State Treasurer Sworn In

Elizabeth Maher Muoio was nominated by Governor Phil Murphy as State Treasurer and assumed the duties of Acting State Treasurer on January 16, 2018. On April 13, 2018, having received Senate confirmation, Muoio was officially sworn in as the Treasurer. Muoio is the second woman in New Jersey history to be confirmed to the Cabinet post.

Before becoming Treasurer, Muoio served as a member of the New Jersey General Assembly, representing the 15th Legislative District in Mercer and Hunterdon counties. She joined the Assembly in February 2015.

During her time in the Assembly, Muoio represented her constituents on the Assembly Budget, Judiciary, and Commerce and Economic Development committees where she focused on improving access for women's healthcare, closing the gender pay equity gap, protecting the environment, reducing exposure to hazardous lead, improving prison re-entry services, increasing literacy rates, fighting against concentrated poverty, and expanding economic opportunities for New Jerseyans.

As a result of her legislative efforts, Muoio was honored by the Sierra Club of New Jersey, the Trenton Chapter of the NAACP, the New Jersey Association of the Deaf, the Constitutional Officers Association of New Jersey, the National Congress of Black Women – Trenton/Mercer Chapter, and for her efforts to improve literacy by the Trenton Public School system.

Muoio also served as Director of the Mercer County Office of Economic Development and Sustainability from 2008 to January 2018.

The new Treasurer was a member of the Mercer County Board of Chosen Freeholders from 2000–2008, serving as Chair in 2004 and Vice Chair in 2003 and 2008. While Chair, she worked with the County Executive to enact one of the first countywide anti-pay-to-play ordinances in the nation and led the effort to ensure that the $81 million Mercer County Courthouse was constructed to Leadership in Energy and Environmental Design (LEED) standards.

Muoio began her career as an elected official serving as a member of the Pennington Borough Council from 1997 to 2002 and has been involved in a number of community-based organizations including as a Troop Leader for the Girl Scouts of Delaware Valley, coach of youth basketball for the Hopewell Valley YMCA and the Hopewell Hoops Basketball League, and a member of the Princeton Regional Chamber of Commerce Board of Directors, the Pennington Public Library Board of Trustees, the ARC of Mercer Board of Trustees, and the League of Women Voters.

An attorney, Muoio received her JD from Georgetown University and her BA from Wesleyan University. She lives with her family in Pennington.

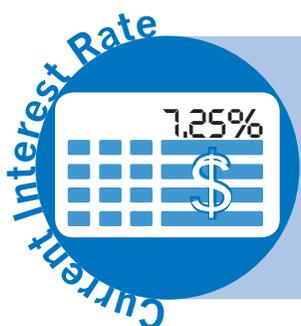

The Cost of Noncompliance

Most people file and pay their taxes voluntarily and on time. However, circumstances sometimes make it difficult for a taxpayer to make required payments. It is important that taxpayers understand the costs that may result if they do not file and/or pay on time and the steps they can take to reduce those costs.

If you are unable to pay your taxes, it is important that you still file your return by the due date. Failure to file your return on time significantly increases the penalty that can be assessed. A penalty of 5% of the tax liability is assessed each month until the penalty reaches 25% of the tax liability. A $100 per month penalty also may be imposed for each month (or part of a month) the return is late.

Always pay what you can even if it's not full amount. The Division will accept a partial payment, and you will only be charged interest for the unpaid portion of your taxes. The annual interest rate is 3% above the prime rate. Interest is imposed on every month or part of a month the tax is unpaid, compounded annually at the end of each year.

If you file your return but do not pay the full amount due, the Division will send you a bill. The first bill will show two "Amount Due" figures. The first amount applies only if paid by the "Pay By" date shown on the bill. This amount consists of tax, interest, late filing penalty (5% per month up to 25%), and amnesty penalty, if applicable. The second amount applies if the bill is not paid by the "Pay By" date and includes a late payment penalty of 5% in addition to the items in the first amount due. The 5% late payment penalty will be imposed on all audit assessments.

The assessed interest rate on tax balances for Jan. 1, 2018, to Dec.31, 2018, is 7.25%

View information on how it is calculated or find the historical rates.

If you do not respond to a bill by the due date, the account will be sent to our collection agency, and a referral cost recovery fee of 10.7% of the liability due will be added to your required payment.

When the debt is not resolved with the collection agency, a Certificate of Debt (COD) will be issued for the outstanding liability, and a cost-of-collection fee will be imposed. Once the collection agency notifies you that a judgment was filed, you have 10 days to satisfy the debt. If you do not respond, the debt is referred back to the Division and assigned to our enforcement staff. Division employees will take steps to collect on the liability, which may include the following actions:

- Levies of bank accounts, rental income, account receivables or corporate distribution, or other identified assets;
- Wage garnishments;
- Seizure and auctions of real and personal property such as motor vehicles and boats.

As the level of enforcement action rises, the cost of collection may be increased.

It is in your best interest to file your return on time even if you cannot pay the full amount you owe. If you have a balance due and receive a bill, respond to the bill in a timely manner. Failure to do these things can substantially increase your debt. 📌

Tax Assessor Certificates

The Tax Assessor Examination is held in accordance with the Assessor Certification and Tenure Act, which requires anyone taking office as a tax assessor after July 1, 1971, to hold a tax assessor certificate.

Twelve persons passed the September 23, 2017, C.T.A. exam. They were issued tax assessor certificates on January 1, 2018. They are:

Bergen County: Sambamurty Arisetty, Washington Township; James O'Donnell, Lodi Borough.

Burlington County: Dawn Gorman, Delran Township.

Gloucester County: John Sheehan, Wenonah Borough.

Mercer County: Marjorie Abrams, Hamilton Township; Jonathan Gephart, Hamilton Township.

Middlesex County: Christopher Efstathiou, East Brunswick Township; Jacob Nieman, South Brunswick Township.

Monmouth County: Vilius Jankauskas, Eatontown Borough.

Morris County: David Glaser, Morris Plains Borough.

Somerset County: Kevin Palumbo, Hillsborough Township; William Raska, Bridgewater Township.

The next C.T.A. examination is scheduled for September 22, 2018. To apply, complete the Application for Admission to a Tax Assessor Certification Exam, Form AC-1. The deadline to file applications for this exam is August 23, 2018. The filing fee is $10. If you have any questions regarding this exam, please contact Marilyn Gaines at 609-292-8823 or write to Property Administration, PO Box 251, Trenton, NJ 08695-0251. 📌

Monmouth County Demonstration Program

P.L. 2013, c.15, established a Real Property Assessment Demonstration program to make the assessment of real property more precise by using technology-driven procedures. This was designed to benefit municipalities by reducing the number of successful appeals, thereby protecting funding of municipal budgets from the impact of losses due to appeal refunds. Monmouth County was the first county to adopt this program, which began October 1, 2013. The following dates on the assessors' calendar have been revised for municipalities in Monmouth County:

April 1–

- Tax appeals are heard in February, March, and April.

May 5–

- Assessor to file final assessment lists and duplicates with County Tax Board.

May 10 (after)–

- County Tax Board may permit tax collector to have custody of tax duplicate.

May 15 (before)–

Criminal Enforcement

- On September 27, 2017, Brian Murphy of Hainesport, New Jersey, pleaded guilty to second-degree misapplication of entrusted property and third-degree failure to pay taxes. Murphy is a financial advisor who received hundreds of thousands of dollars from a client to invest. Instead, Murphy used the money to buy a car and luxury items and pay for dinner outings and other personal expenses. As a result of the plea, the State recommended a sentence of seven years in State prison. Murphy will also pay restitution of $255,000 to the victim and $55,197.86 in taxes, penalty, and interest to the State of New Jersey.
- On October 1, 2017, Sarah Coon of Lumberton, New Jersey, pleaded guilty to second-degree theft by deception and third-degree failure to pay taxes. Coon embezzled funds from her employer and used them to pay personal bills and expenses. As a result of the plea, the State recommended a sentence of five years in State prison. Coon must also pay $438,000 in restitution to her former employer and $43,588.14 in taxes, penalty, and interest to the State of New Jersey.
- On October 17, 2017, Hyunwook Koh, of Palisades Park, New Jersey, was arrested by agents from the Office of Criminal Investigations (OCI) after he accepted receipt and took possession of 12 large boxes from a mail shipping and receiving business in Palisades Park. A customs search had been conducted before delivery since the boxes were shipped from outside the United States. The search revealed that the boxes were packed with 498 cartons of cigarettes and 60 cartons of cigars. The cigarettes had no tax stamps and were seized as contraband and untaxed goods. Koh was charged in Bergen County Superior Court with one count of possession of more than 20,000 untaxed cigarettes, which is a crime of the third degree. He was released on his own recognizance. The arrest was the result of a joint operation between OCI special agents, U.S. postal inspectors, and special agents from U.S. Homeland Security Investigations. On October 25, 2017, OCI special agents seized additional contraband items from a U.S. Postal Facility in Ridgefield, New Jersey, that were bound for the same address in Palisades Park, but that had not yet been claimed. Postal inspectors had intercepted the shipping boxes, and an inspection by special agents from U.S. Homeland Security Investigations revealed the boxes contained 1,026 cartons of untaxed cigarettes and 73 cartons of cigars.

- On October 19, 2017, OCI special agents performed an inspection of The Grove, a business in Irvington, New Jersey. Agents seized 381 untaxed tobacco products, Newport cigarettes with a Virginia tax stamp, and 12 loose cigarettes (loosies). Also, located during the inspection was a bag containing 368 glassine envelopes that were stamped “911” in red ink and packed with heroin, 75 aluminum foils containing crack cocaine, and $1,092 in cash. The business owner, Shariyf Dunham, signed a Consent to Search his vehicle, which resulted in the seizure of two bags of marijuana. These items were turned over to the Irvington Police Department. Irvington police arrested Dunham and charged him with possession of heroin, intent to distribute, possession of cocaine, intent to distribute, and possession of marijuana. Additionally, OCI will be charging Dunham with possession of untaxed cigarettes, failure to maintain books and records, and the sale of loosies.
- On October 26, 2017, OCI special agents, U.S. postal inspectors, and special agents from U.S. Homeland Security Investigations approached Sungil Lee after he accepted receipt of numerous boxes at a Ridgefield postal facility. Lee was in the process of placing the boxes into his vehicle. U.S. Homeland Security Investigations special agents had previously conducted a search of the boxes and discovered they contained untaxed cigarettes. A total of 11 boxes containing 260 cartons of untaxed cigarettes were seized. Lee was taken into custody by OCI and charged with one count of possession of cigarettes without proper stamps. He was released on his own recognizance.
- On November 2, 2017, Yonglin Liu of Camden, New Jersey, was arrested by OCI special agents and processed for fourth degree hindering, possession of approximately 28 cartons of untaxed cigarettes, failure to maintain records, and dealing with an unlicensed person. The arrest resulted from an inspection of the New Shanghai Restaurant, in Camden, New Jersey, on August 15, 2017, at which time Liu was found to be in possession of Virginia tax-stamped cigarettes and untaxed tobacco. The suspect provided an expired Pennsylvania driver’s license as identification. Further examination of the license determined that he was not the individual pictured on the license. OCI agents returned with U.S. Homeland Security Investigations special agents and, through the use of a language interpreter and mobile technology, were able to determine his identity and that he was wanted on federal counts. During the follow-up investigation, OCI special agents found approximately 28 cartons of Virginia tax-stamped cigarettes concealed in numerous 4C Iced Tea containers. Also as a result of the August inspection, Liu pleaded guilty in Camden Municipal Court.
- On November 3, 2017, Ocean County Superior Court Judge Rochelle Gizinski sentenced Patrick A. Trushell II, of Toms River, New Jersey, to five years in State prison on charges of second-degree theft by deception and third-degree failure to file a State tax return. These charges were the result of a joint investigation conducted by the Ocean County Prosecutor’s Office Economic

Enforcement Summary Statistics
First Quarter 2018

Following is a summary of enforcement actions for the quarter ending March 31, 2018.

	Number	Amount
• Bank Levies	712	$ 2,175,403
• Certificates of Debt	4,501	102,863,373
• Seizures	72	1,291,938
• Auctions	10	194,609
• Warrants of Satisfaction	3,922

Crimes Unit and an OCI forensic auditor. Trushell used his employment at three different energy brokerage companies to obtain customer lists and accounts. He filtered that information to a fourth company, which paid him a commission, and to his own company, Chrono Energy, LLC. Because Trushell had exclusive employment agreements with all three companies from 2013 through 2014, his receipt of over $250,000 in compensation was considered theft.

- On November 21, 2017, in Englewood Municipal Court, Mohammed Alsaïdi pleaded guilty to drug possession and paid a $2,500 fine. Alsaïdi was arrested on October 19, 2016 after OCI seized 284 cartons of Virginia tax-stamped cigarettes and Englewood police seized small amounts of marijuana and drug paraphernalia.
- On November 29, 2017, after a 14-day trial in Passaic County, Thomas Weir was convicted of theft by deception, money laundering, and tax evasion. Weir worked part-time as a bookkeeper for a granite company with locations in Haledon and Bayville, New Jersey. He misappropriated nearly $200,000 from the company's bank account by disguising the money as business expenses and using it to pay off personal credit card bills. This case was a result of a joint investigation between OCI and the Passaic County Prosecutor's Office.
- On January 26, 2018, OCI seized 1,224 cartons of untaxed cigarettes from Jojooly LLC, doing business as Smart Zone, located in Palisades Park, New Jersey. Disorderly persons offense charges were filed against Xiangji Jin of Palisades Park.
- On February 23, 2018, Kalpesh Patel of Bensalem, Pennsylvania, was arrested as a result of a compliance inspection the previous day at Felix Deli & Grocery in Trenton during which contraband cigarettes were discovered. A total of 20 cartons of counterfeit cigarettes, 19 cartons of out-of-state stamped cigarettes, and 1 carton of unstamped cigarettes were seized. Patel was processed with the assistance of the Mercer County Prosecutor's Office.

Sales and Use Tax

Exemption for Breast Pumps, Supplies and Replacement Parts, and Maintenance and Repair — Effective May 1, 2018, sales of breast pumps, breast pump repair and replacement parts, breast pump collection and storage supplies, and certain breast pump kits are exempt from Sales Tax when sold to an individual purchaser for home use. Maintenance and repair services for such items also are exempt. Sellers and providers of maintenance and repair for the affected items should not charge Sales Tax on receipts of those products beginning May 1, 2018.

Breast Pumps. A breast pump is an electronically or manually controlled pump device used to express milk from a human breast during lactation. This includes the electronically or manually controlled pump device and any AC adaptor or other external power supply unit packaged and sold with the pump device at the time of sale to power the pump device.

Breast Pump Collection and Storage Supplies. Breast pump collection and storage supplies include, but are not limited to, breast shields and breast shield connectors; breast pump tubes and tubing adaptors; breast pump valves and membranes; backflow protectors and backflow protector adaptors; bottles and bottle caps specific to the operation of the breast pump; breast milk storage bags; and related items sold as part of a breast pump kit that has been prepackaged by the breast pump manufacturer.

Breast pump collection and storage supplies do not include: bottles and bottle caps not specific to the operation of the breast pump; breast pump travel bags and other similar carrying accessories, including ice packs, labels, and other similar products; and breast pump cleaning supplies. Although nursing bras, bra pads, breast shells, and other similar products are not covered by this new exemption, they are exempt from Sales and Use

Tax because they are clothing items. Creams, ointments, and other similar products that relieve breastfeeding symptoms or conditions of the breasts or nipples are not covered by this exemption, but may be exempt from Sales and Use Tax if they are drugs sold pursuant to a doctor's prescription or if they meet the definition of over-the-counter drugs.

Breast Pump Kits. A breast pump kit is a prepackaged set that contains one or more of the following items: breast pump; breast pump collection and storage supplies; and other items that may be useful to initiate, support, or sustain breastfeeding using a pump during lactation. The kit may also contain taxable items that may be useful to initiate, support, or sustain breastfeeding using a breast pump during lactation. If a breast pump kit contains both taxable and nontaxable items, the receipt from the sale of the kit is exempt from Sales Tax as long as the sales price of all taxable items in the kit is 10% or less of the total sales price of the entire kit.

Native American Tribal ID Cards — A Native American New Jersey resident taxpayer asked the Division if a tribal ID card containing a tax-exempt number would exempt him from paying New Jersey Sales and Use Tax.

Tribal ID cards prove membership in a tribe recognized under federal law and are generally considered a secondary document used to establish identity. A tribal ID offers information on its holder, including their photo, tribal enrollment number, date of birth, signature, tribal affiliation, and the tribe's contact information.

The Division responded that there are no provisions under New Jersey law to exempt individual Native Americans from Sales and Use Tax. Therefore, the Native American New Jersey resident taxpayer with a tribal ID card containing a tax-exempt number is not exempt from paying New Jersey Sales and Use Tax.

Veterinary Medication — A taxpayer inquired about the application of the New Jersey Sales and Use Tax to separately stated charges for veterinary medication. The taxpayer is a full-service veterinary hospital that administers medication when treating animals at the hospital. When the hospital issues an invoice to the customer, the charges for medications are itemized and separately stated from the veterinary services provided.

The Division responded that when veterinarians purchase medication for use in the medical treatment of animals, the purchase is taxable (N.J.S.A. 54:32B-3(a)). The veterinarian pays Sales Tax at the time of purchase because the veterinarian is considered the retail purchaser of medication he or she uses in performing professional services for clients. However, when the veterinarian separately states the charges for medication on the invoice to the customer, the veterinarian must charge Sales Tax. In that case, because the veterinarian is charging and collecting Sales Tax, he or she can purchase such medication without paying Sales Tax by issuing a fully completed resale certificate to the seller.

On the other hand, if the veterinarian gives the customer an invoice that merely states that medications were used in the performance of medical services but does not separately state the charges for them, the bill is not subject to tax. An example of this would be a bill that says: "Veterinarian services, including medication – $100."

Realty Transfer Fee

No Mortgage and No Consideration — A taxpayer asked whether an LLC entity that is owned by two partners can transfer real estate to a single-member entity that is owned 100% by the LLC entity without paying the Realty Transfer Fee. The transfer will be done by deed and for no consideration. In addition, there is no mortgage on the real estate.

The Division responded that transfers where consideration is under $100 are exempt from the Realty Transfer Fee in accordance with N.J.S.A. 46:15-10. The definition of consideration includes mortgages (N.J.S.A. 46:15-5(c)). Therefore, the taxpayer does not owe the Realty Transfer Fee because no mortgage exists and no consideration was paid.

From the Legislature

Administration

Bulk Sales Notification Requirements for Homes and Seasonal Rentals — P.L. 2017, c.307, signed into law on January 16, 2018, and effective immediately, clarifies that the sale of a house and the sale of a seasonal rental unit are exempt from the bulk sale notification requirements if the seller of the property is an individual, trust, or estate, or any combination of these. These provisions are retroactive and applicable to sales, transfers, and assignments made on or after August 1, 2007.

Corporation Business Tax

Tax Credit for Drug Donation Programs — P.L. 2017, c.254, signed into law on January 8, 2018, and effective July 7, 2018, authorizes private entities to voluntarily establish drug donation programs to serve people who are indigent, uninsured, or underinsured. The law grants drug donors a Corporation Business Tax or Gross Income Tax credit equal to the sum of the cost of the donated over-the-counter drugs, prescription drugs, and administration supplies; and any verifiable cost incurred to make the donation of the drugs and supplies.

Treatment of Tax Credit Transfer Certificates — P.L. 2017, c.313, signed into law on January 16, 2018, and effective immediately with select sections being applicable to accounting and privilege periods beginning on and after January 1, 2017, revises tax credit transfer certificate provisions for the Grow New Jersey Assistance Act (GROW NJ) and the Public Infrastructure Project Tax Credit program. The time period for transferees to redeem the tax credit transfer certificates is identical to the period permitted for the original tax credit certificate holder. It also exempts from the 75% minimum value requirement the sale or assignment of a tax credit transfer certificate to an affiliate, regardless of whether the affiliate met the capital investment and employment requirements specified in the incentive agreement. Additionally, the law excludes from taxation the gain or income derived from the sale or assignment of certain tax credit transfer certificates.

Document Submission for Business Incentive Programs — P.L. 2017, c.314, signed into law January 16, 2018, and effective immediately, extends document submission deadlines for the Economic Redevelopment and Growth Grant, Grow New Jersey Assistance, and Urban Transit Hub Tax Credit programs.

Gross Income Tax

Tax Credit for Drug Donation Programs — see Corporation Business Tax.

Local Property Tax

Real Property Assessment Practices — P.L. 2017, c.306, signed into law on January 16, 2018, and effective immediately, modifies the dates for the administration of the assessment of real property and any subsequent appeal. The property assessment appeal process will occur before the calculation of the local property tax rate. This allows a more accurate local property tax rate to reflect local budgetary needs.

Property Tax Exemption for Disabled Veterans — P.L. 2017, c.367, signed into law on January 16, 2018, and effective immediately, extends eligibility for the veterans' real property tax exemption to include veterans who became 100% disabled as the result of their service but who did not serve in a "theater of war."

Property Tax Relief Programs

Administrative Changes to the Senior Freeze (Property Tax Reimbursement) Program — P.L. 2017, c.370, signed into law on January 16, 2018, and effective immediately, changes the annual deadline for filing an application to October 31. Additionally, the law allows an individual who erroneously receives payment to set up an installment payment plan to repay any amounts owed.

New Look, New Approach

The Division of Taxation has seen quite a few media changes in the past months. We have a new website, new publications, a new logo, and now a newly designed State Tax News. Of course, one thing that remains unchanged: our commitment to you.

While the new appearance of our material is designed to be fresh and modern, the real purpose is to reflect our new approach. What that means for you is that you'll receive the same great service, but with a renewed focus on making it easier to navigate the taxes administered by the Division. We are here to serve you. 🇯🇵

What's New for Tax Year 2017

There have been some important changes affecting the preparation of New Jersey Income Tax returns and applications for New Jersey's property tax relief programs for 2017.

Income Tax

- Filing Deadline — The filing deadline is Tuesday, April 17, 2018, for calendar-year taxpayers – matching the due date for the federal Form 1040. The due date is April 17 instead of April 15 because of the weekend and the Emancipation Day holiday in the District of Columbia.
- Retirement Income Exclusions — The pension and/or other retirement income exclusion amount is being increased over a four-year period. This year, you may be eligible for an exclusion of up to $40,000 (filing status married/CU couple, filing jointly), $30,000 (filing status single, head of household or qualifying widow(er)/surviving CU partner), or $20,000 (filing status married/CU partner, filing separately). See chart on page 3.
- Personal Exemption for Veterans — You are eligible for a $3,000 exemption if you are a military veteran who was honorably discharged or released under honorable circumstances from active duty in the Armed Forces of the United States on or any time before the last day of the tax year. Your spouse (or civil union partner) also is eligible for an exemption if he/she is a veteran who was honorably discharged or released under honorable circumstances and you are filing a joint return. When completing your tax return, fill in the oval (resident return) or check the box (nonresident return) to indicate that the exemption is being claimed. Otherwise, the exemption(s) will be disallowed. You must certify that you were honorably discharged or released under honorable circumstances from active duty the first time you claim the exemption(s). Note: This exemption can only be claimed by qualifying veterans, it does not pass through to a surviving spouse.

- Use Tax Due on Out-of-State Purchases — New Jersey has reduced its Sales and Use Tax rate. The rate was 7% until January 1, 2017, when it fell to 6.875%. The rate fell to 6.625% on January 1, 2018. When calculating your Use Tax due on out-of-state purchases, you must use the rate in effect at the time of the purchase.
- Schedule NJ-BUS-1 (Form NJ-1040NR only) — The Division of Taxation updated NJ-BUS-1, Business Income Summary Schedule, for Form NJ-1040NR, to include a place to enter taxes that partnerships pay on behalf of nonresident individual partners. Form NJ-BUS-1 (for Form NJ-1040NR) is available online.

- Designated Contribution — The New Jersey Yellow Ribbon Fund has been added to the list of organizations to which you can make a donation (contribution) on your tax return. The monies raised will be used to ease the burden of members of the Armed Forces on extended deployment. To donate to the new fund, you must specify code number “23” at the “Other Designated Contribution” line.

- Credit for Excess UI/WF/SWF; DI; FLI Withheld — For 2017, the maximum employee unemployment insurance/workforce development partnership fund/supplemental workforce fund contribution was $142.38. The maximum employee disability insurance contribution was $80.40. The maximum employee family leave insurance contribution was $33.50. If you had two or more employers, you may have contributed more than the maximum amount(s). To claim credit on the tax return for excess withholding, complete Form NJ-2450. More information is available online.
- Credit for Taxes Paid to Other Jurisdictions — The Philadelphia nonresident wage tax rate for 2017 was 3.4741% (.034741) from January 1 to June 30, and 3.4654% (.034654) from July 1 to December 31.

Property Tax Relief Programs

- 2017 Senior Freeze (Property Tax Reimbursement) — The Senior Freeze program reimburses eligible senior citizens or disabled persons for property tax increases. Eligible residents must file a 2017 Senior Freeze Application (Form PTR-1 or PTR-2). The 2017 applications are expected to be mailed by mid-February.

With very few exceptions, all income received during the year, including income that is not required to be reported on Form NJ-1040, must be taken into account to determine eligibility for the Senior Freeze. For residents applying for reimbursements for Tax Year 2017, total annual income must be:

2016: $87,007 or less, and

2017: $87,268 or less

The limits apply regardless of marital/civil union status. However, if an applicant’s status is married/CU couple, combined income of both spouses/CU partners must be reported.

NOTE: Eligibility requirements, including income limits, and benefits available under this program are subject to change. Information for 2017 will be posted on the Division’s website as it becomes available.

- Homestead Benefit Program — Information about filing for benefits under the Homestead Benefit program is not yet available. Please continue to check our website as information will be posted as it becomes available.

Changes to Other Taxes

There also have been some important changes affecting other New Jersey taxes.

- Sales and Use Tax — Effective January 1, 2018, the New Jersey Sales and Use Tax rate decreased from 6.875% to 6.625%. The tax rate was reduced from 7% to 6.875% in 2017. Additional

Canvassing Efforts

Canvassing businesses is an important part of the Field Investigation Branch’s work. The purpose of canvassing is to educate business owners about State tax laws and how to comply with them.

Investigators are constantly monitoring strip malls and main streets for new businesses while traveling between scheduled visits. When a new business is identified, investigators stop in to verify that the business is properly registered and that the business owner understands his/her tax obligations.

Investigators also canvass transient sellers at flea markets, art shows, craft shows, entertainment venues, and other special events providing education about any New Jersey taxes for which the seller may be responsible and ensuring that he/she is properly registered. Other locations, such as construction sites and warehouses, are actively canvassed by investigators to verify registration and tax compliance.

To maintain a level playing field for New Jersey taxpayers, investigators work cooperatively with the New Jersey State Police, inspectors from the Motor Vehicle Commission, and local law enforcement agencies at weigh stations and vehicle emission sites to check both in-state and out-of-state commercial vehicles for tax compliance.

If necessary, an investigator can issue a jeopardy assessment (N.J.S.A. 54:49-5 and 54:49-7), which is an on-the-spot demand for immediate payment. Failure to satisfy the assessment can result in the immediate seizure of available assets.

Companies subject to the jeopardy assessment process have 90 days from the date of the action to appeal the assessment.

Since the inception of this project, the Field Investigation Branch has collected over $250 million and registered over 15,000 businesses. □

Monmouth County Assessment Demonstration Program

P.L. 2013, c.15, established a Real Property Assessment Demonstration program to make the assessment of real property more precise by using technology-driven procedures. This was designed to benefit municipalities by reducing the number of successful appeals, thereby protecting funding of municipal budgets from the impact of losses due to appeal refunds. Monmouth County was the

Criminal Enforcement

- On July 19, 2017, an Ocean County Grand Jury indicted Robert Cardell on 14 counts of fourth-degree unregistered home improvement contracting, 14 counts of third-degree theft by deception, one count of third-degree failure to file a tax return, and one count of third-degree failure to pay tax. Robert Cardell used his unlicensed businesses, Silver Lining Steel Coating & Striping, Silver Lining Contracting LLC, and Semper Fi Seal Coating & Striping, to take more than $20,000 in customer money over an 18-month period without performing contracted services.
- On July 24, 2017, before Ocean County Superior Court Judge Rochelle Gizinski, Patrick Trushell II pleaded guilty to second-degree theft and third-degree failure to file New Jersey Income Tax returns for Tax Years 2013 and 2015. Mr. Trushell owned and operated ChronoEnergy while working for several other energy companies with which he had signed non-compete clauses. It was determined that Patrick Trushell failed to report income for 2013 and 2015 and underreported income for 2014. Full restitution in the amount of $267,000 was ordered, with $13,488.25 due to the New Jersey Department of the Treasury for tax associated with the underreported income.

- On August 11, 2017, William Herring was ordered into a civil judgment by confession stemming from a guilty plea for third-degree failure to make required disposition and third-degree failure to pay or turn over taxes. The Cumberland County Superior Court ordered Mr. Herring to pay $27,400.70 to the New Jersey Department of the Treasury and $299,244 to J & C Auto Sales Inc., over his three year probationary period. Mr. Herring was ordered banned from casinos and other gambling institutions.
- On August 18, 2017, special agents from the Office of Criminal Investigation (OCI) Special Investigations Unit performed a compliance inspection at two Delta gas stations. A total of 40 cartons of counterfeit tax-stamped cigarettes were seized, and the owner, Rajinder Chandi, was arrested. Chandi was charged with possession of counterfeit tax stamps, failure to keep books and records to evade taxes, dealing with an unlicensed person to evade taxes, and two counts of failing to file for a license. He was released on summons and has applied for Pretrial Intervention.

- On August 22, 2017, Samyon Gilstein, owner and operator of Sunrise Motors, Inc., a South Hackensack-based used car dealership, was arrested in Paramus, New Jersey, and charged with one count of second-degree misapplication of entrusted funds with a benefit greater than $75,000, one count of second-degree failure to turn over collected withheld tax in an amount greater than $75,000, second-degree misconduct by a corporate official with a benefit greater than $75,000, and one count of third-degree filing a fraudulent tax return. His wife, Alexandra Gilstein, was arrested on August 23, 2017, and charged with one count of second-degree misapplication of entrusted funds with a benefit greater than $75,000 and one count of third-degree filing a fraudulent tax return. In December 2016 and January 2017, the Bergen County Prosecutor's Office and the South Hackensack Police Department received customer complaints regarding the operation of Sunrise Motors, Inc. An investigation conducted by representatives from the New Jersey Motor Vehicle Commission and OCI's Special Investigations Unit revealed that Samyon and Alexandra Gilstein had conspired to collect New Jersey Sales Tax on retail automobile sales, falsely report the value of the tax collected, and steal the funds accumulated as a result of the false reporting. Between January 1, 2013, and December 31, 2016, the Gilsteins collected more than $1.6 million in New Jersey Sales Tax but falsely reported that the business had only collected approximately $360,000. The total theft, which took place over a period of four years, was more than $1.24 million. The matter is proceeding to trial.

- On September 5, 2017, Rehan Zuberi was sentenced to eight years in prison with two years and eight months of parole ineligibility. Zuberi pleaded guilty in 2015 to charges of first-degree money laundering and second-degree conspiracy to commit commercial bribery. He was ordered to pay $1 million in restitution. Zuberi owned several medical imaging facilities throughout the state and paid hundreds of thousands of dollars to medical practitioners for patient referrals to his facilities. Zuberi's spouse, Humara Paracha, was sentenced to two years of probation.

- On October 13, 2017, in Passaic County Superior Court, Soo Hyun Kang pleaded guilty to failure to pay Gross Income Tax for Tax Years 2014 and 2015. Soo Hyun, the receptionist and wife of Dr. Byung Kang, was placed on probation and ordered to pay $43,198, or $1,750 a month, in restitution, penalties, and interest. Soo Hyun and Byung, both residents of New Jersey, filed jointly in 2014 and 2015 and underreported the income from the sales of oxycodone prescriptions. The couple was indicted on March 1, 2017, for crimes related to the unnecessary sales of oxycodone to patients and taxation-related charges. Michael Justice, a Kang patient, died on December 6, 2014, as a result of taking oxycodone prescribed by the doctor. The combined efforts of OCI's Financial Crimes Unit and Deputy Attorney General Heather Hausleben of the New Jersey Division of Criminal Justice Gangs and Organized Crime Bureau led to the indictment of Soo Hyun Kang for second-degree committing conspiracy, first-degree money laundering, third-degree filing a fraudulent tax return, and third-degree failure to pay Gross

Partnerships

Debt-Financed Distributions — A partnership refinanced its partnership properties by replacing existing debt obligations with new debt obligations with different terms and then converting the equity and appreciation in the properties into cash. The partnership distributed the cash from the refinancing to its partners. This transaction is termed a “debt-financed distribution.” After using the proceeds from the debt-financed distribution for his personal use, an individual partner asked the Division if the interest expense on the new debt obligation is deductible on his New Jersey Gross Income Tax return.

While a partnership is not subject to New Jersey Gross Income Tax, an individual is liable for the tax on his or her distributive share of partnership income. Distributive share for partners includes all income, gain, expense, or loss that the partnership realizes from all sources in the ordinary course of business. A partner can generally deduct all unreimbursed business expenses incurred in the conduct of the partnership’s business. However, an individual can only deduct the interest expenses he or she incurs from financing the capital contribution required by the partnership for participation in the partnership and/or ordinary interest expenses in connection with the operation of an investment partnership.

Therefore, the Division answered that the interest expense on the new debt obligation used to finance a cash distribution to the partners for personal use is not deductible for New Jersey Gross Income Tax purposes.

Sales and Use Tax

Henna (Mehndi) Temporary Tattooing Applications — A taxpayer inquired about the application of the New Jersey Sales and Use Tax Act to charges for henna (Mehndi) tattooing applications. The taxpayer stated that the tattoo application is temporary, usually lasting between one and three weeks.

The Act imposes Sales Tax on charges for “Tattooing, including all permanent body art and permanent cosmetic make-up applications, except such services provided pursuant to a doctor’s prescription in conjunction with reconstructive breast surgery.” N.J.S.A. 54:32B-3(b)(10).

The Division responded that charges for tattoo applications that are not permanent are not subject to Sales Tax under N.J.S.A. 54:32B-3(b)(10). Accordingly, henna and any other tattoo applications that are temporary in nature are not subject to tax. □

Homestead Benefit Filing Under Way

New Jersey homeowners are now filing their 2015 Homestead Benefit applications. The Division of Taxation mailed worksheets and instructions for the homeowner benefit to more than 1.1 million New Jersey residents over a three-week period that began in mid-September 2017. During the same period, the Division sent emails containing instructions for downloading the application packet to an additional 84,000 residents. The homeowners who received emails had filed online in a prior year and indicated that they wanted to receive future applications electronically.

To be eligible for the Homestead Benefit, applicants had to be New Jersey residents who owned and occupied a home in New Jersey that was their principal residence on October 1, 2015, paid property taxes on that home, and had 2015 New Jersey gross income of $75,000 or less ($150,000 or less for homeowners 65 or older or blind or disabled).

Benefit amounts vary based on the applicant's income, filing status, property taxes, and whether the applicant was age 65 or older or blind or disabled.

Most homeowners can file their applications either online or by phone (1-877-658-2972). Applicants should read the instructions in the packet before attempting to file. Homeowners who sold or plan to sell their home should pay particular attention to the instructions for their situation to ensure they complete the application correctly.

The filing deadline for 2015 Homestead Benefit applications is November 30, 2017. More information on the Homestead Benefit, including eligibility requirements, is available online. □

Small Business Outreach

Over the next several months, the Division of Taxation will be increasing its door-to-door outreach to familiarize small business owners with State tax laws and how to comply with them. This outreach, also referred to as canvassing, is an ongoing part of the Division's mission to promote voluntary compliance.

The focus of the outreach will be on educating newly registered businesses and businesses that have not yet filed a tax return. Personnel from the Division's Collection and Enforcement Branch will explain the New Jersey taxes for which a business may be responsible and what the business owner needs to do to meet those responsibilities. Each business also will be provided with an investigator's direct contact information in case there are follow-up questions.

This expanded educational effort is part of a series of initiatives announced by the Department of the Treasury last spring. The purpose is to make it easier for taxpayers to understand their tax obligations. □

Small Business Workshops

The Division of Taxation provides free workshops designed to assist small business owners in meeting their New Jersey tax obligations. The workshops are half-day seminars presented at locations throughout the State. The Internal Revenue Service does not participate in these seminars.

The workshops include the following topics:

- Identifying types of business ownership and the tax consequences of each type;
- Registering a business with the Division of Taxation, Division of Revenue and Enterprise Services, and Department of Labor and Workforce Development;
- Determining what is taxable and what is exempt for New Jersey Sales Tax purposes;
- Procedures for collecting and remitting various New Jersey taxes;
- Filing Sales and Use Tax returns;
- Meeting employer responsibilities;
- Reporting business income.

To attend a workshop, review the schedule and register with the contact person listed for each event. The contact person can also provide the time of the workshop, parking information, and directions to the event. The Division does not manage the registration process.

The current workshop schedule is available online. The Division updates the schedule as new workshops are added. □

Monmouth County Assessment Demonstration Program

P.L. 2013, c.15, established a Real Property Assessment Demonstration program to make the assessment of real property more precise by using technology-driven procedures. This was designed to benefit municipalities by reducing the number of successful appeals, thereby protecting funding of municipal budgets from the impact of losses due to appeal refunds. Monmouth County was the first county to adopt this program, which began October 1, 2013.

The following dates on the assessors’ calendar have been revised for municipalities in Monmouth County:

November 1 (on or near)–

- Legal advertisement of availability of Tax List for public inspection.

November 1–

- Preliminary assessment list completed by assessor and certified to County Tax Board (pretax year).

November 15–

- Assessor to notify each taxpayer by mail of the current assessment and preceding year’s taxes (pretax year).

November 25 (on, before, or after)–

- Assessor to file certification of bulk mailing of Notification of Assessment with the County Tax Board within 10 days of completion of mailing. If County Tax Board completes bulk mailing, the County Tax Administrator prepares the certification within 10 days of the date the bulk mailing was completed.

End of November–

- Deadline for taxing districts’ appeals of Table of Equalized Valuations to New Jersey Tax Court.

Criminal Enforcement

- On April 27, 2017, special agents from the Office of Criminal Investigation (OCI) conducted an inspection at Kaman Mini Market in Lodi, New Jersey, which is owned by Aziz Kanan and his brother, Mawarfaq Kanan. The inspection resulted in the seizure of 21 cartons of contraband cigarettes and more than 2,000 untaxed cigars. Both owners were arrested and charged with indictable offenses. The Kanan brothers were transported to the Lodi Police Department, where they were processed by OCI and released without incident.

- On April 28, 2017, OCI special agents arrested the target of an ongoing investigation into contraband cigarette offenses related to the possession of 19 cartons of untaxed cigarettes. The cigarettes were discovered during a retail compliance inspection on March 10, 2017. Five cartons contained unstamped cigarettes, and 14 cartons had counterfeit New Jersey tax stamps. The suspect was taken to the U.S. Homeland Security Office in Newark, New Jersey, for processing by OCI, and was released on his own recognizance.
- On May 4, 2017, OCI conducted joint Quality of Life sweeps with Jersey City officials. As a result, numerous cartons of contraband cigarettes, untaxed tobacco, and packages of illegally imported hookah tobacco were seized. Charges were filed by OCI against each of the local businesses where the seizures occurred.
- On May 5, 2017, S&K Wholesaler LLC (formally S&K Imports, Inc.), located in Philadelphia, was denied a New Jersey nonresident cigarette distributor license. The cigarette supply company changed ownership last year, and neither the Pennsylvania Department of Revenue nor the New Jersey Division of Taxation were properly informed. However, when the company submitted its license application this year, background research revealed that certain principals had a criminal history. As a result, the company was ineligible for a license.

- On May 5, 2017, Alex Frank, owner of Hammer Maintenance LLC and/or Hammer Equipment LLC; Sonny Frank, owner of Hydraulic Breaker Services, LLC; and Rocky Frank, owner of Trinity Hydraulic Services LLC and/or Trinity Machine LLC, each waived indictment (accusation) on charges of third-degree failure to file NJ-1040 and third-degree failure to file Sales and Use Tax returns. Alex Frank failed to file NJ-1040s for Tax Years 2010–2014, and Sales and Use Tax returns for the quarters ending March 30, 2011, through December 31, 2015. Sonny Frank failed to file an NJ-1040 for Tax Year 2014, and Sales and Use Tax returns for the quarters ending March 30, 2011, through December 31, 2015. Rocky Frank failed to file NJ-1040s for Tax Years 2012–2014, and Sales and Use Tax returns for the quarters ending March 30, 2011, through December 31, 2015. The request to be tried by accusation was granted. The three defendants entered into the Pretrial Intervention (PTI) program and a consent judgment was agreed upon. They will collectively pay to the New Jersey Department of the Treasury a total of $803,874.50. This was a cooperative investigation with the New Jersey Division of Criminal Justice, the Social Security Administration, and OCI’s Freehold Financial Investigations Unit.

- On May 19, 2017, Donald Horner, Denise Horner, and Dianna Horner were accepted into the Pre-Trial Intervention program. All three had been arrested on charges of filing false tax returns for Tax Years 2010–2013. Their arrests were the result of a joint operation with the Burlington County Prosecutor’s Office and OCI’s Freehold Financial Investigations Unit. Donald and Denise Horner also were charged with failure to pay Income Taxes based on $178,890 in unreported income for those years. Dianna Horner filed amended tax returns. Donald and Denise Horner filed amended tax returns and paid taxes due of $11,375.
- On May 23, 2017, more than $100,000 was seized from an illegal lottery operation in New Jersey. The seizure was the result of information elicited from a confidential informant by an OCI Task Force Officer while the latter was on assignment with the U.S. Homeland Security Investigations (HSI) Financial Unit. The seizure stopped the outbound transfer of U.S. currency to the Dominican Republic. OCI's continued involvement with HSI contributes to the protection of State revenue, and in this case, helped reduce the erosion of the State Lottery program caused by a competing illegal lottery.

- Alexandra Masso, along with her husband Leonardo, used her position as an office manager to embezzle money from Miller Dental Arts. On May 26, 2017, Alexandra Masso pleaded guilty to second-degree theft by unlawful taking and third-degree failure to pay. Leonardo Masso pleaded guilty to second-degree theft by unlawful taking. This investigation was conducted by the Hudson County Prosecutor's Office in conjunction with OCI's Freehold Financial Investigations Unit.
- On June 7, 2017, special agents from OCI conducted a compliance inspection of Mina Tobacco in Jersey City. Agents seized 40,452 cigars, 2,090 tobacco wraps, 24 hookah boxes, 225 cans of snuff, and 48 loose tobacco pouches. Two business officers, Mina A. Abdelaziz and Mar J. George, were arrested and charged with the following: filing a false return (third degree); failure to pay (third degree); failure to maintain books/records (third degree); offering false information to a public officer (disorderly person); falsifying records (fourth degree); possession of untaxed tobacco (disorderly person); and failure to keep tobacco records (disorderly person). After OCI processed the defendants, they were released on their own recognizance. This investigation was conducted by OCI's Special Investigations Unit.

- On June 26, 2017, six people were arrested in Lakewood, on State and federal charges involving benefit fraud. The charges allege that the defendants misrepresented their income when they submitted applications for government assistance programs – declaring inaccurate amounts that were low enough to qualify. They are accused of manipulating their tax returns and related business accounts to commit this fraud. The arrests were the result of a joint operation, dubbed Operation Blue Claw, with the Federal Bureau of Investigation, the New Jersey Office of the State Comptroller, the Ocean County Prosecutor's Office, and OCI. □ the Division if this income, which is reportable for federal income tax purposes in 2017, is subject to New Jersey Gross Income Tax at that time even though he is now a nonresident.

The Division responded that any compensation earned from or for services rendered in New Jersey by a nonresident is subject to Gross Income Tax in accordance with N.J.S.A. 54A:5-8a(2). It is reportable to New Jersey at the same time that it is reportable for federal income tax purposes under N.J.S.A. 54A:8-3(c). These two statutory sections provide that New Jersey sourced income earned in a prior period and reportable in a subsequent period is subject to Gross Income Tax, regardless of the residency of the taxpayer when reported.

Therefore, the taxpayer must source to New Jersey the IRC Section 457A deferred compensation income that is attributable to services performed in the State and report this income for New Jersey Gross Income Tax purposes in the same tax year as reported for federal income tax purposes.

Errors and Omissions on Form GIT/REP-3 — An attorney asked if an error on a completed Form GIT/REP-3 that accompanied a deed at recording would invalidate that deed and impair title to the property, even though there were no errors made on the recorded deed itself.

The Division cited N.J.S.A. 54A:8-10(g), which states:

“If a deed is recorded notwithstanding an omission or inaccuracy in the form prescribed pursuant to subsection a. of this section or in any certification by the transferor on such form or a deficiency in the

Deferred Compensation Received by a Nonresident Hedge Fund Manager Under IRC Section 457A

— A hedge fund manager, who while a resident of New Jersey and performing services in this state, deferred a portion of his compensation into an account in an offshore bank under IRC Section 457A. He asked payment of estimated gross income tax required by this section, the recording of such deed shall not be invalidated by reason of such omission, inaccuracy, erroneous certification or deficiency nor shall the title founded on such deed be impaired thereby.”

Therefore, the fact that a completed Form GIT/REP-3 contained errors does not invalidate the recorded deed transferring title from the sellers to the buyers. If a buyer, seller, or some other third party wishes to challenge the validity of the deed on some other grounds, they should consult their own independent legal counsel.

Fishing and Hunting Licenses Issued by Governmental Agencies

— A taxpayer inquired if charges for State hunting licenses, State fishing licenses, and federal duck stamps issued by the United States Fish and Wildlife Service are subject to New Jersey Sales and Use Tax.

The Division responded that sales of services or property not ordinarily sold by private persons are exempt from Sales and Use Tax when sold by federal or New Jersey governmental agencies. N.J.S.A. 54:32B-9(a). Therefore, charges for State hunting licenses, State fishing licenses, and federal duck stamps issued by the United States Fish and Wildlife Service are exempt from Sales and Use Tax.

Medical Grade Glue — A taxpayer, who provides medical services, inquired if Sales or Use Tax is due when purchasing medical grade glue that will be used by the taxpayer when providing medical services to treat patients. Medical grade glue is a medical adhesive that is used in lieu of stitches or staples to join the edges of a wound together or to close minor wounds.

The New Jersey Sales and Use Tax Act imposes tax on charges for retail sales of tangible personal property, unless a valid exemption exists. One of those exemptions is for charges for prosthetic devices for human use. N.J.S.A. 54:32B-8.1(a)(4). A “prosthetic device” is defined as a replacement, corrective, or supportive device including repair and replacement parts for same worn on or in the body in order to: artificially replace a missing portion of the body; or prevent or correct a physical deformity or malfunction; or support a weak or deformed portion of the body. N.J.S.A. 54:32B-8.1(b).

The Division responded that medical grade glue meets the definition of a prosthetic device because it artificially replaces a missing portion of the body (skin), it corrects a deformity or malfunction (open wound), and it supports a weak or deformed portion of the body (closes the open wound and allows it to heal). Therefore, charges for the taxpayer’s purchases of medical grade glue are exempt from Sales and Use Tax.

Correction: On Demand Streaming and Downloadable Videos Subscription

— On page 8 of the Spring 2017 issue of the New Jersey State Tax News, the Division addressed the taxability of a lump-sum charge for a subscription that provides both streaming and downloadable videos and television shows on demand. Although the Division correctly concluded that the charge was subject to Sales Tax because the sales price consisted of taxable and nontaxable products sold together for one price, the article included this incorrect sentence: “The Division responded that streaming videos are not considered specified digital products and are not subject to Sales Tax.” The correct sentence should have stated: “The Division responded that streaming videos are considered specified digital products, but are exempt from tax based on the facts provided because they are only accessed and are not delivered to the purchaser.” We regret the error. □

Taxation Boot Camp

The Division of Taxation welcomed 171 new hires in May of 2017. Taxation University, the Division's Education and Outreach Unit, conducted the first-ever Taxation Boot Camp to prepare the employees for their new roles.

This intensive four-week training was coined "Boot Camp" because of its structure and mission as the first step in the Division's transition to a more customer-focused agency. The program was designed to prepare new hires for their job assignments by introducing them to the core mission and major taxes administered by the Division. In addition to teaching tax basics and organizational responsibilities, we equipped them with a new vision for the Division of Taxation: Make it easy for the public to file and pay taxes.

After graduation from Boot Camp, our newest taxpayer service representatives, auditors, and investigators continued their education with specialized training in their own Activities.

The new workforce is now on the job and here to help make your Taxation experience better by improving:

- Hold times at our Customer Service Center;
- Our website's look and usability;
- Billing and Notice language;

- Audit and Investigation experiences;
- Updates on legislation and legal rulings.

The Division is proud to have such resourceful and knowledgeable new employees join the team, and we look forward to making it easier for you to voluntarily comply with your tax responsibilities. □

Senior Freeze Checks in the Mail

In mid-July, the Division of Taxation began mailing checks for the 2016 Senior Freeze to qualified senior and disabled homeowners who filed applications by the original filing deadline of June 1, 2017. We will issue checks as quickly as possible to homeowners who file their applications between the original June 1 deadline and the extended deadline of October 18, 2017.

The State Budget has set the following qualifications for Senior Freeze payments: Applicants are eligible if their income did not exceed $87,007 for 2015 and $70,000 for 2016, as long as they meet all other requirements. Residents whose income was more than $70,000 but was $87,007 or less will not receive checks for 2016. We will notify them that they are not eligible. However, those residents can establish a "base year" for future reimbursements by filing an application by the deadline. This

Public Service Award

On April 19, 2017, Dana Boente, U.S. Attorney for the Eastern District of Virginia, presented Supervising Special Agent Marijane Lamattina, Senior Special Agent Lloyd Martin, and Special Agent Nelson Avery with the U.S. Attorney's Public Service Award.

The agents, members of the Office of Criminal Investigation (OCI), were recognized for their work on an investigation into a transnational cigarette trafficking operation that involved New Jersey residents. Their efforts resulted in the shutdown of the $9.5 million smuggling ring that defrauded four jurisdictions of various taxes.

During the investigation, the OCI agents worked with U.S. Homeland Security Investigations and Task Force Officers from the Northern Virginia Financial Initiative. They reviewed thousands of pages of business records from wholesale clubs and storage facilities; cellphone, motor vehicle, and EZ Pass records; and a host of documents that targeted the perpetrators and their cohorts, including records from local law enforcement organizations located along the Northeast Corridor.

As a result of the agents' significant contributions to this case, the three conspirators pleaded guilty and were sentenced accordingly. □

GROSS INCOME TAX

Credit for Taxes Paid to Philadelphia

If a taxpayer paid tax to Philadelphia on income earned there and that income also is subject to New Jersey tax in the same year, the taxpayer may be eligible for a credit for taxes paid to another jurisdiction on his/her New Jersey Income Tax return.

A common problem in calculating a credit for Philadelphia is that taxpayers often include income that was not taxed by both New Jersey and Philadelphia. For example, 401(k) retirement contributions are taxable for Philadelphia purposes but are not taxable for New Jersey purposes. Since income must be subject to tax by both jurisdictions, the amount of the 401(k) contributions must be deducted from the income earned in Philadelphia when calculating the credit.

To determine the proper amount of income to include when calculating the credit, the taxpayer must first divide the wage tax paid by the Philadelphia tax rate. The result is the amount of income actually taxed by Philadelphia. This amount cannot exceed the income reported on Line 14 of the NJ-1040. Individuals who worked only in Philadelphia must then deduct the full 401(k) contribution amount. Individuals who worked both inside and outside Philadelphia must deduct the 401(k) contributions made while working in Philadelphia. Information about the Philadelphia wage tax rate is available on the Philadelphia Revenue Department's website.

P.L. 2013, c.15, established a Real Property Assessment Demonstration program to make the assessment of real property more precise by using technology-driven procedures. This will benefit municipalities by reducing the number of successful appeals, thereby protecting funding of municipal budgets from the impact of losses due to appeal refunds. Monmouth County was the first county to adopt this program, which began October 1, 2013.

The summer dates on the Monmouth County assessors' calendar coincide with the dates of the regular assessors' calendar with one exception: the July provision for the extension of the time to hear and determine an appeal(s) does not apply to the Monmouth County Assessment Demonstration program.

Criminal Enforcement

- On January 24, 2017, a Hudson County Grand Jury returned a five-count indictment against Alexandra and Leonardo Masso. This indictment follows a criminal investigation that was conducted by the Hudson County Prosecutor's Office in conjunction with the Office of Criminal Investigation's Financial Investigation Unit. The investigation revealed that Alexandra, along with her husband Leonardo, used her position as office manager to embezzle money from Miller Dental Arts. Alexandra and Leonardo Masso were indicted on second-degree theft by unlawful taking, second-degree conspiracy, third degree forgery, third-degree filing a fraudulent return, and third-degree failure to pay.
- On February 2, 2017, an Office of Criminal Investigations (OCI) intelligence officer received information that New Jersey State Police (NJSP) had made a motor vehicle stop in Carneys Point, New Jersey. One of the charges filed was transportation of untaxed cigarettes. NJSP contacted OCI per protocol, and OCI picked up and examined the contraband cigarettes. A total of seven cartons of Maryland state tax-stamped cigarettes were transferred to OCI. Additionally, Detective Long of the Moorestown Station charged each of the three individuals with theft, use of fictitious credit cards, possession of fraudulent credit cards, trafficking the personal identities of victims, possession of a controlled dangerous substance, and transporting contraband cigarettes. OCI will also file charges for failure to maintain records of cigarette purchases with the intent of evading State Cigarette Tax.

- On February 9, 2017, the U.S. Food and Drug Administration (FDA), Center for Tobacco Products, Office of Compliance and Enforcement began cooperating with OCI in enforcement activities. The FDA contracts with the New Jersey Department of Health to provide tobacco age-of-sale and related civil product compliance when contractors buy cigarettes and other tobacco products in New Jersey. OCI will now receive photographs of the purchased cigarette packs to ensure the presence of a legitimate New Jersey tax stamp as well as other data to be used to meet the due diligence requirement under the Master Settlement Agreement.
- On February 16, 2017, NJSP conducted a motor vehicle stop of Abdulfatah Alsaïdi of Virginia Beach, Virginia, who was in possession of 270 cartons of Virginia-stamped cigarettes. OCI responded and seized the cigarettes. Alsaïdi was charged with transportation of contraband cigarettes, knowingly or purposely possessing a controlled dangerous substance, and possessing 20,000 or more cigarettes to which the New Jersey tax stamp has not been applied.

- On March 9, 2017, U.S. District Court Judge Robert E. Payne sentenced Eyad Salahedin of Elmwood Park, New Jersey, to the maximum of five years in federal prison, followed by three years of supervised release. Salahedin pleaded guilty in November 2016 to one count of federal conspiracy to traffic contraband cigarettes in the Eastern District of Virginia, which is a felony offense. He began his prison term May 16, 2017. Salahedin was also ordered to pay restitution of $5,622,021 to the State of New Jersey. He must pay $150 per month or 25% of his gross monthly income, whichever is greater. The guilty plea was the result of a three-year contraband cigarette trafficking investigation. Between March 2014 and August 2015, Salahedin and his co-conspirators used fictitious businesses and stolen and false identities to purchase $9.6 million in cigarettes from big box stores (e.g., Sam’s Club, Costco) in Virginia. Salahedin provided conspirators with false identities, vehicles, and cash to make the purchases, and the cigarettes were smuggled north to be resold in the northern New Jersey and metro New York area. In this region, a carton of cigarettes can be sold for up to double the Virginia purchase price, making cigarette trafficking a highly lucrative but illegal trade. Throughout the course of this investigation, OCI used various investigative tools to target Salahedin, including conducting surveillance operations from New Jersey to Virginia, effectively bringing an end to the cigarette smuggling ring. The case was investigated by OCI, with assistance from the New Jersey Office of Homeland Security and Preparedness (OHSP), U.S. Homeland Security Investigation–Newark (HSI), and Washington–Baltimore HIDTA Task Force’s Northern Virginia Financial Initiative.

- On March 10, 2017, an undercover sale of counterfeit and out-of-state cigarettes was arranged in Woodbridge, New Jersey. After the transaction took place, OCI special agents entered the location and identified all individuals inside. They arrested the two subjects and proceeded with a compliance inspection of the business. Tejashkum Patel was identified as the owner of the business and was charged with multiple indictable and disorderly persons offenses.

Darshanku Patel was also charged with indictable offenses. Both sets of charges allege violations of the Cigarette Tax Act and the Tobacco Products Wholesale Sales and Use Tax Act. The men were processed and released on summons complaints. A total of 135 cartons of counterfeit-stamped and out-of-state stamped cigarettes were seized. In addition, 1,903 cigars were seized after the suspects were unable to show that Tobacco Tax had been paid, and $8,631 of U.S. currency was seized pending forfeiture by the courts.

- On March 28, 2017, OCI special agents arrested Richard Yanuzzi of Belleville, New Jersey, after a compliance inspection of his business, Cigar Emporium, on Ridge Road in Lyndhurst. He was charged with 12 third-degree counts of failure to file and failure to pay for reporting periods following his indictment on similar charges in September 2016. He was also charged with two disorderly persons offenses: possession of untaxed goods and failure to display a license. None of the tobacco products

- On March 29, 2017, the founder and director of the School for Children with Hidden Intelligence (SCHI) in Lakewood, New Jersey, was indicted on charges that he misappropriated over $630,000 in public tuition funds, using a purported fundraising foundation for the school in his alleged schemes to steal and launder money. The private school's founder and director, Rabbi Osher Eisemann, of Lakewood, was indicted along with the purported fundraising foundation for the school, Services for Hidden Intelligence, LLC, on second-degree charges of theft by unlawful taking, misapplication of entrusted property and property of government, and money laundering. The State Grand Jury indictment also charges Eisemann with second-degree misconduct by a corporate official. The indictment is the result of an ongoing joint criminal investigation by the Division of Criminal Justice and OCI. □

Corporation Business Tax
S Corporations Responsible for Payment of NJ Income Taxes Owed by Nonconsenting Shareholders — S corporations generally do not make direct payments of New Jersey Income Taxes. Instead, the corporation's earnings or losses are divided among and passed through to the corporation's shareholders. Shareholders are responsible for paying any tax owed. All initial shareholders must agree to pay taxes to New Jersey in this manner when they form an S corporation and register it in the State. When an S corporation registered in New Jersey alters or expands its ownership, new shareholders also are responsible for reporting taxable gains and losses. However, some new shareholders may not consent to file a New Jersey Income Tax return.

Under N.J.S.A. 54:10A-5.22(b)(3): “If shareholders that are not initial shareholders” fail to consent to pay New Jersey taxes on New Jersey S corporation results, the State shall “have the right and jurisdiction to collect a payment...directly from the corporation....In such case, the corporation shall have the right but not the obligation to recover payments made by the corporation...from each nonconsenting shareholder.” (Emphasis added.)

In addition, under N.J.A.C. 18:7-20.1(c)(1)(iii): “With respect to nonconsenting shareholders, the corporation and consenting shareholders consent to the corporation assuming any tax liabilities of the non-consenting shareholder as may be required pursuant to N.J.S.A. 54:10A-5.22b.” An existing shareholder whose percentage of stock ownership changes is not considered a new shareholder. The election to consent to taxation is made on Form CBT-2553.

There is a limited exemption to the procedures set forth above when a nonconsenting, nonresident shareholder elects to participate in a composite return under N.J.A.C. 18:35-5.2, which states, in part, that: “(a) A general partnership, a limited partnership, a limited liability partnership (LLP), a limited liability company (LLC), a New Jersey electing S corporation, an estate, a trust, or a professional athletic team (as defined in N.J.A.C. 18:35-5.1) doing business or conducting activities in New Jersey, or having income derived from or connected with sources within New Jersey may file a composite New Jersey Nonresident Gross Income Tax Return (Form NJ-1080-C) on behalf of its qualified nonresident individual partners, members, shareholders, or beneficiaries, as the case may be, who elect to file such return....”

Tax payments made by an S corporation on behalf of its nonconsenting shareholders on Form NJ-1080-C will satisfy the corporation's requirement to make tax payments under N.J.S.A. 54:10A-5.22(b)(3) for the participating shareholders. The filing of Form NJ-1080-C by an S corporation does not relieve the corporation from making payments on behalf of nonconsenting shareholders that do not elect or qualify to participate on Form NJ-1080-C.

This entire procedure is avoided if the shareholder consents to taxation

Property Tax Relief Programs
Operation Uphold Democracy in Haiti — A taxpayer wrote to the Division questioning why the military service period known as Operation Uphold Democracy in Haiti is not included when determining whether someone is eligible for the New Jersey Veteran’s Property Tax Deduction and the Disabled Veteran’s Property Tax Exemption. The taxpayer noted that such service qualifies a veteran for hiring preference for New Jersey civil service purposes.

The Division acknowledged that the provision of the Civil Service Act that relates to veterans’ preferences for employment purposes specifically includes Operation Uphold Democracy in Haiti (N.J.S.A. 11A:5-1b(12)). However, the laws (N.J.S.A. 54:4-8.10 and 54:4-3.33a, respectively) that define active service in time of war periods for purposes of the Veteran’s Property Tax Deduction and the Disabled Veteran’s Property Tax Exemption do not include Operation Uphold Democracy in Haiti as one of the qualifying wartime service periods.

As a result, service during Operation Uphold Democracy in Haiti does not qualify a veteran for the Veteran’s Property Tax Deduction or the Disabled Veteran’s Property Tax Exemption.

As an administrative agency, the Division of Taxation is required to administer and enforce the tax laws enacted by the New Jersey Legislature and has no authority to deviate from the specific language and intent of any statutory provision. Only the Legislature can change the definition of active service in time of war for the purposes of determining eligibility for the Veteran’s Property

Tax Deduction or the Disabled Veteran’s Property Tax Exemption. □

Safe Harbor and Extension Requirements

If you are not able to file your New Jersey Income Tax return by the due date, you can apply for an extension of time to file. To qualify for an extension, you must:

1. File New Jersey Form NJ-630 or a federal application for automatic extension, and
2. Have paid at least 80% of the actual tax liability shown on your return (Form NJ-1040, Line 42; Form NJ-1040NR, Line 40; Form NJ-1041, Line 28) through withholdings, estimated payments, or other payments by the original due date of the return.

There is confusion about the requirements for requesting an extension and the safe harbor provisions. Safe harbor refers to the provision that eliminates interest on the underpayment of estimated taxes if 100% of the previous year's tax liability has been paid (110% for certain taxpayers). Safe harbor does not apply to extensions of time to file. If, when you file your return, 80% of the tax liability had not been paid by the original due date, your extension request will be denied. This is true even if you had paid 100% of the previous year's liability.

For example, you are requesting an extension of time to file your 2016 Form NJ-1040. Your tax is $2,500 and you had withholdings of $1,800. To meet the requirement for an extension, you must pay at least $2,000 (80% of $2,500) by the original due date of April 18, 2017. Therefore, you must pay an additional $200 by the due date even if you have already paid 100% of the previous year's liability.

More information about the extension requirements is available on our website. □

INHERITANCE/ESTATE TAX IRA Waiver Requirements

Assets belonging to a resident decedent, with certain exceptions, cannot be transferred without the written consent of the Director of the Division of Taxation. This consent is known as a waiver. In general, if an asset comprising an IRA would not normally require a waiver (e.g., annuity), then a waiver is not needed for the IRA and will not be issued. These assets should still be reported on the Inheritance Tax Return, Schedule B (1): All Other Property.

If, however, an asset comprising an IRA would normally require a waiver (e.g., CD, brokerage account), then a waiver is required for the IRA. For Inheritance Tax purposes, and for Estate Tax returns filed using the Column A method, the asset should be reported on Schedule B (1): Bank Accounts/Brokerage Accounts of the New Jersey Inheritance Tax return. When no New Jersey Inheritance

Tax return is filed, but an Estate Tax return is filed using the Column B method, waivers should be requested on Schedule E-5, Waiver Request Schedule. Named beneficiaries and their respective shares should be reported, but are not required to appear on the waivers. Due to the nature of IRAs, blanket waiver provisions do not normally apply.

In the event that the IRA must be transferred before a return can be filed, a preliminary return, Form L-4, may be completed to request a waiver.

If there is no requirement to file a return, Form L-8 may be used to request a waiver for the IRA as long as all the requirements for the use of the form are met.

Criminal Enforcement

- On September 30, 2016, in the Mercer County Superior Court, Richard Yanuzzi, owner of Sparroween, LLC, with locations in Lyndhurst and West Caldwell, New Jersey, was indicted on multiple charges. Third-degree charges included failure to file New Jersey resident tax returns, failure to file New Jersey Sales Tax returns, failure to remit Sales Taxes in the amount of approximately $115,000, failure to file Tobacco Products Tax returns, Failure to Pay Tobacco Products Tax in the amount of approximately $327,000, and tampering with records or information and falsifying or tampering with records. Additional charges included second-degree misconduct by a corporate official, second-degree theft by unlawful taking, second-degree misapplication of entrusted property, and fourth-degree failure to register his second place of business with the State of New Jersey. The investigation was conducted by the Office of Criminal Investigation (OCI) and detectives in the New Jersey State Police Official Corruption North Squad. The case was presented to the State Grand Jury by the Division of Criminal Justice's Corruption and Government Fraud Bureau.

- OCI received information from the U.S. Treasury that Indian tobacco products were being offered for sale at Action Auto, an auto repair business. OCI conducted an investigation, and special agents seized a large quantity of Indian tobacco and Indian beedies on October 11, 2016. The tobacco products were owned by a known New Jersey businessman. All contraband was confiscated by OCI and transported to an evidence facility. The subject was charged with Title 54 criminal offenses for the possession of untaxed tobacco and cigarettes. A total of 46,487 packets of Indian tobacco, with an estimated value of $50,000, were seized. A total of 5,325 cartons of beedies, estimated to be worth $481,486, were also seized.
- OCI conducted a joint investigation with the Division of Criminal Justice into two companies: Colmyer and Sons Construction and Rayne Construction Management Services.

On October 11, 2016, Jeffrey Colmyer and Tiffany Cimino of Little Egg Harbor, New Jersey, were arrested on charges including theft, money laundering, misconduct by a corporate official, failure to pay taxes, and filing a fraudulent tax return. Colmyer and Cimino stole hundreds of thousands of dollars from their victims, who paid to have their homes repaired, elevated, and rebuilt in the wake of Superstorm Sandy. Colmyer and Cimino used the funds to pay personal expenses, including payments for new cars, jewelry purchases that included a $17,000 diamond ring, and hundreds of thousands of dollars that Colmyer gambled at multiple casinos in Atlantic City. The case is pending trial.

- The Hunterdon County Prosecutor's Office (HCPO) requested a joint investigation with OCI into a Pittstown, New Jersey, couple that was receiving thousands of dollars in social services benefits they were not eligible to collect. Christopher and Catherine Pennetta were arrested by HCPO and OCI on October 12, 2016. The couple was charged with theft by deception, conspiracy to commit theft by deception, hindering apprehension or prosecution, failure to pay taxes, failure to file tax returns, falsifying or tampering with records, and violation of contractor’s registration. Mr. Pennetta was running a contracting business and working on properties when he was collecting benefit payments for being permanently disabled and unable to work. The case is pending trial.

- On October 18, 2016, search warrants were executed at the office of Novy & Associates LLC and the residence of Robert Novy. This investigation was led by the Division of Criminal Justice with assistance from OCI. Approximately 70 boxes of records were confiscated and $3.5 million of Novy’s assets were frozen. Witnesses were also interviewed by OCI special agents. Novy allegedly stole more than $1.2 million from his clients during the period 2010 through 2015. This income was not reported by Novy for Income Tax purposes on his NJ-1040. Novy is currently being held on $500,000 bail and has been charged with first-degree money laundering, second-degree theft by unlawful taking, and second-degree misapplication of entrusted property. Charges for filing a fraudulent return and failure to pay are pending subpoena response and review of records from the search warrant.

- On October 19, 2016, OCI special agents performed a compliance inspection at the Delta Gas station in East Orange, New Jersey. As a result, 11 cartons of cigarettes bearing counterfeit New Jersey revenue stamps were seized, as well as 3,505 untaxed Other Tobacco Products (OTP). The manager of the business, Clement Ouedraogo of East Orange, New Jersey, was arrested by OCI special agents and charged in Essex County Superior Court with possession of 2,000 or more cigarettes bearing counterfeit New Jersey revenue stamps, failure to maintain records, and dealing with persons not licensed by the State of New Jersey. Special agents returned to this location the next day and seized an additional 14 cartons of cigarettes bearing counterfeit New Jersey revenue stamps, as well as 1,502 untaxed OTP. Charges will be filed against the owners of the business, Gian S. Jaswal of New Hyde Park, New York, and Gurjinder S. Jaswal of Montville, New Jersey. Charges will include those filed against Ouedraogo, as well as possession of untaxed goods (OTP), failure to maintain records (OTP), and failure to display a license.

- On October 19, 2016, OCI was contacted by the Englewood Police Department after the execution of a search warrant at a shed. Inside the shed was 284 cartons of Virginia-stamped cigarettes. OCI arrested Mohammed Alsaïdi of Kew Gardens, New York. Alsaïdi was charged with possession of 100 cartons or more of cigarettes, failure to maintain books and records, and dealing with people not properly registered with the Division of Taxation. Bail was set at $30,000, no 10%. Alsaïdi was remanded to the Bergen County Jail.
- On October 25, 2016, OCI special agents observed an individual later identified as Amit Jaitly, of South Plainfield, New Jersey, loading packages from his business in Edison, New Jersey, into a passenger van. Jaitly is a registered tobacco wholesaler with the State of New Jersey. Based on information received, Jaitly was suspected of selling untaxed tobacco and beedies. Beedies are commonly known as Indian cigarettes. Upon entering the business, a large package was observed near and under the control of Jaitly. That package was later inspected and found to contain beedies. Jaitly explained he was giving the beedies to the men in the van. Jaitly gave consent for OCI to be escorted to his other two storage areas in order to inspect the tobacco. Among the three locations, a total of 4,506 packages of Indian tobacco and 1,442 cartons of beedies were inventoried and seized. The products were deemed contraband, as Jaitly could not produce a single invoice or Tobacco Products Tax return for the products. The beedies' value exceeded $130,430, with an estimated Cigarette Tax loss to New Jersey of $38,947. Charges are pending.

- On November 1, 2016, OCI special agents executed a search warrant in Fairfield, New Jersey, where Mohammed Alsaqur, Suad Huzein, and Mike Eadeh were found operating a cigarette smuggling/counterfeit stamp operation. They were arrested by OCI special agents and charged with second-degree counterfeiting marks and conspiracy along with several Title 54 charges. Bail was set at $75,000, no 10%. The matter is pending trial. □

Signing Bonus — A nonresident athlete inquired about the taxability for Gross Income Tax purposes of a signing bonus he received from a New Jersey sports team. The Division responded that in accordance with N.J.A.C. 18:35-5.1(b)4ii, total compensation for services rendered as a member of a professional athletic team includes a bonus paid for signing a contract with a professional athletic team and must be included in the nonresident's total compensation. The nonresident athlete's New Jersey source income is then determined by apportioning his or her total compensation based on the number of duty days the athlete spent in New Jersey and the total number of duty days for the taxable year.

There is, however, an exception to the above in N.J.A.C. 18:35-5.1(b)4iv(2). If the signing bonus meets all three of the following conditions, it will not be included in the nonresident's total compensation: (A) the payment of the signing bonus is not conditional on the signer playing any games for the team, performing any subsequent services for the team, or even making the team; (B) the signing bonus is payable separately from the salary and any other compensation; and (C) the signing bonus is nonrefundable.

A nonresident athlete's signing bonus that meets all three of the above conditions is not taxable in New Jersey. If, however, the bonus does not meet all conditions, it is included in the athlete's total compensation and apportioned based on duty days spent in New Jersey.

Realty Transfer Fee

Cooperatives Created Prior to the Cooperative Recording Act — A taxpayer inquired if the Realty Transfer Fee imposed under N.J.S.A. 46:15-5 et seq. is due from transfers of cooperative unit shares and transfers of proprietary leases of cooperatives that were created prior to the effective date of the Cooperative Recording Act (Act).

The Cooperative Recording Act, N.J.S.A. 46:8D-1 et seq., imposes the Realty Transfer Fee on transfers of cooperative units in cooperatives formed after May 7, 1988, the effective date of the Cooperative Recording Act. This includes the transfers of proprietary leases in such cooperative units pursuant to N.J.S.A. 46:15-5.

The Division of Taxation responded that transfers of cooperative unit shares of cooperatives that were created prior to the effective date of the Cooperative Recording Act are not subject to the Realty Transfer Fee in accordance with Drew Associates of NJ, LP v. Travisano, 122 N.J. 249 (1991). In Drew, the New Jersey Supreme Court upheld the Act, which phased in a recording and taxing system applicable to cooperatives created after the effective date of the Act. The Court held that imposing the Realty Transfer Fee on transfers of cooperative shares of cooperatives created after the effective date, but not on transfers of cooperatives created before the effective date, did not violate the Equal Protection Clause of the U.S. Constitution. The Court also ruled that the provisions of the Act are applicable only to cooperatives created after the effective date of the Act.

Based on the above, transfers of cooperative unit shares of cooperatives created prior to May 7, 1988, the effective date of the Act, are not subject to the Realty Transfer Fee. Transfers of cooperative unit shares and transfers of proprietary leases of cooperatives formed after that date are subject to the fee.

On Demand Streaming and Downloadable Videos Subscription

A taxpayer inquired about the application of the New Jersey Sales and Use Tax Act to a fee for a subscription that provides both streaming and downloadable videos and tv shows on demand.

New Jersey imposes Sales Tax on the receipts from retail sales of tangible personal property and specified digital products, unless a valid exemption exists. “Specified digital product” means an electronically transferred digital audio-visual work, digital audio work, or digital book. Receipts from sales of a specified digital product that is accessed, but not delivered electronically to the purchaser, are exempt from the tax.

The Division responded that streaming videos are not considered specified digital products and are not subject to Sales Tax. Downloaded videos are considered specified digital products and are subject to Sales Tax. Although the company’s subscription consists of both non-taxable and taxable products, the charge for the subscription is subject to Sales Tax because when taxable and nontaxable products are sold together for one price, the sales price is subject to Sales Tax. N.J.S.A. 54:32B-24.4. □

In Our Courts

Sales and Use Tax

Separately Stated Charges – Premier Netcomm Solutions, LLC v. Director, Division of Taxation; decided October 25, 2016; Tax Court Docket No. 016307-2012; motion for reconsideration decided January 9, 2017.

Premier Netcomm Solutions, LLC (Plaintiff), a company that provides information technology solutions, was audited by the Division of Taxation for the period January 1, 2004, to December 21, 2010. The resulting Sales Tax assessment was based on a review of sampled invoices that did not break down the taxable and nontaxable charges. Instead, Plaintiff included all charges on one line of the invoice, which made the entire invoice subject to Sales Tax. In addition, Plaintiff did not provide any invoices or other evidence that it had paid Sales Tax on purchases it made, resulting in the Division making a Use Tax assessment.

Plaintiff argued that some of its purchases were not taxable because it was obvious from the invoice that the purchase was for resale. Plaintiff also argued that because lessors and certain sellers (e.g., Radio Shack, Home Depot, and Best Buy) always collect Sales Tax on their sales, Plaintiff must have paid Sales Tax. The Court upheld the Use Tax assessment noting that Plaintiff failed to provide evidence of resale and that although there is an assumption that certain sellers always charge Sales Tax, that assumption does not constitute proof.

The Court stated that when taxable and nontaxable charges are on the same invoice and are not separately stated, the entire charge is presumed to be taxable, but that presumption can be overcome. In this case, some of the invoices showed that the sales were destined for out-of-state customers. Because out-of-state sales are exempt under N.J.S.A. 54:32B-3(b), the Court ruled that those out-of-state sales were not subject to Sales Tax even though taxable and nontaxable charges were not separately stated.

In its decision, the Court held that charges for services performed in connection with prewritten computer software prior to October 1, 2005, were exempt from Sales and Use Tax because the law stating that prewritten computer software was tangible property was not enacted until October 2005. The Division filed a motion for reconsideration contending that the Court erred in so concluding because the law enacted in October 2005 simply enumerated what was always taxable. After conducting an in-depth review of the Division’s relevant publications, notices, and regulations, the Court reversed its decision, finding that the October 2005 law simply restated the existent law in 2004 that prewritten computer software was tangible personal property. □

There have been some important changes affecting the preparation of New Jersey Income Tax returns and applications for New Jersey's property tax relief programs for 2016. In addition, there are several important legislative changes coming for tax year 2017.

Income Tax

- Filing Deadline — The filing deadline is April 18, 2017, for calendar year taxpayers, the same day the federal Form 1040 is due. The due date is April 18 instead of April 15 because of the Emancipation Day holiday in the District of Columbia.
- Driver's License Number — The Division of Taxation is asking taxpayers to provide a Driver's License or State Non-Driver Identification card number on the tax return. Providing this information is voluntary. The Division may use it to validate the taxpayer's identity in an effort to combat identity theft and fraudulent filing.
- Earned Income Tax Credit — The New Jersey Earned Income Tax Credit (NJEITC) amount increases to 35% of the applicant's federal benefit for tax year 2016 and after.
- Achieving a Better Life Experience Program (ABLE) Accounts — Earnings on qualified distributions from ABLE accounts are exempt from tax. However, earnings on nonqualified distributions are taxable and must be included as income.

- Credit for Excess UI/WF/SWF; DI; FLI Withheld — For 2016, the maximum employee unemployment insurance/workforce development partnership fund/supplemental workforce fund contribution was $138.56, the maximum employee disability insurance contribution was $65.20, and the maximum employee family leave insurance contribution was $26.08. Those who had two or more employers may have contributed more than the maximum amount(s). They must complete Form NJ-2450 to claim credit on the New Jersey tax return for the excess withheld.
- Credit for Taxes Paid to Other Jurisdictions — The Philadelphia nonresident wage tax rate for 2016 was 3.4828% (.034828) from Jan. 1 to June 30, 2016, and 3.4741% (.034741) from July 1 to Dec. 31, 2016.
- Alternative Business Calculation Adjustment — Taxpayers who have losses in certain business-related categories of income may be able to use those losses to calculate an adjustment to taxable income. In addition, they can carry forward unused losses in those categories for 20 years to calculate future

adjustments. For tax year 2016 and after, the percentage used to calculate the Alternative Business Calculation Adjustment on Schedule NJ-BUS-2 is 50%, up from 40% in 2015. The percentage was phased in over a five-year period that began in 2012.

- Designated Contributions — The Fund for the Support of New Jersey Nonprofit Veterans Organizations has been added to the list of organizations to which taxpayers can contribute on the New Jersey tax return. To donate to the new fund, taxpayers must specify code number “22” at the “Other Designated Contribution” line.

Property Tax Relief Programs

- 2016 Property Tax Reimbursement (Senior Freeze) — The Senior Freeze (Property Tax Reimbursement) Program reimburses eligible senior citizens or disabled persons for Property Tax increases. Eligible residents must file a 2016 Property Tax Reimbursement Application (Form PTR-1 or PTR-2) by June 1, 2017. The 2016 applications are expected to be mailed in mid to late February.

With very few exceptions, all income received during the year, including income that is not required to be reported on Form NJ-1040, must be taken into account to determine eligibility for the Property Tax Reimbursement. For residents applying for reimbursements for tax year

2016, total annual income must be:

2015: $87,007 or less, and

2016: $87,007 or less

The limits apply regardless of marital/civil union status. However, if an applicant’s status is married/CU couple, combined income of both spouses/CU partners must be reported.

NOTE: Eligibility requirements, including income limits, and benefits available under this program are subject to change. Information for 2016 will be posted on the Division’s website as it becomes available.

- Homestead Benefit Program — Information about filing for benefits under the Homestead Benefit Program is not yet available. Please continue to check our website as information will be posted as it becomes available.

Changes Coming for Tax Year 2017 and After

- Retirement Income Exclusions — Qualified taxpayers will be able to exclude more pension and other income on the New Jersey return. The increased exclusion amounts will be phased in over a four-year period. See chart on page 3.
- Personal Exemption for Veterans — Veterans who were honorably discharged or released under honorable circumstances from active duty in the Armed Forces of the United States will be eligible for an additional $3,000 exemption.

Changes to Other Taxes

There have also been some important changes affecting the Petroleum Products Gross Receipts Tax, Sales Tax and the Estate Tax. P.L. 2016, c.57, which was signed into law on Oct. 14, 2016, provides tax relief for New Jersey residents and funding for the Transportation Trust Fund.

- Petroleum Products Gross Receipts Tax — Effective Nov. 1, 2016, the tax rate increased, a number of new exemptions were added and certain reporting requirements were changed. More information on the Petroleum Products Gross Receipts Tax changes is available online.
- Sales and Use Tax — The New Jersey Sales and Use Tax rate will be reduced in two phases between 2017 and 2018. The tax rate decreased from 7% to 6.875% for Jan. 1 to Dec. 31, 2017. The rate will decrease to 6.625% on Jan. 1, 2018. Additional information on the Sales and Use Tax changes is available online.
- Inheritance and Estate Tax — The New Jersey Estate Tax will be phased out over a two-year period.

The exemption will increase from $675,000 to $2 million for the estates of resident decedents dying on or after Jan. 1, 2017, but before Jan. 1, 2018. The tax will be eliminated for the estates of resident decedents dying on or after Jan. 1, 2018. Additional information on the Estate Tax changes is available online. □

INHERITANCE/ESTATE TAX

Making Portability and QTIP Elections

On Sept. 27, 2016, the Internal Revenue Service (IRS) released Revenue Procedure 2016-49, which provides guidance on making portability and Qualified Terminable Interest Property (QTIP) elections. Taxpayers have asked the Division if New Jersey follows the federal procedures for Estate Tax purposes.

“Portability” of the estate tax exemption allows a spouse to inherit the unused estate tax exemption of their deceased spouse. The QTIP election creates a type of trust that enables the grantor to provide for a surviving spouse and to maintain control of how the trust distributes assets once the surviving spouse dies.

Previously, under Revenue Procedure 2001-38, the IRS would disregard unnecessary QTIP elections for federal estate tax purposes. For example, if a decedent’s estate was under the applicable exclusion amount, the IRS would disregard a QTIP election made solely to preserve the deceased spouse’s unused exclusion amount under the portability rules.

Revenue Procedure 2016-49 modifies and supersedes Revenue Procedure 2001-38. The new procedure respects QTIP elections of estates that properly made a portability election, regardless of the Estate Tax value before the QTIP election. It allows estates that make a portability election to also make a valid QTIP election even if the election is not necessary to reduce the estate tax liability. The procedure confirms that the estate can elect portability when assets pass to a surviving spouse through a QTIP trust.

If a taxpayer makes an election for federal estate tax purposes, he or she must also make that election for New Jersey purposes. Therefore, New Jersey follows federal treatment regarding portability and

If a federal estate tax return is not filed and/or not required to be filed, the estate tax representative may make a QTIP election in accordance with the provisions of the Internal Revenue Code for New Jersey Estate Tax purposes.

For New Jersey and federal tax purposes, Revenue Procedure 2016-49 was effective immediately. □

Small Business Workshops

The Division of Taxation provides free workshops designed to assist small business owners in meeting their New Jersey tax obligations. The workshops are half-day seminars presented at locations throughout the State. The Internal Revenue Service does not participate in these seminars.

Interest 6.50%

The interest rate assessed on amounts due for the period Jan. 1, 2017 – Dec. 31, 2017, will be 6.50%.

The assessed interest rate history is listed below.

Effective Date	Interest Rate
1/1/11	6.25%
1/1/12	6.25%
1/1/13	6.25%
1/1/14	6.25%
1/1/15	6.25%
1/1/16	6.25%
1/1/17	6.50%

The workshops include the following topics:

- Identifying types of business ownership and the tax consequences of each type.
- Registering a business with the Division of Taxation, Division of Revenue and Enterprise Services and Department of Labor and Workforce Development.
- Determining what is taxable and what is exempt for New Jersey Sales Tax purposes.
- Procedures for collecting and remitting various New Jersey taxes.
- Filing Sales and Use Tax returns.
- Meeting employer responsibilities.
- Reporting business income.

To attend a workshop, review the schedule and register with the contact person listed for each event. The contact person can also provide the time of the workshop, parking information and directions to the location. The Division does not manage the registration process.

The current workshop schedule is available online. The Division updates the schedule as new workshops are added. □

Criminal Enforcement

- On July 9, 2016, the Office of Criminal Investigation (OCI) seized 266 cartons of Virginia-stamped cigarettes from Elmore T. Spencer, Jr. of Pompton Lakes, New Jersey. OCI special agents charged Spencer with: possession of 100 cartons or more of out-of-State stamped cigarettes; failure to maintain records of cigarette purchases; engaging in conduct requiring licensure without registration or licensure; transportation of contraband cigarettes; possession of unstamped, out-of-State stamped and/or counterfeit tax-stamped cigarettes; failure to maintain records; and failure to obtain a New Jersey cigarette retail dealer's license. OCI had received intelligence that Spencer was a Virginia-to-New Jersey trafficker. He is awaiting trial in Superior Court.
- On July 13, 2016, OCI special agents, supported by the Essex County Prosecutor's Office and U.S. Homeland Security Investigations (HSI), executed an arrest warrant on Miguel O. Martinezbrito for money laundering, falsifying or tampering with records, misconduct by a corporate official, false swearing on a return, failure to collect or withhold tax, failure to maintain books and records, filing a false return and failure to file a return. Search warrants were executed on Martinezbrito's residence, his business's box truck and his business's storage unit. The search resulted in the seizure of $10,357 in cash subject to forfeiture, 24,734 cigars and various business records. The warrants were executed as part of an ongoing tax evasion investigation related to the sale of tobacco products by Martinezbrito, who had been previously arrested by OCI special agents.

- On July 13, 2016, OCI staff assisted Middlesex County police in executing search warrants involving Hector's Towing, a business in New Brunswick, and the residence of Hector Perez, the business owner, in East Brunswick. Hector's Towing and Hector Perez are accused of filing false tax returns and failing to file tax returns for the tax years 2011 to the present. During the search, various business records were recovered, which will help further OCI's investigation, as well as narcotics that were allegedly offered for sale at the business. As a result of the search, the business owner was arrested and processed on both OCI charges and municipal police department counts relative to the possession and sale of narcotics.

- On July 22, 2016, Steven W. Turner of New Hope, Pennsylvania, was sentenced on one count of failure to pay New Jersey State taxes (in excess of $75,000), a third-degree offense. The charges were the result of his failure to pay New Jersey Personal Income Taxes for 2008. Turner was convicted at a jury trial. Mercer County Superior Court Judge Pedro Jiménez sentenced Turner to 364 days in county jail and three years' probation and ordered him to make full restitution of $344,806.39 within two years. If Turner fails to make full restitution, he will be required to serve the 364-day sentence. OCI investigated and charged Turner, and Mercer County Assistant Prosecutor James Scott prosecuted for the State.
- On July 29, 2016, Thomas Fagan was convicted of multiple counts of tax evasion. Fagan was the president and CEO of the companies Energex Systems and Arbios Systems. He was found guilty of failure to file Gross Income Tax returns for tax years 2007, 2008 and 2009. Fagan failed to report income of $402,857.80 in 2007, $601,440 in 2008 and $275,514 in 2009. Fagan, the only authorized officer for Energex Systems, was found guilty of failure to file the New Jersey Corporation Business Tax returns of Energex Systems for the tax years 2008, 2009, 2010 and 2011. Additionally, as the only authorized officer for Arbios Systems, Fagan was found guilty of failure to file the New Jersey Corporation Business Tax returns of Arbios Systems for the tax years 2009, 2010 and 2011. The jury was unable to reach a unanimous verdict on counts of misapplication of entrusted property, theft, money laundering and misconduct by a corporate official, which are all second-degree crimes. Sentencing for Fagan is pending. The Division of Criminal Justice is considering a retrial for the counts on which the jury could not reach a unanimous verdict. This case was handled exclusively by OCI special agents.

- On Aug. 4, 2016, Walter Reyes-Gutierrez was arrested without incident at his apartment in Elizabeth, New Jersey. He was secured, taken into custody and transported to the Middlesex County Correctional Facility for processing. He was charged with six indictable offenses including first-degree money laundering and conspiracy. Bail was set at $500,000, no 10%. OCI began this investigation into the trafficking of contraband cigarettes and counterfeit cigarette tax stamps two years ago. Several undercover purchases of New Jersey counterfeit tax stamps were made, resulting in 256,320 counterfeit tax stamps purchased from Gutierrez and a tax loss diversion in the amount of $692,064. The case is pending in Union County Superior Court.

- On Aug. 23, 2016, OCI special agents inspected YES Supermarket in Newark, New Jersey. The inspection resulted in the seizure of 11,626 containers of untaxed alcohol, 86 cartons of contraband cigarettes and 17 loose cigarettes. The owner of the business, Delia N. Sarango, will be charged with: possession of 10 or more counterfeit tax-stamped cigarettes, tax upon alcoholic beverages involved in illegal acts, failure to maintain books and records and purchasing cigarettes from an unlicensed vendor. This case dismantled a speakeasy (after-hours club) in Newark located in a set of buildings with a maze of connections unknown to local law enforcement. OCI continues to see an increase in untaxed alcohol in urban areas connected with untaxed cigarette/tobacco seizures.
- On Sept. 19, 2016, Dr. Michael H. Rieber, former Deputy Mayor of Livingston, New Jersey, pled guilty to one count of failing to pay New Jersey Income Tax for the years 2009, 2010 and 2011. Dr. Rieber utilized fraudulent partnerships and claimed overinflated expenses, which resulted in large losses that he used to offset legitimate partnership income. Dr. Rieber paid $250,000 restitution to New Jersey's Department of the Treasury and was admitted into the Pretrial Intervention Program.

- On Sept. 20, 2016, OCI received a request for assistance from the Newark Police Department's Major Crimes Unit. Newark Police detectives responded to an emergency call about a carjacking and assault that involved shots fired and aggravated assault. While securing the scene in the driveway and garage in Newark, New Jersey, detectives observed an unusual volume of cigarettes and notified OCI. Special agents responded and obtained search warrants for the premises and two vehicles located there from the Essex County Superior Court. Upon execution of the warrant, OCI seized: 525 cartons of cigarettes with counterfeit New Jersey tax stamps, out-of-State stamped and unstamped cigarettes; 75,736 counterfeit New Jersey tax stamps, 8,445 counterfeit New York tax stamps; $18,722 cash, subject to forfeiture; as well as two vehicles. The homeowner, Merysol Mendez-Reyes, was charged in Essex County Superior Court with seven indictable counts regarding the possession of untaxed cigarettes, counterfeit tax stamps and distribution of same. □

Corporate Inversion, No Income Received — A taxpayer asked if the Division would require him to report

a corporate inversion transaction on his Property Tax Reimbursement (PTR) Application.

The taxpayer is a shareholder of a company that went through a corporate inversion. A corporate inversion is a transaction in which domestic corporations move their tax residence overseas to countries with lower taxes. In this case, the corporation acquired a smaller company based in Ireland, a foreign country with a lower tax rate. The company then located the residence of the combined corporation to Ireland for tax purposes. The taxpayer did not actually receive any income from the transaction because the value of the stock sold in the transaction did not exceed its basis.

Generally, New Jersey treats a corporate inversion transaction as a taxable sale of shares that must be reported on the PTR application. However, in this case, the taxpayer received no reportable income. The Division cited the holding in Hawe vs. Director, Division of Taxation, 26 NJ Tax 349 (2012), which stated “The Legislature expressly conditioned eligibility for a homestead property tax reimbursement on an applicant’s ‘annual income’ and not on the assets a homeowner has available in a particular tax year for the payment of local property taxes.” Based on the above, the taxpayer was advised that he was not required to report the corporate inversion transaction on his PTR application.

Railroad Disability Retirement

— A disabled taxpayer who is not yet 65 asked the Division if he was eligible to receive a Property Tax Reimbursement (PTR) because he was receiving railroad disability retirement benefits.

The Division responded that under N.J.S.A. 54:4-8.67 an applicant must be 65 or more years of age or be a “disabled person.” For purposes of the Homestead Property Tax Reimbursement Act a disabled person is defined as an individual receiving monetary payments under the federal Social Security Act established under Title 42 of the U.S. Code. Although railroad disability retirement benefits mirror the disability benefits paid under the Social Security Act, the former are established under Title 45 of the U.S. Code. Based on this, an individual receiving railroad disability retirement benefits cannot be considered a disabled person for PTR purposes. As a result, the taxpayer is not eligible to receive a Property Tax Reimbursement. □

In Our Courts Administration

Timely Filing Requirement – Graziano, Thomas and Bonnie v. Director, Division of Taxation, decided Sept. 30, 2016, Tax Court Docket No. 001914-2014.

On Feb. 22, 2012, the Division issued a request for information to Thomas and Bonnie Graziano (Plaintiffs) regarding their 2008 Gross Income Tax return. The Plaintiffs failed to respond, and the Division issued an arbitrary notice of deficiency (notice) by certified mail on April 5, 2012, to the Plaintiffs’ last known address. The Division received the certified mail return receipt, which was signed by “Bonnie” on April 12, 2012.

On Nov. 7, 2013, Plaintiffs received a collection letter from Pioneer Credit Recovery on behalf of the Division. On that same date, Plaintiff Thomas sent a letter to the Division’s Conference and Appeals Branch alleging that he never received the notice of deficiency. He later claimed that he had forwarded it to the accountant who had filed the return at issue to resolve the notice. After learning that the accountant did not timely challenge the notice, Thomas hired a new accountant who protested the notice and requested a hearing on Nov. 22, 2013.

On Dec. 13, 2013, the Conference and Appeals Branch issued a final determination denying the Plaintiff's protest as untimely and explaining his appeal rights. On March 13, 2014, Plaintiffs filed a complaint in Tax Court claiming that the Division incorrectly calculated the deficiency, and that plaintiffs should not be penalized because their accountant did not file a timely protest.

The Tax Court found that both the protest letter and the complaint were untimely. Consequently, the Court held that it did not have subject matter jurisdiction to hear the merits of the case and that the assessment is final.

Local Property Tax

Property Tax Exemption – Galloway Township v. Lucienne Duncan, decided Nov. 14, 2016; Tax Court.

Lucienne Reed Duncan served on active duty from Aug. 21, 2006, to Sept. 30, 2010, as a neurologist in the United States Air Force. She was stationed at Andrews Air Force Base in Maryland and provided medical diagnostic support in the special medical care unit. During her active duty tour, she treated military personnel injured in combat, including exposure to and suffering injury from explosive blasts, gunfire and artillery fire. Duncan treated service members who suffered shrapnel wounds, dismembered extremities, traumatic brain injuries, eye injuries, paralysis and spinal and head injuries. She described her corp's mission as that of a support force providing air medical evacuation for all branches.

Dr. Duncan explained that medical treatment has changed since the days of the Korean and Vietnam conflicts. During that time, surgical units were deployed close to the battlefield. Now, injured personnel are evacuated to more comprehensive medical facilities. Andrews Air Force Base is used as such for injured soldiers before they are transported to the Walter Reed/Bethesda Medical Center System. Duncan testified that 80–85% of the injured soldiers would see their first doctor at Andrews, and that the percentage of medical doctors on evacuation flights was less than 5%.

After her service in the military, Dr. Duncan went into private practice with AtlantiCare Medical Facility in Galloway Township. Due to her experiences during active duty in the Armed Forces, she was unable to continue her career as a neurologist. In April of 2013, she was declared to have a service-connected 100% permanent disability by the United States Veterans Administration (VA). The parameters for the VA to establish a service-connected disability are defined by federal statute.

Dr. Duncan served in the United States during Operation Enduring Freedom. For this statutory wartime service period, Dr. Duncan's service must not only be in the "theater of operation" but must also be in "direct support" of the operation.

The issue of "theater of operation" was considered first by the Tax Court. The Court found that Dr. Duncan's service at Andrews Air Force Base was in a "theater of operation" of Operation Enduring Freedom. The Court referenced Wellington v. Township of Hillsborough, 27 N.J. Tax 37 (2012). As in Wellington, where the service member suffered injuries from chemical agents collected in the battlefield while serving in the United States, so too was Dr. Duncan exposed to the dangers of war through her experience and direct contact with death and trauma from the battlefield.

Concerning the issue of "direct support," the Court explained:

The fact that she was in a permanent facility in the United States, instead of some medical tent in a war zone in Iraq, does not minimize the "direct support" she provided in treating severely wounded soldiers of battle. Moreover, the distance of her stationed facility did not diminish the severity of torn limbs and other injuries she treated such that her service was not an experience of war.

The Court concluded that Dr. Duncan qualifies for the disabled veterans' Property Tax exemption.

Sales Tax Collected is Sales Tax Stated on the Invoice – Dick Greenfield Dodge, Inc. v. Director, Division of Taxation, decided April 28, 2016, Tax Court Docket No. 010644-2012.

Dick Greenfield Dodge (Plaintiff) is a car dealership that also operates a service department that repairs and services cars. During the course of a Sales Tax audit, the auditor found that the amount of Sales Tax the Plaintiff showed on its service invoices was higher than the amount of Sales Tax posted in the Plaintiff's internal sales ledger. Because the amount indicated as collected was more than the Plaintiff remitted, the auditor issued an assessment for the unpaid Sales Tax.

According to Plaintiff, before performing work on a customer's vehicle, Plaintiff would provide an invoice that stated the estimated charges for labor and parts and the amount of Sales Tax due for those charges. After the work was completed, Plaintiff would provide the customer with a final invoice that stated the total charges for labor and parts, the amount of Sales Tax on the total charges and, in some cases, a discount. The separately stated Sales Tax was not reduced to reflect any discount. The final invoice included some coding that Plaintiff purports is the allocation of the discount between parts/services and Sales Tax. Plaintiff posted a corresponding journal entry in its ledger for each invoice that allocated the discount between parts, service and Sales Tax. Plaintiff remitted the amount in the Sales Tax account to the Division.

Plaintiff asserts that the Sales Tax amount stated on the invoice was not actually collected and, therefore, Plaintiff did not have to remit it. N.J.S.A. 54:32B-12(a) requires that on the receipt given to the customer the Sales Tax be stated, charged and shown separately. N.J.S.A. 54:32B-18 requires that all Sales Tax collected by the seller must flow through to the Division, even if the amount collected constitutes an overpayment. The Tax Court held that Plaintiff must remit the amount of Sales Tax stated on the customer's invoice as the amount being collected. Although Plaintiff argued that the invoice included a Sales Tax discount, the invoice did not specifically show that. The coding that Plaintiff purports as the allocation of the discount to the tax was not decipherable by anyone except the Plaintiff. The Court found that a seller who is collecting tax on behalf of the State is required to turn square corners when dealing with the taxpaying public.

The Court determined that the requirement that a seller turn over to the Division all tax amounts that it informed customers would be collected satisfies a number of policy considerations:

1. The taxpaying public must have confidence in the tax system. Allowing the use of written documents that don't accurately reflect the tax paid undermines that confidence;
2. Accepting a seller's claim that the printed invoices don't reflect reality could lead to "mischief" by the seller;
3. Including the Sales Tax discount with another discount misleadingly inflates the discount the seller is giving the customer and can skew the market;
4. Allowing proof of anything other than what the invoice shows as having been collected for taxes would "introduce an administrative and adjudicatory quagmire" to determine the actual amount of tax that is due; and
5. The amount of separately stated Sales Tax can be used for other tax purposes, such as federal tax deductions. If the amount stated on an invoice is inflated, then the corresponding deductions may be overstated as well. □

In Our Legislature

Local Property Tax

Atlantic City Alliance Abolishment — P.L. 2016, c.5, provides that beginning with calendar year 2017, and for the succeeding nine calendar years, casino gaming properties located in Atlantic City are exempt from local property taxation on real property and existing improvements, including accessory hotels, conference centers, parking garages and other appurtenant facilities, and are now responsible for making P.I.L.O.T. (Payments-in-Lieu-of-Tax) payments.

Deferred Mortgage Loan and Property Tax Payments — P.L. 2016, c.63, allows certain National Guard and United States Reserve members to temporarily defer mortgage loan payments and Property Tax payments while in service on federal active duty. The mortgage loan deferment remains in effect for 60 days after release from federal active duty. The deferment for Property Tax payments remains in effect for 90 days after release from federal active duty.

Stadium and Arena Property Tax Exemption — P.L. 2016, c.65, clarifies and reaffirms that stadiums and arenas owned by government entities are entirely exempt from property taxation. The bill reaffirms that when government entities enter into private-public arrangements and lease property to for-profit entities to achieve stadium and arena uses that such property, including any leasehold interest in such property, remains entirely tax-exempt.

Multiple Taxes

the Economic Development Authority (EDA) to award an additional $90 million in tax credits under the Economic Redevelopment and Growth Grant (ERGG) Program and clarifies section 6 of P.L. 2009, c.90, by reconciling three recent enactments of the Legislature, each of which amended that section of the law. Section 6 of P.L. 2009, c.90, imposes limits on the overall amount of tax credits the EDA may approve under the ERGG Program and allocates funding to specific geographic regions and categories of projects. Prior to the recent amendments to this statute, this provision of the law limited the overall amount of tax credits that the EDA may approve under the ERGG Program to $600 million.

Revised New Jersey Transportation Trust Fund Authority Act — P.L. 2016, c.56, revises the New Jersey Transportation Trust Fund Authority Act of 1984. It establishes the State Transportation Infrastructure Bank within the New Jersey Environmental Infrastructure Trust and renames the Trust. The amendments also provide that all revenues generated from the Motor Fuels Tax and the Petroleum Products Gross Receipts Tax are now deposited into the Transportation Trust Fund.

Adjustments to Specified State Taxes — P.L. 2016, c.57, amends and supplements specified State taxes. It decreases the Sales and Use Tax rates, phases out the Estate Tax, increases the Gross Income Tax pension and retirement income exclusions, increases the New Jersey Earned Income Tax Credit (NJEITC), establishes a new veteran's personal exemption and creates a cents-per-gallon rate on Petroleum Products Gross Receipts Tax.

Sales and Use Tax

Effective Jan. 1, 2017, this law amends section 3 of P.L. 1966, c.30 (C.54:32B-3) to decrease the Sales and Use Tax rate from 7 percent to 6.875 percent. On Jan. 1, 2018, the law further reduces the rate to 6.625 percent.

Estate Tax

The law phases out the New Jersey Estate Tax over two years by increasing the tax exclusion threshold of $675,000 to $2 million for resident decedents dying on or after Jan. 1, 2017. No Estate Tax will be imposed on the transfer of an estate of a resident decedent who dies on or after Jan. 1, 2018.

Gross Income Tax

Pension and Retirement Income Exclusion. The law increases the New Jersey Gross Income Tax pension and retirement income exclusions over four years for certain retired New Jersey taxpayers. See chart on page 3 for exclusion amounts. The exclusion is only allowed if the taxpayer's gross income for the tax year is not more than $100,000.

Earned Income Tax Credit. The law increased the New Jersey Earned Income Tax Credit (NJEITC) to 35 percent of the federal benefit amount beginning in tax year 2016. The NJEITC, which piggybacks on the federal EIC program, previously provided a refundable Earned Income Tax Credit equal to 30 percent of the federal benefit amount.

Veteran's Personal Exemption. This law provides a personal exemption of $3,000 for any veteran who is honorably discharged or released under honorable circumstances from active duty in the Armed Forces of the United States, a reserve component thereof or the National Guard of New Jersey in a federal active duty status.

Petroleum Products Gross Receipts Tax

The law provides for increases in the Petroleum Products Gross Receipts Tax. Previously, the Petroleum Products Tax was imposed at the rate of 2.75 percent on gross receipts from the first sale of petroleum products in New Jersey. In the case of motor fuels, aviation fuels and heating fuels (home heating fuels are exempt), this rate is converted to $0.04 per gallon.

The new law increases the base rate on petroleum products, other than highway fuel and aviation fuel, from 2.75 percent to 7 percent of gross receipts and increases the base rate on highway fuel from 2.75 percent to 12.85 percent of gross receipts. The new tax rates for highway fuel, other than diesel fuel, went into effect Nov. 1, 2016. The rate increase on diesel fuel will occur in two steps: (1) 70 percent of the rate increase took effect on Jan. 1, 2017, and (2) the full rate increase will take effect on July 1, 2017.

The 12.85 percent tax on gasoline (which excludes aviation gasoline), gasoline equivalents and liquefied petroleum gas is converted to a cents-per-gallon rate based on the retail price of gasoline before the imposition of State and federal tax. The 12.85 percent tax on diesel fuel, diesel fuel equivalents and kerosene (other than aviation grade kerosene) is converted to a cents-per-gallon rate based on the retail price of number 2 diesel before tax. The diesel and kerosene rate increased on Jan. 1, 2017, to 70 percent of the 12.85 percent rate. On and after July 1, 2017, diesel and kerosene will be taxed at the full 12.85 percent rate. These cents-per-gallon rates can be adjusted quarterly but cannot fall below the rates determined on July 1, 2016.

Each fiscal year from 2018 through 2026, the State Treasurer may determine an adjusted tax rate to be imposed beginning each Oct. 1 so that taxes collected from the Motor Fuels Tax on highway fuel and Petroleum Products Tax on highway fuel do not exceed the highway fuel cap amount for any fiscal year.

The 7 percent tax on fuel oil (excluding fuel oil used for home heating use) is converted to a cents-per-gallon rate based on the pretax retail price of number 2 fuel oil. The rate can be adjusted quarterly but cannot fall below the rate determined on July 1, 2016. Initially, the highway fuels will be subject to an additional cents-per-gallon rate of four cents. On and after July 1, 2017, the additional rate on diesel fuel and kerosene will be raised to eight cents per gallon.

Review Council

The bill establishes a three-member review council composed of the State Treasurer, the Legislative Budget and Finance Officer and a third public member selected by both. The review council will report to the Governor and the Legislature by Jan. 15, 2020, on the council’s consensus estimate of the increase or decrease in State revenues caused by each section of this law during the three prior fiscal years compared to the estimates at the time of enactment.

The review council will monitor the actions of the Legislature on an ongoing basis for interference with the implementation of the provisions of the bill. If implementation of this law is impeded, the council may certify this interference to the Director of the Division of Taxation, triggering the cessation of imposition of one of the components of the Petroleum Products Gross Receipts Tax and ending collection of that part of the tax.

Motor Fuel Bad Debt — P.L. 2016, c.66, provides certain fuel dealers and distributors refunds of Petroleum Products Gross Receipts Tax and credits against Motor Fuel Tax for certain bad debts from sales of fuel. □

State Treasurer Sworn In

The Hon. Glenn A. Grant, Judge in the Appellate Division, administered the oath on Sept. 20, 2016, to Ford M. Scudder to serve as State Treasurer. The Treasurer's wife, Cristina, held the Bible during the swearing-in ceremony, which was attended by Division Directors and members of the Senior Staff. Treasurer Scudder was confirmed by the State Senate, following approval by the Senate Judiciary Committee. He had previously served as Acting State Treasurer since Nov. 9, 2015. He and Cristina reside in Little Silver with their two daughters.

Homestead Benefit Filing Under Way

New Jersey homeowners are now filing their 2014 Homestead Benefit Applications. The Division of Taxation mailed applications for the 2014 homeowner benefit to more than 1.1 million New Jersey residents over a three-week period that began in mid-September 2016. During the same period, the Division sent emails containing instructions for downloading the 2014 application packet to an additional 85,000 residents. The homeowners who received emails had filed online in a prior year and indicated that they wanted to receive future applications electronically.

The filing deadline for 2014 Homestead Benefit Applications is Nov. 30, 2016. At the time this newsletter was published, almost 457,000 homeowners already had filed their applications.

To be eligible for the 2014 homestead benefit, applicants had to be New Jersey residents who owned and occupied a home in New Jersey that was their principal residence on Oct. 1, 2014, paid property taxes on that home and had 2014 New Jersey

gross income of $75,000 or less ($150,000 or less for homeowners 65 or older or blind or disabled).

Benefit amounts vary based on the applicant's income, filing status, property taxes and whether the applicant was age 65 or older or blind or disabled.

Most homeowners can file their applications either online or by phone (1-877-658-2972). Applicants should read the instructions in the application packet before attempting to file. Homeowners who sold or plan to sell their home should pay particular attention to the instructions for their situation to ensure they complete the application correctly.

More information on the homestead benefit, including eligibility requirements, is available on the Division of Taxation's website. □

Correction

2014 Homestead Benefit Worksheet

The 2014 Homestead Benefit Worksheet in the center of the 2014 Homestead Benefit Application packet contains a printing error. The web address in the top, left-hand corner of the Worksheet is incorrect. There should not be a period between "nj" and "taxation" in the address. The Division of Taxation regrets any inconvenience this error may have caused.

Revaluation Initiative

In November of 2015, the Division of Taxation initiated a review of all towns and counties in New Jersey to ensure that they were in compliance with the uniformity clause of the State Constitution, which requires a uniform distribution of the tax burden. The Division performed detailed statistical analyses, including review of assessment to sales ratios and coefficients of deviation, for 32 towns that had not had a revaluation in 25 years or more. Public hearings were held, and based on the data and all other relevant materials, four municipalities were ordered by the Director of the Division of Taxation to perform a revaluation. The Union and Hudson County Boards of Taxation ordered two additional towns in each of their counties. Because of the Division's initiative, the Middlesex County Board of Taxation recently announced that it will order two municipalities to conduct revaluations. All counties are now actively ordering needed revaluations one year after the Division's efforts to ensure fairness and equity for taxpayers. □

Criminal Enforcement

- On April 1, 2016, as a result of a joint criminal investigation between the Office of Criminal Investigation (OCI) and the Burlington County Prosecutor's Office, defendants Donald, Denise and Dianna Horner were arrested on charges of filing false tax returns for the years 2010 through 2013. Donald and Denise Horner were also charged with failure to pay income taxes based on $178,890 of unreported income related to the Delran Emergency Squad during the years 2010 through 2013. The case awaits application for Pretrial Intervention by the defendants.
- On April 11, 2016, in Middlesex County Court, Henry De La Rosa, owner of the Busanka Restaurant in Port Reading, New Jersey, was sentenced to three years' probation and ordered to pay restitution of $53,391 for failure to file and remit Sales and Use Taxes to the State of New Jersey for tax years 2010 through 2014. This case was prosecuted by the Middlesex County Prosecutor's Office and investigated by OCI's Financial Investigations Unit.
- On April 12, 2016, Elizabeth Harris was arrested outside her residence in Paterson, New Jersey and charged with two counts of filing a fraudulent return, one count of providing false information and one count of theft relating to her 2014 and 2015 NJ-1040 tax filings. This case was a direct result of cooperation among various units within the Division of Taxation and information developed from an OCI search warrant.

- On April 26, 2016, Fort Lee Police conducted a motor vehicle stop that resulted in the seizure of 22.0 cartons of contraband cigarettes, two receipt books, various phones and $10,040 in U.S. currency. All evidence was seized by OCI special agents of the Special Investigations Unit. Jose L. Delosangeles and Jose G. Delosangeles, both of New York City, were arrested and charged with third-degree possession of counterfeit New Jersey cigarette stamps, third-degree failure to maintain records and fourth-degree engaging in conduct requiring licensure without registration. Both subjects were issued summons complaints and released without incident. Fort Lee Police also charged the subjects with fourth-degree transportation of contraband cigarettes.
- On April 27, 2016, the State Grand Jury returned a multiple-count indictment against 10 alleged members and associates of the New York-based Genovese organized crime family on charges including first-degree racketeering for allegedly reaping millions of dollars in New Jersey through loansharking, unlicensed check cashing, gambling, money laundering, including laundering of drug proceeds, and tax evasion. Another defendant was charged in connection with the laundering of drug money, and the wives of three of the defendants were charged with tax fraud and failure to pay tax. This was a joint investigation by the New Jersey Division of Criminal Justice and the Waterfront Commission of New York Harbor conducted with assistance from the New York and Queens County District Attorneys' Offices and other law enforcement agencies, including OCI.

- On April 29, 2016, Steven Turner of New Hope, Pennsylvania, was convicted of one count of third-degree failure to pay taxes as a result of his failure to pay his income tax liability for 2008. Restitution totals $248,731.39. Third-degree crimes carry a sentence of three to five years in State prison and a criminal fine of up to $15,000. Members of OCI's Technical Enforcement Unit conducted the investigation and the Mercer County Prosecutors Office prosecuted the case.
- On May 23, 2016, Dr. Michael H. Rieber, former Deputy Mayor of Livingston, New Jersey, was indicted on three counts of filing fraudulent New Jersey Gross Income Tax returns and one count of failing to pay New Jersey income tax for the years 2009, 2010 and 2011. All the counts were third-degree crimes. It is alleged that Michael Rieber utilized fraudulent partnerships, claiming overinflated expenses, resulting in large losses to offset legitimate partnership income. As agreed in the application for Pretrial Intervention, Dr. Rieber is to pay the State $250,000 (tax, interest and penalty). This case was investigated by OCI and prosecuted by the New Jersey Division of Criminal Justice.

- On June 16, 2016, OCI special agents and the Division of Criminal Justice, after a joint investigation into allegations of identity theft, Social Security fraud and New Jersey tax violations, executed a search warrant on six locations (five personal residences and one business). Maria Frank and Shirley Frank were arrested for identity theft and Social Security fraud while Sonny Frank, Rocky Frank and Alex Frank were issued complaint summonses on the tax code violations. All subjects are members of the same family. For the period 2010 through 2014, Sonny, Rocky and Alex Frank, along with their wives, are alleged to have filed fraudulent NJ-1040s and failed to pay tax due, and Alex Frank failed to file NJ-1040s. Bank accounts containing more than $2 million were frozen, four safe deposit boxes were searched and their contents seized. This included more than $500,000 in cash, high-end jewelry and a variety of silver, gold and platinum coins. Agents from OCI's Special Investigations Unit participated in the execution of search warrants. OCI's Financial Investigations Unit led the investigation into the tax evasion charges.

- On June 16, 2016, one of two defendants in an OCI cigarette smuggling case was accepted into a Pretrial Intervention Program and the other defendant was indicted by a Grand Jury. Sentencing is pending. A compliance inspection at the Krauszer's in Riverside, New Jersey, on Oct. 2, 2015, revealed a large inventory of untaxed tobacco products and a large sum of cash believed to be the proceeds of the prima facie contraband activity. OCI charged two owners of the business with failure to file a tax return and failure to maintain records. The judge ordered the defendants to pay a total of $4,575.11 in tax restitution based on the inventory of tobacco products seized during the inspection. Additionally, the Court ordered that half of the $20,736 cash seized during the inspection be forfeited.

- A New Jersey-based criminal case initiated by OCI special agents involving multiple jurisdictions was brought to the attention of the U.S. Attorney's Office. On June 16, 2016, Laila Alayat of Elmwood Park, New Jersey, pled guilty to conspiracy to traffic in contraband cigarettes and witness tampering for her part in a transnational cigarette smuggling operation centered in New Jersey. The scheme allegedly used shell businesses to purchase at least $9.5 million worth of Virginia-stamped cigarettes and transport them to New Jersey for illegal resale. Alayat, 37, faces up to 15 years in prison when sentenced.

Complaints filed in U.S. District Court in Virginia in February 2016 alleged Alayat and Eyad Salahedin, also of Elmwood Park, along with others acting on their behalf, purchased millions of dollars worth of cigarettes from Virginia wholesale club stores using cash and keeping each purchase below $10,000 so federal forms reporting their names would not be required. The government alleged that of 1,735 cash transactions between March 2014 and August 2015 at Virginia Sam's Club stores totaling $6.3 million, none exceeded $10,000. The defendants were offered a plea deal on Jan. 7, 2016, but it expired without either of them accepting it. Alayat was warned that any attempt to leave the U.S. would be construed as an attempt to flee prosecution. She was arrested Feb. 11, 2016, at JFK International Airport attempting to board a flight to Amman, Jordan. Salahedin was arrested shortly after dropping Alayat off at the airport. OCI coordinated with the U.S. Department of Homeland Security and Port Authority Police in the arrests. Alayat and Salahedin were indicted March 2, 2016. Alayat also pled guilty in August to attempting to corruptly persuade a cooperating witness to lie to law enforcement about her identity by promising to pay $500. Alayat has been sentenced to a one-year prison term. Salahedin's trial is set to begin Nov. 13, 2016.

This was a complex and multilevel, multistate transnational criminal case developed and carried out by OCI special agents with the assistance of the federal government. □

Gross Income Tax

No Credit for Pennsylvania Local Services Tax — A taxpayer asked the Division if he was permitted to claim a credit for taxes paid to another jurisdiction on his New Jersey Gross Income Tax return for the amount he paid for the Pennsylvania local services tax (LST).

New Jersey resident taxpayers may claim a credit on their resident income tax return for taxes paid to any other state or political subdivision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 54A:4-1. N.J.S.A. 54A:4-1(a) provides that a “resident taxpayer shall be allowed a credit against the tax otherwise due under this act for the amount of any income tax or wage tax imposed for the taxable year by another state of the United States or political subdivision of such state...”

The LST is a local tax payable by all individuals who hold a job or profession within a taxing jurisdiction in Pennsylvania that imposes the tax. It is similar to an occupational privilege tax. Each individual who works in a taxing jurisdiction for any length of time during the tax year is liable for the LST.

The Division responded that because the LST is not an income tax or a wage tax, the taxpayer cannot claim a credit for taxes paid to another jurisdiction on his New Jersey Gross Income Tax return for the LST.

Litter Control Fee

Related-Company Transactions —

The Division received an inquiry from a taxpayer that purchases products from suppliers, then resells those products to a related company that is wholly owned by the same individuals or companies that own the taxpayer. The related company then sells the products to its customers in its retail stores. The taxpayer wanted to know whether the transactions between the related companies are subject to the Litter Control Fee.

The Litter Control Fee is a user fee imposed on all gross receipts from sales of litter-generating products sold in New Jersey by any manufacturer, wholesaler, distributor or retailer of litter-generating products engaged in business in the State. A retailer with less than $500,000 in annual sales (both retail and wholesale) of litter-generating products is exempt from the Litter Control Fee. N.J.S.A. 13:1E-216. In order for the exemption to apply, the annual amount of all sales of goods defined as “litter-generating” products that are made within New Jersey for use and consumption within New Jersey must be less than $500,000.

The Division advised the taxpayer that a sale of litter-generating products by one company to a related company that is wholly owned by the same individuals or companies is not subject to the Litter Control Fee. The company making the wholesale sales may take such sales as a deduction on the Litter Control Fee return (Form LF-5).

Exempt Organizations: Occasional Fundraising Sales —

A taxpayer asked whether a nonprofit organization that has a valid Exempt Organization Certificate (Form ST-5) is exempt from collecting New Jersey Sales Tax for occasional fundraising sales.

The Division answered that the nonprofit organization is not required to collect Sales Tax if it makes only occasional fundraising sales, the sales events are relatively short in duration and all of the proceeds go to the exempt organization. N.J.A.C. 18:24-9.11. Examples of qualifying occasional fundraising sales are: an annual book and/or greeting card sale lasting a few weeks; a gift merchandise sale or a plant or craft sale that occurs several times a year and lasts one or two days.

Eyelash Extension Services —

A salon owner inquired if charges for eyelash extension services performed in a salon are subject to New Jersey Sales Tax.

The New Jersey Sales and Use Tax Act imposes Sales Tax on the retail sale of enumerated services, unless an exemption or exclusion applies. N.J.S.A. 54:32B-3(b). Personal services are exempt from Sales Tax because these are not considered a “retail sale” under the Act. A personal service is one that involves the transfer of tangible personal property as an inconsequential element of the service, for which no separate charge is made. N.J.S.A. 54:32B-2(e)(4)(A).

The Division advised the salon owner that eyelash extension services performed in the salon are exempt from Sales Tax as a personal service. However, the salon owner was advised that the salon must pay Sales Tax on the supplies and equipment used to provide the eyelash extension services.

Thrift Store Exemption: NJ Work First Community Work Experience Program —

The Division received an inquiry from an exempt organization that was considering opening a thrift shop. The organization was planning to use workers from the NJ Work First Community Work Experience Program (CWEP) at the thrift store and wanted to know whether CWEP participants would be considered volunteers for purposes of the thrift shop exemption for nonprofit organizations.

An exempt organization that continuously operates a store, or the equivalent of a store, such as a mail-order or Internet business, is required to collect Sales Tax. N.J.S.A. 54:32B-9(c)(2). There is, however, an exemption for a qualifying thrift store or shop. An exempt organization that operates a store or shop is exempt from collecting Sales Tax on sales of donated merchandise if:

- At least 75% of the store merchandise consists of donated items, and
- At least 75% of the work to operate the store is performed by volunteers.

Based on information provided by the New Jersey Department of Human Services, Division of Family Development, the CWEP gives individuals an opportunity to acquire skills, training, knowledge and work habits necessary to secure unsubsidized employment. The placements are limited to nonprofit government agencies or not-for-profit community-based employers. The participants receive public assistance in return for their work activity. Thus, the participants are compensated for their work, even though the employers they are placed with do not directly pay them for the work performed.

The Division advised that since the program participants that are placed through the CWEP are compensated for their work activity with public assistance benefits, they cannot be considered volunteers for purposes of meeting the thrift store exemption for exempt organizations. □

Untimely Complaint – Joy L. DeMaio v. Director, Division of Taxation; decided May 25, 2016; Tax Court Docket No. 011697-2015.

On May 7, 2009, the Division issued a notice of assessment for unpaid Cigarette Tax and Sales and Use Tax to Joy DeMaio (Plaintiff). Plaintiff did not protest, appeal or pay the assessment. The Division issued a notice and demand for payment of tax on Nov. 1, 2011.

On Dec. 15, 2011, Plaintiff protested the notice and demand for payment of tax, claiming that she did not purchase the cigarettes. On Jan. 20, 2012, the Division issued a protest denial notice to Plaintiff, which stated that the period to protest or appeal the original notice of assessment expired in August 2009 (90 days after it was issued). The denial notice, which was sent by certified mail, advised Plaintiff that she had 90 days to appeal the Division's decision to Tax Court. The return receipt was signed but the date was not identified. On Jan. 26, 2012, the Division filed a certificate of debt. Plaintiff then sent letters to the Division in February and April of 2012 claiming that she never received the notice of assessment and did not know why the certificate of debt was filed against her.

On July 23, 2015, Plaintiff filed a complaint with the Tax Court challenging the notice of assessment and protest denial notice. The Division moved to dismiss Plaintiff's complaint due to untimely filing.

The Court reviewed the sequence of events and found Plaintiff's complaint was untimely filed by more than three years. As such, the Court did not have jurisdiction to hear the case. The Court noted that the protest denial notice provided Plaintiff with the address for filing the complaint and the telephone number of the Tax Court Management Office to address any questions regarding filing the complaint.

Erroneous Refunds – Robert H. Hill and Sarah K. Hill v. Director, Division of Taxation; decided June 17, 2016; Appellate Division Docket No. A-1980-13T1, affirming Tax Court 27 N.J. Tax 311 (2013).

Robert Hill and Sarah Hill (Plaintiffs) were two minors who resided in Pennsylvania. Both were beneficiaries of New Jersey resident trusts created by their grandparents. The trustee paid New Jersey tax on behalf of each Plaintiff on the income from the trusts for tax years 2006 and 2007. The Plaintiffs' father filed a refund claim for each, claiming that neither Plaintiff received New Jersey source income in either 2006 or 2007. The Division initially denied the refunds but subsequently approved and issued them in 2008.

In 2010, a tax audit determined that Plaintiffs received New Jersey source income from the trusts in tax years 2006 and 2007. As a result, the Division issued a notice of deficiency to each Plaintiff.

The Tax Court determined that the trust income was taxable to New Jersey and that N.J.S.A. 54A:9-4(c)(4) permitted the Division to recover the previously issued refunds because they resulted in an underpayment of Gross Income Tax. Based on prior court decisions pertaining to the Corporation Business Tax Act, the judge limited the Division's ability to recoup erroneous Gross Income Tax refunds to situations where the refunds were paid as a result of purely clerical errors rather than judgment errors. The Court noted that Lennox, Inc. v. Director, Division of Taxation, 20 N.J. Tax 464, 475 (Tax 2002) defined an error in judgment to refer "only to an erroneous final determination of the merits of a taxpayer's liability for tax, resulting from a mistaken interpretation of substantive law or a misunderstanding of the facts relating to the determination." Because the Division did not issue final determinations to the Plaintiffs, the Tax Court held that the refunds were recoverable as they were the result of clerical errors.

Plaintiffs appealed the Tax Court decision. The Appellate Division affirmed substantially for the reasons expressed in the Tax Court opinion, finding the decision was well-reasoned and based on controlling precedent.

Earned Income Tax Credit – Nnebe v. Director, Division of Taxation; decided May 23, 2016; Tax Court Docket No. 000024-2015.

In 2010, Ebere Nnebe (Plaintiff) and his wife, who at the time were living in Hamilton, New Jersey, entered into a separation agreement whereby they would live apart but not divorce. Plaintiff gave sole and exclusive use of the home to his wife, and they shared joint custody of their children. Plaintiff filed his 2012 NJ-1040 Gross Income Tax return using the Hamilton address, reporting his filing status as head of household, claiming his third child as his dependent and claiming the New Jersey Earned Income Tax Credit (NJEITC). In 2014, the Division audited Plaintiff's NJ-1040 and denied his NJEITC and his head of household filing status, finding that Plaintiff did not maintain a New Jersey residence for more than six months and that his principal residence was New York.

Plaintiff argued that because the Internal Revenue Service (IRS) did not deny his federal 2012 Earned Income Credit (EIC), he was entitled to the NJEITC. The Tax Court responded that even though the IRS did not deny the federal EIC, the Division was not prevented from challenging and denying a claim for the NJEITC.

The Tax Court ruled that a taxpayer has the burden of proving that he is entitled to a tax credit. The federal EIC requires that a claimant have a qualifying child who qualifies as a dependent and shares the same principal place of abode with the claimant for more than six months of the year. Additionally, a claimant who is married must qualify to file his/her return with the filing status of married filing jointly or head of household. Plaintiff testified that all three children stayed with their mother every night and that he lived in New York during the week. Because the child for whom Plaintiff claimed the NJEITC lived with his wife, the child did not share Plaintiff's abode. Consequently, the Court found that Plaintiff did not qualify to file his return using the head of household filing status. As a result, he was not eligible for the NJEITC. The Court dismissed Plaintiff's complaint and upheld the Division's denial of the NJEITC. □

“Senior Freeze” Checks in the Mail

The State Budget for Fiscal Year 2017 provides funding for the Property Tax Reimbursement (Senior Freeze) Program.

In mid-July, the Division of Taxation began mailing checks for the 2015 reimbursement to qualified senior and disabled homeowners who filed applications by the original filing deadline of June 1, 2016. We will issue checks as quickly as possible to homeowners who file their applications between the original June 1 deadline and the extended deadline of Oct. 17, 2016.

Only applicants whose 2015 income was not more than $70,000 are eligible, provided they met all other requirements. Residents whose income was more than $70,000 but was $87,007 or less will not receive checks for 2015. We will notify them that they are not eligible. Those residents can establish a “base year” for future reimbursements by filing an application by the deadline. This also ensures that we will mail them applications for 2016.

Taxation Orders Three Revaluations

Revaluations may be needed when properties in a municipality are not being assessed at the same rate of true market value and/or are being assessed substantially below or above true market value. Because revaluations impact the local community, the decision to revalue is usually made by local authorities, particularly the County Tax Boards.

However, on April 4, 2016, the New Jersey Division of Taxation issued Revaluation Orders to three municipalities: Jersey City, Dunellen and Elizabeth. This exceptional action was necessary to compel county and local officials to comply with the Uniformity Clause of the State Constitution.

These Orders followed a four-month investigation that culminated in public hearings the Division of Taxation held to elicit public sentiment regarding property valuation in certain taxing districts.

Jersey City has not had a revaluation in 28 years, Dunellen Borough in 34 years and Elizabeth City in 40 years.

The Division also initiated investigations of five other towns based on objective criteria. As a result, the Hudson County Board of Taxation ordered East Newark Borough and Harrison Town, and the Union County Board of Taxation ordered Winfield Township and Westfield Town to revalue. The Middlesex County Board of Taxation declined to order South River Borough to perform a revaluation. Middlesex County has the only tax board in the State that has not ordered an involuntary revaluation in more than 20 years. The Division is undertaking the investigation because of lax oversight by Middlesex County.

A public hearing on property taxes will be held in South River on Aug. 17, 2016. The hearing was originally scheduled for July 26. □

Business Assistance Tax Clearance

Businesses can now apply for a Business Assistance & Incentive Clearance certificate through the State of New Jersey's Premier Business Services portal. The online clearance eliminates the paper application (Form Gtb-10) and waives the processing fee.

Businesses that meet the clearance requirements can immediately print the clearance certificate through the portal. Businesses not eligible to receive the clearance certificate are directed to the Division of Taxation's Business Assistance Tax Clearance Unit for assistance, where staff will work directly with the business to meet all clearance requirements.

The Business Assistance & Incentive Clearances are valid for the following programs:

- Board of Public Utilities (Clean Energy Program)
- Department of Community Affairs
- Department of Health
- Department of Labor and Workforce Development (Labor Training Programs)
- Economic Development Authority
- New Jersey Casino Reinvestment Development Authority
- New Jersey Commerce, Economic Growth & Tourism Commission

Referral Cost Recovery Fee Increase

The Division of Taxation’s Compliance and Enforcement Activity (C&E) has partnered with Pioneer Credit Recovery (PCR), a private debt collection company, to improve efficiency and reduce the cost of our collection efforts. While PCR has been our vendor for 10 years, recent procedural changes have increased the number and types of cases assigned to the vendor.

PCR is assigned the majority of deficient (money owed) and delinquent (return due) accounts that have not responded timely to the Division’s initial outreach. PCR conducts collection efforts under the supervision of C&E staff.

All cases referred to PCR are subject to a Referral Cost Recovery Fee (RF). Effective July 1, 2016, PCR’s reimbursement rate is contracted at 10.7%. This means the RF assessed on debt referred to PCR will increase from 10% to 10.7%. The RF is not compensation paid to PCR. This fee is assessed to cover the expense incurred by the Division when taxes are not filed and paid in a timely manner or not resolved upon the issuance of an initial bill.

Assessing this fee mitigates the expense associated with PCR’s debt collection services. Debts that PCR is unable to collect are subject to the filing of a certificate of debt, and become the responsibility of C&E’s staff to resolve.

This joint effort in combating non-compliance has proven to be very successful. Over the past two fiscal years, combined collections were greater than $1.2 billion. C&E staff members were also able to conduct higher level collection and enforcement initiatives. □

BEIP Grant to Tax Credit Conversion

The Business Employment Incentive Program (BEIP), created in 1996, was designed to promote job growth in New Jersey. The program, which is jointly administered by the New Jersey Economic Development Authority (EDA) and the New Jersey Division of Taxation, awards grants to qualified businesses based on the number of new jobs they have created in the State.

The New Jersey Economic Opportunity Act of 2013 (P.L. 2013, c.161) streamlined New Jersey’s five existing economic development incentive programs, including BEIP, into two: the Grow New Jersey Assistance (Grow NJ) Program and the Economic Redevelopment and Growth (ERG) Program. Grow NJ is now the State’s main job creation and retention incentive program. The EDA no longer accepts applications for BEIP assistance, and the Legislature has not appropriated funding for the program since 2013.

Legislation approved Jan. 11, 2016, (P.L. 2015, c.194), allows certain businesses that were previously approved for a BEIP grant to direct the EDA to convert the grant to a refundable tax credit. The conversion is voluntary, but the decision to do so is irrevocable. Businesses had until July 11, 2016, to make the election.

The credits issued can be applied to a tax liability under the Corporation Business Tax or Insurance Premiums Tax. Businesses that are not subject to these taxes must sell or assign the tax credit to a business with such a liability. For more information, see the EDA’s Business Incentive Program Tax Credit Conversion FAQs.

The Grant Credit Review Unit within Taxation’s Office of Legislative Analysis and Disclosure will audit, process and distribute the BEIP tax credits. □

GROSS INCOME TAX

COJ Limited to Foreign-Sourced Income

If a taxpayer paid a tax on income to another jurisdiction and that income is also subject to New Jersey tax in the same year, the taxpayer may be eligible for a credit for taxes paid to the other jurisdiction (COJ) dependent upon its New Jersey allocation factor.

Partnership income allocated to New Jersey is defined as the portion of the partnership income that is allocated to New Jersey by the allocation factor of the partnership. Partnership income not allocated to New Jersey is equal to total partnership income less partnership income allocated to New Jersey by the allocation factor.

On Nov. 14, 2013, the Tax Court of New Jersey addressed the limitations of the credit allowed for partnership income in an unpublished decision, David E. and Janice Berliner v. Director, Division of Taxation, Tax Court of New Jersey, Docket No. 000057-2008, 2013.

N.J.S.A. 54A:4-1(a) states, “A resident taxpayer shall be allowed a credit against the tax otherwise due under this act for the amount of any income tax or wage tax imposed for the taxable year by another state of the United States or political subdivision of such state, or by the District of Columbia, with respect to income which is also subject to tax under this act, except as provided by subsections (c) and (d) of this section.”

Judge DeAlmeida opined in Jenkins v. Director, Division of Taxation, 4 NJ Tax 127, 133 (Tax 1982), “the objective of N.J.S.A. 54A:4-1 is to avoid double taxation of the same income by providing a credit against New Jersey gross income tax for tax paid to another jurisdiction on the same income.” Judge DeAlmeida went on to state, “We conclude that the intent of the act is to avoid double taxation of foreign income by relinquishing all or part of the New Jersey tax on the foreign income, but not to relinquish New Jersey tax on income earned in New Jersey.”

Judge DeAlmeida stated further that, “When enacting N.J.S.A. 54A:4-1, the Legislature did not intend to relinquish income tax on New Jersey source income.

“The resident credit is a reflection of legislative grace. Where a New Jersey resident earns income in other States and municipalities and pays income tax on that income to those jurisdictions, New Jersey will yield its right to fully collect its income tax. However, where another State or jurisdiction extends the reach of its taxing authority to income earned in New Jersey by a New Jersey resident, the credit is not available. This is a perfectly reasonable legislative determination.”

As a result, credit is not allowed for any tax imposed by another jurisdiction on partnership income that is properly allocated to New Jersey. □

INHERITANCE/ESTATE TAX

Intangible Assets and Out-of-State Property Credit

Both real property and tangible personal property located outside the State of New Jersey are eligible for an out-of-State tax credit when computing the New Jersey Estate Tax. Such items must be included in the gross estate, and a proportional credit may be granted against any Estate Tax that is calculated.

Intangible property is not eligible for this credit. The Division considers intangible property owned by a resident decedent to be located in New Jersey no matter where such accounts may originate, the financial institution’s offices are located or a corporation is incorporated. Common examples of intangible property include bank accounts, trusts, stocks, securities, LLCs and shares in a co-op. Because intangible property is considered to be located in the state in which the decedent was domiciled, the out-of-State property credit cannot be applied against such assets.

There are exceptions. For example, trusts are considered intangible property. However, non-New Jersey real estate held by a trust retains its identity as real property. Accordingly, it qualifies for an out-of-State property credit in New Jersey. On the other hand, an out-of-State property credit cannot be taken on non-New Jersey properties owned by corporations, partnerships and LLCs. Assets owned by these entities do not retain their individual identity as real or tangible property and are considered a part of the entity and are intangible property. This would include assets such as farmland, apartments,

Current Amnesty Programs

The following jurisdiction is conducting a tax amnesty program. During the designated amnesty period, taxpayers have a chance to pay back taxes with reduced (or eliminated) penalty and/or interest. For more information, including eligibility requirements, or to obtain an application, visit the jurisdiction’s website.

INHERITANCE/ESTATE TAX

Qualified Domestic Trust (QDOT)

A qualified domestic trust (QDOT) enables a non-U.S. citizen married to a U.S. citizen to be eligible for a marital deduction for estate tax purposes. There are four primary requirements for a QDOT imposed under IRC §2056A.

1. At least one trustee must be a U.S. citizen or a domestic corporation.
2. No principal distribution may be made from the QDOT unless the U.S. trustee has the right to withhold the tax payable pursuant to IRC §2056A.
3. The trust instrument provides that the trust will meet the requirements of any future regulations to ensure the collection of tax by the government.
4. The executor of the decedent's estate elects to treat the trust as a QDOT.

If the QDOT is not properly drafted or at any point fails to meet the QDOT requirements, a New Jersey Estate Tax will be imposed. Certain taxable events as defined by IRC §2056A will also trigger a New Jersey Estate Tax. This includes a nonhardship principal distribution from the QDOT.

If an estate elects a QDOT, the trustees of the QDOT must submit to the State of New Jersey a written affidavit certifying that they are responsible for reviewing the transactions of the trust annually and are guaranteeing timely payment of Estate Taxes due.

In general, the New Jersey Estate Tax due from a taxable QDOT distribution or event is equal to the additional Estate Tax due as if the size of the taxable estate of the first spouse to die were increased by the amount of the QDOT property subject to tax in accordance with the provisions of the Internal Revenue Code in effect on Dec. 31, 2001.

If a taxable distribution or event occurs pursuant to IRC §2056A, Federal Form 706-QDT must be filed with the State of New Jersey. Additionally, a written statement must be filed indicating the name, address and taxpayer identification number of both the U.S. Trustee and the QDOT. Treatment is the same for both a Federal QDOT and a New Jersey only QDOT.

In general, filing and payment is due no later than April 15th of the year following any calendar year in which a taxable distribution has occurred. If the surviving spouse died during the year or the trust ceased to qualify as a QDOT, filing and payment is due within nine months from date of death or the failure to qualify. □

P.L. 2013, c.15, established a Real Property Assessment Demonstration Program to make the assessment of real property more precise by using technology driven procedures and protecting funding of municipal budgets from the impact of losses due to appeal refunds. Monmouth County was the first county to adopt this program, which began Oct. 1, 2013.

The summer dates on the Monmouth County Assessors' calendar coincide with the dates of the regular Assessors' Calendar with one exception: the July provision for the extension of the time to hear and determine an appeal(s) does not apply to the Monmouth County Assessment Demonstration Program.

Criminal Enforcement

Criminal enforcement over the past several months included:

- On Oct. 6, 2014, Samer Jamal was arrested in Montvale, New Jersey, for possession of 456 cartons of contraband cigarettes. On Oct. 26, 2015, in Montvale Municipal Court, Jamal was entered into a Pretrial Intervention (PTI) Program. As a condition of PTI, Jamal was required to plead guilty to possession of goods without paying tax. He was also required to pay restitution to the State of New Jersey in the amount of $12,333.60.
- On Jan. 15, 2016, Lisa Marie Matto of Barnegat, New Jersey, was sentenced on one count of conspiracy and one count of receiving stolen property (in excess of $75,000); both second-degree offenses. The charges were based on Matto's participation in a scheme during 2008 in which she and an accomplice submitted numerous fraudulent New Jersey income tax returns along with fraudulent W-2s, resulting in thousands of dollars of illegally obtained refunds. Under a plea arrangement, Matto was sentenced as a third-degree offender to five years' probation and ordered to pay restitution in the amount of $47,692.81. The restitution was paid at the time of sentencing.

- On Jan. 16, 2016, Office of Criminal Investigation (OCI) special agents responded to a motor vehicle stop by the Riverdale Police Department (Morris County). The agents arrested two individuals for various contraband cigarette charges. The 723 cartons of cigarettes found in the individuals' possession were examined forensically and determined to be legitimate product that was most likely purchased in a jurisdiction that does not have Cigarette Tax stamps.
- On Jan. 22, 2016, Mark Begley of Cherry Hill, New Jersey, was sentenced to four years in State prison for deceiving ten people and two banks out of about $183,000 in connection with a mortgage and loan scheme. Begley was sentenced by Superior Court Judge Terrence R. Cook. Under a plea agreement reached in October, He pled guilty to charges of second-degree theft by deception and third-degree failure to pay taxes. Begley, a purported loan specialist, was arrested in July and accused of taking and keeping for his personal use $146,000 from Burlington County residents who were seeking mortgage and loan assistance. He was charged by OCI special agents with multiple counts of theft by deception, misapplication of entrusted property, filing a fraudulent or false income tax return, failure to file a tax return and failure to pay/remit taxes. Begley claimed that his services included assistance with reverse mortgage procurement, mortgage refinancing and assorted loan modifications. He prepared documents for clients to sign to convince them he was working with lenders and mortgage companies on their behalf, but instead, he kept the money. Begley filed a false or fraudulent personal income return in 2011, failed to file a personal income return in 2012 and failed to pay personal income taxes in 2011 and 2012. Judge Cook also sentenced him to four years in prison for the charge of failure to pay taxes, a term that is to be served concurrently with the theft by deception offense. The State did not object to Begley's attempting to be accepted into the State's intensive supervision program. This program gives certain nonviolent offenders who are sentenced to prison an opportunity to work their way back into the community under intensive supervision. Judge Cook ordered that Begley not be permitted to serve in the mortgage industry or as a financial consultant during any term of supervision or parole.

- On Saturday, Feb. 6, 2016, OCI special agents received reliable information that a target of their multistate cigarette smuggling investigation, Laila Alayat, had purchased an airline ticket for Jordan with the intent of avoiding prosecution. Both Alayat and Eyad Salahedin of Elmwood Park, New Jersey, had been warned by the U.S. Attorney's Office not to leave the country pending trial. Based on the information, the special agents requested and received a federal warrant for the arrest of both subjects. With the cooperation of U.S. Department of Homeland Security, both subjects were arrested on Thursday, Feb. 11, 2016, as Alayat attempted to board a Jordan-bound flight at John F. Kennedy International Airport in Queens, New York. Salahedin attempted to leave the airport after dropping off Alayat. His vehicle was stopped, and he was arrested without incident. Both were processed in Jamaica, New York. They were taken to the hospital, at their request, where they were treated for preexisting medical conditions. After seeing a doctor, both were determined fit for confinement. They were transported to the U.S. Marshals Service without incident. Alayat pled guilty and is scheduled to be sentenced on Sept. 15, 2016. Salahedin's trial is set for Aug. 29, 2016.

- On Tuesday, Feb. 16, 2016, Todd Costello, of Jackson, New Jersey, was indicted in Monmouth County Superior Court for filing false New Jersey tax returns and failure to pay taxes due to the State of New Jersey for tax years 2010 to 2014. OCI's investigation determined that he owes restitution in the amount of $29,746, including penalty and interest.
- Based on an active warrant for criminal charges from OCI's Technical Enforcement Unit, on Feb. 10, 2016, the Princeton Police Department arrested Salvatore Mazzella at his place of business (Massimo's, Princeton, LLC). The active arrest warrant was a result of Mazzella's failure to appear for a scheduled court appearance in the Trenton Municipal Court. Mazzella was released after he posted bail of $10,000. As of this publication, the matter has not been rescheduled. □

criminal enforcement - from pg. 7

Electronic Cigarettes, Liquid Nicotine and Nicotine Vapor Products

— A taxpayer inquired if electronic cigarettes, liquid nicotine and nicotine vapor products are subject to Cigarette Tax, Tobacco Products Wholesale Sales and Use Tax and Sales and Use Tax.

Electronic cigarettes are battery-powered devices that provide inhaled doses of nicotine by delivering a vaporized solution using cartridges or other chemical delivery systems. Nicotine vapor products are any noncombustible products containing nicotine or other substances that employ a heating element, power source, electronic circuit or other electronic, chemical or mechanical means to produce vapor from nicotine. Vapor products include any electronic cigarette, electronic cigar, electronic cigarillo, electronic pipe or similar product or device and any vapor cartridge or other container of nicotine in a solution or other form intended for use with or in an electronic cigarette, electronic cigarillo, electronic pipe or similar product or device.

“Cigarette” is defined in the Cigarette Tax Act at N.J.S.A. 54:40A-2(a) as “any roll for smoking made wholly or in part of tobacco, or any other substance or substances other than tobacco, irrespective of size, shape or flavoring, the wrapper or cover of which is made of paper or any other substance or material, excepting tobacco. A ‘single cigarette’ is a cigarette sold or offered for sale individually.”

