Plan Year participants make certain irrevocable elections regarding the deferral of all or part of their base salary and prospective bonus compensation. In addition, each participant makes elections as to the allocation of the deferrals between a Retirement Distribution Account and an In-Service Distribution Account, as well as the date on which the deferrals will be paid from each account. The election must be made before the beginning of the Plan Year. Because the plan is unfunded the participants are not guaranteed to receive the money.

In order to determine when income is to be reported, the Gross Income Tax Act requires that a taxpayer's accounting method be the same as his accounting method for Federal income tax purposes. N.J.S.A. 54A:8-3(c). Under Federal income tax accounting methods a cash basis taxpayer must report income in the taxable year in which it is actually or constructively received. A taxpayer constructively receives income when cash or property is credited to his account or is made available for withdrawal and is not subject to substantial limitations or restrictions. Smyer v. Taxation

Div. Director, 4 N.J. Tax 42, 46 (1982); Treas. Reg. 1.451-2(2) (1957).

Deferred compensation is not taxable income to an employee until actually received, provided the following conditions are satisfied:

1. The deferral is agreed to before the compensation is earned;
2. The deferred amount is not unconditionally placed in trust or escrow for the benefit of the employee; and
3. The promise to pay the deferred compensation is a contractual obligation not evidenced by notes or secured in any way.

If all three conditions are satisfied the compensation will not be deemed to be constructively received. If the deferral is made after a bonus is earned, it is not constructively received as long as the deferral is made before the amount of the bonus is determined. In addition, deferred compensation is not considered to be constructively received when the terms of the deferral agreement provide for the payment of benefits in case of an unforeseeable emergency.

If a deferred compensation plan is funded, that is, contributions are made by the employer to a trust, custodial account or escrow fund or an annuity contract is purchased, the contributions are taxable before they are actually received. Such amounts become immediately taxable when the employee's rights in the plan are either funded and nonforfeitable, or funded and transferable. It is at that point that they are constructively received.

Gross Income Tax

Mutual Fund Distributions — The New Jersey Gross Income Tax Act excludes from gross income interest earned on Federal obligations which are free from state or local taxation under the laws of the United States, and interest earned on obligations of the State of New Jersey or any of its political subdivisions.

The distributions received by shareholders of regulated investment companies, commonly referred to as mutual funds, are considered to be dividends and must be included in gross income. The only exception to this rule is for distributions from New Jersey "qualified investment funds." Such distributions may be excluded from gross income to the extent that they are attributable to interest or gains from Federal or New Jersey exempt obligations. A New Jersey "qualified investment fund" is, in general terms, a mutual fund which has at least 80% of all its investments in Federal or New Jersey exempt obligations, and which certifies such status to the Division on an annual basis.

Sales & Use Tax

Retrieving and Photocopying Medical Records — The service of retrieving medical records for current or former patients or their representatives is exempt from sales tax as a personal service. If the retrieval service provides several copies as part of the service, that fact could transform the transaction into the sale of tangible property under N.J.S.A. 54:32B-3(a). This would be similar to copying or printing services provided by a printer.

For example, retrieval service X charges for retrieval at a fixed rate plus $1.00 per page of copied material. For an additional charge, X will also provide its customer with complete sets of the documents retrieved for the customer. The additional charge is $.50 per page. The bill looks like this:

Sales & Use Tax

Rental of Exhibition Space — Owners and operators of exhibition halls should inform all concessionaires, licensees or lessees using space at the exhibition that they are required to be registered as a vendor with the New Jersey Division of Taxation. The Certificate of Authority issued by the Division is required to be attached to the table, stand etc. at the vendor's location. Registered vendors must collect and remit sales tax on all taxable sales. For example, the sale of baseball cards and sports memorabilia is subject to tax.

The charge by the operator for the rental of space is exempt from tax as the rental of real property; any tangible property that is rented to the vendor (counters, displays, tables etc.) is subject to tax.

Taxability of Furniture Refinishing Supplies — The Division responded to an inquiry regarding the taxability of furniture refinishing products, such as coatings, thinners, paint removers, surface preparation products, sandpaper, gloves, steel wool, rags, and application equipment sold to professional furniture finishers and refinishers.

The Division explained that gloves are exempt from sales tax as "clothing." N.J.S.A. 54:32B-8.4. Gloves used for work fall within this exemption. N.J.A.C. 18:24-6.3. Sale of stains, varnishes, top coats, and other coatings that become a permanent part of the property produced for sale by a purchaser, or of the property upon which a purchaser performs taxable services, are considered "sales for resale" and therefore not subject to sales tax. N.J.S.A. 54:32B-2(e)(1)(A) and (B).

All other sales, for example, sales of sandpaper, paint remover, steel wool and spray equipment, are taxable as retail sales of tangible personal property since they do not fall within any of the statutory exemptions. N.J.S.A. 54:32B-3(a). These supplies, whether consumed entirely during a particular job or retained for repeated use, are not resold as such and do not become a physical component of the property sold or refinished by the purchaser. Therefore the resale exemption is inapplicable. The furniture finisher or refinisher is considered the "ultimate consumer" of these products, and sales to them are therefore "retail sales" subject to sales tax.

Any appearance of "double taxation" is the result of some purchasers' practice of charging their customers for items such as rags, equipment, etc., that are used and consumed by the service provider and not actually "resold" to the customer. These are merely elements of expenses incurred in providing a taxable service and generally are not itemized as charges on a customer's bill. However, if furniture finishers choose to charge their customers separately for supplies that are not actually transferred to the customer, they must collect sales tax on these separately stated charges. N.J.S.A. 54:32b-2(d). This practice will not, however, affect the taxability of these items when the finishers purchase them from their supplier.

Scaffolding Rental — The Division received an inquiry regarding the incidence of sales tax on receipts from the installation, rental and dismantling of scaffolding and hoisting equipment, as well as the installation of temporary lighting.

N.J.A.C. 18:24-5.5 provides as follows:

"(a) Taxable services purchased by a contractor are subject to tax unless such services are performed for a purchasing contractor exclusively for use in fulfilling a contract with an exempt organization.

(b) Services subject to tax include, but are not limited to:

1. The fabrication of tangible personal property;
2. Installing tangible personal property, except where such installation results in a capital improvement to real property...;
3. Maintaining, servicing, or repairing real or tangible personal property."

N.J.S.A. 54:32B-3(b)(2)(v) exempts from tax, services rendered in installing property which, when installed, will constitute an addition or capital improvement to real property, property or land, and applies only where the installation services directly result in a capital improvement to real property. It does not apply to services performed for the construction trades that are merely related to the installation, maintenance, servicing or repairing of tangible personal property used in construction or taxable for purposes of 413

for construction purposes. To be exempt from tax, the services must actually be rendered in installing property that will constitute a capital improvement to real property.

Accordingly, the Division advised that the entire charge for the scaffolding and hoisting equipment and temporary lighting is subject to tax, whether or not any or all of the elements of the transaction are separately stated and identified on the customer's invoice.

Exempt Purchases by Housing Sponsors — The Division recently addressed an inquiry from a "housing sponsor" of a low/moderate income housing project, exempt from sales tax under N.J.S.A. 55:14K-34 of the New Jersey Housing and Mortgage Finance Agency Law of 1983. This statute exempts all purchases by the housing sponsor of materials and supplies to be incorporated in or used in maintaining the project. This exemption can be used subsequent to the construction of the project.

Purchases by the housing sponsor of materials and supplies, but not services, directly for use and consumption in maintaining the housing project would be exempt from the tax. Thus, purchases of business personal property for the benefit and use of the housing sponsors, owners, operators, managers or tenants are subject to tax. For example, office furniture and equipment are taxable. The law only provides an exemption for purchases directly used for the benefit of the housing structure. Form ST-4 together with the housing sponsor's sales and use tax exemption letter should be used to document an exempt purchase.

Disposal of Recyclable Materials — A New Jersey business inquired as to the incidence of sales tax on receipts from a disposal service for recyclable materials such as wood, concrete and grass mulch. The service is performed on its own premises, whereby customers will bring in their various forms of recyclable materials and the business will dispose of it for them. The business does not go to the customer's premises to pick up the materials.

The Division indicated that when a company receives material from other persons at the site of their business and charges a fee based on weight, volume, etc., such charges are not subject to sales tax.

Medical Equipment Used to Provide Health Care — The Division received an inquiry concerning the sale and rental of medical equipment to health care providers.

N.J.S.A. 54:32B-8.1 provides for the exemption of certain products and durable medical equipment. The last section of the exemption states that equipment and supplies, other than medicines and drugs, which are used by a service provider in providing medical services but not transferred to the purchaser of the service, are taxable retail sales. "Transferred to the purchaser" means that the patient actually leaves the hospital, office, etc. with the product. In general, property purchased for use in diagnostic or procedural applications is subject to tax because it is not transferred to the patient in connection with treatment. □

In Our Courts

Gross Income Tax Instructions for Computation of Credit Not "Erroneous" — Charles J. Widder v. Director, 14 N.J. Tax 349 (1994).

The statute at N.J.S.A. 54:49-11b enacted as part of the Taxpayers' Bill of Rights legislation provides that "The Director shall waive the payment of any part of any penalty or any part of any interest attributable to the taxpayer's reasonable reliance on erroneous advice furnished to the taxpayer in writing by an employee of the Division of Taxation acting in the employee's official capacity, provided that the penalty or interest did not result from a failure of the taxpayer to provide adequate or accurate information."

The Tax Court in Charles J. Widder v. Director, 14 N.J. Tax 349 (1994) addressed the instructions and the waiver of penalty and interest.

The Court said "Since the New Jersey return instructions plainly state that the numerator of the credit fraction was to include income taxed by the other jurisdiction, the instructions were not 'erroneous' within the meaning of N.J.S.A. 54:49-11b. Plaintiff simply misread those instructions to require the inclusion of his Federal adjusted gross income rather than his New York State adjusted gross income. As the Division's instructions were not erroneous and since the plaintiff has obtained all the relief to which he is entitled under N.J.S.A. 54:49-11a, the Director's assessment of interest at the statutory minimum was affirmed."

Insurance Premiums Tax Surtax Applicability to Passenger Automobiles Used Commercially — Liberty Mutual Insurance Company, Liberty Mutual Fire Insurance Company, Liberty Insurance Corporation v. State of New Jersey, Division of Taxation, Tax Court - 4738-94; 4740-94; 4741-94; 4743-94; decided February 15, 1995.

At issue was whether the surtax imposed by N.J.S.A. 17:33B-49(a) applies to passenger vehicles used for commercial purposes. The court noted that the definition of "automobile" includes (1) private passenger or station wagon vehicles unless they are used as taxicabs or limousines, (2) commercial vehicles when used for noncommercial purposes and (3) either of the above two categories of vehicle when used on a farm or ranch. It concluded that private passenger vehicles used commercially do not fit this definition and therefore are not subject to the surtax.

Local Property Tax Assessment of Billboards as Real Property — R.C. Maxwell Company, tenant, & Scola, Inc., owner, Plaintiffs-Appellants, v. Galloway Township, Defendant-Respondent, & Director, Division of Taxation, Intervenor-Respondent, Superior Court of New Jersey, Appellate Division, A-2601-93T5, decided April 25, 1995.

R.C. Maxwell Co. & Scola, Inc. appealed the final judgment of the N.J. Tax Court upholding Galloway Township's 1992 omitted assessment of billboards as taxable real property to the Appellate Division, N.J. Superior Court. The high court affirmed and expounded on the lower court's decision.

As background, the Legislature in order to tax as realty certain property which under prior law could be taxed as personalty provided, via Chapter 117, Laws 1986 [N.J.S.A. 54:4-1], that personal property attached to real property would be exempt from taxation as real property only if it is "not ordinarily intended to be affixed permanently to real property."

In an analysis of the status of billboards as real property for this case, the Superior Court examined the Tax Court's opinion that billboards are "ordinarily intended to be affixed permanently to real property." The disputed billboards were wooden on site constructions having 14 vertical anchors and beams 6 feet below ground. Under scrutiny was the wording "ordinarily intended" as opposed to actually intended. The Superior Court agreed that because property is removable without physical injury to itself or the real property to which it's attached does not preclude that the same property is "ordinarily intended" to be permanently affixed. Further outward appearances are relevant in determining "ordinary intent."

The Superior Court concurred with the Tax Court's finding that even if the disputed billboards were viewed as personal property attached to real property, the tenant-owner did not establish, for example, that they could be moved intact or that salvageable parts were ever reassembled as the same billboard and that they were "not ordinarily intended to be permanently affixed."

Lyndhurst, Appellate Division, A-2375-93T2, decided March 24, 1995.

The Appellate Division affirmed the Tax Court's ruling that N.J.S.A. 54:3-27.2, the sole source of authority for imposing interest on property tax refunds, provides for interest to be paid at the rate of 5% from the date of payment of tax to the date of refund.

Denial of Farmland Assessment on Woodlands — Estell Manor City, Plaintiff, v. Harry Stern, Defendant, Tax Court of New Jersey, Docket No. 001273-93, decided January 5, 1995.

In this case, Estell Manor City appealed the Atlantic County Board of Taxation's reversing of the local tax assessor's 1992 denial of farmland assessment on six woodland parcels to the New Jersey Tax Court. The City contended that the property owner's woodland management plan itself, although developed by an Environmental Protection Department-approved forester, hadn't satisfied the woodland prerequisites of the Farmland Assessment Act of 1964, as amended, effective 1987 (N.J.S.A. 54:4-23.3 & 3a.); that further the owner hadn't complied with that management plan; that forestry activity on the property was insufficient; and that proof of income or anticipated income from yearly gross sales of tree and forest products was inadequate.

The Department of Environmental Protection's position was that, by statute, it had exclusive authority to approve or disapprove woodland management plans for purposes of the Farmland Assessment Act and that an assessor could not reject a plan as unacceptable or as noncomplying if DEP sanctioned it. DEP acknowledged, however, that the assessor had final authority to determine whether land otherwise qualified for farmland assessment. Statute also provided that if DEP failed to make a timely definitive decision as to a management plan, the assessor could decide farmland eligibility based on the nonwoodland requirements of the Act.

The taxpayer argued that complying with a woodland management plan alone entitled the property to farmland assessment despite any assessor's determination to the contrary. He also felt that income and other criteria had been substantiated.

Conflicting statements of two foresters retained at different times by the property owner between 1989 and 1993 provided varying opinions about the effectiveness of the management plan and its level of completion and maintenance. The municipal assessor and a forestry witness for the city also testified about deficiencies in the plan and its implementation. Evidence indicated that basic recommendations for boundary marking, timber harvesting, weeding and thinning, and reopening of roads had either not been done or were incomplete.

In conclusion, the Tax Court ruled in favor of the municipality and the assessor reinstating the original assessments totaling $780,200 and voiding the reduced aggregate assessment of $40,100 granted by the County Tax Board. In doing so, the Court concurred that there was neither the required income nor sufficient harvesting, fire break construction, removal of diseased and dying trees etc. to constitute horticultural or agricultural activity and to justify farmland assessment. The Court reasoned that the Act's amendment created two-tier woodland qualification for farmland assessment. Eligibility required both compliance with the revised woodland conditions and all other conditions of the Act regarding acreage, use, income etc. While agreeing that DEP had jurisdiction over the woodland management plans, the Court held that the assessor had final authority to approve or disallow applications for farmland assessment, and that proper recourse for both an assessor or a taxpayer who is dissatisfied with a DEP woodlands evaluation is by appeal of the assessment to the county tax board and the courts.

Postal Service Denied Property Tax Exemption – United States Postal Service; Raintree Associates and Rainhold Holding Company v. Freehold Township, 14 N.J. Tax 266, decided September 27, 1994.

Government tenant, United States Postal Service, property owner, Rainhold Holding Company, and ground lessor, Raintree Associates moved for summary judgment for the tax years 1993 and 1994 on the ground that Freehold Township could not include the value of a post office building in the assessments because it is owned by the Federal Postal Service and immune from state and local taxation as such. At issue was immunity as well as who was legally liable for the tax.

The New Jersey Tax Court held that although a tenant, the United States Postal Service had standing to pursue the appeal in the name of the owner because the landlord's, Raintree Associates', interests are represented, in that, a successful appeal substantially reducing the assessment would be to his benefit and that the lessor and owner had no objections.

The Postal Service entered into a 50-year nonrenewable lease with Raintree Associates with an option to buy at its termination at land value only. Failure to do so would destroy its "title" to the building and the property would revert to Raintree Associates. The lease terms also obligated the Postal Service to construct a post office building and to obtain property and liability insurance naming the landlord as an additional insured. A casualty does not relieve the Service from paying rent or permit them to terminate the lease except during the last two years of the term. The terms of the lease strongly suggest a leasehold and that legal ownership of the building is not in the Postal Service.

Leasehold estates may be separately assessed when they have the permanence or perpetuity of a fee interest and the tenant's rights are comparable to those of an owner. However, the Postal Service's lease does not give it comparable rights. There is no provision permitting the local property tax to be charged to and collected from a tenant. The local property tax is not legally imposed on the Postal Service's leasehold estate, and the Federal government's immunity from state taxation is not infringed.

The legal incidence of the local property tax is on the property itself. The tax is charged to and collected from the legal owner of the fee. Where there is separate ownership of the land and improvement, the tax is a lien on the entire fee. Even when a lessee can be said to own a building constructed by him on leased land, the lien for the tax is against the landowner's fee.

Rainhold Holding owns the fee for the entire property subject only to the leasehold interests of Raintree Associates and the Postal Service. It thus has a property interest that is separable from the government's leasehold estate and may be reached by an ad valorem property tax. Therefore, Rainhold Holding has the legal obligation to pay the local property tax. The legal incidence of tax is not on the Postal Service.

In conclusion, the judge rejected the Postal Service's argument and denied the motion for summary judgment.

Municipal Property Tax Assessment Lists Are Public Record – Higg-a-Rella, Inc. et al. v. County of Essex et al., Superior Court, Appellate Division; Docket

No. A-4830-92T3; decided September 23, 1994.

The Superior Court held that the computerized master tape of municipal property tax assessments generated and maintained by the Essex County Board of Taxation from the individual municipal lists is not a public record under the Right-to-Know Law because it is not required to be maintained. However, it is a public record under common law because it is prepared and maintained by the county board and is used by the county board as an expeditious way to print any of the municipal assessment lists, which are admittedly public when on paper. Thus, it was held that the plaintiffs were entitled to a computer-readable electronic copy of the tax list subject only to payment of a reasonable fee, since the availability of such public information should not be limited by its technological form.

Tax Sale Certificates Equivalent to Payment of Taxes – Echelon Glen Cooperative, Inc. v. Voorhees Township, Superior Court; Docket No. A-6188-92T2; decided August 4, 1994.

The Superior Court held that the purpose of N.J.S.A. 54:3-27, which requires a taxpayer who files an appeal to pay the amount of the contested taxes, is to ensure municipal revenues during the prosecution of a tax appeal. Therefore, the Court decided that it was inappropriate to dismiss a direct appeal to the Tax Court where the municipality did in fact receive those revenues prior to the time the dismissal motion was made. A tax-sale certificate is the equivalent of the payment of taxes; however, while pre-payment of taxes is not a jurisdictional requirement to a direct appeal to the Tax Court, payment of the contested taxes is a jurisdictional prerequisite for an appeal to the Tax Court from a judgment of a county board of taxation.

Church Caretaker Residence Not Exempt – St. Ann's Catholic Church v. Borough of Hampton, Tax Court of New Jersey, Docket No. 009158-93, decided May 16, 1994.

A local property tax exemption was denied by the Tax Court under N.J.S.A. 54:4-3.6 for an improved lot adjacent to a church cemetery. The residence of a part-time church and cemetery maintenance man and caretaker was not reasonably necessary to the operation of the church. □

In Our Legislature

Gross Income Tax

Limited Liability Partnerships — P.L. 1995, c.96 (signed into law on May 1, 1995) amends the New Jersey Limited Liability Company Act and the Gross Income Tax Act to provide for the creation of limited liability partnerships. This legislation is effective 60 days after enactment.

Local Property Tax

Membership of Certain County Boards of Taxation — P.L. 1995, c.30 (signed into law on February 15, 1995) increases from three to five the membership of county boards of taxation in counties of the second class with a population of over 550,000 persons. Middlesex County meets the designation requirements. This legislation

is effective immediately.

School Budget Calendar — P.L. 1995, c.94 (signed into law on April 25, 1995) gives municipal governments more time to reformulate school board budgets that have been rejected by voters. The date for determination of the budget changed from May 14 to May 19; the date for the table of aggregates changed from May 15 to May 20; and the date for the certification of tax assessments changed from May 27 to June 3. This law takes effect immediately.

Motor Fuels

Rebates for Gasoline Purchases — P.L. 1995, c.51 (signed into law on March 17, 1995) amends the Motor Fuels Act to provide that a consumer who earns credit through purchases on a credit card may utilize these credits to receive a rebate when that person purchases motor fuels. The bill is effective immediately.

Urban Enterprise Zones

Final Four Zones Designated — P.L. 1993, c.367 (signed into law on January 5, 1994) approved the designation of 10 additional urban enterprise zones. The following is a list of the names and effective dates of the final four zones to be designated under that legislation:

Municipality	Effective Date
Carteret	February 22, 1995
Mount Holly	March 7, 1995
Pleasantville	February 9, 1995
Union City	February 11, 1995

New Division Publications

As this issue goes to print, the Division is preparing new publications that should be available shortly.

- S Corporation Q & A, a comprehensive booklet of questions and answers on S corporation tax issues, includes information on both New Jersey Corporation Business Tax and Gross Income Tax.
- About New Jersey Taxes, a new series of short (1 page) publications on topical New Jersey tax issues, primarily sales tax.

To request the S Corporation Q & A or any Division publication call our automated service at 800-323-4400 (Touch-tone phones within New Jersey only).

Division Deposits Record Revenue

During the month of April 1995 the Division of Taxation deposited over 1,200,000 checks resulting in revenue in excess of $1.5 billion.

Division Appeals Decision

The Division is appealing the March 1995 New Jersey Tax Court decision of Charles A. and Dolores C. Sabino v. Director, Division of Taxation (Docket #002494-93). The Division's position re-garding unreimbursed business expenses and charitable contributions of a partner is unchanged, pending the decision of the Superior Court of New Jersey.

Use Tax Billings

During calendar year 1994 the Division issued some 14,000 use tax bills to residents of this State.

The New Jersey Sales and Use Tax Act (N.J.S.A. 54:32B-1 et seq.) requiring New Jersey vendors to collect sales tax became law in 1966. However, unless a vendor or any of its agents are physically doing business in New Jersey, they cannot be held liable for the collection and payment of the New Jersey Sales Tax.

Since the State cannot force the collection of sales tax by most nonresident vendors, it must rely on compensating use taxes to protect home state vendors from unfair competition and protect the tax base. Therefore, the New Jersey Sales and Use Tax Act also requires a purchaser residing in New Jersey to pay a use tax whenever he or she purchases taxable goods or services for use in New Jersey where the vendor does not legally collect the sales tax. Generally this occurs in mail order situations and in cases when the purchaser visits an out-of-state vendor to place an order that is subsequently mailed or shipped into New Jersey.

In order to minimize penalty and interest charges, individuals who incur a use tax liability are required to remit the tax within twenty (20) days of the date that they took possession of the item in New Jersey. The use tax remittance form (ST-18) may be obtained at any of our District Offices as well as by calling 609-588-2200. In addition on page 18 of the New Jersey Gross Income Tax Packet you will find an ST-18 together with instructions.

Having recognized that many New Jersey residents were not aware of the existence of the use tax portion of the Sales and Use Tax Act, the Division initiated, in 1981, a use tax publicity campaign designed to reach every New Jersey resident filing the New Jersey Gross Income Tax return. A use tax remittance line appears on every New Jersey resident income tax return for tax years on and after 1981.

For the year 1994 use tax may be reflected on line 36 when filing the New Jersey Gross Income Tax return.

Alcoholic Beverage Project

The New Jersey Division of Taxation will, very shortly, begin conducting a comprehensive review of the New Jersey retail alcoholic beverages industry. The Division has requested the assistance and cooperation of all licensed wholesalers and distributors of alcoholic beverages in providing the Division with industry-wide retailer summary sales information.

It is the Division's intention to consolidate each retail licensee's purchase data from all alcoholic beverage suppliers and compare it to tax returns filed by the retailers. Appropriate action, including audits and investigations, will be initiated for retailers who do not appear to be in reasonable compliance with applicable State tax laws. □

GROSS INCOME TAX S Corporation Fringe Benefits

Effective for tax year 1994, a Federal S corporation which has made the election to be treated as an S corporation for New Jersey purposes must include in New Jersey gross income the value of fringe benefits paid for 2% shareholders. Consequently, such amounts included in Federal gross income on the 1994 Form W-2 must also be included in New Jersey gross income. These reporting requirements apply to both calendar year and fiscal year corporations that were New Jersey S corporations for any part of 1994.

With respect to Federal S corporations that have not made the S election in New Jersey the treatment will be the same as in previous tax years. Such corporations should continue to exclude the value of fringe benefits paid for 2% shareholders from New Jersey gross income. □

Electronic Funds Transfer

Under P.L. 1992, c.140, beginning March 1, 1993, taxpayers with a prior year's liability of $200,000.00 or more in any one tax are required to remit all their tax payments to the Division using Electronic Funds Transfer (EFT). The eligibility threshold was reduced to $100,000.00 in March 1994. The eligibility threshold will be reduced to $50,000.00 in 1995 and $20,000.00 in 1996.

If a taxpayer meets the requirements for participation in the EFT Program, they will be notified by the Division. The taxpayer will be asked to complete a new Application for Registration (Form REG-1). This allows the Division to update registration information and tax eligibilities. An Authorization Agreement for Electronic Funds Transfer (EFT-1) and associated worksheets must be completed within 30 days.

There are two methods that can be used when making electronic payments, the Automated Clearing House Credit (ACH Credit) and Automated Clearing House Debit (ACH Debit).

ACH Debit Option

The ACH Debit method allows the transfer of funds by authorizing the State to electronically debit an authorized bank account. This process is initiated by a toll-free telephone call to a data collection service to provide the appropriate security and tax payment information. All ACH Debit costs are paid for by the State.

ACH Credit Option

The ACH Credit Option allows the taxpayer to transfer funds by notifying their bank to debit their account and credit the State's bank account. Using this method the bank must originate the transaction using the ACH CCD+/TXP format. As the taxpayer is the originator of the transaction, the taxpayer is responsible for any costs incurred using this method.

For the fiscal year ending June 30, 1994 the Division collected over $3.6 billion and processed over 74,000 transactions through the EFT Program. For more information on the Electronic Funds Transfer Program call (609) 984-9830 or write to:

New Urban Enterprise Zones

The New Jersey Department of Commerce and Economic Development recently announced the following newly approved urban enterprise zones and corresponding effective dates.

MUNICIPALITY	EFFECTIVE DATE
Passaic	Aug. 24, 1994
Paterson	Sept. 2, 1994
Asbury Park*	Sept. 21, 1994
Perth Amboy	Oct. 29, 1994

Lakewood Twp. Nov. 1, 1994
Phillipsburg Nov. 1, 1994
Long Branch* Nov. 21, 1994

*Asbury Park and Long Branch hold a joint designation as one zone.

Four additional urban enterprise zones will be designated shortly.

Urban enterprise zones were previously established in: Bridgeton (April 22, 1985), Camden (Oct. 18, 1984), Newark (Dec. 5, 1984), Plainfield (June 17, 1985), Trenton (April 24, 1985), Millville/Vineland (April 3, 1986), Elizabeth (Dec. 17, 1985), Jersey City (Jan. 16, 1986), Kearny (Jan. 12, 1986), and Orange (Dec. 23, 1985).

Designations are effective for 20 years. In addition, the tax benefits become available only after the designation occurs and the particular business applies for and is certified by the Department of Commerce as a "qualified business." The certification must be renewed annually. Once the certification is issued, the business can purchase certain goods and services without paying any sales tax. If the entity is a corporation, it may also be entitled to credits for newly hired workers.

Retailers who wish to qualify for the reduced sales tax benefit must apply to the Division of Taxation to become eligible for the certification that allows them to charge 3% sales tax. This benefit applies to receipts from sales of certain tangible personal property. The 3% certification stays in force as long as the business continues to retain its status as a "qualified business."

The Division issues certifications and renewals to qualified businesses on a continuing basis. Although each zone has its own local coordinator, the Division also responds to numerous inquiries relating to the tax benefits. □

CORPORATION TAX S Corporation Built-in Gains

An inquiry was recently made concerning New Jersey's tax treatment of built-in gains for New Jersey S corporations. For New Jersey Corporation Business Tax purposes, a New Jersey S corporation will be required to report the same gross amount of built-in gains as reported on Schedule D for Federal tax purposes. These gains will be taxed at the full Corporation Business Tax rate of 9.00%.

In accordance with N.J.S.A. 54:10A-5 (c)(3), the 9% Corporation Business Tax rate will be applied to "any of its (a New Jersey S Corporation's) entire net income that is subject to Federal income taxation or such portion thereof as may be allocable to this State..." Accordingly, the amount of income taxed on the Federal corporate return (after application of the business allocation factor) will be subject to the 9% Corporation Business Tax rate. □

Correction

Editor's note: There was an omission in an article in the last issue of the State Tax News (Winter 1994, Volume 23, Number 4) on page 5. In the article titled Tax Assessor Certificates, also listed under Essex County should have been K. Sean Cooney, Verona Township, who passed the exam held on September 24, 1995 and received a Tax Assessor Certificate. We apologize for this mistake. □

CORPORATION TAX Manufacturing Credit for Leased Equipment

A taxpayer recently inquired as to how the Manufacturing Equipment and Employment Investment Tax Credit would apply to a business that entered into a 5-year equipment lease contract on September 5, 1993. The following questions were raised:

1. Can the credit be prorated for the period in which the lease contract occurred subsequent to the effective date?
2. How would the renewal of the lease be treated?

In order to qualify for this credit, a taxpayer must invest in qualified manufacturing equipment in its tax year beginning on or after the effective date of January 1, 1994. Qualified equipment means machinery, apparatus or equipment acquired by purchase or lease for use or consumption by the taxpayer directly and primarily in the production of tangible personal property by manufacturing, processing or refining, as defined in N.J.S.A. 54:32 B-8 13(a), having a useful life of four or more years, and placed in service in New Jersey.

For purposes of the credit, property is considered placed in service or use in New Jersey in the earlier of the following tax years:

1. The tax year in which, under the taxpayer's depreciation practice, the period for depreciation with respect to such property begins, or
2. The taxable year in which the property is placed in a condition or state of readiness and availability for a specifically assigned function.

Therefore, any purchase or lease contracts entered into prior to January 1, 1994 would not qualify since there are no provisions for prorating use subsequent to January 1, 1994.

In reference to the second question, lease renewals, subleases or assignments shall not be considered under "qualified equipment." □

GROSS INCOME TAX Credit for NYC Unincorporated Business Tax

The Division of Taxation has previously determined that tax paid to New York City as Unincorporated Business Tax (UBT) is not tax on an individual's income but is imposed on the unincorporated business income of every unincorporated business wholly or partly carried on in New York City and is deductible by the business or partnership. Thus, the UBT is not considered a tax on the individual taxpayer's income and the income and tax cannot be used to calculate a credit for taxes paid to other jurisdictions. (New Jersey State Tax News July/August 1990).

However, New Jersey resident taxpayers who are subject to New York City Unincorporated Business Tax are required to add back the UBT paid to Line 22, New York State Additions, in the Federal Amount Column of the New York State Non-Resident Income Tax Return.

The amount of UBT added back may be used in the numerator of the credit calculation for taxes paid to other jurisdictions (New York State) on the New Jersey Resident Income Tax Return. The addback is included with other New York State income reportable on Line 1, Schedule A of the New Jersey Return.

This New York Addition satisfies both of the necessary requirements: 1) it is consistent with New Jersey Tax law (N.J.S.A. 54A:5-1b requires that net profits from business be determined without a deduction for taxes based on income) and 2) it is attributable only to business income earned and actually taxed in New York.

If a deduction from New Jersey taxable income was taken for the Unincorporated Business Tax paid, the amount of deduction must be added back to New Jersey taxable income, which results in a revised New Jersey tax. □

INHERITANCE/ESTATE TAX Frequently Asked Questions

This is the third and final of three successive issues in which the Transfer Inheritance and Estate Tax Branch will respond to specific inquiries taken from a list of most frequently asked questions.

1. Is an inventory by a representative of the Division of Taxation of the contents of a decedent's safe deposit box required?

Required inventory of safe deposit boxes was suspended by the Division, effective November 1991. This was accomplished by a revision to the Administrative Code which will expire January 1, 1997. There is no reason to believe that this revision will not be readopted at that time.

2. Why is it necessary for a return to be filed when the entire estate passes to Class "C," Class "D," or Class "E" beneficiaries and no tax is owed?

When any portion of an estate passes to Class "C" or Class "D"

beneficiaries, a return is required to establish that the cumulative total of all assets passing to such a beneficiary is less than the statutory exemption. In the case of a Class "E" beneficiary, a return is necessary to establish that the recipient does, in fact, qualify as a Class "E" beneficiary for New Jersey Transfer Inheritance Tax purposes.

3. Is an inheritance tax return required when the estate is passing to a trust for the benefit of Class "A" beneficiaries?

Yes, a return must be filed so that the Branch may determine whether or not there may be potential tax consequences, however remote, due to the possible ultimate disposition of contingent interests.

4. Are IRAs subject to inheritance tax?

Yes, IRAs are taxable as a transfer to take effect at death for New Jersey Inheritance Tax purposes. The tax treatment of IRAs for Federal income tax purposes may cause some confusion in this area, however, they must be reported for inheritance tax purposes.

5. Is an IRA subject to Inheritance Tax if Federal income taxes are paid on the account?

Yes, the determining factors regarding taxability for Inheritance Tax purposes are the decedent's date of death and the relationship of the beneficiary to the decedent.

6. Is a copy of the Federal estate tax return required to be submitted in those cases where no estate tax is due?

Yes, a copy of the Federal 706 is required by statute to be submitted to the Branch within 30 days after it is filed with the Federal government. The statute also requires that a copy of all correspondence from the Federal government regarding acceptance of the return as filed or changes to be made must be filed with the Branch within 30 days of receipt.

7. Where can an ID number be obtained to open an estate bank account?

Unclaimed Property

As defined in N.J.S.A. 46-30B, et seq. (enacted in 1989, updating 1947 law) unclaimed property is essentially identified as intangible personal property that, after a specific abandonment period, must be reported and paid over to the State. The State must return the property to the rightful owner upon presentation of a valid claim.

A "Holder" means a person, wherever organized or domiciled, who is:

1. In possession of property belonging to another;
2. A trustee; or
3. Indebted to another on an obligation.

Revenue Opportunities Suggested by Division Staff

Division of Taxation Director Richard D. Gardiner recently recognized the efforts of five Division employees. To identify areas of noncompliance, suggestions were sought from employees throughout the Division. Selected suggestions will be considered for possible program implementation by the newly organized Revenue Opportunities Branch.

Director Gardiner announced that the five best suggestions were proposed by the following Division employees: Anita Green, Taxpayer Service Representative; John Lombardo, Supervising Investigator; Cathy Petrino, Taxpayer Service Representative; James Pronchick, Investigator; and Peter Rapetti, Investigator. "We are proud of our employees' professionalism and expertise," said Director Gardiner. "These suggestion awards are an acknowledgement by senior management of our employees' involvement in our compliance effort." □

Criminal Enforcement

Criminal Enforcement over the past several months included:

- Investigations to prevent the increase of fraudulent rebate checks recently identified multiple homestead rebate checks that were addressed to the same location. A total of 88 checks were identified for delivery to two post office boxes, a single family residence and an apartment. In each of these cases, the checks were intercepted prior to delivery.

- A prosecution report has been submitted for a liquor store and its president pursuant to an investigation revealing the filing of fraudulent sales tax returns wherein $1.5 million in sales was not reported nor was $98,092 of collected tax related to the unreported taxable sales remitted.
- An investigation of a restaurant and its president uncovered the filing of fraudulent sales tax returns and the failure to report $642,384 in taxable sales. In addition, $43,894 of collected tax associated with the unreported sales was not remitted. This case was forwarded for prosecution.
- Two taxpayers have violated their probation by failing to make monthly court restitution payments. In the first case, over $115,000 in sales tax was collected but not remitted. Sales tax collected but not remitted in the second case was $44,700. Since the restitution was a condition of the probation, a request to terminate the probation for both taxpayers has been submitted.
- Four more defendants have pled guilty to tax evasion charges in the undercover operation to identify motor fuel tax evasion labeled "Operation Red Daisy." In total, the defendants stole more than $60 million in taxes and laundered $66 million. This investigative effort was conducted jointly by the states of New Jersey and Pennsylvania, FBI, Criminal Investigation Division of the IRS and the U.S. Attorney's Office - Newark.
- George J. Fahoury of Fahoury Bros. Auto Body Shop pled guilty to keeping false and fraudulent books and records with the intent to evade taxes. He was ordered to make restitution in the amount of $5,000 for sales tax owed.

- Prosecution reports were forwarded to the prosecutor's office for two cases involving the filing of fraudulent New Jersey income tax returns. In each case, a refund was sought by the taxpayer to which he was not entitled. The total amount illegally claimed exceeded $43,700.
- Charges were filed against three businesses for the sale of unstamped cigarettes. The taxpayers in two of these cases also failed to obtain motor fuels and cigarette retailer licenses for multiple years. In one situation, employees were being paid off the books. □

Enforcement Summary

Civil Collection Actions Quarter Ending - Dec. 31, 1994

Following is a summary of enforcement actions for the quarter ending December 31, 1994.

Certificates of Debt

Field Investigators secured 667 Certificates of Debt in New Jersey Superior Court. These Certificates of Debt, which have the same force and effect as docketed judgments, totaled $17.7 million.

Levies

As a result of executing against 430 non-compliant taxpayers, Field Investigations collected $2.9 million.

Seizures

When a liability, for which the Division of Taxation has secured judgments, cannot or will not be satisfied by a taxpayer and all other means of collection have been exhausted, seizure of the business and personal assets will take place. Field investigators will close a business seizing any tangible assets including licenses, inventory, machinery, furniture, vehicles, etc., until arrangements are made for payment of the debt.

For the quarter ending December 31, 1994, 63 businesses were seized. Some businesses were able to re-open, others remain closed. A listing of seized businesses appears on pages 9, 10, 11 and 12.

Auctions

If the liability of a business seized by the Division is not satisfied or resolved, the business will remain closed. A public auction of the business assets will be conducted in about 30 days.

During the quarter ending Dec. 31, 1994, 9 auctions were held by the Division. A listing follows on page 12.

In the event an auction does not net enough monies to resolve the debt, the Division will execute against the personal assets of any of the responsible officers of the business. Responsible officers are held personally liable for the trust fund portion of the debt which includes, but is not limited to, sales tax, withholding tax and motor fuels tax. □

Tax Briefs

Corporation Business Tax

S Corporation Estimated Tax — A New Jersey C corporation with a fiscal year ended 9-30-94 paid $10,000 in tax for the year ended 9-30-94. It elects to be treated as a New Jersey S corporation for the year 10-1-94 to 9-30-95. The issue concerns the "safe haven" provision for estimated returns for the year ended 9-30-95.

N.J.S.A. 54:10A-15.4d(1) provides that no addition to the tax need be paid if the total amount of the installment payments equals or exceeds: "An amount equal to the tax computed at the rates applicable to the current fiscal or calendar accounting year but otherwise on the basis of the facts shown on the return of the taxpayer for, and the law applicable to, the preceding fiscal or calendar accounting year." (Current year's rates, prior year's facts.)

For a New Jersey S corporation whose taxable year begins on or after January 1, 1994 but before January 1, 1995, the tax rate for a New Jersey S corporation is 2.35%. Thus, using current year rates and prior year facts, the estimated tax applicable under the example considered would be $261.11 to qualify for the safe haven. (Assuming income of $11,111.11 in both fiscal years multiplied by the rates applicable in both years, 9% and 2.35% respectively.)

Gross Income Tax

Credit for Taxes Paid on Partnership Income — The reciprocal agreement between New Jersey and the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania only applies to wage income. Consequently, a New Jersey resident who receives self-employment income or distributive share of partnership income from Pennsylvania sources is eligible to receive a credit for taxes paid to Pennsylvania. Additionally, a taxpayer is eligible for the credit, even if the other jurisdiction's taxes were paid through mandatory withholdings.

The credit for taxes paid which is authorized by N.J.S.A. 54A:4-1(a), is allowed only for the amount of income or wage tax imposed by another jurisdiction. The statute does not authorize a credit for taxes withheld during the taxable year. In other words, the credit is authorized only for the tax actually levied on the taxpayer and not for taxes withheld as an estimate of the taxpayer's liability. A taxpayer is, therefore, required to provide the Division with proof of the final tax liability paid to the other jurisdiction for which a credit is being claimed. On this basis, the Division cannot accept a copy of a W-2 or a Schedule K-1 which simply shows the amount of tax withheld and gives no indication of the taxpayer's final tax liability. The Division considers a copy of the final tax return filed in the other jurisdiction to be sufficient proof.

In cases where a partnership files composite return(s) in various jurisdictions on behalf of its nonresident partners, the partnership should provide its partners with a certification detailing each partner's final tax liability to the other jurisdictions. The Division will accept such a certification as verification of a credit claimed, instead of requiring the New Jersey resident partner to attach to Form NJ-1040 a copy of each composite return filed by the partnership. □

In Our Courts

Corporation Business Tax

Investment Company – International Thomson Business Information, Inc. v. Director, Division of Taxation, Tax Court - 07-14-11509-91 CB, decided January 23, 1995.

Plaintiff corporation appealed from denial of its application to be taxed more favorably as an "investment company" pursuant to N.J.S.A. 54:10A-5(d) and N.J.S.A. 54:10A-4(f).

Plaintiff reported that it derived at least 90% of its total income from cash or investment assets or both, and therefore satisfied the "asset test" for an investment company, as defined by N.J.S.A. 10A:-4(f). However, the assets included in the requisite 90% may not be assets attributable to services or direct day-to-day management provided for affiliated corporations. N.J.A.C. 18:7-1.15(b)(4).

The court found that plaintiff was actively involved with its subsidiaries and that its principal income consisted of management fees paid by the subsidiaries. Therefore it held that plaintiff did not qualify as an investment company.

Gross Income Tax

Computation of credit for taxes paid to other jurisdiction – David R. Allen v. Director, Division of Taxation, Tax Court 004866-93, decided November 30, 1994.

Plaintiffs, New Jersey residents, had New York source income in 1990. Their dispute with the Director arose over the calculation of credit for taxes paid to New York pursuant to N.J.S.A. 54A:4-1(b). Specifically at issue was the calculation of the numerator of the fraction used in determining the maximum credit:

Income subject to tax by other jurisdiction
Entire New Jersey income

Taxpayers' entire New Jersey income consisted of wages, interest, dividends, capital gains, and other income. Their net capital gains for New Jersey purposes reflected the deduction of capital losses of $21,237 from capital gains. Taxpayers' New York source income consisted of wages, capital gains, and other income. Their income subject to tax in New York reflected the deduction of a $5,744 rental loss. However, their New York income was not reduced by the capital loss. The resulting income subject to New York tax was $147,682. Because of the large capital loss, their entire New Jersey income was $143,199.