“Tobacco product” is defined in the Tobacco Products Wholesale Sales and Use Tax Act at N.J.S.A. 54:40B-2 as “any product containing any tobacco for personal consumption including, but not limited to,

cigars, little cigars, cigarillos, chewing tobacco, pipe tobacco, smoking tobacco and their substitutes, and dry and moist snuff, but does not include cigarette as defined in section 102 of the ‘Cigarette Tax Act,’ P.L.1948, c.65 (C.54:40A-1 et seq.)”

Because they do not contain any tobacco and are not made of or rolled in tobacco, electronic cigarettes, liquid nicotine and vapor products are not subject to either the Cigarette Tax or the Tobacco Products Wholesale Sales and Use Tax. These items are, however, subject to the 7% sales tax as tangible personal property because there is no statutory exemption for them in the Sales and Use Tax Act. N.J.S.A. 54:32B-1, et seq.

Reporting the Estimated Tax Paid From the Sale of Real Property on Form NJ-1041

— A taxpayer inquired where on Form NJ-1041, Gross Income Tax Fiduciary Return, a trust can claim the estimated tax payment it made with Form GIT/REP-1, Nonresident Seller's Tax Declaration, in connection with the sale of real property in New Jersey. The taxpayer also asked whether the Division could credit the estimated payment made with Form GIT/REP-1 to the beneficiary of the trust.

The Division responded that an estimated tax payment made with Form GIT/REP-1 is treated like any other estimated payment and should be reported as “income tax previously paid.” For the 2015 Form NJ-1041, income tax previously paid is reported on Line 31 and includes the total of estimated payments made for 2015, including any payments made in connection with the sale

Electronic Cigarettes, Liquid Nicotine and Nicotine Vapor Products — See Cigarette Tax.

Rental of RV Campsites and the Atlantic City Luxury Tax — A taxpayer inquired if the New Jersey Sales and Use Tax and the Atlantic City Luxury Sales Tax apply to charges for the rental of an RV campsite located in Atlantic City. The campsite offers amenities such as electric hookups and bathroom/shower facilities. The campsite charges both nightly rates and long-term or seasonal rates.

The Division replied that the New Jersey Sales and Use Tax Act imposes Sales Tax on the rent for every occupancy of a room or rooms in a hotel in this State. N.J.S.A. 54:32B-3(d). Hotel is defined in N.J.S.A. 54:32B-2 as “a building or portion of it which is regularly used and kept open as such for the lodging of guests.” The Atlantic City luxury tax is only imposed on hotel rooms as defined in N.J.S.A. 54:32B-2.

N.J.A.C. 18:24-3.5 provides examples of facilities that are not considered to be hotels and are not subject to the tax imposed on rent received for hotel occupancy. Included in the list of examples are “campsites available for trailers, recreational vehicles, or tent camping.”

Because an RV campsite is not a hotel, it is not subject to the New Jersey sales tax or Atlantic City luxury tax.

Taxability of Charges by a Sailboat Rental Club — A sailboat rental club inquired if it must collect sales tax on charges for initiation fees and rental fees, and if tax is due, whether it should charge the full tax rate (7%) or apply the partial Sales Tax exemption for boats (3.5% effective Feb. 1, 2016).

A sailboat rental club charges members an initiation fee to join the club. Members then have the right to pay a separate charge to rent a sailboat for a specified period. The amount of the rental charge depends on which sailboat the member rents, the length of the rental and whether the sailboat is rented during the week or on the weekend. The club does not operate a marina.

The Division responded that the Sales and Use Tax Act imposes tax on “charges in the nature of initiation fees, membership fees or dues for access to or use of the property or facilities of a health and fitness, athletic, sporting or shopping club or organization in this State, except for (1) membership in a club or organization whose members are predominantly age 18 or under.” N.J.S.A. 54:32B-3(h) (emphasis added). Because the club does not maintain property or facilities (i.e., a marina) as the statute requires, the initiation fee the club charges simply gives the member the right to rent a sailboat. Therefore, the charge for the initiation fee is not subject to tax.

The charge for the rental of a boat is taxable. N.J.S.A. 54:32B-3(a); N.J.S.A. 54:32B-2(f). However, the Sales and Use Tax Act was recently amended to provide a partial Sales and Use Tax exemption (3.5%) on the sale, lease or rental of new and used boats or other vessels (including sailboats) and to cap the amount of Sales and Use Tax due on a transaction at $20,000. Because the rental fee the club is charging is for qualifying sailboats, the rental charge is eligible for the partial Sales Tax exemption and, if applicable, the $20,000 sales tax cap.

In Our Courts

Administration

Filing Date of Complaint – Smart Publications, LLC and Anthony Lombardo v. Director, Division of Taxation; decided April 6, 2016; Appellate Division, Docket No. A-3516-13T4, affirming Tax Court, Docket No. 012506-2013, revised April 29, 2014.

The Division issued a final determination to taxpayer, Smart Publications, LLC (Plaintiff), on May 6, 2013. The final determination, which was sent by certified mail, advised Plaintiff that a complaint should be filed with the Tax Court of New Jersey if Plaintiff did not agree with the notice. The notice clearly stated that the Tax Court must receive the complaint within 90 days from the date of the notice. Plaintiff’s counsel mailed the complaint by certified mail to the Tax Court on Aug. 6, 2013. The Tax Court received the complaint on Aug. 9, 2013, 95 days after the date of the final determination (May 6, 2013). The Division moved to dismiss the complaint as untimely, and the Tax Court granted the motion. Plaintiff filed a motion for reconsideration, which the Court denied.

Plaintiff filed an appeal with the Appellate Division arguing that the complaint was mailed on Aug. 6, 2013, and therefore timely filed on Aug. 6, 2013, under the “timely mailed, timely filed rule.” In support of this argument, Plaintiff relied on N.J.S.A. 54:49-3.1, which states that the date mailed is the date of receipt for tax returns, protests and other documents that are “delivered by United States mail to the director, bureau, office, officer or person with which or with whom the document is required to be filed.” The Appellate Division ruled that this statute pertained to appealing an action to the Division, not an action to the Tax Court.

The Appellate Division found that case law has established that the filing of a complaint is completed when the Court receives the complaint rather than when it was actually mailed. The Appellate Division found that both N.J.S.A. 54:51A-14(a) and Tax Court procedure Rule 8:4-1(b) require that “complaints shall be filed within 90 days after the date of the action to be reviewed.” In this case, the complaint was filed when the Tax Court received the complaint on Aug. 9, 2013, which was not within the 90-day window and therefore untimely.

The Appellate Division rejected Plaintiff’s other arguments without discussion. In particular, Plaintiff Anthony Lombardo (the sole member of Smart Publications, LLC) claimed that his mother was not authorized to accept certified mail at his home and that the date he reviewed the letter should be the date of receipt. The Court concluded that these positions lacked sufficient merit to warrant discussion.

Local Property Tax

Disabled Veteran’s Exemption – Krystal and David Fisher vs. City of Millville, decided March 21, 2016; Tax Court, Nos. 014080-2014 and 007736-2015.

The issue is whether a disabled veteran qualifies for property tax exemption on her principal residence. More specifically, the issue is whether Krystal Fisher provided “direct support” in the “theatre of operation.”

Krystal Fisher enlisted for active duty in the United States Army on June 4, 2002. The military was engaged in Operation Enduring Freedom during her enlistment. She trained for active deployment to Afghanistan as part of the Combat Aviation Brigade.

Ms. Fisher was injured during training, which eventually resulted in her being 100% permanently disabled. Despite her injury, she completed her training and was transferred to her active duty station at Fort Stewart, Georgia, serving from March 12, 2003, through Dec. 28, 2003. Her duties while a part of the Rear Detachment included: shipping weapons, food, clothing and processed supplies; keeping inventory of weapons; assembling protective shield units for military vehicles for the overseas portion of her unit; and military police training for deployment to Afghanistan.

Ms. Fisher applied to the City of Millville for a disabled war veteran’s property tax exemption pursuant to N.J.S.A. 54:4-3.30. The Millville tax assessor denied the exemption because Ms. Fisher did not serve the required minimum of 14 days in the actual combat zone.

Ms. Fisher appealed to the Cumberland County Board of Taxation, which denied the appeal. She then made a timely appeal with the Tax Court.

Ms. Fisher argued that Operation Enduring Freedom is not confined to a specific geographic area but is worldwide. The plaintiff pointed to the provision of the legislative enactment that generally requires participation in the “theatre of operation” rather than a specific geographic area. However, the statutory provision in question does not merely require support but, more specifically, requires direct support. In Wellington v. Township of Hillsborough, 27 NJ Tax 37, the Court found that Mr. Wellington was indeed entitled to benefits because he sustained injury testing hazardous chemical agents collected from the battlefield while serving at a laboratory in the United States. The injuries sustained in the testing were in direct support of the military operation.

In clarifying the legislative intent of the statute, the Tax Court noted the tightening and narrowing of the eligibility requirements for later missions in terms of specific service in geographic regions, length of service and service in direct support of the military operation.

The Court declined to address the nature and extent of the theatre of operation because it held the overriding issue was whether “direct support” was provided by the veteran.

The Court concluded that Ms. Fisher completed her training at Fort Leonard Wood, Missouri, and was then transferred to her active duty assignment at Fort Stewart, Georgia, as part of the Rear Detachment for the portion of her unit deployed in Afghanistan.

The Court opined that while the Rear Detachment does indeed provide support to a deployed unit, Ms. Fisher was never directly exposed to the dangers or potential dangers of the battlefield. The activities of the Rear Detachment generally do not rise to the level of “direct support” that the Legislature envisioned necessary to satisfy the requisites of exemption from taxation. The direct support requirement can be satisfied by the service member’s exposure to danger, not whether the member handled materials that are ultimately shipped to a dangerous locale. While exposure to danger is not the sole consideration for direct support, the Legislature did not intend the “direct support,” requirement to be merely dependent upon the final destination of material that a service member handles.

The property tax exemption on the principal residence of the disabled veteran was denied. □

Homestead Benefit Payments for 2013 Coming in May

Most New Jersey homeowners who were eligible and filed for a 2013 homestead benefit will receive their benefit as a credit on their May 2016 property tax bills. However, homeowners will receive their benefit in the form of a check (or direct deposit) in early May if their home was a unit in a co-op or a continuing care retirement community, or they indicated when filing that they no longer owned the home that was their principal residence on Oct. 1, 2013.

To be eligible for a 2013 homestead benefit, applicants had to be New Jersey residents who owned and occupied a home in New Jersey that was their principal residence on Oct. 1, 2013, paid property taxes on that home and had 2013 New Jersey gross income of $75,000 or less ($150,000 or less for homeowners 65 or older or blind or disabled).

Benefit amounts vary based on the applicant's income, filing status, property taxes and whether the applicant was 65 or older or blind or disabled.

The 2013 benefit is based on the 2006 property taxes for the applicant's Oct. 1, 2013, principal residence. If no property taxes were assessed on the home for 2006, the Division of Taxation determines the amount of property taxes that would have been due.

Homeowners can check the status of their homestead benefit online. Additional information about the Homestead Benefit Program, including information on how the benefit is calculated, is also available on our website. □

Reporting Tax on Boat/Vessel Sales

Recent legislation (P.L. 2015, c.170) amended the Sales and Use Tax Act to: (1) provide a 50 percent Sales and Use Tax exemption on the sale of new and used boats or other vessels and (2) cap the amount of sales tax or use tax due on an individual sale at $20,000.

These changes affect how businesses that sell, rent or lease new and used boats or other vessels that are "eligible" for the partial sales tax exemption (3.5% sales tax rate) and the $20,000 sales tax cap complete and file their Sales and Use Tax returns. See page 9 for more information. The Frequently Asked Questions on Boats and Other Vessels in that section include the definition of an "eligible boat or other vessel" as well as examples of "noneligible" watercraft.

For filing periods beginning on and after Feb. 1, 2016, businesses that make eligible sales of boats or other vessels must file all Sales and Use Tax returns and remittance

statements (if applicable) online and make payments electronically.

These businesses will complete new, online returns (ST-50B, ST-350B, ST-450B or UZ-50B) and must provide information about the number of eligible boats or other vessels sold, rented or leased during the filing period and the total gross receipts for those transactions. This information is needed to ensure that the amount of tax due on these transactions is properly calculated.

Businesses that sell, rent or lease eligible boats or other vessels must use the new "B" returns for any filing period (month or quarter) in which they made "eligible" sales. These businesses will also report on the "B" return any sales that are subject to sales tax at the regular rate.

Businesses that do not sell, rent or lease "eligible" boats or other vessels will continue to file the quarterly/monthly returns they have in the past (ST-50, ST-350, ST-450 or UZ-50).

"Noneligible" sales, rentals or leases involve items to which the partial sales tax exemption (3.5% sales tax rate) and the $20,000 sales tax cap do not apply. Examples include: canoes, kayaks, paddleboards, paddleboats (other than mechanically powered), rowboats, rafts, surfboards and inflatable rafts with oars. Sales, rentals and leases of these "noneligible" items are subject to the full sales tax rate of 7%, unless another exemption provision applies. For example, sales, leases or rentals of canoes or kayaks made by qualified sellers in Salem County or in an Urban Enterprise Zone are subject to tax at the reduced rate of 3.5% that applies to certain sales of tangible property in those locations.

The Sales and Use Tax return a business must file depends on where it is located and whether or not it sells, rents or leases "eligible" boats or other vessels. See the "Which Form to File" chart below.

Division of Taxation through the public bidding process to assist in the collection of deficient (underpaid) and delinquent (unfiled) State taxes, as permitted under P.L. 1992, c.172. PCR is the Division’s authorized collection agency and is overseen by the Division’s Compliance Branch.

PCR and its employees who work on this contract are bound by the same confidentiality rules in the State Tax Uniform Procedure Law (N.J.S.A. 54:50-8 and N.J.S.A. 54:50-9), the Internal Revenue Code (U.S.C. §§6103, 7213) and the State ethics guidelines and procedures required of all other Division employees. Violators of these laws are subject to prosecution.

If you are contacted by PCR, respond directly to that caseworker to expedite your case.

The Collection Process

After you file a tax return, if you do not pay the balance in full, the Division sends a billing notice for the amount due. This amount includes any penalties and interest. If you fail to make payment within 30 days of the billing notice, your account/tax liability will be forwarded to PCR for debt collection.

If you fail to file a tax return, your account is considered to be delinquent, and your tax liability will be arbitrarily assessed. If you fall into this category, it is imperative that you file all missing returns. This will ensure that the Division’s records reflect your true liability.

After your account is forwarded to PCR, the collection process proceeds as follows:

- PCR reviews the debt and assigns the account to a caseworker.

- The caseworker mails an initial contact letter along with an updated Schedule of Liabilities detailing the current balance due.
- PCR will attempt to contact the taxpayer (or their authorized representative) in an effort to resolve the matter.
- If the debt remains unresolved after 30 days, PCR will issue a “Notice of Demand for Payment” via certified mail. This official notification allows taxpayers either 30 days (for deficient items) or 90 days (for delinquent items) to resolve the issue. It is important that taxpayers with delinquent returns are aware that penalties and fees assessed on delinquencies are higher than if a return had been filed timely.
- If the debt is still outstanding, a Certificate of Debt (COD) is entered with the Clerk of the New Jersey Superior Court. A COD has the same force and effect as a Docketed Judgment adjudicated in any court of law. If a COD is issued for the outstanding liability, a cost of collection fee is added to the docketed judgment and becomes part of the outstanding liability.
- Once the COD is in place, the case is returned to the Division for further collection action.
- All cases with CODs are assessed a cost of collection fee, which is in addition to a referral cost recovery fee.

Referral Cost Recovery Fee

Beginning in October 2003, the Division began imposing a referral cost recovery fee as authorized by

N.J.S.A. 54:49-12.3 and N.J.A.C. 18:2-2.5(d).

In cases in which any State tax remains unpaid and your account is referred to PCR for collection, a referral cost recovery fee of 10% of the amount referred will be assessed and added to the tax liability. This fee is in addition to any interest or penalties imposed. If your returns have not been filed (account is delinquent), and your tax liability has been arbitrarily assessed, the referral cost recovery fee will be 10% of the assessed amount.

The referral cost recovery fee is not compensation paid to PCR. This fee is assessed to cover the expense incurred by the Division when taxes are not filed and paid in a timely manner or not resolved upon the issuance of an initial bill. Generally, each payment sent to Pioneer will have 10% of that payment applied to the referral cost recovery fee items until all referral cost recovery fee items are satisfied.

Cost of Collection

If any State tax is not paid within the time prescribed by law, and the Director of the Division of Taxation issues a Certificate of Debt pursuant to R.S.54:49-12, a fee for the cost of collection of the tax may be imposed. The fees imposed pursuant to the statute are in addition to any interest or penalties, or both, otherwise allowed by law. □

Tax Deferment for Deployed Military Personnel

P.L. 2015, c.277, approved Jan. 19, 2016, provides a deferment from property taxes that are due while a military servicemember is deployed for active service in time of war.

The deferment begins on the tax due date and ends 90 days after the end of deployment. No interest is charged when the amount due is paid on or before the first day following the 90-day grace period. However, interest will accrue from the original due date on any amount that is unpaid after the first day following the grace period.

The deferment is limited to property owned solely by the deployed military servicemember or owned with a spouse/civil union partner. Property owned by a corporation or with others (parents, siblings or children) does not qualify for the deferment. The law permits a person acting on behalf of the servicemember to file the application for deferment with the tax collector of the municipality where the property is located.

The Director of the Division of Taxation will prescribe the application form and make it available on the Division’s website. To qualify, the deployed servicemember must submit the application, military orders and a DD Form 214. The municipal tax collector will review the application and determine eligibility.

In order to avoid an unfunded mandate, the law requires that the State annually pay each municipality the total amount deferred plus 2% administrative costs in the same manner as is currently done for the veterans’ property tax deduction. The municipal tax collector is required to reimburse the State upon receipt of the deferred payment from each qualified military servicemember, along with any interest collected for payments made after the deferment period. □

Nonresidential Development Fee

The following information has been promulgated by the Department of Community Affairs, Local Planning Services:

“The Non-Residential Development Fee Act, N.J.S.A. 40:55D-8.1 through 8.8, was established by P.L. 2008, c. 46. The first moratorium on the fee, which ended on July 1, 2010, was instituted by P.L. 2009, c. 90. The moratorium was extended by P.L. 2011, c. 122 for projects receiving site approval prior to July 1, 2013 and a construction permit as of January 1, 2015.” (That moratorium extension has not been renewed by the New Jersey Legislature and is currently expired.)

“Thus, as of July 1, 2013 all municipalities are required to impose a Non-Residential Development Fee of 2.5 percent of the equalized assessed value on projects receiving site approval after that date pursuant to the Statewide Non-residential Development Fee Act, N.J.S.A. 40:55D-8.6.

“The NRDF Certification/Exemption Form (Form N-RDF rev. 1/2016) has been updated to include an exemption for developments that received both appropriate site plan approval prior to July 1, 2013 and a construction permit prior to January 1, 2015. All previous exemptions or exclusions under the Non-Residential Development Fee Act remain.” (Form N-RDF is available on the Division’s website.)

If a developer is claiming an exemption from the Nonresidential Development Fee, then the assessor determines if the exemption is justified. If not exempt, the assessor must prepare an estimated assessment based on a review of the documentation submitted by the developer with the construction permit application. Once notified that the property is ready for a final assessment, the assessor enters the assessed value of the completed construction on the form and calculates the Nonresidential Development Fee due on the project.

If the municipality is participating in the Fair Housing Act, payment is remitted to the town. If the municipality is not a Fair Housing Act participant, payment is made to the State Treasurer. □

Criminal Enforcement

Criminal enforcement over the past several months included:

- On Sept. 11, 2015, Henry R. De La Rosa, t/a Busanka Restaurant LLC, was indicted in Middlesex County Court for failure to file New Jersey sales tax returns (Form ST-50) for the first quarter of 2010 through the fourth quarter of 2014 and failure to remit sales taxes to the State of New Jersey for the first quarter of 2010 through the fourth quarter of 2014. An Office of Criminal Investigation (OCI) auditor determined that De La Rosa owes restitution in the amount of $74,719, including penalty and interest.
- On Oct. 8, 2015, OCI arrested Osama Rawashdeh, owner of the Grab and Go in Paterson, New Jersey. Seized were 58.5 cartons of New Jersey counterfeit-stamped cigarettes. New Jersey State Fire Marshals assisted with the inspection using their tobacco K-9, Scout.
- On Nov. 13, 2015, Vivian Farney of Middletown, New Jersey, was sentenced to probation on four counts of filing a fraudulent tax return. A joint investigation between OCI and the Monmouth County Prosecutor's Office revealed that she made numerous cash deposits into her bank account (funds allegedly embezzled from her employer) that she did not claim on her tax returns during the years 2007 through 2010. Farney was ordered to pay $8,000 in restitution to the New Jersey Division of Taxation. Ms. Farney's common-law husband, William Seward, pled guilty to failure to file a tax return for the years 2007 through 2010. He was also put on probation on the condition that he file the delinquent returns within 90 days of sentencing.

- On Nov. 17, 2015, OCI special agents performed a compliance inspection with the Englewood Police Department at Crown Fish and Chicken, LLC in Englewood, New Jersey. The inspection resulted in the seizure of 5.1 cartons of Virginia-stamped cigarettes, 5,148 untaxed tobacco products and 190 loosies. During the search, agents also found multiple bags of marijuana, brass knuckles and possible bags of synthetic marijuana, to which the agents alerted the members of the municipal police department. The two employees of the store were placed under arrest. One of the employees present at the time of inspection lived in the apartment located directly behind the business. He was asked if he would sign a "consent to search" his apartment, to which he agreed. A search was conducted by the special agents that resulted in the seizure of 99.7 cartons of Virginia-stamped cigarettes, 11,245 untaxed tobacco products and 7 pieces of paperwork/invoices. The owner of the store, Manfooz Khan, has been charged with all of the contraband cigarette and tobacco counts.

- On Dec. 3, 2015, an Ocean County Grand Jury handed up indictments on two separate cases referred to the Prosecutor's Office and jointly investigated with the New Jersey State Comptroller's Office, Medicaid Fraud Division and OCI. Peter Cerruto and his wife, Lisa Cerruto, of Barnegat, New Jersey, were indicted on charges of theft by deception, Medicaid fraud, tampering with government records, filing fraudulent tax returns and failure to pay tax. It is alleged that the Cerrutos provided false information on their applications for New Jersey Family Care, a Medicaid program, and received benefits totaling approximately $69,000 between February 2010 and July 2013. The tax counts cover the tax years of 2010 through 2013. The general nature of the allegations is that income was understated in both the Medicaid and tax matters. All counts of the indictment were in the third degree, and the defendants face up to five years in State prison.

- On Dec. 3, 2015, an Ocean County Grand Jury handed up a second indictment on Yosaf Laskin and his wife, Gila Neger, of Lakewood. Mr. Laskin was indicted for theft by deception, Medicaid fraud and tampering with government records. It is alleged that he provided false information on his applications for New Jersey Family Care and received benefits of approximately $148,000 between November 2010 and July 2013. Ms. Neger was indicted for theft by deception and tampering with government records. It is alleged that she filed a false application for food stamps under the Supplemental Nutritional Assistance Program (SNAP) and received approximately $8,000 in benefits. Both Laskin and Neger were also indicted for filing fraudulent tax returns for tax years 2010 and 2011. The general nature of the allegations is that income was understated in the Medicaid, SNAP and tax matters. Mr. Laskin faces up to 10 years in State prison on the second-degree charge of theft by deception. The remaining counts are all third-degree charges, and the defendants face up to five years in prison.

- On Dec. 7, 2015, in Mercer County Superior Court, former New York Giants football star Plaxico Burress agreed to serve 5 years of probation and 364 days in jail for failing to pay $46,000 in taxes on his $1 million income in 2013. In exchange for the guilty plea, prosecutors dropped an additional charge of issuing a bad check or electronic funds transfer, a third-degree felony. Burress must repay his back taxes, with penalty and interest, by the time the probation period ends or face jail time. Burress filed his 2013 income tax return with the New Jersey Division of Taxation, but the electronic payment failed. Burress was alerted to the nonpayment by the Division of Revenue and Enterprise Services, but he did not respond. A criminal complaint came in February 2015 after additional efforts by OCI to reach Burress were unsuccessful. Under a 2014 bill signed by Governor Christie, New Jersey allows criminal penalties to be imposed on people who send insufficient e-payments just as if those payments were bounced checks. Burress was sentenced on Feb. 5, 2016. This case was a joint investigation between OCI's Technical Enforcement Unit and the Mercer County Prosecutor's Office. □

Controlling Interest Transfer Tax

No De Minimis Exception – A tax practitioner inquired as to whether there is a de minimis exception to the Controlling Interest Transfer Tax (CITT) when one owner purchases a five percent interest in an entity owning Class 4A commercial property from the other owner, which results in the purchaser having a controlling interest. In this case, taxpayers A and B each own a 50 percent share in entity C. Taxpayer A buys an additional five percent of entity C from taxpayer B for $1,200,000. Taxpayer A now owns a controlling interest (55 percent) in entity C.

The Division responded that when there is a sale or transfer of an ownership/membership interest in an entity that owns Class 4A commercial property, and the purchaser/transferee gains a controlling interest as a result of the sale or transfer, the CITT is due if the consideration for the purchase of the interest is in excess of $1,000,000 in accordance with N.J.S.A. 54:15C-1.

Because the purchase by taxpayer A resulted in his owning a controlling interest in entity C, he now owes the CITT even though the interest purchased was not itself a controlling interest. As long as consideration for the purchase exceeds $1 million, there is no de minimis exception for a purchase/transfer that results in the purchaser/transferee owning a controlling interest.

Partnerships

Claiming a Federal Tax Credit on Form NJ-1065 – A taxpayer inquired as to whether the research and development credit authorized under I.R.C. §41 and taken on federal Form 6765 is allowed as a deduction for partnerships on the NJ-1065 return.

As required in the instructions for the NJ-1065, for New Jersey purposes, the partnership's income reported on Line 1 of Form NJ-1065 is the amount of ordinary income or loss derived from the partnership's trade or business activities. This will be the amount reported on Line 1, Schedule K, federal Form 1065.

There is no provision in the New Jersey Gross Income Tax Act that allows the use of federal tax credits

Sales and Use Tax

Partial Exemption (3.5% Tax Rate) and $20,000 Tax Cap for Sales and Uses of Boats and Vessels; Grace Period for Use Tax Imposition – Amendment to the Sales and Use Tax Act, enacted Dec. 9, 2015.

P.L. 2015, c.170 amends the Sales and Use Tax Act to provide a 50 percent sales and use tax exemption on the sale of new and used boats or other vessels (including motorboats, sailboats, yachts and cruisers) and caps the amount of Sales and Use Tax so that the most the State can collect on a particular sale is $20,000. As a result, the Sales and Use Tax rate goes from 7 percent to 3.5 percent. There is no further reduction of the Sales and Use Tax rate on sales in an urban enterprise zone or in Salem County. The exemption and cap apply to purchases occurring on and after Feb. 1, 2016. Because rental/lease transactions are treated as retail sales under the Sales and Use Tax Act, these changes also apply to rentals and leases of boats or other vessels.

In addition to the exemption and cap, for uses on or after Jan. 1, 2016, the law allows a grace period for certain boats or other vessels purchased out of State by a New Jersey resident to be used in New Jersey for up to 30 days in a calendar year without triggering use tax so long as:

1. The boat or other vessel is legally operated by the resident purchaser and meets all current requirements pursuant to applicable federal law or pursuant to a federally approved numbering system for boats and vessels adopted by another state; and
2. The resident purchaser is not engaged in or carrying on in this State any employment, trade, business or profession in which the boat or vessel will be used in this State.

Frequently Asked Questions: Boats and Other Vessels – Partial Sales Tax Exemption (3.5% Sales Tax rate); $20,000 Sales Tax Cap

Q1. What is the definition of “boat or other vessel”?

A. Based on legislative intent, a “boat or other vessel” is a means of conveyance for travel on water and propelled otherwise than by muscular power, such as a motorboat, sailboat, yacht and cruiser.

Q2. Does the new law apply to leases and rentals of boats or other vessels?

A. Yes. The statutory definition of “sale” includes leases and rentals, so the partial sales tax exemption (3.5% sales tax rate) and the $20,000 sales tax cap (maximum amount of Sales and Use Tax the State can collect on an eligible sale) also apply to leases and rentals of boats or other vessels.

Q3. Does the new law apply only to noncommercial boats or other vessels?

A. No. The new law does not distinguish between commercial and noncommercial boats or other vessels, so the partial sales tax exemption (3.5% sales tax rate) and the $20,000 sales tax cap apply to both commercial and noncommercial boats or other vessels. (NOTE: Several types of commercial boats and vessels are currently exempt from sales tax in full.)

Q4. Do the partial sales tax exemption (3.5% sales tax rate) and the $20,000 sales tax cap apply to sales, leases and rentals of personal watercraft?

A. Yes. The partial sales tax exemption (3.5% sales tax rate) and the $20,000 sales tax cap apply to sales, leases and rentals of personal watercraft.

“Personal watercraft” means a power vessel defined as a Class “A” vessel by the United States Coast Guard, and that:

- a. Is designed to be operated from a sitting, standing or kneeling position;
- b. Is equipped with an internal combustion engine that powers a water jet pump; and
- c. Cannot be operated in a manner so as to disengage the pump so as to prevent the vessel from making headway (N.J.S.A. 12:7-62).

Q5. Do the partial sales tax exemption (3.5% sales tax rate) and the $20,000 sales tax cap apply to sales, leases and rentals of canoes and kayaks?

A. No. Based on the definition in question 1, the Division has determined that canoes and kayaks are not entitled to the partial sales tax exemption (3.5% sales tax rate) or the $20,000 sales tax cap. Thus, sales, rentals and leases of canoes and kayaks are subject to the full sales tax rate of 7% unless another exemption provision applies (e.g., sales of tangible property made by qualified sellers in Salem County or in an urban enterprise zone).

Q6. Do the partial sales tax exemption (3.5% sales tax rate) and the $20,000 sales tax cap apply to used and brokered boats or other vessels?

A. Yes. The new law does not distinguish between new and used boats or other vessels, so brokered sales (in which a dealer acts as a go-between for the seller and the purchaser) and casual sales (sales between individuals with no broker) are eligible for the partial sales tax exemption (3.5% sales tax rate) and the $20,000 sales tax cap.

Q7. Does the partial sales tax exemption (3.5% sales tax rate) apply to services, parts and labor?

A. No. The new law only applies to sales, rentals and leases of boats or other vessels. Therefore, charges for all services (repairs, maintenance, etc.), parts and supplies are subject to the full sales tax rate of 7% unless another exemption provision applies (e.g., sales of tangible property made by qualified sellers in Salem County or in an urban enterprise zone).

Q8. What are examples of items that are not entitled to the partial sales tax exemption (3.5% sales tax rate) and the $20,000 sales tax cap?

A. The partial sales tax exemption (3.5% sales tax rate) and the $20,000 sales tax cap do not apply to sales, rentals and leases of canoes, kayaks, paddleboards, paddleboats (other than mechanically powered), rowboats, rafts, surfboards and inflatable rafts with oars. Thus, sales, rentals and leases of these items are subject to the full sales tax rate of 7% unless another exemption provision applies (e.g., sales of tangible property made by qualified sellers in Salem County or in an urban enterprise zone).

Q9. Do the partial sales tax exemption (3.5% sales tax rate) and $20,000 sales tax cap apply to new boats or other vessels sold as packages with trailers, motors and accessories?

A. Trailers are separate and distinct from the boat or other vessel and are not eligible for the partial sales tax exemption (3.5% sales tax rate) or the $20,000 sales tax cap; therefore, the price for the trailer must be separately stated on the invoice for the boat or other vessel or the entire sales price will be subject to the full sales tax rate of 7%.

If the accessories and motors are included in the sales price of the boat or other vessel and are affixed thereto at the time of purchase, the partial sales tax exemption (3.5% sales tax rate) and the $20,000 sales tax cap apply.

Q10. What is the tax treatment of sales of boats and other vessels that occurred prior to the Feb. 1, 2016, effective date of the new law?

A. The statutory definition of “sale” is any transfer of title or possession for consideration. If the boat or other vessel is sold and physical delivery or transfer of title took place before Feb. 1, 2016, the sales tax rate is 7%. If the boat or other vessel is sold but physical delivery or transfer of title takes place on or after Feb. 1, 2016, the sales tax rate is 3.5%. This applies whether or not payment has been made in whole or in part prior to delivery.

Q11. What is the tax treatment if the sale of the boat or other vessel occurs in Salem County or an urban enterprise zone?

A. Qualified sales of boats and other vessels in Salem County or in an urban enterprise zone are already entitled to a partial sales tax exemption (3.5% sales tax rate). The new law does not allow a further reduction of this already reduced rate. However, sales of boats and other vessels in Salem County or in an urban enterprise zone are entitled to the $20,000 sales tax cap.

Q12. Can a purchaser obtain a refund of sales tax if the purchaser was incorrectly charged more than the 3.5% sales tax rate or an amount that exceeded the $20,000 sales tax cap on an eligible purchase of a boat or other vessel?

A. Yes. If a purchaser was charged more than the 3.5% sales tax rate or an amount that exceeded the $20,000 sales tax cap on an eligible purchase of a boat or other vessel, the purchaser may apply for a refund of tax paid to either the seller or the State of New Jersey. The Division of Taxation will refund the tax so long as the tax was “erroneously, illegally or unconstitutionally collected or paid.” To request a refund from the Division, the purchaser must file a Claim for Refund (Form A-3730) within four years from the date of payment of the sales tax. The purchaser must enclose all supporting documentation of the sales tax paid in order to substantiate the claim. □

S Corporation Distributions – Morris & Charlotte Cohen v. Director, Division of Taxation, decided June 9, 2015; Appellate Division, Docket No. A-5827-12T4.

Morris Cohen (Plaintiff) is a New Jersey resident who was a 25% shareholder in Conway Stores (Conway), a New York S corporation. During tax year 2003, Plaintiff received a distribution of $554,292 from Conway but did not report this distribution on his NJ-1040. Plaintiff believed that because he had been unable to use S corporation losses to reduce his taxable income in prior years, the losses could not be used to reduce his New Jersey accumulated adjustments account (NJ AAA) below zero, and the distribution was not taxable. The Division issued a notice of deficiency to Plaintiff that reclassified the distribution as a taxable dividend under N.J.S.A. 54A:5-14.

Plaintiff argued that based on the principles in Koch v. Director, Division of Taxation, 157 N.J. 1 (1999), losses that are passed through to a shareholder but that cannot be used to offset income cannot reduce NJ AAA because they provide no tax benefit. The Tax Court declined to address the argument because the taxpayer did not comply with the rules for properly calculating the NJ AAA. The Court denied Plaintiff's motion for summary judgment and upheld the Division's position that the distribution is to be taxed as a dividend.

Plaintiff appealed the Tax Court's decision. The Appellate Court found that the statute expressly requires the application of federal principles to calculate AAA and found no basis in the statute or case law to support Plaintiff's argument that NJ AAA should not be reduced by S corporation losses. Plaintiff filed a motion for reconsideration, which the Appellate Court denied.

New Jersey Residents Not Entitled to Credit for Taxes Paid to Other Jurisdiction – Ravinder Palwai v. Director, Division of Taxation, decided Nov. 18, 2015; Tax Court, Docket No. 017418-2010.

Ravinder Palwai and his wife (Plaintiffs) closed on the purchase of their home in New Jersey in 2005 and moved into the State in 2006. They filed a joint 2006 NJ-1040 and did not claim a credit for taxes paid to another jurisdiction. Plaintiffs also filed a 2006 Form IT-203 (New York Nonresident and Part-Year Resident Income Tax Return) reporting a zero tax liability after deducting allowable New York state refundable credits.

After reviewing Plaintiffs' return, the Division of Taxation adjusted their New Jersey gross income as follows: (1) increased wage income for New York wages that were not reported to New Jersey; (2) added back a deduction for an IRC Section 125 cafeteria plan; and (3) denied the credit for taxes paid to New York because Plaintiffs reported $0 tax was due to New York after deducting the credit for taxes paid to other jurisdictions.

Plaintiffs filed a timely administrative protest but failed to participate in the process, so the Division's determination was upheld. Plaintiffs filed a timely complaint with the Tax Court. After numerous adjournments, the Division filed a summary judgment motion to dismiss the complaint. The Tax Court granted the motion finding that: (1) Plaintiffs were New Jersey residents and were subject to tax on all earnings regardless of where earned, so the New York wages were reportable to New Jersey; (2) Plaintiffs failed to provide any documentation to prove that the contributions to the IRC Section 125 cafeteria plan qualified to be excluded from gross income; and (3) a resident is allowed a credit for taxes paid to another jurisdiction only if the income is actually taxed in New Jersey and the other jurisdiction. Their New York return showed $0 tax due; therefore, Plaintiffs are not entitled to a credit for taxes paid because the income earned in New York was not actually taxed. □

Achieving a Better Life Experience (ABLE) Program for Persons With Certain Disabilities — P.L. 2015, c.185, signed into law on Jan. 11, 2016, and effective on the first day of the tenth month after enactment, allows persons with certain disabilities to establish ABLE accounts, which may be used for certain qualifying disability expenses. Earnings on qualified distributions from qualified ABLE accounts will be exempt from State income taxation. In addition, ABLE accounts will not be considered when determining income eligibility for State assistance programs.

Checkoff for New Jersey Yellow Ribbon Fund — P.L. 2015, c.278, signed into law on Jan. 11, 2016, effective immediately, and applicable to tax years beginning on or after Jan. 1, 2017, allows taxpayers to donate to the New Jersey Yellow Ribbon Fund by specifying that a certain amount of their income tax overpayments should go to that fund or by enclosing a contribution with their Gross Income Tax returns.

Local Property Tax

Tax Deferment for Deployed Military Personnel — P.L. 2015, c.277, signed into law on Jan. 19, 2016, and effective immediately, allows New Jersey residents enlisted in any branch of the United States Armed Forces to defer the amount of any property tax bill for taxes assessed on property they own alone or with a spouse that becomes due during the period of their deployment for active duty in time of war. The deferment begins on the due date for the property tax payment and ends 90 days after the end of the resident’s deployment. No interest will be charged if the property taxes owed are paid in full before the expiration of this 90-day grace period. Any portion of the property taxes not paid before the grace period expires will be subject to interest from the original due date until paid in full. The Act requires the State to annually pay each municipality the total amount of property taxes deferred. Tax collectors must reimburse the State when they receive payment of the deferred taxes.

Multiple Taxes

Business Employment Incentive Program — P.L. 2015, c.194, signed into law on Jan. 11, 2016, and effective immediately, allows certain businesses that have previously been approved for a grant under the Business Employment Incentive Program to direct the New Jersey Economic Development Authority to convert the grant to a tax credit. The Act establishes a priority schedule for the issuance of tax credits that favors older, outstanding grant obligations over grants that will become payable in future years. The tax credits issued can be applied to reduce a business’s tax liability under the Corporation Business Tax or Insurance Premiums Tax prior to all other credits and payments. If the tax credit issued exceeds the amount of the tax liability otherwise due from a business that pays tax under the Corporation Business Tax, the amount of the excess may be treated as an overpayment of tax and refunded to the business.

Economic Incentive Programs — P.L. 2015, c.217, signed into law on Jan. 11, 2016, and effective immediately, modifies and clarifies provisions of the GROW NJ Assistance Program, the Economic Redevelopment and Growth Grant Program (ERG) and a tax credit program for redevelopers that provide public infrastructure to government entities. □

Tax Calendar

The following three calendars provide listings of filing and payment dates for tax year 2015 (Jan. 1, 2015 – Dec. 31, 2015) and tax year 2016 (Jan. 1, 2016 – Dec. 31, 2016) for businesses and individuals:

Reply to Notices Electronically

The New Jersey Division of Revenue and Enterprise Services (DORES) announced development of a new electronic service. The New Jersey Online Notice Response Service, NJ ONRS (pronounced Honors), enables you to electronically transmit

your reply to a Notice of Adjustment and/or Statement of Account received from the Division of Taxation. The transmission of information and data occurs directly through one of the State's secure servers.

When you respond to a notice using NJ ONRS, you can compose a letter (up to 2,000 characters) directly through the application or you can upload one, as well as all supporting documentation, securely from your home or business computer. Before uploading your confidential information and documents to NJ ONRS, you must convert the material into PDF, JPG, JPEG, PNG or TIFF format. Helpful tips for converting files into one of these formats is provided in the application.

Once your response is successfully transmitted to the State, NJ ONRS immediately issues you a confirmation email. Your letter then goes into our existing Correspondence Tracking System (CTS) to be answered in the order in which it was received.

DORES expects to launch NJ ONRS on or about Feb. 15, 2016. Notices will be clearly marked to indicate that you may use NJ ONRS for your reply. Initially, NJ ONRS will be available only for notices and statements that involve Individual Income Tax, the Homestead Benefit Program, the Property Tax Reimbursement Program and certain business taxes. More information on NJ ONRS is available online. □

There have been some important changes affecting the preparation of New Jersey income tax returns and applications for New Jersey's property tax relief programs for 2015. In addition, this year brings several other legislative and administrative changes.

Customer Service Center

- Extended Hours on Mondays — The Customer Service Center now offers extended hours every Monday on two of their customer service phone lines (609-292-6400 and 609-943-5000). In addition to the normal hours of operation (8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m., Monday through Friday, except State holidays), representatives are available on Mondays from 8:30 a.m. until 6:00 p.m. to assist with your tax questions. When State offices are closed on Monday due to a State holiday, the phone lines will remain open until 6:00 p.m. on the following Tuesday.

Income Tax

- Earned Income Tax Credit — The New Jersey Earned Income Tax Credit (NJEITC) amount increased to 30% of the applicant's federal earned income tax credit for tax year 2015 and after.
- Filing Deadline — The filing deadline is Monday, April 18, 2016, for calendar year taxpayers, the same day the federal Form 1040 is due. The due date is April 18 instead of April 15 because of the Emancipation Day holiday in the District of Columbia.
- Credit for Excess UI/WF/SWF; DI; FLI Withheld — For 2015, the maximum employee unemployment insurance/workforce development partnership fund/supplemental workforce fund contribution was $136.00, the maximum employee disability insurance contribution was $80.00, and the maximum employee family leave insurance contribution was $28.80. If you had two or more employers, you may have contributed more than the maximum amount(s). You must complete Form NJ-2450 to claim credit on your New Jersey tax return for the excess withheld.

- Credit for Taxes Paid to Other Jurisdictions — The Philadelphia nonresident wage tax rate for 2015 was 3.4915% (.034915) from Jan. 1 to June 30, 2015, and 3.4828% (.034828) from July 1 to Dec. 31, 2015.
- Alternative Business Calculation Adjustment — If you have losses in certain business-related categories of income, you may be able to use those losses to calculate an adjustment to your taxable income. In addition, you can carry forward unused losses in those categories for 20 years to calculate future adjustments. For tax year 2015, the percentage used to calculate the Alternative Business Calculation Adjustment on Schedule NJ-BUS-2 is 40%, up from 30% in 2014. The percentage is being phased in over a five-year period and will reach a maximum of 50% for tax year 2016 and after.

- Designated Contributions — Six new funds have been added to the list of organizations to which you can contribute on the New Jersey tax return. To donate to the new funds, you must specify the “code number” at the “Other Designated Contribution” line. The new funds that have been added for 2015 are: Homeless Veterans Grant Fund (16), The Leukemia & Lymphoma Society – New Jersey Fund (17), Northern New Jersey Veterans Memorial Cemetery Development Fund (18), New Jersey Farm to School and School Garden Fund (19), Local Library Support Fund (20) and ALS Association Support Fund (21).

Reimbursement Application (Form PTR-1 or PTR-2) by June 1, 2016. The 2015 applications were mailed in mid-February.

With very few exceptions, all income received during the year, including income that is not required to be reported on Form NJ-1040, must be taken into account to determine eligibility for the property tax reimbursement. For residents applying for reimbursements for tax year 2015, total annual income must be:

2014: $85,553 or less, and

2015: $87,007 or less

New Jersey Earned Income Tax Credit

The New Jersey Earned Income Tax Credit (NJEITC) Program, in existence since tax year 2000, provides credits for certain residents who work and have earned income. The credit reduces the amount of New Jersey tax applicants owe or increases their refunds. It may provide a refund even if the applicant has no tax liability to New Jersey.

Most residents who are eligible and file for a federal earned income credit are also eligible for the New Jersey earned income tax credit. To receive the NJEITC, applicants must file a New Jersey resident income tax return. This is true even if they are not otherwise required to file a return.

The amount of the NJEITC is based on the amount of the federal earned income credit. For 2015, the NJEITC increased to 30% of the federal credit. For example, if an applicant's federal earned income credit is $2,000, the amount of the NJEITC will be $600 (federal EIC x 30% = 2015 NJEITC).

More information on the NJEITC is available on the Division of Taxation's website. Information on eligibility requirements for the federal earned income credit is available on the IRS's website.

New Partnership Returns for 2015

For tax years beginning on or after Jan. 1, 2015, the Division has created two new partnership tax returns: Form NJ-1065, Partnership Return – Gross Income Tax and Form NJ-CBT-1065, Partnership Return – Corporation Business Tax.

The New Jersey Gross Income Tax (GIT) Act (N.J.S.A. 54A:8-6) requires entities classified as partnerships for federal income tax purposes having a resident owner or having income derived from

New Jersey sources to file a Gross Income Tax return, Form NJ-1065. Partnerships with more than two owners and income or loss from New Jersey sources may also be subject to a filing fee. Beginning with tax year 2015, the fee is computed and reported on the new Form NJ-1065.

The Corporation Business Tax (CBT) Act (N.J.S.A. 54:10A-15.11) imposes a tax on certain partnerships that have nonresident owners. Partnerships subject to the provisions of the CBT Act must file the new Form NJ-CBT-1065. These forms have been developed to help distinguish the differences that exist between the requirements of the Gross Income Tax and Corporation Business Tax Acts.

The 2015 Form NJ-1065 remains similar to the Form NJ-1065 for prior years, except that the filing fee is now reported directly on the return. Form PART-100, Partnership Filing Fee and Tax Payment Return, which partnerships previously used to report both the GIT filing fee and the tax for nonresident partners required under the CBT Act, has been eliminated. The filing fee is now remitted with the new Partnership Payment Voucher, Form NJ-1065-V.

If a partnership is also required to compute and report tax for nonresident partners, it must complete and file Form NJ-CBT-1065. If the entity has a balance due, it must remit payment with the new Corporation Business Tax-Partnership Payment Voucher, Form NJ-CBT-V.

Copies of the 2015 partnership forms are available on the Division's website. □

Ponzi Scheme Losses

New Jersey and the IRS treat losses resulting from investments in Ponzi schemes differently.

According to IRS Revenue Ruling 2009-9, issued in March 2009, an investor with a loss resulting from an investment in a Ponzi scheme is entitled to claim a theft loss under Internal Revenue Code Section 165 rather than a capital loss. The theft loss is deductible in the year it is discovered.

The New Jersey Gross Income Tax (GIT) Act makes no provision for theft losses. Therefore, a loss from an investment in a Ponzi scheme is not deductible for New Jersey Gross Income Tax purposes.

In John M. Dalton and Cathy M. Dalton v. Director, Division of Taxation, Tax Court Docket No. 020540-2010, decided Nov. 10, 2011, the Court ruled that, for New Jersey Gross Income Tax purposes, a net loss in the IRS year of discovery would not be allowed. However, since the income reported to the investor represented phantom income, the investor could file amended returns to remove that income from any previously filed New Jersey income tax returns that were within the statute of limitations.

Judge Menyuk opined, "In its April 15, 2010 notice, the Division asserted that 'taxpayers who invested with Madoff can only claim an investment loss in accordance with N.J.S.A. 54A:5-1(c),' that is, in the category of gross income for net gains or income from the disposition of property. Neither the notice nor the Director's motion papers or its counsel at oral argument explained how property that never existed and that was not actually or constructively received by the plaintiffs can be converted into a loss that must be reported pursuant to N.J.S.A. 54A:5-1c."

"The (Division's) notice, then, is self-contradictory, because it advises taxpayers that they must follow federal procedure for theft losses, even though the GIT Act does not recognize theft losses. Moreover, while (IRS) Rev. Rul. 2009-9 states that the Madoff Ponzi scheme losses are not investment losses, the Director's notice nevertheless directs taxpayers to treat the same losses as investment losses. There is no principled reason why taxpayers should be required to use a federal procedure that relies upon federal tax code concepts that are not recognized by the GIT Act."

"Plaintiffs received no economic gain from the dividend and gains income reported on their 2005, 2006, and 2007 GIT returns. They were nevertheless taxed on it. The court can find no statutory basis for prohibiting them from recovering the tax paid on that phantom income. They derive no GIT benefit from the larger loss resulting from application of Rev. Proc. 2009-20. There is no statutory reason that they should be compelled to utilize that procedure for GIT purposes."

As a result, taxpayers who are victims of Ponzi schemes recognized by the IRS may amend their New Jersey Gross Income Tax returns that are within the three-year statute of limitations to remove the associated income and recover the taxes paid on that phantom income. □

OLAD Hosts Summer Interns

Three college students participating in the Governor's Summer Internship Program were assigned to the Division of Taxation's Office of Legislative Analysis and Disclosure (OLAD) in the summer of 2015. Their time with the Division was spent learning about State government, tax policy, auditing, tax legislation and legal implementation of tax laws.

The interns worked on projects with OLAD's Grant and Credit Monitoring Unit and the Disclosure Office. Their work involved various facets of accounting, data sampling and data modeling. They did research for Memoranda of Understanding initiatives, revised information guides for State incentive programs and designed databases to track program data.

The interns also completed short-term assignments with other units within the Division. They spent time with attorneys in the Office of Regulatory Services, who provided insight into how New Jersey's tax laws are implemented. They accompanied auditors to observe field audits. The interns also accompanied the Compliance Boat Patrol to observe compliance reviews of boaters and went along with investigators who were canvassing the docks.

Participating in the Governor's Summer Internship program was mutually beneficial for both the Division and the students. The students gained valuable work experience while bringing their energy and enthusiasm to the Division. □

OCI Special Agents Complete Training

On Jan. 18, 2015, Acting Director Dennis Shilling administered the oath of office to four new special agents in the Office of Criminal Investigation: Nelson Avery, John Kuti, Kyle Mullane and Steven Raimondo.

The four special agent recruits were assigned to complete the Basic Course for Investigators, which is designed for New Jersey's nonuniformed law enforcement personnel such as OCI's special agents, county prosecutors, detectives, parole officers and detectives from the Attorney General's Office. The course is mandated by the Police Training Commission.

The Basic Course for Investigators, which runs for nearly 20 weeks, consists of an intense physical and academic regimen. The curriculum includes classroom sessions and physical training in defensive tactics, emergency vehicle operations, firearms, use of force and emergency medical skills. This basic law enforcement training is conducted at the New Jersey Division of Criminal Justice Academy in a state-of-the-art facility at the New Jersey National Guard camp in Sea Girt, New Jersey.

At this Academy session, OCI's special agents received two of the five awards presented for outstanding accomplishment. In a class of 37 graduates, Special Agent John Kuti achieved the highest score in physical training, and Special Agent Steven Raimondo was awarded the Police Training Commission Merit Award. The Merit Award is a classmate-voted award that is based on ethics, character and determination shown during the training cycle.

This is the first time that a swearing-in ceremony was conducted in the presence of friends and family. After the oath of office, retired Supervisory Special Agent Nelson Avery presented his son, Nelson Avery, his special agent badge. OCI Supervising Forensic Auditor Mike Mullane presented his son, Kyle Mullane, his

The 2015 State Revenue Sharing Act Distribution for senior and disabled persons, surviving spouses/civil union partners and veterans was delivered to the State Treasurer on Sept. 15, 2015.

Under the provisions of R.S. 54A:10-1 et seq., as amended, the Director of the Division of Taxation certified to the State Treasurer in this report the amount of revenue sharing funds due each municipality on Nov. 1, 2015.

The total amount of property tax deductions for senior and disabled persons and surviving spouses/civil union partners for 2015 was $11,932,824. That amount represents a decrease of 6.7% from 2014. The total number of property tax deductions for senior and disabled citizens and surviving spouses/civil union partners for 2015 was 45,620. When compared to tax year 2014, the number of deductions decreased 6%.

For tax year 2015, the amount of veterans' deductions was $52,472,247. That amount represents a decrease of 5.4% from 2014. The total number of veterans' deductions for 2015 was 206,450. When compared to tax year 2014, the number of deductions decreased 5%.

The total amount of property tax deductions and veterans' deductions includes the additional 2% each municipality is reimbursed for administrative costs as required by law. □

Monmouth County Demonstration Program

P.L. 2013, c.15, established a Real Property Assessment Demonstration Program, which annually assesses real property using technology driven procedures to keep assessments at or near market values and modifies the assessment calendar so losses due to appeals no longer fall primarily on the municipality. Monmouth County was the first to adopt this program, which began Oct. 1, 2013. The following dates on the assessors' calendar have been revised for municipalities in Monmouth County:

Jan. 10–

- Assessor to file two copies of preliminary Form SR-3A with County Tax Board.

Jan. 15–

- Deadline for taxpayers and taxing districts to file appeals of assessed valuations to County Tax Boards, or 45 days from the date the bulk mailing of notifications of assessment is completed, whichever is later. Note: Deadline for appeals of assessed valuations over $1,000,000 to State Tax Court remains April 1 or 45 days from completion of bulk mailing notifications, whichever is later.

Feb. 1–

- Tax appeals are heard Feb., March and April. □

Criminal Enforcement

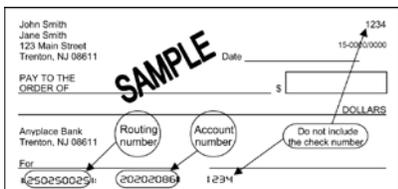

Criminal enforcement over the past several months included:

- On June 30, 2015, New Jersey State Police (NJSP) stopped a vehicle in Elizabeth, New Jersey, and found a total of 613 cartons of contraband cigarettes that were being smuggled from Virginia. Mohamed Mozeb was detained until an Office of Criminal Investigation (OCI) special agent and an OCI investigator met with NJSP personnel, and the evidence was transferred to OCI.

Mozeb was charged by OCI with possession of untaxed cigarettes exceeding 100 cartons, failing to maintain records with intent to evade taxes and engaging with an unlicensed dealer with intent to evade taxes. NJSP charged him with transportation of untaxed cigarettes. On Oct. 7, 2015, Mohamed Mozeb was approved for Pretrial Intervention (PTI) by the Union County Prosecutor’s Office and was ordered to perform 60 hours of community service as he was a first-time offender with no prior criminal history. The contraband cigarettes were forfeited to the State.

- On July 15, 2015, OCI received a referral from the Hawaii Department of Taxation’s Law Enforcement Unit. A joint investigation revealed that a group of individuals based in northern New Jersey was operating a comprehensive, organized tax fraud scheme for the 2012 tax year, and the scheme was still active. The investigation revealed that the individuals operating out of the State of New Jersey managed to defraud the State of Hawaii of more than $275,000. OCI has a Stolen Identity Refund Fraud Task Force that works with the New Jersey State Police’s Cyber Crimes Unit to combat online tax refund fraud. The referral from Hawaii provided probable cause to search a tax preparation business and personal residence in northern New Jersey. Hawaii Department of Taxation’s law enforcement personnel traveled to New Jersey to participate in the execution of the search warrant. Significant evidence was seized as a result. During the debriefing, the owner of the tax business stated, “People are not selling drugs anymore because of the risk. They file taxes instead.” The individuals involved have ties to North Jersey gangs. Some are gang members and have also been identified and charged in narcotics activities. OCI is still reviewing the evidence seized in this case and its connection to other criminal enterprises.

- On Aug. 12, 2015, Kam Wa Chan and his wife, Yuet Kai Wong, were arrested at their residence in Parlin, New Jersey, by OCI and other law enforcement authorities. They were charged with counterfeiting, money laundering and conspiracy at the time of their arrest. Both Kam Wa Chan and Yuet Kai Wong were involved in an international counterfeit watch trafficking ring. More than $15,000,000 in counterfeit watches and watch parts were seized from their residence during the execution of a search warrant. Financial records recovered from their residence are being reviewed to determine if there will be any additional criminal counts filed.

- On Aug. 13, 2015, Gang Gao, Shufen Li and Zusheng Li were arrested by OCI special agents at New Chinese Gourmet in Elizabeth, New Jersey, for possession of 42 cartons of Virginia tax-stamped cigarettes, sales of loose cigarettes (“loosies”) and presenting invalid receipts to conceal the criminal activity. OCI seized $12,844 in U.S. currency which is pending forfeiture by the courts. Indictable charges were filed in Union County Superior Court.
- On Aug. 17, 2015, Joe Zheng satisfactorily completed the terms and provisions of the Pretrial Intervention (PTI) program. As a result, there will be no further proceedings in the matter. Joe Ming Zheng was arrested on July 22, 2014, by OCI for trafficking 915 cartons of Virginia tax-stamped cigarettes and sentenced to one year of PTI. PTI is permitted usually for first-time offenders.
- On Aug. 18, 2015, OCI performed an inspection at Al Quds Shop, in Paterson, New Jersey, and seized 15.8 cartons of contraband cigarettes, 269 untaxed cigars and 1 false receipt. Indictable charges were filed against the owner of the business, Nader Awadallah, in Passaic County Superior Court.

- On Aug. 19, 2015, in Logan Township Municipal Court, Suk-chain Singh pled guilty to failure to maintain records showing that the tax was paid for tobacco products and was fined a total of $1,158. He was also ordered to pay restitution to the State of New Jersey in the amount of $8,000 for the tobacco products that were seized by OCI special agents at his gas station. On May 13, 2015, agents seized a total of 32,777 cigars and other tobacco products at Singh's gas station in Swedesboro, New Jersey. Singh failed to provide agents with invoices showing that tobacco products tax was paid. Singh's attorney forwarded tobacco invoices to OCI's supervisory special agent for examination. An examination of the records revealed that the invoices accounted for only 5% of the tobacco products seized. This calculation was explained to Singh and his attorney. Singh and his attorney accepted the plea agreement for the fine and restitution.
- On Aug. 25, 2015, Manoj Patharkar was indicted, arrested by OCI special agents and detectives from the New Jersey Division of Criminal Justice and charged with various criminal acts including conspiracy, money laundering, theft by deception, tax evasion and records tampering. A joint investigation revealed schemes to generate cash by adding "phantom employees" to payroll and diverting business income into personal accounts. Mr. Patharkar, a pain management doctor and sole officer of Pain Management Associates of Central Jersey and Prospect Pain Management Associates, has been under investigation since 2011.

- On Sept. 17, 2015, Qadeer Safarzada, t/a Sahill, Inc., entered into a 36-month PTI agreement for failure to provide records showing that tobacco products tax was paid. As a condition of PTI, he was ordered to serve 40 hours of community service. He is also responsible for full restitution. On July 11, 2013, OCI special agents seized a total of 23,305 cigars from Safarzada's wholesale business in Trenton, New Jersey. It was discovered that Safarzada was selling tobacco products to retail customers without collecting and remitting tobacco products tax (TPT). He was also providing hand written receipts to customers and was not collecting the proper business address and contact information. Sahill, Inc. was registered to collect TPT but did not file any returns.
- On Sept. 30, 2015, Geoffrey A. Hammell was indicted by a Mercer County Grand Jury on charges of failure to pay New Jersey personal income tax for years 2009 through 2012, which is a crime of the third degree. Over the four-year period, Mr.

Hammell accrued an outstanding tax liability of over $405,000. Criminal charges were filed in the Trenton Municipal Court. The case resulted from the efforts of OCI and the Mercer County Prosecutor's Economic Crime Unit. □

Other OCI Activities

Over the past several months OCI personnel engaged in various activities which included:

- On Aug. 3, 2015, OCI began implementation of the Info Share case management system for its law enforcement and criminal investigative responsibilities. The application's modules make it possible to better track investigative reports, court results, evidence control and communications with field personnel and to provide real-time measurements of activities.
- On Sept. 9, 2015, OCI's special agent in charge was asked to give a presentation to Deputy U.S. Marshalls from across the United States during a conference at Princeton University. The primary purpose was to expose the U.S. Marshalls Service to the concept of involving State revenue law enforcement agencies to help dismantle criminal enterprises groups, particularly gangs, by using financial crime investigations with tax implications.
- On Sept. 26, 2015, two OCI special agents successfully completed the New Jersey Top Gun training conducted by the New Jersey Office of the Attorney General. Top Gun is the most in-demand advanced school for New Jersey law enforcement. OCI is unique in having nearly 100% of its special agents complete this highly demanding training.

- On Sept. 26 and Sept. 27, 2015, during the Pope’s visit to Philadelphia, which also affected the City of Camden, OCI special agents were assigned to the State Emergency Operations Center (EOC) as part of the Treasury Emergency Response Unit. OCI also coordinated the continuity of operations (COOP) for Division of Taxation personnel assigned to field offices and emergency access into Camden for all Treasury assets. OCI represented Treasury and Taxation in law enforcement and intelligence planning with the Joint Operations Command, which consisted of local, county, State and federal agencies.
- Special agents were assigned to the State EOC in anticipation of Hurricane Joaquin. The detail lasted 2½ days. During the State EOC activation, OCI’s special agent in charge, along with the coordinator of the Emergency Response Unit, had the opportunity to brief the State Treasurer during his visit to the EOC.
- On Oct. 19, 2015, OCI’s special agent in charge (SAC) gave a new presentation he was asked to create for the New Jersey Attorney General’s Advocacy Institute, which offers programs for deputy attorneys general, assistant prosecutors and related law enforcement officers. This session was the Division of Criminal Justice’s yearly Public Official Corruption Training. The SAC developed a curriculum to promote joint criminal investigations that use taxation statutes in financial cases where public corruption is identified. □

Three Questions About Form GIT/REP-3 – The Division has received numerous inquiries regarding the recently revised Form GIT/REP-3, Seller’s Residency Certification/Exemption. Below are answers to some of the most common questions:

Q. When does a seller use the new Box 14 under Seller’s Assurances?

A. Box 14 states that the seller is not receiving net proceeds from the sale. Net proceeds from the sale means the net amount due to the seller on the settlement sheet or closing disclosure form. Thus, Box 14 is for a seller who, at closing, uses all the proceeds from the sale to pay the balance of the mortgage or who has to pay additional money to the bank. In both cases, the seller is not receiving any money as evidenced by the settlement statement or closing disclosure form.

Box 14 may also apply when the seller either cosigned the mortgage for the property being sold or where their interest represented on the deed is residual in nature and the seller is not receiving a share of the consideration for the property. Before the addition of Box 14, if this seller was not eligible for any of the exceptions listed on Form GIT/REP-3 or Form GIT/REP-4A, Waiver of Seller’s Filing Requirement of GIT/REP Forms and Payment, the seller would either have to request a waiver or pay the 2% nonresident withholding.

Q. What is the difference between the “Seller’s Percentage of Ownership” and the “Owner’s Share of Consideration”?

A. The Seller’s Percentage of Ownership is the seller’s share or interest in the property being sold or transferred, expressed as a percentage. The Owner’s Share of Consideration is the amount of consideration that the seller will receive based on their percentage of ownership in the property being sold. Generally, the owner’s share of consideration is their percentage of ownership multiplied by the total consideration for the sale, but there are situations where that is not the case. For example, a seller may have cosigned the mortgage or is listed on the deed as a cosigner but is not receiving any proceeds from the sale because they are not an owner.

Q. Can a nonresident seller use Form GIT/REP-3 if one of the boxes on the form applies to them?

A. Yes, a nonresident seller can use Form GIT/REP-3 as long as they satisfy one of the Seller’s Assurances.

Meadowlands Regional Hotel Use Assessment

Permanent Resident Exemption

– A taxpayer asked the Division whether the permanent resident tax exemption under the Sales and Use Tax Act applies to the Meadowlands Regional Hotel Use Assessment.

The New Jersey Meadowlands Tax Relief Act (N.J.S.A. 5:10A-82 through 5:10A-85) imposes a Meadowlands Regional Hotel Use Assessment of 3% of the rent charged for the occupancy of every room in hotels located in the Meadowlands District, including hotels located on State-owned land. N.J.S.A.

5:10A-85. Hotels located within the Meadowlands District are required to collect and remit the hotel use assessment on the rent charged for every room occupancy that is subject to the sales tax.

The New Jersey Sales and Use Tax Act provides an exemption from tax for the rent charged for a room occupancy when the room is occupied by a “permanent resident.” A permanent resident is any person who occupies a room in a hotel for at least 90 consecutive days. N.J.S.A. 54:32B-2(m). The exemption also applies to the State Occupancy Fee and the Municipal Occupancy Tax.

Since the Meadowlands Regional Hotel Use Assessment is only imposed on rent charged for a room occupancy that is also subject to sales tax, if sales tax is not imposed on the rent charged for a room occupied by a permanent resident, then the assessment is not to be imposed.

Based on the above, a permanent resident is eligible for a refund of the Meadowlands Regional Hotel Use Assessment, sales tax, State Occupancy Fee and Municipal Occupancy Tax (if any) collected prior to becoming a permanent resident. If the hotel operator does not refund the amounts collected, the permanent resident may request a refund directly from the Division by filing a Claim for Refund, Form A-3730.

Partnerships

Disregarded Entity is a Nonresident Partner Subject to Withholding – A taxpayer inquired as to whether the Division treats a New Jersey single-member LLC/disregarded entity whose sole member is a non-New Jersey corporation as a nonresident partner subject to the nonresident partner withholding tax or as a resident partner. The taxpayer also asked whether the LLC/disregarded entity or corporate partner is the partner named on Schedule NJK-1 and what code should be used to identify the partner’s residency status and type in the Partners Directory.

The partnership tax relative to nonresident partners is set forth at N.J.S.A. 54:10A-15.11 that states, in part, that:

A partnership that is not a qualified investment partnership or an investment club and that is not listed on a United States national stock exchange shall, on or before the 15th day of the fourth month succeeding the close of each privilege period, remit a payment of tax. The amount of tax shall be equal to the sum of: all of the share of the entire net income of the partnership for that privilege period of all nonresident noncorporate partners, multiplied by an allocation factor determined, pursuant to section 6 of P.L.1945, c.162 (C.54:10A-6), based on the allocation fractions of the partnership for that privilege period, and multiplied by .0637 plus all of the share of the entire net income of the partnership for that privilege period of all nonresident corporate partners, multiplied by an allocation factor determined, pursuant to section 6 of P.L.1945, c.162 (C.54:10A-6), based on the allocation fractions of the partnership for that privilege period, and multiplied by .09.

The statute then goes on to define nonresident corporate partner as “a partner that is not an individual, an estate or a trust subject to taxation pursuant to the ‘New Jersey Gross Income Tax Act,’ N.J.S.54A:1-1 et seq., that is not a corporation exempt from tax pursuant to section 3 of P.L. 1945, c.162 (C. 54:10A-3), and that does not maintain a regular place of business in this State other than a statutory office.”

The Division responded that residency status is determined based on whether the LLC/disregarded entity has its own regular place of business in New Jersey under N.J.S.A. 54:10A-15.11. The LLC/disregarded entity cannot use the corporate shareholder’s regular place of business as its regular place of business. Because it meets the definition of a nonresident corporate partner (i.e., it is not an individual, estate, or trust, is not a corporation exempt from tax under N.J.S.A. 54:10A-3, and does not maintain a regular place of business in New Jersey), a partner that is a disregarded entity is subject to withholding at the applicable rate of 9%.

A New Jersey single-member LLC/disregarded entity whose sole member is a non-New Jersey corporation should name the LLC as the partner on Schedule NJK-1. The taxpayer should enter the code for the LLC/disregarded entity as FC (non-New Jersey corporation) or FCM (non-New Jersey corporation with a regular place of business in New Jersey) in the Partners Directory.

Gift of a Boat From a Boat Dealer – A New Jersey boat dealer inquired as to whether sales or use tax is due when the dealer gifts a boat from its inventory. Because the dealer originally purchased the boat with a

resale certificate, the dealer did not remit sales or use tax to New Jersey at the time of purchase.

The Division responded that the question being posed actually involves two separate transactions: the first is the withdrawal of the boat from inventory, and the second is the gifting of the boat.

When the dealer removes or withdraws the boat from inventory, a taxable “use” occurs. Use means the exercise of any right or power over tangible personal property by the purchaser and includes, but is not limited to, the receiving, storage, keeping, or retention for any length of time, or withdrawal from storage of such property. N.J.S.A. 54:32B-2(h). Since the dealer paid no tax at the time of purchase, use tax is due when the boat is withdrawn from inventory. N.J.S.A. 54:32B-6. Once the dealer remits the use tax to the Division, the dealer can then gift the boat. The recipient of the gift is not liable for sales or use tax.

As a result of P.L.2015, c.170 (see In Our Legislature on page 15), which was signed into law on Dec. 9, 2015, if the dealer removed the boat from inventory on or after Feb. 1, 2016, the use would be eligible for the partial exemption and would be charged tax at the rate of 3.5%. □

Undistributed Trust Income – Residuary Trust A u/w/o Fred E. Kassner; Michelle Kassner, Trustee v. Director, Division of Taxation, decided May 28, 2015; Appellate Division, Docket No. A-3636-12T1.

The Residuary Trust (Plaintiff) was created by decedent Fred Kassner’s will. The trust owned no assets in New Jersey. The trustee resided in New York where the trust was administered. Plaintiff owned shares in four companies, all of which were New Jersey S corporations. On its 2006 New Jersey Gross Income Tax return, the trust reported and paid tax on its net pro rata share of the S corporations’ income, but it did not pay tax on income that was allocated to other states. In 2009, the Division issued an assessment against the trust for tax year 2006 on the undistributed trust income, on the basis that the undistributed trust income was taxable in New Jersey, because the trust owned assets located in the State.

The Tax Court held that New Jersey cannot tax a trust’s undistributed non-New Jersey income if the trustee, assets and beneficiaries are all located outside New Jersey because the trust lacks minimum contacts with the State. The Court also concluded that the owner of stock in an S corporation does not own the underlying assets of the corporation. Thus, even though Plaintiff owned shares of S corporations located in this State, Plaintiff did not own assets in New Jersey.

In the Winter 1999 (Vol. 28, No. 4) issue of the State Tax News, the Division advised taxpayers that undistributed trust income would not be taxable in New Jersey if the trustee was not a New Jersey resident and all of the trust assets and beneficiaries were located outside of the State. The Division modified that position in 2011 to indicate that tax would be imposed on retained income or undistributed income if the trust has any income from New Jersey sources. However, the Tax Court held that imposing tax on Plaintiff’s 2006 income based on guidance not published until 2011 violates the square corners doctrine.

The Appellate Division affirmed the Tax Court’s decision.

Property Tax Exemption – AHS Hospital Corp., d/b/a Morristown Memorial Hospital, v. Town of Morristown, decided June 25, 2015, 28 N.J. Tax 456 (Tax 2015).

At issue was whether modern hospitals still meet the nonprofit criterion for property tax exemption. This was the first time a nonprofit hospital’s entire property tax exemption had been challenged before the Tax Court of New Jersey.

N.J.S.A. 54:4-3.6 provides for a property tax exemption for property “used in the work of associations and corporations organized exclusively for hospital purposes” as long as such property and “the associations, corporations or institutions using and occupying them...are not conducted for profit.” Under the statute, any area leased to a profit-making enterprise or otherwise used for any other nonexempt purpose is not entitled to the exemption.

The Court ruled that Morristown Memorial satisfied two prongs of the three-part exemption test. It was owned by an entity organized exclusively for a tax-exempt purpose, and nearly all of its facilities were actually used for hospital purposes. However, it failed the third prong: the profit test.

The Court upheld the County Tax Board’s denial of a property tax exemption on all but a few areas of

Morristown Memorial Hospital's facilities for tax years 2006, 2007 and 2008. The auditorium, fitness center and visitors' parking garage remained exempt.

Judge Bianco also addressed the portions of the hospital used by Aramark Healthcare Support Services, which provided food and linens. These areas were not exempt from property taxes since the company's contract provided for it to receive bonuses based on cost savings. In addition, the gift shop did not meet the use test since it was not used to perform a core hospital purpose. It served only as a convenience for hospital visitors.

Judge Bianco's 91-page opinion provided an extensive look into the history and evolution of American hospitals dating back to the mid-18th century. He noted that historically, American hospitals have been exempt from property taxes, and other taxes, based upon their origins intricately founded in religious and charitable traditions.

The Judge determined that non-profit hospitals today bear little, if any, resemblance to hospitals in the 18th, 19th and early 20th centuries. He found no support for the contention that contemporary nonprofit hospitals operate today as they did in 1913 at the time New Jersey first adopted a specific tax exemption for all buildings actually used for hospital purposes.

Judge Bianco wrote:

...commingling of effort and activities with for-profit entities was significant, and a substantial benefit was conferred upon for-profit entities as a result...

(B)y entangling its activities and operations with those of for-profit entities, the Hospital allowed its property to be used for profit...

He concluded:

Today's non-profit hospitals have evolved into labyrinthine corporate structures, intertwined with both non-profit and for-profit subsidiaries and unaffiliated corporate entities...If the property tax exemption for modern non-profit hospitals is to exist at all in New Jersey going forward, then it is a function of the Legislature and not the courts to promulgate what the terms and conditions will be...

Morristown Memorial Hospital and the Town of Morristown resolved the matter without filing further appeal by negotiating a settlement agreement. The hospital's real property total tax assessment had been set at $63,596,200, and the hospital could have been responsible for back taxes in the amount of approximately $2.5 to $3 million per year. Under the agreement, the hospital was given a taxable value of $40 million for 24% of its property, with an annual tax payment of $1.05 million per year from 2016 through 2025. In addition, $5.5 million in penalties and interest will be paid in annual installments of $550,000 over that period. The penalties and interest will be adjusted so that the hospital makes an annual payment of $1.6 million each year.

Hospital industry representatives and legislators are discussing ways that nonprofit hospitals might make property tax payments, such as P.I.L.O.T. (Payments-in-Lieu-of-Tax) payments, to municipalities. They are looking for a solution that can satisfy both local governments and hospitals.

An analysis by Moody's Financial Services revealed that the Morristown opinion could have a positive effect on the bond ratings of municipalities that pursue hospital property taxes. On the other hand, the ruling is credit negative for nonprofit hospitals and other nonprofit organizations in New Jersey if their property tax exempt status is revoked. Since corporate structures are not unique to the healthcare field, other nonprofit organizations may have their property tax exemptions reexamined.

Senate Bill S-3299, introduced Dec. 7, 2015, offers a possible legislative remedy. The bill maintains a property tax exemption for certain nonprofit hospitals with on-site for-profit medical providers, requires these hospitals to pay community service contributions to host municipalities and establishes the Nonprofit Hospital Community Service Contribution Study Commission.

Purchased Parts Assembled and Shipped Out of State – J&J Snack Food Sales Corp. v. Director, Division of Taxation, decided Oct. 16, 2015, Appellate Division Motion for Reconsideration No. M-000780-15; decided Sept. 18, 2015, Appellate Division Docket No. A-2609-13T2; decided Dec. 31, 2013, Tax Court Docket No. 004986-2012.

Plaintiff (J&J) manufactures soft pretzels and distributes them both frozen and unfrozen to food service providers (Providers). Plaintiff developed the Model 2000 pretzel warmer (Warmer), which was designed to thaw frozen pretzels, warm them and keep them warm. Plaintiff

loans the Warmers to those Providers who purchase a required volume of pretzels. Providers who purchase below that threshold must purchase the Warmer from Plaintiff. The Warmers are made as needed, so Plaintiff does not maintain an inventory and reflects the cost for parts and labor as a marketing expense rather than costs of goods sold. Plaintiff paid use tax on the Warmers it sold or loaned to its New Jersey customers, but did not pay tax on the parts purchased for the Warmers and received in New Jersey. The Division of Taxation issued an assessment for use tax on all the Warmer parts, even if the assembled Warmers were shipped out of the State. Plaintiff protested the assessment, lost and then appealed the Final Determination to the Tax Court. The Division filed for summary judgment, which the Tax Court granted, upholding the assessment. Plaintiff appealed.

On appeal Plaintiff argued that the Warmer parts were purchased for resale and, therefore, it was error for the Tax Court to presume that the Warmer parts purchases were a retail sale pursuant to N.J.S.A. 54:32B-6(A). The Appellate Division declined to consider this argument because Plaintiff did not raise it in Tax Court.

Plaintiff then argued that it detrimentally relied upon the 1992 audit of its predecessor wherein the Division concluded that sales or use tax was only due on marketing and promotional equipment delivered to New Jersey customers for use in New Jersey. The Appellate Division found that Plaintiff's reliance was credible but did not rise to the required level for estoppel, nor were the facts enough to invoke laches. The Appellate Division affirmed the Tax Court decision, concluding that the "Tax Court correctly held that the audit failed to provide the extraordinary or extreme circumstances which outweigh the strong public and governmental interest in the collection of the tax imposed by the Legislature."

Plaintiff subsequently filed a motion for reconsideration, which the Appellate Division denied without comment. □

Homestead Benefit Applications Mailed

The Division of Taxation mailed applications for the 2013 homeowner benefit to almost 1.2 million New Jersey residents over a three-week period that began in late August 2015. In addition, the Division sent emails containing instructions for downloading the 2013 application packet to another 89 thousand residents. The homeowners who received emails had filed online in a prior year and indicated that they wanted to receive future applications electronically. (These email notifications also went out beginning in late August.)

To be eligible for the 2013 homestead benefit, an applicant must be a New Jersey resident who owned and occupied a home in this State that was their principal residence on Oct. 1, 2013, paid property taxes on that home, and met certain income limits. The income limit (2013 New Jersey gross income) for homeowners under age 65 and not blind or disabled is $75,000, and $150,000 for homeowners age 65 or older or blind or disabled.

The amount of the benefit is based on an applicant's income, filing status, property taxes, and whether the applicant was age 65 or older or eligible to claim an exemption as blind or disabled for tax year 2013. Amounts received under the Homestead Benefit Program are in addition to the State's other property tax relief programs. The total amount of all property tax relief benefits received (homestead benefit, property tax reimbursement, property tax deduction for senior citizens/disabled persons, and property tax deduction for veterans) cannot exceed the amount of property taxes paid on the applicant's principal residence for the same year.

Most homeowners can file their applications either online or by phone (1-877-658-2972). Applicants should read the instructions in the application packet before attempting to file. Homeowners who sold or plan to sell their home should pay particular attention to the instructions for their situation to ensure they complete their applications correctly.

The filing deadline for 2013 Homestead Benefit Applications has been extended to Dec. 31, 2015. The original filing deadline was Oct. 30, 2015. More information on the homestead benefit, including eligibility requirements, is available on the Division of Taxation's website. □

The Division of Taxation provides free workshops designed to assist small business owners in meeting their New Jersey tax obligations. The workshops are half-day seminars presented at locations throughout the State. The Internal Revenue Service does not participate in these seminars.

The workshops include the following topics:

- Identifying types of business ownership and the tax consequences of each type.
- Registering a business with the Division of Taxation, Division of Revenue and Enterprise Services, and Department of Labor and Workforce Development.
- Determining what is taxable and what is exempt for New Jersey sales tax purposes.
- Procedures for collecting and remitting various New Jersey taxes.
- Filing sales and use tax returns.
- Meeting employer responsibilities.
- Reporting business income.

To attend a workshop, review the schedule and register with the contact person listed for each event. The contact person can also provide the time of the workshop, parking information and directions to the location. The Division does not manage the registration process.

The current workshop schedule is available online. The Division updates the schedule as new workshops are added. □

Criminal Enforcement

Criminal enforcement over the past several months included:

- An investigation at Easton Convenience Stop in New Brunswick, New Jersey, on April 30, 2015, resulted in the seizure of 31.5 cartons of contraband cigarettes, 4.25 cartons of Beedies and 4,015 untaxed tobacco products. Large amounts of synthetic marijuana and counterfeit DVDs were also found and seized. Warrants were issued for the owner of the store, Alaa Hussein, in the amounts of $50,000 no 10% bail (Treasury warrants) and $75,000 no 10% bail (New Brunswick warrants). Special agents from the New Jersey Division of Taxation's Office of Criminal Investigation (OCI) arrested Alaa Hussein on June 4, 2015, at the Easton Convenience Stop. While executing the arrest warrant, the agents found additional violations resulting in the seizure of 18 cartons of contraband cigarettes, 558 untaxed tobacco products and 14 loose cigarettes also known as "loosies." The owner was charged with additional offenses.
- Three separate compliance inspections were performed at H&S Gas Station, G&S Gas Station and G&R Fuel Corp, all owned by Sukhjinder Singh Jaswal. These inspections resulted in the seizure of a total of 152.8 cartons of counterfeit New Jersey tax-stamped cigarettes and 12,263 untaxed tobacco products. Jaswal was charged with multiple cigarette- and tobacco-related offenses and arrested on May 28, 2015, by OCI special agents. He was processed at the Newark Police Department and released on his own recognizance.

- OCI special agents conducted an undercover sting that resulted in the seizure of 28,800 counterfeit New Jersey tax stamps and 20 cartons of counterfeit tax-stamped cigarettes. As a result of the operation, Sureshbhai Patel was arrested and signed a Consent to Search the residence where he lives. The home search resulted in the seizure of an additional 114.1 cartons of counterfeit tax-stamped cigarettes, as well as multiple irons and glue material. Bail was set at $150,000, no 10%. Patel was transported to the Middlesex County jail by OCI special agents.
- On June 15, 2015, Gilberth Navarro Umana pled guilty to various counts of his indictment: count one, conspiracy; count two, identity theft; count six, insurance fraud; count ten, failure to file tax return; count eleven; failure to file tax return; and count fourteen, insurance fraud. third-degree charges or downgraded to third-degree charges. The State is recommending that Mr. Umana, as a third-degree offender, be sentenced to probation conditioned upon his serving 364 days in jail. The defendant will pay restitution to New Jersey Manufacturers Insurance Company and to the State of New Jersey for taxes due for calendar years 2010 and 2011. Sentencing was scheduled for July 2015. An OCI forensic auditor worked with New Jersey's Office of Insurance Fraud Prosecutor during this joint investigation.

- On June 17, 2015, Michael Jones, a former Atlantic City Police Officer, was sentenced by Atlantic County Superior Court Judge Kyran Connor to a seven-year prison sentence for official misconduct. Jones will have to serve a minimum of five years before being eligible for parole. He also received a four-year prison sentence for filing fraudulent tax returns and failing to pay taxes due, which will run consecutively with the seven-year prison term for the misconduct charge. Judge Connor also ordered Jones to pay

- On June 18, 2015, OCI special agents assisted New York Taxation and Finance law enforcement personnel with the arrest of New Jersey residents Yuderquis Guerrero and Edwin Guerrero for filing false New York tax returns.
- On June 23, 2015, OCI special agents performed surveillance on a storage unit known to be frequented by a cigarette trafficker, Jose Nunez. (A year ago, an OCI special agent had arrested Nunez and seized 800 cartons of contraband cigarettes and 60,000 counterfeit tax stamps.) OCI received information from Virginia and Maryland revenue agencies that Nunez had been recently arrested in Maryland for attempting to smuggle 2,100 cartons of contraband cigarettes. This intelligence-sharing provided vital, real-time information describing a storage unit in northern New Jersey. OCI immediately began to work with this information and identified an associate, Jeremias Acosta, who had also been previously arrested by OCI for possession of counterfeit tax-stamped cigarettes. OCI set up surveillance, which culminated in the arrest of both Jeremias Acosta and Juan Polanco. The investigation resulted in the seizure of 227.9 cartons of counterfeit New Jersey tax-stamped cigarettes, 925 cartons of Virginia-stamped cigarettes and 62,120 counterfeit New Jersey tax stamps. A total of $71,645 in U.S. currency was also seized. Indictable charges have been filed.

- On June 25, 2015, an investigation of 307 Valley Convenience LLC (7-Eleven convenience store) in Wayne, New Jersey, resulted in the seizure of 118.9 cartons of counterfeit New Jersey tax-stamped cigarettes and 0.4 cartons of unstamped cigarettes. Both the owner, Nael A. Abukwaik, and the manager, Ahmad M. Alsabagh, were arrested by OCI special agents and then processed at the Wayne Police Department. Indictable charges were filed in Passaic County. The subjects were released on their own recognizance.
- On June 26, 2015, The Port Authority Police Department requested assistance from OCI in connection with a box truck that was pulled over for a traffic violation at the George Washington Bridge. The truck was found to contain 3,380 cartons of unstamped Canadian Tribal Nation cigarettes. All of the untaxed cigarettes and the box truck were seized. As a result of OCI's investigation, the driver, Corey J. O'Neil, and co-driver, Curtis Zolner, both of Salamanca, New York, were arrested. The owner of the truck and the contraband cigarettes, Jaymee Minner, later arrived at the Port Authority police station to inquire about the seizure and was also arrested by OCI special agents. The seized contraband cigarettes have a retail value of $291,694.

- On July 13, 2015, William K. Herring pled guilty to charges of third-degree theft and third-degree failure to pay or turn over taxes. William Herring admitted before Judge Cristen D'Arrigo that he used his position at J&C Auto Sales Inc. to steal cash and cars from their inventory in excess of $299,000 and failed to report the income on his personal tax returns. Total restitution to the State is $27,400.06 (tax, penalty and interest). The investigation was conducted by an OCI forensic auditor, the Vineland Police Department and the New Jersey Motor Vehicle Commission. The case was prosecuted by Cumberland County Assistant Prosecutor Charles Wettstein. Mr. Herring was scheduled for sentencing on Oct. 2, 2015.
- On July 14, 2015, Gennaro Dicecilia of Toms River, New Jersey, pled guilty to a second-degree charge of failure to turn over collected New Jersey sales tax before Mercer County Superior Court Judge Timothy P. Lydon. On Oct. 16, 2015, Dicecilia was sentenced to three years in State prison and must pay restitution of $220,797, representing the sales tax he failed to remit plus penalty and interest. Dicecilia was charged in a Nov. 14, 2013, indictment that resulted from an investigation by OCI and the Division of Criminal Justice. In pleading guilty, Dicecilia, the owner of Automotion LLC, admitted that he collected $156,564 in sales tax from car buyers that he purposely failed to turn over to the State of New Jersey. In November 2011, Division of Taxation compliance personnel conducted a routine canvas of used car dealerships in Ocean County to identify dealerships that were not properly registered or licensed. During the canvas, it was determined that Dicecilia had failed to file any sales tax returns or remit any sales tax for Automotion since the dealership opened in 2007. The Division of Taxation demanded payment of the dealership's outstanding sales tax, and Dicecilia subsequently filed sales tax returns. However, an investigation by an OCI special agent revealed that he deliberately hid information about the number of cars sold and the sales tax that he collected. Based on vehicle title transfer records from the New Jersey Motor Vehicle Commission, it was determined that Dicecilia had collected $205,157 in sales tax, while he had remitted only $48,593 during the civil audit.

- On July 20, 2015, New Jersey State Police (NJSP) troopers stopped a motor vehicle operated by Carla Ward and passenger Tyrone Rice on the New Jersey Turnpike in East Greenwich, New Jersey. The troopers found 150 cartons of Virginia tax-stamped Newport cigarettes in the vehicle. They detained Carla Ward and Tyrone Rice, who were transported to the NJSP barracks in Moorestown and charged with transportation of contraband cigarettes. OCI special agents were summoned to the NJSP barracks and conducted the investigation. As a result, both Ward and Rice were charged with possession of 100 cartons or more of Virginia tax-stamped cigarettes, failure to maintain records and engaging in a cigarette transaction with an unlicensed person. Carla Ward and Tyrone Rice were released on a summons complaint pending their appearance in court. □

IRS Form 1099-Q – A taxpayer who received IRS Form 1099-Q inquired as to whether the distribution reported thereon was subject to New Jersey gross income tax. Taxpayer is the designated beneficiary of a qualified tuition plan (QTP).

A designated beneficiary of a QTP receives Form 1099-Q from the administrator of the plan when he or she makes a withdrawal from the plan or transfers funds between accounts.

ESA Plan or a 529 Plan are reported on Form 1099-Q. The portion of the distribution that represents the amount paid or contributed to the plan is a return of the investment (Box 3, Form 1099-Q) and is not included in income. Distributions (including earnings) that are used to pay qualified educational expenses are not subject to New Jersey gross income tax. No portion of a distribution is subject to tax unless the total of the beneficiary's QTP distributions for the year exceeds his or her adjusted qualified education expenses. When that occurs, the taxpayer must report some or all of the earnings (Box 2, Form 1099-Q) on his or her tax return.

Instructions for determining adjusted qualified education expenses and the taxable portion of a QTP distribution can be found in IRS Publication 970, Tax Benefits for Education. □

In Our Courts

Time to File Amended Return – John N. Backos v. Director, Division of Taxation, decided May 22, 2015; Tax Court, Docket No. 000031-2014.

On April 15, 2009, Backos (Plaintiff) and his wife requested an extension of time to file their joint 2008 New Jersey gross income tax return. On Aug. 26, 2009, plaintiff filed the return showing tax due of $8,639. Plaintiff filed an amended return on April 17, 2012, which again showed tax due of $8,639, and did not request a refund. On Nov. 19, 2012, Plaintiff filed another amended return, this time requesting a refund of $4,881. The Division denied the refund claim as being untimely.

N.J.S.A. 54A:9-8 states that refund claims must be filed within the later of three years from the date the return was filed or two years from the time the tax was paid. The Tax Court held that the refund request was untimely because the amended return requesting a refund, which was filed on Nov. 19, 2012, was filed three years and eighty-five days after the initial return was filed (Aug. 26, 2009).

Unstamped, Untaxed Cigarette Purchases – Sandy Smith v. Director, Division of Taxation, decided April 13, 2015; Tax Court, Docket No. 000143-2013.

Sandy Smith (Plaintiff) purchased 278 cartons of unstamped cigarettes online from an unlicensed, out-of-State seller. The seller did not collect sales tax, and the Plaintiff did not pay use tax. The Division issued a notice of assessment for use tax and cigarette tax to Plaintiff, which she protested. The Division upheld the assessment and issued a final determination. The Plaintiff contested the assessment claiming that: (1) the assessment was untimely, (2) the seller should be liable, (3) she presumed that all taxes were included in the purchase price and was unaware of her tax and reporting obligations and (4) her Chapter 7 discharge preempted the assessments.

The Tax Court held that Plaintiff was liable for the cigarette tax. The facts indicated that the out-of-State seller was not licensed in New Jersey and had not purchased cigarette stamps, so cigarette tax had not been paid at the time of purchase. Additionally, the Court found that Smith was a consumer. Under the Cigarette Tax Act, a consumer is someone who purchases unstamped cigarettes for use or consumption in New Jersey. The Act requires that a consumer apply for a consumer's license, file reports with the Division and pay the tax due on any cigarette purchases. Plaintiff did not do any of these things. The Court noted that cigarette tax can be imposed on the user or the consumer, and Plaintiff's failure to obtain a license and file reports did not relieve her of liability to pay the cigarette tax. Because Plaintiff did not file the required reports with the Division, there was no statute of limitations within which Taxation had to assess the tax, and the Chapter 7 bankruptcy discharge provisions would not apply. Finally, the Court found that Smith's ignorance of the cigarette tax law was not a defense.

With respect to the sales and use tax assessment, the Court found Smith liable for use tax because purchasers that don't pay sales tax must pay use tax and file a return within 20 days of the purchase.

Although the Court was sympathetic to Smith's claims that she was unable to pay and that she did not intend to defraud, the Court found the Division's assessment to be valid and dismissed Smith's complaint.

Standing – Thomas Giles v. Director, Division of Taxation, decided Feb. 27, 2015; Tax Court, Docket No. 002387-2013.

On Dec. 7, 2012, the Division issued a notice of assessment to Margaret A. Giles for excise tax and sales and use tax on the purchase of untaxed cigarettes. Thomas Giles (Plaintiff) filed a complaint challenging this assessment on March 15, 2013.

The Division moved to dismiss the complaint on the basis that Thomas Giles did not have standing to challenge the assessment against Margaret Giles. In general, a plaintiff does not have standing to file a complaint on behalf of a third party. In New Jersey, to have standing requires that the "party must present a sufficient stake in the outcome of the litigation, a real adverseness with respect to the subject matter, and a substantial likelihood that the party will suffer harm in the event of an unfavorable decision."

The Court found that Thomas Giles did not have standing to file a complaint in this case. The Division issued the assessment to Margaret Giles, not to Thomas. Although Margaret and Thomas have the same last name, Plaintiff did not explain the relationship between them. Additionally, the Court found that a letter attached to the complaint indicated that Thomas is not financially responsible for the assessment against Margaret. Plaintiff did not present anything that suggested he had any personal interest in the outcome of the case.

Because Plaintiff did not have standing, the Court dismissed the complaint. □

State Agency Permit Review — P.L. 2015, c.88, signed into law on Aug. 10, 2015, and effective immediately, amends N.J.S.A. 52:14B-26 and requires each State agency to periodically identify and review all permits it issues and submit a written report of its findings to the Secretary of State. The frequency of this review is to be determined by the Secretary of State.

The review must identify all permits that:

1. Can be administered through an expedited process and/or processed online;
2. Should be eliminated because they are obsolete, no longer necessary or cost more to administer than the benefits they provide; and

3. Can lawfully and practicably be extended.

The agency's written report to the Secretary of State must include:

1. A description of each permit the agency issues;
2. A description of recent actions taken by the agency with respect to 1 – 3 above and any recent actions taken to reduce the number of permits backlogged (if any);
3. Recommendations and explanations with respect to 1 – 3 above for the agency's permits for which no recent actions have been taken; and
4. A list of any rules, regulations and statutes that need to be revised or eliminated to accomplish those recommendations. □

“Senior Freeze” Checks in the Mail

The State Budget for Fiscal Year 2016 provides funding for the Property Tax Reimbursement (Senior Freeze) Program.

In mid-July, the Division of Taxation began mailing checks for the 2014 reimbursement to qualified senior and disabled homeowners who filed applications by June 1, 2015. We will issue checks as quickly as possible to homeowners who file after June 1 but no later than the extended filing deadline of Oct. 15, 2015.

Only applicants whose 2014 income was not more than $70,000 are eligible, provided they met all other requirements. Residents whose income was more than $70,000 but was $85,553 or less will not receive checks for 2014. The Division will notify them that they are not eligible. Those residents can establish a “base year” for future reimbursements by filing an application by the deadline. This also ensures that the Division will mail them applications for 2015.

Additional information on the Senior Freeze Program is available on the Division’s website. □

An article in the Spring 2015 issue of the New Jersey State Tax News entitled “2013 Property Tax Credit

Applications” stated that the Division of Taxation would mail applications for the 2013 property tax credit to certain homeowners later in the year. However, this mailing is no longer necessary. An amendment to the State Budget for Fiscal Year 2016 now corrects the Budget to reflect that the homestead benefit will apply to benefit year 2013, rather than 2014.

The Division will begin to mail 2013 homestead benefit applications in late August 2015. More information will be posted to our website when it becomes available. □

Small Business Workshops

The Division of Taxation provides free workshops designed to assist small business owners in meeting their New Jersey tax obligations. The workshops are half-day seminars presented at locations throughout the State. The Internal Revenue Service does not participate in these seminars.

The workshops include the following topics:

- Identifying types of business ownership and the tax consequences of each type.
- Registering a business with the Division of Taxation, Division of Revenue and Enterprise Services, and Department of Labor and Workforce Development.

- Determining what is taxable and what is exempt for New Jersey sales tax purposes.
- Procedures for collecting and re-mitting various New Jersey taxes.
- Filing sales and use tax returns.
- Meeting employer responsibilities.
- Reporting business income.

The next workshop will take place on Tuesday, Sept. 16, 2015, at the New Jersey Small Business Development Center of Northwest Jersey in Hackensack, New Jersey. If you want registration information or details about the workshop, including parking facilities and directions, contact Mary Adelman at 908-269-8475 or www.nw-njsbdc.com. The Division does not manage the registration process.

Monmouth County Demonstration Program

P.L. 2013, c.15, established a Real Property Assessment Demonstration Program to make the assessment of real property more precise by using technology driven procedures and to benefit municipalities by reducing the number of successful appeals, thereby protecting funding of municipal budgets from the impact of losses due to appeal refunds. Monmouth County was the first county to adopt this program, which began Oct. 1, 2013.

The summer dates on the Monmouth County assessors' calendar coincide with the dates of the regular assessors' calendar with the exception of the July provision for the extension of the time to hear and determine an appeal(s). That provision does not apply to the Monmouth County Demonstration Program.

Criminal enforcement over the past several months included:

- On Dec. 5, 2014, Jennifer Irizarry was arrested, processed and released on her own recognizance in Monmouth County. The arrest was based on a complaint filed by an elderly woman who claimed she was exploited by Ms. Irizarry, a housekeeper/home care attendant for the woman. The woman claimed that from 2012 to 2014 Ms. Irizarry wrote checks to herself from the woman's account in the amount of approximately $10,000 in 2012, $116,051 in 2013 and $32,850 in 2014. Although no theft charges were brought against Ms. Irizarry, she was charged with not claiming the monies on her 2012 and 2013 tax returns. On Feb. 26, 2015, Ms. Irizarry pled not guilty in Monmouth County Superior Court, where she applied for and was accepted into the Pretrial Intervention Program. An OCI auditor has calculated that the total restitution amount, based on the addition of the funds to her 2012 and 2013 tax returns, will be approximately $8,424.
- On March 2, 2015, Jorge A. Robles was sentenced to serve five years in a New Jersey State prison after pleading guilty to a charge of second-degree counterfeiting. His ex-wife, Ana Del LaMota, was placed on probation for three years and was ordered to make restitution. She pled guilty to one count of third-degree counterfeiting. The couple's daughter, Rossy Robles, was admitted to the Pretrial Intervention (PTI) Program after pleading guilty to a third-degree counterfeiting charge. of Taxation's Office of Criminal Investigation (OCI) and the Middlesex County Prosecutor's Office executed search warrants in the MAC cosmetics counterfeiting investigation. Jorge A. Robles, Ana Del LaMota and Rossy Robles were arrested on first-degree money laundering and second-degree counterfeiting and conspiracy charges. Execution of the search warrant resulted in the seizure of over 1,000 counterfeit cosmetics as well as over $20,000 in cash. Bank accounts were also seized, resulting in another $8,000 in seized property. On Jan. 2, 2015, all three defendants pled guilty and forfeited all property seized in the case.

- On March 23, 2015, in the Camden County Superior Court, Joseph H. Kayati was entered into the Pretrial Intervention Program. He will serve 24 months of noncustodial probation and make restitution to the Monarch Life Insurance Company. Further, as a condition to being accepted into the Program, Mr. Kayati signed a consent judgment for State income taxes in the amount $756.33 for tax years 2012 and 2013. This was a joint investigation by the New Jersey Insurance Fraud Prosecutor and OCI.

- On March 25, 2015, New Jersey resident Cynthia Perella was sentenced to five years of Drug Court probation. OCI and the Gloucester County Prosecutor's Office investigated Perella for alleged theft and tax evasion. On Sept. 17, 2014, as a result of the investigation, Perella was indicted on charges for forgery, theft, official misconduct and tax evasion. Perella was employed by the Harrison Township Fire Commission and used her position as business administrator to embezzle more than $86,000. As part of a plea agreement, Perella pled guilty to official misconduct.
- On March 26, 2015, Carl and Denise Monto, of Beachwood, New Jersey, appeared before Superior Court Judge Anthony J. Mellaci, Jr. in Monmouth County. Carl Monto pled guilty to second-degree theft by deception and third-degree failure to pay taxes. Denise Monto applied for the Pretrial Intervention (PTI) Program. The charges were the result of an investigation by the Division of Criminal Justice and OCI, with assistance from the New Jersey Division of Consumer Affairs and the New Jersey Motor Vehicle

Commission. The investigation revealed that the Montos evaded more than $500,000 in State sales tax by fraudulently claiming exemptions on 120 luxury cars that were purchased as part of an illegal business to acquire vehicles for overseas buyers. They also claimed exemptions for 56 of the cars by falsely buying them in the name of a charity for children with cancer. On May 15, 2015, Judge Mellaci sentenced Carl Monto, to seven years in State prison. The State agreed not to oppose Denise Monto's application for Pretrial Intervention, and Judge Mellaci admitted her to the program on May 11, 2015. For purposes of restitution, the Montos are required to forfeit $537,784 in assets seized by the State in August 2014 when they were arrested on theft charges.

- On April 17, 2015, Mercer County Superior Court Judge Timothy P. Lydon sentenced Gregory Cobbs to five years of probation. Cobbs pled guilty on March 25, 2015, after a jury was selected in the case, to a charge of third-degree failure to pay taxes. With penalty and interest, Cobbs owes the Division of Taxation $386,000. Cobbs must pay the Division $150,000 during his probation. If he does not pay his obligations, the Court made it clear that it would impose the jail sentence. Cobbs, who is listed as a New Jersey Top Tax Debtor, was prosecuted through a joint investigation between OCI's Technical Fraud Unit and the Mercer County Prosecutor's Office Economic Crime Unit.

- On April 21, 2015, Augusto Mayorga was sentenced to one year of probation and ordered to pay restitution to the State of New Jersey in the amount of $33,997. Mr. Mayorga is the sole owner of Sunshine Metal Finishing, a company that applies anticorrosion finishes on metal parts. An investigation into the New Jersey tax filings of Mr. Mayorga and Sunshine Metal Finishing revealed that he significantly underreported business income and claimed false and fraudulent business expenses. On Jan. 30, 2015, Augusto Mayorga pled guilty to failing to file New Jersey tax returns with intent to defraud the State of New Jersey.
- On April 22, 2015, former NFL player Plaxico Burress, of Totowa, New Jersey, was indicted by a Mercer County Grand Jury for a failed electronic funds payment and failure to pay New Jersey State income tax. This is the first prosecution under a new criminal code statute that makes the treatment of a failed electronic funds transfer (EFT) the same as the treatment of an actual bad check. The indictment charges Burress with one count of issuing a failed electronic funds transfer and one count of failure to pay State taxes, which are crimes of the third degree carrying a maximum penalty of up to five years in State prison and/or a $15,000 fine. Burress filed his 2013 income tax return with the State of New Jersey and claimed a liability of $47,903. To pay the tax liability he submitted a one-time electronic funds transfer payment of $47,903, which failed and was never replaced by Mr. Burress. The Division generated an automatic letter requesting that he submit full payment. Mr. Burress did not respond, and the case was referred to OCI. Subsequent letters and outreach to Mr. Burress continued to go unanswered, even after his tax preparer was informed about the seriousness of the situation. On Feb. 4, 2015, OCI filed a criminal complaint charging Mr. Burress with issuing a bad EFT and failure to pay New Jersey income tax. The charges are a result of an investigation led by OCI's Technical Enforcement Unit and the Senior Assistant Prosecutor, Chief of the Mercer County Prosecutor's Office Economic Crime Unit.

- Bergen County Prosecutor John L. Molinelli announced multiple indictments of several defendants as a result of criminal investigations focused on interdiction of interstate contraband cigarette trafficking activities. Indictments were returned on April 30, 2015, on a total of six defendants in four separate criminal investigations into money laundering activities and possession or transportation of untaxed cigarettes through the State of New Jersey. In the contraband cigarettes case, OCI special agents filed criminal counts against the defendants. The additional indictments highlight a recognized pattern of criminal activities in which U.S. currency is transported to low-cigarette tax states such as Virginia and North Carolina coupled with the intended return of contraband cigarettes to the New York/New Jersey area, resulting in illegal higher profits. OCI has encouraged uniformed law enforcement agencies to utilize the same techniques usually applied to narcotics investigations where undocumented funds are intended to be used to purchase contraband. Two of these cases are a direct result of this effort.

Connor, a jury found Michael Jones, a former 12-year veteran of the Atlantic City Police Department, guilty of second-degree official misconduct, third-degree theft by deception, third-degree filing fraudulent tax returns, and third-degree failure to pay State tax. The Federal Bureau of Investigation's Public Corruption Task Force, the Atlantic County Prosecutor's Office Official Corruption Unit and OCI initiated a joint investigation after learning that Officer Jones' lease in Stanley Holmes Village was terminated by the Atlantic City Housing Authority for failure to comply with the terms of the Live-In Police Officer Program. The investigation revealed that Jones made $95,787.74 in cash deposits to his personal checking account between 2005 and 2011. OCI determined those cash deposits were income that Jones failed to report on his tax returns from 2005 through 2011. That income resulted in a failure to pay $4,962.15 in State income tax.

- On May 11, 2015, Rehan Zuberi pled guilty to first-degree financial facilitation and second-degree conspiracy to commit commercial bribery before Morris County Superior Court Judge Stuart Minkowitz. He also pled guilty to second-degree conspiracy to commit theft by deception before Bergen County Superior Court Judge James Guida. Humara Paracha, Zuberi's wife, pled guilty to third-degree conspiracy to commit commercial bribery. Zuberi and Paracha were identified as ringleaders in the case by a joint investigation between OCI and the Office of the Insurance Fraud Prosecutor called Operation Ray Scam. Zuberi will receive a 10-year State prison sentence with a four-year parole ineligibility. Paracha will receive three years of probation. They are also required to pay restitution in the amount of $1,000,000. Zuberi and Paracha were originally charged with failure to file NJ-1040 gross income tax returns for the years 2009 through 2013 and failure to pay gross income tax due for the years 2008 through 2013. The total tax due was $311,165. □

Sale of New Jersey Property by a Nonresident Alien – A group of real estate professionals inquired as to what to do when a nonresident alien (non-U.S. citizen) is selling real property in New Jersey but does not have a social security number and is not eligible for one.

Any nonresident individual who sells real property in New Jersey must pay estimated income tax (either through a prepayment or withholding at the closing) on the gain from the sale. They must complete a form (usually the GIT/REP-1) that must be filed with the deed when it is submitted for recording. An identification number is necessary to complete the form and to match a payment to the individual.

The Division responded that a nonresident alien individual without a social security number must apply to the IRS for an individual taxpayer identification number (ITIN) using Form W-7. If the individual who is selling real property in New Jersey has applied to the IRS for an ITIN but has not received it at the time of the closing, the individual should attach a copy of the completed Form W-7 that was submitted to the IRS to the GIT/REP-1, and submit it with the deed for recording.

Reporting IRC Section 457 Plan Payments – A taxpayer asked the Division how to report distributions from an IRC Section 457 nonqualified deferred compensation retirement plan for New Jersey gross income tax purposes.

The Division responded that because contributions to a 457 Plan are included in New Jersey income when made, only the portion of a distribution that is in excess of those contributions is taxable. However, the manner in which the taxpayer must report the taxable amount of the distribution on the New Jersey income tax return depends on whether the 457 Plan is for government employees or nongovernment employees.

A distribution from a 457 Plan for government employees is reported to the taxpayer on Form 1099-R. The taxpayer should report the taxable portion of the distribution as pension income. For information on how to calculate the taxable portion, see Tax Topic Bulletin GIT-1, Pensions and Annuities.

In contrast, a distribution from a 457 Plan for nongovernment employees is reported to the taxpayer as wages on Form W-2. The taxpayer must report the amount from the “State wages” box on the “wages” line of Form NJ-1040 (or on the “wages” line in Column A, Form NJ-1040NR). □

Time to File Complaint – Roger J. & Anita Kamien v. Director, Division of Taxation, decided March 20, 2015; Tax Court, Docket No. 015084-2014.

The Division sent Roger and Anita Kamien (Plaintiffs) a Final Determination (FD) dated July 17, 2014, via certified mail. The FD, which included information about the Plaintiffs’ right to file an appeal with the Tax Court, was sent to Plaintiffs’ last known address and was received and signed for on July 21, 2014. Plaintiffs filed a complaint with the Tax Court on Oct. 22, 2014, contesting the FD. The Division moved to dismiss the complaint for lack of subject matter jurisdiction because it was not filed within the prescribed time limit.

The Court found that the complaint was not filed timely because it was filed after the 90-day limitations period following receipt of the Final Determination. N.J.S.A. 54A:9-10. As a result, the Court dismissed the complaint for lack of jurisdiction.

Wrapping Supplies Exemption – Burlington Coat Factory Warehouse Corp. v. Director, Division of Taxation, decided Dec. 2, 2014; Tax Court, Docket No. 007007-2013.

Burlington Coat Factory Warehouse Corp. (Plaintiff) is a Delaware corporation with a principal office in Burlington, New Jersey. Plaintiff is a member of an affiliated group of entities that owns and operates retail stores in the United States. Plaintiff receives and stores merchandise from manufacturers and suppliers, then uses various wrapping supplies to pack the merchandise and ship it by common carrier to its affiliated retail stores. Plaintiff filed a claim for refund of the sales and use tax it paid on the wrapping supplies citing the exemption for wrapping supplies provided in N.J.S.A. 54:32B-8.15. The Division denied the refund on the basis that the supplies were not eligible for the exemption because they were purchased for internal use and were not used in a separate transaction as required.

N.J.S.A. 54:32B-8.15 exempts wrapping supplies from sales tax when their use is incidental to delivery of personal property. In Global Terminal v. Director, Division of Taxation, 9 N.J. Tax 152 (1987), the Tax Court held that in order for the exemption to apply, the wrapping supplies had to be used in a second transaction that was separate from the purchase of those supplies. Based on that decision, the Division published a tax brief in the Winter 2001 issue of the New Jersey State Tax News which stated that the purchaser of the wrapping supplies did not need to use them in a sale transaction in order for the exemption to apply and could claim the exemption if the purchaser was using the supplies to deliver property even if the purchaser is not selling the property being delivered. However, the tax brief went on to state that the exemption only applies when the second transaction is an identifiable transaction involving another party. Because Plaintiff was using the wrapping supplies to deliver merchandise to its affiliated retail stores, the Division found that the supplies were not incidentally used in a separate transaction, so they were not eligible for the exemption.

The Tax Court found that the affiliated retail stores were not related parties because they were separate

Homestead Benefits for 2012 on the Way

Most New Jersey homeowners who were eligible and filed for a 2012 homestead benefit received their benefit as a credit on their May 2015 property tax bills. However, homeowners received their benefit in the form of a check (or direct deposit) in early May if their home was a unit in a co-op or a continuing care retirement community, or they indicated when filing that they no longer owned the home that was their principal residence on Oct. 1, 2012.

To be eligible for a 2012 homestead benefit, applicants had to be New Jersey residents who owned and occupied a home in New Jersey that was their principal residence on Oct. 1, 2012, paid property taxes on that home, and had 2012 New Jersey gross income of $75,000 or less ($150,000 or less for homeowners 65 or older or blind or disabled).

As a result of the amount appropriated in the State Budget for property tax relief programs, only homeowners who met the eligibility requirements, including the income requirements, received homestead benefits for 2012.

Benefit amounts vary based on the applicant's income, filing status, property taxes, and whether the applicant was 65 or older or blind or disabled.

The 2012 benefit is based on the 2006 property taxes for the applicant's Oct. 1, 2012, principal residence. If no property taxes were assessed on the home for 2006, the Division of Taxation determines the amount of property taxes that would have been due.

Homeowners can check the status of their homestead benefit online. Additional information about the Homestead Benefit Program, including information on how the benefit is calculated, is also available on our website. □

2013 Property Tax Credit Applications

The Division of Taxation will mail property tax credit applications for tax year 2013 later this year to certain homeowners who may be eligible but did not claim the credit.

In most tax years, senior and disabled homeowners who are not required to file a New Jersey income tax return receive their property tax credit automatically as part of their homestead benefit. However, no homestead benefits were issued for tax year 2013. These homeowners will need to apply for a property tax credit using the 2013 Property Tax Credit Application, Form NJ-1040-H.

Homeowners can file the 2013 Form NJ-1040-H only if they:

Monmouth County Demonstration Program

P.L. 2013, c.15, established a Real Property Assessment Demonstration Program to make the assessment of real property more precise by using technology driven procedures and to benefit municipalities by reducing the number of successful appeals, thereby protecting funding of municipal budgets from the impact of losses due to appeal refunds. Monmouth County was the first county to adopt this program, which began Oct. 1, 2013. The following dates on the assessors' calendar have been revised for municipalities in Monmouth County:

April 1–

- Tax appeals are heard February, March and April.

May 5–

- Assessor to file assessment lists and duplicates with County Tax Board.

Criminal Enforcement

Criminal enforcement over the past several months included:

- OCI's Special Investigations Unit continues to assist the Excise Tax Branch in their ongoing project to issue cigarette wholesale dealer licenses to existing cigarette distributors that sell directly to retailers. This process is intended to close a reporting gap between the two license tiers. OCI has been providing background information for company officers not on the original cigarette distributor licenses.
- Seneca Distributions LLC, located in Bradford, Pennsylvania, was approved for a New Jersey nonresident cigarette distributor license. This new company will replace Canadian Agricultural Depot and Everything Tobacco as the supplier of Seneca brand cigarettes and filtered cigars to New Jersey retailers. Seneca Distributions LLC is a subsidiary of Grand River Enterprises Six Nations Ltd., a manufacturer of tribal brand cigarettes that has, thus far, been compliant with the provisions of the Master Settlement Agreement.

- On Jan. 22, 2015, OCI's special agent in charge was a speaker at the Agostino & Associates-sponsored continuing education for tax practitioners program concerning OCI's criminal enforcement activities. One of OCI's cases involving the successful use of the New Jersey money laundering statute in an identity theft-entrusted funds criminal tax case was highlighted.
- On Jan. 23, 2015, Pine State Trading Company, located in Gardiner, Maine, was approved for a New Jersey nonresident cigarette distributor license. This company holds cigarette tax stamping licenses in seven other states along the Eastern Seaboard and has the ability to buy product from all of the major cigarette manufacturers.
- On Dec. 2, 2014, the Office of Criminal Investigation (OCI) became a participant in the Real Time Crime Center, which is a joint operation between the Newark Police Department and the New Jersey State Police. The operation focuses on the greater Essex/Passaic area and provides high-level direct intelligence for street-level law enforcement personnel.
- On Dec. 23, 2014, special agents responded to a motor vehicle stop by the Lakehurst Police Department. The special agents arrested and criminally charged Louis Rondinella of Toms River, New Jersey, for possession of Delaware-stamped cigarettes.

- On Jan. 2, 2015, Hatim Mohamed of Richmond, Virginia, was stopped by the Mahwah Police Department. Police found 252 cartons of Virginia-stamped cigarettes in the trunk of his vehicle. OCI special agents responded and charged Mohamed with possession of 100 or more cartons of out-of-State cigarettes; failure to maintain records; engaging in a transaction with an unlicensed person; failure to obtain a New Jersey cigarette retail dealer license; and individuals in possession of contraband cigarettes.
- Bobbi J. Medley, Tamika Crump, Chanel Bostic and Pierre Borders were indicted on March 28, 2014, on charges related to a New Jersey income tax refund fraud scheme for the tax year 2008. Each individual received a tax refund using false employer information and cashed the refund checks at an Atlantic City check casher in 2009. On Jan. 9, 2015, in Atlantic County Superior Court, Bobbi J. Medley was admitted into the Pretrial Intervention Program

(PTI). As a condition of the civil judgment entered on Nov. 14, 2014, Ms. Medley agreed to make restitution of $984. On Jan. 23, 2015, in Atlantic County Superior Court, Tamika Crump was sentenced to 24 months of noncustodial probation. As a condition of the civil judgment entered on Dec. 5, 2014, and filed on Jan. 26, 2015, Ms. Crump agreed to make restitution of $1,983. On Jan. 23, 2015, Chanel Bostic entered a guilty plea to a charge of fourth-degree false reporting to law enforcement authorities in violation of N.J.S.A. 2C:28-4. Bostic was sentenced as a disorderly person and ordered to pay a $250 fine. Pierre Borders was sentenced on Feb. 27, 2015, to the State recommendation of a period of noncustodial probation. Borders was ordered to pay restitution to the State of New Jersey in the amount of $434.20, and a civil consent judgment was entered against him for that amount.

- On March 29, 2014, OCI filed charges against Burlington county resident and former Willingboro police officer Brian Lewis for failing to file corporation business tax returns and failure to pay corporation business taxes for the years 2008 through 2013. Lewis owned and operated Lewis Lawn Care & Landscaping Inc. but did not file any of the required tax returns. On Jan. 16, 2015, Brian Lewis was sentenced to five years in State prison for his involvement in several schemes in which he defrauded his victims out of $101,000. Lewis was charged with two counts of third-degree theft by deception, one count of second-degree theft by extortion and one count of failure to file business tax returns. As part of his sentencing, Lewis is required to file all of his missing tax returns.

- On Jan. 30, 2015, special agents performed a compliance inspection in Paterson, New Jersey. During the course of the inspection, agents found and seized 10.4 cartons of contraband cigarettes, 1,422 contraband tobacco products and multiple prescription legend drugs. The owner of the store was arrested and charged with various indictable offenses. □

Reiki Touch Therapy – A taxpayer inquired as to whether charges for Reiki touch therapy are subject to New Jersey sales and use tax.

The Division responded that the New Jersey Sales and Use Tax Act imposes sales tax on the retail sale of massage, bodywork or somatic services that are rendered in the State except when provided pursuant to a doctor's prescription. N.J.S.A. 54:32B-3(b)(9); N.J.A.C. 18:24-33.2; N.J.A.C. 18:24-33.4(a). To qualify for the prescription exception, the doctor’s prescription must be in writing; must contain the name of the patient and the name and signature of the referring doctor; and must state the purpose of the referral and describe the conditions to be addressed by the prescribed treatment. N.J.A.C. 18:24-33.4(b).

“ ‘Massage, bodywork and somatic services’ means systems of activity of structured touch, which include holding, applying pressure, positioning and mobilizing soft tissue of the body by manual technique and use of visual, kinesthetic, auditory and palpating skills to assess the body for purposes of applying massage, bodywork or somatic principles. Such application may, for example, include the use of therapies, such as heliotherapy or hydrotherapy, the use of moist hot and cold external applications and external application of herbal or topical preparations.” N.J.A.C. 18:24-33.3(a). Reiki touch therapy is generally understood to be a form of therapy that uses simple touch, no-touch and visualization techniques for the purpose of improving the flow of life energy in a person.

Based on the above, Reiki touch therapy falls within the definition of massage, bodywork and somatic services. Therefore, receipts from charges for those services are subject to New Jersey sales tax, except when performed pursuant to a doctor’s prescription.

Sale of Airline Tickets – A taxpayer inquired as to whether charges for the sale of airline tickets are subject to New Jersey sales and use tax.

The Division responded that the New Jersey Sales and Use Tax Act imposes sales tax on the receipts from every sale (except for resale) of certain enumerated services unless an exemption exists. N.J.S.A. 54:32B-3(b). Receipts from charges for the transportation of persons or property are exempt from tax except for: delivery charges; transportation services provided by a limousine operator; and the transportation of energy. N.J.S.A. 54:32B-8.11.

Based on the above, receipts from charges for the sale of airline tickets are exempt from sales and use tax whether purchased to transport persons or property. □

In Our Courts Gross Income Tax

Loss Carryforward – Constance Dinallo v. Director, Division of Taxation, decided Aug. 16, 2013; Tax Court Docket No. 013971-2010.

Dinallo (Plaintiff) was a limited partner in Empire, Ltd. (Empire), which was a limited liability partnership whose only asset was a single piece of land. The land was sold in 2004.

Plaintiff received a 2004 New Jersey K-1 from Empire which showed a $2,533,468 distributive share of partnership income. On her 2004 New Jersey gross income tax return, Plaintiff offset the partnership income by $1,749,716 of partnership losses from prior years. In 2005, Plaintiff received a New Jersey K-1 from Empire which showed a $5,678 loss. The Division audited Plaintiff’s 2004 return and disallowed the use of the partnership losses from prior years because losses in any category of income can only be applied against gains in that same category of income in the same year. N.J.S.A. 54A:5-2.

At issue was whether the Plaintiff could carry forward pre-2004 partnership losses to offset the 2004 partnership income and whether the New Jersey Supreme Court’s holding in Koch v. Director, Division of Taxation, 157 N.J. 1 (1999) applied. In Koch, the Court held that the Director cannot use a federal adjusted basis if it results in a taxpayer being taxed on a return of capital. In other words, a taxpayer can use losses from prior years to ensure that he is only taxed on the economic gain resulting from a sale.

The Tax Court determined that N.J.S.A. 54A:5-2 did not permit losses from prior years to be carried forward and that Koch did not apply because Plaintiff's partnership interest was not sold, exchanged or disposed of in 2004 even though the partnership sold its only asset in 2004.

Plaintiff appealed the Tax Court's decision. The appeal was recently dismissed.

Statute of Limitations Regarding Credit for Taxes Paid to Other Jurisdictions – Frederic W. Bernard v. Director, Division of Taxation, decided Oct. 31, 2013, and supplemented Dec. 4, 2013; Tax Court Docket No. 014563-2012, affirmed, Appellate Division Docket No. A-1445-13T4, decided Feb. 23, 2015.

Bernard (Plaintiff) filed his 2002 New Jersey gross income tax return on April 15, 2003, but did not claim a credit for taxes that he paid to New York state and city in that year. In 2004, New York assessed additional income taxes against Plaintiff for tax year 2002. The matter was settled in 2006. In 2008, Plaintiff filed an amended New Jersey return for the 2002 tax year, claimed a credit for taxes paid to New York and requested a refund. The Division denied the refund because Plaintiff did not claim the credit on his 2002 return and filed his amended return more than three years after the date he filed the original return.

In general, the statute of limitations for claiming a refund of gross income tax is the later of three years from when the return was filed or two years from when the tax was paid. N.J.S.A. 54A:9-8. However, N.J.S.A. 54A:4-1(e) provides an exception to the three-year limitation when there is a readjustment of the tax due to another state. The Tax Court has previously determined that, as used in that statute, the word "readjustment" means "when a tax has been paid to another state and a credit taken on the New Jersey return for the subject year and the tax paid is later increased or decreased by the other state." See Bonanno v. Director, Division of Taxation, 12 N.J. Tax 552 (Tax 1992). In this case, the Tax Court found that Plaintiff's amended return did not qualify for an exception to the three-year statute of limitations because he did not claim a credit for taxes paid to New York on his original 2002 New Jersey return. Hence, the credit for taxes paid on the amended 2002 New Jersey return was not a readjustment.

Plaintiff appealed the Tax Court decision to the Appellate Division, which affirmed. The Appellate Court emphasized the plain language of the statute and the strong policy of strictly construing limitation periods to provide finality and predictability of state and local revenues.

Limitation on Credit for Taxes Paid to Other Jurisdictions – Michael & Inge Trachtenberg v. Director, Division of Taxation, decided Nov. 21, 2013; Tax Court Docket No. 008689-2008.

Michael and Inge Trachtenberg (Plaintiffs) were New Jersey residents who reported the sale of real property located in New York on their nonresident New York income tax return. On their NJ-1040, Plaintiffs were able to use capital losses to offset the capital gain from the sale of the New York property, but they were not permitted to do so on their New York return. However, Plaintiffs were able to deduct rental losses on their New York return that were not deductible on the New Jersey return. The total gross income reported to New Jersey was $4,738,325. Plaintiff used the total New York income subject to tax of $9,810,462 in the numerator of the credit calculation and contended that they should receive a credit for all of the New York taxes paid because their New York income was greater than their New Jersey income. The Division limited the numerator of the credit calculation to $4,349,471, which was the amount of income taxed by both New York and New Jersey.

The Tax Court stated that the purpose of the credit is to provide relief from New Jersey taxes where income is taxed by both New Jersey and another jurisdiction, not to provide a credit for taxes on income that is not subject to tax in New Jersey. The credit statute “is not designed to ameliorate the effects of decisions by other States to tax income that is not subject to tax in New Jersey. The resident credit is not a panacea for the taxing practices of other jurisdictions. The statute is designed to address the limited circumstances in which both New Jersey and another State tax the same income earned by a New Jersey resident.” The Court held that the Division’s calculation of the credit accurately reflected the intent of the statute.

Plaintiff appealed the Tax Court’s decision. The appeal was recently dismissed.

Untaxed Cigarette Purchases – Rosa Jovanovic v. Director, Division of Taxation, decided Sept. 23, 2014; Tax Court Docket No. 016785-2011.

As required by the federal Jenkins Act, Smart Smoker, an out-of-State seller of cigarettes, provided the Division of Taxation with information concerning the purchase of cigarettes that they shipped into New Jersey. The information provided included cigarette purchases made by Jovanovic (Plaintiff). The cigarettes did not contain a New Jersey tax stamp; therefore, neither cigarette tax nor sales tax was charged or paid on these purchases. The Division of Taxation assessed Plaintiff for both the excise tax per carton of cigarettes and the sales tax due on each purchase.

Plaintiff claimed that she did not make the purchases, never received the cigarettes and that she was a victim of identity theft. Plaintiff claimed to have disputed the charges for the cigarette purchases and canceled the credit card in question. At the trial, it was revealed that Plaintiff continued using the credit card in question and paid the amount due on the credit card statements for the purchases made. The credit card company did refund some money, but not for the cigarette purchases.

The Tax Court affirmed the Division’s assessment finding that the testimony of Plaintiff and her husband lacked credibility.

Taxes Included in Determining Entire Net Income – Duke Energy Corporation v. Director, Division of Taxation, decided Dec. 2, 2014; Tax Court Docket No. 010448-2008.

N.J.S.A. 54:10A-4(k)(2)(C) of the Corporation Business Tax Act requires that a taxpayer must add back certain taxes when determining New Jersey entire net income, including taxes on or measured by profits or income or business presence or business activity that were deducted for federal tax purposes. In this case, the Division required Duke Energy Corporation (Plaintiff) to add back electrical utility taxes. At issue was whether the (1) North Carolina tax imposed on electrical utilities and/or (2) South Carolina tax imposed on electrical utilities must be added back to determine New Jersey entire net income for tax years 2000 through 2003.

The North Carolina utilities tax is imposed on an electric power company’s taxable gross receipts from furnishing products such as electricity, current or power and contained a sale for resale exemption. The Court found that the tax is measured by gross receipts and not profits as it does not allow for a deduction of costs. Additionally, the Court stated that the tax did not apply to all corporations and did not have broad application to in-State business activities. Consequently, the Court ruled that the taxpayer was not required to add back this tax to determine New Jersey entire net income.

The South Carolina utilities tax is imposed on the fair market value of property owned and used by utilities and electrical cooperatives and on gross sales of electricity services. The Court noted that according to N.J.A.C. 18:7-8.7(f), property taxes are not considered business presence or business activity taxes. Thus, the taxpayer was not required to add back this tax to determine New Jersey entire net income. □

Hackensack Meadowlands Agency Consolidation Act, Hackensack Meadowlands Transportation Planning District Act of 2015 and New Jersey Meadowlands Tax Relief Act — P.L. 2015, c.19, was signed into law on Feb. 5, 2015, and took effect immediately.

The law consolidates the New Jersey Meadowlands Commission and the New Jersey Sports and Exposition Authority, reestablishes the Hackensack Meadowlands Transportation Planning District and revises the funding method for the intermunicipal tax sharing program in the New Jersey Meadowlands.

Sections 82 through 85 of P.L. 2015, c.19, comprise the New Jersey Meadowlands Tax Relief Act. The Act imposes a 3% Meadowlands Regional Hotel Use Assessment on the rental charge for a room in a hotel, motel or similar facility in the Meadowlands district, including any hotel located on land owned by the State. The assessment is imposed on room rentals that are subject to the New Jersey sales tax and is in addition to any other tax or fee imposed by statute or local ordinance, including the hotel/motel State occupancy fee and municipal occupancy tax. The assessment applies to all hotel occupancies that occur on or after March 1, 2015. □

There have been some important changes affecting the preparation of New Jersey income tax returns and applications for New Jersey's property tax relief programs this year:

Income Tax

- Property Tax Deduction/Credit — Homeowners applying for the property tax deduction/credit must enter new information on Lines 37b and 37c of the 2014 resident return, Form NJ-1040. Residents must report the following information about the principal residence they owned and occupied on Dec. 31, 2014: block number, lot number and qualifier (condominiums only) for the property, and county/municipality code for the location of that residence. Those who were not homeowners on Dec. 31 must provide information for the last home they owned and occupied in New Jersey during 2014. In addition, homeowners must fill in the oval on Line 37c if they completed Worksheet F-1, which can be found in the instructions for Form NJ-1040, to calculate the total property taxes paid amount for Line 37a.
- Credit for Excess UI/WF/SWF; DI; FLI Withheld — For 2014, the maximum employee unemployment insurance/workforce development partnership fund/supplemental workforce fund contribution was $133.88, the maximum employee disability insurance contribution was $119.70 and the maximum employee family leave insurance contribution was $31.50. If you had two or more employers, you may have contributed more than the maximum amount(s). You must complete Form NJ-2450 to claim credit on your New Jersey tax return for the excess withheld.

- Credit for Taxes Paid to Other Jurisdictions — The Philadelphia nonresident wage tax rate for 2014 was 3.495% (.03495) from Jan. 1 to June 30, 2014, and 3.4915% (.034915) from July 1 to Dec. 31, 2014.
- Alternative Business Calculation Adjustment — If you have losses in certain business-related categories of income, you may be able to use those losses to calculate an adjustment to your taxable income. In addition, you can carry forward unused losses in those categories for 20 years to calculate future adjustments. For tax year 2014, the percentage used to calculate the Alternative Business Calculation Adjustment on Schedule NJ-BUS-2 is 30 percent, up from 20 percent in 2013. The percentage is being phased in over a five-year period and will reach a maximum of 50 percent for tax year 2016 and after.

- E-Filing Opt Out — If your tax preparer is required to file all returns electronically, you can still choose to file by paper as long as you fill out Form NJ-1040-O, E-File Opt-Out Request Form. Beginning this year, you must include the form with your return when you file, and your preparer must indicate that it is enclosed by filling in the oval in the section where he or she signs your return.

Property Tax Relief Programs

- 2014 Property Tax Reimbursement (Senior Freeze) — The Senior Freeze (Property Tax Reimbursement) Program reimburses eligible senior citizens or disabled persons for property tax increases. Eligible residents must file a 2014 Property Tax Reimbursement Application (Form PTR-1 or PTR-2) by June 1, 2015. The 2014 applications were mailed in mid-February.

With very few exceptions, all income received during the year, including income which is not required to be reported on Form NJ-1040, must be taken into account to determine eligibility for the property tax reimbursement. For residents applying for reimbursements for tax year 2014, total annual income must be:

These limits apply regardless of marital/civil union status. However, if your filing status was married/CU couple, and you lived in the same household, you must combine your incomes for that year.

NOTE: As a result of the amount appropriated in the State Budget for property tax relief programs, only certain applicants received reimbursement payments for 2013. Applicants who were eligible to receive reimbursement payments for 2013 were those whose 2012 income did not exceed $82,880 and whose 2013 income did not exceed $70,000, provided they met all the other program requirements. The amount appropriated for property tax relief programs may likewise affect eligibility for 2014 reimbursements.

New Grant and Credit Monitoring Unit Formed

Responsibility for administering certain tax incentives and grants available under State programs offered by the New Jersey Economic Development Authority now resides with the Office of Legislative Analysis and Disclosure (OLAD). A new Grant and Credit Monitoring Unit within OLAD, referred to as the “Credit Team,” was created to review and process applications for tax credits and grants submitted to the Division under the various programs.

Tax incentive grant programs have become an essential tool used by government and businesses to stimulate economic activity in blighted and contaminated areas and to help spur development and create jobs within the State. The Credit Team currently handles tax credits and/or grants under the following programs: Angel Investor Tax Credit, Brownfield and Contaminated Site Remediation Program, Business Employment Incentive Program (BEIP), GROW NJ Assistance Program, Economic Redevelopment and Growth Grant Program (ERGG) and Urban Transit Hub Tax Credit Program. In addition, the Unit processes applications for Urban Enterprise Zone (Form UZ-6) and Salem County (Form SC-6) energy exemption certificates.

OLAD's Credit Team is working to streamline the process of monitoring these grants, including the verification and tracking of tax credits and reimbursement payments to developers. □

New Laws for EFT Payments That Fail

Recent legislation amended existing civil and criminal statutes to treat failed electronic funds transfer (EFT) payments the same way as bad checks, drafts or money orders.

This means that a taxpayer commits a crime if he or she authorizes an electronic funds transfer knowing that the payment will not be honored because of insufficient funds or because the taxpayer does not have an account at the financial institution on which the payment is drawn. Likewise, a taxpayer who makes a dishonored EFT payment is also subject to the provisions of civil law that provide for the recovery of funds and payment of damages.

These new laws will be of particular help to the Division of Taxation in recovering money due to the State of New Jersey. The Technical Enforcement Unit within the Division's

Office of Criminal Investigation is responsible for recouping funds owed as a result of EFT payments that are dishonored by financial institutions. This Unit now has the tools necessary to take the same actions, including criminal prosecution, against taxpayers who initiate bad EFT payments as they can against those who issue bad checks.

Now that fraudulent EFT payments can be treated as bad checks, violators who fail to pay after they have been notified by the Division that their EFT payment was dishonored can be charged with a crime ranging from a disorderly persons offense to a crime of the second degree. The degree of the crime and the associated penalties depend on the amount of the dishonored payment. In addition, the Division can also bring a civil action to recover the unpaid amount plus damages. These civil and criminal actions are in addition to the penalties and interest that are imposed whenever tax is paid after the due date.

These new laws, P.L. 2014, c.45 and c.46, signed into law on Sept. 10, 2014, do not increase existing penalties for making a dishonored payment; they simply apply the existing provisions to dishonored payments made by electronic funds transfer. □

Criminal Enforcement

Criminal enforcement over the past several months included:

- On May 12, 2014, the State, by an order of forfeiture, seized $75,407.25 from Gary Conover, property that has been, or was intended to be, used in criminal activity. Based on the distributive share analysis in N.J.S.A. 2C:64-4, an allocation of $25,000 was determined to be the share for the New Jersey Department of the Treasury. This case was a joint investigation with the Division of Criminal Justice and the Office of Criminal Investigation (OCI) into allegations that Mr. Conover was taking bets and paying out bets without filing the appropriate W-2 forms and other paperwork associated with income taxes on gambling winnings.

- On July 16, 2014, the Monmouth County Grand Jury returned a 20-count indictment against Anthony Gagliardi and a 10-count indictment against Richard Crossan. These indictments followed a criminal investigation conducted by the Monmouth County Prosecutor’s Office in conjunction with the Somerset County Prosecutor’s Office, the Monmouth County Sheriff’s Office, OCI and various police departments. The investigation revealed that both suspects were engaged in illegal gambling and financial activity, which included money laundering and tax evasion. Gagliardi was indicted on the following charges: second-degree racketeering conspiracy, first- and third-degree financial facilitation of criminal activity, third-degree promoting gambling, third-degree failure to file returns, third-degree failure to pay and third-degree filing a fraudulent return. Crossan was indicted on the following charges: second-degree racketeering conspiracy, first-degree financial facilitation of criminal activity, third-degree financial facilitation of criminal activity, third-degree promoting gambling, third-degree failure to pay and third-degree filing a fraudulent return.
- On Aug. 11, 2014, Mohammad Shafiq was sentenced to 57 months in prison on four counts of federal cigarette trafficking violations brought by the U.S. Attorney’s Office and five years of supervised release on unrelated mortgage fraud charges brought by the Federal Bureau of Investigation. He was ordered to pay restitution in the amount of $4,046,382 to the State for unpaid cigarette tax and an additional $1,405,000 for the mortgage fraud. OCI initiated this investigation and requested the assistance of the Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco, Firearms and Explosives from June 2011 until Mohammad Shafiq’s arrest in February 2012.

- On Aug. 12, 2014, Robert Greco, Jr., owner of East Creek Manor in Eldora, New Jersey, was indicted in Cape May County Superior Court on charges of second-degree theft by failure to make required disposition, third-degree failure to file return and third-degree failure to pay. Mr. Greco is accused of using funds from a resident’s bank accounts for his personal gain as well as business expenses associated with East Creek Manor.
- On Aug. 21, 2014, OCI special agents arrested Othello Alferd of Old Bridge, New Jersey, following an investigation into his illegal import of counterfeit Newport cigarettes. The investigation also resulted in the seizure of 93.4 cartons of counterfeit cigarettes imported from mainland China. Alferd was processed and incarcerated in lieu of $25,000 bail, no 10%.
- On Aug. 26, 2014, Stevens Castor of East Orange, New Jersey, was arrested by OCI special agents for various violations of the Cigarette Tax Act relative to cigarette sales via the Internet. Each sale was for a legitimate product; however, the cigarettes were stolen from a drugstore where Castor was employed as a security guard. Special agents have begun to monitor Internet sales of tobacco, cigarettes and counterfeit products for Master Settlement Agreement violations.

- On Sept. 15, 2014, OCI was notified of a suspect's receiving a carload of suspected untaxed cigarettes. The vehicle delivering the cigarettes had Virginia license plates. OCI agents responded to the scene and observed cigarettes through the open back doors of two vans. A total of 690 cartons of Virginia-stamped cigarettes and $2,202 in U.S. currency were seized. Special agents arrested Hany M. Faltas of Hatfield, Pennsylvania, and Fateh Alwesh Sabbagh of Brooklyn, New York, and transported them to the Jersey City Police Department South for processing. The suspects were charged with third-degree possession of out-of-State stamped cigarettes, fourth-degree engaging in conduct requiring licensure without registration or license, third-degree failure to maintain records and fourth-degree engaging in a cigarette transaction with an unlicensed person with the intent to evade the State cigarette tax. Additionally, the vehicle used to illegally transport the cigarettes was seized pending forfeiture by OCI.
- On Sept. 17, 2014, Cynthia Perella was indicted on tax charges in Gloucester County. A joint investigation conducted by the Gloucester County Prosecutor's Office and the Office of Criminal Investigation revealed that she failed to report all of her income on her New Jersey resident tax returns for tax years 2012 and 2013. While employed by the Harrison Township Fire District, Perella negotiated unauthorized checks made payable to herself and failed to report the checks as income on her New Jersey tax returns. Perella was charged with filing a fraudulent tax return and failure to pay. In addition to the tax charges, Perella was charged with forgery, theft by unlawful taking and official misconduct.

- On Oct. 1, 2014, an OCI Technical Enforcement Unit Investigator provided testimony to the Mercer County Grand Jury that resulted in a three-count indictment of Kalpesh M. Patel. He was charged with three separate counts of theft by deception illegal retention, misapplication of entrusted government property and failure to pay New Jersey State taxes. The charges are the result of an investigation into Mr. Patel's failure to replace dishonored payments of sales and use tax totaling $91,035.55 for the six businesses that he operates in New Jersey. If convicted, this will be a second conviction of the same nature as Mr. Patel pled guilty to similar charges in 2013 in the Trenton Municipal Court.

- On Oct. 6, 2014, an OCI special agent performed a compliance inspection at a business in Montvale, New Jersey, which resulted in the seizure of 437.7 counterfeit-stamped and out-of-State stamped cartons of cigarettes. The owner of the business was arrested and charged with multiple cigarette- and forgery-related crimes.
- On Oct. 21, 2014, Vito Alberti, Domenick Pucillo, Robert Spagnola, Manuel Rodriguez, Abel J. Rodriguez and John W. Trainor were arrested and charged with first-degree racketeering, first-degree money laundering, first-degree conspiracy and various other charges. Following their arrests, the defendants were jailed and bail was set at $400,000 each. This ongoing criminal investigation is being conducted by the New Jersey Division of Criminal Justice in conjunction with the

- On Oct. 28, 2014, OCI seized a total of 763.4 cartons of counterfeit New Jersey tax-stamped cigarettes (485.4 cartons) and Virginia tax-stamped cigarettes (278.0 cartons) discovered by the Newark Police Department during an unrelated narcotics investigation. OCI also seized 59,400 counterfeit New Jersey tax stamps, 44,722 counterfeit Pennsylvania tax stamps, $20,872 in U.S. currency and a minivan. The owner of the business, Kelvin Nunez, was arrested by special agents in Newark along with his father, Jose Nunez, who was later arrested at his home in Bloomfield, New Jersey. Both were charged with 13 offenses comprised of Title 54 and Title 2C related charges.

- An OCI auditor on the Stolen Identity Refund Fraud Task Force worked in collaboration with the U.S. Postal Inspection Service in an ongoing fraud investigation. He confirmed that four fraudulent New Jersey income tax refund checks in the amount of $5,672 were suspicious based on the proximity of their addresses. In addition, three fraudulent paid preparers were blocked from submitting returns in the future. The paid preparers' addresses were in Philadelphia, Pennsylvania; Bronx, New York; and Queens, New York. The preparer from Queens submitted 151 fraudulent income tax returns for the 2013 tax year that represented $126,584 in requested refunds. The procedures put in place by the Special Frauds Unit prevented 96 percent of this amount from being released. □

Gross Income Tax

Employee Death Benefits & 9/11 Victims' Compensation – A taxpayer inquired whether an employee death benefit is subject to tax and required to be reported on the New Jersey income tax return (Form NJ-1040).

The taxpayer received a payment as a result of her husband's death. Her husband was a firefighter who died in the 9/11 terrorist attack and the payer is the Fire Pension Fund. She will receive a payment every year for life. The taxpayer received Form 1099-R with an amount in Box 7, Distribution Code 4 (Death).

N.J.S.A. 54A:6-4(b) provides that "employees' death benefits, if such amounts are paid by or on behalf of an employer and are paid by reason of the death of the employee" are excluded from gross income.

The Division responded that a death benefit payment that is reported on Form 1099-R, in Box 7, Distribution Code 4 (Death), and paid by the Fire Pension Fund due to the death of the taxpayer's husband as a firefighter in the 9/11 terrorist attack, is excluded from New Jersey gross income.

Additionally, payments from the September 11th Victim Compensation Fund and other qualified disaster relief payments that are excluded from income when received by a victim are also excluded when received as a survivor annuity by a child, spouse, or former spouse of a public safety officer. This exclusion applies to the amount of the annuity based on the decedent's service as a public safety officer. For this purpose, the term "public safety officer" includes police and law enforcement officers,

Sales and Use Tax

Donation Made Through a Crowdfunding Website – The Division received an inquiry as to whether a donation made through a “crowdfunding” website is subject to sales and use tax.

Crowdfunding websites provide a platform for filmmakers, musicians, artists, authors, designers and others to solicit donations for their projects. For example, an author located in New Jersey who wants to raise money to publish a book may agree to provide a copy of the finished book to his or her contributors in return for a $10 donation to the project.

The New Jersey Sales and Use Tax Act imposes tax on the retail sale of tangible personal property unless a valid exemption exists. N.J.S.A. 54:32B-3(a); N.J.S.A. 54:32B-6. The Division concluded that there is no “retail sale” of tangible personal property when a donation is made through a crowdfunding website. Therefore, in the example above, the $10 donation to the author is not subject to sales or use tax. The fact that, in return for a donation to the project, the author agrees to provide a copy of the finished book to contributors at a later date does not change this conclusion. However, the author is required to pay either sales or use tax (depending on the circumstances) on the books given to contributors.

Taxability of Walk-In Bathtubs – A taxpayer, who is a seller of walk-in bathtubs, inquired whether sales tax must be collected on retail sales of walk-in bathtubs to customers. The taxpayer described the walk-in bathtubs as having built-in powered bath chairs and lifts. These walk-in bathtubs are specially designed for individuals who cannot use conventional bathtubs due to a disability or chronic illness. The built-in powered bath chairs and lifts aid individuals to raise or lower themselves in and out of the water.

The Division responded that the New Jersey Sales and Use Tax Act imposes tax on retail sales of tangible personal property unless a valid exemption exists. N.J.S.A. 54:32B-3(a). Sales of mobility enhancing equipment sold by a doctor’s prescription for human use are exempt from tax. N.J.S.A. 54:32B-8.1(a).

Mobility enhancing equipment is defined in N.J.S.A. 54:32B-8.1(b) as “equipment, other than durable medical equipment, that:

1. is primarily and customarily used to provide or increase the ability to move from one place to another and which is appropriate for use either at home or in a motor vehicle; and
2. is not generally used by persons with normal mobility; and
3. does not include any motor vehicle or equipment on a motor vehicle normally provided by a motor vehicle manufacturer.”

Based on the above, sales of walk-in bathtubs that contain built-in powered bath chairs and lifts are exempt from tax as mobility enhancing equipment, so long as the purchaser presents a doctor’s prescription to the seller.