While taxpayers agreed that, in order to avoid double taxation, the numerator of the fraction should reflect a deduction of the amount of capital loss not taxed by New Jersey, they argued that the numerator should not reflect further deduction for rental loss. The Director argued that the calculation of the numerator required deduction of both the capital loss that reduced entire New Jersey income and the rental loss that reduced income taxed in New York. This argument was based on N.J.A.C. 18:35-1.12(a) 4i, which provides: "Income subject to tax by the other jurisdiction means those categories of income which are taxed by another jurisdiction...and which are also subject to tax under the New Jersey Gross Income Tax Act."

While acknowledging that the Director's approach was consistent with the regulation, the Tax Court decided that plaintiffs should prevail. It viewed the facts as unique because (1) income subject to New Jersey tax was lower than income taxed by New York and (2) one deduction was allowed only by New Jersey and another only by New York. It concluded that in light of the specific facts and the statutory goal of avoiding double taxation, the principles of categorization of income in the regulation should not apply in this case. Instead deductions used in calculating the numerator must be limited to the greater of the total amount of deductions in either state. Summary judgment was entered for taxpayers.

The Division of Taxation is appealing this decision.

Gross Income Tax
Operative Effect of Interest
Waiver Provision, N.J.S.A. 54:49-11b – George V. Richardson v. Director, Division of Taxation, Tax Court - 005783 - 93, decided December 9, 1994.

Plaintiff and his wife incorrectly calculated the amount of credit for taxes paid to New York on their timely 1988 joint return. The Division first sent them a notice of adjustment in March 1992 charging them additional tax plus penalty and interest, but later waived the penalty and reduced the interest calculation by two percentage points. In May 1993 plaintiff filed a complaint, arguing that because his error resulted from his reliance upon erroneous instructions in the 1988 return, he was entitled to a waiver of all of the penalty and interest.

At issue was the operative effect of N.J.S.A. 54:49-11b, which provides for the waiver of any penalty or interest resulting from a taxpayer's reasonable reliance upon erroneous written advice furnished by the Division of Taxation. Enacted as part of the Taxpayers' Bill of Rights, P.L.1992, c.175, the provision became effective January 1, 1993.

Because plaintiff's reliance upon the Division's allegedly erroneous 1988 instructions occurred in 1989, well before the effective date of the new law, and because the provision created a substantive right to a complete abatement of interest, the Tax Court concluded that applying the provision retroactively would change the expectations under which both taxpayers and the Division operated in 1989. Finding that none of the exceptions to the presumptions against statutory retroactivity existed in this case, the court ruled that the usual rule of prospective operation applies. Judgment was entered affirming the Director's assessment of interest.

Local Property Tax
Correction of Errors Statute – Hovbilt, Inc. v. Township of Howell, Supreme Court A-9; on appeal from 263 N.J. Super. 567 (App. Div. 1993); decided December 22, 1994.

Plaintiff Hovbilt, Inc. owned a parcel of land used for farming. Each year from 1985 through 1990 its application to the township for farmland assessment was granted. The tax assessor lost plaintiff's timely application for the 1991 tax year, and assessed the land at full value.

Instead of appealing the assessment to the county board of taxation, plaintiff filed a complaint with the Tax Court alleging an error correctable under the Correction of Errors Statute, N.J.S.A. 54:51A-7. Plaintiff sought to have the matter remanded to the local tax assessor to determine its entitlement to farmland assessment. The Correction of Errors Statute, which provides an exception to the standard appeal process, allows the Tax Court to correct typographical or transposition errors or mistakes in tax assessment.

The Supreme Court affirmed the judgment of the Appellate Division, which had affirmed the Tax Court's dismissal of the complaint. Because the correct assessment would require a determination as to whether the property met the criteria in the Farmland Assessment Act, it was not subject to easy calculation based solely on the nature of the tax assessor's mistake, i.e., losing plaintiff's application. The Court therefore held that the assessor's mistake was not the kind that is correctable under the Correction of Errors Statute and that plaintiff was not entitled to relief under that exceptional procedure. □

Casino Hotel Parking Charges

Is sales tax due on the $2.00 Casino Parking Fee imposed in Atlantic City?

No, receipts from motor vehicle parking are not subject to sales tax in New Jersey. Therefore, the "Atlantic City Parking Fee" whether or not collected from parking patrons, is not a taxable receipt for tax purposes under the New Jersey Sales and Use Tax Act.

Pet Grooming & Training

Will sales tax be charged on the grooming of my dog? How about obedience training?

Dogs and other animals are considered tangible personal property under the law. As such, the sales of dogs, pet supplies (including food) and grooming of the dog are subject to sales tax. However, charges for obedience classes are exempt from the tax.

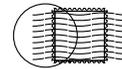

News Clipping Service

Are charges for a news clipping service subject to sales tax in New Jersey?

No, as parts of a research service, both the research fee and the separately stated "per clip" charge are exempt from sales tax. In this case, the "per clip" charge is an inconsequential element of the receipt if used only to ascertain the price charged for the research.

New Filing Requirements for Partnerships

Partnerships with one or more New Jersey resident partners or deriving income/loss from New Jersey sources are now required to file a New Jersey partnership return, Form NJ-1065. The effective date of this new filing requirement is for tax years ending on or after 12/31/94. The partnership is required to file this new form on or before the fifteenth day of the fourth month following the close of the partnership's taxable year.

This new filing requirement is for informational purposes only. The partnership is not subject to Gross Income Tax but the individual partners are liable for the payment of Gross Income Tax based upon their distributive share of partnership income/loss.

The New Jersey Gross Income Tax Act does not follow all the Federal income tax provisions for partnerships and/or partners. The proper determination, classification, and reporting of income/loss by the partnership is critical to the proper reporting of a New Jersey income/loss by the individual partners. The partnership information required to be reported on the form is needed to adjust items of Federal income/loss and expense to conform with New Jersey Gross Income Tax statutes and to separate income/loss derived from New Jersey sources from amounts derived from all sources.

All choices affecting the computation of income/loss from a partnership are made by the partnership, not each partner. This includes the choice of method of accounting, depreciation, capitalization of organizational fees, and the use of installment sale provisions. It also includes the determination and classification of income/loss and the allocation of income to New Jersey. All partnership elections are equally applicable and binding to all of the partners.

Part of the filing requirements of Form NJ-1065 is the completion of Schedule(s) NJK-1 (Form NJ-1065). A separate Schedule NJK-1 must be completed for each partner in the firm, both residents and nonresidents. Furthermore, a completed Form NJK-1 must be supplied to each partner for use in the filing of his/her personal Gross Income Tax return.

The use of these new forms will standardize the information reporting requirements and simplify the completion of the individual partner's personal Gross Income Tax return.

The Division is in the process of preparing an information booklet for partners in partnerships and shareholders in S corporations to aid them in filing their personal tax returns. This new booklet entitled Income Received from Partnerships and S Corporations will be ready for the 1994 tax year.

Reinstatement Fees

As a result of clarification in the interpretation of several existing corporate statutes, N.J.S.A. 14A:15-2(7), N.J.S.A. 14A:15-3(15) and N.J.S.A. 54:11-5, the correct reinstatement fee for a voided corporate charter amounts to $70.00, plus any deficiencies and/or delinquencies of tax, penalty and interest that caused the voidance of the corporate charter.

This fee structure became effective April 14, 1988.

CORPORATION TAX New Jobs Investment Tax Credit

The New Jobs Investment Tax Credit Act (P.L. 1993, c.170), N.J.S.A. 54:10A through 5.15, became effective for tax years beginning on or after July 7, 1993. This credit allows a business tax credit for those corporations who make an investment in new or expanded business facilities that create new jobs in New Jersey.

To qualify for the New Jobs Investment Tax Credit, the investment must create at least 5 new jobs for small businesses (defined as those with annual payrolls of not more than $2,000,000 and annual gross receipts of not more than $6,000,000) and 50 new jobs in the case of large businesses. The median annual compensation for the new jobs must be $27,000. In addition, the investment must be in new or expanded business facilities purchased from an unrelated party during or after the taxpayer's accounting period beginning on or after July 7, 1993. The property must be employed by the taxpayer in a taxable activity and must not have been in use during the 90 day period prior to purchase.

The credit is based upon a percentage of the cost of the property purchased and is determined based on the expected depreciable life of the property, categorized by 3 year, 5 year, and 7 or more year recovery periods.

The taxpayer cannot claim a credit for a number of new employees that exceeds either the increase in the taxpayer's average employment for the tax year, or one-half the taxpayer's average employment for the year. Therefore, in order to qualify for this credit, there must be increases in both New Jersey property and employment. The credit is spread out over a five-year period.

new jobs investment tax credit - from pg. 2

The credit may not exceed 50% of the corporation business tax liability otherwise due and shall not reduce the tax below the statutory minimum. If the credit exceeds this limitation, the taxpayer is eligible for a refund limited to 50% of the sum of property tax and implicit property tax directly resulting from qualified investment. Any amounts in excess of this amount cannot be carried forward.

This credit can be taken on Form 304. (See Business Incentive Tax Package booklet and Forms 300 through 307 for other tax credits which may be taken on the Corporation Business Tax Return). INHERITANCE/ESTATE TAX Frequently Asked Questions

This is the second of three successive issues in which the Transfer Inheritance and Estate Tax Branch will respond to specific inquiries taken from a list of most frequently asked questions.

1. What is a Form L-8?

The Form L-8 is a self-executing waiver which was born of the legislation granting Class "A" beneficiaries full exemption from New Jersey Transfer Inheritance Tax. The form was designed and implemented to accommodate those beneficiaries directly affected by this legislation. The purpose of the form is to allow convenient and expeditious access to assets of a resident decedent which are passing under specified conditions to a Class "A" beneficiary.

Class "A" beneficiaries for whom the Form L-8 is authorized include a surviving spouse in estates having a date of death on or after January 1, 1985, and a child, adopted child, stepchild, parent, grandparent, or grandchild of a decedent when date of death is on or after July 1, 1988. A step grandchild is not a Class "A" beneficiary and is not authorized to use the form.

The Form L-8 self-executing waiver may be obtained and completed at the institution having control of the asset requiring the waiver. This may be a banking facility or, in the case of New Jersey securities, the transfer agent. Detailed instructions are included in the form.

2. What is a Form L-9?

Unlike the Form L-8, the Form L-9 is a request for a waiver and is not actually an instrument which may be used as the basis for releasing control of a decedent's assets.

The Form L-9 is an application for a waiver for the release of a resident decedent's interest in New Jersey real estate. Form L-9 is submitted, together with a copy of the decedent's will, to the Inheritance Tax Branch in Trenton. If warranted, the Branch will then issue the desired waiver. Form L-9 may only be used when all beneficiaries are class "A" and a Transfer Inheritance Tax Return is not required. Instructions and criteria are set forth in Form L-9.

3. When using the Form L-8 or the Form L-9, does the executor or administrator have to be a Class "A" beneficiary?

The relationship of the beneficiary to the decedent is the controlling factor. The beneficiary must be a Class "A" beneficiary.

The relationship of an executor or administrator to the decedent is not relevant unless he/she is also a beneficiary.

4. Is jointly held property part of a decedent's estate for New Jersey Inheritance Tax purposes? If so, is it taxed at full or one-half the rate of death value?

Under provisions of the statute, jointly held property is subject to the tax. For this purpose, the asset is assumed to have belonged entirely to the decedent except that portion that can be proven to have originally belonged to the surviving joint owner(s) and never to have belonged to the decedent.

Property Tax Reimbursements

The 1994 State Revenue Sharing Act Distribution for senior and disabled citizens, surviving spouses and veterans was delivered to the State Treasurer on September 15, 1994.

Under the provisions of R.S. 54A:10-1 et seq., as amended, the Director of the Division of Taxation certified to the State Treasurer in this report the amount of revenue sharing funds due each municipality on November 1, 1994.

The total number of property tax deductions for senior and disabled citizens and surviving spouses was 153,556. When compared to tax year 1993, the number of deductions increased .4%, i.e., less than half of 1%.

The total number of veterans' deductions for 1994 was 378,665. That is a 2% decrease from 1993 to 1994.

Farmland Acreage Decline

A report summarizing data from farmland assessment applications (Form FA-1) has recently been completed. The study shows that total acreage devoted to agricultural or horticultural use in 1993 was 1,166,531 acres for the entire state. The data for tax year 1993 reflect a continued decline in the amount of qualified farmland since enactment of Chapter 48, Laws of 1964 (the "Farmland Assessment Act"). Since 1983, the year in which the highest acreage, i.e., 1.27 million acres, qualified for farmland assessment, the amount of qualified acreage has declined 8.2% or a total of 105,351 acres. 24.27% of New Jersey's land mass is approved under the Farmland Assessment Act. Hudson County remains the only county without farmland. Essex and Union Counties each report less than 500 acres devoted to agricultural or horticultural use. Conversely, Salem County, with 57%, has the greatest proportion of its land qualified under the Act. Other counties with large percentages of qualified farmland are: Hunterdon, 52%; Warren, 48%; Gloucester, 39%; Mercer, 34%; and Sussex, 33%.

- A prosecution report has been forwarded to the Division of Criminal Justice for a liquor store and its president pursuant to an investigation revealing the filing of fraudulent sales tax returns wherein $1.4 million in sales was not reported nor was $85,400 of collected tax related to the unreported sales taxable sales remitted.
- An investigation of an auto dealer uncovered the filing of fraudulent sales tax returns and the failure to report $600,082 in taxable sales. In addition, $36,005 of collected tax associated to the unreported sales was not remitted. This case was forwarded for prosecution.
- Fraudulent sales tax returns filed by a tree farm business failed to report $458,233 in taxable sales. Sales tax collected of $27,437 on the unreported taxable sales was not remitted. Prosecution was recommended and the matter forwarded to the prosecutor's office.

- A taxpayer plead guilty to the charges filed resulting from a cigarette tax investigation. The fines assessed by the court totaled $1,300. Thirteen additional cases were filed in municipalities throughout the State. The court dates have not yet been scheduled. There is an increased incidence of unstamped cigarettes being transported through this State which in part is attributed to some other states' eliminating the stamping of cigarettes. This situation is of concern and is being monitored closely.

Enforcement Summary

Civil Collection Actions Quarter Ending - September 30, 1994

Following is a summary of enforcement actions for the quarter ending September 30, 1994.

Certificates of Debt

When demands for payment were unsuccessful, Field Investigations docketed 800 Certificates of Debt in Superior Court totaling $21.9 million.

Levies

Executing against 390 bank accounts, Field Investigations collected $2.3 million.

Tax Seizures

After the Division has exhausted all other means to collect the State taxes due from vendors who cannot or will not pay, the business can be "seized" (closed) until some arrangement is made for payment. When a seizure occurs, the Division closes the business and seizes any tangible assets, such as inventory, machinery, furniture, etc.

A total of 45 businesses were scheduled for seizure for the quarter end-

ing September 30, 1994. Of these, 13 businesses were actually closed and six were left open. A listing of seized businesses appears on pages 7, 8 and 9.

If the liability of the closed business is not satisfied, the Division can sell the business assets at public auction after 30 days. For the quarter ending September 30, 1994, two auctions were conducted. When an auction does not realize enough to resolve the entire debt, seizure of personal assets of the responsible officers will be pursued by the Division. This action is executed for the trust fund tax portion of the debt.

Tax Briefs

Corporation Business Tax

S Corporation Minimum Tax — The 1994 minimum tax for a period beginning in 1994 for an S corporation that has elected to be a New Jersey S corporation is $50 for a domestic corporation and $100 for a foreign corporation.

Minimum tax for a period beginning in 1994 for a Federal S corporation which has not elected to be a New Jersey S corporation is $50 for a domestic corporation and $100 for a foreign corporation.

For periods beginning in calendar year 1995, the amounts would be $100 for a domestic corporation and $200 for a foreign corporation. N.J.S.A. 54:10A-5(e). The minimum tax amounts at instruction 11b of the CBT-100 and the CBT-100S relate generally to domestic and foreign corporations whether or not they are S corporations and the instruction assumes they are not investment companies or regulated investment companies.

Gross Income Tax

S Corporation Distributions — The Division received a request for advice with respect to a fiscal year S corporation with a year end June 30, 1994, that has elected New Jersey S status beginning with its fiscal year July 1, 1994. The S corporation typically pays dividends to its shareholders throughout its tax year. The inquirer asked whether these distributions constitute distributions of current earnings which would be taxable to the shareholders on their calendar year 1995 income tax returns or whether these distributions constitute dividends of 1994 fiscal subchapter C earnings.

The Division stated that distributions by a New Jersey S corporation are made pursuant to the priorities found in IRC 1368, N.J.S.A. 54A:5-14. Distributions from the corporation's fiscal year beginning July 1, 1993 and ending June 30, 1994 are dividends for New Jersey purposes. Distributions from the corporation's fiscal year beginning July 1, 1994 and ending June 30, 1995 are tax free to the extent of current period earnings.

Local Property Tax

Valuation, Discrimination and the Application of Chapter 123—Martin W. & Margaret C. Caulfield, v. Surf City Borough, Tax Court of New Jersey, Docket No. 010296-93, decided July 18, 1994.

This was a local property tax matter concerning valuation, discrimination, and the application of Chapter 123 which provides a statutory formula of relief for properties under tax appeal. The taxpayers appealed to the Tax Court of New Jersey after the Ocean County Board of Taxation affirmed their 1993 assessment of $425,000. On appeal to the Court, the taxpayers' real estate appraiser testified that based on four comparable sales the 1993 fair market value of the property, a single family dwelling, was $360,000. Under cross-examination, he also stated that the highest and best use for the property was its current use as a single family residence. The taxpayers themselves argued that the municipality's establishment of a dune line and a building line reduced the property's buildable area, and therefore it should be considered and valued as a vacant lot.

The municipal tax assessor, using both the replacement cost and three comparable sales, set the property's 1993 fair market value for land and improvements at $415,000. He then indicated that the difference in his assessed value determination of $425,000 as compared with his market value determination of $415,000 was acceptable since the property's assessment to sales ratio of 102.41% fell within the corridor (high 111.81%; low 82.65%) provided under Chapter 123 and that no reduction was warranted.

A brief explanation of Chapter 123 terms and concepts follows:

Chapter 123 Ratio—average ratio for a municipality as determined by Director, Division of Taxation. Common Level Range—range which is plus or minus 15% of the average ratio for a municipality. County Percentage Level—100% for all 21 counties in New Jersey. Where the ratio of a subject property's assessed to true value exceeds the upper limit or falls below the lower limit of the common level range, the property's taxable value shall be revised by applying the average ratio for the municipality to the true value of the property except as follows:

Where a municipality's average ratio is below the county percentage level and a subject property's ratio of assessed to true value exceeds the county percentage level, the property's taxable value shall be revised by applying the average ratio to its true value.

Where both the municipality's average ratio and the subject property's ratio of assessed to true value exceed the county percentage level, the property's taxable value shall be revised by applying the county percentage level to its true value.

The Court rejected the taxpayers' contention that the property be valued as vacant land based on their own appraiser's opinion that the highest and best use of the property was its existing use as a single family dwelling. To value the property as vacant ground, it would have to be proved that the land alone was worth more than the land and building together. To the contrary, when attempting to support his value estimate of $360,000 for the entire subject property, the taxpayers' appraiser used an unadjusted comparable sale for $360,000 where the improvements had been demolished, saying in effect that the subject property's improvements were valueless. The vacant lot use was also contradicted by the facts that the taxpayers occupied the property as a second home, maintained it in good condition, did not intend to sell it nor demolish it and rebuild within the new boundary line. In addition, the municipal assessor determined the land value of the property to be $350,000, very close to the taxpayers' appraiser's estimate for the entire property using a vacant land sale as a measure. The Court concurred with assessor and affirmed the fair market value of the entire property at $415,000.

However, the Court then went on to disagree with the assessor's taxable value or assessed valuation of the property stating that he had misconstrued both Chapter 123 statutes and prior case law. The purpose of the Chapter is to ensure that a property's assessment be equal to or less than its fair market value, but not greater. Even though, as the assessor had indicated, the ratio of assessment to fair market value was within the common level range at 102.41%, it exceeded the county percentage level of 100%. Since the municipality's average ratio of 97.23% was below the 100% county percentage level, the property's assessment was revised downward to $403,500 by multiplying the fair market value, $415,000, by the average ratio, 97.23%. The Court further held that the assessor should not deal with the mathematics of Chapter 123, except when calculating the effective tax rate for factoring a capitalization rate in the income approach to value or when advancing a superior ratio. It was the Court's province to apply Chapter 123 for purposes of discrimination appeals.

Taxation, Tax Court of New Jersey, Docket No. 16-02-920-91ST; decided May 27, 1994.

The Tax Court heard an appeal from a determination of the Director, Division of Taxation, finding each of three plaintiffs personally liable for unpaid sales and use tax. It was held that performing supervisory functions, reserving and exercising signatory authority, and receiving substantial benefits made two of the officers personally liable for tax under N.J.S.A. 54:32B-2(w) and N.J.S.A. 54:32B-14 of the Sales and Use Tax Act. However, the third officer was not subject to personal liability for the collection and payment of sales tax based on his limited participation in corporate affairs and receipt of only nominal corporate benefits.

Urban Enterprise Zone Promotional Items and Employee Incentives — Fedway Associates, Inc. v. Director, Division of Taxation, Tax Court, Docket No. 16-02-10134-91ST; decided June 1, 1994.

The Tax Court held that a beverage distributor, holding an "Urban Enterprise Exempt Purchase Permit" in accordance with the Urban Enterprise Zone Act, N.J.S.A. 52:31B-1 et seq., is subject to use tax pursuant to the Sales and Use Tax Act (N.J.S.A. 54:32B-6) on goods purchased as either compensation for its salespersons or as promotional items. To be exempt from tax, goods must be exclusively used or consumed within the enterprise zone. Promotional items are not exclusively consumed until they are used by the salesperson to promote the company's products. Compensation items, though consumed within the enterprise zone when distributed to salespersons, are not exclusively consumed because they retain economic utility to the recipient to use outside the enterprise zone.