Sales of walk-in bathtubs which do not have built-in powered bath chairs and lifts are taxable because they are generally used by people with normal mobility and do not, therefore, satisfy the requirements for exemption from tax. □

Bankruptcy – Daniel P. McGlone v. Director, Division of Taxation, decided June 25, 2014; Tax Court, Docket No. 006378-2003.

McGlone was the President and 100% shareholder of a construction company incorporated in New Jersey (the Company) which filed for bankruptcy in 1990. The Division filed a timely priority claim estimating that the Company owed $100,000 in various taxes, including employer withholdings of gross income tax, which is a trust tax. In 1997, a final decree was entered in Bankruptcy Court on the Chapter 7 liquidation.

In 2001, McGlone filed the Gross Income Tax Reconciliation of Tax Withheld (Form NJ-W-3) for 1988, 1989 and 1990 on behalf of the Company. Three months later the Division issued a Notice of Finding of Responsible Person Status to McGlone that assessed $175,071 for unpaid gross income tax withholdings plus penalty and interest for 1988 through 1990.

McGlone filed a complaint in Tax Court alleging that the Division filed the 2001 assessment after the statute of limitations had expired, and that the liability for the assessment expired at the end of the bankruptcy proceedings in 1997.

The Tax Court first addressed McGlone's claim that the Division's assessment was beyond the statute of limitations. The Court found that the Division's 2001 Notice of Finding of Responsible Person Status was timely because the 1988, 1989 and 1990 NJ-W-3s were filed in 2001, which was when the three-year statute of limitations began to run (N.J.S.A. 54A:9-4(a)).

With respect to McGlone's contention that the Company's tax debt and his responsibility for that debt expired at the end of the bankruptcy proceedings, the Court ruled that because the debt was for trust fund taxes it was not dischargeable in bankruptcy. The Court cited a case decided by the Supreme Court of the United States that held that trust fund tax debts are not dischargeable under any circumstances. Additionally, as a responsible person, McGlone was personally liable for any withholding taxes that were not remitted by the Company.

Penalties – United Parcel Service General Services Co. v. Director, Division of Taxation, decided Dec. 4, 2014; New Jersey Supreme Court No. A-16/17 September Term 2013, 072421.

The New Jersey Supreme Court (Court) affirmed the New Jersey Tax Court and the Appellate Division on the issue of whether late payment penalties and amnesty penalties applied.

The Court concurred with the New Jersey Tax Court and the Appellate Division that the Division should have waived the late payment penalties because the taxpayer had "reasonable cause" for not paying the tax. In writing, the Division stated that one of the United Parcel companies demonstrated "reasonable cause in this matter." Additionally, there was no "directly pertinent legal authority" in existence regarding the issue.

The Court concurred with the Appellate Division's affirmance of the New Jersey Tax Court conclusion that the Division improperly assessed amnesty penalties under the 1996 and 2002 tax amnesty statutes. (N.J.S.A. 54:53-17, -18). After reviewing the statutes, the Court found that neither amnesty statute addressed a taxpayer who was found to owe additional taxes pursuant to an audit and who paid all its reported tax liabilities on its timely filed tax returns. The Court relied on the legislative history and the State Treasurer's testimony concerning the 1996 amnesty statute. During that testimony, the Treasurer stated that the penalty would not be applied to taxes found on a routine audit of a compliant taxpayer in which a question of law or fact exists.

Corporation Business Tax Taxes Included in Determining Entire Net Income – PPL Electric Utilities Corporation v. Director, Division of Taxation, decided Oct. 2, 2014; Tax Court, Docket No. 000005-2011.

N.J.S.A. 54:10A-4(k)(2)(C) of the Corporation Business Tax Act requires that when determining New Jersey entire net income a taxpayer must add back certain taxes, including taxes on or measured by profits or income or business presence or business activity that were deducted for federal tax purposes. In this case, the relevant taxes that the Division required the taxpayer to add back include taxes paid to Pennsylvania that are measured by profits or income or business presence or business activity. At issue was whether the (1) Pennsylvania Gross Receipts Tax (PAGRT) and/or (2) Pennsylvania Capital Stock Tax (PACST) must be added back to determine New Jersey entire net income for tax years 1999 and 2000.

The PAGRT is measured solely on the amount of electricity sold, and the tax is passed on to the consumer of electricity. The Court ruled that the PAGRT is an excise tax, and the taxpayer was not required to add it back to determine entire net income because the tax is not measured by business presence or business activity or income or profits.

The PACST is determined by using the taxpayer’s average accumulated book income over five years and the taxpayer’s net worth. In examining the PACST, the Court found that the Pennsylvania courts have held that the PACST resembles a property tax. The Tax Court decided that the taxpayer was not required to add back the PACST because it is measured by the value of the company’s assets, and therefore not a tax measured by profits or income or business presence or business activity. □

Fall Outreach a Success

The Division of Taxation received over 35,000 payments for outstanding liabilities from a recent outreach to taxpayers owing back taxes to New Jersey.

From Oct. 1 to Nov. 17, 2014, the Division offered businesses and individuals the opportunity to pay outstanding tax liabilities with reduced or eliminated penalties, decreased interest, no costs of collection and no recovery fees. The offer covered liabilities for tax periods 2005 through 2013.

Taxpayers responded in record numbers to the Division's offer to clear their accounts at a substantial savings, and most of them made their payments electronically. The Division's Customer Service Center and Regional Offices answered over 9,700 calls, with the offices handling over 1,000 walk-in visits from taxpayers seeking information or assistance.

Initially, the Division contacted taxpayers with known tax debt from 2005 through 2013. However, any taxpayer who owed back taxes for that period could participate.

As a result, both deficient taxpayers — those who had filed returns but still owed tax — and delinquent taxpayers — those with unfiled returns — voluntarily came forward to pay outstanding tax liabilities. The Division will notify these taxpayers if they owe any additional amounts.

Taxpayers who took advantage of this payment opportunity entered into a closing agreement with the Division, which stipulated that the matter was closed, and waived their right to any further administrative review or judicial appeal.

Those who failed to take advantage of the opportunity remain on record as owing their full liability, including penalties, interest, collection costs and/or recovery fees. □

Taxation Collects Back Taxes From Boat Owners

Over the past two years, investigators from the Division of Taxation have recovered $2.3 million in sales and use taxes from boat owners in New Jersey.

The Division, along with the New Jersey State Police and other agencies, actively search the waterways of New Jersey to find people or businesses attempting to evade sales or use tax on their vessels.

Taxation investigators patrol New Jersey's intercoastal waterways, lagoons and marinas to search for possible tax evaders who have failed to pay tax on their vessels at the time of purchase or first use in New Jersey.

Boats purchased by New Jersey residents from an in-State dealer are subject to 7% sales tax. Boats purchased from an out-of-State dealer are subject to use tax the first time they are used in New Jersey. Boats purchased from a nondealer are subject to sales tax if they are required to be registered in New Jersey. Out-of-State residents are subject to sales tax if they own property in New Jersey and have not paid sales tax of at least 7% to their home state.

Investigators also receive referrals from other states regarding boat purchases made by New Jersey residents. Some people purchase a boat in another state but fail to pay the required use tax when they bring it back to New Jersey.

The following are examples of recent enforcement action taken against boat owners who failed to comply with New Jersey sales and use tax laws:

- A Pennsylvania resident who docked his vessel in Wildwood, New Jersey met the New Jersey registration requirement but failed to remit use tax on his vessel. Investigators from the Division of Taxation, accompanied by the New Jersey State Police, seized the vessel until the owner was able to pay $4,222, including penalty and interest, to release the vessel.
- A Taxation investigator observed a Delaware-registered vessel near the Canyon Club Resort Marina in Cape May, New Jersey. Investigators advised the vessel's owner that he was not in compliance with New Jersey tax laws. He agreed to pay $14,496.
- Investigators canvassing a marina in Cape May discovered the owner of a charter fishing boat had taken an improper sales tax exemption when he registered his vessel as a head boat. In order for a vessel to be tax-exempt as a head boat, the following conditions must be met: passengers must pay individually and board first come, first served; the vessel must be certified by the U.S. Coast Guard to carry more than six passengers; anglers must be permitted to fish at any time; and the vessel must be primarily engaged in sport fishing and sail on a daily fishing schedule for a designated species set by the captain. The investigators determined that the vessel operated as a charter fishing boat and, as such, was subject to use tax. The owner paid $13,020 in back taxes.

- A New Jersey resident was found to have formed a Delaware corporation to purchase a vessel he docked in the Garden State in an attempt to evade sales tax. Because the company had no other purpose than to shield the buyer from paying sales tax, the owner was assessed tax plus penalty and interest totaling $87,143.

Teams participated in a joint truck surveillance detail with the New Jersey State Police and the New Jersey Motor Vehicle Commission. About two dozen out-of-State businesses were inspected in Carneys Point, Salem County, and six companies were assessed $68,860 in back taxes.

- The State Police teamed up with the same Taxation investigators again on July 9, 2014, to inspect out-of-State businesses at the Carneys Point Weigh Station. They canvassed 46 out-of-State businesses, assessed seven companies $38,500 in back taxes and secured two new business registrations. Five of the businesses that had previously been inspected and assessed for not paying taxes were found to be in compliance and paying all appropriate taxes.
- A Taxation field investigator secured $60,466 in use tax from a Long Branch, Monmouth County, businessman who was abusing dealer plates on three classic cars purchased as an investment. The vehicles had dealer tags that were being used improperly to avoid paying sales tax. The owner of the vehicles paid the tax after being informed of the law regarding dealer tags.

- On July 15, 2014, Taxation investigators from the Northfield Regional Office seized a restaurant in Egg Harbor Township, Atlantic County, for failure to pay State taxes. Division staff entered the establishment, served warrants of execution, secured the business and demanded full payment. The owner paid the warrant amount due of $65,000, and the restaurant was allowed to remain open. □

Partnership Filing Requirements

Every partnership that has income or loss derived from New Jersey sources, or that has a New Jersey resident partner during the tax year, must file a New Jersey partnership return and pay any required filing fee and nonresident partner tax even if its principal place of business is outside of New Jersey. This article lists the New Jersey forms partnerships must use to file returns, submit payments and request extensions, along with their due dates.

Filing Returns

Form NJ-1065: The New Jersey Partnership Return is an annual tax return which partnerships use to report the number of partners and any nonresident partner tax. For calendar year filers, the 2014 NJ-1065 is due by April 15, 2015. Fiscal year filers must file their returns by the 15th day of the fourth month following the close of the fiscal year. For example, a partnership with a fiscal year of July 1, 2014 – June 30, 2015, must file by Oct. 15, 2015.

Submitting Payments

Form PART-100: Partnerships that file Form NJ-1065 may also be required to file Form PART-100, Partnership Filing Fee and Tax Payment Return, which is submitted with payment of the partnership’s filing fee and/or the nonresident partner tax. The partnership is required to file the PART-100 and remit the taxes and/or fees on or before the original due date of the New Jersey partnership return.

If Line(s) 24 and/or 25, Form NJ-1065, reflect nonresident partner tax, the partnership has not satisfied all of its filing and payment requirements when it files only the partnership return, Form NJ-1065. Partnerships that are subject to the filing fee and/or the nonresident partner tax must also file Form PART-100 and remit any balance due. Partnerships may be subject to the filing fee if they have three or more partners and to the nonresident partner tax if they have nonresident partners. Payments made on behalf of the partnership by any tiered partnerships are also reported on the PART-100.

Requesting Extensions

Form NJ-1065: To receive a five-month extension of time to file Form NJ-1065, a partnership that obtained an extension of time to file the federal Form 1065 must include a copy of the federal application for extension, Form 7004, with the New Jersey partnership return when filed, and check the box labeled “Application for Federal Extension

Partnerships that do not obtain a federal extension are required to submit the federal Form 7004 to New Jersey as their extension request on or before the original due date of Form NJ-1065. Note: A federal extension filed with New Jersey will only extend the filing deadline of the New Jersey partnership return.

Form PART-100: Partnerships that are required to file Form PART-100 may request a five-month extension of time to file by filing the PART-200-T, Partnership Application for Extension of Time to File Return PART-100, on or before the original due date of PART-100. For an extension to be considered valid, the partnership must have paid at least 80% of their total fee and/or nonresident tax by the original due date.

Electronic Filing Mandate

Beginning with tax year 2011, partnerships that use the services of a paid preparer must electronically file all their returns completed by that practitioner. This includes Forms NJ-1065, PART-100 and PART-200-T. Payments must be made electronically either by the partnership or the paid tax preparer. In addition, partnerships with 10 or more partners must also file all returns and submit all payments electronically whether or not they use the services of a paid preparer.

Public Auction Information

Announcements of upcoming public auctions of seized property are published on the Division of Taxation’s website under “Auctions.” Select the name of the business for details about that auction.

Monmouth County Demonstration Program

P.L. 2013, c.15, established a Real Property Assessment Demonstration Program to make the assessment of real property more precise by using technology driven procedures and to benefit municipalities by reducing the number of successful appeals, thereby protecting funding of municipal budgets from the impact of losses due to appeal refunds. Monmouth County was the first county to adopt this program, which began Oct. 1, 2013. The following dates on the assessors' calendar have been revised for municipalities in Monmouth County:

Nov. 1–

- Preliminary assessment list completed by assessor and certified to County Tax Board (pretax year).

Nov. 15–

- Assessor to notify each taxpayer by mail of the current assessment and preceding year's taxes (pretax year). □

Criminal Enforcement

Criminal enforcement over the past several months included:

- On May 21, 2014, Office of Criminal Investigation (OCI) special agents arrested four individuals in the City of Newark who were involved in trafficking, sales and possession of 7.9 cartons of New Jersey counterfeit-stamped cigarettes, 27,327 cigars and 223 pouches of cigarette tobacco to be used for roll-your-own cigarettes. Three subjects were processed at the Newark Police Department, charged with indictable offenses relative to the contraband and remanded to Essex County Jail. The fourth subject was released for a later appearance before the Court.
- On May 21, 2014, OCI special agents, with the assistance of the Camden County Sheriff's and Prosecutor's Offices, executed search warrants after a surveillance operation of an open air contraband market in a Camden City strip mall, which led to the search of storage units, homes and a vehicle. Three individuals were arrested. One had an outstanding warrant for failing to register as a sex offender, and another was transported to the Essex County Jail for outstanding criminal warrants. The third subject was released on his own recognizance pending a court appearance. More than 60 cartons of Delaware-stamped cigarettes, over 5,000 pirated DVDs, a DVD manufacturing device and related equipment were seized. OCI received assistance from the motion picture antipiracy group.

- On May 22, 2014, OCI special agents arrested a resident of Colonia, New Jersey, who was supplying New Jersey counterfeit-stamped cigarettes to retailers in central New Jersey. The subject was found in possession of 766.9 cartons bearing counterfeit New Jersey and Virginia stamps and legitimate Virginia stamps. A total of 1,700 counterfeit New Jersey stamps along with related application paraphernalia were seized. Additionally, $41,350 in U.S. currency was seized. Numerous sheets from which counterfeit stamps had already been transferred to packs were recovered as evidence. The subject was processed at the Woodbridge Police Department. Indictable charges related to counterfeiting tax indicia and contraband possession have been filed in Superior Court. This arrest was a result of an OCI undercover operation.
- On May 30, 2014, OCI special agents arrested two subjects associated with a Newark, New Jersey, wholesaler and charged the owner with indictable counts related to possession of contraband tobacco, failure to keep books and records and failure to file returns. A second subject was charged with related disorderly persons offenses and released pending a court appearance.

- On May 30, 2014, two Virginia residents were stopped by the New Jersey State Police while traveling on the New Jersey Turnpike. The subjects were in possession of 418 cartons of Virginia-stamped cigarettes. Both were charged by OCI special agents with four indictable crimes, each relative to violations of the Cigarette Tax Act, which will be heard in Burlington County Superior Court. The cigarettes were valued at $36,073.40 and the tax due to New Jersey is $11,286.
- On June 5, 2014, Joseph H. Kayati Jr. of Camden, New Jersey, was charged in a 33-count indictment for allegedly stealing more than $48,000 by continuing to cash his father's annuity checks for more than two years after his death. He was charged with 26 counts of forgery, 2 counts of failure to pay taxes and 1 count each of theft by deception, identity theft, theft by failure to make required disposition of property received, failure to file income tax returns and filing a false or fraudulent NJ-1040 tax return. All of the counts were third-degree charges. The State Grand Jury indictment alleges that between Nov. 21, 2011, and Dec. 23, 2013, Kayati Jr. stole $48,382 in annuity checks from Monarch Life Insurance Company. It was alleged that he failed to report that his father had died in 2011. Over the course of more than a year, Kayati Jr. allegedly took 26 annuity checks out of his father's post office box and cashed them, forging his father's signature on each check. It was also alleged that he failed to report the annuity proceeds as taxable income to the New Jersey Department of the Treasury. Third-degree crimes carry a maximum sentence of five years in State prison and a criminal fine of up to $15,000. This case was a joint effort with the Office of the Attorney General, the Office of Insurance Fraud Prosecutor, New Jersey State Police Private Detective Unit, Waterford Police Department and the Office of Criminal Investigation.

- On June 18, 2014, OCI performed a compliance inspection at Downtown Trader LLC located on Market Street in Newark, New Jersey. Seized were 32.7 cartons of contraband cigarettes. The owner of the business was arrested and processed at the Newark Police Department. OCI filed indictable charges to be heard in Superior Court.
- On June 19, 2014, OCI performed a compliance inspection at Fresh Wok restaurant located on Stuyvesant Avenue in Newark, New Jersey. The inspection resulted in the seizure of 207.9 cartons of unstamped/out-of-State cigarettes, 16 Marlboro "loosies," 1,639 cigars and 5 pouches of cigarette tobacco. The owner was arrested and charged with indictable offenses in Superior Court.
- On June 19, 2014, during an inspection at Abdul Mini Market in Newark, New Jersey, OCI special agents found contraband tobacco products as well as various bags and boxes of suspected controlled dangerous substances (CDSs). Some of the pouches contained suspected synthetic marijuana. The Newark Police Department Narcotics Unit seized the CDSs. The respective agencies arrested and charged the subject for the CDSs and contraband tobacco.

- On July 4, 2014, OCI special agents responded to information related to importation of untaxed/counterfeit Newport cigarettes from mainland China. Agents recovered 43 cartons as well as evidence tying an Old Bridge, New Jersey, resident to an ongoing contraband operation in central New Jersey. The investigation resulted in the arrest of Othello Alferd of Old Bridge, New Jersey, on Aug. 21, 2014. During his arrest an additional 93.4 cartons of counterfeit cigarettes were seized. The subject was remanded to Middlesex County Jail in lieu of $25,000 cash.
- On July 22, 2014, OCI staff assisted in a multi-agency investigation of contraband cigarettes originating in Virginia and trafficked over several state lines. The subject was observed loading suspected contraband cigarettes into his vehicle at another suspect's home in Winchester, Virginia. As a result of a motor vehicle stop in New Jersey, the subject gave consent to search his vehicle, where 915 cartons of Virginia-stamped cigarettes valued at $79,788 were found. OCI special agents arrested the subject and charged him with violations of the Cigarette Tax Act.
- On July 24, 2014, an OCI special agent was ordered by the presiding Judge to arrest two defendants who failed to appear in the City of Passaic Municipal Court on various charges for contraband cigarette cases. Ambioris Y. Genoa was arrested at his business that afternoon and brought before the Court. A second defendant, Francis C. Robles, turned himself in to the Passaic Police Department later that evening.

- On July 24, 2014, Brian K. Lewis, appeared at the Burlington County Courthouse in Mount Holly, New Jersey, on charges of tax evasion and theft by deception. Lewis was arrested in Riverside, New Jersey, for the tax charges on a warrant issued by the Prosecutor's Office. A victim later came forward with an additional complaint alleging Lewis had agreed to do repair work on his home for more than $30,000 and did not fulfill the contract. An auditor from OCI testified in Court on July 18, 2014, that Lewis had not paid any taxes since 2002 and was on probation since January 2014 for unregulated contracting. During subsequent hearings, Superior Court Judge Susan L. Claypoole set Lewis's bail at $100,000, no 10 % cash option, for the tax charges, and Judge Jeanne T. Covert set bail at $20,000, 10 % cash option, for the theft charges. Lewis is being held at the Burlington County Jail in Mount Holly. In June 2013, he was arrested for allegedly impersonating a police officer to extort an immigrant worker out of $15,000. Court records show he pled guilty to charges of theft through illegal retention in 2011 and charges of theft by deception in August 2013. For the latter charge, he was sentenced to four years' probation.

- On July 30, 2014, OCI executed a search warrant against the owner of M & K Snacks in Clifton, New Jersey. Seized were 8 cartons of Virginia-stamped Newport cigarettes, 2 cartons of counterfeit New Jersey-stamped Marlboro cigarettes, 62,568 cigars, 1,011 pouches of cigarette tobacco, 27 cans of snuff, 164 Cialis pills, 210 Viagra pills, 198 African Superman pills, various receipts, books and records. Also seized were a 2005 Honda Accord and $44,195 in U.S. currency. The owner of the business and his son were arrested.
- On July 31, 2014, an OCI special agent responded to the Newark Police Department Vice Unit's inquiry about the discovery of possible sheets of counterfeit New Jersey stamps. Upon examination, the agent arrested the store owner for possession of counterfeit New Jersey stamps. The subject was charged with two third-degree crimes, a fourth-degree crime and disorderly persons offenses. The subject was also selling loose cigarettes and was in possession of 2.4 cartons of Virginia and New Jersey counterfeit-stamped cigarettes. □

Tax Briefs

Gross Income Tax

National Guard Pension – A taxpayer asked whether a National Guard pension should be reported on the NJ-1040 and whether it is subject to New Jersey gross income tax.

The Division responded that for tax years beginning on or after Jan. 1, 2001, New Jersey law excludes from

gross income “military pension payments or military survivor’s benefit payments paid to individuals by the United States with respect to service in the Armed Forces of the United States.” N.J.S.A. 54A:6-26.

While the New Jersey Gross Income Tax Act does not define “Armed Forces of the United States,” Internal Revenue Code §7701(a)(15) provides that the term “Armed Forces of the United States” includes all regular and reserve components of the uniformed services which are subject to the jurisdiction of the Secretary of Defense, the Secretary of the Army, the Secretary of the Navy, or the Secretary of the Air Force, and the Coast Guard. Members of these forces include commissioned officers and personnel below the grade of commissioned officers.

The exclusion for military pensions applies to pensions resulting from service in the Army, Navy, Air Force, Marine Corps or Coast Guard. This exclusion does not apply to civil service pensions or annuities, even if the pension or annuity is based on credit for military service. Most military pensions and survivor’s benefit payments are paid by the U.S. Defense Finance and Accounting Service, while a civil service annuity is paid through the U.S. Office of Personnel Management.

New Jersey considers the New Jersey National Guard to be part of the “Armed Forces of the United States” because they are subject to the regulations and jurisdiction of the Army and Navy. Consequently, military pensions paid to noncivilian members by the U.S. Defense Finance and Accounting Service are excluded from New Jersey gross income. However, payments from a National Guard civilian’s pension made through the U.S. Office of Personnel Management or from any source other than the U.S. Defense Finance and Accounting Service are to be included in New Jersey gross income and are subject to tax because that pension is not a military pension.

Sales and Use Tax

Breast Radiation Treatment Catheter Device – The taxpayer, a manufacturer of medical devices, inquired about whether sales of breast radiation treatment catheter devices to hospitals and physicians are subject to sales tax. The taxpayer stated that the device is used in the following manner:

Brachytherapy, also known as internal radiation, is a means to deliver radiation therapy. Instead of aiming radiation beams from outside the body, radioactive seeds or pellets are placed into the breast tissue next to the cancer. A device is put into the space left from breast-conserving surgery and is left in place until treatment is complete. The device goes into the breast as a small catheter (tube). The end of the device inside the breast is then expanded so that it stays securely in the right place for the entire treatment. The other end of the catheter sticks out of the breast. For each treatment, one or more sources of radiation (often pellets) are placed down through the tube and into the device for a short time and then removed. Treatments are given twice a day for five days as an outpatient. After the last treatment, the device is collapsed down again and removed.

The retail sale of tangible personal property is subject to tax unless a valid exemption applies. N.J.S.A. 54:32B-3(a). The Sales and Use Tax Act contains an exemption for the sale of a prosthetic device. N.J.S.A. 54:32B-8.1. “Prosthetic device” means a replacement, corrective, or supportive device (including repair and replacement parts for same) worn on or in the body in order to: (1) artificially replace a missing portion of the body; (2) prevent or correct a physical deformity or malfunction; or (3) support a weak or deformed portion of the body.

The Division responded that because the breast radiation treatment catheter device is worn in the body and is part of the radiation treatment used to correct a physical deformity or malfunction it is considered to be a prosthetic device and is exempt from tax.

Charges for Services Offered in Connection With the Sale of a Cellular Phone – A cellular phone retailer inquired as to whether charges for the following services performed in connection with the sale of a cellular phone are subject to sales and use tax:

1. Activation of the phone on a new plan;
2. Assistance in changing phone numbers;
3. Data transfer from one phone to another; and
4. Troubleshooting various issues associated with a phone's use.

The Division responded as follows:

1. Activation of the phone is necessary to complete the sale of the phone. Thus, the charge for activation is taxable as part of the sales price of the phone. N.J.S.A. 54:32B-2(oo).
2. The charge to assist customers in changing a phone number is not subject to tax.

3. The charge to transfer data from one phone to another is not subject to tax.
4. The charge to troubleshoot and resolve issues associated with the phone is taxable as the servicing of tangible personal property. N.J.S.A. 54:32B-3(b)(2).

Postage Sold in Connection With Printed Advertising Material – A taxpayer who sells printed advertising material inquired about the taxability under the Sales and Use Tax Act of each of the following methods for selling postage to its customers:

1. The taxpayer collects a prepayment deposit from its customer for the cost of the postage for the mailings, procures the postage and mails the material;
2. The customer, using its own postal permit, deposits an amount equal to the estimated cost of the postage in its own United States Postal Service (USPS) account; and
3. The customer, using its own postal permit, allows the USPS to direct debit the cost of the postage from the customer's account.

The Division responded that sales tax is imposed on sales of printed advertising material as well as printed advertising material processing services. There are exemptions in the Act for printed advertising material delivered to out-of-State recipients, and for the processing services performed in connection with such material. N.J.S.A. 54:32B-8.39; N.J.S.A. 54:32B-3(b)(5). Processing services are described as addressing, separating, folding, inserting, sorting and packaging advertising material and transporting to the point of shipment.

The definition of "sales price" includes delivery charges. N.J.S.A. 54:32B-2(oo)(1)(D). The definition of "delivery charges" includes postage since postage is the means by which printed advertising material is delivered (delivery is part of the processing service). N.J.S.A. 54:32B-2(rr). Thus, postage charged to a customer as part of the sales price for printed advertising material and processing services where the material is delivered to a location in New Jersey is taxable. The postage expense is part of the taxable sales price whether or not separately stated to the customer. However, postage charged to a customer as part of the sales price for printed advertising material and processing services where the material is delivered out-of-State is not taxable. N.J.S.A. 54:32B-8.39.

Delivery charges only refer to charges made by the seller of goods and services. The purchase of postage directly from the USPS is not taxable.

Starting with the premise that the charges for the printed advertising material are taxable, the Division responded to the taxpayer as follows:

1. The prepayment deposit is taxable because the taxpayer is purchasing the postage and the postage expense is part of the sales price of the printed advertising material and processing services;
2. The charge for the customer using its own postal permit is not taxable since the postage is purchased directly from the USPS; and
3. The charge for the customer using its own postal permit and allowing the USPS to direct debit the cost of the postage from the customer's account is not taxable because the customer makes payment directly to the USPS. □

In Our Courts

Sales & Use Tax

Bankruptcy – Glenn B. Slater v. Director, Division of Taxation, cert. denied, April 21, 2014; United States Supreme Court, Docket No. 13-925.

Taxation issued plaintiff/petitioner (Slater) a Notice of Finding of Responsible Person Status for sales and use taxes owed by his business. Slater did not challenge this notice. Two years later, Slater filed a petition for Chapter 11 bankruptcy. Taxation filed proof of claims for sales and use tax, which were later expunged as untimely. The Court never issued an order that the claims were discharged or dischargeable. In 2002, the Bankruptcy Court dismissed Slater's bankruptcy petition without there being a discharge as to any debt in the bankruptcy proceeding. In 2008, Slater filed a complaint in Tax Court seeking a refund of sales and use tax and argued that Taxation was barred from collecting because Taxation's claims were expunged by the Bankruptcy Court. Taxation moved to dismiss the complaint on the grounds that it was not filed within 90 days.

The Tax Court dismissed Slater's complaint for lack of subject matter jurisdiction, thereby denying Slater's refund claim. The Appellate Division affirmed, stating that Taxation's claims "were not discharged or deemed dischargeable in the bankruptcy proceeding and, because plaintiff's petition was dismissed, the order expunging the Director's claims was vacated as a matter of law. See 11 U.S.C.A. §349. Plaintiff was therefore mistaken in his belief that the Director's claims were disposed of in the bankruptcy proceeding and, because he did not file his claim for a refund on a timely basis, it was properly dismissed." Slater petitioned higher courts but both the New Jersey Supreme Court and United States Supreme Court declined to hear Slater's appeal. □

Administration
State Agencies Required to Post Certain Rule-Making Procedures and Documents Online — P.L. 2013, c.259, was signed into law on Jan. 17, 2014, and took effect immediately, but was inoperative until July 1, 2014.

This law amends several provisions of the Administrative Procedure Act, N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 et seq., to require State agencies to use various electronic technologies in rule-making procedures. Thus, each agency is required to post various documents (or URL address links thereto) to its website including, but not limited to, the text of all rule proposals, notices of rule adoptions, and the complete and current text of all agency rules.

The new law codifies the 30-day advance notice requirement for rule proposals to interested parties.

Dishonored Electronic Funds Transfers Criminalized — P.L. 2014, c.45, signed into law on Sept. 10, 2014, and effective immediately, provides that a person commits a crime if they issue or pass a check or similar payment of money knowing that it will not be honored by the drawee. The new law amends N.J.S. 2C:21-5 to specifically include payments made by electronic funds transfer (EFT). Thus, a person commits a crime if he/she authorizes an EFT knowing that it will not be honored. The degree of the crime and the associated penalties depend on the amount of the payment.

Dishonored Payments Recovery Process — P.L. 2014, c.46, signed into law Sept. 10, 2014, and effective immediately, provides a process for payees to recover payments which were dishonored for lack of funds or because the maker does not have an account with the drawee. Prior to the enactment of this law, the statute only applied to payments made by checks, drafts and orders of withdrawal. The new law amends N.J.S. 2A:32A-1 to specifically include payments made by electronic funds transfer (EFT).

This new law does not increase penalties; it merely takes existing provisions and applies them to dishonored payments made by EFT.

Checkoff for Homeless Veterans Grant Fund — P.L. 2013, c.239, signed into law on Jan. 17, 2014, effective immediately, and applicable to tax years beginning on or after Jan. 1, 2015, allows taxpayers to donate to the Homeless Veterans Grant Fund by specifying that a certain amount of their income tax overpayments should go to that fund or by enclosing a contribution with their gross income tax returns.

Checkoff for Leukemia & Lymphoma Society – New Jersey Fund — P.L. 2013, c.244, signed into law on Jan. 17, 2014, effective immediately, and applicable to tax years beginning on or after Jan. 1, 2015, allows taxpayers to donate to the Leukemia & Lymphoma Society – New Jersey Fund by specifying that a certain amount of their income tax overpayments should go to that fund or by enclosing a contribution with their gross income tax returns.

Checkoff for New Jersey Farm to School and School Garden Fund — P.L. 2014, c.38, signed into law on Aug. 25, 2014, effective immediately, and applicable to tax years beginning on or after Jan. 1, 2015, allows taxpayers to donate to the New Jersey Farm to School and School Garden Fund by specifying that a certain amount of their income tax overpayments should go to that fund or by enclosing a contribution with their gross income tax returns.

Checkoff for Local Library Support Fund — P.L. 2014, c.47, signed into law on Sept. 10, 2014, effective immediately, and applicable to tax years beginning on or after Jan. 1, 2015, allows taxpayers to donate to the Local Library Support Fund by specifying that a certain amount of their income tax overpayments should go to that fund or by enclosing a contribution with their gross income tax returns.

Local Property Tax

Certain Blue Acres Properties Exempt From Taxes — P.L. 2013, c.261, signed into law on Jan. 17, 2014, took effect immediately and is retroactive to Oct. 29, 2012, the date on which Superstorm Sandy made landfall in New Jersey.

The new law exempts certain designated blue acres properties acquired by municipalities from county, school and fire district taxes. A blue acres property is a parcel of real property acquired by a municipality using funds made available under a federal, county, municipal or State program for the acquisition of property situated in flood-prone areas of the municipality. The property becomes tax-exempt on the date it is acquired by the municipality.

Previously, any municipality that acquired a blue acres property before Oct. 1 was required to pay the taxes for the remainder of the year. If the municipality acquired the property after Oct. 1, it was required to pay the taxes not only for the remainder of that year but for all of the following year as well. This exemption will allow municipalities to take advantage of grants for acquiring properties in flood-prone areas without having to pay the associated tax liabilities.

Multiple Taxes

Certain State Tax Compliance Standards and Benefit Restrictions

— P.L. 2014, c.13, was signed into law on June 30, 2014, and took effect immediately, except that sections 1, 2 and 3 apply to privilege periods ending on or after July 1, 2014, and section 4 applies to sales made, services rendered and uses occurring on or after July 1, 2014. The new law restricts certain State tax benefits and clarifies existing law in order to protect revenue. These modifications were warranted as a result of recent Tax Court decisions.

Operational Income. Section 1 of the law revises the definition of operational income in response to the Tax Court's decision in McKesson Water Products Co. v. Director, Div. of Taxation, 200 N.J. 506 (N.J. 2009). Previously, operational income was defined as income from real or tangible property if the acquisition, management and disposition of the property constitute integral parts of the taxpayer's trade or business operations. The Court held that all three factors must be satisfied in order for income to be deemed operational. Under the new law, income will meet the definition of operational income as long as any one of the three factors (acquisition, management or disposition of the property) is an integral part of the taxpayer's regular trade or business operations.

Refunds of Partnership Payments.

Section 2 of the law clarifies the circumstances in which the tax paid by a partnership on behalf of its non-resident partners may be claimed in response to the Tax Court decision in BIS LP, Inc. v. Director, Div. of Taxation, 2014 N.J. Tax (App. Div. April 11, 2014).

In 2002, legislation was enacted to require New Jersey partnerships to make payments on behalf of their nonresident partners. In the BIS decision, the Court interpreted this language to mean that a nonresident that was determined to have no filing obligation could be entitled to a refund of tax the nonresident did not pay, but that was paid on the nonresident's behalf. This new law clarifies that these payments are only refundable to a nonresident partner who files a New Jersey tax return and reports income that is subject to tax in this State. In that case, the nonresident partner may apply the tax that was paid by the partnership and credited to the nonresident partner's partnership account against the partner's tax liability. The law also provides that a partnership that pays tax pursuant to this section is not entitled to claim a refund of payments credited to any of its nonresident partners.

Parity with IRC Section 108. Section 3 of the law provides corporation business tax parity with the federal tax treatment of net operating losses (NOLs) when an entity receives discharge of indebtedness in certain circumstances.

The Internal Revenue Code excludes certain categories of debt cancellation from income (such as discharges in bankruptcy). Instead, IRC Section 108(b) calls for a reduction of certain "tax attributes," including NOLs. The New Jersey Corporation Business Tax Act provides no such reduction. The new law requires that a net operating loss for any privilege period ending after June 30, 2014, and any net operating loss carryover to such privilege period must be reduced by the amount excluded from federal taxable income under subparagraph (A), (B), or (C) of paragraph (1) of subsection (a) of IRC Section 108, for the privilege period of the discharge of indebtedness.

Sales and Use Tax: Click-Through Nexus. Section 4 of the law creates the presumption that a remote seller making sales to New Jersey customers of tangible personal property, specified digital products or services taxable under the Sales and Use Tax Act has nexus with New Jersey and is required to collect and remit New Jersey sales tax if that seller enters into an agreement to pay a commission or other consideration to an independent contractor or other representative located in this State who refers customers to that seller, whether by a link on a website or otherwise. The independent contractor or other representative is deemed to be soliciting customers on behalf of the remote seller through such links, thereby creating nexus. If more than $10,000 in New Jersey sales is achieved through such links, nexus is established and registration and remittance is required. This presumption may be rebutted by proof that the independent contractor or representative with whom the seller has an agreement did not engage in any solicitation in the State on behalf of the person that would satisfy the nexus requirements of the United States Constitution.

Sales and Use Tax Exemption for Certain Tattooing With Reconstructive Breast Surgery — P.L. 2013, c.193, signed into law on Jan. 17, 2014, took effect immediately and applies to medically prescribed services provided on or after that date.

The law, called "Jen's Law," amends N.J.S.A. 54:32B-3 to eliminate the imposition of sales tax on certain permanent cosmetic make-up applications (i.e., tattooing) provided pursuant to a doctor's prescription in conjunction with reconstructive breast surgery. These procedures are clearly distinguishable from purely aesthetic tattooing, including permanent body art and permanent cosmetic application, which is taxable under N.J.S.A. 54:32B-3(b)(10). □

Taxation Investigators Recover $1.2 Million in Unpaid Business Taxes

New Jersey Division of Taxation investigators recovered nearly $1.2 million in back taxes from unregistered companies operating illegally in the State during Fiscal Year 2014.

During the past two months alone, investigators from the Newark, Neptune, and Northfield offices recovered more than $170,000 in back taxes. The operations, in conjunction with the New Jersey State Police, involved truck stops in which officers investigated whether out-of-State businesses were properly registered to do business in New Jersey.

The operations are part of the Division's efforts to investigate the State's underground economy and ensure that businesses are in compliance with New Jersey tax laws. The Division of Taxation is part of the State Department of the Treasury.

Taxation investigative teams focus on transient out-of-State vendors with business activities in New Jersey that create "nexus" and trigger a tax obligation. Investigators work cooperatively with local and State law enforcement officials as well as U.S. Customs. The teams monitor construction sites, warehouses, and weigh stations to uncover unregistered or noncompliant vendors.

Individuals who are part of an out-of-State corporation, partnership, limited liability company, or sole proprietorship conducting business in the Garden State could have nexus with New Jersey.

A business has nexus with New Jersey if it maintains a temporary or permanent presence (employees, service personnel, or independent sales/service agents) or property (inventory, offices, or warehouses) or has employees travel to the State to call on customers, conduct retail or wholesale sales, attend trade shows, or consign inventory to warehouses. If so, that company should register with the Division of Taxation.

Business owners can obtain information about registering a business on the Division's website or by contacting the Division's Nexus Audit Group at 609-984-5749. They can also register their business online.

To request information about voluntary compliance for an unregistered business, send an email to TaxRevOps@treas.nj.gov ☐

"Senior Freeze" Checks on the Way

The State Budget for Fiscal Year 2015 provides continued funding for the Property Tax Reimbursement (Senior Freeze) Program, meaning checks will soon be on the way to eligible homeowners.

Checks for the 2013 reimbursement are scheduled to be mailed

in mid-July to qualified senior and disabled homeowners who filed applications by June 2, 2014. The deadline for filing was extended to Sept. 15, 2014, and checks for applicants who file after the original June 2 due date will be issued as quickly as possible.

Only applicants whose 2013 income did not exceed $70,000 are eligible, provided they met all other requirements. Residents whose income was more than $70,000 but was $84,289 or less will not receive checks for 2013. The Division will notify those residents that they are not eligible. However, by filing an application by the due date, those residents can establish a “base year” for future reimbursements for which they may be eligible and ensure they will be mailed an application for 2014.

Additional information on the Senior Freeze Program is available on the Division’s website. □

Tattooing With Reconstructive Breast Surgery

The Sales and Use Tax Act imposes tax on charges for “tattooing, including all permanent body art and permanent cosmetic make-up applications.” N.J.S.A. 54:32B-3(b)(10).

P.L. 2013, c.193 amended N.J.S.A. 54:32B-3(b)(10) to exclude from tax charges for tattooing, including all permanent body art and permanent cosmetic makeup applications, provided pursuant to a doctor’s prescription in conjunction with reconstructive breast surgery.

Thus, effective on and after Jan. 17, 2014, sellers of tattooing, permanent body art, or permanent cosmetic makeup application services should not charge sales tax when such services are provided in conjunction with reconstructive breast surgery if the customer provides a doctor’s prescription to the seller.

If a seller incorrectly charged sales tax for a qualifying service performed on or after Jan. 17, 2014, the customer may apply for a refund of the tax from either the seller who performed the service or from the Division of Taxation. To request a refund from the Division, a Claim for Refund (Form A-3730) must be filed. A claim for refund must be filed within four years from the date the sales tax was paid. □

TRANSFER INHERITANCE TAX

IRS Enrolled Agents to Prepare Returns

The New Jersey Judiciary’s Committee on the Unauthorized Practice of Law issued Opinion 51, on March 21, 2014, wherein the committee found that it is in the public’s interest to permit enrolled agents licensed by the Internal Revenue Service (IRS) to prepare and file New Jersey transfer inheritance tax returns on behalf of clients.

In 1972 the Committee determined that because of the legal principles involved, the preparation and filing of New Jersey transfer inheritance tax returns is the practice of law and can only be performed by lawyers. In 1986, the New Jersey Supreme Court agreed but held that a licensed certified public accountant (CPA) may do so if the client has been notified that review of the return by a lawyer would be advisable.

In reaching its recent opinion, the Committee reviewed the requirements necessary for an enrolled agent to obtain and maintain a license from the IRS. Enrolled agents are licensed by the Internal Revenue Service through background evaluation and examination. Licensed agents are required to complete continuing education courses and comply with the duties listed in IRS Circular 230 (Regulations Governing Practice before the Internal Revenue Service). The Committee found that, like CPAs, enrolled agents are capable of filing New Jersey transfer inheritance tax returns, and, as long as enrolled agents follow the same client notification requirements that New Jersey CPAs are required to follow under N.J.A.C. 18:26-12.2, the public interest is protected.

Under the provisions of N.J.A.C. 18:26-12.2(a)1.iv, before beginning work on a New Jersey transfer inheritance tax return, CPAs (and now enrolled agents) must notify the client in writing that “review of the return by a qualified attorney may be desirable because of the possible application of legal principles to the preparation of the tax return.” A copy of the properly executed notification must be filed with the transfer inheritance tax return. The Division of Taxation is in the process of revising the regulation to indicate that it applies to enrolled agents.

INSURANCE PREMIUMS TAX
Retaliatory Tax Credit

A retaliatory tax is an additional tax imposed by a state on out-of-state insurance companies operating in its jurisdiction. A state charges the retaliatory tax in exactly the same way that the out-of-state insurance company’s home state taxes domestic insurance companies operating within its borders.

New Jersey allows a retaliatory tax credit, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 54:18A-2(c) and 54:18A-3(c), which permits a domestic insurance company to reduce its insurance premiums tax liability by a portion of the retaliatory tax incurred in other states.

Beginning with tax year 2013, a domestic insurance company can reduce its insurance premiums tax liability by 5% of any retaliatory tax incurred for the same filing period. The percentage reduction will increase 1% annually for 10 years until it reaches 15% for tax year 2023 and after.

Domestic insurance companies report the tax liability reduction on Line 19, Other Credits, of Schedule A, Form DEXM. □

Small Business Workshops

The Division of Taxation provides free workshops designed to assist small business owners in meeting their New Jersey tax obligations. The workshops are half-day seminars presented at locations throughout the State. The Internal Revenue Service does not participate in these seminars.

The workshops include the following topics:

- Identifying types of business ownership and the tax consequences of each type.
- Registering a business with the Division of Taxation, Division of Revenue and Enterprise Services, and Department of Labor and Workforce Development.
- Determining what is taxable and what is exempt for New Jersey sales tax purposes.
- Procedures for collecting and remitting various New Jersey taxes.
- Filing sales and use tax returns.
- Meeting employer responsibilities.
- Reporting business income.

The next workshop is scheduled for Thursday, Oct. 9, 2014, at Raritan Valley Community College in Branchburg, New Jersey. If you want registration information or details

Monmouth County Demonstration Program

P.L. 2013, c.15, established a Real Property Assessment Demonstration Program to make the assessment of real property more precise by using technology driven procedures and to benefit municipalities by performing annual assessment programs, thereby protecting funding of municipal budgets from the impact of losses due to appeal refunds. Monmouth County was the first county to adopt this program, which began Oct. 1, 2013.

The summer dates on the Monmouth County Assessors' calendar coincide with the dates of the regular Assessors' Calendar with the exception of the July provision for the extension of the time to hear and determine an appeal(s). Criminal Enforcement

Criminal enforcement over the past several months included:

- On Jan. 29, 2014, at the close of a six-month joint investigation with the Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco, Firearms and Explosives, Jose Fortuna was sentenced to 30 months in federal prison and 36 months' probation for federal violations of the Prevent All Cigarette Trafficking Act. Fortuna was scheduled to be taken into custody and transported to the Federal Detention Center in Philadelphia. As a condition of his sentencing, Fortuna was also ordered to pay $2,169,358 in restitution to the State for unpaid cigarette taxes.
- On Feb. 26, 2014, Office of Criminal Investigation (OCI) special agents Russell Glenn and Nicole Schwartz participated with other Division employees in a Rutgers University criminal justice career/recruiting event. The agents gave an overview of OCI's role within the Division.

- On March 29, 2014, OCI met with representatives of the Pennsylvania Department of Revenue, Bureau of Motor Fuel Taxes, Enforcement Division, including their Director and management team. They gave OCI an overview of their program along with training videos, and also displayed equipped vehicles used in their enforcement program.
- On April 11, 2014, Mark Imbimbo was sentenced in Monmouth County Superior Court by Judge Vernioia according to a plea agreement made on Feb. 24, 2014, in which Imbimbo pled guilty to money laundering. He was sentenced to five years in State prison and ordered to pay restitution to the State for taxes due in the amount of $52,835.66. On Aug. 21, 2013, the Monmouth County Prosecutor's Office requested to engage in a joint investigation with OCI. Imbimbo was allegedly involved in an online phishing scheme in which he would steal personal information from victims. Subsequently, Imbimbo opened joint bank accounts in both his name and his victims' names. He then transferred money from his victims' bank accounts into the joint accounts and from there into accounts held solely by him. The theft resulted in taxable income that Mark Imbimbo failed to report on his New Jersey resident tax returns.

Corporation Business Tax

Grow NJ — A taxpayer inquired whether both individuals and corporate members may use Grow New Jersey tax credits available to an LLC if the LLC elects to be taxed as a flow-through organization. The taxpayer then asked what the recourse would be if an individual member cannot take advantage of the credit. Is the only recourse to sell the credit, and if so, is it the LLC that would sell it?

The New Jersey Economic Opportunity Act of 2013 merged five incentive programs into two: the Grow New Jersey Assistance Program (GROW NJ) and the Economic Redevelopment and Growth Grant Program (ERGG). GROW NJ is the State’s job creation and retention incentive program, which offers transferable tax credits. ERGG is the State’s incentive program for developers to close project financing gaps and build public infrastructure critical to redevelopment projects. Both of these incentive programs are administered by the New Jersey Economic Development Authority (EDA).

Under the terms of the program, GROW NJ grants credits for the corporation business tax and the insurance premiums tax, which are business taxes. Therefore, the LLC may use the credit against the corporation business tax but not the gross income tax. As a result, an individual is not able to use the credit. The LLC may choose to sell the credit.

Rental Properties — Taxpayer is an S corporation that owns three rental properties, which are its only activity. Each property is in a different state, one of which is New Jersey. The taxpayer asked whether it must treat the net income from each property as nonoperational income and allocate 100% to the state where the property is located, or combine the incomes and treat them as operational income to be apportioned using the prescribed apportionment formula.

Pursuant to N.J.S.A. 54:10A-6.1, income is treated as operational if the income arises from the taxpayer’s regular trade or business operations. Income is only treated as nonoperational if the taxpayer demonstrates with clear and convincing evidence that the income is not operational.

Because the management of the rental properties constitutes an integral part of the trade or business of the corporation, and the corporation has not demonstrated that the income is not operational, the income from the management of the properties is operational income and must be apportioned using the prescribed apportionment formula.

Sales and Use Tax

City of Camden Motor Vehicle Parking Surcharge Ordinance

New Jersey imposes a 7% sales tax on the receipts from parking, storing, or garaging a motor vehicle, excluding charges for residential parking; employee parking when provided by an employer or at a facility owned or operated by the employer; municipal parking, storing, or garaging; the parking fee at Atlantic City casino hotels; and such receipts subject to tax pursuant to any other law or ordinance. N.J.S.A. 54:32B-3(i).

The City of Camden recently enacted a Motor Vehicle Parking Surcharge Ordinance that imposes “a surcharge of seven percent (7%) on fees paid for the commercial parking, garaging or storing of motor vehicles in the City of Camden, other than fees paid by a tenant for parking in a lot or garage which is part of premises occupied solely as a residence.” The ordinance took effect on April 1, 2014.

Since receipts from the sales of commercial parking, storing, or garaging of a motor vehicle in Camden are now subject to the municipal surcharge, they are exempt from New Jersey sales tax.

Floating Boat Dock Installation —

A taxpayer asked whether charges for the installation of a floating dock to already existing pilings are subject to sales and use tax. The taxpayer states that the prior floating boat docks, which were held in place by pilings, were destroyed during Hurricane Sandy. The taxpayer contracted with a dock manufacturing company to produce and install the new floating dock to already existing pilings. The manufacturer required the taxpayer to pay sales tax on the charges for the purchase and installation of the docks.

The Division responded that the Sales and Use Tax Act imposes tax on the retail sale of tangible personal property, enumerated services, and specified digital products unless a valid exemption exists. N.J.S.A. 54:32B-3. The installation of tangible personal property is also taxable.

Public Auction Information

Announcements of upcoming public auctions of seized property are published on the Division of Taxation’s website under “Auctions.” Select the name of the business for details about that auction.

N.J.S.A. 54:32B-3(b)(2). Charges for installation services that result in capital improvements, with certain exceptions, are exempt from sales tax. N.J.S.A. 54:32B-3(b)(2), (4); N.J.A.C. 18:24-5.6(b)(3).

To determine whether services result in a capital improvement the Division will look at whether the improvement results in an increase in the value of the real property and whether the improvement results in a significant increase in the useful life of the real property. N.J.A.C. 18:24-5.6(c). “Real property, property, or land” means land and any structure or appurtenance affixed permanently thereto. N.J.A.C. 18:24-5.2. New Jersey considers the installation of tangible personal property to be a capital improvement when the item installed is permanently affixed to the real property and it increases the value and/or useful life of the real property.

A floating dock is not permanently affixed to the land because it is buoyant, rising and lowering with the change in water level. In order for the floating dock to float, it must be free to rise and fall as the water level does. However, to prevent the floating dock from drifting away, it also must be anchored or attached to land in some way. That attachment, due to the nature of the movement of the floating dock, is not permanent. According to the taxpayer, the floating dock attaches to pilings to prevent it from drifting away. The attachment to the pilings, usually a piling hoop, allows the dock to float while maintaining its location relative to the land. The dock can be removed from the pilings (either to move the dock, or replace the piling), simply by removing the hoops. Therefore, the addition of a floating dock to already existing pilings does not constitute an exempt capital improvement to real property, and the installation is subject to sales and use tax. N.J.S.A. 54:32B-3(b)(2). □

In Our Courts

Corporation Business Tax Corporate Partner Entitled To Refund — BIS LP, Inc. v. Director, Division of Taxation; decided April 11, 2014; Appellate Division, Docket No. A-1647-12T3.

BIS, a limited partnership, filed a New Jersey corporation business tax (CBT) return and reported tax due. The monies were remitted by an affiliated entity on BIS’s behalf. Thereafter, BIS sought a refund on the grounds that it lacked sufficient nexus with New Jersey to be subject to CBT.

The Appellate Division upheld the Tax Court decision, agreeing that BIS did not have sufficient nexus with New Jersey to be subject to CBT, but remanded to the Tax Court the issue of whether the refund should be paid to BIS or to the affiliate that remitted the tax on BIS’s behalf. On remand, the Tax Court decided that BIS was entitled to the refund of taxes paid on its behalf pursuant to N.J.S.A. 54:10A-15.7, -15.11, and N.J.A.C. 18:7-17.6. The Appellate Division affirmed. □

Voluntary Disclosure Initiatives

The Division of Taxation is conducting two voluntary disclosure initiatives that will run from March 15 through May 15, 2014. The following taxpayers will be able to participate:

- Companies that have nexus with New Jersey because they derived income from the use of intangible assets in this State, and
- Partnerships with income from New Jersey sources and individual partners with New Jersey tax obligations.

Intangible Asset Nexus Initiative

Companies that own intangible assets and derived income from the use of those assets in New Jersey can voluntarily come forward and comply with their corporation business tax filing requirements. In addition to the standard procedures and requirements for voluntary disclosure agreements (VDAs) for business taxes, the following principles apply:

- The lookback period is limited to periods beginning after July 1, 2010, or the date business commenced, whichever is later. Returns for prior periods are not required.

- The taxpayer must file all required returns and remit payment of the full tax liability reported within 45 days of the execution of its VDA.
- The Division will waive all penalties.
- The taxpayer must remit payment of interest within 30 days of assessment.
- Operating companies or those companies that have paid royalties and added those royalties back to their New Jersey entire net income may submit amended returns for any period for which the statute of limitations remains open in order to claim an exception to the addback.
- All returns are subject to audit with respect to issues not specifically covered in the VDA.

Taxpayers can submit requests for disclosure to:

NICHOLAS J. SOLIMANDO, AUDITOR
OFFICE AUDIT BRANCH
PO Box 269
TRENTON, NEW JERSEY 08695-0269

For questions, contact Mr. Solimando at 609-633-7837 or Nicholas.Solimando@treas.state.nj.us. Taxpayers can also address questions to Lee Evans, Chief, Office Audit Branch, at 609-292-5927 or Lee.Evans@treas.state.nj.us.

Partnership Tax and Partner Fees Initiative

Partnerships that had income from New Jersey sources and have not filed the relevant forms (PART-100, PART-200-T, NJ-1065) and/or remitted the tax and fees due can voluntarily come forward and comply with their corporation business tax and gross income tax requirements. Individual partners that have not satisfied their New Jersey filing and tax remittance requirements can also come forward and become compliant.

In addition to the standard procedures and requirements for voluntary disclosure agreements (VDAs) for partnerships and individuals, the following terms apply:

- The lookback period is limited to periods beginning on or after January 1, 2010.
- The taxpayer must file all required returns and remit payment of all taxes and fees due within 45 days of the execution of its VDA.
- The Division will waive all penalties.
- The taxpayer must remit payment of interest within 30 days of assessment.
- All returns remain subject to audit with respect to issues not specifically covered under the terms of the VDA.

Taxpayers can submit requests to participate in this disclosure initiative to:

Prescription Drugs for Animals

Veterinarians commonly prescribe drugs which are formulated for human use but are also used to treat animals. The New Jersey Sales and Use Tax Act provides an exemption from tax on the sale of prescription drugs sold pursuant to a doctor's prescription for human use (N.J.S.A. 54:32B-8.1(a)(1)). However, the sale of drugs sold pursuant to a veterinarian's prescription to treat animals is subject to sales tax even though the same drug is exempt when sold for human use.

“Drug” means a compound, substance or preparation, and any component of a compound, substance or preparation, other than food and food ingredients, dietary supplements or alcoholic beverages:

- (1) Recognized in the official United States Pharmacopoeia, official Homeopathic Pharmacopoeia of the United States, or official National Formulary, and supplement to any of them; or
- (2) Intended for use in the diagnosis, cure, mitigation, treatment, or prevention of disease; or
- (3) Intended to affect the structure or any function of the body.

N.J.S.A. 54:32B-8.1(b).

Pharmacies are required to collect and remit sales tax when selling prescription drugs prescribed by a veterinarian for use in the treatment of animals.

Veterinarians are required to collect and remit sales tax on retail sales of drugs if the bill to the customer separately states the charge for the drugs to the customer as opposed to merely listing the items used in the performance of medical services.

Consumers who do not pay sales tax when purchasing prescription drugs prescribed by a veterinarian for use in the treatment of animals must pay use tax.

Monmouth County Demonstration Program

P.L. 2013, c.15, established a Real Property Assessment Demonstration Program to make the assessment of real property more precise by using technology driven procedures and to benefit municipalities by performing annual assessment programs, thereby protecting funding of municipal budgets from the impact of losses due to appeal refunds. Monmouth County was the first county to adopt this program, which began October 1, 2013. The following dates on the assessors' calendar have been revised for municipalities in Monmouth County:

April 1–

- Tax appeals are heard for February, March, and April.

May 5–

- Assessor to file assessment lists and duplicates with County Tax Board.

May 10 (after)–

- County Tax Board may permit tax collector to have custody of tax duplicate.

May 15 (before)–

- County Tax Board to complete equalization table hearings.

May 15–

- Total tax amount to be raised for county purposes sent by County Board of Freeholders to County Tax Board, apportioned among the taxing districts.
- County Tax Board to notify Director, Division of Local Government Services, when copy of budget resolution (in CY municipality) showing amount to be raised is not received.
- County Tax Administrator to submit copy of equalization table to County Tax Board; each assessor; Division of Taxation; Director, Local Government Services (two copies); and post a copy at the courthouse.

May 25–

- Following confirmation of equalization table, County Tax Board to submit copy to each taxing district in the county; Director, Division of Taxation; Tax Court; and Director, Local Government Services (two copies).

May 31–

- General tax rates certified by County Tax Boards.
- County Tax Board to file final SR-3A forms with Property Administration.
- Tax rate set by County Tax Board.

June 15–

- County Tax Board Presidents to file annual appeal statistics report (Form TAS) with Director, Division of Taxation. □

Criminal Enforcement

Criminal enforcement over the past several months included:

- On November 13, 2013, Philip R. Kossoy of Freehold Township, New Jersey, pled guilty before State Superior Court Judge Anthony J. Mellaci Jr. to third-degree charges of theft by failure to make required disposition of property received and failure to pay taxes for his cleaning business, Absolutely Spotless Home Cleaning Professionals, Inc. Kossoy sought to conceal and disguise revenue from his business by taking cash payments from customers and depositing them into multiple personal bank accounts, rather than his business account. He also sought to disguise the source of these funds by having customers make checks payable to him personally and not to the business. In addition, the State's investigation revealed 192 instances of Kossoy altering customer checks by blacking out the memo section of the checks, which referenced the true business purpose of the check. To further conceal income, Kossoy deposited more than $1 million in cash and checks into personal accounts created using another person's social security number. The case was investigated for the Office of Criminal Investigation (OCI) and the Department of Law and Public Safety's Division of Criminal Justice's Financial and Computer Crimes Bureau. The Division of Criminal Justice's Deputy Attorney General handled the State's criminal forfeiture action and the Division of Consumer Affairs provided valuable assistance. On January 9, 2014, Kossoy was sentenced to 364 days in county jail and two years' probation by Superior Court Judge Anthony J. Mellaci Jr. in Monmouth County Superior Court. Under a plea agreement, Kossoy paid the State $1.1 million in restitution of $900,000 in unpaid taxes, penalties, and interest plus a $200,000 anti-money laundering penalty. He forfeited $424,000 from bank accounts seized by the State and paid the remaining $676,000 at the plea hearing.

- On November 14, 2013, Mahmoud Salim Alsoub of Eatontown, New Jersey, was arrested and charged with two counts each of distribution of a controlled dangerous substance (CDS) and of possession of a CDS with intent to distribute within 500 feet of a park. A three-month joint investigation by the Monmouth County Prosecutor's Office, Monmouth County Sheriff's Office, OCI, and the Eatontown Police Department uncovered large quantities of synthetic marijuana being sold at Alsoub's Main Street convenience store. Alsoub kept the synthetic marijuana, known as K-2, out of the view of store patrons, but when asked for the substance by a "code word," he would retrieve the synthetic marijuana and sell it to the patron. Special agents and detectives seized a large amount of cash from the store, along with merchandise Alsoub illegally purchased out of State for resale in the store. Additionally, OCI charged him with 12 counts of failure to file a tax return, one count of failure to maintain books or records, and one count of failure to collect sales tax. Alsoub was processed at the Eatontown Police Department and transported to the Monmouth County Correctional Institution. He posted $50,000 bail with no 10% option as set by Monmouth County Superior Court Judge Richard W. English.

- On November 20, 2013, William K. Herring of Vineland, New Jersey, was indicted on charges of second-degree theft, fourth-degree falsifying or tampering with records, third-degree failure to pay or turn over taxes, and third-degree filing or preparing a false or fraudulent tax return. The indictment comes from a report submitted by OCI to the Cumberland County Prosecutor's Office alleging unreported income by Herring. It is alleged that he used his position at J & C Auto Sales, Inc. to steal in excess of $375,000 in cash and cars from their inventory. The investigation was conducted jointly by OCI, Vineland Police Department, and the New Jersey Motor Vehicle Commission.

- On November 21, 2013, Keansburg residents Conrad Levulis and Carrie Ann Chapman were arrested by OCI special agents and charged with multiple counts of cigarette smuggling. Members of the Keansburg Police Department assisted the agents in executing a search warrant at their residence. Levulis was the subject of an investigation by OCI for allegedly trafficking in contraband cigarettes as well as sales of Virginia-stamped cigarettes from his home. He allegedly sold contraband cigarettes to a State undercover agent on two different occasions. Levulis and Chapman were arrested as they returned from Virginia where they had allegedly purchased cartons of cigarettes and transported them back to New Jersey for resale. Investigators alleged that the defendants carried out this smuggling pattern for several months. The Monmouth County Prosecutor's Office assisted OCI in the investigation, and the Monmouth County Sheriff's Office K-9 unit also assisted with the search warrant. A total of 70 cartons of Virginia-stamped cigarettes were seized along with cell phones, a laptop computer, and various records which allegedly recorded the illegal business activity. The defendants were processed at the Keansburg Police Headquarters, and both were charged with ten violations of the New Jersey Cigarette Tax Act, including third- and fourth-degree crimes. Additionally, under legislation that took effect on August 19, 2013, a civil penalty of $1,000 per carton may be imposed by the courts. Levulis was remanded to the Monmouth County Correction Institution with bail set at $42,500, no 10% cash option. Chapman posted $5,000 bail.

- On December 12, 2013, the Union City Police Department and OCI arrested Ahmad Chacha. Drugs such as Cialis and Viagra were seized from Chacha and an individual with him, Mervat Maher. Both were charged with distribution of a prescription legend drug, distribution of a controlled dangerous substance (CDS) 500 feet from public property, CDS near or on school property, and possession of a prescribed CDS in a container not dispensed in. Maher was also charged for possession of a CDS in a motor vehicle. Judge Macias set bail at $10,000 cash with no 10%. Additionally, OCI had observed Chacha selling untaxed cigars to a business in Newark, and charged him with indictable offenses in Essex County Superior Court.

- On December 13, 2013, Acting Attorney General John Hoffman announced that Brian P. Mohen, formerly of Far Hills Borough, who ran a now-defunct insurance brokerage company, Arden Financial Services Inc., had been sentenced to State prison for his role in a scheme to misappropriate more than $660,000 by failing to remit insurance premiums to insurance companies. He was sentenced to five years in State prison by Superior Court Judge Julie M. Marino in Somerset County. The sentence was based on Mohen's guilty plea, filed on October 28, 2013, to second-degree misapplication of entrusted property and two counts of third-degree failure to file an income tax return. Mohen's wife, Lisa A. Stanko-Mohen, who also ran the company, previously pled guilty to one count of third-degree misapplication of entrusted property and two counts of third-degree failure to file an income tax return. She was sentenced to five years' probation. In addition, the defendants will execute consent judgments that will require them to pay a total of $660,446 in restitution and $116,451 in unpaid taxes, including interest and penalties.

- On December 13, 2013, Tariq Mehmood, of Atlantic City, was sentenced in Atlantic County Superior Court to 364 days in Atlantic County Correctional Facility and three years' probation. On November 4, 2013, Mehmood pled guilty to seven of the 16 charges related to counterfeit cigarettes and distribution of a counterfeit legend drug he was indicted under in Superior Court. The Honorable Judge Mark Sandson ordered Mehmood to pay restitution to the State of New Jersey as well as the Rite Aid and CVS pharmacies. He was also ordered to pay $9,607.31 in taxes he owed to New Jersey. This investigation was led by an OCI special agent and a detective of the Atlantic City Police Department Special Investigations Section. The

- On January 10, 2014, Anthony Foti, Jr., owner of Wheels Are Us Auto Sales, was sentenced to two years' probation and ordered to pay restitution of $500 monthly to the Division of Taxation under a consent judgment for $60,610.12 that includes $37,211.03 for sales tax, $1,760.55 for interest, and $21,638.54 for penalty. Foti operated the business from February 1, 2006 to March 28, 2008, selling used vehicles. Foti collected sales tax but never filed sales and use tax returns or remitted sales tax to New Jersey.
- On January 16, 2014, OCI performed a sweep in Roselle Park with the assistance of the Roselle Park Police Department. OCI inspected 14 stores and seized a combined total of 2,051 cigars and 52 containers of hookah tobacco. OCI will file disorderly person's offenses for the seized tobacco. Additionally, Roselle Park Police seized 228 prescription legend drugs and 2,500 items of related paraphernalia.
- On January 30, 2014, OCI special agents arrested Ankurkuma G. Rana, and Bharatkum L. Shah, for possession of 34.8 cartons of counterfeit-stamped cigarettes at their store in Passaic. Also seized was a 2002 Honda Accord and $118,536 in U.S. currency. Rana was charged with third-degree possession of 2,000 or more cigarettes with counterfeit New Jersey stamps, fourth-degree dealing with a person not properly licensed or registered, third-degree failure to maintain books or records as required, fourth-degree transportation of contraband cigarettes, and a disorderly persons offense for possession of untaxed goods. Shah was charged with third-degree possession of 2,000 or more cigarettes with counterfeit New Jersey stamps, fourth-degree dealing with a person not properly licensed or registered, and third-degree failure to maintain books or records. Both were processed at the Passaic Police Department and their bail was set at $15,000 with 10% by Judge Karen Brown. Rana and Shah were released after meeting their bail requirement. Additional charges are pending further investigation.

- On January 31, 2014, Daryl Turner was sentenced to seven years in State prison and his wife, Robyn Bernstein, was sentenced to five years' probation for their roles in a scam operated by their vacation travel club companies. Turner and Bernstein are required to pay approximately $2.6 million in restitution to their victims. They were previously indicted by a State Grand Jury on April 23, 2013. Turner's indictment was for the failure to file New Jersey gross income tax returns for tax years 2008–2011. Bernstein's indictment was for the failure to file a 2011 New Jersey gross income tax return. As part of Turner's plea agreement, he was required to file his returns by the sentencing date of January 31, 2014. He had a total tax liability of $43,844 plus penalties and interest. Per the plea agreement, the failure to file an income tax return charge against Bernstein was dismissed at sentencing. □

Overtime Pay — A taxpayer asked how the Division of Taxation treats overtime payments for gross income tax purposes. The Division responded that overtime payments are treated in a manner similar to other supplemental wages (bonuses, commissions, tips, awards, etc.).

When an employer pays supplemental wages at the same time as regular wages, the income tax withheld should be determined as if the total of the supplemental and regular wages were a single wage payment for the regular payroll period. If supplemental wages are paid at a different time, the employer may determine the tax to be withheld by adding the supplemental wages either to the regular wages for the current payroll period or to the regular wages for the last preceding payroll period within the same calendar year. However, if income tax has been withheld from the employee's regular wages, the employer may withhold from the supplemental wages without any allowance for exemptions. If vacation pay is paid in addition to regular wages for the vacation period, such vacation pay is to be treated as a supplemental wage payment.

Litter Control Fee

Gross Receipts From Sales of Cigarettes — A business that distributes cigarettes asked the Division whether, for purposes of calculating the litter control fee, its gross receipts from sales of cigarettes should include the amount that the business pays for its cigarette stamps. When the distributor sells the cigarettes, the amount charged to the buyer includes the seller's cost of the cigarette stamps paid for the cigarette tax.

The Litter Control Act imposes a fee on gross receipts from the sales of litter-generating products, which include cigarettes and tobacco products. N.J.S.A. 13:1E-216. The litter control fee regulation at N.J.A.C. 18:38-1.3 defines gross receipts as "all receipts, of whatever kind and in whatever form, derived from sales of litter-generating products, without any deduction therefrom on account of any item of cost, expense or loss." Based on this definition, the distributor may not deduct from gross receipts the amount paid for the cigarette tax stamps.

Because the distributor indicated that 50% of its sales were wholesale sales (sales made for the purpose of resale), the Division treats the distributor as a wholesaler for the purposes of the litter control fee. N.J.S.A. 13:1E-216(a) provides that a sale by a wholesaler or distributor to another wholesaler or distributor is not subject to the litter control fee. Therefore, when calculating the litter control fee, the distributor should deduct any receipts from sales to other "wholesalers."

Sales and Use Tax

Charges for Admission to a Museum Owned by an Exempt Organization — A nonprofit museum which has a valid Form ST-5 (exempt organization certificate) inquired whether charges for admission to its museum are exempt from sales tax.

N.J.S.A. 54:32B-9(f)(1) generally exempts admission charges if all the admission proceeds exclusively benefit an exempt organization that has a valid Form ST-5. The exemption does not apply to admission charges for carnivals, rodeos, or circuses in which any professional performer or operator participates for compensation, and certain athletic competitions. Accordingly, when a qualified exempt organization charges for admission to its museum and retains the receipts for its own use, the admission charges are exempt from sales tax. □

Time to File for Refund — Edward Alon v. Director, Division of Taxation, decided August 6, 2013; Tax Court, Docket No. 007087-2011.

Plaintiff (Alon) filed his 2002 NJ-1040 on August 6, 2004, claiming a credit of $7,644 to be applied to future tax liabilities. Alon filed his 2003 tax return (due in 2004) in May 2009, his 2004 and 2005 tax returns (due in 2005 and 2006, respectively) in March 2010, his 2006 and 2007 tax returns (due in 2007 and 2008, respectively) in April 2010, and his 2008 tax return (due in 2009) in May 2010. He requested refunds totaling $13,595, resulting from estimated tax payments made during those years and the credit claimed on his 2002 return. Although the plaintiff claimed that the returns were all filed late due to personal hardships, he never requested an extension of time to file.

The Tax Court held that, under the provisions of N.J.S.A. 54A:9-8(a), Alon had three years from the filing of a timely tax return to file for a refund. Plaintiff failed to timely file his returns and, consequently, failed to make timely refund requests. Alon's failure to file for a refund before the deadline prevented him from recovering a refund. The Court held further that, even if a refund claim is filed within the three-year period, the amount of refund or credit cannot exceed the portion of tax paid within the three years immediately preceding the filing of the claim, plus any extension of time for filing the return. Because the plaintiff did not make any payments in the three years immediately preceding the filing of the respective year's return, he is not entitled to any refund.

Credit for Taxes Paid to Other Jurisdictions – David E. and Janice Berliner v. Director, Division of Taxation, decided November 14, 2013; Tax Court, Docket No. 000057-2008.

For tax years 2004 and 2005, David Berliner was a New Jersey resident and a partner in a New York City partnership. Along with filing a New Jersey resident income tax return in both years, the plaintiff filed multiple out-of-State returns to report partnership income. In 2004 he received an NJK-1 that reported a total distribution of $330,798, $6,994 of which was attributable to New Jersey. Plaintiff correctly reported the full $330,798 as the distributive share of partnership income on his 2004 NJ-1040. In tax year 2005 he reported $507,769 on his NJ-1040, $10,897 of which was sourced to New Jersey.

Pursuant to N.J.S.A. 54A:4-1, a resident taxpayer is entitled to a credit against their New Jersey tax for the amount of any income tax or wage tax imposed by another jurisdiction with respect to income which is also subject to tax under the Act, except as provided by subsections (c) and (d) of this section. The credit is not a dollar for dollar credit and must be determined in accordance with the Director's regulations.

For both 2004 and 2005, the plaintiff calculated a credit for taxes paid to other jurisdictions. He included the full partnership distribution amount in the numerator of the credit calculation. By including the New Jersey portion of the partnership income in the numerator, the calculated credit exceeded the limitations imposed by the statute. The Division reduced the numerator by the amount of income attributable to New Jersey sources. Plaintiff maintains that because the partnership was located in New York and the entire distribution was taxed there, he is entitled to a credit for the entire amount of the distribution.

In granting the Division's motion for summary judgment, the Court cited Jenkins v. Director, Division of Taxation, 4 N.J. Tax 127, 133 (Tax 1982), which explained that "the objective of N.J.S.A. 54A:4-1 is to avoid double taxation of the same income by providing a credit against New Jersey gross income tax for tax paid to another jurisdiction on the same income." It goes on to state that "the intent of the act is to avoid double taxation of foreign income by relinquishing all or part of the New Jersey tax on the foreign income, but not to relinquish New Jersey tax on income earned in New Jersey."

Sales Tax

decided February 20, 2013; Tax Court, Docket Nos. 001153-2004, 001157-2004, 001160-2004, 001163-2004, 001165-2004, 001168-2004, 001170-2004, 001171-2004, 001173-2004, 001175-2004, 001177-2004, 001178-2004, 001179-2004, 001180-2004.

Plaintiff provides cable television services in New Jersey. At issue is whether purchases of converters and remotes are exempt from use tax under N.J.S.A. 54:32B-8.13(e) of the Sales and Use Tax Act as sales of machinery, apparatus, or equipment to a provider of cable program services for use in the transmission of television information. If either or both are found to be taxable, is the plaintiff subject to late payment and amnesty penalties? Plaintiff requests that the Division pay litigation costs and fees pursuant to N.J.S.A. 54:51A-22.

Converters are used to transmit and convert signals that are sent through coax cable from the cable company to customers' televisions. Via lease agreements, the plaintiff supplies converters to its customers to be connected at the customers' locations in order to convert the signal for viewing. The customers use the remotes to interact with the converters.

In RCN Telecom Services, Inc. v. Dir., Div. of Taxation, 23 N.J. Tax 520 (Tax 2007), also known as RCN II, the Court ruled that converters were used directly and primarily in the transmission of cable television signals and were therefore exempt. Here, the Division argued that there is additional evidence, not available at the time of the RCN II case, that the primary function of the converters was security and not transmission, making the purchases taxable. Even though the plaintiff's own documents identified converters as signal security devices, the Court determined that the converter's primary purpose was transmission and ruled that the purchase of converters was exempt.

Remotes send infrared signals to the converter to tune, convert, and transmit the signal for a specific channel. They also were used to access parental controls and the television guide, as well as order video on demand. The Court held that the remotes were not exempt under N.J.S.A. 54:32B-8.13(e) because they communicated by infrared signal and were therefore not part of the transmission process.

Plaintiff claimed that it should not be subject to late payment penalties because it had reasonable cause to believe that the remotes were exempt under the plain meaning of N.J.S.A. 54:32B-8.13(e) as well as previous court cases (RCN I and RCN II). The Court opined that the plaintiff should have known from its own documents and witnesses that there was no transmission involved in the remotes and that they were not even referenced as part of its cable system. Therefore, the Court upheld the late payment penalty stating that "Comcast's misunderstanding or misjudgment is not good cause for its failure to pay taxes" on the remotes.

As to the issue of whether amnesty penalties were properly assessed, it was agreed by both parties that the Court reserves its decision until the Appellate Division issues a decision on amnesty penalties in the case of United Parcel Service.

N.J.S.A. 54:51A-22 allows for a prevailing taxpayer to be awarded reasonable litigation costs not to exceed $15,000. The statute defines "prevailing taxpayer" to be one who establishes that the position of the State was without reasonable basis in fact or law. In denying the plaintiff's request, the Court held that the Division was not unreasonable because it was sufficient that the Court determined that remote controls are taxable and not exempt. Furthermore, the Division provided additional evidence as to the transmission function of converters that was not in the RCN cases.

Marine Terminal Facility – Ironbound Intermodal Industries, Inc. v. Director, Division of Taxation, decided July 19, 2013; Tax Court, Docket No. 012089-2008.

Plaintiff is a New Jersey corporation located in Newark that provides storage, maintenance, and repair services to the shipping industry at Port Newark with respect to intermodal containers and chassis. When provided at a marine terminal facility, charges for such services are exempt from sales and use tax. The Division of Taxation determined that the plaintiff does not meet the definition of a "marine terminal facility" and issued assessments of sales tax on the plaintiff's storage services and chassis repair services.

The legislation that authorized the marine terminal exemption did not include a definition of marine terminal facility. The Division maintained that because plaintiff's facilities were not located at Port Newark, did not contain piers or wharves, and were not capable of loading and unloading containers on and off vessels (i.e., stevedoring), they were not a marine terminal facility and not eligible for the exemption. The Court determined that plaintiff is a marine terminal facility as intended by the Legislature because it does all the same things as businesses located within Port Newark and its employees belong to the same union as workers located at the marine terminals. The Court concluded that the definition of marine terminal facility is general and broad in nature and not limited to Port Authority jurisdiction or location. Plaintiff's storage and chassis repair services for customers of the Port of Newark are entitled to the exemption provided in N.J.S.A. 54:32B-8.12.

The Tax Court granted the plaintiff's motion for summary judgment and denied the Director's cross-motion, which resulted in a reversal of the Director's sales tax assessment. The Court further determined that since the plaintiff is a marine terminal facility, there was no need to analyze the parties' alternative arguments regarding the chassis repair services.

On October 31, 2013, the Court denied the Director's motion for reconsideration but clarified the earlier decision by stating that the chassis repair services are exempt under N.J.S.A. 54:32B-8.12 as "other services rendered with respect to such loading, unloading and handling of cargo at a marine terminal facility."

Unstamped Cigarette Purchases – Kimberly Steele v. Director, Division of Taxation, decided October 16, 2013; Tax Court, Docket No. 019582-2012.

In accordance with the requirements of the Federal Jenkins Act (15 U.S.C. §375), the Division of Taxation received information from Smoker's

Den (an out-of-State mail-order cigarette vendor) that the plaintiff (Steele) purchased 134 cartons of unstamped cigarettes between June 2006 and June 2009. The Jenkins Act requires any person or entity shipping cigarettes in interstate commerce to file a monthly report with the tax administrator of that state. The report must contain the name of each purchaser, the shipment date, shipping address, and the brand and quantity of cigarettes purchased.

On October 31, 2011, the Division of Taxation sent the plaintiff a letter advising that she was liable for excise tax and sales tax totaling $3,646.73 for the purchase of 134 cartons of unstamped cigarettes. Plaintiff did not respond. On July 3, 2012, the Division issued a notice of assessment which included penalties and interest. After an administrative hearing held at the plaintiff's request, the Division issued a final determination upholding the assessment. Taxpayer appealed to Tax Court. Taxpayer did not deny purchasing cigarettes from Smoker's Den but stated that she only purchased 116 cartons, not 134 cartons, but she had no documentation or evidence to show the purchases she made. The Division moved for summary judgment.

Under the provisions of the Cigarette Tax Act, taxpayers can purchase stamped or unstamped cigarettes. Taxpayers who purchase stamped cigarettes are not required to pay tax because the stamps indicate that taxes have already been paid, but taxpayers who purchase unstamped cigarettes for consumption, use, or storage in New Jersey must obtain a license, report their purchases, and pay the tax. Plaintiff failed to do so and the Division estimated and assessed the tax due based on the information it had. Plaintiff argued that it was unfair for her to be held responsible for a tax of which she claims she was unaware.

In granting the Division's motion for summary judgment, the Court held that the plaintiff's lack of awareness did not relieve her of her liability to pay the taxes due. In addition, the Court held that the burden was on the plaintiff to provide evidence showing that the Division's assessment was based on untrue or inaccurate data, and she did not meet that burden. □

New Jersey income tax return processing started January 31 due to the delayed opening of the tax season for Federal returns.

There have been some important changes affecting the preparation of New Jersey income tax returns and applications for New Jersey's property tax relief programs this year:

Income Tax

- Excludable Pensions, Annuities, and IRA Withdrawals (Line 19b) — There is a new line on the resident return, Form NJ-1040, on which you must report the excludable portion of any distribution from a pension, annuity, or IRA to which you made contributions.
- Designated Contribution — The Girl Scouts Councils in New Jersey Fund has been added to the list of organizations to which you can contribute on your New Jersey tax return. To donate to the new fund, you must specify code number "16" at the "Other Designated Contribution" line.
- Change of Address — A change-of-address indicator has been added to the name and address section on all New Jersey income tax returns. Mark the indicator if your address has changed since you last filed a New Jersey return or if any of the address information on your label is incorrect.

Enter the current (or corrected) address information on your return.

- Check Amount Boxes — A new check amount field has been added to the first page on all New Jersey income tax returns. If you owe tax and are enclosing a check or money order with your return, you must enter the amount of your payment in the boxes provided. If you pay by credit card or e-check, leave the check amount boxes blank.
- Credit for Excess UI/WF/SWF; DI; FLI Withheld — For 2013, the maximum employee unemployment insurance/workforce development partnership fund/supplemental workforce fund contribution was $131.33, the maximum employee disability insurance contribution was $111.24, and the maximum employee family leave insurance contribution was $30.90. If you had two or more employers, you may have contributed more than the maximum amount(s). You must complete Form NJ-2450 to claim credit on your New Jersey tax return for the excess withheld.
- Credit for Taxes Paid to Other Jurisdictions — The Philadelphia nonresident wage tax rate for 2013 was 3.4985% (.034985) from January 1 to June 30, 2013, and 3.495% (.03495) from July 1 to December 31, 2013.

- Alternative Business Calculation Adjustment — If you have losses in certain business-related categories of income, you may be able to use those losses to calculate an adjustment to your taxable income. In addition, you can carry forward unused losses in those categories for 20 years to calculate future adjustments. For tax year 2013, the percentage used to calculate the Alternative Business Calculation Adjustment on Schedule NJ-BUS-2 is 20 percent, up from 10 percent in tax year 2012. The percentage is being phased in over a five-year period and will reach a maximum of 50 percent for tax year 2016 and after.
- E-Filing Requirement for Practitioners — Preparers that reasonably expect to prepare 11 or more individual gross income tax resident returns (including those filed for trusts and estates) during the tax year must use electronic methods to file those returns for which an electronic filing option is available. A tax preparer is liable for a penalty of $50 for each return he or she fails to file electronically when required to do so.
- Printing and Mailing of Forms NJ-1041 and NJ-1065 Discontinued — With the continued growth of electronic filing and the need to reduce costs, the Division of Taxation will no longer print and mail instruction booklets and forms for either the New Jersey Gross Income Tax Fiduciary Return, Form NJ-1041, or the New Jersey Partnership Return, Form NJ-1065.

- Email Policy — Due to privacy and security concerns, the Division of Taxation will no longer address specific tax account concerns through email. You can email general State tax questions to us; however, you should not include confidential information such as social security or Federal tax identification numbers, liability or payment amounts, dates of birth, or bank account numbers. The Division will not provide any information about the status of your income tax refund, homestead benefit, or property tax reimbursement by email. For answers to confidential questions, including specific account information or changes to your account, call 609-292-6400, write to the New Jersey Division of Taxation at PO Box 281, Trenton, NJ 08695-0281, or visit one of the Division's regional offices and speak to a representative in person.
- Identity Theft — The Division of Taxation has introduced a new form, the Identity Theft Declaration, Form IDT-100, for taxpayers who suspect that their identity has been used fraudulently or who believe they are at risk due to a lost or stolen wallet or questionable credit card activity or credit report. Once an affected taxpayer files Form IDT-100, the Division of Taxation can take immediate steps to mark their tax account and identify any questionable activity.

- 2013 Property Tax Reimbursement (Senior Freeze) — The Senior Freeze (Property Tax Reimbursement) Program reimburses eligible senior citizens or disabled persons for property tax increases. Eligible residents must file a 2013 Property Tax Reimbursement Application (Form PTR-1 or PTR-2) by June 2, 2014. The 2013 applications are expected to be mailed in mid to late February.

With very few exceptions, all income received during the year, including income which is not required to be reported on Form NJ-1040, must be taken into account to determine eligibility for the property tax reimbursement. For residents applying for reimbursements for tax year 2013, total annual income must be:

2013: $84,289 or less

These limits apply regardless of marital/civil union status. However, if your filing status was married/CU couple, and you lived in the same household, you must combine your incomes for that year.

NOTE: For 2012 the State Budget limited reimbursement payments to certain applicants. Only those applicants whose 2011 income did not exceed $80,000 and whose 2012 income did not exceed $70,000 (the original limit was $82,880) were eligible to receive reimbursement payments for 2012, provided they met all the other program requirements. The State Budget may apply similar limitations for 2013. □

Requesting Copies of Tax Returns

You can obtain a copy of a tax return filed with the New Jersey Division of Taxation by completing and submitting Form DCC-1. If the return was filed electronically, you will receive a transcript of the information entered on the return.

A fee of $1 per page (side) must be submitted with Form DCC-1. A copy of a paper return will include all pages submitted, including attachments (schedules, W-2 forms, etc.). A transcript of an electronically filed income tax return contains six pages. Payment must be made by check or money order. Cash and credit cards will not be accepted. Make the check or money order payable to the New Jersey Division of Taxation. Write your social security number or New Jersey taxpayer identification number and “Form DCC-1” on the payment.

Mail Form DCC-1 with your payment and any other enclosures to:

NEW JERSEY DIVISION OF TAXATION
DOCUMENT CONTROL CENTER
PO BOX 269
TRENTON, NJ 08695-0269

Allow three weeks for delivery of the returns you requested.

Gross Income Tax Returns. In addition to submitting Form DCC-1 by mail, you can also obtain copies of previously filed gross income tax returns (Forms NJ-1040, NJ-1040NR, NJ-1041, or NJ-1040X) in person by completing Form DCC-1 at a Division of Taxation regional office.

Regional office staff will provide copies only to the person(s) who signed the requested tax return or to the taxpayer’s representative who provides a properly completed Form M-5008-R. A photo ID (driver’s license or other government-issued photo ID) of the taxpayer or the taxpayer’s authorized representative is required when making in-person requests for copies of personal income tax returns.

If the person making an in-person request for a copy of a gross income tax return is not the person who signed the return (or is not the taxpayer’s authorized representative), the request cannot be completed at the regional office. Instead, the Division will send the return copies requested on Form DCC-1 to the person who signed the return at the address on file with the Division.

Business Tax Returns. When requesting copies of returns filed for a business (e.g., corporation business tax, sales and use tax, or employer withholding returns), you must also include a request letter on company stationery signed by an officer of the company.

The Division can provide return copies only to the person who signed the return unless a signed release form or a Form M-5008-R, Appointment of Taxpayer Representative, which authorizes the release of the return(s) being requested is enclosed with Form DCC-1.

To request copies of returns for any tax other than personal income tax, you must submit Form DCC-1 to the Division of Taxation by mail as explained above. You cannot request copies of business tax returns in person at the Division’s regional offices. □

P.L. 2013, c.15, established a Real Property Assessment Demonstration Program to make the assessment of real property more precise by using technology driven procedures and to benefit municipalities by performing annual assessment programs, thereby protecting funding of municipal budgets from the impact of losses due to appeal refunds. Monmouth County was the first county to adopt this program, which began October 1, 2013. The following dates on the assessors' calendar have been revised for municipalities in Monmouth County:

January 10-

- Assessor to file two copies of preliminary Form SR-3A with County Tax Board.

January 15-

- Deadline for taxpayers and taxing districts to file appeals of assessed valuations to County Tax Boards, or 45 days from date the bulk mailing of notifications of assessment is completed, whichever is later. Note: Deadline for appeals of assessed valuations over $1,000,000 to State Tax Court remains April 1 or 45 days from completion of bulk mailing of notifications, whichever is later. □

Criminal Enforcement

Criminal enforcement over the past several months included:

- On August 21, 2013, Nicholas Bidic was sentenced in Cumberland County Superior Court to five years of probation as part of his plea agreement for his role in the theft of $1,237,269.65 in sales tax during the years 2008 through 2010. At the time of sentencing, Bidic provided the State with a check for $700,000 and a second check for $60,404.73 for payment towards his sales tax liability. An additional $39,595.27 was applied to his sales tax liability from a seized bank account. As per his sentencing, Bidic will be required to make monthly payments of $9,000 to the State of New Jersey for his outstanding sales tax liability plus penalties and interest. He also forfeited nine motor vehicles to the State of New Jersey as part of the criminal forfeiture proceedings. This is the result of a joint investigation with the Division's Office of Criminal Investigation (OCI) and the New Jersey Division of Criminal Justice.
- On August 23, 2013, a mail carrier, Miguel E. Duran of Paterson, was sentenced to three years in State prison for using his mail route to aid in the theft of fraudulent State and Federal tax refunds. Duran pled guilty to second-degree theft by unlawful taking. He admitted to intercepting State and Federal income tax checks and delivering them to his co-conspirators for $200 per check. This case was prosecuted by New Jersey Division of Criminal Justice Deputy Attorney General Denise Grugan. The sentencing was a result of a joint investigation with OCI and the New Jersey Division of Criminal Justice.

- On August 24, 2013, Chaudhry Iqbal was entered in the Pretrial Intervention (PTI) Program for one year. Iqbal was arrested by a special agent from OCI on August 20, 2012, at JFK Convenience store, located at 3814 Ventnor Ave., Atlantic City, New Jersey. There was a warrant for his arrest for possession of synthetic marijuana, which was seized during a prior inspection by the special agent on March 20, 2012. Iqbal was also found in possession of 12.44 cartons of contraband cigarettes during the initial inspection. Subsequent to Iqbal's arrest, an additional 11.8 cartons of contraband cigarettes were seized as well as $2,583. Bail was set at $12,000, no 10%, by the Honorable Judge Ward of the Atlantic City Municipal Court. As a condition of PTI, the seized cash was awarded to the State by Atlantic County Superior Court.

- OCI special agents participated in the New Jersey Attorney General's "TIDE" detail, which addressed violent crime and weapons in the City of Trenton. During the detail, OCI found that gangs have taken over some legitimate businesses in the city of Trenton, and are operating them as outlets for counterfeit goods such as high-end sneakers, sports team jerseys, DVDs, and music CDs. None of these businesses are in compliance with Title 54. OCI made 34 contraband seizures as well during the operation and filed numerous criminal charges against individuals and businesses. The OCI special agents received commendations from the New Jersey State Police for their work during this operation.
- On September 4, 2013, OCI special agents arrested Gregorio A. Cordero of Jersey City, New Jersey, for numerous violations involving counterfeiting of New Jersey cigarette tax stamps as well as New Jersey Motor Vehicle Commission (MVC) inspection stickers. Agents seized a computer and printer used to produce counterfeit items, which have been submitted to the Regional Computer Forensics Lab for examination. Additionally, $4,910 in U.S. currency was seized and action for forfeiture has been entered. Cordero was processed and lodged in the Hudson County Jail on $15,000 bail pending his hearing. OCI special agents were complimented by the MVC

- On September 12, 2013, former Assemblyman Albert Coutinho pled guilty to third-degree theft by unlawful taking and a fourth-degree charge of falsifying or tampering with records before Superior Court Judge Gerald J. Council in Mercer County. As a result of his guilty plea, Coutinho will be permanently barred from holding public office or public employment in New Jersey. In pleading guilty, Coutinho admitted to misappropriating donations and contributions to his family’s charitable foundation, the Bernardino Coutinho Foundation, between 2008 and 2012. Coutinho admitted to taking and using those donations for his own personal benefit and for purposes unrelated to any legitimate, foundation-related business. In connection with the second charge, Coutinho separately admitted that he also failed to disclose in his legislative Financial Disclosure Statements for calendar years 2008 through 2012 the income he received as a consequence of his theft and misappropriation of foundation funds. The charges resulted from a joint investigation by the Division of Criminal Justice Corruption Bureau and OCI. Coutinho was sentenced to three years’ probation. He was also ordered by Superior Court Judge Gerald Council in Mercer County to perform 50 hours of community service and repay the $32,500 he stole from the Bernardino Coutinho Foundation.

- On September 18, 2013, an Atlantic County Grand Jury indicted Tariq Mehmood, the owner of the 24 Seven Food Mart on Atlantic Avenue in Atlantic City. Mehmood was indicted on two counts of fourth-degree possession of ten cartons or more of counterfeit-stamped cigarettes, two counts of third-degree distribution and/or manufacturing of counterfeit New Jersey cigarette stamps, two counts of third-degree failure to maintain records of cigarette purchases with the intent to evade the State cigarette tax, two counts of fourth-degree engaging in a cigarette transaction with an unlicensed person with the intent to evade the State cigarette tax, and one count of third-degree distribution of a prescription legend drug. On January 31, 2013, Tariq Mehmood was picked up on a search warrant granted by Atlantic City Judge Warner. OCI’s special agent arrested Mehmood without incident with assistance from the Atlantic City Police Department’s VICE Unit. Mehmood was given bail of $15,000, no 10%. Mehmood posted bail two days later.
- On September 27, 2013, Brian Lewis, of Pleasantville, New Jersey, a former Atlantic City Housing Authority employee, was sentenced to five years in State prison for official misconduct, theft, and New Jersey State tax fraud. Lewis fraudulently billed and received payments from the Atlantic City Housing Authority through five shell companies he owned and operated for housing repairs already performed by other companies. Lewis was guilty of defrauding and stealing a total of nearly $290,000 from the Housing Authority and the State of New Jersey. Based on an agreement with the Prosecutor’s Office, charges against Lewis’s wife, Shellie Williams, were dismissed upon the filing of amended tax returns. The investigation concluded that the couple failed to pay over $36,600 in State taxes by not reporting the money they fraudulently received from the Atlantic City Housing Authority.

- On October 27, 2013, Burlington County Prosecutor Robert D. Bernardi announced that a former Willingboro man was sentenced to five years in prison for filing several false tax returns that resulted in a $545,000 refund from the New Jersey Treasury Department. Kenneth Costello received the five-year sentence from the Honorable Jeanne T. Covert in Superior Court in Mount Holly. Judge Covert indicated the sentence took into consideration the defendant’s history of psychiatric treatment and his lack of a criminal record. Costello must serve two years in New Jersey State prison before becoming eligible for parole. Costello, formerly of Willingboro and also Barnegat Township, pled guilty in September 2013 to financial facilitation of criminal activity, a first-degree crime more commonly known as money laundering. The investigation revealed that Costello filed four fraudulent tax returns for the 2008 tax year resulting in a refund from the State of New Jersey in the amount of $545,384. Costello eventually diverted the funds to multiple financial institutions. He purchased a $40,000 vehicle and used some of the money for living expenses. Costello was indicted in June 2012 and arrested in November at a train station in Washington, D.C. The investigation was conducted by the New Jersey Treasury Department’s OCI and the Burlington County Prosecutor’s Office Financial Crimes Unit. The investigation into Costello’s actions began after he complained to the Willingboro bank where he deposited the refund that someone had withdrawn money without his permission. The complaint resulted in criminal charges against bank teller Lisa Jarvis, of Norcross, Georgia. Jarvis acknowledged that she created an unauthorized debit card for Costello’s account in November 2009 and used it to steal nearly $100,000 over a two-year period. Jarvis had moved from Willingboro to Georgia and made more than 100 purchases before pleading guilty in October 2012 to computer theft and related charges. She was sentenced to three years in New Jersey State prison. In addition to filing the returns that yielded the $545,000 payment, Costello unsuccessfully filed another return that would have given him an additional refund of $228,000 had it not been denied by the Treasury Department. Nearly $300,000 has been recovered. □

Compensation for Wrongful Imprisonment — P.L. 2013, c.171, signed into law on December 27, 2013, and effective immediately, increases compensation for wrongful imprisonment and excludes such compensation from New Jersey gross income.

The new law increases the amount of damages for wrongful imprisonment, if awarded, from $20,000 to $50,000 for each year of incarceration. If damages exceed $1 million, the court can order that the award be paid out as an annuity over a maximum of 20 years. The law also requires the court to award reasonable attorney fees and reimbursement of litigation costs and permits the court to award the claimant services such as counseling, tuition assistance, vocational training, housing assistance, and health insurance coverage. Once the claimant is awarded damages, any lien filed against the defendant for Public Defender services will be discharged and considered void.

Miscellaneous

Common Sense Shared Services Pilot Act — P.L. 2013, c.166, signed into law on October 16, 2013, and effective immediately, revises current law to assist in the implementation of shared services agreements by allowing abrogation of tenure rights of certain personnel, including local assessors, who may be affected by those agreements. These shared services agreements are defined in the “Uniform Shared Services and Consolidation Act,” P.L.2007, c.63 (C.40A:65-1 et seq.).

The Division of Taxation maintains oversight of the municipal and county assessment process. Prior to the enactment of this law, statutory requirements called for every municipality to appoint certain local officials to assess land and property values. Now, sharing of those personnel under a shared services agreement or joint contract for a joint meeting entered into pursuant to the provisions of the Uniform Shared Services and Consolidation Act may fulfill these requirements.

New Jersey Economic Opportunity Act of 2013 — P.L. 2013, c.161, signed into law on September 18, 2013, and effective immediately, merges five current incentive programs into two: the Grow New Jersey Assistance Program (GROW NJ) and the Economic Redevelopment and Growth Grant Program (ERGG). Both of these incentive programs are administered by the New Jersey Economic Development Authority (EDA). GROW NJ is the State’s job creation and retention incentive program, which offers transferable tax credits. The Act expands the areas of the State within which businesses can qualify for those credits and reduces the capital investment and employment requirements. These changes will allow New Jersey to better match or surpass the financial incentive packages offered by neighboring and competing states and provide bonuses to drive development to smart growth areas in the State. ERGG, which is the State’s incentive program for developers, grants tax benefits based on annual incremental State and local taxes in an effort to close project financing gaps and build public infrastructure critical to redevelopment projects. In addition, ERGG will provide bonuses to achieve public policy objectives such as bringing fresh produce to urban “food deserts,” and rebuilding tourism destinations damaged or destroyed due to the effects of Hurricane Sandy.

The law phases out the Business Retention and Relocation Assistance Grant Program (BRRAG), Business Employment

Incentive Program (BEIP), and the Urban Transit Hub Tax Credit Program (HUB) and incorporates many of their elements into GROW NJ and ERGG. The EDA will only process applications for BRRAG, BEIP, or HUB that were submitted to that agency on or before September 18, 2013, the date the Act went into effect. The EDA must approve any BRRAG, BEIP, or HUB applications in the pipeline on or before December 31, 2013 (some HUB approvals could be rendered 120 days from September 18, 2013). Supporting documentation for HUB grants approved prior to December 31, 2013, may be submitted no later than April 26, 2017. Current reviews of BEIP, BRRAG, and HUB proposals that were received by the EDA before September 18, 2013, will not be adversely impacted. Existing BEIP, BRRAG, and HUB grants which were to be claimed over multiple years are unaffected by the Act.

Noteworthy changes include:

- The maximum aggregate value of all HUB tax credits that may be awarded in a single year increases from $250 million to $260 million.
- Businesses that submitted an application under GROW NJ or ERGG before the enactment of the Act may amend their application to receive more favorable terms under the provisions of the Act.
- The maximum value of tax credits that the EDA can approve for the State portion of ERGG redevelopment incentive grant agreements is set at $600 million. Tax credits awarded under this program may

- All GROW NJ or ERGG proposals must be submitted on or before July 1, 2019. The law requires the EDA to approve any submitted GROW NJ applications on or before July 1, 2023 (a three-year approval window with two six-month extensions).
- There are a number of newly designated geographical areas eligible for grants and tax credits, including areas not located within a distressed municipality or priority area, also including an aviation district; Planning Area 3 (as designated in the State Plan); certain portions of the Meadowlands, Pinelands, and Highlands; and certain portions of Planning Areas 4A, 4B, and 5 (also as designated within the State Plan).

In addition to the areas described above targeted for incentive financing, a newly designated targeted growth area, the Garden State Growth Zone, which consists of the four poorest urban areas in the State (Camden, Trenton, Paterson, and Passaic), as defined and designated in the current State Plan, would be eligible for incentive grants. □

The Division of Taxation mailed 2012 homestead benefit applications to New Jersey homeowners beginning in early October. Below is a schedule of the homeowner benefit application expected delivery dates by county. Homeowners who filed last year's homestead benefit application online and indicated that they wanted to receive this year's application electronically received an email containing instructions for downloading their 2012 application packet. These email notifications were also sent out by county according to the delivery schedule below.

To be eligible for the 2012 homestead benefit, an applicant must be a New Jersey resident who owned and occupied a home in this State that was their principal residence on October 1, 2012, paid property taxes on that home, and meets certain income limits. For the 2011 homestead benefit, the income limit for homeowners under age 65 and not blind or disabled was $75,000 ($150,000 for homeowners age 65 or older or blind or disabled). However, the State Budget (that must be adopted by July 1, 2014) may affect the homestead benefit eligibility and amounts for 2012. Applicants can file an application regardless of their income, but if the amounts exceed the limits determined by the State Budget, the application will be denied.

The amount of the benefit is based on an applicant's income, filing status, property taxes, and whether the applicant was age 65 or older or eligible to claim an exemption as blind or disabled for tax year 2012. Amounts received under the Homestead Benefit Program are in addition to the State's other property tax relief programs. The total amount of all property tax relief benefits received (homestead benefit, property tax reimbursement, property tax deduction for senior citizens/disabled persons, and property tax deduction for veterans) cannot exceed the amount of property taxes paid on the applicant's principal residence for the same year.

Most homeowners can file their applications either online or by phone (1-877-658-2972). Applicants should read the instructions before attempting to file the application. Homeowners who sold or plan to sell their home should pay particular attention to the related instructions to ensure they complete their applications correctly.

The filing deadline for 2012 Homestead Benefit Applications has been extended to December 31, 2013. The original filing deadline was November 22, 2013. More information on the homestead benefit, including eligibility requirements is available on the Division of Taxation's website. □

Tax Rates for Form NJ-1080C

The New Jersey Administrative Code at N.J.A.C. 18:35-5.2 requires income taxation on the New Jersey Income Tax Nonresident Composite Return (Form NJ-1080C) at the highest rate. However, for tax years beginning on or before December 31, 2012, the Division will continue to allow the use of two rates in order to encourage nonresident individuals to elect to participate in a composite return.

Entities preparing and filing the NJ-1080C return for participating taxpayers with New Jersey sourced income from the entity of less than $250,000 will apply the 6.37% rate. For participating taxpayers with New Jersey sourced income of $250,000 or more, entities will apply the highest tax rate, which was 10.75% in 2009 and 8.97% in 2010, 2011, and 2012.

As a result of the review of the composite return policy, the regulation at N.J.A.C. 18:35-5.2 will be enforced for tax years beginning on and after January 1, 2013. Thus, all entity members who elect to participate in the composite return filing will be required to pay tax at the highest rate.

Participation in a composite return is elective. If the nonresident individual does not believe that the benefits derived from the composite return outweigh the additional tax paid, they can file an individual nonresident return, Form NJ-1040NR.

As a result of the enforcement of the regulation, some filing entities may receive a notice for failure to make the required estimated payments. If the filing entity believes the correct estimated payments were remitted using the two-tiered tax rate calculation, they should write to the New Jersey Division of Taxation, ITAB – Composite Return, PO Box 288, Trenton, NJ 08646-0288. □ provide by email. We will no longer provide confidential personal and financial information. This means that we cannot provide any information about the status of income tax refunds, Homestead Benefits or Property Tax Reimbursements by email. No confidential information, such as Social Security or Federal Tax Identification numbers, liability or payment amounts, dates of birth or bank account numbers should be included in email sent to the Division.

Taxpayers who want to discuss confidential information, such as the status of their income tax refund, should call 609-292-6400, write to New Jersey Division of Taxation, PO Box 281, Trenton, NJ 08695-0281, or visit one of our Regional Information Centers. A list of Regional Information Centers is available on our website.

This new policy also extends to email inquiries from tax practitioners. Practitioners can also call 609-292-6400 or inquire about clients' accounts by writing to New Jersey Division of Taxation, PO Box 281, Trenton, NJ 08695-0281. When submitting an account inquiry by mail, the practitioner must include a completed Appointment of Taxpayer Representative (Form M-5008-R) signed by the taxpayer. □

Identity Theft

Identity theft is one of the fastest-growing crimes in the United States. Most people have heard about identity thieves targeting credit card companies and financial institutions, but criminals are also using personal information to file tax returns and acquire fraudulent refunds. Often taxpayers don't even realize that their information has been compromised until they receive a notice about their tax account from the Division of Taxation or the IRS.

If a taxpayer suspects that their identity has been used fraudulently or believes that they're at risk due to a lost or stolen wallet or questionable credit card activity or credit report, the taxpayer should file an Identity Theft Declaration, Form IDT-100, so the Division of Taxation can take immediate steps to mark the tax account and identify any questionable activity.

When filing Form IDT-100 taxpayers must include the following:

- Statement explaining the problem and how the taxpayer became aware of it; and
- Copy of a government issued ID such as a driver's license, U.S. passport, U.S. military ID card, or other valid ID issued by a State or Federal agency; and
- Address verification for the tax year(s) in question such as a copy of a utility bill, lease agreement, or bank statement; and
- Copy of any notice received from the New Jersey Division of Taxation, if applicable.

Identity theft may affect a taxpayer's current, past, or future tax records and the Division is committed to identifying and stopping tax identity theft wherever possible.

Affected taxpayers also need to take steps with the IRS to safeguard their Federal tax records. Information is available online at www.IRS.gov.

Additional identity theft resources are available on the Division's website. Taxpayers can also contact the Customer Service Center at 609-292-6400 for assistance. □

Taxation Plans to CATCH Tax Cheats

Do you know of a person or business that is not paying their fair share of New Jersey taxes? Reporting to the Division is now faster, easier, and more convenient. The Division's CATCH (Citizens Against Tax CHEats) Program's new online form, available 24 hours a day, 7 days a week, allows taxpayers to report possible tax avoidance issues electronically. The Division forwards reports that have merit to the appropriate Branch within Taxation or to another State agency for follow-up. The referrals often lead to the discovery of unreported tax liabilities and collection of unremitted payments.

Examples of businesses or individuals who may be in violation of New Jersey tax laws include:

- Retailers who do not charge sales tax when they should;
- Employers who do not withhold payroll taxes;
- Businesses that neither charge the required taxes nor pay their business and personal taxes; and
- Individuals who are dishonest in completing their New Jersey tax returns or do not file at all.

Each year millions of New Jersey tax dollars remain uncollected. To help identify and locate tax avoiders, the Division encourages citizens to submit the CATCH Program's online form to report businesses or individuals who may be cheating on their New Jersey taxes. Citizens can also mail information about the suspected individual or business to the New Jersey Division of Taxation, PO Box 195, Trenton, NJ 08695-0195, or call the Division's Customer Service Center at 609-292-6400. The report should contain as much of the following information as possible about the suspected tax cheat:

- Name, address, and telephone number.
- Social Security Number or Taxpayer Identification Number.
- Tax(es) and tax year(s) involved.
- Other information regarding the complaint.

Complainants should also include their email address and phone number for follow-up purposes, but they do not have to give their name. All information provided remains confidential. □

Update:

NJ/NY Cooperative Interstate Tax Program

The New Jersey/New York Cooperative Interstate Tax Program ended on December 31, 2010. Since that date, any interstate returns/payments received by the New Jersey Division of Taxation have been forwarded to the State of New York. Effective September 1, 2012, interstate returns and payments that include New York tax will no longer be sent to New York. All sales tax payments will be applied to New Jersey sales tax accounts. If a business erroneously submits an interstate return and payment with New York tax to the New Jersey Division of Taxation on or after September 1, 2012, the business must apply for a refund of this overpayment using a Claim for Refund (Form A-3730).

using technology-driven procedures and to benefit municipalities by performing annual assessment programs, thereby protecting funding of municipal budgets from the impact of losses due to appeal refunds. Monmouth County was the first county to adopt this program, which began October 1, 2013. The following dates on the assessors' calendar have been revised for municipalities in Monmouth County:

November 1–

- Preliminary assessment list completed by assessor and certified to County Tax Board (pretax year).
- Revaluation assessment notices mailed by assessor in towns undergoing revaluation (pretax year).

November 15–

- Assessor to notify each taxpayer by mail of the current assessment and preceding year's taxes (pretax year). □

Criminal Enforcement

Criminal enforcement over the past several months included:

- On May 6, 2013, U.S. Magistrate Judge Madeline Cox Arleo sentenced singer Lauryn Hill to three months in Federal prison for failing to pay income taxes. In the hours before sentencing, Hill paid more than $970,000 in back taxes and penalties to the Federal government and the State of New Jersey. Ms. Hill was ordered to report to prison on July 8, 2013.

Tax Branch, and Division of Revenue assisted Wawa, Inc. with a corporate restructuring, which included an issuance of a cigarette distributor license to their newly formed company, Wawa Procurement, Inc. Though the process was partially handled as a new license, the corporate officers and performance bond were the same, allowing the Division to consider the transaction a transfer as well. Because of these factors, Wawa was granted permission to use their remaining cigarette tax stamps purchased with the former license while ordering new stamps with the new license. As Wawa is a major cigarette retailer, this prevented a brief interruption of revenue for both the State and the company.

- On May 24, 2013, Craig L. Trabucco agreed to a consent judgment for four counts of failure to file New Jersey State income tax returns for tax years 2007–2010. On June 20, 2013, Mr. Trabucco was sentenced to five years’ probation, to run concurrently, and was ordered to pay restitution of $128,140.83. Helen M. Trabucco entered the Pre-Trial Intervention Program. This case originated from an investigation of Mr. Trabucco by the New Jersey State Police Cargo Theft Unit and encompassed tax years 2003–2010.
- At the request of the Atlantic City Tourism District, OCI conducted law enforcement operations there, which were coordinated with the Atlantic City Police Department and New Jersey Division of Consumer Affairs. They conducted inspections of 36 businesses and seized contraband from 12 locations. There were 39.4 cartons of contraband cigarettes seized along with 11,332 untaxed cigars, 131 “loosies” cigarettes, 42 packages of pipe tobacco, 13 cans of chewing tobacco, 23 hookah packages, 428 cans of Indian chewing tobacco, 476 counterfeit DVDs, $28,035 in U.S. currency, and numerous invoices of cigarette and tobacco products purchased. A DVR security surveillance system, 18 Family First cards, and an ATM machine with a printout of receipts totaling $30,730 in U.S. currency were also seized.

- An 18-month joint investigation conducted by the Monmouth County Prosecutor’s Office, along with various State agencies including the Department of the Treasury, Office of Criminal Investigation, culminated on June 24, 2013, with the execution of search and arrest warrants, arrest of 22 individuals, seizure of a dozen vehicles and more than $500,000 in cash, and the freezing of financial accounts used to facilitate criminal activities, including money laundering and the sale and distribution of marijuana and prescription drugs.

- On July 5, 2013, Anthony Foti Jr. of Ogdensburg, New York, pled guilty to the charge of failure to remit sales and use taxes while owner of Wheels Are Us Auto Sales. Mr. Foti failed to remit $37,211 in sales tax collected from his customers. A consent judgment was entered in favor of the Division of Taxation for $60,610.12.
- On July 25, 2013, OCI received a check from the U.S. Department of Justice in the amount of $500,105 as the result of a successful joint investigation between the U.S. Department of Justice; Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco, Firearms and Explosives; North Carolina Department of Revenue; and OCI. The check represents the amount of tax that would have been due to the State of New Jersey on contraband cigarettes sold in the course of the joint investigation. Omar Nijim was sentenced on December 13, 2011, to 33 months in prison. On January 12, 2012, Emad Hasan Tawiq Wshah and

Qualified Conservation Contribution Deduction for Business Entities – The Division published guidance in the Winter 2001 (Vol. 30, No. 4) issue of the State Tax News regarding the qualified conservation contribution deduction pursuant to N.J.S.A. 54A:3-6. The article stated that “The Legislature made no provisions in the amendment for S corporations or partnerships to flow this deduction out to their shareholders or partners.”

This statement was not meant to prohibit eligible partnerships or S corporations from taking the qualified conservation contribution deduction as a charitable deduction at the entity level, thereby reducing the individual taxpayer’s distributive share of partnership income or net pro rata share of S corporation income in accordance with Sabino v. Director, Division of Taxation, 296 N.J. Super 269, 686 A.2d 1197 (Appellate Division 1996) and Adler v. Director, Division of Taxation, 20 N.J. Tax 537 (Tax 2003).

The individual taxpayer may not take the qualified conservation contribution deduction again on his or her personal income tax return as doing so would result in a double benefit.

Sales and Use Tax

Fund for Ill Child and Exempt Organization Status – A taxpayer asked the Division whether a fund established for the benefit of a child recently diagnosed with a serious illness could obtain status as an organization exempt from sales and use tax.

The Division responded that a fund established to benefit one particular individual or family does not qualify as a nonprofit organization exempt from sales and use tax. See N.J.S.A. 54:32B-9(b) and N.J.A.C. 18:24-9.6.

Persons involved in fundraising activities in New Jersey should contact the New Jersey Office of Charities Registration at 973-504-6215 to ensure that their activities are in compliance with State requirements.

Purchases of Gym Equipment by a Health Club – A taxpayer who operates a health club and collects sales tax from members on charges for membership fees inquired as to whether he must pay sales or use tax on purchases of gym equipment to be used by the members.

The Sales and Use Tax Act imposes tax on “charges in the nature of initiation fees, membership fees or dues for access to or use of the property or facilities of a health and fitness, athletic, sporting or shopping club or organization in this State, except for membership in a club or organization whose members are predominantly age 18 or under.” N.J.S.A. 54:32B-3(h). In addition, the Act imposes tax on sales of tangible personal property unless a valid exemption exists. N.J.S.A. 54:32B-3(a). Therefore, purchases of treadmills and other gym equipment by a health club or gym are subject to tax.

Because sales tax is a transactional tax, the fact that a taxpayer is required to collect sales tax from members on charges for membership fees has no effect on its obligation to pay sales tax on purchases of gym equipment. These are two separate transactions and tax is imposed under different sections of the law and on different taxpayers. □ the election form to SRI because it had not registered as a New Jersey or foreign corporation and stated that SRI could apply for S corporation status once it had registered. SRI registered and obtained its certificate of authority but did not refile its S corporation election. Regardless, SRI filed its New Jersey returns as an S corporation commencing in 2001 and through 2005.

In March 2006, the Division issued a notice of deficiency for tax years 2003 and 2004. In May 2006, SRI filed its S corporation election with the Division and requested retroactive S corporation status. The Division granted S corporation status as of January 1, 2006, but denied retroactive status and sent a notice to SRI. The notice included information about the taxpayer's protest and appeal rights, the option for filing a Claim for Refund of Paid Audit Assessment, Form A-1730, and the requirements therefor.

In February 2007, SRI paid the deficiency less the penalties that the Division had abated at the taxpayer's request. Thereafter, SRI filed Form A-1730 contending that it had filed an S corporation election in May 2001. In June 2007, the Division denied the refund claim on the grounds that the entire assessment had not been paid because the penalties were abated and that SRI neither timely protested nor appealed its initial May 2001 denial of S corporation election status.

On September 4, 2007, the Division proposed a regulation to authorize retroactive S corporation status. On September 24, 2007, SRI filed a complaint with the Tax Court challenging the denial of the refund. The proposed retroactive S corporation status regulation was adopted and became effective as of January 7, 2008 (N.J.A.C. 18:7-20.3).

The Tax Court granted summary judgment to the Division on the same basis that the Division denied the Form A-1730 refund claim. The Court added that the denial was proper because there was neither a statute nor regulation authorizing retroactive S corporation elections at the time.

SRI appealed to the Appellate Division on the grounds that it was entitled to retroactive S corporation status based on the regulation that was adopted after they appealed the case to Tax Court. The Appellate Division found that this issue was not properly before the Court because the Division did not first address this claim. The Appellate Division stated: "We are not aware of any authority for a court to determine, in the first instance, whether a taxpayer is entitled to a benefit available pursuant to a newly-adopted regulation before the taxpayer has sought that benefit in the Division." Therefore, the Appellate Division did not consider N.J.A.C. 18:7-20.3 and affirmed the Tax Court's opinion.

S Corporation Accumulated Adjustment Account – Cohen, Morris et al. v. Director, Division of Taxation, decided May 23, 2013, Tax Court, Docket No. 003854-2009.

Morris Cohen (Cohen) was a New Jersey resident who was a 25% shareholder in an S corporation known as Conway Stores. During tax year 2003, Cohen received a distribution of $554,292 from Conway Stores that he did not report as taxable because he maintained a positive balance in the Accumulated Adjustment Account (AAA) that was in excess of the distribution. During an audit, the Division determined that this distribution was a taxable dividend pursuant to N.J.S.A. 54A:5-14 because the AAA contained a negative balance at the time of the distribution.

At issue was whether the New Jersey AAA should be reduced by losses of the S corporation when the losses are not allowed for New Jersey gross income tax purposes. The Division determined that the AAA balance was negative $356,395, whereas Cohen claimed that the AAA balance was a positive $575,988. The difference resulted from Cohen's having used a beginning balance in 1998 (negative $1,073,648) that was different from the 1997 ending balance (negative $2,006,031). This difference of $932,383 resulted in a positive $575,988 AAA balance for tax year 2003 prior to the distribution. The Tax Court decided that the Division's calculation was correct because Cohen did not carry the 1997 ending balance forward to the 1998 beginning balance and provided no proofs as to the discrepancy.

The Court determined that the 2003 AAA ending balance was a negative amount and that the entire distribution was a taxable dividend pursuant to N.J.S.A. 54A:5-14.

Cohen has appealed this decision to the Appellate Division.

Settlement Payments, Refunds, and Claim of Right Doctrine – Joseph J. Murphy and Diane Fitzmyer-Murphy v. Director, Division of Taxation, decided

June 12, 2013, Appellate Division, Docket No. A-0111-12T3.

Mr. Murphy was an officer and employee of Refco, Inc. (Refco). On their 2005 New Jersey gross income tax return, Form NJ-1040, the Murphys reported capital gain income from the sale of a portion of his stock interest in Refco in the amount of $4,142,000 and dividend income of $381,558 from the public sale of Refco stock.

Refco later filed a voluntary petition for bankruptcy. In 2008 Mr. Murphy paid $10 million to the bankruptcy trustee and the Federal government to settle any fraudulent and preferential transfers and forfeiture action claims against him.

In June 2009, the Murphys amended their 2005 NJ-1040 by filing an NJ-1040-X to report a change in income related to sale of the Refco stock. The Murphys claimed that the $10 million payment represented repayment of 2005 reported income and sought a tax refund. The Division denied the refund request and advised that any deductions associated with repayment had to be claimed in the year of repayment.

The Murphys filed a complaint in Tax Court. The Court decided that the Murphys were not entitled to a refund because they properly included the income on the 2005 return

(the year in which it was received), and there were no inaccuracies in the original filings. The Murphys appealed this decision claiming that the Tax Court erroneously relied on the Federal claim of right doctrine and that their amended return properly reported a change in income.

The Appellate Division opined that the sole issue was whether the Murphys' refund request was based on an error in the original income reported or an error in the calculation of taxes paid on their 2005 NJ-1040. Noting that the $10 million settlement was far in excess of the 2005 reported capital gain income involving Refco, the Appellate Division found that it was impossible to determine from the evidence presented whether the settlement related to the income activity reported in 2005 or any amount thereof. Furthermore, there was no legal authority presented to support the argument that a settlement was a decision to forfeit any portion of income. Therefore, the Appellate Division affirmed the Tax Court concluding that the 2008 settlement payment was not a basis to recalculate their 2005 taxable income.

Nonbusiness Bad Debt – Harlan W. Waksal and Carol Waksal v. Director, Division of Taxation, decided August 13, 2013, New Jersey Supreme Court, Docket No. A-103-11.

In 2002, Harlan Waksal loaned his brother $14.7 million and executed a promissory note. When it became clear by early 2005 that the brother would not be able to make any payments on the loan, the plaintiffs (Waksals) reported a short-term capital loss from the loan on their 2004 Federal income tax return. On their 2004 New Jersey gross income tax return, the Waksals reported a loss from “the sale, exchange or other disposition of property” and used that loss to offset capital gains realized from other property. Pursuant to an audit, the Division denied the loss and issued a notice of deficiency for gross income tax in the amount of $1.3 million plus interest and penalties.

The Waksals appealed to the Tax Court. The Tax Court held that the failure to repay the loan did not constitute a “sale, exchange, or other disposition of property” within the meaning of the New Jersey Gross Income Tax Act and upheld the deficiency assessment. The Appellate Division affirmed.

The New Jersey Supreme Court also affirmed, finding that regardless of their Federal tax reporting, the worthless nonbusiness debt is not a “sale, exchange or other disposition of property” for New Jersey gross income tax purposes. The Court observed that the New Jersey Gross Income Tax Act does not incorporate every provision of the Internal Revenue Code and, in fact, there is no New Jersey provision authorizing a deduction for worthless nonbusiness debt. The Court also found that neither the New Jersey Gross Income Tax Act nor the New Jersey Supreme Court's holding in Koch, 157 N.J. 1 (1999), concerning “federal methods of accounting,” required application of Federal loss provisions to the nonbusiness bad debt at issue.

Local Property Tax Assessment Appeal and Chapter 91 Request – Paramus Associates, LLP/Home Depot, USA, Inc., v. Borough of Paramus, decided August 2, 2013, New Jersey Tax Court, Docket No. 002755-2012.

The plaintiff, Paramus Associates, LLP/Home Depot, USA, Inc., disputed the municipal assessor's dismissal complaint for failure to comply with Chapter 91. Paramus Associates, LLP, owned property listed as Block 5201, Lot 3 and Lot 8 on the tax map of the Borough of Paramus. Lot 8 is the site of the retail store and Lot 3 contains the adjacent parking lot and access road. A single lease agreement between Paramus Associates, LLP, and Home Depot USA, Inc., was used to govern the property, which consisted of both of these lots. On October 1, 2011, the assessor mailed two Chapter 91 requests for income and expense information. Paramus Associates, LLP, completed only one request form which included information for both lots and submitted it to the assessor's office for review.

A letter dated September 11, 2012, which was sent to the tenant, Home Depot, USA, Inc., gives a description of how the property was combined. The letter stated:

In 2004 we combined the lots and in accordance with the approvals from the Town, the Home Depot Bath and Tile building that was previously subject to a separate lease were demolished on Lot 3. Also at that time an extension to the existing Home Depot was built on lot 8. Accordingly we now have one lease for the building which is on lot 8. Lot 3 is only a parking lot and access road into the property. The income and expense report filed with the Town reflects all of our income on both lots 3 & 8.

The Borough of Paramus objected to the letter suggesting that it was inaccurate because Paramus Associates, LLP/Home Depot, USA, Inc., had not submitted yearly expense information. The Borough of Paramus urged the Court to recognize that the single lease agreement did not excuse Paramus Associates, LLP/Home Depot, USA, Inc.'s failure to respond to the Chapter 91 request for Lot 3. The Borough of Paramus argued that, given these circumstances, two things must be reported:

1. Income received from a single tenant to account for value of the improved land (Lot 8); and
2. Income received from the parking area (Lot 3), regardless of the fact that such income may be subsumed within Lot 8.

Using N.J.S.A. 54:4-34, the Borough of Paramus concluded that due to absent reported income for each lot, the taxpayer's appeal is subject to dismissal because the information was not accurate or timely.

Paramus Associates, LLP/Home Depot, USA, Inc., opposed this motion saying that dismissal of the present appeal was not necessary. They contended that there was indeed timely, relevant income information presented for both lots in one document. Furthermore, the two tax parcels were so intertwined as one financial unit that it was virtually impossible to determine the specific income and expenses per parcel. Paramus Associates, LLP/Home Depot, USA, Inc., also stated that it received two redundant requests for the same income and expense information. The plaintiff argued that the request was ambiguous and there was no documentation to clarify that both requests were to be completed and sent back, thereby making the Chapter 91 request deficient.

The issue before the Court was whether a taxpayer that receives two Chapter 91 requests for two separate lots governed by a single lease agreement has failed or refused to respond pursuant to N.J.S.A. 54:4-34 having submitted income and expense information for both tax parcels in the form of a single response.

The defendant's motion was denied. The Court found that the plaintiffs did not ignore the assessor's information request, but provided a timely, sufficient response in sending the Lot 8 form. The Court also found that the Borough of Paramus sent identical forms for both lots but did not fashion the request for Lot 3 in language directed towards the parking lot and access road. In fact, it noted that the form specifically excludes consideration of the parking lot, and if there is room for reasonable doubt as to whether an owner of an income-producing property can understand an assessor's request to include specific information, the benefit of the doubt goes to the property owner. It is also noted that a property owner who receives a Chapter 91 request that is ambiguous may not have its appeal dismissed for failure to respond in a timely manner to such a request.

Property Tax Relief Programs Homestead Rebate Ownership Percentage – Marcelino v. Director, Division of Taxation, decided June 19, 2013, Tax Court, Docket No. 017330-2012.

Mr. and Mrs. Marcelino originally owned their home as tenants by the entirety. A few years before their 2007 divorce they changed the deed to Jovencio D. Marcelino and Celia Marcelino as tenants in common. The judgment of divorce stated that Mr. Marcelino shall continue to reside in the residence and be solely liable for the expenses related to the home, including the payment of property taxes, and that Mr. Marcelino can take credit for all taxes and expenses on his Federal and State income tax returns. The judgment also stated: “The parties acknowledge and agree that they shall share equally (50%/50%) the net proceeds from the sale of the marital residence.”

Mr. Marcelino filed his 2008 homestead benefit application indicating that he owned 100% of the property. He thought that because his divorce judgment stated that he was able to take credit on his New Jersey gross income tax return for all property taxes paid, he was entitled to claim that he was the sole owner of the home.

The Court ruled that even though Mr. Marcelino was responsible for paying 100% of the property taxes under the terms of the divorce, he was not entitled to claim 100% ownership of the property. N.J.S.A. 54:4-8.59(a) specifically states that:

If title to a homestead is held by more than one individual as joint tenants or tenants in common, each individual shall be allowed a homestead rebate or credit pursuant to this section only in relation to the individual’s proportionate share of the property taxes assessed and levied against the homestead.

Under the terms of the divorce decree, Mr. Marcelino owned 50% of the home; therefore, his homestead benefit must be based on 50% ownership of the property and calculated on 50% of the property taxes paid. □

Admissions Surcharge
Surcharge on Certain Admission Charges — P.L. 2013, c.84, signed into law on July 17, 2013, and effective immediately, revises the permitted amount of the surcharge on admission charges at certain major places of amusement. The surcharge is now set at an amount up to 5% of the admission charge, allowing authorized municipalities to collect a surcharge that is less than 5% of the admission charge. The law applies to places of amusement, as defined under the Sales and Use Tax Act, at which admission charges are regularly paid and which seat at least 10,000 patrons. The surcharge may not be imposed at motion picture theaters, amusement parks, or places of amusement owned by, or located on property owned by, the State or an independent State authority.

Alcoholic Beverage Tax
Craft Distillery License — P.L. 2013, c.92, signed into law on August 7, 2013, and effective on the first day of the fourth month after enactment (December 1, 2013), creates a craft distillery license.

Subject to rules and regulations, the holder of a craft distillery license is entitled to manufacture up to 20,000 gallons of distilled alcoholic beverages per year and to make certain sales. The holder of this license cannot sell food or operate a restaurant on the licensed premises. A holder of this license who certifies that not less than 51% of the raw materials used in the production of distilled alcoholic beverages are grown in this State or purchased from providers located in this State may, consistent with all applicable Federal laws and regulations, label these distilled alcoholic beverages as “New Jersey Distilled.”

Cigarette Tax
Unstamped and Counterfeit Cigarettes and Cigarette Smuggling Penalties — P.L. 2013, c.145, signed into law on August 19, 2013, and effective immediately, increases civil and criminal penalties involving unstamped and counterfeit cigarettes and cigarette smuggling. The law also establishes as a crime of the third degree importing, selling or distributing, transporting or possessing with intent to sell counterfeit cigarettes. Civil penalties for specified offenses are doubled and certain maximum county jail terms are doubled.

The law requires the Director of the Division of Taxation to publish monthly reports on the Division’s website that list the quantity of cigarettes sold in this State by distributors, aggregated by manufacturer and brand family.

Corporation Business Tax Credits for Payments to Interns — P.L. 2013, c.60, signed into law on June 6, 2013, and effective immediately, requires that the Commissioner of the Department of Labor and Workforce Development undertake a review of corporation business tax and gross income tax credit programs for payments to interns and report any findings and recommendations directly to the Governor no later than 12 months from the date of enactment. Specifically, the Commissioner must examine the impact of, and make recommendations on, tax credit programs for interns as they pertain to increasing long-term employment for future college graduates.

Motor Vehicle and Motorbus Services — P.L. 2013, c.98, signed into law on August 7, 2013, effective immediately, and applicable to privilege periods beginning on or after January 1, 2013, prohibits the imposition of the corporation business tax on foreign (out-of-State) corporations that would otherwise be subject to the tax, if their only contact with the State of New Jersey is carrying passengers into the State in a motor vehicle or motorbus operated over the public highways, delivering those passengers to a destination in the State, and returning those passengers to a location outside the State.

Neighborhood Revitalization Tax Credit — P.L. 2013, c.61, signed into law on June 6, 2013, effective immediately, and applicable to tax years beginning on or after January 1, 2012, expands the availability of the Neighborhood Revitalization State Tax Credit to include gross income taxpayers. A business entity that contributes financial assistance to a nonprofit sponsor may be granted a tax credit certificate that may be applied against tax liability on business income. The tax credits may be granted in an amount up to 100% of the approved assistance provided to a nonprofit organization to implement a qualified project that is part of an approved neighborhood preservation and revitalization plan. Per taxable year, the credit allowed to a business entity may not exceed

$1 million or the total amount of tax otherwise due. Additionally, the credit may not exceed statutory limits established under the particular tax for which it is claimed.

The credit may be claimed by gross income taxpayers for tax years beginning on or after January 1, 2012; however, N.J.S.A. 52:27D-492e sets forth that the Commissioner of the Department of Community Affairs must specifically issue a certificate and the tax credit must be claimed for that tax year, effectively guaranteeing that no gross income tax credit can be claimed prior to tax year 2013. The available credit shall be a percentage of the taxpayer's gross income tax liability equal to the percentage of the taxpayer's gross income (before exclusions or deductions) attributable to the business through which the qualified project funding was provided. The credit cannot exceed the taxpayer's total liability for that year.

Charitable Contributions and New Jersey Domicile — P.L. 2013, c.73, signed into law on June 27, 2013, and effective immediately, specifies that, for New Jersey gross income tax purposes, donors' contributions to charities are not a factor in determining where a person is domiciled for the purpose of defining tax residency.

Local Property Tax Real Property Assessment County Demonstration Program — P.L. 2013, c.15, signed into law on January 25, 2013, and effective immediately, creates a real property assessment demonstration program. The current system is in place for all counties except Gloucester. Not more than four counties may participate in the program as demonstration counties. There are strict criteria that a county must meet and information a county must provide to the Director of the Division of Local Government Services in the Department of Community Affairs (DLGS) and to the Director of the Division of Taxation in order to implement the program as a demonstration county.

The demonstration program is a collaborative effort between the county tax board and municipal assessors to address the issues of cost effectiveness and the accurate process of assessment.

The demonstration program is based on the utilization by all of a demonstration county's municipalities of the same property assessment software. All future revaluations and reassessments of real property by municipalities in a demonstration county will be performed on the county system, and the system will also be used for other assessment-based functions. The county board of taxation in a demonstration county will absorb the cost of assessment data conversion through assessment appeal filing fees collected by the board.

On October 1, 2013, the demonstration counties are to begin the demonstration program under a plan developed by each county's tax administrator, approved by each county's board of taxation, and submitted to both the Director of the Division of Taxation and the Director of the DLGS not less than 60 days prior to October 1.

Farmland Assessment Act Revisions — P.L. 2013, c.43, signed into law on April 15, 2013, and effective for tax years 2015 and after, makes various revisions to the Farmland Assessment Act of 1964.

The law increases the minimum gross sales and payments standard for typical agricultural or horticultural lands to qualify for farmland assessment on the first five acres of land from the current $500 to $1,000. This change does not apply to woodland managed under a woodland management plan, which will continue to qualify for farmland assessment with minimum gross sales and payments of $500, nor does it apply to land subject to a forest stewardship plan, which has no minimum income qualifying standard for farmland assessment. The State Farmland Evaluation Committee now must review these minimums every three years or sooner and adopt regulations to raise the amount of those minimums to levels the committee determines appropriate.

The new law establishes a civil penalty of up to $5,000 for a gross and intentional misrepresentation on an application to qualify for farmland assessment. The penalties collected are to be divided equally between the municipality or county and the State and dedicated to administering and enforcing the Farmland Assessment Act of 1964.

New, stringent standards to qualify for farmland assessment are now codified, and the State Board of Agriculture and the Department of Agriculture are to develop guidelines describing generally accepted agricultural and horticultural practices. These guidelines are to be distributed to, and may be used by, municipal and county tax assessors, county tax administrators, and other appropriate local government officials to assist them in determining whether land may be deemed to be in agricultural use, horticultural use, or actively devoted to agricultural or horticultural use pursuant to the Farmland Assessment Act of 1964.

The Division of Taxation, after consultation with the State Board of Agriculture, must include with each farmland assessment application a letter or other document explaining any changes to the law, rules, regulations, and guidelines for farmland assessment that have occurred in the prior tax year and which take effect in the tax year for which the application is being submitted. A landowner whose farm management unit is less than seven acres in size is now required to submit with the application a narrative and a sketch relating to the agricultural or horticultural uses on the farm management unit, including information on the number of acres that will be actively devoted to such uses. The Division, in conjunction with the Department of Agriculture, is also required to offer, at such time intervals as may be established by the Division but at least biennially, a continuing education course to municipal and county tax assessors, county tax administrators, and other appropriate local government officials explaining the guidelines. Effective January 1, 2018, in any county or municipality in which farmland-assessed properties are located, the assessor, as a condition of relicensing, must provide proof of having taken the continuing education course at least once in the prior three years.

Multiagency consultation in the disciplines of woodland management or forest stewardship is also required. In addition, the State Farmland

Evaluation Advisory Committee (see N.J.S.A. 54:4-23.20), whose membership is comprised of the Director of the Division of Taxation; the Dean of the College of Agriculture, Rutgers, The State University of New Jersey; and the Secretary of Agriculture, will have enhanced administrative responsibilities in the valuation of land devoted to agricultural or horticultural use as a result of this law.

Miscellaneous

Trustee’s Discretionary Authority Concerning Income Tax Liability — P.L. 2013, c.55, signed into law on May 9, 2013, effective immediately, and applicable to any trust created on or after the effective date, specifies that the trustee’s discretion to pay taxes of the trust creator should not be considered the kind of right that would make the assets of the trust subject to the claims of the creditors of the trust’s creator.

The trust creator is not considered to have the right to receive income or principal of the trust solely because the trustee is authorized under the trust instrument or any other provision of law to pay or reimburse the creator for any tax on trust income or trust principal that is payable by the creator under the law imposing such tax or to pay any such tax directly to the taxing authorities. No creditor of a trust creator is entitled to reach any trust property based on the discretionary powers of the trustee. □

Taxation Joins Sandy Fraud Task Force

The Division of Taxation has joined the Monmouth County Superstorm Sandy Fraud Task Force that was established by the Monmouth County Prosecutor's Office to protect residents from being victimized by fraudulent contractors, salespersons, and others looking to profit from the disaster.

The Task Force is made up of law enforcement officers and regulatory officials from local, State, and Federal agencies, including, among others, the Monmouth County Prosecutor's and Sheriff's Offices, the New Jersey Division of Consumer Affairs, the New Jersey Department of Health, the Internal Revenue Service, and the Federal Bureau of Investigation.

On March 8, 2013, Director Michael Bryan signed a Memorandum of Understanding with the Monmouth County Prosecutor's Office outlining the areas of cooperation and information sharing between their agencies with respect to Taxation's participation as a member of the Task Force.

The mission of the Task Force is both to educate residents on how to protect themselves from storm-related fraud and to provide those who may have been victims of unscrupulous home improvement contractors or other scam artists with a single point of contact to report such fraud.

Members of the countywide Task Force meet regularly to review complaints submitted by homeowners and others and refer them to the appropriate agency for action. In some cases several agencies may take action on the same complaint.

Investigators from the Division of Taxation's Compliance and Enforcement Activity look into complaints referred by the Sandy Fraud Task Force to determine whether or not the business operating here is actually registered in New Jersey and remitting all the required State taxes.

Relying on their experience in dealing with dishonest contractors, the investigators will secure the registration or update the business's existing registration information. If warranted, the investigator will refer the business for audit. In situations where it is necessary to protect the State's interest (i.e., if there is a risk the taxpayer may flee the State), the investigator may issue an on-the-spot jeopardy assessment and demand immediate payment of the tax due. Failure to comply with the assessment will result in immediate seizure of the business's available assets. □

Small Business Workshops

The Division of Taxation provides free small business workshops designed to assist small business owners in meeting their New Jersey tax obligations. The workshops are half-day seminars presented at locations throughout the State. The Internal Revenue Service does not participate in these seminars.

The workshops include the following topics:

- Identifying types of business ownership and the tax consequences of each type.
- Registering a business with the Division of Taxation, Division of Revenue and Enterprise Services, and Department of Labor and Workforce Development.
- Determining what is taxable and what is exempt for New Jersey sales tax purposes.
- Procedures for collecting and remitting various New Jersey taxes.
- Filing sales and use tax returns.
- Meeting employer responsibilities.
- Reporting business income.

To attend a workshop, review the schedule and register with the contact person listed for each event. The contact person can also provide the time of the workshop, parking information, and directions to the location. The Division does not manage the registration process.

The current workshop schedule is available on the Division’s Web site at: www.state.nj.us/treasury/taxation/sbwsched.shtml. The schedule is updated as new workshops are added. □

LOCAL PROPERTY TAX Tax Assessor Exam

New Jersey Tax Assessors must hold a Tax Assessor Certificate when they take office. Certificates are granted only to those who pass the tax assessor examination.

Exams are offered twice a year, in March and September. Michael J. Bryan, Director of the Division of Taxation, said the purpose of the Assessor Certification and Tenure Act, which became law in 1967, is to ensure that assessors and administrators are properly trained in property tax laws, and that the State has sufficient numbers of trained, career professionals to ensure a uniform and fair property tax system.

The next New Jersey certified tax assessor examination will be held on Saturday, September 28, 2013. Applications to take the exam must be filed by Thursday, August 29, 2013. The test will be given at the Richard J. Hughes Justice Complex in Trenton.

Update:
NJ/NY Cooperative Interstate Tax Program

The New Jersey/New York Cooperative Interstate Tax Program ended on December 31, 2010. Since that date, any interstate returns/payments received by the New Jersey Division of Taxation have been forwarded to the State of New York. Effective September 1, 2012, interstate returns and payments that include New York tax will no longer be sent to New York. All sales tax payments will be applied to New Jersey sales tax accounts. If a business erroneously submits an interstate return and payment with New York tax to the New Jersey Division of Taxation on or after September 1, 2012, the business must apply for a refund of this overpayment using a Claim for Refund (Form A-3730).

Criminal Enforcement

Criminal enforcement over the past several months included:

- Office of Criminal Investigation (OCI) special agents, along with other Division and Department personnel, were recognized by the Treasurer for their work during Superstorm Sandy.
- Charles Giblin, Special Agent in Charge, participated in a criminal tax symposium at Bergen County Community College presenting an overview of OCI. The event was attended by CPAs and lawyers who specialize in tax crime defense. Rutgers School of Law and various law firms sponsored the event. IRS Criminal Investigation participated as well. There were many questions about enforcement relating to Top 100 Tax Debtors as well as failed electronic funds transfers and bad checks.
- On January 17, 2013, search warrants were issued in Bloomfield and Passaic, New Jersey. This was a three-month joint investigation with OCI and the Passaic Police Department. Members of the Passaic County Prosecutor's Office, Bloomfield Police Department, and Paterson Police Department assisted in the operation. A search warrant was executed at the Bloomfield, New Jersey residence of Juan Polanco. Seized were 2,129 cartons of cigarettes with counterfeit New Jersey tax stamps as well as Virginia tax stamps affixed to them, 56,806 counterfeit New Jersey tax stamps, 13,395 counterfeit New York tax stamps, and $209,109 in U.S. currency. Polanco was charged and bail was set at $75,000, no 10%. Additional search warrants were executed at the Passaic residence of Victor Matos, who was arrested and released on his own recognizance. Seized were 21 cartons of counterfeit New Jersey-stamped cigarettes, 160 counterfeit New Jersey tax stamps, and $3,765 in U.S. currency. Another search warrant was executed in Passaic at the residence of Ambioris Genao, who was arrested and released on his own recognizance. Seized were 50 cartons of counterfeit New Jersey-stamped cigarettes and $4,271 in U.S. currency. Also arrested were Berto Estevez and Rafael Grullon. Estevez had 40 cartons of counterfeit New Jersey tax-stamped cigarettes in his vehicle and $4,722 on his person. He was released on his own recognizance. Seized from Grullon were four cartons of counterfeit New Jersey tax-stamped cigarettes, $1,237 in U.S. currency, and his vehicle. He posted $100,000 bail, no 10%.

Additional inspections were performed in Paterson and Passaic that led to seizures of cigarettes, tobacco products, and currency. Follow-up investigations resulted in seizures and contraband charges being filed in the City of Passaic. The investigation culminated when Juan R. Polanco turned himself in to authorities on January 24, 2013. Polanco was identified as the main figure in a bi-state contraband cigarette smuggling operation. All subjects were charged with various violations of Title 54 and Title 2C concerning possession of counterfeit tax stamps, possession of untaxed cigarettes, failure to file tax returns due, and failure to maintain books and records with intent to evade taxes. The operation resulted in the seizure of over 3,188 cartons of untaxed cigarettes, 7,850 untaxed cigars, 56,806 counterfeit New Jersey cigarette tax stamps valued at $153,376, and 13,395 counterfeit New York State cigarette tax stamps valued at $58,268. Two vehicles used in the operation were also seized. Special agents seized over $227,000 in U.S. currency used in the scheme, which will be shared with the cooperating agencies.

- Members of OCI's Financial Investigations Unit recently attended the "Stolen Identity Refund Fraud" symposium provided by the U.S. Department of Justice (USDOJ) regarding Tax Division Directive 144. The USDOJ Tax Division has defined a subset of identity theft cases, known as Stolen Identity Refund Fraud Cases (SIRF), which specifically target fraudulent tax refund claims involving the use of stolen identities. To provide Federal law enforcement officials the ability to timely address SIRF cases and to streamline SIRF investigations, the Tax Division issued Directive 144, which delegates to the U.S. Attorneys' Offices the authority to take action without approval from the Tax Division's Criminal Enforcement Sections.

- On January 23, 2013, Herlindo Garcia-Merlos was sentenced to eight years in State prison as a result of a plea deal he entered on November 28, 2012. Garcia-Merlos was also ordered to pay $135,462 in restitution to the New Jersey Department of the Treasury. The restitution is a result of unreported corporation business tax due to Garcia-Merlos's failure to file tax returns for his two businesses, Orients Construction and Melrose Construction. The investigation is for tax years 2006 through 2010.
- On February 12, 2013, a State Grand Jury indictment charged Carrie Ann Manerchia and Lisa Marie Matto with second-degree conspiracy, money laundering, and receiving stolen property for the theft of 36 New Jersey gross income tax refund checks totaling $73,995.44 and 20 United States Treasury checks totaling $23,978.97. The conduct occurred between March 20, 2008, and October 30, 2008. The total theft was just under $98,000. The returns in question were all filed electronically or using the Division's NJ WebFile program and contained similar taxpayer information, such as wage amounts, New Jersey withholdings in excess of 10%, employers, and check mailing addresses. An OCI investigation determined that the individuals whose social security numbers were used without their knowledge were victims of identity theft in a scheme by Manerchia and Matto to defraud the State of New Jersey and the Federal government of tax refunds. Summonses have been issued for Manerchia and Matto and bail has been set at $100,000, 10%.