New for 1994 Filing Season

Gross Income Tax Changes

- In addition to tax rate schedules, the 1994 New Jersey income tax instruction booklets for Forms NJ-1040, NJ-1040NR and NJ-1041 will include Tax Tables similar in design to the Federal income tax tables.
- A line for Net Pro Rata Share of S Corporation Income has been added to forms NJ-1040, NJ-1040NR and NJ-1041. Line numbers will change after the insertion of the net pro rata share line.
- A reminder that the minimum income threshold for Gross Income Tax was raised in 1994 from $3,000 to $7,500 for individuals filing as single, head of household, qualifying widow(er) or married, filing joint return, and estates and trusts (and from $1,500 to $3,750 for individuals filing as married, filing separate return). See State Tax News, Volume 23, Number 2, page 1, for more information.

New Forms

- A new business allocation form, Form NJ-NR-A, is available for this tax season. It replaces Forms NJ-1041-A and NJ-1040NR-A.
- Form NJ-1065, New Jersey Partnership Return, is now available for filing by every partnership or limited liability company that has income from New Jersey sources or a partner who is a New Jersey resident, for taxable years ending on or after December 31, 1994.
- Form CBT-100S, New Jersey S Corporation Tax Return, is now available for filing by eligible S corporations.
- A new Application for Registration (Form REG-1) and instructions are available. The registration packet (REG-P) includes new forms such as applications for cigarette and motor fuel licenses and a New Jersey S Corporation Election form.

Income Tax Rates Reduced

P.L. 1994, c.69, approved July 6, 1994, reduces the New Jersey Gross Income Tax rates for all taxpayers for tax years 1995 and thereafter. When combined with the 5% rate reduction for all rate brackets enacted as P.L. 1994, c.2, this new reduction results in cumulative tax decreases from the 1993 taxable year rates of 15%, 7.5% and 6%, depending on taxable income level.

Cumulative Rate Reduction

For tax year 1994, the New Jersey income tax rates for all taxpayers were reduced by 5%, and the rates have been further reduced for taxable years 1995 and thereafter. The cumulative decreases in the tax rates from their 1993 levels are shown below.

Filing Status: Married, Filing Jointly Head of Household*
Qualifying Widow(er)
	% Rate Change
Taxable Income	1993-1995
$0—$80,000	-15%
$80,001—$150,000	-7.5%
Over $150,000	-6%

	% Rate Change
Taxable Income	1993-1995
$0 —$40,000	-15%
$40,001 —$75,000	-7.5%
Over $75,000	-6%

Withholding Rates

Because of the reduction in tax rates for taxable years beginning on or after January 1, 1995, new withholding tables will be required. Revised withholding tables will be mailed to employers when available.

Estimated Tax Payments

Any individual (resident or nonresident) who expects their New Jersey income tax liability to be more than $100, after subtracting withholdings and credits, must make New Jersey estimated tax payments using Form NJ-1040-ES. Taxpayers should take the new income tax rates into account when calculating the amount of their estimated tax payments for 1995. Estates and trusts are not required to make New Jersey estimated tax payments.

New York State Amnesty Program

On September 1, 1994, New York State began a limited three-month amnesty program aimed at specific taxpayers during particular years.

Those who qualify must pay any taxes owed, plus interest, but will be protected from any related criminal prosecution or administrative penalty.

The income tax component applies only to nonresidents of New York who have failed to file any required income tax returns for tax years beginning on and after January 1, 1986 and ending before December 31, 1993. Thus, 1992 would be the last calendar year for which participants can file for amnesty. Excluded is anyone currently under criminal investigation, anyone who has already been contacted by the Tax Department, and anyone who participated in New York's 1985 general Amnesty Program.

Similarly, the business tax component applies only to out-of-state businesses that have been doing business in New York and who should have filed returns between 1986 and December 1, 1993. Thus, 1992 would be the last calendar year, and November 1993 the last month for which participants can file for amnesty. Once again, any business under criminal investigation or already contacted by the Tax Department is ineligible.

The use tax component of amnesty applies to resident individuals and smaller businesses, those with a New York payroll of less than a million dollars. The Compensating Use Tax is the flip side of the Sales Tax and applies to any taxable goods or services that are brought into, shipped into, or used in New York. For example, the computers, supplies, reference materials, etc. that professionals such as architects, dentists, lawyers, and doctors have shipped into the state without the sales tax being charged are subject to a use tax equal to the sales tax. To qualify for amnesty, any individual or business must not have already filed a sales or use tax return or have been registered for the period in question. Also, they must not be under criminal investigation, nor have already been contacted by the Tax Department. Only use tax liabilities for goods or services brought into or used in New York during the period June 1, 1986, to May 31, 1993, will be covered.

Additional information and amnesty forms can be obtained by writing: Amnesty, New York State Department of Taxation and Finance, Building 8, W. A. Harriman Campus, Albany, NY 12227.

Please Note: The City of New York is also conducting a tax amnesty from September 1, 1994 to November 30, 1994. The taxes covered are the commercial rent tax (for periods ending on or before May 31, 1993); the utility tax (for periods ending on or before March 31, 1994); the real property transfer tax (for taxable events occurring before April 1, 1994); and the hotel room occupancy tax (for periods ending on or before February 28, 1994). Appeals of DEP Denials

A taxpayer requested a hearing with the Division regarding the Department of Environmental Protection & Energy's (now the Department of Environmental Protection or DEP) denial of certification of certain machinery as recycling equipment. Because of DEP's action, the taxpayer was precluded from taking a credit on their Corporation Business Tax return under the provisions of N.J.S.A. 54:10A-5.3.

Under Section 5.3, the Director of Taxation cannot act independently of the Commissioner of DEP regarding the allowance of the credit for the acquisition of recycling equipment. N.J.A.C. 18:7-3.18 provides that the tax credit will not be allowed by the Director until the taxpayer receives certification from the Commissioner that the equipment for which the credit is sought is qualified recycling equipment. The certificate must be part of the return claiming the credit.

DEP has established fact finding procedures under N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 et seq. The Director of Taxation has no role in that process, nor does he have a role in DEP's administrative process in determining whether individual items qualify for certification. It naturally follows that the Director of Taxation would also have no role in the adjudicative process. Since there is no specific action of the Director regarding the certification question, the taxpayer (applicant) does not have a right to a hearing with the Division under the provision of N.J.S.A. 54:49-18, nor does the taxpayer have the right to appeal to the Tax Court of New Jersey (N.J.S.A. 54:10A-19.2).

The Conference and Appeals Branch advised the taxpayer that this matter properly belongs before the Office of Administrative Law according to DEP regulations.

GROSS INCOME TAX Withholding and Employment Contractors

With the change in business operation throughout the country, more

businesses are contracting with employment contractors for employees. These individuals remain the employees of the employment contractors. When an employment contractor or labor contractor has employees who perform services in New Jersey, said contractor must withhold New Jersey Gross Income Tax. This requirement includes every employer maintaining an office or transacting business within this State (whether or not a paying agency is maintained within the State) and making a payment of any wages subject to New Jersey Gross Income Tax to a resident or nonresident individual. It also includes any person or organization paying wages to a former employee after termination of employment.

The compensation subject to withholding includes salaries, wages, tips, fees, commissions, bonuses and other remuneration recovered for services rendered: basically anything regarded as "wages" for Federal Income Tax withholding purposes.

CIGARETTE TAX

Update

In order to improve the efficiency of Cigarette Tax audits handled by the Office Audit Branch, the Division is working on a computerized system to maintain all Cigarette Tax returns. This will provide an improved system of internal control and return tracking that will ensure the filing of timely and accurate returns. A future goal of the system will be to provide access for filing returns electronically.

Cigarette Tax returns and schedules have recently been changed. Revised forms have been printed and mailed to all active manufacturers and distributors. The line items are the same as shown on the old forms but descriptions have been clarified in many cases. The revisions to the Cigarette Tax return include:

—In the Unstamped Cigarette Account, a new line has been added: Credit: Returns to Manufacturer;

—In the Stamp Account section, a new line has been added: Ending Inventory: Damaged, Stolen or Returned Stamps;

—The Stamp Account section has also been updated to include only those stamps currently available. Meter units have been eliminated from the return;

In addition, the following schedules have been revised:

—Resident Distributor's Cigarette Tax Return; Form CR-1, CR-2 Schedule A, CR-3 Schedule B, CR-4 Schedule C, CR-5 Schedule D, and CR-7 Schedule F.

—Distributor's Monthly Informational and Sales Report; Form CDIS-1, CDIS-2 Schedule S.

—Non-Resident Cigarette Dealer Sales Return; Form CNR-1, CNR-2 Schedule A, CNR-3 Schedule B, and CNR-5 Schedule D.

—Manufacturer's Monthly Report of Special Shipments of Taxable Cigarettes into New Jersey; Form MSS-1.

All Cigarette Tax returns should now be sent to the following address:

State of New Jersey, Division of Taxation, Office Audit-Cigarette Tax, CN 271, Trenton, NJ 08646.

NOTE: This address should only be used for the filing of returns and related correspondence. Matters related to the purchase of Cigarette Tax stamps should be sent to the address that is currently being used: CN 250.

There has been no change in the procedure for purchasing New Jersey cigarette stamps.

It is no longer necessary to file returns and supporting schedules in duplicate and triplicate. One copy of the return along with supporting schedules will now be accepted by the Division. The revised forms can be obtained by writing to the address shown above.

INHERITANCE/ESTATE TAX Frequently Asked Questions

The Transfer Inheritance and Estate Tax Branch has compiled a list of questions frequently received by the Branch. These questions will be answered in three successive issues of this publication.

1. How Long Does it Take to Process A Return?

Normal processing time for a transfer inheritance tax return that is accepted as filed, is approximately 4 to 6 weeks. When a return is not accepted as filed and is selected for audit, the estate representatives should hear from the Branch in 8 to 10 weeks. The nature of the communication from the Branch will most likely be in the form of a request for additional information which is necessary for completion of the proceeding. Finalization of the process from this point will depend upon the nature and availability of the information and documentation required. If it should become necessary to contact the Branch prior to the times indicated, you may telephone (609) 292-5033, 292-5034, or 292-7147.

2. Why are Waivers Needed?

In order to insure that the taxpayers

of this State are treated in an equitable manner, the legislature enacted laws that require a consent to transfer (waiver) before a decedent's interest in specifically defined assets may be turned over to the decedent's estate. The institution or corporate entity having control of the asset(s) must have a waiver before releasing these types of assets or be subject to penalty as provided by law. In order to obtain a required waiver, the tax, as estimated by the Branch, must be paid or acceptable provision for payment must be made.

3. Can Waivers be Obtained Prior to the Audit of a Report?

There are several methods of obtaining a consent to transfer (waiver) other than on the basis of a complete inheritance tax return submitted with full payment of tax chargeable.

At any time after filing an inheritance tax return, and prior to the completion of the audit proceeding, estate representatives may request the issuance of some or all of the required waivers. Such a request should explain the unusual or emergency nature of the circumstances prompting the request. Waivers may be issued prior to the audit provided that an appropriate payment on account of estimated taxes has been received and/or waivers are withheld on sufficient other assets to provide for taxes. The Branch will not rely on real estate in determining which waivers, if any, may be issued.

Form L-4 is designed for use when the estate is not in a position to file a complete report with the Branch. The form is completed on the basis of information available to estate representatives. It is submitted to the Branch and, if it is deemed warranted, waivers will be issued. The Branch will normally withhold waivers covering sufficient assets to pay expected tax.

Forms L-8 and L-9 are new forms designed to accommodate Class "A" beneficiaries and will be discussed in the next issue of the New Jersey State Tax News.

Transfer Inheritance and Estate Tax forms may be obtained from regional offices or by contacting the Transfer Inheritance and Estate Tax Branch at the numbers listed on page 5 or by writing to 50 Barrack Street, CN 249, Trenton, NJ 08646.

Criminal Enforcement

Criminal enforcement actions over the past several months included:

May 10, 1994 - Soni's Gift Shop, of Jackson, NJ, plead guilty in Municipal Court to charges of failing to possess a cigarette license, and possession of cigarettes not bearing the required New Jersey revenue stamps. The subject was fined $2,225.00.

May 10, 1994 - Crystal Vending Corp., of Elizabeth, NJ, plead guilty

criminal enforcement - from pg. 6

in Municipal Court to charges of not possessing a cigarette vending machine license, and not having proper identification on a vending machine. The subject was fined $500.00

May 18, 1994 - Hongan Lai, of Queens, NY, was found guilty in Municipal Court on charges of transporting cigarettes not bearing the required New Jersey revenue stamps. The subject was fined $520.00, and the vehicle used in the transportation, a 1993 Dodge Shadow, was awarded to the New Jersey Division of Taxation.

June 9, 1994 - China Chef, Inc., of Secaucus, NJ, plead guilty in Municipal Court to charges of possessing cigarettes not bearing the required New Jersey revenue stamps, and failure to possess a cigarette license. The subject was fined $1,965.00.

July 7, 1994 - Dipak Shah, an officer of Mili Liquors, Inc., entered a guilty plea to charges of failing to remit Sales Tax collected from customers of this West Caldwell liquor store. Mr. Shah signed a consent judgment and agreement to make restitution of $72,287.00.

July 20, 1994 - Juice-A-Peel of Staten Island, a South Amboy, NJ company, entered guilty pleas in Municipal Court to charges of failing to have a cigarette tax license and failure to have identification on cigarette vending machines. The subject was fined $1,305.00.

Enforcement Summary

Civil Collection Actions Quarter Ending - June 30, 1994

Compliance Activity personnel collected a total of $48.1 million for the quarter ending June 30, 1994. Following is a summary of enforcement actions.

Certificates of Debt

After demands for payment were unsuccessful, the Division entered 1,443 Certificates of Debt in Superior Court totaling $38.5 million.

Contact and Demand

Prior to the filing of Certificates of Debt, the Division collected $43.0 million through normal collection procedures.

Levies

The Division collected $2.4 million by levying against 454 bank accounts.

Settlements

Another $2.2 million was collected by closing 179 cases just before seizure in which the taxpayer paid taxes due rather than have his or her business closed.

Tax Seizures

After the Division has exhausted all other means to collect the State taxes due from vendors who cannot or will not pay, the business can be "seized" (closed) until some arrangement is made for payment. When a seizure occurs, the Division closes the business and seizes any tangible assets, such as inventory, machinery, furniture, etc.

If the liability of the closed business is not resolved, the Division can sell the business assets at public auction after 30 days. If the amounts realized from the auction are not enough to satisfy the entire debt, the Division can seize the personal assets of the responsible officers where trust fund taxes (Sales Tax and Income Tax Withholding) are involved.

A total of 40 businesses were scheduled for seizure for the quarter ending June 30, 1994. Of these, 25 businesses were actually closed and 15 were left open, resulting in collections of $500,000. A listing of seized businesses appears on pages 8, 9 and 10.

Tax Briefs

Corporation Business Tax

Taxation of Foreign Airlines and International Shipping Companies

— The Division has modified its position with regard to foreign airlines and international shipping companies that exclude income from Federal taxation pursuant to IRC Section 883 and are therefore not required to file Federal income tax returns. (See State Tax News, Vol. 22, No. 2, Fall 1993.) Foreign carriers' income is deemed to be exempt from the New Jersey Corporation Business Tax.

However, foreign airlines and international shipping companies will be required to file a corporation business tax return (CBT-100) and pay the minimum tax. New Jersey's minimum tax for a foreign corporation is $50 for all years through 1993. The minimum tax is scheduled to increase to $100 for 1994 and $200 for 1995 and subsequent years.

Affected corporations that did not enter into formal closing agreements may apply for refund of any tax paid within the applicable statute of limitations.

Sales Tax

Exempt Organization Purchases

— An organization holding a valid sales tax exempt organization permit in New Jersey may make exempt purchases by issuing to the vendor a valid Exempt Organization Certificate (ST-5) and making payment from the funds of the organization. The organization must be the direct purchaser and payer of record. Any bill, invoice or receipt given by the vendor must show the organization, and not any individual member of the organization, as purchaser.

Payment must be made from funds drawn from the account of the organization. The vendor, subject to the "good faith" requirements specified on the back of the ST-5 form, may assume, unless he has reason to know otherwise, that a payment, accompanied by a valid ST-5 made in the form of cash, cashier's check, bank check or money order and purported to be organizational funds by the purchaser, is organizational funds and acceptable for a tax exempt purchase.

A payment made by an organization member's personal check or an organization member's personal credit card or by cash, known by the vendor not to be organizational funds, even when accompanied by a valid ST-5 certificate, is not acceptable for a tax exempt purchase.

Heating Oil Tank Repair — The New Jersey Sales and Use Tax Act provides an exemption for maintaining, servicing or repairing a residential heating system unit, N.J.S.A. 54:32B-

3(b)(4). This exemption would apply to services performed on the oil burner as well as the oil tank, since both are integral parts of the residential heating system. There is no exemption available when such services are performed on commercial heating systems.

Promotional Items — The Division replied to an inquiry concerning the sale of promotional packs of crayons and markers to a manufacturer that intended to include them in its products. At issue was whether the manufacturer could purchase the crayons and markers with a Resale Certificate (ST-3).

The promotional items do not qualify for the resale exemption because they are not being sold as such or converted into or as a component part of a product produced for sale by the purchaser under N.J.S.A. 54:32B-2(e)(1)(A). However, the New Jersey Sales and Use Tax Act provides an exemption for sales of advertising or promotional materials which are ultimately delivered to out-of-state recipients. See N.J.S.A. 54:32B-8.39. If the manufacturer takes delivery in New Jersey, it may issue an Exempt Use Certificate (ST-4) to exempt the purchase of the promotional items. The manufacturer would be required to submit 6% New Jersey use tax on that portion of the promotional items purchase receipt that relates to in-state use of the crayons and markers.

In Our Courts

Gross Income Tax

Filing joint return as husband and wife — New Jersey Superior Court, Appellate Division; Rinier et al. v. New Jersey, A-1871-92T3; decided May 4, 1994. On appeal from the Tax Court of New Jersey.

The plaintiffs filed a declaratory judgment action claiming that provisions of the New Jersey Gross Income Tax Act, N.J.S.A. 54A:1-1 to 54A:10-12, violate their Federal equal protection and due process rights by requiring them to file a joint state income tax return if they file a joint Federal return.

The Superior Court held that the New Jersey Gross Income Tax, which requires a married couple that files a joint Federal income tax return to file a State income tax return and thus subjects their aggregate income to a higher statutory tax rate than that applicable to married couples filing separately, is not an unconstitutional denial of equal protection since the requirement is reasonably related to legitimate governmental purposes (facilitating uniformity in revenue-collecting procedures between the State and Federal government and auditing of State and Federal returns) and because taxpayers can choose to avoid the higher State tax rate by filing separately for Federal tax purposes.

Local Property Tax

Federal law preempts New Jersey Statute – Superior Court Appellate Division; New Jersey Transit Corporation v. Borough of Somerville, A-6210-92T3; opinion decided May 11, 1994.

The Superior Court held that the Tax Court was correct in finding that N.J.S.A. 2A:14-1.2, which establishes a ten-year limitations period for actions commenced by the State and its agencies, does not apply to property tax appeals; nevertheless, plaintiff, which owns and operates a commuter rail line, is entitled to the retroactive tax exemption in 45 U.S.C.A. 581(c)(5); to the extent that N.J.S.A. 54:3-21 bars such a claim, it must yield to principles of preemption.

Surviving Spouses of Nonresident Disabled Veterans – Phyllis Garma v. Township of Lakewood, Tax Court of New Jersey, 15-15-11786-91S; decided March 22, 1994.

Taxpayer sought, via the New Jersey Tax Court, local property tax exemption on her single family residence as the surviving spouse of an honorably discharged 100% permanently disabled U.S. Army war veteran under N.J.S.A.54:4-3.30 and Article 8, Section 1, Paragraph 3 of the State Constitution. Ocean County Tax Board had affirmed Lakewood Township's denial of the exemption on the basis that the veteran was not a New Jersey resident at the time of his death. Both the deceased veteran and his widow had been past residents of this State, but had relinquished domicile when they moved to Florida. The appellant's husband died while they were Florida residents. At his death, neither owned property in New Jersey. Except for the issue of residency, all other eligibility criteria for exemption were met and the facts of the case were not disputed.

Plaintiff's appeal to the Tax Court was based on three arguments: 1. that she was a victim of discrimination, 2. that she was denied equal protection and "the right of migration" guaranteed under the United States Constitution, and 3. that she was entitled to retroactive reimbursement of all property taxes previously paid on the residence. The taxpayer requested that the Court declare both the New Jersey statute and constitutional provision in violation of the 14th Amendment because they required the veteran's state residency and citizenship for spousal exemption, and declare New Jersey's scheme of tax exemption in violation of Article 4 of the Privileges and Immunities Clause of the U.S. Constitution.

Regarding the charge of denial of equal protection and class discrimination, the taxpayer contended that N.J.S.A.54:4-3.30 contained a "fixed date" or "fixed event" residence requirement which unlawfully divided veterans' surviving spouses into two classes: resident surviving spouses living in New Jersey when their spouse died and who qualified, and resident surviving spouses who established New Jersey residence after their spouse's death who did not.

Cited in support was a decision in which a New Mexico statute granting exemption only to Vietnam veterans residing in the state prior to a fixed date while denying later resident Vietnam vets was struck down by the United States Supreme Court. The Court reasoned that the legislation did not simply distinguish between resident and nonresident veterans but rather favored established residents over new residents, and that new residents cannot be discriminated against solely on the basis of the date they arrived in the state. A similar U.S. Supreme Court ruling of the state of Alaska's distribution to its citizens varying amounts of dividends based on years of residence as unconstitutional was also offered as evidence.