- On February 14, 2013, Michael L. Jones, a former Atlantic City police officer, was indicted on charges of official misconduct, theft by deception, filing fraudulent tax return, and failure to pay State tax. Jones used his position as a police officer to obtain housing from the Atlantic City Housing Authority through the "Safe Neighborhood" program at a substantially reduced rate. Mr. Jones then sublet the housing to others, collected rent from those tenants, and failed to include the rental income on his New Jersey gross income tax resident return for the years 2005 through 2011. The total tax due is $6,393.70.
- On February 21, 2013, Brian S. Lewis and Shellie Williams were indicted on charges of official misconduct, theft by deception, false claims to government, public servant doing business with self, unsworn falsification, filing fraudulent return, and failure to pay tax. Lewis is a former Atlantic City Housing Authority (ACHA) employee and is married to Williams. The couple allegedly created fraudulent companies and collected payments for work performed by real companies. Lewis and Williams failed to report the payments received from the ACHA on their New Jersey gross income tax resident returns for the years 2009 through 2011. The total tax due is $22,019. On April 23, 2013, Mr. Lewis pled guilty to five counts including second-degree official misconduct, second-degree theft, third-degree theft, third-degree filing a fraudulent tax return, and third-degree failure to pay State tax. Lewis and Williams were charged with the tax offenses as a result of a thorough investigation into the couple's finances by the Office of Criminal Investigation.

- On April 3, 2013, Benjamin H. Isaiah Brown and Ernestine Centeno, both of New York, were indicted in Somerset County and charged with third-degree failure to maintain books and records with intent to evade taxes, fourth-degree conduct requiring license without license to evade payment, fourth-degree dealing with unlicensed person to evade payment of taxes, etc., and fourth-degree possession of 2,000 or more unstamped cigarettes. Arraignment for Brown is scheduled to take place in Somerset County on July 31, 2013, before the Honorable Judge Julie M. Marino. Centeno is currently a fugitive and a Bench Warrant has been issued for her arrest.

- On April 12, 2013, in Essex County Superior Court, Maritza Torres-Falu and her husband, Luis A. Velez, were indicted by a Grand Jury for filing false tax returns, failure to file tax returns, and money laundering for the years 2008 through 2011. Torres-Falu, a former Newark City Hall staffer, now considers herself a tax preparer and insurance broker. The companies operated by the couple and cited in the indictment are Latin Eagles, LLC; Impact 2000, Inc.; and L. Velez General Contracting, LLC. □

Tax Briefs

Gross Income Tax

Rental Income From Property Rented Less Than 15 Days A Year

— A taxpayer inquired about an exclusion from New Jersey gross income for rents received from a property the taxpayer used as a home but rented less than 15 days during the year.

For Federal income tax purposes, if a taxpayer uses a dwelling unit as a home and rents it for less than 15 days during the year, the taxpayer does not include the rent received in income or deduct any associated expenses. However, for New Jersey gross income tax purposes, net gains or net income derived from or in the form of rents, royalties, patents, and copyrights must be included in gross income. N.J.S.A. 54A:5-1(d). Additionally, N.J.A.C. 18:35-1.1(c) (3) states that rental income of a taxpayer which is not received in the conduct of a trade or business must be taken into account in determining the taxpayer's net gains or net income from rents, royalties, patents, and copyrights described in N.J.S.A. 54A:5-1(d).

Because New Jersey law does not provide an exclusion for rental income received from a property used as a home but rented less than 15 days during the year, the taxpayer must include such rental income in gross income.

Practitioners' E-File Mandate

Preparers that reasonably expect to prepare 11 or more individual gross income tax resident returns (including those filed for trusts and estates) during the tax year must use electronic methods to file those returns for which an electronic filing option is available. At this time, there is no electronic filing option available for a New Jersey fiduciary return, Form NJ-1041 (or Form NJ-1041SB for a small business trust). Although the fiduciary returns are currently not filed electronically, preparers must include the number of fiduciary returns they expect to prepare when determining whether they must file all other returns electronically. A tax preparer is liable for a penalty of $50 for each return he or she fails to file electronically when required to do so.

If you have questions concerning the E-File Mandate, call the Division of Taxation at 609-633-6657 or e-mail us at nj.taxation@treas.state.nj.us

Litter Control Fee

Product Category of Soft Drinks and Carbonated Waters — A grocery store inquired about the treatment of sales of bottled water under the litter control fee. One of the product categories subject to the litter control fee is “Soft drinks and carbonated waters.” N.J.S.A. 13:1E-215.3e.

The litter control fee regulations, N.J.A.C. 18:38-3.1(b)14, provide:

Soft drinks and carbonated waters means all beverages, whether carbonated or noncarbonated, except alcoholic beverages, including fruit juices, milk, carbonated water and all mixtures or dilutions of nonalcoholic beverages, but does not include noncarbonated water.

The Division explained to the store that sales of unsweetened noncarbonated water are not subject to the litter control fee. However, if the noncarbonated water contains natural or artificial sweeteners, it is subject to the fee as a soft drink.

Sales and Use Tax

Charges for Tables Provided by a Casino-Style Gaming Company — A taxpayer provides a casino-style gaming entertainment service at events held on the premises of its customer and provides the customer with a gaming table and an operator. The customer does not have possession or control of the table; rather the table is used by the operator to provide a nontaxable entertainment service. The taxpayer inquired as to whether a charge for gaming tables used in the performance of providing the service is taxable when billed to the customer.

The Sales and Use Tax Act contains the following definition of “sales price,” at N.J.S.A. 54:32B-2(oo):

(1) “Sales price” is the measure subject to sales tax and means the total amount of consideration, including cash, credit, property, and services, for which personal property or services are sold, leased, or rented, valued in money, whether received in money or otherwise, without any deduction for the following:

- (A) The seller’s cost of the property sold;
- (B) The cost of materials used, labor or service cost, interest, losses, all costs of transportation to the seller, all taxes imposed on the seller, and any other expense of the seller;
- (C) Charges by the seller for any services necessary to complete the sale;
- (D) Delivery charges;...

The Division responded that the entertainment service provided by the taxpayer is not subject to sales tax. The tables provided by the taxpayer are not subject to tax because they are part of the sales price of the nontaxable entertainment service. Because the taxpayer is using the tables in the performance of the service, the taxpayer is required to pay sales or use tax when purchasing the tables. N.J.S.A. 54:32B-3(a). □ the year at issue. The trust owned shares of four S corporations that conducted some business in New Jersey. Therefore, the S corporations issued a Schedule NJ-K-1 to the trust, reporting the trust's share of S corporation income allocated to New Jersey and outside of New Jersey.

The trust filed a 2006 New Jersey gross income tax fiduciary return and paid tax on its net pro rata share of allocated New Jersey S corporation income but did not pay tax on interest income and net pro rata share of S corporation income allocated outside of New Jersey. As a result of an audit, the Division determined that because it was a resident trust, it was also subject to tax on its net pro rata share of S corporation income allocated outside of New Jersey and the interest income.

On a summary judgment motion, the Court held that New Jersey could not tax the undistributed income from outside New Jersey or the interest income because the trust had insufficient contacts with New Jersey. The Court started its analysis with two prior New Jersey Tax Court cases, Pennoyer and Potter, where it held that the Due Process Clause of the Fourteenth Amendment prevents New Jersey from taxing undistributed income of a trust if the location of the trustee, assets, and beneficiaries are outside of New Jersey.

Addressing the location of the beneficiaries, the Court relied on the fact that the Final Determination and a winter 1999 New Jersey State Tax News article stated that the Division interpreted Pennoyer and Potter to mean that all trust assets and trustees must be located outside New Jersey to avoid taxation; however, neither document included the location of the beneficiaries as a requirement.

The Court found that the trustee was a resident of New York and that the trust was not administered in New Jersey. The Court also stated that it would not consider out-of-State authority where there is relevant New Jersey case law, and that even using a New Jersey address on the New Jersey tax return was not enough for the Court to distinguish the holding in Pennoyer.

The Court also determined that ownership of stock in an S corporation does not constitute ownership of or holding title to the S corporation assets.

Finally, the Court found that although N.J.A.C. 18:35-1.5 would subject a resident S corporation shareholder to tax on income from all sources, the Court would not apply N.J.A.C. 18:35-1 as it was written because it would be a violation of constitutional due process based on the lack of sufficient contacts with New Jersey.

The Division filed an appeal with the New Jersey Appellate Division.

Sales and Use Tax Evidence That Sales Were Originated and Completed in Urban Enterprise Zone – NFF Construction, Inc. v. Director, Division of Taxation, decided December 26, 2012; Tax Court, Docket No. 011330-2009.

During the period at issue, the plaintiff (NFF) had a certificate of authority to collect sales tax at the reduced rate of 3% on sales of tangible property at NFF's Pleasantville, New Jersey location within the urban enterprise zone. NFF sold building materials to a subcontractor for use in the construction of a hotel in Atlantic City and collected 3% sales tax. As a result of an audit, the Division of Taxation determined that such sales did not qualify for the 3% rate and were subject to the full 6% rate.

The law allows a certified vendor to charge 50% of the sales and use tax rate on retail sales made from a place of business located in a designated urban enterprise zone where the business is regularly operated for making retail sales. N.J.A.C. 18:24-31.4 provides that the place of business must regularly exhibit and offer tangible property for retail sale. In addition, delivery of goods must be taken at the vendor's place of business or may be delivered by the vendor to the purchaser if the sale has been completed in person at the zone location.

The corporation business tax returns reflected that NFF did not maintain an inventory. The purchase order terms were “F.O.B. Jobsite” and shipping instructions were to ship to the subcontractor in Atlantic City. A witness testified that the truck first delivered the goods to the Pleasantville location where items were counted and inspected without ever being removed from the truck.

The Court determined that NFF was not entitled to collect tax at the reduced rate because it did not produce credible evidence to prove that the transactions originated and were completed in an urban enterprise zone. The judge opined that the witness was not entirely credible, that documentation submitted into evidence actually contradicted the witness, and that witness testimony was not corroborated by testimonial or documentary evidence. Additionally, the Court concluded that NFF could not rely on the Director’s certificate of authority to collect sales tax at a reduced rate where NFF did not comply with the Director’s regulations setting forth the transactional requirements for the reduced rate.

Bankruptcy – Glenn B. Slater v. Director, Division of Taxation, decided February 25, 2013; Appellate Division, Docket No. A-4579-11T4.

In February 1997, plaintiff Slater received a Notice of Finding of Responsible Person Status for sales and use tax due from his corporation. Slater did not file an administrative protest or appeal to Tax Court.

In September 1999, Slater filed a petition for Chapter 11 bankruptcy with the United States Bankruptcy Court. The Director filed untimely proof of claims which were ultimately expunged. However, the Court didn’t enter an order that these claims were discharged or dischargeable. In April 2002, Slater’s bankruptcy petition was dismissed without a discharge as to any of the debts.

In October 2008, Slater filed a complaint with the Tax Court requesting a refund of sales and use tax and asking that the Division be barred from pursuing its claims because the claims were expunged in the bankruptcy proceeding. The Director moved to dismiss the complaint as untimely and the Tax Court dismissed the complaint for lack of subject matter jurisdiction.

The Appellate Division affirmed the Tax Court and noted that the Director’s claims were not disposed of in Bankruptcy Court. Furthermore, the refund claim was dismissed as untimely because the order expunging the Division’s claims was vacated as a matter of law when the petition was dismissed. Thus, the assessment was neither expunged nor discharged. Slater filed a notice of petition for certification with the New Jersey Supreme Court.

Failure to Maintain Adequate Books and Records – Custom Lawn Sprinkler Co., LLC v. Director, Division of Taxation and Jose Rosario and Sherri Rosario v. Director, Division of Taxation, decided December 5, 2012, Tax Court, Docket Nos. 010929-2007 and 010928-2007.

Custom Lawn Sprinkler Co., LLC (Custom Lawn) is a limited liability company of which Jose Rosario is the sole shareholder and principal. The business provides the installation, maintenance, and repair of lawn sprinkler systems; snow removal; and demolition and debris removal.

Custom Lawn failed to maintain adequate books and records during the relevant tax years. The taxpayer did not issue invoices to its customers and did not obtain ST-8 forms, which are required by regulation. Custom Lawn did not collect, complete, or maintain any documentation with respect to the tax-exempt status of its customers as required by regulation.

Using the information provided, the conferee determined that 42% of the overall receipts for tax year 2004 were subject to New Jersey sales and use tax. The conferee then applied this ratio to the adjusted gross receipts to calculate the taxpayer’s sales tax liability for the periods at issue.

By applying the calculated error ratio to the reported gross receipts, the conferee determined that Custom Lawn had additional (unreported) income for each of the years examined. The unreported income was deemed a constructive distribution to the shareholder, Jose Rosario.

In both cases, the Tax Court granted summary judgment in favor of the Division which affirmed the taxes, penalties, and interest against both the business and the shareholder individually. □

Superstorm Sandy Outreach Events

Marita Sciarrotta, Acting Assistant Director of the Division's Technical Services Activity, provides assistance at an outreach event.

The State Treasurer's Office asked the Division of Taxation to conduct a series of outreach events to provide tax assistance in municipalities most affected by Superstorm Sandy, which pummeled New Jersey in October 2012.

One of the most powerful storms ever to strike New Jersey, Sandy caused widespread power outages, massive flooding, infrastructure collapse, and destruction of entire buildings. The storm washed away homes and businesses along with sidewalks, boardwalks, bridges, and railroad tracks. Cars, trucks, personal and business records, jobs, and the stability communities had enjoyed for generations were swept away.

To help residents who suffered storm damage, Marita Sciarrotta, Acting Assistant Director, Technical Services Activity, assembled a team consisting of representatives from both government and the private sector, including Taxation, the IRS, the Treasurer's and Governor's offices, the Division of Revenue and Enterprise Services, the New Jersey Department of Labor and Workforce Development, and New Jersey Natural Gas. The team traveled to Atlantic, Bergen, Monmouth, and Ocean Counties, where they conducted thirteen outreach sessions during February and March. The events were held evenings and weekends in libraries, municipal buildings, and other centrally located sites to make it as easy as possible for storm victims to attend.

During the sessions over 500 residents were able to speak one-on-one with team members about dozens of issues including: local property tax assessments, casualty loss determinations, small business loans, grant applications, motor vehicle and vessel replacement, contractor responsibilities, capital improvements versus repairs, personal and business filing obligations, property tax relief, and obtaining copies of destroyed tax documents.

IRS representatives gave an overview of how to claim a casualty loss on the Federal income tax return using Form 4684 and discussed strategies for maximizing tax deductions. The IRS presentation also included a Question & Answer period.

"This program was great," said one Little Egg Harbor resident. "They told us so much and I have confidence in what they said. If I have any questions later, they gave me reference materials with phone numbers I can call to get the right answers," she said.

"The reps gave us a lot of information on a wide range of topics," said a 38-year resident of Toms River who attended one of the sessions with her husband. "They gave everyone clear answers to their questions and pointed you in the right direction," she added. "The Q&A session was also valuable," said her husband. "It prompted me to consider questions I hadn't thought about before," he said. "This was certainly valuable for people who need help," both husband and wife agreed. "It would be worthwhile having it again," they said.

"The purpose of these events was to bring government to the people," Sciarrotta said after the program. "We were able to connect with people, to look into their eyes and share in their pain. We provided assistance directly to hundreds of people who were frustrated and angry. I felt very humbled and honored to have been a part of this outreach program." □

Update:

NJ/NY Cooperative Interstate Tax Program

The New Jersey/New York Cooperative Interstate Tax Program ended on December 31, 2010. Since that date, any interstate returns/payments received by the New Jersey Division of Taxation have been forwarded to the State of New York. Effective September 1, 2012, interstate returns and payments that include New York tax will no longer be sent to New York. All sales tax payments will be applied to New Jersey sales tax accounts. If a business erroneously submits an interstate return and payment with New York tax to the New Jersey Division of Taxation on or after September 1, 2012, the business must apply for a refund of this overpayment using a Claim for Refund (Form A-3730).

in compliance with the New Jersey Cigarette Tax Act. This month the Virginia Carolina Corporation has been granted a New Jersey cigarette manufacturer's license and the Boss and Diva brands will soon become available to New Jersey customers.

- Treasurer Andrew Sidamon-Eristoff assigned OCI special agents to the New Jersey State Police and the New Jersey Office of Homeland Security and Preparedness for operational support during Superstorm Sandy. Special agents carried out their previously established post-strike damage and security assessment of nine Taxation facilities, some of which were in significantly damaged areas where law enforcement resources were minimal. This function was conducted twice a day until a location was established as secure and operational. OCI special agents established a resource management system in coordination with Division of Purchase and Property personnel in the State Emergency Operations Center (SEOC) at the Regional Operations Intelligence Center (ROIC). They manned the SEOC 24 hours a day starting on October 29, 2012, until the operational level was reduced and carried out various other law enforcement and support missions for other State agencies during the storm and into the recovery phase.

- In our joint program with private parcel carriers a total of 13,000 pouches of untaxed tobacco products were intercepted before delivery to a New Jersey business.
- After a seizure of a business by Compliance investigators, OCI was contacted to evaluate potential counterfeit products before they could be sold at auction to satisfy the tax liability. As a result, special agents seized 2,733 counterfeit DVDs and CDs, and charged the business owner with criminal possession of counterfeit goods. These products are part of an increasing underground activity where the products are considered untaxed goods and no taxes are collected for their sale.
- On November 28, 2012, chiropractors Christopher Montana and Fernando Barrese pled guilty to accepting cash payments in exchange for referrals. This case was a joint investigation with the Office of the Insurance Fraud Prosecutor (OIFP) into violations of New Jersey's anti-running statue. Montana and Barrese each pled guilty to two counts of third-degree use of runners and third-degree filing false and fraudulent tax returns. On December 19, 2012, Montana and Barrese were each sentenced to seven years in State prison by Superior Court Judge Thomas V. Manahan in Morris County. Under the plea agreements, each defendant was also ordered to pay restitution of a total of $200,000 to the involved insurance carriers and to amend their respective tax returns. In addition, Mr. Barrese was ordered to pay $135,593.33 in back taxes plus $104,858.11 in penalties and interest for a total of $240,451.44 to the New Jersey Division of Taxation for tax years 2007–2009. Mr. Montana was ordered to pay $40,058.20 for back taxes plus $30,974.60 in penalties and interest for a total of $71,032.80 for tax years 2008 and 2009. Each defendant's chiropractic license was suspended for 18 months.

- On December 7, 2012, in the Mercer County Courthouse before Honorable Thomas M. Brown, Wayne Dunich Kolb was sentenced to four years in State prison for stealing $189,787 in checks that small business clients wrote to pay their taxes. Mr. Kolb, acting as a tax preparer, failed to remit his clients' payments of sales tax or payroll withholding taxes to the State of New Jersey, New York State, and the Internal Revenue Service. Instead, he deposited their payments into his personal bank accounts. He admitted he stole $129,278 in checks written to pay taxes to the State of New Jersey, $7,151 in checks intended for the State of New York, and $53,358 in checks for the Federal government. At the time of sentencing, he wrote checks in the amounts of $80,000 and $34,000 to the State of New Jersey and $53,358.87 to the U.S. Treasury. □

Gross Income Tax

Employer Withholding for New Jersey Resident Employed Totally Outside New Jersey — An employer asked the Division whether they have to withhold New Jersey gross income tax for a New Jersey resident employee employed totally outside of this State.

Under the New Jersey Gross Income Tax Act, residents of New Jersey are subject to tax on all their income taxable under the law derived from all sources during the taxable year. N.J.S.A. 54A:2-1. All compensation paid to a resident of New Jersey is subject to withholding, even though some or all of the services may have been rendered outside of New Jersey.

Every employer that maintains an office or transacts business within New Jersey and pays wages subject to the New Jersey gross income tax to an employee must deduct and withhold tax computed in such manner as to result in withholding of an amount for the calendar year that is substantially equivalent to the tax reasonably estimated to be due based on the inclusion in the employee's New Jersey income of wages received during that calendar year. N.J.S.A. 54A:7-1.

In the event a New Jersey resident is employed totally outside New Jersey and is subject to the withholding tax of the state within which he or she is employed, the employer is not obligated to withhold New Jersey gross income tax, provided that the withholdings required by the other state equal or exceed the withholdings required for New Jersey purposes. Where the required New Jersey income tax withholdings are greater, the employer must withhold and remit the difference between the amount required for New Jersey purposes and the amount withheld for income tax purposes in such other states. For information on withholding New Jersey gross income tax see the publication New Jersey Gross Income Tax Instruction Booklet for Employers, Payors of Pension and Annuity Income and Payors of Gambling Winnings (NJ-WT).

Employers required to withhold New Jersey State income tax are liable for that tax with interest and penalty if they fail to withhold under N.J.S.A. 54A:7-5.

Partnership/LLC Technical Termination — A taxpayer inquired about a partnership/LLC that undergoes a technical termination wherein 50 percent or more of the ownership interests are sold to new members (but the entity itself is not legally terminated or dissolved) and whether New Jersey follows the same treatment as for Federal purposes. The taxpayer asked whether a short period return should be filed by the old entity and a succeeding short period return filed by the new entity or whether one return should be filed for the entire 12-month period with attached copies of the two short period returns

Preparers that reasonably expect to prepare 11 or more individual gross income tax resident returns (including those filed for trusts and estates) during the tax year must use electronic methods to file those returns for which an electronic filing option is available. At this time, there is no electronic filing option available for a New Jersey fiduciary return, Form NJ-1041 (or Form NJ-1041SB for a small business trust). Although the fiduciary returns are currently not filed electronically, preparers must include the number of fiduciary returns they expect to prepare when determining whether they must file all other returns electronically. A tax preparer is liable for a penalty of $50 for each return he or she fails to file electronically when required to do so.

If you have questions concerning the E-File Mandate, call the Division of Taxation at 609-633-6657 or e-mail us at nj.taxation@treas.state.nj.us

filed with the Internal Revenue Service. The taxpayer also asked how to calculate the $150 per partner filing fee and the 50 percent prepayment of the filing fee for the following year for the short period returns.

The Internal Revenue Code provides that the partnership's year will close for the partnership and for all the partners if there is an actual or deemed termination of the partnership. Under IRC §708(b)(1)(B), a partnership is deemed to terminate if, within a 12-month period, there is a sale or exchange of 50 percent or more of the total interest in partnership capital and profits. The partnership's tax year ends on the date of a termination.

For New Jersey purposes, the standard for determining which method of accounting to use is set forth in N.J.S.A. 54A:8-3, which provides that a taxpayer's accounting method under this Act shall be the same as the accounting method for Federal income tax purposes. In the absence of any accounting method for Federal income tax purposes, New Jersey taxable income shall be computed under such method as, in the opinion of the Director, clearly reflects income. The statute further states that if a taxpayer's accounting method is changed for Federal income tax purposes, the accounting method shall be similarly changed for New Jersey purposes.

Consequently, if the partnership is filing multiple short period returns with the Federal government, then the partnership is required to file multiple short period returns with New Jersey.

The requirement to pay the per partner filing fee for the current year and the installment payment of 50 percent of the fee for the succeeding year is set forth at N.J.S.A. 54A:8-6(b)(2). With respect to the per partner filing fee, the statute states that: "Each entity classified as a partnership for federal income tax purposes, other than an investment club, having any income derived from New Jersey sources ... that has more than two owners shall at the prescribed time for making the return required under this subsection make a payment of a filing fee of $150 for each owner of an interest in the entity ..." N.J.S.A. 54A:8-6(b)(2)(4).

Therefore, a partnership that files multiple short period returns is required to pay the filing fee separately with each Form NJ-1065. For example, a partnership with three partners that files two short period returns in one year would pay $1125 ($900 in current filing fees and $225 as prepayment) with the first return. The partnership will not be required to pay the 50 percent installment payment with the second short period return.

The installment payment that was paid with the first short period return will be credited to the second short period return and applied to the succeeding year's return. □

In Our Legislature Corporation Business Tax

New Jersey Angel Investor Tax Credit Act—P.L. 2013, c.14, signed into law on January 31, 2013, and effective for privilege periods and taxable years beginning on or after January 1, 2012, revives the expired Small New Jersey Based High Technology Business Investment Tax Credit by establishing credits against corporation business and gross income taxes for individuals or entities investing in New Jersey emerging technology businesses. Subject to certain limitations, the credits equal 10% of qualified investment in an emerging technology company as approved by the Economic Development Authority, subject to a $25 million annual cap.

Tax credit recipients cannot claim credits for that part of an investment in a single company that exceeds $500,000. For gross income tax purposes it is a refundable credit, while corporation business taxpayers may choose between a refund and a 15-year carryforward credit.

Angel investments are equity placements by high net worth individuals into high-risk start-up ventures.

2014 NJ Special Olympics Home Team Fund — P.L. 2013, c.13, signed into law on January 29, 2013, and effective for tax years 2012, 2013, and 2014, establishes the 2014 NJ Special Olympics Home Team Fund. It gives New Jersey taxpayers the opportunity to make voluntary contributions on their State gross income tax returns to support New Jersey athletes participating in the 2014 Special Olympics USA Games.

New Jersey Angel Investor Tax Credit Act — See Corporation Business Tax.

Miscellaneous

Fraud Prevention Contractors — P.L. 2013, c.20, signed into law on January 25, 2013, and effective immediately, authorizes the use of fraud prevention contractors by the Division of Taxation. It provides that the Director may enter into agreements with one or more private persons, companies, associations, or corporations providing fraud prevention services. It further provides that the Director may provide such taxpayer information as is necessary for the provider of fraud prevention services to fulfill its obligations under the fraud prevention agreement, provided that such disclosure is not contrary to the provisions of subsection (a) of Section 6103 of the Internal Revenue Code of 1986, 26 U.S.C. §6103.

The law is designed to expand the Division’s ability to employ subcontractors to assist in activities specifically related to fraud prevention. All persons, companies, associations, or corporations providing fraud prevention services, and their employees, would be specifically subject to the confidentiality provisions of N.J.S.A. 54:50-8. Each entity is required to furnish the Director with the affidavit attesting to each employee’s acknowledgement of the confidentiality provisions noted in the law. □

New Jersey income tax return processing will start January 30 due to delayed opening of tax season for Federal returns.

There have been some important changes affecting the preparation of New Jersey income tax returns and applications for New Jersey's property tax relief programs this year:

Income Tax

- Alternative Business Calculation Adjustment — Beginning with tax year 2012, taxpayers who have losses in certain business-related categories of income can utilize those losses to calculate an adjustment to their taxable income ("Alternative Business Calculation Adjustment"). In addition, taxpayers can carry forward unused losses in those categories for a period of 20 years to calculate future adjustments. This change applies to residents, nonresidents, and estates and trusts.

Income/losses in the following four categories are included in the calculation of the adjustment: net profits from business; net gains or net income from rents, royalties, patents, and copyrights; distributive share of partnership income; and net pro rata share of

S corporation income. Taxpayers with income and/or losses in any of these categories must complete two new return schedules: Schedule NJ-BUS-1, Business Income Summary Schedule, and Schedule NJ-BUS-2, Alternative Business Calculation Adjustment, to calculate the amount of their adjustment or loss carryforward. The percentage used to calculate the adjustment is being phased in over five years. The percentage will increase from 10 percent for tax year 2012 to 50 percent for tax year 2016 and after.

NOTE: The Alternative Business Calculation Adjustment does not change the way income is reported on the New Jersey income tax return. A net loss in any category of income cannot be reported as such on Form NJ-1040, Form NJ-1040NR, or Form NJ-1041. When reporting income on the return, a net loss in one category of income cannot be applied against income or gains in another, and no carryback or carryforward of losses is allowed.

- Use Tax — A new worksheet has been developed (Worksheet G, Use Tax Calculation) to make it easier for New Jersey residents to determine the amount to report on Line 45, Use Tax Due on Internet, Mail-Order, or Other Out-of-State Purchases.
- Deceased Taxpayers — A new oval has been added below the signature line that must be filled in if a copy of a deceased taxpayer's death certificate is enclosed with the return. This oval should be filled in and a copy of the death certificate enclosed only if there is a refund due and the check needs to be issued to the decedent's surviving spouse/civil union partner or estate.
- Designated Contributions — Three new funds have been added to the list of organizations to which taxpayers can contribute on the New Jersey tax return. To donate to the new funds, taxpayers must specify the "code number" at the "Other Designated Contribution" line. The new funds that have been added for 2012 are: Boys and Girls Clubs in New Jersey Fund (12), NJ National Guard State Family Readiness Council Fund (13), and American Red Cross-NJ Fund (14).
- Credit for Excess UI/WF/SWF; DI; FLI Withheld — For 2012, the maximum employee unemployment insurance/workforce development partnership fund/supplemental workforce fund contribution was $128.78, the maximum employee disability insurance contribution was $60.60, and the maximum employee family leave insurance contribution was $24.24. Taxpayers with two or more employers who have contributed more than the maximum amount(s), must complete Form NJ-2450 to claim credit on their New Jersey tax return for the excess withheld.
- Roth IRAs — Taxpayers who converted an existing IRA to a rollover Roth IRA during tax year 2010 and made a Federal election to report the income in equal installments in 2011 and 2012 must report one-half of the amount that is taxable for New Jersey purposes on their income tax return for 2012.

- Homestead Benefit Program — Information about the 2012 Homestead Benefit Program is not yet available.

Homeowners. New Jersey residents who owned and occupied a home in New Jersey that was their principal residence on October 1, 2012, may be eligible for a homestead benefit provided the 2012 property taxes were paid and certain income limits are met. The homestead benefit application for homeowners is not included in the NJ-1040 booklet.

Information about the 2012 homestead benefit will be posted on our Web site as it becomes available.

Tenants. There is no tenant rebate application available for 2012 since tenant rebates for 2009 through 2011 were suspended by the State Budget.

- 2012 Property Tax Reimbursement (Senior Freeze) — The property tax reimbursement application has been redesigned for tax year 2012 to make it easier for New Jersey residents to complete. In addition, the method of reporting pension and retirement benefits (including IRA and annuity income) for property tax reimbursement purposes has changed as a result of a recent court decision.

With very few exceptions, all income received during the year, including income which is not required to be reported on Form NJ-1040, must be taken into account to determine eligibility for the property tax reimbursement. For residents applying for reimbursements for tax year 2012, total annual income must be:

These limits apply regardless of marital/civil union status. However, if an applicant's status is married/CU couple, combined income of both spouses/CU partners must be reported.

NOTE: Eligibility requirements, including income limits, and benefits available under this program are subject to change by the State Budget. The eligibility requirements and benefit amounts for 2012 property tax reimbursements will not be finalized until the completion of the State Budget that must be adopted by July 1, 2013. □

Correction

The printed version of Form NJ-2450, Employee's Claim for Credit for Excess UI/WF/SWF, Disability Insurance, and/or Family Leave Insurance Contributions for Calendar Year 2012, that appears in the 2012 New Jersey resident return instruction booklet contains incorrect line number references. The instructions at Lines 4, 5, and 6 of Form NJ-2450 that indicate where to enter excess UI/WF/SWF, disability insurance, and family leave insurance contribution amounts on the Form NJ-1040 resident return list the wrong line numbers.

The instructions for Lines 4, 5, and 6 of Form NJ-2450 should read as follows:

Taxpayers who use the printed Form NJ-2450 contained in the NJ-1040 resident return booklet must be careful to enter any excess contribution amounts on the correct lines of Form NJ-1040.

Nonresident taxpayers who complete Form NJ-2450 must enter the amount of excess contributions on the nonresident return as follows: UI/WF/SWF on Line 48, Form NJ-1040NR, disability insurance on Line 49, Form NJ-1040NR, and

Electronic Filing for CBT Returns

In November 2012, the New Jersey Division of Revenue and Enterprise Services began offering an enhanced electronic filing service to the business community for New Jersey corporation business tax (CBT) returns. The system, which is based on Federal/State Modernized e-File (MeF) program, will support the submission and processing of most CBT schedules and forms.

Authorized E-File providers, also known as Electronic Return Originators (EROs) can submit returns to the MeF system for processing. New Jersey returns can be submitted with a Federal return, or as a "State Only" submission. New Jersey will accept returns electronically from any IRS approved software provider.

For 2012, Form CBT-100 and Form CBT-100S returns, as well as most related schedules, can be filed electronically. In addition to accepting returns for tax year 2012, the New Jersey CBT E-File system will also allow the processing of 2011 filings. Electronic filing for CBT returns first became available in June 2012 for the 2011 tax year, and to date almost 1,600 returns for 2011 have been filed.

As of January 2013, software products from three developers have passed the testing procedures established by the Division of Revenue and Enterprise Services for participating in CBT E-File for 2012: Thomson Reuters (2 products), Online Taxes, and TaxSlayer. Three additional developers are currently in the process of testing their CBT E-File products, and two others have expressed interest in developing a product. □

Update:

NJ/NY Cooperative Interstate Tax Program

The New Jersey/New York Cooperative Interstate Tax Program ended on December 31, 2010. Since that date, any interstate returns/payments received by the New Jersey Division of Taxation have been forwarded to the State of New York. Effective September 1, 2012, interstate returns and payments that include New York tax will no longer be sent to New York. All sales tax payments will be applied to New Jersey sales tax accounts. If a business erroneously submits an interstate return and payment with New York tax to the New Jersey Division of Taxation on or after September 1, 2012, the business must apply for a refund of this overpayment using a Claim for Refund (Form A-3730).

Criminal Enforcement

Criminal enforcement over the past several months included:

- On July 30, 2012, Marcus Shelton of Brooklyn, New York, pled guilty to possession of untaxed tobacco products. He was sentenced to 45 days in jail and fined $250.
- The Office of Criminal Investigation (OCI), along with the National White Collar Crime

Center (NW3C) and the Burlington County Prosecutor’s Office, sponsored an intelligence-sharing conference relative to Interstate 95 cigarette smuggling activity. Over 130 law enforcement officers from 43 law enforcement agencies from Virginia to Maine attended. The primary purposes were to develop a standard intelligence-gathering tool which NW3C can utilize as a U.S. Department of Justice-approved intelligence agency and to discuss smuggler tradecraft as uncovered by the law enforcement personnel in attendance.

- On August 20, 2012, an OCI special agent arrested Chaudry Iqbal of Atlantic City based on outstanding warrants from prior OCI cases. An inspection of Hajiwala LLC of Atlantic City resulted in the seizure of 11.8 cartons of Virginia-stamped cigarettes along with 101 counterfeit DVDs and several boxes of Black Ant and Street Overlord, so-called street supplements, which contain prescription legend drugs, as well as some pills believed to be a controlled dangerous substance. Iqbal was charged previously by OCI on March 12, 2012, for contraband cigarettes. He failed to appear on those matters. A total of $2,583 in U.S. currency was seized. The Atlantic City Court set bail based on the special agent’s arrest of Iqbal at $12,000, no 10%. He was incarcerated pending the posting of bail.
- OCI is coordinating with U.S. Customs & Border Protection, and an investigation by OCI special agents resulted in the seizure of 400 cartons of contraband cigarettes (unstamped) illegally imported for sale into New Jersey. OCI continues its aggressive enforcement against illegal imports.

- On August 23, 2012, Frank Johnson of New York, New York, was indicted by a Gloucester County Grand Jury for contraband cigarette smuggling of 292 cartons of Virginia-stamped cigarettes after his arrest by OCI special agents in October 2011. Two other individuals arrested at the same time were not indicted as Johnson took responsibility for the cigarettes.
- Wawa finalized their transition this month from nonresident to resident New Jersey cigarette distributor. Though Wawa's new Carney's Point, New Jersey, facility has been up and running with logistics partner McLane, OCI personnel were present at their Wawa, Pennsylvania, location, along with an auditor from the Pennsylvania Department of Revenue, to wrap up nonresident operations. OCI coordinates with other revenue law enforcement agencies to ensure smooth transitions with industries regulated by the Division.

- Ocean County Prosecutor Marlene Lynch Ford announced on August 29, 2012, the arrest of a Wall Township developer, several of his family members, and a business associate in connection with a mortgage fraud investigation conducted over the past year, dubbed "Operation Family Affair." The following people were taken into custody: Christopher "Chris" Colatrella, John T. Colatrella, Alexis Colatrella, Vincent Veritas, Delores Cittadino, and Martin Damato. These defendants are charged with theft by deception and/or conspiracy. It is alleged that Chris Colatrella sold condominium units located at 114 Center Street in Lakehurst, New Jersey, which were owned by his company, CMC Holdings, to the above-referenced family members and business associates. These individuals obtained mortgage loans in order to purchase these properties, and it is alleged they falsified and misrepresented their employment, income, and assets on the applications in order to obtain approval for the loans. All of the condo units involved in these transactions subsequently went into foreclosure, causing substantial financial loss to the lender. However, as the initial seller of these properties, Chris Colatrella allegedly realized receipts in excess of $2 million. An auditor from OCI participated in this investigation.

- On September 14, 2012, Dorian Munoz, pursuant to his guilty plea, was sentenced by the Honorable N. Peter Conforti in Sussex County Superior Court to five years' probation and ordered to pay restitution in the amount of $40,744 to the State of New Jersey. Mr. Munoz pled guilty to theft by failure to make required disposition of property received (3rd degree) and failure to pay or turn over sales and use taxes (3rd degree) while operating the business Spartan Cutting Edge Landscaping, Inc.
- On September 14, 2012, Wayne Dunich-Kolb pled guilty in the Mercer County Courthouse before the Honorable Thomas M. Brown to theft by failure to make required disposition of property received. Mr. Kolb, acting as a tax preparer, failed to remit his clients' payments of sales taxes, payroll taxes, and withholdings to the State of New Jersey, New York State, and the IRS. Instead, he deposited their payments into his personal bank accounts. At the time of his sentencing on November 16, 2012, Mr. Kolb was required to pay restitution in the amount of $189,789.07, including $129,278.73 to the State of New Jersey, $7,151.47 to the State of New York, and $53,358.87 to the IRS. Also, as a result of the plea agreement Mr. Kolb is required to file credible and honest New Jersey resident income tax returns for tax years 2005 to the present. He is to cease preparing tax returns other than his own. This was a joint investigation with IRS Criminal Investigations and was conducted by members of OCI's Financial Investigations Unit.

- On September 26, 2012, Adebowale Sheba and Johnson Coker were sentenced to five years each in State prison. Adebowale Sheba pled guilty on June 28, 2012, to two counts of second-degree theft by deception. Sheba will be ordered to pay restitution to the lenders for mortgage fraud in an amount to be determined by the Court. Johnson Coker pled guilty on June 28, 2012, to one count of second-degree conspiracy and third-degree receipt of stolen property. Coker was ordered to pay restitution of $55,206 to the State. The financial investigation was conducted by an auditor of OCI's Special Frauds Unit.
- OCI continues to see an increase in other tobacco products being smuggled into New Jersey and sold at retail stores. There has also been a large increase in other tobacco products and synthetic marijuana being stored and sold together. OCI special agents have charged a record number of retailers and individuals and continue to seize these untaxed cigars and loose tobacco along with the currency connected to the criminal activity, successfully moving for forfeiture in the courts. □

Bulk Sales Notification Requirements: Federal Foreclosure and Transfer of U.S. Marshal's Deed Exempt — The Division received an inquiry concerning whether the bulk sales requirements of N.J.S.A. 54:50-38 apply in the context of Federal judicial foreclosures. The Division replied that such foreclosures are exempt from the bulk sales requirements.

The bulk sales law, N.J.S.A. 54:50-38, requires the purchaser of any business assets to notify the State at least 10 business days in advance of the transfer. An escrow account is established for the seller's tax liabilities to the Division of Taxation. After final payments of State tax debts are remitted to the State, the Division will authorize the release of the remaining portion, if any, in escrow to the seller by issuing the Division's clearance letter.

In view of the holding in New Jersey Hotel Holdings, Inc. v. Director, Div. of Taxation, 15 N.J. Tax 428 (Tax 1996), the Division of Taxation has exempted sheriff's sales in foreclosure from the bulk sales requirements of N.J.S.A. 54:50-38.

Federal law provides that for lien purposes a Federal court judgment must be treated the same as a State court judgment. 28 U.S.C. §1962, The Uniform Enforcement of Foreign Judgments Act, adopted by the New Jersey Legislature and codified at N.J.S.A. 2A:49A-25 et seq., provides that a foreign judgment refers to any judgment, decree, or order of a court of the United States or of any other court which is entitled to full faith and credit in the State of New Jersey. See N.J.S.A. 2A:49A-26. When read together, these provisions indicate that there is no basis to distinguish between a sheriff's sale and a foreclosure in Federal court.

Under the bulk sales law there is no distinction between a State court foreclosure judgment and a Federal foreclosure judgment for enforcement purposes; so there is no basis to make a distinction between a State sheriff's deed and a U.S. Marshal's deed. Therefore, the exemption from the bulk sales requirements for sheriff's sales will also apply to U.S. Marshal's deeds transferred in

Preparers that reasonably expect to prepare 11 or more individual gross income tax resident returns (including those filed for trusts and estates) during the tax year must use electronic methods to file those returns for which an electronic filing option is available. At this time, there is no electronic filing option available for a New Jersey fiduciary return, Form NJ-1041 (or Form NJ-1041SB for a small business trust). Although the fiduciary returns are currently not filed electronically, preparers must include the number of fiduciary returns they expect to prepare when determining whether they must file all other returns electronically. A tax preparer is liable for a penalty of $50 for each return he or she fails to file electronically when required to do so.

If you have questions concerning the E-File Mandate, call the Division of Taxation at 609-633-6657 or e-mail us at nj.taxation@treas.state.nj.us

Federal foreclosures. The transfer of a deed in lieu of foreclosure, however, is subject to the bulk sales notification requirements of N.J.S.A. 54:50-38. See New Jersey Hotel Holdings, Inc. v. Director, Div. of Taxation, 15 N.J. Tax 428 (Tax 1996).

Corporation Business Tax Partnerships and the Grow New Jersey Tax Credit — A taxpayer inquired about the Grow New Jersey Assistance Program established under N.J.S.A. 34:1B-244 that is effective in 2012. The program allows the New Jersey Economic Development Authority to grant tax credits to businesses that meet the eligibility qualifications of the grant program. The taxpayer specifically asked how a partnership can take this tax credit if it is only applicable to entities subject to the New Jersey corporation business tax and to insurance companies.

The Division responded that under the Grow New Jersey Assistance Program “business” means a corporation that is subject to the tax imposed pursuant to N.J.S.A. 54:10A-5, a corporation that is subject to the tax imposed under N.J.S.A. 54:18A-2, N.J.S.A. 54:18A-3, N.J.S.A. 17:32-15, or N.J.S.A. 17B:23-5, or a partnership, an S corporation, or a limited liability corporation. A business also includes an affiliate of the business if that business applies for a credit based upon any capital investment made by, or full-time employees of, an affiliate. N.J.S.A. 34:1B-243.

Pursuant to N.J.S.A. 34:1B-247(c) (2), a business that is a partnership may not claim the credit directly, but the amount of the credit shall be allocated to partners of the partnership in proportion to their share of the partnership. If a corporation or an insurance company is a partner in a partnership that is claiming the Grow New Jersey Tax Credit, such corporation or insurance company can claim their share of the credit against their corporation business tax or insurance premiums tax. Therefore, the credit flows through to the partners and is applied to the appropriate tax.

and labor. The landscaper typically charges $200 for tree installation services. The landscaper inquired whether he could put his profit in the materials portion of the bill so that his labor charge would not be increased, allowing him to inflate his normal profit margin.

The Division responded that under the Sales and Use Tax Act, sales of materials and supplies to contractors are taxable because the contractor is considered the final consumer (or end user) of these items. A contractor is not considered a retailer or reseller of materials. Thus, when a contractor performs work on the real property of a customer, he should not charge the customer sales tax on the cost of materials and supplies used for the job. In other words, a contractor should not be charging a property owner tax on the materials portion of the bill whether the service performed is an exempt capital improvement, a taxable capital improvement, a repair, or a maintenance service. The only time that the customer will pay tax on the materials charge is when the bill is stated as a lump sum for a taxable job without separating the charge for materials from the charge for labor.

If the contractor chooses to separately itemize the materials and labor portion of the bill for a taxable service transaction, the only amount deductible from the taxable receipt for sales tax purposes is the separately stated pass-through of the actual cost of materials. This amount may include the sales tax paid by the contractor when the materials and supplies were purchased. The remainder of the customer's bill relates to the labor and is subject to sales tax. Thus, tax is charged on the "profit" if the job is a taxable service transaction.

Therefore, if the landscaper chooses to separately charge for labor and materials when performing a taxable job, he should charge the customer $107 for materials. This amount is not subject to tax. The remainder of the customer's bill is deemed to be for labor and is subject to sales tax.

Purchase of Handheld Radios by Security Guard Company to be Used on the Premises of a Client — A security guard company inquired whether their purchase of handheld radios to be used by security guard employees on the premises of a client is subject to sales and use tax. The company provides taxable security guard services for the client. The security guard company leases the handheld radios from a leasing company and the security guard company's client reimburses them for the monthly lease. Since the security guard company is charged sales tax on the monthly lease by the leasing company, they inquired whether they should charge tax on the reimbursement bill to the client.

The Division responded as follows:

The definition of "sales price" which is set forth at N.J.S.A. 54:32B-2(oo) (1) (italics added) states that:

- (1) Sales price is the measure subject to sales tax and means the total amount of consideration, including cash, credit, property, and services, for which personal property or services are sold, leased, or rented, valued in money, whether received in money or otherwise, without any deduction for the following:

- (A) The seller's cost of the property sold;
- (B) The cost of materials used, labor or service cost, interest, losses, all costs of transportation to the seller, all taxes imposed on the seller, and any other expense of the seller;...

Select "Electronic Services" to make a payment directly from your bank account (E-Check) or to pay by credit card.

Although a seller may generally purchase goods and services that will be resold to their customer without the payment of tax by issuing a resale certificate to the seller, under the above facts the security guard company is not reselling the radios to the client. Instead, the security guard company is using the radios in the performance of the security service and, therefore, the security guard company must pay tax when leasing the radios from the leasing company. N.J.S.A. 54:32B-2(f); N.J.S.A. 54:32B-3(a). Since the radios will be used by security guard employees on the premises of the client, the lease of the radios is an expense that the security guard company incurs in order to provide the security service (e.g., an overhead expense of the seller). The charge for the radios to the client becomes part of the receipt for the taxable security service and is therefore subject to tax (e.g., the charge to the client for the radios follows the taxability of the service provided). Thus, since the transaction is for a taxable security service, then the charge for the radios is also subject to tax. N.J.S.A. 54:32B-3(b) (11); N.J.S.A. 54:32B-2(xx). This is the case whether the amount is stated as a pass-through, a markup, or as one lump-sum charge coupled with the charge for the taxable security service.

Purchase of Washers and Dryers by a Taxpayer That Manufactures, Sells, and Rents Linens — A taxpayer that manufactures, sells, and rents linens inquired whether they are required to pay sales tax on the purchase of washers and dryers used in their business.

The Sales and Use Tax Act provides an exemption for sales of machinery, apparatus, or equipment for use directly and primarily in the production of tangible property by manufacturing, processing, assembling, or refining. N.J.S.A. 54:32B-8.13(a). Tangible personal property is used “directly” in the production process only when it is used to initiate, sustain, or terminate the process of transforming raw materials into finished products. N.J.A.C. 18:24-4.4(c). According to N.J.A.C. 18:24-4.4(b), “production is limited to those operations commencing with the introduction of raw materials into a systematic series of manufacturing, processing, assembling, or refining operations, and ceases when the product is in the form in which it will be sold to the ultimate consumer...” Thus, production begins with the introduction of raw materials into the process and ceases when the product is in the form in which it will be sold to the ultimate consumer. “Primarily” means that the manufacturer uses the tangible personal property more than 50% of the time directly in manufacturing, processing, assembling, or refining. N.J.A.C. 18:24-4.4(d).

The Division responded that the exemption would apply if the taxpayer uses the washers and dryers more than 50% of the time to launder newly manufactured linens since the linens are not in the form which they will be sold to the ultimate consumer until they are laundered. On the other hand, the exemption does not apply if the taxpayer uses the washers and dryers more than 50% of the time in the regular laundering of rented items. □

Interest – IGT (as Successor-In-Interest to Anchor Coin, Inc.) v. Director, Division of Taxation, decided July 13, 2012; New Jersey Tax Court, Docket No. 006886-2010.

On July 26, 2006, the Division issued a corporation business tax assessment that included the application of the throwout provision and other adjustments. But for the adjustments attributable to the throwout provision the plaintiff (IGT) would have been entitled to a refund.

On October 23, 2006, IGT filed a timely protest challenging the throwout adjustment and related penalties. On February 25, 2010, the Division issued a final determination upholding the throwout adjustments. Plaintiff filed a complaint with the Tax Court. Thereafter, the parties agreed that IGT would be refunded $41,498 with interest.

The issue in this case concerns the proper date from which interest on the agreed refund should be paid.

IGT’s position is that its entitlement to the refund matured on October 23, 2006, when it filed its protest challenging the throwout adjustments because it would have been entitled to a refund had those adjustments not been made. Plaintiff contends that it could not file a refund claim because N.J.S.A. 54:49-14a states that a taxpayer may not file a refund claim when a protest has been filed. The Division’s position is that entitlement to a refund would not have matured until the final determination was issued because N.J.S.A. 54:49-14a disallows the filing of a refund claim until the “protest or appeal has been finally determined.”

N.J.S.A. 54:19-15.1 provides in pertinent part that:

Interest shall commence to accrue on the later of the date of the filing by the taxpayer of a claim for refund or requested adjustment, the date of the payment of the tax, or the due date of the report or the return thereof; ...

The Court determined that the statutes did not directly address the facts of this case; however, the Court opined that IGT's position best comported with the controlling statutes. Therefore, the Court concluded that IGT effectively filed a refund claim on October 23, 2006, when it made clear in its protest that it was not challenging the adjustments that were not related to the throwout adjustments.

The Court also noted that the prohibition in N.J.S.A. 54:49-14a against filing a refund claim after a protest has been filed or appeal proceedings have commenced until the protest or appeal has been finally determined only covers situations where the refund claim would concern the same adjustments in the protest or appeal.

Gross Income Tax

Qualified Small Business Stock – Emilia A. Aciu v. Director, Division of Taxation, decided October 9, 2012; New Jersey Tax Court, Docket No. 020999-2010.

Judge Menyuk granted the Division's motion for summary judgment.

On her originally filed New Jersey resident income tax return, the taxpayer reported the sale of 16,970 shares of common stock in Vision Research. She reported a gain of $11,776,851 on New Jersey Schedule B.

The taxpayer filed an amended NJ-1040 after realizing that the stock was a "qualified small business stock." IRC §1202 allows for a 50 percent exclusion from the gain on the sale of a qualified small business stock held for more than five years. The Division disallowed the exclusion because it is not authorized under the Gross Income Tax Act.

Plaintiff argued that N.J.S.A. 54A:5-1(c) provides for the incorporation of Federal tax principles and concepts in the calculation of net gains on the disposition of property and that the Federal exclusion allowed by IRC §1202 should be applied.

The judge stated that "Section 5-1(c) explicitly incorporates three federal tax concepts that are to be used in determining net gains from the disposition of property: (1) the method of accounting used for federal income tax purposes; (2) the use of the federal adjusted basis; and (3) the exclusion of gains to the extent federal rules require nonrecognition." She went on to say that the "plain words of 5-1(c) do not require the exclusion of half the gain on a sale of qualified small business stock. IRC §1202 is not a method of accounting, it does not affect the calculation of the basis of the VR shares, and it is not concerned with the recognition or nonrecognition of income."

S Corporation Credit Limitation

– Svetozar Beljakovic, et al. v. Director, Division of Taxation, decided August 1, 2012; New Jersey Tax Court, Docket No. 004551-2010.

Judge Narayanan denied the Division's motion for summary judgment and granted the plaintiff's motion.

Taxpayer is a resident of New Jersey who was a 100% shareholder of an electing New Jersey S corporation. The S corporation did business in New York State and New York City but did not maintain a regular place of business outside New Jersey. The S corporation filed a New York State corporate return reporting the minimum franchise tax and a New York City corporate return and paid $26,499. Because the S corporation did not have a regular place of business outside New Jersey, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 54:10A-6 it was required to allocate 100% of its income to New Jersey on Form CBT-100S.

The taxpayer reported S corporation income of $510,328 (the pro rata share of the S corporation's income allocated to New York) on his individual New York State IT-203 return and paid tax to New York State of $34,390. On his NJ-1040 the taxpayer claimed credit for the income taxes paid to New York State.

The Division disallowed the credit in accordance with N.J.S.A. 54A:4-1(c), which provides that no credit is allowed for S corporation income allocated to New Jersey, which in this case was 100%.

The Court began by affirming that the purpose of N.J.S.A. 54A:4-1 is to prevent multiple taxation of the same income, then rejected the Division's argument that N.J.S.A. 54A:4-1(c) prohibits the credit for taxes paid for S corporation income allocated 100% to New Jersey. The Court determined that the plaintiffs were entitled to a credit for S corporation income allocated or sourced outside New Jersey and not for income properly allocated to New Jersey.

In rejecting the Division's other arguments, the Court found that both Section 8 relief available under the Corporation Business Tax Act for income tax imposed by other states, and the references to "foreign State" or "another State" in N.J.A.C. 18:7-8.3(b) include political subdivisions. To do otherwise would lead to the conclusion that "the GIT credit would never be available for S corporation income allocated to a taxing jurisdiction which is not a State. Such a construction would clearly violate N.J.S.A. 54A:4-1(a) which grants the resident credit for any income taxes paid to 'another state... or political subdivision of such state' as well as the Director's own regulation which reads, 'N.J.S.A. 54A:4-1(b),(c), and (d) provide for a limitation on the credit for tax paid to another state or political subdivision.' N.J.A.C. 18:35-4.1(a) (3) (emphasis added)."

Judge DeAlmeida granted the Division's motion for summary judgment upholding a refund denial of $157,535 for tax year 2005.

On their 2005 NJ-1040, the Murphys reported wages in the amount of $4,142,000 from Mr. Murphy's employer and dividends of $381,558. In 2008, Mr. Murphy reached an agreement with the Federal government to pay $10,000,000 to the Federal government and bankruptcy trustees due to an ongoing investigation of fraudulent reporting by the company for which Mr. Murphy had worked. Mr. Murphy was not charged with any crime. The payments were made in 2008.

That year, the Murphys filed an amended 2005 NJ-1040, reducing their income by the amount of the payments made to the Federal government and claiming a refund of $157,535. The claim for refund was denied. Plaintiffs filed a protest on January 27, 2010, and argued the "claim of right doctrine" during the hearing. On January 21, 2011, the Director issued a final determination rejecting the refund request, maintaining that the claim of right doctrine requires that money that is repaid only be used as a deduction in the year of repayment.

The Court found that N.J.S.A. 54A:5-2 did not permit a 2008 event (the repayment), whether it is a loss, a deduction, or some other legally significant transaction, to be applied to offset 2005 income. The denial of the refund was upheld.

The Murphys have appealed this decision to the New Jersey Appellate Division.

Workmen's Compensation – Fred-eric J. Sa v. Director, Division of Taxation, decided May 31, 2012; New Jersey Tax Court, Docket No. 000047-2011.

Judge Narayanan denied the Division's motion for summary judgment and granted the plaintiff's motion.

Taxpayer is a resident of New Jersey who was injured in the line of duty while working for the Union Township Police Department. During 2006 and 2007 Mr. Sa was absent from work for extended periods due to surgeries related to his injuries. He received his full salary during those periods.

Mr. Sa reported the full amount of wages he received from Union Township on his 2006 and 2007 NJ-1040s. Mr. Sa later amended the returns reducing the wages by the wage amounts he received during his absences. For 2006, he reduced his wages by $29,173 (the amount of pay he received during his time out of work from March 2, 2006, to July 23, 2006). For 2007, Mr. Sa reduced his wages by $6,665 (the amount of pay he received during his time out of work from October 15, 2007, to November 11, 2007.)

Per the collective bargaining agreement between Union Township and its Police Department, Mr. Sa was entitled to his regular pay while on leave. The Township was reimbursed by its insurance company at the rate of $650 per week which was the amount Mr. Sa would have been able to collect under the Workmen's Compensation Act.

The Court found that the portion of the payments which were reimbursed to Union Township was

excludable from Mr. Sa's income because it represents an amount received as workmen's compensation under the Workmen's Compensation Act.

Therefore, Mr. Sa was able to deduct $650 per week for the period from March 2, 2006, through July 23, 2006, but not his full pay. However, for tax year 2007, no deduction was granted since no documentation from the Township was provided to show reimbursements from the insurance company.

Local Property Tax
Disabled Veteran's Property Tax
Exemption – R.J. Wellington & C.A. Pangilinan v. Township of Hillsborough, decided October 24, 2012; Tax Court.

Plaintiff, R.J. Wellington, disputed the municipal assessor's denial of his claim for a disabled veteran's property tax exemption. Reginald Wellington was a member of the United States Navy from September 24, 1997, until September 24, 1999, the date on which he was honorably discharged. Wellington was stationed with the Marine Corps during Operation Northern Watch and Southern Watch, in which the U.S. enforced a no-fly zone and United Nations sanctions in Iraq. Wellington's job was to test chemical agents being used by the enemy and to develop protection for members of the U.S. military in service in the Arabian Peninsula. The U.S. military determined that as a result of his exposure to enemy chemical agents, Wellington developed multiple sclerosis and lost use of his hands and feet. The U.S. Department of Veterans Affairs declared Wellington 100% permanently disabled as a result of his military service.

Wellington purchased a residence in Hillsborough Township on May 19, 2007. The deed showed that he owned the property jointly with the right of survivorship with plaintiff Catherine A. Pangilinan, his former wife. On March 9, 2009, Wellington filed a claim with the Hillsborough Township tax assessor for a tax exemption for the residence pursuant to N.J.S.A. 54:4-3.30, which provides an exemption from local property taxes for the dwelling house and lot of any citizen and resident of this State honorably discharged from active military service, in time of war, who has 100% permanent service-related disability. On March 24, 2009, the tax assessor denied Wellington's exemption claim for two reasons: (1) Wellington did not serve a minimum of 14 days "in the actual combat zone" and (2) Wellington held only partial ownership of the property.

The denial notice provides that pursuant to N.J.S.A. 54:3-21, plaintiff's time to appeal to the County Board of Taxation expired April 1, 2009, or, if the denial was issued "too late" to file an appeal by April 1, then the plaintiff was entitled to file an appeal by April 1, 2010. Wellington met neither appeal deadline and instead filed a petition of appeal with the Somerset County Board of Taxation on March 28, 2011. On June 5, 2011, the County Board issued a judgment denying the exemption for the tax year 2011. On August 11, 2011, Wellington filed a complaint with the State Tax Court challenging the County Board's judgment as well as disputing the property's value.

On March 2, 2012, the municipality moved for summary judgment in its favor. The township argued that Wellington did not suffer a disability as a result of "active service in time of war" since his disability arose in the United States and not in the actual "combat zone." Additionally, the joint ownership of his residence with his former wife precludes an exemption. The municipality also argued that Wellington cannot seek relief in the Court without having first filed a written exemption claim with the tax assessor for tax year 2011.

On May 10, 2012, Wellington opposed the municipality's motion and cross-moved for summary judgment in his favor on the exemption claim. Wellington argued that his military service in California satisfies the criteria for an exemption set forth in N.J.S.A. 54:4-3.30 and N.J.S.A. 54:4-8.10 because the legislature does not specify a geographical limitation on eligibility for service-related disabilities arising from Operation Northern Watch and Southern Watch. He contended that the "theater of operation" of that conflict was brought to him in California when dangerous weapons were removed from the battlefield and delivered to his laboratory. In addition, Wellington argued that nothing in the statute requires a written application to be filed with the tax assessor or precludes the award of an exemption to a disabled veteran who jointly owns his residence with another person.

The pivotal question before the Court was whether Wellington's 100% permanent disability arose "from active service, in time of war." The Court noted that the statutory language for Northern Watch and Southern Watch does not establish a strict geographic service requirement like the Peacekeeping Missions, but rather requires service "in the theater of operation, including in the Arabian peninsula and the Persian Gulf and in direct support of that operation,” but not limited to those areas. Therefore, the fact that Wellington’s disability arose from service in California does not, in itself, exclude him from eligibility for exemption. The Court reasoned further that plaintiff was no less endangered by Iraqi chemical weapons at his California lab than servicemen and women on the actual battlefield. He suffered permanent disability through contact with those weapons. Under the facts of this case plaintiff falls within the parameters of the exemption.

The Court, citing Hennefeld v. Twp. of Montclair, 22 N.J. Tax 166 (2005), found that Wellington is entitled to an exemption in a percentage that reflects his proportionate share of ownership in the subject property. The township’s motion for summary judgment was denied. Wellington’s motion for summary judgment was granted in part. The Court will enter an order declaring Mr. Wellington eligible for the subject property for tax year 2011.

Property Tax Relief Programs
Property Tax Reimbursement (Senior Freeze) – Rita J. Hawe v. Director, Division of Taxation, decided May 29, 2012; New Jersey Tax Court, Docket No. 019191-2011.

The Tax Court held that, for the purposes of N.J.S.A. 54:4-8.67, annual income does not include distributions from an annuity that represent a taxpayer’s original investment. Only the interest generated by the annuity is to be included in income when determining eligibility for a property tax reimbursement benefit. □

In Our Legislature

Alcoholic Beverage Tax

Microbreweries and Brewpubs — P.L. 2012, c.47, signed into law on September 19, 2012, and effective immediately, revises N.J.S.A. 33:1-10 regarding limited breweries, commonly known as microbreweries, and restricted breweries, commonly known as brewpubs.

The law now permits limited breweries to sell and distribute their products to a consumer on the licensed premises of the brewery: (1) for consumption on the premises only in connection with a tour of the brewery; (2) in an amount of up to 15.5 fluid gallons for consumption off the licensed premises; and (3) for sampling only if the brewery has obtained an annual permit from the Director of the Division of Alcoholic Beverage Control (ABC). These licensees are prohibited from selling food or operating a restaurant on the licensed premises.

Each year a restricted brewery may produce up to 10,000 barrels of malt alcoholic beverages. The fee for a restricted brewery license is $1,250 to brew 1,000 barrels annually. The fee for each additional 1,000 barrels is $250. A restricted brewery may sell its products to the public through the three-tier system described in the Act. A licensee may also offer samples of its products at charitable or civic events off the licensed premises if the licensee obtains an annual permit issued by the Director of the ABC.

A single licensee may acquire up to 10 restricted brewery licenses. A restaurant with a restricted brewery license is now permitted to sell malt alcoholic beverages produced by the restricted brewery for consumption off the licensed premises.

The Act creates an “at rest” provision applicable to holders of plenary brewery licenses and limited brewery licenses. Those licensees may deliver their malt alcoholic beverage products from inventory in a warehouse located within the State. These “at rest” provisions allow for employees of the ABC and other law enforcement officials to conduct certain inspections to ensure compliance with current law. The “at rest” provisions also enable applicable tax collection administration.

Miscellaneous

Urban Transit Hub Tax Credit Caps Increased — P.L. 2012, c.35, signed into law on August 7, 2012, and effective immediately, amends the Urban Transit Hub Tax Credit Act to increase the cap on the total amount of tax credits authorized under the Act by $250 million to a total of $1.75 billion. It also extends the application deadline to July 1, 2014, to maintain consistency with the Grow New Jersey Assistance Act, except that the deadline for applications for tax credits for wind energy facilities established under P.L. 2010, c.57 (N.J.S.A. 34:1B-209.4) is not extended.

The Act also restores the cap to $200 million for the Grow New Jersey Assistance Program (N.J.S.A. 34:1B-247).

Sales and Use Tax

Rebate for Off-Track Wagering Facilities — P.L. 2012, c.40, signed into law on August 7, 2012, and effective immediately, establishes a grant program to provide a one-time rebate of the sales and use tax paid for the purchase of certain materials and supplies used for the construction of certain off-track wagering facilities.

The amount of the rebate is equal to the sales and use tax collected from the retail sale or use of construction materials and construction supplies used by (1) a contractor of a person who is, as of January 1, 2012, a lessee of a racetrack owned by the New Jersey Sports and Exposition Authority (NJSEA), or (2) a contractor of certain joint ventures for the construction of an off-track wagering facility licensed by the New Jersey Racing Commission in accordance with applicable law.

The contractor purchasing the construction materials and construction supplies is responsible for completing a form or certification identifying the type and location of the construction, the construction materials and supplies purchased, and the purchase price and sales tax paid. This document must be filed with the Director on a quarterly basis.

The State Treasurer is responsible for establishing a special nonlapsing account in the General Fund for purposes of receiving amounts equal to the taxes collected in connection with eligible purchases, and is responsible for paying amounts credited to the account to eligible lessees or joint ventures upon certification from the NJSEA that the construction of the off-track wagering facility is complete.

A lessee or joint venture will not be allowed more than one grant for the construction of each off-track wagering facility nor will a grant be paid for the construction of an otherwise eligible facility that is completed after June 30, 2022. □

Division Hires New Employees

In September 2012 the Division of Taxation hired almost 140 trainee investigators, auditors, taxpayer service representatives, and special agents. The trainee class also includes a number of current employees who are moving into positions in other areas of the Division. This recent recruitment effort aims to restore the ranks of the Division's professional staff in the wake of the retirements that have occurred at an accelerated pace over the last year.

The trainees have been assigned to Audit Activity, Compliance & Enforcement Activity, Technical Services Activity, Office of Criminal Investigation, Property Administration, and the Office of Counsel Services' Conference & Appeals Branch. Each area is conducting most of the training for its own employees.

The new employees will help the Division improve performance in its core mission areas. Also, the additional staff will enable all Activities to improve service to members of the public, whether individual taxpayers or tax practitioners, and increase tax compliance.

In concrete terms, this means the amount of time it takes the Division to complete audits, resolve protests of audit determinations, issue refunds, and answer inquiries (by phone, e-mail, or in writing) will be reduced. In addition, improved enforcement of the State's tax laws levels the playing field for businesses and individuals who are meeting their New Jersey tax responsibilities.

For example, the new employees in Compliance Enforcement will first be assigned to established investigation teams to work on routine matters. This will allow experienced staff members to focus on more complex cases, and pursue other initiatives, such as investigations of businesses operating in the underground economy. Meanwhile the new staff will gain knowledge about the work and necessary procedures that will lead them to become well-functioning investigators.

The recruits assigned to the Office of Criminal Investigation include nine special agent trainees, as well as one auditor and one investigator trainee. They will be trained to conduct investigations of financial crimes that have tax compliance implications. In addition, the special agent trainees will attend training at the New Jersey Division of Criminal Justice Academy beginning in January 2013.

With increased professional staffing at the Division, the public can expect to experience greater customer service in all areas. □

Mail Destroyed in Truck Fire

On Tuesday, September 11, 2012, a delivery truck carrying U.S. mail addressed to the New Jersey Division of Taxation was involved in a two-truck collision on the New Jersey Turnpike and caught fire. The contents of the truck were destroyed beyond recognition, with the exception of a small number of certified mail pieces, some of which could be identified as mail intended for Taxation and other State agencies.

Governor Chris Christie ordered State agencies to provide all required assistance to New Jerseyans who may have been affected by the loss of hundreds of pieces of mail that were destroyed by the blaze and firefighting efforts.

The mail that was lost came from ZIP codes starting with 070 to 076, 078, 079, 088 or 089. The letters and parcels were most likely collected September 7 – 10 from street collection boxes in Bergen, Essex, Hudson, Hunterdon, Middlesex, Monmouth, Morris, Passaic, Somerset, Sussex, Union, and Warren counties.

New Jerseyans who believe they may have had letters or packages bound for government offices on the truck should check with the appropriate State agency to determine the status of their filings, payments, and applications.

The Division of Taxation cannot determine which returns, payments, correspondence, or other submissions were destroyed in the fire. Taxpayers who mailed a tax return, payment, or sent other correspondence to the Division of Taxation from North Jersey in early September and who think their mailing may have been affected by the September 11 mail truck fire should proceed as described below.

Taxpayers can choose to allow more time to see if their original submission is processed, or they can resubmit a duplicate of the mailing immediately. The Division advises taxpayers to allow two bank statement cycles for payments to be processed. However, taxpayers can submit a duplicate payment sooner if they choose. The Division will waive late filing and late payment penalties on filings and payments received on or before October 15, 2012.

Many returns and payments, including estimated payments, can be filed electronically through the Division's Web site at:

- Estimated Payments – Gross Income Tax \(Individuals, Estates and Trusts\)
- Estimated Payments – Corporation Business Tax
- Other Filings and Payments

Taxpayers who decide to stop payment on their original payment check must contact their bank to find out how to place a stop-payment order and the amount of the charges, if any, that would apply.

Anyone who receives a billing notice from the Division of Taxation for late filing and/or payment because of mail destroyed in the fire must respond to the notice in writing to request an abatement of the penalties. Write "September 11 Mail Truck Fire" in the subject line of the response and explain the circumstances. Indicate when and where the original package was mailed and provide any other pertinent details. If a payment check was enclosed with the original

Practitioner Institutes

The New Jersey Division of Taxation, the Internal Revenue Service, and the New Jersey Association of Public Accountants (NJAPA) invite all New Jersey tax practitioners to attend this year's Tax Practitioner Institutes. These institutes are being cosponsored by the cooperating colleges and a portion of the registration fee is donated to the college's scholarship fund.

Topics for the one-day institutes will include new legislation and an overview of tax law changes for both New Jersey and Federal taxes. Registration desks will open at 8:00 a.m. Each session begins at 8:30 a.m., includes lunch, and concludes at 4:30 p.m. Please contact the individual coordinator listed below if you would like registration information or details about the location, including parking facilities and directions. □

Recognizing that there are companies that have nexus with New Jersey as a result of having derived income from the use of intangible assets in this State that have not fulfilled their tax filing responsibilities, the Division of Taxation will be offering a limited voluntary disclosure initiative.

Beginning on September 15, 2012, and running through January 15, 2013, companies that own intangible assets and derived income from the use of those assets in New Jersey will have the opportunity to come forward and voluntarily comply with their corporation business tax filing requirements. In addition to the standard procedures and requirements for voluntary disclosure agreements \(VDAs\) for business taxes the following principles will apply:

- The lookback period will be limited to the periods beginning after December 31, 2003, or the date business commenced, whichever is later. Returns for prior periods will not be required.
- The taxpayer must file all required returns and remit payment of the full tax liability reported within 90 (ninety) days of the execution of its VDA.
- The Division will waive all penalties except that a 5% amnesty penalty will be assessed for all returns due prior to February 1, 2009.
- The taxpayer will remit payment of interest and the amnesty penalty within 30 (thirty) days of assessment.
- The Division will consider discretionary throwout relief by averaging a throwout receipts fraction with a nonthrowout receipts fraction.
- Operating companies or those companies that have paid royalties and added same back to their New Jersey entire net income may submit amended returns for any period for which the statute of limitations remains open in order to claim an exception to the add back.

- All returns will be subject to routine audit with respect to issues not specifically covered in the VDA.
- Any settlement with respect to the throwout issue will be binding on the taxpayer and the Division. The taxpayer may not file a claim for refund in the event that the application of any future Court decisions would suggest a different result.
- If the disclosure candidate does not wish to settle the throwout issue, the Division will hold the issue for a future determination. The Division would conduct an audit on the returns filed under the disclosure agreement to make the required throwout determination.

Criminal Enforcement

Criminal enforcement over the past several months included:

- On March 16, 2012, Jimmy Tovar entered a guilty plea with the New Jersey Superior Court, Middlesex County. A Deputy Attorney General of the Office of the Insurance Fraud Prosecutor (OFIP) prosecuted the case, which included charges of conspiracy, acting as a runner, and failure to file New Jersey income tax returns. The tax charges levied against him related to $50,500 of income derived in 2010 working as a “runner” for Dr. Scott Greenberg. There are other “runners” identified in the main case who are to be charged in the same manner. On May 14, 2012, Tovar was sentenced to three years in State prison by Superior Court Judge Bradley J. Ferencz in Middlesex County. Tovar has been in custody since his arrest in July 2011. He executed a consent judgment for $1,854.70 in back taxes owed from the money he made from his “running” activities in 2010. Tovar’s sentence was based on his March 16 guilty plea to the charges of conspiracy to commit running activity, acting as a runner, and failure to file a tax return, all in the third degree. Tovar admitted that in 2010 he was paid $50,500 for soliciting people following automobile accidents for treatment at Central Jersey Chiropractic and Rehabilitation Centres, which is owned by Dr. Greenberg. Tovar failed to file a New Jersey income tax return in 2010 to report this income.

- The Office of Criminal Investigation (OCI) conducted sweeps in the City of Asbury Park and Neptune Township. Of the 20 businesses inspected, 16 had violations, including business entities that have never been registered. Some press inquiries resulted, and the Treasurer’s Public Information Office addressed those inquiries. Contraband cigarettes and tobacco were seized as well. Various weapons were also seized and turned over to local police departments for action.

- Jesse Watkins, of New York, was sentenced in U.S. District Court as a result of his arrest in a joint investigation with OCI and the Federal Bureau of Investigation in 2010. The subject was sentenced to one day of imprisonment, three years’ Federal probation, and ordered to pay restitution to the State of New Jersey in the amount of $3,105,285 for conspiracy to traffic contraband cigarettes. James Brown, a coconspirator of Watkins, was sentenced to six months in the custody of the Federal Bureau of Prisons and ordered to pay restitution to the State of New Jersey in the amount of $190,410. Xavier Ray, the third conspirator in this case, was sentenced to a term of 37 months in the custody of the Federal Bureau of Prisons and ordered to pay restitution to the State of New Jersey in the amount of $1,778,775. For all parties involved, the sentences ordered a total restitution of $5,074,470 (cigarette tax) and a total of 43 months and 1 day of incarceration.

- OCI participated in the Atlantic City Tourism Zone initiative with the Department of Law and Public Safety’s Division of Consumer Affairs (DCA). OCI made a number of arrests and 11 different seizures during the operation. At that time, Charles Giblin, Special Agent in Charge, met with the Acting Director of the DCA on various issues and potential conflicts, in particular the motor fuels enforcement initiative. OCI anticipates that this will lead to future endeavors with DCA. Part of that discussion covered the exchange of information that could result in license suppression for individuals and businesses who are not tax compliant but who have a professional license with DCA. The need for cooperation with other civil agencies became apparent when OCI conducted the Asbury Park initiative and found, for example, barbershops, which fall under DCA jurisdiction, that were not tax compliant. Expanding that relationship is a priority for OCI as it benefits not only criminal enforcement efforts but also voluntary compliance.
- On June 27, 2012, Dwayne Spears, of Monmouth County, pled guilty to participating in a scheme in which a State corrections officer, a leader of the Nine Trey Gangsters set of the Bloods gang, and members of the Lucchese organized crime family smuggled drugs and cell phones into East Jersey State Prison. Spears pled guilty to a charge of second-degree racketeering before Superior Court Judge Thomas V. Manahan in Morris County. Under the plea agreement, the State will recommend that Spears be sentenced to five years in State prison. The guilty plea stems from Operation Heat, an investigation by the Division of Criminal Justice Gangs and Organized Crime Bureau that led to the arrest and indictment of those involved in the smuggling scheme as well as numerous members of the New York-based Lucchese organized crime family. As a result of Operation Heat, the Division of Criminal Justice indicted two ruling members of the Lucchese crime family and 32 other members and associates, including the alleged current and former top New Jersey capos, Ralph V. Perna and Nicodemo Scarfo Jr., on first-degree charges of racketeering and predicate offenses on May 14, 2010. The prison smuggling scheme allegedly involved Spears' brother, inmate Edwin B. Spears, and Michael T. Bruinton, a corrections officer at East Jersey State Prison. It is charged that Edwin Spears, who holds a leadership position as a "five-star general" in the Nine Trey Gangsters, formed an alliance in the smuggling operation with Joseph M. Perna, a member of the Lucchese crime family, and Michael A. Cetta, a Bonnano crime family associate linked to the Lucchese crime family through marriage.

- On June 28, 2012, in Mercer County Superior Court, Adeebowale Sheba pled guilty to two counts of second-degree theft by deception, and Johnson Coker pled guilty to second-degree conspiracy and third-degree receipt of stolen property. The two men, along with two others charged in December 2009, were involved in a scheme to fraudulently obtain at least 585 State income tax refund checks totaling $435,577. Sentencing for Sheba and Coker was scheduled for September 26, 2012. The investigation began when auditors from the Division of Taxation's Office of Criminal Investigation detected numerous refund checks payable to multiple taxpayers that were coendorsed with the same name. The income tax returns associated with the refund checks had similar taxpayer information, including filing status as head of household, one or two dependent children, wages ranging from $7,000 to $16,500 with no payroll tax withholdings, and business losses reported on an accompanying Federal Schedule C. Wages were reported on identical Form W-2s, apparently produced from the same software package. In all instances, the taxpayers completed the Earned Income Tax Credit Schedule with income levels that qualified for the earned income tax credit. Division of Taxation auditors expanded the scope of their review by identifying and investigating checks that were coendorsed with different names but fit the suspicious pattern. This case was referred to the Division of Criminal Justice.

- OCI Investigators have visited or made contact with 113 licensed New Jersey cigarette wholesalers. Though most were inspected for reporting and record keeping requirements, some locations did not have correct business addresses, some were out of business, and a few had personal and/or business problems that prevented them from meeting with investigators. OCI will revisit the wholesalers once their issues are resolved. The project, intended to gauge through unannounced inspections wholesalers' voluntary compliance with requirements under both the New Jersey Cigarette Tax Act and New Jersey Administrative Code, was very successful. OCI found the majority of license holders were compliant. Some fell short and were provided a brief opportunity to resolve any issues. Those who were unable to do so will be criminally charged. This project was intended to increase proper reporting and ensure that wholesalers were reminded of the requirements of the Tobacco Products Wholesale Sales and Use Tax Act. It also cross references licensee identifiers.
- After years of shipping untaxed mail-ordered cigarettes directly to New Jersey residents, Grand River Enterprises, the maker of Seneca brands, will comply with the Prevent All Cigarette Trafficking Act by shipping and selling their cigarettes into New Jersey through legitimate industry channels. Grand River Enterprises, an Ontario, Canada-based business, has made their brands Master Settlement Agreement (MSA) compliant by registering them with the New Jersey Office of the Attorney General as a nonparticipating manufacturer. They have partnered with a Florida-based company, Canadian Agricultural Depot LLC (CAD), who will serve as both licensed New Jersey manufacturer/importer and New Jersey nonresident distributor (stamper) for the cigarettes. CAD has also secured a Carlstadt, New Jersey-based business, Nash Distributors Inc., to be their primary New Jersey cigarette wholesaler. CAD will receive cigarettes from Canada, affix New Jersey tax stamps, and ship them via common carrier to Nash Distributors Inc., a long established beer distributor, which will test the New Jersey market with the Grand River Enterprises cigarette brands. Should they find this business beneficial, they plan to apply for their own distributor license and take over the stamping function from CAD. CAD will then serve solely as an importer/licensed cigarette manufacturer. Canadian Agricultural Depot LLC has recently been issued a New Jersey nonresident cigarette distributor license. Nash Distributors will soon be issued a New Jersey cigarette wholesale license. This initiative was a cooperative effort between OCI and the Excise Tax Branch, which protects the State's "due diligence" requirements under the MSA. □

Corporation Business Tax Research and Development Tax Credit — A taxpayer corporation inquired as to whether the New Jersey corporation business tax research and development tax credit will be allowed if the Federal research and development tax credit described in Internal Revenue Code Section 41 expires for the 2012 tax year.

The Division responded that N.J.S.A. 54:10A-5.24(a) provides for a corporation business tax research and development tax credit. The credit is equal to 10% of the excess of qualified research expenses for the fiscal or calendar accounting year over a base amount and 10% of the basic research payments determined in accordance with Section 41 of the Internal Revenue Code of 1986, as in effect on June 30, 1992. N.J.S.A. 54:10A-5.24(a)(2) provides, in pertinent part: "... subsection (h) of 26 U.S.C. s.41 relating to termination shall not apply." The Division interprets this language to mean that the New Jersey research and development tax credit is independent of the Federal research and development tax credit.

Therefore, the New Jersey research and development tax credit will continue, regardless of a lapse in the Federal research and development credit. The New Jersey research and development tax credit for 2012 will be calculated according to the instructions on Form 306, New Jersey Corporation Business Tax Research and Development Tax Credit.

Gross Income Tax New Jersey Mentor/Foster Parents Program — A taxpayer inquired about whether a stipend received from the New Jersey Mentor/Foster Parents Program is taxable for New Jersey gross income tax purposes.

where they can thrive. The program provides a stipend to qualified mentor/foster parents that varies based on the condition and the needs of the individual(s) supported.

For Federal income tax purposes, payments received from a state, political subdivision, or a foster care placement agency for providing care to qualified foster individuals in the taxpayer's home are not taxable. However, taxpayers must include payments received for the care of more than five individuals age 19 or older and certain difficulty-of-care payments in their income.

The New Jersey Gross Income Tax Act does not have any specific provisions that would exclude the Mentor/Foster Parents Program stipend from income. However, to the extent that the stipend is for the support of qualified foster individuals, taxpayers may exclude the payments from New Jersey gross income if it is excluded from Federal income. Any such payment that is taxable for Federal income tax purposes will also be taxable for New Jersey gross income tax purposes.

If a mentor/foster parent receives taxable payments, the payor agency will issue a Form W-2 or 1099-MISC to both the mentor/foster parent and the IRS and the recipient must report the income on their tax return. In addition, if the payments amount to $1,000 or more, the agency must provide a copy to the Division of Taxation.

Sales and Use Tax

Brake Cleaning Kits, Fuel Injection Kits, Throttle Body Kits, and Power Steering Kits Purchased by Automobile Dealerships and Repair Shops — A taxpayer inquired

as to whether the purchase of brake cleaning kits, fuel injection kits, throttle body kits, and power steering kits by automobile dealerships and repair shops qualify as a sale for resale. The taxpayer stated that the kits are comprised of fluids that are used in the process of cleaning or flushing various areas of a vehicle, which are taxable services. All the fluids included in the kits are listed individually and taxed on the invoice provided to the consumer.

The Division responded that purchases of supplies that are used by a dealership or repair shop to perform a service and that do not become a component part of the vehicle are subject to sales tax. There are no provisions in the Sales and Use Tax Act (N.J.S.A. 54:32B-1 et seq.) which would allow a repair shop to use a resale certificate to purchase supplies to be used or consumed to provide a service. The fact that the supplies used to perform the taxable service are separately stated on the invoice to the customer does not make them nontaxable when purchased by the dealership or repair shop.

Kits used to clean or flush various areas of a vehicle do not become a component part of the vehicle. They are, therefore, supplies that are consumed and used by the dealership or repair shop. Thus, the kits do not qualify for the resale exemption and are taxable when purchased by the dealership or repair shop.

Search Engine Optimization Services — A taxpayer inquired whether charges for search engine optimization services are subject to sales and use tax. The taxpayer described search engine optimization services as the process of improving the visibility of a Web site or a Web page in a search engine's natural (organic or algorithmic) search results.

In general, the earlier (or higher ranked on the search results page) and more frequently a site appears in the search results list, the more visitors it will receive from the search engine's users. Search engine optimization services may target different types of searches, including image search, local search, video search, academic search, news search, and industry-specific vertical search.

The Division responded that under the Sales and Use Tax Act (N.J.S.A. 54:32B-1 et seq.) the receipts from the sales of a service are not subject to sales and use tax unless specifically enumerated as taxable in the Act.

Because the sales of search engine optimization services are not specifically enumerated in the Act, such sales are not subject to the sales and use tax. □

In Our Courts

Corporation Business Tax

Nexus – Telebright Corporation, Inc. v. Director, Division of Taxation, decided March 2, 2012; Superior Court of New Jersey Appellate Division, Docket No. A-5096-09T2-2012.

This case presented an issue of first impression concerning whether a Delaware corporation that had offices in Maryland is subject to the New Jersey Corporation Business Tax Act where it employs a resident who telecommutes from her New Jersey home via telephone and computer. This employee developed and wrote software code that became part of a Web application provided by Telebright to its customers.

The Appellate Division affirmed the Tax Court's holding that "a foreign corporation that regularly and consistently permits one of its employees to telecommute full-time from her New Jersey residence is doing business in New Jersey, is subject to the New Jersey Corporation Business Tax Act (CBT Act), N.J.S.A. 54:10A-1 to -41, and must file New Jersey Corporation Business Tax returns."

Addressing whether Telebright is doing business in New Jersey, the Appellate Division agreed with the Tax Court and added that when Telebright's New Jersey employee creates computer code that becomes part of Telebright's Web-based service, that is no different than when a foreign manufacturer employs someone to fabricate parts in New Jersey for products that will be assembled elsewhere. See N.J.A.C. 18:7-1.9(a)1.

Telebright claimed that its limited activities in New Jersey should not subject it to the CBT Act because this would violate the Due Process and Commerce Clauses of the United States Constitution. The Appellate Division stated that taxing a business because it employs one person who performs work on a full-time basis in New Jersey does not violate the Due Process Clause.

The Appellate Division found that Telebright had sufficient contacts with New Jersey, as the New Jersey employee is entitled to all the legal protections New Jersey provides to its residents, and that Telebright, provided it files a Notice of Business Activities Report, may file suit in New Jersey courts to enforce its employment contract with the New Jersey employee. Furthermore, the CBT Act does not violate the Commerce Clause physical presence requirements because the employee worked for Telebright from her New Jersey home office.

Property Tax Relief Programs Multi-Unit Dwelling – Robert G. Howard v. Director, Division of Taxation, decided April 11, 2012; Tax Court of New Jersey, Docket No. 015539-2009 and 020955-2010.

In this case, Judge Nugent affirmed the Division's reduction of Mr. Howard's property tax reimbursement for years 2006–2009.

The Property Tax Reimbursement (Senior Freeze) Program was enacted in 1997. The legislative purpose was set forth as follows:

The homestead property tax reimbursement is intended to further the State's interest in maintaining a diverse population through the preservation, continuity and stability of its low-income senior and disabled homeowners, who have contributed to the fabric, social structure and finances of New Jersey communities, by affording protection to those homeowners who may otherwise be forced to move out of the State due to increasing property taxes.

Mr. Howard resided in a two-family home with his daughter. For the years 2006–2009 Mr. Howard claimed that even though the building was a two-family dwelling, he occupied the entire building as his principal residence and therefore should be entitled to a property tax reimbursement utilizing 100% of the property taxes levied against the property.

The Director determined that as the property was a multi-unit dwelling, Mr. Howard occupied 50% of the home as his principal residence and not the 100% as he was claiming. The property tax reimbursement would be based on 50% of the property tax levied against the property.

Judge Nugent found that the plain language of the statute is sufficient to resolve the issue. The Director's determination to reduce the plaintiff's property tax reimbursement to 50% of the total available to him based on a finding that the plaintiff owns a two-family dwelling and occupies 50% of the property as his principal residence, was affirmed.

On February 11, 1997, the Director issued a Notice of Responsible Person Status to Mr. Glenn Slater, holding him liable for sales and use tax in the amount of $61,382.46 from the audit of S.S. Clinton, Inc. (S.S. Clinton) t/a Pioneer Tavern. The notice was mailed to the taxpayer's last known address and signed for by "J. Slater." On September 9, 1999, Mr. Slater filed a petition for Chapter 11 bankruptcy with the United States Bankruptcy Court for the District of New Jersey. On August 1, 2000, the Director, as a creditor, filed proof of claims in the bankruptcy proceedings totaling $218,722.35 representing tax liability due and owing from Mr. Slater's business, S.S. Clinton. The Director's proof of claim was filed beyond the 180-day statute of limitations. On February 20, 2001, Mr. Slater filed a motion with the Bankruptcy Court to expunge the claims of the Director. Mr. Slater's motion was granted and the order specifically provides that the claims of the Director are "completely expunged as being untimely." The Bankruptcy Court dismissed Mr. Slater's bankruptcy petition on April 2, 2002.

More than six years later, on or about October 22, 2008, Mr. Slater filed a complaint in Tax Court seeking a refund of $535,000 which the taxpayer characterized as follows: $260,000 in funds taken from the taxpayer, $75,000 loss on the auction of the liquor license, and $200,000 loss on the equity of the bar. Mr. Slater filed a motion for summary judgment to compel the Division to refund the amount sought by the taxpayer. The Division opposed the taxpayer's motion and filed a motion to dismiss for untimely filing.

The Tax Court ruled that regardless of the Bankruptcy Court's order expunging the Director's claims, and irrespective of whether those claims are or are not dischargeable under the applicable law, the expungement order was vacated and issue of dischargeability was therefore rendered moot when Mr. Slater's bankruptcy proceeding was dismissed on April 2, 2002. The effect of the dismissal of Mr. Slater's bankruptcy proceeding is that the Director's assessment against Mr. Slater was neither expunged nor discharged by the Bankruptcy Court.

The Tax Court further found that the taxpayer has not properly filed for a sales tax refund, and that if the taxpayer now files for a sales tax refund, the request will be well outside the statute of limitations.

The Tax Court denied the taxpayer's motion for summary judgment and ruled in favor of the Director on the motion to dismiss based on untimely filing. The Court noted under the applicable statute of limitations governing protests and complaints contesting actions of the Director, the taxpayer did not file a timely appeal of the February 11, 1997, notice issued by the Director. The tax liability assessed against Mr. Slater is deemed fixed and final, and Mr. Slater's complaint is dismissed with prejudice. □

NJ Budget Funds Property Tax Relief

The State Budget for fiscal year 2013 (which began July 1, 2012) contains changes to both the Homestead Benefit and Property Tax Reimbursement (Senior Freeze) Programs.

Homestead Benefit

The Budget provides funding for the 2011 Homestead Benefit Program at the same level as for 2010. Under the terms of the Budget, eligibility and benefit amounts for 2011 homeowner benefits are limited based on income, and benefits must be calculated based on 2006 property taxes. Funding for 2011 tenant benefits was not included in the Budget.

Applications for the 2011 Homestead Benefit were mailed in May, and the original June 30 filing deadline has now been extended to October 19, 2012. Most homeowners can file their applications either online or by phone (1-877-658-2972).

Most eligible homeowners will receive their Homestead Benefit for 2011 as a credit applied to their February 2013 property tax bills. These homeowners can expect to receive a revised property tax bill or advice copy that will show the amount of the benefit. Homeowners who indicate when filing that they no longer own the property that was their principal residence on October 1, 2011, or whose principal residence was a unit in a co-op or continuing care retirement community, will have their Homestead Benefit issued in the form of a check (or direct deposit).

More information on the Homestead Benefit Program, including eligibility requirements and calculation of benefit amounts, is available on the Division of Taxation's Web site.

Senior Freeze

Under the terms of the fiscal year 2013 State Budget, only those applicants whose 2011 income did not exceed $70,000 (the original limit was $80,000) are eligible to receive a reimbursement payment for 2011, provided they met all the other eligibility requirements.

Residents whose 2011 income was over $70,000 but not over $80,000 will not receive reimbursements for 2011, even if they met all the other program requirements. However, by filing a 2011 application by the due date, these qualified residents can establish their eligibility for benefits in future years and ensure they will be mailed an application for 2012.

In mid-July, reimbursement checks for 2011 were mailed to over 163,000 qualified senior and disabled residents who had filed their applications by June 1, 2012. The deadline for filing 2011 reimbursement applications has also been extended to October 19, 2012. Checks for applicants who filed applications after the original June 1 due date will be issued as quickly as possible.

Criminal Enforcement

Criminal enforcement over the past several months included:

- On October 9, 2011, Christopher Elia was sentenced before New Jersey State Superior Court Judge Francis P. DeStefano in Freehold to a five-year State prison term. Elia pled guilty in April 2011, admitting to third-degree failure to pay taxes and the theft of more than $75,000, a second-degree offense. When arrested in May 2010, he had solicited more than $596,000 in contributions for phony charities, mostly from local, small business owners, then used the money to pay personal expenses and gambling debts. Victims thought they were donating to organizations that helped local police officers, firefighters, and disabled veterans. Assistant Monmouth County Prosecutor, Christopher Matthews, handled the case for the State. This has been a joint case with the Monmouth County Prosecutor's Office and the Office of Criminal Investigation (OCI) since October 2009.
- Stavroula Mavrikis (a.k.a. Stephanie Voulgaris), owner of Venture Holdings LLC, was recently apprehended as a result of an arrest warrant issued by the Trenton Municipal Court. $7,500 bail was forfeited as a result of her failure to appear for a prior Court appearance as required. The original criminal charges were filed on September 6, 2006, and the warrant was outstanding until recently. Mavrikis was scheduled to appear on February 3, 2012.

- Gordon Lenworth, t/a Elite Pro Cleaning Services of Neptune, failed to appear before the Trenton Municipal Court to answer charges filed by OCI's Technical Enforcement Unit on a bad electronic funds transfer (EFT) payment. The Court set $4,500 in cash bail.
- During the last quarter of 2011 OCI's Special Investigation Unit (SIU) conducted investigations into New Jersey businesses and individuals which resulted in the seizure of 1,743.6 cartons of contraband cigarettes and 37,731 units of tobacco products. The special agents had 11 arrests during this time period, which resulted in 37 guilty pleas and a total of $28,873 in fines and various terms of incarceration and/or probation. Also seized was cash in the amount of $122,583, as well as seven vehicles and other counterfeit goods.
- The Technical Enforcement Unit (TEU) is now an arm of OCI. TEU has filed criminal charges against 95 taxpayers since its inception. At this point, 71 taxpayers have made full restitution and 58 of the Criminal Court cases have been closed with guilty pleas. Arrest warrants have been issued for 8 taxpayers for their failure to appear for scheduled court appearances. Currently 70 criminal cases remain active at various stages within the court system. This reporting period 19 taxpayers were charged and 17 criminal cases were resolved with full restitution and guilty pleas. Collections totaled $432,422.86, for that time period. Bad check notices were sent to 247 taxpayers for $756,491.86, and 202 failed EFT payment letters were sent totaling $1,093,722.27.

- During the last quarter of 2011 the Special Frauds Unit identified 2,011 fraudulent refunds totaling $2,873,925 of gross income tax revenue protected.
- On January 6, 2012, Dawn Woolbert of Waldwick, New Jersey, was sentenced to three years in New Jersey State Prison for her involvement in a mortgage fraud scheme during 2007-2009 that resulted in the default of over $3 million in residential mortgage loans. The sentence is the outcome of a 25-count indictment against Ms. Woolbert, a former loan officer at Paragon Federal Credit Union, and 11 others who approved the mortgages submitted with false financial information, fictitious W-2s, and fabricated income tax returns. This case was a joint investigation with OCI and the Bergen County Prosecutor's Office.

- On January 9, 2012, FedEx Security contacted OCI relative to intercepted untaxed cigarettes which originated in the Shinnecock Reservation, Southampton, New York. A total of 329 cartons valued at $27,550.46 were seized by OCI. FedEx sent a Cease and Desist letter to the shipper. OCI will identify recipients as appropriate. All cigarettes are Master Settlement Agreement (MSA) violations. The Division of Law will be advised accordingly.
- On January 27, 2012, Chaudhary Akhtar, t/a Glassboro Shell, of Gibbsboro, New Jersey, was found in possession of untaxed tobacco products (922 units) as well as unknown powdery substances and synthetic marijuana. Additionally, a number of invoices showing the purchase of tobacco products shipped via mail from out of State and where no New Jersey tobacco products taxes were indicated were seized. Charges for possession of untaxed goods, no registration, and not remitting the tax were filed by OCI. Charges for the marijuana possession were filed by the Camden County Sheriff's Office. On April 19, 2012, the subject pled guilty to the charges by OCI and was fined.

- On January 28, 2012, OCI special agents arrested Ellis Williams of New York City, New York, for possession of 34 cartons of Delaware-stamped cigarettes after he was detained by New Jersey State Police on the New Jersey Turnpike. Charges for possession of contraband cigarettes, no invoices, no license and transportation have been filed in Greenwich Township, New Jersey. The subject was released on his own recognizance. The vehicle was not seized. Hardware consistent with that of a "trap" compartment was also discovered during a search of the vehicle. In an interview, the driver admitted he transported cigarettes on a regular basis from Delaware. On June 11, 2012, the subject pled guilty to the charges and was fined.
- On January 28, 2012, Michael L. Meglino and his wife, Susan

Gisela Hernandez-Meglino, were admitted into the Pretrial Intervention Program provided they meet certain conditions. Susan G. Hernandez-Meglino must amend her New Jersey CBT-100 returns relating to her limited liability corporations, SGM Construction and Twelve Point Construction, as well as make payment to the State of New Jersey towards the total joint liability of $43,012.04 with her husband. A $10,000 payment must be made at the defendants' (Susan and Michael Meglino) formal acceptance into the program. This case was jointly investigated by the Office of Criminal Investigation and the Office of the Insurance Fraud Prosecutor. Michael Meglino, while President of the Oak Hollow Condo Association, made payments from the condo association funds to Susan Hernandez-Meglino's LLCs for over $400,000 in 2005 and 2006. The income was not reported.

- On January 30, 2012, two men from North Carolina were convicted in U.S. District Court in North Carolina. Emad Hasan Tawfiq Wshah of Winterville, North Carolina, and Mamoun Hasah Wshah of Greenville, North Carolina, were busted in "Operation Smoke Screen," a two-year undercover investigation of Middle Eastern men suspected of trafficking cigarettes. Also indicted were Sobhi Sulieman Shehadeh of Roanoke Rapids, Virginia; Nabil Nafiz Mustafa of Greensboro, North Carolina; and Omar M. Nijim of Brooklyn, New York. The group was indicted in February 2011 on 40 counts related to interstate contraband cigarette smuggling. The group purchased what they thought were stolen cigarettes and "export only" cigarettes, and shipped $21 million worth of these cigarettes through North Carolina, South Carolina, Virginia, New Jersey, and New York. Federal and State agents seized approximately $1.9 million in cash, approximately $10 million in bank accounts, including a Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco, Firearms and Explosives (ATF) undercover account, a 1999 Ferrari, a 2008 BMW SUV, a 2009 Chevrolet Tahoe, and a 2010 Ford F-150. Emad Wshah and Mamoun Wshah pled guilty to conspiring to transport stolen goods valued at more than $5,000 in interstate commerce, as did Sobhi Shehadeh. Emad Wshah was sentenced to 26 months in prison. Investigation of this case was conducted by the ATF, the National Tax and Trade Bureau (TTB), United States Immigration and Customs Enforcement (ICE), Homeland Security Investigations (HSI), the Federal Bureau of Investigation, the Internal Revenue Service, and the Office of Criminal Investigation. OCI provided significant operational support in New Jersey and later testified in the Federal District Court in North Carolina.

- On January 31, 2012, OCI coordinated the arrest of a fugitive who was wanted on active warrants by the Pennsylvania Department of Revenue. New Jersey State Police Detectives assigned to the casino detail at the Borgata Hotel Casino located and arrested the subject within an hour of the request. This coordination between agencies illustrates the cooperative operations that exist between the revenue/tax law enforcement agencies.
- OCI special agents shut down a Roll Your Own (RYO) Cigarette outlet in south Jersey. This location did not have a manufacturer's license and was operating three tabletop electric cigarette rolling machines, which were seized by special agents. Additionally, over 900 counterfeit DVDs, which were also seized. Charges were filed in Bridgeton Municipal Court and then transferred to the Cumberland County Prosecutor's Office because of the number of counterfeit DVDs. All parties were found guilty and all seized RYO machines were forfeited to the State.

- OCI's Special Agent in Charge was subpoenaed by the Cayuga County, New York, District Attorney's Office, as an expert witness in the trial of Aiman Abujudeh who has prior contraband convictions in New Jersey. In a very unusual move the subject was tried in absentia. The subject had been arrested by a New York State Trooper and was believed to be en route back to New Jersey with master cases of contraband cigarettes purchased from New York-based Native American Reservations. The subject claimed he had purchased the cigarettes in New Jersey and showed invoices from a New Jersey wholesaler that is not authorized to possess or sell unstamped cigarettes. A warrant has been issued for his arrest. New York will extradite.
- On February 2, 2012, Victor, Angiolina, Charlie, and Harold Madera entered into the Pretrial Intervention Program for a period of 36 months where they will receive court-ordered supervision from the Middlesex County Prosecutor's Office. All items seized were forfeited to the Office of Criminal Investigation. This case was initiated by an OCI investigator and led by an OCI special agent. On May 18, 2011, Victor, Angiolina, Charlie, and Harold Madera were arrested by OCI for their involvement in the sale of contraband cigarettes and charged with trademark counterfeiting, forgery of New Jersey counterfeit tax stamp, and possession of 2,000 or more contraband cigarettes. Seized were 82 cartons of cigarettes, $116,726.54, and two vehicles.

- On February 14, 2012, six men from southern New Jersey were arrested for their alleged roles in a $9.6 million conspiracy to obtain contraband untaxed cigarettes for sale. Each of the six defendants, Melido Fortuna and his brother Jose Fortuna, of Camden; Muhammad Shafique and his son, Kamran Khalid, of Egg Harbor Township; Wael Kasharmeh of Gibbstown; and Mohammad Rafiq of Atlantic City, was arrested in Cumberland or Atlantic County, New Jersey, and are charged in a separate complaint with conspiracy to obtain and sell contraband cigarettes. Shafique, Rafiq, and Khalid were also charged with conspiracy to commit money laundering for allegedly using criminal proceeds to make additional illegal purchases. Prior to September 2010, OCI special agents began investigating a cigarette smuggling operation in which the defendants purchased contraband cigarettes, which did not bear the New Jersey State cigarette excise tax stamp or bore a counterfeit stamp, and resold them at a profit while avoiding State taxes of $27 per carton. During the course of the investigation, which lasted from September 2010 until February 2012, the defendants purchased contraband cigarettes from a confidential informant and two undercover law enforcement officers. During that time, the defendants bought approximately 253,741 cartons of cigarettes for $9,680,197, resulting in a tax loss of approximately $6,851,655. The defendants sold the contraband cigarettes to others for sale at retail stores or sold them at various retail stores they owned and operated. Some of the money obtained from selling the cigarettes was used to purchase additional contraband cigarettes. These were later sold to New Jersey-based retail stores. The defendants bartered a shotgun and, on two occasions, two vehicles to pay for the cigarettes. The defendants are facing up to 15 years in Federal prison. The defendants also each face a maximum fine of $250,000, or twice the gross gain from the offense. Additionally, the government seeks forfeiture of all property, real and personal, involved in the money laundering offense. Special agents of the U.S. Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco, Firearms and Explosives, Federal Bureau of Investigation, U.S. Immigration and Customs Enforcement, Homeland Security, and local law enforcement from the various states, as well as the New York Department of Taxation and Finance Criminal Investigations Division (CID) worked cooperatively to bring this case to its conclusion. This case started when an OCI special agent observed significant contraband activity in south Jersey and arrested one of the defendants for New Jersey violations during that time. An OCI special agent worked to bring this case to the Federal level when he was assigned to a Federal Task Force last year. OCI special agents laid the ground work for this case and worked with ATF to make numerous undercover purchases, operate an undercover warehouse, and provide coordination with other agencies. OCI will share in the seizure proceeds as well as move to recover the tax due the State of New Jersey.

- On February 24, 2012, at the request of personnel from the Compliance and Enforcement Activity, OCI special agents responded to Glassworld, a business that had been seized for the third time by Division of Taxation investigators. Despite changed locks and appropriately posted signs on the premises, the owner broke into the building and let his employees in to conduct business. Special agents questioned the owner who admitted to illegally entering and removing some of the seizure notices. As a result, he was arrested and transported to the Ocean Township, Monmouth County, Police Department for processing where he was charged with defendant trespass and obstruction of a governmental function. He was released on his own recognizance pending a first appearance in Municipal Court.

- OCI's Special Investigations Unit conducted a "sweep" in Jersey City. 21 locations were inspected resulting in 3 seizures of 7.4 cartons seized (all counterfeit stamped) and 3 locations that were unlicensed or had expired licenses. Additionally, one illegal handgun was seized and special agents intervened in a stabbing occurring in their presence at another location. This was the second phase of the Jersey City sweeps. It appears the word of these operations was out to the retailers thus obtaining the desired deterrent effect.
- OCI conducted joint operations with the United States Air Force Police at Joint Base McGuire-Dix-Lakehurst involving individuals from the northeast region who have attempted to smuggle tobacco products and cell phones into the Federal Bureau of Prisons facility on the base. 10 individuals were arrested and charged on various dates for possession of contraband tobacco products, which were bundled with cell phones. The intent was for the subjects to throw the bundles over the wall of the Federal Correction Center for inmates to retrieve. All subjects were lodged in a Burlington County Corrections facility and charged in Pemberton Municipal Court. All were individually found guilty and fined. In two cases defendants also received short terms of incarceration.

- Investigators from OCI have visited over 40 licensed New Jersey cigarette wholesalers in an ongoing project intended to gauge, through unannounced inspections, the wholesaler's voluntary compliance with requirements under both the New Jersey Cigarette Tax Act and New Jersey Administrative Code. These inspections have been very successful, as a majority of license holders thus far have been compliant and cooperative with reporting and record keeping requirements. Those who fell short were on the right track and were provided a short grace period to complete their records or face criminal prosecution. This project was initiated because many retail violators are blaming their suppliers for various violations. Inspections of this type have not been conducted in over seven years.
- During the first quarter of 2012, there were a total of 7 arrests; 31 cases that resulted in contraband seizures, with 1,143 cartons of contraband cigarettes and 6,075 units of contraband tobacco products; 30 guilty pleas entered in various cases; and $21,653 in fines imposed.
- Also during the first quarter of 2012, the Special Frauds Activity identified 4,256 fraudulent refunds totaling $6,863,630. □

Gross Income Tax

Contributions to Pension Plans on Behalf of Partner or Sole Proprietor — An accountant inquired about the New Jersey gross income tax treatment of a partner's contributions to certain pension plans and the limit on the amount that is excludable for determining income subject to tax, as well as the treatment of pension contributions made on behalf of a sole proprietor.

Contributions to a 401(k) plan made on behalf of a partner or a sole proprietor are excluded from gross income when contributed, whether the amount is considered to be an employee or employer contribution, up to the allowable Federal dollar limits for the Federal tax exclusion. However, a partner or a sole proprietor is not allowed to exclude any type of contribution made on his or her behalf to other types of pension plans, such as SEP, Simple IRA or Keogh plans. See N.J.A.C. 18:35-1.3(d)1.iii.(3).

Filing New Jersey Extension When Federal Income Tax Extension Has Been Filed

— An individual taxpayer inquired about a six-month extension for filing the 2011 New Jersey income tax return, Form NJ-1040. The taxpayer had a valid Federal automatic extension for filing the 2011 Federal income tax return.

If the taxpayer has 80% of the 2011 tax liability paid in the form of withholdings, payments, and credits by the original return due date, and if the taxpayer attaches a copy of the Federal Application for Automatic Extension to the NJ-1040 return, the New Jersey extension will be valid. A line is provided at the top of Form NJ-1040 where the taxpayer must indicate that a Federal extension is being filed.

If the taxpayer has not paid at least 80% of the 2011 New Jersey tax liability by the original due date of the return (through withholdings, credits, and estimated tax payments), then the taxpayer must file Form NJ-630, Application for Extension of Time to File New Jersey Gross Income Tax Return. The taxpayer must include with Form NJ-630 a valid payment that will make the total payments (including withholdings and credits) equal to or exceed the 80% requirement.

N.J.A.C. 18:35-6.1(d) provides: "Failure to satisfy either the 80 percent payment requirement ... by the original due date of the return, or to file the gross income tax return by the extended due date, will result in the retroactive denial of the extension as of the original due date of the return."

Income From Pennsylvania S Corporation — A New Jersey resident shareholder of a Pennsylvania S corporation inquired about whether the Federal S corporation income or the Federal S corporation income with New Jersey modifications, such as the 100% meal deduction and charitable contribution deduction, should be used in determining the net pro rata share of S corporation income.

The Division responded that the amount of S corporation income to be used as the shareholder's net pro rata share is determined by completing Reconciliation Worksheet B. This worksheet requires the shareholder to enter the amount of ordinary income or loss as reported on Federal Form 1120S, Schedule K-1. Any item that is excludable or deductible from S corporation income under the New Jersey Gross Income Tax Act is included on Line 4c along with Line 4f of Worksheet B.

Therefore, the taxpayer should use the Federal S corporation income with New Jersey modifications, such as the 100% meal and entertainment expense deduction, charitable contribution deduction, and New Jersey depreciation computation, for determining net pro rata share of S corporation income for New Jersey gross income tax purposes.

Nonresident With Income From IRA Rolled Over Into Roth IRA —

A taxpayer inquired about the New Jersey gross income tax treatment of income received from converting a traditional IRA into a Roth IRA in 2010. The taxpayer made a Federal election to report the income in equal installments on the Federal return in 2011 and 2012. The taxpayer became a nonresident of New Jersey on July 1, 2011, and asked how to report the income on the 2011 New Jersey return.

For New Jersey gross income tax purposes, tax is paid on the amounts contributed to an IRA. Therefore, only interest, dividends, and other earnings credited to a traditional IRA are subject to tax when IRA amounts are withdrawn or rolled over.

For the first six months of 2011, the taxpayer was a New Jersey resident and he must report income from the conversion as pensions and annuities on Form NJ-1040 in accordance with Federal reporting. To calculate the amount to report, the taxpayer would determine the amount subject to tax for all of 2011 and multiply by one-half.

In accordance with N.J.S.A. 54A:5-8(b), nonresidents are not taxed on pension income regardless of where earned. Therefore, with regard to the six months in 2011 when the taxpayer was a nonresident, if the taxpayer had income from New Jersey sources and files a nonresident return, the taxpayer will report the other portion (one-half) of the 2011 taxable distribution amount on the pensions and annuities line in Column A, "Amount of Gross Income Everywhere," on Form NJ-1040NR.

Partnership's Sale of Partnership Assets —

A New Jersey resident taxpayer recently inquired if a particular transaction is considered a "complete liquidation" for New Jersey gross income tax purposes under N.J.A.C. 18:35-1.3(d)2. Specifically, the taxpayer is one of several partners in a New Jersey partnership which sold the assets of the partnership business. The taxpayer still owns part of the actual partnership entity, although all of the operations and operating assets were sold as a result of this transaction. The only assets left on the balance sheet of the seller entity are the installment notes, some cash, and some remaining trade receivables because the partnership must survive for at least a couple more years to collect on the notes and remaining accounts receivable.

40th Anniversary

The New Jersey State Tax News is celebrating its 40th year of publication. The first copy of the newsletter appeared in June 1972, and the newsletter has been providing tax-related information to the public ever since. Thank you to everyone who has made the New Jersey State Tax News what it is today.

A complete liquidation of a partnership is deemed to occur in the tax year when it and all its partners discontinue all partnership activities, all its assets have been distributed to partners, and the partners are required to recognize their gain or loss on the disposition of their partnership interests for Federal income tax purposes. N.J.A.C. 18:35-1.3(d)2.

Therefore, based on the information provided, the transaction is not considered a complete liquidation for New Jersey gross income tax purposes under N.J.A.C. 18:35-1.3(d)2 since all the assets such as installment notes, some cash, and some remaining trade receivables have not yet been distributed to partners.

Sales and Use Tax

Doggie Day Care and Pet Sitting — The Division received an inquiry regarding the application of the Sales and Use Tax Act to doggie day care occurring at the service provider's facility and pet sitting occurring at the pet owner's home.

The Division responded that under the Act a distinction is made between doggie day care and pet sitting. Doggie day care occurring at the service provider's facility is considered animal boarding, which is subject to tax pursuant to N.J.S.A. 54:32B-3(b) (3); whereas pet sitting occurring at the pet owner's home is considered an exempt personal service. N.J.S.A. 54:32B-2(e)(4)(A).

Needles and Syringes Purchased by a Health Care Provider — The Division received an inquiry from a doctor's office regarding the taxability of hypodermic needles and syringes purchased for use in providing medical services.

The Division responded that N.J.S.A. 54:32B-8.1c states that "[r]eceipts from sales of supplies purchased for use in providing medical services for compensation, but not transferred to the purchaser of the service in conjunction with the performance of the service ..." are taxable.

Therefore, disposable or reuseable hypodermic needles and syringes sold to a health care provider for use in providing medical services but not transferred to the patient are subject to sales and use tax.

Personal Seat License — A sports team inquired whether the sale of a Personal Seat License (PSL) is subject to sales tax given the following facts:

A PSL will give the licensee the right to purchase season tickets for the selected seat at the regular admission price for the team's home games. A PSL is purchased for a one-time fee. PSLs will sell for different prices, depending on the location of the seating that is associated with the PSL. The PSL licensee will own the right to purchase season tickets for the selected seat for all pre-season, regular season and playoff games. A PSL licensee will not be permitted admission to the stadium without a ticket.

The Division responded that the Sales and Use Tax Act imposes tax on any admission charge to or for the use of any place of amusement in New Jersey or to any entertainment event or sporting activity which takes place in this State. N.J.S.A. 54:32B-3(e)(1). However, "for any person having the permanent use or possession of a box or seat or lease or a license, other than a season ticket, for the use of a box or seat at a place of amusement, the tax shall be upon the amount for which a similar box or seat is sold for each performance or exhibition at which the box or seat is used or reserved by the holder, licensee or lessee." N.J.S.A. 54:32B-3(e)(1).

Based on the fact that the PSL entitles the licensee to the right to purchase season tickets and that the PSL is sold separate and apart from

Practitioners' E-File Mandate

For the 2011 taxable year and later, preparers that reasonably expect to prepare 11 or more individual gross income tax resident returns (including those filed for trusts and estates) during the tax year must use electronic methods to file those returns for which an electronic filing option is available. At this time, there is no electronic filing option available for a New Jersey fiduciary return, Form NJ-1041 (or Form NJ-1041SB for a small business trust). Although the fiduciary returns are currently not filed electronically, preparers must include the number of fiduciary returns they expect to prepare when determining whether they must file all other returns electronically. A tax preparer is liable for a penalty of $50 for each return he or she fails to file electronically when required to do so.

If you have questions concerning the E-File Mandate, call the Division of Taxation at 609-633-6657 or e-mail us at nj.taxation@treas.state.nj.us the taxable season ticket, a charge for a PSL is not subject to sales or use tax.

Service Charge Imposed by Satellite Television Company — A taxpayer inquired whether it was correct for a satellite television company to charge sales tax on a service charge imposed by the satellite television company.

The Division responded that the answer will depend upon what the service charge represents. Under the Sales and Use Tax Act, the definition of “receipt” does not allow for a deduction of expenses in an otherwise taxable transaction. N.J.S.A. 54:32B-2(d); N.J.S.A. 54:32B-2(oo). The service charge imposed by the satellite television company follows the taxability of the underlying product or service. Thus, the answer depends upon whether the underlying product or service is the charge for the television service or the charge for the rental of the receiver.

Charges to subscribers for television audio and video programming services, such as cable service, are excluded from the sales tax imposed on telecommunications services. N.J.S.A. 54:32B-2(cc)(13). Therefore, charges for satellite television subscription service are not subject to tax. The service charge is not subject to tax if it is a charge imposed on the television service.

On the other hand, a charge to rent a receiver is subject to tax. N.J.S.A. 54:32B-3(a); N.J.S.A. 54:32B-2(f). The service charge is taxable if it is a charge imposed on the rental of the receiver since it is simply an increase in the taxable receipt.

Transfer of Vehicle With Lien From Deceased Family Member — A taxpayer inquired whether New Jersey sales tax applies to the transfer of title to a vehicle that previously belonged to his deceased mother. The taxpayer acquired the vehicle with a lien.

The Division responded that the Sales and Use Tax Act imposes tax on retail sales of tangible personal property. N.J.S.A. 54:32B-3(a). A sale is defined to include a “transfer of title.” N.J.S.A. 54:32B-2(f). A sale does not occur if there is no consideration (e.g., a gift).

Since there is a balance due (lien) remaining on the vehicle, consideration exists when the vehicle is transferred from the deceased’s name to the surviving relative’s name. There is no exemption in the Sales and Use Tax Act for transfers of tangible personal property for consideration. Thus, the surviving relative is required to pay tax when title to the vehicle is transferred to him.

However, if the decedent’s estate pays the lien in full and then gifts the vehicle to the surviving relative, sales tax would not be due. The decedent’s estate is not required to pay tax and consideration does not exist when the decedent’s estate gifts the vehicle to the surviving relative. □

S Corporation Shareholder Deductions – Schulmann, Daniel et al., v. Director, Division of Taxation, decided December 6, 2011; Superior Court of New Jersey, Appellate Division, Docket No. A-2089-10T3.

The New Jersey Superior Court, Appellate Division affirmed the Tax

Court decision upholding the Director’s assessment.

Daniel Schulmann, known as Tiger Schulmann, owns, operates, and franchises karate schools. During the tax years 2000, 2001, and 2002, Daniel Schulmann used his personal funds to pay commissions that two S corporations were contractually obligated to pay to instructors at Tiger Schulmann Karate Schools. The corporations did not report those commissions as expenses on their corporation business tax returns. Instead, Mr. Schulmann deducted the commission expenses from the S corporation income that he reported on his New Jersey personal income tax return.

The Appellate Court agreed with the Tax Court in that Mr. Schulmann could not deduct commission payments he paid as a business expense under N.J.S.A. 54A:5-1(b) (net income from the operation of a business). It was determined that income from an S corporation is a separate income category under N.J.S.A. 54:5-1(p) and, therefore, Mr. Schulmann could not “cross-net an alleged business expense” against net pro rata share of S corporation income.

In addition, the Court stated that the fact that the S corporations could have taken deductions for the commissions had they paid them did not mean that Mr. Schulmann could deduct them on his New Jersey personal income tax return.

Local Property Tax
Retroactive Refund of Disabled Veteran’s Property Tax Exemption – Salvatore Del Priore v. Edison Township, decided March 29, 2012; Tax Court.

Plaintiff, Salvatore Del Priore, disputed the denial of a retroactive refund for a disabled veteran's property tax exemption. On April 20, 2006, the U.S. Department of Veterans Affairs (VA) issued a letter determining the plaintiff was 100% permanently and totally disabled due to wartime service-connected disabilities. The effective date for this determination was September 17, 1997. On April 24, 2006, the plaintiff filed an application for a full exemption of local property taxes for his residence under N.J.S.A. 54:4-3.30 to 54:4-3.34. The municipal assessor granted the exemption for 2006 and on May 10, 2006, the Edison Township Municipal Council refunded the plaintiff his first-quarter taxes in the amount of $1,966.78.

After receiving the initial refund, the plaintiff sent a letter dated June 6, 2006, requesting a retroactive refund dating back to September 17, 1997, the effective date of his disability per the VA. Del Priore's letter made reference to the Township Council's prior full retroactive payment practice. The Township Council then authorized another refund in the amount of $7,615.12 for taxes the plaintiff paid in 2005. A letter from Anthony Cancro, Edison's former business administrator, that accompanied the second refund explained that any further reimbursement would cause an undue hardship to the town and its residents.

Del Priore, dissatisfied with the determination, responded to Cancro with examples of other residents who were granted retroactive payments in full from the effective date of total and permanent disability as determined by the VA. No further response was received from Mr.

Cancro and the plaintiff made another attempt to request retroactive payment to the Township Council on December 11, 2006. The municipal assessor acknowledged receipt of the letter and advised Mr. Del Priore that his request would be revisited; however, there was no additional correspondence.

It is noted that, unlike the plaintiff, for the majority of cases which received a retroactive refund, the gap between the date of the VA determination and the effective date of the total and permanent disability was less than two years. The amount of refunds varied with the largest being $13,570.98, the second largest $9,581.90, and the remaining veterans receiving smaller amounts. Through OPRA the plaintiff identified 20 more fully refunded veterans.

In light of this situation, the Township Council adopted an ordinance which went into effect on October 23, 2007, limiting the retroactive property tax refund to the current year and the prior year, and in no case greater than a 24-month period in aggregate, for persons entitled to the veteran's exemption under N.J.S.A. 54:4-3.30. The ordinance stated the reason for the limitation was the impact and financial burden that this would cause on the township and its residents.

Del Priore inquired again about his refund request and in August of 2008 was supplied with a copy of the ordinance. Soon after, on or about September 8, 2008, Del Priore filed an appeal with the Middlesex County Tax Board. The Board issued a judgment on September 18, 2008, dismissing the petition for lack of jurisdiction and served it on September 23, 2008. Finally, Del Priore filed an appeal with the Tax Court on October 30, 2008, requesting an additional refund of $45,896.69 for local property taxes paid from September 17, 1997, through December 31, 2004. Del Priore indicated that he was willing to extend payment of the refund over a 48-month period.

The Court found that it had been the Township's policy to grant a tax refund back to the effective date of disability. It was the decision that the plaintiff was not seeking a prior exemption which was granted from the date he filed on April 24, 2006, but rather a prior refund. It is the discretion of the Township that is considered in this case. The Court concluded that the permissive language of the statute "may return" was discretionary, not mandatory. The Court further held the Township's policy change had a rational basis and did not violate the Equal Protection Clause of the U.S. Constitution.

Sales Tax

Jurisdiction – Scott Frybarger, t/a Titan Power Equipment, Inc. v. Director, Division of Taxation, decided December 20, 2011; Tax Court Docket No. 017189-2011.

Judge DeAlmeida denied plaintiff's motion seeking preliminary injunctive relief barring the Division of Taxation from levying on a bank account to satisfy a fixed and final sales tax obligation.

Frybarger had filed in several courts previously (a tort claim in Federal District Court; New Jersey Superior Court, Law Division; New Jersey Superior Court, Appellate Division; and finally to the New Jersey Supreme Court, who denied plaintiff's petition for certification) seeking to have a $660,000 jeopardy assessment dismissed.

Frybarger, a Florida resident, had hired Ohio residents to sell construction equipment in New Jersey. No sales tax was collected on these transactions.

On October 28, 2011, a year and a half after the Appellate Division decision, Frybarger filed an Order to Show Cause in Tax Court, stating that the State does not have jurisdiction over him personally in New Jersey. Frybarger was claiming that he was not personally responsible for the debts of Titan Power Equipment, Inc.

Judge DeAlmeida opined, “The public interest is served in this case by the collection of outstanding tax liabilities. Protection of the public fisc is in the interest of all members of the public, as the provision of vital government services cannot be maintained if tax revenues authorized by the Legislature remain uncollected. While a showing of true hardship coupled with a likelihood of ultimate success on the merits might overcome this important public objective, plaintiff has not made such a showing. The standards for entry of preliminary injunctive relief are set forth in Crowe v. DeGioia, 90 N.J. 126, 133 (1982). The court must weigh several factors, including whether the requested relief is necessary to prevent irreparable harm, whether the party seeking the relief is likely to succeed on the legal rights asserted, whether a balancing of the relative hardships to the parties of granting or denying relief favors entry of preliminary relief and the public interest. Each factor was examined in turn.”

After reviewing each of the standards outlined in Crowe, Judge DeAlmeida ruled that preliminary injunctive relief was not warranted.

Gross Sales – Anthony Murphy, Inc. t/a Murphs Liquor & Bar and Peter Murphy, Individually v. Director, Division of Taxation, decided December 22, 2011; Superior Court of New Jersey, Appellate Division, Docket No. A-1102-10T4.

The taxpayer is a subchapter S corporation trading as Murphs Liquor & Bar. The bar also engaged in retail sales of liquor. During the audit period, the bar operated with a single, noncomputerized cash register. The tapes from the cash register were not routinely saved. Instead, the owner counted the cash proceeds, recorded the amount, then deposited the cash into a bank account.

During the examination the auditor sought various documents needed for the audit. Although some were received, others, including most of the cash register tapes, were not provided. Based upon the auditor’s analysis of the records received, the absence of records such as cash register tapes, and the inconsistency of income reported for specific years on different reports and deposit records, the auditor concluded that there were insufficient books and records to complete the audit.

The auditor recalculated the taxes due based on the additional gross income resulting from the mark-up analysis and deducted the amount of taxes already paid. The auditor determined that both the corporation and the shareholder owed additional taxes.

The taxpayer filed a timely protest and an administrative conference was held. The taxpayer’s representative promised to provide additional cash register tapes to support the business’s position. Instead, the taxpayer’s representative provided an annotated adding machine tape and some other documents.

The taxpayer filed a complaint in Tax Court. The Director moved for summary judgment in October 2009. Oral argument was held on October 1, 2010. The Tax Court judge delivered a brief oral decision granting the Director’s motion. On appeal, the taxpayer’s representative argued that the Tax Court judge erred in granting summary judgment because there were issues of fact requiring a plenary trial. The Director argued that the judge properly determined that the taxpayer did not offer sufficient evidence to warrant a trial because they were unable to overcome the presumption of correctness that attaches to an assessment by the Division.

On appeal, the taxpayer tried to overcome the presumption of correctness by attacking the credibility of the auditor and conferee, questioning the methodology used by the Division. The taxpayer did not contradict the Director’s assertions that the bulk of the cash register tapes were not produced or that there were insufficient books and records to complete the audit. The taxpayer did not provide an expert report pointing to errors of fact, methodology, or calculation with respect to the Division’s mark-up analysis. Since the taxpayer had not provided the type of proofs required to rebut the presumption of correctness, the Appellate Division ruled that the Tax Court correctly determined that summary judgment in favor of the Director was appropriate.

Sales Tax Subjectivity – Atlantic City Showboat, Inc. v. Director, Division of Taxation; Our Lady of Lourdes Medical Center, Inc. v. Director, Division of Taxation, decided January 24, 2012; Tax Court of New Jersey, Docket Nos. 000036-2007 and 006119-2007.

Plaintiffs' motions for summary judgment were denied and the Director's cross-motions for summary judgment were granted. As a result, the Court affirmed the final determinations of the Director finding that all charges and expenses related to the service of transmitting and transporting electricity to the user or customer are subject to sales tax.

Plaintiffs argued that the law applied only to the service of transmitting the electricity to the distribution facility. Further, the distribution charges related to transmitting the electricity to the user/customer and other expenses passed on to them by the utilities pursuant to State law were unrelated to the provision of electricity and as such not subject to sales tax.

Judge DeAlmeida disagreed. N.J.S.A. 54:32B-2(d) did not require that a charge for a service be related to the provision of that service in order to be taxable. Distribution charges were subject to sales tax because electricity distribution was a "utility service" within the meaning of N.J.S.A. 54:32B-2(hh), as the charges were levied in exchange for the movement of electricity. Market transition costs were authorized as a cost of electricity distribution services and, therefore, part of the taxable receipts for utility service. The transition bond charges were authorized by statute to recoup public utility expenses associated with bonds and as such are taxable. Society benefits charges were charges for electricity distribution services subject to the sales tax. The customer service charges paid for administrative activities associated with the delivery of electricity are also subject to the sales tax. □

In Our Legislature Cosmetic Medical Procedure Gross Receipts Tax

Phase Out — P.L. 2011, c.189, signed into law on January 17, 2012, and effective immediately, phases out the cosmetic medical procedure gross receipts tax, which is paid pursuant to P.L. 2004, c.53 (N.J.S.A. 54:32E-1 et seq.). The current 6% rate will be reduced to 4% on taxable services performed on or after July 1, 2012, but before July 1, 2013. It is further reduced to 2% on taxable services performed on or after July 1, 2013, but before July 1, 2014, and eliminated entirely on taxable services performed on or after July 1, 2014.

Gross Income Tax

Checkoff for American Red Cross-NJ Fund — P.L. 2011, c.211, signed into law on January 17, 2012, and effective for 2012 and subsequent tax years, establishes the American Red Cross-NJ Fund. It gives New Jersey taxpayers the opportunity to make voluntary contributions on their State gross income tax returns in support of the programs and services of the New Jersey chapters of the American Red Cross.

Checkoff for Girl Scouts Councils in New Jersey Fund

— P.L. 2011, c.227, signed into law on January 17, 2012, and effective for 2013 and subsequent tax years, establishes the Girl Scouts Councils in New Jersey Fund. It gives New Jersey taxpayers the opportunity to make voluntary contributions on their State gross income tax returns in support of the programs and services of the Girl Scouts Councils in New Jersey.

Local Property Tax

Urban Farming and Gardening — P.L. 2011, c.171, signed on January 5, 2012, and effective immediately, amends various parts of the law to allow all municipalities to sell and lease public property not needed for public purposes to certain nonprofit entities for "urban" farming and gardening purposes. Under the previous law, this practice was restricted to municipalities located in cities of the first, second, third, or fourth class.

Miscellaneous

Grow New Jersey Assistance Program — P.L. 2011, c.149, signed into law on January 5, 2012, and effective immediately, establishes the Grow New Jersey Assistance Program to encourage businesses to engage in economic development, job creation, and the preservation of existing jobs within New Jersey. The new law establishes a $200 million tax credit incentive program that emphasizes growth of New Jersey-based companies through capital investment, creation of new jobs, and retention of existing jobs.

To be eligible for program tax credits, the law requires a business to make capital investments of at least

$20 million at a qualified business facility at which it will employ at least 100 full-time employees in retained full-time jobs, or create at least 100 new full-time jobs in an industry deemed desirable by the New Jersey Economic Development Authority (EDA). Eligibility for program tax credits is entirely the province of the EDA.

The program's cost falls under the $1.5 billion cap established under the Urban Transit Hub Tax Credit (UTHTC) Program. The bill allows the initial $200 million program allocation to be increased by the board of the EDA if the board determines the credits to be reasonable, justifiable, and appropriate. It also requires that all applications for eligibility under the program shall be made to the EDA by July 1, 2014.

The new law provides that the amount of tax credits that can be applied by a business annually under the program cannot exceed the lesser of one-tenth of the capital investment, or $4 million. The Urban Transit Hub Tax Credit is capped at $1.5 billion over its 10-year life.

An eligible business will receive a base tax credit of $5,000 per job, per year, for 10 years with no distinction between retained or new jobs. The tax credit term of 10 years includes an annual compliance review for credit issuance. The base tax credit may be increased by a bonus award amount of up to $3,000 per job by an eligible business, as determined by the authority based on factors in the Act. The per-project benefit shall not exceed the capital investment at the project site. Tax credits issued to an eligible business are transferable through elective tax credit transfer certificates.

There are provisions which would call for forfeiting of the benefit for noncompliance.

The definition of "urban transit hub" under the UTHTC law will now include in the eligibility criteria for that tax credit assistance program any project commencing construction located within a half mile radius of a New Jersey Transit Corporation rail station sited at an international airport, except for any property owned or controlled by the Port Authority of New York and New Jersey.

The law makes clarifying changes to the Business Retention and Relocation Assistance Grant (BRRAG) Program to expand the definition of "capital investment" and to repeal the requirement that tax credits issued under the BRRAG program may not be applied by the business against liability until the State Treasurer has certified that the amount of retained State tax revenue from the business for the tax period prior to the period in which the credits will be applied equals or exceeds the amount of the tax credits.

Finally, the State Treasurer may make certain sales and conveyances to the New Jersey Performing Arts Center.

Motor Fuel Signs Must Display Cash and Credit Prices — P.L. 2011, c.152, signed into law on January 5, 2012, and effective the 120th day following its enactment, or May 4, 2012, provides that price signs posted by a retail motor fuel dealer on the dealer's premises and visible from any adjacent roadway shall include the price per gallon, or the price per gallon and per liter, for both cash and credit card purchases of motor fuel in accordance with regulations prescribed by the Director of the Division of Taxation.

Benefits Allowable for Motor Fuel Purchases on Credit, Debit, or Rewards Card — P.L. 2011, c.164, signed into law on January 5, 2012, and effective immediately, amends subsection e. of section 201 of P.L. 1938, c.163 (N.J.S.A. 56:6-2) to stipulate that a consumer who earns credits through purchases on a credit card, debit card, or rewards card may utilize those credits to receive a rebate, allowance, concession, or benefit when that person purchases motor fuels.

The use of credits earned through purchases on a credit card, debit card, or rewards card would not change the retail price of motor fuel displayed pursuant to section 3 of P.L. 1952, c.258 (N.J.S.A. 56:6-2.3); and the retail dealer would not bear the cost of the rebate, allowance, concession, or benefit received by the motor fuel purchaser, except for a processing fee assessed in the ordinary course of business.

Wine or Beer Manufactured for Personal or Household Use or Consumption — P.L. 2011, c.169, was signed into law on January 5, 2012, and became effective immediately. Under the previous law, a person over age 21 could manufacture at home up to 200 gallons of wine or beer for personal or household use or consumption annually; however, prior to producing the wine or beer, the person was required to obtain a special permit from the Director of the Division of Alcoholic Beverage Control. This new law eliminates the requirement to obtain a permit. Home production of wine or beer continues to be limited to a maximum of 200 gallons annually under Federal regulations.

Reports and Publications Must be Available Electronically on the Internet — P.L. 2011, c.184, signed on January 17, 2012, and effective immediately, repeals N.J.S.A. 52:14-21, 22, 25, and 25.2 and makes certain other technical changes and clarifications.

The new law requires that any reports and publications produced by the State or its agencies and submitted to the Governor, the Legislature, or the public must be made available electronically on the Internet instead of being printed in hard copy. Individuals who are unable to access reports or publications electronically on the Internet may request a printed copy. A notice of availability must be provided and in certain instances copies must be furnished to the State Librarian. The new law does not apply to the publication and distribution of the New Jersey Administrative Code and the New Jersey Register.

Out-of-State Winery License — P.L. 2011, c.207, signed into law on January 17, 2012, and effective on the first day of the fourth month after enactment, or April 1, 2012, permits direct shipping by wineries and creates an out-of-State winery license. In doing so, it makes various changes to the statutes governing the sale and distribution of products by New Jersey wineries and creates a new out-of-State winery license governing New Jersey sales by wineries licensed in other states.

Plenary wineries that produce a maximum of 250,000 gallons per year and farm wineries would be permitted to sell their products directly to licensed retailers after paying a fee. Plenary wineries would pay a graduated fee ranging from $100 to $1,000 and farm wineries would pay a fee of $100. The winery is required to retain the original invoices for any wine shipped for at least three years on the winery premises for inspection by the State.

Previously, all plenary and farm winery licensees were permitted to sell their products to retailers. Under the new law all plenary and farm wineries are able to sell their products to licensed wholesalers. The law also permits the wineries to sell their products by the glass at the salesrooms. □

Division and IRS Expand Cooperation on Criminal Matters

The Division of Taxation's Office of Criminal Investigation and the Internal Revenue Service are expanding their cooperation on criminal investigations to ensure their investigative resources are used efficiently and violations of both Federal and State tax laws are successfully prosecuted. The agencies signed a Memorandum of Understanding outlining their new areas of cooperation and information sharing at the Division of Taxation's office in Trenton on October 19, 2011. The memorandum was signed on behalf of the IRS by Victor Lessof, Special Agent in Charge for New Jersey; Charles Giblin, Special Agent in Charge of Taxation's Office of Criminal Investigation; and Michael Bryan, Director of the Division of Taxation. □

What's New for Tax Year 2011

There have been some important changes affecting the preparation of New Jersey income tax returns and applications for New Jersey's property tax relief programs this year:

Income Tax

- Form 1099-G — The State of New Jersey is no longer mailing Form 1099-G, Certain Government Payments, to report the amount of a State tax refund a taxpayer received. State income tax refunds may be taxable income for Federal purposes for individuals who itemized their deductions on their Federal tax

return in the previous year. Taxpayers who need this information to complete their Federal return will be able to view or print their 1099-G information from the Division's Web site.

- Property Tax Deduction/Credit for Homeowners and Tenants — To calculate the correct amount of property taxes paid on their New Jersey principal residence homeowners must know whether they received a homestead benefit during 2011, the amount of the benefit, and whether the benefit was paid as a credit on their 2011 property tax bill or in the form of a check. For tenants, 18% of the rent paid during the year is considered property taxes paid. Qualified residents should review the instructions in the NJ-1040 booklet for determining the amount of property taxes due and paid for 2011 (to be reported on Line 36a).
- Designated Contribution — The New Jersey Lung Cancer Research Fund has been added to the list of organizations to which taxpayers can contribute on the New Jersey tax return. To donate to the new fund, taxpayers must specify code number "11" at the "Other Designated Contribution" line.
- Roth IRA Conversions During Tax Year 2010 — Taxpayers who converted an existing IRA to a rollover Roth IRA during tax year 2010 and made a Federal election to report the income in equal installments in 2011 and 2012 must report one-half of the amount that is taxable for New Jersey purposes on their income tax return for 2011.

- Credit for Excess UI/WF/SWF; DI; FLI Withheld — For 2011, the maximum employee unemployment insurance/workforce development partnership fund/supplemental workforce fund contribution was $125.80, the maximum employee disability insurance contribution was $148.00, and the maximum employee family leave insurance contribution was $17.76. Taxpayers with two or more employers who have contributed more than the maximum amount(s), must complete Form NJ-2450 to claim credit on their New Jersey tax return for the excess withheld.
- Credit for Taxes Paid to Other Jurisdictions — The Philadelphia nonresident wage tax rate for 2011 is 3.4985%.
- Filing Deadline — The due date is April 17, 2012, for calendar year taxpayers instead of April 15 because of the Emancipation Day holiday in the District of Columbia. This is the same day the Federal Form 1040 is due.
- Online Refund Status Inquiry — Taxpayers who are owed a refund from the State of New Jersey can now check the status of their refund on the Division's Web site.

Property Tax Relief Programs

- Homestead Benefit Program — New Jersey residents who owned and occupied a home in New Jersey that was their principal residence on October 1, 2011, may be eligible for a homestead benefit provided the 2011 property taxes were paid and they meet certain income limits. Eligibility requirements, including income limits, and benefits available under this program are subject to change by the State Budget.

Information about the 2011 homestead benefit will be posted on our Web site as it becomes available.

- 2011 Property Tax Reimbursement (Senior Freeze) — With very few exceptions, all income received during the year, including income which is not required to be reported on Form NJ-1040, must be taken into account to determine eligibility for the property tax reimbursement. For residents applying for reimbursements for tax year 2011, total annual income must be:

2011: $80,000 or less, and

These limits apply regardless of marital/civil union status. However, if an applicant's status is married/CU couple, combined income of both spouses/CU partners must be reported.

Eligibility requirements, including income limits, and benefits available under this program are subject to change by the State Budget. The eligibility requirements and benefit amounts for 2011 property tax reimbursements will not be finalized until the completion of the State Budget that must be adopted by July 1, 2012. □

Taxation Safeguards its Federal Tax Information

In March 2011, the Division of Taxation, the Office of Treasury Technology, and the Office of Information Technology were reviewed by Internal Revenue Service (IRS) specialists on their use of confidential Federal tax information (FTI). The IRS has established requirements for the safe handling of FTI.

FTI includes Federal tax returns or Federal information returns filed by a taxpayer, including any schedules, forms, attachments, and amendments. Anything the IRS collects and uses to determine a taxpayer's liability or potential liability is also considered FTI. This includes, but is not limited to, information forms such as W-2s or 1099s, social security numbers, and employer identification numbers.

The IRS Safeguards Program requires that each agency receiving confidential Federal tax data have internal systems developed for the proper use of that data, ensuring that it is treated with the highest level of confidentiality protections that are both feasible and available.

The Division had not been through such an extensive review for three years. In addition, the IRS revised its standards to create stricter guidelines to protect confidential tax information. With the help and cooperation provided by the Disclosure Unit, the Division is working towards meeting the new compliance goals.

Because of the nature of its mission, the Division maintains files that contain highly confidential personal and financial information about individuals, businesses, and other entities, all paying various taxes to the State. In order to maintain public confidence in the Division, it is critical that the privacy rights of taxpayers be respected and protected. It is the responsibility of each employee of the Division to take scrupulous care to ensure the absolute confidentiality and integrity of the Division's records.

All Division employees are required to sign an "Agreement to Adhere to Secrecy Provisions of the State Tax Uniform Procedure Law" and to adhere to the applicable Internal Revenue Code as it applies to confidential tax data. (See the Internal Revenue Code, Subtitle F, Chapter 75, Subchapter A, Part I, Sections 7213, 7231A, and 7431 and U.S.C. Title 18, Part I, Chapter 93, Public Officers And Employees, Section 1905.)

The penalties for violation of these laws are severe. Unauthorized disclosure (providing tax information to someone who is not entitled to it) and/or use of tax information is defined in N.J.S.A. 54:50-8 as being a crime of the fourth degree. The statute also defines unauthorized examination of tax information as a disorderly persons offense.

The Federal criminal penalty for unauthorized access to FTI is one year in prison, a $1,000 fine, and the cost of prosecution. Unauthorized disclosure has a more severe criminal penalty: five years in prison, a $5,000 fine, and the cost of prosecution.

Both sets of requirements restrict the disclosure, redisclosure, and use of tax information to authorized personnel for authorized purposes only.

This includes the restriction against browsing, which is accessing any tax information by any means for any reason other than to perform an official duty. □

Safe Deposit Box Release

R.S. 54:35-19 provides that the contents of a safe deposit box standing in the name of a decedent either individually, jointly, or otherwise may not be released without at least a 10-day notice to the Director, Division of Taxation, of the intended delivery and the retention of sufficient assets to pay any tax and interest that may be assessed on the assets. The statute provides that the Director may examine the assets of a decedent contained in a safe deposit box.

In 1992 the Division determined that it would no longer inventory safe deposit boxes held by a decedent at the time of his or her death. Since September 30, 1992, the Director has issued a blanket waiver that is reissued every five years.

On December 12, 2011, the Director reissued the blanket waiver authorizing the immediate release of the contents of a safe deposit box for the period from January 1, 2012, to January 1, 2017. See below. □

GROSS INCOME TAX

Clarification: Practitioners' E-File Mandate

The following is provided to clarify information published in the winter 2010 issue of the New Jersey State Tax News regarding the practitioners' e-file mandate.

For the 2011 taxable year and later, preparers that reasonably expect to prepare 11 or more individual gross income tax resident returns (including those filed for trusts and estates) during the tax year must use electronic methods to file those returns for which an electronic filing option is available. At this time, there is no electronic filing option available for a New Jersey fiduciary return, Form NJ-1041 (or Form NJ-1041SB for a small business trust). Although the fiduciary returns are currently not filed electronically, preparers must include the number of fiduciary returns they expect to prepare when determining whether they must file all other returns electronically. □

OTA Accepting Certain Sales and Use Tax Cases

Since its creation last year, the Office of the Taxpayer Advocate (OTA) has been assisting taxpayers with problems involving individual gross income tax. Beginning October 1, 2011, OTA is no longer limiting cases by tax type, provided they meet the case acceptance guidelines.

Cases the OTA will not accept include inquiries concerning delinquency and/or deficiency notices, questions regarding the filing of sales and use tax returns, and PIN (Personal Identification Number) requests.

Inquiries concerning delinquency and/or deficiency notices should be directed to the e-mail address, phone number, or mailing address on the notice.

For questions regarding the filing of sales and use tax returns, e-mail the Division or call the Customer Service Center at 609-292-6400.

To: All Banks, Trust Companies, Savings Institutions, Safe Deposit Companies, Savings and Loan Associations, or Other Institutions:

The Director, Division of Taxation, Department of the Treasury of the State of New Jersey, hereby waives the requirements of Revised Statutes 54:35-19 with respect to the issuance of the ten days notice and retention of assets for the opening of safe deposit boxes standing in the name of decedents either individually, jointly, or otherwise, or to which they had access and consents to release of the contents thereof.

This waiver is effective January 1, 2012 and shall expire January 1, 2017 unless cancelled by prior notice.

The institution releasing the contents of safe deposit boxes should keep the original of this letter for its own records.

Acting Director
Division of Taxation

PIN requests can be made on the Division of Revenue's Web site at: <https://www.state.nj.us/treas/revenue/requestpin.shtml>

Answers to frequently asked questions about sales and use tax can be found on the Division's Web site at: www.state.nj.us/treasury/taxation/emailfaqs.shtml#Submit

The OTA is not intended as a substitute for, or to circumvent or replace, established procedures or the formal appeal process. It is only when those procedures don't work properly that the OTA can intercede. Taxpayers who have tried to resolve their tax problem with the Division on their own but have not been successful can ask the OTA to intercede on their behalf. The OTA will work with appropriate Division personnel and the taxpayer (or their representative) to resolve issues as quickly as possible.