The Equal Protection Clause of the 14th Amendment does not require that all persons be treated alike; it requires that similar persons be treated similarly, and that people of different circumstances be treated differently. Alleged equal protection violations are divided into three categories: 1. fundamental rights, e.g., voting or suspect class (e.g., race); 2. semi-suspect class, e.g., gender; 3. all other cases; and are tested at three levels of scrutiny based on the nature of the violation. Generally, a tax statute will survive scrutiny under the equal protection clause if the distinctions or classifications made reflect a legitimate government purpose, bear a reasonable relationship to that purpose and are uniformly applied.

Although this case involved a class of veterans vs. a class of New Jersey resident veterans, the disputed statute was found to be constitutional. The U.S. Supreme Court has held that "legislatures have especially broad latitude in creating classifications and distinctions in tax statutes." Further a class of veterans doesn't result in "invidious or irrational" distinctions among a state's residents, a suspect or semi-suspect class, nor affect fundamental rights and therefore need only satisfy the rationally based legitimate state purpose criteria to comply with the equal protection clause. A bona fide residence requirement furthers a legitimate state purpose to assure that benefits provided for residents are enjoyed only by residents. In this case the taxpayer was not a member of the class of persons intended to receive the exemption under N.J.S.A.54:4-3.30, that is resident surviving spouses of resident veterans. Thus, ironically the denial of her exemption was equal protection since she could not be treated in the same manner as qualified class members. Also, the residence requirement was not fixed-date or durational as the taxpayer argued, but a rational bona fide residence requirement in which the State benefited its resident veterans equally, limited not by length of residence but by actual residence. The appellant's disqualification was not based on her recent arrival or period of residence. She did not qualify because her husband did not qualify. No surviving spouse of a nonresident vet who takes up residence in New Jersey is entitled to exemption.

The taxpayer did not request that the exemption be broadened to include her although the Court inferred this to be her intent. Had the law been found unconstitutional, no one would have been entitled to exemption under the existing statute. To extend the exemption to create a new class of surviving spouses was deemed contrary to the intent of the State constitutional amendment granting the exemption. The denial was upheld and the complaint dismissed.

Veterans' Organization Not Exempt from Real Property Tax – The John Dolak Home Association, Inc. v. Borough of Alpha, Superior Court of New Jersey, Appellate Division, on appeal from Tax Court of New Jersey, A-5027-92T3; decided June 23, 1994.

The John Dolak Home Association, a veterans' organization affiliated with the American Legion, appealed the New Jersey Tax Court's denial of its request for real property tax exemption. The Tax Court ruled that the Association's property was not actually used for charitable purposes as under N.J.S.A.54:4-3.6, nor was it a bona fide national war veterans' organization under N.J.S.A.54:4-3.25 because it was established after the statutory deadline for formation and its membership was open to non-veterans. Consequently, it did not qualify for exemption. The Superior Court concurred and affirmed the Tax Court's judgment.

To receive exemption for charitable cause under N.J.S.A.54:4-3.6 the claimant must be organized exclusively for the moral and mental improvement of men, women and children; the property must be actually used for tax-exempt purpose; and the operation and use of the property must not be conducted for profit. A claimant who fails to satisfy any one of these three criteria is disqualified.

The by-laws of the J. Dolak Association stipulated that the Home was to be used at all times for the moral and mental improvement of men, women and children and its membership. The goals of the Association as stated in the by-laws were to promote community involvement, good citizenship, a rapport between veterans and non-veterans, and to help the distressed, sick, needy children and destitute of the area.

The Home Association as a service organization sent food baskets to the poor; donated to an emergency squad, a high school athletic program, the Vietnam Memorial in Washington; financed the construction of a swimming pool for Borough children; built a pavilion and rest rooms and planted trees at a public park; sponsored children's athletic events; funded a public school youth program; bought insurance for Borough's baseball teams and raised money for the American Legion.

The property, 4 lots and a structure which was formerly a hotel, was used for American Legion meetings and fund raisers. Class reunions, social affairs, and J.D. Home Association meetings were also held there, as well as occasional activities for nearby hospitalized veterans. However, the Home Association also conducted a non advertised "by word of mouth" catering business from the premises. Proceeds from the business were used for building maintenance, taxes, insurance, trash removal and paying waitresses, cooks and janitorial workers. Several association officers received salaries. Surplus funds went into a general fund. In 1991 and 1992, $226,104 and $233,000 respectively was earned through catering. For 1990 tax year, a net surplus of $12,500 was donated to charity. For tax year 1991, a net loss of $7,000 was indicated. Per the Association, their year's end goal was to have a zero balance not a profit.

The decision of the Superior Court hinged on the second criterion or test of eligibility, i.e., the actual use of the property. While occasional or incidental fund raising did not preclude exemption, a substantial, independent and permanent endeavor designed to make profit, even for beneficent purposes, did. Prior case law had determined that where property was used for commercial enterprise, the fact that all profits were devoted to charity did not justify granting an exemption. On that basis, in keeping with strict construction of exemption statutes, the Tax Court's denial was upheld.

The Home Association did not seek exemption on its status as a fraternal organization under N.J.S.A. 54:4-3.26, nor did the Court address this issue. An attempt by the Association to have the assessment reduced was dismissed.

Sales and Use Tax

Use Tax on Catalogs Shipped into the State – Superior Court, Appellate Division; Comfortably Yours, Inc. v. Director, Division of Taxation, A-1115-92T1; decided April 22, 1994. On appeal from the Tax Court, 12 N.J. Tax 570 (Tax 1992).

Comfortably Yours, Inc. (CYI), a New Jersey vendor involved in retail mail-order sales, appealed from a use-tax deficiency assessed by the Director, Division of Taxation, and upheld by the Tax Court. The deficiency represented the tax on the cost of producing and distributing promotional catalogs at the direction of CYI by out-of-state printing contractors who shipped the catalogs by mail to customers in New Jersey.

CYI contended that the Tax Court erred in determining that the production and distribution of its promotional catalogs constitute a use within the meaning of N.J.S.A. 54:32B-2(h) and in declaring that the imposition of the tax is not a violation of the commerce clause of the U.S. Const., art. I section 8, cl. 3.

The Tax Court decision was affirmed substantially for the reasons expressed in its opinion.

Thus, the production and distribution of promotional catalogs by an out-of-state contractor at the direction of a New Jersey corporation and the mailing of those catalogs to New Jersey consumers constitute a use within the meaning of N.J.S.A. 54:32B-2(h) subjecting the New Jersey corporation to the imposition of a use tax.

In Our Legislature

Gross Income Tax

Tax Rate Decrease — P.L. 1994, c.69 (signed into law on July 6, 1994) reduces the gross income tax rates. Combined with P.L. 1994, c.2, results in cumulative reduction for married persons filing jointly, head of household or surviving spouse of: 15% ($0-$80,000); 7.5% ($80,000 - $150,000) and 6% (over $150,000). Reduction for single individuals or married persons filing separately is: 15% ($0-$40,000); 7.5% ($40,000-$75,000) and 6% (over $75,000).

This bill is effective for tax years 1995 and thereafter.

Setoff of Individual Liability

New Jersey DMV Merit Rating Plan — P.L. 1994, c.64 (signed into law on June 30, 1994) provides for enhanced surcharge collection methods to be used by the Division of Motor Vehicles. Setoff of Individual Liability Program will be utilized to deduct unpaid debts from income tax refunds and homestead rebates, and docketed judgments to collect delinquent surcharges.

Merit Rating Plan surcharges are levied on persons convicted of drunk driving and other vehicular offenses pursuant to P.L. 1983, c.65 (C.17:29A-33 et al.). This law dedicates surcharge revenue, net of collection expenses, for deposit in the New Jersey Automobile Insurance Guaranty Fund for the repayment of debt incurred by insurance pools of high risk drivers.

The Division of Motor Vehicles (DMV) has the authority to suspend the driver's licenses of offenders who fail to pay their surcharge assessments. However, experience has demonstrated that this sanction is not adequate to compel the collection of these surcharge debts. This bill is intended to provide the Director of DMV with additional and more effective remedies to collect this debt.

To afford greater flexibility and convenience to those assessed, this bill also removes indigency as a condition for paying off surcharges in installments, and increases the number of allowable installment payments from 10 to 12 per year. The bill also authorizes the DMV to accept credit card payments.

This bill is effective immediately.

Filing Homestead Rebate Applications in Two States

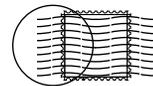

What are the tax implications of a taxpayer filing Homestead Property Tax Rebate Applications with both New Jersey and another state? If a taxpayer claims a homestead rebate in two states (for example, New Jersey and Florida), the Division of Taxation, at the discretion of the Director, is allowed to exchange information with the taxing officials of the other state, provided the other state grants like privileges to this State and the information is used for tax purposes only (N.J.S.A. 54:50-9). In addition to repaying the rebate, the taxpayer can be charged with a disorderly persons offense. Under N.J.S.A. 54:52-6, it is a disorderly persons offense to file or give information "required by any State tax law" which is false. Providing false information to hinder an audit is also subject to criminal penalty. A disorderly persons offense carries a fine of $1,000 and a jail term of up to 6 months.

On-line Services

Are subscription fees for on-line computer bulletin board service which offers general information, on-line games, "E" mail and other similar services subject to sales tax?

No. Subscription fees for computer bulletin boards are not subject to New Jersey sales tax.

New Director Named

Governor Christine Todd Whitman has announced the nomination of Richard D. Gardiner as Director of the Division of Taxation. Pending Senate confirmation, Mr. Gardiner was appointed Acting Director effective June 1, 1994.

State Treasurer Brian Clymer described Mr. Gardiner as "a top-notch professional who understands every aspect of the tax system." He added, "I expect to work closely with him as the Governor works to restructure our tax system."

A career public servant, Mr. Gardiner began his State career in 1959 as an Examiner with the Corporation Tax Bureau. In 1966, Mr. Gardiner was selected to organize the Sales Tax Bureau. He advanced to Supervising Auditor in 1968 and was placed in charge of the Audit and Compliance Section of that Bureau.

Following a complete reorganization of the Division, Mr. Gardiner was promoted to Chief of the Processing Branch in 1971 and was named Assistant Superintendent of Collection and Enforcement in 1977 and Superintendent of Collection and Administration in 1979.

In 1983, Mr. Gardiner was appointed to Assistant Director of Investigations/Special Procedures. In 1984, he was elevated to Deputy Director. He served the Division in this capacity through May 31, 1991. He graduated from Mount St. Mary's College in 1958 with a B.S. degree in business administration with a major in accounting.

Income Tax Threshold Raised

P.L. 1994, c.8, approved March 16, 1994, increases the minimum income required to be subject to New Jersey Gross Income Tax. Effective January 1, 1994, the threshold was raised from $3,000 to $7,500 for individuals filing as single, head of household, qualifying widow(er) or married, filing joint return, and estates and trusts. For married persons filing separately, the threshold was raised from $1,500 to $3,750.

Beginning with tax year 1994, a single individual, married couple, or estate or trust with gross income for the year of $7,500 or less ($3,750 for married persons filing separately) has no tax liability to New Jersey. This means that many low income persons, senior citizens, students and others who had to file New Jersey income tax returns in the past will no longer be required to file. However, taxpayers whose income is below the minimum still have to file a return to claim a Homestead Property Tax Rebate or to get a refund if they had tax withheld from wages or made estimated tax payments.

Part-year Residents

Part-year New Jersey residents are subject to tax if their income for the entire year exceeds $7,500 ($3,750 for married persons filing separately), even if the income reported for the period of New Jersey residence was $7,500 or less ($3,750 for married persons filing separately).

A New Jersey income tax return must be filed by a part-year resident who receives any income (whether from New Jersey sources or not) during the part of the year spent as a resident of this State. However, no New Jersey income tax is due if the income a part-year resident received during the entire year was $7,500 or less ($3,750 for married persons filing separately). A copy of the Federal income tax return should be attached to the taxpayer's part-year return, or, if no Federal income tax return was filed, a statement to the effect that income for the entire year was $7,500 ($3,750) or less.

Nonresidents

Nonresidents who receive any amount of income from New Jersey sources during the year must file a New Jersey nonresident income tax return. No tax is due if a nonresident's income from all sources (both inside and outside New Jersey) for the entire year was $7,500 or less ($3,750 for married persons filing separately).

Exemption from Withholding

As a result of the change in the minimum income requirement, some employees may no longer be subject to New Jersey income tax withholding. The Division of Taxation has created the Employee's Withholding Exemption Form (Form NJ-W4-E) for use by employees who claim they are exempt from withholding because they expect their income for the year to be less than the minimum amount.

Employers must furnish Form NJ-W4-E to their employees, but employees are not required to complete it. Employers may not withhold tax from the wages of an employee who has given them a completed Form NJ-W4-E certifying that he or she meets the minimum income conditions for the current year. If an employee does not complete Form NJ-W4-E, the employer uses the information on the employee's Federal W-4 or NJ-W4 Form for New Jersey withholding purposes.

CAUTION: Employees who complete Form NJ-W4-E indicating that they are exempt from New Jersey withholding may owe New Jersey income tax when they file a return at the end of the year if their income for the year exceeds $7,500 ($3,750 for married persons filing separately). An underpayment penalty may be imposed if the amount of tax due exceeds $100.

Interest 9% for Second Quarter

The interest rate assessed on amounts due for the second quarter of 1994 remains at 9%. This rate is calculated as follows:

$$6\% \text{ (prime)} + 3\% = 9\%, \\ \text{compounded annually}$$

The assessed interest rate history is listed below.

Effective Date	Interest Rate

Reduced Sales Tax in Salem County

Effective July 1, 1994, certain sales made by businesses located in Salem County will become taxable at a sales tax rate of 3% instead of 6%.

The 3% sales tax rate will apply to retail sales of tangible personal property, except as otherwise noted. To qualify for the 3% rate, the sale must be made from a place of business regularly operated by the vendor for the purpose of making retail sales at which items are regularly exhibited and offered for retail sale and which is not utilized primarily for the purpose of catalogue or mail order sales. Also, the merchandise must be ordered in person by the purchaser at the place of business in Salem County.

Items Eligible for the 3% Sales Tax Rate

In general, the reduced 3% sales tax rate applies to retail sales of tangible personal property. Tangible personal property means goods, merchandise and wares. The following are some examples of property that are considered tangible personal property.

- Books and Stationery
- Furniture and Carpeting
- Appliances (e.g., radios, tv's, etc.)
- Business Supplies/Equipment
- Computer Hardware
- Tobacco products other than cigarettes
- Toys
- Jewelry
- Cosmetics & Toilet Goods
- Luggage, Handbags and Wallets
- Lumber, Plumbing & Electrical Supplies

Retail Sales Ineligible for the 3% Sales Tax Rate

The following are not eligible for the reduced 3% sales tax rate. Vendors must collect tax on these transactions at the full 6% sales tax rate. (Vendors are liable for any sales taxes that are not collected and remitted to the State.)

- Motor vehicles
- Alcoholic beverages
- Cigarettes
- Catalogue or mail order sales
- Sales of services (e.g., maintenance and repairs)
- Prepared food, meals and beverages
- Telephone and electronically communicated sales
- Sales made from locations outside of the county
- Charges for room occupancy, admissions and amusements

Remitting Sales Tax

Reduced Sales Tax. If the 3% reduced sales tax is collected, Form ST-451, New Jersey Sales and Use Tax Monthly Remittance—Salem County, and Form ST-450, New Jersey Sales and Use Tax Quarterly Return—Salem County, must be filed in place of Forms ST-50 and ST-51. Returns and payments must be sent to the Division of Taxation at the address provided on the form.

State Sales Tax. If the reduced sales tax is collected, vendors will no longer file the Sales and Use Tax Monthly Remittance (Form ST-51) and Sales and Use Tax Quarterly Return (Form ST-50), except for the Sales and Use Tax Quarterly Return for the second quarter, due July 20, 1994. Detailed instructions will be sent to vendors with the Salem County sales tax forms.

Consolidated Reporting. If a vendor is currently filing a Consolidated Sales Tax Return, Form ST-52, for any business located in Salem County, the vendor will now be required to file Forms ST-450 and ST-451 to report the transactions from the Salem County business. Receipts reported on the New Jersey Sales Tax—Salem County return should be excluded from the Consolidated Sales Tax Return.

Financial Business Tax Repealed

In accordance with the provisions of Chapter 295, Laws of 1993, the annual excise tax imposed on unincorporated financial businesses since 1946 has been repealed. As a result, the tax presently imposed upon partnerships, associations and individuals doing a financial business in New Jersey, calculated at the rate of 1-1/2% of the adjusted net worth, is no longer due effective January 1, 1994.

NOTE: This does not affect corporations qualifying as financial business corporations in accordance with N.J.S.A. 54:10A-4(m).

INHERITANCE/ESTATE TAX Waiver Requirements Unchanged

Despite the many changes in the administration of the New Jersey Transfer Inheritance Tax, both statutory and procedural, the statute regarding "Consents To Transfer" (Waivers) has not been rescinded nor revised in any manner.

In estates of decedents dying on or after July 1, 1988, Class "A" beneficiaries of an estate are fully exempt from New Jersey Transfer Inheritance Tax and Class "C" beneficiaries, as of that date, each receive an exemption from the tax in the amount of $25,000. However, contrary to what seems to be a growing misconception, any waiver requirements that existed prior to these changes continue to be valid statutory requirements subsequent to the changes.

The Transfer Inheritance Tax Branch is experiencing an increase in instances where delinquent tax collections are being paid by Attorneys, CPA's, Title Companies, Banking Institutions, etc. due to negligence in failing to obtain a waiver for the transfer of decedent's assets when required.

Many of the collections from members of this group are the result of not having obtained a waiver before transferring a decedent's interest in real property located in New Jersey. In this regard, tax has been collected from representatives of the seller who failed to obtain a waiver and, in some instances, from representatives of the buyer who failed to insist on a required waiver prior to closing.

Since most of these violations do not surface until many years after the sale of the property, when the buyers attempt to sell, there is the added burden of interest at the rate of 10% per annum, from eight months after the decedent's date of death. There is, of course, no unavoidable cause of delay in the payment of the tax and, therefore, interest cannot be reduced.

The Transfer Inheritance and Estate Tax Branch advises preparers of transfer inheritance tax returns and estate representatives to be very cautious in this area. There are no acceptable excuses for non-compliance and none shall be entertained.

Use Tax Billing

In the spring of 1994, the Audit Services Branch sent out over 6,000 bills to individuals for Use Tax including penalty and interest. These bills were the result of out-of-state taxpayer purchases of merchandise that was shipped to a New Jersey address.

Use Tax is due 20 days after purchases enter New Jersey. State Form ST-18 should be used to remit Use Tax on a timely basis. Use tax may also be remitted on Line 35 of the taxpayer's NJ-1040 form.

Doctor Self Audit Program

The Division of Taxation recently started a use tax self audit program for doctors who are licensed to practice medicine in New Jersey. This program was initiated based on the results of a series of recent test audits that indicate the medical community is not meeting its obligations under the Sales and Use Tax Act. The period covered by the self audit is limited to the three year period of July 1, 1991 through June 30, 1994.

During the first week of June, the Division mailed approximately 26,000 self audit packages. These packages contained a letter explaining the program, instructions on completing the audit, a questionnaire, a list of items commonly purchased by doctors and whether they are taxable or non-taxable, worksheets for listing untaxed, taxable purchases and a summary report to be used for remitting use tax.

The program allows doctors until September 20, 1994 to report and pay any unreported use tax together with the minimum interest allowed by law. After that date, late filing and payment penalties totaling 30% will be added to any underpayment.

While this is a self audit program designed to minimize the effort necessary to bring non-filing taxpayers into compliance, it is not voluntary. Those doctors who fail to respond to the notice or appear to substantially under-report their liability will be contacted. This contact may result in a field audit for a period of up to seven years. Any additional tax discovered will be subject to maximum penalty and interest.

Self audit programs are one of several methods currently being used to bring taxpayers into compliance with their use tax responsibilities. Questions regarding use tax may be answered by contacting the Division's Taxpayer Information Service.

Tax Assessor Certificates

Twenty-four persons qualified to become municipal tax assessors by passing the tax assessor's examination held on March 19, 1994.

Atlantic County: Gilbert F. Bosies, Egg Harbor City; Maryanne C. Lorenzi, Margate City

Bergen County: Derek P. Eisenberg, Engelwood City; Evan K. Elias, Closter Boro; Joseph J. McKeon, Ridgewood Village; Joyce Ranone, Carlstadt Borough; James S. Rizzo, Teaneck Township; Michael Baldwin Weber, Dumont Borough

Burlington County: James J. Renwick, Maple Shade Township

Camden County: John A. Dymond, Merchantville Borough

Essex County: Kevin J. Dillon, West Orange Township; Samuel Stubbs, South Orange Village

Hudson County: Arlene Reiner, Secaucus Town

Monmouth County: Jeremiah J. Bowen, Long Branch City; Kenneth L. Walker, Jr., Shrewsbury Borough

Morris County: Susan I. Cusano, Morris Township; Bruce H. Downing, Parsippany-Troy Hills Township; Barbara Gothie, Denville Township

Ocean County: Mark M. Calozzo, Dover Township; Marilyn Rogers, Brick Township

Passaic County: Gale Barth, West Milford Township; Ellen Skoler Garfing, Wayne Township; Mohammad Imran, Ringwood Borough

Union County: Michael J. Frangella, Linden City

The tax assessor examination is held in accordance with the Assessor Certification and Tenure Act, which requires that anyone taking office as a tax assessor after July 1, 1971 must hold a tax assessor certificate. The next exam is scheduled to be held on September 24, 1994.