Request a Speaker From Taxation

For over 20 years the Division of Taxation has provided speakers for events sponsored by civic and/or professional organizations. Division representatives are available to speak to groups of 15 or more on many New Jersey tax topics including: New Jersey property tax relief programs, which includes the Homestead Benefit Program and the Property Tax Reimbursement

Program (often referred to as the Senior Freeze); business tax responsibilities; New Jersey gross income tax; and New Jersey sales and use tax. Information presented at these events can be customized for a specific group. Presentations have been made to groups that include both tax professionals and individual taxpayers.

If you are interested in requesting a Division speaker for an upcoming event, contact us at least 30 days prior to the event to ensure that we can meet your needs. Requests for speakers must be submitted via the Division's Web site at: <https://www.state.nj.us/treas/taxation/contactus/tytoutreach.shtml> □

The Division of Taxation conducts free small business workshops designed to help owners of small businesses understand their New Jersey tax obligations. The workshops are half-day seminars presented at locations throughout the State. The Internal Revenue Service does not participate in these seminars.

The small business workshops include the following topics:

- How to register a business with the Division of Taxation, Division of Revenue, and Department of Labor and Workforce Development.
- Types of business ownership and the tax consequences of each type.
- Filing sales and use tax returns.
- Meeting employer responsibilities.
- Reporting business income.

- What is taxable and what is exempt for New Jersey sales tax purposes.
- Procedures for collecting and remitting various New Jersey taxes.

To attend a workshop, interested parties must register with the contact person listed for each event. The contact person can also provide the time of the workshop, parking information, and directions to the location. The Division does not manage the registration process.

The current workshop schedule is available on the Division's Web site at: www.state.nj.us/treasury/taxation/sbwsched.shtml. The schedule is updated as new workshops are added. □

OCI Special Agents Complete Investigator Training

In January of 2011, Acting Director Michael Bryan administered the oath of office to four new special agents in the Office of Criminal Investigation: Audrey Boyd-Iovinno, Nicole Schwartz, Ryan Villaroman, and Bruce Stuck.

The four special agent recruits were assigned to complete the Basic Course for Investigators, conducted at the New Jersey Division of Criminal Justice Academy at Sea Girt. In accordance with the provisions of the Police Training Act, this training is mandatory for sworn State and county criminal investigators.

The Basic Course for Investigators, which runs for nearly six months, consists of an intense physical and academic regimen. Instructors are drawn from across New Jersey's law enforcement community and include Marijane LaMattina, who is a firearms instructor at the academy. The curriculum includes criminal and constitutional law, arrest, search and seizure, the criminal justice system, investigative techniques, and review and interrogation. Instruction is also provided on additional specialized subjects such as homeland security, electronic surveillance, defensive tactics, and other lessons that build basic skills for a successful criminal investigator.

In a class of 28, Special Agent Bruce Stuck graduated at the top of the class academically and Special Agent Ryan Villaroman was second. All four OCI special agents received high scores in firearms, academics, leadership, and physical conditioning.

Additionally, OCI worked with the Department of Criminal Justice in 2010 to design a modified classroom curriculum for auditors and investigators assigned to OCI in order to develop their skills in investigative techniques, courtroom testimony, and report writing.

OCI's auditors and investigators who do not have prior law enforcement experience attend the modified classroom sessions, which are held at the New Jersey Division of Criminal Justice Academy during the same training cycle as the Basic Course for Investigators. These auditors and investigators are responsible for passing all written exams administered during the training cycle, but do not participate in physical conditioning, defensive tactics, or firearms. To date, eight members of OCI have completed the modified training course. □

LOCAL PROPERTY TAX Tax Deductions Certified

The 2011 State Revenue Sharing Act Distribution for senior and disabled persons, surviving spouses/civil union partners, and veterans was delivered to the State Treasurer on September 15, 2011.

Under the provisions of R.S. 54A:10-1 et seq., as amended, the Director of the Division of Taxation certified to the State Treasurer in this report the amount of revenue sharing funds due each municipality on November 1, 2011.

The total amount of property tax deductions for senior and disabled persons and surviving spouses/civil union partners for 2011 was $16,808,740. That amount represents a decrease of 6.7% from 2010. The total number of property tax deductions for senior and disabled

Criminal enforcement over the past several months included:

- On January 28, 2011, in Monmouth County Superior Court, Judge Richard W. English sentenced Larry Kushner, of Long Branch, New Jersey, to seven years in prison. Kushner entered guilty pleas to theft by failure to make required disposition of property received and failure to file a 2005 gross income tax return. Kushner agreed to pay $1.1 million in restitution to seven victims. Kushner told the victims the money they invested in his business, Foreclosure 911, would be used to buy foreclosed properties in New Jersey, Delaware, and Pennsylvania. Instead, the money was used for personal expenses and travel. This investigation was conducted by the Monmouth County Prosecutor's Office and the Office of Criminal Investigation.

- On February 28, 2011, and March 1, 2011, a total of seven search warrants were executed in Bergen and Passaic Counties by the Office of Criminal Investigation (OCI) in connection with an arrest warrant that had been issued for Jean Sawits, of Lodi, New Jersey. Sawits had been charged by an OCI special agent with violating multiple indictable Title 54 statutes for engaging in sales of contraband cigarettes to businesses and individuals primarily in Paterson, New Jersey, and was arrested by OCI at her residence without incident. A total of 1,735.8 cartons of contraband cigarettes and $2,719 in U.S. currency were seized as a result of the search warrants. Sawits was remanded to the Bergen County Jail with bail set at $50,000, no 10%.

- On March 23, 2011, in Mercer County Superior Court, George Makris, former owner of Serefeim, LLC, t/a The Jersey Diner, in Bridgewater, New Jersey, pled guilty to third-degree misapplication of entrusted funds (sales and use tax and employee withholdings) and third-degree filing false or fraudulent returns. Makris was scheduled to be sentenced on August 3, 2011. Recommended sentencing was five years' probation, mandatory restitution of approximately $83,000 payable at a rate of $500 per month, a lump-sum payment of $10,000 at the day of sentencing, and 25 hours' community service.
- On April 1, 2011, in Trenton Municipal Court, Vincent Mayo, of Trenton, New Jersey, was sentenced to 30 days in the Mercer County Correction Center for possession of contraband cigarettes. Mayo had been arrested by an OCI special agent on January 4, 2011, in Trenton. Mayo was on probation at the time of his arrest with two active warrants. His sentence was in addition to a 400-day jail sentence on unrelated charges.

- On April 1, 2011, Miroslaw Sapinski along with his wife Grayzna Sapinski, Stanislaw Zbronski, and Waclaw Jeziorski were arrested for contraband cigarette trafficking in Passaic, New Jersey. On May 14, 2011, Sapinski et al. appeared in Passaic County Superior Court. The Court sentenced Sapinski, a multiple offender, to three years in the New Jersey State Prison as a result of his guilty plea to a second-degree count of conspiracy. Part of the plea agreement required Sapinski to forfeit to the State of New Jersey $24,903.42 in U.S. currency seized by OCI at the time of his arrest and one 1997 Toyota Camry. Grayzna Sapinski appeared in Passaic County Superior Court and the Court permitted the defendant to enter the Pre-Trial Intervention Program. Part of the plea agreement required Sapinski to forfeit $66,612.78 and one 2001 Chrysler minivan to the State. Stanislaw Zbronski, also of Passaic, New Jersey, was sentenced to 295 days in the Passaic County Jail. Part of the plea agreement required Zbronski to forfeit $149 to the State. Zbronski is in the U.S. illegally and will be deported to Poland by U.S. Immigration and Customs Enforcement. A fourth defendant, Waclaw Jeziorski of Wallington, New Jersey, was sentenced to 100 hours of community service. Part of the plea agreement required Jeziorski to forfeit $2,141 to the State.

- On April 4, 2011, Min Qin Yang t/a Golden Garden Restaurant pled guilty to possession of contraband cigarettes in Elizabeth Municipal Court. The Court imposed $408 in fines, fees, and costs and forfeited $2,571 in seized U.S. currency to the State. OCI had worked to stop an activity where the take-out business delivered contraband cigarettes with Chinese food deliveries.
- On April 12, 2011, Kalpesh Patel t/a Hillsborough Convenience Store of Hillsborough, New Jersey, pled guilty to possession of contraband cigarettes in Hillsborough Municipal Court. The Court imposed $408 in fines, fees, and costs and forfeited $4,970 in seized U.S. currency to the State.
- On April 13, 2011, Rameshchandra Patel t/a Griffins Deli of Ewing Township, New Jersey, pled guilty to possession of contraband cigarettes in Ewing Municipal Court. The Court imposed $408 in fines, fees, and costs and forfeited $1,565 in seized U.S. currency to the State.
- On April 18, 2011, in Monmouth County Superior Court, Christopher Elia pled guilty to second-degree theft by deception and third-degree failure to pay taxes. This plea was based on a 14-count Grand Jury indictment on September 13, 2010. The investigation revealed that Elia operated N.L.E.O.A. Publications, collecting charitable contributions from a large number of donors. Elia used the names of legitimate charitable organizations in order to collect contributions but did not transfer the funds to any legitimate charities. Instead the funds were used for personal expenses, including extensive gambling debts. This investigation was conducted by the Monmouth County Prosecutor's Office and the Office of Criminal Investigation.

- On April 19, 2011, Yarin Montilla t/a Dominican Deli Grocery LLC of Elizabeth, New Jersey, pled guilty to possession of contraband cigarettes in Elizabeth Municipal Court. The Court imposed $408 in fines, fees, and costs and forfeited $1,169 in seized U.S. currency to the State.
- On April 21, 2011, Christ Townsend of Pine Hill, New Jersey, was sentenced to one year of supervised probation by the Camden County Superior Court. The Court imposed $158 in fines, fees, and costs. The Court also forfeited the $605 seized by OCI's Special Agents at the time of his arrest.

- On April 25, 2011, Xiangguang Zhang t/a Jade Garden of Elizabeth, New Jersey, pled guilty to failure to examine contraband cigarettes found in his possession. The Court imposed $288 in fines and fees and ordered $4,620 in seized U.S. currency to be forfeited to the State.
- On April 27, 2011, a Bergen County Grand Jury returned a 25-count indictment against 12 persons for allegedly engaging in an elaborate mortgage fraud scheme involving Paragon Federal Credit Union located in Montvale, New Jersey. All were indicted for conspiring to commit the crime of theft by deception and various other charges.

The investigation was initiated by representatives of Paragon Federal Credit Union. During a routine audit of Paragon Federal Credit Union's residential mortgage loans, bank investigators discovered that an unusual amount of residential mortgage loans were delinquent and promptly notified the Bergen County Prosecutor's Office, White Collar Crimes Unit. Detectives uncovered a fraud scheme being perpetrated by the Paragon Federal Credit Union loan coordinator with mortgage brokers from AOR Consultants or Apex Consultants, and an appraiser of Lighthouse Appraisals, LLC. Credit union membership, mortgage application, property appraisal, and personal income and expense documents were fraudulently prepared by the Hillside Municipal Court Judge Lara DiFarbrizio and pled guilty to possession of untaxed cigarettes. He was fined a total of $658.

- On May 18, 2011, a search warrant was executed by OCI at a residence in North Brunswick, New Jersey. Arrested at the residence were Victor Madera, his wife, Angiolina, and their sons Harold and Charlie Madera. Seized from the residence were $109,353 in U.S. currency and an additional $14,504.18 from various bank accounts, along with 13 cartons of contraband cigarettes, a plastic utility box containing paraphernalia used to affix New Jersey counterfeit tax stamps (glue, tape, scissors, brass pads, iron) and two cigarette stamps. Also seized were two vehicles: a Volvo containing the 13 cartons seized, and a Honda Odyssey. Another search warrant was executed on their storage unit located at a Public Storage facility in North Brunswick, New Jersey. Seized from the unit were 69 cartons of contraband cigarettes containing unstamped and New Jersey counterfeit-stamped cigarettes and plastic bags used to contain the cigarettes. The defendants were brought to the North Brunswick Police Department where they were processed. Madera was issued bail of $75,000, no 10%; the other three defendants were issued bail of $50,000, no 10%. This was a three-month investigation initiated by OCI and conducted with the assistance of the Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco, Firearms, and Explosives (ATF). During surveillance performed by OCI and ATF, the defendants were observed trafficking contraband cigarettes and storing them at their residence and storage unit.
- On May 23, 2011, Sandeep and Mandip Kaur t/a Crown of Dickson St. of Elizabeth, New Jersey, pled guilty to possession of untaxed goods. The defendants agreed to forfeit $975 in U.S. currency to the State. The Court imposed fines totaling $408.
- On May 23, 2011, German Alvarez t/a San Juan Mini Market of Elizabeth, New Jersey, pled guilty to possession of untaxed goods. The defendant agreed to forfeit $3,048 in U.S. currency to the State. The Court imposed fines totaling $408.
- On May 24, 2011, Zhi Zheng, t/a New Chinese Gourmet, of Elizabeth, New Jersey, pled guilty to possession of untaxed cigarettes and accepted full responsibility for the contraband cigarettes. Seized were 170.2 cartons of cigarettes and $20,123 in U.S. currency. The cigarettes and cash seized were forfeited to the State.
- During the reporting period, in Camden County Superior Court, Robert G. Burk, of Camden, New Jersey, was sentenced to 12 months' probation and 50 hours of community service for possession of untaxed cigarettes that occurred in 2009. Burk was arrested at the time of the offense and was found with two cartons of Delaware-stamped cigarettes, nine suspected counterfeit DVDs, and $184.90 in U.S. currency, which were all seized. In Court, Burk pled guilty and the items seized were forfeited to the State.
- On May 24, 2011, Luis R. Forty t/a 40's Wholesale of Vineland, New Jersey, pled guilty to possession of untaxed goods and failure to obtain a cigarette license. The Vineland Municipal Court imposed fines, fees, and costs of $816.
- On June 1, 2011, Juan Cabrera t/a Duarte's Deli of Harrison, New Jersey, pled guilty to possession of contraband cigarettes and sale of loose cigarettes. The Harrison Municipal Court imposed fines, fees, and costs of $1,268 and forfeited the cigarettes to the State.
- On June 2, 2011, Ericka Rangel t/a Lurenjem Deli & Grocery pled guilty to possession of contraband cigarettes and failure to display license. The Newark Municipal Court imposed $816 in fines, fees, and costs.
- On June 3, 2011, James Gillespie, 46, of Williamstown, was sentenced to five years in State prison by Judge Irvin J. Snyder in Camden County for failing to turn over $487,975 in State and Federal payroll taxes on behalf of employees of his patient transportation company. He pled guilty on February 14, 2011, to charges of second-degree theft by failure to make required disposition of property received and second-degree misapplication of entrusted property and property of government. In pleading guilty, Gillespie admitted that from 2001 through 2006 he failed to remit payroll taxes withheld from employees of his company, Wellness Enterprises Corp., totaling $487,975, which consisted of $105,440 due the State of New Jersey and $382,535 due the Internal Revenue Service. Wellness Enterprises, which was based in Cedar Brook and did business as Excel Medical Transportation Services, provided nonemergency patient transportation services to hospitals, nursing homes, assisted living programs, and private residences. Gillespie entered a civil consent judgment to pay a total of $582,740 to the Division of Taxation and the U.S. Treasury, representing the back payroll taxes owed by his company, plus penalties and interest of $94,765 to be paid to the State.

- On June 9, 2011, Bhavesh Patel t/a Long Valley of Washington Township, Morris County, New Jersey, pled guilty to possession of contraband cigarettes. The Washington Township Municipal Court imposed $408 in fines, fees, and costs and forfeited $1,294 in U.S. currency to the State.
- On June 16, 2011, the Grand Jury for the State of New Jersey returned a three-count indictment against Ashok Patel. This indictment follows a criminal investigation which was conducted by OCI's Financial Investigation Unit. This investigation was referred by OCI's Special Investigations Unit. The investigation revealed that sales and use tax for the years 2004–2007 was underreported by Ashok Patel, owner of A&D Family Deli. Patel was indicted on third-degree misapplication of entrusted property, third-degree theft by failure to make required disposition of property received, and third-degree failure to pay or turn over New Jersey sales and use tax.

- On June 23, 2011, Wilyn Caceres and Lisaldo Espinal were each sentenced to six years in State prison for their participation in a tax refund fraud scheme. Wilyn Caceres, Jason Perez, Lisaldo Espinal, and Miguel Hernandez were indicted in December 2008 for allegedly conspiring to steal $272,000 by filing more than 117 fraudulent State tax returns. All four entered guilty pleas to charges of conspiracy, money laundering, and receiving stolen property. The tax refund scheme was uncovered in August 2007, when an abnormal pattern involving the refund checks was detected. An investigation proved that the W-2s used were fraudulent. The refund checks, which ranged from $1,500 to $3,676, were cashed by Caceres at a bank branch office in Passaic where he worked or were deposited by him into a series of accounts he opened there using stolen or fraudulent identification information. The defendants withdrew money from those accounts, and an account opened by Perez at another bank where refund checks were also deposited, in the form of cash, ATM withdrawals, debit charges and checks. Sizeable transfers were also made among the various accounts. Miguel Hernandez was sentenced to one year of incarceration in October 2009. Jason Perez was scheduled for an October 2011 sentencing. This investigation was initiated and conducted by OCI.

- On June 27, 2011, Foad Salib t/a Minas Grocery of Elizabeth, New Jersey, pled guilty to possession of contraband cigarettes and untaxed tobacco products. The Court imposed fines, fees, and penalties of $1,158 and forfeited $1,194.30 as well as the unstamped cigarettes and untaxed tobacco products to the State.
- On June 27, 2011, a Monmouth County Grand Jury returned a 100-count indictment charging seven defendants with various crimes relating to a multimillion-dollar mortgage refinance fraud

Practitioners' E-File Mandate

For the 2011 taxable year and later, preparers that reasonably expect to prepare 11 or more individual gross income tax resident returns (including those filed for trusts and estates) during the tax year must use electronic methods to file those returns for which an electronic filing option is available. At this time, there is no electronic filing option available for a New Jersey fiduciary return, Form NJ-1041 (or Form NJ-1041SB for a small business trust). Although the fiduciary returns are currently not filed electronically, preparers must include the number of fiduciary returns they expect to prepare when determining whether they must file all other returns electronically. A tax preparer is liable for a penalty of $50 for each return he or she fails to file electronically when required to do so.

If you have questions concerning the E-File Mandate, call the Division of Taxation at 609-633-6657 or e-mail us at nj.taxation@treas.state.nj.us scheme that victimized dozens of homeowners throughout New Jersey and New York. An investigation by the Monmouth County Prosecutor's Office revealed a mortgage fraud scheme perpetrated by associates of Hawthorne Capital Corporation that resulted in losses to homeowners and financial institutions. Funds that were intended to pay off the homeowners' original mortgages were significantly delayed, or in other instances, the payoffs never occurred, leaving the homeowners with two mortgages attached to their properties. Additionally, the identities of homeowners who had only completed an initial application for refinance were stolen and illegally used to cause financial lending institutions to fund refinances that never actually occurred. In total, the amount of calculated theft perpetrated by the defendants exceeded $7.5 million. Frederick Tropeano of Holmdel, New Jersey, was identified in the investigation as the person responsible for the daily operations at Hawthorne Capital. Frederick Tropeano was indicted on charges of theft, attempted theft, conspiracy, financial facilitation of criminal activity, impersonation-theft of identity, uttering a forged instrument, insurance fraud, and three counts each of failing to file returns and failure to pay or turn over taxes for tax years 2008, 2009, and 2010.

- On June 28, 2011, Hugo Castaneda-Tapia t/a Latino Mini Market of Bound Brook, New Jersey, pled guilty to possession of contraband cigarettes. The Court imposed fines, fees, and penalties of $408 and forfeited $1,353 and the counterfeit-stamped cigarettes to the State.

- On June 28, 2011, Victor Camachoduran t/a Centro America Sport of Bound Brook, New Jersey, pled guilty to possession of contraband cigarettes. The Court imposed fines, fees, and penalties of $408 and forfeited to the State $1,398 as well as the unstamped cigarettes, which were purchased over the Internet.
- In the Camden Superior Court, Harry Marrow of the City of Camden, who was previously arrested by OCI Special Agents for selling contraband cigarettes, was found guilty and sentenced to one year of supervised probation. The $213 in currency was forfeited and the defendant was assessed $158 in fees. In the same Court, Khalif Banks, also of Camden, who was arrested by OCI Special Agents for selling contraband cigarettes, was found guilty and sentenced to 2 years' supervised probation, 50 hours of community service, and assessed $150 in fees. The $275.75 in currency that was seized during the arrest was forfeited to the State. A third subject, John Demby, was also found guilty of selling contraband cigarettes and was sentenced to 12 months' supervised probation and $158 in fees. The $32 in U.S. currency that was seized during his arrest was also forfeited. These subjects were arrested in an OCI sting operation along with three others who were conducting an "open-air cigarette market" in a shopping center on Mt. Ephraim Avenue in Camden City.
- On June 29, 2011, Hung Tran of Pennsauken, New Jersey, appeared before the Municipal Court of Pennsauken and pled guilty to possession of Vietnamese cigarettes, which were received via mail order. After a search warrant was executed in Camden County, the subject was arrested at his residence based on a sale to an undercover operative. The subject paid $408 in fines, fees, and costs. The Court awarded the State $4,752 that was seized by the Office of Criminal Investigation (OCI), which will be revenue shared with Camden County for their assistance.

- July 27, 2011, the Office of Criminal Investigation (OCI) received the following information from the State Grand Jury for Monmouth County, which returned a 10-count indictment against Paul Chemidlin on June 3, 2011. This indictment follows a criminal investigation which was conducted by the Monmouth County Prosecutor's Office in conjunction with OCI. The investigation revealed that Paul Chemidlin was engaged in illegal gambling and financial activity, which included money laundering and tax evasion. Chemidlin was indicted on second-degree conspiracy, third-degree promoting gambling, third-degree terroristic threats, second-degree theft by extortion, third-degree possession of a controlled dangerous substance, second-degree theft by deception, second-degree financial facilitation of criminal activity, and third-degree failure to file New Jersey tax returns.
- On July 28, 2011, Ramon Gomez was found guilty in the United States District Court for the Eastern District of North Carolina on all counts related to contraband cigarette smuggling and will be deported after he completes his sentence. The Office of Criminal Investigation participated with the Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco, Firearms and Explosives out of North Carolina in pursuing this subject who was smuggling into New Jersey.

- The Federation of Tax Administrators Suspicious Filers group announced the sentencing of Marvin Berkowitz, a repeat offender who has filed fraudulent returns in multiple states for two decades. Berkowitz was sentenced by a Federal Judge to 18 years and 4 months in Federal prison and must pay restitution to the victimized tax agencies of $10.232 million, much of which is expected to come out of seized bank accounts. The Suspicious Filers group learned to spot many of Berkowitz's submissions and shared information on a real-time basis, helping impede the success of his schemes. One of the Office of Criminal Investigation's auditors had uncovered the Berkowitz scheme in New Jersey, and information was supplied through the Division's disclosure officer to assist in the Federal prosecution.

- Members of OCI's Special Investigations Unit (SIU), in response to Hurricane Irene, conducted facility assessments and continuity of operation evaluation for the Division of Taxation. All Division executives were continuously provided situational reports from the New Jersey State Police's Regional Operations and Intelligence Center (ROIC) and New Jersey's Office of Emergency Management (NJOEM) so as to gauge the disaster's effect on Division operations and personnel.
- On August 1, 2011, the State Grand Jury of the Superior Court of the State of New Jersey in Trenton returned a three-count indictment against Michael L. Meglino, Jr. and his wife, Susan Gisela Hernandez Meglino. The indictment is a result of a joint criminal investigation conducted by the Division of Criminal Justice's Office of the Insurance Fraud Prosecutor and the Division of Taxation's Office of Criminal Investigation. The investigation concluded that Michael Meglino misappropriated funds of the Oak Hollow Condominium Association in 2005 and 2006, which coincided with the period he was the president of the condominium association. Mr. Meglino was indicted on one count of third-degree theft by deception.

Meglino and his wife, Susan Meglino, were also indicted for third-degree filing a false and fraudulent New Jersey tax return and third-degree failure to pay tax.

- On August 25, 2011, Ahmad Rafei, owner of Star's General Supply, of Paterson, New Jersey applied for and received Pre-Trial Intervention (PTI) as a first-time offender in the Passaic County Superior Court. Rafei was arrested by a special agent from the Office of Criminal Investigation (OCI) for possession of untaxed other tobacco products. The Court, however, did agree to the civil forfeiture of the vehicle involved. The Passaic County Prosecutor's Office (PCPO) agreed to sell back the vehicle to Rafei for $2,500 and the proceeds will be shared between PCPO and OCI. The subject must complete one year of unsupervised probation with no violations to successfully complete the PTI program.
- On September 19, 2011, Omar Nijim of Brooklyn, New York, was found guilty in the United States District Court in the Eastern District of North Carolina on one count of conspiracy to traffic in contraband cigarettes. An OCI special agent was a witness in this trial and had coordinated OCI's role in this joint operation with the United States Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco, Firearms and Explosives (ATF) when Nijim traveled to New Jersey and New York to sell contraband cigarettes in December 2009 and January 2010. Nijim awaits sentencing. OCI will prepare a loss of revenue report for the U.S. District

Current Amnesty Program

The following jurisdiction is conducting a tax amnesty program. During the designated amnesty period, taxpayers have a chance to pay back taxes with reduced (or eliminated) penalty and/or interest. Court for restitution as part of the sentencing.

- On September 28, 2011, in the Superior Court of Mercer County, George Makris, the former owner of The Jersey Diner, was sentenced to five years' probation as a result of his guilty plea to misapplication of entrusted property (sales taxes) and filing false and fraudulent returns. As a result of the civil consent judgment signed by Makris, he is required to pay restitution in the amount of $83,831.49, payable at $500 per month to the State of New Jersey. During the sentencing, Makris made a payment of $10,000. Makris was also ordered to perform 25 hours of community service. This case was prosecuted by the Mercer County Prosecutor and the Office of Criminal Investigation.
- Blessing Iwarimie's Pre-Trial Intervention (PTI) was revoked for failure to comply with her agreed upon payment schedule to the Division of Taxation. Blessing Iwarimie was entered into the State's PTI program for her part in the theft of monies in the Mustapha case in 2005.
- The Office of Criminal Investigation and Field Investigations-Newark jointly canvassed the Avenel Flea Market. Also assisting in the canvass was local law enforcement, the Recording Industry Association of America, and Stumar Investigations, which resulted in the seizure of pirated and counterfeit CDs, DVDs, counterfeit goods, and accessories. The Division received over $9,000 involving eleven jeopardy assessments. Additionally, many businesses completed the application to register with the State for tax purposes. This was the first time OCI has worked jointly with Field Investigations and local law enforcement on such a canvass, and the combined efforts sent a strong message about the importance of compliance.

- On September 30, 2011, Mercer County Prosecutor, Joseph L. Bocchini, Jr., announced that a joint investigation, conducted by his Economic Crime Unit (ECU) and the Office of Criminal Investigation, resulted in the arrest of David D. Murray of Hardwick, New Jersey. Murray was taken into custody at his Warren County residence by members of the Mercer County Prosecutor's Office with assistance from the New Jersey State Police. Murray is the owner of five Dunkin' Donuts establishments in Warren County. The investigation revealed that, between December 4, 2009, and August 31, 2011, Murray collected sales tax at his businesses and failed to remit those taxes to the State, representing a loss in tax revenue of approximately $156,500 to the State of New Jersey. Murray was charged with theft by failure to make required disposition of property received and misapplication of entrusted property and property of government or financial institution. Both are second-degree crimes, each carrying a maximum penalty of 10 years in prison and a $150,000 fine. Mercer County Superior Court Judge Thomas W. Summers, Jr., set bail for Murray at $35,000. This investigation was a result of the actions of OCI's new Technical Enforcement Unit.

- During July 2010 – June 2011, the Office of Criminal Investigation's Special Frauds Unit identified and prevented the issuance of over $7 million in fraudulent refunds. Losses are prevented through twice weekly manual reviews of the lists of refunds that are earmarked to be mailed out. These manual efforts extend beyond the scope of the automatic system checks that the Division already has in place.
- During the months of July, August, and September, 2011, the Special Frauds Activity identified 2,080 fraudulent refunds totaling $3,227,009.46 of total gross income revenue protected. There were 197 checks totaling $340,761 that were not issued, and 314 direct deposits stopped in the amount of $465,637.35. Another 460 refund requests, totaling $816,107, were identified as fraudulent, and 413 refund requests identified through the paid preparer edit totaling $737,505 were subsequently denied. Utilizing an additional edit program, 897 refund requests totaling $1,188,389 were identified as American Bankers Association routing fraud, reviewed, and denied. There were 128 returns referred by the Division of Revenue, totaling $285,118. An additional 20 returns were stopped through a suspicious filer program totaling $33,587. □ insurance premium credit that was created as part of the Patient Protection and Affordable Care Act (PPACA), P.L. 111-148, was enacted March 23, 2010. Several taxpayers have inquired whether New Jersey conforms to this credit for corporation business tax purposes.

The PPACA created Internal Revenue Code §45R. The new small business tax credit is effective for amounts paid or incurred after December 31, 2009, and applies to the determination of alternative minimum tax credits after that date and their carryback. Small businesses that currently provide health care for their workers could receive immediate help with their premium costs, and additional firms that initiate coverage for tax years beginning in 2010 could receive the tax assistance. To be eligible, small employers would have to contribute at least 50% of the cost of premiums towards a qualified health plan or 50% of a benchmark premium. The Internal Revenue Service provides further guidance on who is eligible for Federal tax purposes on their Web site at www.irs.gov. Taxpayers who take the credit will have to reduce their health premium expense deduction by the amount of the credit under IRC §45R.

For New Jersey corporation business tax purposes, entire net income is deemed to be equal to the amount of income taxable for Federal purposes before the net operating loss deduction and special deductions. N.J.S.A. 54:10A-4(k).

If the taxpayer corporation elects the Federal credit and expense reduction, then it must use the reduced expenses for New Jersey purposes when the credit is not recognized in

New Jersey since items reported on Line 28, Schedule A, Form CBT-100 must be the same as those reported to the IRS for Federal tax purposes.

Therefore, the small employer health insurance premium credit is not available for New Jersey corporation business tax purposes. Where a taxpayer takes this credit for Federal purposes, the taxpayer must report the reduced expenses on New Jersey Form CBT-100 even though the taxpayer could not claim the small employer health insurance credit for New Jersey purposes.

Gross Income Tax Cafeteria Plans and Certain Adult “Dependents” — The Division received an inquiry from an employer about providing cafeteria plan health insurance coverage to qualifying “dependents” up to age 27. The employer’s inquiry was prompted by the impact of the Federal Affordable Care Act. The employer’s health insurance cafeteria plan was a salary reduction plan.

For New Jersey gross income tax purposes, benefits provided through a “cafeteria plan” salary reduction are generally treated as income taxable to the employee. In other words, the employee is taxed on the wage amount before any deduction for the health plan coverage. This is because the New Jersey Gross Income Tax Act does not have a cafeteria plan section that provides a tax exclusion for a salary reduction benefit. For further details on the gross income tax treatment of cafeteria plan benefits, see Technical Bulletin TB-39\(R\), Cafeteria Plans.

Calculation of Nonresident Partner’s Share of Tax — A partner in a partnership questioned the Division about getting “inequitable” results when she multiplied the amount from Column H, Partners Directory, Form NJ-1065, by the corporation allocation factor, which is the calculation method that is required by the instructions with regard to Column I, Partners Directory, Form NJ-1065.

For New Jersey purposes, the partnership must net the partner’s Federal income together and multiply that amount by the partnership’s corporation allocation factor (Schedule J, Form NJ-1065) to determine the partner’s share of tax that is required to be remitted by the partnership, as set forth in the instructions for Form NJ-1065. Sometimes the tax remittance required for the nonresident partner is accurate with regard to the gross income tax required to be paid by the partner, and other times it is not accurate and the partner may need to apply for a refund on Form NJ-1040NR.

For example, a partnership with a loss from New Jersey sources for reporting purposes, may have positive net Federal income. In this situation, the partnership may be required to remit tax on behalf of the nonresident partner that is more than the actual gross income tax owed by the partner. On a different set of facts, the tax remitted may be less than the actual tax owed by the nonresident partner.

Employer-Paid Health Insurance — The Division received an inquiry from an employer about a change to its health insurance coverage in response to the Federal Affordable Care Act. The change was to the employer paid health insurance coverage for qualifying children up to age 27. The employer asked whether coverage (paid by the employer) for a qualifying 26-year-old child was a nontaxable benefit for purposes of the gross income tax. The employer also asked for clarification about continuing to provide health insurance for the spouse of the employee.

For New Jersey gross income tax purposes, the benefit of health insurance coverage for a qualifying child up to age 27, or a spouse, paid directly by the employer, is not taxable wage income for the employee. However, if benefit coverage is paid by the employee through a cafeteria plan deduction from wages, the wage deduction or reduction amount is generally taxable for gross income tax purposes. See N.J.S.A. 54A:6-21.

Federal Small Employer Health Insurance Premium Credit — Several taxpayers inquired whether New Jersey allows a credit for gross income tax purposes similar to the Federal credit allowed under the Patient Protection and Affordable Care Act (PPACA).

The PPACA created Internal Revenue Code §45R. The new small business tax credit is effective for amounts paid or incurred after December 31, 2009, and applies to the determination of alternative minimum tax credits after that date and their carryback. To be eligible, small employers have to contribute at least 50% of the cost of premiums towards a qualified health plan or 50% of a benchmark premium. Taxpayers who take the credit will have to reduce their health premium expense deduction by the amount of the credit under IRC §45R.

New Jersey does not have a similar health care credit. Therefore, the small employer health insurance credit is not available for New Jersey gross income tax purposes. A taxpayer's accounting method for New Jersey gross income tax purposes must be the same as that used for Federal income tax purposes. N.J.S.A. 54A:8-3(c). Therefore, where a taxpayer took this credit for Federal purposes, thus reporting reduced expenses on the Federal return, the taxpayer's New Jersey gross income tax return must also reflect the reduced expenses.

Municipal Bond Derived Income — The Division was asked about the gross income tax treatment of income derived from municipal bonds received during tax year 2011.

The Division explained that interest income received from the bonds of a New Jersey municipality is exempt, while interest income received from the bonds of any other state's municipality is taxable. See N.J.S.A. 54A:6-14. Concerning capital gain income derived from municipal bonds, the Division similarly explained that income derived from New Jersey municipal bonds is exempt while income derived from the bonds of other states' municipalities is taxable. The Division also clarified that with respect to taxable capital gain income, the New Jersey Gross Income Tax Act does not have a special lower rate of tax.

Partnership Investment Club — A partner in an investment club partnership wrote to the Division asking about the consequences of the club's increasing to 10 "individual" members. More specifically, the partner asked whether having 10 members would cause the club to "lose exemption." The Division replied that having 10 individual members would not cause the club to lose certain exemptions.

Investment club partnerships that meet certain statutory criteria are exempt from the requirement to pay filing fees for the partners and the nonresident partner tax. To qualify for these exemptions, the investment club must meet these criteria: (1) it must be classified as a partnership for Federal income tax purposes; (2) all of the owners must be individuals; (3) all of the assets must be securities, cash, or cash equivalents; (4) the total value of the market assets must not exceed the lesser of $42,400 per owner or $302,300 (for tax year 2010, with amounts subject to annual inflation adjustments); and (5) the entity is not required to be registered with the Federal Securities and Exchange Commission (SEC).

The Division explained that the qualifying criteria do not include a limit on the number of individual partners. A resident partner of the club is subject to gross income tax on the partner's income derived through the partnership. Details on the partnership filing fee and nonresident partner tax are available in Technical Bulletin TB-55\(R\), Partnership Filing Fee and Nonresident Partner Tax.

Requirement to File Quarterly NJ-927 Withholding Tax Form — A business inquired about whether it was required to file Forms NJ-927 and WR-30 for employees on a quarterly basis even if it did not withhold any New Jersey gross income tax during that calendar quarter.

The Division responded that for New Jersey gross income tax purposes, all employers required to deduct and withhold gross income tax from employee wages must file quarterly income tax remittance returns. See

N.J.S.A. 54A:7-4(a). Employers who did not withhold any gross income tax during a particular calendar quarter are still required to file a return for that quarter as required under N.J.A.C. 18:35-7.3(a)(1).

Therefore, the employer is required to file a quarterly return if it has employees subject to New Jersey gross income tax, even if it did not withhold any New Jersey gross income tax during that calendar quarter.

Requirement for Tax Preparers to File Returns Electronically — For the 2011 taxable year and later, tax preparers that reasonably expect to prepare 11 or more New Jersey individual gross income tax resident returns (including those filed for trusts and estates) during the tax year must use electronic methods to file those returns for which an electronic filing option is available. N.J.S.A. 54A:8-6.1. Currently, there is no electronic filing option available for a New Jersey fiduciary return, Form NJ-1041 (or Form NJ-1041SB for a small business trust).

Preparers must include the number of fiduciary returns they expect to prepare when determining whether they must file all other returns electronically. Additional information is available on the Division's Web site at: www.state.nj.us/treasury/taxation/efilemandate.shtml

Treatment of Key Employee Life Insurance for S Corporation — Several taxpayers have inquired about the taxability of proceeds from a key employee life insurance policy owned by an S corporation. Specifically, the taxpayers asked whether New Jersey follows the Federal treatment of the proceeds and whether they should be reported on Schedule NJ-K-1 (Form CBT-100S). Under the scenario as presented, the S corporation collected the proceeds of the policy, and the policy and proceeds met the requirement for exclusion from income on the Federal level.

The Federal treatment was set forth in IRS Revenue Ruling 2008-42, which concluded that premiums paid by the S corporation on an employer-owned life insurance contract, of which it is directly or indirectly a beneficiary, do not reduce the S corporation's Accumulated Adjustments Account (AAA). Benefits received because of the death of the insured from an employer-owned life insurance contract that meets an income exception under IRC Section 101(j)(2) do not increase the S corporation's AAA. The exempt income is reported in the Federal Other Adjustments Account (OAA).

For New Jersey gross income tax purposes, any adjustments for New Jersey tax-exempt income earned by the S corporation, which would include the life insurance proceeds in addition to any other reductions made to the Federal AAA or Federal OAA, must be made to the New Jersey AAA, provided that these reductions have not already been taken into consideration in calculating S corporation income. (N.J.A.C. 18:35-1.5(e)(2)(i) and (ii))

Although the life insurance proceeds are generally exempt from Federal and State income tax when received by the S corporation, a distribution of the proceeds may be taxable to the shareholder when the distribution is made from New Jersey Earnings and Profits or is in excess of New Jersey Adjusted Stock Basis.

For New Jersey gross income tax purposes, the ordering rules for distributions when Federal OAA is present are as follows: (1) New Jersey Accumulated Adjustments Account (NJ AAA); (2) New Jersey Earnings and Profits (NJ E&P); and (3) New Jersey Adjusted Stock Basis. Distributions from NJ E&P are taxed as dividends since this account represents the S corporation's earnings that were accumulated while it was a C corporation. Distributions that are in excess of the shareholder's New Jersey Adjusted Stock Basis are taxed as capital gains. See N.J.A.C. 18:35-1.5(e)–18:35-1.5(l).

Schedule NJ-K-1 requires the shareholder to report the total distribution received from the S corporation. The distribution is then deducted from the NJ AAA and NJ E&P balances on the NJ-K-1.

Any capital gain that results from the S corporation distribution is reported on Schedule B of the New Jersey resident income tax return (Form NJ-1040) or Part I of the nonresident income tax return (Form NJ-1040NR).

Inheritance/Estate Tax Mutually Acknowledged Child Requirements — A taxpayer inquired about the relevant circumstances establishing a "mutually acknowledged child" relationship under N.J.S.A. 54:34-2.1 and N.J.A.C. 18:26-2.6 for transfer inheritance and estate tax purposes.

N.J.S.A. 54:34-2.1 in pertinent part states:

The transfer of property passing to any child to whom the decedent for not less than ten years prior to such transfer stood in the mutually acknowledged relation of a parent, provided such relationship began at or before the child's fifteenth birthday and was continuous for ten years thereafter, shall be taxed at the same rates and with the same exemptions as the transfer of property passing to a child of said decedent born in lawful wedlock.

The relevant regulation (N.J.A.C. 18:26-1.1) describes a mutually acknowledged child as:

Any child to whom decedent for not less than 10 years prior to the transfer stood in the mutually acknowledged relationship of a parent, provided the relationship began at or before the child's fifteenth birthday and was continuous for 10 years thereafter. This applies to persons who were taken into the household and reared as children of the decedent, but who were never legally adopted by the decedent.

N.J.A.C. 18:26-2.6(a) lists the information requirements that must be submitted to the Division of Taxation to prove that a person is a mutually acknowledged child. The claim on behalf of such a transferee must include the following information:

1. The date and age the child was first taken into the household and mutually acknowledged child relationship assumed.
2. The period of time the relationship continued, with the dates given.

3. A complete statement of circumstances whereby the child was taken into the household.
4. The source and cost of the child's support.
5. The child's parentage indicating whether such parents are alive and their address or if deceased, the date of death and their legal domicile at death.
6. The person who was established as the parent of the child when the child registered at school. The person who signed the child's report cards and similar documents. The person who claimed the child as a dependent for Federal income tax purposes and the relationship claimed on the return of such individual.
7. The affidavits of two or three disinterested persons having knowledge of the relationship setting forth the facts as known to them.
8. Any other details which will support the claim that a mutually acknowledged relationship of parent and child existed.

Sales and Use Tax

Game Truck — A taxpayer inquired about the application of the New Jersey Sales and Use Tax Act to a game truck which is a mobile video game theater which can be used for birthday parties, special occasions, school, and corporate functions. The game truck with attendant is provided at the location of the event and the participants play video games for a specified length of time.

The Sales and Use Tax Act imposes tax on any admission charge to or for the use of any place of amusement in New Jersey or to any entertainment event or sporting activity which takes place in this State. N.J.S.A. 54:32B-3(e).

A per head charge to enter the game truck is taxable as an admission charge. However, a flat rate for the game truck for a certain number of hours which includes an attendant is not subject to sales tax.

Indoor Mini-Car Racing Track — A taxpayer inquired about the application of the New Jersey Sales and Use Tax Act to a charge to enter an indoor mini-car racing track facility.

The Sales and Use Tax Act imposes tax on any admission charge to or for the use of any place of amusement in New Jersey or to any entertainment event or sporting activity which takes place in this State. N.J.S.A. 54:32B-3(e). Therefore, a charge to enter an indoor mini-car racing track facility is subject to sales tax. However, a charge for a participant to race their own car is not subject to sales tax.

Natural Gas Purchased for Generation of Electricity — A taxpayer inquired about the taxability of the purchase of natural gas used to generate electricity that is sold for resale.

The New Jersey Sales and Use Tax Act states that receipts from the purchase or use of "[n]atural gas or utility service that is used to generate electricity that is sold for resale or to an end user other than the end user upon whose property is located a co-generation facility or self-generation unit that generated the electricity or upon the property purchased or leased from the end user by the person owning the co-generation facility or self-generation unit if such property is contiguous to the user's property and is the property upon which is located a co-generation facility or self-generation unit that generated the electricity..." are exempt from sales and use tax. N.J.S.A. 54:32B-8.46b.(1).

Therefore, a wholesale producer of electricity may claim the above exemption to purchase natural gas to generate electricity that is sold for resale by issuing a properly completed Exempt Use Certificate (Form ST-4) to the natural gas provider.

Online Vouchers — The Division has received an inquiry as to whether sales tax is applicable to the sale of online vouchers by a taxpayer. The taxpayer is a marketing Web site that sells discounted "deals" for its contracted retailers. Retailers advertising on the site offer specified goods or services to visitors of the site at a discount when purchased within a short period of time, which can vary (e.g., days, hours). Upon purchase, the customer receives a voucher for the specified good or service that may be redeemed with the retailer within prescribed time periods, terms, and conditions. Although the online vouchers have limitations and generally can only be used for the purchase of specific identified products, they are not viewed as pre-purchases of goods or services. Therefore, the sale of an online voucher is not subject to sales tax at the time of its purchase.

As the goods or services are not being purchased and resold by the taxpayer, the sale of the voucher does not result in a transfer of title or possession of the related inventory or resources. Participating retailers agree to share a portion of the face value of the voucher with the taxpayer for its marketing services.

Upon redemption, if the goods or services are subject to sales tax (e.g., meals), the face value of the voucher is subject to sales tax in addition to any excess amount charged over the voucher amount. For purposes of the New Jersey Sales and Use Tax Act, sales tax must be charged on the total "receipt" from a retail sale; i.e., the actual amount of the sales price paid to the retailer. See N.J.S.A. 54:32B-2(d) and N.J.S.A. 54:32B-2(oo). When the voucher is redeemed, the retailer must charge tax on the discounted price payable to the retailer at the face value of the voucher, not on the original price before the reduction. The reduced price is the "receipt" on which the sales tax is calculated.

Sales Lead Generator — A taxpayer inquired about the application of the New Jersey Sales and Use Tax Act to a charge by a sales lead generator to a car dealership.

A car dealership contracts with a sales lead generator. The sales lead generator agrees to list the car dealer's inventory on their Web site and make it searchable by prospective car buyers. The sales lead generator agrees to collect prospective buyers' information and verify the accuracy of the information. The car dealership is then provided with the sales lead information via e-mail or fax. The information collected by the sales lead generator is not exclusive and may be provided to any or all of the participating car dealerships that have the same inventory or as designated by the search criteria. The sales lead generator charges for its service either per sales lead or as a flat monthly fee.

On and after October 1, 2006, sales and use tax is imposed on "information services." N.J.S.A. 54:32B-3(b)

(12). The law defines "information services" as the furnishing of information of any kind, which has been collected, compiled, or analyzed by the seller, and provided through any means or method, other than personal or individual information which is not incorporated into reports furnished to other people. N.J.S.A. 54:32B-2(yy).

A list containing names, addresses, phone numbers, e-mail addresses, and vehicle descriptions that prospective customers are interested in is a sales lead, which meets the definition of information services as referenced above. Since this information was collected and may be provided to all participating car dealerships that have the same make and model in their inventory, the information is not "personal or individual."

Therefore, a charge for sales leads is subject to tax as an information service. The Division has determined that the method of billing, whether per sales lead or a flat monthly fee, does not affect the taxability. Even where a sales lead generator's service is combined with Web site advertising or space, the true object of the overall service remains the provision of sales leads.

Shed and Gazebo Installation — A taxpayer inquired whether charges to install a shed or gazebo are subject to sales or use tax.

The Division responded that the Sales and Use Tax Act imposes tax on the services of installing, maintaining, servicing, and repairing tangible personal property. N.J.S.A. 54:32B-3(b)(2). In addition, charges for maintaining, servicing, and repairing real property are subject to tax. N.J.S.A. 54:32B-3(b)(4). Unless the installation of tangible personal property results in an exempt capital improvement to real property, the installation of tangible personal property on real property is also subject to tax. N.J.S.A. 54:32B-3(b)(4). A “capital improvement” occurs when tangible personal property is permanently affixed to real property (land or buildings) and becomes a permanent part of the real property. To qualify as a capital improvement, the installation must increase the capital value of the property or significantly increase the useful life of the property. If the work performed on the real property results in an exempt capital improvement, the installer does not collect sales tax on the labor portion of the bill, provided the property owner provides the installer with a properly completed Certificate of Exempt Capital Improvement (Form ST-8).

Thus, charges to install sheds and gazebos are subject to tax if they are not permanently attached to the real property as the statute requires. An exempt capital improvement would result if the shed or gazebo is permanently attached to the real property (e.g., secured to cement footings).

Shipping Merchandise Via New Jersey to a Nonresident Member of the Military Stationed Overseas

— A taxpayer inquired about the following scenario:

A taxpayer is a member of the military stationed overseas whose home of record is not New Jersey. The taxpayer purchased a computer over the Internet but the seller of the computer will not ship to an Army Post Office (APO) address. The seller informed the taxpayer that the computer will be shipped to a company in New Jersey who will remail the tangible personal property to the taxpayer’s APO address. Since the computer is being shipped to New Jersey, the taxpayer inquired whether the seller should charge and collect New Jersey sales tax.

In general, registered businesses who sell taxable items or services must collect and remit New Jersey sales tax whenever such sales are completed by delivery of the item(s) to a New Jersey location. However, the sale of the property is not subject to New Jersey sales or use tax if the property is delivered by the seller to a freight forwarding company. Items that are normally taxable when sold and delivered to a New Jersey location are not subject to New Jersey sales tax when they are shipped to a destination outside this State. Freight forwarding companies act as intermediaries between shippers and the carriers which transport the goods by rail, motor, or water to the consignee. The shipment of taxable tangible personal property by a registered seller to a freight forwarding company is deemed to be an out-of-State shipment insofar as the seller is concerned. In this instance, an exemption certificate is not required in order to document an out-of-State sale. Instead, the seller should retain a copy of the invoice stating that the property was delivered to a freight forwarder for further shipment overseas as evidence of the exemption.

Unless the seller delivers the computer to a freight forwarding company the Sales and Use Tax Act does not contain an exemption for tangible personal property delivered to a location in this State.

Subsidized Employee Cafeteria

— A taxpayer inquired about the sales tax consequences when an employer pays subsidies to a food service company to reduce the cost of food to its employees.

The Division responded that if a subsidy is paid by an employer in addition to a specified amount paid by the employees, both amounts are taxed as “receipts from the sale of prepared food.” N.J.S.A. 54:32B-3(c)(1); N.J.A.C. 18:24-12.6(d). For example, an employer pays $0.50 to a caterer for each sale of prepared food to its employees. The employees will pay any amount due which exceeds the $0.50 paid by the employer.

If the amount is paid as a “management fee” (guarantee of profit or cost reimbursement made by the employer), the fee is not subject to tax where a reasonable charge is made to the employee for the prepared food.

Terminaling Service — A taxpayer inquired about the taxability of a charge for a “terminaling service” which is described as the storage of a customer’s fuel inventory in a tank. Customers can drive up to a terminal and withdraw from their inventory and load stored fuel into their truck for delivery to a gas station.

The New Jersey Sales and Use Tax Act states that storing all tangible personal property not held for sale in the regular course of business and furnishing of space for storage of tangible personal property by a person engaged in the business of furnishing space for such storage is subject to sales tax. N.J.S.A. 54:32B-3(b)(3). “Space for storage” means secure areas, such as rooms, units, compartments or containers, whether accessible from outside or from within a building, that are designated for the use of a customer and wherein the customer has free access within reasonable business hours, or upon reasonable notice to the furnisher of space for storage, to store and retrieve property. Space for storage does not include the lease or rental of an entire building, such as a warehouse or airplane hanger. N.J.S.A. 54:32B-3(b)(3). For more information on storage see publication ANJ-26, Space for Storage. The storage of goods held as inventory is not taxable. N.J.S.A. 54:32B-3(b)(3). Therefore, a charge for a “terminaling service” as described above is not subject to sales tax because it involves the storage of inventory that will be sold in the regular course of business. The customer should issue the seller a properly completed resale certificate to document that the terminaling service is not subject to sales tax. □

Corporation Business Tax

Entire Net Income – International Business Machines Corporation & Crestron Electronics, Inc. v. Director, Division of Taxation, decided January 26, 2011; Tax Court Nos. 011630-2008 and 011795-2009.

At issue is whether a corporation’s entire net income includes Internal Revenue Code (IRC) §114 extraterritorial income during the tax years 2002–2005. In 2000, IRC §114 was enacted to provide that extraterritorial income was not included in gross income for Federal income tax purposes. Extraterritorial income was defined by IRC §114 as “gross income of the taxpayer attributable to foreign trading gross receipts.” Under Federal law, both plaintiffs first reported their extraterritorial income on Line 1 of their Federal returns (Form 1120). Thereafter, the extraterritorial income was excluded pursuant to IRC §114(a) to arrive at taxable income before net operating loss deduction and special deductions (Line 28 of Federal Form 1120).

In calculating New Jersey entire net income, the Division determined that IRC §114 income was not excludable because income from sources outside the United States that was not included in Federal taxable income must be added back to Federal taxable income to calculate the corporation’s entire net income. N.J.S.A. 54:10A-4(k) defined entire net income as follows:

“Entire net income” shall mean total net income from all sources, whether within or without the United States, and shall include the gain derived from the employment of capital or labor, or from both combined, as well as profit gained through a sale or conversion of capital assets.

For the purpose of this act, the amount of a taxpayer’s entire net income shall be deemed prima facie to be equal in amount to the taxable income, before net operating loss deduction and special deductions, which the taxpayer is required to report ... to the United States Treasury Department for the purpose of computing its Federal income tax.

This statute continues and thereafter states that the determination of entire net income shall be without the exclusion, deduction or credit of numerous items that are both additions and subtractions to Federal taxable income. These items are listed in N.J.S.A. 54:10A-4(k)(2)(A) through (J). However, the extraterritorial income exclusion from Federal taxable income is not contained therein as an adjustment.

Interpreting the plain meaning of the statute, the Court determined that the broad definition of entire net income in the statute’s first paragraph is limited by the second paragraph. If the first paragraph stood alone, then the Court noted that extraterritorial income would be included in entire net income and the Division would prevail. However, the first paragraph must be read in conjunction with the second paragraph that couples entire net income under the Corporation Business Tax Act with Line 28 of Federal Form 1120, “taxable income before net operating loss deduction and special deductions.” Therefore, the starting point is Line 28, which is then adjusted for items that are detailed in N.J.S.A. §54:10A-4(k)(2)(A) through (J) to arrive at entire net income. As extraterritorial income was not included as an adjustment, the Court concluded that extraterritorial income was therefore not included in entire net income for corporation business tax purposes. The Court noted that the Legislature could have amended the statute.

Untimely Refund Claim – General Motors Acceptance Corporation v. Director, Division of Taxation, decided April 1, 2011; Docket No. A-3505-09T3.

On September 14, 2001, General Motors Acceptance Corporation (GMAC) filed its 2000 corporation business tax return and paid the tax due. On the return, GMAC mistakenly reported a 50% dividends received deduction rather than a 100% dividends received deduction for dividends received from its 100% owned foreign subsidiary.

The Internal Revenue Service audited GMAC's 2000 consolidated return and determined that GMAC owed more tax due to Federal adjustments, unrelated to the dividends received deduction, for that year. When GMAC prepared the revenue agent report (RAR) disclosing to New Jersey the Federal adjustments, which resulted in its owing additional corporation business tax, GMAC discovered the mischaracterization of its percentage ownership in the subject foreign subsidiary at less than 80% rather than 100% and reporting a 50% dividends received deduction rather than a 100% dividends received deduction.

On November 10, 2005, GMAC filed a 2000 amended corporation business tax return incorporating the RAR and at the same time offsetting $992,280 attributable to the additional dividends received deduction from the amount of additional tax due attributable to the RAR. On January 26, 2006, the Division issued a notice of assessment that denied the proposed offset.

GMAC claimed that it should be allowed to adjust its tax liability for the dividends received deduction because: (1) it is entitled to an offset under N.J.S.A. 54:49-16(b); (2) it is entitled to an offset under the doctrine of equitable recoupment; and (3) equity and justice permit an offset.

The Appellate Division determined that the refund claim was untimely under N.J.S.A. 54:49-14(a) because the November 10, 2005, amended return was beyond four years from the September 14, 2001, payment.

The Appellate Division found that where there is a Federal adjustment, N.J.S.A. 54:10A-13 grants the taxpayer an extension of four years to file a refund claim attributable to the Federal adjustment. GMAC did not suggest that the dividends received deduction was related to the Federal adjustment, and the overpayment occurred from GMAC's mistake in the percentage of ownership. Therefore, GMAC was not entitled to an N.J.S.A. 54:10A-13 extended four-year period to file a refund claim.

Addressing GMAC's offset claim pursuant to N.J.S.A. 54:49-16(b), the Appellate Division found that, in general, this statute permits an offset of a deficiency assessment for taxes erroneously or illegally collected or paid under mistake of fact or law in certain circumstances that did not exist in this case. This offset provision is applicable during the time period that a corporation business tax deficiency assessment may be made, which is generally four years under N.J.S.A. 54:49-6(b). The Appellate Division determined that the claim was beyond the four-year statute of limitations for assessments, the four-year extension of N.J.S.A. 54:10A-13 was inapplicable, and noted that the complaint was not filed during the time that a deficiency assessment of tax could be made. Therefore, N.J.S.A. 54:49-16(b) provided no basis to permit an offset. In addition, the Appellate Division noted that the Federal audit resulted in an increase of corporation business tax rather than a finding that the State erroneously or illegally collected taxes from GMAC.

The Appellate Division determined that GMAC was not entitled to an offset under the doctrine of equitable recoupment. There are three elements of equitable recoupment:

(1) there must be a single transaction; (2) there must be an identity of interest among parties; and (3) a need to balance the equities must exist. The first element of equitable recoupment was not satisfied because recoupment was not a result of the audit of GMAC and therefore did not result from the same transaction. As to the third element, the equities were neutral at best. The fact that GMAC was a sophisticated taxpayer and that statutes of limitations are associated with fairness weighed against GMAC.

In affirming the Tax Court's decision, the Appellate Division did not discuss other contentions presented by GMAC stating that they were without sufficient merit to warrant a discussion in a written opinion.

Untimely Refund, Doctrine of Equitable Recoupment – General Motors Acceptance Corporation, a Delaware Corporation, v. Director, Division of Taxation, Supreme Court of New Jersey No. C-38 September Term 2011, decided September 9, 2011.

The New Jersey Supreme Court denied General Motors Acceptance Corporation's (GMAC) petition for certification.

The Appellate Division, No. A-3505-09T3, decided April 1, 2011, affirmed the Tax Court decision, 26 NJ Tax 93 (2010), which granted the Director's summary judgment motion.

On September 14, 2001, GMAC filed its 2000 corporation business tax (CBT) return and paid the tax due. On the return, GMAC mistakenly reported a 50% dividends received deduction rather than a

100% dividends received deduction for dividends received from its 100% owned foreign subsidiary.

The Internal Revenue Service audited GMAC's 2000 consolidated return and determined that GMAC owed more tax due to Federal adjustments, unrelated to the dividends received deduction, for the 2000 tax year. When GMAC prepared the revenue agent report (RAR) disclosing to New Jersey the Federal adjustments, which resulted in its owing additional CBT, GMAC discovered the mischaracterization of its percentage ownership in the subject foreign subsidiary at less than 80% rather than 100% and reporting a 50% dividends received deduction rather than a 100% dividends received deduction.

On November 10, 2005, GMAC filed a 2000 amended CBT return incorporating the RAR and at the same time offsetting the additional amount attributable to the additional dividends received deduction from the amount of additional tax due attributable to the RAR. On January 26, 2006, the Division issued a notice of assessment that denied the proposed offset.

GMAC claimed that it should be allowed to adjust its tax liability for the dividends received deduction because: (1) it is entitled to an offset under N.J.S.A. 54:49-16(b); (2) it is entitled to an offset under the doctrine of equitable recoupment; and (3) that equity and justice permit an offset.

The Appellate Division determined that the refund claim was untimely under N.J.S.A. 54:49-14(a) because the November 10, 2005, amended return was beyond four years from the September 14, 2001, payment. The Appellate Division found that where there is a Federal adjustment, N.J.S.A. 54:10A-13 grants the taxpayer an extension of four years to file a refund claim attributable to the Federal adjustment. GMAC did not suggest that the dividends received deduction was related to the Federal adjustment and the overpayment occurred from GMAC's mistake in the percentage of ownership. Therefore, GMAC was not entitled to an extended four-year period to file a refund claim.

Addressing GMAC's offset claim pursuant to N.J.S.A. 54:49-16(b), the Appellate Division found that, in general, this statute permits an offset of a deficiency assessment for taxes erroneously or illegally collected or paid under mistake of fact or law in certain circumstances that did not exist in this case. This offset provision is applicable during the time period that a CBT deficiency tax assessment may be made, which is generally four years under N.J.S.A. 54:49-6(b). The Appellate Division determined that the claim was beyond the four-year statute of limitations for assessments, the four-year extension of N.J.S.A. 54:10A-13 was inapplicable, and noted that the complaint was not filed during the time that a deficiency assessment of tax could be made. Therefore, N.J.S.A. 54:49-16(b) provides no basis to permit an offset. In addition, the Appellate Division noted that the Federal audit resulted in an increase of CBT rather than a finding that the State erroneously or illegally collected taxes from GMAC.

The Appellate Division determined that GMAC was not entitled to an offset under the doctrine of equitable recoupment. There are three elements of equitable recoupment:

(1) there must be a single transaction, (2) there must be an identity of interest among parties, and (3) a need to balance the equities must exist. The first element of equitable recoupment was not satisfied because recoupment is not a result of the audit of GMAC and therefore did not result from the same transaction. As to the third element, the equities were neutral at best. The fact that GMAC was a sophisticated taxpayer and that statutes of limitations are associated with fairness weighed against GMAC.

Gross Income Tax

Nonbusiness Bad Debt – Harlan W. Waksal v. Director, Division of Taxation, Superior Court of New Jersey Appellate Division, Docket No. A-6062-09T4, decided October 31, 2011.

The Appellate Division decision affirmed the Tax Court decision, Docket No. 001191-2009 (2010), which affirmed the final assessment of the Director.

In January 2002 the taxpayer loaned money to his brother, who in turn signed a promissory note and agreed to repay the loan on or before January 31, 2004. The taxpayer's brother then defaulted on the loan. As a result, on the Federal individual income tax return the taxpayer reported the loan amount as a short-term capital loss. The taxpayer also reported the same amount as a loss from the sale, exchange, or other disposition of property on the 2004 New Jersey gross income tax return.

In the ruling, the Appellate Division held that the "worthless debt, although treated as a loss from the sale or exchange of a capital asset held for not more than one year..."

under §166(d)(1)(b) of the Internal Revenue Code, does not fit the statutory rubric of “sale, exchange or other disposition of property” found in N.J.S.A. 54A:5-1(c).

Therefore, the taxpayer’s loss from the nonbusiness bad debt could not be used to offset other gains derived from the sale, exchange, or other disposition of property under N.J.S.A. 54A:5-1(c).

Local Property Tax

Farmland Assessment – Atlantic Coast LEH, LLC, v. Township of Little Egg Harbor; decided July 26, 2011; Tax Court.

This case concerns the issue of whether a remote twelve-acre predominantly vacant plot of land located in Little Egg Harbor Township qualifies for preferential reduced farm assessment under the Farmland Assessment Act of 1964. The property owner, Atlantic Coast LEH, LLC, pays an out-of-State beekeeper to maintain beehives on the property for the production of honey, wax, and other products. The Farmland Assessment Act defines agricultural use to include beekeeping (N.J.S.A. 54:4-23.3). However, there is a dual use to the property, as the owner also collects rent for an operating cell phone tower that occupies less than an acre of land but stretches approximately twenty-five stories into the sky.

In 2003, Atlantic Coast contacted Wilson’s Honey, LLC, located in upstate New York, to set up eight beehives on the subject property. The hives were fenced in with the cell tower but the bees foraged on blueberry bushes, clover, and knapweed scattered over the entire 12.24 acres that comprise the subject property.

From 2003 to present, Wilson’s Honey purchased products created from the bees for amounts that barely satisfied statutory gross sales requirements for farmland qualification. The property averaged $535 for the two years preceding the tax years at issue. Wilson’s Honey paid Atlantic Coast at least $550 per year for the apiary products. Atlantic Coast paid Wilson’s Honey annually for the care of the bees on the property. There was no evidence, however, how often Wilson’s employees traveled from New York to tend the bees and to collect their products.

Atlantic Coast applied for farmland assessment for the subject property for tax years 2006 through 2009, and each time the assessor denied the claim. For tax year 2006, the assessor determined that the area was less than five acres and that the land had not been devoted to agricultural use for the two years prior to 2006. For tax year 2007, the assessor determined that the gross sales from apiary products did not exceed $500 dollars and that the principal use of the property was for a “radio station.” There is no evidence that a radio station ever operated on the property. In 2008, the assessor denied the property for the same reasons and the assessor’s denial for 2009 is not in the record. Atlantic Coast filed appeals for each year with the Ocean County Board of Taxation, which upheld the assessor’s determinations. The taxpayer then filed complaints with the Tax Court of New Jersey.

The municipality does not dispute that the subject property exceeds five acres. Also, the parties are in agreement that apiary activity took place. The municipality does not dispute the fact that the plaintiff has met the gross income requirements for the subject property. The fact that the beekeeping was not profitable does not disqualify the subject property from farmland assessment. Finally, the municipality does not dispute that the entire twelve acres were used for apiary activity and Atlantic Coast’s beekeeping activity, by itself, satisfies the statutory requirement for farmland assessment. However, the problem is that the property is also devoted to the operation of a cell phone tower that generates income for the property owner.

The Tax Court of New Jersey noted the following decisions when reviewing this matter. In Township of Wantage v. Rivlin Corp., 23 N.J. Tax 441, 446 (Tax 2007) the Court stated: “Where the entire parcel seeking farmland assessment qualification also was used for other purposes, the court must determine if the agricultural or horticultural use is the dominant use of the property.” If the use of the property is predominantly for a purpose other than farmland assessment, the property is not entitled to farmland assessment.

The dominant use test was first applied in City of East Orange v. Township of Livingston, 102 N.J. Super. 512 (Law Div. 1968), aff’d, 54 N.J. 96 (1969). Judge Handler concluded that there can be multiple, simultaneous uses of property; however, “depending upon the particular lands involved, one use tends to become dominant.” The Court further explained: “even though the agricultural use is ‘active’ in the literal sense...compliance with this single (gross sales) criterion does not render the water reserve as land devoted to agricultural use.”

Several additional court cases were cited where the dominant use of the subject property was not intended for agricultural or horticultural use.

Atlantic Coast's history with the property reveals an intention to construct a cell tower for commercial use and represents a significant capital expenditure. Also, the operation of the cell phone tower dominates the beekeeping activity on the property. The 290-foot cell phone tower overrides the physical aspects of the property. Although beekeeping is being carried out, the cellular tower dwarfs the beehives. Because the apiary activities are subordinate to the taxpayer's nonagricultural exploitation of the property, the assessor correctly denied the plaintiff's right to farmland assessment for the years in question.

Sales and Use Tax

Books and Records – Ellgen Landscape & Construction, Inc. v. Director, Division of Taxation, decided June 17, 2011; Tax Court No. 011636-2008.

Ellgen Landscaping and Construction, Inc. is a retail garden center located in Bernardsville, New Jersey. It sells fruits, vegetables, and construction/landscaping materials and also provides landscaping services.

At issue is whether the taxpayer maintained adequate books and records and whether the Division's auditor erred in disregarding the taxpayer's records.

The auditor determined that the gross receipts on Ellgen's sales and use tax and corporation business tax returns did not match. In addition, the taxpayer acknowledged that its bank deposit receipts did not match the amounts on either its sales and use tax or corporation business tax returns. The auditor therefore determined that a markup analysis was appropriate.

The taxpayer countered that the auditor used a markup analysis that deviates from what is normal or expected and that the auditor ignored Ellgen's annual summaries, improperly used sale prices instead of purchase prices when calculating use tax, arbitrarily categorized sales as taxable or nontaxable, used an inflated markup figure, and incorrectly allocated income to Ellgen's different lines of business.

In Yilmaz, Inc. v. Director, Division of Taxation, 22 N.J. Tax 204, 236 (Tax 2005), aff'd, 390 N.J. Super, 440 (App. Div. 2007) the taxpayer is charged with providing "cogent evidence that is definitive, positive and certain in quality and quantity to overcome the presumption" of the Director. "Naked assertions of the taxpayer, without supporting records or documentation, are insufficient to rebut the Director's presumption."

Although N.J.A.C. 18:24-2.4(a) states "where summary records are maintained... the seller may dispose of individual sales slips... or cash register tapes", the court in Charley O's, Inc. v. Director, Division of Taxation, 23 N.J. Tax 171, 187 (Tax 2006) found that, "if an auditor has reason to believe that a taxpayer's summary records are inaccurate, and no cash register tapes are available, the use of the markup analysis is appropriate."

Judge Bianco opined, "Accordingly, the court concludes that Ellgen failed to meet its burden since it did not provide any cogent evidence, in the form of cash register receipts, purchase journals, general ledgers, or paid bills, and it did not provide documentation demonstrating that its two part-time workers were independent contractors, rather than employees. Although Ellgen provided the Director with summary records of cash receipts, the court is satisfied with the Director's determination that these records were unreliable thereby warranting a markup analysis. Likewise Ellgen's tax return, which contains a deduction labeled 'outside casual labor', is unsubstantiated and does not prove that Ellgen remitted withholdings."

Judge Bianco granted summary judgment in favor of the Director.

Charges for Transportation and Disposal of Septic Waste – English Sewage Disposal, Inc. v. Director, Division of Taxation, decided April 11, 2011; Docket No. 007870-2008.

The Tax Court granted the Director's motion for summary judgment, concluding that plaintiff's invoices for per-gallon charges to its customers, said to represent charges for the transportation and disposal of septic waste, are subject to sales tax and therefore not exempt under N.J.S.A. 54:32B-8.11.

The Court found that: (a) the transportation costs were not separately stated; (b) under the "predominant purpose test" the transportation is incidental to the service being rendered and the service for which the customer employed plaintiff to perform; i.e., pumping the septic tank, servicing the tank itself (though not mentioned in the opinion), and removal of septic waste from the premises; and (c) plaintiff is not excused by N.J.S.A. 54:49-11(b)

from payment of penalty and interest on the assessment, as the advice rendered by the Division was issued to a completely separate entity, even though plaintiff was a successor to the entity to which the advice was rendered and the accountant was the same for both entities. Furthermore, copies of the letters requesting the Division's advice were unavailable, so there is no frame of reference for the basis of the Division's advice. □

Corporation Business Tax
Single Sales Fraction Formula for Income Allocation — P.L. 2011, c.59, signed into law on April 28, 2011, and effective immediately, except section 2, which will apply to privilege periods beginning on or after January 1, 2012, modifies the formula used to determine the portion of the income of a corporation subject to tax by New Jersey from a three-factor formula to a single (sales) factor formula and establishes a specialized sales fraction formula for airlines that are subject to taxation.

Under the old law, New Jersey employed a formula that apportioned a share of a corporation's income to the State based on: (1) a weighted average of a corporation's property in the State over the corporation's total property, representing 25% of the apportionment; (2) a corporation's sales in the State over the corporation's total sales, representing 50% of the apportionment; and (3) the corporation's payroll in the State over the corporation's total payroll, accounting for the remaining 25% of the apportionment.

Pursuant to the new law, this change is phased in over three years, commencing with privilege periods beginning on or after January 1, 2012, but before January 1, 2013. For that year, the sales fraction will account for 70% of the apportionment and the property and payroll fractions will each account for 15% of the apportionment. For privilege periods beginning on or after January 1, 2013, but before January 1, 2014, the sales fraction will increase to 90% and the property and payroll fractions will each account for 5% of the apportionment. For privilege periods beginning on or after January 1, 2014, the sales fraction will account for 100% of the apportionment.

The new law institutes a sales fraction for airlines determined as the ratio of an airline's revenue miles in this State divided by an airline's total revenue miles. Previously, the sales fraction for airlines was determined based on the ratio of departures from New Jersey to total departures, weighted as to cost and value of aircraft by type.

Research and Development Tax Credit — P.L. 2011, c.83, signed into law on June 30, 2011, effective immediately, and applicable to privilege periods beginning on or after January 1, 2012, removes a restriction on the application of the research and development tax credit. The credit had been limited to 50% of the liability otherwise due for the tax period.

The research and development tax credit remains equal to 10% of the increase in "qualified research expenses" (research performed by or for the taxpayer) in a tax year over a base amount, plus 10% of the "basic research payments" (university research funded by the taxpayer) in a tax period. The credit is limited to expenditures made in New Jersey. The new law does not affect the allowance of the credit.

The new law retains the restriction that the credit may not reduce the tax liability to less than the statutory minimum and retains the Director's prerogative as to prioritization of corporation business tax credits.

Minimum Tax — P.L. 2011, c.84, signed into law on June 30, 2011, and effective immediately, decreases the minimum tax on New Jersey subchapter S corporations by 25% for taxable periods beginning on or after January 1, 2012, as follows:

New Jersey Gross Receipts	Minimum Tax*
Less than $100,000	$ 375.00
$100,000 or more, but less than $250,000	562.50
$250,000 or more, but less than $500,000	750.00
$500,000 or more, but less than $1,000,000	1,125.00
$1,000,000 or more	1,500.00

*The minimum tax of New Jersey subchapter S corporations that are members of affiliated or controlled groups with total payrolls of $5,000,000 or more will remain $2,000 annually.

Checkoff for Boys and Girls Clubs in New Jersey Fund — P.L. 2011, c.57, signed into law on April 20, 2011, effective immediately, and applicable to taxable years beginning on or after January 1, 2012, establishes the Boys and Girls Clubs in New Jersey Fund. It gives New Jersey taxpayers the opportunity to make voluntary contributions on their State gross income tax returns in support of New Jersey's Boys and Girls Clubs.

Alternative Business Income or Loss Calculation — P.L. 2011, c.60, signed into law on April 28, 2011, effective immediately, and applicable to taxable years beginning on or after January 1, 2012, establishes an alternative calculation that permits taxpayers who generate income from different types of business entities to offset gains from one type of business with losses from another, and permits taxpayers to carry forward business-related losses for a period of up to 20 taxable years.

Gains and losses derived from one or more of the following business-related categories of gross income may be netted: net profits from business; net gains or net income derived from or in the form of rents, royalties, patents, and copyrights; distributive share of partnership income; and net pro rata share of S corporation income. Thus, a taxpayer who sustains a loss from a sole proprietorship may apply that loss against income derived from a partnership, subchapter S corporation, or rents and royalties, but is prohibited from applying those losses from those categories of income to income that is not related to the taxpayer's conduct of the taxpayer's own business, including salaries and wages, disposition of property, and interest and dividends.

The law provides that net losses from business-related categories of income may be carried forward and applied against income in future taxable years. The law limits the application of net losses which are carried forward to gains and losses from the same business-related categories of income from which the net loss is derived, and allows the losses to be carried forward for a period of up to 20 taxable years following the year the net loss occurs.

The changes are phased in over five years beginning with tax year 2012.

Checkoff for NJ National Guard State Family Readiness Council Fund — P.L. 2011, c.117, signed into law on August 19, 2011, effective immediately, and applicable to tax years 2012 and after, establishes the NJ National Guard State Family Readiness Council Fund. It gives New Jersey taxpayers the opportunity to make voluntary contributions on their State gross income tax returns to support members of the New Jersey National Guard and their families in need of assistance.

Senior Gold Prescription Discount Program — P.L. 2011, c.131, signed into law on September 16, 2011, and effective immediately, requires the Division of Taxation to prominently display the eligibility requirements for and benefits available under the Senior Gold Prescription Discount Program in the gross income tax return instruction booklet for tax years 2011 and after.

Insurance Premiums Tax Surplus Lines — P.L. 2011, c.119, signed into law on August 19, 2011, and effective July 21, 2011, revises the method for the regulation and collection of surplus lines insurance premium taxes by the Department of Banking and Insurance. These revisions are intended to bring "the surplus lines law," P.L. 1960, c.32 (N.J.S.A. 17:22-6.40 et seq.), into compliance with the Federal Nonadmitted and Reinsurance Reform Act of 2010 (NRRRA), which was part of the Dodd-Frank Wall Street Reform and Consumer Protection Act. Under the NRRRA, the ability to share surplus lines insurance premium tax revenue will be suspended in July 2011 until such time as New Jersey enters into a multi-state compact or agreement with one or more other states.

A state that does not join such an agreement may collect 100% of the taxes due from insureds located in its state, otherwise known as "home-state insureds" (as detailed in the law). Accordingly, this bill authorizes the Commissioner of Banking and Insurance to enter into compacts or agreements with other states with respect to such collections.

Miscellaneous

Employee Leasing Companies — P.L. 2011, c.118, signed into law on August 19, 2011, and effective 12 months following enactment, makes various changes to several laws that affect the regulation and business operations of employee leasing companies, or professional employer organizations (PEOs).

Employee leasing companies are business entities that manage human resources, employee benefits, health insurance, and payroll and workers' compensation for small businesses. Companies contract with an employee leasing company to assist them with employee-related matters such as health benefits, workers' compensation claims, payroll, payroll tax compliance, and unemployment insurance claims, allowing the client companies to concentrate on the operational aspects of their businesses. Employee leasing companies are not temporary employment agencies; employee leasing companies become "co-employers" of the employees of the businesses to which they provide services. Employee leasing companies are regulated

by the Department of Labor and Workforce Development pursuant to P.L. 2001, c.260 (N.J.S.A. 34:8-67 et seq.).

Specifically, the New Jersey employee leasing company statute (1) establishes a limited registration process for certain small, out-of-State employee leasing companies; (2) makes several changes to the financial test for Department of Labor and Workforce Development registration of employee leasing companies; (3) allows for the electronic filing of compliance documents; and (4) clarifies certain responsibilities, rights, and liabilities of employee leasing companies, client companies, and covered employees, as well as a host of other provisions affecting these entities. The Act also supplements the Sales and Use Tax Act, P.L. 1966, c.32 (N.J.S.A. 54:32B-1 et seq.) to clarify and allocate the tax liabilities of client companies and employee leasing companies if the tax were to be applied prospectively to services provided by client companies or to services provided by employee leasing companies. Also, this bill similarly clarifies and allocates tax liabilities of a per-employee tax or payroll tax imposed on a client company or an employee leasing company. Lastly, the new law clarifies that a tax credit or economic benefit or incentive available to employers accrues to a client company employer with an agreement with an employee leasing company.

Moratorium on Imposition of Fees on Nonresidential Construction Projects — P.L. 2011, c.122, signed into law on August 24, 2011, and effective immediately, extends for two years, until July 1, 2013, the moratorium on the imposition of fees on nonresidential construction projects.

The fees, known as Statewide non-residential development fees, were enacted as part of a revision of the Fair Housing Act, pursuant to P.L. 2008, c.46. A moratorium was placed on the imposition of the fees until July 1, 2010, pursuant to the Economic Stimulus Act of 2009, P.L. 2009, c.90, and extended again by this statute. Any monies paid during the period from July 1, 2010, to the present must be repaid. Municipalities that are eligible to collect non-residential development fees would not be required to refund monies that have been spent on affordable housing projects.

Uniform Application for Small Businesses Seeking Financial Assistance — P.L. 2011, c.123, signed into law on September 1, 2011, and effective immediately, requires the Department of State, in consultation with the New Jersey Economic Development Authority, to establish and maintain a program to assist small businesses in identifying financial assistance programs offered by any State agency for which the business may be eligible. A uniform application will be devised for the purpose of gathering basic operational and financial information from small businesses seeking assistance under this program, and any additional information as deemed necessary by the Department.

Exemption From Bulk Sale Notification Requirements — P.L. 2011, c.124, signed into law on September 14, 2011, effective immediately, and retroactive to August 1, 2007, exempts certain sales of real property from the bulk sale notification requirements that are used to administer State taxes.

Under the bulk sales law, the purchaser of business assets must notify the Director of the sale at least 10 days before the transfer of goods or payment or the purchaser can become liable for taxes owed by the seller. The Director must respond within that 10-day timeframe. If the Director notifies the purchaser that the seller owes State taxes, the purchaser must escrow any sums owed to the State. If the purchaser fails to notify the Director, the purchaser can be held liable for any taxes of the seller. If the Director fails to respond to the notice within the allowed time, the sale can continue and the purchaser has no liability for the seller's taxes.

The Act provides an exemption from the bulk sale notification requirements for sales of a simple dwelling house, seasonal rental, or lease of real property if the seller, transferor, or assignor is an "individual," "estate," or "trust" for gross income tax purposes.

However, bulk sales law provisions still apply if the seller, transferor, or assignor is a business entity, including but not limited to a corporation or a partnership.

Multiple Taxes

Urban Transit Hub Tax Credit Act and the New Jersey Economic Stimulus Act of 2009 Expanded — P.L. 2011, c.89, signed into law on July 26, 2011, and effective immediately, expands the Urban Transit Hub Tax Credit Act (UTHTCA) and the New Jersey Economic Stimulus Act of 2009 (Stimulus Act) to include certain mixed-use projects as creditable investments and to change the manner in which the tax credits under the UTHTCA are treated by eligible businesses.

Currently, under the UTHTCA a business may receive tax credits of up to 100% of its qualified capital investment in a business facility that (1) is located in an urban transit hub (i.e., an “urban aid” municipality, served by a commuter rail station, in which at least 30% of real property value is exempt from property taxes); and (2) employs at least 250 persons at the facility. Annually, for 10 years, the business may apply a credit equal to 10% of the amount of the investment against corporation business tax, insurance premiums tax, or gross income tax liability. A tenant in these qualified business facilities may also be allowed credits if the tenant occupies space in the facility that proportionally represents at least $17.5 million of the capital investment in the facility and employs at least 250 persons in the facility. For a business or a tenant to be eligible for the credit, the owner of the facility has to have made or acquired capital investments in the facility of not less than $50 million.

Capital Investment

Under a separate but similar urban transit hub tax credit program enacted as part of the Stimulus Act, a developer could receive tax credits of up to 20% of its capital investment in a qualified residential project located in an urban transit hub, subject to the same $50 million project investment requirement applicable to a qualified business facility.

With the enactment of the new law, credits of up to 35% of an eligible applicant’s capital investment in a mixed-use project comprising both a qualified business facility and a qualified residential project, neither of which by itself satisfies the total investment minimum of $50 million, subject to certain restrictions as set forth in the Act, is allowed.

Carryforward Credits for Urban Transit Hub Tax Credit Recipients

UTHTCA recipients may now (1) carry forward the credits into no more than 20 subsequent tax accounting or privilege periods with a limit on the amount allowed in any fiscal year to $150 million; and (2) increase from 20% to 35% the proportion of the cost of capital invested in a qualified residential project located within an urban transit hub that they can receive as a tax credit. The definition of “urban transit hub” now includes any rail spur located adjacent to or within a one mile radius surrounding the entrance to property for loading and unloading freight cars on trains.

Job Relocation Within the State No Longer a Factor

The New Jersey Economic Development Authority (EDA) can no longer consider the relocation of a job within the State as a factor in making its determination of whether a capital investment would yield a net positive benefit to the State, unless the business proposes to transfer existing jobs as part of a consolidation of business operations from two or more locations and municipalities. Previously, the EDA considered a job relocated within the State as a new job and therefore, creating a benefit.

Municipalities to Determine Percentage for Occupancy by Low- or Moderate-Income Households Within an Urban Transit Hub

Finally, for the purposes of mixed-use projects or qualified residential projects where a business receives an urban transit hub tax credit, the amended bill allows eligible municipalities under the UTHTCA to determine the amount of the percentage, up to 20% of the total, of newly constructed residential units set aside for occupancy by low- or moderate-income households within an urban transit hub.

Tobacco Products Tax

Forfeiture of Contraband Tobacco Products and Cigarettes — P.L. 2011, c.80, signed into law on June 29, 2011, and effective immediately, amends the Tobacco Products Wholesale Sales and Use Tax Act, Cigarette Tax Act, and related criminal statutes. The new law supplements and makes a number of changes to P.L. 1990, c.39 (N.J.S.A. 54:40B-1, et seq.), and P.L. 1948, c.65 (N.J.S.A. 2C:64-1), respectively.

The law provides that all tobacco products subject to the tax imposed under P.L. 1990, c.39, on which the tax has not been paid as required found in any place in the State are declared to be, prima facie, contraband goods and may be seized by the Director, Division of Taxation, the Director’s agents or employees, or by any peace officer of the State, when so ordered by the Director, without a warrant. The Director may authorize the use for law enforcement purposes of any untaxed tobacco products forfeited.

In addition, the Director may order the return of any seized tobacco product where there is reason to believe, upon the presentation of satisfactory proof, that the owner has not willfully or intentionally evaded any tax imposed under P.L. 1990, c.39.

Although the Director may order the destruction of any tobacco product, as an alternative to destruction the Director may resell any untaxed tobacco product to the manufacturer of that tobacco product, but such tobacco product shall be resold only for export or destruction.

All unstamped cigarettes forfeited to the State under this law will be destroyed. However, the Director may, prior to the destruction of cigarettes, permit the true holder of the trademark rights in the cigarette brand to inspect such cigarettes in order to assist the Director in any investigation regarding such cigarettes.

The seizure of any unstamped or illegally stamped cigarettes or any other contraband cigarettes under the provisions of the law does not relieve any person from a fine, imprisonment, or other penalty for violation of any of the provisions of the law. The Director, the Director’s agents or employees, or any peace officer of the State, when directed to do so, will not be responsible in any court for the seizure or the confiscation of unstamped or illegally stamped packages of cigarettes. □

Most New Jersey homeowners who were eligible and filed for a 2009 homestead benefit received their 2009 benefit as a one-time credit on their May 2011 property tax bill. Revised property tax bills reflecting the credit amount were sent to eligible homeowners in April. Benefits were issued in the form of a check (or direct deposit) during the last week in April 2011 to those homeowners whose principal residence was a unit in a co-op or continuing care retirement community or who indicated when filing that they no longer owned the property that was their principal residence on October 1, 2009. Under the terms of the State Budget, no benefits will be issued to tenants.

To be eligible for a 2009 homestead benefit an applicant must be a New Jersey resident who owned and occupied their principal residence in the State on October 1, 2009, paid property taxes on that home, and who had $75,000 or less in New Jersey gross income for 2009 ($150,000 or less for homeowners age 65 or older and/or disabled).

Benefit amounts vary based on the applicant's income, filing status, property taxes, and whether the applicant was age 65 or older or eligible to claim an exemption as blind or disabled for tax year 2009.

The State Budget required that the 2009 benefit be based on 2006 property taxes. For purposes of calculating the 2009 benefit, the 2006 property taxes for the dwelling that was the applicant's principal residence on October 1, 2009, are being used. If no property taxes were assessed on that dwelling for 2006, the Division of Taxation will determine the amount of property taxes that would have been due for 2006.

In addition, 2009 benefit amounts, when annualized, will be no greater than those paid for 2006 (when rebates were also based on 2006 property taxes) unless there has been a change in an applicant's filing characteristics. "Filing characteristics" means a reduction in income range, a change in age/disability status or marital status, or an increase in percentage of ownership.

Homeowners can find out the status of their homestead benefit online at www.state.nj.us/treasury/taxation/homestead/statusinq.shtml

Additional information about the Homestead Benefit Program, including information on how the benefit is calculated, is available at: www.state.nj.us/treasury/taxation/2009homesteadinfo.shtml

Applications for the 2010 Homestead Benefit Program are expected to be mailed in June and homeowners will apply either online or by phone. □

Office of the Taxpayer Advocate Introduced

New Jersey Treasurer Andrew Sidamon-Eristoff recently announced the creation of the Office of the Taxpayer Advocate (OTA) within the Division of Taxation.

One of the goals of the OTA is more predictable treatment under the tax laws which, according to Governor Chris Christie, “is vital to restoring New Jersey’s image as a home for business growth and investment.” The Governor believes that with the OTA, “we can both bring in revenue and improve New Jersey’s economic climate if we make it less difficult and stressful for taxpayers to navigate the tax system.”

Treasurer Sidamon-Eristoff said that the role of the Taxpayer Advocate is to simplify New Jersey’s tax regulations for the public and to provide help in navigating the tax code. “The No. 1 mission of this experienced team is to resolve tax problems before they cause lasting economic harm. Simplifying tax compliance is a proven way to increase revenue and fairness,” Sidamon-Eristoff said.

Michael J. Bryan, Acting Director of the Division of Taxation, has named Sheri Silverstein as the Taxpayer Advocate. According to Bryan, the role of the OTA will be twofold: to assist taxpayers with State tax problems that, despite their good faith efforts, they have not been able to resolve; and to identify and find ways to resolve systemic problems that affect multiple taxpayers.

The OTA will help taxpayers understand their rights and responsibilities under the law and help them navigate through the Division so that the right result is reached for both sides.

The OTA is not intended as a substitute for, or to circumvent or replace, established procedures or the formal appeal process. It is only when those procedures don’t work properly that the OTA can intercede. Taxpayers who have tried to resolve their tax problem with the Division on their own but have not been successful can ask the OTA to intercede on their behalf. The OTA will work with appropriate Division personnel and the taxpayer (or their representative) to resolve issues as quickly as possible.

Initially, the OTA will only be assisting taxpayers with problems involving individual gross income tax. The plan is to expand to other tax types as resources become available.

Ms. Silverstein, who has been with the Division for more than 24 years, started her career in Regulatory Services specializing in gross income tax issues. Most recently, she was the Chief of the Division’s Information and Publications Branch. She earned a Bachelor of Arts degree in Business from Rutgers College and a Juris Doctor degree from Rutgers School of Law.

Additional information about the Office of the Taxpayer Advocate, including their case acceptance guidelines, can be found on the Division’s Web site at:

www.taxpayeradvocate.nj.gov

Criminal Enforcement

Criminal enforcement over the past several months included:

- On January 5, 2011, a special agent from the Office of Criminal Investigation (OCI) arrested Anthony Howlen of Beverly, New Jersey, for possession of contraband cigarettes. Based on information from the Trenton Police Department, Howlen was operating from a business on North Broad Street in Trenton. Howlen had four outstanding warrants with bail of $2,005 on non-OCI related issues. Charges for possession and sale of contraband cigarettes resulted in a $20,000 bail (no 10%).

- On January 10, 2011, the Office of Criminal Investigation (OCI) conducted an inspection of Milagro Grocery, of Irvington, New Jersey, where 7.8 cartons of counterfeit New Jersey-stamped cigarettes and a total of $1,935 in U.S. currency were seized by OCI. Fredys Rodriguez, t/a Milagro Grocery, was also selling loose cigarettes, which he admitted to buying from an unknown/unidentified male subject who came to his store offering the product. Charges for possession of contraband, no licenses, no invoices, and illegal transactions were filed in Irvington Municipal Court. On February 22, 2011, Rodriguez pled guilty to possession of untaxed cigarettes. The Court imposed a total of $408 in fines, fees, and costs. The Court forfeited to the State for deposit into the Law Enforcement Forfeiture Fund the $1,935 seized by OCI.
- On January 14, 2011, Rebecca Cirillo appeared before Judge Richard W. English in Monmouth County Superior Court where she was sentenced to five years for one count of second-degree theft by deception and three years for three counts of third-degree filing of fraudulent returns for tax years 2005, 2006, and 2007. These sentences are to be served concurrently. Cirillo used her position as bookkeeper to embezzle money from her employer, Ansoerge Unlimited, Inc., by writing checks to herself or to "cash." She then attempted to cover this up by making false entries into QuickBooks, the accounting system used by Ansoerge Unlimited, Inc.

- On February 3, 2011, Ashok C. Patel, on behalf of Cream Ridge Liquors, pled guilty to one count of possession of untaxed goods in Upper Freehold Township Municipal Court. The Court imposed a total of $658 in fines, fees, and costs. The Court forfeited 3,192 units of untaxed tobacco products to the State. This case resulted from a joint operation with the Office of Criminal Investigation and the Pennsylvania Department of Revenue's Office of Criminal Tax Investigations, where Pennsylvania-based businesses were subject to search warrants and records identified New Jersey customers who did not pay the tobacco products wholesale sales and use tax on the purchases.
- On February 14, 2011, in Camden County Superior Court, James Gillespie, owner of Wellness Enterprises Inc., t/a Excel Medical Transportation Service, pled guilty to second-degree misapplication of entrusted funds and third-degree failure to remit payroll taxes. Gillespie also signed a consent judgment to pay restitution in the amount of $582,740.36, including the sum of $200,205.14 payable to the State. Gillespie's sentencing is scheduled for June 3, 2011.
- On February 14, 2011, in Camden County Superior Court, Susan Gillespie, officer of record for EZ, Inc., d/b/a Big Dog Lawn Care, pled guilty to third-degree failure to remit sales and use tax and signed a consent judgment to pay restitution in the amount of $40,072.26 to the State. Gillespie entered into the Pretrial Intervention Program and agreed to make monthly payments of $400.
- On February 17, 2011, in Somerset County, Judge Robert B. Reed sentenced Eric Eugene Criss (a.k.a. Tariq Samaad), of East Orange, Essex County; Trezmyynn Emond Criss, of Phillipsburg, Warren County; and Tia-Staucia Estee (Criss) Perrin, of Allentown and Reading, Pennsylvania. Previously, on January 28, 2011, Judge Reed sentenced codefendants Tonijah Emanuel Criss, of Phillipsburg, Warren County; and Tihee Jabbar Brisbane, of Whippany, Morris County, in the same case.

NY/NJ Cooperative Interstate Tax Program

The 1986 Reciprocal Agreement between the State of New Jersey and the State of New York providing Cooperative Tax Administration has ended. As a result, New Jersey vendors participating in the program will no longer file ST-20/21 returns to report New York sales tax, and New York participants will no longer file ST-100.4/101.4/809.4/810.4 forms to report New Jersey sales and use taxes. For more information see:

Judge Reed sentenced Eric Criss to two consecutive 10-year terms in State prison with five years per term to be served without eligibility for parole for his convictions of second-degree racketeering and second-degree leader of organized crime. Criss was also sentenced to four years, to be served concurrently, for third-degree failure to file income tax return. The actual time he will serve before he is eligible for parole is 10 years. Judge Reed also imposed a fine of $100,000, the forfeiture of certain assets held by the defendant, and a two-year loss of driving privileges in New Jersey to begin after completion of his sentence.

According to Somerset County Prosecutor, Geoffrey D. Soriano, the 407-count indictment against Eric Criss and the codefendants represented the largest indictment in Somerset County. Soriano said it was important for law enforcement to target, arrest, and prosecute these defendants because “among other things, these economic crimes impact a large segment of society with the resultant increase in operating costs for banks and the corresponding increase in banking fees for all account holders and bank customers.”

The following law enforcement agencies assisted the Somerset County Prosecutor’s Office during the investigation and prosecution of this case: the Federal Bureau of Investigation, the United States Secret Service, the Office of Criminal Investigation, Pennsylvania State Police, Hunterdon County Prosecutor’s Office, Middlesex County Prosecutor’s Office, Ocean County Prosecutor’s Office, Warren County Prosecutor’s Office, Bedminster Township Police Department, Clark Police Department, Elizabeth Police Department, Phillipsburg Police Department, and Mt. At trial, Mirosław Sapinski pled guilty to second-degree conspiracy and received a sentence of three years in State prison. Sapinski agreed to forfeit currency and his vehicle that were seized. Grayzna Sapinski was issued pretrial intervention as part of her plea agreement and she also forfeited the cash and vehicle that were seized.

Also at trial, Stanisław Zbronski pled guilty to third-degree conspiracy and spent 295 days in Passaic County Jail. Zbronski was deported to Poland due to his immigration status. Waclaw Jeziorski was issued pretrial intervention and was ordered to perform 100 hours of community service.

This case was prosecuted by the Passaic County Prosecutor’s Office, and for the first time the Racketeer Influenced and Corrupt Organization (RICO) Act was applied to individuals involved in contraband cigarette activity.

Qualifying Therapeutic Discovery Project Grants — The Division has received numerous inquiries related to qualifying grants awarded under P.L. 111-148 Section 9023, Qualifying Therapeutic Discovery Project Credit (QTDP), in lieu of the tax credit under the same Section. Taxpayers specifically asked whether the grant would be excluded from the income of a corporation for New Jersey corporation business tax purposes.

Section 9023 of P.L. 111-148, effective May 23, 2010, added Section 48D to the Internal Revenue Code (IRC). IRC Section 48D(f)

(3) provides that a grant made under Section 9023(e) of the Patient Protection and Affordable Care Act (P.L. 111-148) will not be includible in the gross income of the taxpayer. Where the grants are used for an expenditure related to property of a character subject to an allowance for depreciation, the basis of the property must be reduced by the amount of the grant. IRC Section 48D(e)(9) provides for a denial of the double benefit. Furthermore, allowable deductions, including R&D expenses, are to be reduced by the amount of the grant. The QTDP also has recapture provisions where the grant received is either in excess of the qualified investment or is no longer a qualified investment.

Therefore, for New Jersey purposes, assuming the taxpayer received these QTDP grants for qualified projects, the grant will not be reportable as income because New Jersey uses Line 28 of Federal Form 1120 as the starting point for taxable income. N.J.S.A. 54:10A-4(k). Where the taxpayer took the grant, the corporation will be required to report the reduced expenses claimed for Federal purposes and the reduced Federal basis of the property for New Jersey purposes. N.J.S.A. 54:10A-4(k). Any amount triggering the recapture provisions in IRC Section 48D will be taxable for New Jersey corporation business tax purposes.

The QTDP credit itself is not available on the Corporation Business Tax Return, Form CBT-100, since New Jersey does not recognize the credit.

Gross Income Tax

IRC Section 1035 Exchanges — A taxpayer inquired whether New Jersey follows the Federal income tax treatment of income that is excluded under Section 1035 of the Internal Revenue Code. IRC Section 1035 allows the movement of amounts from certain financial products to certain other financial products without an income tax consequence.

More specifically, a Section 1035 exchange allows “nonqualified” monies from an annuity to be moved to another annuity, from a life insurance policy to another life insurance policy, or from a life insurance policy to an annuity contract. However, an exchange from an annuity to a life insurance policy is not a Section 1035 exchange. Therefore, the transaction may have tax consequences for Federal income tax purposes and for New Jersey gross income tax purposes.

For New Jersey gross income tax purposes, the method of accounting and the basis of property must be the same as for Federal income tax purposes. N.J.S.A. 54A: 5-1(c) also provides that net gains or net income do not include transactions to the extent to which nonrecognition is allowed for Federal income tax purposes. Therefore, for exchanges such as those described above, the taxpayer is not required to include in New Jersey taxable income any gains or income to the extent that nonrecognition is allowed for Federal income tax purposes.

Keogh Plan Contributions Made by a Sole Proprietorship — A taxpayer inquired about the New Jersey gross income tax treatment of contributions to a Keogh Plan made by a sole proprietorship where the business has no “employees.”

New Jersey law allows only a few deductions, such as for exemptions, certain medical expenses, alimony and separate maintenance payments, property taxes (or rent constituting property taxes) paid on a homestead, and qualified conservation contributions. Generally, deductions that are adjustments on the Federal return, such as the Federal adjustments for moving expenses, IRA contributions, and Keogh Plan contributions, are not deductible for gross income tax purposes.

Consequently, contributions to a Keogh Plan made by a sole proprietorship are currently taxable under New Jersey law, and the business owner’s contributions for his or her own Keogh Plan are not deductible as ordinary business expenses. For more information see “Exemptions and Deductions” in the instructions for Form NJ-1040.

Tax on Gain From Sale of Real Property — The Division has received inquiries about whether or not New Jersey imposes an “exit tax.” There is no tax imposed simply because an owner of New Jersey real property has moved or is moving out of New Jersey; rather, such an owner may be subject to gross income tax if the New Jersey real property is sold at a gain.

As a result of P.L. 2004, c.55 (N.J.S.A. 54A:8-8 et seq.), effective August 1, 2004, New Jersey requires “nonresidents” who are individuals, estates, or trusts to pay an estimated tax as withholding on the income from the sale of New Jersey real property. The estimated tax withholding requirement is an enforcement tool to enable the Division to collect tax from nonresident sellers and is imposed on the sale of New Jersey real property when the deed is recorded. It is simply another withholding procedure to ensure payment of a possible tax liability. Again, it is not a tax for leaving the State. Therefore, it is a misnomer to describe the nonresident estimated tax requirement as an exit tax.

The Division has also taken the position that for the purposes of the law, a nonresident includes a seller who is simultaneously moving out of New Jersey at the time of closing. Without this withholding procedure the State would have considerable difficulty collecting tax from nonresidents. It should be noted that both residents and nonresidents are subject to the same gross income tax on gain from the sale of New Jersey real property, subject to certain exemptions and exclusions.

Litter Control Fee Nexus for Requirement to Pay Litter Control Fee — A business located outside New Jersey inquired about the nexus criteria used for determining whether a business is required to pay the litter control fee. More specifically, the business inquired whether having sales people working in New Jersey would, by itself, be sufficient nexus to require payment of the fee.

The litter control fee is imposed by N.J.S.A. 13:1E-216.4a. The fee imposition sentence begins as follows:

There is imposed upon each person engaged in business in the State as a manufacturer, wholesaler, or distributor of litter-generating products a user fee of 3/100 of 1% (.0003) on sales of those products within the State, and each person engaged in business in the State as a retailer of litter-generating products a user fee of 2.25/100 of 1% (.000225) on sales of those products within the State, except any retailer with less than $500,000.00 in annual retail sales of litter-generating products is exempt....

The litter control fee regulations, N.J.A.C. 18:38-1.3, provide a pertinent definition as follows:

“Engaged in business in the State” means the participation in any commercial activities in New Jersey with the object of gain, benefit or advantage to the feepayer or to another person or class, directly or indirectly.

The Division explained that the nexus criteria provided in the pertinent laws are broad. Therefore, if a business located outside New Jersey has sales agents working in New Jersey, the business has nexus and is required to pay the litter control fee, which is imposed on sales of litter-generating products within or into New Jersey.

Sales and Use Tax

Rental of Storage Units to Tenants by Apartment Complex — A taxpayer inquired whether an apartment complex is considered “engaged in the business” of furnishing space for storage if they only rent storage units to tenants.

The Division responded that effective October 1, 2006, the Sales and Use Tax Act was amended to impose tax on the furnishing of space for storage of tangible personal property by a person engaged in the business of furnishing space for such storage. N.J.S.A. 54:32B-3(b)(3). “Space for storage” means secure areas, such as rooms, units, compartments, or containers, whether accessible from outside or from within a building, that are designated for the use of a customer and wherein the customer has free access within reasonable business hours, or upon reasonable notice to the furnisher of space for storage, to store and retrieve property. Space for storage does not include the lease or rental of an entire building, such as a warehouse or airplane hangar.

The phrase “... by a person engaged in the business of furnishing space for such storage” means that the seller of the storage space must actually be in the business of furnishing space for such storage. Since the apartment only rents storage space to tenants, the apartment is not “engaged in the business” of furnishing space for storage as N.J.S.A. 54:32B-3(b)(3) requires. Thus, charges to a tenant to rent a storage unit in the apartment complex are not subject to tax as it is a charge which is incidental to the lease or ownership of real property.

However, if members of the public can rent space for storage at the apartment complex without being a tenant at the complex, then the apartment complex owner is deemed to be “engaged in the business,” and the charge for the rental of storage space is subject to tax for both tenants and nontenants of the apartment building.

Sale of Wig to Member of Particular Religious Community — A taxpayer inquired about the application of the New Jersey Sales and Use Tax Act to the sale of a wig to a member of a particular religious community.

The Division responded that the Sales and Use Tax Act contains an exemption for “clothing,” for human use, which means all human-wearing apparel suitable for general use. N.J.S.A. 54:32B-8.4. However, the exemption does not apply to clothing accessories. “Clothing accessories” means incidental items worn on the person or in conjunction with clothing. N.J.S.A. 54:32B-8.4; N.J.A.C. 18:24-6.2. Wigs are considered clothing accessories and thus are subject to tax. N.J.S.A. 54:32B-3(a). □

S Corporation Shareholder Deductions – Schulmann, Daniel et al. v. Director, Division of Taxation, decided November 9, 2010; Tax Court Docket No. 007221-2005.

Daniel Schulmann, known as Tiger Schulmann, owns, operates, and franchises karate schools. Schulmann is a 100% shareholder in some of his karate schools and a controlling shareholder in all of the schools. Schulmann encouraged the instructors at his schools to open new schools and thereupon Schulmann would pay these instructors a commission or referral fee for operating a Tiger Schulmann Karate School. Schulmann would place all the income he received from his karate schools as either a 100% shareholder or controlling shareholder into a bank account from which he would write checks for commissions/referral fees to the instructors who opened new schools.

On his New Jersey gross income tax returns for tax years 2000–2002, Schulmann took the deductions for commissions/referral fees that he made to individuals who ran his karate schools as a deduction to net pro rata share of S corporation income. The auditor had denied the losses since they were not valid expenses of an S corporation.

Judge Narayanan stated:

For each tax year 2000 to 2002, the Director issued a notice of deficiency for GIT against Schulmann denying an offset of the commissions against the passed through S corporation income. The Director explained that the commissions “paid by Schulmann to the various Karate schools” were “[p]ersonal expenses” and hence “not deductible.” An offset was denied because “[a]lthough the expenses are related from the S Corporations, they were not incurred by the S corporation.” The denial of this deduction resulted in an increase to Schulmann’s passed through pro-rata share of S corporation income. This in turn led to an assessment of additional GIT (plus interest and penalties).

After an administrative conference, the Director issued a final determination upholding the audit. The Director reasoned that a deduction for commissions would ordinarily constitute an acceptable corporate business expense however, since they were paid by Schulmann and not the S corporations, such a deduction could not be used by Schulmann to offset the passed through S corporation income. Having made a business decision to choose a corporate form of business undertaking, a taxpayer could not avoid the corporate form when the same resulted in unfavorable tax consequences.

Thus, the issue before the court is whether Schulmann’s payment of commissions from his pro-rata share of S corporation income from the various karate schools, allows him to offset or reduce such income because the commissions were the contractual obligations of the corporate school/UAK/TSK. Schulmann contends he must be allowed to do so because (a) he is a 100% shareholder of UAK/TSK, thus, he and the corporation are one and the same, or (b) he made the payments on behalf of the corporate entities, thus, they qualify as business expenses, entitled to a deduction.

Judge Narayanan stated in her decision that Schulmann could not take an S corporation deduction for the commission/referral fees because S corporations and partnerships are different entities. While partners are taxed as if they are sole proprietors, an S corporation has a separate and distinct legal identity. Therefore, an expense that may be allowed for a partner in a partnership may not be allowed for a shareholder in an S corporation. If Schulmann were to take a deduction for the commissions/referral fee payments in the category net profits from business, then net pro rata share of S corporation income could not be reduced due to the disallowance of intercategory netting.

The New Jersey Gross Income Tax Act is not patterned after the Internal Revenue Code (IRC) and deductions allowable Federally are not automatically allowable for New Jersey gross income tax purposes. Even if the Federal income tax principles on ordinary and necessary business expenses as mentioned in IRC 1366 were applicable to the Gross Income Tax Act, a deduction for commission/referral fees is not allowed at the individual level; and in this case Judge Narayanan stated:

Schulmann did not have a business or sole proprietorship which is separate or independent from that of the karate schools.... Rather he seeks (to) ignore the corporate form of business specifically undertaken to operate the karate schools, and in order to justify a deduction under N.J.S.A. 54A:5-1(b), have this court treat those corporate schools as his sole proprietorship. This result is impermissible.

Justiciable Controversy – Labor Ready Northeast, Inc. v. Director, Division of Taxation, decided January 4, 2011; Tax Court Docket No. 000359-2010.

The Tax Court denied the plaintiff's motion for summary judgment and the Director's cross-motion. The Court found that declaratory relief is appropriate because the Director's notice created a justiciable controversy between the parties. However, the Court found that such relief was inappropriate in this case because material facts need to be established as to the nature of Labor Ready's business activities after the 2008 calendar year.

Labor Ready moved for summary judgment seeking declaratory relief from the Director's notice that Labor Ready's business activities would generally be subject to sales and use tax unless Labor Ready received sales tax exemption certificates or the services were nontaxable or nonenumerated. Labor Ready claimed it provides temporary labor service, which is not an enumerated category of service subject to sales and use tax. The Director opposed and cross-moved for summary judgment on grounds that: (a) the complaint was premature since the Director has neither audited nor issued a final appealable determination against Labor Ready; (b) if the notice to Labor Ready is deemed a determination by the Director, then Labor Ready's complaint is untimely since it was not filed within 90 days of the date of the notice; (c) the facts of Labor Ready's business activities need to be fully established, therefore a summary judgment in its favor is inappropriate; and (d) based upon facts gathered in a prior litigation on an identical issue, Labor Ready provides taxable services, therefore the Director's summary judgment motion should be granted.

Ultimately, the Court ruled that the need to establish material facts was overriding and the matter will go to trial.

Lack of Urban Enterprise Zone Certification – River Front Recycling and Aggregate, LLC v. Director, Division of Taxation, decided December 16, 2010; Tax Court Docket No. 001393-2009.

The Tax Court granted the Director's motion for summary judgment and denied the plaintiff's cross-motion. The Director's refund denial was upheld.

Plaintiff is located in an urban enterprise zone. When applying for a Certificate of Authority to collect sales and use tax at a reduced rate due to its location in the urban enterprise zone, the applicant mistakenly checked a box which indicated that it did not operate a retail location within the zone. The record contained a letter from the local urban enterprise zone office which indicated that the application was approved and was being forwarded to the Division for final approval and issuance of a Certificate of Authority for sales and use tax. Plaintiff never received a certificate and never made inquiries as to why it was not issued. Plaintiff subsequently filed another application and was issued a certificate as of the date of the correct application.

Plaintiff failed to file monthly urban enterprise zone returns (or any sales and use tax returns) for almost two years until the Division filed judgments and initiated collection on the business accounts and the personal

Practitioners' E-File Mandate

The New Jersey Division of Taxation requires any tax practitioner who prepared or filed 25 or more 2009 New Jersey resident income tax returns (Form NJ-1040) to file all their clients' 2010 New Jersey resident income tax returns electronically. Under proposed regulations, any tax practitioner who reasonably expects to prepare 11 or more individual gross income tax resident returns (including those filed for trusts and estates) during the tax year must use electronic methods for filing such returns. A tax preparer is liable for a penalty of $50 for each return he or she fails to file electronically when required to do so.

If you have questions concerning the E-File Mandate, call the Division of Taxation at 609-633-6657 or e-mail us at nj.taxation@treas.state.nj.us accounts of the business principals. At that time, the principals paid the estimates, and in the months that followed, filed the missing reports. Plaintiff then filed a claim for refund on the basis of its claim that it was entitled to collect sales and use tax at the reduced rate for the periods at issue. The Division denied that portion of the refund claim, but did refund that portion of the tax paid on the estimated liability which exceeded the actual liability as filed.

Although Judge DeAlmeida found no dispute that plaintiff met the qualifications for urban enterprise zone certification, he was nonetheless unmoved by plaintiff's arguments that it substantially complied with the requirements of the Urban Enterprise Zone Act and the Sales and Use Tax Act under the facts of this case. The Judge rejected the substantial compliance argument with particular focus on the fact that plaintiff never filed and paid sales and use tax during the period in question and, although it was notified that its application was pending final approval, it never followed up and never received a Certificate of Authority for the period at issue. □

Casino Taxes and Fees

Division of Taxation to Administer and Collect Casino Taxes and Fees — P.L. 2011, c.19, signed into law on February 1, 2011, and effective immediately, provides for an orderly transition of responsibilities and functions from the Casino Control Commission to the Division of Gaming Enforcement by May 1, 2011.

The Division of Taxation now administers and collects several taxes that were previously administered and collected by the New Jersey Casino Control Commission. These taxes include the gross revenue tax, the casino hotel room fee, and the multi-casino progressive slot machine revenue tax.

The gross revenue tax is an 8% tax on the gross revenues of a casino licensee as defined by Section 24 of this law. N.J.S.A. 5:12-144. The casino hotel room fee is a $3-per-day fee on each hotel room in a casino hotel facility that is occupied by a guest. N.J.S.A. 5:12-145.8. The multi-casino progressive slot machine revenue tax is an 8% tax on the casino service industry multi-casino progressive slot machine revenue. N.J.S.A. 5:12-148.2.

Taxpayers that were required to file and remit tax returns under the prior version of the Casino Control Act must now file tax returns and make payment to the Division of Taxation. This requirement is applicable to returns for the above-listed taxes that are due after April 30, 2011.

Corporation Business Tax

Benefit Corporations — P.L. 2011, c.30, signed into law on March 1, 2011, and effective immediately, amends and/or supplements the New Jersey Business Corporation Act (N.J.S.A. 14A:1-1, et seq.) by providing for the creation of a benefit corporation, which is a corporation organized and subject to the provisions of the New Jersey Business Corporation Act. The purpose of a benefit corporation is to create a "general public benefit," defined as a material positive impact on society and the environment through activities that promote some combination of specific public benefits.

These benefit corporations are subject to corporation business tax since they are formed under N.J.S.A. 14A:1-1, et seq. (as opposed to N.J.S.A. 15A:1-1, et seq., the New Jersey Nonprofit Corporation Act). Finally, the benefit corporations must file a benefit report with the Department of the Treasury through the Division of Revenue.

credits against corporation business tax and various taxes on insurers. The amount of the credits awarded is based upon the business's investment or its expansion or preservation of jobs in the State.

The Act eliminates the requirement that the amount of an individual grant of tax credits is limited to no more than 80 percent of projected State tax revenues from the retained full-time jobs.

The current annual cap of $20 million on the issuance of BRRAG credits is converted to a cap on the total amount of such credits that may be applied against tax liability in a fiscal year. Also, a new annual cap of $10 million is imposed on the total value of credits that a single business may apply against liability in a fiscal year.

The value of BRRAG credits for a business retaining more than 250 jobs is increased by authorizing awards in multiples of up to six times the current rate of $1,500 per employee, with the size of the multiple depending on the number of retained jobs. The bill requires such multiple-rate awards to be taken in equal amounts over the appropriate number of years.

The law now requires that, as a precondition for the business's ability to apply the credits against tax liability, the amount of State tax revenue resulting from retention of the business must at least equal the value of the credits. The class of businesses to which, as a "designated industry," consideration may be given in determining the amount of a BRRAG award is broadened to include not only high technology businesses, but any business deemed desirable by the NJEDA to be maintained in the State.

Based upon this certification, the NJEDA issues a certificate indicating the amount of credits that the business may use in a tax period. If a business fails to meet its jobs retention commitment, its credit award is reduced proportionately and it forfeits the unused credits.

The statute now authorizes the sale of BRRAG tax credits between "affiliated" businesses, and a requirement that a study be conducted to determine the minimum funding level needed for successful implementation of the BRRAG program is repealed.

Local Property Tax

Urban Gardens — P.L. 2011, c.35, signed into law on March 1, 2011, and effective immediately, encourages nonprofit corporations and associations to help transform vacant properties located in older urban areas into gardens for growing fresh fruits and vegetables. Existing provisions of law authorize municipalities and counties to lease or sell public property not needed for a public use to nonprofit entities for them to perform specified laudatory public purposes thereon. This law affects lands in cities of the first, second, third, and fourth classes.

The cultivation and sale of fresh fruits and vegetables is now among the purposes for which municipalities may lease or sell public land for nominal consideration. Previously, the law allowed for the long-term lease of excess public land, but not the sale thereof, to nonprofits for gardening purposes. Now, the transformation of excess vacant public lands into urban farms is a public purpose and the law affords these lands exemptions from property taxation.

Dedicated Library Purposes Tax — P.L. 2011, c.38, signed into law on March 21, 2011, and effective immediately, requires municipalities in which a free public library is located or that belong to a joint municipal library to provide for a dedicated library purposes tax on the property tax bill.

Specifically, a municipality must pay over to the library or the joint municipal library funds due to the library on a quarterly basis. The law further assures that there will be no net impact on a municipality's nonlibrary purposes adjusted tax levy for the purposes of the cap law. The Director, Division of Local Government Services, Department of Community Affairs is now required to proportionately decrease the adjusted tax levy of affected municipalities to ensure that any statutorily required municipal support of free public libraries is exempt from the calculation of a municipality's adjusted tax levy for the purposes of the 2% levy cap.

The Division is required to segregate the municipal library tax on the local property tax bill/abstract of ratables. All system-related changes will be performed by the Office of Information Technology.

UEZ Point of Purchase Exemption — P.L. 2011, c.28, signed into law on March 1, 2011, applies to sales or services made or rendered on or after April 1, 2011. The law amends section 20 of P.L. 1983, c.303 (N.J.S.A. 52:27H-79) and allows all qualified urban enterprise zone (UEZ) businesses to be eligible to receive the sales tax exemption at the point of purchase regardless of annual gross receipts. Previously, P.L. 2006, c.34, (amended by P.L. 2007, c.328 and P.L. 2008, c.118) restricted the point-of-purchase exemption from sales and use tax on eligible purchases made by certain small qualified businesses for exclusive use or consumption of such business in the enterprise zone. Larger UEZ businesses had to pay sales tax at the time of purchase and then file for refunds.

Streamlined Sales and Use Tax Agreement Technical Changes — P.L. 2011, c.49, was signed into law on April 8, 2011, and became effective immediately, except for sections 1 through 15, that became operative on May 1, 2011. The law makes various technical changes in sales tax law to maintain compliance with the Streamlined Sales and Use Tax Agreement (SSUTA), which was adopted by New Jersey in 2005.

For purposes of compliance, the bill removes the current definition of, and eliminates references to, “digital property” under sales tax law and replaces it with “specified digital product,” the defined term for electronically transferred digital products under the SSUTA. This change technically modifies but does not substantively affect the taxability of digitally downloaded music, movies, books, and certain other goods currently subject to sales and use tax.

To conform the State’s current tax treatment of digital goods within the parameters of the defined term under the Agreement, the law makes certain other ancillary changes that were required in addition to the adoption of the new SSUTA definition. Specifically, it (1) revises the definition of “retail sale” to reiterate that sales of specified digital products are only taxable to end users (sales for resale are excluded from tax); (2) specifies that a digital code which provides a purchaser the right to obtain the product is treated as a specified digital product for purposes of taxation; (3) stipulates that specified digital products are subject to tax regardless of whether the sale of the product is for permanent or less than permanent use and regardless of whether continued payment for the product is required; and (4) carves out a specific statutory exemption for all video programming services, including video-on-demand television services, and broadcasting services, including content to provide such services, to ensure that sales of those services are not taxable as specified digital products. The former digital property definition excluded these services; therefore, this exemption is necessary to maintain treatment under prior law.

The law also provides a separate statutory exemption for specified digital products that are accessed but not delivered electronically to the consumer. Previously, New Jersey excluded from tax digital property that was temporarily streamed or uploaded to a consumer to access certain digital content. However, “specified digital products” includes electronically transferred digital audio-visual works, digital audio works, and digital books, where “transferred electronically” means obtained by the purchaser by means other than tangible storage media. Since “transferred electronically” includes instances where specified digital products are streamed or uploaded, the exemption ensures that access alone is not used to determine the taxability of specified digital products. This exemption is necessary to maintain treatment under prior law.

New compliance provisions incorporate SSUTA provisions that relieve certain sellers from liability due to changes in the sales and use tax rate. The Director of the Division of Taxation may not hold a seller liable for failure to collect tax that may be due at a new tax rate if the director provides less than 30 days between the date a change in rate is enacted and the date that change takes effect. However, the relief from liability is limited and further described in the new statute.

The law makes technical changes and clarifications to the tax by removing remaining references to the previously defined term “vendor,” replacing them with “seller,” and removing charges for installation as part of the enumerated charges included in the definition of “sales price.”

The elimination of installation charges from the definition of “sales price” clarifies the imposition of tax on charges for installation. A separate statutory provision specifies that installation charges are an enumerated service subject to the sales and use tax regardless of how “sales price” is defined. This revision is necessary to clarify treatment of installation charges, which have always been statutorily subject to tax.

NOTE: This bill represents the fifth time the State has amended the Sales and Use Tax Act to comply with the SSUTA. □

What's New for Tax Year 2010

There have been some important changes affecting the preparation of New Jersey income tax returns and applications for New Jersey's property tax relief programs this year:

Income Tax

- Form 1099-G — The State of New Jersey is no longer mailing Form 1099-G, Certain Government Payments, to report the amount of a State tax refund a taxpayer received. State income tax refunds may be taxable income for Federal purposes for individuals who itemized their deductions on their Federal tax return in the previous year. Taxpayers who need this information to complete their Federal return will be able to view or print their 1099-G information from the Division's Web site.

- Property Tax Deduction/Credit for Homeowners and Tenants Temporary Deduction Limitations Expire. Eligibility for the property tax deduction is not limited by income. Residents who meet the requirements may be able to deduct up to 100% of property taxes due and paid or up to $10,000, whichever is less. (For tenants, 18% of rent paid is considered property taxes.) The temporary income eligibility and benefit amount limitations for the property tax deduction that were in effect for tax year 2009 were for one year only.

New Form for Credit

Only Filers. Most New Jersey residents claim the property tax deduction or credit on their resident income tax return (Form NJ-1040). However, certain residents who are not required to file a tax return but are eligible for the property tax credit can use the new Property Tax Credit Application (Form NJ-1040-H) instead of Form NJ-1040 to apply for the credit. Filers can use Form NJ-1040-H only if they:

1. Were 65 years of age or older, blind, or disabled on December 31, 2010, and
2. Had New Jersey gross income for 2010 of $20,000 or less ($10,000 or less if filing status is single or married/CU partner, filing separate return), and
3. Have not filed and will not file a 2010 New Jersey resident income tax return, and
4. Were not a New Jersey homeowner on October 1, 2010.

Residents who owned and occupied their principal residence in New Jersey on October 1, 2010, should not file Form NJ-1040-H even if they meet the requirements in paragraphs 1–3. The property tax credit for these homeowners will automatically be included with their homestead benefit,

provided they file a homestead benefit application.

- Earned Income Tax Credit — The amount of the NJEITC is equal to 20% of the applicant's Federal earned income tax credit.
- Family Leave Insurance — Excess family leave insurance contributions can be claimed as a credit on Form NJ-1040. The maximum contribution for 2010 was $35.64. Taxpayers who had more than the maximum amount withheld by two or more employers must enclose a completed Form NJ-2450 with their return to claim the credit.
- Designated Contributions — Two new funds have been added to the list of organizations to which taxpayers can contribute on the New Jersey tax return. To donate to these funds, taxpayers must specify the "code number" at the "Other Designated Contribution" line. The new funds are: Community Food Pantry Fund (09) and Cat and Dog Spay/Neuter Fund (10).
- Roth IRAs — Taxpayers who converted a traditional IRA to a Roth IRA during 2010 and made a Federal election to report the income resulting from the conversion in equal amounts in 2011 and 2012, must report the amount that is taxable for New Jersey in equal installments in 2011 and 2012. If a taxpayer elected to include the entire amount of income from the conversion on the 2010 Federal return, the entire amount that is taxable for New Jersey purposes must be reported on the 2010 New Jersey return.

- Tax Rates — The New Jersey gross income tax rates have reverted to the rates that were in effect for 2008. (Rates were temporarily increased for 2009 on income over $400,000.)
- Commuter Transportation Benefits — The maximum commuter transportation benefit is $2,760.
- Credit for Taxes Paid to Other Jurisdictions — The Philadelphia nonresident wage tax rate is 3.4997% from January 1 to June 30, 2010, and 3.4985% from July 1 to December 31, 2010.
- Filing Deadline — The due date is April 18, 2011, for calendar year taxpayers instead of April 15 because of the Emancipation Day holiday in the District of Columbia. This is the same day the Federal Form 1040 is due.

Property Tax Relief Programs

- Homestead Benefit (Rebate) Program — Information about the 2010 Homestead Benefit (Rebate) Program is not yet available.

Tenants. The new Form NJ-1040-H, Property Tax Credit Application, is not a tenant rebate application. Tenant rebates were suspended for 2009. As a result, no 2010 tenant rebate application is enclosed in the NJ-1040 packet.

Homeowners. New Jersey residents who owned and occupied a home in New Jersey that was their principal residence on October 1, 2010, may be eligible for a homestead benefit provided the 2010 property taxes were paid and certain income limits are met. The homestead benefit application for homeowners is not included in the NJ-1040 booklet.

Information will be posted on our Web site as it becomes available.

Benefits available under this program are subject to change.

- 2010 Property Tax Reimbursement — With very few exceptions, all income received during the year, including income which is not required to be reported on Form NJ-1040, must be taken into account to determine eligibility for the property tax reimbursement. For residents applying for reimbursements for tax year 2010, total annual income must be:

2010: $80,000 or less, and

These limits apply regardless of marital/civil union status. However, if an applicant's status is married/CU couple, combined income of both spouses/CU partners must be reported.

Budgetary constraints limited the PTR benefits paid for 2009 to the previous year's benefit level for established participants and did not provide reimbursements to first-time applicants. Applicants who filed 2009 applications as first-time filers but who did not receive a check should submit a 2010 application if they meet the requirements.

Benefits available under this program are subject to change. □

MOTOR FUEL TAX Changes in Administration

New Jersey recently enacted motor fuel tax legislation that takes effect on January 1, 2011, and significantly changes the system by which motor fuel taxes are administered; but current tax rates remain unchanged. The tax rate for gasoline remains at $0.105 per gallon, the tax rate for diesel fuel remains at $0.135 per gallon, and the tax rate for liquefied petroleum gas (LPG) used as a motor fuel remains at $0.0525 per gallon.

Under the new law, all fuel, except dyed fuel, will be taxed as it is removed from the terminal, otherwise known as "at the rack." Dyed diesel fuel or dyed kerosene that is dyed pursuant to either United States Environmental Protection Agency rules or Internal Revenue Service rules will not be taxed as it is removed from the terminal.

Suppliers of motor fuels removed from the terminal system collect the tax and remit it on or before the 22nd day of the month following the removal. Suppliers with terminals located outside New Jersey may elect to have all removals from the out-of-State terminals treated as if they were removed from terminals within New Jersey and collect the tax on those removals. Those wishing to make this election must file Form SMF-2, Notice of Election.

The law allows certain distributors of motor fuels to make an election as to the timing of the remittance of the tax to their suppliers. Distributors who qualify for the election may delay remittance of the amount of tax due to their suppliers until the 20th day of the month following the purchase. Elective distributors must make remittances to their suppliers by electronic funds transfer. In order for a distributor to qualify for delayed remittance to its suppliers, the distributor must complete Form DMF-2, Application for Recognition as a Qualified Distributor, and agree to the conditions listed on that form.

The law contains a dyed fuel provision which prohibits the use of dyed fuel to operate or maintain a motor vehicle on any public highway in New Jersey except for uses which are lawful under the Federal Internal Revenue Code (IRC). Any person and any officer, employee, or agent of any person who participates in any act that violates the dyed fuel provisions of the law will be jointly and severally liable for the tax and penalties. The penalties imposed will be the same as imposed pursuant to IRC Section 6715.

Under the new law, current license holders will have their licenses automatically converted to new licenses. The new licenses will expire on the same date as their current license. Some current license holders will not be required to be licensed under the new law. An individual whose license is not converted to a license appropriate for his particular needs must file Form MFA-3, Change of Status Request, before December 15, 2010.

Taxes must be paid on untaxed fuel held in inventory as of the close of business on December 31, 2010. A FloorStock Tax Return, Form MFA-10, is due by January 31, 2011; however, the tax is not due until July 1, 2011. If the tax is paid on or before January 31, 2011, a 10% early payment discount is offered.

Payments on Behalf of Nonconsenting Shareholders

Under the New Jersey Corporation Business Tax Act, a Federal S corporation may elect to be treated as a New Jersey S corporation by timely and properly filing a New Jersey S Corporation or New Jersey QSSS Election, Form CBT-2553, with the New Jersey Division of Revenue. For the New Jersey S election to be valid, the corporation and all present shareholders, referred to as "initial shareholders," must consent to the election and to the jurisdictional requirements of the State.

Under New Jersey corporation business tax regulation 18:7-20.1(c), Form CBT-2553 must also be filed by the corporation to report any new shareholders. A new shareholder is a shareholder who did not previously own any shares of the S corporation's stock and acquired the stock (either existing shares or shares issued at a later date) subsequent to the initial New Jersey S corporation election.

An initial shareholder's initial consent remains in effect as long as they are a shareholder regardless of changes to their stock ownership percentage or New Jersey residency status. Changes for existing shareholders, including address changes, are to be reported on Form CBT-2553.

New shareholders who sign the Shareholder's Consent Statement are "consenting shareholders." A consenting nonresident shareholder is responsible for making proper and timely tax payments and may be subject to penalties and interest on any tax paid after the due date of their nonresident income tax return.

New shareholders who do not sign the Shareholder's Consent Statement are referred to as "nonconsenting shareholders." Under 54:10A-5.23 of the Corporation Business Tax Act, the corporation is required to make payment of gross income tax on behalf of nonconsenting shareholders. The payment amount is calculated at the highest marginal income tax rate on the pro rata share of S corporation income allocated to New Jersey for each nonconsenting shareholder and must be submitted with Form NJ-1040-SC. The S corporation form and instructions are available on the Division's Web site. This payment method and form is not to be used for consenting shareholders. Payments made for a consenting shareholder will not be credited to a consenting shareholder's income tax return and the corporation will need to file a refund request on Form A-1730 for the return of erroneous payments.

As an alternative, a New Jersey electing S corporation may file a New Jersey Income Tax Nonresident Composite Return, Form NJ-1080C, on behalf of qualified nonresident individual shareholders, including nonconsenting shareholders, who have elected to participate in a composite return. The corporation can submit a written request to Individual Tax Audit Branch – Composite Returns, P.O. Box 288, Trenton, NJ 08695, to allow a non-qualified nonresident shareholder to participate on the composite return. Form NJ-1080C and instructions, including filing and timely payment requirements, are available on the Division's Web site. □

The 1986 Reciprocal Agreement between the State of New Jersey and the State of New York providing Cooperative Tax Administration is ending. As a result, New Jersey vendors participating in the program will no longer file ST-20/21 returns to report New York sales tax, and New York participants will no longer file ST-100.4/101.4/809.4/810.4 forms to report New Jersey sales and use taxes. For more information see:

INHERITANCE/ESTATE TAX
QTIP Elections for Decedents Dying
in 2010

The Division has received numerous inquiries related to its policy regarding qualified terminable interest property (QTIP) elections for decedents dying in 2010. Although there is, of course, the possibility that Congress may reinstate it, the Federal estate tax is currently suspended for decedents dying in 2010.

Since the revision of the New Jersey estate tax in 2002, it has been the Division’s policy that in an estate where a Federal estate tax return is not filed and not required to be filed, the estate representative may for New Jersey estate tax purposes make a QTIP election in accordance with the provisions of the Internal Revenue Code in effect on December 31, 2001, and the terms of the decedent’s will or other controlling document.

In those cases where a Federal estate tax return is not filed and not required to be filed and the estate representative decides to make a QTIP election for New Jersey estate tax purposes, the property for which the QTIP election is made is includable in the estate of the surviving spouse in accordance with the provisions of the Internal Revenue Code in effect on December 31, 2001. In those cases where the estate representative decides not to make a QTIP election for New Jersey purposes, the property is normally not includable in the estate of the surviving spouse in accordance with the provisions of the Internal Revenue Code in effect on December 31, 2001.

There has been no change in the Division’s policy as it relates to QTIP elections for decedents dying in 2010.

Special Agent Charles Peters of the Office of Criminal Investigation has been nominated by the Postal Inspector in Charge of the Newark Division of the U.S. Postal Service for the Federal Law Enforcement Foundation’s “Investigator of the Year” award for his work as part of a Federal task force investigating contraband cigarette smuggling. The nomination read in part:

... Postal Inspector Richard Lennon; Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco, Firearms and Explosives Special Agent Robert Caprioglio; New Jersey Treasury Special Agent Charles Peters; Internal Revenue Service – Criminal Investigations Special Agent Ken Long; and Assistant U.S. Attorney Ronald Chillemi, District of New Jersey, collaborated on this joint investigation involving an internet cigarette distributor based in Salamanca, NY on the Seneca Indian Reservation. Their investigation focused on the criminal conduct of Joseph and Rita Roosa, the subjects responsible for the day-to-day operations of All American Tobacco. While All American Tobacco is purportedly owned by Donald John, a Native American, its day-to-day activities were actually controlled by Rita and Joseph Roosa of Allegany, NY. OCI Staff Honored

Lee Roach, an auditor with the Office of Criminal Investigation (OCI), was honored as the New Jersey State Treasurer’s You Matter! Award recipient for October for her work with OCI’s “Loss Prevention Project.” The project, which started in late 2006, continues to pay dividends to New Jersey. Since its inception, the project has stopped thousands of fraudulent refund checks totaling in excess of $20 million. Lee regularly communicates with other branches in the Division of Taxation, as well as with the New Jersey Division of Revenue, U.S. Postal Service Inspectors, out-of-State District Attorneys and law enforcement agencies, and other state revenue agencies in – May 2006), the Roosa’s moved approximately $15 million through All American Tobacco bank accounts with the proceeds derived from the sale of the untaxed cigarettes. After accepting a plea of guilty to Trafficking of Contraband Cigarettes, the Roosa’s agreed to forfeit four commercial properties valued at approximately $2.5 million to the U.S. Government. Several co-conspirators in New Jersey, arrested in April 2007, purchased approximately $5 million of untaxed cigarettes from All American Tobacco. The New Jersey targets then resold those cigarettes to restaurants in New Jersey, thereby defrauding the State of New Jersey out of millions of dollars in tax revenue. Search warrants were executed on three New Jersey residences, two Chinese restaurants, two storage facilities, and a Bank of America safety deposit box. Among the items seized were approximately $100,000 in cash, jewelry, numerous documents and over 50 cases of contraband cigarettes. All American Tobacco ceased business operations in October 2008. In 2010, the co-conspirators were sentenced to 15–30 months incarceration and ordered to pay a combined total of approximately $4.1 million in restitution. □

Criminal Enforcement

Criminal enforcement over the past several months included:

- On July 26, 2010, a special agent and investigator from the Office of Criminal Investigation (OCI) conducted an inspection of E.J. Abreu Supermarket of Perth Amboy, New Jersey, and as a result, a total of 37,685 untaxed cigars, 5.3 cartons of counterfeit New Jersey tax-stamped cigarettes, 96 counterfeit U.S. postal stamps, and 20 pirated DVDs were seized. OCI also seized $1,000 in U.S. currency for forfeiture. The counterfeit U.S. postal stamps were turned over to U.S. postal inspectors for their action. Charges were brought for possession of untaxed goods on the contraband cigarettes and DVDs and for copyright violations on the DVDs.
- On August 24, 2010, a special agent arrested Rajesh Sanghavi

t/a Rajmital of Voorhees, New Jersey, for violations of the Tobacco Products Wholesale Sales and Use Tax Act. Originally, Sanghavi's vehicle was seized by the Office of Criminal Investigation (OCI) from a motor vehicle stop by a Voorhees Township police officer when he observed a case of product labeled as cigarettes. The investigation leading up to the arrest culminated in the execution of two search warrants, one arrest warrant, and a court order freezing six bank accounts. Over $32,000 in U.S. currency and 51,182 in Indian rupees were seized along with a large amount of business records. Two storage units were filled with tobacco products with values estimated at close to half a million dollars. The investigation continues as the evidence is examined. Sanghavi's bail was set at $65,000 with the requirement that his passport be turned over to OCI. The Camden County Prosecutor's Office will prosecute this matter.

- On September 9, 2010, a Passaic County Grand Jury indicted four subjects in the matter of Miroslaw Sapinski, et al. The investigation was a long-term operation that identified Sapinski, a persistent offender dealing in contraband cigarettes and untaxed liquor, who had been arrested and charged six times previously by the Office of Criminal Investigation (OCI). As a result, Sapinski, his wife, and coconspirators Waclaw Jeziorski and Josef Babon have all been indicted on various contraband cigarette counts and money laundering. For the first time the Racketeer Influenced and Corrupt Organization (RICO) Act has been applied to individuals involved in contraband cigarette activity. A civil forfeiture action against Sapinski's and his wife's assets, including their home, has been initiated. The Passaic County Prosecutor's Office is prosecuting this case for OCI.

- On September 13, 2010, a Monmouth County Grand Jury returned a 14-count indictment against Christopher Elia. This indictment resulted from a criminal investigation which was conducted jointly by the Monmouth County Prosecutor's Office and the Office of Criminal Investigation. The investigation revealed that Christopher Elia operated N.L.E.O.A. Publications, collecting charitable contributions from a large number of donors. Elia used the names of legitimate charitable organizations in order to collect contributions but did not transfer the funds he collected to any legitimate charities. Instead, he used the funds to pay personal expenses, including extensive gambling debts. Elia was indicted on the following charges: second-degree conspiracy, third-degree promoting gambling, second-degree theft by deception, second-degree misconduct by a corporate official, fourth-degree falsifying records, first-degree financial facilitation of criminal activity, third-degree filing a fraudulent return, third-degree failure to file a return, and third-degree failure to pay or turn over taxes.

- On September 14, 2010, Larry Kushner of Long Branch entered guilty pleas to theft by failure to make required disposition of property received and failure to file a tax return. Kushner agreed to pay $1.1 million in restitution to seven victims. Kushner had told victims that the money they invested in his business, Foreclosure 911, would be used to buy foreclosed properties in New Jersey, Delaware, and Pennsylvania, but instead he used the money for personal expenses and vacations. Kushner will be sentenced on January 7, 2011, by State Superior Court Judge Richard W. English. This investigation was conducted by the Monmouth County Prosecutor's Office in conjunction with the Office of Criminal Investigation.
- On September 14, 2010, Miguel Rodriguez t/a All Brothers Liquors of Newark, New Jersey, was the target of a joint operation with the New York State Department of Taxation and Finance's

Criminal Investigation Division and the Bronx District Attorney's Office, with the assistance of the Essex County Prosecutor's Office. A search by the Office of Criminal Investigation (OCI) resulted in the seizure of 1 roll of counterfeit U.S. postage stamps, $5,305 in U.S. currency subject to forfeiture, 6.4 cartons of counterfeit New Jersey-stamped cigarettes, 3,653 untaxed cigars, and 70 pouches of RYO cigarette tobacco and/or chewing tobacco from the premises. Additionally, OCI found evidence that the business was manufacturing fraudulent invoices to give the appearance that the wholesale tobacco products tax was paid.

- On September 14, 2010, Bhajan Singh was arrested at his gas station in New York City and was charged in a joint investigation dealing with counterfeit cigarette tax stamps and the sale and transportation of contraband cigarettes with the New York Department of Taxation and Finance's Criminal Investigation Division and the Bronx District Attorney's Office. A search warrant was executed on a residence in Carteret, New Jersey, where a total of 220 cartons of counterfeit-stamped cigarettes were seized, 90 of which were bearing counterfeit New Jersey tax stamps with the remainder bearing counterfeit

New York tax stamps.

There was a cash seizure of $46,000 from the residence along with narcotics and other counterfeit goods.

- On September 23, 2010, Rebecca Cirillo appeared before Judge Richard W. English in Monmouth County Superior Court and pled guilty to theft by deception and filing fraudulent returns for the years 2005, 2006, and 2007. Under the plea agreement the State recommended that she be sentenced to five years in State prison conditioned upon the entry of a civil judgment in the amount of $290,949.12. Cirillo will also be required to file amended tax returns for the years 2005, 2006, and 2007. Cirillo used her position as bookkeeper to embezzle money from her employer, Ansonge Unlimited, Inc., by writing checks to herself or to "cash." She then attempted to cover up her actions by making false entries into Quickbooks, the accounting system used by Ansonge Unlimited, Inc.
- On October 25, 2010, Anthony J. Foti, of Ogdensburg, New York, was sentenced to five years in State prison by Mercer County Superior Court Judge Gerald J. Council for failing to pay the State of New Jersey thousands of dollars in sales tax he collected from customers at his car dealership, AN-JO Car Company, Inc., in Toms River between 2000 and 2004. Foti was ordered to pay restitution in the amount of $192,017 which consisted of $79,347 in sales tax, $92,239 in interest, and $23,931 in penalties. On October 4, 2010, Foti, formerly of Brick, New Jersey, pled guilty to theft by failure to make required disposition of property and failure to remit sales tax, both second-degree offenses. A judgment was placed on Foti's property located in Ogdensburg, Saint Lawrence County, New York, for the sum of $192,017.49.

- The Office of Criminal Investigation's Special Frauds Unit prevented the issuance of 996 fraudulent refund claims totaling $1,880,043 for the period July 2010 through October 2010. In addition, OCI issued assessments based on refunds found to be fraudulently obtained. □

Gross Income Tax

Deduction for Parking Expenses — A taxpayer wrote to the Division asking about her payroll deduction for the costs of parking near her place of employment, which for Federal income tax purposes is treated as a "pretax" contribution. The Division responded that the deduction cannot be treated as a pretax contribution for New Jersey gross income tax purposes.

The deduction amount does not qualify for tax exclusion under the provisions of the Gross Income Tax Act. More specifically, although the Gross Income Tax Act has exclusions for qualifying commuter transportation benefits, the New Jersey exclusions are not exactly the same as the Federal exclusions for commuter benefits. One important difference is that for gross income tax purposes, benefits are not excludable if they are provided pursuant to a salary reduction agreement. N.J.S.A. 54A:6-23.c. provides: "The exclusion provided by subsection a. of this section shall not apply to any commuter transportation benefit unless such benefit is provided in addition to and not in lieu of any compensation otherwise payable to the employee."

Married Couple Filing as Qualified Joint Venture — A married couple wrote to the Division asking about the New Jersey gross income tax treatment of a "qualified joint venture." The Small Business and Work Opportunity Act of 2007, effective for tax years beginning after December 31, 2006, provides for a "qualified joint venture" whose only members are a husband and wife filing a joint return and who did not need to file as a partnership for Federal tax purposes.

For New Jersey gross income tax purposes, there is no provision similar to IRC section 761(f) that allows a husband and wife to engage in a qualified joint venture and to make an election to be treated as a sole proprietorship and not be treated as a partnership.

On the other hand, New Jersey allows all business entities that qualify for and elect to be treated as partnerships for Federal income tax purposes to be treated as partnerships for New Jersey income tax purposes. If these entities are not treated as partnerships for Federal tax purposes, they are not treated as partnerships for New Jersey tax purposes. Therefore, taxpayers in New Jersey may use the same reporting category for New Jersey gross income tax (partnership income or sole proprietorship income) as for Federal income tax purposes with regard to a qualified joint venture.

Practitioners' E-File Mandate

For the 2010 taxable year and later, any tax practitioner who reasonably expects to prepare 11 or more individual gross income tax resident returns (including those filed for trusts and estates) during the tax year must use electronic methods for filing such returns. A tax preparer is liable for a penalty of $50 for each return he or she fails to file electronically when required to do so.

If you have questions concerning the E-File Mandate, call the Division of Taxation at 609-633-6657 or e-mail us at nj.taxation@treas.state.nj.us

If a married couple qualifies and files a Federal election to be treated as a qualified joint venture for Federal income tax purposes, they may receive similar treatment for New Jersey income tax purposes. The husband and wife members of the qualified joint venture are permitted to report their respective joint venture income as business income on their New Jersey income tax return. They will not be required to file a partnership return because they are not considered to be a partnership for Federal income tax purposes.

Sales and Use Tax

Correction: Safe Deposit Box Repair — In the Spring 2005 issue of the New Jersey State Tax News, the Division addressed the purchase of locksmith services by safe deposit box owners who held the boxes out for “rentals.” The article stated that locksmith services such as key replacement, box drilling, or other general repairs performed upon the boxes are exempt from sales tax. The Division’s reasoning was that those services were performed upon inventory held for rental and concluded that the use of a Resale Certificate (Form ST-3) was appropriate.

The Division has reevaluated its statements in that article and has concluded that since safe deposit box rentals are not true rentals of boxes but rather are the provision of safe deposit box services, the boxes themselves are not being resold. See N.J.S.A.54:32B-3(b)(3). Thus, the resale exemption is not applicable to the purchase of such services and tax must be imposed.

Spray-On Tanner — A taxpayer inquired about the application of the New Jersey Sales and Use Tax Act to the purchase of spray-on tanner by a tanning salon.

Tanning services, which include spray-on tanning, are subject to New Jersey sales tax. N.J.S.A. 54:32B-3(b)(8). The Division determined that a tanning salon may purchase spray-on tanner with a resale certificate because it is transferred to the customer in the performance of the taxable tanning service and it is intended to remain with the customer. N.J.S.A. 54:32B-2(e)(1)(B).

Spray-on tanning, however, is not subject to the Federal excise tax imposed on an “indoor tanning service.” For more information on the Federal excise tax imposed on tanning service providers, visit the Division’s Web site at: www.state.nj.us/treasury/taxation/taxtanpro.shtml □

Corporation Business Tax Interest Add-Back and Depreciation – Beneficial New Jersey, Inc. v. Director, Division of Taxation, decided August 31, 2010; Tax Court No. 009886-2007.

Interest Add-Back. HSBC Finance Corporation (HSBC) was the parent of Beneficial New Jersey, Inc. (BNJ), a Delaware corporation. BNJ was a consumer finance operating lending company that held a sales finance license and a New Jersey lender license to make consumer loans as well as first and second mortgage loans to New Jersey customers. BNJ’s retail branch lending operations were located in New Jersey. In order to finance these loans, BNJ borrowed money from HSBC, which borrowed funds from unrelated third parties. HSBC charged interest on the loans to BNJ at the maximum Applicable Federal Rate. BNJ deducted the interest payments associated with these loans to arrive at New Jersey entire net income on its corporation business tax returns.

HSBC did not file New Jersey corporation business tax returns for tax years 2002–2004. After auditing BNJ, the Division effectively disallowed BNJ’s interest deductions for tax years 2002–2004 by adding them back pursuant to N.J.S.A. 54:10A-4(k)(2)(I). This statute provides that entire net income will be determined without excluding, deducting, or providing a credit for interest paid, accrued, or incurred to a related member; however, the statute also provides for five exceptions to this rule. BNJ claimed that they were entitled to the “three percent” exception, the “guarantee” exception, and the “unreasonable” exception.

Under the three percent exception, BNJ must prove, among other things, that “the rate of tax applied to the interest received by the related member is equal to or greater than a rate three percentage points less than the rate of tax applied to taxable interest by this State.” The Court first determined that the phrase “rate of tax” does not mean the tax rate as BNJ claimed, but is the effective tax rate, which is the “allocation factor times the tax rate percentage” as per the Division’s regulation. As BNJ was a 100% New Jersey allocator, its effective New Jersey tax rate was 9% (1H 9%). Therefore, HSBC’s effective tax rate in another jurisdiction must be at least 6% (9% less 3%) for the exception to apply. It was undisputed that HSBC’s effective tax rate in any other state was below 6% even though some of the other states' tax rates were above 6%. Consequently, the Court ruled that BNJ did not qualify for the three percent exception.

BNJ offered a funding agreement dated December 30, 2005, as proof that it met the guarantee exception, where the taxpayer guarantees the debt on which the interest is required and interest is directly paid, accrued, or incurred to an independent lender. In denying BNJ the guarantee exception, the Court determined that: (1) the agreement did not explicitly contain the word "guarantee"; (2) either BNJ or HSBC could withdraw from the agreement at any time for any reason; (3) BNJ did not produce documents evidencing its role as guarantor of HSBC loans to third parties; and (4) the agreement was between HSBC and BNJ and did not include any third-party lenders as parties.

Finally, the Court addressed the unreasonable exception which required that BNJ prove that the disallowance of the interest deduction was unreasonable. Although the Court found that the term "unreasonable" was undefined, the Court ruled that BNJ qualified for the unreasonable exception based upon common sense and an analysis of the totality of the circumstances. The Court found that the related party loans had economic substance and that the transactions had business purpose. HSBC received more favorable interest rates from third-party lenders than could its subsidiaries. In practice, the money HSBC borrowed was lent to its subsidiaries, not just to BNJ. HSBC paid taxes on income, including BNJ's interest payments, in 17 jurisdictions. Consequently, BNJ was not required to add back the interest deductions it paid to HSBC.

Depreciation. The Division determined that during tax years 2000 and 2001 BNJ should have used the accelerated method rather than the straight-line method of depreciation for assets placed in service after 1993. The Court ruled that the statute clearly required the accelerated method. BNJ argued that the Division's failure to correct depreciation deductions prior to 2000 was a tacit affirmation of the same. The Court ruled that "[e]ach tax year stands on its own, and the Director is not estopped from making adjustments (for one year) that were negligently permitted in previous years."

Sales and Use Tax

Definition of Newspaper – ADVO, Inc. v. Director, Division of Taxation, decided October 28, 2010; Tax Court Docket No. 000131-2008.

The Tax Court granted plaintiff's motion for summary judgment and denied the Director's cross-motion, finding that plaintiff's "Shop Wise" publication constituted a newspaper within the meaning of N.J.S.A. 54:32B-8.30. Therefore, receipts from the sale of advertising in the publication were exempt from sales tax. The Division's regulation N.J.A.C. 18:24-1.2 (2007) was controlling, and the Director's refund denial was reversed.

At issue was whether plaintiff's weekly distributed, four-page publication entitled "Shop Wise" met the definition of a newspaper and whether the advertising revenue was entitled to an exemption. The Director concluded that although "Shop Wise" contained articles on one page of its four-page publication, it was a direct-mail advertising publication and not a newspaper as contemplated under the statute. The Director argued that plaintiff's publication did not contain "information of general interest/current events" which comprises a bona fide newspaper. The Director did not dispute that plaintiff satisfied the requirement under N.J.A.C. 18:24-1.2(a) that no more than 90% of the printed area of the publication consist of advertising.

The Court concluded that plaintiff satisfied the pertinent elements of N.J.A.C. 18:24-1.2 with its publication of "Shop Wise" and must only have "generally conformed" to qualify as a newspaper. N.J.A.C. 18:24-1.2 was amended (effective in 2009) to change the definition of a newspaper in regard to the exemption statute.

Proper Party to File for Refund Claim – RCN Telecom Services, Inc. f/k/a Freedom New York, LLC v. Director, Division of Taxation, decided June 14, 2010; Tax Court No. 000161-2007.

In 2001, Freedom New York, LLC (Freedom) filed a timely sales tax refund claim pertaining to sales tax paid from December 1998 through December 1999 on purchases of machinery, equipment, and apparatus (MEA) claiming exemption from sales and use tax under N.J.S.A. 54:32B-8.13(c). Prior to 2000, Freedom was doing business as RCN Telecom Services, Inc. (RCN Telecom) and RCN Telecom was the purchaser of the MEA. At issue was whether Freedom or RCN Telecom was the proper party to file the refund claim and whether the requirements for exemption under N.J.S.A. 54:32B-8.13(c) were met.

Initially, Freedom purchased real estate and MEA because it planned to set up a telecommunications network in northern New Jersey. In 2000, RCN and its affiliates filed for Chapter 11 bankruptcy and Freedom abandoned the New Jersey project. Subsequently, Freedom installed all the MEA at issue in its New York telecommunications system.

Copies of the MEA purchase invoices and checks revealed that RCN Operating Services, Inc. (RCN Operating) paid the vendors and that the purchases were billed and shipped to various RCN affiliates, subsidiaries, and locations. Freedom, RCN Telecom, and RCN Operating were wholly owned subsidiaries of RCN Corporation (RCN).

RCN Operating was found by the Court to be the special purpose payment agent for RCN as well as its affiliates and subsidiaries. The Court ruled that a customer who paid the tax is eligible for a refund. A customer is one who purchases property. The Court concluded that Freedom/RCN Telecom was a customer and may file the refund claim even though the vendors were paid by the related corporate entity, RCN Operating Services.

In order to qualify for exemption, N.J.S.A. 54:32B-8.13(c) requires that the MEA be sold to a service provider who is subject to the jurisdiction of the Board of Public Utilities or the Federal Communications Commission (FCC) for use directly and primarily in receiving at destination or initiating, transmitting, and switching telephone, telegraph, or interactive telecommunications service for sale to the general public. Although the Court ruled that RCN Telecom was a service provider subject to the jurisdiction of the FCC, the Court determined that neither the certification of RCN Telecom's vice president nor the invoices provided an indication or description of the primary and nonprimary uses of the MEA sufficient for the Court to determine whether the MEA qualifies for the exemption. Therefore, the Court concluded there was a genuine issue of material fact that would require a hearing and evidence. □

In Our Legislature Motor Fuel Tax

Technical Amendments — P.L. 2010, c.79, signed into law on October 1, 2010, and effective immediately, makes a number of purely technical corrections, clarifies licensing requirements and fees, assures that heating oil dealers are not required to be licensed as motor fuel tax dealers, and clarifies that fuel transporters are not among those required to precollect the tax. These changes were critical in the implementation of the Motor Fuel Tax Act, P.L. 2010, c.22.

Sales and Use Tax

Fort Monmouth Economic Revitalization Authority Act — P.L. 2010, c.51, was signed into law on August 17, 2010, and became effective 45 days after its enactment, except that section 25 takes effect on the date that the authority assumes all of the powers, rights, assets, and duties of the predecessor authority.

This Act creates a new redevelopment agency, the Fort Monmouth Economic Revitalization Authority (FMERA), requires the New Jersey Economic Development Authority (EDA) to engage in new duties, and creates several special-purpose districts. FMERA, which is in but not of the New Jersey Department of the Treasury, is responsible for the implementation of the revitalization effort. The new law expands the powers of the EDA as the appropriate State agency to assist in plans for that redevelopment.

The Act provides for the creation of special improvement districts, transportation districts, and infrastructure districts. Within the district, at the discretion of the EDA, there may be a 50% reduction to the State's sales and use tax on the receipts of retail sales. However, the sales of motor vehicles, alcoholic beverages, cigarettes, and energy (natural gas and electricity) are excluded from the 50% reduction so the tax is at the 7% rate.

The law further provides that the authority may adopt a resolution to levy and collect a franchise assessment within an infrastructure district not to exceed an amount equivalent to 50% of the tax imposed under the Sales and Use Tax Act with the intention of devoting the proceeds from those assessments to purposes of the district. □

Budget Funds Homestead Benefits

The State Budget for fiscal year 2011 (which began on July 1, 2010) provides funding for the Homestead Benefit (formerly Homestead Rebate) Program. However, for 2009, eligibility and benefit amounts for homeowners are limited based on income, and benefits will not be paid to tenants. The Budget also requires that the benefit for homeowners be based on 2006 property taxes.

Instead of receiving a rebate check (or direct deposit) as in previous years, eligible homeowners will receive their homestead benefit for 2009 as a one-time credit on the property tax bill for the second quarter of 2011.

Who is Eligible

Homeowners who occupied their principal residence in New Jersey on October 1, 2009, and who paid property taxes on that dwelling, are eligible for a 2009 homestead benefit, provided that their gross income for the entire year does not exceed the applicable income limit: $150,000 for homeowners age 65 or older or disabled and $75,000 for homeowners under age 65 and not disabled. Under the terms of the Budget, no benefits will be issued to tenants.

Benefit Amounts

Benefit amounts are determined by income, filing status, amount of property taxes paid, and whether the applicant was 65 or older or eligible to claim an exemption as blind or disabled for the tax year.

Amounts received under the Homestead Benefit Program are in addition to the State's other property tax relief programs. The total amount of all property tax relief benefits received (homestead benefit, property tax reimbursement, property tax deduction for senior citizens/disabled persons, and property tax deduction for veterans) cannot exceed the amount of property taxes paid on the applicant's principal residence for the same year.

The State Budget requires that the 2009 benefit be based on 2006 property taxes. For purposes of calculating the 2009 benefit, the 2006 property taxes for the dwelling that was the applicant's principal residence on October 1, 2009, will be used. If no property taxes were assessed on that dwelling for 2006, the Division of Taxation will determine the amount of property taxes that would have been due for 2006.

Under the terms of the Budget, 2009 benefit amounts, when annualized, will be no greater than those paid for 2006 (when rebates were also based on 2006 property taxes) unless there has been a change in an applicant's filing characteristics. "Filing characteristics" means a reduction in income range, a change in age/disability status or marital status, or an increase in percentage of ownership.

Homeowners age 65 or older or disabled on December 31, 2009, will calculate the amount of their benefit as follows:

Step 1: Multiply the amount of 2006 property taxes (up to $10,000) by the applicable percentage (20% if 2009 New Jersey gross income is $100,000 or less; 10% if income is over $100,000 but not over $150,000).

Step 2: Divide the result of the Step 1 calculation by 4.

Homeowners under age 65 and not disabled on December 31, 2009, will calculate the amount of their benefit as follows:

Step 1: Multiply the amount of 2006 property taxes (up to $10,000) by the applicable percentage (20% if 2009 New Jersey gross income is $50,000 or less; 13.34% if income is over $50,000 but not over $75,000).

Step 2: Divide the result of the Step 1 calculation by 4.

How to Apply

The 2009 homestead benefit applications were mailed in September. The filing deadline for all eligible homeowners is November 1, 2010.

Most homeowners can file their applications online or by phone by calling 1-877-658-2972.

Homestead Benefit Payment

After April 1, 2011, eligible homeowners can expect to receive a revised property tax bill or advice copy from their tax collector that will reflect the amount of the benefit.

However, any homestead benefit for which homeowners are eligible will be issued in the form of a check (or direct deposit) on or after May 1, 2011, if (1) their principal residence was a unit in a co-op or continuing care retirement community or (2) they stated in their application that they no longer own the property that was their principal residence on October 1, 2009.

More information on the Homestead Benefit Program is available at: www.state.nj.us/treasury/taxation/2009homesteadinfo.shtml

INHERITANCE/ESTATE TAX Estate Tax Circular Computations

The New Jersey estate tax is imposed upon the transfer of the estate of every resident decedent dying after December 31, 2001, which would have been subject to Federal estate tax under the provisions of the Internal Revenue Code (IRC) of 1986 (26 U.S.C. §1, et seq.) in effect on December 31, 2001. The amount of the New Jersey estate tax is either (1) the maximum credit that would have been allowable under the provisions of the IRC in effect on December 31, 2001, against the Federal estate tax that would have been payable under the provisions of the IRC in effect on December 31, 2001, on account of taxes paid to any state or territory of the United States or the District of Columbia or (2) determined pursuant to the simplified tax system prescribed by the Director of the Division of Taxation.

The New Jersey Tax and Superior Courts in the Oberhand case ruled that transactions should be taxed as they occurred. The New Jersey estate tax is based on estate distributions as governed by the laws in effect on the decedent's date of death. The Director's responsibility is to determine estate distributions under the law in effect on the date of death and apply to those distributions the Federal estate tax law in effect on December 31, 2001.

The New Jersey estate tax is based on the Federal credit that would have been allowable for state death taxes under the provisions of the IRC in effect on December 31, 2001. This credit is computed on the Federal taxable estate as determined under the provisions of the 2001 IRC. If the Federal and New Jersey estate taxes that would have been payable under the provisions of the IRC in effect on December 31, 2001, would have been paid out of property for which a marital or charitable estate tax deduction would otherwise have been allowed, then the amount of the marital or charitable deduction must be reduced for the amount of such tax. The deduction cannot be greater than the amount that would have passed to a surviving spouse or charity. This results in a circular or interrelated computation as the reduction in the marital or charitable deduction in turn increases the taxable estate. This increase in the taxable estate results in an increase in tax. The increase in tax again reduces the marital or charitable deduction and so forth. The calculation must be run until the reduction in the marital or charitable deduction equals the State and Federal taxes.

Although the circular or interrelated computation existed prior to January 1, 2002, it was not a matter which generally concerned the Division. Prior to that date, the New Jersey estate tax was essentially a "sponge tax" whose function was to absorb the allowable credit for state death taxes as determined in the Federal estate tax proceeding. The circular or interrelated computation was made and verified by the Internal Revenue Service. Since the New Jersey estate tax decoupled from the Federal estate tax in 2002 and is now a "stand-alone" tax, the computation is a matter which concerns the Division.

In order to determine the Federal credit for state death taxes that would have been allowable under the provisions of the IRC in effect on December 31, 2001, the taxable estate, Federal estate tax, and marital or charitable deduction under the provisions of the 2001 IRC must also be determined as they are all interrelated with and impact the credit.

Example 1

Taxable estate in the amount of $2 million of which XYZ Corporation stock valued at $1 million passes to the decedent's children with the residue of the estate passing to charity. The decedent's will provides that taxes are not to be paid from the residue.

Amount Passing to Charity	$1,000,000
Charitable Deduction	1,000,000
Taxable Estate	1,000,000
Federal Tax Before State
Death Tax Credit	125,250
State Death Tax Credit	33,200
Net Federal Tax	92,050

Example 2

Same situation as above except that the decedent's will provides that taxes are to be paid from the residue.

Amount Passing to Charity (before taxes)	$1,000,000
Charitable deduction (after taxes)	787,712
Taxable Estate	1,212,288
Federal Tax Before State
Death Tax Credit	212,288
State Death Tax Credit	45,986
Net Federal Tax	166,302

A circular or interrelated computation may be complex. Various programs have been developed by software companies to make this calculation. Upon request, the Division of Taxation will provide the taxpayer with assistance in making the computation. The Inheritance and Estate Tax Section may be contacted by phone at 609-292-5033 or by mail at Division of Taxation, Inheritance and Estate Tax, P.O. Box 249, Trenton, New Jersey 08695-0249. □

Motor Fuel Tax Act Legislative Changes
Effective January 1, 2011

P.L. 2010, c.22, the Motor Fuel Tax Act, repeals prior motor fuels tax legislation and makes changes in the licensing requirements for the motor fuel taxes as well as the requirements for the reporting, imposition, and collection of the taxes. P.L. 2010, c.79, makes technical corrections and delays the effective date of the new motor fuel law established in Chapter 22, P.L. 2010, from October 1, 2010, to January 1, 2011.

Criminal Enforcement

Criminal enforcement over the past several months included:

- In May 2010, Dawn Mass of Marlton, New Jersey, pled guilty to one count of theft of property (N.J.S.A. 2C:20-3) and one count of failure to pay or turn over taxes (N.J.S.A. 54:52-9). In her position as bookkeeper for a Pennsauken-based realty management firm, Ms. Mass was able to manipulate financial records and misappropriate $585,665.84 of funds between 2002 and 2009. Ms. Mass was sentenced to four years in State prison on each count, to be served concurrently. Ms. Mass paid $64,819.22 in restitution to her employer. A judgment for the $30,464.94 tax liability to the State of New Jersey will be forthcoming.
- On May 14, 2010, a total of 11 search warrants and 4 arrest warrants and seizure orders were executed at locations in the City of Passaic and Wallington Township, Passaic County and Saddle Brook, Bergen County by the Office of Criminal Investigation (OCI). This action resulted after a 10-month undercover investigation and with the cooperation and assistance of the Passaic County Prosecutor's Office. Miroslaw Sapinski and his wife, Grazyna Sapinski, as well as Waclaw Jeziorski and Stanislaw Zebronski, were arrested by OCI special agents. Seized were a total of 655.1 cartons of cigarettes at the residences. Also seized by OCI were two handguns and one rifle; three vehicles identified as being used in the transportation of contraband; and over $130,000 in currency from the residences, business, and associated bank accounts. At the Market Quality Market, owned and operated by the Sapinskis, a secret room was built to hide the contraband cigarettes. All subjects were remanded to Passaic County Jail in lieu of $50,000.

- On May 14, 2010, Waclaw Jeziorski of Wallington, New Jersey, while under surveillance just prior to his arrest for other cigarette smuggling charges, was observed exiting his residence and driving to Krystna's Place, an Alcoholic Beverage Control licensed bar in Wallington, New Jersey. Special agents observed a transaction and, as a result, an inspection was conducted at Krystna's Place, 171 Hathaway Street, Wallington, New Jersey. A total of 135.8 cartons of Virginia-stamped cigarettes and $1,381 in currency were seized from the business. Jozef Babon of the same address was arrested by special agents of the Office of Criminal Investigation and charged with possession of untaxed goods, no invoices, no licenses, and related charges in the Wallington Municipal Court.

- On May 17, 2010, Herbert Brandt, the pharmacist and owner of Pharmacy of America in East Orange, New Jersey, and his son, Douglas Brandt, who operated the business activities of Pharmacy of America, were sentenced to three years in State prison by Superior Court Judge Joseph C. Cassini III, in Essex County. Previously, on September 23, 2009, they pled guilty to second-degree health care claims fraud and third-degree witness tampering. They were also ordered to pay restitution to the Medicaid program and a civil penalty totaling $1.1 million. Herbert Brandt also entered into a consent agreement with the Board of Pharmacy to surrender his license to operate a pharmacy.
- On May 20, 2010, Office of Criminal Investigation (OCI) special agents responded to a call from New Jersey State Police, Moorestown Station on the New Jersey Turnpike, relative to a stop of a U-Haul vehicle containing untaxed alcohol. The driver of the rental truck, Satish Madidi of Newark, Delaware, was interviewed and was unable to provide paperwork to show where the alcoholic beverages were to be delivered. He also admitted that he was following another subject who was to lead him to the eventual delivery point. That subject was not found. The truck contained 210 cases of Johnnie Walker Black Label scotch. Madidi was arrested by OCI for possession of untaxed goods (N.J.S.A. 54:52-1 et seq.) and related charges (N.J.S.A. 54:43-1 et seq.), and the untaxed alcohol was seized. Charges are pending in the Carneys Point Township Municipal Court.

- On June 7, 2010, Anthony Foti, owner of AN-JO Car Company, Inc., t/a A & J Car Company, pled guilty to second-degree theft by failure to make required disposition of property received and second-degree purposefully failing to turn over New Jersey sales and use tax for the period of September 1999 through June 2004 in the amount $79,392.26 plus penalty and interest. Anthony Foti tendered $2,000 at the time of his plea and paid an additional $1,500 on June 18, 2010. He was ordered to pay an additional $6,500 by the end of September 2010 and to pay the balance in monthly installments. Foti's probation is contingent on adherence to this payment schedule.

- On June 10, 2010, James Gillespie and his wife, Susan Gillespie, were indicted on 15 counts and charged with second-degree crimes of failure to make required disposition of property received and misapplication of property received (N.J.S.A. 2C:20-9 and N.J.S.A. 2C:21-15) and third-degree crimes of failing to file payroll and sales tax returns and failure to turn over to the State of New Jersey payroll and sales taxes collected (N.J.S.A. 54:52-8 and N.J.S.A. 54:52-9). During the period 2001 through 2007, James Gillespie was the owner of Wellness Enterprise Corporation and Rolling Help, Inc., businesses which provided medical transportation services. During that period, Mr. Gillespie did not file payroll tax returns nor did he submit income tax withheld or disability/unemployment taxes collected from employees to the State of New Jersey. During the period 2005 through 2007, Susan Gillespie was the owner of the business EZ, Inc., which provided lawn care services. During that period, corporation business tax returns were not filed nor were any sales tax returns filed or sales tax remitted to the State of New Jersey. Also, the Gillespies were charged with the filing of false and fraudulent NJ-1040 returns for the years 2005, 2006, and 2007. During those years, the Gillespies failed to report the income received from the businesses EZ, Inc. and Rolling Help, Inc. Unremitted payroll taxes totaled $105,439.82, and unremitted sales tax totaled $23,906.29.

- On June 24, 2010, Christopher Nemeth, owner of Nemeth Enterprises, Inc., was sentenced to four years in State prison by Superior Court Judge Edward M. Neafsey in Mercer County. Marisol Garcia, Nemeth's girlfriend, was sentenced to three years in prison. Nemeth and Garcia each pled guilty on March 10, 2010, to second-degree misapplication of entrusted property and third-degree failure to remit payroll taxes. From 1999 through the second quarter of 2007, the defendants, who ran the paving company from their home, failed to pay the State $207,003.57 in payroll taxes withheld from their employees. Throughout that period the defendants failed to file tax returns, which must be filed quarterly with the Division of Taxation, and employer wage reports, which must be filed annually with the Department of Labor. The subjects are required to pay the State of New Jersey $368,807, which includes the back payroll taxes owed by their company with penalties and interest.

- On July 16, 2010, Brian McGuire was sentenced to two five-year prison terms to be served concurrently. He was charged with one count of second-degree theft by failure to make required disposition and one count of third-degree failure to pay taxes by Judge Reiser in Monmouth County Superior Court. A criminal investigation which was conducted by the Monmouth County Prosecutor's Office in conjunction with the Office of Criminal Investigation revealed that between November 2004 and July 2007, Brian McGuire, President and Chief Operating Officer of Kaibobo Enterprises Corporation, stole $574,652 from the company's operating account.

Previously, on March 22, 2010, Brian McGuire pled guilty to the above charges from the August 11, 2008, Monmouth County Grand Jury indictment. All charges were dismissed against Benedette McGuire. Kaibobo Enterprises Corporation conducts business under the name Resources Payroll Company, a payroll tax processing service which processes payroll and remits withheld payroll taxes to the appropriate taxing authorities. McGuire failed to pay the taxes due.

- In the area of refund fraud, the Office of Criminal Investigation prevented the issuance of 3,263 fraudulent refund claims totaling $7,087,221 for the period July 2009 through June 2010. In addition, the Office of Criminal Investigation issued assessments based on refunds found to be fraudulently obtained. □

Sales Tax Information

Streamlined Sales and Use Tax

P.L. 2006, c.44, increased the New Jersey sales and use tax rate from 6% to 7%, effective July 15, 2006. The rate change affects all retail sales of taxable merchandise or services. For more information on the rate increase visit:

Corporation Business Tax

IRC Section 179—A taxpayer asked if New Jersey has conformed to the IRC Section 179 maximum expense deduction of $250,000 for taxable year 2010, and if not, what the limit is for 2010. IRC Section 179 allows taxpayers to take a deduction if they elect to treat the cost of qualifying property as an expense rather than a capital expenditure.

The Division responded that P.L. 2002, c.40 decoupled the corporation business tax and gross income tax from the Federal calculation of IRC Section 179 deductions. For New Jersey purposes, IRC Section 179 deductions are to be calculated pursuant to the

Federal IRC in effect on December 11, 2002. At that time the limit was $25,000. Information is provided in the applicable tax return instructions regarding decoupling bonus depreciation and IRC Section 179 deductions from Federal calculations.

Gross Income Tax

Income Resulting From a Demutualization of an Insurance Company

— A taxpayer inquired about the New Jersey gross income tax treatment of stock received as a result of a demutualization of an insurance company.

For Federal income tax purposes, the treatment of the demutualization income depends on whether it is a tax-free reorganization under IRC Section 368(a)(1). Information on whether the reorganization qualifies under IRC Section 368(a)(1) is obtained from the former mutual insurance company. If the demutualization qualifies as a tax-free reorganization and the taxpayer elects to receive stock, the taxpayer will not recognize any gain or loss on the receipt of the stock for tax purposes.

For New Jersey gross income tax purposes, the method of accounting and the basis of property must be the same as for Federal income tax purposes. See N.J.S.A. 54A:8-3(c) and N.J.S.A. 54A:5-1(c). Therefore, the taxpayer may use Federal income tax accounting concepts to determine if any income is realized for New Jersey gross income tax purposes.

As a result, if a taxpayer receives stock from an IRC Section 368(a)(1) reorganization and qualifies for nonrecognition of income for Federal income tax, the taxpayer also qualifies for nonrecognition of income for New Jersey gross income tax.

IRC Section 179— See Corporation Business Tax.

Partnership Income and IRC Section 754 Election — The Division responded to a taxpayer who inquired about the treatment of an IRC §754 election under the New Jersey Gross Income Tax Act. The taxpayer inquired about how the IRC §754 election should be reported on the NJ-1065 return.

Pursuant to IRC §754, a partnership may file an election to adjust the basis of the partnership property. This may create a higher “outside” basis for the partnership. Consequently, the partners may use greater depreciation deductions for Federal income tax purposes.

For New Jersey purposes, partnerships are taxed in accordance with N.J.A.C. 18:35-1.3 and N.J.S.A. 54A:5-1(k). All choices affecting the determination of income from the partnership are made by the partnership, not each partner. This includes the choice of the methods of computing depreciation. The partnership may apply Federal law, where it is applicable, to its choice of the method of depreciation.

Thus, Federal adjustments such as an IRC §754 election will be allowed for New Jersey income tax purposes. Supporting documentation for any adjustments should be retained and made available to the Division if requested.

The partnership should report the partners’ IRC §754 adjustment as supplemental information for the NJK-1. The partnership should also indicate in the supplemental information that the IRC §754 amount had not already been taken into account in their reported distributive share of partnership income (loss).

The partners will then adjust their reported distributive share of partnership income (loss) by the IRC §754 adjustment and report the net amount on their NJ-1040.

Property Tax Deduction — A taxpayer inquired about the gross income tax deduction for property taxes paid on a principal homestead. The taxpayer had paid all (100%) of the property taxes due and paid on the homestead property. However, the taxpayer only owned a one-half interest in the property.

The Division replied that based on these facts, the taxpayer is limited to 50% of the property taxes due and paid on the homestead property up to the maximum deduction allowed in the law. N.J.S.A. 54A:3A-17(c) states in part:

If title to a homestead is held by more than one individual as joint tenants or tenants in common, each individual shall be allowed the property tax deduction only in relation to the individual's proportionate share of the property taxes assessed and levied against the homestead.

Therefore, a claimant who only holds a 50% interest can use only 50% of the property taxes due and paid on the property when calculating the allowable property tax deduction, even though she is paying 100% of the property taxes.

Sales and Use Tax

Charges for Sightseeing — A taxpayer inquired about the application of the New Jersey Sales and Use Tax Act to charges for sightseeing, such as the chartering of a ferryboat to see the Statue of Liberty or chartering a boat for the purpose of whale watching.

The Division responded that charges for the transportation of persons are exempt from tax. N.J.S.A. 54:32B-8.11. Thus, the charges for sightseeing in the above examples are exempt from tax because the object of the transaction is the transportation of people.

Conversely, the bare rental of a boat without an operator or crew is taxable as the rental of tangible personal property. N.J.S.A. 54:32B-3(a); N.J.S.A. 54:32B-2(f). The object of the transaction is considered to be the rental of the boat.

It should be noted that certain boat chartering situations may represent services that go beyond a mere transportation charge, for instance, a dinner cruise which offers food, beverages, entertainment, etc. The taxability can only be determined based on a review of the specific facts. However, please note the following general information pertaining to a lunch/dinner sightseeing cruise.

Bill stated as a lump sum (e.g., $100 per guest charge). The entire amount is subject to tax since the charge includes significant taxable elements that go beyond merely a charge for transportation.

Itemized bill.

Boat charter fee—exempt as transportation if separately stated and reasonable in relation to prevailing charter rates. N.J.S.A. 54:32B-8.11.

Catering fee—receipts from the sale of food and drink by restaurants, caterers, etc. are taxable. N.J.S.A. 54:32B-3(c).

Sales of Human Semen — A taxpayer inquired about the application of the New Jersey Sales and Use Tax Act to sales of human semen or sperm to fertility patients and sales of human semen or sperm to fertility doctors or clinics for use in fertility treatments.

The Division determined that due to the nature of the property, human semen and sperm, as well as other human body parts, are not considered to be tangible personal property for purposes of the Sales and Use Tax Act. Therefore, sales of human semen or sperm to fertility patients or to fertility doctors or clinics for use in fertility treatments are not subject to sales and use tax.

Wind Turbines — A taxpayer inquired about the application of the New Jersey Sales and Use Tax Act to the sale of wind turbines.

The Division responded that the Sales and Use Tax Act contains an exemption for the purchase, rental, lease, or use of solar energy devices or systems designed to provide heating or cooling, or electrical or mechanical power by collecting and transferring solar-generated energy and including mechanical or chemical devices for storing solar-generated energy. N.J.S.A. 54:32B-8.33. Note that solar energy devices certified by the manufacturer will qualify for the exemption. This exemption does not apply to wind turbines, and the Sales and Use Tax Act does not contain an exemption for other renewable energy sources (e.g., wind energy or geothermal technology).

However, the law also provides an exemption for “sales of machinery, apparatus or equipment for use or consumption directly and primarily in the production, generation, transmission or distribution of gas, electricity, refrigeration, steam or water for sale or in the operation of sewerage systems.” N.J.S.A. 54:32B-8.13(b). Thus, if the wind turbines are used in an exempt manner, for instance, to produce electricity for sale, the purchase of the wind turbines will be exempt under N.J.S.A. 54:32B-8.13(b). If a statutory exemption is not available, purchases of wind turbines and related equipment and materials are subject to tax. N.J.S.A. 54:32B-3(a). □

Corporation Business Tax

Throwout Rule – Pfizer, Inc., Whirlpool Properties, Inc. v. Director, Division of Taxation, New Jersey Superior Court, Appellate Division, decided July 12, 2010.

The Superior Court of New Jersey, Appellate Division, affirmed that the throwout rule is facially constitutional in that it does not offend the due process, commerce, or supremacy clauses of the United States Constitution.

In 2002, the Legislature added the throwout rule to N.J.S.A. 54:10A-6(B). This rule affects the computation of the New Jersey sales factor by excluding or throwing out from the denominator receipts attributable to a state “in which the taxpayer is not subject to a tax on or measured by profits or income, or business presence or business activity.” Note that the throwout rule was repealed for tax periods beginning after June 30, 2010.

Plaintiffs’ contention was that the throwout rule was unconstitutional because it allowed New Jersey to tax income unrelated to the taxpayers’ activities in the State which resulted in a tax that was not fairly apportioned or related to the services provided by the State.

Plaintiffs’ motions were consolidated by the Tax Court to hear the constitutional challenge. The “as applied” portion has yet to be addressed.

The Appellate Division denied plaintiffs’ motions for leave to file interlocutory appeals; however, the Supreme Court granted the motions and remanded for consideration on the merits. Plaintiffs have now filed motions for leave to appeal with the Supreme Court.

Gross Income Tax

Domicile – Masami Tawara & Kimiko Tawara v. Director, Division of Taxation, Docket No. 002061-2009, decided July 7, 2010.

Judge Hayser granted the Director’s motion to dismiss the complaint.

In this case, the taxpayer claimed that he was not a New Jersey domiciliary for 2004 and had abandoned his New Jersey domicile in 2001 for a new domicile in Japan where his primary business was located and where he occupied a home owned by the company.

Judge Hayser stated in his opinion that the taxpayer had not abandoned his New Jersey domicile based on several factors:

- The taxpayer maintained his clothing, goods, and personal effects in his New Jersey residence;
- Although the taxpayer lived “separate and apart” from his spouse, he still owned the house with his wife;

- The taxpayer maintained a New Jersey phone number until 2008;
- The taxpayer was a member of the Old Tappan Lions Club through 2004;
- In 2004, the taxpayer filed Federal and New York tax returns listing his New Jersey address as his address of record;
- The taxpayer maintained a current New Jersey driver’s license that did not expire until 2013, which stated the taxpayer’s New Jersey address as his residence; and
- The taxpayer also maintained an equity loan on his pre-existing marital residence and a joint bank account in New Jersey.

Judge Hayser concluded:

The burden rests with the taxpayer asserting the abandonment of an old domicile for a new one to prove same, to enable the conclusion that the objective factors evidencing that clear intent show that the taxpayer no longer has a “sufficiency of relationship” with the old domicile.

Interest on Late Payment of New Jersey Gross Income Tax –

Alexander and Gloria Szymanski v. Director, Division of Taxation, Docket No. 000449-2009, decided July 8, 2010.

Judge DeAlmeida granted the Director’s summary judgment motion.

In this case, the taxpayers, residents of Pennsylvania, sold rental real estate in New Jersey. Claiming that they were not aware of tax in New Jersey and filing an amended Pennsylvania resident return too late to receive a credit for taxes paid to New Jersey, the taxpayers sought the abatement of all penalty and interest.

In his decision, Judge DeAlmeida stated:

Plaintiffs do not dispute that the gain they realized from the sale of the Ocean City property was subject to New Jersey Gross Income tax. They contend that they should not be subject to interest on the taxes due from the sale for a variety of reasons, none of which the court finds availing to plaintiffs.

The Szymanskis believed that all of their interest should be abated because:

1. They were unaware of their obligation to pay nonresident New Jersey gross income tax;
2. Their accountant practices in Pennsylvania, not New Jersey;
3. They should have received amnesty treatment (50% interest relief) even though they paid the balance due in full on January 8, 2009, several months before the amnesty program began; and
4. A Division employee orally informed the taxpayers that no interest was due. (However, as the Judge states in his opinion, this conversation occurred three years after the sale of the Ocean City property and the Division employee “recognized his error soon after this conversation...and advised them by telephone that interest was due.”).

Judge DeAlmeida stated that “these facts are insufficient to warrant relief under N.J.S.A. 54:49-11b.”

Nonbusiness Bad Debt – Harlan W. Waksal and Carol Waksal v. Director, Division of Taxation, Docket No. 001191-2009, decided July 1, 2010.

Judge DeAlmeida granted the Director’s summary judgment motion.

This case involved the taxpayers’ taking a nonbusiness bad debt as a loss on their NJ-1040 return based on an unpaid loan of $14 million that Mr. Waksal had made to his brother. Several New Jersey Court decisions have previously supported the premise that New Jersey gross income tax (unlike the IRC) does not allow nonbusiness bad debts.

Judge DeAlmeida stated:

The question presented here is whether a non-business bad debt is a “net loss, derived from the sale, exchange or other disposition of property.... As determined in accordance with the method of accounting used for federal tax purposes” within the meaning of N.J.S.A. 54A:5-1(c). The Court’s analysis of this question is guided by the controlling Appellate Division decisions in Walsh v. Director, Div. of Taxation, 15 N.J. Tax 180, 183-186 (App. Div. 1995) and King v. Director, Division of Taxation, 22 N.J. Tax 627 (App. Div. 2005). The facts of those two cases are on point with those before the Court in all significant aspects.

In each case, the Court upheld the Director’s determination that a loss from non-business bad debt does not fall within N.J.S.A. 54A:5-1(c) and cannot be used to offset gains from the sale, exchange or other disposition of property.

The Gross Income Tax Act provides that taxable income shall consist of sixteen distinct categories, N.J.S.A. 54A:5-1. One of those categories is “net gains or income from disposition of property.” N.J.S.A. 54A:5-1(c). The category is defined as Net gains or net income, less net losses, derived from the sale, exchange or other disposition of property, including real or personal, whether tangible or intangible as determined in accordance with the method of accounting used for federal income tax purposes.

The Appellate Division (in Walsh v. Director) flatly rejected the notion that a non-business bad debt constituted a loss that could be offset from gains from the sale, exchange or other disposition of property under N.J.S.A. 54A:5-1(c).

Plaintiffs would have us read N.J.S.A. 54A:5-1(c) broadly so that the language “losses, derived from the sale, exchange or other disposition of property”, would include losses from non-business bad debt. The legislative history weighs against such a broad interpretation. The Legislature determined that the New Jersey Gross Income Tax Act should contain fewer deductions from income than the federal income tax. This was seen as a way of making the Gross Income Tax fairer. The Legislature did not explicitly provide for a deduction of a non-business bad debt. Thus, in view of legislative history, it would appear that the Legislature did not intend for N.J.S.A. 54A:5-1(c) to be read broadly to include a deduction for non-business bad debts.

The appellate panel rejected the argument that the Gross Income Tax Act allows gains from the sale, exchange or other disposition of property to be offset by a deduction for non-business bad debt.

Property Tax Relief Programs
Property Tax Reimbursement –
Rudolf Abel v. Director, Division of Taxation, Docket No. 017319-2009, decided June 22, 2010.

Judge Andresini affirmed the Division's denial of Mr. Abel's 2008 Property Tax Reimbursement.

Mr. Abel filed a PTR-1 form seeking a property tax reimbursement (PTR) for 2008.

For the year 2008, the property tax reimbursement application, Form PTR-1, was available to residents who were filing for the first time or were not eligible for the 2007 reimbursement. There is an income limit section on the PTR-1 form; the applicant must have qualifying income in the base year and the application year.

The Director had determined that Mr. Abel's 2007 income exceeded the income eligibility limit. The Director had also determined that Mr. Abel had failed to fulfill the statute's three-year residency requirement. Mr. Abel moved into his new home in 2006. Mr. Abel lived at his old home from 1985 until 2006.

Mr. Abel argued that the Director did not correctly calculate his income and that his only income came as a result of working as an election booth operator and that his 2007 Federal tax return reflected income below the PTR income threshold.

Mr. Abel argued that although he did not reside in his new home for the statutory required three-year period, he should be able to aggregate the years spent at his former home to the years spent at his new home.

Judge Andresini stated, "Property tax reimbursements are governed by N.J.S.A. 54:8.67 to 54:8.75."

An eligible claimant must have an annual income of $60,000 or less in 2007 and $70,000 or less in 2008.

Judge Andresini further opined:

N.J.S.A. 54:4-8.67 defines income as "income as determined pursuant to P.L. 1975, c.194 (C.30:4D-20 et seq.)," which is the statute establishing the Pharmaceutical Assistance to the Aged ("PAAD") program. Regulations promulgated for the PAAD program pursuant to N.J.S.A. 30:40D-24 include N.J.A.C. 8:83-6.2, which defines "income" for purposes of PAAD program and thus for eligibility for the property tax reimbursement. Income includes such things as pensions, N.J.A.C. 8:83-6.2 (c)(1)(xvi) and social security benefits

N.J.A.C. 8:83-6.2(c)(1)

(i). Income for purposes of the property tax reimbursement has nothing to do with federal income tax definition. I therefore conclude that Mr. Abel's income exceeded the income eligibility limits for the property tax reimbursement for tax year 2007 and that he is not eligible for the reimbursement.

Judge Andresini went on to say about the three-year residency requirement:

The tacking issue was extensively analyzed by Judge Small in Anderson v. Director, Div. of Taxation, 24 N.J. Tax 141, 152 (Tax 2008), aff'd, 2009 N.J. Lexis 244 (App. Div. 2009). The taxpayer argued because she was forced to move from her old home to her new home, as a result of condemnation of her old home, she should be able to tack the years lived at her old home to those lived in her new home in order to meet the statute's three year residency requirement. The judge agreed that the principle of tacking had been applied in the adverse possession context, so that one who claims adverse possession may gain benefit of adverse uses by predecessors as long as the adverse use is continuous, the claimant satisfies all other requirements, and privity exists between the claimant and previous titleholders. He determined that tacking was not applicable here due to the taxpayer's lack of privity with the prior owners of her new property. The judge

also reasoned that exemptions from taxation are typically narrowly construed and therefore the equitable principle of tacking should not be applied to settings other than adverse possession in the absence of express legislative direction.

In this case, Mr. Abel did not fulfill the three-year residency requirement.

In closing, Judge Andresini stated:

I conclude that the Director of the Division of Taxation properly exercised discretion denying Mr. Abel's property tax reimbursement for 2008.

In Our Legislature
Hotel/Motel Occupancy Tax Revisions to the Hotel/Motel Occupancy Tax Imposed by Municipalities — P.L. 2010, c.55, signed into law on August 18, 2010, and effective immediately, revises the hotel/motel occupancy tax permitted to be imposed by municipalities under P.L. 2003, c.114.

The Act amends section 7 of P.L. 2003, c.114 (N.J.S.A. 40:48F-5) to require the State Treasurer to include with the periodic distribution of tax revenue to each subject municipality a list of all of the hotels and motels therein that submitted municipal occupancy tax revenue to the State for the reporting period.

The new law also requires every municipality that has adopted an ordinance imposing the occupancy tax to annually provide to the State Treasurer on or before January 1 of each year a list of the names and addresses of all of the hotels and motels located in the municipality, and also the name and address of any hotel or motel that commences operation after January 1 of any year. This additional reporting requirement will aid in more effective tax administration.

Finally, the Act makes unpaid occupancy taxes a municipal lien on the real property comprising the delinquent hotel or motel. This requires the State Treasurer to provide to a subject municipality written notification of nonpayment of local hotel/motel taxes. The municipality would then be authorized to act as the collection agent for the outstanding balance of taxes due and owing to it in place of the State Treasurer.

Corporation Business Tax Offshore Wind Economic Development Act — P.L. 2010, c.57, signed into law on August 19, 2010, and effective immediately, creates the Offshore Wind Economic Development Act and establishes an offshore wind renewable energy certificate program. The Act also authorizes the Economic Development Authority (EDA) to provide tax credits for qualified wind energy facilities in wind energy zones.

The new law provides corporation business tax credit support of offshore wind energy programs with an expected power generation capacity of 20 to 25 megawatts. The tax credit program would finance 100% of capital costs for such programs in an amount not to exceed $100 million in the same manner that tax credits are to be provided under the Urban Transit Hub Tax Credit Act (N.J.S.A. 34:1B-208 as amended by P.L. 2007, c.346).

The Act does, however, allow the EDA to exceed the $100 million cap if “a business demonstrates to the authority, at the time of application, that the State’s financial support of the proposed capital investment in a qualified wind energy facility will yield a net positive benefit to the State.”

The Division must also ensure that the aggregate amount of these credits, in addition to any other urban transit hub tax credit certificates approved in the future, do not exceed statutory maximums. It is anticipated that the Division of Taxation will administer this measure in the same manner as it expects to administer any actual approved credit under the Urban Transit Hub Tax Credit Program. □

Michael Bryan Named Acting Director

New Jersey Treasurer Andrew Sidamon-Eristoff appointed Michael J. Bryan as the new Acting Director of the Division of Taxation.

Mr. Bryan took the oath of office for the position on July 12, 2010, in the Treasurer's Office at the State House and assumed responsibility for managing a staff of 1,300 employees who administer 40 taxes and fees and provide information and assistance to members of the public on tax questions. In the fiscal year ended June 30, 2009, the Division collected $24.8 billion in tax revenues for the State of New Jersey.

Mr. Bryan is a tax and accounting professional with more than 20 years of private and public sector experience. Most recently, he served as senior director in the tax department at Comcast Corporation in Philadelphia. In that capacity he managed all tax controversy issues for the communications and entertainment company as well as its centralized records management.

"Mike brings a broad and deep background in tax, audit, and accounting matters to the Division along with strong managerial experience. We are pleased that New Jersey will benefit from the services of a professional of his caliber," Sidamon-Eristoff said.

"His experience in handling tax and audit issues both from the government and private client perspective will be particularly valuable as he manages the Division's interactions with taxpayers.

"Mike also has a strong interest in how tax agencies deal with the public," Sidamon-Eristoff added, "and I believe he is the right person to lead the Division as we seek to enhance the communications and support it provides to taxpayers to help them fulfill their legal responsibilities."

Mr. Bryan will serve on an acting basis pending the advice and consent of the New Jersey Senate.

He began his tax career in 1987 as a revenue agent conducting field examinations for the Internal Revenue Service in Philadelphia. He then joined Coopers & Lybrand as an associate and assisted clients with tax and audit matters. His career at Comcast began in 1994 when he joined the company to manage tax examinations.

He is a Certified Public Accountant and earned a Bachelor of Science degree in accounting from Drexel University and a Master of Science degree in taxation from Temple University.

Mr. Bryan is a lifelong resident of New Jersey. He currently resides in Haddonfield with his wife Rebecca and their two children. □

Director's Advisory Council to be Formed

The Division of Taxation is proud to announce the formation of the Tax Director's Advisory Council (the "Council" or "TDAC"). The purpose of the Council will be:

1. To provide a public forum for communication between New Jersey's Tax Director and representatives of the public interested in New Jersey tax policy, and
2. To provide ideas, input, and perspective to the New Jersey Tax Director, assisting him in developing tax policy and identifying improvements in the administration of New Jersey's taxes and to offer constructive observations regarding current or proposed New Jersey tax policies.

Applicants must have a strong tax or business background, excellent communication skills, practical tax administration experience and knowledge, and the ability to interact in a diversified environment. In addition, applicants should describe and document their qualifications for membership, including the applicant's past and current affiliations and dealings with a particular tax segment of the community that he/she wishes to represent on the council.

The TDAC is comprised of no more than fifteen (15) members. It is important that the TDAC represent a diverse taxpayer and stakeholder base. Accordingly, to maintain membership diversity, selection will be based on the applicant's qualifications and areas of expertise. To be fully considered, an applicant's background should include several of the following:

- Application of tax law expertise to resolve complex tax issues;
- Development and implementation of customer service initiatives and tools;
- Systems management and improvement, and change management;
- Establishment of successful strategic partnerships; and,
- Demonstrable ability to examine situations from a "macro" perspective.

Anyone interested in becoming a member of the Council should review the Charter and submit a completed application by September 15, 2010. Applicants will be notified shortly thereafter regarding their appointment to the Council.

Applications should be postmarked, faxed, or e-mailed on or before September 15, 2010. Applications should be sent to: Division of Taxation, P.O. Box 240, Trenton, NJ 08695 or faxed to 609-984-2061 or e-mailed to NJTax.Advisory.Council@treas.state.nj.us

Contributions to Health Savings Accounts — An employer inquired if contributions to health savings accounts are included as taxable income.

The Division replied that the New Jersey Gross Income Tax Act does not allow any deduction for contributions made to a health savings account, which refers to an account established under IRC §223. Therefore, any contributions made by an employer or employee to a health savings account under IRC §223 are includible in gross income subject to tax, including for purposes of withholding tax.

NOTE: Contributions to a health savings account must be distinguished from contributions made to a medical savings account established under IRC §220. Under N.J.S.A. 54A:3-4(a), qualified contributions to a medical savings account established under IRC §220 are excludable from income subject to gross income tax, provided all IRC limitations and requirements are satisfied, which generally dictate that the account must have been established prior to 2008.

Treatment of Nonwage Income Under Military Spouses Residency Relief Act — A spouse of a member of the military inquired about the treatment of nonwage income under the Federal Military Spouses Residency Relief Act.

The Federal Military Spouses Residency Relief Act is effective for the 2009 income tax year and thereafter. The Act allows a military servicemember's nonmilitary spouse to keep a tax domicile throughout the marriage and while moving from state to state, as long as the spouse moves into a state to be with a servicemember who is in the state on military orders. The spouse (treated as a nonresident of New Jersey under the pertinent laws) inquired whether the Federal protections apply to income earned from a business carried on within New Jersey.

The Division responded by explaining that the Federal protection applies to earned income that is salaries, wages, tips, professional fees, and other compensation received for personal services. The Division informed the nonresident spouse that income from New Jersey sources such as income or gain from property located in the state, or income from a business, trade, or profession carried on in the state, does not qualify for Federal relief and is subject to New Jersey gross income tax.

Litter Control Fee

Trade Books and Textbooks Not Subject to Litter Control Fee — The Division received a letter regarding the applicability of the litter control fee to the business's sales of trade and textbooks. According to the bookseller, the industry term "trade book" refers to any book other than one commonly referred to as a "textbook."

The law defining litter-generating products provides for 15 litter-generating product categories, including "paper products and household paper." Years ago, the Division had taken the position that books fall within the litter-generating product list as "paper products and household paper."

The Division later modified that position pursuant to the Tax Court's disposition in Random House, Inc. v. Director, Division of Taxation, 22 N.J. Tax 485 (Tax Court 2005), affirmed 23 N.J. Tax 291 (Superior Court Appellate Division 2006). In that case, the Court determined that books did not fall within the scope of “litter-generating products.”

The regulation currently defines the category “paper products and household paper” to include “all items of tangible personal property made or substantially derived from paper including all paper products for home or other personal use but does not include newspapers, magazines, books and roll stock produced by paper product manufacturers and wood pulp, sold as such.” N.J.A.C. 18:38-3.1. (emphasis added)

The bookseller was advised that it need not include its sales of trade and textbooks in its gross receipts of litter-generating products for purposes of the litter control fee. Also, receipts from sales of newspapers and magazines are not subject to the fee. N.J.A.C. 18:38-3.1. On the other hand, other publications and paper products, such as brochures, maps, stationery, and journals (and any other “litter-generating products”) sold by booksellers are subject to the fee.

Sales and Use Tax

Campground Site Fee — The Division received an inquiry concerning whether the operator of a campground must charge sales tax on the fee charged for a camper to use a campground site.

The Division replied that this fee is not subject to sales tax. The Division considers the transaction to be the rental of real property. The charge for using a campground site is not treated as “rent for...occupancy of a room or rooms in a hotel.” Therefore, the charge is not subject to sales tax or to the State occupancy fee or the municipal occupancy tax.

Certificate of Authority Requirements at a Flea Market — The operator of a flea market wrote to the Division with questions concerning a Certificate of Authority to collect sales tax. The Division responded by explaining that the sellers of taxable merchandise, prepared foods, or services, etc. at a flea market must have a New Jersey Certificate of Authority to collect sales tax.

The Division of Taxation advises the operators of flea markets to make sure that every seller having taxable transactions at the flea market has a New Jersey Certificate of Authority to collect sales tax. The operator of the flea market can accept a certificate that has the first six digits replaced (xxx-xxx-123/000) because the Division of Revenue now sends the certificates in that format for privacy reasons. The Certificate of Authority issued to a seller (concessionaire) is required to be displayed at the table, stand, motor vehicle, or other merchandising device used at their business location. These certificates are non-assignable and nontransferable.

Further information for flea market operators and sellers is found in publication ANJ-15, Flea Markets and New Jersey Sales Tax, available on the Division of Taxation’s Web site at: www.state.nj.us/treasury/taxation/pdf/pubs/sales/anj15.pdf

Leased Property Relocated Outside New Jersey — The Division responded to an inquiry regarding the application of the New Jersey Sales and Use Tax Act to a lease transaction for property leased in New Jersey. The lease in question is a lease for one year, for which the lessor must charge sales tax at the beginning of the lease based on the total of the periodic payments due (or based on the original purchase price of the property). See N.J.S.A. 54:32B-7(d).

If the property originally leased in New Jersey is permanently relocated to another state before the expiration of the lease, the lessee is entitled to a partial refund of the amount of sales tax paid. The partial refund is based on the sales tax allocable to the portion of the lease or rental that remains in effect after the property is removed from New Jersey. N.J.S.A. 54:32B-7(d).

For motor vehicle leases or rentals which require periodic payments by the lessee, each periodic payment is sourced to the primary property location. The “primary property location” is the address provided by the lessee and maintained in the lessor’s ordinary business records, provided that the address is used in good faith. N.J.S.A. 54:32B-3.1(c).

The Division’s policy, based on the sourcing rules, is to permit a partial refund if the vehicle’s primary property location is no longer in New Jersey.

The lessee may request a refund from the State of New Jersey by filing Form A-3730, Claim for Refund. The application for a refund must be filed within four years from the date of payment of the sales tax. The form is available on the Division’s Web site at: www.state.nj.us/treasury/taxation/pdf/other_forms/sales/a3730.pdf

For filing the refund claim, the lessee must provide documentation of payment of sales tax and documentation demonstrating that the primary property location of the vehicle is now outside of the State (e.g., copy of the registration of the vehicle with New York or another state).

Administration

Notification – Damon Dash v. Director, Division of Taxation, Docket No. 015538-2009, decided April 6, 2010.

Judge Narayanan granted the Director’s motion to dismiss the complaint.

Damon Dash maintained that the assessment underlying the Certificate of Debt (COD) should be reviewed by the Court because his accountant and tax preparer never forwarded him the Director’s assessment notices.

Judge Narayanan stated:

Even if Dash’s assertion of the accountant’s failure to forward him the Notices of Deficiency is true, this unfortunate circumstance was not caused by, and thus, cannot be attributed to the Director. The Director reasonably, and as permitted by the statute, used Dash’s last known address on his last filed GIT return to mail the notices of deficiency, which address was that of Dash’s tax preparer. Unless notified or directed otherwise, the Director cannot speculate or envision a breakdown in business/professional relations or lack of communications between Dash and his accountant, and be therefore required to investigate Dash’s address each time before mailing the Notices of Deficiency. Nothing was provided to the court to establish that the Director was given specific instructions/notice either to not use the accountant’s address or to use some other address.

The court cannot undo the assessment underlying the COD docketed for tax years 2000-2002. See R. 8:3-5(b)(2), (a “challenge to a tax assessment” contained in the COD “may be reviewed [by the Tax Court] only if the applicable period for filing a complaint to challenge this assessment had not previously expired”). See also, Kowasaki v. Director, Division of Taxation, 13 N.J. Tax 160 (Tax 1993) (noting that the COD is a collection mechanism only, and does not provide an independent basis to challenge the Director’s tax assessment if the time for such challenge has expired).

Corporation Business Tax

IRS Adjustment – General Motors Acceptance Corporation v. Director, Division of Taxation, Docket No. 010743-2007, decided February 18, 2010.

On September 14, 2001, General Motors Acceptance Corporation (GMAC) filed its 2000 corporation business tax return. On the return, GMAC reported a 50% dividend exclusion for dividends attributable to its subsidiary, Opel.

The Internal Revenue Service audited GMAC’s 2000 return and assessed income adjustments. On November 7, 2005, GMAC timely submitted to the Division of Taxation its report of the Federal audit which increased its New Jersey tax liability. In addition to the Federal audit report, GMAC also submitted that it was entitled to a 100% dividends received exclusion from Opel rather than the 50% exclusion it originally reported. Essentially, GMAC realized that it erred when it originally filed because its percentage of ownership of Opel qualified for a 100% dividend exclusion rather than a 50% exclusion.

The Division denied the request for 100% dividend exclusion because both the statute of limitations had expired and GMAC was not entitled to an offset on this assessment resulting from the Federal audit change.

Judge Bianco concluded:

GMAC is only entitled to an offset during ‘the time in which a deficiency assessment of that tax may be made.’ N.J.S.A. 54:49-16(b). GMAC is not entitled to an offset because either the Director’s ability to make a deficiency assessment is barred by N.J.S.A. 54:49-6(b) or GMAC’s claim does not relate to a change or correction by the Commissioner, as required by N.J.S.A. 54:10A-13. Nor is GMAC entitled to an offset under the doctrine of recoupment because there were two taxable events.

Nexus – Telebright Corporation, Inc. v. Director, Division of Taxation, Docket No. 011066-2008, decided March 24, 2010.

Telebright Corporation, Inc., is a software company having its principal place of business in Maryland. It does not maintain an office nor does it solicit sales in New Jersey.

In 2001, Telebright hired Ms. Thirumalai to develop and write software code. At the time, Ms. Thirumalai lived in Maryland. In 2004, she moved to New Jersey and Telebright retained her as a salaried employee, where she worked from home. Telebright withheld and remitted New Jersey gross income tax from her salary. Ms. Thirumalai received and performed her work assignments at her New Jersey home via computer and telephone.

The Court concluded that a “foreign corporation that regularly and consistently permits its employee to work each business day at a New Jersey residence is doing business in this State and must file Corporation Business Tax returns.” The Court found that Telebright satisfied factors one, three, and four of the “doing business” regulation N.J.A.C. 18:7-1.9(a). Further, the Court found that Telebright’s constitutional claims were unavailing.

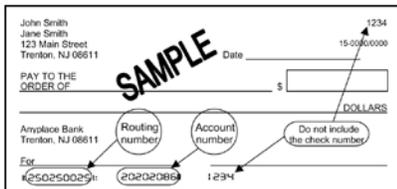

Gross Income Tax Deduction From Wages – Kit Ching Ng v. Director, Division of Taxation, Docket No. 000007-2009, decided March 22, 2010.

Judge Narayanan granted the Director’s summary judgment motion and dismissed the plaintiff’s complaint.

Plaintiff, Ms. Ng, is a New Jersey resident. She is a registered securities representative. For tax year 2006, Ms. Ng was an employee of Morgan Stanley. On her New Jersey income tax return she reported an amount less than what was listed on the W-2 she received from Morgan Stanley.

In an explanation attached to her return, Ms. Ng stated that she deducted from her Morgan Stanley wages the amount of the annual consulting fee she had paid her former boss at Morgan Stanley. After her former boss retired, Ms. Ng took over and began managing her customer stock portfolio accounts in November 1999. Ms. Ng and the former boss had “reached an agreement” whereby she undertook to pay the former boss an annual consulting fee based on her gross commissions. According to Ms. Ng, this fee reduced her gross income as “an expense directly related to her earning of commissions,” rather than an unreimbursed employee expense; therefore, she deducted the amount of the consulting fee from the wages reported on her income tax return.

Judge Narayanan opined:

The Director’s regulations reflect the above stated statutory scheme, in that income earned by an employee from his or her employment cannot be offset by any deductions. Thus, N.J.A.C. 18:35-1.2(a) states that an employee “shall not deduct from gross income any costs and expenses incurred in connection with such employment. N.J.A.C. 18:35-1.2(b) elaborates this principle by reiterating that “all earnings in connection with employment” including commissions, must be reported only under the wage income category (N.J.S.A. 54A:5-1(a)) and “in no case” can the same be reported as “net profits from business” under N.J.S.A. 54A:5-1(b).

Ng does not contend that she is entitled to deduct the consulting fees paid to her former boss because she is engaged in an independent securities trading business (whether as a sole proprietor or otherwise). Rather, she seeks to deduct these fees from her commissions earned as an employee of Morgan Stanley. However, such a deduction is impermissible pursuant to N.J.S.A. 54A:5-1(a), the implementing regulations, and precedent in this connection.

of his or her residence, including the characteristics of the property, the circumstances surrounding the purchase, and the purchase price, constitutes sufficient evidence to preclude dismissal of the taxpayer's appeal for lack of prosecution. As a result of this holding, the defendant Township of Pemberton's motions pursuant to N.J.S.A. 54:51A-1(c)(2) to dismiss the complaints in these matters for failure to prosecute before the Burlington County Board of Taxation were denied.

The three plaintiffs, Mr. Arnold Austin, Ms. Ana Ramirez, and Mr. Sultan Muhammed, filed timely appeals of the assessments of their respective properties with the Burlington County Board of Taxation. All plaintiffs were represented by the same legal counsel.

The first to testify before the County Tax Board was Mr. Austin. He purchased his residence about 15 months prior to the October 1, 2008, relevant property valuation date. Mr. Austin described the physical condition of his property, the circumstances surrounding the purchase, and the purchase price. In addition, Mr. Austin testified that the property is affected by loud noise from Fort Dix, a neighboring military base, information not known to him prior to the closing on his purchase. He offered the view that this evidence was relevant to the fair market value of the property on October 1, 2008. According to the plaintiffs' uncontested submissions, after hearing Mr. Austin's testimony the Burlington County Tax Administrator stated "no comps equals no evidence" and advised the County Tax Board to dismiss the appeal. In response to a question posed by the County Tax Administrator, Mr. Muhammed and Ms. Ramirez maintained they planned to rely entirely on testimony of the type given by the first taxpayer, Mr. Austin, without providing comparable sales or an expert witness. Thereafter, the County Tax Board refused to hear any testimony from these taxpayers.

On June 12, 2009, the County Tax Board entered judgments dismissing all three of the plaintiffs' appeals for failure to prosecute. The plaintiffs filed timely complaints with the Tax Court challenging the County Tax Board's judgments. The Township of Pemberton moved to dismiss the complaints pursuant to N.J.S.A. 54:51A-1(c)(2) because the County Tax Board had dismissed the three matters for failure to prosecute.

The Tax Court concluded that where a taxpayer or counsel appears at a County Tax Board hearing, the appeal is properly dismissed for lack of prosecution only if the taxpayer or counsel fails to produce "some evidence" of the value of the subject property. The distinction between a failure to produce sufficient evidence and a failure to prosecute is significant. Dismissal of an appeal by a County Tax Board where the taxpayer produces some, but insufficient, evidence of value will not preclude further review by the Tax Court. However, in Pipquarryco, Inc. v. Borough of Hamburg, 15 N.J.

Tax 413 (Tax 1996) the Court held that dismissal of an appeal because a taxpayer has not produced even some evidence of value before a County Tax Board equates to a dismissal for failure to prosecute and deprives the Tax Court of jurisdiction.

The Tax Court is vested with the power to determine, de novo, whether there has been a failure to prosecute before the County Tax Board within the intendment of N.J.S.A. 54:51A-1(c)(2) and whether dismissal for lack of prosecution by a County Tax Board was warranted.

The Tax Court concurred with the analyses in VSH Realty, Inc. v. Township of Harding, 291 N.J. Super. 295, 15 N.J. Tax 653 (Appellate Division 1996) and Ganifas Trust v. City of Wildwood, 15 N.J. Tax 722 (Appellate Division 1996). It was with these positive and negative precedents the Tax Court concluded that Mr. Austin satisfied the "some evidence" standard established in N.J.A.C. 18:12A-1.9(e) when he offered testimony regarding the circumstances of his purchase of the subject property, the purchase price, and the property's characteristics. In reaching this decision, the Tax Court was guided by the Appellate Division's opinion in Passarella v. Township of Wall, 22 N.J. Tax 600

(Appellate Division 2004). In that case, the Tax Court granted the municipality's motion to dismiss at the close of the plaintiff's case, where the only evidence produced was the testimony of an expert appraiser regarding the taxpayer's purchase of the subject property a year and a half prior to the relevant valuation date. The Appellate Division reversed, stating it is well established that the price established by an arms-length sale of a property is probative of its fair market value. The Appellate Division held the taxpayer presented sufficient evidence that true value was equal to purchase price.

In light of that holding, the Tax Court concluded that Mr. Austin presented some evidence of value when he testified regarding his purchase of the subject property. While the plaintiff's testimony may have been, in the County Tax Board's view, insufficient for a determination of value, that fact was not relevant to the outcome. Mr. Austin's decision to rely on his own testimony without obtaining an expert appraisal does not amount to a failure to prosecute his appeal. The Tax Court maintained that Mr. Austin appeared at the hearing with counsel and made a good faith effort to explain why he believed the assessment on his property was incorrect and that he did not act in a deliberate and contumacious manner or make a sham appearance before the County Tax Board.

Whether ultimately successful or not, testimony of the type presented by Mr. Austin would satisfy the "some evidence" standard of N.J.A.C. 18:12A-1.9(e) and preclude a finding of failure to prosecute. The type of testimony these taxpayers intended to offer would have satisfied the "some evidence" standard sufficient to avoid dismissal for lack of prosecution had they been permitted to proceed by the County Tax Board. Since Ms. Ramirez and Mr. Muhammed were not permitted to present any evidence before the County Tax Board, dismissal of their appeals for lack of prosecution was not warranted and cannot be sustained.

The Tax Court was aware of the high caseload and short statutory time frame for resolving appeals at County Tax Boards. It was the opinion of the Court that all facets of the tax administration system, including the Tax Court and the County Tax Boards, cannot lose sight of the fact that these venues exist to provide taxpayers and taxing districts with a meaningful forum for the principled resolution of tax disputes.

Sales and Use Tax

Jurisdiction – Scott Frybarger, t/a Titan Power Equipment, Inc. v. New Jersey Department of Treasury, Docket No. A-2410-08T3, decided April 20, 2010.

This case was heard in the New Jersey Superior Court, Appellate Division on appeal from the New Jersey Superior Court, Law Division.

The Director had previously prevailed in court decisions from the United States Federal District Court and the New Jersey Superior Court, Law Division on this matter.

Mr. Frybarger, a resident from Florida, sent a tractor-trailer full of construction equipment to New Jersey to be sold. Mr. Frybarger hired individuals from Ohio to drive around New Jersey construction sites and sell the merchandise. The individuals from Ohio were responsible for picking the equipment up from a New Jersey site and driving the equipment to prospective customers located in New Jersey. Once a construction site foreman saw equipment that he was interested in, the Ohio driver would make a phone call to Mr. Frybarger who would finalize the deal. Sales tax had not been remitted on these transactions.

Mr. Frybarger's appeal alleged constitutional violations by the defendant, including illegal search and seizure, confiscation of property, infringement of right to interstate travel, and invasion of privacy.

The New Jersey Superior Court, Appellate Division ruling stated:

Current Amnesty Programs

The following jurisdiction(s) are conducting tax amnesty program(s). During the designated amnesty periods, taxpayers have a chance to pay back taxes with reduced (or eliminated) penalty and/or interest. Here, a sales tax obligation was triggered by the sale of plaintiff's equipment in New Jersey. "The combination of physical presence in New Jersey and transfer of possession [of the equipment] in New Jersey is sufficient to impose on [plaintiff] an obligation to collect the sales and use tax in a two-party transaction." Steelcase, Inc. v. Director, Division of Taxation.

Even if, as plaintiff suggests, the subcontractors made each sale, plaintiff remains liable for the collection and turnover of sales taxes, as "the same principles that govern two-party transactions also apply to three-party transactions." Ibid. As the vendor and owner of the seized equipment, plaintiff became liable for incurred taxes when equipment was transferred in New Jersey upon his approval for each sale. Therefore, plaintiff retains the obligation to collect the sales or use tax for all transactions that are not otherwise qualified exempt sales.

We reject as unfounded plaintiff's contentions that defendant's seizure of his property violated his constitutional rights "protected by 42 U.S.C.A. Section 1983".... Plaintiff's claim that defendant performed an unlawful warrantless search and seizure and assertion of a right to jury trial are without merit and do not warrant extensive discussion. R. 2:11-3(e)(1)(E).... Our review discerns no "fraudulent representation" by defendant or its investigators in exercising its authorized power to issue a warrant of execution for jeopardy assessment of delinquent taxes, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 54:32B-22 and N.J.S.A. 54:49-13a.... With regard to the confiscation of plaintiff's property in partial satisfaction of the assessment, no Fourth Amendment protections, made applicable to the states by the Fourteenth Amendment were infringed.... The open seizure of plaintiff's trailer and its contents were within the scope of defendant's statutory authority and violated no protected privacy interest.... We conclude plaintiff's failure to comply with the jurisdictional prerequisites to having tax matters heard is a fatal flaw barring his requested relief. □

In Our Legislature Alcoholic Beverage Tax

Renewal of Lapsed Alcoholic Beverage Retail Licenses — P.L. 2010, c.14, signed into law on May 6, 2010, and effective immediately, extends the time period for renewal of lapsed alcoholic beverage retail licenses by permitting an issuing authority to issue a new retail license to a licensee who did not file a timely renewal application but files an application for a new license within one year after the expiration of the license renewal period. New license issuance is permissible subject to certain determinations by the Director of the Division of Alcoholic Beverage Control. The licensee would be required to pay the municipal and State renewal fees for the year for which a timely renewal application was not filed.

The licensee must file the request no later than one year after the expiration of the license renewal period for the license which was not renewed in a timely manner. A filing fee of $100 is payable to the Director for each license term.

A new license issued pursuant to this bill would be assigned the same license number as the lapsed license.

The Act establishes a grandfather clause for those licensees whose licenses expired within the five-year period immediately preceding the date of this law's enactment if the licensee applies for the new license within six months of the effective date of the new law and pays the municipal and State renewal fees for each year for which a timely renewal application was not filed.

Corporation Business Tax Temporary Reduction of the Tax Benefit Certificate Transfer Program and the Film and Digital Media Tax Credits — P.L. 2010,

c.20, signed into law on June 30, 2010, and effective immediately, temporarily reduces the annual cap imposed on the corporation business tax benefit certificate transfer program available to certain technology and biotechnology companies. It also temporarily suspends the tax credits provided for qualified film and qualified digital media content production expenses under the corporation business tax and gross income tax.

The new law reduces the annual cap imposed on the corporation business tax benefit certificate transfer program for new or expanding emerging technology and biotechnology companies in New Jersey from the current $60 million-per-year limitation to $30 million in fiscal year 2011.

It proportionally reduces the current set-aside for innovation zone-located companies under the program from $10 million per year to $5 million during the same period of time. The change in the annual limitation and the modification to the set-aside apply to the surrender of transferable tax benefits in fiscal year 2011.

The Act also temporarily suspends the corporation business tax and gross income tax credits for qualified film production expenses and the corporation business tax credit for qualified digital media content production expenses by effectively reducing the existing annual tax credit caps from $10 million per year for film and $5 million per year for digital media content to $0 for film and digital media content in fiscal year 2011. The law provides that the temporary suspension of tax credits applies to the authorization of new credits and the application of previously authorized credits in the upcoming fiscal year. It does not affect the carryover of unused film and digital media tax credits previously allowed or which may be allowed following the suspension.

Finally, the Act requires the State Treasurer to prepare and file a report regarding the effectiveness of the tax benefit certificate transfer program and the film and digital media tax credits in meeting their statutory goals and objectives.

Gross Income Tax

Reduction in Earned Income Tax Credit—P.L. 2010, c.27, was signed into law on June 30, 2010, and is effective immediately. It applies to taxable years beginning on or after January 1, 2010.

Commencing with tax year 2010 and thereafter, the Act reduces the benefit amount provided under the New Jersey earned income tax credit (EITC) program as a percentage of the Federal earned income credit. Previously, the EITC program provided a refundable credit for New Jersey income tax purposes equal to 25% of the Federal earned income credit. The new law reduces the New Jersey credit to 20% of the Federal benefit.

Temporary Reduction of the Tax Benefit Certificate Transfer Program and the Film and Digital Media Tax Credits— See Corporation Business Tax.

Miscellaneous

Modification to the New Jersey Economic Stimulus Act of 2009—P.L. 2010, c.10, which was signed into law on May 5, 2010, modifies provisions of the New Jersey Economic Stimulus Act of 2009 (P.L. 2009, c.90). The Act is effective immediately; however, section 1 and sections 3 through 9 are retroactive to July 28, 2009 (the date of enactment of P.L. 2009, c.90), and section 2 applies to applications submitted for the 2010 technology business tax certificate transfer program.

The Act revises the definition of “biotechnology company” to clarify that only a company sufficiently involved in biotechnology may participate in the program. Eligible companies must have fewer than 225 employees in the United States as of June 30 and as of the date of the exchange of the tax benefit certificate. Additional employee thresholds must also be met.

The Act added to the definition of “qualifying economic redevelopment and growth grant incentive area” in section 3 of P.L. 2009, c.90 (C. 52:27D-489c). It means Planning Area One (Metropolitan), Planning Area Two (Suburban), or a center as designated by the State Planning Commission; a pinelands regional growth area, a pinelands town management area, a pinelands village, or a military and Federal installation area established pursuant to the pinelands comprehensive management plan adopted pursuant to P.L. 1979, c.111 (C.13:18A-1 et seq.); a transit village, as determined by the Commissioner of Transportation; and Federally owned land approved for closure under a Federal Base Realignment Closing Commission Action.

The Act also ensures that ordinances that are authorized to be adopted pursuant to the New Jersey Economic Stimulus Act of 2009 (which would include those required under the Economic Redevelopment and Growth Grant Program provisions) will not be subject to delays from public referendum challenges in those municipalities in which general initiative and referendum is authorized. The statutes contain other provisions to ensure that certain types of ordinances are not subject to public changes through initiative and referendum and ordinances adopted for the purpose of providing economic stimulus require swift implementation and should not be impeded through the referendum process.

Motor Fuel Tax

Motor Fuel Tax Act — P.L. 2010, c.22, was signed into law on June 30, 2010. The Act is effective immediately; however, sections 1 through 21, 29 through 49, and 53 through 56 will remain inoperative until October 1, 2010.

The Act modernizes the system for assessing the taxes on highway motor vehicles. Those taxes are principally dedicated by the New Jersey Constitution to the costs of the State transportation system.

The law changes the point of taxation of diesel fuel from the retail level to the level at which it is removed from the bulk fuel storage and distribution system of refineries, pipelines, ships, and barges at a terminal. It also changes the point of taxation of gasoline from the distributor level to the terminal level.

The Act includes requirements for transporting and labeling dyed fuel, and penalties for mishandling dyed (tax-exempt) fuel and for using dyed fuel in highway vehicles. The law also authorizes the co-collection of petroleum products gross receipts tax with the motor fuel taxes when feasible. □

State Treasurer Sworn In

Andrew P. Sidamon-Eristoff was nominated by Governor Chris Christie as State Treasurer and assumed the duties of Acting State Treasurer on January 19, 2010. On March 2, 2010, having received Senate confirmation, he was officially sworn in as the Treasurer of the State of New Jersey.

Mr. Sidamon-Eristoff is an accomplished leader in public sector budget, revenue, and tax system administration. Prior to his nomination, from 2003 to 2006, Mr. Sidamon-Eristoff served as Commissioner of the New York State Department of Taxation and Finance, the nation's second-largest state revenue administration.

From 1999 to 2002, he served as New York City Commissioner of Finance and as a three-times elected member of the New York City Council from 1993 to 1999.

Between 2006 and 2008, Mr. Sidamon-Eristoff performed a series of short-term consulting assignments for Chemonics International, an international development consulting firm then executing a business climate reform project in the Republic of Georgia for the United States Agency for International Development.

Mr. Sidamon-Eristoff is currently a member of the Internal Revenue Service's Electronic Tax Administration Advisory Committee and is a former President of the North Eastern States Tax Officials Association and board member of the Federation of Tax Administrators.

Mr. Sidamon-Eristoff earned a bachelor's degree, cum laude, from Princeton University and a juris doctor degree, cum laude, from Georgetown University Law Center. He also earned an Advanced Professional Certificate in Information Technology from New York University.

He is married to the former Catherine E. Baxter and they have three children. □

Tax Expenditure Report

P.L. 2009, c.189, signed into law on January 12, 2010, by Governor Jon Corzine, requires a State tax expenditure report to be included in the Governor’s annual budget message, commencing with the Governor’s FY 2011 budget message.

The statute requires the reporting of all State tax expenditures made in the last completed fiscal year, the current fiscal year, and the fiscal year to which the budget message applies. The subject years for the first report issued on March 1, 2010, are: FY 2009, FY 2010, and FY 2011. This report also complies with the spirit of Governor Chris Christie’s Executive Order No. 8, which was issued on January 20, 2010.

“State tax expenditure” means those revenue losses attributable to provisions of State tax law which establish special tax treatment, including but not limited to tax law definition, deduction, exclusion, exemption, deferral, credit, preferential tax rate, or other special tax provision resulting in a reduced tax liability for certain persons, individuals, types of income, transactions, or property from the liability which would be presumed to exist without the State tax expenditure.

The March 2010 report presented a summary table of the State tax expenditures, segregated by grant or tax and by category of tax expenditure. The body of the report provides a more detailed explanation of each tax and the tax expenditure(s) available under that levy.

For the purposes of this report, the Division of Taxation considers “tax expenditures” to be only those provided explicitly under statute, whether under the enabling statute or subsequent provision modifying the original statute. Primarily, those statutory provisions allow for three categories of preferential tax treatment: exemptions, deductions, and credits.

The tax expenditure report was a collaborative venture and represents the work of various units within and outside the Division of Taxation: the Office of Revenue and Economic Analysis, the Regulatory Services Bureau, the Audit and Local Property Tax Branches, the Disclosure Office, and the Office of Legislative Analysis from the Division of Taxation; as well as the Economic Development Authority and the Division of Revenue. John Kelly, Chief of the Office of Legislative Analysis, coordinated the preparation of the first report on behalf of the Division of Taxation, Department of the Treasury.

The March 2010 State tax expenditure report is available on the Division of Taxation’s Web site at: www.state.nj.us/treasury/taxation/pdf/expenditure_report_final.pdf □

The Commission may make use of existing studies, data, or other materials in the possession of the Division and may request the assistance and services of the Division's employees.

The Commission's reviews include an analysis of the fiscal impact of any reviewed bill or resolution, any comments upon or recommendations concerning the legislation, and any alternatives to the legislation which the Commission may wish to suggest. It is the responsibility of the Commission's executive secretary to reduce these recommendations to written form.

At the end of each calendar year, the Commission must submit an annual report on its activities to the Legislature. It may also issue periodic reports concerning sales and use tax base expansion or reduction legislation.

The Commission met on March 24, 2010, where it reviewed 59 proposed sales and use tax bills. Eight of the nine sitting commissioners participated in the meeting. The Commission recommended in favor of the enactment of 4 bills and against the enactment of 55 bills. INSURANCE PREMIUMS TAX

Dental Service Corporations

N.J.A.C. 54:18A-9(b)3, enacted on June 29, 2009, includes Dental Service Corporations (DSCs) in its definition of "insurance companies" for the calendar year January 1, 2009, through December 31, 2009.

- DSCs are subject to the new group accident and health insurance tax rate of 1.35% plus the additional 0.05% tax dedicated to the Department of Banking and Insurance, for a total tax rate of 1.40%. Premiums and the applicable tax amounts are to be indicated on the "Group Accident and Health" line when filing the tax form and remitting the tax liability, due and payable on March 1, 2010.
- DSCs are to file using the applicable 2009 insurance premiums tax forms: Domestic Companies Other Than Life (DEM) or Foreign or Alien Companies Other Than Life (EM). The forms can be found on the Division of Taxation's Web site at: www.state.nj.us/treasury/taxation/prntins.shtml

- An original copy of the return must be filed with the Department of Banking and Insurance at the address indicated on the return.
- DSCs are not required to make prepayments due to the temporary nature of their subjectivity.
- DSCs are permitted to remit their tax payment by check, along with their tax return, regardless of the check amount. They will not be required to remit tax payments over $10,000 by electronic funds transfer (EFT), due to the temporary nature of their subjectivity. □

Criminal Enforcement

Criminal enforcement over the past several months included:

- In November 2009, special agents from the Office of Criminal Investigation responded to the Palisades Interstate Parkway Police Headquarters in Alpine, New Jersey.

Officers of the Palisades Interstate Parkway Police Department (PIPPD) had stopped a commercial vehicle (which is not allowed on the Palisades Interstate Parkway) and found the occupants in possession of 2,400 cartons of Native American/Mohawk-manufactured cigarettes which were being transported from the Mohawk reservation at the Canadian border to a reservation on Long Island, New York. Charges were for fourth-degree possession of contraband cigarettes, third-degree failure to keep records with intent to evade and avoid, fourth-degree doing business requiring licensure without first having obtained license, third-degree possession/transportation of cigarettes not part of the master settlement agreement, disorderly persons charge of transportation of untaxed cigarettes, and disorderly persons charge of no consumer license. Both subjects were arrested by a special agent of the Office of Criminal Investigation, processed at the PIPPD, and remanded to the Bergen County Jail in lieu of $57,000 bail each, no 10% (surety bond only).

- In December 2009, Jerry Smith of Sparta, New Jersey, was sentenced to seven years in State prison by Superior Court Judge Salem Vincent Ahto in Morris County. Smith pled guilty on October 6, 2009, to an accusation charging him with second-degree misapplication of entrusted property and third-degree failure to pay New Jersey income taxes. Smith was treasurer of the Pleasant Hill Cemetery Association and a member of its board of trustees for more than 20 years.

As treasurer, Smith had control of Pleasant Hill's finances and bookkeeping, including custody and control of income from plot sales and burials. In February 2008, the cemetery's superintendent found discrepancies in financial reports prepared by Smith and reported them to the board of trustees. The charges stem from a joint investigation by the Division of Criminal Justice and the Division of Taxation. In pleading guilty, Smith admitted that between January 2000 and February 2008 he misappropriated $611,590 in cemetery association funds, which he used for his personal benefit. Smith further admitted that in filing joint personal income tax returns with the State of New Jersey for himself and his wife for the years 2000 through 2008 he failed to report the misappropriated funds as income, resulting in the couple's failure to pay $25,304 in taxes owed. Under the plea agreement, Smith executed consent orders to pay restitution of $607,590 to the Pleasant Hill Cemetery Association, representing the amount stolen less $4,000 he previously repaid, and $42,021 to the Division of Taxation, representing the taxes owed plus fines and penalties. The judge ordered Smith to continue to make restitution payments from his fixed income while in prison.

- On January 6, 2010, before Superior Court Judge Francis R. Hodgson in Ocean County, James Hankins, Jr. was sentenced to a 20-year prison term with a 10-year parole ineligibility based on his October 13, 2009, guilty plea to one count of financial facilitation of a criminal activity, commonly known as money laundering, one count of failing to file a tax return, and one count of failure to pay taxes on the proceeds. Investors, primarily in Ocean and Monmouth County, gave Hankins almost $18 million with which Hankins said that he would purchase interests in life insurance policies of terminally ill individuals. No policies were ever purchased. Instead, Hankins operated a typical Ponzi scheme by paying returns to some investors in order to entice others to invest. Hankins funded his lavish lifestyle, returning only $11.7 million to the victims. Hankins, a New Jersey resident, failed to file tax returns and pay taxes on his income for tax years 2004, 2005, 2006, and 2007. Hankins' liability for taxes due to the New Jersey Division of Taxation totaled $571,202.79 for the years in question, not including penalties and interest.

- During the period of January 2009 through December 2009, the Division of Taxation's Office of Criminal Investigation prevented the payment of 2,742 fraudulent refunds, totaling $5,266,103. The methods employed to save the Treasury of the State of New Jersey from being defrauded are threefold. First, losses are prevented by earmarking accounts with a fraud indicator, essentially causing refunds to be denied. Secondly, through a twice-weekly manual review, refund checks are pulled prior to mailing and/or payment is stopped on checks already issued. Lastly, working in conjunction with the Division of Revenue, returns are manually identified as fraudulent prior to processing. These manual efforts extend beyond the scope of automatic system checks already in place. □

New Jersey Economic Development Authority Grants — Grants made under the Business Employment Incentive Program Act, N.J.S.A. 34:1B-124 et seq., are calculated pursuant to N.J.S.A. 34:1B-129. If a grant is made to a C corporation, the grant is deemed taxable income. The grant would be considered a New Jersey source receipt for apportionment purposes. If a grant is received by a conduit-type entity such as a partnership, limited liability corporation electing to be treated as a partnership, or subchapter S corporation, the grant is to be apportioned as taxable income among the persons to whom the income or profit of the partnership, limited liability corporation, subchapter S corporation, or other entity is distributed, in the same proportion as the income or profit is distributed.

Gross Income Tax

Treatment of Guaranteed Payments — The Division received a letter from a taxpayer representing a partnership concerning the gross income tax treatment of partnership guaranteed payments and whether those payments are subject to withholding when received by nonresident partners and considered wages for purposes of the Business Allocation Schedule, NJ-NR-A.

The partnership asked whether the guaranteed payments paid by the partnership should be treated as payroll for purposes of completing the business allocation schedule. The Division of Taxation answered that the guaranteed payments are not included in the payroll allocation factor because the payments are not treated as wages or salaries. The Division confirmed that the partnership was correct in its conclusion that guaranteed payments are not included in the payroll fraction on the NJ-NR-A or Schedule J for allocation purposes.

Guaranteed payments must be reported as distributive share of partnership income. N.J.A.C. 18:35-1.3(d)(3). However, if the guaranteed payments are paid to a retired partner who is receiving the payment pursuant to a retirement agreement or pension plan (in connection with a period of service to the partnership), the partner should report these guaranteed payments as pension income. N.J.A.C. 18:35-1.3(d)(3).

If a partnership has some or all of its income allocated to New Jersey, then the partnership must meet its nonresident partner tax payment requirements. Guaranteed payments made to nonresident partners are subject to tax as distributive share of partnership income.

2010 Conversion of a Traditional IRA to a Roth IRA — A taxpayer wrote to the Division of Taxation with a question related to the Federal Tax Increase Prevention and Reconciliation Act of 2005. The Federal law contains a provision that allows taxpayers, if they convert a traditional IRA to a Roth IRA in 2010, to spread the income (from the “distribution” from the traditional IRA) over a two-year period for Federal income tax purposes. The taxpayer inquired whether this treatment of the “conversion” income would apply for purposes of New Jersey gross income tax.

New Jersey conforms to the Federal Tax Increase Prevention and Reconciliation Act of 2005 provision regarding the reporting of a distribution from an IRA which the taxpayer converts into a Roth IRA in 2010. The taxpayer may choose to include the distribution in taxable income in 2010 or in equal amounts in 2011 and 2012. Taxpayers and tax practitioners should use the Division’s publication, GIT-2, IRA Withdrawals, to calculate the portion of the IRA distribution that is taxable for gross income tax purposes.

Sales and Use Tax

Molds and Dies Used in Manufacturing — The Division received an inquiry from a mold and tool shop concerning the taxability of custom molds and dies used in the manufacturing process.

The Sales and Use Tax Act provides an exemption for sales of machinery, apparatus, or equipment for use directly and primarily in the production of tangible property by manufacturing, processing, assembling, or refining. N.J.S.A. 54:32B-8.13(a). The exemption also includes parts with a useful life of greater than one year. A “part” is an “item used as a replacement for any portion of a machine and which is attached or affixed to the machine of which it is a part permanently or during periods of usage. A part cannot accomplish the work for which it was designed independent of the machine of which it is intended to be a component.” N.J.A.C. 18:24-4.2.

Molds and dies are considered a part of exempt manufacturing equipment. Thus, if the molds and dies have a useful life of greater than one year, they are entitled to the exemption. Useful life can often be determined by the accounting treatment afforded the property. In order to document this exemption, an Exempt Use Certificate (Form ST-4) must be provided by the purchaser. □

Nexus: Doing Business – Praxair Technology, Inc. v. Director, Division of Taxation, (A-91/92-08), decided December 15, 2009.

In a unanimous decision, the New Jersey Supreme Court reversed the Appellate Division, holding that an out-of-State taxpayer was subject to New Jersey's corporation business tax for the years 1994–1996, prior to the 1996 addition of an example to the regulation at N.J.A.C. 18:7-19.

Plaintiff Praxair Technology, Inc. (Praxair) is a Delaware corporation based in Connecticut that exists solely to own and license patents to corporate affiliates. Praxair's corporate parent manufactures and sells industrial gases throughout the United States, including New Jersey. From 1994 through 1999, Praxair's parent used Praxair's intellectual property in its New Jersey manufacturing facilities and paid licensing fees to Praxair for that use. During that period, Praxair did not file New Jersey corporation business tax returns or pay any New Jersey corporation business taxes.

The Director issued a notice of assessment to Praxair finding it subject to corporation business tax for the years 1994–1999, together with interest and late filing penalties. Following the completion of the informal administrative conference, the Director issued Praxair a final determination upholding the initial notice of assessment for corporation business tax and imposing additional interest and penalties.

One of the issues before the Tax Court was the assessment of corporation business tax for the years 1994–1996, under N.J.S.A. 54:10A-1, in light of the 1996 addition of an example to N.J.A.C. 18:7-19. The 1996 example stated that a foreign corporation that receives fees for licensing trademarks to New Jersey companies for use in New Jersey is subject to the corporation business tax. Praxair argued that the example expanded the Director's taxing power while the Director argued that the example represented no change in tax policy or obligations. The Tax Court rejected Praxair's claim that the Director's adoption of the 1996 example to N.J.A.C. 18:7-19 expanded the Director's taxing power and found Praxair liable for the corporation business tax.

Praxair appealed and the Appellate Division reversed. The panel found that the Tax Court erred in deciding Praxair's pre-1996 tax liability because it had given insufficient regard to the impact of the 1996 changes to the regulation.

The Director's petition for certification was granted by the Supreme Court along with Praxair's cross-petition. In reversing the Appellate Division's decision, the Supreme Court held that both Praxair's argument and the Appellate Division's reasoning were premised on an incorrect assumption that tax liability can somehow flow from the adoption of or amendment to a regulation. Praxair's activities were sufficient to constitute doing business in New Jersey for corporation business tax purposes both before and after the example was added.

Gross Income Tax

Alimony Income – Goldrick, Nancy L. v. Director, Division of Taxation, New Jersey Supreme Court C-115 September Term 2009, decided November 10, 2009.

On July 13, 2009, the Superior Court, Appellate Division, affirmed Judge Hayser's Tax Court decision, which granted the Division's summary judgment motion in this matter, stating:

In any event, the issue in this appeal is not whether an agreement to pay alimony post-mortem would be enforceable, but rather whether the Director of the Division of Taxation can treat payments that the parties to a divorce have themselves characterized as "alimony" as alimony for tax purposes even though those payments are required to continue even if one of the parties dies. We are satisfied that it was well within the Director's broad discretionary authority in the administration of the Gross Income Tax Act to treat such payments as "alimony" within the intent of N.J.S.A. 54A:5-1(n).

On November 10, 2009, the New Jersey Supreme Court denied the plaintiff's petition for certification.

Statute of Limitations – Aboaba, Akintade and Daunis v. Director, Division of Taxation, Docket No. 002022-2009, decided November 6, 2009.

The taxpayer was assessed for tax years 2004, 2005, and 2006 for under-reporting wage income.

Almost 219 days after the auditor had issued the notices of deficiency, the taxpayer filed a complaint in Tax Court.

Judge Hayser stated:

It is well established that the law frowns upon those who sleep on their rights. Statutes of limitations are intended to run against those who are neglectful of their rights, and...fail to use reasonable and proper diligence in the enforcement thereof. The public policy considerations behind statutes of limitations are perhaps most pertinent to tax matters. This is because strict conformity with such statutory deadlines provides finality and predictability of revenue to state and local governments. Consequently, failure to file a timely appeal is a fatal jurisdictional defect, and if a plaintiff does not file within the requisite statutory period, that plaintiff is proscribed from an appeal in the Tax Court and from any judicial review of the Director's decision.

Judge Hayser concluded:

When the taxpayers failed to file timely, the Division of Taxation was entitled to assume that its assessment was final. It is not within the court's power to relax the statutory time limitations of N.J.S.A. 54:49-18(a) or N.J.S.A. 54A:9-10. Even in the face of possible recalcitrance, denial of future consideration, or silence by the Division after April 2008, the taxpayers cannot be relieved of their duty to file a timely appeal in the Tax Court. Moreover, there is nothing in the record which would allow the court to toll the 90 day period to which these statutes apply.

Judge Hayser granted the Division's motion to dismiss.

Constitutionality – Horizon Blue Cross Blue Shield v. State of New Jersey, et al., Docket No. 007354-2005, decided December 15, 2009.

This case involves the constitutionality surrounding the enactment of P.L. 2005, c.128, which amended the insurance premiums tax with respect to "Health Service Corporations."

Assembly Bill No. 4401 was signed into law July 2, 2005, after hearings and approval by the Legislature. A4401 amended N.J.S.A. 54:18A-6 only to remove Health Service Corporations from the preferential tax (cap) treatment of insurance premiums granted by statute. A4401 did not amend: (1) the filing or payment dates for insurance premiums tax (IPT) set forth in Title 54 or (2) the provisions of Title 54 governing taxpayer challenges to taxes; granting refunds to taxpayers, with interest; or staying collection action while a taxpayer's case is pending in our courts.

On July 6, 2005, less than one full week after A4401 was enacted, Horizon filed a complaint contesting the legislation on numerous constitutional grounds.

Horizon challenged the constitutionality of the Premium Tax Cap Statute as amended due to alleged violations of the Equal Protection Clause and Due Process Clauses of the Fourteenth Amendment of the United States Constitution, and Article 1, Section 1, of the Constitution of the State of New Jersey. Furthermore, Horizon felt they were being singled out by this legislation in further violation of the United States Constitution.

On December 15, 2009, the constitutionality of the Premium Tax Cap Statute as amended was upheld in an opinion by Judge Bianco, who stated:

For the foregoing reasons the court finds the Premium Tax Cap Statute is constitutional as amended. The statute is reasonably related to a legitimate government purpose and there is a rational basis for A4401. Accordingly the Director's motion for summary judgment is granted and Horizon's motion for summary judgment is denied.

Horizon has filed an appeal.

Local Property Tax Property Tax Exemption – Lighthouse Mission for Evangelism, Inc. v. Long Branch City.

While plaintiff Lighthouse Mission was also involved in related Federal litigation concerning zoning use, the issue discussed here is whether the plaintiff was entitled to exemption from local property taxes under N.J.S.A. 54:4-3.6 for tax year 2005.

In order for property to be eligible for exemption under N.J.S.A. 54:4-3.6: (1) the entity claiming exemption must be organized exclusively for religious purposes, including religious worship, or charitable purposes; (2) the property must be actually used for the tax-exempt purpose; and (3) the property and the charitable or religious organization using the property may not be conducted for profit. See Roman Catholic Archdiocese of Newark v. City of East Orange. Additionally, the entity claiming exemption must own the property for which the exemption is claimed.

Long Branch alleged that the Lighthouse Mission's claim in the Federal litigation that it was not allowed to use said property as a church constitutes an admission that it is not qualified for the exemption based on religious use. Long Branch states that the Lighthouse Mission failed to satisfy a vast majority of elements required by N.J.S.A. 54:4-3.6. Long Branch reiterates that the property was not used for charitable purposes, but instead as a residence for Kevin Brown, Lighthouse Mission's pastor and president, and by Reverend Brown in conjunction with for-profit activities he conducted for his own benefit. Defendant also maintains that, at the valuation date, October 1, 2004, the name of the owner of record of the subject property differed from the name of the plaintiff and that plaintiff therefore did not own the subject property as required by N.J.S.A. 54:4-3.6.

Lighthouse agrees that it was illegally barred from using the property for purposes of religious assembly; however, the property was used for other charitable and religious purposes. Lighthouse also suggests it was illegally denied permission to use the property as a church under the prior ordinance, and that if defendant granted the application prior to the adoption of a redevelopment plan, the church use would have been permitted. The plaintiff admits that the property was used in part as Reverend Brown's residence, which under N.J.S.A. 54:4-3.6 is a valid exempt use as it relates to parsonages. It further states that all of the activities conducted by Reverend Brown at the property were in concordance with the plaintiff's religious and charitable purposes, and that with the exception of commercial space leased by it to a third party, which it concedes is not eligible for exemption, all of the remaining subject property is used for the intended purposes.

New Jersey Tax Court Judge Gail Menyuk agreed that although careless record keeping had created confusion as to title, the subject property was owned by the plaintiff. She also concluded Lighthouse was organized for religious/charitable purposes. However, Lighthouse Mission was ineligible to receive the exemption as both a parsonage and a charitable/religious organization. Judge Menyuk states that Lighthouse Mission failed to establish what part of the property was actually used for religious/charitable purposes, and it appeared that the purpose of the property was profit bearing. Also, since the property did not qualify as an exempted church there could be no exempt parsonage (Mestivta Ohr Torah of Lakewood v. Township of Lakewood). □

Farmland Assessment Act Provides Preferential Treatment for Biomass, Solar, or Wind Energy Generation Facilities — P.L. 2009, c.213, signed into law on January 16, 2010, is effective immediately. However the provisions governing application for consideration for farmland assessment treatment are effective for tax years commencing after the date of enactment.

The Act supplements P.L. 1964, c.48 (N.J.S.A. 54:4-23.1 et seq.), the Farmland Assessment Act. This law allows any person who owns preserved farmland to construct, install, and operate biomass, solar, or wind energy generation facilities, structures, and equipment on the farm to generate power or heat and to make improvements to any agricultural, horticultural, residential, or other building or structure on the land for that purpose.

These uses now qualify for the preferential tax treatment provided under the Farmland Assessment Act.

Miscellaneous

Proof of Business Registration Changes and Bid Language Requirements — P.L. 2009, c.315, signed into law on January 18, 2010, and effective immediately, requires the Department of the Treasury to provide each contracting agency with appropriate language reflecting the obligations of contractors and subcontractors to be included in any contract document, bid specification, request for proposal, or other documents notifying potential contractors of contract opportunities with a contracting agency.

This law revises the requirement for a bidder to provide proof of business registration to a local contracting agency prior to the awarding of a contract, purchase order, or other contracting document. At the sole option of the contracting agency, the bidder may provide proof by presenting sufficient information for the contracting agency to verify registration of the bidder, or that of listed subcontractors, through a computerized system maintained by the State. □

What's New for Tax Year 2009

There have been some important changes affecting the preparation of New Jersey income tax returns and applications for New Jersey's property tax relief programs this year:

Income Tax

- Spouses of Military Personnel — Federal legislation signed into law on November 11, 2009, will affect the New Jersey rules regarding the residency and tax treatment of income of certain spouses of military personnel. For more information, see the Military Spouses Residency Relief Act.
- Tax Rates Increased on Income Over $400,000 — The New Jersey gross income tax rates increased to: 8% on income over $400,000 but not over $500,000; 10.25% on income over $500,000 but not over $1,000,000; and 10.75% for income over $1,000,000. This is a one-year increase. Tax rates are expected to revert to 2008 rates on January 1, 2010.
- Property Tax Deduction/Credit Deduction Limitations. Homeowners under 65 years of age and not blind or disabled whose New Jersey gross income is more than $250,000 are not eligible for the property tax deduction. In addition, for homeowners under 65 years of age and not blind or disabled whose New Jersey gross income is over $150,000 but not over $250,000, the maximum deduction is limited to $5,000. Homeowners who are not eligible for a deduction because their income is over $250,000 can receive a property tax credit if they satisfy the other eligibility requirements.

Schedule 1 Completion. Two new charts have been added to the tax return instructions to help taxpayers complete Schedule 1. Homeowners will use Chart A - Determining the Property Tax Deduction for Homeowners, and tenants will use Chart B - Determining the Property Tax Deduction for Tenants, to calculate the deduction for Line 2 of Schedule 1.

- Homeowner/Tenant/Both? — Taxpayers must indicate at Line 36b, Form NJ-1040, if they were a homeowner, tenant, or both homeowner and tenant during the year.
- Separate Returns, Same Residence — Spouses/CU partners who file separate tax returns using the filing status "Married/CU Partner, filing separate return" must fill in the oval at Line 37, Form NJ-1040, if they both occupy the same principal residence.
- New Jersey Lottery Prizes Over $10,000 Taxable — New Jersey Lottery winnings from prize amounts exceeding $10,000 are taxable for New Jersey gross income tax purposes. The individual prize amount, not the total amount of New Jersey Lottery winnings over the year, determines taxability. Taxpayers may deduct gambling losses, including New Jersey Lottery losses, from their winnings that occurred during the same year. For more information, see New Jersey Lottery Questions and Answers.

- Earned Income Tax Credit — The amount of the NJEITC will be equal to 25% of the applicant's Federal earned income tax credit.
- Commuter Transportation Benefits — The maximum commuter transportation benefit is $2,540.
- Credit for Taxes Paid to Other Jurisdictions — The Philadelphia nonresident wage tax rate is 3.5% from January 1 to June 30, 2009, and 3.4997% from July 1 to December 31, 2009.
- Family Leave Insurance — Beginning January 1, 2009, employers were required to withhold contributions for family leave insurance. The maximum contribution for 2009 was $26.01. Excess family leave insurance contributions cannot be claimed as a credit on the 2009 Form NJ-1040 or Form NJ-1040NR. Taxpayers who contributed more than the maximum amount must file a refund claim with the Department of Labor and Workforce Development using their Form UC-9A, Employee's Claim for Refund of Excess Contributions. For more information, write to: Division of Employer Accounts, Worker Refund Unit "2009," PO Box 910, Trenton NJ 08625-0910, or call the Department of Labor and Workforce Development at 609-633-6400.

Property Tax Relief Programs

- Homestead Rebate Program — Information about the 2009 Homestead Rebate Program is not yet available.

The program provides rebates for New Jersey homeowners and tenants who meet the eligibility requirements. How you apply for the rebate is determined by whether you were a homeowner or tenant on October 1, 2009. Homeowners and tenants file different applications.

Tenants who meet the eligibility requirements use the application in the New Jersey income tax booklet, Form TR-1040, to apply for the homestead rebate for tenants.

Homeowners do not use the application in the income tax booklet. Applications for the homeowner rebate are expected to be mailed at the end of April, and homeowners will apply either online or by phone.

Information will be posted to our Web site as it becomes available.

- 2009 Property Tax Reimbursement — With very few exceptions, all income received during the year, including income which is not required to be reported on Form NJ-1040, must be taken into account to determine eligibility for the property tax reimbursement. For residents applying for reimbursements for tax year 2009, total annual income must be:

2009: $80,000 or less, and

2008: $70,000 or less

These limits apply regardless of marital/civil union status. However, if an applicant's status is married/CU couple, combined income of both spouses/CU partners must be reported.

Benefits available under this program are subject to change.

- 2010 Property Tax Reimbursement — Recent legislation (P.L. 2009, c.129) modified the residency requirements for reimbursement recipients who lose their eligibility temporarily when they move to a new home. The legislation shortens to two full years the period of time these residents must occupy their new home before they can again qualify to resume applying for the property tax reimbursement.

The new residency rules do not apply to 2009 applications. They take effect for the first time with 2010 applications (to be filed in 2011). □

Criminal Enforcement

Criminal enforcement over the past several months included:

- On July 17, 2009, Carol Lynn Palma, former Cliffside Park Deputy Clerk, was sentenced to five years in prison for her crimes. On April 17, 2009, suspended Cliffside Park Deputy Clerk, Carol Lynn Palma, was found guilty on the following charges: third-degree failure to pay taxes when due (N.J.S.A. 54:52-9), third-degree filing or preparing false or fraudulent returns (N.J.S.A. 54:52-10), third-degree theft by failure to make required disposition of property (2C:20-9), and second-degree official misconduct (2C:30-2). This was the culmination of an extensive investigation conducted by the Bergen County Prosecutor's Office and the Office of Criminal Investigation. By way of criminal complaints, the Bergen County Prosecutor's Office charged that the defendant entered into a scheme whereby school board funds that should have been used for the education of children were instead diverted to Palma for election services. Invoices for these payments were virtually nonexistent. Vouchers for these payments were improper and the payments were not approved by the Cliffside Park Board of Education. The six-count indictment against Palma charged that she submitted false purchase order(s), known as vouchers, for payment and illegally received and kept Board of Education funds which she was not entitled to receive. The indictment also charged that Palma filed false or fraudulent New Jersey State income tax returns for several years by failing to include these payments from Board of Education funds as income on her tax returns and that she failed to pay taxes due thereon.

- On August 5, 2009, Joseph Soccodato, a New Jersey resident and president of JVS Landscaping Company, tendered a guilty plea to a one-count accusation charging third-degree failure to remit New Jersey sales taxes, a violation pursuant to N.J.S.A. 54:52-9, and agreed to pay $270,000 in back sales taxes. JVS, a landscaping business located in Westwood, also performed exterior residential holiday decoration services and snow removal. Mr. Soccodato paid the New Jersey Division of Taxation $100,000 in a partial payment of sales tax owed from 1999 to 2006. The defendant is expected to tender another $50,000 at the time of sentencing and enter into a consent judgment for the remaining balance.
- On August 26, 2009, a 75-count indictment was handed up in Bergen County resulting in the arrest of 27 individuals for various offenses related to leading organized crime, racketeering, money laundering, uttering forged instruments, filing fraudulent income tax returns, failing to pay sales tax, stealing individual's identity, tampering with public records, filing fraudulent documents with the Motor Vehicle Commission, and engaging in corporate misconduct. The investigation began in March 2008 and initially focused on Ilya Igdalev, the owner and president of two wholesale car dealerships: Gemp, LLC and Best Buy Car Company. On Friday, June 27, 2008, detectives executed six search warrants related to the case. These search warrants were executed on the business of Gemp, LLC, located at 60 Railroad Avenue, Hasbrouck Heights, New Jersey; and the residence of its owner, Ilya Igdalev, 216 10th Street, Cresskill, New Jersey. As a result of the search warrants and related investigation, approximately $750,000 in illegal proceeds and 28 high-end vehicles were seized. Igdalev also stole nearly $100,000 in sales tax monies owed to the State of New Jersey. Igdalev masked his actual transaction between Gemp, LLC and the customer by issuing the customer a fictitious bill of sale from a Minnesota-based car dealership named Auto Point located at 9130 Olson Memorial Highway, Golden Valley, Minnesota. The fictitious bill of sale made the transaction falsely appear to be from Auto Point, an out-of-State car dealership, and no sales tax was required to be remitted from the out-of-State dealership to the State of New Jersey. The New Jersey resident customer, not the out-of-State auto dealership, would be required to satisfy the New Jersey sales tax obligations. Nonetheless, Igdalev did collect the sales tax owed on the automobile transactions directly from his New Jersey resident customers and kept the tax despite his legal obligation to turn it over to the New Jersey Division of Taxation.

- On October 6, 2009, Jerry Smith of Sparta, New Jersey, pled guilty to second-degree misapplication of entrusted property and third-degree failure to pay New Jersey income taxes in Morris County Superior Court. Smith was treasurer of the Pleasant Hill Cemetery Association and a member of its board of trustees for more than 20 years. As treasurer, Smith had control of Pleasant Hill's finances and bookkeeping, including custody and control of income from plot sales and burials. In February 2008, the cemetery's superintendent found discrepancies in financial reports prepared by Smith and reported them to the board of trustees. The charges stem from a joint investigation by the Division of Criminal Justice and the Division of Taxation. In pleading guilty, Smith admitted that between January 2000 and February 2008, he misappropriated $611,590 in cemetery association funds, which he used for his personal benefit. Smith further admitted that in filing joint personal income tax returns with the State of New Jersey for himself and his wife for the years 2000 through 2008, he failed to report the misappropriated funds as income, resulting in the couple's failure to pay $25,304 in taxes owed. Under the plea agreement, the State will recommend that Smith be sentenced to seven years in State prison. He must also pay restitution of $607,590 to the Pleasant Hill Cemetery Association, representing the amount stolen less $4,000 he previously repaid, and $42,021 to the Division of Taxation, representing the taxes owed plus fines and penalties.

- On October 7, 2009, Namrata Patel of Lodi, New Jersey, pled guilty to charges related to her possession of untaxed cigarettes, which she was found selling from her vehicle. At the time of her arrest, June 2009, Office of Criminal Investigation agents seized $3,700 in United States currency that was found in the vehicle and those funds were forfeited to the State per court order. The Woodbridge Municipal Court also imposed $2,500 in fines, fees, and costs.
- On October 13, 2009, James Hankins Jr. pled guilty before

Superior Court Judge Francis R. Hodgson in Monmouth County to two counts of financial facilitation of a criminal activity and one count each of failing to file a tax return and failure to pay taxes on the proceeds. Investors, primarily in Ocean and Monmouth County, were bilked out of more than $6 million from the $18 million Ponzi scheme operated by Hankins. Hankins will be required to make restitution to his victims.

- On October 13, 2009, Tejinder Singh t/a Rising Sun Petroleum of Salem, New Jersey, pled guilty to a third-degree charge of counterfeiting cigarette tax stamps. He was sentenced to three years' supervised probation and the Court imposed $5,000 in fines, fees, and costs. This investigation included the possession of sheets of counterfeit stamps as well as counterfeit-stamped product.
- On October 29, 2009, Yi Yong Zheng t/a New Hong Kong Restaurant of Jersey City, New Jersey, pled guilty to counts of possession of untaxed cigarettes, selling loose cigarettes, and failure to examine/return. Jersey City Municipal Court imposed a total of $2,974 in fines, fees, and penalties. This is the second offense for this subject.

- On November 13, 2009, Raj Kumar of South Plainfield, New Jersey, pled guilty to an accusation in the Middlesex Superior Court for third-degree possession of counterfeit-stamped cigarettes. Defendant must serve probation and was assessed a total of $3,877.50 as a civil penalty for failure to examine.
- On November 13, 2009, Sai Fang Liao t/a New Golden Dragon of Jersey City, New Jersey, was found guilty as a second offender in Jersey City Court. The Court imposed $2,893.75 in fines, fees, and costs for possession of untaxed goods (cigarettes & tobacco products). □

Tax Briefs

Corporation Business Tax Nonprofit Corporation and IRS Form 990 — An accountant wrote to the Division on behalf of a nonprofit corporation. The nonprofit annually files a Federal Form 990 with the Internal Revenue Service (IRS). The accountant asked whether a copy of the Federal Form 990, or an equivalent State tax (or information) return, must be filed with the Division of Taxation.

The Division responded that there is no requirement to file a copy of the Federal Form 990, or an equivalent

State tax (or information) return, with the Division of Taxation, assuming that the entity is truly organized and operated as a nonprofit entity.

The Division explained that the State of New Jersey does not have an “income tax” on “unrelated business income” like that imposed at the Federal tax level. Therefore, the Division of Taxation does not have a need for details on such income.

Certain charitable entities are required to register and file a copy of Federal Form 990 with the New Jersey Charities Registration Section, Consumer Affairs, Department of Law and Public Safety. For further information on the requirements of that office, visit their Web site at: www.njconsumeraffairs.gov/ocp/charities.htm or call the Charities Registration Section at 973-504-6215.

Gross Income Tax

Charitable Remainder Trusts —

A taxpayer wrote to the Division questioning the gross income tax treatment of a Charitable Remainder Trust (CRT) as described in the Division's Technical Bulletin TB-64, Charitable Remainder Trusts. The Division responded that it has been the Division of Taxation's long-standing policy that income that is not distributed and which is not deemed to be permanently and irrevocably set aside or credited to a charitable beneficiary is taxable income to the trust.

Technical Bulletin TB-64 was written as clarification, not to set forth any new policy regarding the New Jersey income taxation of CRTs. New Jersey's position on the income taxation of CRTs has been available since the inception of the income tax.

Civil Union Couples and Filing Status —

The Division received an inquiry concerning the gross income tax filing status for a same-sex couple for tax year 2007. In 2002, the couple had entered into a civil union under Vermont's then-existing civil union law. In 2004, the couple registered as domestic partners under the

New Jersey Domestic Partnership Act, P.L. 2003, c.246, which was signed into law and took effect on July 10, 2004.

The Division's publication GIT-4, Filing Status, states:

If you were a member of a domestic partnership registered in New Jersey, you are not considered to be married or a partner in a civil union and you may not use the filing statuses "Married/CU couple, filing joint return" or "Married/CU partner, filing separate return."

However, the New Jersey Civil Union Act, which took effect on February 19, 2007, states that:

A civil union relationship entered into outside of this State, which is valid under the laws of the jurisdiction under which the civil union relationship was created, shall be valid in this State.

The Office of the Attorney General has reviewed the applicability of the Civil Union Act to those couples who may fall within these out-of-State relationships, regardless of the actual terminology used. It issued an opinion on February 16, 2007, stating that:

[G]overnment-sanctioned, same-sex relationships validly established under the laws of other States and foreign nations will be valid in New Jersey beginning on February 19, 2007.... The name of the relationship selected by other jurisdictions, however, will not control its treatment under New Jersey law. Rather it is the nature of the rights conferred by another jurisdiction that will determine how a relationship will be treated under New Jersey law.

Also, the opinion specifically states that same-sex civil unions established under the laws of Vermont will be valid in New Jersey and treated as civil unions in New Jersey.

Accordingly, the Division advised the same-sex couple that they must file as married/CU couple, filing joint return or married/CU partner, filing separate return for tax year 2007. The GIT-4 publication language quoted above will be changed to clarify that where a same-sex couple had been registered under New Jersey's domestic partnership law and in addition, had entered into a "civil union-like" relationship conferred by another jurisdiction, that couple must file their New Jersey gross income tax return using the joint or separate filing statuses for married/CU couples for the tax year in which that relationship was established (but not earlier than tax year 2007, which was the year the New Jersey Civil Union Act took effect).

Discharge of Indebtedness and IRC Section 108(i) — A taxpayer inquired about the New Jersey gross income tax treatment of Federal IRC Section 108(i) as enacted under the American Recovery and Reinvestment Tax Act. IRC Section 108(i) allows corporate taxpayers (including pass-through entities such as partnerships and subchapter S corporations) engaged in the conduct of a trade or business to defer the recognition of income from the discharge of indebtedness for Federal income tax purposes.

For New Jersey gross income tax purposes, the New Jersey Tax Court in Weintraub v. Director, Division of Taxation, 19 N.J. Tax 65 (2000) held that income from the discharge of business or personal indebtedness is not taxable for New Jersey gross income tax purposes. Additionally, N.J.S.A. 54A:8-3(c) states that a taxpayer's accounting method under the Gross Income Tax Act shall be the same as the accounting method for Federal income tax purposes. Therefore, taxpayers should not report income from IRC Section 108(i) discharge of indebtedness on the New Jersey gross income tax return for any tax year.

Partnership Contribution to Pension Plan — The Division received an inquiry from an accountant asking about the gross income tax treatment of contributions made by the partnership to a pension plan. More specifically, the pension contributions in question were made on behalf of the partners, not "employees" of the partnership.

The Division replied that the contributions are included in the distributive share of partnership income and not deductible by the partnership unless the amounts are a contribution to a qualified 401(k) plan. Therefore, to determine the correct treatment of pension contributions for the partners, the accountant or tax practitioner must have knowledge of the Federal IRC section under which the plan was formed.

If the plan was formed as a Section 401(a) "Keogh" pension plan, the contribution amounts for the partners cannot be deducted and must be included in distributive share of partnership income. In other words, for calculating the amount to enter on any gross income tax return lines, there can be no deduction for the partners' Keogh plan contributions.

On the other hand, if the plan was formed as a Section 401(k) pension plan, the contribution amounts for the partners are deductible for gross income tax purposes, up to the limits that are deductible for Federal income tax purposes. (See N.J.S.A. 54A:6-21.) For purposes of completing New Jersey gross income tax returns, the 401(k) contributions are entered on the line for "Partner's 401(k) Contribution" in Part II of Schedule NJK-1, which is a subtraction taken for determining the distributive share of partnership income amount to transfer to the partnership income line on the individual's gross income tax return.

For more information on the correct tax treatment of contributions for "employees" (nonpartners), see the employers' instruction booklet (Form NJ-WT) available on the Installation of Garage Door Openers — The Division received an inquiry from a garage door business regarding the sales tax treatment of the installation of a new garage door opener system. The Division responded by explaining that the service of installing a new garage door opener system is exempt from sales tax as an exempt capital improvement service.

Sales and Use Tax

The Sales and Use Tax Act imposes tax on the services of installing, maintaining, servicing, and repairing tangible personal property. N.J.S.A. 54:32B-3(b)(2). In addition, charges for maintaining, servicing, and repairing real property are subject to tax. N.J.S.A. 54:32B-3(b)(4). Unless the installation of tangible personal property results in an exempt capital improvement to real property, the installation of tangible personal property on real property is subject to tax. N.J.S.A. 54:32B-3(b)(4).

A "capital improvement" occurs when equipment is permanently affixed to real property (land or buildings) and becomes a permanent part of the real property. To qualify as a capital improvement, the installation must increase the capital value of the property or significantly increase the useful life of the property.

If the work performed on the real property results in an exempt capital improvement, the installer does not collect sales tax on the labor as long as the customer provides the installer with a properly completed Certificate of Exempt Capital Improvement (Form ST-8). Also, if the business installs a new garage door opener system as a replacement of an old or defective system, this installation also qualifies as an exempt capital improvement.

The garage door opener system being installed is tangible personal property that is subject to sales tax when purchased from the supplier whether by the installer or by the property owner. The installer is a contractor and must pay sales or use tax when purchasing equipment to be installed on the real property. The installer may not charge the property owner sales tax on the cost of the equipment. If the property owner purchases the garage door opener directly from the supplier, the property owner must pay the sales tax on the equipment. □

Retroactive Application of Rate
Change – *Demuth v. Director,
Division of Taxation*, New Jersey

Superior Court, Appellate Division, decided October 28, 2009.

In June 2004, the New Jersey Legislature amended N.J.S.A. 54A:2-1 to increase the tax rate from 6.37% to 8.97% on gross income of $500,000 or more and retroactively applied the rate to January 1, 2004. In May 2004, Mr. Demuth made three separate stock sales that resulted in a net gain of $3,269,288.

Mr. Demuth filed his 2004 New Jersey gross income tax return in April of 2005 reporting the income from the stock sales and determined the tax at the new rate of 8.97%. In August 2006, Mr. Demuth amended his 2004 New Jersey gross income tax return. On the amended return, Mr. Demuth determined the tax on the stock transactions at the 6.37% rate. He believed that the new tax rate could not be retroactively applied and requested a refund. The refund was denied and the denial was upheld in Tax Court. Mr. Demuth relied on the New Jersey Supreme Court decision in Oberhand v. Director, Division of Taxation, supra, 193 N.J. at 573 citing "manifest injustice." The New Jersey Superior Court, Appellate Division, upheld the Tax Court decision and differentiated Mr. Demuth's case from Oberhand by stating:

That matter involved decedents who had structured their estate plans on the basis of the tax law then in effect. Subsequently, the law changed in a manner which created a tax liability where previously none had existed. In Oberhand, no tax would have been due but for the amendment. Here, plaintiff's sales of this stock were always taxable events.

Current Amnesty Programs

The following state(s) are conducting tax amnesty program(s). During the designated amnesty periods, taxpayers have a chance to pay back taxes with reduced (or eliminated) penalty and/or interest. Sales Tax Refund – Home Depot, U.S.A. Inc., v. Director, Division of Taxation, New Jersey Superior Court, Appellate Division, decided on October 27, 2009.

The taxpayer appealed from a summary judgment dismissal by the New Jersey Tax Court challenging the denial of a refund claim for sales tax paid on uncollectible credit card purchases. The taxpayer is a “conduit for credit card applications and the collecting and remitting of New Jersey sales tax.” For the involved period, the taxpayer made a business decision to outsource its accounts receivable to three finance companies. The taxpayer paid service fees under agreements with these finance companies which included projected bad debt loss incurred by the finance companies. This element was not identified in any of the agreements nor was there any evidence identifying or allocating part of the service fee to any other cost or item.

The Appellate Division confirmed the Tax Court’s denial of their sales tax refund claim on the basis that the claim was barred under the provisions of N.J.A.C. 18:24-23.2(a) (2), the “regulation that denies any refund of sales tax where a vendor has collected from a customer an amount at least equal to the amount of sales tax paid.” Further, it was stated that the taxpayer’s “proofs did not establish that it suffered any losses on credit card transactions due to bad debts as a result of its payment of unidentified and unallocated service fees to the finance companies.”

It was further found that the taxpayer recovered from the finance companies an amount more than sufficient to pay the sales tax during the refund period. Therefore, even if the customer eventually defaulted on the credit card obligation the taxpayer received the same payment in conjunction with the transaction and paid the same service fee to the finance companies. □

New Jersey Lung Cancer Research Fund — P.L. 2009, c.172, signed into law on January 11, 2010, establishes the New Jersey Lung Cancer Research Fund and allows voluntary contributions to the fund by taxpayers on State gross income tax returns. Monies in the fund will be appropriated annually to the State Commission on Cancer Research.

This charitable check-off will be available to taxpayers wishing to donate to the fund for tax year 2011 and thereafter.

Employer Licenses can be Suspended or Revoked for Repeated Violations of State Wage, Benefit, and Tax Laws — P.L. 2009, c.194 was signed into law on January 14, 2010, and takes effect on the 180th day after enactment.

This law significantly expands the powers of the Commissioner of the Department of Labor and Workforce Development, allowing the suspension or revocation of certain licenses held by employers for failure to adhere to State wage, benefit, and tax laws, including violations of the New Jersey Gross Income Tax Act (N.J.S.A. 54A:1-1 et seq.). The Act defines “license” to mean any agency permit, certificate, approval, registration, charter, or similar form of authorization that is required by law and that is issued by any agency for the purposes of operating a business in this State.

In addition, the new law provides that the Commissioner may suspend or revoke the licenses of clients of employee leasing companies.

Gloucester County Property Assessment Pilot Program — P.L. 2009, c.118, signed into law on October 1, 2009, and effective immediately, establishes a pilot program in Gloucester County for the transfer of the municipal property assessment function to a county assessor. This Act requires the appointment of a county assessor over a three-year period. In addition, transfer of the assessment function requires the revaluation of all municipalities within the county to ensure uniformity of assessment throughout the county-wide assessment district.

The Act requires the Local Unit Alignment, Reorganization, and Consolidation Commission to study this pilot program and, in consultation with the Director of the Division of Taxation, issue a report no later than February 1 of the sixth year of the pilot program.

Hiring preference criteria are provided with regard to deputy assessor positions from the ranks of currently serving municipal tax assessors or deputy tax assessors.

All current or pending assessment and abatement programs and agreements under the Long Term Tax Exemption Law, P.L. 1991, c.431 (N.J.S.A. 40A:20-1 et seq.), and the Five-Year Exemption and Abatement Law, P.L. 1991, c.441 (N.J.S.A. 40A:21-1 et seq.), remain in effect in the pilot county.

Reassessment of Certain Real Property by Assessor and Appeal of Assessment by Certain Property Taxpayers — P.L. 2009, c.251, signed into law on January 16, 2010, and effective immediately, eliminates parts of the notice and approval requirements that a tax assessor must satisfy. The Act increases the statutory threshold for bringing a property tax appeal directly to Tax Court from an assessed value of $750,000 to an assessed value of at least $1,000,000. The Act would also modify the reporting requirements and criteria the assessor must provide to the Division of Taxation and eliminates the 45-day time frame by which the County Board of Taxation or the Division of Taxation must approve the compliance plan.

Forest Stewardship Plan — P.L. 2009, c.256 was signed into law on January 17, 2010. This Act directs the Department of Environmental Protection (DEP) to establish a forest stewardship program for owners of forest land. The Act further directs the DEP to establish a forest certification program and a cost share incentive program, to be known as the New Jersey Forest Stewardship Incentive Program.

The Act limits local government's ability to enact any ordinance, rule, or resolution as appropriate that conflicts with, prevents, or impedes the implementation of a forest stewardship plan. Also, the Farmland Assessment Act of 1964 is now expanded to provide differential property tax assessment to owners of forest land who implement an approved forest stewardship plan.

Miscellaneous

State Tax Expenditure Report — P.L. 2009, c.189, signed into law on January 13, 2010, requires that the Governor's annual budget message include a State tax expenditure report.

State tax "expenditure" means those revenue losses attributable to provisions of State tax law which establish special tax treatment, including but not limited to tax law definition, deduction, exclusion, exemption, deferral, credit, preferential tax rate, or other special tax provision resulting in a reduced tax liability for certain persons, individuals, types of income, transactions, or property from the liability which would be presumed to exist without the State tax expenditure.

The Division of Taxation is required to advise and assist the Governor in the preparation of the State tax expenditure report.

Sales and Use Tax

Natural Gas and Utility Service Used For Cogeneration — P.L. 2009, c.240, signed into law on January 16, 2010, and effective immediately, clarifies the meaning of "contiguous property" for the purposes of Section 26 of the Sales and Use Tax Act, P.L. 1997, c.162 (N.J.S.A. 54:32B-8.46). This new law removes certain limitations on the exemption from the tax imposed under the Sales and Use Tax Act for natural gas and utility service used for cogeneration. □

Tax Amnesty Program – Record-Setting Success

After the final accounting, total collections from the 2009 Tax Amnesty Program implemented by the Division of Taxation amounted to $746.3 million. The Amnesty program, which began on May 4, 2009, and ended on June 15, 2009, offered a waiver of all penalties, referral cost fees, and one-half of the balance of the interest that remained due as of May 1, 2009.

Based on past Tax Amnesty experiences in New Jersey and other states, and considering the economic climate at the time, initial projections for revenue were conservative. The Administration set the goal for additional revenue related to Tax Amnesty at $100 million. Two weeks into the program, based on the rate of response, the State Treasurer revised the revenue estimate upwards to $200 million. By June 11, the goal of $200 million had been reached. As with other Tax Amnesty programs, most payments were received in the last few days leading up to June 15. On June 12 alone, a one-day revenue total of $201 million was recorded.

An analysis to consider what portion of the Amnesty revenue would have been collected through normal compliance and enforcement activities by the Division of Taxation (absent a Tax Amnesty program) determined that the additional (net) revenue benefit to the State as a result of the Tax

Amnesty program was $647.1 million. This revenue outcome resulted in New Jersey's having the most successful State Tax Amnesty program in the history of the country, which has seen more than 50 such programs across dozens of states.

Tax Amnesty Administrator, Mark Wintermute, reported that more than 108,500 payments were made during the 43-day Tax Amnesty period, of which nearly 90% were processed electronically through Web-based payment modules or through automated payment processes by the Division of Revenue. Of the total amount collected, more than 56% was from corporate tax liabilities, nearly 12% from gross income tax, and about 19% from sales and use tax, with the remainder from the other taxes and fees administered by the Division. During the Tax Amnesty period, a dedicated telephone hotline answered 117,411 phone calls, and a special Amnesty Web site recorded more than 53,000 hits.

Multiple factors contributed to the success of the program. Most important was a comprehensive advertising and public relations program, which emphasized outreach to the tax professional community. In any Tax Amnesty program, success is dependent upon participation by large business taxpayers and ensuring they understand, with the help of their tax advisors, the economic benefit the program offers. The program also included direct outreach

by mail to taxpayers with known tax liabilities to New Jersey. This comprehensive outreach resulted in more than 700,000 mailings.

Taxpayers who failed to settle their outstanding tax debts during the Tax Amnesty period now face the reinstatement of the original penalties, interest, and fees, plus the imposition of an additional 5% penalty. Acting Director Cheryl Fulmer advises, "The Tax Amnesty program was designed to help taxpayers who had fallen behind during tough economic times get a fresh start, while collecting money that New Jersey could use for needed programs and services. The program also reduced our backlog of delinquent and deficient taxpayers and allows our audit and investigative teams to concentrate their efforts on the truly hard-core tax evaders." □

NJ Economic Stimulus Act

The New Jersey Economic Stimulus Act of 2009 (P.L. 2009, c.90) was an omnibus bill, consisting of eight actions, designed to reinvigorate New Jersey's economy. There are numerous technical and administrative changes in this Act; six of which affect the Division of Taxation.

Economic Redevelopment and Growth Grant Program

This portion of the Act authorizes the awarding of State and local incentive grants to developers in qualifying economic redevelopment and growth grant incentive areas to fill in their project financing gap.

Authorization For Certain Municipalities to Impose Special

Taxes and Surcharges

This portion of the Act authorizes special taxes and surcharges to fund redevelopment activities and certain programs.

Municipalities with a population over 100,000 and a commercial airport with over ten regularly scheduled flights per day may impose a 5% tax on the rental fee of motor vehicles to mainly fund redevelopment plan activities.

Second class cities with a major place of amusement are allowed to impose a surcharge up to $2 on each admission charge subject to New Jersey sales tax and a $2 charge on parking at that place of amusement for the benefit of senior citizen and youth health and recreational purposes.

Modifications to the Emerging and Biotechnology Credit Transfer Program

An eligible entity may surrender any credit which cannot be applied to its liability, or surrender any unused net operating loss carryover to certain other corporations.

A recipient of surrendered tax benefits must pay at least 80% (formerly 75%) of the value of such benefits.

The Economic Development Authority is limited annually to $60 million of credit transfer approvals and, along with the Division of Taxation, must manage the allocation of the credit transfer approvals pursuant to a modified formula.

The innovation zone portion of the credit allocation increases to $10 million (formerly $5 million) and is specifically set aside for emerging technology and biotechnology companies; unused portions of the emerging technology and biotechnology transfer credit program may be allocated outside of the designated innovation zones.

The maximum lifetime value of credit transfers for any one eligible corporation increases from $10 million to $15 million.

The Act allows for a credit recapture program to recoup the remaining value of the surrendered credit if the entity fails to use the proceeds for its statutorily intended purposes.

Expansion of Eligibility and Tax Credit Limits Under the Urban Transit Hub Tax Credit Act (UTHTCA)

- A business must demonstrate at the time of its application that the State’s financial support will yield a net positive benefit to both the State and the eligible municipality.
- All credits approved under the program are now capped at $1.5 billion.
- The “full-time employee” requirement may consist of contract workers and include out-of-state residents.

- A business may use an affiliate to satisfy the employment or capital investment requirements.
- The definition of “Urban transit hub” is expanded to include: (1) property located within one-half mile of an interstate rail station; (2) property adjacent to, or connected by rail spur to, a freight rail line if the business utilizes that freight line for loading and unloading freight cars on trains; and (3) all light rail stations.
- The capital investment threshold is reduced from $75 million to $50 million for an owner of a qualified business facility, and from $50 million to $17.5 million for a tenant that occupies a leased area of the qualified business.
- Tenant investment may be included in the capital investment calculation for the qualified business facility.
- The Act allows for the aggregation of up to three tenants to meet the 250 employee requirement.

- InvestNJ Business Grantees may not qualify for an Urban Transit Hub tax credit.
- The Statewide full-time workforce reduction trigger requiring mandatory forfeiture of an annual tax credit is now 20%.
- Business headquarters property may now become a qualified investment facility if it meets certain criteria.
- S corporation shareholders and limited liability corporation members may no longer be permitted to participate in the program. A qualified individual who is a holder of a credit may sell it under the tax credit transfer certificate program pursuant to the guidelines established in the Act.
- Casino licensees now only qualify for benefits for casinos.
- The credit shall be reduced by 20% if there are fewer than 200 employees.
- Forfeiture may occur if the business reduces its workforce by more than 20%.
- The New Jersey Economic Development Authority is required to set standards to encourage “green building.”

Telephone Filing Discontinued for Forms NJ-500, NJ-927, and NJ-927-H

Effective January 1, 2009, employers and others who withhold New Jersey gross income tax and unemployment/disability contributions are no longer able to file their returns and make the related payments by phone through the Division of Taxation’s Business Paperless Telefiling System. Telephone filing has been discontinued for monthly and quarterly returns (Forms NJ-500/NJ-927) as well as the annual return for domestic employers (Form NJ-927-H).

For information on electronically filing returns due after December 31, 2008, or amending a return that was previously filed by telephone, go to Tax & Employer Filings and Payments on the Division of Revenue’s Web site.

Relief to Certain Developers and Municipalities

This portion of the Act provides relief to certain developers otherwise subject to the Statewide Non-Residential Fee Act and grants to municipalities for affordable housing.

The Act temporarily exempts property that received a site plan approval

before July 1, 2010, and a permit for construction prior to July 1, 2011, from the 2.5% nonresidential development fee imposed by the State-wide Non-Residential Fee Act (P.L. 2008, c.46). N.J.S.A. 40:55D-8.1 through 40:55D-8.7. These amendments to the Act are not intended to change the provisions of N.J.S.A. 40:55D-8.7, which void and prohibit municipal ordinances that seek to impose obligations on nonresidential development for the purposes of providing affordable housing.

Developers may apply to the approving authority for full or partial fee refunds.

$15 million is appropriated to the New Jersey Affordable Housing Trust Fund from the General Fund, and the Act permits the transfer of a portion of the appropriation to the Urban Housing Assistance Fund established by N.J.S.A.52:27D-329.7.

Sales Tax Exemption on Energy and Utility Services

The Act also allows a sales tax exemption for the purchase and use of energy and utility service by certain postconsumer material manufacturing facilities.

Receipts from the sale or use of energy and utility service to or by a postconsumer material manufacturing facility for use or consumption directly and primarily in the production of tangible personal property, other than energy, are exempt from the State sales and use tax and certain transitional energy facility assessment (TEFA) charges during the period beginning on or after January 1, 2010, but ending on or before January 1, 2017.

During the period for which the sales tax and TEFA exemptions are granted, the seller of such energy and utility service to an eligible postconsumer material manufacturing facility must charge the sales tax and TEFA on such purchases. The eligible postconsumer material manufacturing facility may then file a claim for refund with the Division of Taxation pursuant to the guidelines established within the Act. □

Criminal enforcement over the past several months included:

- On June 1, 2009, Paul Sarris, 52, of Jersey City, was sentenced to 8½ years in State prison by Superior Court Judge Darlene J. Pereksta in Mercer County. Sarris pled guilty on March 31, 2009, to a second-degree charge of theft by deception. He was also ordered to pay restitution of $282,902, representing his share of the amount stolen from the State, plus penalties and interest.

In pleading guilty, Sarris admitted that he conspired with his business partner, Achilles "Butz" Amante, 57, formerly of Jersey City, in a fraudulent scheme in which they filed 745 false homestead rebate applications with the State of New Jersey between August 2001 and September 2003, including multiple applications for each of 15 residential and commercial addresses they rented in Jersey City.

The State's investigation revealed that the defendants filed the applications using names and social security numbers obtained from tax preparation clients without permission of the clients. The defendants laundered the $573,383 in stolen funds by depositing the rebate checks in various commercial bank accounts maintained for their businesses. Sarris specifically admitted that he deposited 371 checks totaling more than $282,000 into six bank accounts he maintained and controlled on behalf of his business, Sarris Financial Services.

Three of Amante’s children and his sister, all of Jersey City, previously pled guilty and were sentenced last year for participating in the scheme. Amorito “Angelo” A. Amante, 35, and Aloysius M. Amante, 33, were each sentenced to five years in State prison after pleading guilty to theft by deception. Amorito Amante was ordered to pay $80,173 in restitution, while Aloysius Amante was ordered to pay $40,794 in restitution. Aristides Amante, 29, also pled guilty to theft by deception and was ordered to serve five years’ probation, conditioned on serving 30 days in the sheriff’s labor program. He was ordered to pay $78,000 in restitution. Matilda Amante Ramos, 58, pled guilty to theft by deception and was ordered to serve five years’ probation and pay $35,851 in restitution. Matilda Amante Ramos ran a travel agency, while all of the other defendants operated their own financial service companies offering tax preparation services.

Charges are pending against Butz Amante, who is a fugitive. An arrest warrant has been issued for him.

- On June 12, 2009, in the City of Newark, Municipal Court Judge Roslyn Holmes-Grant awarded the State of New Jersey one cigarette vending machine and its contents, $156 in U.S. currency, and 7.3 cartons of Delaware-stamped cigarettes. The vending machine was seized from the defendant, Ademir DeSouza, at his restaurant, Brasilia Grill, on April 21, 2008. This forfeiture of property was presented to and accepted by the judge as condition of DeSouza’s plea agreement. DeSouza was fined and penalized a total of $1,123. This vintage “pull knob” style cigarette vending machine has a resale value of $3,000 and will be auctioned to the public through the New Jersey Department of the Treasury.
- On June 19, 2009, William C. Neumann, Jr., 62, of Leonardo, New Jersey, was sentenced to a five-year State prison term for the crimes of second-degree theft by deception and third-degree failure to file State taxes. As a condition of the sentence, Neumann must pay full restitution of $297,724.26 to a total of 82 victims. Neumann must also pay $9,075.66 in penalties to the New Jersey Division of Taxation. Neumann pled guilty to the charges on March 9, 2009.

Neumann was the owner of Cabbage Rose, L.L.C., and Chelsea Manor Unlimited. Cabbage Rose, L.L.C., was a furniture store located in Fair Haven, New Jersey. Chelsea Manor Unlimited was a business which sold furniture through the Internet. The investigation revealed that Neumann received furniture orders and subsequently obtained deposits for merchandise pursuant to generated invoices. The investigation further revealed that from January 2004 until January 2007, Neumann received payments from customers totaling over $297,000 and failed to deliver any of the merchandise or submit refunds. Additionally, from 2003 until 2006, Neumann failed to file New Jersey gross income tax returns.

- On June 22, 2009, the New Jersey Division of Taxation received a forfeiture check in the amount of $21,432.50 from the Passaic County Prosecutor’s Office. This amount is derived from a seizure of U.S. currency during a cigarette inspection conducted at the China Garden restaurant in Paterson, New Jersey, on September 9, 2008. (This inspection had also resulted in the seizure of 3,298.5 cartons of contraband cigarettes.)

The owner of the aforementioned establishment, Fen Shou Chen, is currently awaiting sentencing in United States District Court in Camden.

- On July 15, 2009, the New Jersey Division of Taxation received a forfeiture check in the amount of $22,189.64 from the United States Postal Inspection Service (USPIS). The amount is derived from multiple seizures of U.S. currency and items recovered during the 2007 execution of Federal search warrants and arrest warrants connected to the Office of Criminal Investigation (OCI) case of Xiao Qi. This individual and his associates had conspired to defraud the State of New Jersey of cigarette tax through the trafficking of contraband cigarettes throughout primarily Essex, Union, and Passaic Counties in New Jersey. The case investigation was anchored by the joint efforts of OCI, USPIS, Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco, Firearms and Explosives, and Internal Revenue Service-Criminal Investigation, and was assisted at different junctures by personnel from the New Jersey State Police (NJSP), Essex Anti-Crime Task Force/NJSP Metro North Unit, Newark Police Department Vice Unit, Paterson Police Department Narcotics Unit, Passaic Police Department, and West New York Police Department.

- On July 24, 2009, Gilroy Campbell of Atlantic City, New Jersey, was sentenced to three years' probation, 138 days in the Atlantic County Jail, and forfeiture of $323 in seized currency and a 1996 GMC Safari van, which will be auctioned by the State. Campbell pled guilty to charges of possession and sale of contraband cigarettes and possession and sale of counterfeit CDs and DVDs in August 2008.

- On July 27, 2009, Naeem Khan, t/a Garden State Fuels, of Egg Harbor Township, New Jersey, pled guilty to possession of contraband cigarettes and failure to examine/return. Egg Harbor Municipal Court imposed $2,841 in fines, fees, and penalties. A total of 86 cartons of unstamped and Delaware-stamped cigarettes were seized from the business. □

Schedule I, Certification of Inactivity — An accountant wrote to the Division on behalf of a client who has an S corporation based in New York City. All of the business activity and sales were in New York during 2008.

However, the client rented a warehouse in New Jersey in 2008. The client received a notice that a corporation business tax return (Form CBT-100S) must be filed with the State of New Jersey. Reviewing Form CBT-100S, the accountant inquired about Schedule I, Certification of Inactivity, which may be filed with the first five pages of the tax return. On Schedule I the corporation certifies that throughout the tax period the “taxpayer had no business activities, no income, no assets and...made no distributions, and did not have any change in ownership.” The accountant asked, “Can this form be used if there were sales in New York only and no income or activity in New Jersey other than the rental of the warehouse?”

The Division responded that the Schedule I, Certification of Inactivity, cannot be used by the client.

Gross Income Tax

Bicycle Commuter Transportation Benefit — An employer inquired whether New Jersey has a commuter transportation benefit for bicycle commuters similar to the newly-adopted Federal income tax benefit for commuters using a bicycle.

Beginning with the 2009 tax year, Federal IRC Section 132(f) provides a limited Federal income tax exclusion for “any qualified bicycle commuting reimbursement” provided by an employer to an employee. The Federal exclusion applies to employer reimbursement for reasonable expenses incurred by the employee for the purchase of a bicycle and bicycle improvements, repair, and storage, if such bicycle is regularly used for travel between the employee’s residence and place of employment.

The New Jersey Gross Income Tax Act, at N.J.S.A. 54A:6-23, provides a limited exclusion for certain commuter transportation benefits. One limitation is that the benefit be provided to the employee “in addition to and not in lieu of compensation.” In other words, the New Jersey commuter transportation benefit exclusion does not apply to a benefit provided through a salary reduction agreement.

The New Jersey gross income tax exclusion is for “commuter transportation benefits” provided to employees for their use of “alternative means of commuting.” Further, the gross income tax exclusion provides that those terms are defined in N.J.S.A. 27:26A-3, which provides, in pertinent part:

Alternative means of commuting include, but are not limited to, public transportation, car pools, van pools, bus pools, ferries, bicycling, telecommuting, and walking....

The Division determined that if commuter benefits for bicycling are excludable for Federal income tax, they are also excludable for New Jersey gross income tax purposes, assuming they are not provided through a salary reduction agreement.

“Cash for Clunkers” Credit Towards Car Purchase — A taxpayer buying a car inquired about the “Cash for Clunkers” payments. More specifically, the buyer asked whether the program payment credited towards the motor vehicle purchase was subject to sales tax.

Cash for Clunkers payments are made under the Consumer Assistance to Recycle and Save Act of 2009. If a buyer’s application is successfully approved by the Federal government, the government will issue a financial credit to the dealer (subject to fund availability and approval of all aspects of the application).

The Division replied that the amount credited as the program payment was subject to sales tax. The Federal funds provided to the dealer under this program are directed towards the purchase or lease of a new vehicle. Those funds are deemed to be consideration paid by a third party. The amount of third-party consideration must be included in the sales tax base when calculating the applicable sales tax due on the transaction. The funds are not treated as part of the trade-in value that a dealer offers a buyer.

Tree Removal Service — A homeowner asked whether services to cut down and remove a tree and the stump are subject to sales tax. The Division responded that these services are subject to sales tax.

In the Sales and Use Tax Act, the definition of landscaping services includes “clearing and filling land.” That term includes the services of removing a tree and its stump. The business that provides the service must charge and remit sales tax. □

In Our Courts

Corporation Business Tax

Regular Place of Business – BIS LP, Inc. v. Director, Division of Taxation, Docket No. 007847-2007, decided July 30, 2009.

BIS LP was a wholly-owned subsidiary of BISYS, Inc. BISYS, Inc. and BIS LP entered into a limited partnership agreement whereby BISYS, Inc. became a 1% general partner and BIS LP was a 99% limited partner of Solutions. BIS LP did not have the right or obligation to participate directly or indirectly in the active management of Solutions. BIS LP’s sole interest in New Jersey was its limited partnership interest in Solutions, which is in the data processing business. It did not have any place of business, property, employees, agents, or representatives in New Jersey.

BIS LP filed a 2003 corporation business tax return on which it elected to be treated as an investment company because it qualified with its limited partnership interest in Solutions. Audit denied the investment company status on the basis that BIS LP did not have a qualifying asset. Additionally, the auditor found that BIS LP had a unitary relationship with the business conducted by Solutions and provided BIS LP with enough constitutional presence in New Jersey to be subject to tax.

The Court reviewed the statutes and regulations. In 2006 there was a regulatory amendment that stated that qualified investment assets do not include the direct investment in a non-publicly traded pass-through entity, if that entity would not satisfy the definition of an investment company had it been organized as a corporation. Prior to the amendment, there was no language in the statutes or regulations that suggested that an interest in a limited partnership could not be considered as a qualifying asset for purposes of the investment company election.

The Court held that BIS LP’s 2003 limited partnership interest in Solutions was an investment contract and therefore would be considered another security, and thus a qualifying asset, prior to the 2006 amendment. The Court stated that there was no language in the statutes or regulations which would have disqualified the limited partnership interest from qualifying as another security in 2003. Additionally, the Court refused to allow retroactive application of the regulation as that would be unfair to taxpayers.