LOCAL PROPERTY TAX Revised SR-1A Form

The SR-1A, created in 1957 as a legal extension of the deed recording process, has been revised in order to provide for the capturing of certain information, which when present on the SR-1A will minimize inquiries to the assessor for this information. The changes to the SR-1A form consist of two new fields located in Section Two of the document and an expanded area for assessor's "Remarks."

The two fields added to Section Two are entitled "Floor Area" and "Year Built." The municipal tax assessor may complete the "Floor Area" field by including the gross square footage of the improvement or improvements conveyed by the transfer of real estate. The "Year Built" field should include the actual year in which the improvement(s) were constructed. The illustration below shows the two new fields of data for the revised SR-1A form.

and appraisers' requests to review property record card data to determine a final estimate of real property value.

The additional data will not be mandatory for the July 1, 1994 to June 30, 1995 sampling period. However, the revised SR-1A forms will be distributed to all county board of taxa-

The revisions have been discussed with and endorsed by a sampling of tax assessors, the New Jersey Association of County Tax Board Commissioners and County Tax Administrators, the New Jersey Board of Real Estate Appraisers and the New Jersey Real Estate Commission.

The data to be included in the revisions has always been of invaluable assistance to realtors and appraisers. While the new information will require the SR-1A to undergo additional adjustments within the parameters of the MOD IV System, accurate entry of this data by assessors should effectively reduce the number of realtors'

tion offices prior to July 1994. Assessors are strongly urged to employ the new fields on the appointed date and to review all of the proper procedures for completion of Section Two of the SR-1A form outlined in Section 1002.33 of the Handbook for New Jersey Assessors.

Lastly, assessors should be aware that the "Remarks" area in Section Two has now been expanded. In the past computerization replaced the manual systems many taxing districts employed for the continuous processing of SR-1A's, and the "Remarks" field had diminished. As a result, the assessor's comments were necessarily reduced. Assessors will now find additional space where they may enhance their comments with more substantive data pertaining to the usability or nonusability of a particular sale. This should assist everyone involved in the process of the Sales Ratio study, and ultimately lead to a more accurate Table of Equalized Valuations as promulgated by the Director of the Division of Taxation.

LOCAL PROPERTY TAX Sales Ratio Policy Unchanged

"Guidelines" established by the Local Property Branch on March 27, 1981 to implement the "Categories of Non-Usable Deed Transactions" under N.J.A.C. 18:12-1.1 for purposes of the Sales Ratio Program were recently reviewed to ensure greater uniformity in treatment by Property Administration field staff, thereby increasing the accuracy of the Table of Equalized Valuations promulgated by the Director of the Division of Taxation. Sales ratio data comparing real estate sales prices to assessment values form the basis of the Equalized Valuation Table used in the calculation and apportionment of State School Aid.

Over the years, policies have been developed for 27 categories of non-usable deed transactions which may be excluded from the Table. As part of the recent review, the Division's position on property transfers which have been the subject of tax appeals, Non-Usable Category 26, was reevaluated and confirmed.

In an Attorney General's opinion dated August 22, 1966, Leon S. Wilson stated, in part: "An assessment subjected to arbitration, discussion or judgment by any party other than the assessor must to some degree render the assessment not the product of the assessor's unfettered determination." Attorney General Wilson recommended that the result of the consent judgment be disregarded as not representative of the valuation of the assessor.

Sales of real property for which the assessments were revised by consent judgment within the year sold are considered "usable" for sales ratio purposes, provided there are no other non-usable factors affecting value. The ratio of these sales is computed on the municipal tax assessor's original assessment as per the Tax List of January 1. It must be noted, however, that sales in the year of consent judgment may be non-usable if there are revaluation/reassessment omissions, mistakes in measurements as reflected on the property record card, or wrongful property classifications, e.g., a Class 2 three-family parcel placed in the Class 4 commercial category. Where a tax appeal has been filed within the two years prior to sale, the transaction is non-usable.

There is no basis for a policy change by the Division of Taxation at this time.

Freeze Act

In accordance with N.J.S.A. 54:3-26, judgments have a binding effect known as the Freeze Act. If no further appeal is made from the judgment of a county board of taxation, the assessed value must remain in effect for the assessment year and two subsequent years, unless otherwise stipulated by the parties themselves. The Supreme Court of New Jersey has held that the Freeze Act is triggered not only by adjudicated judgments but by judgments based on settlements as well. The distinction between judgments resulting from adversary presentation and those of mutual agreement of the parties was decided to be legally unsound. Thus, property sales occurring in the two years subsequent to consent judgments are non-usable. Likewise, if an assessment has been adjusted in the two years prior to the year of sale and the Freeze Act is in effect, the sale is also non-usable.

Alcoholic Beverage Enforcement

Several major enforcement initiatives are underway to combat noncompliance with the retail sales tax on alcoholic beverages.

P.L. 1993, c.232 (approved August 6, 1993) amends the Alcoholic Beverage statutes in R.S. 33: 1-26 to permit a liquor license to be deemed property subject to lien, fees, interest and penalty imposed by any State tax law for which a lien may be attached. Previously only the Internal Revenue Service could seize and sell a liquor license.

The Division's Investigations Branch has developed guidelines which have been approved by the Director's Office for the seizure and sale of liquor licenses. These will only be undertaken as a last resort after all other enforcement measures have been attempted.

Through the month of May 1994, the Division has auctioned three (3) liquor licenses with proceeds in the amount of $260,000.

Suspensions of Alcoholic Beverage licenses for nonpayment of taxes to the Division of Taxation have also been requested by Taxation and approved by Alcoholic Beverage Control, where significant noncompliance exists. Taxation has requested that these licenses be suspended until such time as all taxes due to the Division are paid.

alcoholic bev. enforcement - from p. 6

In addition to these enforcement initiatives, the Division's Office of Criminal Investigation is engaged in a joint project with the Division of Alcoholic Beverage Control to combat noncompliance by alcoholic beverage retailers. Agents from both agencies are performing on site inspections statewide, which has resulted to date in 29 cases being referred to the Division of Criminal Justice for prosecution. Sixteen guilty pleas or verdicts and almost $3,000,000 in tax assessments have resulted.

Taxpayers and Preparers are urged to come forward concerning problems that may exist in these areas. In most circumstances, voluntary disclosures will be helpful in reducing the severity of civil and/or criminal sanctions that will be imposed.

Criminal Enforcement

Criminal enforcement actions over the past several months included:

March 11, 1994 - Joseph P. Miller, the owner of Spanky McFarland's Restaurant and Lounge in Ocean Township, was fined $105,000 and sentenced to five years probation for failing to pay State sales and wage taxes. Miller was indicted in February 1993 for failing to pay $98,000 in Sales Tax between April 1989 and July 1992.

March 15, 1994 - Daniel J. Fitzpatrick of Seaside Heights was charged with filing false State income tax returns and homestead rebate applications for four people, including a dead person. The purpose of filing the returns was not to pay more taxes or collect a refund, but to get the homestead rebates, which ranged from $30 to $500.

$2 Million Motor Fuels Tax Judgment

March 18, 1994 - Petro AM Ltd., Inc. and Gregory Plishka were sentenced after pleading guilty last August to the misapplication of entrusted property and the property of government. The corporation also had pleaded guilty to failing to file returns or reports in violation of the State's motor fuels tax laws. The corporate defendant was ordered to pay over $2 million in motor fuels tax restitution. Gregory Plishka was sentenced to five years in prison and also ordered to make restitution in the same amount as the corporation.

April 5, 1994 - Maria C. Rodriguez, a Howell Township bookkeeper, was indicted by an Ocean County Grand Jury on charges of embezzlement and filing fraudulent income tax returns. The indictment is the result of a joint investigation with the Ocean County Prosecutor's Office.

April 18, 1994 - Matthew J. Werneth, president of JR Associates of NJ, Inc., was sentenced on charges regarding the failure to remit $82,421 of Sales Tax that had been collected from patrons of this bar located in Dunellen, NJ. The judge ordered full restitution of the tax to commence 30 days after Mr. Werneth is released from jail. Werneth was sentenced to 364 days in jail and 4 years probation.

Enforcement Summary

Civil Collection Actions Quarter Ending - March 31, 1994

Compliance Activity personnel collected a total of $40.3 million for the quarter ending March 31, 1994. Following is a summary of enforcement actions.

Certificates of Debt

After demands for payment were unsuccessful, the Division entered 1,252 Certificates of Debt in Superior Court totaling $32.6 million.

Contact and Demand

Prior to the filing of Certificates of Debt, the Division collected $36.1 million through normal collection procedures.

Levies

The Division collected $2.3 million by levying against 409 bank accounts.

Settlements

Another $1.6 million was collected by closing 147 cases just before seizure in which the taxpayer paid taxes due rather than have his or her business closed.

Tax Seizures

After the Division has exhausted all other means to collect the State taxes due from vendors who cannot or will not pay, the business can be "seized" (closed) until some arrangement is made for payment. When a seizure occurs, the Division closes the business and seizes any tangible assets, such as inventory, machinery, furniture, etc.

If the liability of the closed business is not resolved, the Division can sell the business assets at public auction after 30 days. If the amounts realized from the auction are not enough to satisfy the entire debt, the Division can seize the personal assets of the responsible officers where trust fund taxes (Sales Tax and Income Tax Withholding) are involved.

A total of 23 businesses were scheduled for seizure for the quarter end-

ing March 31, 1994. Of these, 20 businesses were actually closed and 3 were left open, resulting in collections of $300,000. A listing of seized businesses appears on pages 9 and 10.

Tax Briefs

Corporation Business Tax Allocation; Property Factor & Storage Fees – A taxpayer raised a question about storage fees at public warehouses. The storage fees are paid at a per carton - per day rate. In the typical case, there is no definite lease as in a building rental or office rental.

The Division advised that New Jersey would consider storage fees paid to a public warehouse as rent for Corporation Business Tax purposes. Under N.J.A.C. 18:7-8.5(c), leased or rented property is valued at 8 times its annual rent. The storage fees would be included in this calculation. It does not appear that the fact inventory exists in the property fraction affects the way storage fees are treated in the property fraction for allocation purposes.

ESOP Deduction – A taxpayer inquired as to the position of the State of New Jersey on deducting ESOP dividends on the New Jersey Corporation Business Tax Return (CBT-100). Under IRC section 404(a), the ESOP dividends are a deductible item for Federal purposes.

The Division advised that the Corporation Business Tax Act provides in pertinent part that "...a taxpayer's entire net income shall be deemed prima facie to be equal in amount to the taxable income, before net operating loss deduction and special deductions, which the taxpayer is required to report to the United States Treasury Department for the purpose of computing its federal income tax..." N.J.S.A. 54:10A-4(k). Thus, deductions made above Line 28 on the Federal Form 1120 would similarly be deductible for State purposes in arriving at Line 28 of Schedule A of CBT-100, and as such the applicable ESOP deduction would be reflected on the NJ CBT-100 above Line 28 Schedule A.

Gross Income Tax

Per Diem Lodging and Meals – An inquiry was made regarding whether an employer is required to withhold gross income tax from per diem amounts which cover lodging and meals.

The Division replied that it follows the guidelines of the Internal Revenue Service in determining whether the value of meals and lodging is taxable for New Jersey income tax purposes. Thus, the per diem amounts for meals are includible in gross income as wages and subject to withholding unless furnished for the employer's convenience and on the employer's premises. Amounts for lodging are includible in gross income and subject to withholding unless the lodging is furnished for the employer's convenience on the employer's premises and is a condition of employment.

S Corporation Losses – The Division received an inquiry regarding whether an individual shareholder could use S corporation losses to reduce other New Jersey taxable income on the NJ-1040, now that New Jersey permits S corporation status.

The reply stated that such treatment is not permitted under the Gross Income Tax Act. S corporation losses and income are included in a new category of income referred to as "net pro rata share of S corporation income." See

P.L. 1993, c.173. This category is the net amount of the shareholder's portion of S corporation income and losses. The losses would not be deductible against other categories of income.

N.J.S.A. 54A:5-2 limits the offset of gains in one category of income against losses which occur in the same category of income. Consequently, a taxpayer who is a shareholder in more than one S corporation may reduce the net gain from one by using the net loss from another, but cannot use a net S corporation loss to reduce any other taxable income.

A separate line for reporting net pro rata share of S corporation income will be added to the 1994 NJ-1040, NJ-1040NR, and NJ-1041.

Sales Tax

Condominium Association Purchases – A condominium association does not qualify as an exempt organization pursuant to N.J.S.A. 54:32B-9; thus, sales tax must be paid on the purchase of taxable goods and services. For example, repairing, maintaining and servicing real property are taxable services. N.J.S.A. 54:32B-3(b)(4). Snow removal, clean-up of common areas, lawn cutting, tree trimming, and repairs to sewers, curbs, sidewalks, etc. are all subject to tax. Trash removal services are exempt from tax only if performed on a regular contractual basis for a term not less than thirty days.

Diplomatic/Consular Exemption – The Division received a request for an ST-5 exemption certificate for New Jersey sales tax exemption documentation for a Vice Consul at the Consulate General of Egypt in New York. The Vice Consul resides in New Jersey and is seeking exemption from sales tax on his telecommunications bills from his telephone company.

The Division advised that foreign diplomatic and consular personnel issued United States Department of State tax exemption cards by the Office of Foreign Missions, U.S. Department of State, Washington, D.C., are entitled to New Jersey sales tax exemption for their telecommunications services purchased in New Jersey. ST-5 exemption certificates, issued to exempt organizations, such as churches and charities, but never to individuals, would not be the proper exemption documentation in this instance. A photocopy (front and back) of the Department of State Tax Exemption Card would suffice to document this exemption.

Additional information on diplomatic/consular sales tax exemption in New Jersey is available for diplomatic/consular personnel or New Jersey vendors from the Division of Taxation, Tax Services Branch.

Fire Damage Cleanup & Repair –

In response to an inquiry concerning damage and repair it was indicated that services such as cleaning dishes, glassware, personal items, bric-a-brac, etc., damaged in a house fire, are subject to sales tax as maintaining or servicing tangible personal property under N.J.S.A. 54:32B-3(b)(2).

In addition, smoke or fire damage restoration work on buildings (real property) is a service subject to sales tax under N.J.S.A. 54:32B-3(b)(4) when the service involves maintaining, servicing or repairing the real property. The receipts from smoke or fire damage restoration work for the contents of buildings, such as furniture or appliances, are subject to sales tax under N.J.S.A. 54:32B-3(b)(2) for maintaining, servicing or repairing tangible personal property not held for sale in the regular course of business, except any receipts from laundering and dry cleaning.

The laundering and dry cleaning exemption would include (1) rug and carpet cleaning, including the incidental charges of picking up and re-laying cleaned rugs and carpets; (2) on-location rug and carpet cleaning performed on the customer's premises; and (3) cleaning of upholstered fabrics, including cleaning of draperies and other textile home furnishings.

A separately stated and identified charge for cleaning (laundering) upholstery, carpets and rugs is excludible from the taxable receipt for damage restoration services.

Please note that restoration work that does not qualify as "laundering" as explained above would be subject to tax under N.J.S.A. 54:32B-3(b)(2).

Refrigerated Trailer for Farm Use – An inquiry was received regarding the taxation of rentals of refrigerated semi-trailers for use by a nursery.

A nursery qualifies as a farm business and may issue a Farmer's Exemption Certificate (Form ST-7) when applicable. The regulations governing the application of the farm exemption, N.J.S.A. 54:32B-8.16, provide exemption for property used to preserve farm products upon the farm premises, and to prevent or deter the destruction, injury or spoilage of farm products, N.J.A.C. 18:19.4(f)(5). Thus, the rental of a refrigerated trailer by a farmer for such purposes is exempt from tax.

This exemption is only available to farmers, defined as those who operate or manage a farm for gain or profits, N.J.A.C. 18:24-19.2. When a refrigerated trailer is rented to a florist, wholesaler, distributor, etc., for use as storage on the premises (as opposed to use in combination with a motor vehicle qualified for exemption under N.J.S.A. 54:32B-8.43), there are no exemptions available under the law.

Services to Aircraft – The Division received an inquiry concerning the application of sales tax in New Jersey to the receipts from various services performed on the interior and exterior of aircraft.

The New Jersey Sales and Use Tax Act subjects the services of maintaining, servicing or repairing tangible personal property to sales tax under N.J.S.A. 54:32B-3(b)(2). However, the law also provides the following exemption from tax:

“Receipts from sales of aircraft and repairs thereto including machinery or equipment to be installed on such aircraft and replacement parts therefor when utilized by an air carrier as defined by the Civil Aeronautics Board or the Code of Federal Regulations having its principal place of operations within the State and engaging in interstate, foreign, or intrastate air commerce are exempt from the tax imposed under the Sales and Use Tax Act.” N.J.S.A. 54:32B-8.35.

The “repair” of tangible personal property includes “maintenance” or servicing such property. Thus, the following services are exempt from sales tax when performed on aircraft qualified for exemption under N.J.S.A. 54:32B-8.35: The sale of cleaning and maintenance services performed on the interior of air carrier airplanes. This service may include such things as cleaning and scrubbing, as well as vacuuming, removing trash, stocking items, emptying ashtrays, cleaning windows, etc.; the sale of deicing services performed on the exterior of air carrier airplanes during the winter months; and the sale of lavatory and water services performed for air carrier airplanes. Such services include removing waste from the plane's lavatory tanks, filling the plane's lavatory tanks with chemicals, and filling the plane's fresh water tanks; and the sale of cleaning services performed on the exterior of air carrier airplanes.

In Our Courts

Corporation Business Tax Allocation Factor May Include Rental Property – Brunswick Corporation v. Director, Division of Taxation, Supreme Court of New Jersey, Argued November 9, 1993; Docket Number A-53-93, decided March 30, 1994.

Brunswick Corporation is engaged in the manufacture and sale of recreational products and services in the defense, aerospace and industrial fields. Brunswick contested the deficiency tax assessments, interest and penalties imposed by the Director of the Division of Taxation (Director) in respect of Brunswick's 1986 and 1987 Corporation Business Tax (CBT) returns. During the years in issue, Brunswick owned and leased real property and tangible personal property located in New Jersey. Brunswick challenged the authority of the Director to adopt a regulation, N.J.A.C. 18:7-8.5(b), that adjusts the manner of calculating franchise taxes under the New Jersey Corporation Business Tax Act (CBTA). The CBTA assesses a franchise tax on all corporations doing business in New Jersey according to a business allocation factor that measures a corporation's business activity in the State.

Brunswick contended that the challenged regulation is inconsistent with N.J.S.A. 54:10-6(A) because the Legislature intended to limit the meaning of "taxpayer's property" to property owned by the taxpayer. According to Brunswick, that legislative intent can be inferred from: 1) the origins of the CBTA; 2) almost forty years of implementation by the Director limiting the meaning of that section owned; and 3) the Legislature's failure to enact statutory amendments that would have accomplished the same result as the new regulation. The Director, on the other hand, believed that Sections 8 and 27 of the CBTA granted the authority to promulgate the regulation at issue.

The Tax Court sustained the Director's authority to adopt the regulation. That Court found that the term "taxpayer's property" is neutral as to whether the allocation factor includes or excludes rental property. The Tax Court also concluded that it is reasonable to infer that the Legislature intended to grant to the Director broad discretion as to how the property should be computed, in order to reflect the change from net worth to net income and the legislative directive to tax income measured by capital employed. The court found that inference confirmed by an examination of Section 8 of the CBTA as interpreted by the Supreme Court in Metromedia, Inc. v. Director of the Division of Taxation, 97 NJ 313 (1984).

The Appellate Division had affirmed the Tax Court's decision substantially for the reasons stated by that Court. The Supreme Court granted certification. The Supreme Court held that the regulation, N.J.A.C. 18:17:7-8.5(b), adopted by the Director of the Division of Taxation, which included New Jersey property rented by a taxpayer in calculating the percentage of the taxpayer's net income properly attributable to the State, was not beyond the authority granted to the Director under the enabling legislation of the Corporation Business Tax Act.

The Supreme Court stated that the decision of the Tax Court was affirmed substantially for the reasons expressed in Judge Lasser's opinion. The Court concluded that the Legislature vested in the Director broad authority to adjust the property factor. The Director's authority to define that factor derives from Sections 8 and 27 of the CBTA. Through these sections, the Legislature has painted with a broad brush, intending that the Director supply the details through the promulgation of regulations. Because the description of property does not include the term "owned," the language of Section 6(A) permits an interpretation that includes leased property. The Director could properly conclude that a lessee should pay its fair share of the cost of public benefits and services that it uses to generate profits. In view of the changes in economic conditions, the Director needs the authority to adapt the Division's regulations to assess more accurately the income of a lessee that is reasonably attributable to this State. If the Director has misperceived that authority, the Legislature may override the regulation through the appropriate legislation.

Net Operating Loss after Merger - Richard's Auto City, Inc. v. Director, Division of Taxation, A-2194-92T1; decided February 1, 1994.

On October 31, 1986, Catena, Inc. merged into Auto City, leaving Auto City as the surviving corporation. The functions of Catena, Inc. were assumed by the leasing department of Auto City. Auto City claimed as a deduction on its 1986 corporation business tax return the net operating losses incurred by Catena, Inc. during the tax years prior to the merger. These losses were incurred as a result of an accelerated depreciation method that was available at the time for leased automobiles.

The issue was whether N.J.A.C. 18:7-5.13(b) was valid as consistent with N.J.S.A. 54:10A-4(k)(6). The regulation provides that "[t]he net operating loss may only be carried over by the actual corporation that sustained the loss," however, it may "be carried over by the corporation that sustained the loss and which is the surviving corporation of a statutory merger."