Moreover, the Court also held that BIS LP was not subject to corporation business tax in 2003, noting that BIS LP and Solutions were separate entities and that BIS LP received 100% of its income from its limited partnership interest in Solutions. BIS LP is a holding company that was a passive investor and not in the same line of business as Solutions. The Court stated this situation was akin to the Division’s regulation, N.J.A.C. 18:7-7.6, example IV. Therefore, BIS LP and Solutions were not integrally related.

Nexus and Software License – AccuZIP, Inc. v. Director, Division of Taxation, Tax Court No. 005744-2003, decided August 13, 2009; Quark, Inc. v. Director, Division of Taxation, Tax Court No. 004692-2002, decided August 13, 2009.

The Division determined that both plaintiffs were subject to corporation business tax (CBT) because they retained title to licensed software where the license was sold, used, and located in New Jersey. For example, Quark's license stated that a customer did not receive title to the software but rather was granted a nonexclusive license to use the software subject to terms and restrictions.

The Tax Court ruled that neither plaintiff was subject to CBT due to the sale of software. The Court found that the property at issue was tangible and not intangible, citing the Sales and Use Tax Act, as well as Federal law which states that prewritten computer software is considered tangible property even though it is characterized as a licensing agreement. Therefore, the buyer acquires ownership of the physical property containing the intellectual property for its own use. The Court reasoned that to find that the plaintiffs owned property in New Jersey would lead to illogical results.

The Court distinguished the Lanco ruling emphasizing that the Court gave great weight to the fact that Lanco was licensing intangible property, that income (royalty payments or licensing fees) was generated in New Jersey from the use of intangible property, and that holding companies were involved for the purpose of creating a tax benefit.

As to the Division's alternative nexus arguments, the Court refused to adopt the significant economic presence test (as applied in the West Virginia case concerning MBNA) noting that it was not adopted by New Jersey and therefore was not binding. As to economic benefit, the Court found that although the plaintiffs may receive a slight benefit from the New Jersey judicial system, that alone is not a substantial economic benefit that would satisfy the substantial nexus requirement.

In conclusion, the Court held that AccuZIP was not subject to CBT because it did not meet the substantial nexus requirement of the Commerce Clause as it was not doing business in New Jersey. On the other hand, Quark was found to be doing business in New Jersey because of the activities of its one sales representative; however, those activities were protected by P.L. 86-272 and Quark was therefore only subject to the minimum tax.

Subjectivity/Nexus – GSJ Corporation and Peter Polites v. Director, Division of Taxation, Docket No. 007680-2004.

The Court upheld the Director's denial of the S corporation's refund claim for corporation business tax (CBT) and affirmed the Director's assessment of personal income tax against the individual, Peter Polites, because the plaintiff's contentions were based on the president of the company's self-serving testimony and not supported by any documentary evidence that was definite, positive, and certain in quantity and quality to overcome the Division's presumption of correctness.

The Court held that GSJ did not maintain a regular place of business in a room of its president's residential apartment in Pennsylvania because GSJ did not provide documentary evidence that showed GSJ's direct responsibility for the expenses, it was not identifiable as an office of GSJ, and the alleged home office was not regularly occupied when the president was not there. Therefore, the Court concluded that it did not matter whether the income was determined to be operational as all the income was allocated to New Jersey under Section 6; however, the Court noted that even if the income was determined to be nonoperational, the income should be assigned to New Jersey because all GSJ's business occurred in New Jersey. Finally, the Court denied GSJ's request for Section 8 relief stating that there was no documentary evidence that GSJ ever filed any income tax report or return in another state.

As to the personal income tax assessed against the plaintiff, the Court held that the income earned from a settlement and arbitration award was sourced to New Jersey and therefore taxable to Polites, a nonresident of New Jersey. Plaintiff failed to Section 338(h)(10) Election – McKesson Water Products Company v. Director, Division of Taxation, Docket No. A-5423-06T3, decided July 16, 2009.

The Appellate Division upheld the Tax Court ruling that the gain derived on a deemed asset sale pursuant to a Section 338(h)(10) election is not subject to corporation business tax because it is not operational income as defined under N.J.S.A. 54:10A-6.1(a).

Gross Income Tax Credit for Taxes Paid to Other Jurisdictions – Mannino, Philip & Joanne v. Director, Division of Taxation, Docket No. 009142-2007, decided July 8, 2009.

This case essentially confirmed or denied whether Mannino rose to the level of a previously decided case, Allen v. Director, Division of Taxation, 14 N.J. Tax 385 (1994), aff'd, 15 N.J. Tax 704 (App. Div. 1996). In Allen, the taxpayer had a capital loss that was deductible in New Jersey but not in New York and a loss from rental property deductible in New York that was not deductible in New Jersey. The Court held that reducing the credit numerator by both categories of income would result in double taxation. Therefore, the taxpayer was only required to reduce his credit numerator by the greater of the two amounts.

In the Mannino case, the taxpayer had partnership expenses that were deductible in New Jersey and not in California and partnership expenses deductible in California that were not deductible in New Jersey.

The Tax Court ruled that “the goal in offering a tax credit for taxes paid to other jurisdictions is to avoid double taxation of money taxed and actually paid to both New Jersey and a foreign jurisdiction.” Vassilidze v. Director, Division of Taxation, 24 N.J. Tax 278, 290 (Tax 2008).

Judge Bianco compared the facts in Mannino with the facts in the Allen case:

The Allen case states that both amounts would be subtracted from the numerator only if both amounts were deductible in both states. The Manninos’ deductions are not deductible in both states and therefore cannot be deductible from the numerator.

Judge Bianco also stated that to reduce the credit numerator by the partnership expenses allowed by New Jersey and California would result in double taxation.

Deduction of Personal Expenses – Sitar, William and Margaret v. Director, Division of Taxation, Docket No. A-3323-07T1, decided August 4, 2009.

The issue presented in this matter is the correctness of the methodology employed by the Division of Taxation in denying the deduction of personal expenses from the gain on the sale of land held purely for investment purposes. The plaintiffs, William and Margaret Sitar, asserted that since personal expenses (interest on a loan and property taxes) incurred in connection with the land they held for investment purposes were deductible Federally, but not for New Jersey purposes, then pursuant to Koch, the New Jersey gross income tax assessment denying a basis adjustment was invalid. The Division contended that land is not a depreciable asset and the plaintiffs’ personal expenses of interest on the loans to purchase the property and pay yearly property taxes are not deductible and therefore the taxpayer’s basis for the calculation on the sale of the land is the taxpayer’s Federal adjusted basis under N.J.S.A. 54A:5-1(c). The taxpayers also asserted Moroney v. Director, Division of Taxation; Denitzio v. Director, Division of Taxation, 2005 N.J. Super LEXIS 83, (2005).

There is no statutory provision which allows and provides for the deductions claimed by the plaintiffs. Plaintiffs sold a piece of vacant land which was held by the plaintiffs in their individual capacity for investment purposes. No improvements were made on this land. Plaintiffs had borrowed money to purchase the property and thus had to pay interest on the personal loan. Plaintiffs paid property taxes on this property. This property was not income producing. For the 1998 tax year, plaintiffs filed their Federal 1040 income tax return, and on Schedule A they deducted interest paid on the loan to purchase the said property and the real estate taxes paid on the property in the amount of $1,710,158. These Schedule A expenses were personal expenses which were not related to taxpayers’ being involved in a trade or business. In Gilligan v. Director, Division of Taxation, 11 N.J. Tax 414, (1991) such expenses are not deductible from the plaintiff’s gross income.

Thus, the Division wrote in the final determination that the plaintiffs must use the Federal adjusted basis to compute gain from sale of the land

in this case, and that the tax on the gain from the sale of land was not a tax on a return of capital nor a tax on fictitious, phantom income.

The New Jersey Superior Court, Appellate Division, in affirming the Tax Court stated:

Finally, we reject plaintiffs' argument that the computation of the basis for purposes of the GIT is the same as that for federal income tax purposes. Plaintiffs' seek to "have it both ways" - to take a personal deduction for federal purposes and take the same expenses and capitalize them for purposes of the GIT. The disparate treatment of these expenses is what the GIT seeks to avoid. Nothing in Koch or Moroney suggests that such conduct is envisioned by the GIT.

Local Property Tax Property Tax Exemption for Parsonage Residence – Chabad of Randolph, Inc. v. Township of Randolph, New Jersey Superior Court, Appellate Division, Docket No. A-3244-07T3, decided December 31, 2008.

The Township of Randolph appealed from a judgment entered by the State Tax Court which granted the Chabad of Randolph, Inc. a property tax exemption for a parsonage residence. The New Jersey Appellate Division affirmed the Tax Court's decision.

The issues raised by the Township of Randolph concerning the Chabad of Randolph's application for a property tax exemption were whether the rabbi met the definition of "officiating clergyman" and whether the premises in question was used in a fashion that would qualify for exemption as a parsonage under N.J.S.A. 54:4-3.6.

In September 2005, the Randolph Township zoning administrator observed activity which he believed demonstrated that the Chabad of Randolph's parsonage property was being used as a Hebrew school. However, the zoning administrator admitted that while he observed a large number of people entering and leaving the premises, he had no personal knowledge as to what they were doing at the house. Randolph Township also contended that Chabad was using the property as a Jewish community center in violation of the zoning ordinance, and therefore was not entitled to a tax exemption.

In October 2005, the Township tax assessor denied the Chabad a parsonage exemption for the residence occupied by the religious organization's rabbi. The Township maintained that the Chabad committed several zoning violations, and that "there was no proof that the rabbi was in fact installed over an established congregation." The Chabad appealed the tax assessor's denial of the property tax exemption to the Morris County Tax Board. On appeal, the Morris County Tax Board affirmed the assessor's decision to deny the parsonage exemption.

The Chabad appealed to the Tax Court of New Jersey, where it reversed the Morris County Tax Board's decision. Judge Kuskin, J.T.C., found that the rabbi's testimony on the issue of "officiating clergyman" was credible, and that the property was used as a parsonage within the meaning of the statute. Judge Kuskin concluded that the rabbi "was an officiating clergyman in that the duties and responsibilities described by him in his undisputed testimony 'sound like those performed by congregational leaders of all religious denominations.'" The rabbi testified that his responsibilities included providing religious services, religious education, prayer services, sermons, weekly Torah readings, and officiating at various religious rituals such as marriages and funerals, overseeing preschool and adult religious educations, hiring staff, and overseeing the organization's finances. The judge maintained that Randolph Township had not proven that the premises were being used in a manner that violated the zoning ordinance. Judge Kuskin's decision was based on his assessment of the rabbi's testimony, as well as the Township's lack of proof. The record contains evidence of one zoning violation which was resolved by paying a $250 fine and moving the religious school to another location. There was no proof that the Chabad violated the zoning ordinance in any other way. Judge Kuskin concluded that the Chabad carried its burden of proving that the rabbi's Chabad-owned residence was entitled to a parsonage exemption as per N.J.S.A. 54:4-3.6, which exempts from taxation "the buildings, not exceeding two, actually occupied as a parsonage by the officiating clergymen of any religious corporation of this State."

The Township of Randolph then appealed the Tax Court's decision to the New Jersey Appellate Division. The Appellate Division agreed with the Tax Court and held that "the evidence overwhelmingly supports the conclusion that his residence is a 'parsonage' within the meaning of N.J.S.A. 54:4-3.6." With this ruling the Chabad of Randolph was granted a property tax exemption for the parsonage residence. □

Statute of Limitations – Trump Plaza, Trump Marina, and Trump Taj Mahal Associates v. Director, Division of Taxation, Docket Nos. 008825-2006; 008827-2006; 008826-2006, decided June 19, 2009.

In this case, the Court found that there was no cause to allow an exception to the four-year statute of limitations involving refund claims for sales tax erroneously charged to the Trump Entities by Atlantic City Electric (ACE). The Court found that the argument to extend the statute of limitations was not compelling and that “the Director, on behalf of all other taxpayers should not be ordered to waive its protection.” □

Checkoff for Community Food Pantry Fund and Cat and Dog Spay/Neuter Fund — P.L. 2009, c.124, enacted on September 8, 2009, effective immediately, and applicable to taxable years beginning on or after January 1, 2010, establishes the Community Food Pantry Fund and the Cat and Dog Spay/Neuter Fund. It gives New Jersey taxpayers the opportunity to make voluntary contributions on their tax returns in support of community food pantries and for pet spaying and neutering.

Miscellaneous

Expansion of Neighborhood Revitalization State Tax Credit — P.L. 2009, c.120, signed into law on August 18, 2009, and effective immediately, extends the Neighborhood Revitalization State Tax Credit Program eligibility to areas that are adjacent to current qualifying neighborhoods and that share similar socioeconomic characteristics with those eligible neighborhoods. The eligible neighborhoods qualified due to receipt of aid under the Special Municipal Aid Act or because they were coextensive with an Abbott district as designated pursuant to the Comprehensive Educational Improvement and Financing Act of 1996. This Act permits tax credits to businesses located in a depressed neighborhood bordering a municipality that is currently eligible to participate in the program. The cap of $10 million remains the same.

The New Jersey Economic Stimulus Act of 2009 — P.L. 2009, c.90, signed into law on July 28, 2009, became effective immediately with the exception of sections 9 and 11, which became effective on October 1, 2009. This was an omnibus bill, consisting of eight actions, designed to reinvigorate New Jersey’s economy. There are numerous technical and administrative changes in this Act; six of which affect the Division of Taxation. The Act provides the following:

1. An Economic Redevelopment and Growth Grant Program;
2. Authorization for certain municipalities to impose special taxes and surcharges to fund redevelopment activities and certain programs;

3. Modifications to the current Emerging and Biotechnology Credit Transfer Program;
4. Expansion of eligibility and tax credit limits under the Urban Transit Hub Tax Credit Act (UTHTCA);
5. Relief to certain developers otherwise subject to the Statewide Non-Residential Fee Act and grants to municipalities for affordable housing;
6. Sales tax exemption on the receipts for the use of energy by certain postconsumer material manufacturing facilities.

Budget Funds Rebates

The State Budget for fiscal year 2010 (which began on July 1, 2009) provides funding for the Homestead Rebate Program – although not at the same level as last year. Eligibility and rebate amounts for homeowners are limited based on income, and rebates for tenants will not be paid to those under age 65 and not disabled. The Budget also requires that the rebates for homeowners be based on 2006 property taxes.

Who is Eligible

Homeowners and tenants who occupied their principal residence in New Jersey on October 1, 2008, and who paid property taxes on that dwelling either directly or through rent, are eligible for a 2008 homestead rebate, provided that their gross income for the entire year does not exceed the applicable income limit: $150,000 for homeowners age 65 or older or disabled, $75,000 for homeowners under age 65 and not disabled, and $100,000 for tenants age 65 or older or disabled. Under the terms of the Budget, no rebates will be issued to tenants under age 65 and not disabled.

Benefits

Benefit amounts differ for homeowners and tenants, and are determined by income, amount of property taxes (or rent) paid, and whether the applicant is 65 or older or eligible to claim an exemption as blind or disabled for the tax year.

The benefits under the Homestead Rebate Program are in addition to the State's other property tax relief programs. However, beginning this year with benefits paid for 2008, the total amount of all property tax relief benefits received (homestead rebate, property tax reimbursement, property tax deduction for senior citizens/disabled persons, and property tax deduction for veterans) cannot exceed the amount of property taxes (or rent constituting property taxes) paid on the applicant's principal residence for the same year.

Homeowners: The State Budget requires that the 2008 rebate be based on 2006 property taxes. For purposes of calculating the 2008 rebate, the 2006 property taxes for the dwelling that was the applicant's principal residence on October 1, 2008, will be used. If no property taxes were assessed on that dwelling for 2006, the Division of Taxation will determine the amount of property taxes that would have been due for 2006. In no case will a homeowner receive a rebate greater than the amount of property taxes actually paid.

Under the terms of the Budget, 2008 rebate amounts will be no greater than those paid for 2006 (when rebates were also based on 2006 property taxes) unless there has been a change in an applicant's filing characteristics. "Filing characteristics" means a reduction in income range, a change in age/disability status or marital status, or an increase in percentage of ownership.

Homeowners age 65 or older or disabled will receive the larger of either the applicable percentage of property taxes paid (20% if New Jersey gross income is $100,000 or less, 10% if income is between $100,001 and $150,000) or the amount by which the property taxes paid exceed 5% of New Jersey gross income, but within the following ranges:

$70,000 or less	—	$1200 – $1000
$70,001 – $125,000	—	$800 – $600
$125,001 – $150,000	—	$500

Homeowners under age 65 and not disabled will receive either 13.34% or 20% of the first $10,000 of property taxes paid in 2006, depending on their income level.

$50,000 or less	—	20%
$50,001 – $75,000	—	13.34%

Tenants: For tax year 2008, tenants age 65 or older or disabled are eligible to receive rebates ranging from a minimum of $160 up to a maximum of $860. Tenants under age 65 and not disabled are not eligible.

How to Apply

Homeowners: The 2008 homestead rebate applications were mailed in May to homeowners who were 65 years of age or older or disabled on December 31, 2008. Application packets were mailed in late July/early August to nonsenior, nondisabled homeowners whose 2008 New Jersey gross income was $75,000 or less. The filing deadline was recently extended for all filers to November 2, 2009.

Most homeowners can file their applications by phone by calling 1-877-658-2972 or online.

Tenants: Applicants who are required to file a 2008 New Jersey income tax return complete their tenant homestead rebate application (Form TR-1040) and file it at the same time they file their resident income tax return (Form NJ-1040, or return filed electronically using NJ WebFile or approved vendor software), which was originally due by April 15, 2009.

Tenants who have already filed their income tax returns but did not complete the homestead rebate application even though they were eligible, have until November 2, 2009, to file the tenant rebate application, Form TR-1040. However, because no rebates will be paid to tenants who are not 65 or disabled, there is no reason for them to file an application if they have not done so.

Applicants who are not required to file a 2008 New Jersey income tax return because their income is below the minimum filing threshold file only Form TR-1040 and have until November 2, 2009, to apply.

Rebate Checks

Homeowners: Homestead rebate checks for senior and disabled homeowners who filed by the original June 1 filing deadline were mailed July 31, 2009, while checks for those who file between June 1 and November 2 will be issued as quickly as possible. Checks for all nonsenior, nondisabled homeowners are scheduled to be mailed in October.

Tenants: Homestead rebate checks for all eligible tenants were mailed July 31, 2009.

FY 2010 Budget Legislation

The following is a list of several recently enacted tax laws related to the fiscal year 2010 budget.

Alcoholic Beverage Tax

P.L. 2009, c.71, increases the alcoholic beverage tax rate imposed on certain alcoholic beverages by 25% effective August 1, 2009. The tax rate imposed on liquor is increased to $5.50 per gallon; the rate on wine, vermouth, and sparkling wine is increased to $0.875 per gallon; and the rate on hard cider is increased to $0.15 per gallon. The law also dedicates certain additional revenues generated by the tax to the Health Care Subsidy Fund.

Cigarette Tax

P.L. 2009, c.70, raised the cigarette tax rate, effective July 1, 2009. The rate increased $0.125 per pack of 20 cigarettes from $2.575 to $2.70.

The law also dedicates additional revenue to the Health Care Subsidy Fund.

Corporation Business Tax

P.L. 2009, c.72, extends the 4% surcharge on corporation business tax liabilities for one year to include privilege periods ending before July 1, 2010. It also decouples the corporation business tax from Federal Internal Revenue Code deferral of certain discharge of indebtedness income.

Gross Income Tax

P.L. 2009, c.69, makes various modifications to the New Jersey gross income tax.

- The tax rate for tax year 2009 is increased to 8% on income over $400,000 but not over $500,000; 10.25% on income over $500,000 but not over $1,000,000; and 10.75% for income over $1,000,000.
- The property tax deduction for tax year 2009 is limited to $5,000 for homeowners under age 65 and not blind or disabled whose gross income is over $150,000 but not over $250,000. The deduction for 2009 is suspended for homeowners under age 65 and not blind or disabled whose income exceeds $250,000.

- New Jersey Lottery winnings from prizes over $10,000 are subject to New Jersey gross income tax beginning with tax year 2009. The New Jersey State Lottery is required to withhold income tax on taxable winnings at the rate of 3%.

Insurance Premiums Tax

P.L. 2009, c.75, modifies the tax treatment of certain lines of insurance.

- The rate on group accident and health insurance premiums increases to 1.35% for taxes payable in 2009.
- Dental service corporations are subject to the 1.35% insurance premiums tax for taxes payable in 2009.
- The tax for surplus lines coverage increases to 5%.

The law also dedicates certain additional revenue to the Health Care Subsidy Fund.

Telephone Filing Discontinued for Forms NJ-500, NJ-927, and NJ-927-H

Effective January 1, 2009, employers and others who withhold New Jersey gross income tax and unemployment/disability contributions are no longer able to file their returns and make the related payments by phone through the Division of Taxation's Business Paperless Telefiling System. Telephone filing has been discontinued for monthly and quarterly returns (Forms NJ-500/NJ-927) as well as the annual return for domestic employers (Form NJ-927-H).

For information on electronically filing returns due after December 31, 2008, or amending a return that was previously filed by telephone, go to Tax & Employer Filings and Payments on the Division of Revenue's Web site.

INHERITANCE/ESTATE TAX

Alternate Valuation Date

With the recent decline in the value of stocks, bonds, other investments, and realty, the Division has received numerous inquiries regarding the use of the alternate valuation date. This was not an issue of any great concern to most taxpayers until the market's recent precipitous decline.

New Jersey Inheritance Tax

The inheritance tax statute does not provide for the use of an alternate valuation date. Assets must be valued for all inheritance tax purposes at their value on a decedent's date of death in accordance with the provisions of N.J.A.C. 18:26-8.10(a).

Estate Tax

The provisions of the Internal Revenue Code in effect on December 31, 2001, provide for the use of an alternate valuation date if certain conditions are met. The policy of the Division has been and continues to be that if an election to use the alternate valuation date could have been made under the provisions of the 2001 Internal Revenue Code, that election may be made for New Jersey estate tax purposes. If a Federal estate tax return is filed, the same election must be made for New Jersey estate tax purposes and all other Federal and New Jersey tax purposes.

In situations where a Federal estate tax return is neither filed nor required to be filed, a taxpayer may make an election to use the alternate valuation date for New Jersey estate tax purposes provided the election could have been made under the provisions of the Internal Revenue Code in effect on December 31, 2001.

In situations where a Federal estate tax return is filed with the Internal Revenue Service even though a tax return is not required to be filed, and in situations where a Federal estate tax return is filed with the Internal Revenue Service pursuant to the requirements of the Internal Revenue Code, the same valuation date must be used for New Jersey estate tax purposes as is used for Federal purposes.

In those situations where date of death valuations must be used on the Federal estate tax return filed as alternate date valuations and would not decrease the Federal estate tax, date of death valuations must be used for New Jersey estate tax purposes. This is mandated even though an election to use the alternate valuation date could have been made under the provisions of the Internal Revenue Code in effect on December 31, 2001.

GROSS INCOME TAX

Charitable Remainder Trusts

The New Jersey Gross Income Tax Act states at N.J.S.A. 54A:2-1 that tax is imposed on the gross income of every trust, other than a charitable trust or a trust forming part of a pension or profit-sharing plan. The Act does not exempt any other type of trust from tax.

A "charitable trust" for New Jersey gross income tax purposes means a trust operated exclusively for religious, charitable, scientific, literary, or educational purposes. A trust cannot be deemed to be a charitable trust unless it is operated exclusively, during all of the taxable years in question, for religious, charitable, scientific, literary, or educational purposes; serves a public interest as opposed to a private interest; and, under the governing instrument, there is no possibility that a non-charitable beneficiary will receive gains or income. See Burke, Clare and Hill, Trustees, v. Director, 11 N.J. Tax 29 (1990).

In contrast, a Charitable Remainder Trust (CRT) is formed to pay income to one or more noncharitable income beneficiaries. The donor donates property or money to the CRT while continuing to use the property, receive income, and/or provide for beneficiaries. After a specified period of time, the CRT pays the entire remainder amount to charity or uses the trust for a charitable purpose. The terms of the trust are specified in the governing instrument.

There are three types of CRTs, all of which are treated similarly for New Jersey gross income tax purposes:

Fur Clothing Retail Gross Receipts Tax and Use Tax Repealed Effective January 1, 2009

P.L. 2008, c.123, repealed the Fur Clothing Retail Gross Receipts Tax and Use Tax effective January 1, 2009. The final return for the quarter ending December 31, 2008, was due January 20, 2009. Beginning January 1, 2009, sales of fur clothing are subject to sales tax at the rate of 7%. For more information see the Notice to Fur Clothing Sellers Effective January 1, 2009.

Charitable Remainder Annuity Trust (CRAT), which pays a fixed dollar amount annually; Charitable Remainder Unitrust (CRUT), which pays a fixed percentage of the trust's value annually; and Charitable Pooled Income Fund (CPIF), which is set up by the charity, enabling many donors to contribute. See Internal Revenue Code Section 664.

Only exclusively charitable trusts qualify for income tax exemption under the New Jersey Gross Income Tax Act. A CRT, in contrast to a charitable trust, has noncharitable beneficiaries and does not operate exclusively for charitable purposes. Accordingly, a CRT is not an exclusively charitable trust exempt from New Jersey gross income tax under N.J.S.A. 54A:2-1, and income that is not distributed and which is not deemed to be permanently and irrevocably set aside or credited to a charitable beneficiary is taxable income to the trust. □

The Division of Taxation periodically conducts free workshops throughout New Jersey designed to help small businesses better understand their State tax obligations. The seminars are a half day in duration and cover the following topics:

- Business registration
- Meeting employer responsibilities
- Reporting business income
- Filing sales and use tax returns

For more information, including the current workshop schedule, visit the Division's Web site at: www.state.nj.us/treasury/taxation/smallbus.shtml □

Criminal Enforcement

Criminal enforcement over the past several months included:

- On February 20, 2009, Spiro Pollatos was sentenced to more than 13 years in State prison for his lead role in mortgage and investment schemes. Spiro Pollatos pled guilty on October 17, 2008, to first-degree money laundering, and Crystal Velitschkow pled guilty on June 27, 2008, in connection with a series of mortgage and investment scams through which they stole approximately $2.9 million from victims. From January 2004 through March 2007 Pollatos and Velitschkow funneled more than $2.7 million in criminal proceeds through a personal bank account they controlled, using the money to buy real estate, cars, and boats and pay personal expenses. In December 2008, Spiro Pollatos was assessed $69,825 in State taxes due and $38,270.44 in penalties and interest, totaling $108,095.44, for failing to declare $1,350,000 in income over the past four years. At the same time, Crystal Velitschkow of Aberdeen, New Jersey was assessed $81,853.34 in State taxes due and $43,062.25 in penalties and interest, totaling $124,915.59, for failing to declare $1,538,828 in income over the past four years. Information obtained from the Division's Data Warehouse, in conjunction with Pollatos's and Velitschkow's October pleas, led to the assessments.

- On March 9, 2009, William C. Neumann, Jr. pled guilty to one count of second-degree theft by deception and one count of third-degree failure to file taxes in Monmouth County Superior Court. Neumann was the owner of Cabbage Rose, LLC, a furniture store located in Fair Haven, and Chelsea Manor Unlimited, an Internet furniture business. The investigation revealed that from January 2004 through January 2007 Neumann received payments from customers totaling over $330,000 but failed to deliver any of the merchandise or submit any refunds. Additionally, from 2003 through 2006 Neumann failed to file New Jersey gross income tax returns.

- On March 10, 2009, a Cape May County Grand Jury returned a seven-count indictment against Bonita Lynn Morin. This indictment follows a criminal investigation conducted by the Cape May County Prosecutor's Office in conjunction with the New Jersey Division of Taxation, Office of Criminal Investigation (OCI). The investigation revealed that Morin earned wages in excess of $70,000 for tax years 2004, 2005, and 2006 as a nurse utilizing a fictitious social security number and failed to file tax returns associated with those wages. The indictment charges her with three counts of third-degree failure to file tax returns, one count of second-degree trafficking in personal identifying information, one count of third-degree receiving stolen property, one count of second-degree receiving stolen property, and one count of second-degree conspiracy.
- On March 31, 2009, Paul Sarris pled guilty to second-degree theft by deception of New Jersey homestead rebate checks in the Mercer County Superior Court before Judge Darlene Pereska. Under the plea agreement the State will recommend that he be sentenced to ten years in State prison and pay restitution of $282,902 plus penalties and interest. Sarris was one of six defendants indicted on February 5, 2007, by a State Grand Jury on charges of first-degree conspiracy, first-degree money laundering, and second-degree theft by deception. The defendants, all Jersey City residents, including five members of one family, are: Paul Sarris, 50;

Achilles “Butz” Amante, 55; his sister, Matilda Amante Ramos, 56; and his three sons, Aristides Amante, 27, Amorito “Angelo” A. Amante, 33, and Aloysius M. Amante, 31. The six were indicted on charges they conspired to steal $573,383 from the State by filing fraudulent applications for 745 homestead rebate checks. The investigation revealed that Matilda Amante Ramos ran a travel agency, while all of the other defendants operated their own financial service companies offering tax preparation services. Between August 2001 and September 2003 the six defendants allegedly filed 745 false homestead rebate applications with the State of New Jersey, including multiple applications for each of 15 residential and commercial addresses they rented in Jersey City. The defendants allegedly filed the applications using names and social security numbers obtained from tax preparation clients without permission. They allegedly laundered the $573,383 in stolen funds by depositing the rebate checks in various commercial bank accounts maintained for their businesses. To date, five have entered plea agreements. Achilles “Butz” Amante remains at large and is believed to be out of the country.

- On April 8, 2009, OCI retrieved 323 cartons of unstamped cigarettes from the United States Customs & Border Protection (USC&BP) office at the New Jersey International Bulk Mail Center in Jersey City, New Jersey. OCI was notified of the presence of these cigarettes as a result of continued cooperation between OCI and USC&BP, including a previous seizure of 330 cartons in January 2009. These cigarettes all share the common element of being shipped from outside the United States with the intent of the domestic recipients to avoid payment of State cigarette taxes. The Division of Taxation will bill the New Jersey residents.

- On April 9, 2009, an Ocean County Grand Jury returned a 25-count indictment against James Hankins, Jr. This indictment follows a criminal investigation which was conducted by both the Ocean and Monmouth County Prosecutor’s Offices in conjunction with the New Jersey Division of Taxation, Office of Criminal Investigation. The investigation revealed that Hankins had bilked investors out of as much as $12 million to purchase viatical or life settlements between March 2006 and November 2007. Hankins never purchased a single life insurance policy. Instead, he used the funds to make real estate investments and cover his own lavish lifestyle. The indictment charges him with 2 counts of first-degree financial facilitation of criminal activity, 1 count of second-degree theft by deception, 14 counts of second-degree issuing bad checks, 4 counts of third-degree failure to file tax returns, and 4 counts of third-degree failure to pay.

Sales Tax Information

Streamlined Sales and Use Tax

P.L. 2006, c.44, increased the New Jersey sales and use tax rate from 6% to 7%, effective July 15, 2006. The rate change affects all retail sales of taxable merchandise or services. For more information on the rate increase visit:

Information for all Sales and Use Tax Vendors

Additional provisions of P.L. 2006, c.44, effective October 1, 2006, extended the sales and use tax to new services, limited some existing exclusions and exemptions, and encompassed product categories that have come into being with new technologies. More information is available at:

- On May 5, 2009, in Plainfield City Municipal Court, Dinesh Patel, owner of Plainfield Supermarket, pled guilty to criminal possession of untaxed cigarettes and was fined $1,000 plus court costs. He was also assessed a $770 civil penalty for accepting delivery of untaxed cigarettes. Total amount paid was $1,961. Charges stemmed from a December 2008 investigation in which this retailer made available for sale 30.8 cartons of cigarettes consisting of packs affixed with counterfeit New Jersey Revenue stamps and untaxed imported cigarettes. □

Corporation Business Tax

Nonprofit Condominium Association Exempt From Corporation Business Tax — A representative of a condominium association inquired whether a condominium association that was incorporated for the purpose of operating a professional office complex could qualify for exemption from the corporation business tax. Condominium associations are usually organized as nonprofit corporations under Title 15A. The representative was advised that commercial condominium associations, as well as residential condominium associations, are exempt from corporation business tax pursuant to N.J.S.A. 54:10A-3(e) if they are organized as nonprofit corporations under Title 15A. While these corporations are not required to file a New Jersey corporation business tax return, they may be required to file Federal income tax returns with the Internal Revenue Service.

Cosmetic Medical Procedures Gross Receipts Tax

Fee for Room and Board — A surgery center wrote to the Division of Taxation with a question concerning the cosmetic medical procedures gross receipts tax. The surgery center provides cosmetic procedures such as cosmetic plastic surgery. In addition to fees such as the doctor’s fee for the surgical procedure, the center charges a separately itemized fee for day use (not overnight) of the surgical and other rooms used to provide the cosmetic surgery. The surgery center inquired whether this charge, described on the bill as “room and board,” is subject to the tax.

N.J.S.A. 54:32E-1.b includes the following definition:

“Cosmetic medical procedure” includes but is not limited to cosmetic surgery, hair transplants, cosmetic injections, cosmetic soft tissue fillers, dermabrasion and chemical peel, laser hair removal, laser skin resurfacing, laser treatment of leg veins, sclerotherapy, and cosmetic dentistry.

N.J.S.A. 54:32E-1.b also provides, in pertinent part:

“Gross receipts from a cosmetic medical procedure” means all amounts paid for services, property or occupancy required for or associated with the performance of a cosmetic medical procedure and billed to the procedure subject’s account.

Since the statute specifically taxes amounts paid for occupancy, the Division determined that the day use room and board charge was subject to the cosmetic medical procedures gross receipts tax. The legislature intended that the tax be broadly applied to the various fees charged for the cosmetic surgery.

Gross Income Tax

Election Worker Stipend — A taxpayer wrote to the Division of Taxation to ask whether a stipend paid to a poll worker for services performed on election day is subject to New Jersey gross income tax. The Division answered affirmatively.

Under the New Jersey Gross Income Tax Act at N.J.S.A. 54A:5-1(a), gross income includes all wages, salaries, commissions, tips, bonuses, sales awards, and other types of compensation for services rendered. Therefore, for New Jersey gross income tax purposes, the stipend that poll workers receive as compensation for their services is considered taxable and should be reported on the New Jersey gross income tax return.

Litter Control Fee

Requirement to File Litter Control Fee Return

— A taxpayer wrote to the Division for guidance on its litter control fee filing responsibilities. For purposes of the litter control fee, the definition of a subject “retailer” excludes restaurants with over half of their prepared food served on the premises. The taxpayer inquired as to whether it is required to file the Litter Control Fee Return (Form LF-5) since it operates a restaurant that serves over 50% eat-in.

The Division advised that there is a check box on the reverse side of the return where a taxpayer can indicate this fact. Where a business anticipates that its on-premises service may fluctuate under and over the 50% threshold from year to year, the Division suggests that the business continue to file returns yearly using the check box where appropriate. However, where a business operates in such a manner that it is certain it will exceed the 50% threshold every year, the taxpayer may check the box on the reverse side of Form LF-5 as mentioned above. Or, to clearly end eligibility for the fee, the taxpayer may file Form REG-C-L, Request for Change of Registration Information, located on the Division of Revenue’s Web site at: www.state.nj.us/treasury/revenue/forms/regcl.pdf

Gratuity and Services Charges

— A taxpayer inquired about charges for a catering event imposed by a hotel. The taxpayer provided the following facts:

A catering facility’s customer contract provides that a charge equal to 11.25% of the food, beverage, room rental, and miscellaneous fees is added to the contract as a gratuity and is fully distributed to the caterer’s employees. The contract also provides that a charge equal to 10.75% of the food, beverage, room rental, and miscellaneous fees is added to the contract as a service charge and that this service charge is not a gratuity, but rather is retained by the caterer to cover general discretionary costs for the catering event.

Charges made for tips and gratuities, including stipulated gratuities or service fees/charges, are not subject to tax when: (1) the charge is separately stated on the bill or guest check given to the customer; (2) the charge is specifically designated as a gratuity; and (3) all such monies received by management are paid in total to the employees. N.J.A.C. 18:24-12.7. Thus, in order for the gratuity and the service charge to be exempt from sales tax, all three of the above criteria must be met.

Based on the facts provided, the 11.25% fee is not subject to tax as long as the three elements above are met. However, the 10.75% fee does not meet the above elements. This fee is simply an increase in the taxable receipt and is therefore included in the tax base. N.J.S.A. 54:32B-2(d); N.J.S.A. 54:32B-2(oo).

Purchase of a Wheelchair — A taxpayer inquired about the taxability of the purchase of a wheelchair for his own use. Mobility enhancing equipment is exempt from tax. N.J.S.A. 54:32B-8.1. “Mobility enhancing equipment” means equipment, other than durable medical equipment, that:

- (1) Is primarily and customarily used to provide or increase the ability to move from one place to another and which is appropriate for use either at home or in a motor vehicle; and
- (2) Is not generally used by persons with normal mobility; and
- (3) Does not include any motor vehicle or equipment on a motor vehicle normally provided by a motor vehicle manufacturer.

Effective January 1, 2009, a prescription requirement was added to the exemption for mobility enhancing equipment. This is intended to clarify that there is no exemption for such equipment when purchased by a medical services provider (e.g., a for-profit hospital, doctor’s office, etc.). Thus, the wheelchair qualifies for the exemption as long as the purchaser provides a prescription to the seller. □

In Our Courts

Gross Income Tax

Intercategory Netting – Monsees, Gregg Peters v. Director, Division of Taxation, Docket No. 003535-2008, decided May 1, 2009.

At issue was whether the Division of Taxation properly denied the taxpayer's netting of a net pro rata share of S corporation loss against other categories of gross income.

N.J.S.A. 54A:5-2 states that losses within one category of gross income may be applied against other sources of gross income within the same category of gross income during the taxable year. However, a net loss in one category of gross income may not be applied against gross income in another category of gross income.

In Miller v. Director, Division of Taxation, 352 N.J. Super. 98, 799 A.2d 660 (App. Div. 2002), the New Jersey Appellate Court stated that since income is taxed on a category-by-category basis, the New Jersey Gross Income Tax Act expressly prohibits the netting of income and losses among the different categories.

The Division had adjusted the taxpayer's net pro rata share of S corporation income to zero where the taxpayer had reported a loss on Line 21 of his NJ-1040 return. Plaintiff argued that he had reported and paid tax on income for over 20 years from his S corporation, so now that the S corporation had a loss, the Division should allow the loss.

Judge Bianco granted the Division's motion for summary judgment. In reaching his decision, he stated that N.J.S.A. 54A:5-2 prohibits intercategory netting by the taxpayer. □

In Our Legislature

Alcoholic Beverage Tax

Alcoholic Beverage Tax Increase — P.L. 2009, c.71, signed into law on June 29, 2009, and effective August 1, 2009, increases the New Jersey alcoholic beverage tax (excise tax), which is applied to the first sale or delivery of alcoholic beverages to retailers in New Jersey and is paid by manufacturers, wholesalers, and State beverage distributors.

The rate as it applies to liquors increases from $4.40 a gallon to $5.50 a gallon; still wines, vermouth, and sparkling wines increase from $0.70 a gallon to $0.875 a gallon; apple cider (cider containing at least 3²/₁₀% but not more than 7% alcohol by volume) increases from $0.12 a gallon to $0.15 a gallon.

Cigarette Tax

Cigarette Tax Increase — P.L. 2009, c.70 signed into law on June 29, 2009, and effective July 1, 2009, increases the New Jersey cigarette tax and applies to all New Jersey cigarette stamps, stamped floor stock, and to all cigarettes in the possession of any distributor, wholesaler, or retailer licensed by the State of New Jersey as of July 1, 2009. The law provides for new rates per pack of $2.70 on a pack of 20 cigarettes and $3.375 on a pack of 25 cigarettes.

Corporation Business Tax

New Jersey Decouples From Federal Deferral of Certain Discharge of Indebtedness Income and Extends the Business Surtax — P.L. 2009, c.72 enacted on June 29, 2009, and effective July 1, 2009, extends the 4% surtax on corporation business tax liabilities for one year. The annual surtax, which was initially imposed under P.L. 2006, c.38

(N.J.S.A. 54:10A-5.40) for privilege periods ending on or after July 1, 2006, but before July 1, 2009, will now apply to privilege periods ending on or after July 1, 2006, but before July 1, 2010. As previously imposed, the surtax is paid in addition to the franchise tax that is required pursuant to N.J.S.A. 54:10A-5.

The law also decouples the corporation business tax from Federal Internal Revenue Code deferral of certain discharge of indebtedness income.

Gross Income Tax

Rate Increase, Property Tax Deduction Suspension and Cap, New Jersey Lottery Winnings Taxable — P.L. 2009, c.69, approved on June 29, 2009, and effective July 1, 2009, applies to taxable years beginning on or after January 1, 2009. The legislation temporarily adjusts the New Jersey gross income tax rates for taxpayers with taxable incomes exceeding $400,000 in taxable years beginning on or after January 1, 2009, but before January 1, 2010. The law provides for adjusted income taxation of the following brackets at the following rates: over $400,000 but not over $500,000 is adjusted from 6.37% to 8%; over $500,000 but not over $1,000,000 is adjusted from 8.97% to 10.25%; and over $1,000,000 is adjusted from 8.97% to 10.75%.

The law also provides that for the taxable year beginning January 1, 2009, homeowners who have a gross income of more than $250,000 and are not age 65 or older or allowed a personal exemption as a blind or disabled individual are not eligible for the property tax deduction.

Additionally, the maximum property tax deduction is capped at $5,000 for homeowners who have gross income of more than $150,000, but not exceeding $250,000, and are not age 65 or older or blind or disabled.

The law also provides that New Jersey lottery winnings from prizes exceeding $10,000 are taxable for New Jersey gross income tax purposes and that the New Jersey State Lottery is required to withhold New Jersey gross income tax on such taxable winnings at the rate of 3%.

Insurance Premiums Tax Increase in Insurance Premiums Receipts Tax Rates for 2009 — P.L. 2009, c.75, signed into law on June 29, 2009, and effective immediately, increases the tax rate on group accident and health insurance premiums payable in 2009 from 1% to 1.35%. The law also modifies the current tax exemption given to a dental service corporation to make it subject to the 1.35% insurance premiums tax for taxes payable in 2009. The legislation also increases the premium receipts tax for surplus lines coverage from 3% to 5%. □

Tax Amnesty 2009

Governor Jon S. Corzine recently signed a law (P.L. 2009, c.21) requiring the Division of Taxation to implement a limited Tax Amnesty Program this spring.

The 2009 Tax Amnesty Program will begin May 4 and end at midnight, June 15. During that time, taxpayers will be offered the opportunity to file delinquent returns and to pay back taxes and one-half of the balance of interest that remains due as of May 1, 2009, without penalty. Recovery fees and the imposition of civil or criminal penalties will also be waived provided that all of the eligibility requirements are met.

Most taxpayers are eligible for tax amnesty with few exceptions. Tax amnesty is not available to any taxpayer who is under criminal investigation or charge for any State tax matter. In addition, a taxpayer who has filed a complaint with the New Jersey Tax Court, or who is pursuing an appeal in any other manner, may only participate if approved by the Director and provided the taxpayer agrees to withdraw or otherwise cause the complaint or appeal to be dismissed.

Tax amnesty is available only for outstanding tax liabilities that are reportable on any tax return due on or after January 1, 2002, and prior to February 1, 2009. To receive amnesty, a taxpayer must:

- File the required tax return(s), if applicable; and
- Pay the balance of the tax due and one-half of the balance of interest that remains due; and
- Complete and submit a payment/waiver statement.

Taxpayers will be able to apply for tax amnesty on the Tax Amnesty Web site at: www.taxamnesty.nj.gov

After the amnesty period ends on June 15, 2009, a nonabatable 5% penalty will be imposed on any amnesty-eligible tax liabilities that are not satisfied during the amnesty period. An additional collection service fee may also be imposed. This will be in addition to all other penalties, interest, and other costs authorized by law.

The 2009 Amnesty Program includes all State taxes and fees administered by and payable to the New Jersey Division of Taxation including the corporation business tax, sales and use tax, and gross income tax. Taxes not administered and collected by the Division of Taxation – such as local property taxes, realty transfer fees, payroll taxes owed to the Department of Labor and Workforce Development, and Federal liabilities – are not eligible for amnesty.

The State will mail notices to approximately 600,000 individuals and businesses who are delinquent in filing returns and who owe back taxes to the State for the eligible years. The State also plans to undertake a full-scale public awareness campaign that includes radio and print advertising, and perhaps some television spots.

Information and forms will be available:

- Online at the Tax Amnesty Web site: www.taxamnesty.nj.gov
- By phone at: 1-800-781-8407 (toll-free)

Electronic Filing and Payment for Employer Returns

All Employer Quarterly Reports, Forms NJ-927, NJ-927-W, and WR-30, as well as Form NJ-927-H, Domestic Employer's Annual Report, are now required to be filed electronically. Monthly remittances of gross income tax withheld, Form NJ-500, must also be filed electronically. As a result, the quarterly reports for the first quarter of 2009, due April 30, 2009, must be filed using the Division of Revenue's secure Web site or in bulk using Secure File Transfer Protocol (SFTP). Notification of the new filing requirement was mailed to all registered employers in late fall 2008. A reminder was also recently mailed.

Great success has been seen with other electronically filed business tax returns and fees. The State is expecting similar success with the NJ-927s and anticipates an easier and more user-friendly filing experience with the new format.

The advantages of electronic filing are many. Filing instructions are only a click away, and there are comprehensive help screens to guide the user through the entire report. Employers no longer need to wait for paper forms in the mail. Processing of information is quicker and more accurate. Employers can view all payments submitted for each quarter of 2009 and after. In addition, the revised filing system allows employers to specify the exact dollar amount to be remitted to the Division of Taxation and the Department of Labor and Workforce Development. This payment change gives employers greater control over payroll monies remitted to the State. Electronically filed returns have fewer errors, thereby reducing processing costs. Employers can make payment by using one of the three allowable methods: e-check, electronic funds transfer, or credit card.

Tax Deductions Certified

The State Revenue Sharing Act distribution for 2008 for senior and disabled persons, surviving spouses, and veterans was delivered to the State Treasurer on September 15, 2008.

Under the provisions of R.S. 54A:10-1 et seq., as amended, the Director of the Division of Taxation certified to the State Treasurer in this report the amount of revenue sharing funds due each municipality on November 1, 2008. The revenue sharing funds are comprised of the senior citizen and veterans' deductions in each municipality. Qualified senior citizens and disabled persons are permitted a tax deduction of $250 annually as per N.J.S.A. 54:4-8.40 et seq. Qualified veterans are permitted a deduction of $250 pursuant to N.J.S.A. 54:4-8.10 et seq.

The total amount of property tax deductions for senior citizen and disabled persons and surviving spouses for 2008 was $19,316,880. That amount represents a decrease of 5% from 2007. The total number of property tax deductions for senior and disabled citizens and surviving spouses for 2008 was 74,318. When compared to tax year 2007, the number of deductions decreased 5%.

For tax year 2008, the amount of veterans' deductions was $69,353,434. That amount represents a decrease of 3% from 2007. The total number of veterans' deductions for 2008 was 272,364. When compared to tax year 2007, the number of deductions decreased 3%.

The total amount of senior citizen and veterans' deductions includes the additional 2% each municipality is reimbursed for administrative costs as a result of P.L. 1997, c.30. □

Criminal Enforcement

Criminal enforcement over the past several months included:

- On December 9, 2008, a contraband investigation conducted at the Plainfield Supermarket in the City of Plainfield resulted in the seizure of 30.8 cartons of contraband cigarettes: 20.8 cartons were affixed with counterfeit New Jersey tax stamps and 10 cartons were untaxed Indian imported beedie cigarettes. In addition, loose cigarettes for sale, in violation of the law, were also recovered.
- On December 19, 2008, Francisco Monterroso and his wife Lucy Rodriguez Monterroso were indicted by a Middlesex County Grand Jury on two counts of failure to file New Jersey gross income tax returns (Form NJ-1040) for years 2006 and 2007, two counts of failure to pay the tax, four counts of second-degree theft by deception, and two counts of third-degree theft by deception. Francisco Monterroso was a home remodeler and had taken $396,600 for these two years.

- On December 31, 2008, Spiro Pollatos of Hackensack, New Jersey, was assessed $69,825 in tax and $38,270.44 in penalties and interest, totaling $108,095.44, for failing to declare $1,350,000 in income over the past four years and failing to pay the taxes due. At the same time, Crystal Velitschkow of Aberdeen, New Jersey, was assessed $81,853.34 in tax and $43,062.25 in penalties and interest, totaling $124,915.59, for failing to declare $1,538,828 in income over the past four years and failing to pay the taxes due. Information obtained from the Division's Data Warehouse, in conjunction with Pollatos's and Velitschkow's pleas, lead to the two assessments. Spiro Pollatos pled guilty on October 17, 2008, to first-degree money laundering, and Crystal Velitschkow pled guilty on June 27, 2008, in connection with a series of mortgage and investment scams through which they stole approximately $2.9 million from victims. From January 2004 through March 2007, Pollatos and Velitschkow funneled more than $2.7 million in criminal proceeds through a personal bank account they controlled, using the money to buy real estate, cars, and boats and pay personal expenses.

- On July 1, 2008, James Hendricks, t/a B & J Towing, and his wife, Mary Ann Clark, were indicted by a State Grand Jury on four counts: third-degree conspiracy, third-degree theft by failure to make required disposition of property received, and third-degree misapplication of entrusted funds for Hendricks and Clark; and third-degree failure to remit sales and use tax for Hendricks. Hendricks and Clark were scheduled to be sentenced in March of 2009.
- On January 8, 2009, 330 cartons of unstamped cigarettes were retrieved from the United States Customs & Border Protection (USC&BP) office at the New Jersey International Bulk Mail Center in Jersey City, New Jersey. The Office of Criminal Investigation (OCI) was notified of the presence of these cigarettes as a result of continued cooperation between OCI and USC&BP, which originated with the aggregate seizure of 57,762 cartons of unstamped cigarettes between November 2004 and January 2007. These cigarettes all share the common element of being shipped from outside the United States, with the intent of the domestic recipients avoiding payment of State cigarette taxes. The addressee information of all New Jersey residents will be forwarded to Audit Services, and the information of out-of-State recipients to the proper taxation authority.

- As announced on January 8, 2009, by Attorney General Anne Milgram, New Jersey has entered into a multistate settlement with the Santa Fe Natural Tobacco Company over its violation of the Master Settlement Agreement. Santa Fe distributed decorative tin signs to consumers that featured its “Natural American Spirit” cigarettes brand name. This violated the agreement and under terms of the settlement Santa Fe agrees not to distribute the following types of brand name merchandise: decorative tin signs, toys, games, fashion accessories, CDs, DVDs, video games, clothing, athletic equipment, outdoor gear, luggage, stationery items, housewares, and paintings and plaques intended for the home. In addition, Santa Fe Natural agrees to pay a penalty of $250 for every future violation of the agreement. Forty-two states, including New Jersey, are party to the settlement agreement with Santa Fe.

- On January 26, 2009, a Monmouth County Grand Jury returned a 38-count indictment against 16 defendants following an investigation into a cocaine trafficking and money laundering network based in Manalapan, New Jersey. The investigation revealed cocaine was imported utilizing corporations, Diamond Builders of New Jersey, LLC and Bacardi Oil, LLC, owned by Vicente Esteves, to launder the financial proceeds of the criminal activities. The indictment charges Vicente Esteves, 36, with three counts of failure to file State income tax returns and three counts of failure to pay or turn over State income taxes in addition to second-degree racketeering conspiracy, first-degree leader of a narcotics trafficking network, possession of a controlled dangerous substance, first-degree possession of a controlled dangerous substance with intent to distribute, multiple counts of first-, second-, and third-degree financial facilitation of criminal activity, two counts of second-degree misconduct by a corporate official, one count each of fourth-degree deceptive business practices and fourth-degree falsifying records, and four counts of fourth-degree unlawful check cashing. Esteves is being held at the Monmouth County Correctional Institution in lieu of $2,500,000 bail. □

Gross Income Tax

Section 401(a) and 401(k) Retirement Plans — A taxpayer wrote to the Division of Taxation asking about the gross income tax treatment of Section 401(a) and 401(k) retirement plans. The Division explained that the governing rules for IRC Sections 401(a) and 401(k) plans are very similar. However, 401(a) plans are usually offered by government employers and 401(k) plans are offered by private companies. Section 401(k) allows for employees to contribute to their plans, whereas under 401(a) plans no employee contributions are allowed.

In adopting its gross income tax, New Jersey has not incorporated Federal conformity except as may be specifically set forth in the law. The New Jersey Gross Income Tax Act at N.J.S.A. 54A:6-21 does not provide for the tax-deferred treatment of contributions made under IRC Section 401(a) plans. These same contributions, however, are not taxable when distributed at retirement time, to the extent that the taxpayer is receiving previously taxed amounts.

Section 401(k) plans are the only plans specifically excluded from gross income under the provisions of the Gross Income Tax Act. The law was enacted intending to only encompass the plans that were in and of themselves 401(k) plans, not plans with similar requirements and characteristics. This has been the case since the 401(k) contribution exclusion was enacted in 1984.

Therefore, for a 401(a) plan, any Federally deferred contributions are included in a taxpayer's gross income as they are contributed; only interest, dividends, and other earnings credited to a Section 401(a) plan are subject to income tax when withdrawn.

Viatical Settlement— The Division received a letter from a taxpayer inquiring about the taxability of income received through a viatical settlement. A viatical settlement is the sale of a life insurance policy by the policy owner before the policy matures. Generally, viatical settlements involve insured individuals with a shorter life span.

For New Jersey gross income tax purposes, N.J.S.A. 54A:6-4 states that proceeds of life insurance contracts payable by reason of death are excluded from New Jersey gross income taxation. If the person is still alive, amounts received would be taxable and included in the net gains or income from the disposition of property category of income, since they are not specifically excluded under the Act in accordance with N.J.S.A. 54A:5-1(c). However, N.J.S.A. 54A:5-1(c) provides that net gains or net income does not include transactions to the extent to which nonrecognition is allowed for Federal income tax purposes.

Therefore, for New Jersey purposes, any amount from a viatical settlement reported on Form 1099-LTC that is taxable for Federal income tax purposes must be included in a taxpayer's New Jersey gross income in the same way as for Federal purposes; and any amount excluded for Federal income tax is excluded for New Jersey gross income tax purposes.

The taxpayer also inquired about the treatment of the income for purposes of the property tax reimbursement. The Division answered that proceeds received from viatical settlements should not be taken into account to determine eligibility for the property tax reimbursement.

Homestead Rebate

Life Estate — Two taxpayers with a life estate in their home inquired whether they may receive a rebate under the New Jersey Homestead Rebate Program.

The Homestead Rebate Program is established by law in accordance with N.J.S.A. 54:4-8.57 et seq., and provides specific rebate qualifications and amounts. Under the law, the definition for "homestead" provides, in pertinent part:

[A] homestead shall be deemed to be owned by a person if that person is a tenant for life or a tenant under a lease for 99 years or more and is entitled to and actually takes possession of the homestead under an executory contract for the sale thereof or under an agreement with a lending institution which holds title as security for a loan....

Therefore, the two taxpayers with a life estate in their home are considered homeowners under the Act and can receive a rebate under the New Jersey Homestead Rebate Program if their home is a permanent legal residence in New Jersey and they meet the other eligibility requirements. Information about the Homestead Rebate Program, including eligibility requirements, is available on the Division of Taxation's Web site at: www.state.nj.us/treasury/taxation/relief.shtml

Since these taxpayers are not the actual owners of record they must file a homestead rebate paper application, which they can obtain by calling 1-888-238-1233. The application must include a copy of an official document (e.g., deed, lease) establishing their right to occupy the property.

Sales and Use Tax

Imitation Fur on Clothing — A taxpayer wrote to the Division asking whether imitation fur (fake fur) clothing is subject to sales and use tax, which is imposed on purchases of fur clothing effective January 1, 2009. The Division of Taxation answered the taxpayer by explaining that imitation fur does not meet the definition of "fur clothing" for purposes of the Sales and Use Tax Act.

The definition of fur clothing provides, in pertinent part:

For the purposes of this section, 'fur' means any animal skin or part thereof with hair, fleece, or fur fibers attached thereto, either in its raw or processed state....

Therefore, fake fur clothing does not fit within the definition of fur clothing. As a result, fake fur clothing is exempt from sales tax under the clothing exemption, and retailers are not required to charge sales tax on clothing that includes only imitation fur.

Prefabricated Firewood — A taxpayer inquired whether sales tax applies to sales of prefabricated firewood.

The New Jersey Sales and Use Tax Act contains a tax exemption for "sales of gas other than natural gas, water, steam, or fuel delivered to consumers through mains, lines, pipe, or in containers or bulk." N.J.S.A. 54:32B-8.7. Firewood is exempt from sales and use tax as fuel. Firewood treated with a burning catalyst, often lighter fluid, is also exempt from sales tax in accordance with the statutory exemption. Therefore, sales of prefabricated firewood are exempt. Lighter fluid is also exempt from sales and use tax as a fuel.

Underground Oil Tank Services — A business wrote to the Division asking about the sales tax treatment of certain services performed in relation to oil storage tanks. Specifically, the business repaired, removed, and installed underground oil tanks, both commercial and residential.

In response to the questions, the Division explained that the business is considered a "contractor" for sales tax purposes. A contractor

Sales Tax Information

P.L. 2005, c.126, effective October 1, 2005, conformed the New Jersey Sales and Use Tax Act to the Streamlined Sales and Use Tax Agreement. More information is available at:

P.L. 2006, c.44, increased the New Jersey sales and use tax rate from 6% to 7%, effective July 15, 2006. The rate change affects all retail sales of taxable merchandise or services. For more information on the rate increase visit:

P.L. 2008, c. 123, revised the New Jersey Sales and Use Tax Act to conform with various provisions of the Streamlined Sales and Use Tax Agreement (SSUTA). The amendments took effect on January 1, 2009, and include changes in telecommunications, direct mail, fur clothing, the definition of sales price, and the medical products exemption. is an individual or business entity engaged in the business of improving, altering, or repairing the land, buildings, or other real property of others. Where work performed by a contractor results in a capital improvement to the property, the property owner may provide the contractor with a Certificate of Exempt Capital Improvement (Form ST-8) in lieu of paying sales tax on the services.

The Division deems the installation of an underground oil tank to be a capital improvement. Also, the removal and restoration of the real property and the sand-filling of an abandoned oil tank is deemed to be a capital improvement. Therefore, the property owner may issue a contractor a Certificate of Exempt Capital Improvement (Form ST-8) in lieu of paying sales tax on these services.

Repairing real property is subject to sales tax under N.J.S.A. 54:32B-3(b) (4). Therefore, the business must collect sales tax on repairs to underground tanks. On the other hand, soil testing services and inspection services, in connection with oil tank services, are not subject to sales tax when separately itemized. □

401(k) Contributions, Credit for Taxes Paid to Philadelphia

– Macario A. Sarreal v. Director, Division of Taxation, Docket No. 007828-2008, decided December 30, 2008.

N.J.S.A. 54A:4-1(a) provides a New Jersey resident a credit against the New Jersey gross income tax for income or wage tax imposed by a political subdivision of another state on income that is also subject to the New Jersey gross income tax.

At issue was whether the Division of Taxation properly excluded the plaintiff's 401(k) contribution from income earned in Philadelphia for the purpose of calculating the taxpayer's credit for taxes paid to other jurisdictions.

When calculating his taxes paid to Philadelphia, the taxpayer overstated the numerator of his credit fraction by not having deducted 401(k) contributions from his Philadelphia wages.

The Division had adjusted the taxpayer's credit calculation because 401(k) contributions, although taxable to the City of Philadelphia, are excludable for New Jersey gross income tax purposes. To provide a credit for taxes paid on 401(k) contributions would result in the taxpayer taking a credit for taxes paid on income which was not taxed under the New Jersey Gross Income Tax Act.

The plaintiff had argued that the Division's instructions regarding the exclusion were inadequate and therefore he should not be subjected to the deficiency assessment.

Judge Menyuk granted the Division's motion for summary judgment opining:

I conclude that N.J.S.A. 54A:4-1 plainly provides a credit for taxes paid to another jurisdiction only for those taxes on income that is also subject to tax by New Jersey. I also find that consistent with the statute, the Division's regulation, its instructions for the 2004 gross income tax return and its informational bulletin, GIT-3W (rev. 12/04) clearly directed that, in calculating the amount of the credit, tax on Philadelphia income that was not subject to tax by New Jersey was to be excluded when calculating the amount of the allowable credit.

Single-Member LLC – Michael & Helen Kaplan & Morris & Sandra Kaplan v. Director, Division of Taxation, Docket No. A-3758-07T3, decided February 11, 2009.

The New Jersey Superior Court, Appellate Division, affirmed the Tax Court opinion reported in 23 N.J. Tax 594 (Tax 2008) in this case involving an attempted change in business type to gain favorable tax treatment.

The Kaplans had acquired commercial apartment properties as single-member LLCs, disregarded entities. Recognizing that a large loss from the property could not be used on the NJ-1040 return, the taxpayers reported partnership income that should have been reported as distributive share of partnership income as net income from rents to take advantage of the large loss.

The Division placed the partnership income back into the distributive share of partnership income category resulting in a notice of deficiency.

The taxpayer challenged the Division's action, claiming that the single-member LLC, disregarded entity, was a tenant in common, a partnership in reality. The taxpayers argued the loss from the apartment should be allowed as an offset in the distributive share of partnership income category. The taxpayer believed that the partnership entity status should have been allowed, since the taxpayer and his brother were partners together in other partnerships.

The taxpayer next attempted to file amended returns for New Jersey and file a first-time Georgia partnership return and a first-time Federal partnership return almost three years after the original NJ-1040 was filed.

Judge Kuskin found in favor of the Division, disallowing the change in type of business entity for New Jersey gross income tax in order to gain favorable tax treatment. □

Local Property Tax

Property Tax Exemption for Certain Sports and Entertainment Projects — P.L. 2009, c.6, enacted on January 27, 2009, and effective immediately, provides that a sports and entertainment project constructed under a redevelopment plan adopted by an eligible city that is owned, used, and operated by the eligible city to provide sports and entertainment events, shows, public meetings or events, exhibitions, or other expositions shall be deemed to be devoted to an essential public and governmental use and purpose. The property of the sports and entertainment project is exempt from property taxation as well as any special assessments of the State or any local government entity.

Miscellaneous

New Jersey Establishes a State Tax Amnesty Period — P.L. 2009, c.21, signed into law on March 17, 2009, and effective immediately, establishes a 45-day State tax amnesty period to end no later than June 15, 2009. During the amnesty period established by the Director, a taxpayer who has failed to pay any State tax may, on or before the last day of the amnesty period, pay the amount of the tax owed and one-half of the balance of interest that is due as of May 1, 2009, without the recovery fee and without the imposition of any civil or criminal penalties arising out of the tax obligation.

Tax amnesty is not available to any taxpayer who at the time of payment is under criminal investigation or charge for any State tax matter, as certified by a county prosecutor or the Attorney General to the Director.

The law also imposes a 5% penalty upon any State tax liability eligible but not satisfied during the amnesty period.

What's New for Tax Year 2008

There have been some important changes affecting the preparation of New Jersey income tax returns and applications for New Jersey's property tax relief programs this year:

Income Tax

- Earned Income Tax Credit— The amount of the New Jersey earned income tax credit (NJEITC) will be equal to 22.5% of the applicant's Federal earned income tax credit. Eligible residents must file a New Jersey resident income tax return to receive the NJEITC, even if they are not required to file a return because their gross income is below New Jersey's minimum filing threshold.

The New Jersey credit will increase to 25% of the Federal credit amount for tax year 2009 and subsequent years.

- Federal Economic Stimulus Payments — For New Jersey gross income tax purposes the treatment of the Federal economic stimulus payments to individuals corresponds to the Federal treatment. The payments are not considered taxable income and should not be reported on the 2008 New Jersey income tax return.
- Dependents' Information — Residents must indicate on their New Jersey gross income tax return whether or not each dependent listed on the return has health insurance coverage on the date the return is filed.
- Designated Contribution — The New Jersey Veterans Haven Support Program Fund has been added to the list of organizations to which taxpayers can contribute on the New Jersey tax return. To

Telephone Filing Discontinued for Forms NJ-500, NJ-927, and NJ-927-H

Effective January 1, 2009, employers and others who withhold New Jersey gross income tax and unemployment/disability contributions will no longer be able to file their returns and make the related payments by phone through the Division of Taxation's Business Paperless Telefiling System. Telephone filing has been discontinued for monthly and quarterly returns (Forms NJ-500/NJ-927) as well as the annual return for domestic employers (Form NJ-927-H).

For information on electronically filing returns due after December 31, 2008, or amending a return that was previously filed by telephone, go to Tax & Employer Filings and Payments on the Division of Revenue's Web site.

donate to the new fund, taxpayers must specify code number "08" at the "Other Designated Contribution" line.

- Credit for Taxes Paid to Other Jurisdictions — The Philadelphia nonresident wage tax rate for 2008 is .037242 from January 1 to June 30, 2008, and .035392 from July 1 to December 31, 2008.
- Fiduciary and Partnership Extension Period Now Five Months — New Jersey is following the Federal decision to change the extension period for certain returns to help individuals better meet their filing obligations. The extension period for Forms NJ-1041 and NJ-1065 is reduced from six months to five months for taxpayers with return years ending on or after September 30, 2008. This change eases the burden on taxpayers who must report information from Schedule K-1 and similar documents on their individual New Jersey income tax returns.

Property Tax Relief Programs

- Homestead Rebate Program — The Homestead Rebate Program provides rebates for New Jersey homeowners and tenants who meet the eligibility requirements. How you apply for the rebate is determined by whether you were a homeowner or tenant on October 1, 2008. Homeowners and tenants file different applications.

Benefits available under this program are subject to change.

Tenants who meet the eligibility requirements use the application in the New Jersey income tax booklet, Form TR-1040, to apply for the homestead rebate for tenants.

Homeowners do not use the application in the income tax booklet. Applications for the homeowner rebate are expected to be mailed at the end of April, and homeowners will apply either online or by phone. More information will be posted to our Web site as it becomes available.

- 2008 Property Tax Reimbursement — The income eligibility limits for the Property Tax Reimbursement (PTR) Program have been increased for tax year 2007 and after (P.L. 2008, c.119, signed into law on December 18, 2008). For residents applying for reimbursements for tax year 2008, total annual income must be:

2007: $60,000 or less

These limits apply regardless of marital/civil union status. However, if the status is married/CU couple, combined income of both spouses/CU partners must be reported.

For tax year 2009, the income limit will increase to $80,000 or less for all applicants whether single or married/civil union couple. For tax year 2010 and after, the income eligibility will increase annually by the amount of the maximum Social Security benefit cost-of-living increase for that year.

Benefits available under this program are subject to change.

- 2007 Property Tax Reimbursement — The change in the income limits for 2007 affects senior and disabled residents who were not eligible for a 2007 reimbursement application because their total 2007 income was above the old income limits for 2007 (less than $45,135 for single applicants and less than $55,344 (combined income) for married/civil union couples). Provided they meet all the other eligibility requirements, applicants who now qualify for a 2007 reimbursement solely because of the increase in the income limits for 2007 have until March 31, 2009, to file a reimbursement application for 2007. For residents who qualified under the old income limits, the filing deadline for 2007 PTR applications was October 31, 2008.

Employer Withholdings

- Electronic Filing Mandate — Beginning with the quarter ending March 31, 2009, the use of paper returns will be eliminated and Forms NJ-500/NJ-927, NJ-927-W, NJ-927H, and WR-30 must be filed electronically. More information will be posted to our Web site as it becomes available.
- Family Leave Insurance — Beginning on July 1, 2009, New Jersey employees will be eligible to receive up to six weeks of paid leave for the birth or adoption of a child or to care for a sick family member. The program will be funded by a payroll deduction which began on January 1, 2009. Workers will contribute at the rate of 0.09% on the first $28,900 (taxable wage base) in wages earned during the year. The contribution rate will increase to 0.12% of the taxable wage base for tax year 2010 and subsequent years. □

Criminal Enforcement

Criminal enforcement over the past several months included:

- On August 11, 2008, a Monmouth County Grand Jury returned a 19-count indictment against Brian McGuire and his wife Benedette. This indictment follows a criminal investigation which was conducted by the Monmouth County Prosecutor's Office in conjunction with the Office of Criminal Investigation (OCI). The investigation revealed that between November 2004 and July 2007, Brian McGuire, President and Chief Operating Officer of Kaibobo Enterprises Corporation, stole $724,432.69 from the company's operating account. Kaibobo Enterprises Corporation conducts business under the name "Resources Payroll Company," a payroll tax processing service which processes payroll and remits withheld payroll taxes to the appropriate taxing authorities. Brian McGuire is charged with second-degree misapplication of entrusted property, second-degree theft by failure to make required disposition, and second-degree failure to turn over collected withheld taxes. Both Brian and Benedette are charged with third-degree failure to file returns, filing a fraudulent return, and failure to pay or turn over taxes for multiple years.

- On Wednesday, August 13, 2008, Joao Salvador was indicted for filing false New Jersey gross income tax returns for years 2001 through 2007. He filed his returns using W-2s issued from his business, a construction company, knowing he did not remit the withholdings. Count one of the indictment was for third-degree filing or preparing a false or fraudulent tax return for years 2001 through 2007. Count two of the indictment was third-degree failure to file returns or reports: he did not file Form NJ-927 employer reports for years 2001 through 2007. Count three was failing to remit taxes he withheld from his employees for years 2001 through 2007.
- On September 2, 2008, a State Grand Jury returned separate indictments charging a father and son with failing to pay State sales tax collected from customers at their used car dealerships. Anthony Foti, owner of AN-JO Car Company, Inc., formerly located at 2023 Route 9 in Toms River, failed to remit to the State more than $75,000 in sales tax between the years 2000 and 2004. Anthony Foti also failed to file corporation business tax returns and his personal income tax returns for that period. Anthony J. Foti Jr., owner of Wheels Are Us Auto Sales, located at 819 Route 35 in Middletown, failed to remit to the State more than $37,000 in sales tax between the years 2006 and 2008. He also failed to file his personal income tax returns for the same period.

- On September 9, 2008, a cigarette compliance inspection was conducted by OCI personnel with the assistance of the Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco, Firearms and Explosives (ATF), and the Paterson Police Department Narcotics Unit at China Garden Restaurant in Paterson, New Jersey. The inspection resulted in a seizure of 3,298.5 cartons of contraband cigarettes, as well as the confiscation of $42,875 by the Paterson Police Department. The cigarette seizure represents a product value of $224,265.02, with an aggregate cigarette and sales tax loss to the State of New Jersey of $100,634.93. The owner of the establishment, Fen Shou Chen of New York, New York, was arrested at the scene and charged with multiple fourth-degree criminal offenses. Mr. Chen has also been convicted of similar cigarette-related offenses in Paterson Municipal Court in 2003, 2005, and 2007 and may be subjected to Federal prosecution in this matter.
- On September 23, 2008, Wallace M. Omodeo of Bloomingdale, New Jersey, was indicted in Passaic County Superior Court on five (5) counts of failure to file tax returns (N.J.S.A. 54:52-8). Each count pertains to a year in which the defendant failed to file his State income tax return, and includes the tax years of 2003, 2004, 2005, 2006, and 2007. The defendant concurrently has multiple judgments placed against him by the Division of Taxation for various unpaid business-related tax liabilities, the existence of which was cited in the grand jury testimony. This case is being prosecuted by the Passaic County Prosecutor's Office.

- On October 7, 2008, Gilroy Campbell was served with a warrant in Atlantic City pursuant to his arrest on August 22, 2008, for the sale of untaxed cigarettes and possession of pirated/counterfeit DVD movies and music CDs. Investigation into this matter revealed that Campbell was operating a business not registered with the Division of Taxation. He was charged with the following offenses: failure to register with the Division of Taxation (N.J.S.A. 54:52-13), failure to file tax returns (N.J.S.A. 54:52-8), failure to maintain books and records (N.J.S.A. 54:52-12), failure to collect sales tax (N.J.S.A. 54:52-14), the sale of untaxed cigarettes (N.J.S.A. 54:40A-28), selling sound recording/audio visual work which did not conspicuously disclose the true name and address of the manufacturer (N.J.S.A. 2C:21-21(4)), and possession of items bearing a counterfeit mark (N.J.S.A. 2C:21-32(c)). Bail was set at $100,000, no 10%. He was taken to the Atlantic County Prosecutor's Office for processing. Gilroy Campbell has several prior convictions for possession/distribution of CDs, as well as possession of a weapon and sexual assault. He was also directly linked to Wheels of Soul, an outlaw motorcycle gang with a chapter in the Atlantic City area.

- On October 7, 2008, Larry Huffin of Atlantic City, New Jersey, was observed selling cigarettes to individuals on the street. He was arrested and transported to the Atlantic County Prosecutor's Office for processing. He had in his possession a total of 13.2 cartons of import-stamped Newport cigarettes. A total of $630 was seized from his person. Huffin admitted to purchasing the cigarettes online. He was charged with the following disorderly persons offenses: possession of untaxed cigarettes (N.J.S.A. 54:52-18), failure to keep records (N.J.S.A. 54:52-6k), and engaging with an unlicensed dealer (N.J.S.A. 54:52-17a). He has no prior convictions.
- On October 24, 2008, Robert Parrish, 44, of Neptune, New Jersey, was sentenced to five years' probation, conditioned on his serving 200 days in the Mercer County Jail, by Superior Court Judge Thomas P. Kelly in Mercer County. Parrish also must pay restitution in an amount to be determined following a hearing. Parrish was indicted in June 2006 along with New Africa Day Care Center, Inc., which operated at 372 South Orange Avenue; its executive director, Muslimah Suluki, 60, who is Parrish's mother; and her ex-husband, Mahdi Suluki, a consultant and board member of New Africa. Parrish, who diverted thousands of dollars in State funding from the day care center for his personal use, was found guilty in July 2008 as an accomplice of third-degree charges of theft by failure to make a required disposition of property, misconduct by a corporate official, and failure to file a State income tax return for 2002. The verdict followed a five-day trial.

- On October 28, 2008, a joint inspection was coordinated by OCI with the Newark Police Department Vice Unit, ATF, and the United States Postal Inspection Services at New Food King Chinese Restaurant in Newark, New Jersey. The location had been the scene of previous contraband cigarette seizures and arrests, and the sale of contraband cigarettes and "loosies" (single cigarettes) had recently been observed there. This inspection resulted in the arrest of the restaurant owner, Qiu Shi Wu of New York, New York, and the seizure of 155.3 cartons of contraband cigarettes and 18 counterfeit New Jersey cigarette stamps. The overwhelming majority of these seized items were found in the subject's apartment across the street from the restaurant, and were secured after obtaining a "Consent to Search" from the subject. The subject was charged with multiple indictable disorderly persons and civil offenses by both Newark Police and OCI, and will be prosecuted in Essex County Superior Court.

- On December 2, 2008, four Paterson men were indicted for allegedly conspiring to steal $272,000 by filing more than 117 fraudulent State tax returns. Wilyn Caceres, 32, was charged with second-degree conspiracy, money laundering, and receiving stolen property; Jason Perez, 23, was charged with second-degree conspiracy and receiving stolen property; Lisaldo Ramon Espinal, 24, was charged with second-degree conspiracy and third-degree receiving stolen property; and Miguel A. Hernandez, 20, was charged with second-degree conspiracy and third-degree receiving stolen property. The tax refund scheme was uncovered in August 2007, when an abnormal pattern involving the refund checks was detected. Investigation proved that the W-2s used were fraudulent. The refund checks, which ranged from $1,500 to $3,676, were cashed by Caceres at a bank branch office in Passaic where he worked or were deposited by him into a series of accounts he opened there using stolen or fraudulent identification information. The defendants withdrew money from those accounts and an account opened by Perez at another bank where refund checks were also deposited in the form of cash, ATM withdrawals, debit charges, and checks. Sizeable transfers were also made among the various accounts.

- On December 3, 2008, in the Weehawken Municipal Court, Thuyai Nguyen, owner of Aivan II Wine & Liquors, pled guilty to criminal possession of untaxed cigarettes and was fined $1,000 plus court costs. She was also assessed a civil penalty of $1,695 for accepting delivery of untaxed cigarettes. The total amount paid was $2,886. Charges stemmed from a September 2008 investigation in which the Aivan II Wine & Liquors offered for sale 67.8 cartons of cigarettes affixed with counterfeit New Jersey tax stamps, Virginia tax stamps, Kentucky tax stamps, and a small quantity without tax stamps. □

Cancellation of Debt — An individual asked whether “forgiveness of debt” related to a mortgage on a personal residence repossessed by the lender results in income for gross income tax purposes. The Division replied that this type of income is not subject to the gross income tax.

The New Jersey Gross Income Tax Act only taxes specifically identified classes of income. Discharge of indebtedness is not specifically included in the taxable categories of income. Therefore, cancellation of debt or discharge of indebtedness income “received” in connection with foreclosure and forfeiture of a personal residence is not subject to New Jersey gross income tax.

Deferred Compensation Paid to a Nonresident

— A taxpayer recently asked the Division to explain whether an employer has a responsibility to withhold New Jersey gross income tax on deferred compensation paid to a nonresident under a nonqualified deferred compensation plan.

With regard to nonresidents, contributions to a nonqualified deferred compensation plan, except as described below, are taxable as wages if they are received for any occupation or from services performed in New Jersey. New Jersey income tax must be withheld by the employer.

To qualify for New Jersey income tax deferral at the time of contribution, the plan must be a nonqualified, unfunded, deferred compensation plan that is set up for the bonuses and compensation of highly compensated employees. The deferral must be agreed to before compensation is earned. The employee cannot control the percentage of income deferred or eliminate deferral entirely. Also, the promise to pay the deferred compensation must be a contractual obligation not evidenced by notes or secured in any way, and the deferral amount cannot be unconditionally placed in trust or escrow for the benefit of the employee (no constructive receipt).

At distribution, if contributions were included in the nonresident's taxable income when made, only amounts in excess of the contributions are taxable and require withholding by the employer. However, under N.J.S.A. 54A:5-8(b), if any distribution payments are considered pension income (reported on Federal Form 1099-R), they are not taxable to a nonresident and no New Jersey income tax should be withheld.

Nonresident Seaman or Waterway Worker — On November 9, 2000, P.L. 106-489 was signed into law preempting the state taxation of wages earned by interstate waterway workers. This Federal law provides that a licensed pilot or other worker “on a vessel operating on the navigable waters of more than one State” shall be subject to the income tax laws only in the state in which he or she resides.

New Jersey's policy has been that income attributable to a nonresident seaman's employment on ships operating exclusively between New Jersey ports and foreign ports, or ports of other states, is not considered to be New Jersey source income. Also, a seaman who is in New Jersey simply because his ship entered a New Jersey port for the purpose of foreign or interstate trade is not subject to gross income tax for income earned during that period. Residents, however, are taxed on their full income no matter where earned. The New Jersey treatment is consistent with P.L. 106-489.

Sales Tax Information

P.L. 2005, c.126, effective October 1, 2005, conformed the New Jersey Sales and Use Tax Act to the Streamlined Sales and Use Tax Agreement. More information is available at:

Streamlined Sales and Use Tax

P.L. 2006, c.44, increased the New Jersey sales and use tax rate from 6% to 7%, effective July 15, 2006. The rate change affects all retail sales of taxable merchandise or services. For more information on the rate increase visit:

Information for all Sales and Use Tax Vendors

Additional provisions of P.L. 2006, c.44, effective October 1, 2006, extended the sales and use tax to new services, limited some existing exclusions and exemptions, and encompassed product categories that have come into being with new technologies. More information is available at:

Information Regarding Sales and Use Tax Changes Effective October 1, 2006

P.L. 2008, c. 123 revised the New Jersey Sales and Use Tax Act to conform with various provisions of the Streamlined Sales and Use Tax Agreement (SSUTA). The amendments took effect on January 1, 2009, and include changes in telecommunications, direct mail, fur clothing, the definition of sales price, and the medical products exemption. More information is available at:

Amendments to Sales and Use Tax Act Effective January 1, 2009

Qualified Conservation Contribution — An individual taxpayer posed a question concerning the gross income tax deduction for a “qualified conservation contribution.” Under N.J.S.A. 54A:3-6, a taxpayer is allowed a deduction against gross income for a qualified conservation contribution, as defined under Section 170(h) of the Federal Internal Revenue Code. For the Federal conservation contribution, the individual was specifically allowed to “carry over” the deduction to a subsequent tax year. The individual asked whether the carryover was allowed for the New Jersey gross income tax deduction.

The New Jersey deduction provision states, “The amount of the deduction in a taxable year shall be equal to the amount of the contribution allowed in the taxable year as a deduction... for federal income tax purposes.”

Based on this provision and specific statements in the legislative history referring to a carryover of the deduction, the Division determined that the legislature intended that the New Jersey deduction carry over to subsequent tax years, to the extent allowed to the individual for Federal income tax purposes.

Property Tax Relief Programs

Tenant Homestead Rebate — The Division of Taxation was asked why tenants residing in dwelling units which do not contain separate kitchens and bathrooms cannot receive a rebate under the New Jersey Homestead Rebate Program.

The Homestead Rebate Program is established by law in accordance with N.J.S.A. 54:4-8.57 et seq., and provides specific rebate qualifications and amounts. A tenant is eligible for a New Jersey tenant homestead rebate if the person is domiciled in New Jersey and meets all of the following conditions: (1) the person rented and occupied a dwelling in New Jersey that was the principal residence on October 1 of the tax year; (2) the principal residence is subject to local property taxes, and property taxes were paid on the residence through rent; (3) the principal residence is a full living unit with its own separate kitchen and bathroom; and (4) the person and spouse/civil union partner, if any, had gross income (for 2007) of $100,000 or less.

The purpose of providing a rebate to tenants in a full living unit with its own separate kitchen and bathroom is that long-term tenants generally pay property tax for a home through rent, as opposed to transients living in an arrangement such as a rooming house, hotel, or motel. The property tax rebate law imposes the kitchen and bathroom requirement as a means to limit the rebate to permanent or long-term residents.

Sales and Use Tax

Cooperative Maintenance Fees — A representative of a cooperative (co-op) housing facility raised questions concerning sales tax and fees paid by residents of the co-op facility. The residents pay a maintenance fee that is used to pay property tax, mortgage, utilities, capital improvement, and other operating costs. The co-op charges an additional fee to help cover the costs of the co-op's tennis courts, exercise rooms, and swimming pools.

The Division explained that while the shareholders' maintenance fee paid to the co-op was not subject to sales tax, when the co-op pays for taxable services those services are subject to sales tax. For example, when the co-op hires a contractor to provide repair or maintenance services for the co-op property, the contractor must charge sales tax to the co-op.

Since the sales tax law now imposes sales tax on certain membership fees, this raises a question concerning the additional fee for the use of the tennis courts, exercise rooms, and swimming pools. If only certain residents of the housing community pay the separately stated membership fee for access to or use of the athletic facility, sales tax is due. However, if all of the residents are assessed a fee which allows them access to or use of the facility as part of the community or association fees, which are required as a condition of ownership, New Jersey sales tax is not due. In order for the membership fee to be exempt from tax, all residents of the community must be paying the membership fee as part of their annual or monthly community fees.

For additional information on the sales tax treatment of taxable membership fees, visit the Division's Web site at: www.state.nj.us/treasury/taxation/membership.shtml □

Alimony, Credit for Taxes Paid to Other Jurisdictions — Sylvester L. & Yongjie Tuohy v. Director, Division of Taxation, Docket No. 000033-2008, decided August 18, 2008.

At issue was a resident's proper calculation of the credit for taxes paid to other jurisdictions under N.J.S.A. 54A:4-1. The taxpayer challenged the Director's method for calculating the credit for taxes paid to New York and the effect that alimony paid had on the calculation.

N.J.S.A. 54A:4-1 defines the parameters of the credit:

(a) A resident taxpayer shall be allowed a credit against the tax otherwise due under this act for the amount of any income tax or wage tax imposed for the taxable year by another state of the United States or political subdivision of such state, or by the District of Columbia, with respect to income which is also subject to tax under this act...

(b) The credit provided under this section shall not exceed the proportion of the tax otherwise due under this act that the amount of the taxpayer's income subject to tax by the other jurisdiction bears to his entire New Jersey income.

When calculating his taxes paid to New York, the taxpayer overstated the numerator of his credit fraction by not including a reduction for alimony, an allowable deduction on the taxpayer's New York nonresident return.

N.J.A.C. 18:35-4.1(a)3 establishes a formula to determine the amount of credit for taxes paid to a foreign jurisdiction. Under N.J.A.C. 18:35-4.1(a)10 a taxpayer may "not include in the numerator in the credit fraction any income, which has been excluded or deducted from the taxable gross income of other jurisdiction(s) or which has not been taxed by other jurisdiction(s)."

The Court granted the Director's motion for summary judgment on the basis of the decision in Ambrose v. Director, 198 N.J. Super. 546 (App. Div. 1985).

Credit for Taxes Paid to Other Jurisdictions – Teimouraz & Nana Vassilidze v. Director, Division of Taxation, Docket No. 010946-2007, decided October 24, 2008.

The issue was whether the credit for taxes paid provision established in N.J.S.A. 54A:4-1 was available to a resident of New Jersey who paid income taxes to Pennsylvania on wage income.

The taxpayer filed a 2003 Pennsylvania income tax return reporting the wages Dr. Vassilidze earned in that state. Pennsylvania withholding was taken out of Dr. Vassilidze's paychecks in an amount equal to the calculated Pennsylvania tax balance due. Hence, the Pennsylvania return was filed reflecting a zero balance due.

N.J.S.A. 54A:4-1 allows a credit for taxes paid only in those circumstances in which an income tax is "imposed" by a foreign jurisdiction.

N.J.A.C. 18:35-4.1(a)7 provides:

As a result of the Reciprocal Personal Income Tax Agreement between the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania and the State of New Jersey, wages, salaries and other compensation paid to New Jersey residents employed in Pennsylvania are not subject to Pennsylvania income tax. Thus, a New Jersey resident may not claim a credit for taxes paid to Pennsylvania on employee compensation.

The Court affirmed the Director's assessment, noting:

Pennsylvania law excludes in plain terms the employment income of New Jersey residents from income tax. Pennsylvania issued instructions to the income tax return used by plaintiffs informing New Jersey residents that the compensation they earn in Pennsylvania is not subject to income tax in that State. It was despite these official efforts, not because of them, that plaintiffs voluntarily paid income tax to Pennsylvania. The Legislature did not intend for N.J.S.A. 54A:4-1 to apply when taxpayers voluntarily pay income tax to a State that has relinquished any claim to the tax and made public efforts to inform taxpayers that the tax is not due. □ extended the net operating loss carryover period under the corporation business tax. The law provides that a net operating loss for any privilege period ending after June 30, 2009, shall be a net operating loss carryover to each of the 20 privilege periods following the period of the loss. This 20-year carryover applies only to net operating losses accruing for privilege periods ending after June 30, 2009. Net operating losses accruing for privilege periods ending on or before June 30, 2009, continue to have a net operating loss carryover to each of the seven privilege periods following the period of the loss.

Throwout Rule and Regular Place of Business Requirements Eliminated — P.L. 2008, c.120, signed on December 19, 2008, applicable to privilege periods beginning on or after July 1, 2010, eliminates the throwout provision of the apportionment formula for corporation business tax. It also removes the “regular place of business” requirement for taxpayers to allocate income. To allocate less than 100% of income to New Jersey, a taxpayer will no longer be required to show a regular place of business exists outside of the State.

Implementation of Encrypted Counterfeit-Resistant Revenue Stamps

— P.L. 2008, c.98, signed into law on October 31, 2008, and effective immediately, permits implementation of encrypted, counterfeit-resistant stamps for cigarettes sold in the State. The Director, Division of Taxation, is required to provide a report to the Governor and Legislature on or before the 240th day after enactment to detail the effectiveness of the measures.

Miscellaneous

InvestNJ Business Grant Program Established — P.L. 2008, c.112, signed into law on December 9, 2008, establishes the InvestNJ Business Grant Program, which is designed to boost certain capital investment and job creation in the State. This short-term initiative is being administered by the Economic Development Authority (EDA). To obtain information on this program, contact the EDA’s Call Center at 1-866-534-7789.

Property Tax Relief Programs Income Eligibility Limits for Senior Freeze Increased — P.L. 2008, c.119, approved December 18, 2008, and effective immediately, modifies the definition of who constitutes an “eligible claimant” under the Property Tax Reimbursement Program (often referred to as the Senior Freeze Program). The legislation increases the income eligibility limits from $45,135, if single, and $55,344 for married couples to $60,000 in tax year 2007; to $70,000 in tax year 2008; and to $80,000 in tax year 2009, whether single or married.

The legislation also provides that for tax years 2008 and after the total of all property tax relief benefits received (property tax reimbursement, homestead rebate, property tax deduction for senior/disabled persons, and property tax deduction for veterans) cannot exceed the amount of property taxes paid on the applicant’s principal residence for the same year.

Sales and Use Tax Changes in Urban Enterprise Zone Sales Tax Rebate Program — P.L. 2008, c.118, approved on December 17, 2008, and effective in relation to purchases made on or after February 1, 2009, amends the definition of “small business” applicable to the UEZ sales tax rebate program by raising the maximum annual gross receipts threshold from less than $3 million to less than $10 million. “Small businesses” are an exception to the requirement that qualified UEZ businesses claiming exemption from sales tax on purchases for their own use in the zone must first pay the tax at the point of purchase and then apply for a refund of the tax paid. “Small businesses,” as defined in the Act, may instead claim the exemption at the point of sale.

Conformance with Streamlined Sales Tax Agreement — P.L. 2008, c.123, enacted on December 19, 2008, makes revisions to a number of aspects of the Sales and Use Tax Act (N.J.S.A. 54:32B-1 et seq.) in an effort to conform New Jersey’s law with various provisions of the Streamlined Sales and Use Tax Agreement of which New Jersey is a member. Areas of change include telecommunications, direct mail, sales price, fur clothing, and the medical exemption. □

Family Leave Insurance

On May 2, 2008, Governor Jon S. Corzine signed a historic family leave insurance bill, propelling New Jersey to become only the third state in the nation to enact a paid family leave program for workers caring for sick family members, newborns, and newly adopted children.

The legislation extends the State's existing Temporary Disability Insurance (TDI) program and permits up to six weeks of paid family leave insurance benefits for workers taking leave to provide care certified to be necessary for a family member.

Some important facts regarding paid Family Leave Insurance (FLI):

- The law applies to all private and governmental employers subject to the Unemployment Compensation Law (R.S. 43:21-

1 et seq.), including local governmental employers who have chosen not to elect disability insurance coverage under the New Jersey Temporary Disability Benefits Law.

- There is no employer contribution to the program. However, beginning January 1, 2009, employers will be required to withhold 0.09% (0.0009) of their employees' taxable wages as defined in the Unemployment Compensation Law. This is the same wage upon which the withholding for unemployment compensation is based ($27,700 in 2008; $28,900 in 2009). The withholding rate increases to 0.12% (0.0012) beginning in 2010.
- Employers will report wages and deductions and submit payment with Form NJ-927, Employer's Quarterly Report.

Telephone Filing to be Discontinued for Forms NJ-500, NJ-927, and NJ-927-H

Effective January 1, 2009, employers and others who withhold New Jersey gross income tax and unemployment/disability contributions will no longer be able to file their returns and make the related payments by phone through the Division of Taxation's Business Paperless Telefiling System. Telephone filing will be discontinued for monthly and quarterly returns (Forms NJ-500/NJ-927) as well as the annual return for domestic employers (Form NJ-927-H).

For information on electronically filing returns due after December 31, 2008, or amending a return that was previously filed by telephone, go to Tax & Employer Filings and Payments on the Division of Revenue's Web site.

- In lieu of the State FLI plan employers may choose to provide self-coverage or arrange to have their employees covered by a private insurance carrier. Both of these alternatives require prior approval by the Division of Temporary Disability Insurance.
- Beginning July 1, 2009, employees may apply for up to six weeks of FLI benefits during leave taken to provide care for a sick family member or to care for a newborn or newly adopted child. Eligible applicants who are covered by the State FLI plan will receive weekly benefits amounting to no more than two-thirds of their weekly pay, subject to the same maximum as TDI for an individual's own disability (the maximum weekly benefit rate for TDI is $524 in 2008).

Criminal Enforcement

Criminal enforcement over the past several months included:

- On May 29, 2008, a Somerset County Grand Jury returned a 407-count indictment charging 15 defendants with interstate racketeering, money laundering, and conspiracy in this multistate case dubbed "Operation Stop Payment." Eric Eugene Criss, alleged organized crime leader, was also charged with failure to file tax returns and failure to pay taxes for his part in this scheme to defraud banks and other financial institutions. The scheme was carried out through the creation and presentation of fictitious payroll checks for payment. The investigation was initiated by the Somerset County Prosecutor's Office when fictitious checks were reported by Peapack-Gladstone Bank and the organized crime enterprise, lead by Criss, was uncovered. Assisting in this six-month-long investigation were: the Federal Bureau of Investigation; U.S. Secret Service; Pennsylvania State Police; the Hunterdon, Middlesex, Ocean, and Warren County Prosecutor's Offices; and various local police departments.

- On June 6, 2008, Matilda Amante Ramos was sentenced to five years' probation and required to pay $400 per month on restitution of $35,851. A $6,000 payment was made at the time of sentencing. Matilda Amante Ramos was one of six defendants indicted on February 5, 2007, by a State Grand Jury on charges of first-degree conspiracy, first-degree money laundering, and second-degree theft by deception. The defendants, all Jersey City residents, including five members of one family, are: Paul Sarris, 50; Achilles "Butz" Amante, 55; his sister, Matilda Amante Ramos, 56; and his three sons, Aristides Amante, 27, Amorito "Angelo" A. Amante, 33, and Aloysius M. Amante, 31. The six were indicted on charges they conspired to steal $573,383 from the State by filing fraudulent applications for 745 homestead rebate checks.

- On June 10, 2008, a Bergen County Grand Jury handed up a six-count indictment against Carol Lynn Palma, the Deputy Municipal Clerk of Cliffside Park. The indictment charges Carol Lynn Palma with third-degree theft by deception, third-degree theft by failure to make required disposition of property, second-degree official misconduct, fourth-degree falsifying or tampering with records, third-degree failure to pay taxes when due, and third-degree filing or preparing false or fraudulent returns.

The Bergen County Prosecutor's Office and the Office of Criminal Investigation began an extensive investigation into payments made by the then Superintendent of the Cliffside Park School District, Robert Paladino, to the Deputy Municipal Clerk, Carol Lynn Palma. By way of criminal complaints, the Bergen County Prosecutor's Office charged that the defendants entered into a scheme whereby school board funds that should have been used for the education of children were instead diverted to Palma for election services. Invoices for these payments were virtually nonexistent, vouchers for these payments were improper, and the payments were not approved by the Cliffside Park Board of Education. The six-count indictment against Palma charges that she submitted false purchase order(s), known as vouchers, for payment and illegally received and kept for herself Board of Education funds which she was not entitled to receive. The indictment charges that Palma filed false or fraudulent New Jersey State income tax returns for several years by failing to include these payments from Board of Education funds as income on her tax returns and that she failed to pay taxes due thereon.

- On June 27, 2008, Crystal Velitschkow, 50, of Marlboro, New Jersey, pled guilty to second-degree money laundering. Velitschkow, along with live-in boyfriend Spiro Pollatos, 45, was arrested in December on charges of first-degree money laundering, second-degree conspiracy to commit racketeering, and second-degree theft. The Marlboro couple allegedly conspired to steal more than $2.5 million through fraudulent loan services, collecting excessive fees and commissions. It was determined that over $2.5 million in criminal proceeds was funneled through Velitschkow's personal bank account to finance purchases of real estate, cars, and boats as well as other personal expenses in this series of mortgage and investment scams, allegedly orchestrated by her boyfriend, Spiro Pollatos. Under the plea agreement, Crystal Velitschkow faces a sentence of 10 years in State prison. Both are being held in the Morris County Jail; bail for Spiro Pollatos is set at $2 million.
- On July 1, 2008, William Marsh was indicted for stealing $44,569 from the State of New Jersey by filing fraudulent tax returns. Marsh filed 24 fraudulent New Jersey gross income tax returns between February 2002 and March 2006. He received 14 refund checks from the Division of Taxation totaling $43,557 and 11 homestead rebate checks totaling $1,012. The returns were suspicious in that they used typical variations of the defendant's name such as Will P. Marsh, Will H. Marsh, etc. and listed one of two post office boxes rented by Marsh in West New York, New Jersey, as the mailing address. The employers listed on the W-2s filed with the returns were nonexistent or never filed wage reports with New Jersey. William Marsh was indicted on charges of third-degree money laundering and third-degree theft by deception.

- On July 2, 2008, James Hendricks and Mary Ann Clark, a husband and wife trading as B & J Towing & Service, located in Sicklerville, New Jersey, were indicted by a Grand Jury on the third-degree charges of conspiracy, failure to make required disposition of property received, misapplication of government property, and failing to remit sales taxes with intent to defraud or evade.
- On July 14, 2008, Julio A. Rozon of Union, New Jersey, pled guilty to third-degree failure to pay taxes. Mr. Rozon, the sole officer of Rozon Distributors, Inc. of Newark, New Jersey, had been arrested on February 27, 2008. Mr. Rozon was entered into a Pre-Trial Intervention Program, sentenced to 50 hours of community service, and ordered to pay the tax.
- On July 29, 2008, Robert Parrish, 44, of Neptune, New Jersey, former manager of the New Africa

Day Care Center, was found guilty of theft as an accomplice, following a five-day trial. Robert Parrish was convicted of third-degree theft by failure to make a required disposition of property, third-degree misconduct by a corporate official, and third-degree failure to file a State income tax return for 2002 for diverting thousands of dollars in State funding from the day care center for his personal use. Parrish was indicted in June 2006 along with New Africa Day Care Center Inc., formerly located in Newark, New Jersey, its executive director, Muslimah Suluki, 60, who is Parrish's mother; and her ex-husband, Mahdi Suluki, 66, of East Orange, New Jersey, who was a consultant and board member of New Africa. Mahdi Suluki pled guilty on July 21 to a charge of third-degree theft by deception. He admitted that he solicited a donation of $4,785 from a Newark business for New Africa after the day care center went out of business and deposited it into a bank account he controlled. The charges remain pending against Muslimah Suluki, a fugitive whose last known residence was in College Park, Georgia.

- In the area of refund fraud, the Office of Criminal Investigation prevented the issuance of fraudulent refund claims totaling $10,894,456 for the period July 2007 through June 2008. In addition, the Office of Criminal Investigation issued assessments based on refunds found to be fraudulently obtained. □

Corporation Business Tax

Short Period Returns — The treatment of an S corporation that changes to a C corporation for Federal purposes is set forth at N.J.A.C. 18:7-20.1(e) which states that:

If a corporation that has elected New Jersey S corporation status loses its Federal S corporation status during the taxable year, and, therefore, ceases to be a New Jersey S corporation, but continues its corporate existence, the corporation must file a New Jersey S corporation return (CBT-100S) for the short period ending on the day before the disqualifying event, and a C corporation short period return (CBT-100) for the remainder of the year.

1. The due date for the return for the short period is the 15th day of the fourth month after the close of the period. An automatic six-month extension of time to file the CBT-100S is available by making a tentative return and paying the tentative tax on Form CBT-200T on or before the due date of the return.

The procedure for revoking an S corporation election is set forth at N.J.A.C. 18:7-20.1(f) which states that:

In general, once an election is made and accepted, a corporation remains a New Jersey S corporation as long as it is a Federal S corporation unless the election is revoked pursuant to N.J.S.A. 54:10A-5.22(d).

1. To revoke an election, a letter of revocation signed by all shareholders holding more than 50 percent of the outstanding shares of stock on the day of the revocation, must be filed. A copy of the original election form must accompany the letter of revocation.

2. Subject to (f)1 above, an election may be revoked on or before the last day of the accounting or privilege period in which the election would otherwise apply.

Short period returns are required in New Jersey subsequent to a merger as set forth at N.J.A.C. 18:7-12.1(b) which states that:

Some of the circumstances which require the filing of short period returns are:

1. A newly organized corporation whose first accounting period established for Federal income tax purposes is less than 12 months;

Interest 9.00%

The interest rate assessed on amounts due for the period April 1, 2008 – December 31, 2008, will be 9.00%.

2. A foreign corporation which acquires a taxable status in New Jersey subsequent to the commencement of its Federal accounting period, and whose first New Jersey Corporation Business Tax return embraces a period less than the accounting period reported upon the Federal income tax purposes;
3. Corporations which dissolve, merge, consolidate, withdraw, surrender, or otherwise cease to have a taxable status in New Jersey prior to the close of a full twelve months accounting period;
4. A corporation which changes its accounting period.

Minimum Tax for Short Period upon Dissolution, Merger, Consolidation, or Withdrawal — A short period return is required when corporations dissolve, merge, consolidate, withdraw, surrender, or otherwise cease to have a taxable status in New Jersey prior to the close of a 12-month accounting period. N.J.A.C. 18:7-12.1(a)3.

When a short period return is required, the minimum tax cannot be prorated. The full minimum tax amount that would be due for a full accounting or privilege period must be paid. N.J.A.C. 18:7-12.2(a)1.

When a corporation takes over another corporation and the target corporation ceases to exist in New Jersey, two short period returns must be filed and the appropriate amount of minimum tax must be submitted for each short period. The minimum tax is calculated based on New Jersey gross receipts for each privilege period. A minimum tax must be calculated for the short period return that is filed to reflect income for the target company up to the point that it is no longer a separate entity. The minimum tax is calculated based on gross receipts for the short period.

Gross Income Tax Property Tax Deduction/Credit and Mobile Homes

— Mobile homes which are located inside a mobile home park are not subject to local property taxes. Instead, such homes are subject to a municipal service fee which covers the cost of local services such as sewer and water. Because they do not pay property taxes on their home, owners of mobile homes inside mobile home parks cannot be treated as homeowners when claiming the property tax deduction/credit. However, since the land that the mobile home is located on is subject to property taxes, and the mobile home owner is leasing that land, he/she can claim the property tax deduction/credit as a tenant using 18% of the rent paid if all of the other eligibility requirements are met. The mobile home owner should enter 18% of the rent paid for the land on Line 1, Schedule 1 of Form NJ-1040. The fee for municipal services may not be included. If the taxpayer is renting the mobile home as well as the land, he or she cannot use the rent paid for the mobile home when determining the property tax deduction/credit.

Partnerships
LLC Filing Requirement-Inactive — Every flow-through entity that operates as a partnership and has New Jersey source income or has a New Jersey resident member, must file Form NJ-1065. Income from New Jersey sources includes any income, gain, loss, or expense.

An LLC operating as a partnership in New Jersey must file Form NJ-1065 even if there is no activity to report for a privilege period.

Fiscal year returns are due the 15th day of the fourth month after the end of the tax year. Any short period return must be filed by the due date of Federal Form 1065.

An entity with ten or more owners must file its return electronically. Form NJ-1065 filers that have less than ten partners have the option to file electronically or on paper.

A $150 per owner filing fee is imposed on partnerships and other flow-through entities having income (or loss) derived from New Jersey sources and that have more than two owners. The filing fee is due on or before the 15th day of the fourth month succeeding the close of each privilege period. An installment payment equal to 50% of the filing fee for the current fiscal year is also required at the same time. The filing fee does not have to be submitted if the LLC derived no income from New Jersey sources although it is still responsible for filing Form NJ-1065.

Recycling Tax

Liability for Tax — P.L. 2007, c.311, as amended by P.L. 2008, c.6, imposes a recycling tax on every ton of solid waste accepted for disposal or transfer at a solid waste facility. The recycling tax is further imposed on every ton of solid waste collected by a solid waste collector that transports solid waste for transshipment or direct transportation to an out-of-State disposal site.

The incidence of the tax falls directly on the solid waste facility or, in the case of haulers transporting to railroad transfer stations or directly out-of-State, directly on the hauler. The recycling tax is not a "trust tax" under which a facility or hauler collects and remits tax on behalf of the State. Rather, it is a cost of business that is passed on to customers in billing for services.

From a tax standpoint, any pass-through of the tax either from the solid waste facility to the hauler or from the hauler to the waste generator is merely an increase in rates for services billed and does not represent a collection of the recycling tax.

Organizations designated as exempt organizations holding Exempt Organization Certificates (Form ST-5) are exempt from sales tax imposed by the Sales and Use Tax Act (N.J.S.A. 54:32B-1 et seq.). This exempt status does not extend to taxes imposed under any other area of tax law. Therefore, an exempt organization can be subject to any tax other than sales tax (e.g., recycling tax) unless a specific exemption is expressed in the law.

Sales and Use Tax

Construction Permitting Services — The Division responded to an inquiry regarding the taxability of various costs associated with the acquisition of construction permits. The business gathers data for permit applications, prepares the documentation for submission, does onsite inspections, and performs research to assist the client in obtaining construction permits. Other services provided include consultation, supervision of onsite inspections, risk assessment and safety compliance for site work, code consulting and research, and secretarial services. Time, travel, tolls, etc. will also be charged to the client.

All of the services mentioned are nonenumerated services that are not subject to sales tax. The expenses incurred by the service provider are also not subject to tax since they are incurred as part of a nontaxable receipt.

TV Converter Box Coupons — The Department of Commerce's National Telecommunications and Information Administration, a department of the Federal government, is administering the Digital-to-Analog Converter Box Coupon Program as authorized in the Digital Television Transition and Public Safety Act of 2005. Between January 1, 2008, and March 31, 2009, eligible U.S. households can request up to two coupons, worth $40 each, to be used towards the purchase of up to two coupon-eligible converter boxes. Information regarding the program may be viewed at: www.ntiadtv.gov

Under the New Jersey Sales and Use Tax Act, the amount of a reimbursed coupon is included within the "sales price" of property and services and is taxed accordingly. This position is not dependent upon who actually provides the reimbursement, but rather, that a third party has agreed to pay the seller the coupon amount towards the specific purchase made by the coupon holder. The Division has been advised that the Federal government reimburses the store for the amount of the coupon. Thus, for example, if the converter is priced at $49.99 and the store receives a $40 coupon issued by the National Telecommunications and Information Administration, the 7% sales tax is calculated on $49.99, prior to the deduction for the coupon amount.

Gross Income Tax

Alimony – Nancy McGoldrick v. Director, Division of Taxation, Docket No. 001074-07, decided June 24, 2008.

Judge Hayser granted the Division's motion for summary judgment and denied plaintiff's motion for reconsideration.

On April 8, 2004, Peter and Nancy McGoldrick signed a Property Settlement Agreement (PSA). The agreement called for Mrs. McGoldrick to receive $100,000 in alimony. It also called for her to receive "additional alimony" of $10,649.72 from April 2004 to December 2004. This amount represented 34% of the proceeds of the sale of Natural Specialties Inc. to Acosta Inc. Mrs. McGoldrick will receive these payments until 2011, and they will not terminate upon remarriage or death. The PSA specifically indicated that this amount is to be taxable to the wife and deductible to the husband. Plaintiff argued that the taxability provision violated public policy. Plaintiff contended that the payment received was an "assignment of a right to income arising in connection with the divorce" and not taxable to her.

Judge Hayser stated:

Indeed, if the proceeds were only income to the former husband, they presumably would have been factored into the basic alimony award. His employment agreement with NSSI is the only subject of his personal services, and thus taxable, and the only basis for basic alimony payments to the plaintiff. Even if the proceeds of the sale of the brokerage relationships were paid to the former husband as a W-2 employee, it does not change the nature and source of these proceeds, just as "additional alimony" is not necessarily alimony.

The "additional alimony" payments were taxable to Mrs. McGoldrick as alimony on her NJ-1040 return and deductible by Mr. McGoldrick as an alimony deduction on his NJ-1040 return.

"Hospital Purposes" Exemption for Off-Site Building – Hunterdon Medical Center v. Township of Readington, decided July 14, 2008.

This New Jersey Supreme Court appeal raises the issue of whether a hospital's off-site building that houses its Health and Wellness Center, which provides physical therapy and cardio-pulmonary rehabilitation services, is exempt from local property tax. N.J.S.A. 54:4-3.6 states that real property used for the work of nonprofit organizations, including "all buildings actually used in the work of associations and corporations organized exclusively for hospital purposes" are exempt from property tax. Whether the health center is exempt depends on the term “hospital purposes.”

Hunterdon Medical Center (HMC) is a nonprofit corporation in Flemington, New Jersey. It is a general, acute-care hospital with its certificate of incorporation in effect since 1983 and amended in 2001 to indicate that it is organized for charitable purposes including the establishment and management of a hospital, medical, and health center. In 1998, HMC opened its Health and Wellness Center about nine miles from the Flemington hospital. The HMC provides services to the community through exercise, fitness, diet, physical therapy, and cardio-pulmonary rehabilitation. The Center’s pool, running track, weight room, aerobic exercise equipment, and classroom areas were open to the public through the payment of membership dues. However, individuals could use the fitness equipment and facilities if they were patients of one of the two services that the hospital provides through the Center, namely, physical therapy and cardio-pulmonary rehabilitation. Also, the building contains a hospital-owned pediatric physician practice which had existed as a private practice prior to its acquisition in December 1997. HMC was receiving an exemption up until the 2000 tax year. The Readington Township tax assessor revoked the tax exemption and issued a tax assessment of $3,300,000 for the property, $2,000,000 of which was allocated to the facility.

The HMC filed with the Tax Court for the 2000 through 2005 tax years, wanting a tax exemption for the Wellness Center in its entirety (including the physical therapy service and cardio-pulmonary rehabilitation service, and the pediatric practice), arguing that the uses were necessary to the hospital’s mission to provide a continuum of care to members of the community. The Tax Court rejected its application of “reasonably necessary test,” finding it unhelpful in the evaluation of the particular use of this property. The Court stated that no prior decision concerning “hospital purposes” exemption had concerned a hospital-owned facility having characteristics like those present in this matter: (1) a location distant from the main hospital campus; (2) not used for a purpose supportive of the hospital’s core function; and (3) used as part of the hospital’s continuum of care and its mission to enhance and improve the general health status of the population in the local area.

The Tax Court described the continuum of care to be a new element of hospital services. The Court devised its own framework for deciding between off-campus hospital facilities that would qualify for tax exemption under N.J.S.A. 54:4-3.6. The test had three components: (1) the nature and extent of the integration between the hospital and the subject facility; (2) the extent to which the activity conducted in the facility is under the control or supervision of the hospital staff; and (3) whether the facility serves primarily hospital patients or primarily members of the general public. Two considerations were added to the third component: the first relates to the extent to which the hospital facility competes with commercial or privately owned facilities in the area, and the second is whether an exemption can be granted in proportion to the percentage of use by hospital patients of a specific facility within a building.

The Tax Court applied that framework to the Center and separately to the physical therapy service, finding each should be declared ineligible for exemption. The Appellate Division accepted the Tax Court’s finding with the new test criteria applied. The HMC appealed. The Supreme Court granted HMC’s petition for certification.

The High Court found earlier definitions, i.e., a facility providing continuous long-term care for periods exceeding 24 hours, too restrictive.

It was held that any medical or diagnostic service that a hospital patient may require, whether preadmission, during a hospital stay, or postadmission, constitutes a “hospital purpose” under the tax exemption statute. When an off-site facility provides services, its operational activities must be integrated and supervised by hospital personnel.

The Supreme Court accepted the additional tests applied by the under Court but with a broader approach to the type of required supervision. The status of the physical therapy service was remanded to the Tax Court for further clarification.

The analysis for the term “hospital purposes” must meet the medical pursuits permitted to the “modern” hospital in New Jersey and can no longer just fit the needs of a nineteenth or even a twentieth century vision of a hospital building. Today, treatment is given on an outpatient basis at a hospital’s main facility and off-site facilities. The term “hospital purposes” should acknowledge the variety of activities that a modern hospital can be expected to perform for both inpatients and outpatients.

Sales and Use Tax
Due Process, Equal Protection Clause – New Jersey Self Storage Association, Inc. et al. v. Corzine, et al., Docket No. 004635-2007, decided June 23, 2008.

Amendments to the New Jersey Sales and Use Tax Act (P.L. 2006, c.44) effective October 1, 2006, imposed tax on the furnishing of space for storage of tangible personal property by a person engaged in the business of furnishing space for such storage. Charges for the service of storing all tangible personal property not held for sale in the regular course of business and the rental of safe deposit boxes or similar space remains subject to tax. N.J.S.A. 54:32B-3(b) (3). The distinction is that the new law extends the tax to transactions where the facility merely provides the space, but not any services.

“Space for storage” means secure areas, such as rooms, units, compartments, or containers, whether accessible from outside or from within a building, that are designated for the use of a customer and wherein the customer has free access within reasonable business hours, or upon reasonable notice to the furnisher of space for storage, to store and retrieve property. Space for storage does not include the lease or rental of an entire building, such as a warehouse or airplane hanger.

The New Jersey Self Storage Association, Inc. challenged the law on due process and equal protection grounds.

In an unpublished opinion, following cross-motions for summary judgment, Judge Menyuk held that the sales tax on the service of furnishing space for storage by a person engaged in the business of furnishing such space does not violate the due process or equal protection clauses of the Federal or State constitutions, the uniformity clause, or the prohibition against special legislation in the New Jersey Constitution. □

Out-of-State CPAs Authorized to Practice in New Jersey — P.L. 2008, c.45, enacted on July 15, 2008, and effective on the 365th day after enactment, revises the “Accountancy Act of 1997” to authorize out-of-State CPAs to practice public accounting in New Jersey without the need to obtain a license or to notify the New Jersey State Board of Accountancy. It further subjects those accountants to the laws and regulations governing CPAs in this State. The law also requires some accounting firms to register with the New Jersey State Board of Accountancy.

Fair Housing Reforms — P.L. 2008, c.46, enacted on July 17, 2008, and effective on that date, revises various laws concerning the provision of affordable housing. It requires that regulatory proposals advanced by State agencies include a housing affordability impact statement. It further requires the Director of the Division of Taxation to establish an appeals procedure to address challenges brought by developers regarding municipal nonresidential development fees.

Transitional Energy Facility Assessment

Extension and Phase-out of TEFA — P.L. 2008, c.32, enacted on June 30, 2008, and effective immediately, freezes transitional energy facility assessment (TEFA) unit rate surcharges at calendar year 2008 rates for 2009 through 2011, and reduces surcharges in calendar years 2012 and 2013. Budget Funds Rebates

The State Budget for fiscal year 2009 provides continued funding for the Homestead Rebate Program; however, rebate amounts for tax year 2007 are limited for both homeowners and tenants. The Budget also limits eligibility for homeowners to those with income of $150,000 or less and requires that the rebates for homeowners be based on 2006 property taxes.

Who is Eligible

Homeowners and tenants who occupied their principal residence in New Jersey on October 1, 2007, and who paid property taxes on that dwelling either directly or through rent, are eligible for a 2007 homestead rebate, provided that their gross income for the entire year does not exceed the income limit: $150,000 for homeowners and $100,000 for tenants.

Benefit Amounts

Benefit amounts differ for homeowners and tenants, and are determined by income, amount of property taxes (or rent) paid, and whether the applicant is 65 or older or eligible to claim an exemption as blind or disabled for the tax year.

Homeowners: The State Budget requires that the 2007 rebate be based on 2006 property taxes. For purposes of calculating the 2007 rebate, the 2006 property taxes for the dwelling that was the applicant's principal residence on October 1, 2007, will be used. If no property taxes were assessed on that dwelling for 2006, the Division of Taxation will determine the amount of property taxes that would have been due for 2006.

Under the terms of the Budget, 2007 rebate amounts will be no greater than those paid last year (when rebates were also based on 2006 property taxes) unless there has been a change in an applicant's filing characteristics. "Filing characteristics" means a reduction in income range, a change in age/disability status or marital status, or an increase in percentage of ownership.

For tax year 2007, homeowners will receive either 10% or 20% of the first $10,000 of property taxes paid in 2006, depending on their income level:

$100,000 or less	—	20%
$100,001 – $150,000	—	10%

Homeowners who are age 65 or older or disabled will receive the larger of either the applicable percentage of property taxes paid (see above) or the amount by which the property taxes paid exceed 5% of gross income, but within the range specified based on income:

$70,000 or less	—	$1200 – $1000
$70,001 – $125,000	—	$800 – $600
$125,001 – $150,000	—	$500

In no case will a homeowner receive a rebate greater than the amount of property taxes actually paid.

Tenants: For tax year 2007, tenants age 65 or older or disabled are eligible to receive rebates ranging from a minimum of $160 up to a maximum of $860. Tenants under age 65 and not disabled are eligible for rebates of $80.

How to Apply

Homeowners: The 2007 homestead rebate applications were mailed in early May to homeowners who were identified as being 65 years of age or older or disabled on December 31, 2007. Application packets were mailed during July to non-senior, nondisabled homeowners.

Most homeowners can file their applications by phone by calling 1-877-658-2972 or online. The filing deadline for all homeowners is August 15, 2008.

Tenants: Applicants who are required to file a 2007 New Jersey income tax return complete their tenant homestead rebate application (Form TR-1040) and file it with their resident income tax return (Form NJ-1040, or return filed electronically using NJ WebFile or approved vendor software) by April 15, 2008. If a taxpayer requests an extension of time to file their State income tax return, the filing deadline for the homestead rebate is also extended.

Tenants who have already filed their income tax returns but did not complete the homestead rebate application even though they were eligible, have until August 15, 2008, to file the tenant rebate application, Form TR-1040.

Applicants who are not required to file a 2007 New Jersey income tax return because their income is below the minimum filing threshold file only Form TR-1040 and have until October 31, 2008, to apply.

Rebate Checks

Homeowners: Homestead rebate checks for senior and disabled homeowners who filed by the original June 2 filing deadline are scheduled to be mailed on or about July 31, 2008, while checks for those who file between June 2 and August 15 will be issued as quickly as possible. Checks for all non-senior, nondisabled homeowners are scheduled to be mailed in the fall.

Tenants: Homestead rebate checks for all eligible tenants are expected to be mailed on or about July 31, 2008.

LOCAL PROPERTY TAX PAMS Project Extends Testing and Review Period

The implementation schedule for New Jersey's new Property Assessment Management System (PAMS) was revised to push the go-live date from January 2008 to the end of 2008. This new schedule provides more time for testing and for addressing issues that may be identified.

PAMS will replace the outdated MOD IV system and will provide added tools for the assessor, collector, and tax administrator. A key difference between the old and new systems is a change from a simple batch program that stores data in flat files to a relational database system with integrated functions. While this means users will have more screens and fields to navigate, it also means they will have more information and reporting capabilities at their fingertips.

The PAMS project undertook its second trial or “mock” conversion in April to ensure that the process for converting municipalities’ data into the new system will run smoothly. PAMS will first be implemented in the three pilot counties of Camden, Hunterdon, and Salem.

The latest edition of the quarterly PAMS newsletter, Update, focuses on new tools for analysis and scheduling. An electronic version is available on the Division’s Web site at: www.state.nj.us/treasury/taxation/pamsvol/pams.shtml

Clarification:
Streamlined Sales Tax Registration

An article in the New Jersey State Tax News, fall 2007 issue, p. 3, provided an overview of the central online registration system for sales tax that was developed by the Streamlined Sales Tax Project. This article provides additional information on cancelling a sales tax registration entered through that system.

The central online registration system was developed for companies desiring to register with every member state of the Streamlined Sales and Use Tax Agreement (SSUTA), including those states that adopt the SSUTA after the seller registers. By registering through this system, sellers agree to collect and remit tax on all sales sourced to any full-member state. In addition, a registrant may choose to collect and remit taxes to any or all states that are associate members. Additional information concerning the central registration system may be found at: www.state.nj.us/treasury/taxation/streamregpro.shtml

Sellers who collect tax for any full-member or associate-member states during the time they are registered must remit the tax to the state(s).

If you used the central registration system and registered in more states than you wanted to, you cannot cancel registration for just the states you do not want to be registered with. To receive the benefits of the SSUTA, you must remain registered with all of the full-member states. You can, however, cancel your registration with any associate-member state. You may also opt out of the central registration system entirely, in which case your registration will be cancelled with all of the states. If you want to register for sales tax with only a few states, you should not use the central registration system. While amnesty has expired in New Jersey, it may still be available in other SSUTA member states. Information on amnesty is available at:

www.streamlinedsalestax.org/amnesty.html

If you believe that you mistakenly registered through the central online registration system, find you no longer want to participate, need to update previously submitted registration information, or add an associate state, log into the Streamlined Sales Tax Project Web site at www.sstregister.org/sellers and select “Update Registration.” You will then need your Streamlined Sales Tax ID and password to continue. To cancel your registration select “Change Registration Status” and follow the instructions.

Once you terminate your sales tax registration through the central registration system, your central registration account for sales tax with all the SSUTA member states, including New Jersey, will be cancelled. However, if you were already registered with New Jersey for sales tax — or any other taxes — before you

Nevada is conducting a tax amnesty program. During the designated amnesty period, taxpayers have a chance to pay back taxes with reduced (or eliminated) penalty and/or interest. For more information, including eligibility requirements, or to obtain an application, visit the Web site listed below.

registered through the SSUTA central registration system, then your sales tax account with the State of New Jersey, as well as your accounts for any other New Jersey taxes, will remain open.

If you initiated your New Jersey sales tax registration only through the SSUTA central registration system, and subsequently cancel your central registration account, then your sales tax registration with New Jersey is terminated along with your central registration account. In this case, if you either have a legal obligation or choose to continue to collect and remit New Jersey sales and use tax, you must register directly with the State of New Jersey through the New Jersey Division of Revenue's Web site at:

www.state.nj.us/treasury/revenue/ □

Small Business Workshops

The Division of Taxation periodically conducts free workshops throughout New Jersey designed to help small businesses better understand their State tax obligations. The seminars are a half day in duration and cover the following topics:

- Business registration
- Meeting employer responsibilities
- Reporting business income
- Filing sales and use tax returns

LOCAL PROPERTY TAX Tax Assessor Certificates

The Tax Assessor Examination is held in accordance with the Assessor Certification and Tenure Act, requiring anyone taking office as a tax assessor after July 1, 1971, to hold a tax assessor certificate.

Thirteen persons passed the March 29, 2008, Tax Assessor Certificate examination. They are:

Atlantic County: Megan M. Fasy, Egg Harbor Township; Theresa Prendergast, Egg Harbor Township.

Bergen County: Anthony J. Rinaldi, Jr., Dumont Borough; Mathew S. Rinaldi, Cliffside Park Borough.

Burlington County: Gregory T. Hutchinson, Eastampton Township.

Essex County: Steven P. Priscoe, Verona Township.

Monmouth County: Richard A. Anderson, Millstone Township.

Morris County: Natale T. Buono, Jr., East Hanover Township.

Ocean County: Stephen Bruemmer, Stafford Township; Theodore J. Tobiassen, Brick Township.

Salem County: Steven H. Caltabiano, Carneys Point Township.

Somerset County: Silvia N. Forbes, Bedminster Township.

Union County: Jonathan M. Bernstein, Westfield Town.

The next examination will be held on Saturday, September 20, 2008, at the Richard J. Hughes Justice Complex in Trenton. The deadline for candidates to submit applications for this examination is August 21, 2008. To obtain an application, write to Gary R. DalCorso, P.O. Box 251, Trenton, NJ 08695-0251 or call 609-292-7813. A fee of $10 must accompany the completed application. □ type business: customers do not enter the street front business; the items are sold through a sliding glass window used to transact business. The store sells tobacco products, candies, and other sundry items. The inspection resulted in the confiscation of 314.6 cartons of cigarettes that were not properly stamped and taxed. Seized were 270 cartons of beedies (hand-rolled, South Asian cigarettes) along with 38.6 cartons of imports — Willis Classic, Gold Flake, and Guang Gram; 4 cartons with counterfeit stamps; and 2 cartons with Delaware stamps. Charges are pending against Yogeshkumar Patel in Jersey City Municipal Court for possession of contraband cigarettes, no invoices, buying cigarettes from an unlicensed person, and the $25 per carton civil penalty which amounts to $7,865.

- On March 27, 2008, a cigarette inspection was conducted at an Irvington, New Jersey, convenience store, Ivelisse Supermarket, and 11.8 cartons of contraband cigarettes were seized. Also, through the customary inspection of the entire facility, Office of Criminal Investigation personnel noticed crudely packaged DVDs with partial labels. As a result of this observation and having suspicion that the DVDs were counterfeit, assistance was requested from the Irvington Police Department and the Motion Picture Association of America, Inc. The DVDs were confirmed as counterfeit merchandise and inventoried. The owner of the business, Mr. Leocliedes Torres, was placed

Criminal enforcement over the past several months included:

- On February 8, 2008, the Office of Criminal Investigation (OCI) performed a routine cigarette compliance inspection at Laxmi Pan Center of J.C. L.L.C., Jersey City, New Jersey. The business is owned by Yogeshkumar Patel and operates as a small "stand"

criminal enforcement - from pg. 5

under arrest by the Irvington Police Department for possession of counterfeit DVDs. Criminal charges will be pursued in municipal court.

- On April 10, 2008, Jennifer Pham of Egg Harbor pled guilty to structured transactions, filing fraudulent returns, and failure to pay taxes. Jennifer and Jimmy Pham, husband and wife, were indicted in August 2007 for the structuring of funds and tax fraud for systematically depositing funds of unknown origin, in amounts less than $10,000, to avoid filing Currency Transaction Reports and for failing to report and pay taxes on this income for tax year 2006. The Phams, employed by Harrah's Hotel and Casino, came under investigation by the Division of Gaming Enforcement after a Suspicious Activity Report was filed by Commerce Bank. In the plea agreement, Jennifer Pham will receive three years' probation and forfeiture of property seized, which included an estimated $240,000 in cash and jewelry. The Phams' tax liability ($17,000) plus penalty and interest ($1,278) will be satisfied with the proceeds of the auctioned jewelry. Charges were dropped against Jennifer's husband, Jimmy Pham. This was a joint investigation between the Division of Gaming Enforcement and the Office of Criminal Investigation.
- On April 14, 2008, an arrest and cigarette seizure was executed as a result of an ongoing investigation by U.S. Immigration and Customs Enforcement into contraband cigarette sales conducted by Mohamed Gaafar. It had been alleged that the subject sold cartons of cigarettes from the Hollywood Beauty Salon in Jersey City, a location at which the subject rented a chair to perform hairstyling. Gaafar was arrested across from the beauty salon while in the process of transferring multiple boxes containing unstamped cigarettes from his vehicle to another. When OCI personnel arrived, two boxes had already been transferred with the remaining boxes still in the subject's vehicle. A combined seizure total between the vehicles was 400 cartons of unstamped Marlboro and Newport products. Additionally, the Hollywood Beauty Salon was searched and a total of 88.6 cartons of Marlboro, Parliament, and Newport products were found. All of the contraband located within the business was also unstamped, with some containing cellophane wrapping indicative of a possible export product. As a result of the total 488.6 cartons of unstamped products being seized, the subject was arrested and charged with the following offenses: possession of contraband cigarettes (fourth degree), failure to keep records (fourth degree), dealing with unlicensed persons (fourth degree), failure to obtain cigarette license (disorderly persons), and transportation of contraband cigarettes (disorderly persons).

- On April 28, 2008, Tommy Tavarez, OH Main, LLC, pled guilty as charged to third-degree conspiracy and third-degree filing false or fraudulent New Jersey sales tax returns. Juan Torres, OH Main, LLC, filed an application for the Mercer County Pretrial Intervention Program. OH Main, LLC, is a retail deli/grocery located in Passaic, New Jersey. The investigation was initiated by a field inspection for untaxed/contraband cigarettes and was expanded. The owners/operators underreported sales, failed to pay sales tax for five quarters in 2006 and 2007, and filed fraudulent New Jersey gross income tax and partnership returns for tax year 2006. As part of the plea agreement, Tavarez and Torres must file amended New Jersey sales and use tax returns, New Jersey partnership returns, and New Jersey gross income tax returns by May 30, 2008, and pay all tax, penalty, and interest by the sentencing date of July 21, 2008. This successful prosecution was the result of the combined efforts of a special agent and auditor, both from the Office of Criminal Investigation, and the New Jersey Division of Criminal Justice.

- On May 12, 2008, a twenty-six count indictment was returned charging Larry Kushner, 56, and his wife Jacqueline Kushner, 43, both of Long Branch, New Jersey, with five counts of second-degree theft by deception, two counts of third-degree theft by deception, one count of second-degree identity theft, one count of third-degree fraudulent use of credit card, and one count of fourth-degree fraudulently obtaining a credit card. Both defendants were also charged with third-degree failure to file a tax return and third-degree failure to pay taxes for the years 2003 through 2006. The investigation revealed that Mr. Kushner bilked seven investors out of $1.2 million dollars by telling them that money invested in his company, Foreclosure 911, would be used to purchase foreclosed properties. Instead, the money was used for personal expenses and travel. Jacqueline Kushner was the president of the company and most of the stolen funds were diverted to her. This criminal investigation was conducted by the Monmouth County Prosecutor's Office and the Office of Criminal Investigation.

- In the area of refund fraud, the Office of Criminal Investigation prevented the payment of fraudulent refund claims totaling $7,373,500 for the period July 2007 through mid-May 2008. In addition, the Office of Criminal Investigation issued assessments based on refunds found to be fraudulently obtained. □

Corporation Business Tax

Doing Business in New Jersey —

The requirement that foreign corporations doing business in New Jersey must register with the State is set forth at N.J.S.A. 14A:13-3(1), which states that:

No foreign corporation shall have the right to transact business in this State until it shall have procured a certificate of authority so to do from the Secretary of State. A foreign corporation may be authorized to do in this State any business which may be done lawfully in this State by a domestic corporation, to the extent that it is authorized to do such business in the jurisdiction of its incorporation, but no other business.

In addition, penalties for doing business in New Jersey without registering are set forth at N.J.S.A. 14A:13-11(3), which states that:

In addition to any other liabilities imposed by law, a foreign corporation which transacts business in this State without a certificate of authority shall forfeit to the State a penalty of not less than $200.00, nor more than $1,000.00 for each calendar year, not more than 5 years prior thereto, in which it shall have transacted business in this State without a certificate of authority. Such penalty shall be recovered with costs in an action prosecuted by the Attorney General. The court may proceed in such action in a summary manner or otherwise.

A foreign corporation is doing business in New Jersey when it meets the requirements of N.J.A.C. 18:7-1.9(a) and (b), which states that:

(a) The term "doing business" is used in a comprehensive sense and includes all activities which occupy the time or labor of men for profit.

1. Regardless of the nature of its activities, every corporation organized for profit and carrying out any of the purposes of its organization within the State shall be deemed to be "doing business" for the purposes of this Act.

2. In determining whether a corporation is "doing business", it is immaterial whether its activities result in a profit or a loss.

(b) Whether a foreign corporation is doing business in New Jersey is determined by the facts in each case. Consideration is given to such factors as:

1. The nature and extent of the activities of the corporation in New Jersey;
2. The location of its offices and other places of business;
3. The continuity, frequency and regularity of the activities of the corporation in New Jersey;
4. The employment in New Jersey of agents, officers and employees;
5. The location of the actual seat of management or control of the corporation.

A corporation is subject to tax in New Jersey when it meets the requirements of N.J.A.C. 18:7-1.6, which states that:

(a) Every corporation not expressly exempted is deemed to be subject to tax under the Act and is required to file a return and pay a tax thereunder provided it falls within any one of the following:

1. Existing under the laws of the State of New Jersey; or
2. If a foreign corporation:
 - i. Holding a general Certificate of Authority to do business in this State issued by the Secretary of State; or
 - ii. Holding a certificate, license or other authorization

issued by any other State department or agency, authorizing the company to engage in corporate activity within this State; or

iii. Doing business in this State; or

iv. Employing or owning capital in this State; or

v. Employing or owning property in this State; or

vi. Maintaining an office in this State; or

vii. Deriving receipts from sources within this State; or viii. Engaging in contacts within this State.

(b) A taxpayer's exercise of its franchise in this State is subject to taxation in this State if the taxpayer's business activity in this State is sufficient to give this State jurisdiction to impose the tax under the Constitution and statutes of the United States.

Texas Margin Tax — When a taxpayer calculates its entire net income for corporation business tax (CBT) purposes under N.J.S.A. 54:10A-4(k), it is not permitted to deduct or exclude “taxes paid or accrued to the United States, a possession or territory of the United States, a state, a political subdivision thereof, or the District of Columbia, or to any foreign country, state, province, territory or subdivision thereof, on or measured by profits or income, or business presence or business activity, or the tax imposed by this act....”

A taxpayer inquired whether or not the new Texas Margin Tax is considered a state tax “on or measured by profits or income, or business presence or business activity” pursuant to N.J.S.A. 54:10A-4(k)(2)(C) such that it would have to be added back to the tax base.

The Division of Taxation responded that the Texas Margin Tax must be added back to the New Jersey entire net income for CBT purposes. The Division noted that the statutory addback in question was enacted to stop tax rate discrimination among taxpayers. The legislative history provided, in part: “If the deduction of the taxes of other jurisdictions is allowed, corporations which do business in several states pay a lower effective rate of tax on their New Jersey activities than do corporations which only do business in New Jersey.” See Ross Fogg v. Director, 22 N.J. Tax 372 (2005) at 377.

The Division stated that the Ohio Commercial Activities Tax (CAT tax) and the Washington Business and Occupation Tax (B&O tax) were also included among other state taxes that must be added back to the CBT tax base.

Environmental Taxes and Fees

DEP Registered Brokers — The Division recently received an inquiry regarding the newly imposed recycling tax from a broker in the solid waste industry who does not directly haul waste. He wanted confirmation that there is no requirement for a broker to register and pay the recycling tax.

He was advised that either the haulers that are hired (if taking out-of-State or to a railroad transfer station) or the facilities that accept the solid waste in New Jersey would be responsible for calculating and remitting the recycling tax. Brokers in the industry, although registered with the Department of Environmental Protection as “haulers,” are not required to register with the Division of Taxation for the tax.

Sales Tax Information

P.L. 2005, c.126, effective October 1, 2005, conformed the New Jersey Sales and Use Tax Act to the Streamlined Sales and Use Tax Agreement. More information is available at:

Streamlined Sales and Use Tax

P.L. 2006, c.44, increased the New Jersey sales and use tax rate from 6% to 7%, effective July 15, 2006. The rate change affects all retail sales of taxable merchandise or services. For more information on the rate increase visit:

Information for all Sales and Use Tax Vendors

Additional provisions of P.L. 2006, c.44, effective October 1, 2006, extended the sales and use tax to new services, limited some existing exclusions and exemptions, and encompassed product categories that have come into being with new technologies. More information is available at:

Information Regarding Sales and Use Tax Changes Effective October 1, 2006

Solid Waste Collectors — The Division responded to an inquiry regarding application of the recycling tax. The inquiry questioned whether solid waste transporters registered with the Department of Environmental Protection that transport solid waste from an in-State solid waste facility for out-of-State disposal are considered solid waste collectors subject to the recycling tax.

Solid waste collectors are only subject to the recycling tax and required to register in the following circumstances: (1) the solid waste collector transports solid waste to a rail transfer station for transshipment, or (2) the solid waste collector transports solid waste from its generators directly to an out-of-State disposal site.

Where a solid waste collector hauls solid waste from a New Jersey nonrailroad transfer station to an out-of-State disposal site, the collector is not transporting waste directly from generators as outlined above. Therefore, no tax is due on the transaction.

Gross Income Tax

Economic Stimulus Payments — Starting in May 2008, the Federal Treasury began sending economic stimulus payments to more than 130 million households. To receive a payment taxpayers must have a valid social security number, $3,000 of income, and file a 2007 Federal tax return.

Taxpayers will not owe Federal income tax on the payment when they file their 2008 Federal income tax return, and it will not reduce their 2007 or 2008 refund or increase the amount owed when the 2008 return is filed.

Similarly, New Jersey's gross income tax treatment of the economic stimulus payments will correspond to the Federal treatment and the payments will not be considered taxable income for New Jersey gross income tax purposes.

Educational Debt Exchange — The National Institutes of Health generally repays up to a certain amount per year of a qualified health professional's educational debt in exchange for a two- or three-year commitment to perform medical research. The benefits provided by the Loan Repayment Program are taxable for Federal income tax purposes.

Similarly, for New Jersey gross income tax purposes, amounts paid in accordance with the Loan Repayment Program are provided in exchange for work performed or services rendered. These amounts are taxable as "other remuneration received for services rendered" in accordance with N.J.S.A. 54A:5-1(a).

Military Retirement — The New Jersey Gross Income Tax Act at N.J.S.A. 54A:6-26 permits taxpayers to exclude military pension payments and military survivor's benefit payments from their New Jersey gross income tax. Military pension payments and military survivor's benefit payments are those earned with respect to service in the Army, Navy, Air Force, Marine Corps, and Coast Guard. Generally, for military retirement pay to qualify as a military pension, it must be received under Titles 10 and 32 of the U.S. Code and paid from the Defense Finance and Accounting Service.

Stock Options — A nonresident taxpayer who worked for the same company both inside and outside New Jersey during the period stock options were earned inquired whether she is subject to New Jersey income tax on these options.

Stock options a nonresident taxpayer receives while working in New Jersey, or for a New Jersey company, or for services performed in New Jersey are taxable as New Jersey source income. N.J.S.A. 54A:5-8.

New Jersey gross income tax due from a nonresident taxpayer is based on the amount of income attributable to New Jersey sources. Here, the portion of the taxpayer's income from the stock options that is considered New Jersey source income must be determined using an allocation formula. N.J.S.A. 54A:5-7. The amount of the stock option payment is multiplied by a fraction, the numerator of which is the total time (e.g., number of days) employed in New Jersey and the denominator, the time employed within and outside New Jersey for the period the stock options were earned.

Telecommuting — For New Jersey purposes, nonresident taxpayers are subject to income tax if they have income sourced or earned in New Jersey. N.J.S.A. 54A:5-8. Generally, a nonresident taxpayer working for a New Jersey company has income sourced to New Jersey and has to file a New Jersey nonresident return (Form NJ-1040NR). Specifically, if a telecommuter comes into New Jersey to perform work or services, even occasionally, this individual is considered to have New Jersey source income and must file accordingly.

However, with regard to nonresident telecommuters who never enter the company’s home state to perform work or services, New Jersey uses a “physical presence” test. Using this test, only the telecommuting employee’s home state will tax the income.

Withholding on Pension Income — Under the New Jersey Gross Income Tax Act, a taxpayer may request that the payor of pension and annuity income withhold State income tax from disability or retirement benefits. N.J.S.A. 54A:7-1.1. This provision applies to all payors of pensions and annuities, both private and public, and to all payments, including lump-sum distributions.

The recipient of a pension or annuity must make a request in writing to the payor for the amount to be withheld on Form NJ-W-4P, Certificate of Voluntary Withholding of New Jersey Gross Income Tax From Pension and Annuity Payments. Form NJ-W-4P is contained in the employers’ instruction booklet (Form NJ-WT) and is also available on the Division’s Web site at: www.state.nj.us/treasury/taxation/prntgit.shtml

The amount of State income tax withheld from pension or annuity payments must be a minimum of $10 per payment period or an even dollar amount greater than the minimum as specified by the recipient of the pension or annuity. The amount withheld may be changed or terminated upon request by the recipient. The amount withheld must be reported on and remitted with Form NJ-500, NJ-927, or NJ-927-W. The total annual amount of tax withheld from pension and annuity payments (as reported on Form 1099-R) must be included on Form NJ-W-3, Gross Income Tax Annual Reconciliation of Tax Withheld.

Sales and Use Tax

Freight Charges — On and after October 1, 2006, P.L. 2006, c.44, modified the exclusion for delivery charges that are separately stated from the sales price of an item on the invoice, bill, or similar document given to the purchaser. N.J.S.A. 54:32B-8.11. The law provides for tax to be imposed on delivery charges for taxable items and no tax to be imposed on delivery charges for nontaxable items like clothing.

The law defines “delivery charges” as charges by the seller for preparation and delivery to a location designated by the purchaser of personal property or services including, but not limited to, transportation, shipping, postage, handling, crating, and packing. If a shipment includes both exempt and taxable property, the seller should allocate the delivery charge by using: (1) a percentage based on the total sales price of the taxable property compared to the total sales price of all property in the shipment; or (2) a percentage based on the total weight of the taxable property compared to the total weight of all property in the shipment. N.J.S.A. 54:32B-2(rr). Only the portion of the delivery charge that relates to the taxable property or service is subject to tax.

Thus, only delivery charges imposed by the seller of taxable items on the end-user are subject to tax.

Magazine Articles Delivered Electronically — Under N.J.S.A. 54:32B-8.5(a), magazines and periodicals sold by single issue in hard copy are subject to tax. Magazines and periodicals accessed electronically are exempt because they are neither tangible personal property nor digital property. “Digital property” is defined specifically as music, ringtones, movies, books, audio and video works and similar property delivered through electronic means. Magazines and periodicals delivered electronically are not included in this definition of digital property. Therefore, a document delivery service’s charge for a single purchase of an article from a magazine publisher delivered electronically is not subject to tax.

In Our Courts

Gross Income Tax

Basis – William & Margaret Sitar v. Director, Division of Taxation, Docket No. 005141-2002, decided February 15, 2008.

In a bench decision, Judge Bianco granted the Division’s motion for summary judgment in this matter.

The issue presented was the correctness of the methodology employed by the Director in denying the deduction of personal expenses from the gain on sale of land held purely for investment purposes. The plaintiffs, William and Margaret Sitar, asserted that since personal expenses (interest on a loan and property taxes) incurred in connection with the land they held for investment purposes were deductible Federally, but not for New Jersey purposes, pursuant to Koch, the New Jersey gross income tax assessment denying a basis adjustment was invalid. The Director contends that land is not a depreciable asset and the plaintiffs’ personal expenses of interest on the loans to purchase the property and yearly property taxes are not deductible. Therefore, the taxpayers’ basis for the calculation on the sale of the land is the taxpayers’ Federal adjusted basis under N.J.S.A. 54A:5-1(c).

There is no statutory provision which allows and provides for the deductions claimed by the plaintiffs. Plaintiffs sold a piece of vacant land, which was held by the plaintiffs in their individual capacity for investment purposes. No improvements were made on this land. Plaintiffs had borrowed money to purchase the property and thus had to pay interest on the personal loan. Plaintiffs paid property taxes on this property. This property was not income producing. For tax year 1998 plaintiffs filed their Federal income tax return on which they deducted, on their Schedule A, interest paid on the loan to purchase the said property and the real estate taxes paid on the property in the amount of $1,710,158. These Schedule A expenses were personal expenses which were not related to the taxpayers’ being involved in a trade or business. The Court held in Gilligan v. Director, 11 N.J. Tax 414 (1991), such expenses are not deductible from the plaintiff’s gross income.

The Director's determination that plaintiffs must use the Federal adjusted basis to compute gain from sale of the land in this case was not a tax on a return of capital nor a tax on fictitious, phantom income and was sustained.

Credit for Taxes Paid to Other Jurisdictions – Glenn A. Harris & Terrie D. Harris v. Director, Division of Taxation, Docket No. 006227-2007, decided February 19, 2008.

The issue in this case was whether the Director properly calculated the gross income tax credit for taxes paid to other jurisdictions. N.J.S.A. 54A:4-1. Plaintiffs alleged that the Division of Taxation had not allowed credits for tax payments to Philadelphia and Pennsylvania in the amount of $3,189 for tax year 2002, $6,157 for tax year 2003, and $7,067 for tax year 2004. The principal thrust of the plaintiffs' argument in their summary judgment motion was that Jenkins v. Director, 4 N. J. Tax 127 (Tax 1982), was wrongly decided and that the Director's regulation N.J.A.C. 18:35-4.1(a)(11) is ultra vires (in excess of the powers granted) because it is contrary to the plain language of the statute. On January 8, 2008, cross-motions for summary judgment were heard by the Honorable Gail L. Menyuk. In a letter opinion dated February 19, 2008, Judge Menyuk denied plaintiffs' motion for summary judgment and granted the Director's cross-motion for summary judgment. In finding for the Director, the Court concluded that Jenkins was correctly decided and that the Director's regulation N.J.A.C. 18:35-4.1(a)(11) is valid.