N.J.S.A. 54:10A-4(k)(6) permits carryover losses but is silent as to whether those losses may be carried over in a merger or reorganization. Plaintiff notes that the language and legislative history of 54:10A-4(k)(6) and the scheme of the New Jersey

tax acts evidence an intent by the Legislature to afford net operating loss carryovers at the State level the same treatment as provided at the Federal level under the I.R.C. Under subsection 381 of the I.R.C., the transferee corporation of a statutory merger may carry over the net operating losses of the transferor corporation.

The Court held that although N.J.S.A. 54:10A-4(k)(6)(D) is not explicit, under the reasoning of Helvering v. Metropolitan Edison, 306 U.S. 522 (1938), since the successor corporation is liable for the debts, it should also be provided the tax attributes, including the net operating losses in this case, subject of course, to the limitations of subsection (D). The State's proclaimed interest in providing a non-hostile economic environment for business, as implemented by the statute, favors this result.

N.J.S.A. 14A:10-6 is akin to the holding of Metropolitan Edison. Thus, the corporate personality of the transferor is consumed by that of the transferee and the transferee was liable for the debts of the transferor. Therefore, it was not unreasonable to conclude that the tax attributes of the predecessor corporation actually become the tax attributes of the surviving corporation. Because Catena, Inc. merged with Auto City, Auto City inherited the obligations and liabilities of Catena, Inc. and should also inherit the rights and privileges, such as the tax attributes. It follows that the tax attributes of the predecessor corporation are inherited by the surviving corporation, subject to the "primary purpose" limitation of subsection (D).

There was no change in the trade or business of Catena, Inc. Further, there is nothing in the record to indicate that the primary purpose of the merger was to permit Auto City to use the net operating losses of Catena, Inc. The situation is not one of abuse wherein 54:10A-4(k)(6)(D) seeks to disallow the deduction.

Floating Docks Deemed to be Real Property – John Taylor and Jean Taylor v. Township of Lower, No. 05-05-8680-90S, 1993 WL 520581 (Tax Court, August 30, 1993).

In the case of Taylor v. Township of Lower, the Tax Court of New Jersey held that floating docks and finger piers which were part of a marina condominium were real rather than personal property and subject to property tax assessment as such. The docks and piers in question, although floating, had infrastructure for built-in electrical systems; were constructed to remain in place twelve months a year; and were laid out so that they could not be changed without amending the master deed. Based on these characteristics the installation was considered permanent. In applying the Business Retention Act, the Court found that the docks and piers were not exempt from real property taxation as they did not fit the definition of machinery, apparatus or equipment; nor were they used or held for use in business. The judge concluded "the fact that the docks and piers float to accommodate the ebbing and flowing of tides does not distinguish these docks and piers, for local property tax assessment purposes, from piers and docks permanently installed."

Outdoor Billboard Signs Deemed to be Real Property – R.C. Maxwell Co. and Scola, Inc. v. Galloway Township, No. 012330-92 (Tax Court, December 9, 1993).

In another case (R.C. Maxwell and Scola, Inc. v. Galloway Township), the taxpayer contested the taxation of billboards as real property by Galloway Township. The subject billboards were four wooden A-frame structures with metal components that display outdoor advertising. They were erected by R.C. Maxwell Company on land leased from Scola, Inc. The plaintiff contended that a billboard is personal property, an impermanent structure not affixed to the ground, which can be removed or disassembled without material injury to either the land to which it is affixed or to the billboard itself. Plaintiff further argued that the billboard was not intended to be affixed permanently to the property as evidenced by the two-year lease agreement entered into between the landowner and itself, whereby it maintains the right to remove the billboard. Its impermanence was expressed by the lease and understood within the billboard industry. Then, the plaintiff alleged that the billboards were "apparatus or equipment" as defined in the Business Retention Act and thus were exempt from real property taxation. First, the judge found that the billboards did not fall within the definition of "apparatus or equipment" as defined in the act and even if they did, they would not be excepted because a billboard is a "structure." N.J.S.A. 54:4-1.15 defines "structure" as "any assemblage of building or construction materials fixed in place for the primary purpose of supporting...property." The judge continued "upon dismantling and removal of the billboard, ...there results no material injury to the real property; however, I find to the contrary relative to the billboard itself" in that "it is practically impossible to disassemble a billboard without material injury to the billboard.” Concerning the plaintiff’s claim that the billboards are ordinarily not intended to be affixed permanently, the judge found “that billboards are ordinarily maintained and retained where originally constructed for the duration of their economic or useful life and that practice indicates an intent for billboards to be permanently affixed to the land.” In final summary, the judge held that outdoor billboard signs are taxable as real property.

Tax-Sale Certificates Fraud/Mutual Mistake – Appellate Division: Simon et al. v. Deptford Township, Supreme Court of New Jersey, A-5879-91T3; decided March 14, 1994.

Where no representations were made regarding the property for which the tax-sale certificate was issued, the doctrine of mutual mistake should not apply. Since the tax collector testified that she was not aware of any environmental problems and the purchaser subsequently discovered that the property had been used as a landfill, there was nothing to suggest a misrepresentation, deliberate concealment or non-disclosure by the tax collector, or that the township deliberately kept the tax collector in the dark concerning the problems at the property and, therefore, the purchaser’s fraud claim was properly dismissed.

Surtax Discontinued—P.L. 1994, c.3 (signed into law on March 7, 1994) eliminates the surtax effective January 1, 1994, and provides a formula for determining an adjusted surtax rate for taxpayers with accounting periods ending between 1/1/94 and 6/30/94.

Gross Income Tax

Decrease in Tax Rate—P.L. 1994, c.2 (signed into law on March 7, 1994) reduces gross income tax rates 5% for all taxpayers.

This bill is effective for tax years beginning January 1, 1994 and thereafter.

Increase in Income Threshold—P.L. 1994, c.8 (signed into law on March 16, 1994) increases the income threshold for qualifying for exemption from income tax. For single individuals, estates and trusts, and married couples filing jointly, the income threshold is increased from $3,000 to $7,500. For a married person filing separately, the threshold is increased from $1,500 to $3,750.

The bill is effective for tax years beginning on and after January 1, 1994.

Refinancing of Motor Vehicles

What are the tax implications of automobile dealers entering into refinancing agreements with customers? When a customer transfers a motor vehicle to the dealer who pays off the current loan, and then the dealer transfers ownership back to the customer to enter into a new financing agreement at a lower rate, the dealer would treat the transaction as a trade-in where the customer "buys back" the vehicle for the same amount as the trade-in allowance. The New Jersey Sales and Use Tax Act recognizes an exemption for security transactions. The distinction between a completed sale and a sale for financing purposes is based upon economic realities and the intent of the parties. This transaction would qualify for exemption as a financing arrangement. (See N.J.S.A. 54:32B-2(e)(3)(G) and Monmouth Airlines, Inc. v. Taxation Division Director, 2 NJ Tax 47, 1980.)

Income Tax Rates Reduced

Recent tax legislation (Chapter 2, P.L.1994) reduces the New Jersey Gross income tax rates 5% for all taxpayers for tax years 1994 and thereafter. The reduction is retroactive to January 1, 1994, and will affect the amount of tax employers are required to withhold and remit to the State.

The Division is currently sending notices and revised withholding tables to all employers registered in the State. The tables are effective May 1, 1994, and take into account the additional reduction in withholding required because tax was withheld at the old (higher) rates on wages paid between January 1, 1994 and April 30, 1994.

Corp Surtax Eliminated

Recent tax legislation (Chapter 3, P.L. 1994) discontinues the surtax on corporate net income as of January 1, 1994. The surtax was enacted in 1986 (Chapter 144, P.L. 1986) as a temporary measure, and affects returns for tax years ending in fiscal years 1989 through 1994.

The legislation provides a formula for determining an adjusted surtax rate for accounting periods ending between January 1 and June 30, 1994. That rate is determined by multiplying the surtax rate for the period (.00375) by a quotient, the numerator of which is the number of complete calendar months in the taxpayer's accounting period ending before January 1, 1994, and the denominator of which is the total number of complete calendar months in the accounting period.

$$.00375 \times \frac{\text{Months ending before 1/1/94}}{\text{Total months in tax year}}$$

= Adjusted Surtax Rate

This calculation ensures that the surtax rate is reduced proportionally for those taxpayers with a tax year ending after January 1, 1994. The surtax is then eliminated for fiscal year 1995 and thereafter.

NJ TaxFax

Burning the midnight oil doing taxes only to find you need another form? If you have access to a fax machine, a new service offered by the New Jersey Division of Taxation can provide instant relief. NJ TaxFax makes State tax forms available 24 hours a day, 7 days a week to fax machine users.

“This new service is aimed primarily at professional tax preparers,” said Acting State Taxation Division Director Bob Thompson, “but anyone who has facsimile capability can now get a State tax form whenever they need it.”

At present, 20 of the more frequently requested individual and corporation income tax forms are available through NJ TaxFax. In the future, notices of changes in New Jersey’s tax laws and new technical information and procedures also may be available through NJ TaxFax.

The new feature is part of an on-going effort to improve services to tax practitioners and taxpayers of New Jersey, and speed receipt of tax returns, said State Treasurer Brian Clymer.

The NJ TaxFax number is (609) 588-4500. Once connected, simply enter the form number of the desired form. It will be faxed to you within seconds. Persons unsure of the number of the form they need can request a list of all forms available by phoning NJ TaxFax.

TaxFax users are cautioned that the Division of Taxation will not accept returns filed on fax paper. Forms

GROSS INCOME TAX Income from S Corps

Effective with taxable years beginning after July 7, 1993, New Jersey will allow limited pass-through taxation of S corporation (corp) income. For shareholders who report on a calendar year, this change will be effective beginning with tax year 1994.

S corp shareholders must report their pro-rata share of S corp income whether or not distributed. A new category of income, Net Pro-rata Share of S Corporation Income, has been created at N.J.S.A.54A:5-1p. A separate line will be added to the 1994 NJ-1040, NJ-1040NR and NJ-1041 for reporting this income.

The reporting and taxing of S corp income for New Jersey Gross Income Tax purposes is to be done on a limited flow-through basis. Unlike the Federal S corp or Federal and New Jersey partnership reporting, the income or loss earned by the S corp does not maintain its character when flowed through to the individual shareholders. Items such as interest, dividends and capital gains are to be included in the Net Pro-rata Share of S corp income (N.J.S.A. 54A:5-1p.) The income or loss to be reported by the shareholder in this category is the net income or loss reported on the shareholder's Federal 1120S K-1 modified as required by New Jersey Tax statutes.

Nonresident taxpayers will report only their pro rata share of S corp income allocated to this State of a New Jersey S corp pursuant to N.J.S.A. 54A:5-8. (6).

No resident will be allowed a credit against the tax otherwise due under this Act for S corp income allocated to this State and taxed by another jurisdiction. See amendments to N.J.S.A. 54A:4-1.

Estimated payments as required by N.J.S.A. 54A:8-4 have not changed. S corp shareholders will need to make estimated payments to cover their pro rata share of S corp income to avoid interest for the underpayment of estimated taxes.

Future publications will have additional information about the tax effect of this legislation.

CORPORATION TAX Reporting S Corp Income

Effective with taxable years beginning after July 7, 1993, New Jersey will allow limited pass-through taxation of S corporation income.

The basic concept remains similar to that under the Internal Revenue Code; that is, S corporation shareholders must pay personal income tax on their pro rata share of S corporation income whether or not actually distributed to the shareholder during the shareholder's tax year.

For New Jersey CBT purposes, Federal S corporations failing to elect New Jersey S corporation status are taxed at the same rate as a C corporation (9%). Those Federal S corporations electing New Jersey S corporation status will receive a 7% reduction in the current tax rate from 9% to 2%. This reduction is equal to the maximum rate charged under New Jersey Gross Income Tax. In addition, entire net income that is taxable at the Federal corporation level as C income will be taxed for New Jersey S corporations at the rate of 9%.

In determining the "entire net income" for New Jersey S corporations, the Federal 1120S, line 21, is to be modified to reflect all distributive items of income and expense plus or minus the adjustments enumerated in CBT 54:10A-4(k). The new legislation now disallows the deduction of taxes paid or accrued to U.S. possessions, District of Columbia, and all other states. The allocation provisions under Section 6 of the Statute remain unchanged and applicable to New Jersey S corporations.

In addition, the legislation defines "operational income" as income from tangible and intangible property if the acquisition, management, and disposition of the property constitute integral parts of the taxpayer's regular trade or business operations and includes investment income serving an operational function. With regard to non-operational income, the taxpayer must clearly demonstrate that it is not operational in order to exclude it from entire net income. Such non-operational income, other than income attributable to taxpayers who have a New Jersey location as their principal place from which their business is managed, is not subject to allocation. Corporate expenses relating to non-operational income are not deductible from entire net income.

A New Jersey S corporation is a corporation that is an S corporation as defined by IRC 1361 and has made a valid New Jersey election. For the election to be valid, the corporation and all present shareholders, referred to as initial shareholders, must consent to the election and the requirements of the Statute. The corporation will be required to pay the tax on the pro rata share of S corporation income allocated to New Jersey at the rate of 7% for the subsequent shareholders that fail to consent and/or object to the New Jersey jurisdictional requirements.

The following increase in the minimum tax for domestic and foreign corporations will also apply to New Jersey S corporations:

Period Beginning In Calendar Year	Domestic Corporation Minimum Tax	Foreign Corporation Minimum Tax
1994	$ 50	$ 100
1995	100	200
1996	100	200
1997	200	200

Subsequent increases at intervals of five years after 1997 will be determined based on the annual average total producer price index for finished goods as published by the U.S. Department of Labor.

The Division is now in the process of preparing the 1994 CBT-100S Return and the related schedules with pertinent instructions.

CORPORATION TAX Recoupling

As a result of legislative changes adopted July 7, 1993, taxpayers subject to the Corporation Business Tax whose accounting periods begin on or after July 7, 1993, may recouple to Federal depreciation for recovery assets placed in service on or after this date. Taxpayers whose accounting periods begin prior to July 7, 1993, who place recovery assets in service either before or after July 7, 1993, may not recouple to Federal depreciation. The distinguishing feature is the date the accounting period begins.

This method allows for an orderly phase-out of New Jersey's requirement to recompute depreciation on recovery property placed in service after 1980 but prior to a taxpayer's fiscal or calendar year accounting period beginning on or after July 7, 1993. This change is anticipated to affect all 1994 returns, as well as selected 1993 returns.

INHERITANCE/ESTATE TAX Speaker Program

The Transfer Inheritance and Estate Tax Branch has had positive results with a revamped speaker program launched in July 1991 in conjunction with New Jersey Banking institutions. The program provides for a delegate of the Branch to visit various representative groups of financial institutions to address specific areas of New Jersey Transfer Inheritance and Estate Tax laws as they apply to the banking community.

This program has served to provide the Branch and this particular group with a better understanding of their mutual concerns and problems. From the Branch point of view, it provides for the dissemination of accurate Transfer Inheritance and Estate Tax information to those who are confronted with related compliance requirements. Benefits to the Branch are unmistakably attested to in the form of improved quality in certain areas of reporting and compliance.

It is the belief of the Branch that mutual benefits may be realized with other interested groups through similar communication.

For additional information about the inheritance tax speaker program, call the Transfer Inheritance Tax Branch in Trenton.

Audit Activity

Audit Activity uses many techniques to determine if taxpayers are meeting their obligations under New Jersey's tax statutes. One method that Audit Activity expects to make greater use of is third party information.

The Field Audit Branch is about to conclude a project where most of the pizza restaurants in New Jersey were subjected to an audit and where third party information was a major tool in the audit program. In addition to the normal verification and audit procedures, businesses that supply raw materials such as flour, cheese, and tomato sauce were contacted by Audit personnel. They were asked to submit the total amount of these purchases for the audit period for the pizza restaurants that they supplied. In most cases the suppliers provided this information in a cooperative manner. When they did not, the Division acquired the needed information through the use of a subpoena. Once the purchase information was available, the mark-up percentage for each restaurant was determined and applied to the cost of the raw materials.

The resulting estimated gross receipts were adjusted for various factors unique to each operation and then compared to the figures reported to the Division. Significant differences resulted in assessments for unreported taxes. When it appeared that there were gross understatements of receipts, the case was turned over the Division's Office of Criminal Investigations for possible criminal actions.

As resources permit, the Division intends to develop other projects and techniques that will make use of available third party information. These projects will help the Division of Taxation meet their goal of insuring that taxpayers are meeting their tax obligations.

Revaluation Firms

Regulations issued under N.J.S.A. 54:1-35.35 pertain to standards and qualifications of appraisal firms that value property for assessment purposes under municipal contract. Complete mailing addresses for the firms listed can be obtained by writing to Property Administration, Policy and Planning Section, CN 251, Trenton, NJ 08646.

Criminal Enforcement

Criminal enforcement actions over the past several months included:

November 16, 1993 - James V. Ferlisi, former president of Vitos Ristorante, Inc., of North Bergen, will enter a Pre-Trial Intervention program as the result of failing to remit Sales Tax. Mr. Ferlisi will make full restitution of the tax, including penalties and interest. This case is the result of a joint investigation with the Division Of Alcoholic Beverage Control and the Division of Criminal Justice.

November 29, 1993 - David Peselli, President of 2N, Inc., T/A Sluggo's Saloon, of North Arlington, was admitted to a Pre-Trial Intervention program as the result of failing to file and remit Sales Tax. Mr. Peselli will make full restitution of the tax, including penalties and interest. This case is the result of a joint investigation with the Division Of Alcoholic Beverage Control and the Division of Criminal Justice.

January 12, 1994 - Lalji Patel, manager of Uni Mart, Inc. in Mt. Holly, entered a guilty plea to charges of possessing cigarettes not bearing New Jersey revenue stamps and failure to obtain a license. Mr. Patel was fined $1,750.

January 19, 1994 - Mathew J. Werneth, president of JR Associates of NJ, Inc., entered a guilty plea to charges of failing to remit Sales Tax. As part of the plea agreement, restitution will be ordered and a consent judgment will be filed to secure the tax debt.

Enforcement Summary

Civil Collection Actions Quarter Ending - December 31, 1993

Compliance Activity personnel collected a total of $38.0 million for the quarter ending September 30, 1993. Following is a summary of enforcement actions.

Certificates of Debt

After demands for payment were unsuccessful, the Division entered 1,271 Certificates of Debt in Superior Court totaling $24.1 million.

Contact and Demand

Prior to the filing of Certificates of Debt, the Division collected $34.7 million through normal collection procedures.

Levies

The Division collected $1.5 million by levying against 323 bank accounts.

Settlements

Another $1.4 million was collected by closing 140 cases just before seizure in which the taxpayer paid taxes due rather than have his or her business closed.

enforcement summary - from pg. 5

Tax Seizures

After the Division has exhausted all other means to collect the State taxes due from vendors who cannot or will not pay, the business can be "seized" (closed) until some arrangement is made for payment. When a seizure occurs, the Division closes the business and seizes any tangible assets, such as inventory, machinery, furniture, etc.

If the liability of the closed business is not resolved, the Division can sell the business assets at public auction after 30 days. If the amounts realized from the auction are not enough to satisfy the entire debt, the Division can seize the personal assets of the responsible officers where trust fund taxes (Sales Tax and Income Tax Withholding) are involved.

A total of 28 businesses were scheduled for seizure for the quarter ending December 31, 1993. Of these, 13 businesses were actually closed and 15 were left open, resulting in collections of $400,000. A listing of seized businesses appears on pages 7 and 8.

Tax Briefs

Corporation Business Tax

S Corporations; Loss Carry Forward – A taxpayer inquired as to whether New Jersey S corporation losses can be carried over at either the S corporation or individual level.

The Division advised that the provisions for net operating loss carry forwards for the corporation business tax are found at N.J.S.A. 54:10A-4(k)(6). Under the statute establishing S corporation recognition, for tax years starting after July 7, 1993,

P.L. 1993, c173, Sec. 2 (N.J.S.A. 54:10A-5(c)(2), New Jersey S corporations currently would pay tax at a rate of 2.375%. A net operating loss deduction would be taken into account in computing entire net income (the tax base) subject to allocation and tax in New Jersey for a New Jersey S corporation for corporation business tax purposes. There is, however, no provision to permit an individual taxpayer to carry forward an S corporation operating loss on his or her individual return. Under the new law net pro rata share of S corporation income is a taxable category of income N.J.S.A. 54A:5-1p., and losses from one category of income cannot be offset by income in another category pursuant to N.J.S.A. 54A:5-2. See also N.J.S.A. 54A:5-12.b.

Subjectivity – A question was raised concerning whether a foreign corporation would be subject to tax in New Jersey based upon the following facts and circumstances.

F corporation is organized in a state other than New Jersey and has its sole office in the state of incorporation. Accordingly, F corporation does not maintain an office in New Jersey, nor does it have employees in New Jersey. F is engaged in business activities, as follows:

F corporation manufactures a patented machine which it sells to a customer in New Jersey. The sales orders are executed in the state of incorporation and not in New Jersey. Shipments of machines are made by common carrier. Installation and training of customer staff are done by F corporation's employees at the customer's location. F corporation sells the equipment to its customer at a price equal to cost of materials, labor and overhead, plus 6%. A license agreement is executed between F corporation and its New Jersey customer. The license agreement consists of an "initial payment" for use of certain patents, know-how, and inventions. Title to the equipment passes to the purchaser upon receipt of the initial payment. An additional license fee is paid by the purchaser of the equipment to F corporation based upon production. The production payment continues until the patents expire or the license agreement is terminated. F corporation warrants that the equipment meets published specifications and services the equipment within the one (1) year period from the date of delivery. After the initial warranty period will have expired, F corporation will continue to service the machines provided the customer pays for labor and replacement parts.

In Mark Andy, Inc. v. Taxation Div., Director, 8 N.J. Tax 593 (1986) a Missouri corporation was "doing business" in New Jersey for purposes of corporation business tax. The corporation actively solicited customers in New Jersey through a sales representative and through its preventive maintenance program, and established continuous relationship with customers in order to promote sale of replacement parts.

Based upon the facts, including the installation and training of customer staff at customer's location, the servicing of the equipment for one year from date of delivery, and the arrangement by which F corporation will continue to service the machines after that time provided that the customer pays for labor and replacement parts, it is the opinion of the Division that F corporation is doing business in New Jersey and as such would be subject to the corporation business tax. See N.J.A.C. 18:7-1.6 and N.J.A.C 18:7-1.9.

Gross Income Tax

Dividends Paid-Up Life Insurance

- A taxpayer inquired as to whether the dividends received on a paid-up life insurance policy are subject to the New Jersey Gross Income Tax. The Division responded that, for New Jersey gross income tax purposes, dividends on paid-up life insurance policy are considered a return of premiums and are not taxable until they exceed the total premiums or other payments made for the insurance. However, any interest paid on these dividends is subject to tax.

Sales Tax

Crossword Puzzle Magazines

- The Division received an inquiry concerning the sales taxation of crossword puzzle publication magazines. Crossword puzzle publications meet the "information" requirements of N.J.A.C. 18:24-1.2 which define exempt periodicals; thus, if all of the other criteria are satisfied (published at least four times a year, generally available for circulation, less than 90% advertising, etc.), retail sales of crossword puzzle magazines qualify for exemption from sales tax.

Sales of Treadmills and Exercise Bicycles

- The sales of treadmills and exercise bicycles are subject to sales tax. Pursuant to N.J.S.A. 54:32B-8.1 of the New Jersey Sales and Use Tax Act (See P.L. 1987, c.383), sales of durable medical equipment are exempt from sales and use tax in this State. Durable medical equipment is defined in the law to mean equipment that can withstand repeated use, is primarily and customarily used to serve a medical purpose, is generally not useful to a person in the absence of illness or injury, and is appropriate for use in the home.

Since treadmills and exercise bicycles are not customarily used to serve a medical purpose and generally are useful in the absence of illness or injury, the Division takes the position that they do not qualify for exemption, even if the customer provides a prescription from a physician. Under the law, the existence of a prescription does not determine exempt status.

Sale and Installation of Gasoline Service Station Equipment

- The Division recently responded to an inquiry concerning the sale and installation of gasoline service station equipment in New Jersey. The capital improvement rules as found at N.J.S.A. 18:24-5 are used to determine whether the installation of service station equipment results in a capital improvement to real property. The capital improvement exemption is statutory, and applies in these situations.

The permanent installation of underground storage tanks and the associated piping constitutes a capital improvement under N.J.S.A 54:32B-3(b)(2) of the Sales and Use Tax Act. The permanent installation of other property such as pumps, islands, signs, etc. may also result in a capital improvement. Thus, the labor charges relating to such installations are not subject to tax.

Under N.J.S.A. 54:32B-2(e)(2), contractors that install service station equipment are considered the retail purchasers of all materials and supplies that are purchased for incorporation into real property. A supplier should not accept a Resale Certificate (ST-3) for such materials and supplies.

In Our Courts

Corporation Business Tax Contributions to ESOP Not Deductible – American Telephone & Telegraph Company v. Director, Division of Taxation, Tax Court of New Jersey, Docket No. 18-02-0034-88-CB, decided December 23, 1993.

AT&T, plaintiff, appealed a Division disallowance of a deduction taken by AT&T on its 1983 return for amounts contributed to its Tax Credit Employee Stock Plan (ESOP).

Plaintiff argued that its contributions to an ESOP were deductible under the I.R.C., that New Jersey's CBT Act permits the deduction of employer contributions to a qualified stock bonus plan, that judicial precedents in a majority of other states permitted the deduction on a state tax return of ESOP contributions electively taken as a tax credit on the taxpayer's Federal return, and that the Director's disallowance constituted an illegally adopted regulation.

The Division responded that AT&T had no authority to take a deduction when calculating its Federal taxable income on its CBT return, that because plaintiff elected to take a credit for payments made to the ESOP, its Federal taxable income did not reflect a deduction for the amounts of any ESOP contributions, and that it would be inequitable to permit a deduction for ESOP credits for which AT&T is fully reimbursed by Federal tax credits.

The Court rejected AT&T's argument that its ESOP contributions were deductible for purposes of computing its Federal income tax, and determined that court precedents in other states were not applicable. Noting that absent specific statutory provisions taxpayers cannot vary from their Federal elections, the Court held that the Division was authorized to infer that in calculating entire net income under N.J.S.A. 54:10A-4(k)(2)(A), the taxpayer starts with federal taxable income without deductions for contributions to an ESOP. The Court further ruled that whether the ESOP credit was identical to the jobs credit and foreign tax credit was not relevant, and that the disallowance of the deduction did not constitute invalid rule-making requiring the adoption of a regulation.

In-State Activities Protected by Interstate Income Act – Pomco Graphics, Inc. v. Director, Division of Taxation, Tax Court of New Jersey, Docket No. 04-16-1526-89CB, decided September 1, 1993.

Pomco Graphics, plaintiff, challenged a Division determination declaring it to be subject to the Corporation Business Tax (CBT) for tax years 1979 through to the present. Pomco is a Pennsylvania printing company which did not obtain a Certificate of Authority, but did have a Casino Service Industry (CSI) license.

Pomco sent salespeople into New Jersey to market a variety of printed materials to existing and prospective customers.

The Tax Court held that Pomco's business activities in New Jersey constituted "solicitation of orders" within the meaning of the Federal Interstate Income Act, Pub.L. No. 86-272, 15 U.S.C.A. section 381, and that Pomco was therefore immune from the Corporation Business Tax. The Court rejected the Division's argument that Pomco was selling services not covered by section 381 and held that Pomco was selling tangible personal property as required for protection under section 381.

Local Property Tax Appeal of Property Tax Assessment Requires Payment of Prior Year Taxes – Rt. 88 Office Assoc. LTD. v. Township of Brick, 13 NJ Tax 14 (1992).

Mortgagee bank appealed city's tax assessment of mortgaged property. City moved for summary judgment. The Tax Court held that mortgagees possessed sufficient ownership of assessed property to be characterized as "taxpayer" and property could be considered its property so as to allow it to pursue appeal of assessment.

The Court stated that a "Mortgage" is essentially security for payment of debt. Mortgages must be in writing as conveyance of interest in land. N.J.S.A. 25:1-5, sub d. Under common law, a mortgage creates immediate estate in fee simple in mortgagee subject to defeasance by payment of mortgage debt according to terms of mortgage; however, right to possession is postponed until default. In law, mortgage conveys legal title to property encumbered. In equity, lien on land is created by mortgage.

While mortgagor has right of possession of mortgage property until default in mortgage obligation, upon such default mortgagee is entitled to possession of mortgaged premises, which he may acquire either by taking possession of premises peaceably and publicly or by instituting action for possession of land. Mortgagee has right to take such steps as are necessary to protect its security.

The Court held that mortgagee bank, whose mortgage was in default, who had paid real estate taxes, and who sought to protect its security, possessed sufficient ownership of assessed property to be characterized as "taxpayer" and property could be considered its property so as to allow it to pursue appeal of local property tax assessment of mortgaged premises under statute allowing taxpayer feeling aggrieved by assessed valuation of his property to pursue such appeal; mortgagee had substantial interest in property under terms of mortgage.

Exemption Denied – Secondary School Admission Test Board, Inc. vs. Princeton Borough, No. 009456-92 (Tax Court, December 20, 1993).

Secondary School Admission Test Board, Inc. is a nonprofit testing service designed to create and administer a standardized admissions test for secondary schools. Secondary School Admission Test Board appealed from the denial of a local property tax exemption for the tax year 1992 for property it owns in the defendant municipality, Princeton Borough. The issues were whether plaintiff's property met the criteria of either of these two provisions in the exemption statute, N.J.S.A. 54:4-3.6: (1) "actually used for colleges, schools, academies or seminaries" and (2) is "actually used in the work of...a corporation organized exclusively for the moral and mental improvement of men, women, and children."

Plaintiff failed to show that it is authorized to carry out the purposes of a "college, school, academy or seminary." Although owned and controlled by educators and educational consultants, it was not owned or controlled by the member schools. Furthering the educational purposes of its member schools simply did not meet the statutory requirement.

Plaintiff did not meet the second provision in that its aim to provide "effective and practical uniform admissions test programs for secondary schools" and "to carry on research in such matters" was decided to be secondary to the purpose and use intended in the provision.

In a strong argument to the contrary, plaintiff relied on Bloomfield vs. The Academy of Medicine, 47 N.J. 358 (1966). Here the exemption was granted to an organization of physicians and dentists which operated a medical library and sponsored symposia on medical issues, both open to and attended by the general public. Although plaintiff also conducts seminars and training institutes for educators in secondary school admissions, these functions were insufficient to meet the "organized exclusively for the moral and mental improvement of men, women and children" specification in the statute.

Therefore, the court upheld the decision of the Mercer County Board of Taxation's denial of exemption for the 1992 tax year since plaintiff did not qualify under either provision.

Anchor Stores in Shopping Malls – Mays Center Associates Corp. v. Rockaway Township, No. 14-35-7875-91D and 14-35-0-5016-92D, November 15, 1993.

Because of the uncertain nature of the comparative sales information and the fact that the sales are of vacant department store buildings which after sale had to be renovated and refitted to the needs of the purchaser, the sales comparison approach used by the taxpayer department store is unreliable; also, because the subject location and physical condition and quality of the taxpayer's building is substantially superior to that of the five rental properties used by the taxpayer, the income approach is also unreliable; since the value of the land, building and improvements are stipulated, the cost approach is a more reliable valuation and the taxing district's 10% depreciation is found to be reasonable (there is no justification for 57.5% depreciation for a newly renovated building and a resulting value for the property that is less than the land value plus the renovation cost).

Since anchor stores are essential to the development of a shopping center and they often obtain concessions from developers, there may be an allocation of cost or transfer of value from the anchor stores to the mall stores which might justify assessing anchor stores, not at their cost approach value, but at a lower figure that reflects the transfer or allocation of value.

Freeze Act Reassessments – Tax Court, Ennis v. Alexandria Township, No. 10-01-11781-91S, November 12, 1993. DDS No. 35-5-2170.

The Tax Court held that the term "revaluation" in the Freeze Act, N.J.S.A. 54:51A-8, encompasses the term "reassessment" and, therefore, the Freeze Act does not apply where the taxing district has completed and adopted either a revaluation or a reassessment program approved by the county board of taxation of which the taxpayer has notice.

Vacation Residences for Use by Missionaries Not Entitled to Exemption – City of Ventnor City v. Interdenominational Foreign Missionary Society of New Jersey, Inc., No. 01-22-00004-4-92, Tax Court, December 1, 1993.

In this case, Ventnor City, dissatisfied with Atlantic County Board of Taxation's judgment granting tax exemption to four properties owned by International Foreign Missionary Society of New Jersey, Inc., IFMS, a nonprofit medical mission, appealed to the Tax Court.

IFMS was organized for general and medical missionary purposes, an educational purpose, and to perform benevolent and charitable activities. However, its Certificate of Incorporation states in part: "the purpose for which this corporation is formed is to establish and maintain homes or residences...for the free use of missionaries on temporary leave of absence from their work." The Chairman of the Admissions Committee of IFMS testified that IFMS was involved in no charitable or religious activities but only owned the subject properties which were used by other charitable and religious organizations.

The subject properties have a unique tax history with Ventnor City. From 1922 to 1990, the property owners enjoyed tax exemption. In 1966, Ventnor City contested the exemption. IFMS was granted a stipulation which was later followed by an "arrangement" where annual contributions for services rendered were made by the property owner to the city. IFMS contended that the city was bound to continue granting tax exempt status as IFMS had prior exempt status. The court held that each annual assessment of property for tax purposes is separate and distinct from the assessment for any other year.

Defendant then tried to prove how IFMS satisfied the moral and mental improvement and the charitable purposes provisions of N.J.S.A. 54:4-3.6. The court found that a corporation organized for the purpose of providing residences for people on temporary leave from their work cannot be said to be organized exclusively for exempt purposes.

It stated further: "People on leave from their work are not performing their work, and hence are not engaging in any religious or charitable activities or in any activities for the moral and mental improvement of men, women and children."

The court determined that for IFMS to promote the welfare of its members was benevolent not charitable. Also, IFMS did not meet the "reasonably necessary" test used in determining whether property is "actually and exclusively used" for a tax exempt purpose as in the statute.

Promotion of More Effective Production and Sales for Small Producers of Home-Grown Products – P.L. 1993, c.372 (signed into law on January 10, 1994) changes the laws governing New Jersey farm wineries. Under the current law, farm wineries in New Jersey may hold a special license to sell their wines for consumption off the premises at two locations in addition to the farm winery. This bill increases the number of non-farm outlets to five and permits the sale of wines for consumption on the premises.

The bill also permits two or more farm or plenary winery licensees to own a one-per-county salesroom which may offer wines from any farm winery in the State for consumption on or off the licensed premises. The bill also clarifies that "product" means any wine that is produced, blended, fortified or treated by the plenary winery licensee on its licensed premises situated in this State; and to "grandfather" those plenary winery licensees who would not meet this change in the definition.

This bill is effective immediately.

Corporation Business Tax

Corporations Licensed as Insurance Companies – P.L. 1993, c.338 (signed into law on December 27, 1993) clarifies that corporations which are licensed as insurance companies under the laws of another state, including eligible surplus lines insurers, are exempt from taxation under the Corporation Business Tax Act (1945). It is retroactive to taxable calendar or fiscal accounting years commencing after December 31, 1960. The current exemption for insurance companies under the Corporation Business Tax Act (1945) was intended to apply to all insurance companies doing any kind of business in this State.

This bill is effective immediately.

Financial Business Tax

Repeal – P.L. 1993, c.295 (signed into law on December 22, 1993) repeals the Financial Business Tax Law (1946), effective January 1, 1994.

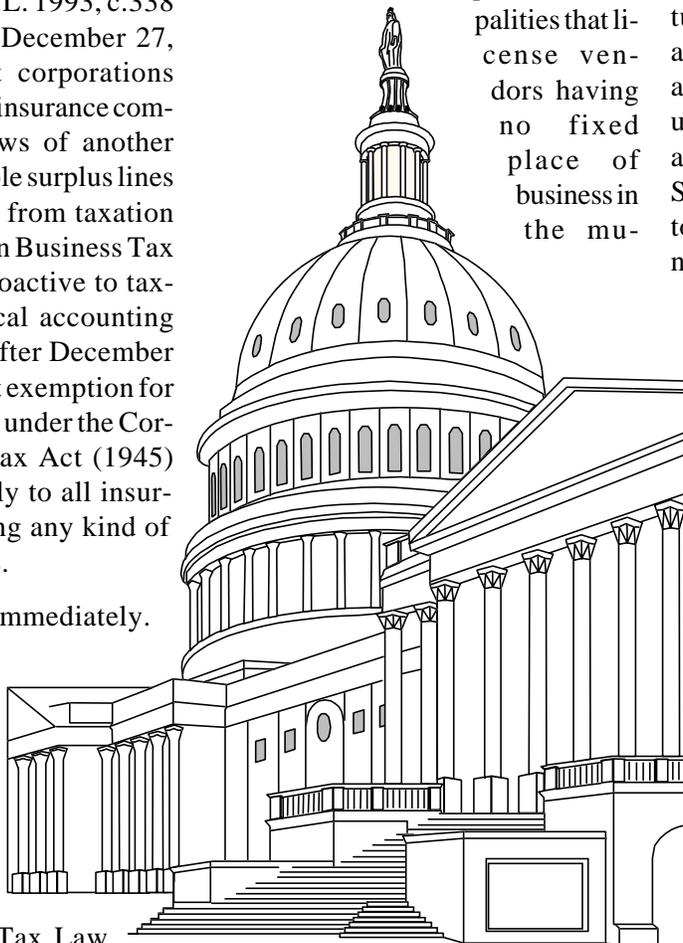

Sales Tax

New Registration Regulations for Businesses – P.L. 1993, c.274 (signed into law on November 24, 1993) requires that a person file a certificate of registration with the Division of Taxation at least 15 business days before commencing business or opening a new place of business in this State. This requirement applies both to persons who have a regular place of business in this State, as well as to those who do not.

The bill also provides for improved enforcement of Sales Tax collection by vendors, especially those who do not have a regular place of business in the State.

In addition, this bill requires municipalities that license vendors having no fixed place of business in the municipality to require submission of a copy of a valid New Jersey Certificate of Authority to collect Sales Tax as a condition of the issuance of a license.

This bill is effective immediately. However, the new registration requirement is effective on the first day of the third month following enactment (February 1, 1994).

50% Sales and Use Tax Exemption for Certain Counties – P.L. 1993, c.373 (signed into law on January 10, 1994) provides a 50% sales and use tax exemption, except for motor vehicles, alcoholic beverages and cigarettes, in certain counties in the State which contain an entrance to an interstate bridge or tunnel connecting New Jersey with a state that does not impose a sales and use tax or imposes a sales and use tax at a rate at least five percentage points lower than the rate in this State. This exemption applies only to vendors operating places of business at which items are regularly exhibited and offered for retail sale and which are not utilized primarily for the purpose of catalogue or mail order sales. The State Treasurer shall annually designate the county or counties in which this exemption applies.

This bill will become effective on July 1, 1994.

State Tax Uniform Procedure

Technical Revision – P.L. 1993, c.331 (signed into law on December 23, 1993) reduces the interest rate on late payments of tax from the prime rate plus five percentage points to the prime rate plus three percentage points and specifies the method for the calculation of the interest rates of the tax laws.

This bill is a technical revision, correcting an interest rate that was omitted from P.L. 1992, c.175, the

Taxpayers' Bill of Rights. That law made various tax administration provisions uniform for the taxes collected by the Division of Taxation, including the rates of interest charged for deficiencies and paid on refunded overpayments of tax. This bill brings the treatment of late payments of tax into conformity with the treatment of assessed deficiencies under the State Tax Uniform Procedure Law. This bill clarifies the calculation of the assessment and compounding of penalty interest and the interest to be paid on refunds of overpayments and makes technical changes to legal references recently included in the State Tax Uniform Procedure Law by the Taxpayers' Bill of Rights.

This bill is effective immediately, with most provisions retroactive to July 1, 1993.

Urban Enterprise Zones

Additional Zones Named – P.L. 1993, c. 367 (signed into law on January 5, 1994) amends the New Jersey Urban Enterprise Zone Act to allow for the designation of 10 additional enterprise zones from among those areas of qualifying municipalities determined to be eligible. This increases from 10 to 20 the number of zones that can exist at any one time. At least 6 of the 10 additional enterprise zones authorized are to be located in counties in which enterprise zones have not previously been designated. The seven municipalities within these six designated enterprise zones may be entitled to an exemption to the extent of 50% of the tax imposed under the "Sales and Use Tax Act."

Under the bill, new enterprise zones will be established in Perth Amboy, Passaic, Paterson, Phillipsburg, Lakewood and Asbury Park-Long Branch.

This bill becomes effective on April 1, 1994.

Business Tax Workshops

The New Jersey Division of Taxation and the Internal Revenue Service continue to present Small Business Tax Workshops at locations throughout the State. These seminars are designed to acquaint new entrepreneurs with information on registration, employer responsibilities, sales tax, filing procedures and other tax topics.

To attend a workshop, complete the postcard found in the New Jersey Tax Registration Booklet (Publication REG-P) and send it to the New Jersey Division of Taxation, Taxpayer Services Branch, 50 Barrack Street, CN 269, Trenton, NJ 08646-0269. You will receive a reservation form from the IRS listing the dates and locations on the current workshop schedule. You may also request a reservation form by calling the New Jersey Tax Hotline at (609) 588-2200, or the IRS at 1-800-829-1040.

The Spring Schedule for the joint workshops is:

State Tax Regional Offices

The New Jersey Division of Taxation has eight regional offices located throughout the State. These offices are staffed by Taxpayer Services personnel who are there to assist taxpayers with billing notices and unresolved problems.

The offices are well stocked with informational materials such as brochures and Tax Topic Bulletins. The public may also obtain New Jersey tax forms at the offices. A new entrepreneur may register a business. The Trenton office, located in the lobby of the Taxation Building, is the only regional office which will accept payments for New Jersey taxes.

Certain offices are being relocated. We will announce the new locations when they occur. Remember, for a list of our current Regional Office locations, call Tax Talk at 1-800-323-4400 (Touch-tone phones from within New Jersey only).

New Column

We are happy to announce a new feature, From the Director's Desk, will appear in the New Jersey State Tax News beginning with this issue. This column will include items that the Director would like to call to your attention, like new information and events, and technical clarifications on New Jersey taxes.

We will also be pleased to provide answers to interesting and unusual State tax questions. Of course, this column will not be a forum to resolve specific tax problems, but rather a place to exchange ideas and information.

We will not be able to return your letters, and we reserve the right to print answers to questions which we believe our readers will find most useful. We welcome your participation. Mail your letters to the address that appears in the column.

Late Breaking News

Minimum Income Threshold

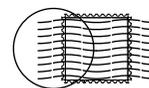

On March 16, 1994, Governor Whitman signed into law P.L. 1994, c.8, which increases the minimum taxable income for Gross Income Tax. For single individuals, estates and trusts, and married couples filing jointly, the income threshold is increased from $3,000 to $7,500. For married persons filing separately, the threshold is increased from $1,500 to $3,750. This law is effective for 1994 and subsequent tax years.

Reduced Sales Tax in Salem County

Effective July 1, 1994, businesses located in Salem County may collect sales and use tax at a 50% reduction on most retail sales. Under P.L. 1993, c.373, Salem County is the only county in New Jersey currently designated for this sales tax reduction. Detailed information is being sent to county vendors.