Interest on Refund – McLaughlin v. Director, Division of Taxation, Docket No. 008593-07, decided April 17, 2008.

Judge Hayser denied the Division's summary judgment motion without prejudice and transferred the case to Superior Court.

The taxpayer sent the Division a $5,000 check intended for the IRS. The taxpayer is seeking interest on the payment, which the Division sent back to the taxpayer upon his request, but according to the taxpayer a year and a half after the taxpayer improperly sent the check to the Division.

Judge Hayser stated in an unpublished decision that "there is no statutory authority that permits or requires the defendant make the interest payment requested by the Plaintiff" and "under the facts of this case, in weighing the relative equities between the parties there is no overriding and compelling equitable basis to require the Defendant to make the interest payment requested by the Plaintiff."

However, "Rather than dismissal, it is appropriate to transfer this action to the Superior Court, the appropriate Court to consider Plaintiff's claim as set forth in the complaint, whether viewed as the tort of wrongful conversion or a claim predicated on unjust enrichment. That is the court that can finally determine whether the Plaintiff has met the procedural requirements of the Torts Claims Act."

Retroactivity – Charles J. Demuth v. Director, Division of Taxation, Docket No. 008298-07, decided April 22, 2008.

Judge Hayser granted the Division's motion for summary judgment and denied the plaintiff's motion.

In May 2004, the taxpayer made three stock sales resulting in a net gain. N.J.S.A. 54A:2-1, approved on June 28, 2004, increased the tax rate percentage from 6.37% to 8.97% for gross income of $500,000 or more.

Plaintiff stated he would not have conducted the stock transactions if he knew they would be subject to a higher tax. Therefore, the taxpayer believes that the tax increase "as applied to his transactions" should "(1) be declared void on equitable principles as the imposition of such tax constitutes a manifest injustice....," and "(2) the statutory enactment constitutes a violation of due process under the U.S. Constitution...."

The taxpayer also argued the principle of Oberhand v. Director, 193 N.J. 558 (2008), where the Court ruled that the retroactive application of State estate or transfer tax was unfair and unenforceable under the doctrine of manifest injustice in support of his claim.

in our courts - from page 12

The Court distinguished Oberhand opining “the focus is one transaction, event or occurrence giving rise to the tax liability, and not income realized over an entire year.”

Judge Hayser further opined:

Neither the expectations of the taxpayer for a static tax rate nor a taxing authority attempting to operate a taxation system by speculating or seeking to divine when income is subject to an income tax or which taxpayer would have avoided realizing income under varying circumstances, serves neither the public nor private needs. For a rational tax system based upon annual income to function, it must both meet the changing demands required of an annual state budget, while also fairly apportioning the resulting tax liability to all those who realize annual income, and not on their unpredictable transactions individually discrete or not, during the tax year. The alternative as suggested by the Plaintiff’s argument, would be a chaotic, unpredictable, arbitrary and unfair system that serves no one’s needs or legal obligations. □ the effective date of the recycling tax, which was enacted by P.L. 2007, c.311. The effective date is now April 1, 2008. Entities subject to the recycling tax are required to register with the Division of Taxation by April 1, 2008, and the first quarterly recycling tax returns and tax payments are due July 20, 2008. The provisions delaying the effective date of the tax are retroactive to January 13, 2008. The Act also adds type 27-A asbestos-containing waste to the list of types of waste included within the definition of “solid waste.” In addition, the Act treats recycling tax revenue as an exclusion to be added to calculations of the adjusted local property tax levy. □

State Treasurer Sworn In

David Rousseau was confirmed by the State Senate and sworn in as State Treasurer on April 7, 2008. He was sworn in as Acting State Treasurer on January 16, 2008, soon after Governor Jon S. Corzine announced his intention to nominate Mr. Rousseau to be State Treasurer.

Prior to becoming Acting State Treasurer, Mr. Rousseau served as Senior Advisor to the Governor for Budget and Fiscal Policy and as Deputy State Treasurer. In those roles, he worked closely with the Governor and Treasurer in developing and implementing the annual State budget and other fiscal policy issues.

Mr. Rousseau has spent his career working at high levels on the State budget in the Legislative and Executive Branches of New Jersey government.

He served as Deputy State Treasurer from 2002 until 2006 and provided policy guidance to the Governor, Treasurer, and Governor's office on areas related to fiscal and budget policy including taxation issues, property tax relief, and reform. He also oversaw the operations of the Office of Management and Budget and participated in the operations of the Division of Taxation, Division of Pensions and Benefits, and the Office of Public Finance.

Mr. Rousseau was Senior Policy Advisor to the Senate President focusing on the budget before returning to the Treasury Department.

He served as the Budget Director for the Senate Democratic office from 1990 to 2002. He moved to the Senate staff after serving as Research and Project Coordinator for the Election Law Enforcement Commission.

Mr. Rousseau received a bachelor's degree from Temple University where he graduated cum laude. He holds an MBA from Rider University.

Mr. Rousseau is a lifelong Mercer County resident. He lives in Hamilton with his wife and two children. □

CORPORATION BUSINESS TAX

Retroactive NJ S Corporation Election

To provide uniform relief for corporations that have inadvertently failed to make a timely New Jersey S corporation election, the Division of Taxation has adopted procedures (N.J.A.C. 18:7-20.3) that enable a corporation to make a retroactive election to be recognized as a New Jersey S corporation.

Corporations requesting a retroactive election must complete and file a Retroactive S Election Application, Form CBT-2553-R and remit a non-refundable fee of $100 for each tax year affected by the late filing. Form CBT-2553-R must be submitted with Form CBT-2553, New Jersey S Corporation Election, if the corporation does not currently have S corporation status. If New Jersey S corporation status has previously been approved, a copy of the CBT-2553 form that was originally filed with the Division of Revenue must be submitted.

A retroactive election will only be granted if the proper forms and fees are submitted and all of the following criteria are satisfied:

- The corporation is authorized to do business in New Jersey and is registered with the Division of Taxation;
- All appropriate corporation business tax returns have been timely filed and the taxes timely paid as if the New Jersey S corporation election request had been previously approved;

- The completed Retroactive S Election Application is received before any assessment for a year covered by the request becomes final;
- The Division has not denied a previous late-filed New Jersey S election request; and
- All shareholders have filed tax returns, reported the appropriate S corporation income, and paid the related tax in full when due as if the New Jersey S corporation election had been previously approved. □

SALES AND USE TAX

Changes in UEZ Refund Filing Procedure

Beginning February 1, 2008, a new filing procedure took effect for qualified urban enterprise zone businesses claiming a refund of sales tax paid. In addition, P.L. 2007, Chapter 328, which was signed into law on January 13, 2008, and became effective immediately, broadened the exception for small businesses under the urban enterprise zone sales and use tax rebate program. Previously, only qualified businesses with annual gross receipts of less than $1 million were provided a sales tax exemption at the point of purchase when making purchases for their own use in the urban enterprise zone. Businesses with gross receipts of $1 million or more were required to pay the tax and then apply for a rebate of the amount paid. Chapter 328 increased the threshold to include small qualified businesses with less than $3 million in annual gross receipts, thus expanding the number of businesses eligible to obtain the exemption at the time of purchase.

On and after February 1, 2008, businesses still required to pay tax at the time of purchase and apply for a rebate must use the following procedure:

- Complete and file a refund claim on Form A-3730-UEZ.
- Submit a spreadsheet (Form A-3730-UEZ-1) along with Form A-3730-UEZ that lists the individual transactions covered by the refund claim. The method used to submit the spreadsheet depends on the number of transactions included in the claim:

Method 1 – Electronic Spreadsheet (compact disk). Transactions: more than 25.

Method 2 – Manual Spreadsheet (on paper). Transactions: 25 or less.

- Documentation (e.g., invoices, proof of payment) is no longer required to be submitted with the refund claim. However, all supporting documentation must be retained by the taxpayer for a period of not less than 4 years from the postmark date of the claim. The Division reserves the right to request the supporting documentation (including schedules and statements) at any time during the 4-year period for the purpose of examination and verification of the refund.

LOCAL PROPERTY TAX Tax Deductions Certified

The 2007 State Revenue Sharing Act Distribution for senior and disabled persons, surviving spouses, and veterans was delivered to the State Treasurer on September 14, 2007.

Under the provisions of R.S. 54A:10-1 et seq., as amended, the Director of the Division of Taxation certified to the State Treasurer in this report the amount of revenue sharing funds due each municipality on November 1, 2007.

The total amount of property tax deductions for senior and disabled persons and surviving spouses for 2007 was $20,409,862. That amount represents a decrease of 6% from 2006. The total number of property tax deductions for senior and disabled citizens and surviving spouses for 2007 was 78,024. When compared to tax year 2006, the number of deductions decreased 4%.

For tax year 2007, the amount of veterans' deductions was $71,667,069. That amount represents a decrease of 3% from 2006. The total number of veterans' deductions for 2007 was 281,305. When compared to tax year 2006, the number of deductions decreased 3%.

The total amount of property tax deductions and veterans' deductions includes the additional 2% each municipality is reimbursed for administrative costs as a result of P.L. 1997, c.30. □

Public Outreach by Conference & Appeals Branch

Between October 2007 and January 2008, representatives from the Conference and Appeals Branch traveled New Jersey speaking to over 650 tax practitioners at 10 different venues. The presentations, which were aimed at increasing practitioners' familiarity with the Branch's practices and procedures, addressed each potential phase of the administrative appeal cycle, discussing what a taxpayer and/or their representative can and cannot expect.

Some of the topics addressed by the presentations were: time constraints, perfecting your protest, paying your tax liability without conceding to the protested issues, appealing a notice of assessment versus a notice of deficiency, surety, how cases are assigned, when you can expect your case to be assigned, the importance of providing substantiating documentation, tips to help streamline your case, your conference, final determinations, and Tax Court.

The Conference and Appeals Branch looks forward to continuing its public outreach initiatives as it strives to increase the efficiency of the administrative appeal process. If, through your professional affiliation, you would like to invite a representative from the Conference and Appeals Branch to speak to a group of thirty or more taxpayers and/or practitioners, please fax your request to Chief, Conference and Appeals Branch, at 609-324-4094. INHERITANCE/ESTATE TAX

Property Inherited by Domestic/Civil Union Partners

The New Jersey Domestic Partnership Act was signed into law on January 12, 2004, and applies to the estates of decedents dying on or after July 10, 2004. The New Jersey Civil Union Act was signed into law on December 21, 2006, and applies to the estates of decedents dying on or after February 19, 2007.

The Domestic Partnership Act provides that all transfers by will, survivorship, or contract to a surviving domestic partner are exempt from the New Jersey inheritance tax. This includes membership certificates or stock in a cooperative housing corporation and the value of any pension, annuity, retirement allowance, or return of contributions. There is no provision in the Domestic Partnership Act which provides a New Jersey estate tax marital deduction for property passing to a surviving domestic partner.

Section 4 of the Civil Union Act gives civil union couples “all of the same benefits, protections and responsibilities under law, whether they derive from statute, administrative or court rule, public policy, common law or any other source of civil law, as are granted to spouses in a marriage.” Section 5n of the Act provides that “legal benefits, protections and responsibilities of spouses shall apply in like manner to civil union couples” to “laws relating to taxes imposed by the State or a municipality including but not limited to homestead rebate tax allowances, tax deductions based on marital status or exemptions from realty transfer tax based on marital status.” Section 92 of the Act provides that “whenever in any law, rule, regulation, judicial or administrative proceeding or otherwise, reference is made to “marriage,” “husband,” “wife,” “spouse,” “family,” “immediate family,” “dependent,” “next of kin,” “widow,” “widower,” “widowed” or another word which in a specific context denotes a marital or spousal relationship, the same shall include a civil union pursuant to the provisions of this act.” A surviving civil union partner is exempt from the New Jersey inheritance tax. A surviving civil union partner may claim for New Jersey estate tax purposes a marital deduction equal to that permitted a surviving spouse under the provisions of the Internal Revenue Code in effect on December 31, 2001. Small Business Workshops

The Division of Taxation periodically conducts free workshops throughout New Jersey designed to help small businesses better understand their State tax obligations. The seminars are a half day in duration and cover the following topics:

- Business registration
- Meeting employer responsibilities
- Reporting business income
- Filing sales and use tax returns

For more information, including the current workshop schedule, visit the Division's Web site at: www.state.nj.us/treasury/taxation/smallbus.shtml □

Criminal Enforcement

Criminal enforcement over the past several months included:

- On November 14, 2007, a New Jersey State Grand Jury handed up an indictment charging Peter D. Kim, a resident of Franklin Lakes, New Jersey, with theft by failure to make required disposition of taxes in excess of $75,000, the misapplication of taxes in excess of $75,000, and the failure to turn over taxes in excess of $75,000 to the Division of Taxation. Mr. Kim owned and operated Pioneer Automotive, Inc., doing business as Troycar Sales and Leasing, a company involved in the retail sale of used automobiles, for the period beginning April 2000 through January 2005. Taxation investigators monitored the business practices of Troycar for a period of time and determined that the business was not remitting appropriate sales tax. The Office of Criminal Investigation initiated an investigation into the sales tax allegations and determined that Mr. Kim collected over $850,000 in sales tax from Troycar's customers between 2000 and 2004 but failed to remit the entrusted funds. Mr. Kim fled the country in early 2005 and an arrest warrant has been issued.
- On November 15, 2007, Hazem Abuali pled guilty in Union City Municipal Court to possession of contraband cigarettes (N.J.S.A. 54:52-18), transportation of contraband cigarettes (N.J.S.A. 54:40A-32), failure upon delivery to examine and return cigarettes not bearing the required New Jersey revenue stamp (N.J.S.A. 54:40A-25), and liability for the tobacco products wholesale sales and use tax (N.J.S.A. 54:40B-5). On October 29, 2007, special agents of the Office of Criminal Investigation arrested Hazem Abuali of Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, an unlicensed distributor, at a North Jersey location and charged him with various offenses, including possession and transportation of contraband cigarettes. Confiscated at the time of arrest were cigarettes, cigars, and currency. The currency was forfeited to the State of New Jersey.

- On December 3, 2007, Christopher Nemeth, 40, of Stewartsville, his live-in girlfriend, Marisol Garcia, 37, and their company, Nemeth Enterprises Inc., were indicted by a State Grand Jury in a four-count indictment charging them with second-degree conspiracy, second-degree misapplication of government property, third-degree failure to file State quarterly payroll tax returns, and third-degree failure to pay or turn over $207,000 in State payroll taxes on behalf of their employees. Nemeth runs the paving company from his home with Garcia's help. The company formerly did business as Nemeth Asphalt Paving Company, but the couple incorporated a successor entity, Nemeth Enterprises Inc., in Pennsylvania in 2006, with Garcia as sole owner and officer, in an alleged effort to avoid New Jersey auditors. The indictment alleges that from 1999 through the second quarter of 2007 the defendants failed to pay the State $207,003.57 in payroll taxes. The sum includes $62,603.77 collected from employee wages $40,038.78 in gross income taxes and $22,564.99 in taxes for the State's unemployment and disability insurance funds (UI/DI taxes) which the defendants were required to hold in trust until remitted to the State. It also includes $144,399.80 in required employer UI/DI taxes. Throughout that period, the defendants failed to file payroll tax returns, which must be filed quarterly with the Division of Taxation, and employer wage reports, which must be filed annually with the Department of Labor and Workforce Development. Nemeth routinely employed 10 to 12 workers who were laid off during the winter months, resulting in workers filing unemployment claims. The Department of Labor and Workforce Development paid out more than $100,000 in unemployment benefits to Nemeth's workers during the years in question despite the fact that the company made no contributions to the unemployment insurance fund. Since 2004, the defendants have repeatedly resisted and evaded the State's efforts to compel the company to file wage reports and payroll tax returns, remit employee withholding taxes, and pay UI/DI taxes. The charges stem from a joint investigation by the Department of Labor and Workforce Development and the Division of Taxation and were presented to the State Grand Jury by the Division of Criminal Justice.

- On December 7, 2007, Terry Tolbert, supplier of contraband cigarettes to various retail locations, was sentenced to a three-year term in State prison and taken into custody by the Union County Sheriff's Office. Previously, Tolbert had pled guilty to third-degree possession of cigarettes in the quantity equal to or greater than 2,000, to which are affixed counterfeit New Jersey revenue stamps, a violation of N.J.S.A. 54:40A-29c, and fourth-degree selling cigarettes not bearing the required revenue stamp in violation of N.J.S.A. 54:40A-28. Mr. Tolbert was a salesman for Tobacco Express, an unlicensed and illegitimate company, whose sole business appears to be the selling of contraband cigarettes. The investigation into the entire business operation continues. Federal authorities are now providing assistance.

- On December 13, 2007, Peter Zarycki, 41, of Forked River, was ordered to serve four years in State prison. Earlier, in September 2007, he pled guilty to two counts of failure to file a tax return and failure to pay tax in addition to ten counts of official misconduct. Peter Zarycki, a 17-year veteran of the Ocean County Department of Corrections, was charged with official misconduct in connection with the 2005 disappearance of $78,145 in funds found to be missing from inmate bail accounts. This was a joint investigation with the Ocean County Prosecutor's Office.

- On December 17, 2007, Rosa M. Castro, 51, and her boyfriend, Rafael E. Ramos, 51, pled guilty to charges contained in a March 29, 2007, State Grand Jury indictment. Castro pled guilty to third-degree theft by deception and third-degree money laundering. Ramos pled guilty to third-degree conspiracy. In pleading guilty, Castro admitted to filing 46 fraudulent New Jersey gross income tax returns between March and December of 2006. She allegedly received 22 refund checks from the Division of Taxation totaling $15,209 and four homestead rebate checks totaling $865. Ramos admitted that he allowed Castro to deposit the checks into two bank accounts that he maintained. This was a joint investigation with the Major Crimes Bureau of the Division of Criminal Justice.

- On December 21, 2007, Anant Patel, 46, of Roxbury, was ordered to serve 15 years in State prison and pay $1.4 million in restitution. Harold Stamateris, 47, of Basking Ridge, was ordered to serve 10 years in State prison and pay $3.7 million in restitution. In October 2007, Anant Patel, a former consultant to Jersey Central Power & Light (JCP&L), pled guilty in connection with a theft of $11.5 million from a State energy rebate program. Patel pled guilty to charges of second-degree money laundering and second-degree theft. The investigation revealed that Patel conspired with two other men to obtain $11.5 million in payments for bogus or inflated applications under the New Jersey Smart Start Buildings Program, which offers rebates to companies that install more efficient lighting or HVAC systems. Patel was hired by JCP&L as a consultant to inspect and verify installation work under the program. Patel admitted that he signed off on work that was never performed and also created a number of bogus contracting and consulting companies to submit false invoices under the program. He admitted he laundered fraudulent rebate checks using a number of bank accounts. The investigation revealed that Patel conspired with Harold Stamateris, who managed the rebate program for JCP&L and was responsible for approving rebate applications. Stamateris pled guilty on February 6, 2007, to first-degree conspiracy, admitting he knowingly signed off on the fraudulent rebates. Patel and Stamateris carried out the fraudulent scheme with an electrical contractor, William D. Eaton Jr., 56, of Caldwell, who fatally shot himself on January 30, 2007, after his arrest in this case. The case was referred to the Division of Criminal Justice by JCP&L's internal audit group. The case was investigated by the Division of Criminal Justice – Major Financial Crimes Bureau and the Office of Criminal Investigation with assistance from JCP&L auditors.

- On February 6, 2008, Rosa Victoria Rivera (a.k.a. Vicky Roczana Rivera-Peralta), 40, of Lyndhurst, was sentenced to ten years in State prison by Superior Court Judge Thomas P. Kelly in Mercer County. The judge also sentenced Rivera's co-defendant and former boyfriend, John Arturo Perez Silva (a.k.a. John Perez), 39, of Belleville, to three years in State prison. On December 7, 2007, Rivera pled guilty to first-degree conspiracy to commit money laundering and theft by deception. Silva pled guilty to second-degree conspiracy. They agreed to pay full restitution to the State. Rivera and Silva admitted that between February 6, 2004, and July 11, 2006, they, along with Rivera's son, Wilson Armando Piños Rivera (a.k.a. Wilson Piños), 21, filed 540 fraudulent tax returns. About 400 of the returns were filed electronically and the remaining returns were filed on paper. A majority of the refund checks were mailed to mailbox drops leased by either Rivera or her co-defendants. More than 275 checks totaling $828,272 were deposited in bank accounts maintained by Rivera or Silva, which the defendants allegedly used to pay personal expenses. Rivera admitted that more than $500,000 in checks was deposited into accounts she maintained. The

Business Listed on a State Contract

— The Division responded to an inquiry concerning whether a business that is “listed on the State contract” used by a contracting (government) agency must provide a Business Registration Certificate (BRC) to the agency. P.L. 2004, c.57, effective September 1, 2004, applies to goods and services sold by a business organization to the principal departments in the executive branch of the State government and any division, board, bureau, office, commission, or other instrumentality within or created by such department, or any independent State authority, commission, instrumentality or agency, or any State college or university, any county college, or any local unit such as county or municipal government, including any contracting unit as defined elsewhere in the law. The law requires that for all such transactions, the business organization must provide the contracting agency with proof of business registration, which the Divisions of Taxation and Revenue in the Department of the Treasury, and the Division of Local Government Services in the Department of Community Affairs have determined to be the BRC issued by the Division of Revenue. Accordingly, the question to be answered is not whether the business organization is “listed on the State contract,” but whether it has a BRC. In any event, it must forward a copy of its BRC to the agency before the agency can contract with it.

Corporation Business Tax

IRC §1231 Capital Loss — For New Jersey corporation business tax purposes, a corporation’s net income is based on the corporation’s Federal taxable income without deductions for net operating losses and other special deductions subject to certain adjustments. The Corporation Business Tax Act does not address the characterization of certain gains or losses as subject to tax. N.J.S.A. 54:10A-4(k); N.J.A.C. 18:7-5.1(b).

The IRC §1231 loss is determined using Federal Form 4797 and the result is entered on Line 9 of Federal Form 1120. (New Jersey allows the IRC §1231 loss and has not decoupled from it.)

Since the amounts reported on Lines 1–28 of Schedule A, Form CBT-100 must be the same as the amounts reported on Lines 1–28 of Form 1120, any deduction from Federal corporate income taken above Line 28 on Form 1120 automatically flows through to Form CBT-100.

Therefore, there is no line on the CBT-100 to note the IRC §1231 loss since that deduction was already taken in calculating the Federal income on Form 1120, which automatically flows through to the CBT-100 tax return.

Short Period Allocation for Foreign Corporations

— If a taxpayer is required to file a return covering an accounting period of less than 12 months, an adjustment of entire net income may be required under N.J.A.C. 18:7-12.1. A short period return is required if a foreign corporation acquires a taxable status in New Jersey after the commencement of its Federal accounting period, and its New Jersey corporation business tax return covers a period less than the accounting period reported on the Federal income tax return.

The proration procedures indicate that when a foreign corporation has a short period return that covers a period other than the accounting period reported for Federal income tax purposes, the adjusted entire net income (line 38 of Schedule A) is divided by the number of calendar months, or part of a month, covered by the Federal income tax return, and the result is multiplied by the number of calendar months, or part of a month, covered by the short period return.

If a taxpayer is entitled and elects to allocate less than the full amount of its entire net income to New Jersey, the allocation fractions must reflect, both in the numerator and denominator, only the period covered by the short period return. This would be reflected on Schedule J, Part III (computation of allocation factor). For treatment of allocation on a short period return, see N.J.A.C. 18:7-12.3.

Cosmetic Medical Procedures Gross Receipts Tax

Cosmetic Dental Procedures — The Division has received several inquiries from dental offices regarding the taxability of various cosmetic dental procedures and cosmetic dental supplies sold by dentists.

The sales and use tax, imposed under N.J.S.A. 54:32B-1 et seq., and the cosmetic medical procedures gross receipts tax (CMPGRT), imposed under N.J.S.A. 54:32E-1, are two separate and distinct taxes. A transaction may be subject to sales tax or to CMPGRT or to neither tax, but cannot be subject to both.

If a dentist offers teeth whitening (solely for cosmetic purposes), those charges for teeth whitening are subject to the 6% CMPGRT only if the dentist actually performs the procedure in the dental office or clinic. If, instead, the dentist sells the patient a teeth whitening kit for the patient to use at home, the sale of the bleaching supplies is subject to 7% sales tax, to be collected and remitted by the dentist. However, since the dentist has not performed the bleaching procedure on the patient, there is no receipt for a cosmetic medical procedure on which the CMPGRT can be imposed.

Teeth whitening is currently the most common cosmetic medical procedure performed by dentists and subject to the CMPGRT. Numerous dental procedures that may improve a patient's appearance are not subject to the CMPGRT if their primary purpose is to correct congenital or developmental abnormalities or damage caused by trauma or illness. For example, charges for reconstructive dental surgery, orthodontic services, and the installation of dental implants to replace missing teeth are not subject to the CMPGRT, even though these services effect an improvement in patients' appearance. (Generally, these charges will also be deductible as medical expenses for Federal income tax purposes.) Similarly, veneers or bonding procedures are not subject to the CMPGRT unless done solely for cosmetic purposes.

A veneer is a thin covering of the facial surface of a tooth usually constructed of a tooth colored material (like porcelain or ceramic) used to restore discolored, damaged, misshapen, or misaligned teeth. Together with crowns, composite restorations, and amalgam restorations, veneers are recognized as restorative procedures and commonly are covered by insurance. Veneers are placed by removing a thin layer of tooth structure and then bonding the laminate to the tooth. Bonding is considered to be a restorative procedure. It is a process by which two or more components are made integral by mechanical and/or chemical adhesion at their interface. Bonding also involves removing a thin layer

Hotel/Motel Occupancy Fee
Complimentary Hotel Rooms — See Sales and Use Tax.

Sales and Use Tax
Complimentary Hotel Rooms — The occupancy of a room in a hotel or motel in this State is subject to New Jersey sales tax. N.J.S.A. 54:32B-3(d). A State occupancy fee is imposed on charges for the rental of a room in a hotel, motel, or similar facility. In addition, certain municipalities are authorized to enact a municipal occupancy tax.

However, sales tax and the hotel/motel occupancy fee and municipal occupancy tax are not imposed on a room that is provided to a guest as a “complimentary.” If the room is partially comped and the guest pays a reduced rental charge, sales tax and the hotel/motel occupancy fee and municipal occupancy tax are imposed on the amount actually paid by the guest.

For more information on the hotel/motel occupancy fee and municipal occupancy tax, see: www.state.nj.us/treasury/taxation/hotelfee.shtml

Cosmetic Dental Procedures — See Cosmetic Medical Procedures Gross Receipts Tax.

Sales Price Includes Reimbursed Expenses — The definition of the taxable sales price is set forth at N.J.S.A. 54:32B-2(o)(1) which states that:

- (1) Sales price is the measure subject to sales tax and means the total amount of consideration, including cash, credit, property, and services, for which personal property or services are sold, leased, or rented, valued in money, whether received in money or otherwise, without any deduction for the following:

- (A) The seller’s cost of the property sold;
- (B) The cost of materials used, labor or service cost, interest, losses, all costs of transportation to the seller, all taxes imposed on the seller, and any other expense of the seller;...

For example, a repairman incurs mileage, toll, and lodging expenses as part of travelling to the customer’s location to perform a taxable repair service. When he purchases the lodging, the repairman will pay sales tax, hotel/motel occupancy fee and, if applicable, municipal occupancy tax. Tolls and gasoline are not subject to sales tax.

When these expenses are passed along to the customer, they become part of the sales price, regardless of whether they are included in a lump-sum charge for the repair service or separately itemized to the customer. If the transaction is for a service that is exempt from sales tax, then the reimbursed expenses would not be subject to tax. If the transaction is for a service that is subject to sales tax, then the reimbursed expenses would be subject to tax.

Temporary Fencing For Livestock Farms — The Division was asked whether a livestock farmer’s purchase of temporary fencing material qualifies for the farming use exemption under N.J.S.A. 54:32B-8.16, which exempts “receipts from sales of tangible personal property and production and conservation services to a farmer for use and consumption directly and primarily in the production, handling and preservation for sale of agricultural or horticultural commodities at the farming enterprise of that farmer,” with certain exceptions set forth in the provision.

The farmer, who raises cattle for sale, explained that the fencing material consists of a roll of wire, metal or fiberglass posts, an electrical charger, and an insulator. The fencing is secured in place with the posts.

The fencing, once installed, controls the farmer's cattle while they are grazing. It is easily removed and re-installed in a new location when the pasture needs to be rotated. Thus, it is a tool for managing the way the cattle feed.

Based on the way this temporary fencing is used on the purchaser's farm, it is deemed to be farm equipment used directly and primarily in producing cattle (an agricultural commodity) for sale. Therefore, it qualifies for exemption under N.J.S.A. 54:32B-8.16. The farmer should give the supplier a properly completed Farmer's Exemption Certificate, Form ST-7, when purchasing the fencing material.

The fence is temporary, easily moved, and in fact is moved every time the pasture is rotated. It is not a building or structure, and therefore materials used to construct it are not excluded from the exemption under N.J.S.A. 54:32B-8.16b(3). Temporary fencing materials purchased by other kinds of farmers will not necessarily qualify for exemption. The livestock farmer's entitlement to exemption is based on the specific purpose that the fencing serves in the raising of cattle for sale.

Voice Over Internet Protocol (VoIP) — The Division responded to an inquiry regarding the taxability of voice over Internet protocol (VoIP).

The Sales and Use Tax Act defines "telecommunications" as "the act or privilege of originating or receiving messages or information through the use of any kind of one-way or two-way communication; including but not limited to voice..., computer..., using electronic or electromagnetic methods, and all services and equipment provided in connection therewith...." N.J.S.A. 54:32B-2(cc).

Retail sales of telecommunications services sourced to this State are subject to New Jersey sales tax based upon the customer's place of primary use. N.J.S.A. 54:32B-3(f); N.J.S.A. 54:32B-3.4(b). "Place of primary use" is defined as "the street address representative of where the customer's use of the telecommunications service primarily occurs, which shall be the residential street address or the primary business street address of the customer...."

Whether voice over Internet services are viewed as voice transmissions by other than traditional means or as data transmissions, the service falls within the Sales and Use Tax Act's definition of telecommunications. Therefore, VoIP service is subject to New Jersey sales tax for services sourced to this State.

Legislation enacted in 2004 (P.L. 2004, c.48) imposed a "9-1-1 System and Emergency Response Assessment" fee of $.90 to be charged for each voice grade access service line provided as part of a telephone exchange service and each mobile telephone number. Telephone exchange service includes VoIP service as well as cable telephony. Thus, each periodic bill for VoIP service must include the $.90 fee. □

In Our Courts

Gross Income Tax

Reporting of Income in the Proper Category – Michael & Helen Kaplan v. Director, Division of Taxation, Docket No. 000032-2006, and Morris & Sandra Lisman-Kaplan v. Director, Division of Taxation, Docket No. 000039-2006, decided January 8, 2008.

In a published opinion, Judge Kuskin affirmed the Director's assessment.

Michael and Morris Kaplan were partners in a rental real estate partnership. Upon liquidation, the rental real estate partnership distributed properties individually to the Kaplans. Michael and Morris Kaplan received these properties as single-member limited liability companies (LLC).

The Kaplans maintained their single-member LLC designations on the distributed partnership properties in order to attain favorable capital gains treatment on their Federal income tax returns.

Prior to 2002, the Kaplans identified two Georgia properties for acquisition. The Kaplans entered into an IRC Section 1031 tax-free exchange of property. The Kaplans' accountant and attorney advised them that in order to comply with IRC §1031 and the regulations thereunder, ownership of the Georgia properties in their individual capacities was required because the properties the taxpayers were exchanging were owned by them individually.

The Kaplans reported the losses from their Georgia properties on their New Jersey gross income tax returns as net gains or net income derived from or in the form of rents, royalties, patents, and copyrights. The taxpayers improperly reported and netted partnership income against the rental losses.

The taxpayers were sent notices of deficiency denying the improper netting of partnership income against rental income losses. For New Jersey gross income tax, partnership income per N.J.S.A. 54A:5-1k must be reported in the category of income, distributive share of partnership income.

The taxpayers filed complaints in Tax Court challenging the Division's assessment. After the taxpayers filed their complaints, they claimed that their holding of the Georgia properties should really be considered a partnership LLC, not a single-member LLC, because the brothers Kaplan had arranged many of their business affairs in this manner, a tenancy in common had been established, and the business affairs of the Georgia properties were operated as if they were a partnership. This designation has impact on the Kaplans' New Jersey resident tax returns, since, if the ownership of the Georgia apartments was considered a partnership, the rental loss from the Georgia properties would be allowed to be netted against partnership income in the category distributive share of partnership income. Conversely, a designation as single-member LLC would require that the Kaplans report the rental losses from the Georgia apartments in the net gains or net income derived from or in the form of rents, royalties, patents, and copyrights category, thus denying the opportunity to net any of the losses from the Georgia apartments against any of the Kaplans' other taxable New Jersey income.

N.J.A.C. 18:35-1.3(a)(1) states:

Only entities that qualify for and elect to be treated as partnerships for federal tax purposes and are in business shall be treated as partnerships under the Gross Income Tax Act.

In rendering its decision, the Court opined:

Plaintiffs seek the benefit of two different theories of taxation applied simultaneously. They wish to preserve, for tax years 2002 and 2003, their individual ownership status with respect to the Georgia partnership in order to preserve their qualification for a tax free exchange under IRC § 1031, while demanding that the Director treat the very same ownership entities as partnerships in order to enable plaintiffs to realize a tax benefit under the Gross Income Tax Act. Plaintiffs cannot have it both ways.

The Court underscored the general rule that New Jersey gross income must be reported in the proper category as defined in N.J.S.A. 54A:5-1. □

Professional Conduct of Tax Preparers — P.L. 2007, c.258, enacted on January 11, 2008, and effective April 1, 2008, imposes certain standards for the professional conduct of tax preparers and penalties for violation of those standards. This Act is administered by the Department of Banking and Insurance.

Corporation Business Tax

Credit for Digital Media Content Production — P.L. 2007, c.257, enacted on January 11, 2008, and effective immediately, establishes a corporation business tax credit for 20 percent of the expenses of producing certain digital media content in New Jersey. The Act sets a limit on the combined total value of credits a business may claim for digital media content creation and film production credits. It also specifies that a business claiming tax credits for job creation for digital media production may not base its claim on job creation that is used as a basis for other types of grants or tax credits under the State's other business incentive and grant programs.

Urban Transit Hub Tax Credit Act

— P.L. 2007, c.346, enacted on January 13, 2008, and effective immediately, establishes a tax credit program for businesses that engage in certain kinds of capital investments and increases in full-time employment in urban rail transit hubs. Urban transit hubs include property within a half-mile radius of the midpoint of a New Jersey Transit Corporation, Port Authority Transit Corporation, or Port Authority Trans-Hudson Corporation rail station platform area. Gross Income Tax

Checkoff for New Jersey Veterans Haven Support Fund — P.L. 2007, c.233, enacted on January 3, 2008, effective immediately, and applicable to taxable years beginning on or after January 1, 2008, establishes a New Jersey Veterans Haven Support Fund and allows taxpayers to make contributions to this fund through an option on the individual gross income tax return.

Urban Transit Hub Tax Credit Act — P.L. 2007, c.346. See Corporation Business Tax.

Environmental Taxes and Fees

Recycling Tax and Expiration of Solid Waste Services Tax — P.L. 2007, c.311, enacted on January 13, 2008, imposes a $3-per-ton recycling tax, effective immediately, on solid waste accepted for disposal or transfer at a solid waste facility as well as on solid waste collected by a solid waste collector that transports solid waste for transshipment or direct transportation to an out-of-State disposal site. In addition, the Act provided for expiration of the solid waste services tax on February 1, 2008. Recycling tax revenues are deposited in the State Recycling Fund, administered by the Department of Environmental Protection, and used for the purposes enumerated in the Act.

Electronic Waste Management Act — P.L. 2007, c.347, enacted on January 13, 2008, and effective immediately, establishes a recycling system for used electronic devices and components. It establishes a Used Television Recycling and Management Program Fund in the Department of the Treasury, administered by the Department of Environmental Protection, and containing funds generated by registration fees and market share payments to be paid by manufacturers.

Local Property Tax

Assessment Appeal Deadlines — P.L. 2007, c.256, enacted January 11, 2008, and effective immediately, changes the deadline for appeals of certain property tax assessments. When there has been a municipality-wide revaluation or reassessment, a taxpayer or taxing district may appeal to the county board of taxation on or before May 1, or if the assessed value of the property exceeds $750,000, may instead file a complaint directly with the State Tax Court.

Short-Term Property Tax Exemptions and Abatements — P.L. 2007, c.268, enacted on January 13, 2008, and effective immediately, permits short-term property tax exemptions to begin immediately following the completion of a project instead of in the next tax year following the tax year when the project was completed.

Property Tax Exemption for Spouses of Disabled Veterans — P.L. 2007, c.317, enacted January 13, 2008, and effective immediately, allows the surviving spouse of a disabled veteran to claim a property tax exemption when the veteran's disability declaration was granted after death.

Calculation of Reserve for Uncollected Property Taxes — P.L. 2007, c.344, enacted January 13, 2008, and effective immediately, lowers the threshold for Tax Court and county tax board judgments against municipalities by changing the method of calculation of the reserve for uncollected taxes.

Local Taxes and Fees

Changes in Local Payroll Tax Provisions — P.L. 2007, c.294, enacted January 13, 2008, and effective immediately, amends the Local Tax Authorization Act to permit municipalities that impose payroll taxes by ordinance to enact ordinances allowing the assessment of interest charges on delinquent payroll taxes owed to the municipality.

Municipal Special Event Parking Surcharge — P.L. 2007, c.296, enacted January 13, 2008, and effective immediately, authorizes municipalities to enact ordinances imposing a 7% "special event" parking tax surcharge on charges for parking, garaging, or storing motor vehicles for special events held in the municipality on weekday evenings, weekends, and holidays.

Municipal Surcharge on Charges for Admission to Major Places of Amusement — P.L. 2007, c.302, enacted on January 13, 2008, and effective immediately, authorizes municipalities to adopt ordinances imposing a 5% surcharge on admission charges to certain major places of amusement that are also subject to New Jersey sales tax pursuant to N.J.S.A. 54:32B-3(e)(1). The surcharge is to be collected by the same people who collect the admission charges from customers, who must then remit the surcharges collected and submit monthly tax returns reporting the surcharge to the Division of Taxation. Revenue from this surcharge collected in each municipality is distributed to each municipality by the State Treasurer.

Miscellaneous

Charity Care Fraud Prevention and Detection Act — P.L. 2007, c.217, enacted on December 20, 2007, and effective January 19, 2008, establishes procedures to prevent fraud and correct mistakes in the charity health care system. This Act provides that the State Treasurer and the Commissioner of Health and Senior Services will establish an interagency agreement under which the Division of Taxation will conduct random checks of personal State income tax returns filed by individuals who have been determined to be eligible for charity health care.

Extension of Eligibility of Business Relocation and Retention Tax Credits — P.L. 2007, c.310, enacted January 13, 2008, and effective immediately, amends the Business Retention and Relocation Assistance Act. It extends eligibility for “tax credits” to businesses relocating at least 50 full-time jobs from existing locations within this State to new locations in this State. Previously, the threshold for eligibility was that an employer relocate 250 jobs. The “tax credits” are granted by the Commerce and Economic Growth Commission.

Motor Fuels Tax

Penalties for Motor Fuel Sale Violations — P.L. 2007, c.221, enacted January 3, 2008, and effective on that date, increases the monetary penalties for violations of the law governing retail sales of motor fuels.

Sales and Use Tax

Changes in Urban Enterprise Zone Sales Tax Rebate Program — P.L. 2007, c.328, enacted on January 13, 2008, and effective immediately, amends the definition of “small business” applicable to the UEZ sales tax rebate program by raising the maximum annual gross receipts threshold from less than $1 million to less than $3 million. “Small businesses” are an exception to the requirement that qualified UEZ businesses claiming exemption from sales tax on purchases for their own use in the zone must first pay the tax at the point of purchase and then apply for a refund of the tax paid. “Small businesses,” as defined in the Act, may instead claim the exemption at the point of sale. □

Tax Calendar

The following three calendars provide listings of filing and payment dates for tax year 2007 (January 1, 2007 – December 31, 2007) and tax year 2008 (January 1, 2008 – December 31, 2008) for businesses and individuals:

- Chronological List of Filing Deadlines — This calendar is for use by both businesses and individuals. What's New for Tax Year 2007

There have been some important changes affecting the preparation of New Jersey income tax returns and applications for New Jersey's property tax relief programs this year:

Income Tax

- Practitioners' E-File Mandate — Tax practitioners who prepared 50 or more 2006 New Jersey resident income tax returns must use one of the New Jersey electronic methods (NJ WebFile or NJ E-File) to file all 2007 New Jersey resident income tax returns. A tax preparer is liable for a penalty of $50 for each return he or she fails to file electronically when required to do so. A list of links to materials relating to this requirement appears on page 7.
- Earned Income Tax Credit — Eligibility for the New Jersey Earned Income Tax Credit (NJEITC) has been expanded so that all taxpayers who are eligible and file for a Federal earned income credit can also receive a New Jersey credit in the amount equal to 20% of their Federal benefit. Previously, eligible applicants had to have New Jersey gross income of $20,000 or less and at least one qualifying child.

For tax year 2008 and thereafter, the percentage used to calculate the NJEITC will increase as follows: For tax year 2008 the amount of the New Jersey credit will be equal to 22.5% of the applicant's Federal earned income credit. The amount will increase to 25% of the Federal earned income credit for tax year 2009 and thereafter.

- Pension Exclusion Line Moved — Eligible taxpayers will now claim the New Jersey Pension Exclusion on Line 27a after calculating their total taxable income (before exclusions) on Line 26. This change will make it easier for filers to determine whether or not they meet the income requirement for the Pension and Other Retirement Income Exclusions (total income for the entire year of $100,000 or less).
- Credit for Taxes Paid to Other Jurisdictions — Jurisdiction Code. Resident taxpayers who claim a credit for taxes paid to other jurisdictions are now required to enter a two-digit code for the jurisdiction for which they are claiming a credit at Line 39, Form NJ-1040. A list of jurisdiction codes appears in the NJ-1040 instruction booklet.

Philadelphia Wage Tax Rate. The nonresident wage tax rate for 2007 is 3.7557%.

Property Tax Relief Programs

- Homestead Rebate Program — The Homestead Rebate Program provides rebates for New Jersey homeowners and tenants who meet the eligibility requirements. How you apply for the rebate is determined by whether you were a homeowner or tenant on October 1, 2007. Homeowners and tenants file different applications.

Benefits available under this program are subject to change.

Tenants who meet the eligibility requirements use the application in the New Jersey income tax return packet, Form TR-1040, to apply for the homestead rebate for tenants.

Homeowners do not use the application in the income tax return packet. Applications for the homeowner rebate are expected to be mailed in the spring, and homeowners will apply either online or by phone. More information will be posted to our Web site as it becomes available.

- Property Tax Reimbursement — Income Limits. Residents applying for reimbursements for tax year 2007 must have total annual income less than:

- 2007: $45,135 if single, or $55,344 (combined income) if married or in a civil union, and
- 2006: $43,693 if single, or $53,576 (combined income) if married.

Benefits available under this program are subject to change.

Civil Unions

- The Civil Union Act (P.L. 2006, c.103) established civil unions in New Jersey for couples of the same sex. Effective for tax years beginning on or after January 1, 2007, partners to a civil union recognized under New Jersey law must file their New Jersey income tax returns and property tax relief program applications using the same filing statuses accorded spouses under New Jersey Gross Income Tax Law.

Package NJX Discontinued

- Package NJX has been discontinued for tax year 2007 and after. Most New Jersey tax forms are available online. □

INHERITANCE/ESTATE TAX Estate Tax Filing Requirements

The New Jersey estate tax is based on the credit for state death taxes allowable under the provisions of the Internal Revenue Code in effect on December 31, 2001. The credit calculation includes all of a decedent's property wherever it may be located. The amount of the New Jersey estate tax is the maximum credit that would have been allowable under the provisions of the Internal Revenue Code in effect on December 31, 2001, against the Federal estate tax that would have been payable under the provisions of the Internal Revenue Code in effect on December 31, 2001. In determining the New Jersey estate tax, the Federal estate tax that would have been payable in 2001 and not the Federal estate tax that is actually paid must be used.

N.J.S.A. 54:38-7 requires that a copy of any estate tax return filed with the Federal government for the year of a decedent's death must be filed with the Division of Taxation. Additionally, the statute requires that when the Form 706 Method is used, a 2001 Federal Form 706 must be completed and filed with the Division. The 2001 Federal estate tax return and instructions are available on the Division's Web site at: www.state.nj.us/treasury/taxation/prntinh.shtml

As an alternative to filing a 2001 Federal estate tax return (Form 706 Method) the New Jersey Simplified Tax System may be used in certain cases. The Simplified Tax System is not designed for use in all situations. It cannot be used in cases where a Federal tax return is filed or required to be filed with the Internal Revenue Service. The Simplified Tax System may be used only in situations where it produces a tax liability similar to the tax liability produced using the Form 706 Method. The purpose of the Simplified Tax System is to enable a taxpayer to calculate the amount of tax notwithstanding the lack or paucity of information for compliance due to such factors as the absence of an estate valuation made for Federal estate tax purposes or the absence of a measure of the impact of gifts made during the lifetime of a decedent.

The tax as computed is reduced by the portion of the tax that is attributable to property located outside New Jersey. This generally includes real and tangible personal property located in another jurisdiction. Intangible personal property is normally deemed for tax purposes to be located in New Jersey regardless of where it is actually located.

Criminal Enforcement

Criminal enforcement over the past several months included:

- On June 8, 2007, Bao T. Van pled guilty to possession of contraband cigarettes and failure to obtain a cigarette license. This plea resulted from the May 7 seizure of 90.9 cartons of contraband cigarettes found at a business located at 2844 Kennedy Boulevard in Jersey City, New Jersey, during a compliance inspection. Of the total seized, 36.2 cartons were counterfeit-stamped cigarettes. It was also discovered that the business's cigarette license had expired. Van was fined a total of $2,928.50.
- On August 13, 2007, a Monmouth County Grand Jury returned a 21-count indictment charging Marie L. Carty, 63; her daughter, Lauren M. Carty Reid, 30; and son-in-law, Christopher Reid, 38, of Little Silver, with failure to pay taxes and failure to file taxes, third-degree crimes, in addition to multiple counts of second-degree theft by deception, theft by failure to make required disposition, conspiracy, misconduct by a corporate official, misapplication of entrusted property, third-degree theft by deception, receiving stolen property, bad checks and fraudulent use of a credit card, and fourth-degree making a false statement in procuring the issuance of a credit card. The investigation was initiated by the Monmouth County Prosecutor's Office concerning the alleged misappropriation of funds in the amount of $972,724.45 belonging to the Wellington Place Condominium Association located in Aberdeen, New Jersey.

- On August 29, 2007, Charles Hines of South Toms River, New Jersey, pled guilty to possession of untaxed cigarettes and failure to obtain a consumer's license. Earlier, on January 9, 2007, the Office of Criminal Investigation took possession of 53 cartons of Delaware-stamped cigarettes from Hines, who purchased the cigarettes from a Delaware retail business and, as a service to New Jersey site coworkers, was selling them to the coworkers for the price paid. He was fined a total of $684.

- On September 12, 2007, Peter Zarycki, 41, of Forked River, pled guilty to two counts of failure to file a tax return and failure to pay tax in addition to ten counts of official misconduct. This plea came as a result of a 12-count indictment handed up in February 2007. Peter Zarycki, a 17-year veteran of the Ocean County Department of Corrections, was charged with official misconduct in connection with the 2005 disappearance of $78,145 in funds found to be missing from inmate bail accounts. This is a joint investigation with the Ocean County Prosecutor's Office. The prosecutor expects that Peter Zarycki will do jail time.

- On September 20, 2007, Thuy Mai t/a L & T Liquors of Jersey City, New Jersey, pled guilty to possession of untaxed cigarettes and was fined $1,155 in the Jersey City Municipal Court. A total of 65.8 cartons of contraband cigarettes were seized. The subject was also assessed a $1,645 civil penalty for unlawful contraband possession. A total of $2,800 was paid by the subject.
- Fugitive Paul Sarris, formerly of Jersey City, was taken into custody in New York on September 28, 2007. He was arrested as a result of domestic violence charges and has waived extradition. Sarris will eventually be brought to New Jersey and arraigned in a homestead rebate theft case. He has been at large since being indicted in February 2007 and was thought to be out of the country.

Sarris was one of six defendants indicted on February 5, 2007, by a State Grand Jury on charges of first-degree conspiracy, first-degree money laundering, and second-degree theft by deception. The defendants, all Jersey City residents, including five members of one family, are Paul Sarris, 50; Achilles "Butz" Amante, 55; his sister, Matilda Amante Ramos, 56; and his three sons, Aristides Amante, 27, Amorito "Angelo" A. Amante, 33, and Aloysius M. Amante, 31. The six were indicted on charges they conspired to steal $573,383 from the State by filing fraudulent applications for 745 homestead rebate checks.

The investigation revealed that Matilda Amante Ramos ran a travel agency while all of the other defendants operated their own financial service companies offering tax preparation services. Between August 2001 and September 2003, the six defendants allegedly filed 745 false homestead rebate applications with the State of New Jersey, including multiple applications for each of 15 residential and commercial addresses they rented in Jersey City. The defendants allegedly filed the applications using names and social security numbers obtained from tax preparation clients without permission. The defendants allegedly laundered the $573,383 in stolen funds by depositing the rebate checks in various commercial bank accounts maintained for their businesses.

State investigators from the Division of Criminal Justice – Major Financial Crimes Bureau, assisted by agents from the U.S. Social Security Administration and the Jersey City Police Department, arrested Matilda Amante Ramos, Aristides Amante, and Angelo Amante in Jersey City and Aloysius M. Amante in Somerville. All four have entered plea agreements and await sentencing. Achilles "Butz" Amante remains at large and is believed to be out of the country. This was a joint investigation with the Division of Criminal Justice.

- On October 12, 2007, D. Manasher, President of Star Global Financial Incorporated, was admitted to a Pre-Trial Intervention Program (PTI) under the condition that he continues to make timely payments for past sales tax liabilities owed to the State of New Jersey. As part of the agreement, Manasher is required to make 12 monthly installments to satisfy the outstanding liability. On August 14, 2007, Manasher pled guilty to one count of theft by failure to make a required disposition of property received in the amount of $8,106.04 in regards to New Jersey sales tax. Manasher also pled guilty to one count of failure to file corporation business tax returns for tax years 2003 through 2005. Star Global Financial Incorporated is a used car dealer located in Jersey City, New Jersey. This business utilizes the Web site eBay Motors to generate a large portion of their vehicle sales. This matter was a joint investigation with the New Jersey State Police Cyber Crimes Unit and the New Jersey Division of Taxation's Office of Criminal Investigation.

- On October 18, 2007, Anant Patel, 46, former consultant to Jersey Central Power & Light (JCP&L), pled guilty in connection with a theft of $11.5 million from a State energy rebate program. Patel pled guilty to charges of second-degree money laundering and second-degree theft. Under the plea agreement, the State will recommend a 15-year prison sentence for Patel. The State is seeking full restitution, and Patel will pay $775,000 in restitution at the time of sentencing. The investigation revealed that Patel conspired with two other men to obtain $11.5 million in payments for bogus or inflated applications under the New Jersey SmartStart Buildings Program, which offers rebates to companies that install more efficient lighting or HVAC systems. Patel was hired by JCP&L as a consultant to inspect and verify installation work under the program. In pleading guilty, Patel admitted that he signed off on work that was never performed and also created a number of bogus contracting and consulting companies to submit false invoices under the program. He admitted he laundered fraudulent rebate checks using a number of bank accounts. The investigation revealed that Patel conspired with Harold Stamateris, 47, of Basking Ridge, who managed the rebate program for JCP&L and was responsible for approving rebate applications. Stamateris pled guilty on February 6, 2007, to first-degree conspiracy, admitting he knowingly signed off on the fraudulent rebates. He faces a State prison sentence of 10 to 20 years. The State is seeking full restitution, and Stamateris will pay $2,200,000 in restitution at the time of sentencing. Patel and Stamateris carried out the fraudulent scheme with an electrical contractor, William D. Eaton Jr., 56, of Caldwell, who fatally shot himself on January 30, 2007, after his arrest in this case. The case was referred to the Division of Criminal Justice by JCP&L's internal audit group. The case was investigated by the Division of Criminal Justice – Major Financial Crimes Bureau and the Office of Criminal Investigation with assistance from JCP&L auditors.

- On October 29, 2007, special agents of the Office of Criminal Investigation arrested Hazem Abuali of Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, an unlicensed distributor, at a North Jersey location and charged him with various offenses, including possession and transportation of contraband cigarettes. Confiscated at the time of arrest were cigarettes, cigars, and currency. On November 15, 2007, Hazem Abuali pled guilty in Union City Municipal Court to possession of contraband cigarettes (N.J.S.A. 54:52-18), transportation of contraband cigarettes (N.J.S.A. 54:40A-32), failure upon delivery to examine and return cigarettes not bearing the required New Jersey revenue stamp (N.J.S.A. 54:40A-25), and liability for the tobacco products wholesale sales and use tax (N.J.S.A. 54:40B-5). Also, the currency was forfeited to the State of New Jersey.

- In the area of refund fraud, the Office of Criminal Investigation prevented the issuance of fraudulent refund claims totaling $2,918,952 for the period of July 2007 through mid-November 2007. In addition, the Office of Criminal Investigation issued assessments based on refunds found to be fraudulently obtained. □

Corporation Business Tax

CBT-100 Meal and Entertainment Expenses — Expenses for meals and entertainment are deductible on the New Jersey corporation business tax return, Form CBT-100, for a C corporation to the extent that these expenses are deductible on Federal Form 1120. The New Jersey CBT-100 is linked to items above Line 28 on the Federal return.

New Jersey has no specific provision relating to meal and entertainment expenses. Since the New Jersey CBT-100 is linked to Lines 1 to 28 of the Federal return, and taxpayers must use the same method of accounting for State tax purposes as for Federal tax purposes, any Federal deduction limitations will also be recognized by New Jersey. N.J.S.A. 54:10A-4(k); N.J.A.C. 18:7-5.1(b).

Entries made on Form CBT-100, Schedule A, Line 33(b) represent other adjustments that are made to Federal taxable income in order to determine New Jersey taxable income. Certain deductions made for Federal purposes in calculating net income must be added back to compute entire net income for New Jersey purposes. Federal deductions that are added back are described in N.J.A.C. 18:7-5.2.

Gross Receipts for Minimum Tax

— The Division was asked the following question:

“With regard to the increased New Jersey corporation minimum tax, if a New Jersey corporation ships most of its products to companies in other states, must those sales be included as New Jersey gross receipts for calculating the minimum tax or can they be excluded for calculating the minimum tax? The corporation is not registered in any other state because all shipments are by common carrier. The instructions in the CBT book do not explain what is New Jersey gross receipts and what is not.”

The Division replied that the statute defines “gross receipts” for calculating the new minimum tax by reference to “gross receipts as defined in the Alternative Minimum Assessment” at N.J.S.A. 54:10A-5a. The definition excludes receipts from sales to points outside the State. Therefore, those sales do not have to be included in the New Jersey gross receipts for calculating the minimum tax.

Minimum Tax — Legislation that was enacted in July 2006 made adjustments to the New Jersey minimum tax under the Corporation Business Tax Act. For privilege periods beginning January 1, 2006, and thereafter, the determination of minimum tax has changed. Generally, minimum tax is determined on a graduated basis based on New Jersey gross receipts as shown below. New Jersey gross receipts and minimum tax may be computed on Schedule A-GR. N.J.S.A. 54:10A-5(e).

New Jersey Gross Receipts	Minimum Tax
Less than $100,000	$ 500
$100,000 or more, but less than $250,000	750
$250,000 or more, but less than $500,000	1,000
$500,000 or more, but less than $1,000,000	1,500
$1,000,000 or more	2,000

Taxpayers that are part of an affiliated group that has a total combined payroll of $5,000,000 or more continue to pay a minimum tax of $2,000 regardless of the amount of New Jersey gross receipts.

NOL Suspension — Due to the suspension of the net operating loss (NOL) carryover for privilege periods beginning in 2002 and 2003, taxpayers could not use unexpired NOL amounts until privilege periods beginning in 2004 and 2005. A limited NOL deduction was allowed in 2004 and 2005 for the privilege period in an amount that reduced entire net income by up to 50%. (P.L. 2004, c.47). Any NOL deduction disallowed due to this prohibition could be extended by two years. N.J.A.C. 18:7-5.17. Losses that could not be used against income that occurred in 2002 and 2003 would carry over until 2004. In other words, an NOL due to expire in 2002 and 2003 would be carried over to 2004 if it could not be used in 2002 or 2003.

Domestic Security Fee

Complimentary Motor Vehicle Rentals

— The Division responded to an inquiry concerning the Domestic Security Fee on motor vehicle rentals. When a “loaner” vehicle is given to a customer while the customer’s vehicle is with the dealer for warranty service, there is no liability for the $5-per-day fee, as long as there is no user charge and/or charge for vehicle insurance, cost of registration, and similar expenses.

N.J.A.C. 18:40-1.6 states:

Motor vehicles loaned by a motor vehicle dealer to customers under a warranty, service or similar agreement

Sales Tax Information

P.L. 2005, c.126, effective October 1, 2005, conformed the New Jersey Sales and Use Tax Act to the Streamlined Sales and Use Tax Agreement. More information is available at:

Streamlined Sales and Use Tax

P.L. 2006, c.44, increased the New Jersey sales and use tax rate from 6% to 7%, effective July 15, 2006. The rate change affects all retail sales of taxable merchandise or services. For more information on the rate increase visit:

Information for all Sales and Use Tax Vendors

Additional provisions of P.L. 2006, c.44, effective October 1, 2006, extended the sales and use tax to new services, limited some existing exclusions and exemptions, and encompassed product categories that have come into being with new technologies. More information is available at:

or contract, for any kind of consideration, whether or not through a third party, and regardless of which party pays the consideration, are considered motor vehicles for rental and, as such, are subject to the fee imposed by the Domestic Security Fee law.

Example 1: A motor vehicle dealer provides a loaner vehicle at “no cost” to a customer, but the agreement between the dealer and the customer requires payment for mileage and provides an option for the purchase of insurance by the customer. Charges for mileage, insurance waiver/damage liability all are common elements of a rental agreement. Accordingly, where such items are charged, the agreement is rental in nature, and the dealership would be responsible for the [$2.00] $5.00 per day fee. Multiple day usage under the same agreement terms would result in a multiple day liability for the fee.

Gross Income Tax

Civil Union Joint Filing — Civil union couples have the right to a joint filing status under New Jersey Gross Income Tax Law that can be exercised in 2008 for tax year 2007, just as married couples do. The Civil Union Act, P.L. 2006, c.103, section 4, gives partners in civil union couples “all of the same benefits, protections and responsibilities under law, whether they derive from statute, administrative or court rule, public policy, common law or any other source of civil law, as are granted to spouses in a marriage,” and section 5n of the Act specifically requires equal State tax treatment for same and opposite sex couples.

In certain other states that use a Federal adjusted gross income tax model (AGI) for income tax purposes, married same sex and civil union couples may calculate Federal AGI using a “pro forma” Federal return as though the couple had filed married jointly for Federal income tax purposes. New Jersey, however, does not import an adjusted gross income tax figure from the Federal income tax returns, so a taxpayer’s Federal AGI has no bearing on the preparation of their New Jersey gross income tax return. Civil union couples file their New Jersey returns the same way as married couples, reporting their income either jointly or separately. Civil union partners must use the same filing statuses that are available to spouses; they cannot use the filing status “single,” even if they do so for Federal purposes.

For additional information on implementation of the Civil Union Act, see www.state.nj.us/treasury/taxation/civilunionact.shtml

Partnership Filing Fee

Hedge Funds — If a partnership has hedge fund status, a filing fee is due for nonresident individual, trust, or estate partners, unless all operations and facilities are located outside

New Jersey and the non-resident partners have no contact with New Jersey.

For hedge fund status, the partnership’s only activities may be the purchase, holding, and sale of intangible personal property, such as securities or commodities (defined in 26 U.S.C. 475(c)(2) and (e)(2)), and such intangible personal property may not be held for sale to customers. The activities of “purchase, holding, and sale” include activities incidental thereto giving rise to income, including commitment fees, breakup fees, and income from securities lending.

The requirement that certain partnerships must pay a $150 per partner filing fee is set forth at N.J.S.A. 54A:8-6(b)(2)(A), which states: “Each entity classified as a partnership for federal income tax purposes,... having any income derived from New Jersey sources, including but not limited to a partnership, a limited liability partnership, or a limited liability company, that has more than two owners shall at the prescribed time for making the return required under this subsection make a payment of a filing fee of $150 for each owner of an interest in the entity, up to a maximum of $250,000....”

The definition of a partnership that is subject to the $150 per partner filing fee is set forth at N.J.A.C. 18:35-11.1, which states: "Partnership means any entity classified as a partnership for federal income tax purposes. The term includes, but is not limited to, a general partnership, a limited liability partnership, a limited partnership, a family limited partnership, and a limited liability company. The term includes partnerships whose members receive non-taxable income pursuant to N.J.S.A. 54A:5-8(c), commonly referred to as hedge funds and qualified investment partnerships as defined in N.J.S.A. 54:10A-4(r). However, the term does not include investment clubs or common trust funds."

The definition of income is set forth at N.J.A.C. 18:35-11.1, which states: "Income means income, loss, gain, or expense."

Therefore, since partnerships subject to the $150 filing fee include hedge funds and qualified investment partnerships, these partnerships are subject to the fee if they derive income from New Jersey sources.

For example, a hedge fund derives income from New Jersey sources when the partnership pays a New Jersey fund manager a fee to manage the fund (expense), the hedge fund is located in New Jersey and distributes income to shareholders (income), or the hedge fund is located in New Jersey and reports a loss to shareholders (loss).

Therefore, a partnership that only holds stock and other intangibles is subject to the $150 per partner filing fee unless all operations and facilities are located outside New Jersey and the nonresident partners have no contact with New Jersey.

Sales and Use Tax
Software Maintenance on Electronically Delivered Software —

The Division responded to an inquiry regarding the application of the New Jersey Sales and Use Tax Act to software maintenance on an initial software purchase that was electronically delivered. The software maintenance is an annual renewal contract, which includes technical support as well as upgrades for the software that would also be received electronically.

Effective October 1, 2006, the exemption for prewritten computer software delivered electronically is only available to electronically delivered computer software that is used directly and exclusively in the conduct of the purchaser's business, trade, or occupation. N.J.S.A. 54:32B-8.56. Thus, electronically delivered computer software sold to businesses is exempt from tax. Software upgrades are also exempt under this "business use" exemption.

In addition, effective October 1, 2006, electronically delivered software is defined and taxed as "tangible personal property." The law imposes tax on maintaining, servicing, or repairing tangible personal property. Since electronically delivered prewritten computer software is tangible personal property, services performed on the software, even if performed remotely, are taxable because electronically delivered software is taxed as tangible personal property. Note that the repair and maintenance services are taxable even if the "business use" exemption is applicable to the purchase of the software. If the seller bills the exempt software upgrades and the taxable repair and maintenance services together as one lump sum, the entire amount is taxable.

In Our Courts

Administration

Jurisdiction – Harry’s Lobster House Corporation v. Director, Division of Taxation, decided June 14, 2007; Appellate Division No. A-5569-05T2.

The Tax Court granted the Division’s motion to dismiss the complaint of Harry’s Lobster House Corporation (Harry’s) because it lacked jurisdiction to consider the merits of the complaint. Harry’s alleged that the complaint should not be dismissed because representatives of the Division met with Harry’s after the issuance of the final determination as well as after the filing of Harry’s complaint and reached an agreement to reaudit the tax years at issue. Harry’s contended that the Division could not renege on the agreement because it relied on this agreement and spent substantial money to prepare for the reaudit.

The Tax Court concluded that, notwithstanding a purported agreement by Division representatives to reconsider this assessment, any such agreement was unauthorized and was not binding on the Division. The Appellate Division affirmed for the reasons set forth in Judge Menyuk’s opinion at 23 N.J. Tax 149 (2006). The New Jersey Supreme Court denied Harry’s petition for certification. Cash Audits Audit Methodology – Lane Trading Co. v. Director, Division of Taxation, decided August 3, 2007; Tax Court No. 005189-2004.

Plaintiff (Lane) owns and operates an adult bookstore. It sells and rents videos, books, magazines, and novelties. Lane also operates video viewing booths and rents rooms to female independent contractors for “fantasy performances.”

An audit disclosed that Lane did not retain copies of sales invoices or cash register tapes. However, it did have a summarized sales journal for two of the years at issue. Lane claims that all of its records were destroyed in a fire at a rented storage unit. The auditor used an alternate audit methodology as Lane’s books and records were inadequate to conduct the audit. This resulted in an audit assessment which Lane protested.

The final determination made adjustments to the audit determination of sales tax and corporation business tax liabilities. Lane appealed the final determination to the Tax Court challenging the reasonableness of the method of calculating the corporation business and sales tax assessments. The Court found that Lane had not provided any evidence indicating that the Division’s assessment was incorrect. Therefore, the Court concluded that the Division’s use of the limited available data as well as its methodology was entirely reasonable under the circumstances.

Gross Income Tax

Alimony and Credit for Taxes Paid to Other Jurisdictions – Cino v. Director, Division of Taxation, decided November 2, 2007; Docket No. 008453-06.

In a summary judgment motion hearing on Friday, November 2, 2007, Judge Pizzuto granted the Director’s motion for summary judgment.

This matter involved another challenge to alimony and the credit for taxes paid to other jurisdictions. Judge Pizzuto held this case was controlled by Ambrose v. Director, 198 N.J. Super. 546, 487, A.2d 174 (1985).

v. Clerk of Bergen County and Director, 2006 N.J. TaxLEXIS 15, (November 2006):

As a general rule, duplicate taxation of the same property in different forms, if in accordance with statute, is not invalid. See Old Dominion C.M. & S. Co. v. State Bd. Taxes, 91 N.J.L. 173, 178-179 (E. & A. 1917); Jersey City Gaslight Co. v. Jersey City, 46 N.J.L. 194, 196 (E. & A. 1884); Gritzmacher v. Taxation Div. Director, 2 N.J. Tax 489, 492 (1981). See also In re Estate of Romnes, 79 N.J. 139, 164 (Handler, J., dissenting).

Here, there is no double taxation as the transfer tax is imposed pursuant to the Act upon separate owners on distinct transfers at different times. Indeed, even if this were deemed to be double taxation, the Legislature may constitutionally impose a duplicate tax, although courts generally endeavor to avoid such a statutory construction where the legislative intent is questionable. The language of N.J.S.A. 46:8D-2, however, is clear as to imposition of the transfer taxes. Even if it were deemed to produce true duplicate taxation, the Legislature's constitutional power to enact such a statute must be recognized. See Old Dominion, 91 N.J.L. at 178-179; Jersey City Gaslight, 46 N.J.L. at 196. [Drew Associates of N.J., L.P. v. Travisano, 235 N.J. Super. 194, 205-206 (App. Div. 1989), aff'd in pertinent part 122 N.J. 249, 268 (1991).]

The quote by the Court underscored the general rule that double taxation is not prohibited by statute. The credit for taxes paid to another jurisdiction was not intended to do away with double taxation, but to provide limits to double taxation.

Servicing and Maintenance – Disposal Systems, Inc. v. Director, Division of Taxation, decided August 16, 2007; Tax Court No. 000061-07.

Disposal Systems, Inc. (Disposal) is in the business of servicing, replacing, and removing underground tanks and disposing of the waste. The Division issued an assessment under the Sales and Use Tax Act for failure to collect and remit tax to the Division.

The Court determined that Disposal's services were not exempt as capital improvements under N.J.S.A. 54:32B-3(b)(2)(v) because they were services and maintenance of properties and did not constitute an addition or capital improvement to property.

The Court decided that the services did not constitute a resale under N.J.S.A. 54:32B-3(b) because Disposal was the original vendor of its services and was not reselling them.

The Court found that the services were not exempt as a transportation service under N.J.S.A. 54:32B-8.11 because Disposal is not in the business of transporting persons or property.

Finally, the Court responded to Disposal's allegation that a New Jersey State employee fabricated the signature on two extensions to audit, concluding that no credible evidence was presented to give substance to Disposal's allegations. Therefore, the Court granted the Division's motion for summary judgment. □

Property Tax Relief Checks Mailed

The Division of Taxation mailed over 2 million homestead rebate checks for tax year 2006 to New Jersey residents this summer. In early August, approximately 1.2 million rebate checks went out to eligible senior and disabled homeowners, as well as to all eligible tenants, who had filed their applications by June 1, 2007. In mid-September, an additional 1.1 million rebate checks were sent to eligible nonsenior, nondisabled homeowners whose applications had been filed by August 15, 2007.

In mid-July, property tax reimbursement (PTR) checks for 2006 were mailed to almost 122,000 qualified senior and disabled homeowners who had filed their applications by June 1, 2007.

Checks for those who filed homestead rebate or PTR applications after the cutoff dates for the general check mailings will be issued as quickly as possible.

The extended deadline for New Jersey residents to file 2006 homestead rebate applications was October 31, 2007. The extended deadline for filing 2006 property tax reimbursement applications was October 31 as well.

LOCAL PROPERTY TAX PAMS Shifts Into High Gear for Implementation

Hunterdon, Salem, and Camden counties are on track to implement New Jersey's Property Assessment Management System (PAMS) in January and February 2008. The implementation was extended from October – December 2007 to accommodate end-of-the-year assessment schedules and to provide more time for preparation. Project activities in recent months have included unit testing, training, and conducting and reviewing preliminary data conversions. Before the end of the year, members of the Municipal Liaison Team are expected to visit all early implementation municipalities to review the steps in the implementation process and discuss the go-live checklist. The transition from an outdated MOD IV system to a Web-based, integrated, and configurable system is an historic move for the Division of Taxation. Approximately 30 trainers are involved in train-the-trainer courses in preparation for user training scheduled for January 2008.

INHERITANCE/ESTATE TAX Estate Tax

The New Jersey estate tax is based on the credit for state death taxes allowable under the provisions of the Internal Revenue Code in effect on December 31, 2001. The allowable credit is the lesser of credit calculated on the taxable estate (line 3 of the 2001 Federal Estate Tax Return, Form 706) or the Federal tax calculated on the sum of the taxable estate plus adjusted taxable gifts (line 5 of the 2001 Federal Form 706).

For decedents dying on or after January 1, 2005, the provisions of the Internal Revenue Code eliminated the credit for state death taxes and replaced it with a deduction for state death taxes paid. The Federal estate tax is now calculated on the taxable estate reduced by the deduction for state death taxes plus adjusted taxable gifts.

The New Jersey estate tax continues to be calculated on the taxable estate before it is reduced by the state death tax deduction. Inheritance and/or estate taxes paid to New Jersey or any other jurisdiction do not in any way affect the determination of the credit on which the New Jersey estate tax is based. A deduction is permitted for that portion of the credit which is attributable to property located outside New Jersey.

N.J.S.A. 54:38-7 provides that in addition to a copy of any Federal estate tax return filed with the Internal Revenue Service, a 2001 Federal Form 706 must be completed and filed with the Division.

With the replacement of the state death tax credit by a state death tax deduction and with other changes which have been made in the Internal Revenue Code, it is important that the 2001 Federal Form 706 be completed in order that the New Jersey estate tax obligation may be properly determined.

The 2001 Federal Form 706 is available on the Division's Web site at: www.state.nj.us/treasury/taxation/ □

Small Business Workshops

The Division of Taxation periodically conducts free workshops throughout New Jersey designed to help small businesses better understand their State tax obligations. The seminars are a half day in duration and cover the following topics:

- Business registration
- Meeting employer responsibilities
- Reporting business income
- Filing sales and use tax returns

SALES AND USE TAX
Streamlined Sales Tax Registration

The central online registration system developed by the Streamlined Sales and Use Tax Project can be used as an alternative to the traditional registration system currently available through the New Jersey Division of Revenue’s Web site. Central registration constitutes registration with every member state, including those that adopt the Streamlined Sales and Use Tax Agreement (SSUTA) after the seller registers. By registering through this system, sellers agree to collect and remit tax on all sales sourced to any member state. Additional information concerning the central registration system may be found at: www.state.nj.us/treasury/taxation/streamregpro.shtml

If you collect tax for member or associate states during the time you are registered, you must remit the tax to the state(s).

If you registered in more states than you wanted to through the streamlined process, you cannot simply cancel the states you do not want to be registered with. To receive the benefits of the Streamlined Sales and Use Tax Agreement, you must remain registered with all of the member states. If you choose to opt out, you must cancel with all of the member states. If you want to register with only a few states, you should not use the central registration system. Please keep in mind that amnesty is not available in any state unless a seller is registered with all of the full-member states.

If you believe that you mistakenly registered through the central online registration system or find you no longer want to participate, or if you need to update previously submitted registration information or add an associate state, log into the Streamlined Sales Tax Project Web site at <https://www.sstregister.org/sellers> and select “Update Registration.” You will then need your Streamlined Sales Tax ID and password to continue. To cancel your registration select “Change Registration Status” and follow the instructions.

If you terminate your sales tax registration through the central registration system, your central registration account for sales tax with all the SSUTA member states, including New Jersey, will be cancelled. However, if you were already registered with New Jersey for sales tax — or any other taxes — before you registered through the SSUTA central registration system, then your sales tax account with the State of New Jersey, as well as your accounts for any other New Jersey taxes, will remain open.

If you initiated your New Jersey sales tax registration through the central registration system, and subsequently cancel your central registration account, then your sales tax registration with New Jersey is terminated with your central registration account. In this case, if you wish to continue to collect and remit New Jersey sales and use tax, you must register directly with the State of New Jersey. □

Criminal Enforcement over the past several months included:

- On July 10, 2007, three individuals were indicted for allegedly conspiring to steal $828,000 by filing hundreds of fraudulent State tax returns. Rosa Victoria Rivera, her former boyfriend John Arturo Perez Silva, and the couple's son Wilson Armando Piños were indicted by a State Grand Jury on a charge of first-degree conspiracy. Rosa Rivera also was charged in the three-count indictment with first-degree money laundering and second-degree theft by deception.

The Office of Criminal Investigation identified numerous fraudulent tax returns for which refund checks were issued. Some of the returns were filed through the Division's NJ WebFile program and all the returns contained similar taxpayer information; such as common names, addresses, and employers.

The majority of the refund checks were mailed to mailboxes rented by Rivera, Perez, or Piños. Refund checks totaling $828,272 were deposited in bank accounts maintained by Rivera or Perez, which the defendants allegedly used to pay personal expenses. The Division of Taxation was able to stop payment on the remaining checks, totaling $1,005,030.

The three defendants were arrested on theft charges on December 19, 2006. On that date, the Office of Criminal Investigation, along with investigators from the Division of Criminal Justice and officers from the Lyndhurst Police Department, executed a search warrant at Rivera's apartment resulting in the seizure of a computer, stacks of tax returns, blank W-2s, blank social security cards, numerous driver's licenses, passports, bank records, and $191,000 in cash. Several bank accounts of the defendants were seized and a second search warrant was executed at a self-storage site leased by the defendants in Belleville where additional records were confiscated.

- On July 11, 2007, the Office of Criminal Investigation assisted the Atlantic City Police Department in the execution of a search warrant on Babajan's Deli located at 2401 Pacific Avenue, and subsequent searches at Babajan's Market located at 3104 Pacific Avenue, an apartment located at 2403 Pacific Avenue, and a suspect's vehicle, which resulted in the overall seizure of 5,407 packs (540.7 cartons) of counterfeit New Jersey-stamped cigarettes as well as counterfeit cigarettes. The confiscated cigarettes have a street value of $36,000. Warrants were also used to secure bank accounts of the suspects and their vehicles were impounded. The case was developed by Atlantic City Police who were investigating the owners of Babajan's Market and Babajan's Deli for paying Families First food program recipients 50 cents on the dollar for their food cards and placing false purchase amounts in the program's computer system, thus defrauding State and Federal governments.

Three individuals were arrested on charges involving fraud, conspiracy, cigarette tax violations, computer theft, and sale of drug paraphernalia. Arrested were Kahdim Hussain, listed as an owner of Babajan's, Rana Sajid, also listed as an owner of Babajan's, and Ihtisham Majid. Bail has been set at $150,000.

- On July 18, 2007, former Clayton Borough police chief Frank Winters and his wife Bernice Winters were indicted by a State Grand Jury for allegedly stealing more than $150,000 from Mothers Against Drunk Driving (MADD). Their alleged fraudulent scheme involved companies they owned which were paid to supply promotional items for MADD, but did not. Winters, 61, and his wife, 56, were indicted on charges of conspiracy and theft by deception, both in the second degree, and filing false and fraudulent State income tax resident returns, a third-degree crime. Second-degree crimes carry a sentence of up to 10 years in prison and a fine of up to $150,000, while third-degree crimes carry a sentence of up to five years in prison and a fine of up to $15,000.

The Winters, who live in Newfield where Frank Winters previously was a councilman, are former leaders of MADD at the State and local levels. Frank and Bernice Winters are both former chairmen of the New Jersey State chapter of MADD. Frank Winters also served on the national board of directors. He allegedly used his prominent position to further the conspiracy and theft. Frank Winters resigned as chief after he was charged by complaint in this case on April 24, 2007.

The State charges that the Winters treated the money from MADD (which was received by Holiday House and Lasting Impact) as their own, depositing money into their personal bank account and using it to pay for their own personal debts and expenses such as their mortgage, car payments, dinners, travel, jewelry, computer equipment, and furniture. The scheme allegedly took place for nearly three years, from July 2001 to June 2004.

It is further alleged that the Winters filed false or fraudulent New Jersey income tax returns for the calendar years 2002, 2003, and 2004 by not reporting on the returns the income that they derived from Holiday House and Lasting Impact.

This was a joint investigation with the Major Crimes Unit of the New Jersey State Police and the Office of Criminal Investigation.

- On July 24, 2007, The Office of Criminal Investigation sent teams of agents and investigators into Jersey City mini-marts and groceries to identify any that were in possession of and selling cigarettes without legitimate New Jersey cigarette tax stamps. Over 1,000 cartons of cigarettes were seized. While on site, the teams conducted compliance inspections for valid business registrations, sales tax certificates, and cigarette licenses and businesses were informed of any outstanding tax liabilities. This type of inspection is just one of the unit's normal enforcement activities. □

Corporation Business Tax

Neighborhood Revitalization State Tax Credit — A taxpayer raised a question about the operation of the credit mechanism allowable under the Neighborhood Revitalization State Tax Credit Act (NRSTC) N.J.S.A. 52:27D-490 et seq.

Two corporation business tax (CBT) taxpayers, a parent and subsidiary, each file CBT tax returns as separate corporate entities. In 2007 and subsequent years it is anticipated that these entities will be taking tax credits under the CBT for manufacturing equipment, N.J.S.A. 54:10A-5.16, and for unused research and development tax credits and net operating loss carryovers transferred by biotechnology companies to qualifying CBT taxpayers pursuant to N.J.S.A. 34:1B-7.42 a and b.

The NRSTC was recently amended to further motivate taxpayers to contribute to designated projects. A taxpayer already anticipating the benefits of other credits for CBT purposes may be reluctant to make any contribution under the NRSTC without some clarification of the application of the credit mechanism.

N.J.S.A. 52:27D-492d provides that the credit is not permitted “for activities for which the business entity is receiving credit under any other provision against any tax on business related income.” (emphasis added)

For the following reasons the Division believes it is highly unlikely that under the mechanisms of the Neighborhood Revitalization State Tax Credits a taxpayer would be denied a credit under that law for “activities” for which the taxpayer is receiving credit under any other provision against any tax on business income.

The mechanisms of the Neighborhood Revitalization Program work as follows: A nonprofit organization submits a plan to the Department of Community Affairs (DCA) for approval (§493). The DCA approves the plan if it meets certain criteria (§494). Next, the DCA determines if the plan qualifies for assistance (§495). The Commissioner of DCA issues a certificate if certain standards are met (§496). The Commissioner issues the certificates to applicants in the order prescribed in N.J.S.A. 52:27D-496d: (1) businesses specifying a project, (2) businesses that have not specified a particular project but are willing to provide assistance for approved projects seeking assistance, (3) businesses not specifying a project that are willing to provide assistance and for which no project approved by the department is available.

The Neighborhood Revitalization Credit must be interpreted in pari materi with other credits that are intended to stimulate the New Jersey economy yet limit double counting of benefit dollars, and as such the term “activities” is to be interpreted narrowly in order to give effect to the intended purposes of revitalization. By way of comparison, other credits include provisions that explicitly eliminate double counting of creditable expenses. For example, N.J.S.A. 54:10A-5.24b prohibits a manufacturing investment tax credit or a new jobs tax credit for property for which a qualified research credit is permitted. Because the NRSTC is based upon funds disbursed to and by the DCA, no risk of double counting exists under this credit. Therefore, it is assumed that the credit language is meant to encourage a different objective.

To give possible meaning to the word “activity,” one hypothetical example may be illustrative. The use of the word “activity” may stimulate the diversification of creditable funds. Under the hypothetical scenario it appears that a taxpayer could pay an “energy research consortium” established under IRC §41(f)(6) with funds that would qualify for or be used to compute the research credit. Supposing also that the research consortium developed a plan that qualified for assistance under the Neighborhood Revitalization Program, the business would be barred from making a donation to DCA under N.J.S.A. 52:27D-496d(1) and earmarking the donation for use of the consortium since the donor already enjoyed a research credit for the amount paid to that “activity.” The interest being protected by the word “activities” appears to be potential multiplicity of revitalization programs, rather than concentration of a taxpayer’s funds into one “activity.” (This is a different interest from double counting as illustrated above in N.J.S.A. 54:10A-5.24b).

Further, the Division believes the prohibition would be satisfied and the business could receive a credit for any donation made under N.J.S.A. 52:27D-496(d)(2) & (3). That is because the Commissioner of DCA has discretion on where to designate the use of funds. Such a donation would meet the requirements even if the Commissioner later determined, hypothetically, to allow the funds to be used for a plan developed by an “energy research consortium.”

Thus, the Division does not believe the legislature intended to codify a broad prohibition by the word “activities” under which a taxpayer could not receive a neighborhood revitalization credit for any and all projects if it were receiving a research credit. If that were the case, the legislature could have made its intention explicitly clear by the use of specific language. More likely, the word “activity” was used to stimulate diversification of the creditable funds.

In conclusion, if a taxpayer made a donation to the revitalization program and it was used for nonrelated research activities or housing or economic development activities unrelated to the taxpayer’s line of business, no other credit or benefit would “taint” or disqualify the neighborhood revitalization donation. Furthermore, it is the Division's view, even in the hypothetical above, that if the Commissioner rather than the donor specified use of the separate funds in an "activity" for which the donor taxpayer was receiving a research credit, the research credit would not be "tainted" or disqualified since the Commissioner rather than the taxpayer specified the use of the donated funds.

Gross Income Tax

Incentive Stock Options — For New Jersey gross income tax purposes, the taxability of incentive stock options is based on the Federal treatment. Incentive stock options may be received and exercised by an employee without recognizing any gain. If the requisite holding period is met, the taxable event is the sale of the stock, and gain or loss will be realized to the extent of the difference between the option price and the sale price of the stock.

IRA Charitable Contributions — The Federal Pension Protection Act of 2006 (P.L. 109-280) enables anyone age 70½ or older to use as much as $100,000 a year for tax years 2006 and 2007 from their tax-deferred IRA for charitable gifts, without paying Federal income taxes on the amount they use.

For New Jersey gross income tax purposes, no similar legislation has been enacted, and there is no change to the New Jersey income tax treatment of distributions from an IRA account that corresponds to the Federal income tax treatment.

Any amounts considered taxable income for New Jersey gross income tax purposes received as a distribution from an IRA must be reported as pension and annuity income on the New Jersey income tax return.

Petroleum Products Gross Receipts Tax

Recycled Motor Oil — Sales of recycled motor oil are subject to petroleum products gross receipts tax as set forth at N.J.A.C. 18:18A-2.3(a), which states that: "Receipts from first sales of petroleum products within this State as herein defined are subject to tax. Certain receipts, for example, from sales for exportation, sales of No. 2 fuel oil, propane for residential use, and the tax imposed by the Act are not included in arriving at gross receipts subject to tax. On and after July 1, 1991 the Act contains exemptions or exclusions for receipts from sales to the State, or municipal governments, their agencies or instrumentalities, and to qualified exempt organizations employing authorized purchase procedures. In addition, exemption from tax for receipts from sales to the Federal government is effective on and after July 1, 1990. Example 1: Company R collects used oil from various generators and produces a recycled fuel. Subsequent sales of its petroleum product by company R are considered to produce gross receipts subject to tax under the Act. The statute contains no exemption for sales of recycled oil...."

Therefore, because there is no exemption for recycled fuel, receipts from sales of recycled motor oil are subject to petroleum products gross receipts tax unless the sale meets the requirements for another exemption from tax.

Realty Transfer Fee Reverse IRC Section 1031 Exchange

— The Division responded to a question as to whether "using an exchange accommodation titleholder to hold member interests as a straw man" in an IRC Section 1031 real property reverse exchange would exempt the ultimate grantee from the 1% realty transfer fee (RTF) when the accommodation titleholder (AT) transfers the interest (that was transferred to the AT by the original grantor) to the final grantee. Assuming that the real property transfers are being done by recorded deed, it was suggested by the correspondent that this second conveyance not be subject to the RTF. N.J.S.A. 46:15-5 et seq.

The 1% RTF imposed on the grantee is imposed on specified property, including all property classified as "Class 4A" where the consideration for its sale exceeds $1,000,000. N.J.S.A. 46:15-7.2. The fee is only imposed at the time the deed is offered for recording, not at the time of transfer. In other words, it is strictly a recording fee.

In the transfer from the original grantor to the AT and then from the AT to the ultimate grantee, the AT is not merely holding title to the property for the original grantor. The AT, as a separate legal entity, actually receives a deed to be recorded. The property is then reconveyed by a new deed from the AT to the ultimate grantee for recording.

The only exemptions that apply to the RTF are those listed in N.J.S.A. 46:15-10, the partial exemption set forth in N.J.S.A. 46:15-10.1, the (a) threshold $1,000,000 or less "exemption" for grantees of certain specified real property or (b) "where the equalized assessed value of the real property being transferred is less than 20% of the total value of all assets exchanged” pursuant to N.J.S.A. 46:15-7.2.

Note that the Division is bound by the holding in Terrell v. Director, Division of Taxation, 22 N.J.Tax 297, 300 (Tax Ct. 2005):

The RTF is considered to be a State tax. Grand Chester Associates v. Taxation Division Director, 6 N.J.Tax 336, 339 (Tax Ct. 1984). New Jersey has consistently held that tax exemption statutes should be strictly construed against those claiming an exemption. Princeton Univ. Press v. Princeton Bor., 35 N.J. 209, 214, 172 A.2d 420 (1961); Zimmerer, supra, 7 N.J. Tax at 21 [7 N.J. Tax 15, 22 (Tax Ct. 1984)]. The burden is on the party claiming an exemption to clearly bring itself within the provision. Princeton Univ. Press, supra, 35 N.J. at 214, 172 A.2d 420. Taxation is the rule, and all property owners in the State are required to bear their equal share of the public taxation burden. City of Summit v. Overlook Hospital Ass’n, 4 N.J.Tax 183 (Tax Ct. 1982) quoting Locustwood Cem. Ass’n, v. Cherry Hill Tp., 133 N.J. Super. 92, 96, 335 A.2d 571 (App. Div. 1975) aff’d. 6 N.J.Tax 438 (App. Div. 1984).

See also, Zimmerer, at 7 N.J. Tax 22 (cited in the Terrell opinion above):

It is well established that statutes granting such exemptions are to be strictly construed against those claiming the exemption because exemptions represent a departure from the principle that all persons should bear their just and equal share of the burden of taxation...Accordingly, one seeking an exemption has the burden of bringing himself clearly within the exemption provision.

For the reasons discussed above, the RTF would apply to the recording of the deed from AT to the ultimate grantee, barring any of the exemptions specified in the State statutes referred to above.

Sales and Use Tax

Access Flooring — On and after October 1, 2006, charges for the installation of carpeting and other flooring are subject to tax. N.J.S.A. 54:32B-3(b)(2). “Other flooring” is interpreted broadly to include the installation of all types of flooring. Thus the installation of access (raised) flooring, no matter how attached to the real property, is subject to tax.

Exemption Certificates — A taxpayer inquired about various issues surrounding the acceptance and issuance of sales and use tax exemption certificates, particularly New Jersey Forms ST-3 (Resale Certificate) and ST-4 (Exempt Use Certificate):

1. Blanket certificates. A single exemption certificate may cover additional purchases of the same general type of property by the same purchaser from the same vendor.
2. Good faith acceptance. Prior to October 1, 2005, a seller who “accepts in good faith any exemption certificate which upon its face discloses a proper basis for exemption is relieved of any liability for collection or payment of tax upon transactions covered by the certificate.” N.J.A.C. 18:24-10.3. The seller must not know, or have reason to know that any information on the face of the exemption is

P.L. 2006, c.44, increased the New Jersey sales and use tax rate from 6% to 7%, effective July 15, 2006. The rate change affects all retail sales of taxable merchandise or services. For more information on the rate increase visit:

Additional provisions of P.L. 2006, c.44, effective October 1, 2006, extended the sales and use tax to new services, limited some existing exclusions and exemptions, and encompassed product categories that have come into being with new technologies. More information is available at:

false or misleading. N.J.A.C. 18:24-10.4(a). The vendor is presumed to be familiar with the law and the regulations pertaining to his business, and to know when he can issue or accept exemption certificates. N.J.A.C. 18:24-10.4(b).

Effective October 1, 2005, the Streamlined Sales and Use Tax Agreement became effective in New Jersey and made several changes to the Sales and Use Tax Act. (P.L. 2005, c.126). In particular, the “good faith” requirement has been relaxed. Absent fraud or collusion, sellers who accept a properly completed exemption certificate are relieved of liability for improperly claimed exemptions. The form must be completed in its entirety and signed by a qualified person. The exemption certificate must contain specific identifying information about the purchaser and the type of exemption claimed, e.g., resale, manufacturing.

3. Retroactive acceptance. The certificate must be in the physical possession of the seller on or before the 90th day following the date of the transaction.
4. Recordkeeping requirements. Certificates must be retained by the seller for at least four (4) years from the date of the last transaction covered by the certificate.
5. Penalties for misuse. Penalties and interest may be assessed upon audit.
6. Statute of limitations. Certificates must be retained by the seller for at least four (4) years from the date of the last transaction covered by the certificate.

7. Expiration date. Certificates must be retained by the seller for at least four (4) years from the date of the last transaction covered by the certificate. Certificates must be in the physical possession of the seller and available for inspection by the Division of Taxation. Although certificates do not actually expire, it is good business practice for a seller to request a new form at least every few years.
8. Renewal process. Although certificates do not actually expire, it is good business practice for a seller to request a new form at least every few years.
9. Does New Jersey accept electronic exemption certificates? Yes. The seller must provide the same information for proof of a claimed exemption regardless of the medium.
10. Streamlined sales tax certificates. New Jersey sellers and purchasers may accept and issue the Streamlined Sales and Use Tax Certificate of Exemption (ST-SST) in lieu of most New Jersey exemption certificates.
11. Does New Jersey accept the ST-SST or multistate tax commission (MTC) certificate or other states' certificates? New Jersey permits the use of the ST-SST and MTC certificates. However, the only situation where a New Jersey seller may accept an out-of-State exemption certificate is a drop shipment. For more information on drop-shipment transactions, see ANJ-10, Out of State Sales.

12. Are direct payment permit holders required to submit exemption certificates? Yes, there are two types of direct payment certificates:

Form ST-6A. Direct Payment Certificates (Form ST-6A) are issued to taxpayers who purchase tangible personal property or services under circumstances that make it impossible to determine at the time of acquisition whether the item or service will be used for a taxable or exempt purpose. N.J.S.A. 54:32B-12(b). Such taxpayers are issued Form ST-6A by the Division of Taxation, which waives collection of sales tax by the seller and allows the purchaser to pay the tax directly to the Division.

Form ST-6X. Effective Use Tax Rate Agreements (EUTRAs), also known as Sales and Use Tax Compliance Agreements, are formal, individualized agreements between the Division of Taxation and the taxpayer. EUTRAs allow the use of an “effective tax rate” to calculate sales and use taxes owed. EUTRAs generally have a term of three (3) years or less. Both parties agree upon the conditions under which the agreement may require modification or termination. Upon request to enter the program, the Division will determine if the taxpayer is qualified to participate and then conduct an audit to establish the effective tax rate.

If the taxpayer is qualified for the program, the Division of Taxation waives collection of sales or use tax at the time of purchase and permits the taxpayer to apply the agreed upon effective tax rate to applicable purchases made during each filing period. The effective tax rate is determined by calculating the ratio of the base period taxable purchases to the base period total purchases.

Upon approval of the EUTRA the taxpayer will receive a Direct Payment (Audit) Certificate (Form ST-6X). Form ST-6X differs from Form ST-6A in that the ST-6A only allows holders not to pay the sales tax at the point of purchase where the taxable status of the transaction is not known at the time of purchase.

Purchases that will be excluded by the EUTRA include but are not limited to:

- Resale and inventory purchases; utility and telecommunications services; meals and lodging; motor vehicles, vessels, and aircraft;
- Items about which the Division and the taxpayer disagree.

Sale and Delivery of Fruit “Bouquets” — Effective October 1, 2005, the Streamlined Sales and Use Tax Agreement has been incorporated into the New Jersey Sales and Use Tax Act. P.L. 2005, c.126. N.J.S.A. 54:32B-3(c)(1) has been amended to impose sales tax on the sale of “prepared food.” Under the SSUTA, “prepared food” is defined to include:

- Food sold in a heated state by the seller; or
- Food items that are a result of the combination of two or more food ingredients by the seller to make a single item; or
- Food sold with eating utensils (plates, cutlery items, glasses, cups, napkins, or straws. Plates do not include containers for transport). [N.J.S.A. 54:32B-3(c)(1)].

A fruit bouquet is taxable as “food items that are a result of the combination of two or more food ingredients by the seller to make a single item.” More information on this topic is available on the Division’s Web site at: www.state.nj.us/treasury/taxation/pdf/ssutfood.pdf

Effective October 1, 2006, P.L. 2006, c.44, modified the exemption for delivery charges that are separately stated from the purchase price of an item on the invoice, bill, or similar document given to the purchaser. N.J.S.A. 54:32B-2(oo)(1). The law provides for the taxation of delivery charges on taxable items and retains the exemption for delivery charges on nontaxable items like clothing. The law defines “Delivery Charges” as charges by the seller for preparation and delivery to a location designated by the purchaser of personal property or services including, but not limited to, transportation, shipping, postage, handling, crating, and packing. Therefore, the delivery charge by a seller for a taxable fruit bouquet is subject to tax.

Solar Renewable Energy Certificates — The question was raised as to whether solar renewable energy certificates are subject to sales tax. These certificates “represent the environmental attributes of the power produced from renewable energy projects and are sold separately from commodity electricity.” (U.S. Department of Energy Web site).

The value of these certificates is not representative of the sales price for the sale of a tangible good, i.e., electricity. Rather, the environmental impacts of specific projects or energy uses have been assigned a value that has become marketable. As such, this transaction is a paper transaction beyond the scope of the New Jersey Sales and Use Tax Act (N.J.S.A. 54:32B-1 et seq.) Therefore, sales of solar renewable energy certificates are not subject to sales tax. □

In Our Courts

Gross Income Tax

Timeliness of Complaint – Saltman v. Director, Division of Taxation, decided June 22, 2007; Docket No. 006278-2006.

In this case, the Director moved for summary judgment on the imposition of late filing penalty and interest based on the taxpayer's late filing of their 2003 New Jersey gross income tax return (Form NJ-1040).

The plaintiff filed an application for an extension of time to file his 2003 New Jersey gross income tax return. The due date for the tax year 2003 return was April 15, 2004. Per N.J.A.C. 18:35-6.1(b), a six-month extension of time to file a New Jersey gross income tax return will be granted only if, by the original due date of the return, the taxpayer has paid in, either through withholdings, estimated payments, or a payment made with Form NJ-630, application for extension of time to file, at least 80% of the tax liability computed on the New Jersey gross income tax return when filed.

The taxpayer did not meet the 80% requirement by the original due date of the return; thus taxpayer's request for an extension of time to file his gross income tax return after April 15, 2004, was denied and late filing penalty and interest were assessed.

In his decision Judge Small stated, "Plaintiff's cross-motion is denied. No material facts are disputed. Plaintiffs failed to perfect their requests for filing their joint 2003 gross income tax return on extension, and thus, the Director properly denied Plaintiff's request to waive penalties and interest as a matter of law."

Timeliness of Complaint – Wieder v. Director, Division of Taxation, decided July 31, 2007; Docket No. 005349-06.

The plaintiff, attempting to comply with the 2002 amnesty program, mailed his 1998 return and payment to the Division, which were received by the Division on the last day of the amnesty program, June 10, 2002.

However, the plaintiff's bank would not make payment to the Division, not for insufficient funds, but because the check was for a "large" amount ($40,362) and did not represent a "normal payment of the taxpayer."

On August 5, 2002, the Division notified the taxpayer to make immediate payment and that penalty and interest charges would be assessed at a later date. On August 28, 2002, the plaintiff provided a replacement check for the tax paid under amnesty and sought an abatement of all penalty and interest.

In his decision, Judge Hayser opined, "The statutorily created amnesty period was of limited time and duration and ended no later than June 10, 2002. Furthermore, N.J.A.C. 18:39-1.3(a) and (b) require not only "full payment of amnesty eligible taxes," but in order to be eligible for the program, the taxpayer "must pay the full amount of the tax within the period of amnesty." Finally, N.J.A.C. 18:39-1.4(f) provides that "a taxpayer will be denied amnesty for nonpayment of or... payment with a dishonored check."

The Judge noted, quoting Lenox v. Director, 19 N.J. Tax 437, 452 (2001), "equity demands more than good faith but demands diligence in the protection of one's interests. Taxpayer did not meet this measure and therefore "the penalties and interest assessed to the plaintiff's 1998 liability will not be waived."

The taxpayer also sought a refund for tax year 1999 following the filing of his 1999 New Jersey gross income tax return (Form NJ-1040) on August 11, 2003.

The Court ruled that under N.J.S.A. 54A:9-8(d) "No refund or credit shall be allowed or made... after the expiration of the applicable period of limitation..." The Judge opined, "Under the plaintiff's argument he could file a tax return any time, however untimely (even into the next century), as long as the taxes have been paid previously and have three years to seek a credit or a refund or credit. The doctrine of reductio ad absurdum comes to mind."

Judge Hayser granted the Director's motion for summary judgment, while denying the plaintiff's cross-motion for summary judgment.

Farmland Assessment – Township of Wantage v. Rivlin Corporation, decided May 25, 2007; Tax Court No. 008697-2006.

Plaintiff (Wantage Township) appealed to the Tax Court from a judgment of the Sussex County Board of Taxation denying the imposition of rollback taxes on a portion of the defendant's (Rivlin Corporation) property. Plaintiff's motion for partial summary judgment was granted over whether a portion of a tax lot, the balance of which qualified for farmland assessment, can be subject to rollback taxes. Defendant's motion to require the plaintiff to provide certain discovery was also granted.

Rivlin Corporation is the owner of 35.91 acres of property in Wantage Township. For tax years 2003, 2004, and 2005 the entire parcel was assessed as farmland pursuant to the Farmland Assessment Act of 1964 (N.J.S.A. 54:4-23.1 to 23.23). Rivlin Corporation's farmland assessment application in tax year 2006 stated that only five acres were devoted to agricultural use, while the application for tax year 2007 listed 15 acres. After completing on-site field inspections of the parcel, the Wantage Township assessor determined that rollback taxes for tax years 2003, 2004, and 2005 were in order for the portion of property not devoted to agricultural use as per N.J.S.A. 54:4-23.8 and N.J.S.A. 54:4-23.9. As per statute, the assessor filed a petition with the Sussex County Tax Board, but was denied relief. Appeal to the Tax Court followed.

The plaintiff's position was that N.J.S.A. 54:4-23.16 and applicable decisional law permit the regular assessment of a portion of a tax lot even if the balance of the lot qualifies for farmland assessment. The nonqualifying portion of the lot may then be subject to rollback taxes. The Tax Court interpreted N.J.S.A. 54:4-23.16 and N.J.A.C. 18:15-5.3(b) "to contemplate that a separation or split off occurs...when the owner elects to use a portion of a parcel or tax lot for a purpose other than agricultural use." The Tax Court concluded "that not only may a portion of a tax lot qualify for farmland assessment while another portion does not, but also that rollback taxes may be imposed on a portion of a tax lot when that portion is converted to nonagricultural use."

Rivlin Corporation's contention was that N.J.S.A. 54:4-23.16 did not apply and that even if a portion of the parcel is devoted to nonagricultural use, the entire lot must qualify for farmland assessment if its predominant use is for agricultural purposes. The defendant cited case law which applied the predominant use test. However, the Tax Court concluded the dominant use test does not apply to the case at hand. In cases applying the predominant use test, an agricultural use coexisted with a nonagricultural use. The Tax Court referred to Andover Township v. Kymer, 140 N.J. Super. 399 (App. Div. 1976) and Wiesenfeld v. South Brunswick Township, 166 N.J. Super. 90 (App. Div. 1979), stating that when integrating the two concepts of predominant use and split-offs, if the separated or split-off part of the lot is appurtenant to agricultural activities on the balance of the lot and is required to maintain or for the benefit of those agricultural activities, then the split-off portion qualifies for farmland assessment with the balance of the lot. In Wiesenfeld supra, 166 N.J. Super. at 95, the Tax Court held that if a portion of a lot is used for "independent commercial operations not conducted for the benefit of the farm or the farmer but as a completely separate business activity," then that portion of the lot cannot qualify for farmland assessment even if the nonfarming use is not the predominant use of the entire lot. In the final analysis, the Tax Court indicated that "if the proofs should establish that the portion of the defendant's property which has not been accorded farmland assessment was used in the manner...described in...Wiesenfeld, then a rollback assessment on that portion of the lot will be appropriate." The Tax Court concurred with the analysis in Hamilton Township v. Estate of Lyons, 8 N.J. Tax 112 that where the primary reason for the nonagricultural use of a portion of a lot is not to benefit the agricultural use of the balance of a lot, rollback taxes can be imposed, even if the nonagricultural use is temporary. □

Clarification of Historic Site Real Property Tax Exemptions — P.L. 2007, c.157, enacted on August 21, 2007, effective immediately, clarifies the effect of P.L. 2004, c.183, which had supplemented the 1962 historic site real property tax exemption law by setting revised requirements for historic site tax-exempt status. The Legislature’s enactment of P.L. 2007, c.157, was a response to the Supreme Court’s decision in University Cottage Club of Princeton New Jersey Corp. v. New Jersey Department of Environmental Protection and Borough of Princeton, 191 N.J. 38 (2007), regarding the application of the historic site tax exemption law to the University Cottage Club. The Legislature noted that the Court’s interpretation of the intended effect of P.L. 2004, c.183, was contrary to legislative intent, and therefore it enacted P.L. 2007, c.157, as corrective legislation to clarify its intent regarding the scope and applicability of the requirements for historic site real property tax exemption.

P.L. 2007, c.157, clarifies that the historic site real property tax exemption law is intended to apply only to historic sites that have a significant degree of public access, and not to private clubs that allow minimal public access and minimal benefit to the public. It makes the strict requirements imposed under the previous law, P.L. 2004, c.183, applicable to historic sites applying for tax-exempt status after July 1, 1999, or determined to be eligible after that date. The Act also shifts the authority to certify an historic site as exempt from real property tax from the Commissioner of Environmental Protection to the Director of the Division of Taxation, and it requires municipal tax assessors to certify annually that each certified tax-exempt historic site continues to meet the qualifications for exemption. □

Changes to Rebate Program

The Homestead Property Tax Credit Act was signed into law April 3, 2007. The Act replaced the FAIR Rebate Program and increases the property tax benefit received by many New Jersey homeowners. The Act provides that, for most homeowners, the benefit can be paid as a credit applied to the homeowners' next property tax bill. However, because of unresolved issues with banking and mortgage lending industries, as well as municipalities, all eligible applicants will receive the benefit as a check this year.

Who is Eligible

Homeowners and tenants who occupied their principal residence in New Jersey on October 1, 2006, and who paid property taxes on that dwelling either directly or through rent, are eligible for a 2006 homestead rebate, provided that their gross income for the entire year does not exceed the income limit. The income limit is $250,000 for homeowners and $100,000 for tenants.

How to Apply

Homeowners: The 2006 homestead rebate applications were mailed in May to homeowners who were 65 years of age or older or disabled on December 31, 2006. Application packets were mailed beginning in late June to nonsenior, nondisabled homeowners.

Most homeowners can file their applications by phone by calling 1-877-658-2972 or online at: www.state.nj.us/treasury/taxation/ The filing deadline for all homeowners has been extended to October 31, 2007.

Tenants: Applicants who are required to file a 2006 New Jersey income tax return complete their tenant homestead rebate application (Form TR-1040) and file it with their resident income tax return (Form NJ-1040, or return filed electronically using NJ WebFile or approved vendor software) by April 17, 2007. If a taxpayer requests an extension of time to file their State income tax return, the filing deadline for the homestead rebate is also extended.

Tenants who have already filed their income tax returns but did not complete the homestead rebate application even though they were eligible, have until October 31, 2007, to file the tenant rebate application, Form TR-1040.

Applicants who are not required to file a 2006 New Jersey income tax return because their income is below the minimum filing threshold file only Form TR-1040 and have until October 31, 2007, to apply.

Benefit Amounts

Benefit amounts differ for homeowners and tenants, and are determined by income, amount of property taxes (or rent) paid, and whether the applicant is 65 or older or eligible to claim an exemption as blind or disabled for the tax year.

Homeowners: For tax years 2006 and after, homeowners will receive 10%–20% of the first $10,000 of property taxes paid, depending on their income level:

$100,000 or less	—	20%
$100,001 – $150,000	—	15%
$150,001 – $250,000	—	10%

Homeowners who are age 65 or older or disabled will receive the larger of either the applicable percentage of property taxes paid (see above) or the amount by which the property taxes paid exceed 5% of gross income, but within the range specified based on income:

$70,000 or less	—	$1200 – $1000
$70,001 – $125,000	—	$800 – $600
$125,001 – $200,000	—	$500

In no case will a homeowner receive a rebate greater than the amount of property taxes actually paid.

Tenants: For tax year 2006, tenants age 65 or older or disabled will receive rebates ranging from a minimum of $160 up to a maximum of $860. Tenants under age 65 and not disabled will receive a minimum of $80 up to a maximum of $350.

Rebate Checks

Homeowners: Checks for senior and disabled homeowners who filed by June 1 were mailed on July 31, while checks for those who file between June 1 and October 31 will be issued as quickly as possible thereafter. Checks for all nonsenior, nondisabled homeowners are scheduled to be mailed in the fall.

Tenants: Checks for tenants, who file their applications with their income tax returns, were also mailed on July 31.

SALES AND USE TAX

Membership Fees/Parking Charges

P.L. 2007, c.105, effective July 1, 2007, amends the Sales and Use Tax Act to exempt from sales tax membership fees or dues for access to facilities of a health and fitness, athletic, sporting or shopping club or organization when the charges are made by qualified exempt organizations or New Jersey State or local government entities. All other charges for initiation fees, membership fees or dues for access to facilities of a health and fitness, athletic, sporting or shopping club or organization remain subject to sales tax.

P.L. 2007, c.105, also exempts charges for parking, storing, and garaging a motor vehicle when made by a municipality or county or a municipal or county parking authority. All other charges for parking, storing, or garaging a motor vehicle, other than residential and employee parking, remain subject to tax. The amendment also eliminates the imposition of sales tax on the $3 parking fee at Atlantic City casino hotels.

SALES AND USE TAX

Newspaper Production Equipment

The sale of machinery, apparatus, or equipment used directly and primarily in the publication of newspapers is exempt from sales tax under N.J.S.A. 54:32B-8.29.

In the last several years, the newspaper industry has undergone many technological advances that affect the application of this exemption. For example, computers and digital imaging have automated the newspaper publishing industry, integrated multiple processes, and replaced the more traditional methods of publishing.

The availability of new technology has necessitated a reevaluation of how the phrase "directly and primarily" applies in the context of newspaper production. In general, "primarily" means used more than 50% of the time in the exempt activity, and "directly" refers to the physical proximity of the machinery, apparatus, or equipment in relation to the physical production of newspapers as a process.

In terms of newspaper production in a digital environment, the physical location of the equipment does not determine exempt status. Equipment that is used directly and primarily in the production process qualifies for the exemption even if it is physically located at a facility other than where the actual printing occurs. For example, the equipment used directly and primarily to coordinate the creation and layout of the newspaper pages may not be at the same location as the actual printing operation. Some small newspaper publishers may even outsource the entire printing process so that none of the printing takes place at their own facility.

In addition, computer equipment is likely to have dual uses, some "direct and primary" and some administrative. One factor that may be used to evaluate whether the purchase of a particular piece of equipment is exempt is the presence of software on the equipment which is used in the page layout process. The presence of such software creates a rebuttable presumption that the computer equipment is used directly and primarily in the production process; however, this presumption will be overcome if the equipment's actual use in the workplace indicates a nonexempt use more than 50% of the time. For example, if a computer that is used in a business office where its operator does a variety of tasks related to the conduct of business, including page composition, is used only 30% of the time for production purposes, it does not qualify for exemption. □

The Division of Taxation periodically conducts free workshops throughout New Jersey designed to help small businesses better understand their State tax obligations. The seminars are a half day in duration and cover the following topics:

- Business registration
- Meeting employer responsibilities
- Reporting business income
- Filing sales and use tax returns

For more information, including the current workshop schedule, visit the Division's Web site at:

PAMS Countdown to Implementation

With the first implementation of New Jersey's new Property Assessment Management System (PAMS) only months away, the project team continues testing and is beginning to focus on activities to prepare the three early implementation counties for cutover to the new system. The counties will go live on a staggered schedule beginning in October as follows:

- October – Hunterdon County
- November – Camden County
- December – Salem County

Project activities in recent months have included installing computer servers at the Office of Information Technology's facility, meeting with vendors to discuss interfaces with Department. Acting on a citizen complaint regarding the purchase of unstamped cigarettes at Deepali & Pinku, Inc., trading as Valley Spa, located at 61 E. Main Street in Little Falls, 192.5 cartons of cigarettes were seized, 40.3 of which bore counterfeit New Jersey tax stamps. The owner, Daxesh Parikh, was charged with numerous offenses, the most serious being the third-degree crime of possessing 2,000 or more cigarettes with counterfeit tax stamps.

- On March 26, 2007, a Clifton woman, Rosa M. Castro, 51, and her boyfriend, Rafael E. Ramos, 50, were indicted on charges that they stole more than $16,000 by filing fraudulent State tax returns. They were indicted by a State Grand Jury on third-degree charges of theft by deception, money laundering, and conspiracy. It is alleged that Castro and Ramos filed 46 fraudulent New Jersey gross income tax returns between March and December 2006, consequently receiving and depositing 22 refund checks from the Division of Taxation totaling $15,209 and 4 homestead rebate checks totaling $865. Castro, who offered tax return preparation services to others, allegedly used the names of 13 different clients without their permission to prepare the fraudulent returns for tax years 2000 through 2005. All of the returns listed the defendants' home address. At the time of the alleged misconduct, Rosa M. Castro was on parole from State prison in connection with a prior fraud conviction involving more than 1,400 false State tax returns.

Castro pled guilty in 2002 to a Federal charge of aiding in the preparation of a false Federal income tax return and received three years' probation. In June 2004 she pled guilty to a second-degree charge of theft by deception brought by the Division of Criminal Justice for filing 1,448 fraudulent tax returns with the State of New Jersey. She was sentenced to five years in State prison but was released on parole in October 2005.

On April 17, 2007, Castro was returned to custody and on May 9, 2007, the New Jersey State Parole Board-Adult Panel revoked her parole and ordered Castro to serve the balance of her prison term (10 months, 17 days). Accordingly, she will serve a prison sentence until March 4, 2008, for the 2004 conviction. The disposition of the current charges is still pending.

- On March 30, 2007, Joan Orlando, 60, of Brick, was sentenced to five years in prison and ordered to make restitution for stealing $738,163 from St. Benedict Roman Catholic Church. She was arrested in 2005 and pled guilty in January 2007 to theft by deception and failure to pay taxes. During a four-year period Orlando, with sole control of the books as a financial administrator at the Holmdel church, padded her $47,000 salary to support her compulsive gambling addiction. In charge of payroll at the church, Orlando, who worked in the parish office for six and a half years, submitted paycheck amounts for church employees to Automatic Data Processing Inc. of Roseland, which produced the checks. From January 2001 to June 2005, she inflated the amount of money she was to receive in her paycheck for each pay period. Joan Orlando's husband, Richard, who is accused of receiving nearly $300,000 in cash and checks from his wife's bank account between 2003 and 2005, is scheduled to go to trial.

- On April 2, 2007, Mack Barden, 58, of Paterson, was sentenced to five years in State prison for stealing $210,035 by fraudulently obtaining hundreds of New Jersey tax refund and homestead rebate checks. Barden pled guilty on January 18, 2007, to second-degree theft by deception, a charge contained in a State Grand Jury indictment obtained by the Division of Criminal Justice in July 2006. As part of the plea agreement, Barden agreed to make full restitution to the New Jersey Division of Taxation. The investigation by OCI revealed that Barden, a truck driver who earned additional income by preparing tax returns, submitted hundreds of fraudulent New Jersey gross income tax returns and homestead rebate applications between 1997 and 2005 using false names and social security numbers. Barden submitted altered W-2 forms with the tax returns, including forms from his tax preparation clients.
- On April 25, 2007, a search warrant and arrest warrants were executed at the residence of Jimmy and Jennifer Pham regarding allegations of tax evasion and structuring. The Phams accumulated sizeable liquid assets, but their reported gross income deemed it unlikely that their accumulation of assets was through the savings of a portion of their income. The IRS had seized certificates of deposit totaling $300,000 and the New Jersey State Police confiscated $200,000 in jewelry found during the search. The Phams claimed that the accumulation of money was from gambling winnings which they had previously secured in safes in their house and later decided to deposit in banks. The Phams stated they were making the deposits in amounts less than $10,000 in order to avoid the need for the banks to file a Currency Transaction Report. Jimmy and Jennifer Pham were charged with financial facilitation and filing false and fraudulent tax returns for tax years 2005 and 2006. This is a joint investigation with the Financial Investigation Unit of the New Jersey Division of Gaming Enforcement and the IRS.

- On April 27, 2007, Lisa A. Gordon of Little Egg Harbor was sentenced to prison for theft of movable property and failure to file a New Jersey gross income tax return for tax year 2000. Gordon was sentenced to four years in State prison and ordered to make restitution to the Jewish Community Center, her former employer. In June 2005 a Monmouth County Grand Jury handed up a seven-count indictment of Lisa Gordon and her husband, Christopher, charging that they embezzled more than $400,000 from the Jewish Community Center in Ocean Township. The investigation established that the Gordons used these funds to gamble in Atlantic City in addition to purchasing automobiles and property. On July 14, 2006, Lisa A. Gordon pled guilty to the second-degree crime of theft of movable property and one count of failure to file a New Jersey gross income tax return. As part of the plea agreement the remaining charges against Lisa Gordon and all charges against her husband were dismissed at the time of sentencing. This was a joint investigation with the Monmouth County Prosecutor's Office.

- On May 8, 2007, Terry Tolbert was indicted in Union County Superior Court on charges of selling cigarettes without the required revenue stamp and possession of 2,000 or more cigarettes with counterfeit tax stamps. This indictment is the result of action taken on November 30, 2006, when Terry Tolbert and Ryan Mills were arrested for the possession, sale, and transportation of cigarettes bearing counterfeit tax stamps in Roselle, New Jersey. Ryan Mills pled guilty in Union County Superior Court and is awaiting sentencing. Terry Tolbert's case is pending trial. The arrests were the result of a six-month investigation conducted by OCI special agents of illegitimate cigarette wholesalers under the names C&M Tobacco and Tobacco Express.
- In the area of refund fraud, the Office of Criminal Investigation prevented the issuance of fraudulent refund claims totaling $10,799,292 during the current fiscal year. In addition, the Office of Criminal Investigation continues to diligently issue assessments based on refunds found to be fraudulently obtained. □

Corporation Business Tax

Termination of New Jersey S Corporation Status — A corporation that has elected and been accepted as a New Jersey S corporation remains a New Jersey S corporation as long as it is a Federal S corporation, unless it revokes its New Jersey status before the end of the first tax year. To revoke an election, a letter of revocation must be filed. The letter must be signed by all shareholders holding more than 50% of the outstanding shares of stock on the day of the revocation, and a copy of the original election form must be enclosed. The letter of revocation must be filed on or before the last day of the first tax year of the election. N.J.A.C. 18:7-20.1(f).

To terminate New Jersey S corporation status after the first year, a corporation must terminate its Federal S corporation status. An S corporation cannot end its New Jersey S corporation status without first terminating its Federal S corporation status. The corporation must then reregister with the State as a C corporation.

Multiple Taxes

Breast, Chin, and Other Implants — Several inquiries have been received regarding the taxability of breast implants under the Sales and Use Tax Act, N.J.S.A. 54:32B-1 et seq., the Cosmetic Medical Procedures Gross Receipts Tax Act, N.J.S.A. 54:32E-1, or both.

The sale or use of breast implants is not subject to sales and use tax. Breast implants, chin implants, cheek implants, and similar bodily implants are deemed to be "prosthetic devices" and are therefore exempt from sales and use tax pursuant to N.J.S.A. 54:32B-8.1. Neither the medical services provider who purchases the implants from a supplier nor the patient who has them surgically implanted should pay sales tax or use tax on the implants.

If the medical services provider bills the patient for the implants in addition to billing for the medical services, then under certain circumstances the implants may be subject to cosmetic medical procedures gross receipts tax (CMPGRT), payable by the patient. If the procedure is a “cosmetic medical procedure,” i.e., a medical procedure performed in order to improve the patient’s appearance, but without significantly serving the purpose of preventing or treating disease, improving functioning of the body, or correcting or minimizing abnormalities caused by birth or developmental defects, trauma, or disease, then charges for the medical service are subject to the CMPGRT, payable by the patient and collected by the medical services provider. In that case, charges for any goods or facility occupancies required for the procedure and billed to the patient are also subject to the CMPGRT. For example, if a patient undergoes a breast augmentation procedure for purely aesthetic reasons, charges for the procedure as well as any additional charges for necessary room occupancies, implants, or other tangible personal property will be subject to the CMPGRT. However, if the procedure is reconstructive surgery performed to repair or correct abnormalities resulting from disease or trauma (including prior surgeries) or congenital or developmental defects, then neither the medical services nor the implants and other goods will be subject to CMPGRT.

Partnerships

Partnership Filing Fee — Under N.J.S.A. 54A:8-6, a partnership filing fee is imposed on partnerships that have income (or loss) derived from New Jersey sources and that have more than two owners. The filing fee is $150 for each owner up to a maximum of $250,000. The filing fee is due on or before the 15th day of the fourth month following the close of each privilege period. An installment payment equal to 50% of the filing fee is also required at the same time.

A partnership may not be required to pay the filing fee if there is no New Jersey source income. To qualify for this exception, all operations and facilities must be located outside New Jersey. However, if the partnership has New Jersey source income, expenses, deductions, or losses it will not qualify for this exception. For example, a partnership that owns raw land in New Jersey on which it pays property taxes does not qualify for exemption because the property taxes constitute New Jersey expenses. On the other hand, fees paid by the partnership for a New Jersey checking account or to a New Jersey accounting firm are not considered New Jersey source expenses for purposes of determining liability for the filing fee. Similarly, the fee paid for simply filing the annual report in New Jersey will not be considered a New Jersey source expense for purposes of measuring filing fee liability.

If the partnership derives no income (or expenses) from New Jersey sources as described above, it would not be required to submit the $150 per member filing fee. However, the partnership would still be responsible for filing a New Jersey partnership return (Form NJ-1065) if it had a New Jersey resident partner.

The partnership filing fee must be paid by the original due date of the partnership return. There is no extension for payment of the filing fee, even if the partnership has an extension for the filing of the partnership return. A prepayment of 50% of the next year’s filing fee must also be made with the fee for the current year. No other installment payments are required for the partnership filing fee.

The filing fee cannot be prorated for partners who own an interest for only a portion of the year. Similarly, the fee cannot be prorated if the partnership was in existence for only part of the tax year for which Form NJ-1065 is due. If a partnership dissolves before the end of a tax year, the 50% prepayment of the $150 per partner filing fee for the next year is not required.

For additional guidance on the imposition of the partnership filing fee, see N.J.A.C. 18:35-11.1–11.6 and TB-55, Partnership Filing Fee and Nonresident Partner Tax.

Sales and Use Tax

Coin-Operated Laundromat — The sales tax exemption for laundering, dry cleaning, tailoring, weaving, and pressing is limited specifically to providing these services for clothing. N.J.S.A. 54:32B-3(b)(2)(iv).

When performed on nonclothing items, the services are subject to tax.

It is the Division's position that the operator of a coin-operated laundromat is permitted to make a basic presumption based on the traditional nature of the business that customers are using the coin-operated laundry machines to launder clothing. Therefore, receipts for the use of coin-operated washing machines and dryers at a self-service laundromat are not subject to sales tax.

Investigation and Security Services Sourcing — P.L. 2006, c.44, imposes tax on "Investigation and Security Services." See N.J.S.A. 54:32B-3(b)11.

The law defines "Investigation and Security Services" as:

1. Investigation and detective services, including detective agencies and private investigators, and fingerprint, polygraph, missing person tracing and skip tracing services;
2. Security guard and patrol services, including bodyguard and personal protection, guard dog, guard, patrol, and security services;
3. Armored car services; and
4. Security systems services, including security, burglar, and fire alarm installation, repair or monitoring services. N.J.S.A. 54:32B-2(xx).

Investigation and detective services are sourced for sales tax purposes where the customer makes first use of the service. First use of these services is deemed to be where the investigative report is delivered. N.J.S.A. 54:32B-3.1.

Security guard and patrol services are also sourced based on where the customer makes first use of the service. N.J.S.A. 54:32B-3.1. Since security guard and patrol services are specific to an actual location, they are sourced based on the location of the property being guarded. Thus, security guard and patrol services performed at a location in New Jersey are subject to tax.

Armored car service is subject to sales tax if performed entirely within New Jersey. If the service is not performed entirely within this State, then the service is sourced to the customer's location. Thus, if the customer's location is in New Jersey, regardless of whether goods are picked up or delivered to that location, the service is subject to sales tax.

Limousine Services — Sales tax is imposed on the sale, except for resale, of "transportation services originating in this state and provided by a limousine operator, as permitted by law, except such services provided in connection with funeral services." N.J.S.A. 54:32B-3(b)(13).

Sales tax will be imposed on limousine service that both begins and ends in the State of New Jersey, (i.e., the trip begins with pickup of passenger(s) in New Jersey and ends with the discharge of passenger(s) within New Jersey) and takes place entirely within the State of New Jersey. If a customer is picked up in New Jersey and delivered to a location outside this State, that service will not be taxable. If a customer is picked up outside of New Jersey and delivered to a location in this State, that service will also not be taxable.

Sales Tax Information

P.L. 2005, c.126, effective October 1, 2005, conformed the New Jersey Sales and Use Tax Act to the Streamlined Sales and Use Tax Agreement. More information is available at:

Streamlined Sales and Use Tax

P.L. 2006, c.44, increased the New Jersey sales and use tax rate from 6% to 7%, effective July 15, 2006. The rate change affects all retail sales of taxable merchandise or services. For more information on the rate increase visit:

Information for all Sales and Use Tax Vendors

Additional provisions of P.L. 2006, c.44, effective October 1, 2006, extended the sales and use tax to new services, limited some existing exclusions and exemptions, and encompassed product categories that have come into being with new technologies. More information is available at:

Information Regarding Sales and Use Tax Changes Effective October 1, 2006

For example, a passenger contracts with a limousine operator to provide him with round-trip service from his home in Cherry Hill, New Jersey to a hospital in Philadelphia, Pennsylvania. The passenger is picked up in the morning and taken to the hospital. Then, several hours later the passenger is picked up from the hospital and taken back to Cherry Hill. The services provided are not taxable. The morning service is not taxable because it ends outside New Jersey, and the afternoon service is not taxable because it originates outside New Jersey.

Trucks and Trailers Used in Film or Video Production — Receipts from sales of tangible personal property and the installation, maintenance, or servicing of tangible personal property for use or consumption directly and primarily in the production of film or video for sale are exempt from New Jersey sales tax.

The exemption applies to motor vehicles; replacement parts, without regard to useful life; tools; and supplies. Thus, the rental of trucks and trailers that are used directly and primarily in the production of film or video for sale are exempt from New Jersey sales tax. The exemption does not apply to tangible personal property that is used incidentally to the production of film or video.

The definition of a film or video is set forth at N.J.S.A. 54:32B-8.49(c) which states that “. . . ‘film or video’ means motion pictures including feature films, shorts and documentaries, television films or episodes, similar film and video productions whether for broadcast, cable, closed circuit or unit distribution and whether in the form of film, tape, or other analog or digital medium, but does not include any film or video that is produced by or on behalf of a corporation or other person for its own internal use for advertising, educational, training, or similar purposes.” □

In Our Courts

Administration

Jurisdiction – Harry’s Lobster House Corporation v. Director, Division of Taxation, decided June 5, 2006; Tax Court No. 004978-2004.

Plaintiff (Harry’s) filed a timely complaint in response to the Division’s final determination which concluded that Harry’s filed an untimely protest of the Division’s notice of assessment. There was no indication that this complaint was ever served on the Division. The Court found that Harry’s filed an untimely protest with the Division and that it did not appeal the notice of assessment with the Tax Court.

Harry’s further alleged that the complaint should not be dismissed because representatives of the Division met with Harry’s after the issuance of the final determination as well as after the filing of Harry’s complaint and reached an agreement to reaudit the tax years at issue. Harry’s alleges that the Division cannot renege on the agreement because it relied on this agreement and spent substantial money to prepare for the reaudit.

The only remaining issue was whether the Division had any authority to reach an agreement to revoke or modify the original assessment following the filing of the complaint. For purposes of this motion, the Court assumed that the Division agreed to redetermine Harry's tax liability for the period related to the notice of assessment based upon Harry's subsequent period records.

The Court found that the Division has limited authority to redetermine sales tax, gross income tax withholding, and litter tax liabilities after the assessment has become fixed and final. The authority extends to cases dealing with compromises and closing agreements. Prior to the case's being referred to the Attorney General for defense, the Division may compromise a civil liability where there is doubt as to collectability. The Attorney General's opinion must be obtained before any compromise involving unpaid tax of $5,000 or more may be accepted. A closing agreement must be requested before the case is filed with the Tax Court. In both instances, the law requires that administrative action commence before litigation commences. Therefore, the Division would have had no authority to enter into an agreement as the complaint was already filed and no valid compromise or closing agreement could have been entered into. The Court held that it lacked jurisdiction to hear the case and therefore granted the Division's motion to dismiss the complaint.

Harry's appealed this decision to the Appellate Division.

Cash Audits

Mark-Up Methodology – Yilmaz, Inc. v. Director, Division of Taxation, decided February 2, 2007; Appellate Division No. A-0080-05T5.

The Appellate Division framed the issue as the standard of proof needed to overcome the presumed correctness of the Division's State tax assessment regarding the audit of a cash business involving factual issues and the Division's methodology. The Appellate Division noted that the Tax Court previously held that in order to overcome the Division's presumption of correctness of assessment there must be cogent evidence that is definite, positive, and certain in quality and quantity.

The Appellate Division affirmed the Tax Court.

Mark-Up Methodology – Yilmaz, Inc. v. Director, Division of Taxation, decided May 29, 2007; Supreme Court of New Jersey No. C-995 September Term 2006; 60,791.

The New Jersey Supreme Court denied Yilmaz, Inc.'s petition for certification.

Corporation Business Tax Basis for Depreciation of Transferred Assets – Clorox Products Manufacturing Corporation v. Director, Division of Taxation, decided November 29, 2006; Tax Court No. 007867-2004.

The Clorox Company (Parent Corporation) transferred its manufacturing operations and assets to plaintiff (Clorox) in July 1996 in exchange for 100% of Clorox's stock pursuant to a transaction that qualified as tax-free under Internal Revenue Code Section 351. Federal Internal Revenue Code (IRC).

Prior to the transfer, Parent Corporation depreciated the transferred assets using the straight-line method for CBT purposes and under an accelerated depreciation method for Federal purposes. On its CBT returns, Clorox used the Parent Corporation's CBT carryover basis and depreciated the assets using the straight-line method. The Division determined that Clorox should have used the Parent Corporation's IRC carryover depreciable basis per its regulations. N.J.A.C. 18:7-5.2(a)(2)(v) provides as follows:

Gain or loss on property sold or exchanged is to be determined with reference to the amount properly to be recognized in determination of Federal taxable income. However, on the physical disposal of recovery property, whether or not a gain or loss is properly to be recognized under the Federal Internal Revenue Code, there shall be allowed as a deduction any excess or there must be restored as an item of income any deficiency of depreciation disallowed under (a)1x above over related depreciation claimed on that property under (a)2iv above. A statutory merger or consolidation shall not constitute a disposal of recovery property.

The Court ruled that the Parent Corporation's transfer to Clorox was a physical disposal of recovery property under the regulations. However, the Court found nothing in the regulation that required the Parent Corporation to take an adjusting depreciation deduction for the property it transferred to Clorox in 1996, which Parent Corporation did not take, and for which Clorox would have a reduced CBT carryover basis. The plain language of the regulation does not require the adjusting depreciation deduction but merely allows for the deduction in the year of the transfer. As Parent Corporation chose not to take the excess depreciation deduction, the Court found nothing within the regulation that precluded Clorox from using the Parent Corporation's higher depreciable basis.

The Division appealed this decision.

Gross Income Tax Timeliness of Complaint – Szymczak v. Director, Division of Taxation, decided April 30, 2007; Docket No. 005768-2006.

In this case, the Director moved to dismiss the complaint because it was filed after the expiration of the statutory 90-day appeal period.

A final determination was mailed to the plaintiff on March 10, 2006. Plaintiff had 90 days to file an appeal with the Tax Court. N.J.S.A. 54A:9-10.

R. 8:4-2(b) provides, "If a notice of an action is mailed the time period within which a complaint for review may be filed shall be extended pursuant to R.1:3-3." R. 1:3-3 provides, "When service of a notice or paper is made by ordinary mail, and a rule of court order allows the party served a period of time after the service thereof within which to take some action, 3 days shall be added to the period." Thus plaintiff had until June 12, 2006, to file her complaint (June 11, 2006, was 93 days from March 10, 2006, but June 11 was a Sunday). However, plaintiff did not file a complaint with the Tax Court until June 21, 2006.

In his decision Judge Small opined:

While plaintiff argues that denying her right to an appeal would be unconscionable, the Tax Court has no authority to relax the statute of limitations. It appears that the plaintiff relied on her accountant to file a timely appeal on her behalf ... She must look to the accountant to compensate her for any loss she may have suffered because of his actions or must assume the consequences of her own actions or failure to act. The State is entitled to exert its defense that the court lacks jurisdiction. The court may not relax a statutory limitations period. The State does not act as a malpractice insurer for professionals. To the extent that the plaintiff has a meritorious claim and she was precluded from raising it..., she must look to him (CPA), and not the State, for relief. A motion to dismiss on subject matter jurisdictional grounds can never be waived.

Judge Small went on to say, "As plaintiff's complaint was not timely filed, her complaint must be dismissed. The Director's motion to dismiss for lack of jurisdiction is granted." □

In Our Legislature Administration

Changes in Tax Debt Collection and Compliance Procedures — P.L. 2007, c.100, enacted June 28, 2007, effective immediately, but with the provision applicable to bulk sales not operative until August 1, 2007, makes several changes in tax compliance procedures in order to enhance tax collection and increase revenue.

Tax Clearance Program for Certain Business Assistance and Incentives — P.L. 2007, c.101, enacted June 28, 2007, effective immediately, and operative July 1, 2007, establishes a tax clearance certificate requirement for awards of certain monetary and financial incentives offered to businesses by State departments, agencies, instrumentalities, and independent authorities. The Act prescribes that as a precondition for obtaining an award of business assistance or incentives, such as grants, loans, and other financial assistance (but not including tax credits or tax exemptions), the applicant must obtain a tax clearance certificate from the Division of Taxation showing that it has filed its required tax returns, and paid any taxes, fees, or penalties and interest due.

Gross Income Tax

Earned Income Tax Credit — P.L. 2007, c.109, enacted June 28, 2007, effective immediately, and applicable to tax years beginning on or after January 1, 2007, expands the eligibility for the New Jersey earned income tax credit and enhances the benefit amount. The Act extends eligibility for the State credit to any individual who is eligible for a Federal earned income tax credit.

Penalties for Misclassifying Construction Workers as Independent Contractors — P.L. 2007, c.114, enacted July 13, 2007, and effective immediately, establishes penalties for employers who misclassify construction work employees as "independent contractors," thereby affecting their rights and obligations under laws affecting State and Federal income tax withholding, social security, unemployment and disability benefits, workers' compensation, and other benefits. The Act makes it a criminal offense for an employer (or its agent, officer, foreman, employee) to misclassify a construction work employee, with the degree of the offense ranging from disorderly persons offense to second degree, depending on the intent and on the monetary value of the work contract. In addition, such misclassification may be subject to administrative penalties and civil penalties imposed by the Commissioner of Labor and Workforce Development, including suspension of registration, stop-work orders, and fines.

The Act creates a presumption that, for purposes of the Gross Income Tax Act and certain State benefit laws, workers who are remunerated by an employer for services performed in improving real property are deemed to be "employees" unless they meet all the criteria of a three-pronged test set forth in P.L. 2007, C.114 establishing that the worker is an independent contractor.

Local Property Tax

Uniform Shared Services and Consolidation Act and Other Reforms — P.L. 2007, c.63, signed into law on April 3, 2007, enacted several portions of a large package of reform proposals. Many of the provisions of the Act were designed to encourage fiscal savings among local units of government through a system of shared services. Other provisions promote openness and ease of public access to information regarding the budgeting processes for municipalities and public school systems.

The Act also expands the authority of executive county superintendents (superintendents of schools). The Act indirectly affects local property taxation.

Short-Term Property Tax Abatement for Certain Reconstructed Homes — P.L. 2007, c.90, enacted May 6, 2007, and effective immediately, allows short-term property tax relief for a five-year period for owners of residential property located in a redevelopment area that has been rebuilt or renovated by certain volunteer labor after being destroyed or damaged by fire. The Act enables municipalities to enact an ordinance granting a five-year exemption from property tax on the value of the improvements made in such situations.

Short-Term Property Tax Abatement for Certain Homes Altered to Accommodate Disabilities — P.L. 2007, c.91, enacted May 6, 2007, and effective immediately, permits municipalities to allow a five-year property tax abatement for certain improvements made on single-family dwellings located in an area declared in need of redevelopment, if half of the occupants of the dwelling qualify for a Federal income tax credit because of permanent and total disability. The tax relief, which will allow the improved property to be assessed based on its value before the renovations or reconstruction, will apply if the improvements were made in order to accommodate the occupants' physical disabilities and the work was done by volunteer labor satisfying certain statutory criteria.

Miscellaneous

Reduced Cigarette Ignition Propensity and Firefighter Protection Act — P.L. 2007, c.86, enacted May 4, 2007, and effective June 1, 2008, sets various requirements to ensure that cigarettes sold in the State satisfy fire safety standards. It also provides that in the regular course of its inspections of cigarette dealers, the Division of Taxation may inspect cigarettes to determine whether they are marked as required by this Act. If they are not, the Director, Division of Taxation, shall notify the Director, Division of Fire Safety, Department of Community Affairs, notwithstanding the confidentiality provision (N.J.S.A. 54:50-8) of the State Tax Uniform Procedure Law.

Revisions of Neighborhood Revitalization State Tax Credit — P.L. 2007, c.89, enacted May 6, 2007, and effective immediately, increases the amount of State tax credits granted to businesses providing funding to qualified neighborhood revitalization projects.

Set-Off of Certain Debts Against Lottery Winnings —

P.L. 2007, c.106, enacted June 28, 2007, and effective immediately, provides that child support debts, debts to State government institutions and agencies, such as the Victims of Crime Compensation Board, and certain other debts shall be offset by the Department of Treasury against State lottery prizes greater than $600. (This Act does not directly affect taxation.)

Multiple Taxes

Liability of Fiduciary Agents for Certain Taxes — P.L. 2007, c.102, enacted June 28, 2007, effective immediately, and operative on October 1, 2007, imposes personal liability on certain individuals and entities that, as the State's fiduciary agents, are required to collect and remit Cape May County tourism sales tax, N.J.S.A. 40:54D-4; Atlantic City luxury tax, N.J.S.A. 40:48-8.15 et seq.; hotel and motel occupancy fee, N.J.S.A. 54:32D-1;

Property Tax Relief Programs

Homestead Credit Program — P.L. 2007, c.62, enacted April 3, 2007, establishes a system of homestead credits for homeowners, replacing the current homestead rebate program. The credit program provides taxpayers with benefits calculated as a percentage of the property tax (up to a maximum of $10,000 tax) that they paid during the previous year. The percentages used to calculate this benefit are based on income levels, with higher percentage benefits allowed for the lower income levels, and with no benefit allowed for those whose income exceeds $250,000. For seniors and residents who are blind or disabled, the Act either retains the current calculation of property tax rebates (the amount by which property taxes paid exceed 5% of gross income with specified maximum and minimum rebate amounts) or applies the new percentage of property taxes formula, whichever provides a greater benefit.

The homestead credit provisions will begin to apply to claims for rebates and credits for property tax paid for tax year 2006.

The Act also imposes a 4% property tax levy cap on school districts and county and local governments, subject to limited exceptions and adjustments. The tax levy cap provisions will apply to budget years beginning on or after July 1, 2007, but not to years beginning after June 30, 2012.

Sales and Use Tax

Seven-Year Exemption Period From Certain Taxes on Energy for Certain Manufacturers — P.L. 2007, c.94, enacted May 10, 2007, and effective immediately, provides an exemption from sales tax imposed on energy and utility services and from the transitional energy facility assessment unit rate surcharge. This exemption is to be applied only to a manufacturing facility producing products using recycled materials and satisfying several precise and complex criteria (currently applicable only to one manufacturing facility in the State). The Act provides that the exemption is in effect for seven years, and during that time the economic effect of allowing the facility's exemption will be reviewed annually.

Exemption for Certain Membership Fees and Municipal and County Parking — P.L. 2007, c.105, enacted June 28, 2007, and effective July 1, 2007, carves out certain exceptions to two new impositions of sales tax that were part of the expansion of sales and use tax under P.L. 2006, c.44, effective October 1, 2006.

The Act amends N.J.S.A. 54:32B-3(h), which imposes sales tax on fees and dues for use of the facilities of health and fitness, athletic, sporting, and shopping clubs and organizations. The amendment exempts such fees and dues if the club or organization is either an exempt private organization or an exempt public entity pursuant to N.J.S.A. 54:32B-9.

The Act also amends N.J.S.A. 54:32B-3(i) which imposes tax on receipts for parking or garaging a motor vehicle, with certain exceptions. The amendment carved out additional exceptions for municipal parking and garaging, even when not "metered," and certain parking fees at Atlantic City casinos. □

Civil Unions

P.L. 2006, Chapter 103, the Civil Union Act, was signed into law on December 21, 2006, and took effect on February 19, 2007. The legislation was passed in response to the New Jersey Supreme Court's decision in Lewis v. Harris, 188 N.J. 415 (2006), which unanimously held that "committed same-sex couples must be afforded on equal terms the same rights and benefits enjoyed by married opposite-sex couples." The Act establishes "civil unions" for couples of the same sex. As stated in section 4, the Act gives civil union partners "all of the same benefits, protections and responsibilities under the law, whether they derive from statute, administrative or court rule, public policy, common law or any other source of civil law, as are granted to spouses in a marriage." Section 5n of the Act provides that "legal benefits, protections and responsibilities of spouses shall apply in like manner to civil union couples" to "laws relating to taxes imposed by the State or a municipality including but not limited to homestead rebate tax allowances, tax deductions based on marital status or exemptions from realty transfer tax based on marital status."

The Civil Union Act impacts New Jersey State tax law and administration in the following areas:

Local Property Tax

Realty Transfer Fee. The exemption for the recording of deed transactions between spouses and between ex-spouses now applies equally to transactions between civil union partners and between ex-civil union partners.

Property Tax Reimbursement (Senior Freeze). Civil union couples will be treated in the same manner as married couples for determining eligibility and income amounts. This change applies to reimbursement applications filed for 2007 and thereafter.

Homestead Rebate. The same rules will apply to civil union partners that apply to married persons with a filing status "married, filing joint return" or "married, filing separate return." This change applies to rebate applications filed for 2007 and thereafter.

Exemption for Disabled Veterans. The same eligibility guidelines now apply to civil union couples and surviving civil union partners that apply to married couples and surviving spouses.

Deductions for Veterans and Senior Citizens. The same eligibility guidelines will apply to civil union couples and surviving civil union partners that apply to married couples and surviving spouses. All eligibility requirements must have been met by October 1 of the pretax year.

Inheritance/Estate Taxes

Transfer Inheritance Tax will not be assessed against property passing to a decedent's surviving spouse, surviving civil union partner, parents, grandparents, children, stepchildren, or grandchildren. In such a situation, it will not be necessary to file an inheritance tax return with the Division of Taxation and waiver forms may be completed to secure the release of bank accounts, stocks, bonds, and brokerage accounts and real property, if any, in the name of the decedent. The Civil Union Act does not affect the treatment of domestic partners for purposes of the transfer inheritance tax unless domestic partners enter into a civil union, thus ending their domestic partner status.

New Jersey Estate Tax is based upon the Federal estate tax credit for state death taxes. In general, each return must have the same filing status. The Federal estate tax does not have a provision providing a deduction for property passing to a civil union partner. However, a surviving civil union partner may receive a "marital" deduction equal to that permitted a surviving spouse under the provisions of the Internal Revenue Code for New Jersey estate tax purposes by completing a "dummy" 2006 Federal Form 706 as though the Internal Revenue Code treated a surviving civil union partner and a surviving spouse in the same manner. This will permit the filing of a New Jersey estate tax return by a surviving civil union partner using the Federal calculations. Alternatively, a simplified tax system method may be used, but only in cases where a Federal estate tax return has not, will not, and is not required to be filed with the Internal Revenue Service.

Gross Income Tax

New Jersey follows the Federal income tax rules regarding prerequisites for eligibility for "joint" filing status. For Federal purposes, persons must be considered married on the last day of the tax year to use the filing status "Married, Filing Jointly" or "Married, Filing Separately." Under the Civil Union Act, the same rules that apply to married persons with respect to filing status will apply to civil union partners in New Jersey, effective February 19, 2007. Accordingly, partners to a civil union will be able to use either joint or separate filing status on New Jersey income tax returns for tax years 2007 and thereafter, even if they were married or entered into a civil union in another jurisdiction (state or foreign country) prior to that date. It should be noted that the Attorney General of the State of New Jersey has rendered an opinion that out-of-State same-sex marriages entered into prior to tax year 2007 may only be treated as civil unions in New Jersey effective February 19, 2007.

A civil union partner may now choose the filing status "Married/Civil Union Couple Joint" or "Married/Civil Union Couple Separate" when completing Form NJ-W4, Employee's Withholding Allowance Certificate, which the employer uses to determine the amount of New Jersey gross income tax to withhold from employment income. The Federal Form W-4 does not include these filing status choices for civil union partners.

Civil union partners who make joint declarations of estimated tax for 2007 (Form NJ-1040ES) must list
